CIVILIANS SLAUGHTERED IN BOMBING

PEOPLE LIE IN HEAPS; DEATH REAPS CLEAN

Insurgent planes killed more than 100 civilians in two raids on Guernica, 17 miles northwest of Bilbao, between reaching the frontier said.

The major casualties occurred in the first raid. In the second incendiary bombs were dropped, setting fire to the city.

The civilian population scattered as the flames raised death on them dropping the men, women and children into heaps.

The civilians sought refuge in the hills, but the planes flying low, burned machine guns on them, falling groups like a reaper going through wheat.

Hundreds who refused to leave their homes were burned to death.

Other nearby arm center which had just fallen to the nationalist army was also in flames, with troops and firemen fighting desperately to save the city.

More than 200 houses had been destroyed. Another 100 houses were reported destroyed by the nationalist artillery, before the troops occupied the town.

Insurgent artillery blasted Madrid today in one of the most destructive bombardments a civilian population ever knew. It climaxed two weeks in which shells were poured into the capital daily, except last Saturday.

Casualties were heavy and the damage great. It was conservatively estimated that 300 had been killed and hundreds wounded during the two weeks.

While the destruction went on in Spain, European powers continued their efforts to isolate the war. A meeting was called in London to enlist the aid of the United States and other American nations in preventing the shipments of men and munitions to Spain.

Baptist Break Record With Ordinance to 30

54 ADDITIONS TO DATE WITH 14 CONVERTS

Climaxing the mid-point of the series of revival services last night the First Baptist church baptised 30 applicants for church membership with a total of 68 converts and additions for the series. Dr. E. S. James, pastor, administered the ordinance of Baptism, and Rev. J. R. Grant is doing the preaching.

Pastor James advises that this is perhaps the greatest in-gathering for the church in its late-day history, making a record in members received and converts to Christianity for the period. Fifty-four have been received into the church with 14 converts not aligned with any church as yet. Others have announced their intention of being baptised that did not find it convenient to present themselves last night. There will be another baptismal service at the close of the meeting next Sunday evening.

The baptismal service last night was an extremely impressive one coming at the close of the invitation, following the sermon by Rev. J. R. Grant and his earnest plea for men and women to do their duty to their God which was responded to by seven or church membership.

With the choir removed from the platform and lights turned low, accompanied by soft, sweet music, played by Harry Schaefer, Mrs. Lee Humphrey and Miss Wilma Mason, the pastor, Dr. James, took the applicants one by one, and with uplifted hand advised each person the authority upon which he administered the sacred rite to them.

Those who were baptised into church membership were:

M. B. Osburn, Mrs. J. B. Roach, Kenneth Hoffman, Johnnie Pearl Flowers, Fred Holden, Mariba Helen Breechen, Leonard Maginn, Betty Mae Richardson, Lavon Huddleston, Margaret Arrington, Billy Huff, Ruth Roach, Billy Butts Wright, Crella Arrington, Norman Ball, Margaret McDonald, Rex Pollard, Vernell Johnson, Cecil Halbert, Jr., Willie Mae Arrington, Charles McDowell, Juanita Johnson, Gordon Sierman, Lavern Purvis, Dan Yarbrough, Mildred Kimmel, Zora Ellison, Mrs. Harry Schaefer, Mrs. Osa Arrington and J. C. Johnson.

Given Life Term For Lie in Trial

Mrs. Mae Hall (above), Florida dance hall operator, faces life in prison because she gave perjured testimony in the trial at Arcadia, Fla., of three cowboys charged with killing another. In sentencing her, Judge W. T. Harrison invoked a little known law that provides the life term for one who gives false testimony where the life of a prisoner is at stake.

Grandmother to Quit Long Job As Motorman

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. (U.P.)—Mrs. Grace Gross' unusual career as a street car "motorman" is ended—the car she piloted for 15 years has been replaced by buses. ### MILLIONS FOR WAR BUDGET BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, April 27 (U.P.)—The House Appropriations Committee approved a $416,413,382 war department appropriations bill today, and criticized the nation's defenses as "unprepared to offer resistance to any force equipped with modern offensive weapons."

Recommended appropriation is $25,395,677, larger than last year but the committee stated that "appreciably larger" allocations will be necessary in future budgets if an adequate national defense is maintained.

The committee said the army was short of tanks, armored cars, semi-automatic rifles, anti-aircraft guns, ammunition towing facilities, and motors.

"The situation is extremely disturbing," the committee said.

The House Military Affairs Committee after long debate approved a drastically revised bill to take the profits out of war.

G-MAN FAILS TO GET WOMAN; LEAVES BEAUTY

SAN ANTONIO, April 27 (U.P.)—Melvin Purvis, the former federal officer who "always got his man" was headed west today without his woman, the beautiful Janice Jarrett, to whom he was betrothed.

There were sharp words in a hotel lobby last night. The Chicago G-man who captured John Dillinger stomped away in a huff. Miss Jarrett waved farewell to companions and the bride-elect's mother announced that the wedding scheduled for Thursday was postponed indefinitely.

Cause of the squabble was said to be that Miss Jarrett kept Purvis waiting in the lobby.

An estimated 3,000 invitations had been mailed out for the wedding.

Purvis spent the night in an Austin hotel and left by automobile this morning for Fort Worth where it was thought he would catch an afternoon train for the west coast.

FLOOD WATERS MAY PASS TO GO HARMLESS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 27 (U.P.)—Flood waters lapped at the edges of the "golden triangle" today in Pittsburgh's worst April flood since 1906, but weather forecasters believed that the threat of a major disaster had passed.

Rain which fell 36 hours had ceased, and weather experts believed the flood would pass Pittsburgh today without serious damage.

They believed Wheeling, W. Va., was more likely to suffer heavily. Residents were warned to prepare for a crest of 46 feet, ten feet above flood level.

Eastland Wants Soft Ball Game

Edward Lee was appointed today by an Eastland representative of their soft ball team for a match between that city and the Jaycees for Friday night. Mr. Lee, who represents the Juniors, could not match a game at that time but referred the gentlemen to other ball players of the athletic association. No game had been matched to date.

SIMPSON-DUKE WEDDING MIGHT BE ON MAY 26

LONDON, April 27 (U.P.)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson was free today to apply for a final decree of divorce, which would permit her to marry the Duke of Windsor.

The six-month period prescribed by British law as the interval between the preliminary and final divorce decrees expired today. It was expected that Mrs. Simpson's attorneys would apply for final decree tomorrow, and that the decree would be awarded next Monday.

Informed opinion was that while no exact wedding day had been set, the duke and Mrs. Simpson would be married in France about the middle of the week beginning May 23 or about two weeks after the coronation of the duke's brother, George VI.

CURE FOR COLDS

For a simple disturbance a cold in the head can make one feel about as wretched as anything we know of. Yet the simple cold isn't so simple either.

Colds are responsible for about 45 per cent of the absences from business, as well as for bad tempers, poor judgment, and miserable moments.

The thing we call a cold is so named because cold is supposed to start it. Little bugs, it is commonly thought, inhabit the mucous membrane of the air passages, but are unable to work down as long as said membrane is healthy. But if congestion is set up in this membrane by means of exposure, then resistance is lowered, the tiny policemen of the blood are hampered or weakened, the bad bacteria get in their dirty work, and you have a cold.

One of the most important and interesting things about medical science is that it is constantly upsetting its own theories and arriving at new conclusions. Now along comes Dr. Volney S. Cheney, medical expert of Chicago, the city of pistol and bomb, who tells us some happy things about colds, which he has found to be true through exhaustive experiments.

Contrary to the accepted idea that a cold must run its course, Dr. Cheney says positively that the thing can be headed off. Dr. Cheney, further contradicting general belief, further declares that colds are not contagious, that while they may run through a family or an office, they do so because the conditions there are favorable to the disease, and not because the affliction is transmitted from one person to another.

Dr. Cheney fails to state one premise in explaining the spreading of colds, and that is that colds may be catching because they believe them to be catching. Why don't physicians and nurses get the various diseases they come in contact with day after day? Because they do not fear them and do not think they will contract them. There is a lot of popular talk about contagion.

Dr. Cheney maintains that a cold is not caused by a microbe but by too much acid in the system, and that the quite logical, simple way to dispose of the cold is to dispose of the acid by taking proper doses of a suitable alkali to restore alkaline balance. Which reminds us that years ago a dear old lady, now in the next world, God bless her, told her friends she had discovered that if when one feels a cold coming on, one will begin immediately taking a half-teaspoonful of plain cooking soda, and a half-teaspoonful of Epsom salts in a glass of water, three times a day, the cold can be, as Dr. Cheney says, aborted.

Escapes Officers On Boy's Scooter

FORT WORTH, April 27 (AP)—Police haven't decided just what they will do if they ever find the man who escaped on a scooter from two officers in a squad car.

The officers answered a call that a stranger was prowling in a residential area. When he saw the police car drive up the suspect grabbed a boy's scooter and sped down the middle of the street. After a short distance during which the scooter rider made time on the corners and lost ground on the straightaway, the policeman abandoned their car.

They were no match for the stranger on his scooter. He abandoned the vehicle, however.

Police said they might charge the man with theft of the scooter or speeding—that's all they could find that he did.

AFRAID to LOVE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOAN BARRETT, heroine, secretary to John Hendry.
JOHN HENDRY, mining investment banker.
BOB ANDREWS, Hendry's junior partner and Joan's fiance.
SYBIL HENDRY, daughter, John Hendry's niece and Joan's rival in love.
PHILIP HENDRY, Sybil's brother.
DOLOREY STARKE, Joan's childhood friend.
CHARLES NORTON, California mining promoter.

Yesterday Philip, just out of jail and badly in need of money, agrees to help Sybil in her plot to investigate Joan's background.

CHAPTER VI

JOAN sat at her desk in the tiny office adjoining Mr. Hendry's and watched the ships on the river below. The office was quiet this morning, as it always was on Saturday, with only a skeleton force on hand. Ordinarily she did not come in herself, but today Mr. Hendry was leaving town for a few weeks to look over new mining properties, and there probably would be some urgent details which he would wish to turn over to her.

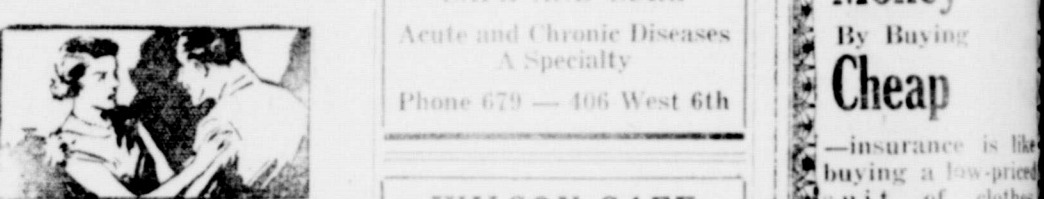

The Queen of Bermuda had just slipped away from her pier, and now seemed to stand still for a moment in midstream before turning her nose toward the open Atlantic. In the sunlight the ship was a gleaming white palace, beckoning her, as it were, to the magic sun-drenched paradise of palm trees and hibiscus.

She heard the door to her office open behind her, and she turned quickly. It was Bob.
"So? That's all you have to do this morning? Watch the ships go by?" He came over to her side, caught her hands in his. Then, lowering his voice: "Do you think I could steal a kiss during business hours?"

Joan smiled up at him. "Mr. Hendry would be certain to catch you doing it."
Eagerly, he read her face for an answer.
Joan gasped. "Bob, dear, not in a few weeks . . ."
"Why not?"
"I just can't, Bob. Truly I can't. There's so much to do . . ."
"What?"
"Oh, just everything," she said in a low voice, trying to itemize the many details in her own mind. "I have no clothes . . ."

"You have plenty of clothes," he contradicted. "And we can get summer things in Bermuda."
"There's the office. I can't just run off and leave my work."
"You can arrange to leave it for a week or two," he insisted, his voice deep with persuasion. "Then you can come back and straighten everything out before leaving permanently. Joan, darling, there's nothing to wait for. Why, when I go out to the Inn every night and sit in my little cubby-hole of a room, knowing you're all alone in your old maid's room here in town . . . well, it doesn't seem so senseless that I swear I'll carry you off by force the next day. Joan, will you marry me next week?"

"Next week?" she repeated weakly. "But Mr. Hendry will be away for three weeks. He'll need me here while he's gone."
"No, he won't. Miss Meade can take care of anything special. We can get married Saturday morning, Joan. That gives you a whole week to buy clothes."

clear and cloudless, but if storms lay over the horizon, it made no difference. The ship would sail on, valiant and courageous, because her course was set straight. There was no wavering once a mariner set his course.
"I have set my course, too," Joan told herself. "There's only one way for me to sail now—and that is straight ahead."
For the first time she realized how simple it all was. A quiet wedding, a quick taxi trip to the ship, and within a few minutes Joan Barrett would be lost in the past, forever, as Mrs. Robert Andrews sailed off into a new world of her own making.

Suddenly she knew that the moment Bob came out of Mr. Hendry's office, she would agree to his plan. The things she had thought important—the bridal finery and embroideries—these were but the details of marriage. They would all come in time. The real joy was the culmination of this happiness they had found together.

THE buzzer over her desk sounded, indicating that she was wanted in Mr. Hendry's office. She picked up her notebook and went in, wondering whether Bob had spoken of their plans as yet.

They were both watching the door as she entered. Mr. Hendry smiled brightly.
"I tell you, Bob," he teased, "she's a new girl since she took an option on you. Look at her eyes sparkle—there, now, don't blush. It's the truth. I swear, it makes me feel like a young fellow again, just to see the two of you in love."
Bob grinned foolishly.
"Would it break your heart, young lady," Mr. Hendry went on, "if I deprived you of young Lochinvar for a few weeks?"

Joan tried not to show her astonishment. Mr. Hendry had planned himself to go away . . .
"For a few weeks?" she repeated, wondering what to say. Bob caught her eye and flashed a message she could not quite understand. Evidently, however, he had not found an opportunity to discuss their own affair.
"I think I can endure it," she added quickly. "There's a great deal I have to do myself. She thought again of shopping sprees.
"I'm glad of that," Mr. Hendry said. "The fact is, I've been feeling sort of low the past few days—my annual touch of the gripe. I suppose—and I thought Bob might look into these properties for me."

"Of course."
"From the expression on Bob's face, she knew now that he was willing to forego their own plans and take over the mission. That was the message he was trying to give her.
"I can probably get back within a week or 10 days," Bob said. "Two weeks at the most."
"I'm sure you can," Hendry agreed. "California isn't as far off as it once was."
California! Joan paled. Would she always tremble whenever the name of that state was mentioned? After all, the Hendry organization financed a dozen mines in California. It didn't mean anything.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY DODDNEY DUTCHER

Assignment of the opinion for the AAA review and consequent side upon which he happens to stand.

Whether any of the three liberal opinions are favored by this state and other states is not known. But at least one has pointed it out to certain friends.

THE most recent instance was in the 5 to 4 decision which upheld the vital minimum wage law. Hughes wrote the majority opinion—words which will be quoted down through history. Some months previously, in the New York minimum wage case, the decision was also 5 to 4—against. Then the minority opinion was the liberal opinion—and Hughes wrote that one.

The first momentous decision on New Deal legislation was in the gold cases, October, 1934. The vote was 5 to 4 in favor of the congressional abrogation of gold clauses in private contracts. The majority opinion was the "liberal" opinion and Hughes delivered it.

CASES on which Hughes voted with the conservative majority have included the AAA case—4 to 3; invalidation of the federal excise tax on liquor dealers violating state laws—6 to 3; invalidation of the Vermont state income tax law—6 to 3; invalidation of the North Dakota railway tax—6 to 3; and denial of certain powers to the SEC in the Jones case—5 to 4. In each of these cases the chief justice assigned the opinion to another conservative member. Hughes assigned the majority opinion against the Guffey case to Sutherland, although he himself wrote a concurrent opinion.

In no case attracting national interest, has a liberal justice written the opinion unless Hughes himself happened to be on the other side.

Reaches Destination Twenty Years Later

SWEETWATER, April 27 (AP)—A letter enclosing a money order for $12.35, mailed at Des Moines, Iowa Dec. 11, 1917, reached its destination almost 20 years late.

Weldon Hill, Nolan county attorney in 1917, received the letter 20 years after he had written H. B. Duff of Des Moines regarding taxes on a suburban lot Duff owned in Sweetwater. The $12.35 was to pay taxes for the years 1912, 1914, 1915.

Hill gave the letter to Walter Carter an attorney working on tax matters in 1917. Carter said he would return the money order if Duff could be located, along with the advice that the lot is not worth the taxes now pending against it.

Fund Being Raised For Rural Hospital

CLEBURNE, April 27 (AP)—A $5,000 fund is being raised here to help finance a hospital for rural residents, believed to be the first project of its kind.

The $5,000 subscribed locally will be used to provide a laboratory, X-ray equipment and elevator for a 50-bed hospital operated under the auspices of Baylor hospital at Dallas. Johnson county officials have estimated that at least $100,000 now spent outside the county for hospitalization will be kept at home.

Rural residents may pay 50 cents per month for each member of the family and secure any necessary hospital treatment for $1 a day.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

A SENSIBLE VIEWPOINT

The individuals that give to better the general welfare of all must have the proper attitude of heart and common interest in the welfare of all. Such individuals care nothing for this so-called personal liberty. They seek the good, clean and elevating things that promote culture, develop character and stabilize a proper sense of true citizenship. Personal liberty at the cost of misery, suffering, debauchery, wrecked homes, half-starved children, high taxes and God not only knows all else, is the most unreasonable and absurd idea we ever heard of. Just because some fellow wants to drive through our streets and on our highways at break-neck speed, half drunk, at the risk of innocent lives and destruction of personal property, simply because he wants his or her personal LIBERTY, and we are not to interfere just let them go on. That's personal liberty, and some folks are foolish enough to believe that is the proper attitude. How absurd. A true citizen seeks to be happy and content himself by living and doing the things that add to the general happiness of all.

To gratify a selfish greed and satisfy a debauched appetite at the cost of character and true fundamental principles of citizenship is a good definition of Mr. John Barleycorn. Why get the booze out of Eastland county. The wets would like to know why. That question is easily answered in just a brief sentence. Because it has proved to be one of the greater forces of evil among us today. Death, misery, disease, poverty, immorality, wrecked homes and much else has always been strewn in its pathway. There is not a good to be found in such a business. Money that should be flowing through regular trade channels, that will promote the general trade is being spent for the liquor business. Millions of dollars for liquor advertisements and equipment. The money that should be in the hands of the farmer, the merchant, the dandyman, the home and other legitimate trade channels is going for this liquid of destruction and shame. That's part of the reasons why Eastland county should vote to clean out the booze. Many of our youth have started to drinking, unconscious of what it will do for them. Their lives and their homes, even their posterity is all at stake. What can we hope for if the future mothers and fathers fall a prey to such a degrading habit. It should not require but a moment's thought to decide which way to cast your vote. One man has figured it out that a family of three children must lose one to a highway wreck. When we think of mangled bodies of our loved ones out by the roadside, it brings a sense of sadness and disgust. Why did some hit-and-run driver half intoxicated kill my son or daughter? Of the 38,000 killed on our highways last year, reliable sources say that fully 60 per cent of those deaths were caused by drinking booze. Some fellow had one drink, became dizzy, lost control of his car and many times innocent folk had to pay the price by their lives. We have legalized wholesale murder. Some say we will have to contend with the bootlegger if we vote out the liquor. Listen, according to government statistics, we have had many times more bootleggers since repeal than

Now, listen! If we expect to raise enough money from this play to buy uniforms for the baseball team, we'll all have to co-operate!

I'm going goofy with all the grief I've been getting into! I write the play as best I know how, and if you think I'm gonna rewrite any of your parts, you're crazy!

Tomorrow we have dress rehearsal, and the next night we start the play! I don't get enough laughs!

Freck, I don't think my part is funny enough! I don't get enough laughs!

This isn't a comedy, you dope! It's a costume play! Serious drama!

It won't hurt to have a few laughs in it! Won't ya gimme a gag?

Sure we will, if you'll promise to wear it!!

Be sure you search all three thoroughly before you let them go. Captain, I'll sign the release papers, meanwhile.

HERE'S THE "MAKINS" FOLKS GO FOR!

THE BOYS at the firehouse knew their smoking tobacco. Listen to Ben Burgess (the fellow about to twist up one of those fragrant P.A. "makins" cigarettes): "Prince Albert is the cooler-smoking, sweeter-tasting tobacco for grand 'makins' cigarettes. It draws easy and burns slow and cool."

ROY HARRIS (lolling back) puts in: "No other tobacco is a patch on P.A. Been rolling it 20 years and never a sore tongue yet! Smoking is enjoyment to me and Prince Albert costs so little I'd be a fool to pass up its fine, fragrant tobacco."

PRINCE ALBERT'S rich, tasty mellowness is due to choice tobaccos treated under a special "makin'" process. This insures that Prince Albert will be easy on the tongue. Because it's "crimp out," Prince Albert lays right for FAST rolling into FIRM, NEAT cigarettes. Do they draw easy, burn slow and cool? Convince yourself—stop in and get a tin of Prince Albert today! ATTENTION—PIPE SMOKERS! YOU'LL WELCOME PRINCE ALBERT TOO!

The risk is ours—the pleasure yours!

Roll yourself 30 swell cigarettes from Prince Albert. If you don't find them the finest, tastiest roll-your-own cigarettes you ever smoked, return the packet (in with the rest of the tobacco in it) to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. By observing the pole star it is possible to tell exactly at what latitude you are. This discovery was a great help to navigators of early times, although they still had no way of telling how far east or west they were, and when clouds obliterated the stars, they were indeed helpless.

Pastor's Association Makes Resolutions

The following resolutions are endorsed by the Local Pastor's Association of Cisco and the practice of them is recommended to all citizens who will make our city a happy place to live and a favorable place in which to rear a successful family.—CISCO PASTOR'S ASSN.

RESOLUTIONS
"We, the Methodists in attendance upon the state-wide Methodist conference meeting in Fort Worth, April 14, 1937, wish to affirm our convictions on the following points:

First, we are opposed to the sale of alcoholic beverages legally or illegally and we call upon our Methodist people in Texas to support every effort to stop such sale.

Second, we record our conviction that the education of our people regarding the evil effects of alcohol upon the human body and in human society is greatly needed and we call upon our pastors and local churches to inaugurate and carry out a program along this line.

Third, we believe that the only tenable position which a Methodist should take regarding the use of alcoholic beverages is one of total abstinence and we ask our Methodist people everywhere to take this position.

Fourth, we wish to go on record as supporting the Capper Bill now before the Congress of the United States which is intended to make illegal the advertising of alcoholic beverages in dry territory.

Fifth, we note with approval that several of the leading dailies of this country have spoken in their editorial columns regarding the evils of the present liquor situation. We commend this stand on the evils of liquor to the press of our state and invite their aid in acquainting the people with the facts as to the evil effects of alcohol in our present day social order.

Sixth, we note with honor the statement of the Travelers Insurance Company that automobile accidents, due to drunken drivers have increased 118% more than accidents due to non-drunken drivers.

Seventh, we appeal to all Methodists of Texas to do all that can be done to lift the spiritual level of the people and to raise the moral standards and ideals of the state."

Cisco-Scranton in Baseball Game Here

By TOMMY LA MORE
The Cisco high school baseball team played the tough Scranton team this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock on Chesley field but at press time the game was not finished.

The local squad holds one victory over Scranton and hopes to run their winning streak to the second marker this afternoon. In winning last week from Scranton the Cisco team had to stage a late rally and then held the tough country boys in hand for three innings.

Yarborough was the winning pitcher and probably will not see service this afternoon as he will be needed for the conference game with Pioneer Thursday. Howell Sledge will more than likely start the game today.

Vernon "Track" Shirley newly found catcher will play behind the bat. William "Bill" Wallace will start at first. Joe "Mickey" Linebarger at first short. Horace "Beechnut" Cameron will start at second. Third base will find Joe "Allen" Slicker. In the second short position will be Royce "Cherry" Rainbolt. The outfield is not yet picked for sure. Tomorrow the local team will invade Putnam for a game. Starting pitcher for this game is not yet named. The second conference game will be played here with Pioneer Thursday.
