A Tribute to Our Editor

By PEARL SQUAGLIA

This is our last issue of the Daily News under its present editorship.

As we prepare for "disruption of the old mantle and on with the new," it is only fitting that we pay a tribute to the one who by creating a patient and pleasant atmosphere, has kept the force together in

I speak of the editor, W. H. L.Roque. You have followed his column, "Step A Long" with interest, and yes, sometimes amusement. You have read his editorial comments on topics of the day and praised them every one. Some of you have clipped many of them for future enjoyment. You have seen him through his columns-and admired him.

I want to write about him as I have seen him personally every day-from early morn until late after-

CHEERFULNESS? Every employe on the force has always been greeted by a cheery "Good morning," or, maybe a "Hi, there, you all right?" No grouch from a busy editor. No, siree! Not this one. He always had time for smiles.

PATIENCE? I've seen him buried deep in work, one story, steadily but surely taking form on his type-writer; several notes and skeletons for stories piled on each side of his machine, and press time only a short time away. Some one of his fellowworkers (he never claimed to have subordinates) would come to him with a question. Instead of a quick, terse answer, snappily given, (which would have been justified under the circumstances), he'd lean back in his chair and give the inquirer all his attention patiently.

GENEROUS? In his thoughts toward others, he was quick to forgive a hurt, intended or otherwise, making allowances for the weak ones of the force, praising the stronger ones.

ENCOURAGING? His motto was "Never look back. We cannot help the past, but we have the future to mold to our liking. So, push past mistakes from your memory, and turn toward the bright stars of BOSS? No, he never did! He expected the head of each department to do his work, let him know he expected him to do it, and then forgot to tell him what to do.

One could go about his duties perfectly at ease, wanting to do it right, and anxious to fulfill that expectation of the editor. A feeling of calm poise and efficient work. We all knew if we unwittingly made a mistake (and who doesn't at times?) we would neither be fired nor "bawled out." So we went about our work happy, content and free from suspense, doing

Truly a good and great man; cheerful, patient, generous, always a leader, never a boss. Honest, energetic, faithful to details, willing to work.

This characterizes our editor, usually the first one on the job every morning.

And so, Mr. LaRoque, I bid you goodbye, and the rest of the force joins me in wishing for you many happy days-yea, years to come, and, in saying goodbye, we want you to know we have been encouraged by having worked with you. That our parting brings a regret that we shall work together no more.

BUT, "when the work's all done," our earthly salaries have been paid, and we seek that higher, spiritual plane of living,—well, better keep the latch-string hanging outside, 'cause we'll "be seein' yuh!"

Asking for Trouble

Announcement by the American Medical Association that 46 deaths have been caused by the use of a new remedy pite previous warnings against the dangers of the drug. directs attention again to the credulity of the American public in matters of medicine.

In the face of clear pronouncements that the full properties of the preparation were as yet unknown, patients readily subscribed to its use—with tragic results.

A companion case is that of a reducing compound which produces artificial fever, and which added another life to its toll on the same day the other fatalities were disclosed.

Inexplicable is the tendency of Americans to try out new medicines, with their own bodies as test tubes, disregarding truly scientific knowledge. Equally inexplicable is the refusal of the purchasing public to accept the factual findings of acknowledged experts such as the corps of analysts employed by the American Medical Association, solely for the enlightenment and protection of the public.

Before any drug or medicinal preparation is accepted by the association it is subjected to most exhaustive tests and analyses. Only after all tests are complete and results cor-

Roberts modestly disclaimed credit for the repetition of the motion after he received a communication from a constituent. The letter praised him for being so alert.

The governor's pay this year will NOT be the $12,000 that a recent vote of the people directed. It will be $14,000. Gov. James V. Allred will get only $12,000, and Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul will get $2,000 for serving as governor during times when Allred was absent from the state. The payment for Woodul was provided in the appropriations made for the expense of the special session of the legislature. The senate included it when the house appropriations for the session were increased from $90,000 to $125,000.

An anonymous letter, four pages long, single-spaced on legal sized paper, brought a reprimand from the house this week to those state officials who have relatives on the state payful or accept favors from outsiders such as railroad passes.

Rep. Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill read the names of four dozen per-sons who, he said, were improperly carried on the payroll. The names me from an anonymous letter. Mardin repeated the story that

Approve Radio for Philadelphia Cops

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) - The podepartment's 152 red cruisers and 333 motorcycles will be equipped with two-way radio sets, "the greatest forward step in war on crime in the city's recent history." according to Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

Mayor Wilson said tests had been conducted "for months" and that they were "very successful." The radio system will enable police to talk to headquarters, instead of the old one-way, headquarters-topatrol car method.
