Breckenridge, coming from behind in the fourth inning, stopped the El Paso all-stars at Eastland, 3 to 0. All the Breck runs were made in the fourth.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Present indications are that President Roosevelt will continue to fight for the essential of his Supreme Court plan but refuse to accept any major compromise, that Senator Robinson of Arkansas will be appointed to the Supreme Court and that Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky will succeed Robinson as administration leader in the Senate.

The probable Robinson appointment is likely to be delayed until after the present session of Congress, whenever that may be. Roosevelt thinks he can win sooner or later if he keeps the issue open. Most of his closest advisers, including congressional leaders, profess to believe the same thing, despite a chorus of pleas and demands from Capitol Hill that the issue be dropped.

THERE is as yet no administration retreat to the compromise proposed by Senator Logan of Kentucky, which would maintain a basic court of nine men but provide that when justices failed to retire at 75 the President might appoint additional justices—in such cases—at the rate of one a year. At this writing the administration crowd says Roosevelt won't stand for the one-a-year limit. If such a provision is the best he can get in the Senate he will try to get a much better break in the House—that is, according to present plans.

Of course, if more justices resign the situation will be altered. To understand Roosevelt's stubborn attitude it is necessary to know that one of his paramount ambitions is to establish the Democratic party as a definitely liberal, progressive party, and that he expects to name his own suc-

Farm Bill Will Be Discussed Thursday

Farmers and business men of Eastland county who are interested in hearing a proposed new agricultural bill discussed will meet in the 89th district court room, Eastland, at 10 a. m. Thursday, June 3 at which time H. G. Lucas, president, Texas Agricultural Association will lead the discussion.

Texas farmers under the leadership of their own organization, the Texas Agricultural Association, have taken an active part in framing the proposed new farm program. A committee representing the association has just returned from Washington and report that the "Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1937" is in their opinion the greatest legislation ever proposed for Texas farmers.

All farmers and business men are urged to attend the meeting and join in discussions of its merits and demerits. ELMO V. COOK.

Four Goat Dipping Events are Planned

Four demonstrations in goat dipping to control lice are scheduled by the county agent. The first demonstration will be held on the Dan Childress ranch, 9 miles northwest of Eastland on the Cisco-Breckenridge highway beginning at 9 a. m. Saturday, June 12th. At this demonstration W. R. Nisbet, Extension Animal Husbandman will discuss all phases of successful goat raising in Eastland county. He will be assisted by the County Agent, 500 goats will be dipped.

The second dipping will be conducted by the county agent and C. L. Wilson, Rising Star Teacher of Vocational Agriculture and will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday, June 16th on the Cecil Skults ranch, 1 mile northwest of the Branton Gin. The gin is located about 5 miles north of Rising Star on the Cisco highway 250 goats and 100 sheep will be dipped.

On Thursday, June 17th at 1:30 p. m. the county agent and Dr. R. H. Hodges will conduct a dipping demonstration on the old Norwood place, 2 miles north of Olden, 450 goats and 500 sheep owned by Dr. Hodges will be dipped.

On Saturday, June 19th at 1:30 p. m. the county agent and T. G. Caudle, Cisco teacher of Vocational Agriculture will hold a dipping demonstration on the F. E. Harrell ranch, 3 miles west of Cisco on the Abilene highway. 150 goats and 350 sheep will be dipped.

County Agent Cook is urging all Eastland county ranchers and farmers who have goats or brush land suitable for goat production to attend one of these four dipping demonstrations and join in discussions of profitable goat raising. Cook has pointed out that there are thousands of acres of land in Eastland county which are suitable for carrying goats, which land at present is worthless for any other kind of livestock. In addition to the profit possible by running goats on this land, after it has been heavily browsed with goats for several years it then produces weeds for sheep grazing and grass for cattle production.

Ridding goats of lice is just one object of the demonstrations planned by the county agent. It is hoped that the interest in goats created by these demonstrations and the information obtained at the meetings will encourage more goat raising in the county.

CONTRACT WIFE

BY LOUISE HOLMES © 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PATRICIA WARREN, heroine, secretary to Don Monteray, actor-playwright.
TRISSY WARREN, Pat's cousin and roommate in New York.
DON MONTERAY, Patricia's actor-employer.
ROSMOND AKERS, Patricia's rival.

CHAPTER VI
A WEEK followed, long hazy days, hushed starlit nights. Don was absorbed in his work and Pat, for the moment, blissfully content. She was Don's wife and that was enough. She slept and walked and dreamed. Mostly she dreamed of the day when she could cast aside her hideous disguise and Don would love her because she was herself.

After ten days of luxurious peace and quiet they went back to the Avalon. Driving down, Don said, "You must dress a little better, Patricia." And at her startled upward glance, he added "Heaven knows you're a relief to my eyes just as you are. I'm so fed up with women who trade on their beauty." And Pat's made a mental vow. Never once would she bring herself to Don's attention. Glorified secretary or convenient wife, her job was clear.

Don added another room to his suite. It was a front room opening from the living room and also into a narrow hall which connected with the main hotel corridor. Pat's sighed over the accumulation of fan mail and engaged a quiet young man as secretary. Pat's dreaded the first meeting with Rosie but when she appeared her reactions were tempered by a crying need for cash. She completely ignored the sudden marriage and, after a scornful look at Pat's, begged Don for a loan. When he had generously responded she departed.

THE next day Pat's took up the matter of clothes. It was extremely difficult, but when the new wardrobe was assembled she had to admit that it more than answered the very special requirements. The materials were elegant and rich, the colors chosen for their unbecomingness, the styles deliberately ruinous. Green was dimly unsuited to her pallid complexion, so green was the dominant note.

The gowns were severe, they were middle-aged, the waistlines wrong, the necklines too high, the skirts too long. Footwear was a problem since her feet were slender and arched, but by adhering to the so-called health shoe she acquired as wretched an array of slippers as she could possibly wear. Evening frocks were modest in the extreme for she dared not display the smooth loveliness of her back and shoulders.

It was a strange life. She went everywhere with Don and was introduced as his wife. Out of his hearing she allowed her quaint cleverness to rise to the surface and gained a certain popularity despite her appearance. "Terrible looking but rather clever," said the women. "She dances like an angel. Must have something—old Don seems content," added the men.

AND through it all Pat's stuck to her resolution. She so thoroughly effaced herself, so satisfactorily protected Don from the pushing, crowding, curious world that when he thought of her at all it was with a wave of gratitude. As one is grateful for a perfect timepiece and pineapple juice chilled exactly to the taste so Don was grateful for Pat's. Rarely she spoke to him unless he started the conversation. Never did she impose her personality upon him!

But as time went on the situation gradually became intolerable to Pat's. After all she was only 21 and madly in love with her husband. To sacrifice her loveliness, her longing for beautiful clothes, her perfectly normal joy in being admired—it was asking a bit too much. Sometimes she went early to her room, jerked off the offending disguise, creamed and massaged her weary face until it glowed with renewed freshness, shampooed her hair and gloried in its spun gold softness.

Sometimes she looked longingly at the closed door. Suppose she should walk out, push Don back from his typewriter and throw herself into his arms. Suppose she should say, "I'm your real wife. Love me as I love you." What then? The temptation was almost unbearable.

BUT the idea grew and blossomed. Other girls had the right to win the men they loved. This thing couldn't go on indefinitely. She might get sick, there might be a night fire in the hotel, a dozen things might happen. She thought of discarding the disguise gradually, first the complexion, then the glasses, the hip pads and the horrible shoes. (CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) the beautifully blended voices of the Harmony Girls lent enchantment to the exercises. Mrs. S. E. Hittson played the professional and recessionary; Rev. M. H. Applewhite gave the invocation. Dean Boger gave facts about the good ship "Leader" tending to help the graduates in the voyage into the unknown sea, but charted those waters for them so that they might avoid dangers and choose the best course. Among other things he said, "It matters not whether you agree with me or not, it is important that these statements make you think; everyone carries a God within themselves that makes them invulnerable for right." And then he continued to say that "self control was important," adding that the old game of "Up She Goes" illustrated the fact that one must have their eyes upon something higher than themselves. "Get some religion as you go along," he said. "This will be all important to you," he continued. Principal O. L. Stamey announced a number of school honors that had been bestowed and introduced the recipients. State occupational awards were accorded Cecil Edwards, Bob Burkett, Evatt Horne, Martin Lineberger, Marshal Ivie, Vernon Shirley, and Forest Noble. Greater Texas Essay contest winners were, Joy Miller, $2 cash; Vada Belle Tomlinson $2.50 cash award from the First Industrial Arts club and a certificate of award from the State Homemakers, on the highest standing for the year. Jo Tipton, personality certificate from the Cisco

Homemakers department. Honors were accorded as follows: Horace Cameron as first in entire class; Evatt Horne as second in senior class; Margaret Hagaman first for girls; Velsie Wood, second. The latter had a perfect record of attendance during the eight years in Cisco schools. Each year the Rotary club gives a gold medal to the most valuable boy in the class. This year the faculty voted a tie between Joe Slicker and Cecil Edwards, and so both were given medals which were beautifully engraved with the recipient's name and the words: "Most Valuable Boy."

I'd rather have my good trade on Conoco Germ Processed oil, then just getting people to change here once, and always be worried about new ones showing up. A lot of my trade comes from clear out around, because nothing but my Germ Processed oil will Oil-Plate their engines. You see, the patent Germ Process gets this oil to form a strong slippery Plating on every working surface. Mind you, Oil-Plating can't drain down while your car is parked. So it can't let your engine start up "dry," which engineers say is the greatest danger. And the way it's Plated on, Conoco Germ Processed oil isn't using up in a hurry. Then that's getting more mileage out of both your oil and engine—coming here to me for Oil-Plating."

Gloryifying THE AMERICAN KITCHEN

Thousands of women are basing their entire kitchen modernizing plans on the 1937 gas range. And it is little wonder, for designers and fashionists everywhere hail it as the most beautiful cooking appliance. Preferred, they say, not only because of its smooth-flowing lines and glistening beauty—but most of all, because of its superior performance in every division of modern cookery. Outstanding are its simmer burners that make possible "waterless" cooking without special utensils... its insulated fresh-air oven with its live, circulating heat always steadily applied... its high-speed broiler that grills meats more tender and more savory in less time. And every smart home-maker knows that gas is clean, fast and much cheaper. Isn't it worth visiting your gas company or dealer's store to discover how you, too, can glorify your kitchen for little money?
