PRESBYTERIAN SENIORS IN CISCO TODAY

REGISTRATION FOLLOWED BY DINNER PARTY

Cisco will again be host to a Presbyterian group of young people at Lake Cisco this afternoon when the seniors from the Fort Worth Presbytery will start registration at 5 o'clock, followed by supper at 6:15 and a fellowship party as a climax for the evening entertainment features. Rev. M. H. Applewhite, pastor of the local church and director-general of the encampment group said he did not know just how many to expect at this week's meeting, but that arrangements were ample to care for all who might attend.

The new native stone buildings and the modern conveniences of running hot and cold water, make an ideal situation for such recreational and study activities as these. The work is well organized and supervised. Instruction will make the week one long to be remembered by visiting seniors and supervisors. The local church members have enthusiastically followed the lead of their live pastor in all preparations for the encampments this summer and curtains and inside furnishings for the buildings have been placed by church circles. Men and boys of the church have worked hard at cleaning the premises from all stones and obstructions.

LEXINGTON TO TAKE UP HUNT FOR EARHART

HONOLULU, July 12 (UP)—The impending arrival of the airplane carrier Lexington today caused the navy to order withdrawal of the U. S. S. Colorado from the search for Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan, missing since July 2 on a flight from New Guinea to Howland Island. The Colorado, the navy said, has completed a search of the Phoenix Islands, and all islands in that area. The battleship is now heading north to refuel three destroyers accompanying the Lexington. After refueling the destroyers, the Colorado will proceed to Honolulu and then to San Francisco.

The Lexington, plying along at half speed to conserve fuel, is expected to enter the search late today or Tuesday. There are about 70 planes and 300 fliers aboard. It is estimated they can cover the entire search area in three or four days.

Air Conditioning Adds Fire Dangers

DALLAS, July 12 (UP)—Air conditioning, although welcomed as a respite to summer heat, brings an added danger from fire and may force fire insurance rates up. Alfonso Johnson, secretary of the Dallas Fire Prevention council said this week.

"The systems used in creating air-cooled comfort for office workers make a roadway throughout the entire building for the passage of superheated air," Johnson said. "The insides of pipes are lined with sound insulation material from three eighths of an inch to 1 3/4 inch in thickness.

"Dangers of this equipment, unless properly protected, are borne out by T. A. Fleming, head of the conservation department of Board," he added. Fleming refers to the hazard when the refrigerating is put in the main duct. Ninety six per cent of the refrigerants are either toxic or flammable."

CONSTABLE IN BLANTON HUNT ARRESTED BY LOCAL OFFICERS

RAYMONDVILLE, July 12 (UP)—Texas Ranger Power Fenner and three Willacy County officers were cited to appear today before County Judge W. E. McCharen for a hearing to explain the arrest of Luis Lamadrid, 50, special constable investigating the mysterious disappearance of Luther Blanton and his son, John. Feeling was reported high among neighbors of the Blantons over the arrest of Lamadrid, who said he expected to "break" through the mystery of the Blanton's disappearance last November 16 while hunting on a posted game preserve of the million-acre King ranch. Lamadrid was arrested Saturday as he ate breakfast in a cafe. His attorney obtained a writ for his release from a charge at Brownsville of carrying a pistol without authority. Before the writ could be served Ranger Fenner and Morgan Miller Willacy County game warden, who arrested Lamadrid, took him to Brownsville. Atonarys in Brownsville furnished $1,000 bonds for Lamadrid, but the sheriff arrested him again on a charge of impersonating an officer. Bond was made, and after his release Lamadrid left town.

No actual move has been made for a conference, but Eden told questioners that the idea is "very present in my mind." Eden said that Britain is perturbed and is quite willing to do anything possible toward a settlement.

PEIHING, China, (Tuesday, July 13) (UP)—Imperial Japan massed more than 10,000 veteran troops on the north China plains today and prepared to enforce with arms her demand that the Chinese accept responsibility for five days of intermittent warfare outside Peiping, in which scores of Japanese and Chinese soldiers have been killed.

Reinforcements for the hard-pressed Japanese unit southeast of Peiping rumbled across the countryside throughout the night. As dawn approached the Chinese believed that the normal Japanese garrison of 7,000 men had been doubled.

Meantime, half-hearted efforts to effect a permanent truce proceeded, but General Fung, chairman of the North China Political Council gloomily remarked: "The Japanese apparently are not complying with their agreement to withdraw their forces and hence new trouble may be expected."

TOKYO, July 12 (UP)—Japan prepared to rush strong reinforcements of troops to North China today fearing that resistance of Chinese guerrillas to its demands means a major crisis in Japanese-Chinese relations.

Olympic Teams Play Odd Domino Game

DALLAS, July 12 (UP)—Ernest Carter, who likes to be called "Nick" and who is coach of the Peruvian track and field team here for the Pan American Olympics, tells of the unusual way his team and other South American athletes play dominoes. While whiling away the hours here in fraternity houses between training sessions, a majority of the athletes enter games such as dominoes, pool, which they call "snooker," and ping pong.

They play pool and ping pong in the prescribed manner but the of playing dominoes is unorthodox Carter said.

Instead of attempting to count during the progress of play by scoring in combinations of five, they merely attempt to play the dominoes in their hands first, the man emptying his hands collecting the number of spots corresponding to the number of spots on dominoes left in the hands of the other players.

A skillful player, Carter said, can often block the game, forcing other players to draw dominoes and lessening their chances of dominoing first.

Spurring Consumer Cooperation

Laws which outlaw fair competition in retail trade, permit manufacturers to establish arbitrary and possibly excessive retail prices, and make illegal established trade practices which tend to reduce the price spread between producer and consumer, will have one inevitable result. They will spur the long dormant consumer cooperative movement in America, to the injury of independent stores and small factories.

Consumer cooperatives—which are based on elimination of profit, advertising, promotional expense, etc.—have so far developed very slowly in this country. The reason for that is plain: Under a free competitive system, with different kinds of merchants seeking to outdo each other in serving the public at a lower cost, the consumer cooperative has had no advantages in either price or standards of service. Legislation which penalizes existing merchandising efficiency, however, can easily give consumer cooperatives those advantages.

If that happens, all our established retail outlets—chain and independent—will be crippled. Furthermore, drastic changes will take place throughout the business structure. For example, the National Editorial Association has recently sent circulars to newspapers pointing out that consumer cooperatives do not advertise—and that if these cooperatives supersede existing retailers, the papers will be dealt a serious financial blow. In a dozen callings and industries, consumer cooperatives would wreak similar havoc.

If consumer cooperatives can find a place and grow under a free competitive system, they are entitled to do so. No type of retailing should be penalized—and at the same time none should be favored. Free competition gave America the best and most efficient stores in the world—and the current legislative trend is a threat to our existing retail industry, as well as to the consumer.

Figuring a Railroad Worker's Pay

In the light of current railroad wages, pensions, working hours, etc.—which are among the most liberal of any industry—a letter printed in Phil Hanna's column in the Chicago Journal of Commerce is interesting. The letter was written to a farmer friend by a young man who had become a railroad brakeman. In order to explain the system of payment for his services, he found it necessary to draw a parallel with plowing. His letter follows:

"You would be paid four dollars a day for plowing or two dollars an acre which ever would give you the most money, and if you plowed your two acres by noon you would get a day's pay anyway and you would not have to work in the afternoon, or if you worked and plowed another two acres you would get two day's pay for the day's work. You would get a half hour extra for harnessing the mules in the morning and if you have to go up hill and down you get some extra pay more than if the land was level. Also, if you have to turn around more than three stumps in a day you get extra pay and if it takes you more than five minutes to turn a corner over and above what it would with the team you used to have you would get extra pay for that. If you plowed part of the day and harrowed the rest of the day, you would get extra pay because it was different class of service and if a plow broke down or a mule got sick with the flu you would get paid for your acres or hours whichever was the most up to the place of the accident to the mule or the plow whichever it was, and then you would get paid for the time you were waiting for the mule or plow to get well or changed for another one, at the rate per hour, and then when you started plowing again you would get paid by the acre or hour whichever was the most, bearing in mind going up hill, down hill, turning corners, dodging stumps and such like as I have mentioned. Then when you quit at night and some other fellow was ahead of you at the water trough and you have to wait five minutes to water the mules you get extra pay for that, which is called detention."

There is truth as well as humor in this statement. Efforts to saddle the railroads, which have not been able to earn an adequate profit in any year since the war, with arbitrary costs, are unjustified, and would place one of our most essential industries in a grave financial position, detrimental to both the workers and the public.

Athletes to Compete In July 15th Event

DALLAS, July 12.—Athletes from the four corners of the Western Hemisphere have been congregating in Dallas for the past few days to compete in the Pan-American games, an international sports meet costing $50,000 to stage, offered free to Pan-American Exposition visitors July 15 to 18.

Second only to the world olympics held in Los Angeles in 1932, the games will make athletic history in this nation. Never before have Uncle Sam's crack stars competed against a field composed only of men from South and Central America and Canada.

Events will be held in the Cotton Bowl, a concrete stadium seating 46,000. All events are free to international fair visitors despite a cost of approximately $50,000 for transporting and caring for the 200 champions from a score of nations. The United States squad is expected to steal the track and field show. The team is composed of the new national AAU champions and runners-up picked in the July 2 and 3 National AAU meet at Milwaukee.

The veteran miler, Glenn Cunningham, and Archie Romani will meet again in their historic duel in the mile run. Such olympic stars as Ken Carpenter, discus king, and Forrest Towns, hurdler, will compete.

Most famous of the South American aggregation is Jose Ribes of Argentina a world record marathon star. Mel Porter, national AAU champion, will wear the U. S. colors in the 26-mile marathon to be held the final night of the games.

World War Bullet Found in Indiana

POSEYVILLE, Ind. (U.P.)—Citizens here still are puzzling over the mystery of how an unexploded World War hand grenade found its way into the ground of a Bethel township farm where it was turned up by a plow without exploding.

Children found the grenade on the farm and sold it with some other scraps to G. C. Byrd, a junk dealer. He retrieved it as it was lying on the floor of his truck with heavy steel being loaded upon it.

The popular supposition is that the grenade was brought back from the war by some Posey county veteran who either lost or threw it away. Byrd destroyed it.

STUART BLAKE asked Carolee if she might take her horse. He would borrow a horse for her from the Lodge corral, and escort her at least part way up the mountain climb to her cliff eyrie.

"You can't go now," Nina informed them. "She's staying for dinner. Aren't you?" Carolee smiled in surprise. "Well, I hadn't known it, but—" "Good. Then you are. I may let Stuart ride up with you later. Or—" (to be devil himself) "—I may take her home myself!"

Carolee was slightly embarrassed although pleased immensely at the invitation. She had her father and brother to worry about. They were waiting in the old car to leave, even now. She went over to them.

"Dad, I'm going to stay for dinner," Miss Blake asked me. "The old man bridled." "You can't stay." "Why? I will be home before 10 o'clock. Someone will ride to the trail with me. They'll lend me a horse." "You can't stay," the father repeated, rather sourly.

Carolee bit her lip and looked away. She thought for a moment or two, then came to a quick conclusion. "I'm sorry, papa, but I have already accepted the invitation, and I am staying. Wait a minute, now! Let me finish. I have to remind you that Miss Blake is an adequate chaperon, if I needed one. And Stuart himself has never been anything but a gentleman toward me, however much you dislike or distrust him. And—" "What do you know about—" She ignored the interruption and went on.

"—and finally, I found most of the gold you have gotten up here anyway, and I'm 21 years of age. I won't be treated unreasonably!" SHE uttered this last with a firmness which both men recognized. They knew she meant just what she said. They respected her for it, even if they were angered

Trophy Presented To Tuna Fisherman

CHESTER, N. S., July 12.—A silver rose bowl, to be competed for annually, has been presented to the Owl's Hear Tuna Camps here by S. J. Hungerford, Chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways. The trophy is to be awarded to the fisherman catching the largest tuna in the waters off Chester each year.

These are the waters in which President Roosevelt fished for tuna during his trip a year ago and it was here, in 1934, that Thomas Howell of Chicago landed his 996-pound record-breaking tuna. It topped Zane Grey's 738-pound fish which held the record for many years. The largest tuna caught by a woman in these waters was a 749-pound fish, landed by Mrs. Francis T. Love of New York City after a two hour battle.

Aroma

...different from all the rest

Just as the savory aroma of appetizing food is half the pleasure of eating, so the fragrance of fine tobaccos is half the pleasure of smoking.

That's the reason we go half way around the world for the costly aromatic Turkish tobaccos that help give Chesterfields their more pleasing aroma.

Blended with mild sun-ripened home-grown tobaccos they make Chesterfields milder and better-tasting

...different from all the rest

...for pleasing aroma and all the good things smoking can give you... enjoy Chesterfields

Cedar Log Mining Revived in Jersey; Sturdy Trees 500 Years Old Found

TRENTON, N. J., July 12 (U.P.)—"Cedar mining," which was extensively practiced in New Jersey nearly a century ago, has been revived, according to Charles P. Wilber, state forester.

Beneath many acres of New Jersey's marshlands, thousands of large white cedar logs unaffected by the ravages of erosion lie buried. They lie from 5 to 10 feet under the surface in the black rich muck of the swamp and are several hundred years old. Shingles made from these logs are almost indestructible. Today the industry has come to life in the extensive marshland near Mauricetown in Cumberland county in connection with a commercial operation designed to utilize the cedar logs and large quantities of peat, which often extends to a depth of 30 feet below the marsh level. With a special iron bar resembling a furnace poker, called a "pronger," the miter sounds until he strikes a log. After determining its position and length, chains are pushed under the log through the muck and it is pulled out by cable and winch. To solidify the logs

Sweet Adeline Has Hard Time Publishing

FORT WORTH, TEXAS—The publisher of "Sweet Adeline" might never admit it, but that popular song was written for five years before anybody had the courage to print it.
"It took me five years to convince a publisher that 'Sweet Adeline' had anything," said composer Harry Armstrong, appearing currently in "Melody Lane" at the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta.
Armstrong said that he wrote the tune at his home in Bedford, Mass., 34 years ago—when he was 18—and named it "My Old New England Home." It was introduced by the town quartet of which Armstrong was a member.
A year after the song was written, Armstrong went to New York and offered it to a publisher. Nothing came of it, and the composer took a job, playing the piano at Coney Island at $2 for a 15-hour day.
Armstrong still believed the song had something, so he persuaded Charlie Lawlor, composer of "The Sidewalks of New York" to rewrite the words. Result was "You're the Flower of My Heart, Sweet Rosalie."

Another trip to the music publishing houses proved useless, and "Sweet Rosalie" was shelved for three years before Armstrong decided to change "Rosalie" to "Adeline" and try again. This time, a publisher was interested.
"Sweet Adeline" the favorite of lamp-post troubadours, has sold 4,000,000 copies.

LAGUNA HOTEL THURSDAY, JULY 15 FROM 4 TO 10

Lenore Kight Wingard shows her record-breaking technique. Notice the foaming "bow-wave" she pushes up in front—a sure sign of a powerful swimmer.

This picture gives you a good idea of how a champion does the crawl. Lenore's leg drive, pivoted at the hips, is in perfect rhythm with her vigorous arm stroke. The result is smooth, streamlined speed—record-breaking speed!

From starting gun to finish line, Lenore's under tension. As pictured at right, even her breathing must be timed to a split second.

Even after an 880-yard race, Lenore comes up smiling. In choosing her cigarette, she pays particular attention to mildness. "I've found I can smoke Camels as often as I like, thanks to their mildness," she says.

WORLD'S PREMIERE MERMAID

Lenore Kight Wingard—a champion with 7 world's and 16 free-style swimming records to her credit.

(Right) OVER HER AFTER-DINNER CAMELS, LENORE WINGARD SAYS: "For digestion's sake—smoke Camels, it's a rule with me. They help me to enjoy my food, even when I feel tired or tense. Smoking Camels seems to put me in just the right mood at mealtimes and helps me to have a feeling of well-being afterward. Camels set me right! Because Camels are so mild—and made from such costly tobaccos—you can smoke them steadily, without jangled nerves. At mealtimes, Camels encourage a free flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—and lend a helping hand to good digestion."

"THE MRS. likes to see me enjoy a hearty meal," says Frank Mullady, auto-mechanic. "Smoking Camels at mealtimes helps me feel my digestion's tuned up."

NO LET-UP from 9 to 6. Miss Ida Gray, buyer, says: "A quick bite is often all I have time for. I've adopted that slogan 'for digestion's sake—smoke Camels.'"

"CAMERA!" Nerves are drawn finer when a movie is being filmed. Russell Matry says about that: "Camel's mildness appeals to me. They never jangle my nerves."
