Rumor Purvis, Model to Wed

THIRTEEN DIE AS AIR LINER DIPS DOWN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 26 (AP)—Bureau of Air Commerce investigators examined the wreckage of a trans-continental and western airliner today in an effort to determine the cause of a crash that killed nine men and four women.

The twin-motored ship, bucking strong head wind, plunged into a hillside five miles southwest of the Allegheny airport last night, ripped its cabin to splinters and brought death to all its occupants.

Pilot Lawrence Bohner a veteran of the airways had been ready to land five miles from the airport something began to happen. What it was remained a mystery. Eye witnesses said the ship "shifted" and went into a dive, crashing nose first into a sloping field.

The big plane hit the ground with such terrific force that the cabin was split in two parts.

Other members of the crew included hostess Doris Hammons of Chicago, New Jersey, and Leedy, Oklahoma.

Crash of the transport brought the total deaths in major commercial air disasters in the last three months to 52.

Leaping Flames Burn Five After Crash

ARRESTS OVER NATION GREATEST IN 22 AGE CLASS, U. S. REPORTS

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation has revealed that 344 per cent of 461,489 arrest records submitted by enforcement agencies throughout the nation during 1936 concerned youths under 25 years of age.

Uniform crime reports showed 158,752 persons under 25 were arrested. Youths under 25 number 53.2 per cent of those charged with robbery; 58.7 per cent of those charged with burglary; 45.4 per cent of those charged with larceny; and 79.8 per cent of those charged with auto theft.

The compilation disclosed that 80,358 or 17.4 per cent of persons arrested under 21 years old and under that 78,394 or 17 per cent were between 21 and 24. It was reported that 51.5 per cent of persons arrested were under 30.

Dangerous Age Established

There were more arrests for age 22 than for any other single age group the compilation showed, as compared to reports for 1932-35 when persons 19 years old outnumbered those of other ages.

Last year, 183,140 or 39.7 per cent of persons arrested already had fingerprint cards on file in the identification division of the FBI, it was said. In addition, there were 9,996 records bearing notations indicating previous criminal histories of persons concerned, although fingerprints had not previously been filed in the bureau.

Records disclosed that 139,707 or 72.3 per cent of those having previous criminal histories had been convicted for one or more offenses. The records of those persons revealed 403,001 prior convictions, or average of almost three per individual.

It was reported that 39 persons charged with criminal homicide dur-

See Extension in Soil Help Project

Belief that Eastland county's National Youth Administration soil conservation project will be extended after April 1, designated an expiration date, was expressed Thursday by W. A. Shaffer Jr., Abilene, district supervisor, who conferred with County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

A possibility that youths working on the conservation project at Cisco would be shifted to a highway department project was discussed by Shaffer.

Shifting of the Cisco boys would leave about 35 youths on the soil conservation project.

Mother and Daughter Meet After 23 Years

TILTONVILLE, O. (AP)—After 23 years of separation, Mrs. Mary Greco and her daughter, Dorothy, now 26, have been reunited.

Dorothy was placed in an orphanage at the age of 3 when her parents separated. Later when Mrs. Greco, who had remarried, sought her daughter she was unable to find her.

Meanwhile, Dorothy had been adopted by another family. After the death of her foster parents she began a search for her mother, and found her through the aid of relatives and orphanage officials.

SLACKS FOR OFFICE GIRLS FORECAST BY STYLIST

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—Slacks, which made Mariene Dietrich a sensation some time ago, soon will be seen in every office and home, if fashion designers have their way.

Slacks as trim and tailored as the boss' smart suit, featured a preview of spring fashions staged for buyers from all over the West and Middle West.

Natty trousers and coats were in flannels, worsted, gabardine and cottons.

The idea of slacks for the business woman and the business like designer said, where a new comer sometimes is hard put to distinguish men and women on the streets.

A gray slack suit of herringbone weave, in gabardine, smartly tailored and trimmed in navy blue buttons was modeled for the inspiration and guidance of the well low chintz covered with designs of ships, maps, boats and mountains. Under this she wears a sunsuit of bright red pique.

Another "play suit" of a waffle weave yellow cotton had a coat which quickly turns the outfit into a hostess costume. The long coat, with puffy sleeves and flowing skirt was made of black and white figured material in a wild floral design.

Dresses, when designers condescend to show them, had all kinds of gadgety trappings, from small corbs which bob up and down as buttons on a blue linen outfit, to enormous cable cords which brought together the collar of a natural-color homespun frock. A simple blue lank had tiny peasant figures dangling from the belt. A white linen suit was buttoned with a row of lipsticks.

ACCUSED MAKES $1,000 BOND AFTER MAKING CONFESSION TO POLICE OF WRITING NOTE

Cisco had her second extortion story, when, this week K. W. Dawkins of 1100 Avenue N, Cisco, was charged in justice court with attempt to extort $600 in money from Yancy McCrea under threat of blowing up his home. Mr. Dawkins was released under $1,000 bond to appear before the grand jury for questioning at its next regular session.

Chief of Police M. L. Perdue, acting from hunches and certain clues began investigations of an extortion note that Mr. McCrea received Saturday morning and had apprised the chief of police immediately.

The note was written Friday afternoon, March 19 and tied around a block of concrete and thrown into Mr. McCrea's driveway that night. Mr. McCrea found it Saturday morning and immediately notified the police.

Mr. Dawkins had attempted suicide Sunday afternoon by slashing his left wrist. He went to bed and the story began to unfold. Chief Perdue began to watch and make deductions from his observations which led to questioning of Mr. Dawkins Wednesday morning. He was held for $1,000 bail which was made.

First Statement Of K. W. Dawkins

When Mr. Dawkins was first questioned concerning the note to Mr. McCrea, he made a statement about the matter which was later republished in a second statement in which he admits his part in the matter and which he says he signed in the presence of witnesses and is the exact truth of the whole affair.

Mr. Dawkins, do hereby make the following voluntary statement to M. L. Perdue after having been informed of the nature of the accusation against me, and I certify that before making this statement, I was warned by M. L. Perdue that I did not have to make a statement with reference to the said accusation against me, but that if I did make a statement it would be reduced to writing and could be used as evidence against me on trial, but could be used in my behalf. My voluntary statement with reference to the accusation against me is as follows:

That on Friday, March 19, 1937, at about 7:20 o'clock, p. m. I was going home on foot from town and on West Ninth street in the 900 block a Chevrolet car drove up to me, and the driver opened the door and told me to get in and ride. I told him that I lived on Avenue N. He then said get in, and he drove up Avenue N; even to my house. There were two men in the back seat of the car all of this time. When I got in the car there was an envelope and piece of paper on the front seat, and the driver told me to hand them to the fellows in the back seat, which I did. When we got even with my house, I said this is where I live, but they turned to the right on 12th street and went west about one block and stopped; they said, "do you see that sack?" It has a wire tied to it. Then they told me you go downtown and buy a parcel post wrapping cord; tie it to the end of this wire, stretch it to your gate, and be darn sure you do it, and if you don't we will kill you or some of your family; they then said get out, walk back up the street and do not look around which I did. The next morning I went down to see if there was a

Sun Spots Mean Warmer Summer, Says Astronomer

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (AP)—Sun spots indicate that the northern hemisphere will experience warmer than average weather this summer and a wet winter, according to Dr. Clifford E. Smith, professor of astronomy at San Diego State College.

"Sun spots come and go in cycles," Dr. Smith said. "Every 11 years they reach a maximum number, and during that time the sun is much warmer. The spots do not cause the warmth, but there is a correlation.

"When the spots reach a maximum number, our summers are warmer, more water evaporates and a heavier rainfall is experienced the following winter. The present cycle of sun spots will reach a maximum early in 1938."

Dr. Smith described sun spots as great whirling masses of charged particles, some of them more than 60,000 miles in diameter. He said they are not attached to the sun but drift across it like a cloud.

Baptist Brotherhood Hold Eastland Meet

A number of Cisco Baptists attended the Brotherhood meeting at Eastland last night when Attorney General William McCraw spoke on duties and responsibilities of men in doing the work allotted them by their Creator. His wit interspersed with serious thoughts he wished to drive, were attributes of his talk that made his reputation as an orator of the first class.

The meeting was in charge of President H. T. Bouldin of Albany. Other features of the program were a declaration by Ancil Owen, Jr., Eastland high school student; voice solos by Miss Roberta Kininard and Mrs. Victor Ginn, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Donald Kininard.

The banquet was in charge of the W. M. U. of the host church.

Among those attending from Cisco were W. Frank Walker, vice-president of the West Texas District organization; Dr. E. S. James, E. J. Poe, Parks Poe, W. J. Poe, O. J. Ellingshaet, John Smith, J. A. Robertson, O. L. Mason, John Holder, J. E. Spencer, Jack Pippen and Grover Eppel, H. L. Kunkel, J. D. Hall, T. J. Spakman, J. N. Baldere and others.

What's News Today!

Apparently Europe drifts nearer the general conflict that has been hovering over the continent these many months. Growing ambition of Mussolini and his unstopped progress in taking what he wants and defying anybody to stop him, makes him over-bold in his declaration that any attempt to stop Italians in Spain will throw Europe into a general war. He places the blame on anyone who attempts to frustrate his will in this matter.

Lloyd George, English statesman, calls Britain a coward that fears to take a bold stand as did the ancient English whose sway over the sea was unquestioned.

And this bold statesman may be right. We think he is right. While England halts and ponders Mussolini will proceed to send soldiers to Spain just as he did in Ethiopia. He defied the world to stop him and the world trembled and took the dare.

And the serious thing is that once the war starts, all the world will be drawn in—even Uncle Samuel, despite our good intentions to stay out. No man or country lives alone.

But out of all the bloodshed and suffering will arise a freer people. It is a fearful price to pay but it seems no other nation save America is able to settle its troubles by sit-down strikes and conferences. Others must fight. A big victory for education of the masses.

But here in Cisco we are peaceful and watch development of matters of direct interest to ourselves. We are concerned about the Bearman townsite oil test in South Cisco and a few watch the shallow oil test west of Cisco which is just spudding. A gushing well here would mean much for us during 1937 and the future; a small producing sand at the shallow depth hoped for west of the city would aid greatly because of the small cost of drilling. Deep wells are costly.

And public-spirited citizens who refuse to be licked continue efforts to secure a CCC Camp and the development of a great park in the ideally located canyon to the north which would add to West Texas' recreational playground. Let us hope that Edward Lee and his Jaycees may not falter in their goal which they have set to reach during the year.

Educator Sees Girls Looking Beyond Home

BOSTON 25.—The modern girl wouldn't be heartbroken if she never married, because she has enough resources within herself to make a successful, well-rounded life, according to Dr. Jean Mendenhall.

At Boston University's Cargill College of Physical Education, Dr. Mendenhall conducts a course in "Home Relationship" believed the first of its kind in the country. "The older generation lived within the home and children," she says, "and forgot that children inevitably grow up and away from us."

LONDON 25.—A mammoth spring-cleaning job is being undertaken at York Minister. The interior stonework is being cleaned and it will take 20 years to complete. About 4,500 scrubbing brushes, 6,700 pounds of soap, 730 pounds of pumice powder, and 2,500 floor cloths will be used.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

BY NARD JONES
©1937, NEA Service, Inc.

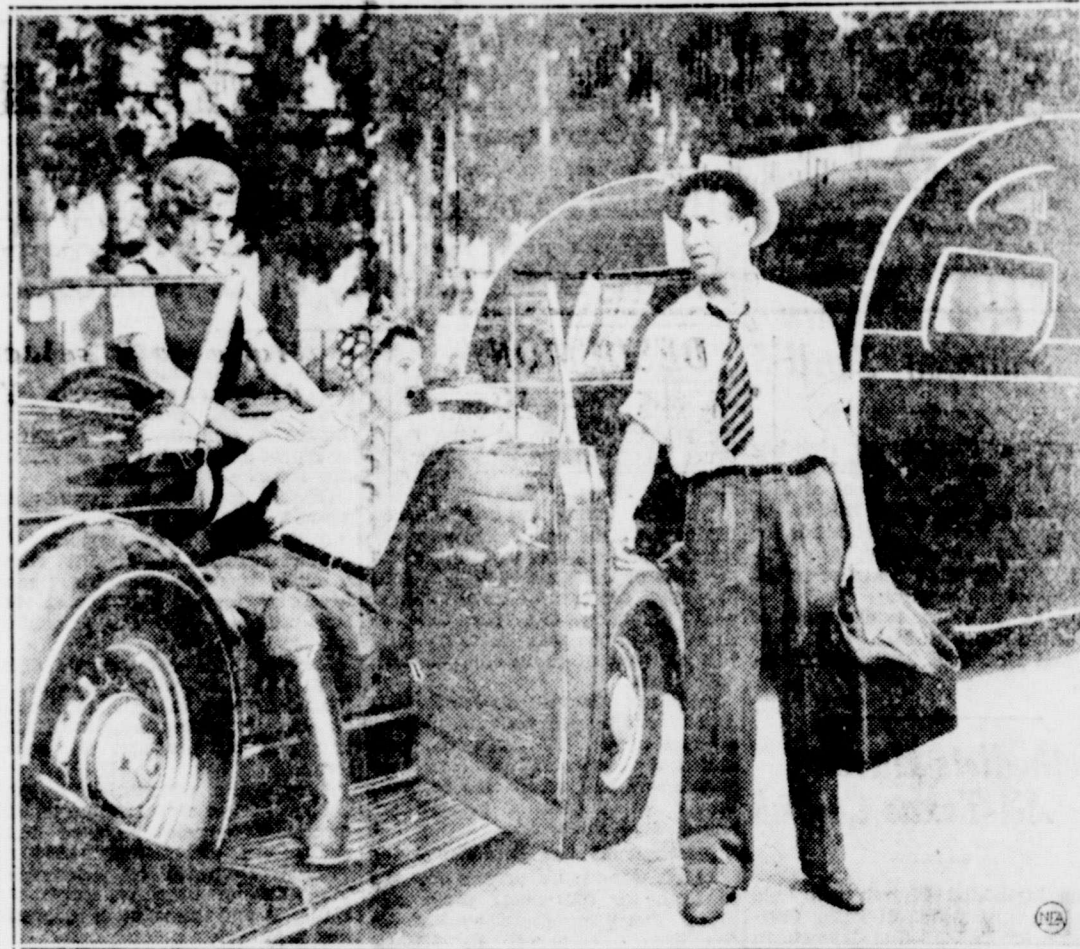

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MARTHA BRITAIN and BETTY HAYNES overland on their California vacation trip and find themselves stranded in San Diego. They answer an ad of the Airspeed Trailer Company and obtain an assignment to travel up the west coast, demonstrating the new de luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ARNOLD STONE of the Airspeed company fails to ask for either bond or references.

LATER that day Martha and Betty found themselves with plenty to do. Their first move was to write letters home, explaining that they were extending their trip to take in the whole length of the Pacific coast. After consultation they decided it would be best not to explain just how they were managing it.

"They'd only worry," Martha said. "And we can tell them all about it when we get back home. After it's over, they'll think it's all right."
"You don't know my aunt!" Betty laughed. "If she realized that we two girls were planning to galivant up the coast with a car and a trailer, and shellaligg—that's what she'd call it—shellaligg around trailer camps in shorts she'd drive dad and mother insane. I'll never hear the last of it, even when it's over. So you can bet I'm not telling the folks now!" Betty chewed her pen, apparently in the throes of composition. But after a few moments she said, surprisingly and irrelevantly, "That Neal person was handsome, wasn't he?"
Martha looked at her. "Sorry we're moving out?"
"Well, he might have had the consideration to move in a week ago."

Their letters finished, they went out to mail them and to have a lunch at the corner drug store counter. "If we're going to buy some clothes we'd better cash the advance check that Carrington gave us," Betty said. "They probably know us here well enough to do it."

"Nothing doing, darling! I'm taking Mr. Carrington's check right to his own bank for cashing. If it's going to bounce I don't want to be on the receiving end."
Betty sighed. "Still suspicious, are you? Gosh, I hope when you get the money you'll change your tune."
And when they reached the bank and the teller cashed Carrington's check without a moment's hesitation, Martha did have to admit that she felt much better. "But let's don't crowd our luck," she cautioned. "When Betty clutched Martha's arm and whispered, "Look! A young man, carrying a suitcase, had approached, obviously intent on hooking a ride." Martha was about to slide behind the wheel and ignore him when she recognized him as Neal.

"What's that?"
"A revolver?"
Betty gasped. "A—a what?"
"A revolver," repeated Martha. "But you can't carry a revolver without a police permit. I don't think you can even buy one without a permit."
"Then," said Martha, "we'll get the permits."
And they did, despite Betty's protestations at every step. Soon they had added to their purchases a small .32 caliber revolver and a box of shells. "You can't tell," Martha said. "It might come in handy to scare somebody with."
"It's already scared somebody," said Betty. "It scares me just to look at the darned thing—and I can't see what you want it for. We're not going to stop for any thumb jerkers, are we?"
"Not if we can help it. But we might have to change a tire on a lonely stretch of highway."

THEY were to find that on the coast highway between San Diego and Los Angeles there are few stretches of lonely pavement, and these are not long. By 10 o'clock they were breezing along in a new coupe, a modern Airspeed Trailer behind them, and enjoying every minute of it.
Carrington had been on hand to start them off; and, as he'd promised, had arranged everything. "The engine has been broken in," he told them. "So you don't have to baby it. But don't exceed the speed limit, and be sure to get noon-resident driving permits in Oregon and Washington. I've got California licenses for both of you." And then, with a few parting instructions regarding the trailer, he had wished them good luck.

"What's the first stop?" Betty asked Martha when they were well on their way.
"The Golden Slate Auto Park in Long Beach is where we're supposed to spend the night."
"How about a week in Hollywood—say in Robert Taylor's back yard?" asked Betty facetiously.
On the outskirts of a delightful little town they rolled under the shade of a pepper tree to try their first lunch in a trailer. As Betty and Martha busied themselves with the tiny stove and portable table, many a car slowed down to admire the streamlines of the trailer. One family party stopped frankly, and were invited aboard to inspect it.
"I guess we're doing all right," Betty said, when the family had thanked them and gone on their way smiling. "This is going to be real fun. And you were throwing cold water!"
Lunch over, they put everything shipshape in the Airspeed's compartments, and started to climb back into the coupe. Just then Betty clutched Martha's arm and whispered, "Look . . ."

A young man, carrying a suitcase, was approaching, obviously intent on hooking a ride. Martha was about to slide behind the wheel and ignore him when she recognized him as Neal, the same man they had found attempting to enter their apartment the afternoon before! He had missed his morning shave, and he seemed a little the worse for tramping. But, unmistakably, he was Gerry Neal.

DESDEMONA

By MRS. W. C. BEDFORD
The attractive home of Mrs. G. S. Bruce was decorated with blooming pot plants, Easter lilies, and other spring flowers, when the Methodist Missionary Society met there for the monthly social meeting. Mrs. Bruce was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. W. H. Whitworth. The devotionals were led by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee of the 3rd chapter of "Out of Africa." Those taking part in the discussions and outside assignments were Miss Mollie O'Rear, Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass, Mrs. G. S. Bruce, Mrs. Whitworth, Mrs. Lee. The subject of the chapter was "Africa and World Peace" and the discussions of the part of Africa played in the World War brought out many interesting facts as to the material wealth of the continent and how it has been made a grab-bag by European nations. children by that marriage, Billy K. age 16, Martha Ruth, 15 and Mar. Sue, 12.

From June 1928 to November 1933 I worked as salesman on a truck for the Coca-Cola Bottling Company at Dublin and Cisco. During that time I was truck salesman covering De Leon, Comanche, Hick, Eastland and Ranger.

In June 1934 I started to work for the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company at Strawn, Texas and as truck salesman covered Cisco, Eastland and Ranger until August 15, 1936. On November 15, 1936, I went to work for Wolfe's Nursery, Stephenville, Texas, as commission salesman, selling plants, fruit trees and shrubbery. I was so employed at the time I was taken into custody.

He says I did not sign the note and it was handwritten on plain notebook paper, and was addressed in a small plain envelope to Mr. and Mrs. McCrea.

Dawkins continues in his confession and says "I went to my barn and got a piece of sack and a tin bucket, and wire, which had been used on a hay bale. I needed more wire and went to Dr. Clark's barn nearby to secure same. I put the bucket in a sack and wired the top of the sack and put some 50 or 75 feet of wire attached to the sack. About mid-afternoon, I placed the sack and can near a telephone pole at the corner of 12th and Avenue O.

LAST STATEMENT OF K. W. DAWKINS

"Later on in the afternoon, about 6 o'clock, I went down to town to see Bennie Butler of the Cisco Press about a job. After leaving there, I walked to the Ward school building at the corner of Tenth and Avenue E and picked up a small piece of concrete which I tied to the extortion letter and threw it into Mr. McCrea's driveway."

"I then went home about seven o'clock. Later in the evening, I and I went over to Dr. Clark's to play '42' and played until late in the evening. The next morning about mid-morning I walked down town, bought a ball of heavy cord at Economy store and went home and had dinner. In the afternoon I drove uptown in my car and left some shoes at the Notgrass Shoe Shop to be repaired.

"About three o'clock in the afternoon, I took Mr. McCrea's horse, which my son is training, out of the lot and turned him loose around in the pasture between 11th and 12th streets. I hung about while the horse was grazing, and after awhile I went and got my twine and unwound the ball as I led the horse along, unwinding the ball as I neared the point where the wire was attached to the sack, something over 300 feet. I led the horse along to prevent suspicion, so if anyone saw me I would not look peculiar.

"It was my intention to use the wire and cord to pull in the sack and can from where the payoff was to take place, at the corner of 12th and Avenue O back to the gate, which is about 300 feet from the corner, should Mr. McCrea place the money in the can as I expected.

"After grazing the horse to awhile, I got my cow from George Winston's wheat patch down on 11th street, and took her home and milked her. After reading the paper awhile after supper, I took the cow out and led her down to the pasture for the purpose of being able to get hold of the cord without exciting undue suspicion.

"Just as I had gotten down to the gate near the pasture, a car drove up to where I had left the sack and bucket. It stopped and then drove on. I thought I saw some men in the pasture and this scared me and I went back in the house, telling my family that something was going on down there—the pasture was full of people. There had been thieves going on in the neighborhood. After telling my wife that I had turned the cow loose, she said we must get her, and I said I was afraid. My son Billy said he would get his pony and go get the cow. He left the house and my wife went and asked Virgil Heysler to come over and see what was going on down in the pasture. Mr. Heysler came over with a shotgun and we walked down to the gate. Billy came up on his pony with the cow and said there was a car parked down on 12th street. Mr. Heysler suggested that we go over and see who it was.

"We went down there and Billy said that it looked like there was someone lying on the ground. Heysler said 'Let's see who it is?' and we crawled through the fence in the pasture and walked down to where it appeared that a man was lying on the ground. Mr. Heysler hailed the party and there was an answer. We walked a little closer and Heysler repeated the demand asking 'Who are you?' It turned out to be M. L. Purdie, chief of police. He asked what we wanted. Heysler said, 'I want to know who you are?' to which the chief replied, 'This is a hot spot. You'd better get out of here.' We recognized the chief and "I went home and the next morning I washed my left wrist, and have been in bed until Wednesday morning, when I was summoned to police station for questioning."

Dawkins continued and says: "I admit I wrote the extortion letter to Mr. McCrea and threw it in the driveway of his home. I admit this statement as being true, and so sign it."

The statement was signed Kyle William Dawkins.

FIRST BAPTIST TO HAVE USUAL SERVICE SUNDAY

The congregation of the First Baptist Church will have its regular services Easter Sunday. It seems to be the consensus of public opinion that since Easter is the one day in the year when most persons attend church services it will be unwise to dismiss the services in deference to the Knights Templar services. Without any thought of any way detracting from that attractive service, we shall go right on with services at the usual hour.

Four hundred are expected in the Sunday School as a climax to the concerted effort that has been made in all churches the past few weeks. At 11:00 o'clock the pastor will use as his theme of discourse "Intimations of Immortality." It will be his purpose to pick up from every day observations those things that point to the certainty of immortality and add to the Word of God to confirm the faith of Christians in that great doctrine that is peculiar to Christianity.

One hundred are expected to be present at the Baptist Training Union at six thirty p. m. At seven thirty the theme of discussion will be the twentieth chapter of the Revelation, The Two Resurrections, the Millennium, and the Great Judgement Day will be given an Scriptural exposition. In recent years there has been much discussion concerning the Millennium or the last thousand years mentioned in the Bible. There are those who hold that Christ will return to earth to reign as a temporal King for one thousand years before the Great Judgement Day. Others hold that the reign will be a spiritual one made possible by the spread of the Gospel. Which belief does the Bible justify and why? This will be discussed at length from an unprejudiced view of one who has given it much thought and study over a period of many years.

The public is cordially invited to worship with us. E. S. James, Pastor. Special music by Mrs. G. M. Stephenson, director with Miss Cora Harris in charge of decorations.

wire there at the fence and there was one there. I then come to town and bought the twine and went back home. After dinner I got Mr. McCrea's horse and grazed it around the garden and around the fence near where the wire was, so I could see who came around there, or if any cars came by. About the middle of the afternoon I stretched the string as the fellows in the car told me to do, and then went back to the house. However, I grazed the horse for some time after

Chas. Purdie said when he was lying on the ground, and saw me advancing with a shotgun, wondered whether he was shaking from the cold or fear.

He says he is used to seeing guns, but frankly confesses that he has never seen one look as big as that one.

stretching the string. After supper I started to put the cow back into the pasture, and when I got to the gate, a car drove up near where the sack was lying, but I did not see anybody get out of the car.

I saw one man close to the gate, and some more men between the gate and 12th street. I then went back to my house and told my wife that the pasture was full of men and something was going on down there; I left the cow loose so my boy said he would get on the horse and chase her in. When he started my wife was scared and she went down and got Mr. Heysler who met out by the barn, and we went down to the gate, while my boy chased the cow around, the block and came back to the gate with the cow and turned her into the pasture; he said there was a car across over there on 12th street. Heysler said 'let's go over there, so we started over toward the car, and got nearly to the corner when we saw something on the ground. Heysler said let's see what it is, and Heysler then asked if that was a man lying on the ground, and who are you? We walked a little further and got about even with the man lying on the ground. Heysler then said, 'Dam it, who are you?' And the man on the ground said this is the chief of police. What do you want? Heysler then said we wanted to know who you are. The chief of police said, 'This is a hot spot, you had better get out of here.' Which we did when we got back to the house. I told my wife something was going on down there, but I did not know what it was.

Promotions are Quick, Demotion Just as Fast

BOSTON, (U.P.)—Records for quick promotion and demotion are claimed by three men connected with the administration of former Gov. James M. Curley.

On his last day in office, the governor conferred three military titles, making his son-in-law, Edward C. Donnelly, and Joseph F. Timilty colonels and Frank Sawyer, taxicab company executive, a major.

When Curley retired from office that night, however, all three were demoted to their former status.

LEBRINGFIELD, O. (U.P.)—Should Webster R. Lyons, a barber here, ever need his fingerprints for identification purposes he probably would find them of no value.

It is impossible to obtain an impression of Lyons' fingerprints, which the barber said had been worn smooth by massaging thousands of heads.

Lyons discovered his fingers were unprintable when he asked Detective William Ruel, in charge of the police identification department, to take his prints for civil identification in case of accident.

Puel was astounded when Lyons' fingerprints showed up only as smudges.

Cheaper Gasoline Goal of Research

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—The huge consumption of oils and gasoline in automobiles today doesn't mean a thing to research scientists at Penn State College, who reported they are directing a great deal of their efforts to producing more efficient gasoline and better oils at a lower cost.

They also declared they have much more to learn about the composition of crude petroleum, development of new products and by-products, and the improvement of the yield.

"The Last Supper" Is Sermon Subject

"The Last Supper" was the sermon subject used by Rev. Joe I. Patterson when he addressed the congregation of the First Methodist church last evening.

The feast of the Passover for the Jews was the outstanding religious service of the year. To Jesus this last meeting together with His disciples was a happy occasion because He was enjoying their fellowship. In it was also a note of sadness because it was their last meal together. It had, too, a disturbing note of tragedy because in the group was a betrayer.

Through the years of their national history the Passover Feast meant the coming of a new kingdom to the Jews. It meant freedom from personal bondage and national independence and a new day of fellowship with Jehovah, their God.

But on this occasion Jesus tells His disciples that in the future this special religious service would have new significance. The cup and the bread would represent His supreme sacrifice, that the full measure of God's great love might be known in the life of all people everywhere.

So the Lord's Supper has come to fill a large place in the lives of Christian people of all denominations. It surely means: 1. Personal and reclamation. 2. The re-affirmation of faith in God. 3. Communion and fellowship with Christ. 4. The

FINANCIAL LOSS NOT ERASED BY PLOW INVENTOR

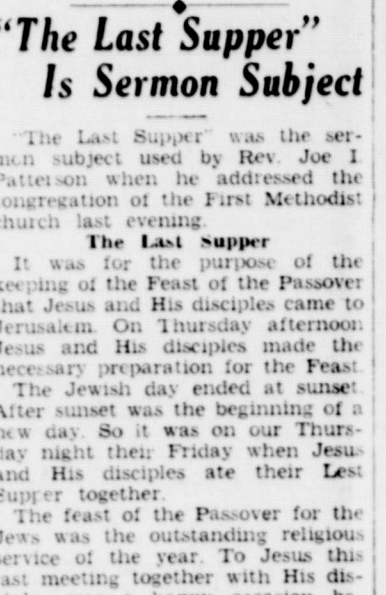

MORAVIA, N. Y. (AP)—Like many a pioneer in the field of invention, the inventor of the first cast-iron plow, John Jethrow Wood, made no money out of it, and his descendants have never been able to profit by patent rights.

Wood invented the plow here in 1814. He first sent it to the Czar of Russia, with a letter in French written by a friend. The Czar was highly pleased with the plow and sent Wood a ring valued at $7,000 to $15,000. But Wood did not receive a stone.

Manufacturers infringed on his patent rights, and a long legal battle began which did not end in Wood's lifetime. His son finally won, but the victor was only a technical one, for the son died shortly after. All in all, Wood never made $500 on his plow—less than he had spent to perfect it.

AUSTIN, March 26 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today sent a message to the Texas legislature "disapproving and returning" the senate bill creating a new pardon and Parole Board as provided by a constitutional amendment voted on by the people in the last election.

"If my feeble prayer can reach thee, O my Savior I beseech thee Even as thou has died for me more sincerely, Let me follow, where thou leadest, Let me bleed as thou bleedest, Die if dying I may give Life to one who asks to live, and more nearly Dying, thus resemble thee."

The general plans to leave Sunday from Eastland for his home in New Town Square, Pa.

General Butler's stay in Eastland from Friday night until Sunday will not be his first. Often he has visited his brother at Eastland. Oct. 9, 1935, he discussed the Italo-Ethiopian situation in an address sponsored by the Civic League at the Connellee Theatre.
