DEATH TOLL NEARS 400 FOR HOLIDAY

About Our Friends

By STEPHEN A. LONG

Christmas is past. In Cisco and the United States, it was a memorable one for prosperity, peace and plenty. Not since 1929 had the people of this nation, Texas and Cisco, experienced so much measure of peace and Christmas giving as did this time. Churches, Sunday school classes, lodges and other organizations had become imbued with the spirit of giving and they gave. A study found that there was a 25 per cent increase in gifts.

On Saturday, the day after Christmas, finds us back at the job. Back mulling with each other about the day. "How was your Christmas?" "A few days from reality and then..." A new year, new planning... new resolutions... and off we go for another year. Like the chap on the night who thought the man had a message for him was from the other world, just as he happened to first see near a grave yard...

which reminds us... but never this is no time for ghost stories. Plenty will have enough pleasant thoughts this morning. The too much drinking, eating and sleeping from the festive season... But we who are content with our moderate living, who do want to live our whole life through in a few vivid moments, are busy in our rather slow way... we are gifts... we received gifts... we had a good meal, and some of a touch of egg-nog, we mingled with our friends... some took a drive and did not hasten unduly. We are here today... ready for what the few last moments of the expiring year has to offer... and some will start the new year.

France And England Wave Olive Branch

OFFER HITLER ECONOMIC AID FOR GUARANTEE

PARIS, France, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—France and Britain are holding out to Germany the hope that they may lend her financial and economic aid, and consider her colonial ambitions if Adolf Hitler will prepare for peace, it was learned today. To win such favors, however, Germany must make a series of commitments, Hitler, it was said, would have to agree to: 1. Abandon Spanish intervention. 2. Guarantee nonaggression in central and eastern Europe, as well as Western Europe and otherwise respect the European status quo. 3. Enter a new five power Locarno agreement. 4. Abide by a general European arms limitation pact. French officials sources indicated and Britain have made no specific promises, and above all, did not undertake to promise territory for occupation if Germany would fall in line. However, the attitude of those countries has been made known, and French and British diplomats are waiting for Hitler to say whether he is interested.

Fire Chief Blazes at Head G-Man

The anger of Fire Commissioner John J. McElligott (above) was tanned into flame by the peril of his men in the spectacular machine gun capture of Harry Brunette in New York. He assailed Head G-man J. Edgar Hoover, who conducted the raid, for "headline heroics" that compelled firemen to fight a blaze in Brunette's apartment while bullets splattered against the walls.

RADIO CALL ASKING 'HELP' MAY BE FAKE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—A radio appeal for help, picked up by operators at the Municipal Airport today, sent a searching plane speeding to Upton, 80 miles east of here, in the belief the message may have come from survivors of the missing Western Air Express liner. The appeal revived hope that some of the seven persons who disappeared Dec. 15 with the airliner en route from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City may yet be alive. The search is in a section hitherto uncovered in systematic searching. Airport officials, while checking every crew, said they were inclined to believe the message was a fake, possibly dispatched by an amateur operator.

CCC RADIO OPERATORS REPORT PLANE FOUND SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 26 (U.P.)—CCC radio operators said today a ground searching party had found the missing northwest airliner plane which disappeared eight days ago. Glen Cunningham Whitman, who led the party, reported the badly wrecked plane was not touched because of orders from postal inspectors. He did not see the bodies of co-pilots Joe Livermore and Arthur Haid.

Stock Boom Puts Exchange in Spotlight Again

Up! Up! Up! go stock prices, turning the nation's attention again to Wall Street—in other words, the New York Stock Exchange, world's greatest securities market. Here is a new and exclusive picture of the milling throng of brokers, clerks and messengers at work on the trading floor, clustered around the 17U-shaped trading posts where millions of dollars of securities change hands daily.

POPE PIUS XI IS NOW SUFFERING FROM NEURITIS

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—Pope Pius XI is suffering from severe neuritis in addition to other ailments which have forced him to remain in bed, the United Press learned officially today. Inflammation of the nerves because of the long inactivity of his left leg, caused increasing pain from which he suffered severely. Although Vatican officials continued to minimize the importance of the new complication, it was apparent they were worried fearing that the Pope might grow worse. Although the Pope disliked the confinement, he nevertheless has displayed "high spirits" it was said.

COOPERATION, HARMONY, ARE REASONS GIVEN

AUSTIN, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—Dr. Jeremiah Rhodes, former superintendent of San Antonio schools will become first assistant state school superintendent January 1, L. A. Woods announced today. He will succeed W. E. James of Austin. Miss Lillian Teek, former director of home economics, will leave the department January 1. Superintendent Woods said the changes are being made for "cooperation and harmony."

TWO CHINESE LEADERS EACH TAKE BLAME

NANKING, China, (Sunday) Dec. 27 (U.P.)—An amazing story of the kidnapping of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek dictator of more than 300,000,000 Chinese, by Marshal Chang, former warlord of Manchuria, developed today into an Arabian knight tale, in which each of the principals blamed himself for the crime. General Chiang who flew here Saturday with the Marshal, who held him captive for two weeks, said: "Being in supreme command of the army, I am responsible because I failed to maintain discipline which I deeply regret." "All questions must be settled by the Central government." The latter remark presumably referred to the fate of Marshal Chang issued a letter to Chiang requesting "proper punishment" for his act. He urged the Generalissimo not to allow friendship to interfere with his duty. A second statement issued by General Chiang indicated that he was released without agreeing to any of the demands made by the marshal.

Roosevelt Turns Back to Business

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—President Roosevelt turned today from a family Christmas celebration to framing three important state documents. His annual message to congress, the budget for the next fiscal year, and his inaugural address.

BRISBANE'S 'TODAY' MAY BE CONTINUED

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—Newspaper men and readers mourned today the passing of Arthur Brisbane, 72, most widely read of all news writers. Executives of the Hearst papers discussed whether Brisbane's famous column "Today" would be continued under a new author. A decision will not be made, probably, until after the first of the year. The tribute of William Randolph Hearst, Brisbane's employer for 39 years, occupied Brisbane's usual space in Hearst papers today. Hearst said he had lost a man who had been more than a brother. Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m.

Judge Atwell Refuses To Intervene in Tax

DALLAS, Dec. 26 (U.P.)—Federal Judge W. H. Atwell today refused the request of the Pinckney Packing company of Amarillo to restrain the government from collecting a "windfall" tax on processing taxes collected under an AAA ruling. Atwell said he believed the tax levied was unconstitutional, but that the circumstances of the case were not sufficient to override a federal law which prevents a federal court from interfering with the collection of taxes.

C. U., football captain, was elected to the place at a salary of $1,800 per year and W. E. Cooper was again elected assistant coach at a salary of $1,500. Federal Old Age Applications in 3 States Reach Near Million

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 26 — More than 800,000 persons in the States of Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico have filed applications for federal old-age benefit accounts, according to first returns from the post offices in the southwest region. Oscar M. Powell, Regional Director of the Social Security Board, announced today. Indications point to a total registration throughout the region of possibly a million workers by January 1, the time when every worker in the covered employments must have established a social Security account. Texas, with 500,538 applications filed, led the states of this region. Louisiana reported 201,177 and New Mexico had 25,442. Powell urged all employees who have not yet done so to file applications with their postmasters as soon as possible so that employers will be enabled to make their necessary reports beginning January 1. Information from application cards is being transcribed to office records from which the individual's permanent social Security account is established. Wages earned by the registered workers are recorded periodically in their accounts, and on the basis of the total amount of wages credited old-age benefit payments may be readily calculated when these workers reach the age of 65.

Eat Less, Grow Thin, Said Brisbane

The world was startled Christmas day by the news that Arthur Brisbane, the peer of all columnists, had died. Had died peacefully from heart attack after writing his column that was perhaps the most read one in the whole world.

And strange to say, the second paragraph of that column dealt with life and death. It was an appeal to men to become thin if they would live to a ripe old age, like the veterans of the Civil War, past 90. Eat less, he urged and grow thin so that the heart may not be taxed. Quit each meal hungry so that the deteriorating fat may not accumulate around the heart and weaken it for its duty of pumping the blood through the body day and night.

And rest, he also said. But strange to say he did not heed his own advice. Past 72 years of age, he had set a pace of doing a task each day of his life that he could not stop. A constant traveler, he was on the go, in action, every day, and almost minute, of his life. Dictating his column of near a thousand words each day just before the dead line for press, he could not rest the very last day of his life. Readers got their column which was written from dictation by the last bit of energy he had. After dictating that last column, he went to sleep in an oxygen tent and his end came peacefully without pain so far as we know. He wrote the printers sign of "30" at the end of that column which meant "finished" for all time.

Mr. Brisbane wrote of the moment. His column did not deal with things past and gone. He wrote of events in the public mind today. That was why his column was headed "Today". He wrote of people, events and actions that were passing before the public mind. That is the reason such columns are read day by day by young, old and of all sex. They always read such live gossip eagerly and first of any news in the paper. People want to know about people. The most interesting thing to people, is people.

The great Brisbane is gone. Who will take his place?

The HOLIDAY MYSTERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
The gaiety of the Christmas party at the de Forest hacienda, the de Forest hacienda, was a tragic ending when PEARL JOHN, oldest of three brothers, is found dead beneath the Christmas tree with a knife in his throat.

There are many strange things about the death of Pearl John. The fact that each of the three brothers has the first name "Pearl" is the strangest. PEARL JOHN is the youngest, PEARL PIERRE next, others in the household are TANTE JOSEPHINE, old and an invalid, DEETTY WELCH, her companion, HANNA YANQUEZ and ANGELO, the ABYSSINIAN, guests of the party. PROFESSOR SHAW, archeologist and BOB GRAHAM, the salesman who stopped at the hacienda when his car broke down.

Pearl Pierre, now head of the family, has his brother's body removed to the house chapel. Later he sends word that everyone is to go there for a funeral service. They arrive—but the body has disappeared.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IX
AFTERWARD Bob remembered looking out the chapel window at the column of spolia rising from the distant edge of the mesa where the Christmas greens were being burned. The smoke, against the leaden sky, made a suitable backdrop for the weird drama being enacted in the chapel, as Pearl Pierre, frowning coldly, faced the group in the room.

"You can all see, I suppose, that the body is gone," he was saying, his thin lips biting off the words significantly. His penetrating glance included everyone. Angeliqne sobbed hysterically, and Ramon put an arm about her. Old Tante Josephine rapped her cane sharply on the tiled floor.

"Tut, tut, Pearl Pierre! You herd us in here to pray over Pearl Sam, who would laugh if he could know about it, and now he's gone. Why don't you tell us what you've done with him?" Her black eyes glared at her nephew; then, after a minute, his manner became less belligerent and he ran a hand across his forehead with a weary gesture.

"I beg your pardon, Tante Josephine," he said. "The events of the last few hours have rather unnerved me. And now, with the officers coming to see about a murder and no body to show them—" He strode out of the chapel, without looking to right or left.

THE others followed more slowly, old Tante Josephine chucking over her triumph and telling Betty, "He didn't get very far, trying to lay that on us, did he?" Pearl Pierre was always a great one to crawl out of things by putting the blame on the next fellow!

But I'm not afraid of him. No, sir! Tante Josephine never was afraid of any of the de Forests! They—

"There, there. You mustn't excite yourself so much." Betty drew the little old woman away toward her own rooms.

"Well, what do you think of that?" Ramon asked Bob as Tante Josephine's cackling laughter faded away down the corridor. Pearl John had gone ahead into the living room with Angeliqne and they could see him seating her and tucking cushions behind her head. Then he went to get her something to drink.

"I think she may have come nearer the truth than she expected," Bob answered.

PEARL JOHN joined them then and in a minute Ramon went to see how Angeliqne was feeling. Bob looked at the youngest de Forest curiously.

Bob felt a twinge of sympathy for Pearl John, who, in spite of everything, seemed to be a real fellow.

"If there's anything I could do—" he began, putting a hand on Pearl John's arm.

"There is," Pearl John told him. "I'm going to make a thorough search of the house to see if I can find out something, and I'd like you to come with me."

Bob nodded assent and followed down the corridor. So Pearl John was afraid of something! He was so afraid that he was willing to ask help from a stranger. Pearl John opened several closed doors, and, together, they peered into empty rooms, closets, storerooms, and bedrooms—all of which had windows opening on a courtyard. Bob noticed.

"You passed a door there on the left," he told Pearl John. "Did you intend to?"

"Yes. There's nothing there. It's locked," his host replied.

But Bob had the distinct feeling that Pearl John was none too well pleased that the door had been mentioned. For that reason Bob turned and looked back at it curiously. It had an antique brass knocker, carved in the shape of a lion's head that seemed to glare at him with baleful, sightless eyes.

The servants' quarters hummed with activity, very much in contrast to the empty silence of the rest of the house. Soft-voiced Mexican women padded to and fro, and several dark-skinned children played quietly near the big cook stoves.

They had to let him live here in the hacienda.

"You mean he's right in the house with us?" exclaimed Bob.

PEARL JOHN nodded. "Yes, why not? All the other servants live here."

"But the Mexicans—do they get along with him?" Bob persisted.

"I should think—"

"We never ask them what they like," was the rather haughty reply. "They live better here than they ever could hope to off the mesa, so they're content. The same goes for the Indian. Besides, Broken Shield never has much to do with them. He's a solitary bird. Stays in his room mostly. He's got some fool idea about living on the site of his ancestral pueblo or something."

"There was a pueblo here then?"

"The house is built on its foundations," answered Pearl John.

"I suppose the Indian is afraid that if anything happens to the old lady, it will mean that he'll have to get out," suggested Bob. "Is that why he's so glum looking?"

"It might be," answered Pearl John. "And you can jolly well believe that's just what will happen, too. I don't have it in for Broken Shield as much as the other boys, but the less I see of him the better. Pearl Sam, especially, detested the very sight of him. And you can believe the Indian didn't exactly love him. That's why I think he and Tante know some things they'd rather we didn't find out."

"Then the obsidian knife might have had some connection with Broken Shield?"

"It might have," was the slow reply, "though I doubt if he knew where it was kept. After my brother found out it had real value, he was careful to keep it locked up."

"Yet it seems to have been loaned to Professor Shaw," Bob reminded him.

"Yes, it was," de Forest admitted, "though my brother did not approve at all of letting the knife out of his own hands. I heard him arguing with my aunt about it."

"Then you think your aunt had something to do with the murder?" Bob asked the question hesitatingly.

"I'll not say," Pearl John answered coldly. "But I do know her hysterics are just a smoke screen to cover up the scheming of her crooked old brain." He

Now of course Lee didn't do it nor have anything to do with it but someone must be the goat and since we have no better friend than Lee, we will just pin the thing on him... Lee was attending an egg-nog party and after a few refills he started making the rounds telling everyone goodbye... "Why you are not going so early are you, Smith?" the host said... "No," said Lee, "but I want to tell you all goodbye while I can recognize each of you..."

F. H. A. PLAN STUDY BOOK FOR 1936-1937

The Future Homemakers club of Cisco High School is sponsored by the Cisco Chapter of Daughters of American Revolution and is under the leadership of Misses Martha Graves and Esther Bradshaw. A year-book has been planned by the club and is printed as follows:

IDEAL NOW SHOWING

Joe Cook hits the woolly west. In spats, top-hat and fancy vest. The cows go wild; the wild bulls roar. And bad men roll on the bunkhouse floor.

Also New Serial "UNDERSEA KINGDOM" With RAY CARRIGAN CHILDREN 5c ADULTS 10c

Cisco Chapter have planned a three-fold study for the year 1936-37. Personality and charm, hobbies and vocations for the women, are the three topics of study. They will acquire very prominent women as speakers. Future Homemakers, we are for you, for upon you rests the future of this land.

Motto
The beautiful of the home is order—the blessing of the home is contentment—the glory of the home is hospitality—the obligation of the home is unfailing loyalty—the foundation of the home is belief in God.

Prayer
Heavenly Father, help us to so live that we may be a blessing to our home, our family and our nation. In thy name, we ask it. Amen. Club Colors: Green and White.

Officers
President, Sue Witten; vice president, Nadeene Huestis; secretary, Mildred Kimmell; treasurer, Wynema Bond; reporter, Madeline Ruppert; sponsors, Miss Graves, Miss Bradshaw; chairman of committees: program, Iris Dean Shults; social, Marie Litchfield; finance, Wynema Bond.

Membership
Ruby Arnold, Wynna Lee Arnold, Katherine Boatman, Charnelle Boggs, Marcella Boggs, Frances Brown, Ekra Blackburn, Wynema Bond, Louella Carlile, Thelma Clay, Lucy Cole, Ina Jean Curry, Elyse Elder, Maxine Harris, Enojane Hazelwood, Betty House, Nadeene Huestis, Marie Hunterman, Joyce Johnson, Mildred Kimmell, Lola Mae Johnson, Marie Litchfield, Virginia McCauley, Frances Helen Meador, Wviah Moad, Henerietta Mose, Aletta Moseley, Gloria Pippin, Venita Popen, Edalil Reames, Madeline Ruppert, Dorothy Fern Short, Iris Dean Shults, Christine Smith, Corlie Fay Smith, Theda Smith, Opal Sutton, Anna Jo Tableman, Florine Taylor, Norma Vick, Tubert Wilson, Sue Witten and Helen Ziehr.

Creed
I believe that the home is woman's natural environment. I believe that there is as much art in making a barren house into a glistering, comfortable home as there is in painting a picture or in writing a poem.
I believe there is dignity and beauty in service, that is a career for women. Homemaking offers greater opportunity for leisure, for growth of mind and spirit, for exercise of the body, than any other occupation.

I believe that one who has the intelligence to keep her own house in order is wise enough to be a force in any community.
It is my desire to be one of the countless women of the world to make life sweeter and better because I live and do my work well.
GRACE NOLL CROWELL.

Aims and Purpose
To develop organized interest in homemaking as a vocation; To foster high ideals of and appreciation for home life; To develop an alertness to the changes which have taken place in the home and a realization that training is necessary if the home is to keep pace with progress.

To promote active response to community needs and a desire to enter into community life for the common good; To stimulate interest in the wise use of leisure time through hobbies and wholesome recreation; To train members to be self critical and tolerant of the ideas of others; To encourage loyalty to principle rather than to the group; To think and act according to our views so long as they do not interfere with a similar freedom for others.
To develop habits conducive to the acquisition of new knowledge such as reading, thinking and conversing. To develop a mental alertness in members which will load them beyond the routine of every day life into the wider realms of public affairs; To develop the realization that the charm of good manners comes in practicing them daily.
