Maybe Football Isn't Everything After All

Out of the complaint made recently by Coach Bob Zuppke at Illinois University, that college boys are getting softer every year, there rises the faint suspicion that perhaps those college boys are just getting a different slant on things collegiate.

Coach Zuppke regrets that his husky students are not as husky as they once were, and they are not nearly so willing to go out and get the daylights pasted out of them just for the glory of the thing. The famous football mentor blames the influence of sorority divans, purring motor cars, and

Perhaps he's right, but, perhaps there is another explaration or two. It is just barely possible that a lot of boys starting to college don't care for the grind which puts them into a rootball suit six days a week for three months, which drives them onto the practice field for tedious practice day in and day out, just for a brief moment of battered glory before a packed stadium on Saturday.

Maybe some of them have figured out that football, except to the exceedingly small number of brighter stars, has no future except in fireside tales and after-dinner reminiscences when college days are over.

It is barely possible, too, that the young athlete has noticed that, once he has his sheepskin and gets a job, he can't casing to 2,830 feet on top of the jump into a football suit after the day's work and get a bit sand of exercise.

Some of the boys may have decided that college athletjust as easily have a future as college classroom Fennis hardly a sissy game and a young man doesn't have to be a second Donald Budge to enjoy it. Furthermore, he can get exercise and pleasure out of the skill he has acquired in school for a couple decades later.

Golf teams appear to be more popular in college than they formerly were. Golf is a liness man's game. It's a distinct advantage to handle of shoot a decent score. As a "contact" pastime gon is almost notorious.

You meet very few business men in football suits on pleasant sunny afternoons. There's no 19th hole on the

AMERICAN BOY INTRODUCES A NEW FOOTBALL GAME

In the early fall issues of THF AMFRICAN BOY there'll be presented the story of a new gamesix-man fcotball-fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!

The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football which was too expensive. Stephen Tpler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need In six-man football anybody can secre, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators schools are taking it up every day In coming issues the American Pet Crow Raps Time August Rated as BOY tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it cresents The Amerilan Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained
