9,000 Non-Strikers Ask Plant Re-Opening

Search Continues for Mrs. Parsons

SHOWDOWN IS EXPECTED FOR IDLE WORKERS

CLEVELAND, June 16 (U.P.)—A delegation claiming to represent 9,000 non-striking Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company employees asked the company today to reopen its closed plant at once.

The company was expected to consult law-enforcement officials before deciding the date of re-opening, which would cause a showdown in the strike that began three weeks ago and has made 20,000 workers idle.

Other major developments at the seven-state strike, moved toward a "finished fight on the question of CIO contracts were.

German Tom Girdler of Republic declined to meet tomorrow with Governor Martin Dewey of Ohio Davey had called him to meet for a "supreme effort" at settlement.

American Federation of Labor and CIO unions at Canton, Ohio joined hands in preparation for a threatened general strike in the event a citizen's law and order league helps break picket lines at four Republic plants in Canton.

At Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Mayor Daniel Shields appealed to President Roosevelt to intervene in the strike at Bethlehem's big Cambria plant and CIO leaders offered to "settle the entire controversy" by a National Labor Relations Board election.

Acting Postmaster General W. W. Howes informed the House Postoffice Committee in Washington that "normal mail service" had been maintained to steel plants, except for a "few instances where the mails were delayed."

The first sign of violence today came when a bomb was hurled inside a plant at Johnstown, and exploded on company property. Later a shower of light bolts rained down on pickets from men inside the plant.

At Washington, John L. Lewis, chairman of the CIO, prepared to make his first visit to the steel strike area.

The duel operations seemed likely to develop into a nutcracker maneuver in which the Basque forces would be trapped between the sea and the mountains.

Indications that the loyalists intended to use dynamite in the final stand at Bilbao were seen in many villages. It was reported that Bilbao was being mined.

During the assault, thousands of loyalists fled northward.

WORLD NEWS FLASHES ON WIRES TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 15 (U.P.)—Representative Martin Dies of Texas introduced in the house today a resolution calling for an investigation of lobbying activities in Washington.

TEXAS ANTI-TRUST LAWS ARE STILL EFFECTIVE, COURT SAYS

AUSTIN, June 16 (U.P.)—Texas anti-trust law once suspended by NRA regulations was declared still effective today by the State Supreme court.

As a result a $17,850,000 penalty suit filed by Governor Alfred when he was attorney general against 15 major oil companies and two petroleum associations was remanded to the 98th district court here for retrial.

Allred had charged that the defendants violated the anti-trust law in a petroleum marketing code approved by the Federal Trade Commission.

The Supreme Court said "some of the rules on their faces are strongly suggestive of a violation of the anti-trust statutes."

Particularly cited were rules prohibiting installation and loaning of

The May 1 county-wide election to outlaw sale of all liquors was held null and void Wednesday by Judge Atchison of Breckenridge, who presided in 91 district court at Eastland in the case contesting the vote.

In Judge Atchison's judgment he also declared null and void Commissioner's Court order of May 27 which declared the results of the election. The status of Eastland county will remain as it was prior to the election.

Judge Atchison ruled prior to the election malt and vinous beverages up to 14 per cent alcohol content had been sold as they were legalized last year.

Commissioner's Court, the members of whom were among the contestees in the case, gave notice it will appeal to the 11th Court of Civil Appeals after excepting to the court's ruling. The contestees have 20 days within which to file their appeal.

The court in its order holding null and void did not give its reasons upon which the ruling was based.

Beer Retailers and Wholesalers, who filed this suit, had alleged notices in the election were improperly posted and challenged the validity of the ballot asserting an election to outlaw what was legal prior to May 1 voting should have specifically covered the issue of beverages up to 14 per cent alcoholic content and not upon prohibition of liquor as worded upon ballot.

The case styled G. E. Connally et al vs. W. F. Adamson, county judge, et al, had its beginning when the contestants' Attorney Milton Lawrence was granted a temporary injunction which May 6 prevented canvass of the vote and declaration of the results. On May 27, 91st District Court sustained contestees'

Pattersons Injured In Car Accident

EASTLAND—News of the injury from an automobile accident last Thursday near Madalena, N. M., of E. W. Patterson, judge of 88th district court, and Mrs. Patterson was received here Tuesday.

Judge Patterson cut about the head and face, was taken to a hospital, according to a letter received by Mrs. J. H. Caton of Eastland, from Mrs. Patterson at Madalena, and 40 stitches were required to sew up the wounds.

Mrs. Patterson was badly bruised on her right side.

The accident occurred. It was stated, after a fire blew out as Judge and Mrs. Patterson were negotiating a curve, and the car skidded and turned over one and a half times. The crash threw Mrs. Patterson from the front seat into the rear of the car.

Judge Patterson lapsed into unconsciousness from loss of blood. It was 15 minutes before aid came. Plans were to have someone and the jurist and his wife continue to Eastland by train after their recovery.

The condition of Patterson, although severely injured, was not considered dangerous. It was indicated Mrs. Patterson had already been released from the hospital, but was awaiting her husband's recovery before returning to Eastland with him.

The couple were understood en route to Colorado Springs, Colo., for a brief visit after going to Arizona, where his brother was reported seriously ill and because of which he left Eastland recently.

A Rare Flower Blooms at Night

Through the courtesy of J. B. Ely, versatile musician, orchardist, naturalist collector of rare cacti from South America Mexico and far places of the earth, we were afforded the privilege of seeing the gorgeous "Queen of the Night" cactus bloom before it had closed its petals, hiding its rare beauty from curious eyes this morning.

Mr. Ely showed us a fortune in rare plants that only need a little publicity to place them in the hands of those who are able to enjoy their loveliness and appreciate their value.

Like the century plant which was in bloom in the East side home of C. A. Rinehart a few years ago and of which we secured a picture and a newspaper cut, Queen of the Night blooms one time and that at night. The century plant, however, blooms once each 100 years but remains in bloom for quite a while.

Many Cisceans remember the blooming of Mr. Rinehart's plant

DR. E. S. JAMES RESIGNS FROM FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH HERE

Dr. E. S. James, seven years pastor of the First Baptist church in Cisco, announces today that he has accepted the call to the first church at Vernon where he will go July 1, severing a relationship that he says has been the most pleasant of his life, leaving a people whom he loves and never expects to find surpassed in future. He will tender his formal resignation to the church group here at the prayer meeting service tonight, he said.

Dr. James says it is with the deepest sorrow and sadness that he leaves Cisco but he feels like the Lord has called him to Vernon, a city of 12,000 people; a church of 2,000 membership; a possibility of 1300 more membership according to the late census; a church plant of $175,000 value and practically paid for; five paid church workers, and 150 volunteer workers.

Continuing, Dr. James says, "I appreciate the loyal friends I have made here both in and out of the church. I have enjoyed every minute of the time I have lived in Cisco and never expect to find a place and people that I will love so much. I only obey the call of the Lord. I have seen the church here grow from a membership of 605 to 950. My great aim here has been three-fold: to teach the Bible, lift my people to a higher plane of living and endeavor, and to win them in Christ. The entire town has been kind to me and my family and our heartstrings are torn as we obey the call of duty against the dictates of our desires to remain in so lovely a town, and people both inside and outside the church. We shall never forget the time spent here in gathering the flowers along the roadside of life and doing a labor that brought only sweetness as a gem for memory's book."

Continuing, Dr. James says, "I

Texas—High, Wide, and Handsome

Texas' tremendous industrial expansion during the past three decades, and the almost unlimited industrial opportunities afforded by its natural resources, is the subject of the article, "Texas—High, Wide, and Handsome," by Arthur Coleman.

Pointing out the extreme diversity of the Lone Star State's industrial scene—the differing regions of East Texas, West Texas, the Gulf Coast, the High Plains, the Blackland Belt, and the Rio Grande Valley—Coleman declares that since 1900 the state has, industrially, been "going to town." In population it has less than, in agriculture more than, doubled. But meanwhile industry has reached the point where it employs more than twice as many wage earners, pays them nearly five times as much wages, and turns out products worth more than nine times as many dollars as in 1900.

But this, the story goes on, is but a slight prelude to what Texas can have by developing its natural resources. Numerous examples are offered to show how Texans have developed and can develop these resources with Texas talent and capital. Coleman cites a long list of products made by smaller Texas industries, wisely located, utilizing in raw or processed form the native materials of the state, and established and operated by people living in the state—products ranging from soft drinks to "enetian blinds for automobiles."

Among the fields offering the greatest industrial possibilities, Coleman stresses furniture making, fruit and vegetable canning, leather goods, textiles and wearing apparel, manufacture of soaps and other cosmetics, processing the fish and oysters of the Gulf Coast, production of cheese and canned and powdered milk, industrial utilization of minerals. Plastics made from petroleum, Coleman points out, are not now produced in Texas. The state has an estimated eight billion tons of coal, large reserves of limonite and hematite iron, and sixty thousand square miles of lignite (half of the national supply). And in addition to these, Texas has forty different minerals in quantities unlimited for industrial use, besides numerous others in limited but adequate amounts. Others he classifies as "unknown but worth investigating," under which comes potash.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The New Deal has spent $200,000,000 on its experiments with housing. Much of this money will be returned. But you would think that by this time the administration might have evolved some sort of a policy under which to proceed. Housing legislation is still stalled. It is stalled while Chairman Henry Steagall of the House Banking Currency Committee, waits for the President to make up his mind, and while Roosevelt waits for Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to make up his mind. Among those supporting the Wagner bill are officials of PWA and Resettlement Administration, who are in a position to profit by their own errors; Federal Housing Administration, HOLC, the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., the National Association of Housing Officials, and the new American Federation of Housing Authorities.

MANY administration policies are being worked out with a weather eye to the next depression—or recession, if you prefer. One claim made for the Connerly-Black wages and hours measure is that it will be a great stabilizer of wages and purchasing power when hard times come. A counter-claim is that the measure will stimulate use of labor-saving devices and shove 2 million more people out of work, especially in any period of decline.

Chairman Hugo Black of the Senate Education and Labor committee, will probably report out the Wagner bill soon. But the Steagall committee hasn't even had hearings. The Wagner bill calls for a billion dollars in federal construction loans to local housing authorities in the next four years and $50,000,000 in rental subsidies. Senator Wagner says it would provide decent housing for families with incomes of between $700 to $1000 annual.

"The Safe and Sane Fourth is still an ideal far short of attainment," said Lewis H. Carris, Managing Director of the Society. "An increasing number of cities and states are regulating the sale of firecrackers and toy explosives. But the ultimate responsibility for the prevention of accidents lies with parents, as individuals and as members of the community."

Mr. Carris called attention to a study of Fourth of July fireworks accidents which his organization made, in cooperation with the American Museum of Safety, two years ago. This study disclosed a total of 6,940 injuries which were serious enough to be mentioned in the press. Among these were 24 that were fatal; 539 eye injuries; and 57 cases of blindness.

"There are now in American schools for the blind," said Mr. Carris, "nearly 500 children who lost their sight as a result of accidents, chiefly through the use of fireworks and air rifles. Each year nearly a thousand children suffer accidental eye injuries, and a number become totally blind. An extraordinary proportion of these accidents occur on the Fourth of July and during the few days preceding and following."

"Whatever may be my promise to help on the decorating committee when Emmy Lou got sick at the last minute, I wouldn't know. Force of habit, I guess."

Donna smiled scornfully. "Are you sure it isn't just your love for being in the public eye via committees and such that makes you take on extra work so readily? You didn't have to help out you know. If they had scoured the campus carefully they might possibly have found someone else to take Emmy Lou's place, though of course they're only one expert like yourself. Coral ignored the first part of Donna's speech, and chuckled. "Go ahead. You're welcome to him." "Coral, why on earth did you ask Hoyt Marquis to the prom?" Donna asked curiously. "I should think your lord and master, the prominent young scientist, would have been your escort."

"I haven't quarreled with David... that is, it's nothing serious. We just... well, really, Donna, I don't see that it's any of your business in the first place." "Don't be silly, Coral," Donna said. UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, June 16. (AP)—Foes in the long fight in the Texas legislature over repeal of the horse race parimutuel law joined when bills to outlaw bookies and other gambling had a turn.

Sen. Grady Woodruff of Decatur, one of the "ball carriers" for the parimutuel repeal bill, suggested to the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence that all the bills go to a sub-committee, to avoid conflicts and confusion.

"Believe it or not, I am going to second that motion," said Sen. Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth, who blocked a Senate majority for 140 days in attempts to accomplish parimutuel repeal.

"It's the sensible way to handle all these bills," Rawlings explained. "The bill went to a sub-committee made up of one Senator who voted for parimutuel repeal and two who voted against it. All are for stopping bookie operations."

Former State Sen. Tom B. Love of Dallas, author of the present law against bookies, has been on hand to assist in the new war on gaming in the Texas legislature. He conferred with Gov. James V. Allred before the governor's anti-gambling message was sent to the legislators. Love made suggestions to Senators as they gathered in committee to consider bills. Another alert eye will be kept on gambling bills by Lloyd Davidson, state's attorney for the Court of Criminal Appeals. Long experience in attempting to sustain state gambling statutes, has made it easy for him to spot loopholes.

Gov. Allred "never matched a dime" but his record is far different from that proclaimed for Former Gov. Pat M. Neff when he was a candidate for governor. An enthusiastic friend almost cost Neff's popularity when he introduced him at a political rally as a man "who never baited a hook nor shot a gun."

It took several official hunting trips after Neff became Chief Executive for him to live down the appellation.

Among the house jesters is Rep. Fred Harris of Dallas. Last week while the horse race repeal bill fight waxed hottest, Rep. W. E. Pope, veteran legislator from Corpus Christi, assailed repeal bill author Bryan Bradbury as "carrying the water bucket for Gov. Allred."

Pope was still talking when the House recessed for lunch. When deliberation was resumed in the afternoon, Pope took the microphone to continue his harangue. He had not gone far when Harris stepped to the speaker's stand and presented Pope with two large but empty containers. The were water buckets.

It was during that debate that Pope "altered William Henley's Invictus for legislative use."

Hensley said: "I am the master of my fate, "I am the captain of my soul." Pope said: "Jimmie Allred is the master of my fate, "Jimmie Allred is the captain of my soul."

He suggested that those legislators supporting Allred in his anti-racing stand adopt that bit of poetry.

It was part of Pope's "carrying the Allred water bucket" charge.

A House of Representatives committee appointed some weeks ago to investigate the department of education will not be ready to report to the legislature until September, it developed this week.

"Every time we check one record we have to call in a dozen persons, and then by the time we have heard that group we have a lead on something else to check, and so on," Rep. Bowen Bond of Fairfield told the United Press.

"We're going to have to work all summer and then we ought to have a report by September." The five-man committee was granted only $500 to conduct its investigation. Investigations are costly. The committee must pay, besides its own living expenses, those of the witnesses it calls. Bond said last week that his committee needed $1000 more.

Eligible Texans For WPA Lowered

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, June 16. (AP)—The number of destitute Texans eligible for employment on Works Progress Administration projects has dropped to 100,000 mark for the first time since the inception of the WPA. Administrator H. P. Drought has announced.

The Texas case load of persons eligible for WPA work was 99,769 last week. Drought declared, the lowest figure in the two-year history of the organization.

"This week's report that less than 100,000 Texans are eligible for employment on WPA projects is an encouraging mile-stone in our efforts to reduce unemployment," Drought has declared. "The more than 170,000 persons identified as destitute are eligible for employment on WPA projects."

LABOR LEADER DEATH THREAT TO WAGE BILL

WASHINGTON, June 16 (UP)—The sudden death of Chairman William Connery of the house labor committee threatened today to delay action on the administration's wage and hour bill.

A staunch supporter of legislation sponsored by organized labor, Connery had been active during the joint senate-house hearings on the wage and hour measure in questioning opponents of the bill.

His death yesterday at the age of 48 removed from congress a major opponent of hour-restricting legislation which he believed would return thousands of jobs to private employment.

Coroner Magruder MacDonald said an autopsy showed the final cause of Connery's death was a heart attack brought on by poisoning of the stomach and intestinal tract. He said the poisoning appeared to have been caused by food, but that further analysis was necessary.

Co-Ed Wife

As they walked to his car, Hoyt said, "I've made reservations for dinner at the Crossroads Tavern, outside of town. Not knowing the neighborhood I asked Donna for a tip this afternoon and she recommended this place. It's apparently the only spot for miles where a fellow can get not only food but something besides water for his burning thirst. Is that all right with you?"

Coral hesitated. She had never been to the Crossroads Tavern in all her four years at Elton. "How come? Is there anything wrong with the place?" he asked.

"Not really. But there was some scandal or other about it two or three years ago. It's a little on the wild side, I guess."

"All the better. Saving your ladyship's presence, college dances are likely to be a little dull. If I get a good start maybe we can put some life into the prom."

CORAL's voice was still doubtful. "I don't suppose you could cancel your reservations, could you?" Hoyt laughed. "Oh, Coral, what's the matter? I don't know a thing about the place, but I'd be willing to bet that there's nothing or nobody there to hurt you. Let's find out, anyway. Come on!"

"I'm silly I know," Coral smiled and added, "You're probably right. Let's be off."

They climbed into Hoyt's big black sedan and drove off through the twilight. The ride to the Crossroads Tavern was a tamer reproduction of the ride home from the country club a few weeks before. Coral kept silence as long as she could, but when they missed hitting a truck at an intersection by nothing more or less than a miracle, she cried out involuntarily.

"Say, you really are scared, aren't you?" Hoyt said in surprise. "That's no way for you to feel. The only fun there is in driving is in driving fast. I'll show you what I mean." He pressed his foot down on the accelerator and the car leaped ahead. Coral cowered in her corner of the front seat and shut her eyes as houses, telephone poles and other automobiles sped past with dizzying rapidity. When at last the car came to a stop in front of the Tavern, she opened her eyes, her face white, her hands shaking. Without a word she opened the door and got out of the automobile.
