Buddy's Sweetheart Now!

"America's Sweetheart" ... and Buddy Rogers', too.

One of filmdom's most engaging romances came to its climax at the altar Saturday as Mary Pickford, "America's Sweetheart" of a decade and more ago, weds Charles (Buddy) Rogers, actor and orchestra director in Hollywood. The marriage is Miss Pickford's third, her first, with Owen Moore, having been terminated by divorce in 1920, and her second, with Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., coming to a similar end in 1935. Miss Pickford, now 44, was on the stage at the age of 5, which was seven years before Rogers, 32, was born.

FILM FANS SWARM FOR GLIMPSE OF PICKFORD-ROGERS WEDDING

HOLLYWOOD, June 26 (U.P.)—Film star fans swarmed toward Bel Air today hoping for a glimpse of the private wedding of Mary Pickford, queen of the movie colony since the days of silent pictures, to Charles (Buddy) Rogers, actor and orchestra leader from Olathe, Kas. The ceremony was to be in a garden under a sycamore tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lighton.

It was to be the third wedding for Miss Pickford. She was divorced from the actor Owen Moore in 1920 when 17. She is now 44 and has been on the stage and screen since she was 5 years old. That was 7 years before the birth of Rogers, who is 32 and has never been married before.

HULL LAUDED FOR WORLD'S PEACE WORK

TIFTON, June 26 (U.P.)—Young democrats of Texas approved President Roosevelt's reorganization plan today and lauded Secretary of State Cordell Hull for his world peace efforts.

They approved a resolution asking the state legislature to establish a commission to regulate public utilities and included their two-day annual convention with a flurrie over law enforcement.

C. A. Pickett of Houston was elected President for the coming year.

The controversy over law enforcement arose when a resolution was presented which asked the legislature to prevent the Public Safety Commission from sending Texas Rangers into communities in cases where they were not requested. After noisy arguments, the convention rejected the proposal by a vote of 192 to 84.

Rangers have raided night clubs in Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and other cities within recent months, wielding axes on expensive gambling places.

Presence of Rangers in the Lone Star Gas Company strike in Fort Worth provoked a controversy in the special session of the legislature which ended Friday.

CIO LEADERS SAY STRIKES TO CONTINUE

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 26 (U.P.)—Union leaders summoned steel workers to a "solidarity" rally today as steel mills operated for the first time in a month.

John Owens, CIO chairman for Ohio, announced that the strike front remained "unbroken," despite the return of thousands of men to the mills of Youngstown Sheet & Tube company and the Republic Steel Corporation.

Shifts changed at the Youngstown mills under the protection of militia and without any serious attempts at interference on the part of meagre picket lines. Company officials estimated that 13,000 of the usual 32,000 workers were back at their jobs.

Plans were completed for gradual reopening of other mills. At Canton, Sheriff Joseph Nist appealed to Governor Martin Davey for more troops in preparation for the reopening of two strike-affected plants Monday.

MANY STEEL WORKERS RETURN TO JOBS

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., June 26.—Between 4,000 and 5,000 workers returned to their jobs in the Cambria plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation today as the company reopened the mills closed seven days ago by order of Governor George Earle.

The corporation, largest producer affected by the Steel Works Organizing Committee strike claimed that all departments were operating, but the steel union replied that its members were "still on strike and will stay on strike until a wage contract is signed."

In Pittsburgh, Phillip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, sent another telegram to Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem, repeated a proposal for an election under the National Labor Board's supervision.

MEDIATION BOARD CONTINUES EFFORTS

CLEVELAND, June 26 (U.P.)—The Federal Steel Mediation Board will continue its attempt to settle the seven-state strike, Edward McGrady, one of its members said today after a telephone conversation with Secretary Frances Perkins.

McGrady added there was nothing he could do until Monday.

Concrete is ready to be poured on forms at the new stadium being built at the football park, said John Prickett Saturday. Work of placing footrests on the steel seat framing is being placed, he said.

Work will proceed rapidly now since the concrete work is ready. The south wall which was torn down to make more room, will be replaced at once. The track is also being built around the gridiron field.

ALFRED LEAVES CITY AFTER HE SIGNS BOOKIES

AUSTIN, June 26 (U.P.)—No more bills of the special session of the Texas legislature will be signed by Governor Alfred before Monday.

After putting his name to bills immediately outlawing bookie shops and dog-racing the governor left Austin to return next week.

Whether the governor will approve the legislature's plan to farm out 258 jacks and stallions it acquired during the four years of state-approved racing was doubtful.

STEPHENVILLE, June 26 (U.P.)—Local officers, highway patrolmen and officers from nearby counties, apparently had lost track today of four men in a 1937 Ford sedan seen Friday and believed to have escaped with 15 others from Eastham prison farm Tuesday.

No trace of the men who were cited between Stephenville and Glen Rose had been found.

PARIS, June 26 (U.P.)—Paris officers sought to identify two men they arrested today believing they might be two of 19 convicts who escaped from Eastham prison farm last Tuesday.

The men were caught here after an automobile chase. Police said they were driving a car stolen in Commerce.

Bottles and Bottle Necks

"The two great troubles of American communities," observes a waggish critic, "are bottles and bottle-necks." The bottles make a decreasing amount of trouble, and the bottle-necks an increasing amount. The latter evil is transportation. It refers to the streets and highways where busy thoroughfares converge, pouring their traffic into passages too narrow to carry them. As a result of this situation many a city is waking up belatedly to find that its outside traffic cannot get in and its inside traffic cannot get out. The result is much loss of time, loss of business, loss of money. Nature knows better than that. The body provides an example spread of arteries and veins, with big vessels where they are needed to carry a heavy traffic burden and little ones where they suffice. A city, as a living organism, must use the same engineering, if it is to continue living. Many a city today is in the plight of a man dying of hardened and constricted arteries. Traffic arteries must be made ample, and kept open, at all costs.

And while a city must have highways to enter and for traffic to travel outward, these traffic lanes must be kept open for safe traffic travel. You not only have to drive for yourself these days but for the other fellow as well. And often times these drivers have had too much connection with bottles and bottle necks to be in a position or condition to drive safely. Most every day we see and hear of wrecks that have been caused by drivers who have muddled their brain power and eyesight too much to tell whether they are meeting one automobile or two.

Safe driving will not appear on our highways until unsafe drivers are debarred the privilege of these highways.

Ideas for Vacation

Dispatches from a northern city the other day carried the momentous news that while the president fished, the First Lady of the land entered a beauty parlor many miles away and spent two hours getting her hair, face and nails fixed and manicured. And that, brothers and sisters, was undoubtedly just the right thing for the First Lady to do. The beauty treatment rested and refreshed her as much as the fishing did her husband. Men, unfortunately, sometimes overlook little differences in the viewpoints of the two sexes, particularly with respect to vacation activities. A man wants to get out into the wilds and do something primitive. Often he drags a protesting woman with him and wears her all out, bringing her back home a wreck. What she wants to do is to be the reverse of primitive. She doesn't crave at all to wrestle with nature. It doesn't interest her to tramp through the wild woods, and wade in wet water, and impale squirming oozy worms on a hook, and labor to catch slimy fish that she will have to cook afterwards. She wants to put on her best summer clothes, and sit on a fashionable summer hotel porch and rock and gossip with others of like mind. Or rarely, if she runs to nature rather than human nature, she wants to go out in a nifty sport suit and a well powdered nose and sit on a rock watching the sun go down. That's a whole lot more restful to her than frying fish for supper and trying to get the smell out of the pan afterwards.

Priceless Spanish Art Safe

The priceless paintings of the Prado in Madrid are safe and will probably be exhibited in Paris next month, according to exclusive information obtained from the war zone.

French authorities confirm the statement that the Prado collection is intact, with not a single object missing but both Spanish and French authorities refuse to divulge the whereabouts of the treasures except "they are hidden safe and sure in a place known only to a few, but safe from bombs and fighting."

Spanish officials insisted that not a single item has been sold, given away, or lent since the war started and that none has left Spain. They indicated that the Spanish government is actually in the market to buy Spanish paintings.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CAROLEE COLTER, heroine, prospector's daughter.
STUART BLAKE, eastern "dude" tourist, Carolee's lover.
HENRY COLTER, prospector.
PAUL AND SILAS COLTER, prospector's sons.
NINA BLAKE, Stuart's sister.

Yesterday, the Blake-Colter party is settled. Stuart and Carolee, both apologists, have awed them, shrinking them to animated minutiae and making their shakily tent a mere brown speck in the forest.

CHAPTER III
AT Apache Junction, 36 miles from Phoenix, the Colters took the left and moved along the road that skirts the north base of Superstition Mountain. The father had made some inquiries, earning that squatters would be tolerated for a time almost anywhere along the mountain slopes. This was part of a national forest. They pulled off the main road and drove nearly six miles across the gently sloping desert.

When they made camp for the night they were at the foot of a cliff that must have been 1000 feet straight up. It somehow seemed them, shrinking them to animated minutiae and making their shakily tent a mere brown speck in the forest.

Carolee threw back her head and shouted "HELLO-O-O," but they were too close for an echo. "Can't you help cook no supper?" her father demanded. They stayed there three days, while the men searched for a more permanent campsite. They wanted to get in deeper, and they eventually decided to hide the car among scrubby, buy horses which they would need anyway, and pack everything up to a high, flat, green mesa which they had discovered. It would save much climbing on their daily trips and, incidentally, get them away from possible snappers; the Colters, save for Carolee, were never sociable, least of all were they likely to be so when hunting for gold.

TOWARD evening of their third day in the temporary camp, however, they had a visitor. He came unannounced and uninvited. Over his hunched shoulders draped a colorful blanket. He was hatless, his hair exceedingly long. Carolee knew him at once to be an Indian.

He grinned ever so little, took rather elaborate notice of the food that was cooking, and sat down near the campfire without saying a word.

"How do you do?" greeted Carolee, staring at him uneasily. "Unh."

His grunt indicated that formalities were over. The Colters arrived soon after. They had no suggestion to offer about their guest. To be sure, they could have thrown him out, but that didn't seem advisable for a number of reasons. He only grinned meagerly at any attempts to converse with him.

In time the meal was ready, and the Indian didn't wait. He reached his fingers into every pot and helped himself generously, before the Colters had served themselves. Nobody said anything, but Carolee was enjoying the little comedy immensely, especially the obvious discomfort of her father and brother what was going on, but she wasn't taking it seriously. She felt safe with her folks there.

When he had eaten—or rather gorged—the Indian announced himself officially. "My name . . . Percy," said he, haltingly.

All the Colters laughed a little at that, and Carolee asked how he got that name.

"WHITE man in store," he said. "He no like Horse-With-Crooked-Tail. What you do here?"

This took a moment of thinking. Evidently he had another name, and some American trader had tacked Percy onto it, Carolee decided. She elected to answer for her family.

"We are camping here, but we will move tomorrow, Mr.—er—Percy."

"Where you go?" "Away up there—see?—up in the mountain."

Percy shook his head ominously. "Bad," he declared. "Bad? How so?" "Ummh," he pointed dramatically at a skyline to the westward. It was silhouetted then in the sunset, jagged with thousands of small boulders, fantastically shaped, like soldiers in a broken, irregular row. "Little Men," humbled Percy.

SUDDENLY Carolee entered the tent and came back with her box of candy, politely offering it to him. It was the large box from Stewart Blake, still more than half full.

Percy eyed it a moment, then his face shone. He reached out for a piece or two, but childishly took the entire box.

Carolee was taken aback, and the guffaws of her two brothers didn't help any; but she didn't try to retrieve her candy. Percy sat down for another gastronomic orgy.

Carolee had been lonely for almost any sort of company, and Percy was amusing. He seemed to visit strangers; he might—maybe—maybe he'd visited some other white people. She set in to question him. She didn't know it, but she couldn't have made friends better with Percy had she decided him a whole ranch; the average Indian will sell anything for candy.

"Have you been to other white people's camps?" she asked. He nodded, still eating. "Do you know some people named—named Blake? Two men? A father and son? Where are they?"

He appeared bewildered at this. "One white man has big shoulders—so," she measured generously, "and has deep brown eyes. He—" Carolee remembered her audience and stopped abruptly. She even blushed a trifle. Percy didn't notice, but after a bit he spoke again.

"You wantum gold?" he asked. "Eh?" Old man Colter perked up at this. "You like get gold?" He motioned, in suggestion, to the mountain. "Yas, yas we do, boy," said Mr. Colter. "The's gold up here, ain't

OIL ACTIVITY IN EASTLAND COUNTY AREA

EASTLAND, June 26.—Barnett Petroleum corporation and J. L. Reeves No. 1A L. C. Downtain, one and a half miles southeast of Eastland, section 2, E. T. R. R. survey block 6, 1,000 feet from the east line and 1,250 feet from the south line, today had shut down, presumably to await the authorization of operators after cleaning out and obtaining eight barrels of oil in 1-2 hours. The well had been shut down previously for the setting of 6 5/8 inch casing after a showing of oil from 1,555 to 1,563 feet, later after which reports indicated an error had been made.

The well had been previously reported as having topped the sand Strawn, at 1,430 feet.

Dr. R. C. Ferguson, Eastland purchased from L. A. Thompson Breckenridge, 15-32 interest in the possible production of in the former L. A. Thompson No. 1 Caradale Fox league 2, McLennan county school land, block 28, seven miles north of Ranger, which is scheduled to be drilled in to the expected pay horizon of 1,200 feet by Monday.

Five-inch casing was to have been set at 1,140 feet. Dr. Ferguson exchanged no money in the deal, getting the 15-32 interest in production of the well, acquiring the 40-acre lease on which the well is being drilled, and the west adjoining 40-acre lease of Sam Hunt and the 20-acre Simmons lease adjoining to the south of the Fox lease.

North of Eastland, States Oil corporation is to deepen to 3,600 feet its No. 5 J. W. Henderson, NE 1-4 section 8, block 4, H. & T. C. survey. It is 825 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the west line of NE 1-4 section 8. The States is skipping up gas production found in the winter at a lesser depth when there was a demand. The operators originally had determined to go to the 3,600-foot depth but changed plans because of the amount of gas.

Seven miles east of Eastland and three miles west of Ranger, Dorothy Oil company staked location for its No. 1 Taylor and Beard, E. Finley survey, to be carried as a 1,300-foot operation starting Wednesday. Location is 150 feet from the east and south lines of the 50-acre lease.

The deep test being drilled to a proposed depth of 5,500 feet by Gallagher-Lawson et al, one half mile south of Desdemona, but 100 feet over in Comanche county, was drilling below 1,700 feet.

States Oil Corporation No. 9 G. T. Parrack, nine miles north of Eastland, SE 1-4 section 7, H. & T. C. R. R. company survey, block 4, was completed as a five-barrel pumper at 1,857 feet, two feet within the pay.

Anderson-Drewery No. 1 Kate Grist, section 36, Lavaca county school land, block NW 1-4, 14 miles southwest of Cisco, was drilling out bridge after shooting with 100 quarts between 3,038-3,077 feet. A showing of oil had been reported.

Hoffman & Page No. 1 Mrs. M. E. Holcomb, two miles northeast of Eastland, John House survey, dry and abandoned at 1,627 feet.

Monark Oil and Gas company No. 1 L. C. Downtain, four miles northeast of Eastland, 200 feet from the north, 400 feet from the west of the northeast quarter, section 14, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. company survey, at the last report was halted below 450 feet on a fishing job.

One of the newer tests, Hickok Producing & Development company No. 2 Grover S. Cleveland, section 477, S. P. R. R. company survey eight miles northwest of Cisco, had spudded in quest of gas production as found in 1935 in the No. 1 Cleveland.

5,000 Farmers to Attend Soil Meet

NAOOGDOCHES, June 26 (UP)—Recognizing the need for more serious thought and effort in behalf of soil erosion control and water conservation, the East Texas Chamber of Commerce will hold a one-day meet to discuss conservation problems here on July 8.

Officers of the chamber said they expected an attendance of more than 5,000 farmers, agricultural leaders, business men, vocational agriculture teachers and county agents.

H. H. Bennett, chief of the Federal Soil Conservation Service, will deliver the principal address at the soil conservation and flood control discussion meeting. Other speakers will be Jack Shelton, vice-director and stage agent of the Extension Service and Robert A. Manire, director of vocational agriculture work in Texas.

Historic Logging Scenes Preserved

STILLWATER, Minn. (UP)—Minnesota's last great lumber drive is a thing of the past now, but lumberjacks are determined to preserve mementoes of the state's colorful foundational industry.

To start things over, John Rusk pioneer photographer, has turned over to the city of Stillwater on a contract a collection of 435 pictures depicting historic scenes when logging was in its infancy.

Rusk has made collecting pictures a hobby for 30 years. His "shots" are treated to preserve them from fading or discoloring mounted separately on card backs and bound into books of 25 pictures each. The Rusk-Stillwater contract calls for preservation in asbestos-lined metal boxes in a fireproof vault.

Dog Can Say 'Mama' Woman Owner Says

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—When Mrs. J. E. Ganley speaks to her dog "Muggs" she expects some back talk—and generally she gets it! "Muggs" is a 3-year-old Boston bulldog of unusual canine accomplishments. He has attempted human speech as a result of Mrs. Ganley's teaching him to imitate at least one word—a very creditable "mama."

It's amazing what natural talent for romance these sailors have. Certainly there's no course in kissing at Annapolis, yet Gordon G. VENDETTA RULE AMONG BALKAN FOLK PERSISTS

By F. C. M. JAHN

VIENNA, June 26 (UP)—Vendetta continues to be practiced in the Balkan mountains despite severest measures taken by the various governments there to suppress this centuries-old gruesome custom.

"Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth" is the supreme law among the hardy mountaineers there, who extend it not only to the second and third generations of the killer but also to his remote relatives and to his entire village.

An intervention by authorities counts nothing in those regions. The thirst for revenge remains unquenched, even if the murderer has been executed in normal legal procedure in the meantime; it is considered a sacred rule that a kinsman of the slain must kill the slayer, or, if the man cannot be reached, because he has died a natural death, or for some other reason one of the latter's kin must be slain.

Latest Case Revealed

The latest case of vendetta, or as it is called there, "Fiss," was reported from Southern Yugoslavia, where Selman, a peasant from the village of Belini, killed a shepherd, Nezir, from Retchka, by two shots in a lonely mountain pasture, because during a drunken brawl between peasants from the two villages Nezir's brother had stabbed to death Selman's uncle.

After the murder, Selman returned to Belini, only to announce triumphantly that the "blood law" had been executed, and then he went into the mountains to seek a hiding place.

Anticipating revenge by the Retchka folks, Belini was in a state of alarm. Doors and windows remained closed; women and children were not permitted to leave the village, and the men went about armed up to their teeth.

The only alternative to "Fiss" is "Bessa," a sort of "God's truce." It is seldom practiced because aside from humiliating ceremonies on the part of the slayer's kin, it involves the payment of 50 gold pieces "blood money," an enormous sum among the poor mountain peasants and shepherds.

Warring Parties Meet

If through friendly mediation by a third village, "Bessa" has been agreed upon, an appointment is made between the warring parties to meet in a spot midway between the two villages.

Unarmed and carrying a noose around his neck, the chief of the slayer's family enters the other party's camp, where he is met by the head of the rival tribe with the following formula: "Thou warest our enemy, thy kin were our enemies, thy village with all its houses, with all its herds and fields and with all that lives and thrives there, were our enemies."

Then the penitent presents the blood money which is carefully counted. If it is found in order the chief of the offended village solemnly pronounces: "Henceforth we shall be friends," and then the entire litany is repeated in form of blessings instead of curses.

Kisses are exchanged, and a meal with dancing and drinking seals the restored peace.

PRICES LOWER ON FAVORABLE CROP OUTLOOK

By FRED O. BAILEY

WASHINGTON, June 26 (UP)—The decline in farm commodity prices begun in mid-April probably will continue for several months, Department of Agriculture economists believe.

Prospects of larger crops this year will tend to force prices lower, but no sharp break is expected, economists said. Despite expected declines prices probably will average higher than a year ago it was said.

Increased marketings at least will offset any price declines so that total farm income this year probably will be at least as great as last year, F. L. Thompson, marketing economist, said.

Tending to prevent any sharp break in prices is the fact that the carryover of principal crops this year will be considerably smaller than normal, it was said. Increased consumer purchasing power also will tend to bolster prices against a fall.

Farm prices on May 15 were 128 per cent of the 1900-1914 average. That represented a two point decline from the April 15 high of 130, a peak reached after several months of steadily rising prices.

Two factors contributed to this decline. One was the immediate supply and demand. The other was prospects of increased production this year. Unless adverse weather upsets calculations, prices will ease downward as the new harvest approaches.

Spread of a threatened drought in the great plains "bread basket" would tend to reverse the price trend and might even send prices higher than for last year's crop, economists said.

Wheat and cotton prices suffered the greatest price losses during the past month. Wheat more than 15 cents a bushel below the high point, and cotton is off approximately 2 cents a pound.

Declines in prices of calves, sheep and lambs were more than offset by price advances on cattle and hogs. The latter was affected by increased corn prices. Fruit and truck crop prices registered substantial gains.

Despite the price decline starting in mid-April farm income in that month was the highest in seven years. Department of Agriculture reports said. Total farm income was $659,000,000, of which $76,000,000 was AAA benefit payments, compared with a $530,000,000 total in April, 1936.

The carryover of principal farm products will be the lowest since start of the depression, economists said. The carryover of wheat will be less than 100,000,000 bushels and the lowest since 1919. It was forecast.

The corn carryover, as a result of the 1936 drought which cut the crop a 1,000,000,000 bushels short, will be the smallest in 20 years, it was said. The cotton carryover will be 1,000,000 bales below last year's carryover of 6,550,000 bales the department forecast.

"It is obvious," Thompson commented, "that the present supply situation is such as to absorb at least a normal crop in most commodities without greatly affecting the price situation."

Invitations Sent For Lien Burning

KERRVILLE (UP)—An invitation was received here by friends of a Santa Paula, Cal., family to a new kind of social event—a "mortgage-burning reception."

The invitation was sent by a former rector of St. Peter's church of Kerrville, and read: "The Rev. George M. and Mrs. MacDougal and Miss Margaret Roberta MacDougal request the pleasure of your company at a mortgage-burning reception at 'Dunally' four home on Friday afternoon."

Skull Fractured is Unconscious 5 Weeks

FORT WORTH, June 26 (U.P.)—Ten-year-old Samuel L. Turner, Jr. of Smithfield, Texas, made medical history here this month by remaining unconscious for more than five weeks.

The boy's skull was fractured in 12 places last May when his arm became entangled in the reins of a horse he was holding. Samuel was dragged through a creek bottom, across rocks and stumps.

Physicians said they could find no medical record of a child remaining unconscious for so long a period. While there was little hope for recovery, the boy may live indefinitely, doctors said.

He is fed through a tube in the stomach, and a careful watch is kept on his diet. Samuel's only sounds during the unconsciousness were occasional sighs or moans. Occasionally he twitched and opened his eyes, but physicians said the condition of his brain prevented him from seeing any objects.

Indian Sweet Cave Unearthed in Maine

WEST LUBEC, Me. (U.P.)—An Indian "sweating cave" has been discovered here.

The cave was identified as such by Jim McDonald, veteran trapper and hunter of Black Head.

The cave was built of stones without mortar. In the center was a hollow where a fire was built and stones placed around it. When the stones got hot, those suffering from colds, coughs and pneumonia would gather around while water was poured over the hot stones. Steam penetrated their blankets and the patient perspired. This was done until all pain was gone from the body.

DEAF MUTE GRADUATED

WHITE-COLORED PROTESTED BY SAN ANTONIANS

SAN ANTONIO, June 26 (U.P.)—Veterans organizations of San Antonio today drafted a formal protest to the War Department in Washington against the hospitalization together of negro and white patients in the Bas Hospital at Fort Sam Houston.

Local branches of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and disabled veterans took the lead in a move to force segregation. The American Legion was expected to join in the protest.

The move started when the wife of a patient in the hospital, a member of the American Legion, declined to visit her husband because there were "negroes" in the same room.

Colonel J. D. Hysinger, hospital commandant, denied that colored and white patients were put together.

"There is no basis for this protest," he said.

Dummy Dolls Being Collected by Man

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (U.P.)—Ancestors of Charlie McCarthy, best known of ventriloquism dummies, are spending their days in this city. A collection of such dolls is in the home of Harry Edward Parsons, musician whose grandfather, the late Lewis Jay Parsons, performed to enthusiastic audiences during the Civil War period.

The dolls were carved of wood by Lewis Parsons, and his wife Lydia Streeter Parsons, designed their clothing. They are stored in their original traveling trunk, which in itself is a relic of the period.

Mother's Snake Story Exposed

FORT WORTH, June 26 (U.P.)—An eight-year-old boy, warned against playing on a vacant lot near his home because "snakes are there," turned the tables of psychology on his mother and made the police department the victim of the hoax.

The lad's mother decided upon the "snake" story after persistent requests for permission to play on the lot. One afternoon, his mother, out of the house, the son devised a scheme to clear the lot of "snakes."

He telephoned the police department to send out a patrolman to kill a "big rattlesnake." Scout officers Richard Mumford and J. D. Crane were dispatched to the scene. They searched the lot minutely and were interrupted when the mother informed them that the "snake" was for her son alone.

Mrs. C. H. Fee has as her guest, Miss Stella Hovey of Fort Worth, for the week end. Miss Hovey, who is director of Religious Education for the Fort Worth Presbytery, will assume charge Monday at the Encampment grounds at Lake Cisco.

ROME, Italy, June 26 (U.P.)—Italy and Germany, cooperating closely made it known today that they would reject any efforts by Great Britain and France to operate between them the Spanish Neutrality Patrol from which the two fascist governments have withdrawn.

It was made equally plain that neither Italy nor Germany, with the Spanish nationalists driving victoriously toward Santander would agree to withdraw foreign volunteers from the civil war.

Italy intends to maintain warships off the Spanish loyalist coast to "protect shipping."

HENDAYE, Spain, June 26 (U.P.)—Nationalists developed their offensive on Santander to its fullest power today, driving in two main sections along the coast, and southwest of Bilbao.

Dispatches from Madrid reported that the nationalists had massed thousands of men, scores of tanks, motorized units and cavalry south of Madrid with the apparent idea of making a new effort to cut the road to Valencia, the capitol's only outlet to the sea.
