More Than 100 Witnesses In Blanton Case

JUDGE SWORE WITNESSES TO SECRECY

RAYMONDVILLE, August 9 (U.P.)—A secret court of inquiry into the Blanton disappearance case opened here today with Mrs. Luther Blanton, wife and mother of the two men who disappeared while hunting on the huge King ranch last November, as the first witness. County Judge W. E. McCharen swore all attendants to secrecy then handed to Rangers a list believed to contain more than 100 witnesses to summons for testimony. It was the first concerted effort to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Luther and John Blanton. Two crack Texas Rangers, Ernest Best and Manny Gault were assigned to the case at the request of Judge McCharen.

Convention Colored People Begins Tues.

Rev. E. W. Wyatt, of the colored Baptist church in Cisco, announces that plans are complete for the 34th annual session of the West Texas District Baptist Association Women's convention, colored, which begins tomorrow to run until August 15.

Several white speakers have been obtained to give welcome addresses, among whom are Rev. Joe I. Patterson of the First Methodist church, and J. E. Spencer, representing the chamber of commerce. Many white people have attended these conventions, Wyatt explained, and are welcome to come on he one beginning tomorrow. A speaker from the First Baptist church also is expected to give a welcome address. The convention will be held at the colored church in East Cisco.

Double Header to Be Played Tonight

Two soft ball games will be played on the Cisco soft ball field tonight. The first game will be between the Red Front Drug store and Nance Motor company. The second game will be between the Jaycees and Seranton. The former was postponed from last week. The Seranton team did not play because of the death of one of their players, L. B. Cozart, who died with infantile paralysis.

ANNOUNCEMENT
Elder James Owens will preach at the home of D. B. Perdue at 517 East Seventh St. Tuesday night. Not only the Primitive Baptists but everybody is welcome and is urged to attend.

DIVIDENDS FROM BEER REVENUE EXPECTED TO NET EVEN BILLION

The tax dividends which Uncle Sam started to accumulate with the legalization of beer on April 7, 1933, will reach an even billion dollars some time during the month of August—probably tomorrow. The last official figures reported—$31,940,980 for the month of June—placed the aggregate Federal beer tax since legalization at $958,159,786, of which $27,500,000 was for special, wort and malt tax and the balance barrellage tax. With tax stamps being purchased by the brewers at the rate of more than a million dollars' worth a day during summer, August 10 seems a fairly accurate forecast as the day when the Federal Treasury will collect its billion-dollar from beer tax. This, incidentally, does not include state-imposed and other taxes, which have aggregated in the neighborhood of a quarter-billion dollars since legalization.

Gives Up Job Hunt

A note left in his room by Alfred A. Knopf, Jr., above, indicated that the 19-year-old son of the New York book publisher had struck out on his own to seek his success in the Midwest or West. In an effort to find him police were asked to broadcast an alarm. He was found in a Midwest town with less than $2. Tired of the job hunt he was ready to go back. He left his home July 26.

Mrs. Tuttle's Brother Vacationing Here

Mr. and Mrs. Bailes are Cisco visitors this week at Lake Cisco. Mr. Bailes is a brother of Mrs. A. G. Tuttle.

The visitors came to Cisco to avail themselves of the wonderful opportunities afforded by Lake Cisco for a vacation, under the impression that cottages could be rented at the lake for that purpose. Upon arriving here they found, to their disappointment that no such facilities were available.

Rev. M. H. Applewhite, under the circumstances, although stating to the couple the cottages were not for rent under any circumstances, allowed the couple to use one of the cottages at the Presbyterian encampment, for which they are very grateful.

In discussing the matter, Rev. Applewhite stated that since June 1, he has had calls from 45 families who desire renting facilities at the lake, and who have gone elsewhere for their vacations because of a lack of such cottages.

"We have a gold mine out there," Rev. Applewhite stated, "if we could only start a drive to build some camping cottages for folks who desire to come here during the summer months to fish, and swim and otherwise enjoy themselves." The Tuttles are away on their vacation, at their time, but are expected to return soon.

WORLD NEWS FLASHES ON WIRES TODAY

WASHINGTON, August 9 (U.P.)—Sentiment of Republican leaders toward a mid-term GOP national convention is being scudded out by Former President Herbert Hoover in a campaign to revitalize the party, it was revealed today. The plan aimed specifically at the 1938 congressional election, but looking ahead to 1940 presidential voting would feature a regular party national convention late this winter to crystallize party support, and a two-year national campaign against President Roosevelt's administration through newspapers, radio network and magazines.

PARIS, Fr., August 9 (U.P.)—French warships and planes patrolled the Mediterranean sea-line between Marseilles, and North Africa today, with orders to fire on any plane that attacked merchant shipping on this vital French communication route.

WASHINGTON, August 9 (U.P.)—Treasury officials urged congress today to enact tax loophole closing legislation at this session, and announced they would recommend sweeping revision of the entire tax structures next year.

CARROTHERS IN CAR ACCIDENT NEAR HANDLEY

Word was received here of a slight accident in which Joe Carrothers, 30, sustained minor injuries for which he was treated at a Handley hospital.

Mr. Carrothers was cut about the nose and lip in an automobile accident which occurred at Handley Monday. None of the other occupants were hurt, and the injuries sustained by Joe were not thought to be serious. However, no details of the accident could be learned nor of the exact nature of the injuries sustained by Mr. Carrothers.

ALL FIVE OF QUINS HAVE HEAD COLDS

GALLANDER, Ontario, August 9 (U.P.)—Dr. Allen Ray Daeoe announced today that all five of the Dionne quintuplets were suffering from head colds.

He cancelled their regular personal appearances today and barred all visitors from the nursery grounds. The youngsters were caught in a heavy rain at play in the yard yesterday.

Third Victim Dies In Terrell Crash

TERRELL, August 9 (U.P.)—Funeral services were arranged today at Canton, Tex., for Jim Marvin, 57, third victim of an automobile accident near Terrell Friday. The death of the death of Lillie Mize, 14, and Juanita Mize, 7 months, sister and the injury of nine other persons.

ANNOUNCEMENT
Rev. R. E. Elmore pastor of the A. M. E. church wishes to send special thanks to the white friends for doing their share of buying the chicken dinners Saturday.

Wins Battle for 'Kidnaped' Foster Son

MONTGOMERY FUNERAL HELD HERE SUNDAY

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian church in Cisco Sunday for M. B. Montgomery, 39, who died in Wichita Falls Friday as a result of a long illness. The death was not a surprise to members of his family, who had expected it momentarily for several weeks. Rev. M. H. Applewhite brought a message of love and condolence to the family and friends.

Mr. Montgomery, recently of Wichita Falls, was born and reared in Cisco, the son of a prominent pioneer ranchman, J. P. Montgomery, who was killed in 1927 by an automobile as he crossed Avenue A. His mother died when he was a small boy, and he was reared by a step-mother, who also died in 1932.

He leaves surviving him two children of Trescott. They did not attend his funeral. Four sisters, Mrs. C. D. Johnson of Oklahoma City, Okla., Mrs. J. T. Abbot of Kenna, New Mex., Mrs. B. O. Robinson of Cisco and Mrs. A. L. Buford of Cisco, all were here. Besides four sisters, he has a brother, Lee Montgomery of Houston, who also attended the funeral. Several nieces and nephews survive.

The Hines Funeral Home of Wichita Falls had charge of funeral arrangements, and were courteously assisted by Nell Lane's Funeral home of Cisco.

Interment was in Oakwood cemetery Sunday afternoon. Pallbearers were E. P. Crawford, Joe Clements, Charles Kleiner, Kent Word, C. L. Boggs and Ernest Hillson.

TEMPERATURES ABOVE 100 ARE RULE IN TEXAS

Temperatures above 100 degrees were the rule in Texas Monday as a scorching sun appeared again. Farmers, though, uncomfortable in the intense heat, welcomed the sunshine as it hastened maturity of a bumper crop. Cotton-picking throughout southern Texas was in full swing. A trace of rain fell in scattered sections of the Panhandle during the week end but not enough to temper the heat wave. Thermometers went to 106 degrees at Wichita Falls, 102 at Abilene and El Paso and 100 at Dallas.

COPELAND SAYS U. S. PRESIDENT IS DICTATOR

WASHINGTON, August 9 (U.P.)—Senator Royal S. Copeland, democrat from New York, today charged that President Roosevelt "does more in five minutes to destroy democratic harmony that can be re-established in a generation of picnics and peace-bidders." Referring to printed reports that President Roosevelt favored nomination of former New York Supreme Court Justice J. T. Mahoney in the New York City mayor's race, Copeland, a candidate for the place said: "Government in the United States is no longer democratic with a big 'D' or a small 'd'. It is largely personal, dictated by the White House. At least, we have in the United States, personal dictatorship, if not political dictatorship."

MRS. TRAXLER IS RETURNED TO CROCKETT

CROCKETT, August 9 (U.P.)—Mrs. Roy (Pete) Traxler, wife of the Oklahoma desperado who led a break of nine convicts from Eastham prison farm on July 8, was placed in the Houston county jail today after extradition from Oklahoma.

She was charged with smuggling a rifle which Traxler used in the daring escape in which a convict was killed and a guard wounded. The woman was captured by Oklahoma officers when she, Traxler and Fred Tindol were surprised during a flight. Traxler later was wounded and captured and Tindol was killed.

JAPAN-CHINA NEARER GENERAL WAR THAN ANYTIME SINCE JULY 1

SHANGHAI, August 10 (Tuesday) (U.P.)—Japan and China tonight were nearer a general war than at any time since hostilities started on July 7. A Japanese naval officer and a seaman were shot and killed by Chinese militiamen, and in Tokyo the war minister told newspapermen that China must cease resistance, or be prepared for general hostilities. Shanghai was in a terror. More than 60,000 homeless Chinese crowded in the streets. Two developments however, heartened Chinese officials at Nanking. 1. Japan's withdrawal from the richer areas in the Yangtze River Valley was virtually completed; and, 2. In Paris, the Chinese foreign minister announced that he had signed an agreement with French banks to extend large credit to

FUTURES JUMP $2 BALE WHEN NEWS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, August 9 (U.P.)—The Department of Agriculture today forecast a 1937 cotton crop of 13,505,000 bales, the largest in six years.

Cotton futures broke as much as $2 a bale on the New York cotton exchange on receipt of the news. The estimate brought increased demand for cotton states congressmen for federal loans to stabilize farm prices.

President Roosevelt has said these loans will be forthcoming if he is given assurance that congress will enact general farm legislation at the beginning of the next session. Today's report showed an acreage 11 per cent higher than last year, and prospects for the highest yields per acre ever recorded.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said the condition of the crop on August 1 was 81.3 per cent normal, indicating a yield of 223.3 pounds of lint per acre.

The Bureau of Census reported 142,983 bales ginned to August 1, compared with 41,130 in 1936.

The department estimated 33,429,000 acres were in cultivation on August 1, compared with 34,192,000 acres on July 1, 1936. This year's crop will be 25.8 per cent larger than in 1936 when production was 12,399,000 bales, the department estimated.

The Crop Reporting Board estimated the Texas crop at $2 per bale normal with a prospective yield of 165 pounds per acre, and a total crop of 4,314,000 bales.

Representative A. L. Ford of Mississippi, leader of the House Cotton bloc asserted that he felt President Roosevelt would act on the loan problem immediately upon his return here from Hyde Park.

Speaker William Bankhead and Majority Leader Sam Rayburn assured Ford's group Friday that they also felt the president would make temporary loans, after promising that a general crop production control program wanted by Mr. Roosevelt would be the first legislative matter next January.

NRS OFFICE IS MANAGED BY LOWRY

J. S. Lowry has become manager of the Eastland County National Reemployment service office at Eastland to succeed Clayton Gunnels, resigned because of an illness and now at a hospital in San Angelo.

Lowry, former manager of the 11-county office at Big Spring, also is senior interviewer at the Eastland office. He is assisted by Curtis Montgomery of Abilene, junior interviewer. The new county NRS manager has been in that work four years.

The NRS office is maintained by the Texas State Employment Service and the Department of Labor. It acts as an employment service which renders its service free to employer and employee.

Business men have been urged as well as any seeking workers, to avail themselves of its service. There is no charge. Persons without employment also are urged to register at the office.

Lowry stated many are of the impression the office is one of relief. This he stated was not true.

The Electric Age

The use of electricity is today almost 25 times what it was 35 years ago, according to W. C. Mullendore, executive vice president of the Southern California Edison Company. Its cost is only one-third what it was then. This remarkable reduction of cost has been achieved in spite of the fact that operating expenses of almost all kinds have risen, and the industry's tax bill is 94 times as great as it was in 1902.

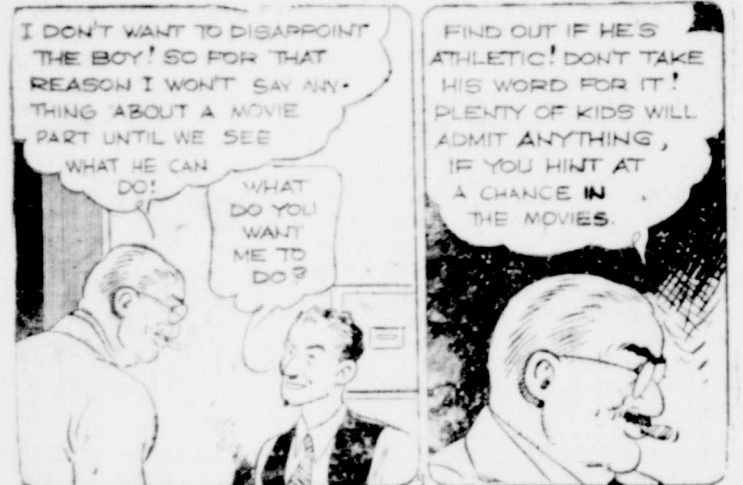

Cold figures cannot adequately tell what this remarkable record of service means to the American people. Expressed in human terms, it means that where only a small proportion of homes enjoyed the blessings of electric power at the beginning of the century, more than 80 per cent of all homes have electricity today. It means that we can use power to operate radios, refrigerators, stoves and other labor-saving equipment for less than we used to pay for lighting alone. It means that the average family's electric bill is actually less than its tobacco bill, and a great deal less than its theatre and amusement bill. It means that hundreds of thousands of farmers have been provided with power that performs swiftly, efficiently and cheaply, tasks of back-breaking severity.

Private capital started the electric. Private initiative and energy developed it. Vision foresaw its magnificent potentialities. In other lands, where electric developments have been dominated by government, progress has been nowhere near as great. There the dampening hand of politics has deprived their peoples of electricity's maximum aids to a happier, more comfortable life.

We are still in the beginning of the electric age. If we make sure that the utility industry is left in the hands of private individuals, under suitable state regulation, and is kept free from politics and bureaucracy, the future will bring wonders now undreamed of.

OUT OUR WAY

NAZI ECONOMIC THEORY PUZZLES; COMMON WELFARE COMES FIRST YET CAPITALISM'S PROFITS RISE

By PAUL KECSKEMETI
United Press Staff Correspondent
BERLIN, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Third Reich's attitude toward capitalist profits is paradoxical, it seems. On the one hand, there is Nazi economic theory which frowns upon profit being made the guiding principle of economic life. The adage of "common welfare coming before private welfare" is repeated everywhere. It is said that Adolf Hitler once exclaimed in a conference with industrial and financial leaders: "I don't want to hear the word 'profitableness' ever more!"

On the other hand, the Reich's economic policy is firmly controlled by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht who believes in private, capitalistic profits and more than once expressed his contempt for the "soak the rich" doctrine endorsed by some of the more radical Nazis. It is rather difficult to explain this apparent contradiction. Some observers believe that Schacht is merely a transitory phenomenon, and that the Third Reich is headed for complete state socialism without individual profits. Others contend that radical "socialistic" phraseology merely serves as a smoke screen deceiving workers and intellectuals as to the capitalistic nature of the Nazi regime.

Both schools of thought are able to point out important facts seemingly bearing out their theory. Thus, those who believe in German state socialism argue that German industrialists, besides having lost their personal initiative to an astonishing degree, are more and more compelled to share their profits with the state. Taxation has increased enormously. Thus, the "corporation tax"—the principal tax levied from limited companies—last year yielded 1,047,000,000 marks, as compared to 106,000,000 marks in 1932-33. During the "peak year" before the depression, in 1928-29, the same tax yielded only 600,000,000 marks.

Industrial firms are also compelled to raise a contribution serving to subsidize German exports. Dividends may not exceed 6 per cent or, in some cases, 8 per cent. Pressure is being brought to bear upon concerns to induce them to keep all workers on the payroll even if they cannot all be employed due to a slump in orders. Finally, mining and textile concerns are being forced to establish new plants, regardless of

Capitalists Seen Protected
German capitalists, it is declared may have to give up part of their profits for the benefit of the state; these sacrifices, however, prove to be profitable investments, since the state, in its turn, prevents the workers from putting through wage increases, and thus saves the larger part of profits.

Only the future apparently will show which of the two interpretations of the Nazi economic system is right. One thing is certain, namely, that, on the issue of capital versus labor, it is equally certain, however, that in Nazi Germany, individual profit is neither sacrosanct nor an end in itself. The state may curtail or even confiscate it. But on the whole, the policy of the Nazi state is in favor of profits because they are found to be indispensable for achieving the state's economic aims.

Capitalism in Nazi Germany is not an end but a means. The end is national strength, fitness, and discipline. Steady industrial production, however, is necessary to attain these aims. And since no production can be kept up in the long run if it is not profitable, Nazis are determined to maintain profits.

National Defense First
There are, of course, certain considerations which override the principle of profits. Thus, in the interests of national defense, Germany must produce oil and other essentials within its own frontiers. Hitler and Goering severely reprimanded industrialists who dared to mention profits in this connection. They made it clear that these enterprises must be carried out—even at a loss. But Schacht knows that such losses can be borne only by those who are financially strong enough to shoulder them. Therefore he sees to it that the financial status of industry be such as to make such unprofitable expenses possible.

The philosophy of Nazi Germany is not that of individualistic capitalism, but its economic technique is capitalistic. On the question of wages, the "socialist" state in Germany grants the workers fewer concessions than private capitalism does in capitalistic countries. (On the other hand, employment tends to be guaranteed for everyone, which partly makes up for the absence of a rise in wages). Private profits are safe-guarded, not in the interests of the individual, but of the state.

synthetic raw materials such as oil or fiber. It is in this connection that Hitler pronounced his dictum about "profitableness."
Industrial Profits Rise
All these facts seem to suggest that the trend is against private profits. Nevertheless—as the supporters of the theory of the capitalistic nature of Nazi Germany may point out—industrial profits have been constantly rising since the coming to power of National Socialism, while the wages of the individual worker on the whole remained stationary.
The net profits of 50 representative German limited companies, according to figures published in Der Wirtschafts-Ring, rose from 79,000,000 marks in 1932-33 to 176,000,000 marks in 1936-37. But these figures give an incomplete picture of the real profits made by these concerns. Much of their earnings was used to build up reserves on an enormous scale. Assets were written off radically. (In 1933, writings-off on assets of the concerns mentioned totalled 145,000,000 marks; in 1936, 287,000,000 marks.)
Thus, despite heavier taxation and other additional expenditure, German industrial concerns on the whole were able to increase their profits and to improve their financial status. The situation in most industries, except in a few cases where special conditions prevail. (Thus, decline instead of prosperity is noticed in shipping, because of the falling-off in foreign trade in the department store business, because of the Nazi campaign against stores, and in part of the fertilizer industry, hit by Gen. Hermann Goering's price-cutting decree.)

Production Greatly Increased
The favorable development of industrial profits is explained in the first place by the fact that production was greatly increased due to government orders, largely connected with rearmament. With an increase in production, costs per produced unit become less, and profits automatically rise. This effect of increased production upon profits was especially marked in Germany, because there was no increase in wages to take away part of the profits as is normally the case in periods of prosperity.
Some of the Nazi leaders demanded increases, but in vain. Dr. Robert Ley announced in May, 1936, that wages soon would be increased. Hitler, however, sternly declared at the 1936 party congress in Nuremberg, and repeatedly since then, that a rise in wages cannot be considered because it would jeopardize economic stability.

This discrepancy between the development of profits and wages is often cited as proof that Nazi Germany cannot be called a 'socialist' state.
Capitalists Seen Protected
German capitalists, it is declared may have to give up part of their profits for the benefit of the state; these sacrifices, however, prove to be profitable investments, since the state, in its turn, prevents the workers from putting through wage increases, and thus saves the larger part of profits.

Only the future apparently will show which of the two interpretations of the Nazi economic system is right. NYA Student Aid Will Be Continued
AUSTIN, August 9—An announcement concerning continuation of the NYA Student Aid program during the 1937-38 school year is expected within a few days, J. C. Kellam, Texas Director of the National Youth Administration, said today. Last year the School Aid program provided part-time employment for more than 14,000 students in 2,135 Texas secondary schools. The College Aid program provided employment for more than 8,000 students in 87 Texas colleges and universities. Mr. Kellam said that minor changes in the rules and regulations governing the program and a slight reduction in the quota of jobs allotted to each school are expected.

"We fully realize that an early announcement concerning the program is desirable," Mr. Kellam said. "Many school executives already are receiving applications from students seeking part-time employment. As soon as an official announcement is made, we shall make the plans

Wheat Crop Bill Reported Favorably

WASHINGTON August 7. (UP)—The House Agriculture Committee today reported favorably the wheat crop insurance bill, which is backed by the president and designed to protect growers from crop losses.

The bill would apply beginning in 1938. Under it the farmer would pay his premiums in wheat. He would collect his insurance either in wheat or in market cash value.

Crop insurance is distinct from general crop control.

Agricultural committees under present plans would hold hearings throughout the farm area and report back crop control legislation for enactment either at the beginning of the next regular session or congress or at a special session.

Teacher for 57 Years Champions Memory System as Used in 1870's

NEW ORLEANS, August 9 (UP)—Retired after 57 years of teaching, Miss Annie R. Taaffee has "seen a lot of water go under the educational bridge, but the methods of nearly six decades ago yet have my vote."

Officially, Miss Taaffee is retired as the second oldest public school teacher in point of service in Louisiana. But she explained that one year that she taught in a private school was not counted.

She is a native of New Orleans but has lived in St. Bernard parish since "she was 9. She was graduated here from Holy Angels academy in 1876 and opened a private school with 14 pupils in 1879.

"There weren't any regulation textbooks as there are today so we just made use of what books the children had," she recalled. "I wrote my own review tests which were given each Friday."

"We taught the children to memorize the main facts in arithmetic, geography and history and other subjects. They don't stress memory much these days and I bet the grandmothers know their facts right now better than the pupils in school today."

Arithmetic was a staple item of scholastic diet in the early days, Miss Taaffee said.

"We'd have arithmetic tables almost every day. One day the pupils would have addition and subtraction and the next day they would have multiplication and division."

"I'd stand them in a row and fire questions at them and if they didn't know what 7 times 6 was almost before I'd finished asking the question they went to the foot of the class. They didn't pout about it either, and the parents didn't side with the children. They were always on the teacher's side."

Forty-six of her teaching years were in the old First Ward school which has been replaced by the Joseph Maumus school. For six years Miss Taaffee has been an auxiliary teacher.

Though she's released from classroom duties, schooldays are not over for Miss Taaffee. For years she has painted in oils. She is teaching art at the Holy Child of Jesus academy in exchange for lessons in textile work. Miss Taaffee plans to keep busy.

Tax Dividends—

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) point, the methods of collecting the tax are very simple. The brewers buy his tax stamps in advance and pastes them after cancellation, on the barrels of beer as they leave the brewery. Meters, installed at the brewers' expense, to which only federal inspectors have access, offer another check against possible errors. It is against these readings that beer withdrawn for bottling or canning is stamped.

One of the reasons that the billion dollars piled up in less than four and a half years since beer was relegalized is that the current tax is five times the amount levied by the government before prohibition — probably a record in tax multiplication affecting any industry. In 1914, when per capita beer consumption was at its peak, the government tax was $1 per barrel. Today the brewer pays not only $5 per barrel to the government, but he is also assessed a state tax, varying from 62 cents per barrel in several states to as high as $4.96 in Maine—where the combined beer tax aggregates $9.96 per barrel.

The billion is being reached far ahead of anticipations expressed at the congressional hearings on the bill to modify the Volstead Act in December of 1932. At that time proponents of the bill, in urging its passage, predicted that it would mean a billion dollars in taxes to the government in five years. The forecast underestimated by eight months.

At least three factors have been offered for advancing the date for the billionth beer tax dollar: (1) improved economic situation itself partly induced by relegalization of beer in stimulating industry; (2) popularity of packaged beer and (3) return of beer as a home beverage.

A billion dollars appears to be a staggering sum, and statisticians have developed some interesting information on what can be done with it. For one thing, it was found, it would have paid the 1936 cost of government for New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Cleveland and Cincinnati combined and still leave a balance of some $16,000,000. A billion dollars would have paid the school costs for an entire school year for every public school pupil in the United States, taking the Depart-

Gov. Proclaims Week of 'Human Security'

"Human Security Week" August 9-16, has been set aside by proclamation of the Governor for the purpose of informing the people of the State concerning the provisions of the two welfare amendments for the needy blind and for dependent children, and the necessity for their adoption.

In issuing the proclamation, Governor James V. Alfred declared: "I call upon all individual citizens and all organizations—religious, fraternal, charitable and civic—to give their active and unequalled support to the end that this essential step to Texas' participation in the provisions of the Social Security Act may be accomplished and our State may continue to maintain its rightful place among the progressive states of the Union."

H. Miller Ainsworth, Chairman of the State Committee for Human Security which is conducting an educational campaign in connection with the amendments, said that "program of platform and radio addresses would be given in the following key cities during Human Security Week:

Dallas, Monday evening, August 9th; San Antonio, Tuesday; Houston, Wednesday; El Paso, Thursday; Austin, Friday; and Fort Worth, Saturday. All churches of the State will be asked to observe "Human Security Sunday" with appropriate programs. "The Week" will be opened in Dallas with an address by Frank Bane, Executive Director of the Social Security Board, Washington and Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas. Mrs. Kirk Hall County Chairman for Dallas county, will have charge of the program.
