What's News Today

The flood situation in the Ohio Valley still dominates the front pages of newspapers today as crowds all over the United States gave in their Sunday gatherings that money might be provided. It appears that Roosevelt's $490,000,000 relief fund which he recommended be given in its entirety to flood relief, may not be needed. Human sympathy and aggressive action of the Red Cross may supply sufficient funds to handle the situation. However, many people perhaps saw homes swept away that Many wonder at the lowness of the water which has been so long in reaching the Mississippi river. When one understands that the slope of these rivers is so gradual and their bottoms so wide, they will not wonder. The water merely creeps in many places. If it were not so there would be little time for inhabitants to flee to higher ground. One of our Texas rivers, with their mad torrential rushes, would have swept everything before and the flood tide would have long passed. The slowness gives levee builders plenty of time to prepare for the monstrous power which sweeps toward the Tennessee Valley

AWAITS HIS MASTER

High up in the courst of heaven today A little dog angel waits

With the other angels he will not play; He just sits alone at the gates

"For I know that my master will come," says he, And when he comes, he will call for me.

He sees the spirits that pass him by As they hasten toward the throne, And he watches them with a wistful eye, As he sits at the gates alone.

But I know if I just wait patiently That some day my master will come," says he.

And his master, far on the earth below, As he sits in his easy chair, Forgets sometimes, and he whistles low

For the dog that is not there. And the little dog angel cocks his ears And dreams that his master's call he hears.

And I know, when at length his master waits,

Outside in the dark and cold, For the hand of death to open the gates That lead to those courts of gold,

The little dog angel's eager bark Vill comfort his soul in the shivering dark.

Wouldn't it be a good idea for churches to bring baskets of food, substantial food, each Sunday during this winter when jobs are few. and have distribution made during the afternoon to needy ones that have been previously investigated and found worthy? What better use could be made of an hour on the Sabbath afternoon than in this distribution? . . . Christ walked with his pisciples through the fields and plucked grain for food on a certain Sabbath . . . and justified his action when questioned

What action or giving of our means could bring more joy than to see the little children in some squalid hovel dance at the sight of food to appease their craving appetites? . . . and it would not be hard to win members of the family to a God who could instill such good principles of Christianity into the hearts of His believers ... Does anyone know of any better method of preaching than by acts of the Good Samaritan?

If there is someone in the church who does not believe in giving of his means, allow him to take a basket of food some Sunday afternoon to a needy family of children to a widow . . . and then tell him next Sunday he must not give again
