SEVERE COLD CAUSES MANY DEATHS

TELEPHONE CO. SAYS DAMAGE OVER 2 MILLION

Saturday found the temperature gradually rising in Cisco from the lowest point of 14 degrees Friday at 3 p. m., a temperature started rising to reach 26 at 2:30 in the afternoon. The mercury started downward again and was around 18 by nightfall. Trees, telephone poles and shrubbery were well covered by sleet and snow which fell in intervals all day Saturday, much of which melted as it fell. Some damage may result from broken timbers where the weight is too great to be supported. Many have been broken and some are reported without water. The snow and freeze will be of benefit to the land and where the grain has been well covered by snow, grain will not be damaged if it has been properly grazed down. Many car wrecks have been reported but very few accidents have occurred that caused injuries to persons. It was indicated that a new freeze might follow for today, which, if it did not miss this part of Texas, would cause much additional misery and stock suffering.

Severity of a blizzard that already had claimed five lives in Texas increased Saturday as the blast of sleet, snow and ice tightened its grip across the state. Temperatures ranged from near zero in the Panhandle to 16 at Fort Worth, 26 in Austin and 34 in Houston.

Some highways and streets caused numerous traffic accidents. Half a dozen north and west Texas towns were isolated with ice-laden wires which snapped.

Officials of the telephone company said damage to its property might exceed $2,000,000.

Light snow was renewed Saturday in Dallas, Fort Worth and most of north Texas.

Traffic injuries were numerous, the latest dead being that of A. J. Carter, Jr., 17, killed Friday night when a passenger train struck his automobile at a grade crossing near Kilgore.

A pre-blizzard gale caused three deaths in Texas and one man was killed in Eastland in a collision caused by an icy street.

R. E. Brooker, 42, and his wife, 35, were in a critical condition in a Fort Worth hospital when a bus suffered late Friday when a gasoline blow torch, being used to warm the room, exploded.

Eighteen persons were injured in Dallas in traffic accidents, or by falls on icy pavements.

At Beaumont the temperature skidded from 72 at 8 p. m. Friday, to 46 early Saturday. Huntsville reported a temperature of 28 degrees with ice covering trees and streets. Steady rain continued at Houston.

The sleet and snow appeared to be breaking in the northwestern portion of the state where a slight moderation in temperature was forecast for Saturday night.

MANY DEATHS ATTRIBUTED TO FREEZING WEATHER
Storms which left the western half of the United States with broken communication lines and ice-covered highways moved eastward Saturday. At least eleven deaths were attributed to the storm.

Five died in the western mountain area. Five deaths were reported in Texas. Two trainmen were injured fatally in train accidents in Missouri, caused by ice. The weather bureau predicted more snow for the entire Central States area next week. Five deaths occurred in Utah and Nevada. Passengers were taken from a bus stalled in a mountain pass near Cedar City, Nevada. Horse-drawn sleighs brought them to town. Fears were expressed for motorists believed caught in other drifts. Motorists were warned to keep off state highways in Missouri. Drifts four and five feet deep blocked roads in northwestern Iowa and Southern Minnesota. Many Nebraska roads were impassable. High temperatures in Ohio were ended today with the mercury tumbling to the freezing point. It was 24 below zero at Sterling, Colo., and 6 below at Denver. In the Pacific northwest snow was general.

DIPLOMATS UNWILLING TO ADMIT WAR IMMINENT

The major powers of Europe were embroiled deeply today in the Spanish civil war. The Fascist nations, Germany and Italy were openly giving aid; aid has been given by Russia and France to the loyalist government. Webb Miller, European news manager of United Press, pointed out two days ago that nearly 50,000 foreigners of twelve nationalities are engaged in the war in Spain.

Britain appeared to be as disturbed as France. The fleets of both Britain and France were prepared for service in the Mediterranean.

Divided Roads Save Lives

Dense traffic in opposite directions on the same pavement should not be tolerated, according to Dr. H. C. Dickenson, Chief of Heat and Power Division of the National Bureau of Standards.

"Wherever a four-lane highway is called for, traffic in the two opposite directions should be separated so that opposing headlights do not interfere with each other," declares Dr. Dickenson. "Then head-on collisions and side swipes of cars going in opposite directions will become impossible. Some of the states are said to have adopted such a policy. We hope the others soon will follow their example."

"Let us see what this would mean in safety. Almost every serious accident happens because an automobile hits another or fixed object. It is almost impossible to get badly hurt in a modern passenger car unless it runs into something solid."

"If traffic in opposite directions were separated, there would be no opposing cars to hit, and we should avoid the dangerous moves which often are made to avoid head-on collisions. Most of the main highways should then be freed from near-by trees, posts, culvert ends, and other roadside obstructions. It is strange that we should continue to tolerate such obstructions within a few feet of the pavements when they account for nearly all the fatal accidents which result when cars are forced off the road. Parked cars are rare on such roads and could be avoided."

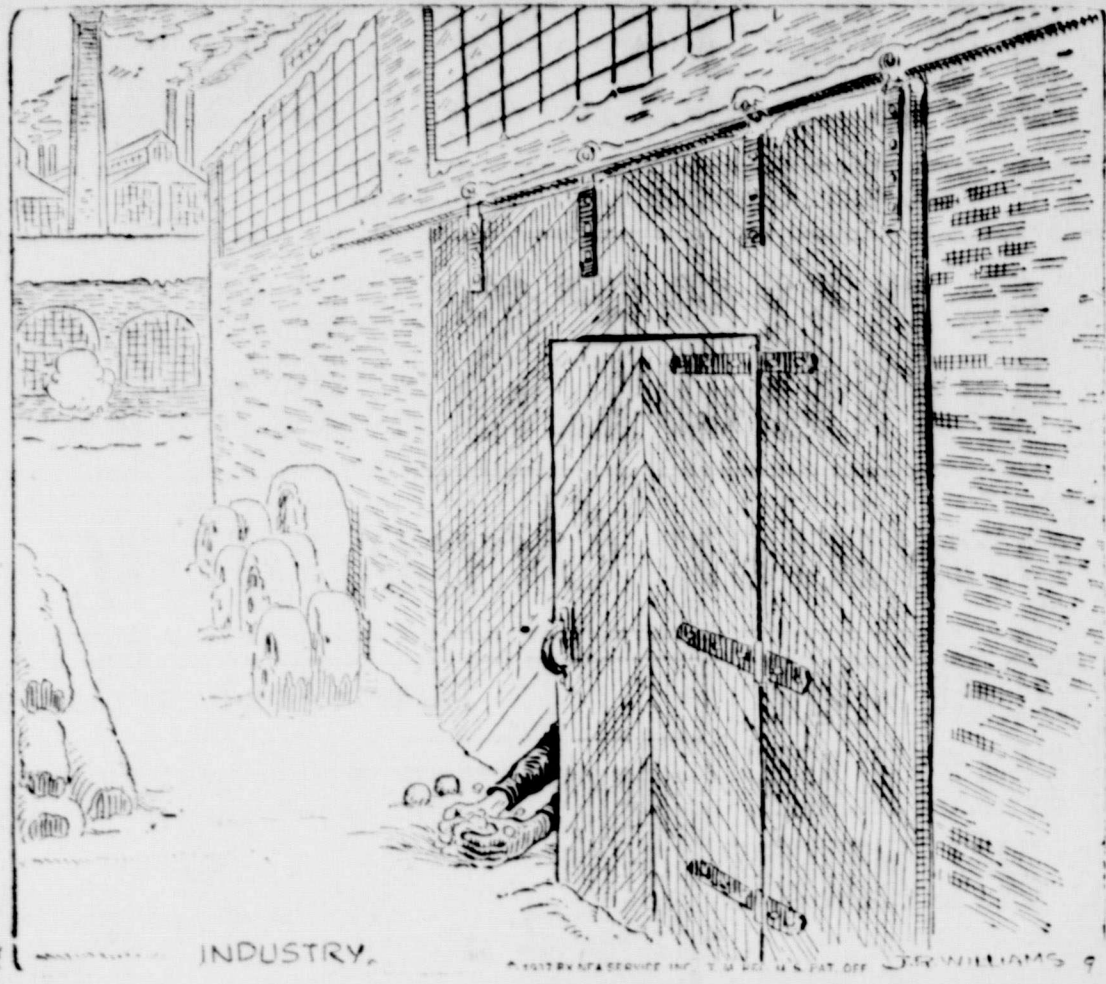

"If these things were done, there would be small chance of hitting anything solid except a car going in the same direction. Such accidents are rare and not very dangerous. With such highways, therefore, it would become almost impossible to get very badly hurt. If, in addition, there were also walks for pedestrians where needed, the death and serious injury toll on main roads could become almost nil. Let us look forward to the day of safe highways."

Getting Children Ready for School

Some excellent advice on getting children ready for school is given by Dr. F. M. Register in The Progressive Farmer. He especially urges that each child entering school for the first time receive a physical examination in a pre-school clinic or by some good doctor, and adds the following suggestions:

1. A MEDICAL EXAMINATION.—If the doctor or the clinic finds bad tonsils, adenoids, poor eyesight, poor hearing, skin eruption, hookworm, or sores, flat feet, heart or lung trouble, spinal curvature, or any defect that could handicap the child, he should have treatment that will cure or remedy any such defect. Let the doctor thoroughly examine the skin.
2. PREVENTIVE MEASURES.—If the child has never had preventive inoculations against diphtheria, typhoid fever, and smallpox, these preventive treatments should be given before entering school. These treatments not only prevent the diseases mentioned, but also prevent many hours of worry on the part of parents when typhoid fever, diphtheria, and smallpox appear in the community. Keep children from having contagious diseases as long as possible. Often people never get completely over some unnecessary disease of childhood.
3. SEE THE DENTIST.—Have a good dentist to go over the child's teeth and have him put them in good shape and let him examine the child's gums for pyorrhea and trench mouth. These diseases sap the child's mind and body.
4. CLOTHING AND SHOES.—Be sure that the clothing is light in weight, but warm. A wrap should be worn to and from school, but the child should remove outer wrap when entering school room. As for shoes, there is no other article of clothing so important. Shoes should have low heels and good thick soles and should be large enough. Remember too, that a child's foot grows fast.
5. FOOD.—See that every child has a good lunch. And please let him carry the lunch in a strong basket rather than in a tin box or bucket. If you must use a tin bucket, punch plenty of holes in it in order that the food may get plenty of air, which keeps bread and other food from getting soggy. Encourage them to drink an abundance of milk and eat plenty of fruit.

where only pretending that he could not speak or move? And that wooden-faced Indian who had guarded the top of the trail down the canyon. If the old lady had not died Bob would have thought she had had something to do with the death of her nephews. Maybe she did, at that. She had not been one-half so feeble and half-witted as she seemed. He was convinced of this and Betty thought so, too. Betty—where was she now? The thought lent wings to Bob's feet, and he strode ahead with added speed. Then he heard a noise and turned quickly. Someone was coming behind him. He listened a minute, decided it was more than one person, and that they were coming with all the speed of familiarity with the trail. Bob hurried his own pace—then turned his ankle against a fallen log. The stab of pain made him blink a few steps farther before he sank in the snow. Nearer and nearer came the pursuers. THE next few minutes seemed an eternity. Then a glow of light blinded Bob as someone with a swinging lantern peered down at him in the darkness. There were three men together. At a curt command from one (Bob was sure he recognized de Forest's voice) an Indian blanket was dropped over his head and he was lifted and carried up the trail to two stout Mexicans—again a prisoner.

That journey back to the hacienda lasted for a space of time which always remained uncertain in Bob's mind, for, even when they came to the level of the mesa, the men did not stop a minute. They hurried on until apparently they came to the house itself. Then Bob felt himself being carried down a flight of stairs. After a few moments he was laid on a floor and heard de Forest talking in low tones. Bob gritted his teeth, waiting to see what would happen next. He did not have to wait long. Retreating footsteps told him that the two men who had carried him were departing, and now he had the sensation that someone was leaning over him, for a blur of light came through the thickness of the blanket. In a minute he was being pulled through some kind of an opening and bumped along a dirt floor. The pain in his injured ankle drove all else from his mind and a groan escaped his lips.

leading European nations would not go to war at this time as a result of the situation in Spain.

I do not think the reports coming from Europe should cause undue alarm," Moore said. "I decline to believe that a war involving the leading European nations is about to occur. I decline to believe that any such adventure in suicide is imminent."

AIR BOMBING FOLLOWS TERRIFIC ATTACK FRIDAY
MADRID, Jan. 9 (UP)—Fourteen rebel bombing airplanes today dropped more than twenty explosive bombs on the University City area of Madrid. Today's bombing followed a terrific air attack Friday on the Madrid "safety zone," in which the British and German embassies were struck.

PENNSYLVANIA RICHEST IN MINERAL RESOURCES

HARRISBURG Pa. (UP)—Pennsylvania, by far, is the largest producer in the mineral industry in the United States, and the value of the output is greater than that of any foreign country.

The Bureau of Topographic and Geologic Survey in the state department of interior affairs recently reported the value of the annual output at $1,000,000,000.

The billion-dollar industry is largely accounted for in the deposits of hard and soft coal, petroleum and natural gas.

HAWAII HOPES TO SAVE "LITTLE GRASS SHACKS"

HONOLULU, (UP)—The "little grass shack" heard of in songs and stories of the Hawaiian Islands is almost extinct.

So scarce are they, in fact, that a program is under way to restore a few of them along the road to Waikiki Beach for the benefit of tourists who want a bit of native atmosphere, and for natives who are looking for a convenient place to sell knick-knacks.

Miss Helen Panama Gay has made plans for construction of an old-time Hawaiian village, modeled entirely after those of times past, and with only native trees and shrubs used in the landscaping.

REICH BANS STAMP EXPORT
BERLIN (UP)—Postage stamps are money and therefore cannot be exported, the German foreign exchange control bureau has decided. Consequently, it is illegal to use them to evade the foreign exchange law, whereby the ban on the export and import of German currency is enforced.

Whatever the difficulties "Service must go on!"

The "blue norther" is nothing new to West Texans... cattlemen have faced its hazards for many years. Cowboys uttered no complaint as they urged ponies into the biting wind, bent on finding the stray cow or doggie that fled from the teeth of the blizzard. These are hardships all too familiar to West Texans.

There, too, is an esprit-de-corps among utility workers. It is developed by that high sense of responsibility which attends supplying the wants the entire public. The "trouble-shooter" knows that "service must go on!"

Blue norther or drifting snow storm... utility workers frequently perform many heroic deeds, quite "in the day's work"—deeds unheralded and unsung. Fingers so numb they can scarcely move them, operating on snatches of sleep, they keep going till interrupted service is restored, never forgetting that an entire community's comfort and safety depend on their skill and persistence.

There's the job of eliminating danger to business in general... costly destruction at the hands of unruly elements. Frequently they take their lives in their hands, where a single misstep or fault in judgment may result fatally to themselves.

Sometimes the task is gigantic, in its entirety. But always your utility workers crash through, restoring the service you expect. To its public servants—those men who brave menacing weather as an incident rather than an impediment—the public service owes more than it will ever know.

Early Morning Fire Does No Damage

An early morning call took the fire department to the Exide Battery station Saturday morning but it was only the oil stove misbehaving and a little oil spilled on the floor that had made all the black smoke that had caused stored cars backing out in a hurry. The fire was soon out and order restored.

Sale of Public Land Is Being Announced

AUSTIN, Jan. 9 (U.P.)—Sale at public auction of 14,141.7 acres of University of Texas oil and gas leases, the largest acreage so far offered at auction, has been announced for Friday, February 26, at 10 o'clock, according to Dr. H. P. Bybee, geologist in charge of University lands. The sale will include tracts in blocks Nos. 3 in Upton county, 58 in Upton and Reagan counties, 35 in Ector county, 30 and 31 in Crane county, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 in Andrews county and 24 and 26 in Pecos county.

A map showing the location of all University oil and gas leases, and their geographical relation to known oil fields has been prepared by the University Land Office, and copies may be obtained for a nominal sum from that office, 805 San Angelo National Bank building San Angelo. Dr. Bybee said. Prospective bidders may at any time inspect the records concerning production of wells in the immediate vicinity of lands advertised for sale, on file in the University Land Office. No charge is made for the privilege of geological and geophysical inspection of these lands, though permits must be secured in accordance with rules set up by the University Board of Regents.

Shooting permits have been issued for such inspection on blocks Nos. 1, 2, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 in Andrews county, 30, 31, and 35 in Crane and Ector counties, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26 in Pecos county, and 2, 3, 4 and 58 in Reagan and Upton counties. Dr. Bybee said.

Careful geological examination has convinced the Board for lease of University Lands that many of the tracts to be offered for lease at the February 26 auction are advantageously located for the production of oil," Dr. Bybee said. "Especially well located appear to be the tracts in Block No. 35, Ector county, situated as they are between two producing areas. During the present winter and past fall wells ranging in size from 600 barrels to 14,000 barrels have come in within from two to four miles southeast of some of these tracts. Some of the tracts in Andrews county lie within a mile or two of well established production."
