PREDICT STEEL INDUSTRY TO UNIONIZE

About Our Friends

By ETEP A. LONG

Well, here comes J. A. Eltheridge, chairman for the Kahn line of shoes, sold locally by John H. Eltheridge's... This young chap has been coming to Cisco so long that he has learned to look for his smiling, cheerful face... Time has when he would sell some 40 pairs during the two days he stays... Many will be measured for shoes and many others will just go to renew acquaintance with him... Good afternoon sir, how are you?

Everything topsy-turvy at Allerton's... moving in the new fixtures and placing them about... Mr. Ferguson, good-natured and easy-going, is wondering where his put all the new shoes he has ordered...
I noticed Ike Parma carrying that book around again Monday... And here is Con Collins down town and early... and there goes Ed Huestis... Ray Haley with his little book... Why not call a day for the first day of the month and save everybody a lot of unpleasantness...

Tickets pile into police as special officers continue to hand cards to those who fail to observe stop signs... It is understood that the stop sign on Main at 14th will be changed to a slow sign... The stop sign on Third and Main continues to accumulate tickets as the whistle blows a continuous blast each afternoon...
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yates, and Nurse Miss Donald who is caring for Garland Nance, Jr., downtown... Tommy LaMore, very diplomatic... has kissed the Blarney stone... very flattering when he talks to be told something... and they tell at the police station that the sit-down strike is nothing more than a... Henry Stubbs... when it comes years ago and nothing has been settled yet... Which reminds us as we watch Chief Perdue through the fingerprint records of the police of the country are organized and the man who says he can go criminal and get away with it is very foolish indeed... When a man is fingerprinted here in the country his past record, if any, is sent to every station in the country where it is filed for future reference... the man who claims his first offense is up against a complete record of facts in the statement is untrue... No, the radio, the telegraph, fingerprinting and organized officer's records are too numerous to admit of deception... You are sure to get caught, don't do it...

House Votes Six Cents Oil Tax 86 to 53

LAST MINUTE EFFORTS FAIL IN REDUCTION

AUSTIN, March 3 (U.P.)—The six-cent oil tax bill rode easily through the house of representatives today on its way to the senate. Final house vote was 86 yeas to 53 nays.
A last minute effort failed to reduce the tax. Representative Charles Tennyson of Wichita Falls offered an amendment to make the tax three and one-fourth cents a barrel.
Representative Eugene Worley of Shamrock likewise tried to present an amendment allocating part of the tax fund to crippled and dependent children and to the blind, but the house refused to consider the proposal.
The senate adjourned until Thursday after a two-hour battle without decision over disposition of funds received from oil leases on state lands.

NATURE PULLS ONE FURTHER

PORT ARTHUR (U.P.)—Nature pulled a Luther Burbank stunt here recently. A camellia Japonica bush grew a red and a white blossom on the same stem.

He Chose to Sit This One Out . . .

Walter L. Fry, head of the Fry Products, Inc., plant in Detroit, initiated something new into the strike vogue which has swept the country when he initiated his 100 girl employees and went on a sit-down strike of his own, as shown at left, had his meals sent into his office, slept there. "The girls," he said,

. . . As His Girls Struck Up a Tune

Fry wants recognition of employers' rights. He gets the orders. Fry says, and the girls will have to come and ask him to go back to work before they can return to their jobs. referring to the workers, some of whom are shown at right as they danced to while away the time, "will have to get up before I do." The girls want higher pay.

FUNERAL HELD FOR PIONEER CISCO RESIDENT

Funeral services will be held for George Milton Reynolds, Eastland county pioneer since 1867, this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church of God, Rev. C. S. Moad officiating. Reynolds was born in Hickman county, Tennessee, on May 28, 1846. Departed this life March 2, 1937. Age 90 years, 9 months and 2 days. He was married to Miss Jamie Guest September 28, 1869. Came to Eastland county in 1876. He has lived in this county since that time.
Of the marriage to Miss Guest there were born eight children, three boys and five girls, five of whom are living, Mrs. Abbie White of Cisco; Mrs. Alice Mason of Paris, Ark.; Mrs. Bettie Corbit of Sebastopol, Calif.; Mr. A. M. Reynolds of Burk Burnett, and G. F. Reynolds of Big Spring. He has 24 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren.
Mr. Reynolds has been very feeble for the last several years, having spent the last four years with his daughter, Mrs. White, and granddaughter, Mrs. J. M. Daniels of near Cisco. He suffered a heart attack two weeks ago from which he did not recover.
Mr. Reynolds enlisted in the Union army at the age of 18, and served about one year in the Civil War. He was converted as a young man, and united with the Methodist church, living in that faith until the end. He entered the ministry at about the age of 24 and was active in the ministry for many years as a circuit rider. Many times he walked to his appointments and sometimes walked as far as 20 miles. He was faithful to his calling and to his Heavenly Father.
Among his last words were the words of Jesus where he said, "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now." (John 16:12) and he added, "that's the way it is with me now." He also said, "the time can't be long, and it may be near, but I am not alone." He evidently remembered the words of David who said, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for thou art with me, they rod and thy staff, they comfort me, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."

APPEAL COURT SAYS TRAVEL LAWS ARE VOID

AUSTIN, March 3 (U.P.)—The Texas Travel Bureau Law passed by the 44th legislature was declared unconstitutional by the State Court of Criminal Appeals today. The court ordered the release of Raymond T. Talkington, Fort Worth Travel Bureau operator.

ELIMINATION OF EASTLAND DISTRICT COURT TO BE OPPOSED AT HEARINGS

Members of the Eastland County Bar Association Tuesday morning voted to send two representatives next week to Austin to attend committee hearings on bills which would eliminate both 91st and 88th district courts at Eastland.
Earl Conner, Sr., Eastland, bar president who presided, said a house bill proposes the abolition of both courts and said one in the senate proposes the elimination to the 88th court.
The bar members also voted to prepare a resolution opposing the proposals and present similar papers to chamber of commerce of the county for adoption.
A view that members of the court committee bills are conservative in their views and will see the services of the courts was expressed in talks at the meeting.
It was pointed out that the judges of the Eastland county courts, B. W. Patterson and Geo. L. Davenport, preside in other courts of the state when their dockets do not necessitate their presence at Eastland.
Conner said hearing on the house bill is set March 8, and the hearing on the senate bill March 11.

STRIKES TO BE AVOIDED, UNION LEADERS SAY

A prediction of union leaders that the entire steel industry and its 525,000 workers would be unionized without resorting to strikes or violence today spurred peaceful arbitration efforts across the nation's strike front.

What's News Today

Japan finds it hard to retain new armament building sentiment in her country and must continually use the scare of the United States threat to spur on the lagging propaganda. Japan has piled heavy tax burdens on her people until the reaction seems to have come. Now she tells her people that the United States is building more aircraft and ships and unless Japan keeps pace we may attack her at any time. Of course we know how ridiculous this statement is but the people of Japan do not and they have been trained to hate Americans ever since we refused them recognition as whites in California schools.

The country has gone a long way toward recovery since March 3, 1933. On this date four years ago the bank holiday was declared and all banks in the United States were closed while experts appointed by the president, worked out our financial system to prevent the whole country from complete crash. Today our country is without bank failures and complete confidence has been established. Yes, we have gone a long way toward financial security.

Steel grants strikers rights of arguing agent and great rejoicing is evident as thousands join in celebration of the victory for labor. This is a signal event in past 45 years of steel history in its dealings with labor. This will spur labor organizations on to renewed efforts. New strikes are expected to follow in other lines.

The senate committee considers but does not act on the proposed creation of utility board to regulate public utilities but which does not assume power over municipally owned and operated utilities. Utilities would be taxed to pay for the regulation board.

Counties are told that WPA projects are lost to them if they are without funds to help with their part of the expense for projects. Officials contend that if they were to pay all expenses of materials and labor that $10,000,000 would be required each month.

It used to be "Here comes a collector; pull down the shades." In this trailer era, it's "step on the gas."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — In March, 1935, Assistant Attorney General Harold M. Stephens was arguing the constitutionality of the railroad retirement act, which provided pensions for railroad employees after age 62.
"It is a commonplace," he said, "that physical ability, mental alertness and co-operativeness tend to fail after a man is 65."
Not one of the more aged justices batted an eye. But Stephens lost the case. Later he himself, at the age of 50, was appointed a judge on the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Anyone who knows Vice President John N. Garner knows that his aversion to cigarettes and smokes cigars—is only exceeded by his contempt for officials who take what he calls "graft," in the form of payment for articles, endorsements or other uses of name and title for commercial purposes.
But an advertising executive called on Garner the other day in complete ignorance of those sentiments.
He said he knew the vice president didn't smoke cigars himself, but if Mr. Garner wouldn't mind endorsing the fragrance of a particular brand, he would be glad to give him a check.
"In the first place," snorted Garner as his face grew red, "I never have and never will use my position to endorse any product."
"And furthermore, dammit," said the vice president as he scowled at his visitor's smoke, "I think cigarettes stink like hell."

When Labor Leader John L. Lewis went to Michigan to supervise the General Motors strike and enter subsequent negotiations, he was followed by newspaper correspondents by saying: "Let there be no moaning at the bar, when I put out to sea."
A couple of his subordinates who spotted the origin of the poetical paraphrase, shivered lest some of their chief's enemies should pounce upon this and ridicule him.
The line came from Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," which has to do with death. At the time no one here was sure whether Lewis was setting off toward a tragic disaster to his career or to victory. That verse goes:
"Sunset and Evening Star
"And one clear call for me
"And may there be no moaning
"at the bar
"When I put out to sea."

Speaker William B. Bankhead, who has served in Congress 29 years, was telling stories at a party he gave for his beautiful actress-daughter, Tallulah, here recently. He started to describe how the boys down home at Jasper, Ala., had fixed it up to give him a big welcome reception to celebrate his elevation to the speakership.
"You mean them hill-billies, Daddys?" piped Tallulah.
"Sure," said the speaker, "I'm a hill-billy."
"Well, there were flags and banners out and there was an old fellow down from the hills and he wanted to know what was going on. They told him: 'Billy Bankhead's coming back to town.'"
"Is that so?" he said, "Where's Billy been?"
"Gone to the moon."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAPHNE BRETT, good-looking, successful young New York advertising executive, decides to rent a beautiful Connecticut estate her father left her when he was killed in a hunting accident. She needs the money after five years of providing for the education of her younger sister, JENNIFER, who has just finished college.
Daphne rents to an attractive young architect, one LARRY SMITH. And immediately Daphne finds herself liking Mr. Smith more than she cares to admit. She is led to believe that he is married.
Meanwhile, Jennifer returns from school and vacation, but she's not the unsophisticated little sister Daphne pictured her. Bounding into Daphne's apartment she announced at once her party plans for the evening, requested a cocktail, and got a date with TUCK SMITHLY, Daphne's beau.
Daphne, shocked, tried to reconcile herself to the "new" sister, Jennifer, six years younger, looks on Daphne as old-fashioned. And Daphne, resenting this, decides to do something about it.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VI
"I DON'T want tea," Daphne Brett said to Anne Cockerell in the room round at the Ritz, the last week in October. "If you've ordered it, you can call the waiter back and tell him to brew something more stimulating for me. I need it!"
"You do?" Anne asked, her eyes taking in the smart details of the bright scarf and hat Daphne wore with her usual tweeds. "You don't look in need of any stimulation."
Daphne permitted herself a speculative, embracing study of the occupants of the room before she answered. Then she said cryptically:
"I do, very much. I need a mink coat, eight diamond bracelets, a snaf of orchids and a telephone call from Clark Gable inviting me to dinner. Then, maybe I'd feel better."
Anne folded her arms patiently and composed herself to wait for Daphne to "come out of it."
Daphne swallowed hard. "I don't know. I never felt this way before. Did the feeling ever come over you suddenly that you were nothing more than a dull lump of clay? That your girlhood was gone forever and it never had been much good anyway? That you felt as though you were sitting out in the middle of a very large island all by yourself?"
"Certainly," Anne said, most heartily. "It's usually when my latest permanent is letting out its last feeble gasp, or I've had a cold, or I haven't had a nice compliment from a man in a long time. Have you tried analyzing the thing?"
"No, I'm not much given to self-analysis."
"Maybe that's what you need. It seems to me there are lots of things you need. Want to hear them?"
Daphne tilted her glass upward and nodded.
"Well, one thing you need is a new and exciting beau. The old ones that you have are not enough."
"Had is the word. My beaus are all coming around to see Jennifer now."
"Really?" Anne asked, a bit surprised. "How about Tuck? Strange as it seems to all of us, it appears that Tuck really has a heart and he seems to have given it to you."
"I don't take Tuck seriously,

"Did the feeling ever come over you suddenly," Daphne went on, "that you were nothing more than a dull lump of clay? That your girlhood was gone forever?"

Anne. Maybe that's why he likes me. I can't see any other reason. I'm not the type you'd expect Tuck would care for, am I?"
"Why not?" Anne asked, reasonably.
Daphne twirled her glass by its slender stem. "Oh, I mean that I'm sort of mouse-like and you'd expect Tuck to demand the gorgeous type. Jennifer is the gorgeous type."
"Phooey," Anne said, elegantly. "You'd be if you wore a different type of clothes. You happen to wear simple things that don't draw attention to your good looks. Oh, you've got them or you wouldn't have dozens of beaus hanging around all the time. Maybe, on second thought, it might be a good idea for you to splurge on a new outfit. Something you really can't afford. It's been known to help."
"It would be nothing new to me to buy clothes I can't afford, Anne Cockerell. With all the clothes Jennifer has, she felt that she had to get some new things when she went to work in 'Wall Street.' She hurried on, "Of course, she's going to pay for them later. She's getting $25 a week and when she gets clear, it's going to help."
"Did you happen to tell Jennifer that you wanted to get a new evening dress for the party in New Haven after the game?"
"Yes, but she said she adored my black lace and she thought

Bar Injured by Self-Taught Legends

McCOOK, Neb. (UP) — Abraham Lincoln's career, based as it was on the principle of self-aid, has done more to injure the American bar than any other single factor. Edward F. Carter, Nebraska supreme court justice, told a district bar association meeting here.
When ever high qualifications for legal practice are discussed among lawyers, Carter said, the point invariably is made that Lincoln was self-taught.
"It is true that Lincoln could pass the bar examinations of today, although the qualifications are higher," he asserted. "Many attorneys who have been practicing for 25 or 30 years cannot do that."
Carter pointed out that the self-taught "legend" was misleading to young men launching careers.

Will Improve Wheat and Barley Types

ST. PAUL (UP) — A plan to eliminate undesirable wheat and barley varieties and place Minnesota's bread wheat and malting barley in a leading position on the nation's grain market will be initiated this spring in eight Minnesota counties.
In working for better grains, Ceres, a wheat that has become popular in recent years, and Thatcher, recently introduced rust-resistant variety, will be used, according to W. W. Brooks, extension agronomist at University of Minnesota farm.

The Philadelphia Ballet, composed of native-born Philadelphians with two exceptions, will open at the Theatre des Champs Elysees June 1. The company then will perform in Brussels, The Hague and London.
Appearance of the company in Europe will mark the first time an American ballet has performed on the continent.

IT'S WINDY IN HAWAII

START STOP RACE CLIMB AND DON'T WORRY. WITH YOUR ENGINE OIL-PLATED. OIL-PLATING differs widely from other forms of lubrication in this plain, understandable way: It remains lastingly fastened to the pistons, bearings and other engine parts, even when they are not in motion. This is made possible by the Germ Process—patented—which gives Conoco Germ Processed oil its strong attraction for metals, so that every working part becomes durably Oil-Plated. Oil-Plating is not like any lubrication that merely goes on-and-off. Once Germ Processed oil covers the parts it never leaves them bare of Oil-Plating. . . . Never when the pistons are racing thousands of strokes a minute. . . . Never on any hills, despite any load. . . . Never while you park at a dozen different stores. So it's nothing to you, when engineers blame more than half of all engine wear on so-called "dry starting." Nor need you worry over all the rest of the annual Spring oil scare. Whether your car is new or old, you can make your longer runs . . . hit your higher speeds . . . enjoy your hotter sunshine. Oil-Plating can take it like the longest-lasting part of your engine. For Oil-Plating really becomes a long-lasting part of your engine, as you change to long-lasting Conoco Germ Processed oil. Continental Oil Company.
