FORMER CISCO EXTORTIONIST KILLED

PEEPER FAILS TO HEED STOP ORDER GIVEN

Fred Mahan, alias Mahon, alias Monahan was shot to death at Abilene Friday night by Holland Hope, ministerial student at McMurry college, when Mahan was discovered window peeping and refused to stop when commanded.

Fred Mahan was held in jail in Cisco last August several days before being taken to Abilene to be charged with attempted extortion in the matter of writing a note to Sam Butler of Eastland. The last note in the case having instructed Butler to throw $6,000 from the train just after leaving Cisco going west. The plan miscarried, however, when flares were thrown from the train about two blocks west of the union station and the culprit Fred Mahan was arrested later by Chief Police Perdue and held for federal officers. Mahan was out on bond when shot at Abilene.

The account as related by Hope follows:

Had Record
Identification was made by a photograph in the city police files. Hope and his wife identified the picture as that of the man at whom Hope said he fired. Police said their records showed the man had served two years in the state penitentiary from Palo Pinto county for theft, and a jail sentence in Oklahoma City for window peeping. He had been picked up for investigation in Abilene.

Hope appeared at police headquarters and made a statement. Officers said he would appear today before the county attorney, make a statement and be released. No charges will be filed, they said.

Foot Prints

Hope said he had found foot prints in the flower beds at his residence, 1660 Avenue A, for the past three days. Last night he hid in the back yard and watched for the prowler, he declared. About 9 o'clock a man walked past him and continued to the house, he said.

Hope's account of the shooting continued thus: "I had never seen the prowler but had noticed his tracks in the flower beds under the

CALIFORNIA BOY ESCAPE AFTER SENTENCE MADE

FORT WORTH, April 10 (UP)—John C. Vreeken, 15-year-old Hollywood boy who escaped from Juvenile Officer W. E. Milson yesterday after he was sentenced to the state reformatory for a series of robberies and thefts, was captured today.

"I was trying to get some money so I could go back to my mother in California," he said.

Vreeken was accused of a burglary, two highjackings of motorists and car theft. He was arrested in Electra.

"I'll give you guys a story," he told reporters, "but you will have to bribe me into it. It ought to be worth four bits."

A package of cigarettes proved sufficient.

Broadminded or Boneheaded?

The position taken by a certain prominent judge that married folks should not restrict each other from having outside love affairs brings this outburst from one woman: "It was just such liberalities as that," she declared, "that ruined my husband's life, my life, and marred the lives of our children. I tried to be liberal and I have paid dearly for it.

"My husband succeeded early in life. He had become wealthy by the time he was thirty; then as the need for making money was no longer pressing, and he had time and means at his disposal, he began to do things I knew he had no business to do. He commenced to show attention to other women. When I discovered that I was cut to the quick, but somehow I thought I had no right to interfere with him, that he was an individual, that he had a right to his friendships, and that if he chose the society of other women there was nothing for me to do but be a good sport and bear it. And I did.

"What was the result? He went from one affair to another. Running after women because his occupation, while his business became a side line. His business associates began to look on him with suspicion. Little by little they withdrew their support from him. Little by little his money dwindled. Little by little he lost self respect. Then he lost his ability to make good.

"Now where are we? We are nowhere. My boys and girls have been deprived of the education they should have had. Their standing has been injured. My husband is fooling with questionable transactions. He is no more like the man he used to be than night is like day. And I am filled with bitterness and self reproach. All this has come about because I was tolerant, lenient, was what I considered unselfish, broadminded. Now I know I was a fool. I should have crushed that thing in the egg. I should not have permitted my husband to continue in a way that I knew is wrong and that anybody who knows anything, knows is wrong. I should have stood for what I believed to be the right thing, regardless of whose feelings were hurt or who was deprived.

"In duty to her husband," the wife went on, "no woman should allow him to follow a path that she knows to be injurious. If she loves him her love should be expressed in an effort to protect him, not to humor him in self-destruction. Men after all are nothing but boys grown up. At heart they are just kids. I don't care how prominent and influential and austere they may become, they are just big bad boys. A woman should protect her husband from folly, no matter how much he yearns for it."

"Tell me," the writer inquired, "shouldn't a man adopt a similar attitude toward his wife?"

OUT OUR WAY

Good Old Days—And How!

To those who send up a long wail for "the good old days when working was a pleasure, this excerpt from the employes' Rules of a Chicago Department Store in the 1880's.

1. Store must be open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. the year round.
2. Store must be swept; counters, shelves, and show-cases dusted; lamps trimmed, filled, and chimneys cleaned; pens made; doors and windows opened; a pail of water and a bucket of coal brought in, before breakfast. (If there is time to do so, attend to customers who call.)
3. The store must not be opened on the Sabbath unless necessary and then only for a few minutes.
4. The employe who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, being shaved at the barber's, going to dances and other places of amusement, will assuredly give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and honesty.
5. Each employe must pay not less than $5 per year to the church, and must attend Sunday school regularly.
6. Men employes are given one evening a week for courting, and two if they go to prayer meeting.
7. After fourteen hours in the store, the leisure should be spent for the most part in reading.

Oil Drilling in Eastland County

At 8 o'clock Saturday morning the Bearman townsite was drilling at 1500 feet with the 10-inch casing set Thursday night. The log shows regular structures and there is no unusual events at that stage. R. A. Bearman reports.

Hoffman & Page No. 1, J. S. Dodd about six miles southeast of Eastland and west of Ranger, today was drilling below 2380 feet and was expected to reach the upper Ranger pay sand Monday at 3080 feet.

It was from the upper Ranger pay that Garvin D. Chastain No. 1, Brasher from which the Dodd is 2800 feet southeast, obtained initial production over 500 barrels.

Hoffman & Page's well is in the sub-division 11 of the Brownson sub-division, William Van Norman survey.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

By Nard Jones

© 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARTHA BRITAIN and BETTY NEAL, handsome young hitchhikers, on their way up the west coast to demonstrate the new Airspeed trailer. At the Long Beach auto camp where Neal was to meet a friend, one JACK SPEDDON, Neal disappears from the trailer and Speddon abducts Betty. After repeated efforts to find Betty, Martha meets Neal again. He goes to San Francisco with her to search for Betty but instead retreats against calling in the police since, he tells her, this might mean Betty's death. Martha, greatly worried, bids herself torn between two fires as she is learning to love Neal, yet she cannot know whether to trust him from San Francisco. Neal tells Martha he loves her. She reasons that she must not let herself fall for this man under the circumstances when he seems involved in Betty's disappearance. So she pits her own game, returns his love, and at the right moment swoops into a filing station, calls police, and has Neal arrested. He submits to arrest without referring Martha's story.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

NEVER would Martha Britain be able to remember clearly the night and day following her discovery that Speddon had gone north without Betty Haynes—the night and day which took her from the California border to Portland, that busy metropolis of northern Oregon.

Afterward she knew that if it hadn't been for the shock of the news at the border she wouldn't have gone on north at all. Cool and sober judgment would have made her stay on, since the traffic officer seemed so certain that Betty had not proceeded with Speddon into the north. But oftentimes Providence steps in to take a hand, to make mortals relinquish their cool and sober judgments. Betty was to believe that this must have been the case during those bleak 48 hours after she left the California border, those hours when she seemed to have driven on blindly, without consciousness and without reason.

But she would never forget the moment which brought her into grim reality—a moment of surprise that struck her like a dash of icy water. It was a slim white sign-post which she slowed down to read, her mind struggling from its fog. At first the word connoted nothing, and then she took in its meaning. Even then she could not believe it, was inclined to think it the roadside trick of some itinerant wag. She stopped at a roadside stand a little farther on and asked the freckled little shopkeeper how far it was to Portland.

"About 14 miles, lady. Just keep on going 'the way you are.'"

Then she knew that the sign had been right. She had driven somehow—more than 200 miles across a western state, and yet she remembered no more than a handful of scattered moments from it! While the freckledurchin gaped curiously, Martha sat silently in the coupe trying to remember, trying to collect her shattered bearings.

The words of the California state patrol officer drifted back to her. "I looked in the record book and found Speddon's name and his license number. He was okayed through—and nobody was with him!"

NOBODY was with him. That was what had paralyzed her reason. It had struck her suddenly, that Betty was dead—and then, mercifully, all reason had grown dim. She had functioned like an automaton. Martha remembered stories of soldiers in the Great War, of how when death was all about them, and their eyes were seeing frightful carnage, they went on without knowing or caring—as though God in His wisdom were protecting them in that awful hour from something which might drive them into an insanity worse than death.

But now as she sat there, slowly reclaiming her grip upon reality, she saw that the officer's words might really be the first ray of sun that had pierced since the moment she knew Betty was not going to return to the trailer. Perhaps Betty had escaped, or Speddon had let her go before crossing the border. In that happy event, her first move would be to get in touch with Martha.

With a start Martha realized that, according to Sloss' itinerary, she should have made several stops before reaching Portland. But now the best she could do was to go on to Portland and wait for Betty's message there.

Consulting Sloss' itinerary book, Martha read, "Rose City Trailer Haven, Portland, Oregon." Sliding the book back into the pocket of the coupe, she shoved into gear and was off for Portland.

She had no sooner registered at the Rose City Trailer Haven than the alert woman proprietor said, "I think I got a letter for you. It's addressed in pencil and kind of smudged—but I think it says 'Martha Britain'."

"Let me see it!"

The woman fumbled among the disarray of a dusty desk. "Here some itinerant wag. She stopped at a roadside stand a little farther on and asked the freckled little shopkeeper how far it was to Portland.

"About 14 miles, lady. Just keep on going 'the way you are.'"

North and west windows. About 9 o'clock tonight a man came up the alley and passed by me. I waited until he stooped over and was peeping through the north window. I shouted, "You're just the man I'm watching for." He started running and I shouted "stop." He did not stop and I fired at him. I aimed at his legs. He was about 20 yards away when I fired.

Called Wife

When the man fell Hope called to his wife to call a doctor, but stopped her and told her to call the police, he related.

Hospital attendants said the bullet entered the man's left back, pierced the stomach and went through the left lung. He died at 10:30 p. m. in Hendrick Memorial hospital an hour and 20 minutes after being wounded.

Hope's weapon was a .41 calibre pistol.

Butler, President of the Aral Gasoline Company, received a letter last August demanding $3,000 for "protection" of his children, one high school girl and the other a college student.

Cleaving instructions. Butler tossed a satchel supposedly containing the money from a train leaving Cisco. Officers accompanying Butler threw a lighted flare from the train, but the man wanting to seize the satchel escaped from other officers who were following the train in automobiles.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and Cisco officers arrested Mahan on August 17th, and charged him with attempted extortion, in the Federal Court at Abilene.

Mahan previously had served a prison term for theft in Palo Pinto County.

125 Pigeons Will Fly in 2nd Contest

One hundred and twenty-five pigeons will wing their way from Oklahoma City Sunday enroute to Fort Worth in the second weekly contest sponsored by the Fort Worth Racing Pigeon Club.

Last week, the racing pigeons flew 100 miles from Ardmore, Okla., and the owners plan to increase the distance each week until a 1,000-mile flight is begun at Jamestown, N. D.

"Scopy" weather, fog and mist cut down the speed last week but all 125 entries reported back to their home lofts in Fort Worth in commendable time. Less than three hours were required for A. W. Mount's winning racer to cover the 100-mile distance.

The bird was timed officially at more than 819 yards a minute.

"SCARE" DRIVER FINED

ANTIOCH, Cal. (AP)—It cost a motorist a $25 fine to try and qualify as a "scare" driver. His theory was that the best way to break down the habit of boys who suddenly appear before an automobile and thumb a ride was to drive them in such a manner as to scare them.

Navy to Retire 66 Ships by '38

EAN DIEGO, Cal. (AP)—During the next 20 months the United States Navy will place at least 66 ships on the "retired list," it was learned in naval circles here.

The majority of these vessels will be destroyers and submarines which will be replaced by newer fighting craft.

By the end of the 1938 fiscal year 52 San Diego-owned destroyers will have been decommissioned, along with three submarines.

Thirteen other destroyers will lose their places on Navy lists before July, 1938.

Before July 1 of this year the San Diego destroyers Buchanan, Croxson, Evans, Haie, Lea, Hilda, Roper, Twigg, Aaron Ward, Wickes, Chandler, Dahlgren, Litchfield, Cveton, Freble, Tracy, Hovey, Long and Southard will be gone.

Others listed for early decommissioning include the Berke, Brown, Dallas, MacLish, McCormick, Perry, Pruitt, Sicard, Simpson, Trever, Truston, Washburn and Zane.

Ten submarines are listed for the fiscal year 1938. They are the Bonhomme, Barracuda, based in San Diego, and the S-12, S-21, S-22, S-23, S-26, S-32, S-33, S-34 and S-35.

Four minelayers also are to go down with the destroyers—Blakeley, Bernadou, Breckenridge, Cole, DuPont, Ellis, Greer, Tarbell, Upham and Yarnell which are based outside of San Diego.

Newer speedier and more modern fighting craft, already built or under construction, are scheduled to take the places of the over-age vessels in fleet anchorages on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, it was said, bringing the Navy up to near full strength.

The thrifty way to travel First-class

1937 Ford V-8 owners pay less for their cars, pay less to run them, and travel first class all the time!

Basic reason is the V-8 engine. Eight cylinders give smoother performance. V-type construction is the most modern on land, sea, or in the air, and permits a much more compact power-plant. Space saved under the hood means more room in the body, and more comfort.

This year's V-8 engine is offered in two sizes, 35 horsepower for top-notch performance, 60 horsepower for rock-bottom economy. The latter, available in five body types, makes possible the lowest Ford prices in years and the greatest gasoline mileage in Ford history.

To this choice of V-8 engine sizes, add the other Ford first-class features—Center-Poise Ride, Easy-Action Safety Brakes, all-steel body, advanced design—and you'll realize why the Ford V-8 is the quality car in the low-price field.

LOWEST FORD PRICES IN YEARS

Active Cars Need Motor Oil Changes

Every motor vehicle that has been in operation during the winter months should have its engine oil drained, the crankcase should be flushed, and refilled with new oil of the proper grade for the spring season.

Motor oil is further diluted by the action of automatic chokes. With cold engines, automatic chokes may remain in operation throughout the period of a short run and even raw gasoline, to get into the cylinders and then by cause dilution of the motor oil.

Leakage of anti-freeze solutions, collection of dust and abrasives, and the chemical change that constantly is taking place in motor oil in an engine, in addition to water contamination, makes it very necessary that every car owner have his winter oil drained without delay.

'Some Great Things Of Pentecost Day'

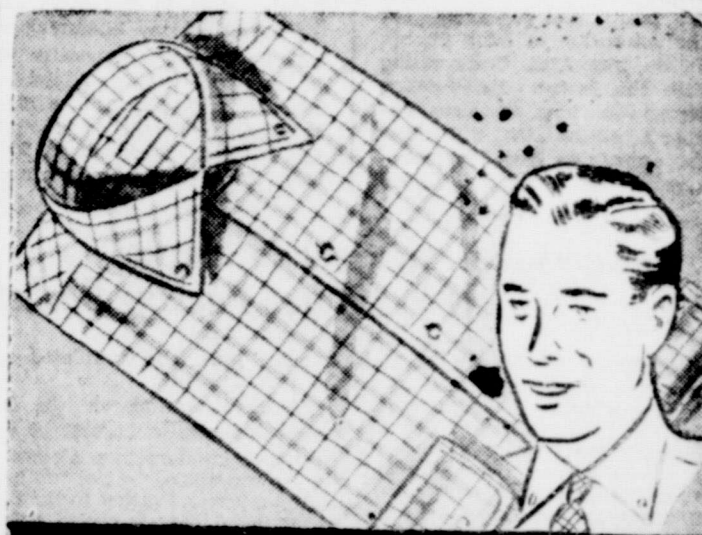

Evangelist M. Lovd Smith at the Church of Christ revival, Friday evening, discussed Pentecost as a great day, a great place, a great crowd, a great sermon, and the great results.

Pentecost was a great day to the Jews because it was held in remembrance of the giving of the law of Moses. To the Gentiles it is the beginning of the Christian dispensation. Jerusalem was the place where the Jews were commanded to meet and worship, so they had gathered from 17 different nations, heard in his own language. People convicted of their sin and cried out, "What shall we do?" Peter told them to "Repent and be baptized for the remission of their sins." About 3,000 of them were baptized and the Lord added them to the church. Sunday morning the evangelist will speak on "Fault Finding, God's Foolishness vs. Man's Wisdom," will be the evening theme. These meetings will continue through next Lord's day. Service each evening beginning at 7:30.

BROWNWOOD IS PREPARING FOR WTCC MEETING

BROWNWOOD, April 10 Elaborate preparations are being made for the nineteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held here May 10 and 12.

Brownwood Chamber of Commerce already has appointed the convention steering committee and committee chairmen. Jed Rix, assistant WTCC manager, has opened convention headquarters in Hotel Brownwood.

An attendance of at least 10,000 people is expected. Hotel reservations are being received daily.

General outline of the program has been completed, but a number of details are yet to be worked out. The program will include two general assemblies, on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

In addition to the general assemblies, four group conferences will be held. "Soil Conservation and Flood Prevention," general theme of the entire convention, will be topic of discussion at one of the conferences. Subject of another one of the conferences will be "Oil and Gas Development in West Texas."

Two luncheons for WTCC directors, who are expected to attend from all affiliated cities and towns, will be held, one on Monday and the other on Tuesday. The directors will hear reports from the convention work committee and vote on proposals and resolutions received.

to increase usefulness of Chambers of Commerce will be featured at this year's convention. Chambers of Commerce will be asked to submit a list of achievements for the past year. An award will be given the organization showing the best completed program. The organization submitting the best program for the coming year will also receive an award.

"This new contest will serve as a clearing house for ideas that any chamber might adopt," Mr. Rix says. Entry blanks for the contest have been mailed.

Gus J. Rosenberg, Brownwood merchant, is chairman of the convention steering committee. Other members are James C. Timmins, Dr. Mollie W. Armstrong, D. D. McIntire, B. P. Bladworth, Joe Weatherby, L. F. Shaw and John Blake.

Chairmen of the local convention committees are: Program arrangements, Adran Box; dances, Ed Evans; luncheons and breakfast, L. E. Shaw; shows and special entertainment, Dr. Mollie W. Armstrong; housing, J. Claude Smith; meeting places and decoration, Robert D. Sparks; local registration, Hubert Leveridge; local registration, Joe Weatherby; bands, D. D. McIntire; entertainment for sponsors, wives of directors and others, Mrs. Oliver J. Orton; reception, James C. Timmins; publicity and advertising, Wendell Mayes.

Tree-Ripened Fruit Goes to Market In New Ventilated Packing Baskets

WASHINGTON (AP)—E. D. Mallison, fruit marketing specialist of the Department of Agriculture's bureau of plant industry, has developed a basket which he says will bring tree-ripened fruit a step nearer big market centers.

Tree-ripened peaches—favored by consumers because of superior flavor—are a step nearer the big marketing centers because of modifications in the shipping basket which allows the fruit to be refrigerated more quickly, Mallison said.

The basket is slatted or spaced for ventilation. The crown-shaped lid, disc of open construction, allows air to pass through. Instead of a solid cushion between the lid and the fruit, Mallison devised a ring type ventilated pad with a circular hole in the center. A slatted paper liner completes the ventilated basket.

Mallison said a series of tests he conducted at Fort Valley, Ga., showed that peaches packed in the ventilated baskets with ring pads cooled off three times faster than those packed in the old style unventilated basket with standard pad.

In the experiment, a car of peaches was loaded at an average temperature of 83 degrees Fahrenheit. Three different types of baskets were used—tight, unventilated with standard pad; ventilated with standard pad, and ventilated with the new ring pad.

Thermometers placed in fruit near the center of baskets of each type were checked immediately after the car was cooled for two hours and 10 minutes. Peaches in the tight, unventilated baskets cooled only 72.4 degrees. In the ventilated baskets with standard pads the temperature dropped to 63.3 degrees and in the new-type ring pad baskets the temperature dropped to 54.5 degrees.

Pre-cooling—now widely used in the commercial peach orchards of Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia and Tennessee—is a comparatively recent process by which fresh fruits and vegetables are chilled immediately after loading into a refrigerator car.

The new type basket favors more rapid and better results from pre-cooling, Mallison said. Prior to pre-cooling it was necessary to harvest peaches while still hard, so that they would remain firm in transit. Some of the flavor was sacrificed for appearance. Proper packing, plus cooling, allows peaches to be both attractive and tasty, Mallison said.

COW JUMPS 7 FEET

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Somewhere in this section of southeastern Missouri is a high jumping cow. When a train stopped at the stock pens here to unload, the cow became excited. She leaped a seven-foot fence with inches to spare and made for the nearby woods.

MARRIAGE FOLLOWS SENTENCE

KITTANNING, Pa. (AP)—Russell Edward Crawford, 23, married Blanche Mable Crawford a few minutes after he was sentenced to from one to two years in the workhouse for breaking and entering. The five-day wait for a marriage license as required by law was waived on order of the judge.

GREECE has just issued a new series of 13 stamps depicting the "Greek Spirit." The issue covers the whole range of Greek history, from the mythical days of the gods to the great war of independence in 1821. The new 13 values supplement four stamps previously issued.

A new Belgian stamp pictures the late Queen Astrid holding her son, Crown Prince Baudoin. There are eight values, each with a surtax, to be used for parks and convalescent homes for Belgian children and for a monument to Queen Astrid in Brussels.

Another Spanish government issue, despite the civil war, is a stamp commemorating the third centenary of the death of Gregorio Fernandez, famous Spanish sculptor.

France has issued a stamp in honor of the famous philosopher and scientist, Descartes.

A new country for stamp collectors is Burma, India, which has just become an independent state and has begun issuing its own stamps.

The Michigan centennial stamp has been withdrawn from sale at the Washington philatelic agency. Next may go the Oregon commemorative.
