EVERYBODY IS ASKING WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

PEOPLE ASK, "WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?"

AUSTIN, Oct. 28 (U.P.)—Failure of the second called session of the 45th legislature to raise money for social security was blamed on "some of the senators" today by Speaker Robert W. Calvert of the House of Representatives.

"Everybody is asking who killed cock robin? I say some of the senators did—with a little bow and much arrogance," Calvert's statement said.

"On the last evening that the house bill No. 23, the omnibus tax bill, was before the Senate State Affairs Committee for hearing, I was told confidentially by a member of the third house, the lobby, that one of the senate leaders had the matter in such shape as to force eventually the house to take the bill as he wished it written, or get nothing at all. This fact was borne out by later developments."

Firemen Invited to Meeting at Cisco

EASTLAND, Oct. 28 — Firemen have been invited to attend a meeting Wednesday night, Nov. 3, at Cisco, when Frank Williams, drillmaster of the Agricultural and Mechanical College firemen's short course will offer instruction to firemen of this district.

The meeting to be held at the Cisco Fire Hall, will feature showing of films designed to show latest practices in firemanship. Williams is one of the most widely known speakers on the subject of fire in the state. For several years he was fire chief at Winters and during that period served as president of the state firemen's association.

When the state drill school was established at A. & M., it was through the efforts of Williams that the state sponsored the organization of the short course. Since its organization he has been the field representative and visits each department in the state at least once a year.

Williams' famous red car has been in more towns than any in the state, it is said. Last year, the car carried the speaker to appointments in 400 Texas towns, where he conducted lectures, drills and fire-fighting clinics.

Rally for Loboes In Town Tonight

Clubs met this morning in their home rooms with their sponsors. In all the organizations plans went on for bigger and better things. All clubs are working for a program that they will present some time in the future.

LOBOES SHOW FINE FORM AT YESTERDAY'S PRACTICE DRILL

The Loboes worked hard in a shortened practice session yesterday afternoon. The squad seems in good spirits and if they are the least bit scared of the league backing the Eagles they certainly give no evidence of it. In fact they give an indication of confidence and go about their work in a seriousness that looks bad for the Eagles.

The afternoon was spent in going over plays and defense. After a few minutes the double-wing back offense started clicking and the fast Lobo backs ran for touchdowns almost every time they got their hands on the ball. Yancy, Steyer and O. Harrison did most of the ball carrying. If these three backs can flash the same kind of ball-bearing hips at the Eagles as they did in practice the Loboes will really pick the Abilene crew.

After going over the offense Coaches Petty and Cooper took their charges over to the playing field and about an hour was spent on defense against Coach Garrett's squad who were running the Abilene plays. Big Troy Stuart, Wade, Yancy, Latch and O. Harrison were built-ups on defense and very few substitute Eagle players got a yard past the line of scrimmage.

The Loboes played an airtight pass defense against Brownwood and practicing against Eagle passes yesterday it looked as if the Eagles will have even more difficulty in completing their shots than Brownwood did. In fact, quite a few of the heavy backfield, yesterday as they did against the Lions.

If a few of the Eagle passes fall into the hands of any of the fast Loboes, chances of winning will be greatly increased.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Coyle have returned from an extended stay in New York. They were accompanied to Cisco by Julian Flaherty.

CISCO SPIRIT IS HIGH, SAYS ABILENE NEWS

ABILENE, Oct. 28 —Cisco's Big Dam Loboes, with their spirits perhaps at the highest level since the school's heydays back in the late twenties come to Abilene tomorrow with a much-improved team. Coach Red Petty's club came to for last week's fray, Banning 6-0, after a dismal start of one-sided losses to Lubbock, Stephenville, Big Spring and San Angelo on successive week ends.

Two new players became eligible for last week's fray, Banning Wade and R. D. Dunham, both husky tackles. Their addition to the squad enables Petty to shift "Cotton" Harrison, largest of the Harrison tribe who transferred from Temple, to a guard. Cotton received a broken leg at the start of the season and is just now rounding into shape.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28 (U.P.)—Danger to American and British troops guarding the international settlement increased hourly tonight after Japanese forces, mopping up northern Shanghai, fired on one British detachment from a tank.

American and British commanders stiffened their barricades. It was understood that the Japanese had given warnings that they planned an intensive assault along the Soochow Creek front on the edge of the position manned by the foreign defenders of the settlement.

The Japanese warned that they planned to attempt to cross the Soochow Creek near the western boundary of the foreign concessions, where Chinese from Shanghai had withdrawn to the Chiang Kai-Shek second line of defense.

Both British and American troops have been authorized to open fire in self defense if attacks subside. Tension was brought near the breaking point by the Japanese tank attack on a party of British led by Brigadier A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, British army commander-in-chief.

BUSINESS ON MERRY CIRCLE SAYS SENATOR

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 28 (U.P.)—American business does not know whether to anticipate war or peace "because the president has assumed authority to ignore congressional mandates on neutrality," Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, republican, Mich., charged today in an address sharply criticizing administration policies.

Before a joint meeting of service and community clubs of his home city, the senior Michigan senator outlined his reasons why "American business has been placed on a merry-go-round that never stops."

FEWER PARROTS IN ENGLAND LONDON (U.P.)—Parrots are gradually disappearing from English homes and the import trade is practically ended. The Cotton Farmer's Day

"Morning, and he would stand on his wide porch to face the waking world—the splendid sun creeping up across a sky of intense, incredible blue; mountains of cumulous cloud curling themselves into pictures of phantom cities; a million birds hailing the dawn of a new day; the sudden surprise of violets purpling the hollows in the pasture; the gray billows of fog rushing down from dim, distant hills; the flushed flower face of April lifted to the tender month of May.

"Noon, and he could ease the hard grip of his hands on the cultivator and lift his eyes to the bright splendor of June—the green-gold patina aged on his fields, the undulating sea of green leaves and stems; mauve and yellow blossoms on the thriving rows of cotton; blossoming crape myrtle by the roadside; the shimmering waves of warmth rising from the fragrant earth; the black velvet softness of fresh-turned furrows.

"Evening, and the marvelous miracle of sunset over the billowing waves of cotton, frothy and white as sea foam; the palpitant delight of one star in the arms of a dying moon; wild geese in a perfect angle over dark pines to the east; the low, lost wail of a whippoorwill; the hot flame of sumac by the south gate; the intoxicating smell of scuppernongs, hanging ripe and rusty in the arbor; the slow, low drone of bees in the hives under the plum bushes; the steady beat of earth's eager, generous heart.

"Night, and in midsummer the Southland's soft breezes blown inland from far-away ocean waves to cool the land's hot breast; the sharp, sweet breath of the forest mold borne in on the dew and fog; later the crisp whiteness of frost on leafless willows; the small of pine resin in the open fires; in all seasons the happy rest that follows a day of labor; the comfort and contentment of a small farm nestled between two low, gentle hills.

"One day—morning, noon, and night—encompassing the seasons; one day encompassing a life. For him, the years were days, eager and glad and gallant; each one filled with the simple delight of living. Seed—cotton—seed again. Sowing, growing, picking, ginning. Planting, plowing, harvesting. It was the eternal cycle for him; the harmony, peace, and promise of whatever the cotton was his coach-and-four, taking him to the uttermost rim of the world—from childhood to battlefield, from hovel to prince's mansion.

"No words had he to write the saga of cotton, no voice to sing the glory of his lesser god; but deep within him he knew the world's gigantic need of cotton for thread, cloth, garments, tires, gunpowder—the furious impatience of mills, the hunger of humanity for all the by-products of cotton, bags and bed linen, oil and ointments, diapers and dynamite—each dependent on cotton! He knew, and was content."

DAILY NEWS—AMERICAN AND ROUNDUP

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Official repudiation of the theory that isolation and neutrality acts could save this country from war has disturbed many peace-loving Americans and probably these have been few times when so obvious a demand existed for some fellow with a feasible recipe for world peace.

The most able and simplified summary in this field of study has just been brought out by the Foreign Policy Association in the form of a small, illustrated booklet, "Peaceful Change—The Alternative to War," by William T. Stone and Clark M. Eichelberger.

This is a brief digest of their summary, which attempts to tell what the "dissatisfied nations"—Japan, Germany, Italy—want, the extent to which their demands are justified and what can be done about it.

Search for economic solutions and peaceful change, the authors say, shows that the crux of the whole problem is "the question of trade and markets, and the factors which limit the purchasing power of consumer nations." How to achieve conditions of justice which will make possible the maintenance of peace by diminishing the "have-nots" demand for new territory, raw materials and markets?

Ability to buy is just as vital in the case of nations as individuals. If nations are to have equal access to raw materials, those who produce them must be willing to sell at a fair price, and those who wish to buy must have adequate purchasing power.

in every clime, men send peace offerings home before they themselves dare go. Woman is the weaker vessel! Now you tell one. Ever since the beginning of time man has been having rows with his weaker vessel, and trying to make up with her. Woman is very "magnanimous," too. She will sweetly accept man's peace offering and graciously forgive the offense, particularly when she herself is to blame.

When you see a man jewelry flowers, fruit, candy or bewing to appease his offended spouse, you can put him down as a novice, or as a man of un governable temper, or as a plain fish.

The experienced and wise man knows better than to do something he must immediately set about to undo at high cost. A smart man may make an expensive blunder once, but he doesn't keep on making the same blunder over and over again.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

The three Scout Troops of Cisco that have decided to battle it out in the way of football contests to see who will rule the football roost among the Scouts of the city, was well on its way toward a decision.

Sea Scouts of Troop No. 2 had an unexpected pleasure at the last meeting when one of the Scouts brought as a visitor Louis B. Sink on furlough from the USS Missisippi, stationed at San Pedro, Cal. C. B. McCullough, skipper of the Patrol, was formerly a United States sailor and Scouts enjoyed hearing the two men talk of "old times."

him to accompany her home. He tried, reasonably, to justify her. There might be an old grudge for a father. A nervous mother. A living room badly in need of new furniture. Foolish reasons. All of them. But girls had strange notions about things.

The taxi rattled along, circling about the city, doubling back on tracks. And then, suddenly, they were both very quiet. A lump was in Jill's throat. It was happening. He was falling in love with her.

"Where to now, sir?" called the perplexed driver. "Just drive."

HE was studying the glowing tip of his cigarette now, and missed the smile in Jill's eyes. After a moment he looked up.

"I remember an old graybeard who came in twice. He would look at the other pictures, but he would always come back to 'Seville.'"

"Yes," Jill said softly. She persisted loyally. "Just the same, I'm sure it was worth every bit of the money."

"The funny part of it is that you may be right," Alan replied. "Though, somehow, I feel like I've robbed a bank. It's the best thing I've done anyway. I put more into it than any other picture I've painted. I tested out a lot of theories I have about color and color combinations."

They left the room and went out into the warm, autumn night. Alan signaled to a taxi. In the darkness of the cab, they moved closer.

"Let's ride around for awhile," Alan whispered. "I want to celebrate extravagantly, recklessly. If you only knew all the corners I've cut and the pennies I've saved."

"On one condition," Jill said. "I take a bus home alone."

Jill was frightened. Tonight with the sense of a miracle upon him was no time for him to see the Wentworth town house. It would take the edge off his experience to find he had not been confiding his good fortune to a girl of average circumstances but to one of immense wealth.

ALAN spoke suddenly. "All right. Have it your way, Jill." He realized that Jill did not want

Oct. 23 when the Scouts of Troop No. 49 showed the boys from No. 101 how the men's game of football is played. Troop No. 101 had ascended to supremacy the week before by edging out the Troop No. 49 gridsters by 20-19 count. This gave the forty-niners the right to challenge the winners, and as a result of the win Saturday, were far ahead of their two rivals, for the time being at least. Another game is planned to be staged next week. (Cisco Daily Press).

San Saba Patrol Leaders of Troop No. 36 met Monday, October 25th, to make plans for the fall and winter program. Tuesday night a Halloween program was carried out at regular Troop meeting.

A handiwork project is being worked on by these Scouts. They are making silhouettes depicting camp life, Indian Lore and other phases of Scouting activity. These are to be used in decorating the new Tr. Room.

Breckenridge A Nautical Party was given Sea Scouts of the SSS Texas, Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Jones. Those present entered the living room over the ship's gangway, and were piped over the side in truly seaman-like manner. The room was festooned with signal and other flags of the ship as well as a portion of the mainmast with the ship's bell and red and green running lights.

Moving pictures of the Fort Worth Regatta and the National Jamboree at Washington were shown by Boy's J. R. Nix. A Bridge of Honor was held during which Sea Scouts Nix, Harold Wohlford, and Tony Kelly received advancement in Rank. Charles Miller and Jack Robertson were welcomed as new members of the organization.

People We Meet

By Winifred Clark We are pretty much in the habit of accepting the theory that an actor, an artist, a writer, work we have admired, a way to dampen our own experience of my own discomfited theory. Once ever so I stumbled upon a poem, neurotic thing that stamped pulse in me that responded. "The person who was earth, but tempers with of heaven and hell. How like to meet that poet, one of those coincidences to human existence. I did person whose lines were in my memory. I was pointed. Through the pages in a common place affair, a spirit that was one with which it had endeavored, again to myself. That upon the earth, but through the gates of heaven and hell."

MOUNT ANGEL, Ore., Oct. 28.—Fragments of vacuole manuscripts, many dated before Gutenberg's invention of movable type, are a portion of a prized library collection at Mount Angel College here.

The Rev. Dr. Maro Schmidt, librarian, estimates that some of the manuscripts are more than 800 years old. They were recovered from the backs of books which date from the 15th century.

The fragments number more than 50. Fifty of them range in size from 35 to 50 square inches and the remaining 29 are smaller, ranging from 6 to 20 square inches each.

The predominant language is Latin, although five of the smaller fragments are in Hebrew.

Recognizable portions include part of a sacramentary of choir books.

Specially designed tools had to be used to remove the manuscripts from the backs of the books. Sometimes it took hours to remove only a few square inches. Beer Tavern Bought For Sunday Classes

MARLIN (UP)—Another way to close up a beer tavern has been discovered by the women of the First Baptist church at Reagan, 9 miles south of Mevin.

The women purchased the beer tavern building that had been used as a beer dispensary.

The owner of the establishment had not been doing a great deal of business and the women, wishing to aid in removing beer from the community anyway, decided to purchase the building.

It was purchased, removed to the church premises and renovated so that it would accommodate Sunday School classes.

In paying for the structure, the raising social functions in the women will hold special money-buildings.

Artist is Amused Van Veen took the directions in good humor.

"I was not angry at the Government," he said. "The incident is really amusing, and can be traced back to another competition for the Newark, N. J. post office which I had entered before the Pittsburgh contest was announced. For the Newark job, I submitted a conservative sketch, without expressing any opinion about society—done with the idea of pleasing a jury.

"By way of atonement, I did the most revolutionary thing I could think of, for the Pittsburgh competition."

Funeral Scene Included Van Veen's original picture, he said, depicted on the left side the capitalistic manifestations of Pittsburgh and just below workers' shacks. In the foreground, he said, was a funeral scene of a worker, "with an apathetic figure of a bourgeois standing around." On the right side, he said, he depicted coal mines and factories.

"In the center of the panel was the angushed figure of Justice, completely befuddled by the whole problem," he said.

"I was advised from Washington that I was to take out the figure of Justice, the bourgeois, the worker, leaving nothing but the landscape and Pittsburgh industry."

He said he had been unable to revise the picture, but submitted a new sketch in which he "spoke of Pittsburgh only in the terms of a pictorial scene." It was accepted, Van Veen said.

FOSSIL TEETH FOUND ALAMOOSA Colo. (UP)—Fossils excavated at a depth of four feet near here have been identified tentatively as teeth of the prehistoric imperial mammoth elephant. It is known that a species of mastodons roamed Colorado and Wyoming in the Pleistocene age, but the fossils found near here were the first of their type discovered west of Texas.

CHURCH BUILT ON NEW FAITH

ST. PAUL, Oct. 28 (UP)—Material expression of one of man's personal religion, the Chapel of St. Gabriel is nearing completion.

The chapel is located near the home of the founder of the Apostolic church, Gabriel Pizzuti, who spends all his time building the chapel and working on the grounds, which consists of three lots adjoining his home.

Pizzuti and his family, only members of the faith, began the ecclesiastical building about 10 years ago. Until then they had held their religious services in their home.

"When my daughter died, I built a grotto in her memory," the dark-eyed, soft voiced Pizzuti said. "Then I went on building."

Studied for Priesthood Pizzuti was born near Naples, studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood as a boy in Italy. He left the church and came to America.

"The services in my church are mine. They are new," Pizzuti said. He has some trouble with his English. "I made them, and that is why it is called apostolic."

"What I do I do through my understanding and dreaming," Pizzuti speaks with the vagueness and sincerity of a mystic.

To Have Pews for 40 The Chapel of St. Gabriel is expected to be finished about Christmas time. It will be 24 feet long and 12 feet wide. It contains an altar and pews, and a choir loft. It will accommodate about 40 people.

Pizzuti builds from materials obtained from houses being wrecked. Trellis work decorating the ceiling is made from an old Chinese chair broken by workmen's picks. The corners of the altar are new posts. Pews are from the old city hall.

A smaller chapel, the chapel of St. Michael, built in 1933, the memorial grotto pools and flowers beautify the grounds.

Completion of the chapel will not end Pizzuti's work on the grounds of the Apostolic church.

"I am going to keep building. It is my work until I die," he said.

The Eagles, in the meantime, trampled up on both offensive and defensive tactics yesterday afternoon with P. H. Hill running at quarterback. Hill is replacing the injured James Beam in the Abilene backfield.

Absence of Beam, a triple threat, is sure to be felt by the Eagles. A. K. Doss, a halfback, will take over the kicking duties, while Hill will be on the slinging end of the aerial game.

Tape Cast to Cure Dean's Pitching Arm

ST. LOUIS (UP)—An adhesive taping cast which saved the pitching skill of a screw-ball artist 15 years ago, may save the arm of Lizzy Dean for the Cardinals on for whatever club gets him when the trade winds blow this winter.

Such is the view of Dr. Huber "Fluicks" Pruett, one-time left-oar handed pitcher for the St. Louis Browns and the New York Giants.

Pruett, now a St. Louis physician, is treating Dean, making his treatment follow lines laid down in his own case years ago.

In Pruett's opinion, Dizzy was not stalling the past season when especially after the All-Star game in Washington, he complained of a sore arm.

"His pitching arm really is bothering him," Dr. Pruett said. "In fact, he has the same ailment in his right shoulder that I had in my left shoulder during the winter of 1924."

"And the only relief I got for my ailment was the same kind of modified cast that I have placed on Lizzy's pitching arm."

Pruett carried his arm in the adhesive sling for much of the winter of 1924. He believed he was repaid, for he won 20 games for Oakland in the Pacific Coast League the next season.

"And I feel that if Dizzy is patient enough with his arm, he too, will be cured in time to report for spring training next year in fit condition," Pruett said.

Colored Glasses at Indian Sun Dance

PORT HALL INDIAN RESERVATION, Ida. (UP)—Traces of contact with white people were apparent at the Indian sun dance, an annual native religious ceremony, money, which concluded with a feast here.

Bannock and Shoshone tribes' dancers and equipment used during the 84-hour dance were a far cry from similar things employed in past years.

Several dancers donned colored glasses to protect their eyes from the hot sun — the god in whose honor the ceremony is held each year.

A wrist watch adorned the arm of one well-meaning participant. Fires used during the ceremony were without exception started by the use of paper and one or more matches.

Gas lamps were used to illuminate the night sessions of the dance. Visiting Indians drank soda pop and ate pop corn and hotdogs while watching the event.

The last straw was when a young buck admitted he didn't speak Indian when a newspaperman spoke a dozen words learned for the express purpose of attempting a limited conversation to gain additional information about the dance.

And — a modern physician was called in to care for the exhausted Indiana braves who danced until they dropped from hunger and exhaustion.

Calvert Blames Senators For 'Do-Nothing'

TROOPS TOLD TO SHOOT IN SELF DEFENSE

PEOPLE ASK, "WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN"

AUSTIN, Oct. 28. (U.P.)—Failure of the second called session of the 46th legislature to raise money for social security was blamed on "some of the senators" today by Speaker Robert W. Calvert of the House of Representatives.

"Everybody is asking who killed cock robin? I say some of the senators did—with a little bow and much arrogance," Calvert's statement said.

"On the last evening that the house bill No. 23, the omnibus tax bill, was before the Senate State Affairs Committee for hearing, I was told confidentially by a member of the third house, the lobby, that one of the senate leaders had the matter in such shape as to force eventually the house to take the bill as he wished it written, or get nothing at all. This fact was borne out by later developments."

"Every proper effort was made by those interested and those who wished to carry out what they thought to be the will of the people with reference to providing sufficient funds for teacher retirement," Teer said.

Love's Symphony for Garbo

Romance to a symphonic accompaniment was Hollywood's prediction for Greta Garbo—an accompaniment by Leopold Stokowski whose pleading, commanding fingers have swept many a romantic melody to a climatic crescendo. Stokowski's continued attentions to the queen of exotic silence have startled the film colony. Mrs. Stokowski moved to Nevada, noted for quick divorce laws. Film star and symphony director were silent.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28. (U.P.)—Danger to American and British troops guarding the international settlement increased hourly tonight after Japanese forces, mopping up northern Shanghai, fired on one British detachment from a tank.

American and British commanders stiffened their barricades. It was understood that the Japanese had given warnings that they planned an intensive assault along the Soochow Creek front on the edge of the position manned by the foreign defenders of the settlement.

The Japanese warned that they planned to attempt to cross the Soochow Creek near the western boundary of the foreign concessions, where Chinese from Chapei had withdrawn to the Chiang Kai-Shek second line of defense.

Both British and American troops have been authorized to open fire in self defense if attacks subside. Tension was brought near the breaking point by the Japanese tank attack on a party of British led by Brigadier A. P. D. Teifer-Smollett, British army commander-in-chief.

BUSINESS ON MERRY CIRCLE SAYS SENATOR

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 28. (U.P.)—American business does not know whether to anticipate war or peace "because the president has assumed authority to ignore congressional mandates on neutrality," Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, republican, Mich., charged today in an address sharply criticizing administration policies.

Before a joint meeting of service and community clubs of his home city, the senior Michigan senator outlined his reasons why "American business has been placed on a merry-go-round that never stops."

FEWER PARROTS IN ENGLAND

LCNDON (U.P.)—Parrots are gradually disappearing from English homes and the import trade is practically ended. This is a result of the prohibition of the import of all birds of the parrot species imposed in 1930 "to prevent the spread of infectious disease known as psittacosis."

CISCO SPIRIT IS HIGH, SAYS ABILENE NEWS

ABILENE, Oct. 28. (U.P.)—Cisco's Big Dam Loboes, with their spirits perhaps at the highest level since the school's heydays back in the late twenties, come to Abilene tomorrow with a much-improved team.

Coach Red Petty's club came to for last week's fray, Banning 6-0, after a dismal start of one-sided losses to Lubbock, Stephenville, Big Spring and San Angelo on successive week ends.

Two new players became eligible for last week's fray, Banning Wade and R. D. Dunham, both husky tackles. Their addition to the squad enables Petty to shift "Cotton" Harrison, largest of the Harrison tribe who transferred from Temple, to a guard. Cotton received a broken leg at the start of the season and is just now rounding into shape.

About Our Friends

By STEPHEN A. LONG

Some of our friends discussed on recently and his observations of sufficient interest to us to give you the substance of our evening while I was with a charming woman who poked a small finger to me and asked, "Isn't that the hand of the finger (a man) to be a fool to miss a chance?" It was beautifully lapidary and the tiny hand had a wonderful polish. I was so charmed that I called me the name. "I didn't mean the name," she said. "I meant the ring was also pretty. I asked her where she had a mad ring," she chirped. "I gave it to me. He brought it last night, 'cause I was with him."

The amount of money that husbands spend to placate indignant wives could be known, the figures stagger the world. Men spend after—placating angry wives off the national debt hundreds of seasons. Take from jewelers their profits in business and they would go broke. There are a lot of husbands, too, that would be horrified but for the repentant and obedient husbands. Every day for all the world, in every

"Morning, and he would stand on his wide porch to face the waking world—the splendid sun creeping up across a sky of intense, incredible blue; mountains of cumulous cloud curling themselves into pictures of phantom cities; a million birds hailing the dawn of a new day; the sudden surges of violets purpling the hollows in the pasture; the gray billows of fog rushing down from dim, distant hills; the flushed flower face of April lifted to the tender month of May.

"Noon, and he could ease the hard grip of his hands on the cultivator and lift his eyes to the bright splendor of June—the green-gold patina aged on his fields, the undulating sea of green leaves and stems; mauve and yellow blossoms on the thriving rows of cotton; blossoming crape myrtle by the roadside; the shimmering waves of warmth rising from the fragrant earth, the black velvet softness of fresh-turned furrows.

"Evening, and the marvelous, delicate of sunset over the billowing waves of cotton, frothy and white as sea foam; the palpitant delight of one star in the arms of a dying moon; wild geese in a perfect angle over dark pines to the east; the low, lost wail of a whippoorwill; the hot flame of sumac by the south gate; the intoxicating smell of scuppernongs, hanging ripe and rusty in the arbor; the slow, low drone of bees in the hives under the plum bushes; the steady beat of earth's eager, generous heart.

"Night, and in midsummer the Southland's soft breezes blown inland from far-away ocean waves to cool the land's hot breast; the sharp, sweet breath of the forest mold borne in on the dew and fog; later the crisp whiteness of frost on leafless willows; the smell of pine resin in the open fires; in all seasons the happy rest that follows a day of labor;

OUT OUR WAY

the comfort and contentment of a small farm nestled between two low, gentle hills.

"One day—morning, noon, and night—encompassing the seasons; one day encompassing a life. For him, the years were days, eager and glad and gallant; each one filled with the simple delight of living. Seed—cotton—seed again. Sowing, growing, picking, ginning. Planting, plowing, harvesting. It was the eternal cycle for him; the harmony, peace, and promise of whatever the cotton was his coach-and-four, taking him to the uttermost rim of the world—from childhood to battlefield, from hovel to prince's mansion.

"No words had he to write the saga of cotton, no voice to sing the glory of his lesser god; but deep within him he knew the world's gigantic need of cotton for thread, cloth, garments, tires, gunpowder—the furious impatience of mills, the hunger of humanity for all the by-products of cotton, bags and bed linen, oil and ointments, diapers and dynamite—each dependent on cotton! He knew, and was content."

nation, in every clime, men send peace offerings home before they themselves dare go. Woman is the weaker vessel! Now you tell one. Ever since the beginning of time man has been having rows with his weaker vessel, and trying to make up with her. Woman is very magnanimous, too. She will sweetly accept man's peace offering and graciously forgive the offense, particularly when she herself is to blame.

When you see a man buying flowers, fruit, candy, or jewelry to appease his offended spouse, you can put him down as a novice, or as a man of ungovernable temper, or as a plain fish.

The experienced and wise man knows better than to do something he must immediately set about to undo at high cost. A smart man may make an expensive blunder once, but he doesn't keep on making the same blunder over and over again.

That does not mean either that the seasoned and sensible benedict does not give his wife presents. But he does not make her mad before he gives them. He prefers to have credit for being sweet and generous instead of having to use his gifts to patch up the feelings of his better three-quarters.

However, there are women who would never get a piece of fancy fruit, a trinket, or a pair of silk stockings, except for the fact that hubby does something every now and then that he wants to fix up.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

The three Scout Troops of Cisco that have decided to battle it out in the way of football contests to see who will rule the football roost among the Scouts of the city, was well on its way toward a decision

Oct. 23 when the Scouts of Troop No. 49 showed the boys from No. 101 how the men's game of football is played. Troop No. 101 had ascended to supremacy the week before by edging out the Troop No. 4 gridsters by 20-19 count. This gave the forty-niners the right to challenge the winners and as a result of the win Saturday, were far ahead of their two rivals, for the time being at least. Another game is planned to be staged next week. —(Cisco Daily Press).

San Saba
Patrol Leaders of Troop No. 36 met Monday, October 25th, to make plans for the fall and winter program. Tuesday night a Halloween program was carried out at regular Troop meeting.

A handicraft project is being worked on by these Scouts. They are making silhouettes depicting camp life, Indian Lore and other phases of Scouting activity. These are to be used in decorating the new Tr. Room.

Breckenridge
A Nautical Party was given Sea Scouts of the SSS Texan, Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Jones. Those present entered the living room over the ship's gangway, and were piped over the side in truly seaman-like manner. The room was festooned with signal and other flags of the ship as well as a portion of the mainmast with the ship's bell and red and green running lights.

Moving pictures of the Fort Worth Regatta and the National Jamboree at Washington were shown by Box'n J. R. Nix. A Bridge of Honor was held during which Sea Scouts Nix, Harold Wohlford, and Tony Kelly received advancement in Rank. Charles Miller and Jack Robertson were welcomed as new members of the organization.

Brownwood
Sea Scouts of Troop No. 2 had an unexpected pleasure at the last meeting when one of the Scouts brought as a visitor Louis B. Sink on furlough from the USS Mississippi, stationed at San Pedro, Cal. C. B. McCullough, skipper of the Patrol, was formerly a United States sailor and Scouts enjoyed hearing the two men talk of "old times."

This week sees the close of the contest between the Ram and Mustang Patrols of Troop No. 2. The winners will eat Chili Friday night at the expense of the losers.

People We Meet

By Winifred Clark White
We are pretty much inclined to accept the theory that an actor, an artist, a writer, work we have admired is a way to dampen our ardor, experience of my own discretion theory. Once ever so long stumbled upon a poem, a neurotic thing that stirred pulse in me that responded to it. "The person who wrote it," I said to myself, "lives upon earth, but tapers with the of heaven and hell. How I like to meet that poet!" One of those coincidences to human existence, I did not person whose lines were still in my memory. I was not pointed. Though the poet engaged in a common place affair, a spirit that was one with that which it had engendered, and again to myself, "That person upon the earth, but tapers the gates of heaven and hell."

MANUSCRIPTS GO BACK 800 YRS.

MOUNT ANGEL, Ore., Oct. 28.—Fragments of vacuum manuscripts, many dated before Gutenberg's invention of movable type, are a portion of a prized library collection at Mount Angel College here.

The Rev. Dr. Maro Schmidt, librarian, estimates that some of the manuscripts are more than 800 years old. They were recovered from the backs of books which date from the 15th century. The books from which they were taken are of great value in themselves. Some were brought from Europe more than 40 years ago by the founders of the college and others were acquired here from European monasteries and libraries, notably from Aachen, Germany.

The fragments number more than 30. Forty of them range in size from 35 to 50 square inches and the remaining 29 are smaller, ranging from 6 to 20 square inches each. The predominate language is Latin, although five of the smaller scraps is in Hebrew.

Recognizable portions include part of a sacramentary of choir books.

Specially designed tools had to be used to remove the manuscripts from the backs of the books. Sometimes it took hours to remove only a few square inches. The pigments and inks were resistant to water and some of the glues resisted solvents.

Beer Tavern Bought For Sunday Classes

MARLIN (AP)—Another way to close up a beer tavern has been discovered by the women of the First Baptist church at Reagan, 9 miles south of Marlin.

The women purchased the beer tavern building that had been used as a beer dispensary.

The owner of the establishment had not been doing a great deal of business and the women, wishing to aid in removing beer from the community anyway, decided to purchase the building.

It was purchased, removed to the church premises and renovated so that it would accommodate Sunday School classes.

In paying for the structure, the raising social functions in the women will hold special money-buildings.

We are sure of giving the Eagles a whole of a battle," Petty told Cisco newspapermen.

The Eagles, in the meantime, brushed up on both offensive and defensive tactics yesterday afternoon with P. H. Hill running at quarterback. Hill is replacing the injured James Beam in the Abilene backfield.

Absence of Beam, a triple threat, is sure to be felt by the Eagles. A. K. Doss, a halfback, will take over the kicking duties, while Hill will be on the slinging end of the aerial game.

Artist is Amused

Van Veen took the directions in good humor.

"I was not angry at the Government," he said. "The incident is really amusing, and can be traced back to another competition for the Newark, N. J., post office which I had entered before the Pittsburgh contest was announced. For the Newark job, I submitted a conservative sketch, without expressing any opinion about society—done with the idea of pleasing a jury.

"By way of atonement, I did the most revolutionary thing I could think of, for the Pittsburgh competition."

Funeral Scene Included

Van Veen's original picture, he said, depicted on the left side the capitalistic manifestations of Pittsburgh and just below workers' slacks. In the foreground, he said, was a funeral scene of a worker "with an apathetic figure of a bourgeois standing around." On the right side, he said, he depicted coal mines and factories.

"In the center of the panel was the anguished figure of Justice, completely befuddled by the whole problem," he said.

"I was advised from Washington that I was to take out the figure of Justice, the bourgeois, the worker, leaving nothing but the landscape and Pittsburgh industry."

He said he had been unable to revise the picture, but submitted a new sketch in which he "spoke of Pittsburgh only in the terms of a pictorial scene." It was accepted, Van Veen said.

Colored Glasses at Indian Sun Dance

PORT HALL INDIAN RESERVATION, Ida. (AP)—Traces of contact with white people were apparent at the Indian sun dance, an annual native religious ceremony, many, which concluded with a feast here.

Bannock and Shoshone tribes' dancers and equipment used during the 84-hour dance were a far cry from similar things employed in past years.

Several dancers donned colored glasses to protect their eyes from the hot sun—the god in whose honor the ceremony is held each year.

A wrist watch adorned the arm of one well-meaning participant. Fires used during the ceremony were without exception started by the use of paper and one or more matches.

Gas lamps were used to illuminate the night sessions of the dance. Visiting Indians drank soda pop and ate pop corn and hotdogs while watching the event.

The last straw was when a young buck admitted he didn't speak Indian when a newspaperman spoke a dozen words learned for the express purpose of attempting a limited conversation to gain additional information about the dance.

And—a modern physician was called in to care for the exhausted Indiana braves who danced until they dropped from hunger and exhaustion.

Pruett, now a St. Louis physician, is treating Dean, making his treatment follow lines laid down in his own case years ago.

In Pruett's opinion, Dizzy was not stalling the past season when, especially after the All-Star game in Washington, he complained of a sore arm.

"His pitching arm really is bothering him," Dr. Pruett said. "In fact, he has the same ailment in his right shoulder that I had in my left shoulder during the winter of 1924."

"And the only relief I got for my ailment was the same kind of modified cast that I have placed on Dizzy's pitching arm."

Pruett carried his arm in the adhesive sling for much of the winter of 1924. He believed he was repaid, for he won 29 games for Oakland in the Pacific Coast League the next season.

Jiu-Jitsu for U. S. Border Patrolmen

EL PASO (AP)—Jiu-Jitsu, the Japanese form of self-defense, is one of the major courses of instruction for immigration border patrol appointees. District Immigration Director Grover C. Wilmoth said a patrolman trained in jiu-jitsu was less likely to get hurt in making an arrest, and was less likely to hurt anyone.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A $2,000, 600 cemetery has been offered to the city of San Francisco as a gift, according to W. B. Ries, president of the Laurel Hill cemetery association. Ries said that trustees had voted in favor of the move, providing that the city turned the 54-acre property into a memorial park to commemorate those buried there.

Equinox Does Not Bring Storms

CASTLE Ala. (AP) — The equinox does not bring violent storms, a change of mushrooms and toadstools doesn't mean rain, and most weather maxims are just traditions. These are the opinions at least Frank Cole, Mobile meteorologist, says in a column in the Sunday edition of the Sunday Star in late September or early October is called an equinoctial storm, but that reckoning is 15 days off," the weather prophet said. "The belief in Indian summer and the equinoctial storms are to a certain extent, superstitions. These winter-type storms may come at any time of the year. The hurricane season is worst in September, but hurricanes are not equinoctial. Cole then listed the maxims which he said are worthless: Mushrooms and toadstools are numerous before rain. A bee was never caught in a shower. Lazy spiders bring rain. When fish bite readily and keep near the surface, expect rain. When birds no longer sing, look out for rain. When a parrot whistles, expect rain. In good weather, a cat washes its face, but in bad weather, it sits with its tail to the fire. When chickens wallow in the dust, look for rain. The moon with a circle, brings water in her beak. If stars do not twinkle, rain will sprinkle. When the stars begin to huddle, the earth will soon become a puddle.

Red Cross Submits New London Report

ST LOUIS, Oct. 22. (AP) — The American Red Cross has begun distributing to Texas chapters its official report of the gas explosion last March which destroyed the school at New London, Tex. Thus, so far as relief work is concerned, the curtain has been drawn on the nation's most frightful school catastrophe of recent years. The printed report shows that $52,097 was expended by the Red Cross. Of the total, $21,620 was contributed by individuals and other organizations. Medical and nursing costs amounted to $21,380, while burial expenses assumed by the relief agency totaled $14,720. Rescue, transportation, mass shelter, food, clothing and maintenance were other major items of cost listed by the Red Cross. Of more than 100 persons injured, the Red Cross cared for 77 cases. Follow-up work has included some plastic surgery and provision of an artificial leg for the only victim permanently crippled by the explosion. In addition, Red Cross nurses have made 451 home visits.

ASHTABULA, O. (AP) — Township trustees hope that their complaint to parents against boys playing football in Edgewood cemetery will be as effective as an earlier protest that golf was being played over the graves.

Foresight Clears Way For Speedy Justice

RAPID CITY, S. D. (AP) — Two men disputed in court here the ownership of a prized mare. "It appears to be one man's word against the other's," the judge said. "Oh, no, judge," said the complainant. "Before the mare disappeared I inserted a dime in her right thigh." A veterinarian was called. He made an incision, extracted a dime. The complainant took the horse and the dime.

DYNAMIT WORRIES TOWN.

DESDEMONA

By MRS. W. C. BEDFORD

The attractive home of Mrs. Charles Lee was the place of meeting for the Methodist Missionary Society Monday afternoon when Mrs. Lee had as guests the Olden Missionary Society as well as the Desdemona Society. The regular program, which was the 5th session of study of "What is this Modern World?" was led by Mrs. Preston Sparks. The scripture lesson was from the letter of Paul to the Ephesians and was read by the leader and was followed by the song "Jesus the Light of the World." Prayer was offered by Mrs. O. D. McDonald. As special numbers on the program, Mrs. G. S. Bruce read a poem entitled "Light" and Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass read a sermon as preached by Mohammed and Mrs. W. H. Whitworth reviewed an article of the Nov. 1937 National Geographic Magazine, describing "A Journey to Mecca."

Call responses were new about Meccans and were very interesting. After the lesson the women, assisted by her niece, Mrs. Dick Cutting and Mrs. W. H. Whitworth served a refreshment plate that was not only delicious but quite unique, including golden salad, cheese crackers, olives, dates and coffee. The salad had been molded in rounds with a Jack-o-Lantern face made of olives and pimientos. The Halloween motif was also carried out in decorations and napkins. Those present from Olden were: Mrs. C. O. Bragg, formerly of Desdemona, and little son, Charles, Mrs. Horner and Mrs. Vermillion, sisters of Mrs. C. D. Varied Program by Grammar P.-T. A.

The Grammar school P.-T. A. will present a Halloween program at the city hall Saturday night, October 30th.

In planning the program, the committee had in mind the old adage "Variety is the spice of life." The Lobo band, under the capable direction of bandmaster R. L. Madox, will play several numbers.

The ladies simply must not miss the style show. There will be the latest creations in styles shown. Who would not give at least a dime to see A. D. Starling parade across the stage in an amazing evening gown? Others taking part in the style show are: Pop, Garrett, T. C. Williams, C. C. Duff, O. L. Stamey and Hal Dyer. A chance in a life time. Don't miss it!

Other numbers including dancing, two short plays, a stunt by the Midget football team and the pep squad will be offered.

Mesdames Ben Krauskopf and Troy Powell will also give accordion selections.

The Grammar School hopes for the cooperation of the school patrons as all the money which will be taken in, will go for the bond and buying new library books.

FALL JOB PEAK TOPS 1929 MARK IN 13 COUNTRIES

By WALLACE CARROLL United Press Staff Correspondent GENEVA, Oct. 21 (U.P.)—The wheels of industry are rapidly absorbing the majority of the unemployed in virtually all countries. This was revealed in the unemployment statistics compiled by the International Labor Office for the third quarter of 1937.

In 13 countries, there are more people employed now than there were in the hey-day era of 1929. Using the 1929 compilations as a yardstick, the Union of South Africa has 132.7 per cent; Estonia has 149.4; Denmark, 136.3; Finland, 115.5; Yugoslavia, 114.5; Great Britain, 113.2; Hungary, 107.2; Italy, 106.1; Norway, 107.0; Canada, 100.7; Japan, 127.8; Sweden, 119.3; and Latvia, 116.8.

U. S. Gained 10 Per Cent

DANGEROUS DAYS AHEAD

Don't rely on makeshift refrigeration methods during Fall and Winter months

• These are dangerous days for food. For many people, believing that the "cool weather" of fall and winter protects food against spoilage, rely on makeshift refrigeration that does not provide protection. • The truth is that nature seldom maintains food-protecting temperatures, and those who rely on inadequate, unreliable refrigeration are actually risking their health and wasting their money. • It is false economy to be without the protection Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser provides. Spoiled food takes its toll in many ways. Don't take needless chances. • Even with a limited income, you can own and enjoy a Frigidaire. PREPARATIONS FOR BAPTISTS NOV. 8th TO 11th

EL PASO, Oct. 21 (AP)—Preparations are being speeded for this picturesque border city to welcome 3,000 Baptists expected to convene Liberty Hall, the municipal auditorium, for the annual session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, Nov. 8 to 13. The entertainment program for delegates from 3,018 churches will have its climax at an unprecedented underground convocation to be held Nov. 14 in the Carlsbad Caverns, in New Mexico. Baptists of New Mexico will join in the impressive services to be held underground. Leaders of the denomination will report on foreign missions, which are discussed in the Far East on home missions, civic righteousness, Christian education, hospitals and care of orphans.

A special report will be made on the summer evangelist campaigns held throughout the state in which denominational leaders estimate that 100,000 members were added to Baptist churches in Texas.

Dr. Wallace Bassett, circulating Dallas pastor, is prepared to attack gambling and liquor traffic in his speech on civic righteousness. Texas Baptists have been active in the past year particularly against horse racing, betting on which was outlawed last summer by the Texas legislature.

On the day before the general sessions begin, pastors and laymen will hold their annual conference to exchange ideas and formulate plans for future effectiveness. The Rev. F. D. Head, Houston pastor, will deliver the convention sermon, keynoting the program of the denomination which claims 650,000 members in Texas.

Among other speakers will be Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, president of the World Baptist Alliance; F. M. McConnell of Dallas, editor of the Baptist Standard; and Dr. L. R. Scarborough of Fort Worth, president of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Dr. J. H. Tidwell, head of the University, Waco, is president of the convention. Baptist women of Texas will hold their annual auxiliary sessions Nov. 8 and 9, and will hear addresses by Mrs. Eugene Sallee, missionary to China; Mrs. George W. Truett, who will tell of her tour of foreign mission fields on a round-the-world trip; and reports of the Women's Missionary Union.

Death Valley Life Do Without Water

BERKELEY, Cal. (AP)—Twenty-six distinct species of mammal life ranging from coyotes to mice inhabit Death Valley, according to Dr. Joseph Grinnell, curator of the museum of vertebrate zoology at the University of California.

Dr. Grinnell, who proved that life is not dead in the arid sands of Death Valley, said the animals seem to thrive on the waterless plains. They are endangered only by the hordes being made into the valley by man, he added.

The doctor said that although water holes are very scarce in the valley, few of the animals discovered up to this time seem to have any need for water.

Dr. Grinnell warned hunters that the valley will not stand much hunting or trapping if the wild life is to continue.

PRAIRIE STATES PRODUCE MORE FINE LIVESTOCK

By CARL LUNDQUEST

United Press Staff Correspondent KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 21 (AP)—The return of prosperity to the livestock industry will be celebrated at the 39th annual American Royal Exposition, which opens here Oct. 16.

Because of the strong comeback which the livestock industry has staged during the past year, the American Royal this year assumes a more significant position than ever before. The American Royal and the series of major expositions which follow in Omaha, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles and Fort Worth have for many years been the measuring-stick of the industry's prosperity.

More than 1,800 head of purebred cattle, swine, sheep, draft horses and mules have been entered for competition, according to Andy M. Paterson, manager of the exposition. That number greatly exceeds expectations because many herds have been severely reduced as a result of high feed costs following the drought.

All Sections Represented The 1,800 animals will represent breeders in 21 states in every section of the nation. Throughout the country, crops have been abundant, weather conditions favorable, and livestock generally is in better condition than at this time last year.

Chief cause for optimism among breeders is the renewed demand among livestock farmers for purebred animals as foundation stock. During the depression years, when only the choicest meat animals on the public markets were eligible for premium prices, livestock producers became more conscious than ever before of the value of a blooded sire. This year at spring and fall livestock auctions throughout the Middle West and Southwest prices in many instances surpassed pre-depression levels and approached war-time figures. The herds which will be paraded before the judges in the Royal Arena, thus will have a greater total value than at any other Royal in history.

Hereford Herds First Greatest interest centers in the purebred cattle section. Hereford herds which dominate in the Southwest, lead with 34 breeders entered. The other two beef breeds, Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus, each have 14 herds competing.

Chief contender for cattle honors will be the Harper & Turner herd from Sulphur, Okla. A new entrant in the purebred realm, the cattle are owned by a couple of young oil millionaires of Oklahoma City, who bought nearly all of the outstanding Herefords at the dispersion sale of the late Robert H. Hazlet herd near Eldorado, Kas., last June, supplementing an impressive array of animals procured from other leading breeders of the Southwest.

Mrs. Mars Has Entries Other leading Hereford exhibitors are Combs & Worley, Pampa, Tex.; Wyoming Hereford Ranch, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Herbert Chandler, Baker, Or.; Hillandale Farms, Muscatine, Ia.; Jenny Wren Farms, Lawrence, Kas.; C. M. Largent & Sons, Merkel, Tex.; Mrs. Ethel Mars' Milky Way Farms, Pulaski, Tenn.; and Otto Pulscher, Holyoke, Colorado.

Mathers Brothers, Mason City, Ill.; T. Worsey Jones, Shelbyville, Ind.; Shi-A-Bar Farms, Grain Valley, Mo.; and Tomson Brothers, Wekarusa, Kas., are the outstanding Shorthorn contenders. Names traditional with brilliant show ring performances make the Angus show loom as one of the best in history. Among the competitors will be S. C. Fullerton, Miami, Okla.; Congdon & Battles, Yakima, Wash.; Elliott Brown, Rose Hill, Ia.; J. Garrett Tolan, Pleasant Plains, Ill.; and James B. Hollinger, Chapman, Kas.

Other sections of the show, fully so colorful and lacking only the numbers of the cattle division will be featured throughout the entire week. Entered from eight states are 20 sheep breeders with eight swine producers from three states. The draft horse section has attracted 29 exhibitors from 11 states in the three sections for Percherons, Belgians, and Clydesdales. Six exhibitors will display mules.

WAR MEDICINE TO BE STUDIED AT '39 SESSION

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. (AP)—The World War—considered the greatest clinic the world has ever known—was the inspiration for an international military medical organization that today is working hard to ameliorate the suffering of war conditions, but has laid the basis of more effective treatment of the sick and wounded during peace.

The International Congress of Military Medicine and Pharmacy, which includes all branches of medicine, surgery, sanitation and dentistry, will meet in the United States in 1939, on invitation of President Roosevelt.

The congress was sponsored by the Belgian and Queen Elizabeth the Belgians, and was convened and organized in 1921 by Jules Voncken of the Belgian military medical service, and Dr. Hans Kessman Bainbridge, captain and medical director in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Meets Every Two Years
Since then it has met every two years in the various capitals of Europe. It aims at the internationalization of all branches of the healing art, with the collection, codification and standardization of all available knowledge so that, regardless of nationality or position of the ever-changing lines of combat, prompt, effective and uniform treatment of the sick and wounded in any war zone may be carried out without the interruption, perhaps, of enemy successes and occupation of a territory.

At each congress six main topics are discussed. The country in which the congress is held submits an official report on each question as does another nation selected for its special experience in the subject under discussion. Valuable contributions on each question are also received from other countries. Toward the close of the congress, general conclusions are drawn up and are accepted only if they have the unanimous approval of all delegates. If there is any point that is not clear, or on which all cannot agree, the matter is tabled for a future meeting when added experience or further deliberation may solve the question in doubt.

The permanent committee of the congress, appointed at the first meeting by the King of the Belgians, is the working and managing unit. It consists of one member from each of eight nations—

The Grandaunt of Quintuplets

Hope that she may some day see her famous grand-nieces, the Dionne quintuplets, brightens the life of Mrs. Georgianna Belle Rose, 85, above, of Lawrence, Mass. Newspaper accounts and pictures keep her in close touch with the progress of the five little girls. Ill health has prevented her visiting her nephew, Oliva Dionne, at Callander, Ontario.

Belgium, France, Great Britain, Italy, Spain, Brazil, Switzerland, and the United States of America (which Dr. Bainbridge represents). The meetings of the committee are held before, during and following the congress sessions, and in alternate years when necessary.

Headquarters in Liege
The central bureau of the congress is located in Liege, Belgium, and here also is conducted another branch of the daily working activity of the organization—the international office of medico-military documentation, which is under the supervision of the Secretary-General, Col. Voncken. At this office are collected documents, books, articles on military medical topics, and various material relating to the medical services of all countries. Accredited representatives of governments are at liberty to utilize this office for reference, and there is a department that answers technical questions received by mail from all over the world.

Immediately after past wars, certain phases of medical, surgical and sanitary experiences have been summarized. The result of a battle on the life or limb of the combatants, the immediate treatment given, special operations performed soon after the infliction of an injury, have become part of medico-military history.

Monaco Pact Drawn
In 1933, when the congress was meeting in Madrid, the Principality of Monaco was represented for the first time. Experts in international law from various countries were also present. The active interest of Prince Louis II of Monaco was aroused and in 1934, he invited the permanent committee and leaders in international law to a week's conference at his palace. The result of this conference is the so-called Pact of Monaco, which aims toward the humanization of war and has as its goal the realization of the following five points:

1. Organization of medical zones and towns.
2. Medical assistants by non-belligerents.
3. Treatment of prisoners of war.
4. Measures applicable in case of violations of the convention.
5. Protection of the civil population.

HARROW, Ont. (AP)—When a white leghorn hen, entered in the egg-laying contest, began to fall behind, her owner, George A. Winton, expressed disappointment and then concern. Not so the hen. She ceased laying, sprouted a fine set of bright red wattles and comb, threw back her head and crowed.

Man is Pardoned Without Country

STILLWATER, Minn. (AP)—On a ragged patch of ground near Stillwater prison where he served 19 years on a murder charge, Stevan Forster, 73-year-old German subject is living as a free man, but "a man without a country."

He was granted a pardon two years ago on condition he be deported. His hopes were blasted, however, by Europe's changed geography which resulted from the World War.

Forster was aided in obtaining his freedom by William S. Ervin, now state attorney general and a member of the state pardon board, who, as Pine county attorney, prosecuted him on a charge of slaying his common-law wife.

Forster, unable to obtain permission to re-enter Germany or Poland, gained the sympathy of the pardon board, which decided to let the aging German spend his declining years in peace.

But the German wants to return to his native land and George Zable, state patrol agent, is communicating with the Polish consulate and immigration authorities to obtain authority for Forster to return to his birthplace.

'SHALL NOTS' FOR BUSINESS WOMEN GIVEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Bleecker Meigs, director of the first course in manners offered by a publicly supported institution, drew up a list of ten commandments for business women today.

Mrs. Meigs will supervise "The ABC of Living, for Conversation in the Amenities, Behavior and Customs" at Hunter College. Such a course has been available heretofore only at finishing schools.

The commandments:
Thou shalt not ever use scented powder as a substitute for soap and water.

Thou shalt not wear flashy clothes, screaming colors, regardless of what the Duchess of Windsor has selected for parties.

Thou shalt not put on heavy makeup nor perfume thyself so that strong men reel when you pass.

Thou must not talk too freely—

keep gossip for thy private life.
Thou must keep the love life outside the office.
Thou must not necessarily leap like a fire horse at the alarm when 5 o'clock comes.
Thou must speak clearly and directly.
Thou must not be emotional or over-sensitive, or get thy feelings hurt.
Thou must do thy work thoroughly.
Thou must not think men in the office are making passes when they are only being civil. Do not make passes thyself.

Mothers! Treat Children's Colds This Proved Way

More mothers use VapoRub than any other medication of its kind—they have proved it by use in their own homes. It was further proved in the world's largest cold-clinic. No "dosing"—just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Almost at once, its positive-and-vapor action starts to loosen phlegm, relieve irritation and coughing, help break local congestion. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

MILLIONS VIEW ART EXHIBIT AT EXPOSITION

DALLAS, Oct. 21 (AP)—More than 1,000,000 persons have viewed Tulane University's exhibit of art and archaeology specimens collected by research and excavation in Mexico, Guatemala and other countries of Latin-America, on display at the Texas-Pan American exposition.

Silas K. Lowe, representative of the Department of Middle American Research of Tulane University, New Orleans, estimates that 90 per cent of the people who visit the exposition see the Middle American exhibit from Tulane, and that before the exposition closed Oct. 31, approximately 2,000,000 persons will have viewed it.

Franz Blom, director of Tulane's Middle American Research department, explained that "it is no longer the intent of this institution to keep behind stone walls and barred doors of its own museum buildings the marvelous art and archaeology Tulane has collected over a long period of years by research and excavation in Mexico, Guatemala and other countries.

"The purpose of this policy is to create pride in the ancient civilizations of the Western Hemisphere; to show how these cultures affect and influence the art and ethnology of modern times, and to prove that the Aztecs, Mayas Incas and other peoples of ancient times on the American continents were more interesting, were greater artists and craftsmen, and in certain instances, more advanced socially than were those of more exploited civilizations such as that of Egypt."

The archaeology display includes Mayan skulls, one of which has teeth inlaid with turquoise; Guerrero stone masks; Toltec and Aztec pottery and carved marble; Huasteca shell ornaments, carved jade, Mayan dolls, while the ethnology display presents pre-Columbian textiles, Mexican and Guatemalan dance masks, looms and other apparatus of industry wearing apparel and personal ornaments.

The Colonial period exhibit displays ancient writings, books and scripts, original Cortez documents, Aztec and Mayan linguistics and highly important 16th Century documents.

The Liberation display deals with the struggles of Middle American countries for independence and autonomous government and development showing orders and documents of Porfirio Diaz, the late Mexican dictator, and recent Central American and South American proclamations.

CHANGES RAPID IN FISH STYLES

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Fish styles like women's clothes, change with Parisian-born rapidity.

So believes William Shaumberg who has developed his wife's goldfish hatchery from a backyard cistern 20 years ago into the largest tropical fish hatchery in the United States with 1,000 ponds and 750,000 rare fish.

"Fish come in fashions, just as clothing," he said. "There have been so many clubs of fish fanciers formed recently, so many articles written, and so many new varieties imported that one would think styles in pet fish are set in Paris."

When some new species is discovered in some remote lake of some distant country, there is a great demand for it. For a while the breeder who has a pair of those fish gets high prices for them. But soon the purchasers have started re-selling and the market goes down. Then the trade awaits a new fashion.

Shaumberg was a railroad man 20 years ago when his wife first began raising goldfish in the backyard cistern as a pastime while he was away. First the neighbors began buying the fish from Mrs. Shaumberg.

The railroader began helping his wife with her hobby, so prosperous it had become. Soon the entire yard was dotted with cisterns filled with gold fish.
