TWO HELD FOR Rights Decision

MINERAL WELLS, March 31 (U.R) Phil Garrett, 26, of Dallas, and B. H. Huddleston, 22, who gave no address, were held today for the Paio Pinto County Grand Jury after being charged yesterday with robbery and burglary in connection with the burglarizing of establishments at Strawn and Hamilton. The men, who first gave their names as Jack Lewis and Bennie Wells, were arrested in Mineral Wells yesterday. Officers found on their persons and in their automobil $945.00 in currency and rolled silver, five pistols, two rifles, a shotgun, flashlights, dynamite caps, nitroglycerine, other miscellaneous tools and several pairs of gloves.

A. B. Kinsey, night-watchman at the Hamilton Grocery Company, and H. N. Sherrod, nightwatchman at the Strawn Mercantile Company both identified the men officers sad as the two who overpowered them Sunday night and robbed the stores they guarded of nearly $1,000 . Bill Decker, chief deputy sheriff at Dallas, said Garrett had been sought for several days for questioning concerning recent robberies at Rockwall and Farmersville. At both places three bandits tied up the night-watchman and looted half a ozen business houses.

And it is to this element that safety work is to really produce results, must appeal. The trends by the U. S. News in a study of official state reports.

Favorable trends included: Advances in law enforcement and engineering; a slight drop in casualties in proportion to miles driven; a slight drop in the proportion of year, and showed accident decreases as a result.

Unfavorable factors include: A rise in the proportion of accidents caused by speeding; an 8 per cent increase over 1935 in the number of drinking drivers involved in fatal accidents; little progress in traffic law development

The drinking factor is tending to become progressively serious. Over 7 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents are under the influence of liquor, as are about Il per cent of all pedestrians killed.

Naturally, the night hours are the most dangerous for car operation. Over a five-year period ending with 1935, automobile deaths at night increased 37 per cent, while daytime deaths dropped 12 per cent. And speed is far and away the major cause of all accidents, particularly the more serious ones, both night and day.

The astounding sales of new cars and the generally boosted volume of traffic, have paved the way for making 1937 an exceedingly bad accident year. On the other hand, the work of the accident prevention groups will be unprecedented both in scope and aggressiveness. Only time can tell which of these opposed forces will be the winner.
