Cisco and Commercial Orchards

Commercial orchards are going to occupy the attention of people in Cisco territory beginning this year and the Cisco Chamber of Commerce, with other commercial in-fluences, will be spending much time and thought in planning how to aid their home owners in getting these orchards set and on their way to production.

As the west settles up and becomes more and more thickly populated the market for fruits from the fruit growing centers, becomes of more and more importance. Truckers have learned that they can go out over the fruit growing sections and pick up a load of peaches, plums and berries in season and find a ready market, yielding them a nice profit while making it profitable to the grower to sell them their FAMOUS "BIG TREES," HAS BEEN FOUND NEAR HILLSBOROUGH, CALIFORNIA! A CORE-CUTTING BORER SHOWS ITS AGE TO BE ABOUT 3,000 YEARS.

THE Bennett Juniper, aged tree recently brought to light in California, grows in a wind-swept elevation of 8500 feet, in the Sierras of Tuolumne county. It is only 80 feet in height, but has a trunk diameter of 21 feet at the ground. It is a rugged old veteran of 1000 years before the birth of Christ.

HOLIDAY WEEK IS BUTCHERING TIME IN HILLS

By JOHN BREAZEALE

United Press Staff Correspondent BRANDON, Miss., Dec. 28 (U.R)-Between Christmas and New Year's is hog- killing time in rural Mississippi, where refrigeration units are

The old art of slow smoke-curing is not lost in the Mississippi hills. Green hickory smoke, blue acrid, with an aromatic trace of sassafras, creeps and curls from under the smokehouse eaves in the hills - and new padlocks gleam on mokehouse doors.

It's hog-killing time in Missis-

Most farmers kill in the afternoon, when a heavy frost or freeze is predicted for that night. They have been waiting for it, perhaps weeks. The hogs are ready, having been fattened on milk and peanuts (peanuts for oil and flavor)

Chilled During Night The cleaned carcass, split the center of the backbone. hangs that night in the cold.

The head, if the 'white folks' don't happen to like hogshead cheese, has been carried home by the jubilant negro help. Likewise some of the liver. Also the feet.

A white farmer rarely has an scarcity of negro help at hogkillings, unless he has a reputation for stinginess. Usually the trouble s too much volunteer help, although every negro for a mile around may have been "too busy" for months to take a job.

The hog is cut up the next morning, and then the farm women's work starts. Cutting it just right, so that no meat is wasted and so that the hams, shoulders, and sides will cure the best, is another job requiring skill.

Not Regular Market Cuts The backbone is cut square, and no market keeps that kind backbone in small towns. Every vertebra has a little pork chop attached to it. Baked right, with good dressing, it's a comforting dish. The "tenderloin" is another, and s likewise another cut the markets don't sell. Little chips, no bigger than a dollar, fried crisp, make a regal breakfast.

Odd pieces, and some of that fat, properly seasoned, are made into sausage, which may be smoked or canned, or kept fresh under melted lard.

Meat is left on the spareribs and such spareribs, with cracklin' bread, and collards cooked with hog cwl, is another tasty dish. The fresh meat having been dis-posed of, the hams, shouders, and pacon-sides are prepared for smoking. A mixture of salt, pepper and saltpeter is rubbed thoroughly into them. How much to use. how many days this will have to be done, depends upon the size of the

Most farm smokehouses are made of logs slightly flattened the chinks

Once the fire is started, it is fed carefully with green hickory, which makes the best smoke. A little sassafras root is added, to make the smoke still better, still more aroma-tic. And then the fire is kept smouldering and smoking ten days and nights, carefully watched while the meat is turned every day or two to smoke evenly.

Afterward the hams are sacked for protection and they attain their best flavor in three or four months Euch is the old-fashioned way.
It is the method followed by nine Mississippi farmers in ten in preparing meat for home use. But the smokehouse of the hills may also scon be banished by 'modern methods' assisted by the New Deal, by cold storae plants and county and community slaughterng and curing plants erected by the WPA. Twelve or more or these were built in Mississippi this summer.

Dearest Daughter---

Thanks so much for sending that delightful little note, remembering my birthday. And please don't feel that its being so short made it any the less welcome.

Besides, I know what it is to have "shopper's headache"-to feel all worn out and dragged down, with your feet as heavy as lead from walking around all day.

But, my dear, why do you do it? I know you and Bob have something of a struggle to make ends meet. It won't always be that way, because I know Bob's a very ambitious young man-ambitious for YOU as well as for himself.

But take an old lady's adivce, dear. Look for bargains-no matter how wealthy you become. But don't make an expedition of it. Make it a tour. You get a newspaper. Look for real bargains there, before you set out. Then you'll know where you'r going, and you won't wear yourself out so. I know, because I do it.

Give my best to Bob, and give Bob, Jr., a great big kiss from his grandma.

Lots of love,

Mother
