Poor fellow, he's just like the State of Texas. Already with a $12,000,000 more or less deficit, and adding more expense. Got to cut expenses or to make old John Tax Payer raise his ante. And there's to be an extra session of the state legislature pretty soon for the purpose of adjusting the tax question. At the beginning of the year there was a startling load to carry expense of operating the state, of $125,000,000. The legislature added another $12,000,000 in appropriations. Another $3,000,000 of new securities and retirements levies must be made. Besides, $1,00,000 in race horse revenues were eliminated. A trend to shake off $9, recei ad from property tax is contemplated. A vigorous attemp to increase by millions the amount for ald age pensions. This week the voters added aid for the blind and the dependent children. Also the legislature approved a bill that would reduce the revenue from oil some $9,000,000 and added about $4,000,000 extra tax on a gross income basis.

Gov. James V. Allred also proved himself a punster when the state board of education after much fusand a five to tour division, voted enanimously for a $22 school apportionment. The state automatic tax board had voted to reduce the state school tax levy in face of increased apportionment for sta-aid to school districts. "Was the state tax board action unanimous?" a correspondent asked Governor Allred.

"It was magnanimous," replied Allred. The board reduced the state tax from 20 cents to seven cents on $100 valuation.

San Antonio has been a vote stronghold for Governor Allree though San Antonio is generally coked upon as a "wide open' city favoring mixed drinks, racing an downtown bookie shops under pervision. Sports writer Jack OBrien appointe to the state game com mission by Allred, resigned when their different views on horse racing resulted in an uncomfortable sit uation. Latest report is that there is some chilliness between the governer and Hull Youngblood, Sar Antonio business man, selected by Allred for the state planning board

Youngblood's father was ap pointed on the state board of edu eation by Allred but voted for the $22 schol aid which Allred wanted the board to reduce. Hull Youngblood and the governor passed each other with a mere wave of salutation in Austin recently. Raymond Donagley, co. atty. of Wilbarger Co., becomes one of the governor's representatives. The governor's home county, Wichita, has two members-Charles Tennyson and C M. McFarland. Donaghey will represent a flotorial district including both Wichita and Wilbarger counties. He succeeds Former Rep. Albert Walker, who resigned to join the staff of Attorney General Wilham McCraw.

ELECTRICITY Builds

Each year marks the anniversary of individuals, institutions, firms, newspapers, even towns, counties and states. The passing of years makes each, whether a person or a business establishment, a pioneer in the opinion of those who view life with more youthful eyes. Outstanding accomplishments are recalled on the event of every anniversary. This tendency to point out our feats so that we may appear in a better light before our fellowmen is a very human trait that had its origin in the dim past. This desire for recognition has served as the greatest stimulant to progress, causing us to build! build! build! bodies minds . . . institutions . . . commercial endeavors.

Builds", we are acting in a human sort of way. We are proud that Electric Service has helped West Texas -your town and 159 others—to build into a region of prosperous communities where men and women each are occupied with their in dividual problem of building. It doesn't take a skyscraper to allow Electricity to demonstrate its ability to build. The humblest West Texas home provides ample opportunity. Nor is actual construction necessary. Electricity builds communities by bridging communication between them, by sending light into dark places, by furnishing businesses and industries with light and power, by providing men and women with work—work in which the basic idea is service to others.

When we remind you that "Electricity
