BABIES SOLD FOR $35 ONE RECORD SHOWS

AUSTIN, March 23 (UP)--Children are being sold in Texas for adoption without an adequate law to prohibit individuals from doing so. Senator Ben G. O'Neal, Wichita Falls, today charged in offering a corrective bill. The sales are being made in instances to persons unfit to raise the children, he said.
O'Neal's bill would prohibit "barter, sale or exchange of any child under the age of 15 years."
Senator O'Neal said it had been discovered that there is no penalty for individual sales of children.
"Babies have actually been advertised for sale," he said. "The district attorney at San Antonio has the affidavit of one couple that paid $35 for a baby in another case. A baby's parents were told that their baby had died and later the baby was sold for adoption."

Pretty Ann Weiner, 20, viewed the body in the county morgue early today, and said he was the "masked man" who kidnaped her from her escort two days ago, warned her he was a "killer" then criminally attacked her.

OKEH SURVEY FOR DISTRICT LEON PROJECT

EASTLAND, March 22 (UP)--A detailed survey of the Leon River Flood Control District will be started in mid-April by state reclamation engineers, Board Chairman Frank Sparks announced, Monday.
Application for the survey was made by the flood control directors and Eastland city officials joined by B. State Senator W. B. Collier and representatives T. S. Ross and George Davison, Jr.
The flood control district was created by the legislature for water conservation and irrigation purposes in 1935. It is composed of a subdivision of the Brazos River Conservation & Reclamation district, as a federal project is the goal of directors. Approval of the state reclamation engineers, headed by Ralph McMahon, is tantamount to for consideration of approval by the federal government.
Already one survey, lacking information necessary for federal and state authorities, was made by the district with funds appropriated by the legislature.
In 1936 the Leon district was included in Congress' omnibus flood control bill, signed by the president, for preliminary survey by the federal government. However, no appropriation for the work was made, officials said.
Plans for the flood control district include construction of a dam in the Mangum vicinity, seven miles southwest of Eastland.
Three engineers are expected to perform the detailed state reclamation survey.

NEW LONDON, March 23 (UP)--An innocent effort by the New London School board to save about $300 a month by using waste gas for fuel was blamed today for the explosion that killed 426 children and teachers.
A military court of inquiry established that gas accumulated in the basement and was discharged last Thursday afternoon in some manner unknown, possibly when the manual training instructor threw an electrical switch to start his machinery.
School house janitors tapped a line of wet gas belonging to the Parade (Gasoline) company, on orders of School Superintendent W. C. Shaw, who had only a verbal agreement with the oil company and had been warned that the gas might be dangerous.
The whole school board was advised of Shaw's action and approved it, investigators were told. Dr. A. P. Schoepf, chemist and explosive expert from the University of Texas, exonerated them all. Dr. Schoepf will write the official report of the inquiry.
Today this busy oil field community returned to its labors, drilling through the red clay crusts of earth for more oil and gas. The inquiry was adjourned, martial law revoked, militiamen disbanded, and the dead, which numbered one-third of the children of the community, were buried in the same earth at which their fathers toiled.

REVIVAL BEGUN AT METHODIST CHURCH MON.

The first sermon of the Evangelistic Revival being held this week at the First Methodist Church, with the local pastor, Rev. Joe I. Patterson, in charge, was preached last evening to a well-filled church of many listeners. Following is the sermon subject and highlights:
Jesus Cleanses the Temple
"Passion Week" was full of important events in the life of Jesus. The first three days he devoted to his public ministry, the last three to private ministry. On Monday, the outstanding event was the cleansing of the Temple. For this the High Priests and Sadducees determined to destroy Him, and from this day they began feverishly to work out their plot.
"Jesus' cleansing of the Temple was not spontaneous but deliberate. He did it after a night of thinking and praying. Coming from communion with God, He enters the Temple on Monday morning, cleanses it of its materialism, its selfishness and its greed. Standing alone before the animal sellers and money changers He challenges their crass materialism and irreverence. They crouch before His towering spiritual power and purity and from His condemnation they flee to the Temple. When Jesus says to them 'My Father's house should be a house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of robbers,' they knew he was speaking the truth. The wickedness of the world must always bow before the goodness and the righteousness of the Lord.
"We are told that you cannot make people righteous by legislation. It is to be sure Jesus knew that he could not make individuals right at heart by driving the profiteers out of the Temple. But he knew that by doing this he could make it easier for people to worship the Lord. It is essential today to legislate favorably the righteousness in order to make it easier for people to please God with their life.
"Authorities state that less than one-fourth of the membership of the church is genuine Christian. With more than three-fourths of

ALLRED WANTS COURT REPORT MADE SPECIFIC

AUSTIN, March 23 (UP)--Governor James V. Allred today directed the Military Court that investigated the New London disaster to make specific findings of fact and recommendations. Without such an order the court of inquiry would have been limited by army regulations to filing transcript of its testimony.
The findings and recommendations will be transmitted to the legislature, Governor Allred said, for appropriate laws to prevent possible return.

Bond Unapproved In Shooting Case

Bonds for Wanda Hall, charged with assault to murder in the shooting of Lawrence Gaugler, recovered in a Ranger hospital, had not been approved Monday by the sheriff's department.
A habeas corpus hearing for revocation of the bond of the defendant was granted last week by 28th district court, but her attorney abandoned the move when it developed bond for his client had not been tendered by him to the sheriff.
Bond of $1,000 has been set.

Paul Gregory New London Student Visits Relatives in Cisco to Find Rest

Paul Gregory, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Gregory, former Ciscoans, a senior in the New London school which has suffered the world's greatest child disaster, is visiting in Cisco, having arrived Monday afternoon to visit his grand parents, Mrs. J. W. Gregory and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Vanderford and other relatives.
This young man has had an experience such as comes to few in life and still fewer his age. He saw the mass burial Saturday of 100 of his school mates and worked among the crews which searched for and identified those who were not so fortunate as he in emerging from this explosion.
He is broken in mind and spirit and needs rest. Finds it hard to sleep since those harrowing scenes recur to his mind-eye when he ter realizing what had happened, Gregory said he started searching for his young sister, Modell Gregory, 12.

Felt Desk Quiver
"I was in the reading room at the time, I had just been to the library to get a book. There were about 25 in this room. I was reading and I felt my desk quiver about twice. I thought it must be an earthquake, but at that moment there was a terrific explosion.
"The air was filled with dust. I could hardly breathe. I ran back to the windows and started kicking them out so we could get some air. Some of the others were jumping out the window," he said. The room was on the second floor.
"Then, I rushed to the hall and saw that I could get down the stairs. I climbed over part of it and got What's News Today!

The board of experts sitting on the cause of the New London explosion bring their hearing to a dramatic close when an engineer bursts into their midst with the announcement that accumulation of gas is found beneath another near by school building.

A malodorant gas that could be easily detected if leaking into a building is urged, and laws by the legislature governing safety measures for public buildings and homes, should be made at once to care for future exigencies.

The house hikes the tax on sulphur in its explorations for funds with which to carry on government expenses. Sulphur, oil and franchises are items that the legislative bodies have picked as legal prey for levying. Money must be raised and they say the rich corporations should shoulder the burden.

The supreme court investigation is being thoroughly explored now and speakers of fame and men of honor in the nation are being questioned concerning the increasing of court justices and the effect they think it would have on the future of the nation, each side to the controversy selecting its men to bring weight to their arguments.

European nations are working heroically to bring order and safety out of chaos and revolutionary tendencies, well knowing that a general war in Europe would inevitably bring about revolutions that would overthrow present governments and change the whole governing regime of the nations.

People in those countries are burdened with shoulder-breaking taxes that are all but crushing. If once their activities are started, nothing but entire freedom will suffice them.

Men are awakening from their lethargy and are casting longing eyes across the ocean to America where tales of liberty and quick wealth for all have been told over and over. They hesitate to make the start but once started they will demand the full price for their long forbearance.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
ASA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Arguments for presidential nomination in 1940 are chiefly relieved by Roosevelt's assurance that he looks forward to retiring to private life on Jan. 20, 1941.

They won't be entirely happy until the president gives them a signed affidavit, couched in scientific language, officially sealed and riveted on the White House front door.

Roosevelt said at the Democratic "Victory Dinner" here: "My great ambition on Jan. 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be."

But there are those who predict that when the time comes, the president may feel himself unable to realize that "great ambition." They fear—perhaps in some cases, pretend to fear—that he will feel the country needs him desperately. And so they're whispering that his statement is comparable to the rather enigmatic remark of Calvin Coolidge: "I do not choose to run."

There seems to be no sound basis for supposing at this time that F. D. R. has any thought of seeking a third term. Suspicion appears to rest chiefly on the tradition that no president has ever been happy at leaving the White House, even after two terms.

Presidential intimates scoff at the thought. Some already are busy speculating as to Roosevelt's 1940 successor, if not actually laying unobtrusive groundwork for certain candidates. They say there isn't any more reason for supposing Roosevelt harbors third-term ambitions than there is for paying serious attention to suggestions Mrs. Roosevelt might succeed him. Mrs. Roosevelt herself branded that last idea as "ridiculous." The mere fact any such phantasy reached such a point that it was raised at one of her press conferences, simply demonstrated that people do get some funny political ideas into their heads.

SPEAKING of what must seem to most folks like squirrel-cage economics:

Men are digging frantically down into the ground for gold. Last year the total gold production was 3,329,273 ounces, an increase of 17 per cent over 1935.

The Treasury paid $35 an ounce for the gold. But then, all it did was to bury the yellow metal in the ground again—some 30 or 40 feet down in its vaults at Fort Knox, Ky.

JOE DAVIES was about the only conspicuous Democratic lobbyist who didn't serve on the committee sponsoring the $100-a-plate Victory Dinner. Joe Tumulty, Woodrow Wilson's wartime secretary, who has made considerable wealth lawyering and lobbying here, was chairman and toastmaster. He sat right next to Roosevelt. Power companies, lobbying against Roosevelt's pet holding company bill, hired Tumulty and paid him $33,000 in a single year. Others among the 30 hosts on the Victory committee included Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, J. Bruce Krenner of Montana, and O. Max Gardner of North Carolina. All three worked for utility companies opposing the holding company measure. All were members of the Democratic national committee before Roosevelt decided such posts were incompatible with their activities. Other lobbyists on the dinner committee included Donald Richberg, former Assistant Attorney General William Stanley, Swager Sherley and Bruce Claggett, son-in-law of Senator McClellan.

SENATORS CHOOSE CIGARS FIRST, CIGARETTES SECOND, PIPES LAST

By RUSSELL TURNER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23 (AP)—Cigars enjoy a sizeable lead over other forms of tobacco in popularity among members of the United States senate, a survey of the 96 senators indicate.

Cigarette, however, were rated nearly on a par with cigars and are acceptable to nearly all members, especially when they wish to smoke and time does not permit a cigar. Pipe smoking trailed along with few advocates, while only one open champion was found for the chewing tobacco.

Snuff, usually classified in the same general category with tobacco, apparently had topped from the heights of popularity it once enjoyed to a point where its use was rated at the zero mark.

The hand-finished silver snuffboxes which repose on each of the 96 members' desks are always filled, but their contents are used only when a venturesome and intrepid senator suffering from a cold braves himself to try the snuff cure.

senate clerk, Lester L. Biffle, who handles such matters as snuff-box filling, told the United Press.

Not since the late Sen. Lee S. Overman, D. S. C., died in 1932 has any member partaken of the contents of the beautiful boxes as a regular habit, Biffle said.

The chamber's lone tobacco-chewer in Sen. William J. Bulow, D. S. D., who has never smoked.

One of the most familiar figures around the senate wing of the Capitol is that of Sen. Hugo L. Black, D. Ala., who almost invariably, when off the floor, has a large, black, unlighted cigar clamped between his teeth. When the end has become mere shreds and can hardly be held in his mouth, he discards it for a fresh one. Rarely, if ever, is the cigar lighted.

Much amusement was enjoyed by congressional observers recently when smiling countenances of various senators began appearing in advertisements of a popular cigarette. In each instance, the endorsers were known to be inveterate cigarette smokers.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS
By MARIE BLIZARD © 1937, NPA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRITT loved LARRY SMITH, architect. But Daphne had refused to marry Larry until she had accumulated some money to launch JENNIFER, her younger sister, on a career.

Jennifer had proved the selfish sister from the start, defying Daphne at every turn. Finally Jennifer meets GORDON HERZBERG, theater producer, and apparently finds her work.

Then Daphne is sent on a two-month tour. Before she leaves she again refuses Larry's offer of marriage, but without telling him why. So Larry says good-bye, assuming that Daphne has chosen a career in preference to his love. The final blow comes when Daphne, returning from her trip, finds Jennifer dining Larry!

No Daphne decides to arrange the same herself. She organizes a gorgeous dinner party for several friends, including Herzberg and Larry. Larry is very happy to see Daphne again, but she holds him aloof, playing up to Herzberg. The following Sunday Daphne is given a lead in Herzberg's new play—the lead she had sought. Jennifer, learning this, tells Daphne, "I hate you!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIV

DAPHNE was very calm about it. "I'm sorry that you do," she said, "but I'm a little surprised. And while I dislike quotations, you might remember that one about sauce for the goose."

Jennifer stared back at her wordlessly.

"For the first time you're learning what it is to see another person take what she wants. And isn't it fair?"

"Fair?"

"Yes, that's the word," Daphne said calmly. "Don't I get anything?"

"You've got everything."

"Thanks for the compliment. I was going to point out to you that it's about time I had a bit of glamour in my life. It's not too late I'm beginning to discover. I lived in a furnished room and earned my keep so that you could stay in an expensive school. When you got out, I did everything I could to show up too well so I'm the worm that's ruined."

"I don't know what you mean."

"I'm going to tell you what I mean. You knew that I loved Larry. You knew that he loved me. You knew that we had quarreled but you should have known that a lover's quarrel can be mended. Yet, deliberately, when I was away, you took him away from me."

Jennifer started to speak but Daphne went on:

"All right, it's fair exchange; you'll have Larry and I'll have the theater. And if this is the lesson I mean it to be, you'll be a better wife to Larry. You'll try and see his point of view when ethics arise. Perhaps you'll remember that you lost one thing because you didn't know how to play squarely. Maybe it'll make you the kind of a girl I tried to make of you. That's all."

Daphne whirled out of the room.

JENNIFER followed her. "Daphne . . . are you doing this just to teach me a lesson. Because if you are . . ."

Daphne was very cool, keeping a firm hold on herself. She answered, "Not at all."

After that, for the remainder of the week, the two girls avoided each other. If Jennifer pretended to be asleep when Daphne rose in the morning, it was no different from Daphne's pretense of the same thing at night.

Jennifer spoke to her only when it was necessary and then in monosyllables. But Jennifer took to giving her strange glances and more than once she came into the room they shared and stood silently staring for a moment as though there was something she wanted to say.

Daphne had to keep her mind from thoughts of Jennifer. A new quiet, a strained haunting in Jennifer's eyes smote her and more than once she was tempted to ask Jennifer to talk to her.

Then, thinking of Jennifer and Larry, she was firm again and put her pity out of her heart.

Five days before the play was to open, she found Jennifer in tears.

Jennifer hadn't cried even when she was a baby.

"WHAT is it, Jennifer?" she asked gently.

Jennifer wiped her tears away on her sleeve, an incredibly childish gesture.

"Nothing," she said proudly and walked into the bath.

Daphne got up and followed her. "I suppose you think this is easy for me?"

"I'm sure I don't know, but if it makes you any more satisfied, you'll be glad to know that you're breaking my heart."

"Have you really got one?" Daphne said.

"Yes, it seems that I have. It was all in the theater until . . ." She put her hands over her face and her shoulders shook.

"All of it couldn't have been there's Larry," Daphne reminded her.

"There isn't Larry . . . and there . . . there never was. He wasn't in love with me. He's eating his heart out over you."

Daphne listened with her heart standing still.

"Jennifer, tell me this minute what you mean. Stop acting like a child." The blood pounded in Daphne's ears.

Jennifer dried her eyes and sat on the side of the tub. Her tone was sulky and her eyes were fixed on the floor as she began to talk:

"You ought to have known Larry was in love with you all the time. I did." She gulped and went on again. "After you went away and I called Tuck and he said he wouldn't come over because you told him he couldn't, that was the last straw. You and your high-handed methods! I was jealous."

"Jealous of me?" Daphne demanded incredulously.

"Certainly. You were always the prettiest one. You were the successful one. You were the big-wage earner. All the men were crazy about you. All the men I met here who were attractive always talked about you. And I was crazy about Tuck. I liked him better than anyone else until I got in the theater. Oh, Daphne, I wanted to be an actress! I'd have worked myself to death for the rest of my life!" The tears started to flow again.

DAPHNE handed her a handkerchief. "You'll be back. I want to hear about Larry."

"Well, I lied to him. I told him I wanted to have him help me make a decision about something and he came to see me. I told him you were completely through but I thought when you came back I could plead for him. He used to hang around me to hear me talk about you."

Daphne poured cold water on a towel. "Here, put that on your head and lie down for a few minutes. I'll give you an hour to rest and then we've got work to do."

"Aren't you . . . aren't you mad?"

"Just as mad as anyone could be at a 6-year-old child. Now take off that dress. I'll call you in an hour and we're going to start rehearsing."

"We?"

"Yes," Daphne said as she went into the other room. "I might need an understudy. I don't think the one we have really knows all the business I do. I can teach it to you. Just in case."

(To Be Concluded)

appear were those of Sens. Gerald P. Nye, D. N. D., and Robert J. Reynolds, D. N. C. Both eye witnesses with a cigarette in their mouths or held in their hands—the same brand which they endorsed. Reynolds' endorsement, however, resulted in much eyebrow-lifting. Reason: was that his state, North Carolina, is the home of the largest competitor of the cigarette he endorsed.

Vice-President John Nance Garner is an inveterate cigar smoker, so are Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R. Mich.

Nudists Begin British Drive

LONDON, March 23 (AP)—The British nudists' 1937 campaign is under way in the hopes that summer is just around the corner.

Developments calculated to stimulate bashful converts to the "all-together" uniform include a 100 per cent nudist boarding house in North London and evening parties in the homes of nudists—first one place and then another. The men and women—and children—at these parties talk, dance and have light refreshments. Some wear trunks but many wear nothing.

The police do not care so long as the parties are private and quiet. Public decency is not shocked and the law is powerless, even if the police did want to crash the party.

Unusual incident recalled

Last year there were an estimated 25,000 nudists in Britain, despite much opposition setback nudism may have incurred because of the incident at St. Paul's Cathedral.

A thousand worshippers were stunned when a young woman in a dark cloak walked to the altar, raised her arms in supplication, released her cloak and stood naked. Investigation disclosed the young woman was a fanatic pacifist.

This year the nudists' organization expect a 50 per cent increase in membership, perhaps a new high of 50,000 nature worshippers. Secluded colonies have been established throughout the country. Nudists estimate that on every day the sun shines, 500 give nudism a first trial and 10 to 20 become converts.

Swifter Progress Seen

An officer of the National Sun and Air League, nudist pioneers, said that nudism was making real headway in England.

"Local councils are beginning to see that we are not cranks," the official said. "We have established a chain of colonies in many parts of the country. We have even recruited a bishop—but I'm not saying which one."

"So far most British nudists are professional men and their families principally doctors and lawyers, but we are making a drive this year for the working man and his family."

Nudists hint that a big congress of European nudists will be held this summer, perhaps in England, but they are not revealing details yet.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 23 (AP)—Pyorrhea is curable, in the opinion of Dr. Samuel C. Miller, associate professor in the New York University College of Dentistry.

Dr. Miller presented his "minority opinion" to Minnesota dentists assembled in convention.

The New Yorker detailed his observations, based on 7,000 cases over a 10-year period. He attacked the general belief in the incurability of pyorrhea, as well as the idea that this disease confines itself to older people. It has been noticed in children as young as 6, he said, and a large proportion of the cases occur in late adolescence.

"Five years before the patient himself realizes he has the ailment," Dr. Miller said, "the dentist can detect it by X-ray. The X-ray will show a thickening of the membranes."

Causes of pyorrhea, he said, include improper meshing of teeth, irritation, accumulated deposits, improper brushing and diet and disease such as diabetes, tuberculosis or syphilis.

The cure involves a balanced diet, building of tissue resistance, a definite brushing technique including gum massage removal of deposits.

Miriam Hopkins says: "My throat welcomes Luckies—my favorite cigarette for 5 years"

"Luckies have been my favorite cigarette for about 5 years. They're a light smoke that sensitive throats welcome. Of the many trends that sweep through Hollywood, one of the longest lasting has been the preference for Luckies. I once asked a 'property' man—who supplies cigarettes to the actors—what the favorite is. He answered by opening up a box containing cigarettes. They were all Luckies."

Miriam Hopkins STAR OF THE RKO RADIO PICTURE "THE WOMAN I LOVE"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke. Miss Hopkins verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

SIDNEY, March 23 (U.P.)—Fifteen out of a total shipment of 36 New Orleans frogs have arrived safely in Australia. They are expected to become the progenitors of a numerous colony that not only will enable Australia to vie with Louisiana as a frog eating state but even with Paris and France itself. The voyage of the frogs to Australia was not altogether easy. They first were installed in the ship's hospital where an atmosphere was created which it was thought would be conducive to the welfare of a colony of frogs that were expected to become the founders of a new race on a new continent. It developed that frogs of the edible variety are temperamental creatures. They first were suspended in wet canvas bags hung from the ceiling and when the weather got hot they were supplied with ice as freely as a Kentucky colonel is supplied with mint juleps. But later when the weather became rough they all got seasick and only 15 out of the original thirty-six survived. With these 15 safely in Australia, however, Australians are looking forward to the time when they can feast on frog legs.

Second Round of Farm Sign-Ups

The county agent announces that a second round of sign-up meetings for the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program has been planned and any farmer, landlord or fourth tenant or rancher who wishes to sign the work sheet or application for determination of grazing capacity may do so at any of these places without obligating themselves. Those interested in signing are advised that this will not be the last opportunity to sign but the clerks making out the work sheets will probably be able to fill them out as fast as the crowd comes unless there are unexpected delays. The schedule of sign-up places is as follows: Pioneer—Monday morning, March 29. Rising Star—Monday afternoon, March 29 and all day Tuesday, March 30. Shady Grove—Wednesday morning, March 31. Romney—Wednesday afternoon,

- March 31. Nimrod—Thursday morning, April 1. Seranton—Thursday afternoon, April 1. Dothan—Friday morning, April 1. Cisco—Friday afternoon, April 2 and all day April 3. Center Point—Monday morning, April 5. Carbon—Monday afternoon, April 5 and all day Tuesday, April 6. Gorman—All day Wednesday, April 7 and Thursday morning, April 8. Desdemona—Thursday afternoon, April 8. Alameda—All day Friday, April 9. Ranger—All day Saturday, April 10. Tudor—Monday morning, April 12. Eastland—Monday afternoon, April 12 and all day Tuesday, April 13. Some farmers have understood that they cannot sign unless they were in the program last year. This is not correct as any farm is eligible for a payment under the program if such a payment is earned and the work sheet is signed. The easiest way for an individual to learn how to earn a payment is for him to sign a work sheet and have the information handed him on paper.

Our Oldest Inhabitants

RIVAL of the mammoth as the oldest inhabitant of North America is the dinosaur. Once they were as common in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies as their successors, the buffalo, and some of the finest specimens of these pre-historic creatures to be unearthed, have been found in the Red Deer Valley, a wild, exotic piece of country lying between Calgary and Edmonton, Alberta. This variety of dinosaur was the carnivorous or flesh-eating. The photographs show scientists examining parts of remains that have been uncovered in the Red Deer Valley and a reconstructed skeleton. Specimens of carnivorous dinosaur in museums in New York, Washington and Toronto were found in this section of the Canadian West.

Revival Begins

the church members non-Christian in spirit is in need of cleansing.
It used to be the custom in the Methodist church to turn an offending member out of the church. We were forgetting that Jesus came by loving them and by appealing to whatever good he could see in them. His use of physical force as moral power was quite an unusual procedure for Jesus. Our privilege and task as genuine Christians today is to win the lukewarm church members into enthusiastic loyalty love for Christ and whole-hearted service in His righteous kingdom.
Not only individuals but also the nations of the world are finding that Jesus is the supreme realist of all time. We are discovering today that friendliness is better than enmity, that love is more constructive than hate, that the neighborliness of the God Samaritan is far more effective than the indifference of the formal religionist.
So today the fine realism of Jesus is actually finding its way into the plans and programs of many of the nations of the world.
Christ today would cleanse His Temples everywhere of wickedness, selfishness and sin. He would cleanse our individual hearts of ugliness, unloveliness, of uselessness of indifference and of any personal vices or sins. He has the marvelous power today to transform and make clean all lives that will welcome His indwelling presence. This Holy Week is an excellent opportunity for those in this community to come into vital touch with Christ spiritual power.
Sermon subject for tonight: "Jesus' Authority Questioned."

Blames Practical Error for Disaster

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23 (UP)—Ray Woods, whose business is jumping off bridges, blamed only a practical error today for the disastrous end to his 189 foot leap into San Francisco Bay.
From the hospital where he was carried with a broken back, paralyzed from the waist down, he had "arched too much." Doctors said he may never walk again.

for Women only
CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less disagreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Cardui") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefitted, consult a physicoan.

"Somebody to see you!"

If everybody with something to interest you should come and ring your bell, what a nuisance it would be! Think of the swarming, jostling crowd, the stamping of feet on your porch and carpets!

Every day we know of many callers who come to see you. They never jangle the bell—they don't take up your whole day trying to get your attention. Instead, they do it in a way that is most considerate of your privacy and your confidence. They advertise in your newspaper!

In this way you have only to listen to those you know at a glance have something that interests you. They make it short, too, so you can gather quickly just what you want to know. You can receive and hear them all without noise or confusion in a very few minutes.

In fairness to yourself look over all the advertisements. The smallest and the largest—you never can be sure which one will tell something you really want to know.
