About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

Having is a nuisance. Every man who has to shave admits that we make that statement notwithstanding the magazine advertisements picturing happy, smiling persons joyfully scraping their tenancies with somebody's make safety razor.

For national shaving bill would the interest on our national debt and retire the debt. Why do we go to all that trouble, and that expense to get something that nature intends should be there. Does vanity play any part in the matter? Some one asks, "men reveal their faces their for the same reason that women reveal their legs?" There is a point in that guess, for many men's face would look better covered up, as would many a woman's. Perhaps self protection is an act in man's persistence in revealing his hirsute adornment, for the beard will give the age away rather than anything else. The hair on the face shows gray sooner than the hair on the head. A young man may have a gray head, but a young man does not have a gray beard; and this is supposed to be a young man's day.

The beard has had its up and downs, or rather its ups and downs, and finally the beard was highly valued and cultivated, as it was regarded as a symbol of manhood, which indeed it is; for that is one particular in which woman, save in a few instances, cannot compete with man.

But Alexander the Great saw a disadvantage in hair on the chin, and the enemy got to grabbing his soldiers by their shags and holding them thereby while they put them out of business, so Alexander shaved his warriors shave.

Some men cannot grow beards, the American Indian for instance, his face can produce at best but a few straggling hairs which he plucks the good taste to pluck out, and the Fifth of Spain, like the man, could not grow a beard.

Allred To Fight It Out On Race Repeal

CALL SPECIAL SESSION IF IT IS NECESSARY

AUSTIN, April 19 (AP)—Governor Allred announced today that he will force a vote on race repeal if it takes a special session of the legislature.

"I do not propose to surrender to a minority," Allred said. "There is no fair reason why the repeal bill cannot be voted upon at the regular session. If it is not, it will be the result of one of the rankiest filibusters the state has ever experienced. I am prepared for a long summer of fight if necessary."

"There isn't any excuse for my having to call a special session. All I have asked is that the senate vote upon it."

The race repeal bill already has passed the house. It received a vote of 20 to 8 in the senate, sending it to final reading, and was sent to a committee.

Senator Wagner's Victory Smile

Senator Robert Wagner isn't exactly shaking hands with himself, but he might well have after the Supreme Court upheld the New York senator's labor relations law in all five cases. Congratulatory messages poured in upon Wagner by wire, telephone, cable and mail—contributing to the obvious jubilation in the above picture.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE WILL SUGGEST CUTTING EXPENSES

WASHINGTON, April 19 (AP)—The white house said today that it is a safe assumption that President Roosevelt's special budget-relief message to congress this week will present definite economies in government spending for the 1937-38 fiscal year.

Presidential aides declined to estimate the savings which Mr. Roosevelt hoped to affect by cutting down unemployment aid and retrenchment of expenditures.

The development came as President Roosevelt, faced with a mounting deficit for the current year called his aides to the white house for a conference on the budget-relief message. It was understood they would hear Mr. Roosevelt read the first draft of the message.

The conference was scheduled after the President returned from throwing out the first ball to open the 1937 baseball season.

Fiscal experts have forecast another $3,000,000,000 federal deficit. The prediction pointed toward a new tax bill if the administration is to make good its promise to balance the budget.

Edward Lee, president of the junior chamber of commerce announces the next soft ball event will be with the Romney boys at Romney Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He urges all Cisconians to attend where possible so that the good will features of these games may be carried out.

The Jaycees have undertaken these friendly trips and inter-community games to the end that a closer relationship may be cultivated while enjoying relaxation from business duties. If citizens and business men see that their clerks attend this event much good will result. The committees sell the town people so they are just as much interested in a closer friendship as are the merchants. "See a good game and meet our neighbors," is the Jaycees' slogan.

In Fight for 'King of Rails' Title

Answering the challenge of a popular upstart in railroading, this sleek steel steam locomotive is taking the rails to pit its speed and efficiency against the streamlined Diesel-electric engines on the same Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road. Weighing 400 tons with coal and water, the steam engine has a cruising speed of 100 to 125 miles an hour, as against 122 miles an hour at which the 216-ton Diesel-electrics have been clocked. Only two stops for coal and six for water are required by the steam locomotive between Chicago and Denver.

SALES TAX ALMOST LOST IN TIE VOTE BROKEN BY WOODUL

AUSTIN, April 19 (AP)—Senator Clint Small's proposal for a state sales tax to finance social security was saved from defeat on a tie vote today by Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul.

A tie vote of 15 to 15 was cast on a motion to table the Amarillo senator's resolution for a constitutional amendment.

Recess until afternoon delayed a direct vote on the plan.

The tie vote was taken after a final appeal by Small to the senate to vote for submission of a sales tax amendment to pass appropriation bills and go home May 12. Previously the senate rejected 19 to 10 a plan to submit a combination natural resource and sales tax.

Baby Thought to Be Cause of Explosion

MUSKEGO, Wis., April 19 (AP)—Authorities believed today that a 2 and a half year old Raymond Wazak caused the explosion which scattered his farm home over an acre and killed his mother and seven brothers and sisters.

The child's body was discovered in the basement, not far from where 50 pounds of low-grade dynamite had been stored. The only survivor was the father, who had bought the explosive several years ago or blasting. He was outside the house when the blast occurred.

ALLRED VEToes PAYING PARKS BOARD SALARY

AUSTIN, April 19 (AP)—Governor Allred sent his third veto to the Texas Legislature today. This time he disapproved a bill to place members of the State Parks Board on a paid basis.

"If the parks board is put on a $10 a day basis," he said, "it would be a precedent for similar demands for many other state boards. No member of the board has asked for pay."

MONEY TAKEN IS PROCEEDS OF TWO DAYS

The Palace theatre was robbed some time last night by a prowler or prowlers, entering through a skylight in the roof, prying through the office door and knocking off the knob of the safe to get to the cash that had accumulated from the two-days business.

A drawer containing about $85 in pennies was pried open but not taken.

Officers were busy this morning on clues, and M. H. French was taking fingerprints about the safe and office doors. Just how much money was taken could only be estimated since Manager Greer had departed for Dallas early this morning and the robbery was only discovered around 7 o'clock when the colored porter came down to clean up and discovered the front door standing slightly ajar.

The robber entered through a skylight at the upper back part of the building, and then pried open the front office door in the upstairs room. The knob of the safe was knocked off with a large punch which was left near. Some think he was disturbed, while others think it might have been a plant to throw officers off the scent.

Chief of Police M. L. Perdue and Constable Gustafson were investigating the building and checking on the large steel punch left at the scene.

Mr. French, fingerprint expert, remarked that it was an expert at the matter and no novice that did the job.

The robber left through the front door which may be opened by the night latch from the inside. It was left open. Evidently the robber knew his way about the building and the location of the money.

This is the third time the theatre has been robbed, said W. H. Mayhew, former manager of the theatre, twice by knocking off the knob and one time by personally holding up Manager Greer at the front window.

Mr. Mayhew was also robbed while he was conducting the theatre. A safe belonging to Mr. Mayhew and containing only papers of no value to anyone else, which was in another part of the building was not molested, said Mr. Mayhew this morning in discussing the robbery.

Today's News

The senate body now faces four weeks of debate over the supreme court reform question. There will be many bills introduced, many amendments and efforts at compromise, but it is highly probable that when they have all been threshed out the main thoughts of Mr. Roosevelt will have been embodied with only here and there a trace of compromise. There will, of course, be compromises but they will be minor items and not the main things that really need attention. "There has been much shouting of dictator, but it was the supreme court themselves who were being the dictators," says Mr. Roosevelt.

Warships of four nations aggregating 60 vessels, will begin their tramp, tramp, figuratively speaking, tonight at midnight up and down the coasts of Spain to see that no outsider slips into the country to inject a foreign slant to the civil war now raging there. It is rather safe to say that when outsiders cease meddling, the internal strife will soon cease. England, France, Germany and Italy are to be the guards and their principal work will be to see that no soldiers of each other enter the fight or give aid and comfort to those within—furnishes no arms, ammunition nor food.

And now we are told that a professor of physics has found a new method of inspiring students to more perfect papers. He sprinkles the better ones with delightfully scented attar of roses, the not so good ones with hydrogen sulphide, and the very bad ones with the terrible butoric acid. The papers are placed in three jars with the perfumes of each properly labeled. Students searched until they found their paper and it was hardly necessary to even look at the grade after they had smelled their paper. It works, he says.

False Movie Faces

Another foreign country is moved to bitter protest against American movies. This time it is not because the American film industry is too strong a competitor to their own. French exhibitors are said to be angry and resentful because American movies persist in showing French characters as immoral. They ask Hollywood to end this fiction. It is typical of a fault which thoughtful Americans have long since recognized and resent somewhat, though unavailingly. An intelligent American who knows anything at all of other nations knows it is not true that:

- All French women are immoral and all French men exaggeratedly polite beyond sense and reason;
- All Englishmen are silly dubs;
- All Swedes are dull-minded yodels;
- All Orientals are criminals of sly and diabolic skill.

But what is to be done about it? The movie producers, perhaps only following legitimate drama and the precedent of a cheap class of fiction, have succeeded in isolating these types from reality and have even convinced themselves that any other presentation of foreigners would be contrary to public wishes, unpatriotic and other dire things. They fail themselves as for the indignant foreigners.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Senior Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—Herbert Hoover, Andrew Mellon and other leaders of our Republican past planned and built many handsome, gaudy government buildings which began to be completed about the time Roosevelt and the New Deal were ready to move in. Some of these structures seem to have been designed to provide homes for great open spaces.

The first big federal building here to be initiated, erected and now completed under the Roosevelt regime is the new Department of Interior Building, into which various scattered bureaus under Secretary Harold Ickes are now beginning to move after much vexation and delay. Plan rather than stylization, utility in preference to classily trilly-frillies, an efficient place for work rather than an imitation Parthenon—that was the idea Ickes had for this building after he found his department and his FWA scattered around Washington at 20 different addresses.

PERHAPS the official chislers soon will have to chisel out the words "Department of Interior" now cut into the stone above the entrance on Constitution Avenue, and chisel in "Department of Conservation." There would be a fine chance for a typographical error there which would make it read "Department of Conversation." Anyway, one of the least controversial phases of the President's reorganization program calls for a change in the department's name. The present Interior Building across Rawlins Square, (a connecting tunnel runs under this square) will be known as the North Interior Building, but might later become headquarters for a new Department of Public Works. The exterior of the building is both simple and handsome, and there's no question that Ickes and the architect achieved economy on space. About 3000 employees will move in during the next two months. The building consists of a wide center wing two blocks long, with six wings on each side. It is so constructed that no one will have to turn more than one corner to reach his office if he takes the right elevator. Cost was about $13,000,000.

ESCALATORS operating between the first two floor levels and the basement are the first yet established in a government building. Other facts and features include 1000 electric clocks, automatic air-conditioning, a library with a capacity for 400,000 volumes, auditorium with 1000 seats, a cafeteria to seat 1000, art gallery, conference rooms, special luncheon and kitchen for executives, basement garage for hundreds of cars and a broadcasting studio.

Annual saving due to moving of Interior offices from leased space is estimated at $181,250. Also, a 10 or 15 per cent reduction in average operating costs for government buildings is expected to result from simplified methods of maintenance.

The new building will help solve a cockeyed housing problem which has become common among federal departments and New Deal agencies, and has forced the government to rent more than 2,500,000 square feet of privately owned office space here, in addition to buying up some hotels, apartment houses and other structures.

Sit-Down is Just An American Fad

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The sit-down strike is just a "mental epidemic" something on the order of crossword puzzles, miniature golf "handle" and other popular fancies that sweep the country from time to time. That's the definition accorded the new expression of labor unrest by Dr. William T. Root, Pittsburgh psychologist.

"There is nothing unique or personal in the sit-down strike insofar as I can see it," said Dr. Root. "Suggestibility is a common characteristic of all races and all nationalities.

"Mob and crowd suggestion of all sorts frequently reach the state which can be defined as 'mob hysteria.' It might be said that America seems to be peculiarly given to mental epidemics of various types."

But Dr. Root warned that sit-down strikes carried on independently of any labor movement are likely to result in harm.

"Such affairs," he said, "may tend to make the whole sit-down movement laughable. They can easily laugh themselves right out of the public picture."

it you've heard this one....

"My Dear, I simply dread this daily shopping!" How many times have you heard that story? More than once, we'll bet a hat. And if you ask the woman who "dreads shopping" just why she does so, you'll hear something like this:

"It takes so much time! I start out and look and look and look . . . and by the time I've found what I want I'm dead on my feet. All in, my dear. I mean I actually am!"

You can do a friend like that a real service. Ask her if she reads the advertisements. Possibly she'll look surprised and say, "Not very often. What has that to do with it?"

Tell her how you have your mind all made up before you hang the market basket over your arm . . . how you're able to save steps, budget your expenditures neatly, get what you want—and all with a minimum of time and effort. Simply because you have the news of the shopping world at your finger-tips all the time, by reading the advertisements every day.

Advertisements are news. Vital, practical news.

ONE HIT, ONE ERROR, OUT AT HOME IS AMUSING STORY OF LOST NIGHTSHIRT

By JOHN DUNLAP
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, April 19 (AP) — An amusing story about a night-shirt—one of those long white flannel ones that button around the neck—explains why Mrs. Lou Gehrig, wife of the first baseman of the New York Yankees, intends to accompany him on any more trips to Hollywood.

Gehrig still blushes when the subject of his nightshirt pops up. Here's why:

When Gehrig came to Hollywood for screen tests and later signed a contract with Principal Productions to make a pioneer picture after the end of the major league season, his wife stayed in their home in New Rochelle.

The big first baseman obligingly went to all receptions, the fights, races, studios and conferences but balked when Hollywood girls were brought in for publicity pictures. With anyone but pretty girls, he said. No glamour stuff for him, with Mrs. Gehrig 3,000 miles away.

The screen test turned out better than anyone expected including Gehrig and Producer Sol Lesser, despite the fact that a trained pen-gin from another set wandered right in front of the self-conscious ball player.

Gehrig scored a hit. After scribbling his name on a contract for "The Trail Blazers," Gehrig hopped an eastbound train for home but in his haste to make a perfect getaway, neglected to pack one nightshirt.

Gehrig made an error.

Christy Walsh, the sports promoter and writer, got possession of the stray night shirt and then the fun began. Hurrying from studio to studio, he visited Joan Crawford, Jean Harlow, Mae West, Jeanette MacDonald and other stars. At the end of the day, he had 25 feminine autographs up and down the night-shirt.

Walsh wrapped the garment securely, airmailed it to New York so it would arrive ahead of Gehrig's train, and then awaited results.

What happened behind the closed doors of the Gehrig home when Lou waked in to greet the wife may never be known.

Gehrig was "out at home."

The next phase of the night-shirt drama was a public announcement by Mrs. Gehrig that she would accompany Lou on future trips. And perhaps Gehrig will count his nightshirts before checking out of a hotel in the future.

Greatest Sun Spot Area is Forecast

PASADENA, Cal. (AP) — Old Sol during 1937, will give the greatest indications of ill health which he has enjoyed since 1917, according to the latest scientific calculations at Mount Wilson Observatory.

The particular symptoms of solar disturbance will be manifested in the number of sun spots.

In 1936, a total of 495 sun spot groups were observed, compared with 450 in 1917 and 424 in 1927, which were the two previous cycles. During 1936, four groups of sun spots with areas of at least 1,174 million square miles were observed.

However, the Mount Wilson observers calculate that the maximum sun spot activity will be attained this year when Old Sol will look as though he had acquired a bad case of freckles.

Auxiliary, Scouts In Chapel Program

By TOMMY LA MORE
The Boy Scouts of America and the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion had charge of the program this morning at the regular chapel period and presented to the student body an interesting program on the United States flag and principles upon which the American Legion was founded.

First on the program was Mrs. James Haynie who gave a talk to the students on the works and reason for which the American Legion was founded. In her talk she told how the local Legion had been one of the first to send their contributions to the flooded area on the upper Mississippi and Ohio river section. They also were one of the first to send their contributions to the New London disaster following this part of her speech.

Harry Gray, a life scout of Troop 1 of the local scouts was master of ceremonies of the scouts who were presented in a number showing the students the correct and right respects that should be paid our flag Jack Hunter, Granddall Jones and Jack Lauderdale were also in the program by giving the history of the scouts, along with the flag's history. "Pop" Garrett opened the program with prayer following which the band played the national song, Mrs. Charles Yates assisted Mrs. Haynie with the program.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

By Nard Jones
© 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

Surely they'll be able to see me if I—
"It might not work, though," the voice of Ciznik said suddenly. "We tricked them that way once with a sailor in women's clothes!"
Martha turned, startled. Ciznik stood there on the wet deck, his face working angrily. In his right hand was a revolver. "Don't move, either of you!" He yelled Speddon's name. "Take these two and he knows what to do."
"But—"
"Do as I tell you!"
Speddon reached into his pocket. "Get going," he said. Their hearts like lead, Martha and Betty preceded Speddon down the steel companionway. "Keep going until you get to Ciznik's room," Speddon told them.
The placid Oriental was there, as Ciznik had said. He smiled at Speddon. "Please hold them quiet with gun a moment," he said. With surprisingly strong arms, he pushed the two girls onto the bunk, and within half a minute had bound the legs and arms of both securely. They sat stiffly, faces white as paper, watching Ling and Speddon.
"What about your traps, Ling?" Speddon asked.
Ling smiled. "I have handkerchieves ready. People meeting death sometimes like to talk."
Speddon rubbed his hands nervously. "We oughtn't to have to do this. We'd never have run afoul of these gals if Neal had not got queer on us." He looked along the passageway. "I'm going to tell Pete to get those engines in reverse!"
"Not until Ciznik orders you to," Speddon rasped.
Martha and Betty crouched low on the deck, afraid that the illumination of the cutter's searchlight would reveal them to some of Ciznik's crew. "We've got just one chance," Betty whispered. "That's to signal that coast guard cutter. If they know we're aboard they won't fire."
"But Ciznik is sure to stop."
"Maybe. If he does he'll make certain that the revenue men never see us!"
Martha put her hand on Betty's shoulder. "You stay here. I'll try to work around to the other side.

It was really strong. Below engines. Very new. You still have a chance."
Most excellent chance! ister words rang through Ciznik had escaped the What would be dropped, unknowing black water; or to stay with Ciznik?
It was odd how, at this she thought of Gerry him. Somehow she was found some way to help had been a fool. "You're You're in something that than you realize." He her that warning, and fused it, had foolishly strength to fight which she could not see.
Her mind stumbled back over the days. She remembered how Betty had started out their vacation to the been so careless as to selves stranded in San then to be caught up innocent way, whirled thing from which they extricate themselves. He had never persuaded Betty should take a vacation. If only—
Betty stirred. She whispered. "We—we got away from them!"
But no sooner had the words than there was a ening, indescribable sound as if the cutter's fire had Heavy objects were falling deck, and 100 men seemed shouting at once. The slowed, almost stopped the noise of reversing. There lurch of the ship as though been rammed hard by equal to itself.
Martha looked toward ancient Oriental had been to his knees by the hurt. ated, she watched him gaining his feet.
"Ling! What the devil saw Ciznik in the doorway from his tortured face that his gang were caught. "The door, Ling!"
He started toward the women. Martha saw his eyes, cringed closer to Betty as the sound of a shot in the room, rang hideously against steel plates.
