This black symbol of sorrow, which flutters over Atlanta whenever there is a fatal traffic accident, is a deliverer of death tidings to the city and a warning to motorists. The flag is hoisted in the heart of town as an experiment in reducing auto accidents.

LOYALISTS TO PUSH REBELS FROM MADRID

MADRID, April 9 (UP)—Loyalists in the Spanish civil war began a mass attack on the Madrid front today to drive the insurgent invaders clear of the capital.

It was probably the biggest battle since the siege of Madrid began last November. The defenders drove steadily through the wooded Cash De Campo in the western outskirts of the city, forcing the insurgents slowly back.

North of Madrid, the loyalists advanced seeking to cut off the insurgents from two sides and trap them, isolated from their base of supplies further west.

In the Bilbao region on the north coast, the loyalists threw 35,000 more men into action, making a total of 100,000 trying to stop the rebel drive on Bilbao. The insurgents were not stopped, however and expressed confidence that they would take the city.

ROME, Italy, April 9 (UP)—Officials at the United States embassy today said that the embassy "is likely" to investigate officially the rumor that several Americans and possibly all protestant missionaries soon might be expelled from Ethiopia.

Oratory Taught By Self Study

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Wabash College, pioneer in the field of college speaker's bureaus, uses a new instrument in speech instruction—a portable recording machine.

The equipment was designed principally for use in courses on diction, interpretative reading and beginning speech where recordings of students' class speeches are made periodically, filed away, and then played back at a later date so that the student may hear his progress or lack of it.

In courses on articulation and pronunciation where it once was necessary to give verbal instructions and then correct the student's errors, of which he himself perhaps was unaware, it now is possible to record his speech and permit him to hear himself as others do.

Instructors in the speech department also plan to use the device to record addresses of men who represent Wabash College in oratorical contests.

The college long has been noted for its speakers, and since 1928 has maintained a college speaker's bureau from which it supplies carefully trained students for addresses before luncheon clubs and other organizations. During the eight years of its existence the bureau has filled almost 800 engagements.

WAGE SCALE RAISE, WEAPON TO BE USED

NEW YORK, April 9. (UP)—The New York Daily News said in a dispatch from Washington today that Henry Ford planned to boost his employe's wages in an effort to thwart the United Automobile Workers campaign to unionize factories.

"The latest tip-off is that Henry Ford intends to link the union with a generous distribution of that great pile of Ford cash," the dispatch said.

"Henry, to keep the union out, is getting ready to announce a wage scale which will boost the ante far above anything which the CIO has won from General Motors or Chrysler."

In Detroit, the United Automobile Workers Union redoubled efforts to recruit members in Henry Ford's plant while 11,000 Hudson Motor Car company employes prepared to follow 65,000 Chrysler Corporation workers back to assembly lines after settlement of their month-old strike.

CANADA DETERMINED TO RESIST STRIKERS

OSHAWA, Ontario, April 9. (UP)—One hundred Royal Mounted and 200 Ontario police were concentrated in this area today to assist the General Motors Corporation of Canada if it decides to try to re-open Oshawa plant, closed by strike since yesterday.

Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, at whose request the Mounted officers were stationed in Toronto armories, declared the government would stamp out agitation of the kind which he said had "brought the United States almost into a state of anarchy."

"If necessary we will raise an army to do so," he warned.

In Washington, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor announced that the AFofL executive council will meet within ten days to consider a special convention with power to expell CIO unions.

The house prepared to vote on a senate-approved resolution condemning both sit-down strikes and Wagner Act violation on the part of employes.

Subject is 'Truth Rightly Handled'

Improper use of God's word was stressed by showing the danger of one recklessly handling a sword. Yet is more dangerous for one to have the sword and intend to use for an evil purpose. "For the word of God is living, and active, and sharper than any two-edged sword."

It would be foolish to tell anyone to open the Bible, read, obey, and he would be saved. He might happen to open it up and read the commandment to go and build an ark because there was a great flood coming. This has already happened and not if or us today. Jesus told his disciples that the Old Law was nailed to the cross. Yet some go back there for sabbath keeping, incense burning, etc.

To correctly study the Bible one must realize that the first four books of the New Testament give the life of Christ. Miracles were performed to create faith. Their next, Acts of apostles, tell one how to become a Christian. Following this we have 21 letters telling Christians how to live. Last of all the book of Revelations, revealing future events, etc.

Tonight, "Some Great Things of Pentecost," will be discussed. We begin promptly at 7:30, with a drill 15 minutes earlier for the children.

An Old Adage Reversed

"A company is known by the man it keeps." That's a good one, isn't it?

That a man is known by the company he keeps is an adage that has a place, more or less, in everybody's mouth. But that company is known by the man it keeps is a new way of putting an old fact. That is one of the rules which cuts coming and going.

"A company is known by the man it keeps." Was there ever anything truer? Walk into a large establishment, meet the office boy, and you will know what the company is like, because the right sort of company will have the right sort of office boy; if they do happen to get the wrong sort, he won't last long.

A practical organization is particular about its employees; and how one does like to deal with an institution that is particular with regard to its employees, and requires its employees to be particular about its patrons.

You will go out of your way to patronize an establishment where the employees are nice to meet and efficient to deal with. You will pay more money, if you can afford it, to trade at a store that treats you the way you like to be treated. When a company has surly, unaccommodating, incompetent help, you always think of that company as surly, unaccommodating and incompetent—if you think of it at all. But where an institution has a pleasant, obliging, capable force you always think of that concern as being pleasant, obliging and capable, when you think of it, and you are likely to think of it whenever you want anything in its line.

The other day a man was looking for some emery dust to sharpen his lawn mower. The instructions told him to "get No. 120 fine, mix into a paste with machine oil, apply to the lawn knife, and turn the reel backwards." The man called up every hardware store in town, not one of them had what he wanted.

"Let me order it for you," suggested the last store phoned.

"I hate to put you to all that trouble," said the man. "I only want an ounce."

"That's all right," replied the clerk heartily, "that's

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—You are quite right if you think the present time is much too early to come to conclusions as to the question of Mr. Roosevelt in relation to the 1940 presidential campaign. But there is no law against speculation or discussion, and anyone may safely resign himself to hearing more and more about it from now on, unless Roosevelt emphatically rules himself out of the picture.

There will be polls designed to measure public sentiment for Roosevelt and for the other presidential possibilities. These polls will be watched with intense interest.

A peculiar situation will result if it turns out that the President is far more of a popular favorite to succeed himself than any other public man. If the polls do begin to pan out that way there will be a great howl for a declaration from Roosevelt himself.

The polls, in fact, already have begun. Fortune Magazine has taken a poll on the question of whether public opinion favored a third term for F. D. R. It found that only 43.6 per cent opposed a third Roosevelt term, that 48.4 per cent favored it—nearly half on the proviso that his second term is successful—and 8 per cent didn't know.

Only 36 per cent declared against the idea solely on the ground that no one should serve more than two terms. It is easy to believe this section included many who would naturally oppose Roosevelt.

Only 7.4 per cent registered as opposed because of disapproval of F. D. R., and only 10.2 because of disapproval of both Roosevelt and third terms.

The Queen's Work, a national Catholic monthly, has been polling Washington correspondents on their predictions as to the 1940 Democratic nominee. Early returns were showing that two-thirds of the correspondents picked Roosevelt as the likeliest nominee, with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace running second, but obviously not very strong.

WHILE debate rages over the Roosevelt Supreme Court plan, civil service is taking a licking. The President's proposal to extend the merit system "upward, outward and downward" is being made a pawn in the game.

Because the President isn't taking on any new fights, the crop insurance bill, passed by the Senate with a provision exempting from civil service all officials and employees hired under the act, is likely to stand that way in the House.

The new Guffey coal bill passed by the House exempts a large number of clerks, attorneys, special agents, technical experts and examiners.

It's an ironic fact that Roosevelt, in not being bitterly attacked for an attempt to grab power through his court proposal, offered in the civil service section of his reorganization program to surrender more power than any President had proposed to give up in many decades. Opportunity to appoint six new justices temporarily means a tremendous extension of executive power. But Roosevelt afterward would have no control over the six. Putting the entire government personnel under civil service, as Roosevelt proposed, would mean an abandonment of executive patronage power immeasurably valuable. But it's doubtful now whether Congress will ever permit this abnegation. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

what we are here for—to serve you. I'll have it mailed direct to you from the factory and you'll get it in a few days." "Well, now, that was nice of that chap," said the man to his wife as he hung up the phone. "I have never bought anything from that concern, but they must be good folks; they have good men working for them." "A company is known by the man it keeps," is a pertinent axiom which the head of any concern would do well to frame and hang where the eye will fall on it until the letters have burned themselves into his consciousness.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

By Nard Jones © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY MARTHAS BRITAIN and BETTY HAYNES pick up GERRY NEAL, a handsome young hitchhiker, on their way up the west coast to demonstrate the new Airspeed trailer. At the Long Beach auto camp, where Neal was to meet a friend, one JACK SPEEDDON, Neal disappears from the trailer and Speeddon abducts Betty. After repeated efforts to find Betty, Martha and Neal meet Neal and agree to return to San Francisco with him to search for Betty. Meanwhile, Martha has fallen in love with Neal, despite the fact she does not know whether she can trust him. In San Francisco, Martha finds that neither Betty nor Speeddon are registered at the hotel designated for their meeting. Instead, Martha gets a letter, presumably from Betty, explaining that everything is all right.

But Martha is increasingly disturbed. She wants to call police but Neal tells her this move might mean Betty's death. He says Neal tells Martha he loves her, but she would have turned him in to the police long ago. And the next day on route north with Neal, Speeddon suddenly steers her car into a billing station, while Neal is asleep, and tells the attendant that Gerry must be arrested.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

THE burly attendant took one look at Martha's pretty, troubled face, and needed no further encouragement. In a swift movement he reached beneath the cash register and brought out a revolver. Three long strides and he was at the side of the coupe, swinging open the door.

"Come on," he said, nudging Neal's shoulder. "Get out of there!"

Neal stirred drowsily, then opened his eyes, found himself staring into the ominous barrel of the station attendant's revolver. "What's the idea?" he sat up straight, looking first at his assailant, then beyond at Martha Britain. "What is this, a joke?"

"No," the husky young attendant mentioned. "I said get out of there, and it isn't any joke." He spoke over his shoulder to Martha. "You better call the police station. I can't leave here or I'd take him down for you."

Neal's eyes widened unbelievably. "Police station? Look here—"

"No back talk, buddy. Hold quiet a minute." A huge hand tapped the bulge in Neal's coat pocket, drew out the revolver he had taken from Martha's coupe. "Now just sit down on the running board there while the lady phones for a nice big taxi."

His expression ludicrous with astonishment, Gerry Neal dropped ignominiously to the running board of the coupe. He saw Martha taking down the receiver of the telephone inside the glass enclosure beyond the gasoline pumps. "See here, you fool, that girl has misled you. You've no right to—" interrupted. No doubt about it, he was enjoying himself as he had never enjoyed himself before. In his excited brain danced sweet visions of newspaper headlines, maybe a reward for capturing a dangerous criminal.

Neal fell silent. Though he was inwardly raging he knew now that he was helpless. This giant idiot wouldn't listen to reason—and Martha had already telephoned the police. Casually he asked his captor's permission to reach into his pocket for a cigarette. Instead, the younger man inserted one of his own between Neal's lips and lighted it. "I'm not," he explained, "taking any chances."

It seemed to Martha that she had hardly turned from the telephone when a siren-screening police car rolled into the station lot.

She was taken aback, however, when one of the officers reminded her that she must come to the station with them and prefer charges against Neal.

The desk sergeant, under the impression that he was facing speeders or roisterers, yawned prodigiously as they entered the room. But a word from the officer made him sit straighter. He looked hard at Martha.

"What's your story?" Quickly she told him, avoiding Gerry Neal's eyes. She began with the day she and Betty got the job with the Airspeed Trailer Company, and showed her letters from Arnold Sloss. She told of Betty's disappearance with Speeddon, and how Neal had insisted upon accompanying her.

When she had finished, the desk sergeant turned to Neal. "What have you to say about this?" he shot out.

"Nothing," Neal said quietly. "I think Miss Britain has told you the whole story."

The officer shrugged. "We can send out a description of Miss Haynes and this Speeddon and the car in which they were last seen. As for this man here, I'll be glad to see that he doesn't annoy you further. There's also the little matter of a permit to carry a revolver."

"T-then I may go?" asked Martha, trembling.

"Yes," Brean, take the young lady back to her car, will you?"

When she returned to the gasoline station to reclaim the trailer and coupe she found the burly attendant waiting expectantly. "What happened, lady? What are they going to do to him?" "I don't know," Martha said. "At any rate, they're going to hold him—and I can go on in peace. How can I thank you enough for sharp as a two-edged sword. Her feet go down to death, her steps take hold of hell.

"Can a man take fire in his bosom and his clothes not be burned? Can one go upon hot coals and his feet not be burned?"

It was right for Solomon to leave us the rope, for he knew more about "wild women" than any man who ever lived. It ought to be a help—as ought the warnings of other fellows who know, and the examples of folks like the Romans who got theirs. The history of the world proves conclusively that that sort of thing won't do.

And it looks as though we in this country are inching a little toward the danger zone—what with our triangles, our ladies of the evening, and our new theories about marriage. Shouldn't be surprised if we also cook up quite a mess of misery for ourselves if we listen to the false prophets.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, April 9 (U.P.)—"Sit-down" strikers will get little sympathy—and maybe a warm reception—when and if they decide to ply their trade in Texas.

On the eve of a drive to unionize oil workers under the banner of a committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, Gov. James V. Allred state forcefully that sit-down strikes would not be tolerated in Texas.

He described them as "un-American" and "unlawful" and promised that this state would be "no Michigan" when it dealt with sit-downers.

That statement followed a series of conferences between state officials, labor leaders and others.

One bill pending the state legislature would authorize imprisonment of any sit-down striker who did not leave the premises within three hours after he was ordered to be effective before mid-August, the bill must get a two-thirds vote in both houses. Some considered it more expedient to warn sit-down strikers that they must accept the consequences.

State election laws appear destined to remain almost unchanged for at least another campaign, despite the biennial criticism of faults and inconsistencies.

After the last state campaign vigorous reforms were proposed Myron Blackock of Marshall, state Democratic chairman, asked the state executive committee to study the situation. A sub-committee was appointed to classify the errors and conflicts. Blackock now is trying to arrange some definite proposals to the legislature.

Atty. Gen. William McCraw also planned to present a revision of election statutes to the legislators. He has been kept busy in Washington and New York on litigation surrounding the $80,000,000 estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green.

An increase in membership of the state executive committee to 62 with half the members women, is proposed in a bill offered by Sen. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio. Another bill seeks to prevent embezzlements by persons handling election funds.

Legislators have become almost immune to pleas for money, but state senators took notice recently when a request was made for appropriation of less than $15,000 for the West Texas Museum, operated in connection with the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon.

The senators soon were interested in the way that West Texas went about uncovering evidence of its early history and the wealth of material that had been gathered and classified. Ranchers over a wide area have surrendered their rights, so the museum may have a share in the discoveries of numerous expeditions.

H. C. Pipkin, Amarillo attorney and one of several prominent Panhandle residents who spend their spare time with pick and shovel, surprised the lawmakers with his recitation of the findings.

The Panhandle has long more important than the Gobi Desert, said Pipkin. Palo Duro, Canyon has all the rock strata of the Grand Canyon—and another one besides. Indian pueblos were found as fully developed as the famous pueblos of New Mexico. The Basket Indians also were there.

Skeletons of huge men and prehistoric animals have been found. The skeleton of one man measures 13 feet, although the head is missing.

Sen. T. J. Holbrook of Galveston always holds his colleague's attention when he really opposes a bill. If interest lags in his speech, he senses it quickly and rivets attention anew with some apt phrase.

The firmen's pension bill was up the other day. It levies a two per cent tax on insurance companies, which Holbrook contended would be passed on to policy holders although the bill prohibits such practice. Senators began to lose interest as Holbrook told of the probable effect. Then he snapped them to attention.

"To say it will not be passed on is just noctus pocus," he said. "The law permits payment of pensions to firemen in greater amounts than is now granted under old age assistance."

Those fellows who sit around the grocery store on soap boxes and whistle and spit tobacco will rush to join the fire departments," Holbrook prophesied.

The "Swan Song" was issued this week as a substitute for the 31st issue of "Three Weekly Blast," journal of the law enforcement department of the state railroad commission's motor transportation division. Insufficient funds and the lack of time to prepare copy was given as the reason for discontinuance.

Industry Seeking Skilled Workers

NEW YORK, April 9 (U.P.)—A scarcity of highly skilled craftsmen already exists in the metal-working industries and is becoming increasingly acute, according to a study made public by the National Industrial Conference Board. Reports from companies in other industries including textiles, paper, printing and lumber indicate that in some sections there is a definite scarcity of certain types of labor, but that labor shortage has not yet become as serious a problem as in the metal-working industries.

The Conference Board's survey of conditions in the metal-working industries covered 404 companies employing approximately 467,296 workers. Of these companies, 21.4 per cent reported no skilled labor shortage; 26.5 per cent indicated that a serious scarcity of such labor existed; and 52.2 per cent reported that they had found it impossible to secure competent craftsmen to fill jobs that were open. This last group of 211 companies would employ a total of 7,158 additional skilled craftsmen if they could be found.

HITCH-HIKER ERRS

FALL RIVER, Mass. (U.P.)—A woman hitch-hiker "thumbed" her way into the police station here En route to New York, she mistakenly asked Ernest Mawn and Albert Bosslin, state troopers, for a lift. They drove her to a police station, where she was charged with vagrancy.

CORRAL TOWN HORSELESS

WATSONVILLE, Cal. (U.P.)—This city, originally known as Watson's Corral because of its horse industry, has become so auto-conscious that it boasts of the fact there is not a box still in town for rent.

COLLEGE GETS RARE CANVAS

HAVERTFORD, Pa. (U.P.)—Haverford College has been presented with a rare canvas done in the 17th century by Egbert van Hemskerk, the Younker, titled "The Quaker Meeting." The picture was given to the college by Mrs. Mary Vaux Walcott, of Washington.

OLD CARS GO OVER CLIFF

PORTLAND, Ore. (U.P.)—A novel way to dispose of ancient automobiles which are a menace on the highways has been instituted by the Portland Automobile Dealers' Association. Old machines were driven about the city to attract attention, and then over a cliff near town.

Factory Workers Highest Since 1929

WASHINGTON, April 9—The success which has attended the efforts of American industry to reduce unemployment is revealed by the latest report of the Department of Labor showing that factory employment in February was the highest since December 1929.

Despite the current epidemic of strikes, manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries added 215,000 employees to their payrolls between January 15 and February 15, the report shows. This is more than enough to offset the seasonal decline after the year-end holidays, it was pointed out.

Employment rose 1,550,000 between 1936 and 1937, the report showed. Among the industries showing the greatest gain in employment were iron and steel, agricultural implements, machine tools, radios and phonographs, typewriters, aircraft, automobiles, knit goods, men and women's clothing, paper and pulp, paints and varnishes.

Superstition Versus Increased Learning

Recent press dispatches from China told how several hundred coolies went on a rampage, rioting and destroying machinery in a textile mill. The reason, of course, was that they thought the machines were robbing them of jobs.

Most of us who read those dispatches probably smiled and thought about those "poor, ignorant Chinese." But it wasn't so long ago that some of the "more enlightened" races were doing the same thing. And even today we occasionally run across people in our own country who think that machines create unemployment.

Actually, the Chinese who raided the mill knew only one side of the case. So do some Americans. While on the subject, let's look at a few facts:

1. Between 1870 and 1930—the period of the greatest expansion of machinery—the population of the United States increased only 212 per cent while gainfully employed rose 291 per cent. In 1870, without machines, it took 324 persons per 1,000 to produce goods and services; in 1930, with many more machines, it took 400 persons per 1,000 population.

2. In 1860, when everything was done by hand, there were 4,369 office workers per million of population; in 1930, with adding machines, typewriters, and so on, there were 49,805 office workers per million.

3. In 1850, only 38 per cent of the national income went to the working men; today, they get more than 67 per cent of it.

All we have to do is compare the lot of the superstitious Chinese with that of the average American. That comparison shows clearly whether machines are helpful or harmful.

ANTIQUÉ VIOLIN BELIEVED USED BY OLE BULL

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (U.P.)—John W. Williams, amateur painter and poet, and collector of antiques, is the possessor of a violin, which he says once belonged to the famed Norwegian violinist and philanthropist, Ole Bull.

The discovery of the old instrument came about by accident. While rummaging and cleaning one of his antique dressers, Williams chanced upon a secret drawer, which revealed the violin, wrapped in an 1879 issue of a Buffalo newspaper.

Inside the soundbox of the violin are the markings: "Antonio Stradivarius—Faciebat Anno 1822." On the base end of the instrument is the name, "Ole Bull," Williams intends to have the violin appraised.

Williams lives in a massive house overlooking the Niagara River. It was built more than 80 years ago, and is one of the few remaining landmarks of the former village of LaSalle. His collection includes such items as a huge picture of Shakespeare, an ancient Silas Hoadley grandfather clock, which is made entirely of wood, a cedar hitching post, and a host of early American furniture.

Texas Sweetheart to Wear 500 Yards Satin

FORT WORTH, April 8 (U.P.)—The young lady named "Texas Sweetheart for 1937" will wear a gown made of 500 yards of white satin, the largest dress ever made, according to Billy Rose, director of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta.

Rose said the gown would cover the entire Casa Manana state, a revolving platform 130 feet across. The girl to wear it will be selected in a statewide contest to begin this month.

RHINOCEROS DERAILS TRAIN

NAIROBI, India (U.P.)—Traffic on the railway from Mombasa to Nairobi, Kenya, was delayed for several hours by a rhinoceros. Blinded by the searchlight of the locomotive, the rhino charged a train, derailing it. Several passengers were injured, and the rhinoceros was killed.

School Children to Visit Exposition

DALLAS, April 9 — Preparations have begun for receiving a half-million Texas school children who will come to Dallas on designated days this fall to visit the Pan American Exposition.
 The housing bureau is working out an economical rooming plan. Half-admissions for concessions will be granted throughout the grounds. Already, arrangements have been made for half-cent-a-mile railroad fares, effective beginning September 10. These reduced rates will be granted both to students and their teacher sponsors.
 Special days are being designated for 4-H club boys and girls and Future Farmers of America, to further swell attendance of school children. The international aspect of this year's world's fair, opening in Dallas June 12, is providing even greater educational field interest than last year's Centennial.

Artist Captures Jamboree Spirit

WASHINGTON D.C. JUNE 30 - JULY 9

This happy Scout portrayed on Norman Rockwell's painting for the official poster of the National Scout Jamboree typifies the spirit of friendship and adventure which will be the lot of 25,000 American boys who will camp with Scouts of other lands on 350 acres at Washington, D. C., loaned them by Congress for their Jamboree from June 30 to July 9.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA WILL EDIT JAMBOREE JOURNAL DAILY

WASHINGTON, April 9—Many Boy Scouts aspiring to be newspaper reporters, editors, cartoonists or news photographers in the future will have real experiences this summer when they publish a daily morning newspaper, the "Jamboree Journal", for their National Jamboree here from June 30 to July 9.

Plans have been announced for the publication of a sixteen-page illustrated tabloid newspaper with a circulation estimated at 50,000 copies. It will be edited and illustrated by Boy Scouts and their leaders who are members of Boy Scout Press Clubs and printed on the presses of one of the daily Washington newspapers.

To Women:

If you suffer every month you owe it to yourself to take note of Cardui and find out whether it will be left you. Functional pains of menstruation have, in many, many cases, been eased by Cardui. And where malnutrition (poor nourishment) had taken away woman's strength, Cardui has been found to increase the appetite, improve digestion and in that way help to build up a natural resistance to certain useless suffering. (Where Cardui fails to benefit, consult a physician.)

Sculptor Sought In Model's Death

The person whom New York police say they most want to question in connection with the murder of Veronica Gedeon, pretty model, and two others, has been identified as Robert Irwin (above), 29, sculptor and theological student of St. Lawrence University.

Garden Club Ladies Want Stock Confined

The Garden Club is sponsoring a campaign to prevent cows and chickens from destroying the fruits of their labors in planting shrubbery and flowers and inspiring other women with ideals of home beautification for their lawns and gardens.

Much damage has already been done to shrubs planted on highway 23 and should repetitions of these depredations, by loose stock occur all the money and time spent on highway beautification would come to naught.

Many people keep chickens which are sometimes allowed to run loose and destroy neighborhood gardens and flowers. One old hen can destroy more in one hour than can be grown in many days. If hens and stock cannot be kept confined, they should not be kept in a city, these women think. The county has a stock law and it is the impression of these ladies that the city has an ordinance that prevents chickens from running at large. They want those laws enforced.

Heads of Industry Honor Motor Birth

Giants of the motor industry, including Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Henry Ford, and Walter P. Chrysler have been invited to Springfield, Massachusetts, to attend, on April 14, the forty-fifth anniversary luncheon saluting Springfield as the birthplace of the motor industry and honoring Charles E. Duryea as the inventor of the first successful automobile built in America. The luncheon is being sponsored by the Springfield Kiwanis Club.

More than half a hundred outstanding figures in the automotive industry are on the invited guests list, and the committee in charge anticipates an over-flow attendance at the luncheon. Mr. Duryea, who is now 75 years old, will come from his home in Philadelphia to attend the unveiling of bronze plaques commemorating the birth of the American automobile. One will be set in the lobby of the Hotel Kimball in Springfield, and the other on the outside of the building at 47 Taylor Street, the scene of Mr. Duryea's early endeavors as an automobile manufacturer.

The luncheon in Springfield on April 14th is a proper gesture of esteem to Mr. Duryea and to Springfield, developer and birthplace of the largest industry in the world. Trophies and medals won by early Duryea cars in automobile races in this country and abroad will be brought to Springfield and put on display.

The first car built by Mr. Duryea and the one which gave him the distinction of being the father of the American gasoline-driven automobile, is now in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington D. C.

Lobo Band—

If Glenn is not able to play, Much fear is felt for the first chair cornet, Jack Lauderdale and first chair clarinet, June Morehart. Jack has been absent from school due to a bad throat disorder and June is just recovering from a case of pneumonia. Both were in school today but weather conditions will have to be good for them to make the trip.

Jack's experience is badly needed for all of the parts, and June could make prospects look better if she is able to play. John James Haynie, a promising youngster who plays the cornet, will play in the solo contest. Haynie is still in Grammar school and has five more years of service in the band. His tone and technique are improving very much and the high school is mighty proud to have John playing in the band.

Ralph McCanlis "the little boy with the big horn," is entering the solo contest also. Ralph, better known as "Red" will play a difficult piece on his large saxophone. Red is small but he fills a most vital spot in the band.

The cello player, Mary Olive Garrett, has shown a great improvement on her very difficult instrument which is very important voice in the band.

Members of the band who will make the trip are:

Clarinet, Loree Clifton, Helen Curry, Norma Gormley, Wilburn Gormley, Clyde Isaacks, Roy Little, June Morehart, Mary Louise Poe, Joyce Rainbolt, Fred Steffey, Raymond Thomas, Bobbie McWhorter, and Marcell Robbins.

Saxophone, Alton Lomax, Spurgeon Parks, Vance Rominger, Helen Louise Lawson, Waymon Johnson, and Charles McDonald.

Cornets, Elizabeth Bailey, Harry Gray, Oran Clark, John James Haynie, Jack Lauderdale, Glenn Bailey, Eldon Anderson, F. E. Sage, and Vernon Sage.

Bassos, Ralph McCanlis, Melvin Johnston, and Morris White.

Trombones, Paul Davis, Billy Dawkins, James Flourney, Phil McCanlis, Lee Smith, and Edward Steyer.

Drums, J. T. Culp and Jack Hunter.

Baritones, Glenn Boyd and Burkett Huestis.

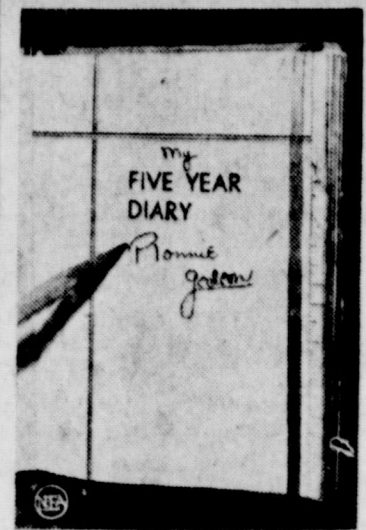

Flutes, Jessie Lee Haynie and Doris Six.

Dionne Quins Thrive on Oatmeal

For many weeks every man, woman and child watched with tense interest to see what would happen to the Quins. The fate of these famous babies was a source of speculation and wonder. The Dominion of Canada, making their welfare a National obligation, put them in the care of a top-notch staff of child experts. The amazing result of this special care are miraculous examples of the glowing health that science can give. Their diet is composed of things which do them good and which they like—such as oatmeal.

Oatmeal was given to these charming babies by the dietitians because oatmeal with milk contains such an abundance of body-building protein, energy-making carbohydrates and Vitamin B for keeping fit.

Vitamin B is the best safeguard against these dangerous enemies of childhood—nervousness, constipation, and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin in the diet. Therefore the Quins thrive on Quaker Oats.
