FDR'S MESSAGE POINTS TOWARD NRA

Texas Exes to Celebrate in Cisco Tonight

SAYS REPORT IS WORTHY OF CAREFUL STUDY

WASHINGTON, March 3. (UP)—President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress today pointing toward re-establishment of NRA-type wages and hours legislation, a problem he described as "one of the most vital subjects of national concern."

The president transmitted a report by his committee on industrial analysis after an exhaustive study of the old NRA. The committee report noted the nation's progress toward economic recovery under the NRA, but criticized that agency as having attempted to do too much.

NRA aimed substantially in making total wage distributions, and initiating the nation toward solution of questions affecting labor.

That the NRA program was especially handicapped by the effort to do too much too fast, and that certain trade practices intended to raise or stabilize prices failed to function.

That both management and labor attempted to undertake unworkable provisions and that even simple matters such as minimum wages, maximum hours and minimum prices developed unusual complexities.

That final NRA policies in the agency's last days were in harmony with the anti-trust laws.

"The report of the committee," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is worthy of the most serious consideration by the congress and should be made available for widespread study."

Mr. Roosevelt's message, only four paragraphs in length, contained no definite recommendations for new NRA legislation. That development is not expected for a month or so after congressional action on the president's program to reorganize the federal judiciary.

Earthquake in Ohio Shakes Six States

GOVERNOR TO BORROW MONEY TO END CRISIS

DENVER, Colo., March 2. (UP)—Governor Feller Ammons planned to declare a state of emergency in the Denver Public Welfare Situation today as the result of a killing of three relief workers at the wounding of a fourth by a negro, who was refused relief.

The governor said he would try to borrow $500,000 to meet the crisis. He feared further trouble unless the money was forthcoming.

The killer, Frank Bailey, was moved from the county jail during the night. Authorities feared other prisoners might try to kill him.

LABOR CLAIMS VICTORY FOR STRIKE WAVE

The nation's strike wave, both sitdown and walkout, spread to thousands of additional workers today as labor leaders claimed a "major" victory in the granting of wage increase and reduction of working hours to 128,500 steel employees.

The strike's siege centered in Michigan and Pennsylvania, although New England was hampered by strikes affecting nearly 4,500 workers.

Near Uniontown, Pennsylvania, between 250 and 300 miners went on sitdown strikes 400 feet below surface against what they claimed was an unfair assessment by the company against union members. Their wives lowered food to them.

Nine hosiery mills in Berks county, Pennsylvania, were paralyzed by a spreading strike that already affected 2,700 workers and threatened to put 12,000 out of work.

The sitdown strike of 100 "five and ten" girls in an F. W. Woolworth, Detroit store, assumed grave aspects when the leaders of their union threatened a nationwide Woolworth strike.

Many Rhode Island industries were virtually paralyzed when 2,000 truck drivers struck for a 26 per cent wage increase and permitted delivery of only milk, medical supplies and foodstuffs.

At Woonsocket, Rhode Island, 1,500 independent textile union members issued a strike ultimatum to the mills.

The strike at the Groton, Connecticut of the Electric Boat company building submarines for the navy shifted to Washington where C. I. O. organizers said they would demand a congressional investigation.

Fifty mothers employed on a WPA health project went on sitdown strike in a Detroit office building in protest against the dismissal of 300 women.

Night and day shift workers, all blind, tapped their way in and out of the Oakland plant of the Pennsylvania Association for the blind, carrying on a strike for better pay and working conditions.

Massachusetts' first sitdown strike ended when 1,400 employees of the A. G. Walton & Company shoe factory accepted a compromise ten per cent wage increase.

SEMIOLE, Okla., March 2. (UP)—The first major strike in Oklahoma, vast oil industry was threatened today as union employees of the Midcontinent Petroleum Corporation issued an ultimatum giving the company until 6 p. m. tonight to agree to confer with their representatives on wage and hour adjustments.

Approximately 1,000 of the 1,300 company employees in Oklahoma are affiliated with the Oil Field Workers Union.

Lie Detector Helps Condemn Murderer in Last-Minute Trial

CHICAGO, March 3. (UP)—Rose Rappaport, whose brother, Joseph, had 15 hours to live, flung herself upon Governor Henry Horner, in a railroad station, and begged him to save his life.

"If the state murders my brother," she cried, "I'll murder his family because I'll go too."

Horner had postponed Joseph's death five times. He told the sobbing girl that he did not find it in his conscience to do it again, "but," he added, "I have great faith in the lie detector."

Rose raced out of the station. She got her brother's lawyer, W. W. Smith, and they went to Professor Leonard Keeler of Northwestern University Crime Laboratory, inventor of the apparatus supposed to be able to distinguish a lie.

Joseph had four hours left to live when Keeler carried his lie detector into Joseph's cell.

Smith explained to Joseph that was his last chance to live. If the lie detector showed that he was not lying when he said he had not killed Max Dent, a drug peddler, and government informer, there was a good chance that Governor Horner would believe him innocent.

The machine was based on the theory that when a man lies, his blood pressure jumps up.

"Is your name Rappaport?" Keeler asked.

"Yes."

The indicator moved across the paper evenly.

"Did you kill Dent?"

"No."

The pen jumped up, made a jagged peak an inch higher.

"Were you present when he was killed?"

"No."

These, and a few other questions were asked over and over. Joseph had three hours to live when Keeler reported to Governor Horner by telephone.

"On the basis of my finding," he said, "Rappaport is guilty."

At 12:05 a. m. today, Joseph was electrocuted.

SENATOR LOGAN JOINS FORCES WITH FDR PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 2. (UP)—Senator M. M. Logan, democrat from Kentucky, today joined the forces supporting President Roosevelt's judiciary reorganization plan, with a senate declaration that the proposal is "designed to save the supreme court and the constitution."

Logan made known his stand after Senator Bennett Clark, democrat from Missouri, who attacked the program in a radio address last night, consulted with Mr. Roosevelt at the white house.

ONE COURT OF LAST RESORT OBSCURE; IT'S U. S. SUPREME BAR OF GEOGRAPHY

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, March 2. (UP)—Unobtrusively tucked away in a small suite of rooms on the top floor of the massive two-blocks-long Department of Commerce building sit the "dictators" who decide, without appeal, disputes about what an American town, lake, mountain or river shall be called.

Few persons ever hear about the U. S. Board on Geographic Names; but it has the power to find the facts that underlie every dispute about geographic names and then make a ruling. It is the Supreme Court for all names on government maps. All government agencies are requested to follow its dictates by law.

There are only three active members of the executive committee and George C. Martin, executive secretary. Their decisions are modeled along a general policy drawn up by an advisor committee of interested federal departments and four of America's leading geographic societies.

Martin today explained that the board does not change names by drawing one from a hat. The members decide only when a question between two names is raised or when a previously unnamed section is brought to their attention.

Recently the board had to decide whether a Westchester county, N. Y. town was Eastchester or East Chester. The decision was Eastchester. Martin said this followed the wishes of map makers who like one name better than two because it is easier for the printers.

But even this has its exceptions, as Martin quickly pointed out.

"Take the case of Buzzards Roost S. C.," he said. "What would you think if you saw 'Buzardroost' on a map? It looks like a mistake. So the board in that case ruled in favor of the more familiar name of Buzzards Roost." That obviously was what the original namers meant.

Martin pointed out that one of the most puzzling tangles was on how to spell the name of Cuzco in Southern Peru. Official mail from the town gave the name as either Cuzco or Cuzco, so that there was no basis for choice there. The board finally voted to the postmas-

About Our Friends

By STEPHEN A. LONG

There are some interesting things about copper and brass, very common metals and much in use in old metals and represent the metals to be worked in by the artists.

YOU KNOW THAT?

American nickel contains times as much copper as silver. Nearly three million pounds of copper are used annually in the U. S. Coins, including gold and silver pieces. The familiar penny "copper" is really made of zinc, containing 95% copper and 5% tin and zinc.

What's News Today

The Texas House engrosses a bill to tax oil production 6 cents per barrel, which would increase the state levy by $15,000,000, half of which would go to old age assistance and one-fourth to schools. It is the biggest single tax measure ever engrossed by the legislature. It is expected that it will pass today and be passed on to the senate.

Italy hold a five-hour council to consider her future arming operations in the light of England's big budget of $7,500,000,000 for rearmament program. Meanwhile, a tax against bachelors and childless married men is proposed to increase the birth rate of more children to become future soldiers and to redistribute the great wealth of childless couples. And thus the nation's think and act war. Which shows how vainly was President Wilson's dream of outlawing all war.

Strikes and strikers hold the center of the nation's stage. Hosiery mill workers go on strike while, the steel industry seems about to make peace with workers on a 40-hour week program, and pay to be increased.

Allred delivers a surprise message that sends would-be sit-down strikers in the legislature back to work when he tells them that there are thousands of others beside the old aged that need employment and assistance. There are blind, widows, orphans, children sick, helpless and starving, and many who are not yet 65, who must have employment in order to carry on, and these must be considered in the work of the legislators. Says he will veto any liberalizing measure for pensioners.

A hobo admits killing the South American 2-year-old child kidnaped from the ranch estate after a 5-day grilling by a detective dressed to represent another hobo placed in the jail with him. But one can never be sure about those things, sometimes confessions are secured by means that do not get actual truth. But someone must be the culprit to save the face of officers who might suffer much should they fail to solve the mystery. That country gives much power to the rich and if officers do not solve such things they often lose their jobs and even lives.

English tradesmen clamor and threaten over the dissatisfaction occasioned by ticket distribution for the coronation ceremonies. The common people in that country are very displeased over the treatment accorded their idol, former King Edward. There may be further trouble at the coronation date.

Meanwhile, the queen's jewels which were given to Edward are to be returned to Mrs. Simpson after they had been taken away.

The President wants to make it "15 old men." If this continues, the supreme court will be looking like a Townsend convention.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DULDER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Among the large field of entries in current speculation as to the six men Roosevelt would choose for the supreme court if Congress gave him power to replace or supplement those on the court, five are 60 years old, the following were considered the best bets at this time:

Dr. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson of Jamestown, N. Y.

U. S. Solicitor General Stanley Reed of Mayesville, Ky.

Donald R. Richberg of Chicago, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr. of Houston, Tex., member of the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Except for Jackson, all these men are in their fifties.

The sixth man would be, like Hutcheson, a judge from one of the circuit courts of appeal, probably from the far west. That is practically certain. So are the appointments of Frankfurter, Richberg and Hutcheson—if Roosevelt gets the chance.

Jackson, who is only 45 years old and something of an administration favorite to succeed Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, might or might not accept a seat on the high tribunal. Reed, upon whom has fallen the heaviest burden of arguing New Deal laws before the present supreme court, is a strong probability.

There are some good alternative bets. You may be sure that the appointments would be geographically distributed—probably one being drawn from the south, one from New England, one from New York, one from the border states, one from the middle west and one from the Pacific mountain states area.

If labor should go to bat strong against Richberg he probably would lose out. And in that case you could turn your gaze toward Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, an able lawyer and a loyal administrator man, toward Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, and toward Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

Murphy, who has just been congratulated by the president for his work in settling the General Motors strike, is especially strong as a possibility because Roosevelt undoubtedly will feel compelled to appoint a Roman Catholic member to the court if there is any re-tempting. But Murphy is young and probably would not accept. The only Catholic justice now sitting is Pierce Butler, who is over 70.

FRANKFURTER looms at a certainty because he is so utterly logical a successor to Justice Louis D. Brandeis, whose devoted disciple he is.

Senator Robert F. Wagner is most likely to be the next New Yorker appointed to the court in case Jackson, for one reason or another, doesn't go on. Wagner is practically a freck in national affairs, because he combines a sincere progressive social vision, and outstanding ability as a former judge turned legislator, with a close affiliation to Tammany Hall.

In case your correspondent is wrong in forecasting appointment of a far western circuit court judge, the next best bet will be Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington. He does not seek it.

New Dealers incline to agree that Hutcheson is "the best federal judge in the south." That means that he is a liberal willing to uphold New Deal measures and a jurist of outstanding ability.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

by MARIE BLIZARD © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRET, good-looking, successful young New York advertising executive, decides to see a beautiful Connecticut estate her father left her when he was killed in a hunting accident. She needs the money after five years of providing for the education of her younger sister, JENNIFER, who has just finished college.

Daphne rents unexpectedly to an attractive young architect, one PETE POMPTON, who stays in the picture and offers $150 a month rental to rescue her from the bad of an undesirable prospective tenant. And immediately Daphne finds herself liking Mr. Pompton more than she cares to admit. She is led to believe, however, he is married.

Meanwhile, Jennifer returns from school and vacation, but she's not the unsophisticated little girl Daphne pictured her. Bound up into Daphne's apartment she announced at once her extra plans for the night, requested a cocktail, and won a date with TUCK AINSLEY, Daphne's old friend, all in the space of a few minutes. Shocked, Daphne suggested tea.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

BEFORE she returned to the living room, Daphne slipped into her bedroom. She had once told Anne that she couldn't live in a one-room apartment because she had to have a bedroom for running away purposes. She had intended to tidy herself up but her real reason now was to give herself a few minutes of adjustment before she returned to this new and unexpected sister.

When she was cool and fresh again she went back to the living room through the kitchen and called to Tuck, "Give me a hand with the tray."

Tuck placed the big tray with its silver caddy on the coffee table beside Jennifer.

"Tea?"

Jennifer looked up, sniffed. When she did that, her nose wrinkled hungrily as it had when she was a little thing. "How quaint! No cocktails, really?"

She looked. Daphne thought, exactly 10 when she opened her eyes wide that way, except that a 10-year-old would never have such cleverly mascaraed lashes.

"On occasions," she answered, "but this isn't one of them. I think you'll find the tea refreshing, the sandwiches and cake the best. Maggie has to offer, which is excellent."

"Under the circumstances, we'll make the most of it," Jennifer said cheerfully. "Hoe in, Son." She passed a plate of sandwiches to Tuck and did very well by them herself. Daphne noted in grateful silence.

Daphne, studying Jennifer, poured tea and tried to assort her emotions.

SHE didn't know whether she was pleased with Jennifer's poise or annoyed with her lack of consideration. She didn't know whether she was glad that Jennifer was growing up or sorry that she was no longer a child, but she did know that she recognized beauty—greater than she had expected—ripening in Jennifer.

Jennifer had chic. Daphne, who had pictured her in a school uniform, was not prepared for Jennifer's chic. Instinctively she eyed Jennifer, recognizing the lines that accentuated her delicate curves, her slim waist, her long line from hip to toe; recognizing, moreover, Jen-

Jennifer was a dream in blue satin. "I'm going to get a job in Wall Street where I'll meet lots of millionaires. I'm going to marry one," she said to Daphne.

Illustration by E. H. Gunder

"Get a promotion, Daphne? Lots more money?" Jennifer asked.

"Yes, I'll tell you about it later. What's this party tonight? Will I approve?"

JENNIFER hugged her silken knees and her lovely face melted into wheedling lines. Daphne knew all too well. "Daphne," Jennifer had called that— "it's a very nice party that Pete Pompton's sister is giving for him at her apartment at the Consular. She's having a gang in for supper around 11 and asked me to bring someone. I can't go alone so your Tuck is taking me. Okay?"

"I want Tuck to bring you home early."

"Can't you trust him?" Jennifer asked, giving him a sidelong glance.

When Daphne didn't answer because she thought Jennifer's remark in poor taste, Jennifer said penitently, "Good Heavens! Am I treading on anybody's toes? Is he your best?"

Daphne would liked to have slapped her. Instead, she laughed. "Unfortunately I haven't attained that status yet," Tuck said quickly. "Your sister has a legion of beaux eager to be 'best.'"

"A legion of beaux? What fun. Then I can have him?" Jennifer looked at Daphne and indicated Tuck.

J. T. Anderson No. 1 Crist, block 36, Lamar county school lands, eight miles north of Rising Star, was spudded and shut down temporarily.

A machine had been placed on location for Hoffmann & Page No. 1, J. S. Dodd, William Van Norman subdivision 11 of the Brownson subdivision, five miles south of Ranger.

It is in the southeast corner, block 48, McLennan county school lands, league 3 and 4. Diagnostically a discovery well for over 100 barrels of oil and some gas was obtained by Ray T. Hoff States Oil Corporation No. 1 H.

Questions That
Some Folks Ask
About Cardui

BENEFIT FOR MAL-NUTRITION

Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them to overcome mal-nutrition and to ease many of the functional pains of menstruation.

What is meant by helping to overcome mal-nutrition?

Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "bitters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices—to improve digestion—so there is a craving for sufficient food for the body's needs, and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. The food, of course, brings the additional strength but Cardui serves as the means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.

U. S. Senator Reynolds says: "Luckies are considerate of my throat"

"Two Southern traditions are oratory —and good tobacco. Lucky Strike shows me how to indulge in both. For this light smoke not only pleases my taste but leaves my throat in condition.
Last fall in North Carolina—when I made over 100 speeches—I visited the Lucky Strike factory. I believe I discovered, in the Lucky Strike 'Toasting' process, the secret of what makes this cigarette so considerate of my throat.
I have been more than ever an advocate of a light smoke since seeing the extra care and expense devoted to making Luckies easy on the throat."

Robt. R. Reynolds
HON. ROBT. R. REYNOLDS
U.S. SENATOR FROM NORTH CAROLINA

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Reynolds' statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.
