1,000 REFUGEES TREK TO MEMPHIS

MISSISSIPPI THREATENING MANY CITIES

MEMPHIS, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Memphis Board of Education today announced schools would be closed if the buildings are needed to house flood refugees.

Half the schools are now closed, and others are being prepared for use as sleeping quarters and hospitals.

The city crowded with 30,000 refugees and their livestock. Chickens sold as low as 5 cents each.

Forecast of general rains over the Tennessee and Ohio valleys pushed 100,000 weary workers to greater speed today as the zero hour approached in the struggle to hold back the rising Mississippi.

W. J. Moxom, of the weather bureau, warned that the rains would "prolong the flood" and swell to some extent the waters pouring into the Mississippi from tributary rivers.

The forecast added significance to the admission of engineers that they were fighting a treacherous enemy.

"The weather will decide it. If it doesn't rain, we've got the river licked," engineers said.

Moxom warned that engineers would have to keep up the fight for at least two months.

President Roosevelt appointed a committee of relief and reconstruction experts to survey the area from Memphis through the Ohio Valley where floods have claimed at least 278 lives driven 1,000,000 persons from their homes and caused damage which amounted to nearly half a billion dollars.

The Ohio river was falling in the upper valley, except below Louisville.

The Mississippi went near the tops of levees in the four state region where it received the water of the Ohio. Levees were weakening at several points.

Threatened with disaster should flood walls fail, were Cairo, Hickman, Kentucky, New Madrid, and Charleston, Mo., and Tiptonville, Tenn. Below Memphis, on the western banks of the Mississippi, the Melwood, Ark., levee showed signs of strain.

LOOTERS DRAWN TO FLOOD AREA

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 29 (AP)—Looters, some hungry and others attracted by the opportunity for thievery in this unlighted city, roamed flooded Louisville today.

Until last night the 400 exhausted police and 400 national guardsmen had scouted at reports of looting, and occupied themselves with rescuing 230,000 homeless.

Today, fresh police came here in response to a plea for aid. Within 18 hours they had rounded up 23 looters, most of them negroes.

U. S. NAVY BOMB PLANES ROARED OVER HONOLULU

HONOLULU, Jan. 29 (AP)—Twelve huge U. S. Navy bombing planes roared over Honolulu at 8:30 a. m. today completing the largest mass flight in American naval history from San Diego in less than 22 hours.

The fliers were welcomed by a party consisting solely of the families of naval air men.

Two patches of unsettled weather delayed the planes on the long hop. The new bombers, carrying 78 officers and men, will be used to replace obsolete planes in service in the Hawaiian Island area. They are the forerunners of a fleet of 216 planes to be used along the Pacific Coast.

Galveston Now Cotton Capital

Galveston, Jan. 29 (AP)—Port Galveston assumed world supremacy in the handling of cotton in 1936, outstripping New Orleans and Houston.

H. Renfert, president of the Galveston Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade reported that Galveston exported 1,599,300 bales in 1936, compared with 1,349,300 for New Orleans and 1,301,431 for Houston.

Houston had held the leadership as a cotton port for 12 consecutive years.

Galveston showed receipts of 1,841,467 bales. Houston held a slight lead over New Orleans whose receipts were reported as 1,523,347 bales.

One important reason for the island port's advance was the transfer last year of the American Cotton Cooperative Association's classing and shipping offices from Houston to Galveston. The transfer was ordered when ACCA officials were offered a substantial reduction in facility charges by Galveston interests.

Refert reported that 1936 was a poor cotton year because of bad crop, failure of American exporters to have the proper grades of cotton on hand to fill orders, development of foreign cotton culture, tariff barriers which concentrated the world's gold in the hands of a few nations, and the development of synthetic fibers as cotton substitutes.

Houston's export total was approximately half that of its biggest year, 1931-32 when the figure was 2,600,000 bales.

Heads of Fish Game, Oyster Depts Resign

AUSTIN, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rapid developments occurred today in what Governor Allred described as "a mess" in the State Game, Fish and Oyster Department.

First, the Governor accepted the "resignation" of Commissioner Jack O'Brien, San Antonio News Sports Editor, for what he considered disrespect for the governor's office. O'Brien refused to treat his sports column threat as a resignation and rejected the governor's acceptance.

The Game Commission proposed to meet at Fort Worth February 2 to name an executive secretary to succeed Willis Tucker Caesar Kingberg of Kingsville, a member, telegraphed Allred that because of illness he would not attend the Fort Worth meeting, but was not in accord with a request for Tucker's resignation. This apparently left the commission divided three and three.

Insulting Little Business Men

Those who forecast the destruction of small retail business in this country insult the little business man. The life of the small retailer may not be all beer and skittles—but, taking him by and large, he shows an amazingly aggressive spirit. He is up on his toes and wide awake. He is more than eager to make improvements in his methods in order to attract customers. He provides a brand of personal service that makes and keeps friends.

When the chain retailing system began its growth, some decades ago, the pessimists said that the day of the little independent was done—that monopoly would swallow him. The pessimists are still singing the same tune—but the facts show how badly off-key they are. Independent merchants, instead of giving up the ghost in the face of supposedly unmeetable chain competition, have used their heads and thought up new innovations in retailing—and the chains have had a tough time keeping pace with them. Many a case is on record where a live independent has made the operation of a neighboring chain store unprofitable through his own customer-attracting enterprise. There can be no monopoly where consumers have a choice of service.

One result of this condition is interesting. Many forward-looking independent merchants have not joined the groups which seek to penalize chains with class legislation and taxation. To the contrary, these independents have often opposed such acts. They know that they can meet the chains on their own ground and hold their own. They realize that class legislation knows no bounds, and that if it once hits a part of an industry it is only a matter of time before all other parts will feel it also. The capable and intelligent independent retailer is willing and able to operate under present conditions of fair and reasonable competition.

The Traffic Death Lottery

Last year, in an American city of something over 1,000,000 population, traffic deaths averaged approximately five per day. During the early part of January this year, deaths in the same city caused by motoring carelessness averaged seven a day.

The people read of this loss of life disinterestedly, turn the pages and forget it. But the world would stand aghast if seven similar victims were selected each morning by lot and sacrificed at a public ceremony.

Of course, that would be impossible—but the idea may give you a new view of the automobile accident situation. In the city mentioned—which is no better or worse than many other cities and towns—the odds are about a hundred and fifty thousand to one against your being killed on any given day. Those are long odds—but they are considerably shorter than the odds against a man with one ticket winning a major prize in the Calcutta Sweepstakes which is participated in by hundreds of thousands of Americans.

Under the lottery system of selecting victims for sudden death, the papers each morning could list the names of those drawn, and the unfortunates could wind up their business and go quietly to their doom. That opportunity isn't given to those who are run down by speeding cars.

So remember that the chance of your being killed by a motor car is a daily lottery and is greater than your chance of winning a prize in the sweepstakes in which you hopefully gamble a dollar or two now and then. Is dangerous driving worth its prize?

A great firecracker was exploded near an eastern woman to cure her of hiccoughs. Another idea would have been to tell her suddenly that her slip was showing.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

By Dennis Wheatley

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British Royal Air Force pilot, disappeared from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CAPTAIN ROCKSAVAGE, on Monday, Jan. 22, 1933. A note found in Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary, MISS STODART, indicated a date of departure for a bookkeeping tour of the States. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, AMERICAN AIRWAYS, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard the yacht GOLDEN GLEAM are MISS FERIE ROCKSAVAGE, Rocksvage's daughter, LADY WELCHER, BEANSFIELD, J. O. C. L. S. MRS. JULIANA, Lady Welch's daughter, and son-in-law, the BISHOP OF RODES, and ST. LEE, PRINCIPAL and INOSUKI HAYASHI.

Derivative OFFICER KETTERING, Southwold, in Miami for investigation, first examining Rocksvage's Stodart and Blanton, cabin steward. Stodart suggests a date of suicide.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S REPORT, CONTINUED.

HAVING taken statements from Captain Derringham, Mr. Rocksvage, Mr. Stodart and the cabin steward, Ringbottom, I then proceeded to Suite C which had been allotted to Bolitho Blane. It consisted of a drawing room, a stateroom and private bathroom. On the other side of the drawing room there was a single stateroom, which, I am told, had been allotted to Stodart in order that he might be near his employer.

Instructed Station Photographer Southwold to take the necessary photos of the suite and decided to postpone a detailed examination until morning.

At 12:50 Station Photographer Southwold had completed his work, upon which I had Suite C unlocked and placed Officer Gordon on guard outside it.

In my view, at the moment, the suite looks like a plain case of suicide by a man in a financial jam. Blane's innuendoes that Rocksvage intended to do him in are discounted by the statements of the secretary, Stodart, who appears convinced that for some days past Blane was not of sound mind and suffering from a form of persecution mania.

Rocksvage's manner is normal and he appears surprised and upset at the tragedy, although it should be noted that he stated that this was only a pleasure trip, whereas it is made abundantly clear from Stodart's statement that its real objective was to cover a big business conference between Rocksvage and Blane.

On the face of it, all the guests are apparently respectable people of some social standing, and Captain Derringham gives me his assurance that no new men have been brought on in the crew this trip, or employes of Rocksvage, for any special purpose.

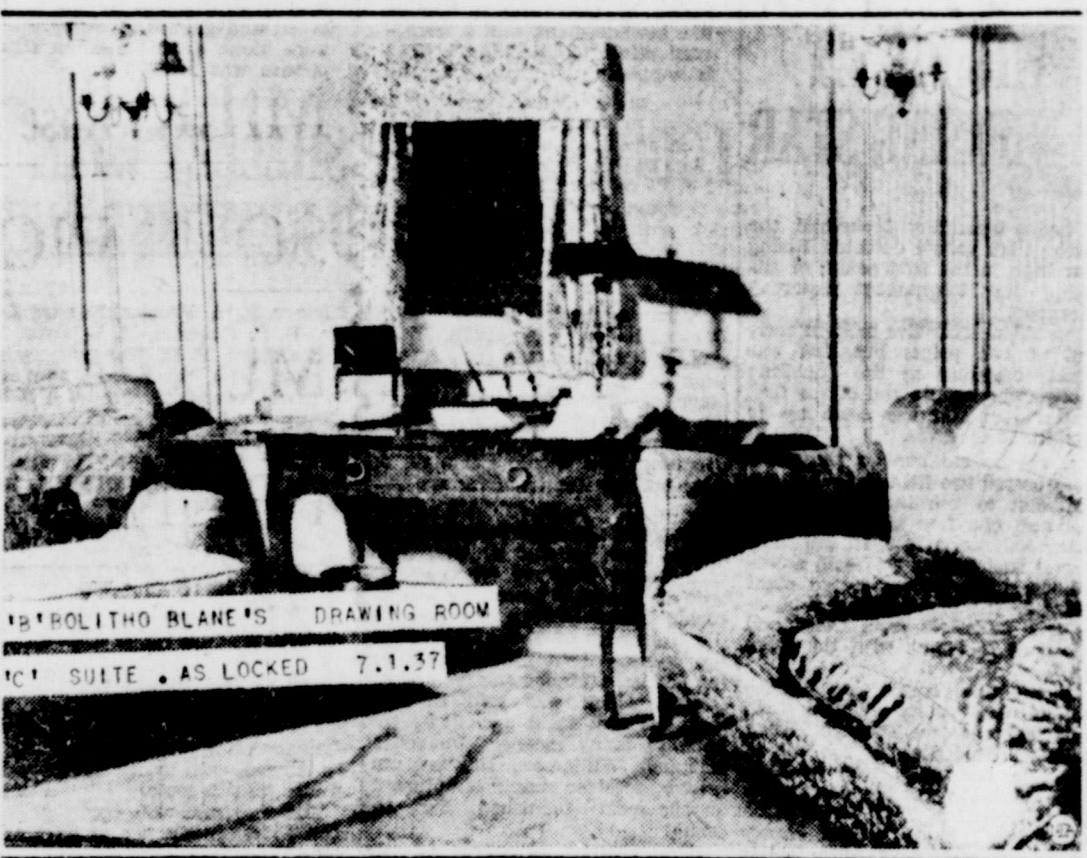

I am sending Station Photographer Southwold ashore in the yacht's launch and also Detective Officer Neame, who will deliver this report.

KEYS KETTERING, Detective Officer, Florida Police, 1:15 a. m., 8.1.37, on S. Y. Golden Gull.

DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S SECOND REPORT.

ON receipt of Lieutenant Schwab's memo and the photographs of C suite on S. Y. Golden Gull I at once proceeded below in the company of Detective Officer Neame to make a thorough examination of Blane's suite in daylight. I first examined the marks on the carpet, mentioned in Lieutenant Schwab's report, and apparently in print B. These marks consist of a slight irregular roughing of the pile in the carpet.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS, MIAMI, FLA. 5:20 a.m. 8.1.37

MEMO.

To Detective Officer Kettering:

First report on Bolitho Blane received. I note your view that there are no suspicious circumstances attached to the case. I agree that Blane's innuendoes against Rocksvage are apparently quite unfounded and due only to Blane's abnormal state of mind just before taking his own life.

Prints of the photographs taken by Southwold have just come to hand and are attached herewith. In print B, you will note two parallel lines across the carpet, running in a curve from the table to the porthole in the drawing room. Please make a close examination of these at once.

If, after examination of Blane's suite, you are satisfied that no circumstances point to his death having been framed you can give the occupants of the yacht a clear bill, but the Captain, Rocksvage, Stodart and the steward, Ringbottom, should be warned that they will be required to give evidence at the inquest.

John Milton Selwab, Lieutenant, Florida Police.

P.S. Sorry to get you out of bed so early, but if the marks on the carpet do mean anything you'll be in time to take special measures before the party are up and about. J.M.S.

East Ward School News of the Week

The East Ward school closed its most active and progressive semester last week. Several country communities, some of them by special request, were added to the ward, increasing the numbers of teachers to five, where last year there were only three. New teachers added were Mrs. Modena Dulin, Mrs. Minnie Hill and Miss Lucile Stansel.

The school building was repaired last year, and in the early part of the term this year, curtains were bought by the Parent-Teachers association of the East Ward to decorate the auditorium. Cream colored material forms the back ground and the front part of the curtain of heavy plush is of deep red. New chairs bought and presented to East Ward by the school board have been added to the comfort of audiences that pack the auditorium on every occasion of programs and community get-togethers.

New gas heaters have replaced the old, smoky ones, thus contributing to the health of the pupils and teachers. The stoves were presented by the East Ward and are the new type of circulating heaters being used extensively.

T. C. Williams, principal of the school, is not only a teacher and supervisor, but acts as a father to his boys as well. He reports also that small organizations of boys' clubs have done a lot toward the improvement of behavior and toward bringing out the good and retarding the bad which seems to sometimes predominate. But, Mr. Williams says "children are children and more times than one the bad element is simply an expression of an untrained mind, or lack of knowing just the right thing to do, and not from any motive or desire of doing the wrong thing. Not only children, but grown-ups sometimes make mistakes that might be interpreted as being wrong. So, he added, "mistakes are not always sins, and we should mould character in our little ones by the use of experiences in our own lives that have taught us what is right, and should teach us to be

County Agent and Cooperators to Present Radio Program on Curing Pork

"Curing Pork the A. & M. Way" is the subject of a 15 minute Radio Program being planned for presentation over Radio Station KREB, Abilene, Texas, on Wednesday February 2d, from 12:45 to 1:00 p. m. by Elmo V. Cook, County Agent, H. W. Gilbert of Carbon, and J. E. Spencer of Cisco, who have been working with the county agent on curing pork the A. & M. way. Gilbert and Spencer will tell how they cured their pork and the results they obtained by the methods used. Last year, J. E. Spencer cured three hogs in cooperation with the county agent, and he liked the cured meat so well that he has just put four hogs into the cure for consumption this year using the same method for each as were used last year. H. W. Gilbert of Carbon, has just taken two hogs out of the cure and has finished smoking the meat. When he started his meat curing with the county agent he stated that he would try the A. & M. way this year and if he didn't like the meat he would go back to his old way next year. He has already stated that he is convinced the new way is the best.

Eastland county people are invited to tune in on station KREB at 1420 Kilocycles at 12:45 p. m. Wednesday February 2d, and listen to these home folk tell how they cured their pork.

Cook suggests that those interested in using the A. & M. method for curing their pork can obtain information at the County Agent's office.

An increase of more than 200 per cent in yield of banded beans and minko on fertilized land over adjoining land not fertilized in 1936 was recently reported by Henry Pittman, Escamonton farmer. He fertilized six acres of minko and began with 30 pounds per acre of 11-48-0 fertilizer at a cost of $1.90 per acre. An adjoining part of the same field was left unfertilized but otherwise was given the same cultivation and management.

Pittman cut 1,900 bundles of beans per acre from the fertilized acreage and 275 bundles per acre from the unfertilized tract. He is planning to fertilize an additional acreage of soil depleting crops in 1937 and has made application for TVA superphosphate fertilizer to use on 7 acres of sugar as a demonstration plot in cooperation with Elmo V. Cook, county agent.

Good Seed Corn Needed in Eastland County

Pure high producing seed corn is very scarce in Eastland county, according to Elmo V. Cook, County Agent, who has put out a call for these farmers who think they have a suitable seed corn for Eastland county to report the kind of corn, quantity they have and price to the County Agent's office. Cook stated that the kind of seed corn needed and most suitable would be a variety that has been grown on the same farm for a good many years without a chance of crossing with other varieties, and which is high producing and fairly uniform in quality. A yellow corn is preferable. These farmers who do not have a good strain of seed corn are advised to try some of the Yellow Surecrops which has just been developed by the Experiment Station. This corn is exactly like Surecrops except that the seeds are yellow and it is adapted to all parts of the state. Information regarding where this seed can be obtained can be gotten at the County Agent's office.

J. B. Eberhart Approves Trench Silo

After opening a trench silo on Jan. 15th, which was filled with immature frosted feed that was too sappy to dry cure, and observing how his dairy cows relished the product, J. B. Eberhart, Rising Star dairy farmer, remarked to Elmo V. Cook, county agent, that he believed the trench silo is the solution of his main problems connected with profitable dairying, those of supplying feed at a reasonable cost and keeping his cows in production during dry, hot and cold weather.

In the past it has been necessary for Eberhart to put four-fifths of the money he received from his dairy cows back into feed for his cows. Knowing that silage, supplemented with some grain and cottonseed meal, is a very economical dairy ration which will keep his cows in production in bad-weather months, he plans to quit planting cotton and increase his feed acreage, which he will enable to supply feed for his 30 dairy cows.

In addition to the 26 ton trench truck silo which he has opened, Eberhart has a reserve trench silo holding 40 tons of cane, minko and beans that he will open when the smaller silo is emptied. Besides those two there are 17 other trench silos in Eastland county with a total capacity of 243 tons. These are owned by W. L. Cornell and Hilmar C. Braune of Oden, Clarence Dell and Melvin Cleveland of Cisco, C. C. Gilbert and H. M. Gilbert of Carbon, J. R. Moore, B. D. Duncan and the Chamber of Commerce of Eastland, L. R. Higginbottom and B. B. Poe, Jr. of Gorman, J. W. Gerhardt, Conrad Schaefer and Cecil Shultz of Rising Star, and Martin Ewert and E. C. Montgomery of Ranger.

The Eastland county agent and his assistant have included trench silos as one of the principal points in their 1937 program.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin No. 528

"Commercial Fertilizers in 1935-36" which gives unbiased information on fertilizers. This bulletin is compiled annually by Dr. G. S. Fraps, State Chemist.

In a letter to W. B. Starr recently Dr. Fraps stated:

"Our analysis of the soils of your section show that they are low in active phosphoric acid, a little better in nitrogen, and still better in potash. The Windthorst fine sandy loam, the most extensive type has a grade of 4 for nitrogen, 5 for active phosphoric acid, and 3 for active potash. Grade 5 is the lowest grade and Grade 1 is the highest. This means that your soils are quite likely to be deficient in nitrogen and phosphoric acid, but whether or not they are deficient in potash is doubtful."

W. B. Starr cites results he obtained several years ago on small plots of sweet potatoes fertilized with various fertilizers. Plots fertilized with nitrogen and phosphorus showed results in favor of using these elements, while plots fertilized with potash showed no increase in yields. The above information added to opinions of farmers of the county who have fertilized for years leads to the assumption that potash is not badly needed by plants growing in Eastland county sandy soils.

Fields of sweet potatoes, such as cecropia, sorbus, clover and peanuts have been grown and the vines and roots left on the land may not be low in nitrogen as these legumes harbor bacteria on the roots which take nitrogen from the air and deposit it in small nodules on the roots. This is particularly true if fields planted with legume seed which were inoculated before planting with a pure culture of the necessary bacteria. Crops on such fields will respond quickly to an application of 50 to 100 pounds per acre of 32 per cent superphosphate.

However, since few fields in Eastland county have had these legumes longer than 1 year at a time, an application of 50 to 100 pounds per acre of a fertilizer containing 11 per cent nitrogen, 48 per cent phosphorus, and no potash (known as 11-48-0 fertilizer) for crops such as peanuts, cotton, and potatoes is recommended while crops where good leaf and stalk growth is important, such as corn, leafy vegetables, and feedstuffs, should be fertilized with 50 to 100 pounds per acre of a fertilizer containing 16 per cent nitrogen, 20 per cent phosphorus, and no potash (known as 16-20-0 fertilizer).

Since the bulk of fertilizers used in Eastland county heretofore have been low analysis fertilizers, such as 4-8-4 and 4-12-4 which require a large percentage of worthless filler, and which cost much higher per pound of plant food they contain, County Agent Cook is urging that fertilizer users consider the following comparisons before buying and demand more appropriate fertilizers:

With each pound of nitrogen valued at 12 cents, phosphorus at 9.5 cents, and potash at 5.5 cents, a ton of 4-8-4 fertilizer is worth $22.80 while a ton of 16-20-0 is worth $61.79 but it costs only $50.00. A ton of 32 per cent superphosphate costing $38.00 is worth $35.20. On this basis our most economical fertilizers are 11-48-0 and 16-20-0.

GEN. GOURAUD SOON TO END ARMY CAREER

By JOSEPH D. RAVOTTO United Press Staff Correspondent. PARIS, Jan. 29 (U.P.)—Gen. Henri Joseph Eugene Gouraud, military governor of Paris, will be retired from active service next November at the age of 70.

Thus the beloved one-armed figure with the slight limp will pass from the scene after almost 50 years of active service to his government. So warm a place has this hero of the World and Colonial wars won in the hearts of his countrymen, that long after he has gone he will be remembered in his most characteristic pose; his left arm holding his flashing sword high overhead as he took the reviews of the troops at all the military ceremonies held in the capital.

Gouraud, who is also a special member of the Superior War Council, will be retained on the list as a reserve officer after his retirement. This is a special mark of consideration to a commanding officer who saw fire before the enemy.

Known to A. F. F. Soldiers The retiring military governor is a firm admirer of Americans and is not unknown to them. It was as Commander of the Fourth French Army during the World War, that he led several American divisions including the famous 42nd Rainbow Division. After the war, he made his acquaintance with the United States when he visited several conventions of the American Legion as honor guest, later traveling through the country.

His successor has not yet been chosen but he is most likely to be General Garchery, presently military governor of Lyons. Also mentioned to succeed is General Billotte, member of the Superior War Council and like Gouraud, a former Colonial soldier.

Few army leaders have suffered more serious wounds and survived to parade their glorious mutilations. His limp is the result of old wounds in the knee and legs. At Gallipoli he lost his right arm.

Long Record Distinguished His military career shows a proud war record and his efficient and tactful administration as military governor of Paris which gives him command of all the troops garrisoned in the Paris region is no less distinguished.

It is as military governor of Paris that he took the salute of troops at the funeral processions of Generals Foch and Joffre, Brand, Clemenceau and all the World War and civil leaders.

Gouraud has earned an international reputation for his charm and good humor which has long endeared him to his soldiers. To Parisians his passage in a parade has always been the signal for hearty cheers and the doffing of hats.

A Parisian by birth on Nov. 17, 1867, Gouraud went through Saint Cyr military school for infantry officers in 1888 and from then on until 1914 he served in the Colonies.

General Officer in 1912 After 24 years of duty, he reached the rank of brigadier general in 1912. During those years he saw fighting in the Sudan, the Congo and Mauretania. When French troops were sent into the Orient in 1915, Gouraud was placed in command of the expedition of the Gardanelles. It was there that he received the injury that cost him his right arm.

He then returned to France and took command of the Fourth French Army on the west front, which included several American divisions. After the War, Gouraud was sent to Syria as French high commissioner and narrowly escaped death in a political plot. In 1923 he was appointed military governor of Paris. He holds the Croix de Guerre and the Military Medal and the Military Medal and the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor.

LAKE DEFFIES NATURAL LAWS FALLON, Nev. (U.P.)—Soda Lake, formed in an old crater by irrigation ditch seepage, can't decide its own level. During dry seasons the lake rises, though ditches are nearly empty. During wet periods, with ditches bank-full, it declines. Engineers still are trying to determine why.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS FADE PITTSBURGH (U.P.)—The one-room school is fast disappearing from populous Allegheny county. Dr. Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, reported that 300 of the old-fashioned buildings have been locked within the past ten years and that only 20 will remain at the end of 1937.

S. S. Class Honors Teacher's Birthday

Tuesday evening the Alathewan Class of the First Baptist Sunday School met at the home of Mrs. F. E. Shepard honoring the birthday of their teacher, Mrs. Kate Richardson.

After conversing pleasantly for a time, the guests were invited into the dining room where a pretty birthday cake with candles aglow, centered the dining table. Four little girls, Mary Catherine Shepard, Dorothy Jean Anderson, Billy Jo McArdle and Sylvia Hazel, sang "Happy Birthday to You," and presented the honoree with a shower of gifts.

The candles were blown out by Mrs. Richardson and a buffet supper was served. Following the delicious meal, a business session was held. Mrs. W. D. Brechen sponsored a number of amusing and interesting games.

Present were: Mmes. O. G. Lawson, W. N. Izenhauer, John Smith, G. A. Love, W. D. Brechen, W. D. Hazel, Frank Walker, W. C. Clements, E. L. Wisdom, I. W. Robinson, W. J. Parsons, F. D. Wright, H. J. McArdle, the honoree, and Misses Willie Frank Walker, Sylvia Hazel, Mary Catherine Shepard, Billie Jo McArdle, Dorothy Jean Anderson and the hostess.

My Visit to Colleen Moore's Doll House

Little Patty Jean Boyd recently visited the doll house of Colleen Moore and she came home and wrote her impressions which are very interesting. We print the article in its entirety.

"While I was visiting in Fort Worth Saturday I saw Colleen Moore's $435,000 doll house, at Stripling's. In Stripling's a special elevator took me directly to the fourth floor, where the house was on exhibit for the benefit of orphan and cripple children.

The house is made of aluminum, but looks like it is made of old stone or brick. It looks like a real castle where a real fairy prince and princess might live. The house has tall towers and a tile roof.

The kitchen and breakfast room are together. In the kitchen there is a wood stove with logs burning in it. Above the kitchen is a shelf or cupboard where supplies are kept. A saw, a lantern, a watering bucket, a cup with a long handle, a poker for the stove and other supplies are there. In the breakfast room there is a table and two chairs carved of wood.

The princess' bathroom is made of silver. Her bathtub is boat-shaped with tiny spigots that are dripping water. The princess' bathroom is made of onyx. His bathtub is called "the throne bathtub," and has carvings at the back to represent the back of a throne.

The princess' bedroom has inlaid floors of mother-of-pearl. Her bed is boat-shaped with a high top. A table, two chairs set with diamonds, the bed and a vanity furnish the room. On the table is a harp and a clock both made of silver and gold. On the vanity are the three latest things in the house, a comb, brush and jewel box with a tiny key that will lock it. In the jewel box is a wedding ring and an engagement ring. In the princess' bedroom is a dressing table, a bed, a golden screen and a bear skin rug. By the bed are the prince's red boots which are about a half-inch tall.

The table in the dining hall represents King Arthur's round table. The table is set with 12 golden plates, knives, forks and spoons. Twelve chairs carved of wood are set around the table.

In the library there are six book cases with real books in them. Lounge couches and chairs made of seashells and covered with velvet and satin are also in the library. On a table in the library there is a radio and in a corner of the room there is a white baby grand piano.

The chapel is the biggest room in the 11-room house. The chapel has an electric organ that will really play. A winding staircase carved of gold leads from the chapel to the princess' bedroom. The altar is made of gold and silver and is set with diamonds. On a stand in front of the altar is a tiny Bible. Above the altar the Ten Commandments are carved in ivory.

In the living room there is a fireplace with real logs and a fire in it. The chairs and couches are made of gold covered with satin and velvet. The room is lighted with tiny lights that represent candles, each candle about the size of a pin. On a table in the room there is a game of chess made of gold.

The last thing I saw was the courtyard which is like a garden. It has flower pots with all kinds of flowers in them. A grapevine winds all over the stone wall of the castle with tiny clusters of grapes made of pearls. In the center of the garden a weeping willow tree covered with moss is growing in a pond. A rock-a-bye-baby tree with two tiny gold bird nests and a silver cradle in the top sways back and forth in another part of the garden.

A silver chariot with silver horses is standing near the pond. I thought of Christmas Eve when I looked on top of the castle because there was Santa in a silver sleigh behind six golden reindeer.

After I saw the doll house I felt as if I had seen a real palace.

BLACK-DRAUGHT HIGH IN QUALITY WITHOUT BEING HIGH IN PRICE

Black-Draught is "easy to pay for" because it is so economically packaged and so reliable.

But as to quality, there's nothing "cheap" about it. For instance, its principal active ingredient is the leaves of a certain species of plant that are brought 10,000 miles from where they grow to the factory where the medicine is made. These leaves from far, far away, help to give Black-Draught its well-known "laxative reliability." They could not be left out, or substituted, without real loss of good medicinal quality.

For a good, purely vegetable laxative, insist on Black-Draught. About 25 doses in each 25-cent package.
