EMBATTLED FOOD PLANE CRASHING IN BESEIGED STEEL PLANT

Trial of the case of Beer Retailers and Wholesalers who contested the May 1 prohibition election, was set Tuesday by Judge George L. Davenport in 91st district court for Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Friday proceedings will be the hearing of the case upon its merits; at the same time Judge Davenport will hear the application of the complainants, the Beer Retailers and Wholesalers, for an injunction to restrain members of Commissioners' Court, the County Judge and the Criminal District Attorney, respondents in the case from putting into effect an order of the Commissioner's Court which set June 27 as final date for sale of all liquors in Eastland county.

The Beer Retailers allege notices for the May 1 election, resulting in a majority vote for prohibition of all liquor, were improperly posted, and the issue submitted should have been upon 14 per cent beer and wine, legalized last year.

HAILSTORMS IN PANHANDLE CHECKED TODAY

AMARILLO, June 8 (U.P.)—The Texas Panhandle checked today the damage left by hail storms which criss-crossed the high plains last night.

Hail stones here measured half an inch in diameter. Grainmen said it was impossible to estimate the damage to the wheat crops until additional reports could be obtained.

Rain totaled more than an inch in the north Panhandle. Stratford, already drenched by a 6 inch cloudburst Sunday, had additional rains.

Harmon County Agent Clarence Burch estimated that 600,000 bushels of wheat had been destroyed.

Damage estimates ranged as high as $1,000,000. Hundreds of windows in Harmon county were broken and roofs were battered in.

BEARMAN TEST MAY FIND OIL SAND WED'DAY

Drillers on the Bearman Pa-Bac have been making good time on the well since Monday despite the hard lime shale encountered after leaving the black Marble Falls lime. They are now drilling at near 3,700 feet with the Ranger sand as the goal.

The Ranger sand should be encountered at about 3,760, said J. A. Bearman today. And nothing is expected to happen this side of that destination. A straight, clean hole allows easy drilling despite hard formations that have been encountered since beginning Saturday after the second cementing job.

JEAN HARLOW'S FUNERAL WILL BE SIMPLE; FORTUNE MILLION

HOLLYWOOD, June 8 (U.P.)—Movie fans in working clothes and stars who knew Jean Harlow were turned away from the mortuary today as they sought a glimpse of the glamorous star who died yesterday.

The funeral directors were under strict orders not to admit anyone to the bare room in which Miss Harlow's body awaits the funeral at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

"We have been given few final instructions," an attendant said. "All we know is that Miss Harlow will be dressed in white. The casket has been picked out. It is a nice one, but not overly expensive. We have received orders not to allow anyone to see Miss Harlow's body at present."

Mrs. Jean Bello, the star's mother, was described by friends as being determined that her daughter's last rights will be simple.

The body will be taken from the Pierce Brothers parlors to the chapel of the Wee Kirk of the Heather at Forest Lawn cemetery shortly before the funeral. Only 200 of the star's friends will be admitted to the tiny chapel.

WASHINGTON, June 8 (U.P.)—The house of representatives sent to the senate today a measure presenting appointment for a district judge for the southern district of Texas.

The message as passed by the house included a proviso that the new judge be appointed from the district over which the court has jurisdiction.

AUSTIN, June 8 (U.P.)—The signing by Governor Allred of the bill repealing Texas horse race betting was postponed again today.

The bill was signed in the senate by Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul. When it reached the house, however, Speaker Robert Calvert hesitated to sign because of an irregular certificate attached.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 8 (U.P.)—Local authorities today ordered the disarming of steel strike pickets in Youngstown, center of a steel district in which more than 30,000 mill workers are idle.

TELEPHONE CO. SAYS DOES NOT WANT BOOKIES

AUSTIN, June 8 (U.P.)—John Bickett, chief attorney for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, told a Senate sub-committee today that telephone companies do not want bookie business and tried to prevent it.

The committee held a hearing today while both houses adjourned until Wednesday for lack of other business.

Bickett said the telephone company had been subjected to suits from both sides because of the bookie law. The state sued them in Austin for an injunction against serving bookies, and in Houston they are being sued for refusal to furnish service to an applicant they thought wanted it for book-making.

Jaycees Win Over Leach by 18 to 14

Leach stores team played the most erratic and ragged game of the current season. Every man on the team made an error except Stamey, Dick and Smith, while the Jaycees had only two errors chalked against them.

WAGGONERS TO LEAVE TEXAS FOR NEW MEX.

FORT WORTH, June 8 (U.P.)—A business associate of Guy and Paul Waggoner, millionaire Fort Worth sportsman, admitted today that the wealthy brothers were moving their headquarters from Texas to New Mexico and planned to leave their Fort Worth home.

It was understood that the Waggoners themselves had not completed plans for the move, but are arranging to live on a ranch near Mosquero, N. Mex. One friend believed the brothers planned to develop an extensive stock-breeding farm and to continue raising race horses.

No information was obtained concerning the disposition of the extensive farm at Arlington. Earlier in the year the Waggoners were reported to be considering dividing the land into small farms and selling it to individuals.

All persons connected with the Waggoners said their removal was prompted by the repeal of horse racing.

The Waggoner fortune estimated to total between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000 has been administered from Fort Worth for half a century.

Visible vs. Invisible Taxes

"It would be an excellent thing if some of the many taxes now levied indirectly were promptly scrapped in favor of direct personal taxes, even on the smallest incomes," says the New York Times.

The persistent belief possessed by millions of citizens that they pay no taxes whatsoever because their incomes fall below certain "income tax exemptions"—coupled with the attitude that "the rich guys have to pay"—has bred an almost callous disregard for government spending.

Direct taxes constitute a minor part of government income, while indirect taxes on food, clothing, drugs, amusements—everything we buy and use—fall proportionately heavier on the poor than on the well-to-do, because there are fewer of the latter.

The Times' suggestion to have direct taxes supplant some of the indirect taxes, is an excellent one. Unfortunately our lawmakers always eye such ideas with enmity, because of their potential political repercussions.

No 'Bombs' Today, Thank You

Thirty days without a traffic fatality! That is a record of which San Diego, Calif., may justly be proud. It is the result of an aggressive safety campaign initiated by local officials who had become alarmed by the staggering number of traffic deaths occurring within their city.

To fully illustrate the impressive results, the safety committee of the local post of the American Legion prepared a chart closely resembling an ordinary index of business activity. The traffic death rate before the drive was represented by a diagonal line, reaching its peak in the upper right hand corner of the chart, darkly hinting at a breathtaking and horrifying "boom business." Reduced to figures this line meant that on the average, one person was killed every three and eight-tenths days. Results of the drive were represented by another line that showed that the death rate had been reduced to one person each fourteen and three tenths days—a decrease of almost 80 per cent.

Success of the safety campaign was attributed to the fact that the police "cracked down" and the courts backed them up by handling cases efficiently and impartially. Too, San Diego's leading newspapers aroused in the public a spirit of wholehearted cooperation with a steady stream of constructive and helpful publicity.

San Diego's fine record conclusively proves that safety campaigns, seriously undertaken, can accomplish surprisingly effective results in any community.

CAST OF CHARACTERS: PATRICIA WARREN, heroine, secretary to Don Monteray, actor-playwright. FRANK WARREN, Pats' cousin and roommate in New York. DON MONTERAY, Patricia's employer. ROSAMOND AKERS, Patricia's rival.

CHAPTER XI LEANING back in the cab, Pats gave herself up to a few moments of rapturous thought. Don loved her. He had proved it without a shadow of doubt. But she must not allow his mistaken gallantry to go on. Turning over plans in her mind she decided upon the simplest. Somehow she would slip into her room without being seen. Then minute the brown wig and glasses, she would calmly, perhaps not too calmly, walk in on Don and tell her story.

By means of the servants' elevator she stealthily gained the safety of her room. Quickly she crossed to the inner door and bent her head to listen. Evidently Don had lately come in. He was talking to Sims. He was going away for a few days. Sims should order a bite from the cafe and leave the door on the latch while he helped pack. He was to notify Don the minute Mrs. Monteray came in.

Pats threw her hat and coat on the bed. The sooner the better now. Deftly she used cream, powder, rouge and lipstick, ran a comb through her spun gold hair and pushed it into soft waves. The beating of her heart smothered her, cold shivers prickled her arms. The next few moments meant so much, the beginning or the end of happiness. All at once she became rigid, listening. Voices in the living-room. Oh, why hadn't she hurried? Must her intimate disclosures be made before the hostile eyes of the law? Then Don's voice, rough with irritation, broke above the murmur.

"Hello, Rosie." Pats relaxed. Rosie might not be welcome but— "The door was unlatched so we walked in," Rosie returned with an undertone of nervous tension. "Meet my lawyer, Mr. Bradlovich."

INSTANTLY Pats scented trouble. Rosie with a lawyer. She leaned closer to the door. Every word came to her distinctly. First Don, trying vainly to hide his impatience. "Very nice of you to stop but I'm in a deuce of a hurry. Another time perhaps."

Then the lawyer, suavely bland. "There is no better time than the present. Coming quickly to the point, Mr. Monteray, Miss Akers is about to bring suit against you."

"And on what grounds?" Don whirled around to face the attorney. "I shall be most glad to specify." The man's smug tone infuriated Pats, listening behind the door. "In the first place Miss Akers left a lucrative position in Hollywood to come to New York at your suggestion."

"At this remark something clicked in Pats' brain. The letter from Rosie—the one she had read during her first week in Don's employ—where was that letter? She had put it in the bottom desk drawer and forgotten it. Had it ever been destroyed? She was certain it had not.

"And," Mr. Bradlovich was going on, "you kept her in this hotel, paid all her expenses— "Wait a minute—I loaned her money at various times— "I beg to differ with you, Mr. Monteray."

QUICKLY Pats pinned the wig over her curls and snapped the glasses on her nose. No time for sallow make-up now. Her dress was dark and plain. It would have to do. The occupants of the room started at her entrance. "Patricia," Don said in a steely voice she hardly recognized, "you are just in time to witness a lowly attempt at shakedown."

"No such thing," Rosie threw in hotly. "You had me thrown out of— "Don glared at her. "An outrageous frame-up," he grated. "Tell this fellow it's all a pack of lies. I got you a job—loaned you money— "Rosie raised her chin and insolently shrugged her graceful shoulders. "It will be an ugly story, Mr. Monteray," put in the lawyer. "You can not hope to find a jury which will take your word against that of Miss Akers."

Don threw up his hands. "I have more important business to-night than haggling with you." Jerking open a desk drawer he snatched out a checkbook. "How much will you take to clear out?" Mr. Bradlovich rubbed his long bony chin with an equally long bony hand. "Considering the circumstances I should say—twenty-five thousand— "Don roared. He cursed. But he took up his pen. "I haven't that much in the bank," he said wearily. "I'll give you a note."

"Don—" At the sound of Pats' voice Rosie and her attorney started and turned. They had not reckoned with the shadow against the wall. She took the pen from Don's hand. "Don't write a word. These people have no case against you."

Don looked up at her. "What do you mean?" he asked frowningly. Pats turned to the lawyer. His leering smile stiffened. Rosie said, "You keep out of this, Patricia." She was noticeably alarmed. But Pats didn't keep out of it.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The administration's minimum wage-maximum hour-child labor bill is the measure Roosevelt has had most in mind during his war on the Supreme Court.

If the court can swallow this one it will have removed the most effective barriers which once were set up against the New Deal program. And federal regulation will have taken its longest stride.

Many of the barriers have been knocked down in the past few months. The big one remaining, legal experts say, is the Hammer vs. Dagenhart 5-to-4 decision, which in 1918 knocked out a law prohibiting products made by child labor from moving in interstate commerce.

Roosevelt, in his message to Congress, quoted the dissenting opinion of the late Justice Holmes in the Hammer case. But he didn't quote the deciding majority opinion. And that's what the court must reverse if the New Deal is to have its wage-hour-child labor law. The present proposal would bar from interstate commerce products manufactured by children under 16 and by workers subject to "oppressive" wage and hour conditions as defined by Congress.

"The goods shipped are in themselves harmless," said Mr. Justice Day in the majority opinion, thereby distinguishing them from such items as liquor, whose shipment into dry states was barred by the Webb-Kenyon act.

Production was not subject to federal control, Day insisted, and "the making of goods and the mining of coal are not commerce." Consequently, he held, the production of articles intended for interstate commerce was "an invasion by the federal power of the control of a matter purely local in character."

And that reasoning still stands, although the child labor law applied only to the welfare of exploited children, and the proposed legislation is based on the claim, this federal regulation of business is necessary for protection of the entire economic system.

THE court has been gliding close to Hammer vs. Dagenhart in recent decisions, however. In the recent Kentucky Whip and Collar case, wherein the court upheld by unanimous decision the Ashurst-Sumners act prohibiting shipment of convict-made goods into states having laws against such goods, Chief Justice Hughes opined:

"The Congress in exercising the power conferred to it by the Constitution is as free as the states to recognize the fundamental interests of free labor."

Roosevelt cribbed the line when he said in his message to Congress that "Congress may exercise that power to regulate commerce among the states) to recognize and protect the fundamental interests of free labor."

Anyway, the New Deal legalists say that ought to help upset Hammer vs. Dagenhart.

If the bill passes, the makeup of the court when the act comes up for the final judicial test may determine the fate of this drastic proposal.

There is no real assurance that the three liberal justices—Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo—would uphold it. There is plenty of doubt about Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Roberts. Justices McReynolds, Butler and Sutherland almost certainly will vote against it if they are still on the court when it comes up, although it is probable that whatever Justice Roosevelt picks to succeed Justice Van Devanter would vote to declare it valid.

J. B. ELY IS GROWING AN ODD TOMATO

A tomato vine planted by J. B. Ely, Cisco florist, was the first in Cisco to yield fruit. The seed was planted last February 1, and the first bloom appeared on May 1. Every one of the 17 blooms in the first cluster set fruit.

Mr. Ely has been a successful florist and horticulturist in Cisco for more than 15 years, and he has had much experience with plants. Mr. Ely says, "I have this year more nearly attained a cultural perfection for tomatoes than ever before."

For the past 25 years I have grown tomatoes both winter and summer—under glass in winter. Besides this I have studied plant life from a cultural standpoint, from a commercial standpoint, and have learned how to make plants yield fruit instead of stalk. This cluster of tomatoes is an average of a hundred or so other tomato plants now growing in my garden, which anyone interested may see. There are many more prolific clusters in the patch than the one on exhibit. This one was selected at random. This heavy production is the result of cultural discoveries I have made during 25 years and I should consider this knowledge of inestimable value.

"I have offered through Mr. Spencer to speak to any body of men interested in the subject, and have had some gardeners look at my tomato patch. Besides all agreeing that they have never seen a like sight, no interest has been shown further. I think it is safe to say that 90 per cent of the potential tomato crops in this region has 'gone with the wind' for lack of knowledge which I certainly know that I possess. Every grower has his own pet ideas and has fallen into a rut out of which a steam shovel wouldn't raise him, and only a concerted campaign of education will alter these conditions.

"This is a better tomato country than East Texas, where it is the principal crop, but it would take a revolution to put into general practice the simple culture principles necessary to exploit its possibilities, and I am no revolutionist. Nor am I a bigot, but I shall beat the local crop to the market this year by four to six weeks, with an early crop equal to the whole summer production of the average tomato patch.

"Not only will my tomatoes be extra early and unbelievably productive, but the flavor and consistency will be far superior to any tomato grown here or shipped in. We had our first mess of ripe tomatoes for dinner today from plants that made their first blooms May 1, in the open field. Those who care to look at my patch will see—not a long rambling vine with empty bloom stems, but a tomato tree loaded with from 20 to 40 sizeable tomatoes running from ripe down to an inch size. Seeing is believing.

"I expect to gather in the next 10 days from five to 10 pounds from vine. The variety planted is the old standard Earliana—normally the most rambling sort."

Mr. Ely is experimenting with another kind of tomato plant, known

Mechanical Map was Made by An Artist

MINNEAPOLIS (U.P.)—The inventive genius of Harley G. Webster, Minneapolis artist and cartoonist, may prove the salvation of the harassed motorist who cracks an elbow every time he opens his "neatly folded" road map.

Webster has worked out a device which is designed to automatically move a trip map as the motorist drives along.

No larger than the average folding camera, the device, which is electrically operated from the car battery, is placed next to the rear-view mirror where it can be seen by the motorist and passengers. A miniature motor moves the map in proportion to the average rate of driving speed of the car.

A miniature lamp throws light on the moving map to enable the motorist to see it clearly both night and day. Webster said the trip road map used will cover routes from 100 to 700 miles and may be easily changed.

Gorman Man Grows Irish Potato Crop

GORMAN, June 8 (U.P.)—Gorman's number one farmer at the present writing is J. E. Smith, who resides about one mile out on the De Leon highway—and proof to this statement may be had in person by a personal tour of his 20-acre Irish potato field.

Smith has been on this farm since 1933, and when he first settled there, it was given up to be one of the worst run-down and least productive farms in this section of the state—but judging from the results actually seen, it is believed it will now produce more cash per acre than any farm in this section.

This spring Mr. Smith devoted 20 acres of his farm to Irish potatoes, believing that they would pay him to do so. He started digging them last week, and is making from 115 to 125 bushels of potatoes per acre, with a price of two cents per pound for No. 1 potatoes and one cent per pound for the No. 2 tubs.

He is employing some twenty-five people to help dig, gather grade and pack the potatoes. And he is finding a ready market for them through trucks from the north and west, who have "just happened" to learn of his harvesting.

He has used both commercial and farmyard fertilizer in enriching the soil for his crop, which was planted in the middle of February and his efforts to make the crop pay have been handsomely rewarded.

Smith plans now, as soon as the crop is harvested, to plant melons, black-eyed peas and cantaloupes on his potato land, thereby again producing a money-making crop.

Farmers who doubt that the soil in this section will produce paying truck crops have only to make a trip to the Smith farm to see for themselves just what can be done when the proper effort is put forth.

20-Year-Old Fire Burns Lumber Yard

ENTERPRISE, Ore. (U.P.)—A fire that started 20 years ago is still engaging the attention of Enterprise firemen.

The flame, smouldering beneath a long mound of sawdust and chips broke forth recently to menace the East Oregon Lumber Company firemen, as in the past, played streams of water on it until it was quenched, but they know from long experience that it will lie dormant a few months or years and then break out again.

Voters Asked To Doctor Constitution

AUSTIN, June 8 (U.P.)—Texas voters have been asked again to doctor the state's constitution.

Several amendments will be submitted to popular vote on August 23, 1937. At the next general election, voters will decide if they want to keep an anti-dueling clause in the state oath of office.

This ancient oath, a survival of Texas revolutionary days, has been sworn by state officials since the beginning of statehood. Affairs of honor were not entirely stamped out for many years after that time.

A return to the much-condemned system of paying officials by fee instead of salary is one change under consideration. Re-instatement of the fee system, abolished two years ago, is proposed.

County judges complained that officials were not so active since fees began to be placed in the county treasury as they were when fees could be retained by the officer. The state found it a heavy burden to supplement the local salaries for the state services performed by local officers. Gov. James V. Allred estimated that the cost increase was as high as 70 per cent. Strangely enough, it was not the officials who asked for return to the fee system. Mostly, they indicated, they prefer the more certain return of regular salaries.

Other proposed amendments will permit the state to co-operate with the federal social security board in aiding needy adult blind and underprivileged children.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS TO HAVE MODERN REOPEN

AUSTIN, June 8 (AP)—The University of Texas will reopen next fall as a modern institution hardly recognizable as the outgrowth of a small state college that not many years ago hired cowboys to herd cattle on its campus.

It will have a 27 story administration building, a $17,500 a year president, a $15,000 a year football coach and 7500 students.

The $1,633,000 administration building was completed a few months ago, marking the end of a $9,000,000 campus building program for which oil royalties were pledged.

The Texas legislature boosted the salary of the University president more than 100 per cent, indicative of a desire to attract a "big name" educator to fill the chair left vacant by the sudden death of alumnus-President, Harry Yandell Benedict.

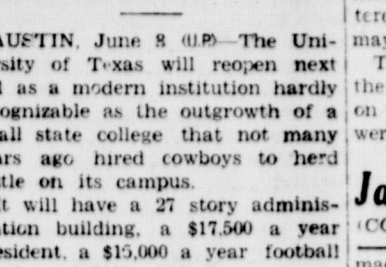

As a result, the regents found themselves with authority to offer a president $17,500 a year. In addition to a residence and utility service. He will be the highest paid state official. His pay will exceed the $15,000 a year the university's athletic council is reported to have promised Dana X. Bible as football coach and athletic director.

The new president will head an institution which already has exceeded by far anything dreamed by the Texas pioneers who listed among other causes for their declaration of independence the failure of Mexico to provide for public education.

The original 40-acre campus has been expanded to 200 acres, providing sites for 22 buildings. A medical branch is maintained at Galveston; a mining school at El Paso; Far from the hub-bub of campus life, on the high, bleak peak of Mount Locke and in the clear atmosphere of the Davis Mountains the university has another $1,000,000 project—the W. J. McDonald Observatory.

The astronomical laboratory in which one of the world's largest reflectors will be placed is nearly complete. The huge glass will be placed as seen as the process of cooling and polishing is finished. Oil has aided the University's rapid growth. The institution's oil and gas properties are estimated conservatively to be worth $250,000,000. Oil men have estimated their potential at double that figure. The oil lies in a vast domain given to

CISCO "MAKIN'S" SMOKERS KNOWN FOR ROLLING TALENT!

They'll tell you this rich, full-bodied "makin's" tobacco shapes up quick, neat

WHERE you find men extra handy at rolling "makin's," like as not they're usin' P. A. Due to the "crimp cut," Prince Albert lays right—doesn't spill or blow away. Rolls up fast, smooth, firm. That "crimp cut" also does a lot for easy drawing and cool, slow-burning smoking. But the big P. A. feature is the "no-bite" process. Takes out harshness. Yet Prince Albert's got RICH TASTE—and FULL BODY. Pipe-smokers, too, say Prince Albert is great!

P. A. IS THE FAVORITE 'MAKIN'S' TOBACCO AROUND HERE. ROLLS EASIER, NEATER—SMOKES MILD AND TASTY!

"SAY, brother, P. A. sure rescued me from tongue-bite. I can't get over how mild it is. It's no wonder you see so many fellows rollin' in Prince Albert as 'makin'."

"YES—and don't forget, P. A. Albert has that grand taste good body everyone gets. Boy, there's a lot of satisfaction in Prince Albert as 'makin'."
