HAT F. E. Shepard has been champion golf player of the flight, other left-handers are sitting up and taking notice. Jewel Poe says it is probably take him and Frank both to keep up with Mr. Shepard. But W. E. Brown says he expects to show Floyd on as he can get around from his business. It is simple. Just let Floyd eliminate so that the cleared for action. Now preliminaries are over when out and beats Shepard. It says will be easy, he will have a whole flock of play-ers. He will become champion of left-handers by one playing it we saw Shepard dashing before 7 o'clock this morning. If he was going golf early, it's just no use, Mr. that's just too early.

No Bryans Left in Office New

His mayor's desk closed Charles W. Bryan of Lincoln, Neb., tucks a few private papers in his brief case to mark his retirement from politics and the first time that a Bryan has not held office since William Jennings Bryan founded the "dynasty" in 1890. Mayor Bryan's niece, Ruth Bryan Rohde, recently resigned as U. S. minister to Denmark.

JUNIOR GRADS PROMOTED TO HIGH SCHOOL

Personnel of program numbers and of class membership is announced by the grammar school for the graduation exercises to be held at the high school auditorium, Friday night, 8 o'clock. Principal C. Duff will present the class to Superintendent R. N. Cluck who will present the diplomas of graduation into the high school.

Workers Guests at Coronation

Mingling with the lords and ladies of England on Coronation Day were four workers, representatives of British industry, chosen in accordance with the King's wishes. Two of those so honored are pictured here, Leslie Poiland, 20-year-old miner of Chesterfield, and Miss Lizzie McCulloch carpet weaver of Glasgow, seen at her machine.

DUKE, WALLY WILL MARRY ON JUNE 3RD

MONTS, France, May 18 (U.P.)—The Duke of Windsor will marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield here on June 3, with no members of the British royal family present, Herman Rogers announced at the Chateau de Candès today on behalf of the former king. The announcement was published in an official communique from the duke himself, and delivered to 180 reporters who waited outside the Chateau.

At Hindenburg Blast Probe

At hint that the Hindenburg airship disaster in which 35 persons were killed at Lakehurst, N. J., was caused by a splinter from a propeller engine, the bag was given as Lieutenant Benjamin May was questioned about his observations atop the mooring mast. He told of hearing a tearing sound. Pictured also are, left to right, Major R. W. Schroeder, of the federal inquiry board; Lieutenant Commander C. V. Knox; and South Trimble, Jr., a prober.

WASHINGTON, May 18 (U.P.)—The Senate Judiciary Committee by a vote of 10 to 8 today approved an unfavorable report to the senate on President Roosevelt's judiciary program.

The vote came three hours after announcement by Conservative Justice Willis Vandevanter, that he will retire from the court June 2nd. The Judiciary Committee vote and the Vandevanter retirement effective June 2 heightened indications that Mr. Roosevelt's program is headed for compromise, revision or outright defeat. Senate supporters of the court plan, however, refused to concede that the announcement by the dean of the supreme court conservative group would have any effect on the outcome of the controversy.

The Judiciary Committee vote announced by Senator Wm. Borah of Idaho, previously had been forecast in unofficial polls. Borah said the committee also voted to reject all compromise amendments. It was admittedly too early to determine the sweeping implications of Vandevanter's retirement.

"One Up, Five To Go" Mr. Roosevelt was represented unofficially as hailing the Vandevanter retirement as making the score "one up and five to go," a phrase referring to the fact that the President's program was designed to add six new justices to the supreme bench if members over 70 failed to retire.

The Vandevanter retirement gives Mr. Roosevelt one appointment because of the supreme court's frequent five-to-four division, appointment of a jurist sympathetic to the new deal is expected to have wide effect on closely disputed issues. The announcement of Vandevanter's intention was made in a vote to President Roosevelt.

Vandevanter, who celebrated his 78 birthday April 17, will quit the high post he has occupied since January 3, 1911 on June 2, the day following the supreme court's final decision of this term. Only Justice James Clark McReynolds has voted against more new deal measures than Vandevanter. In 22 vital new deal tests, Vandevanter voted to condemn 13.

County Boys To Go to Encampment

Assistant County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart stated Monday he expected approximately 40 Eastland county 4-H club members to attend the second annual district 7 extension service encampment at the state park at Lake Brownwood June 6-8.

Last year 20 attended from the county. One hundred and sixty-eight youths from the county, who are carrying demonstrations, and their fathers, are eligible to attend. County Agent Elmo V. Cook is a member of the committee on arrangements for the encampment. The decision to hold the outing at the state park was made last week by the committee in session with District Agent W. I. Glass. Formerly it was to be held at Joe Weedon's ranch near the lake. It will cost each person attending $1.50.

Approximately 600 are expected to attend the encampment from the following counties, said Cook: Mills, Eastland, Callahan, Taylor, Jones, Shackelford, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Erath, Brown, McCulloch, Comanche, Coleman, Runnels, San Saba, Mason, Gillespie, Llano and Blanco.

BROCKELHURST AND 'SWEETIE' FACE MURDER

KEEDSIE, N. Y., May 18 (U.P.)—Lester Brockelhurst, 23, and his 18-year-old sweetheart, Bernice Felton, were en route today to Little Rock, Ark., in custody of officers to face a first degree murder charge. The girl's father, Abraham Felton left with Illinois officials for his home in Rockford. He told Brockelhurst that he was sorry "you're not going to Illinois."

MILLER-LEACH TEAMS TO OPEN SOFT BALL LEAGUE TONIGHT

Nick Miller and W. J. Leach's soft ball teams will officially open the Cisco soft ball season tonight at 8 o'clock at the lighted on the Eastland highway at 16th street. Considerable work has been done on the field getting it in tip-top shape. It will take a few days longer for final adjustments to be made on the lights. New uniforms have been ordered by most of the teams but will not be here until the first of next week. The suits are flashy and teams will make a very good appearance under the lights. Games will be on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays of each week except this week when one game will be played Wednesday. Admission will be very small, just enough to cover the cost of operating the field. Five cents will be

ALLRED ASKS FEE SYSTEM BE ABOLISHED

AUSTIN, May 17 (U.P.)—Submission of a constitutional amendment allowing the state legislature to prescribe a uniform basis for paying district, county and precinct officers was voted today by the resolution goes to the senate for approval. The amendment would allow the legislature to restore the fee system instead of the salary system. Governor Allred told legislators this morning that the fee system was better than the salary system, adopted as a reform.

WOLFDOG LEADER OF KILLERS CHOKED TO DEATH BY BULLDOG

A leader of a wolfdog pack that have been killing young cattle for the past five years, came to his death this morning when the pit bulldog belonging to Mrs. Ethel Atkinson, secured a death grip on the marauder's throat and choked him to death. Mrs. Atkinson, sister of Henry, John and Charley Kleiner, came into our office this morning with her brother, Henry, and graphically told of the death struggle that ended the career of a dog that perhaps may have killed a thousand young calves during his four or five years in this section. Dogs have been running cattle and killing the weak ones for several years in this section, said Mrs. Atkinson and Mr. Kleiner. The dogs have been sly and have evaded be-

STAMEY, PIPPEN TO PLAY FIRST FLIGHT FINALS

All but the first flight finals in the city golf tournament conducted at the local golf course last week were finished Sunday and these were delayed on account of the absence of O. L. Stamey in Oklahoma City in charge of the band group. The 18-hole tie between Stamey and W. A. (Jack) Pippet will play Mr. Stamey today or Wednesday, it was announced by chairman T. C. Williams, this morning.

CHAMBER WILL TALK SOIL CONSERVATION

Chamber of Commerce directors will meet tonight and among other things discussed will be plans for securing a soil conservation location for Cisco somewhere on the headwaters of the Leon, said Secretary Spencer. Mr. Spencer, T. G. Caudle and B. A. Butler acted as a committee to look over the Dublin location Monday. Ideas of procedure were secured, said Mr. Spencer.

CISCO-CARBON ROAD OKEHED, $18,000; 92 MEN

Announcement was made today by WPA project headquarters at San Antonio of the granting of federal and sponsor funds to the amount of nearly $18,000 for a farm-to-market road for Eastland county. This project is supposed to be the Carbon end of the Carbon-to-Cisco road that has been granted from Carbon west to the Rising Star-Cisco highway and thence to Cisco. Commissioner Arch Birt has not gotten his estimate in yet for his end of the road, it was announced. The project will employ 92 men.

MAJOR PLAY TESTED SUCCESS BY AUDIENCE

Audience voted through their success of the senior at the high school auditorium last night, filling the house, and making it a financially as well as a display of both pupils taking part in faculty who staged and its characters. The plots were good and the comic features were brought interestingly. The stage settings unusually good. The bed room living room scenes were well and appointed. Sponsors of program are to be congratulated on their success. Ticket sales paid expenses was all that was expected of. The performance of the more than fulfilled the expectations of the sponsors. Every feature of the program was delightful.

Real Independence

As recently evidenced, we celebrate our holidays lightly and gaily, as outstanding days should be celebrated. But it won't hurt us, or detract from the fun, if we give an occasional minute or two to contemplation of the reason why one of our most important holidays is marked with a red letter.

Fourth of July! Singing of the Declaration. Giving England notice, so to speak. Yes, but what is "independence?"

A good many Americans are likely to speak of themselves or others as being "independent" when they merely mean upish or saucy or inconsiderate of the other fellow's interests.

The nation as a whole is rather likely to consider itself "independent" if it is discourteous to its late allies, if it turns a surly shoulder and "isn't going to get itself tangled up in European messes," the while it lets enemies and law violators riddle its institutions from within.

Independence means "not-being-independent." It means standing on our own feet, with the feet well planted and the head held high. That is fine. But it involves certain prerequisites. We cannot stand firmly on weak and shifting ground. If enemies are tunneling, we may soon find that tolerance, liberty, equality or opportunity are crumbling beneath our feet. If we let everybody inside our gates, people incapable of standing on their own feet or holding their heads high or unwilling to do so, we shall soon find ourselves ousted from our "easy, unpeevish hearth," and "camping, by sufferance, on the stoop."

On the other hand, if we pay no attention to our neighbors in trouble, who shall help us when our fires break out or our lakes and wells run dry.

Independence does not mean the elimination of cooperation. It establishes it between equally independent neighbors and friends.

If You Must Gamble

It is frequently stated that the gambling instinct is almost universal in the human race.

Here is a suggestion, then, for you, young man, if you must take a chance:

Don't buy chances in lotteries, or stock in blue sky companies. Take no fliers with your money. But—

Take long chances with your energy.

Suppose you have an ordinary job, which is paying you an ordinary salary. You are doing one day's work for one day's pay, and getting along about as well as the average.

Buck up, branch out, and determine during the next week that you will squander your energy on your job. Put into each working day all the pep you have in your system.

Go home at night, instead of loafing around town, or sitting in a card game, and do some reading that will better fit you for your life work.

Give your employers more service than they have any right to expect. Don't boast about how hard you work—just dig in, equip yourself more fully and hope for the best.

Soon—as certain as the world continues to revolve—you will be in possession of a good job, while others are walking the streets and wondering why it is so hard to find employment.

town where I was to hold a revival. A bear-eyed, besotted ragged specimen of humanity with a breath which smelled like an over-heated automobile radiator in winter-time, stepped up and asked if I wouldn't let him carry my grip. I didn't relish being seen going down the street with such a looking character; but I thought that was a chance to let a needy fellowman make a quarter. So I handed him the grip. As we walked toward the boarding house where I was to stop, the man began to make conversation, in the course of which he addressed me

AFRAID to Love

By MARION WHITE

CASE OF CHARACTERS JOAN BARRETT, heroine, secretary to John Hendry. SYBIL HENDRY, missing investment head. BOB ANDREWS, Hendry's business partner and Joan's fiancé. SYBIL HENDRY, scientist, John Hendry's niece and Joan's rival in love. PHILIP HENDRY, Sybil's brother. DOROTHY STARK, Joan's childhood friend. MARK L. WORTON, California mining promoter.

Yesterday, Philip stumbled onto the complete story of the Barrett family in years ago in San Francisco and jubilantly calls Sybil.

CHAPTER XXIV SYBIL lay in the rose and silver boudoir, fathoms deep in a dream of contentment.

The telephons on her bedside table jangled, and she stirred restlessly. Within the second, she was asleep again. It rang again, and this time its call was more insistent. Sybil opened her eyes sleepily. A third time it rang, and she sat up quickly. She looked at the tiny clock alongside of her. Two o'clock.

Who could be calling at two o'clock in the morning? She picked up the phone, answered it impatiently.

"Long distance calling," she heard the voice of the operator. "One moment, please." The operator's voice droned on. "I'm trying to connect you. Hello, San Francisco. Hello. Here's your party."

Sybil listened breathlessly. "Hello, New York! Hello!" That was Philip's voice.

She answered him quickly. "Hello, Sybil? Did I wake you up? I did! Well, I'm sorry, but it's worth it. Listen to this, Sybil. Are you listening?" "Yes, yes, Philip. Go on."

"All right. Here's the story. The Barrett case was one of San Francisco's most sensational murder trials—"

"What?" Sybil gasped. "Murder, I said. Ten years ago, right here in San Francisco. A man named Thomas Barrett was convicted and later hanged at San Quentin. And listen to this: he left an only daughter, Joan, 13 years old!"

Sybil's eyes were wide. "And this one we know is the same girl?"

"No doubt of it. I'm sending you copies of the pictures published. You can see the resemblance for yourself."

"Oh, Philip, send everything on. Get me everything you can, and send it air mail."

"Before I do another thing, I'll send it airmail, special delivery." "Philip—you've handled this beautifully..."

She heard him chuckle. "Elementary, my dear Watson," he said. "Elementary. Well, go back to sleep now. So long..."

GO back to sleep! She sat up in bed, more wide awake than she had ever been, and hugged the information to her heart.

Joan Barrett, the meek-as-a-mouse, doll-faced sweetheart, was the daughter of a murderer. Her father had been hanged at San Quentin. Who could tell what outrageous ideas lurked behind the sweet blue eyes of the man's daughter?

And that was the girl Bob Andrews wanted to marry!

No wonder she had told him that she'd rather die than have him kiss it out. Imagine living one's life with a murderer's child! Why, at any moment, she might commit the same crime herself. It was in her blood, to kill...

Bob would be thunderstruck when he found it out! It was like Sybil not to consider how intensely he might be hurt; her mind was too full of the supreme satisfaction she would know when he learned the truth.

But who should be the one to tell him? Philip? This could not wait for Philip. This was Thursday. Friday morning, rather. On Saturday, they planned to be married. No, it could not be Philip.

Uncle John, then? YES, Uncle John would be the one to tell him.

She would speak to him the first thing in the morning, before he left for the office. Suddenly she remembered what Bob had told her that evening about her uncle. Tonight he was alone in that little house with 40 thousand dollars! And Abraham might not be home until morning.

She got out of bed quickly. She would go over to see Uncle John immediately. She would tell him that she had been unable to sleep worrying about him alone in the house with all that money. And then, very carefully, pretending the utmost reluctance, she would tell him of Joan Barrett...

Hastily she dressed. She would run over the few blocks to Uncle John's. It was too late to get out the car. Besides, she hated the struggle of opening garage doors and starting up a cold motor. And if she called Jennings at this hour, he would take an eternity to dress himself...

Within ten minutes she was out of the house. Eagerly she turned her steps in the direction of her uncle's house, with as wild a surmise in her heart as Joan had known by name.

"DO YOU know me?" I asked in surprise. "Sure I do," he said cordially, "you converted me."

GAIN there was a burst of merriment from the divines. Perhaps you are laughing. Perhaps you laughed the first time you heard these jokes. But why do you laugh if you do, and why did you laugh if you did? Why should a story of one man's crime and another man's downfall inspire glee? Rather, it might seem they should induce grief.

Incongruity, you say. I laugh at the ridiculous inconsistencies of those situations. Absurdity is one of the commonest sources of humor. At times life would be impossible were it not for our ability to comprehend and appreciate the absurdity. The power to see the absurd thing, as absurd, saved this man's life.

THE MAN was dying with a rising in his throat. He was bidding the members of the household a last farewell. One by one they shook hands with him, pressed their handkerchiefs to their eyes, and left the room. The man's pet ape which had been watching the scene ambled over to the dresser, snatched a handkerchief, put it to one eye, loped over to the bed, and stuck out a paw. The preposterous sight threw the dying man into a fit of laughter, the rising in his throat broke, and he got well.

 Outrage Repeated
 GIBRALTAR, Spain, May 18 (UPI)— Loyalist radios announced today that rebel bombing planes "repeated the Guernica outrage" yesterday on two towns—one in western Spain and the other on the Bilbao front.
 The loyalist radio asserted that air raids in both cases resulted in "considerable civilians killed."

SENIORS RESTRICT FROTH
 CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon
 State college interfraternity council has barred a custom that allowed freshmen some retaliation for the indignities traditionally heaped upon them. The practice known as the "Senior Ride," whereby upper classmen were forcibly seized and taken for a long ride by freshmen, is now out. The seniors have occasionally been forced to walk 30 or more miles from home.

Dahlia Surles is Hostess to YWA

Miss Dahlia Surles was Monday evening hostess to members and guests of the YWA of the First Baptist church, at which time a program on "Man in Macedonia" was presented.
Miss Lucy Cole led the group in prayer at the beginning of the evening session. Miss Lucille Flaherty presided during the absence of the president. Roll call responses were verses of scripture. The program was presented by Miss Elizabeth Wilkes, Doris Surles and Lucille Flaherty. Miss Sarah Mayhew led in prayer at the conclusion of the program.
Delicious refreshments were served during the social hour to Misses Sarah Mayhew, Lucy Cole, Elizabeth Wilkes, Lucille Flaherty, Doris Surles, Lucille Flaherty, Mrs. E. J. Poe and the hostess.

Homemakers Classes Learn Art of Home

Miss Martha Graves and Miss Ester Bradshaw of the Foods 3 classes and Child's Care and Clothing units in the high school, are loud in their praises of the value of the nursery school in south Cisco. Last week Miss Graves visited this school, today Miss Bradshaw visited the school in their official capacities. A great work is being done, they report.
Miss Graves also announces the junior girls are serving senior girls a lunch today in Foods 3 class. The center piece carries out the color scheme with blue corn flowers and larkspur. Two dolls dressed as girl graduates are a part of the decorative scheme.
"Girls should be taught the art of homemaking in our department not mere drudgery," said Miss Graves in speaking of the work done in her department. "Girls do not realize the importance of the finer things in the duty of making a house into a home," she continued. "The little touches make the meal after the basis of food is planned," she said.

Wolfdog Leader—

dog pack is dead, said Mrs. Atkinson and Mr. Kleiner.
Mr. Kleiner and his sister, Mrs. Atkinson, later today reported that the animal killed was a gray timber wolf and his scalp would bring them a bounty of $3.00. He was accompanied by two other wolves, one black and the other red with dark back, either of which is large enough to kill a small yearling or weak cow. The wolf weighed 70 pounds.
The bulldog, Major, is very intelligent and comes of a fine pedigree. His mother once rescued a drowning child near Eastland and was found with the child thrown over her back bringing it to the house when met by its distracted mother who was searching for the missing child. Major was weighed later today and found to be 60 pounds.

Summerize YOUR CAR

REMEMBER that the light motor and gear oils you used for quick winter starting are not made to stand the blistering heat of Southwestern summers. Anti-freeze should be drained and your radiator cleaned. A Magnolia Summerize job includes all these important points, plus a thorough inspection of your battery, tires, lights and other services you may need to prepare your car for safe, economical summer driving. Stop at the sign of the "Flying Red Horse."
