When the tree was planted Monday some representatives of the Civic League were on hand to assist with the "planting" of the tree and received "instructions" from Chamber of Commerce manager Gene Abbott. Those present were Betty McGinness, Alta Dixon, Chamber manager Gene Abbott and Dene Baird. ### Cisco Chamber Of Commerce "Reason For Not Belonging"

"NOT INTERESTED"
You are interested in Cisco or you would not be engaged in business here. You, therefore, must be interested in the one organization that devotes its full time and energy in promoting commercial, industrial and civic progress which adds to the general prosperity of the entire area. Certainly you will not wish to ride free on the efforts of other men who are giving their time and money to develop the resources and opportunities of Cisco through the Cisco Chamber of Commerce. We encourage you to join the Chamber. A call to 442-2537 will do the trick. You do not have to be in business to participate in all activities of our Chamber. Individual membership is only $18.00 per year.

Lights From The Christian World
By Josephine Cleveland

Movement often takes less effort than stillness. But, He is saying to you now-Be still and know that I will reveal to you the very time for you to resume your activity. There is a time for everything. Now, my Child, in quietness and confidence you shall find strength. Trust me to lead you. Wait, I say, for my directions. They will come in due time.

Yes, He speaks to you in many ways. The One who is All-Wise is telling you to wait until the confusion and turmoil ceases within you. Only then will you be able to really know the direction you are to take.

His thoughts are higher than your thoughts and His ways are higher than your ways. Your Heavenly Father is arranging all for you as a kind, caring, earthly father is arranging the best for his own.

This moment determine the to trust the One who threw the stars in their place and flung the planets into orbit. As he brought harmony into every detail when He created the Universe; so He will bring harmony into your life.

He is speaking softly to you. Be still and wait! Now is He is stilling the clamor and confusion within you. Only then can you hear His clear, small Voice speaking and directing you. "I love you, my Child. I will work all things together for your good." Wait upon the Lord and soon you will know the direction you should take and you will rejoice!

Transportation For Medicaid Patients

Mr. E. W. Scott, Deputy Director, Central Texas Opportunities Inc., of Coleman, has announced that effective immediately Medicaid patients in Eastland County who desire transportation to and from doctors' and/or dentists' offices in Eastland County to meet regular appointments are to call the Checker Cab Co. in Eastland for transportation arrangements.

The telephone number in Eastland is 629-1312 and owners of the cab company have announced they will be available Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week and persons who desire transportation should call, if at all possible, one day prior to the date of their appointment with the doctor so that arrangements can be made to pick them up on their scheduled appointment date.

Emergencies not requiring emergency transportation will be handled as necessary.

Mr. Scott also announced that in addition to doctors' and dentists' offices these transportation arrangements are also available to Medicaid patients who have appointments with chiropractic doctors. Also, patients who have valid appointments with a doctor, dentist or chiropractor in Abilene, who have been referred to the Abilene doctor by their Eastland County doctor will be taken to their appointments in Abilene by the Checker Cab Co. at no charge to the patient.

Disaster Loan Deadline Extended

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Charles W. Stenholm announces that the Small Business Administration has extended the deadline for submitting applications under the Disaster Loan Program. April 5, 1979, is the new deadline for Physical Disaster Loan applications. Farmers and ranchers who suffered financial hardship due to drought losses on 1978 crops may now file by the April 5 deadline. July 6, 1979, has been set as the new deadline for Economic Disaster loans.

Congressman Stenholm has been working with the Administrator of the Small Business Administration on a daily basis in an effort to seek these extensions. Many farmers and ranchers in the area have faced difficulty in filing applications because of the fact that it has been impossible in many instances to harvest crops and obtain the necessary ASCS certification which must accompany an SBA application. The Congressman indicated his hope that this extension will prove helpful to individuals who have experienced losses and thereby qualify for this program.

YUK! OPEN WIDE - All is not glitter at Six Flags Over Texas as the theme park readies for its 1979 opening. At left, a worker finds out what happened to a stool that vanished last season. It's stuck in the goo of what is normally a serene canoe ride lake which is drained during the off-season for removal of debris... like stools. The big-mouthed character at right is actually the entryway to the Lost Temple of the Chisos where visitors seem to defy gravity as they make their slanted way through a simulated archeological dig.

During the publicity that was generated, he was informed by a local resident that similar treatment might be available as close as Galveston where the pressure program is being used. And so a major decision faced Richard: The Galveston treatment was more expensive, but the living costs would be less than Chicago. The problem was resolved when he talked to the Galveston hospital and learned that they were only doing treatment on two problems: a bone disease and certain blood poisoning problems; she his choice is still Chicago. Arrangements are still being made and his friends are hope that he'll be able to go soon -- and be helped. Persons interested in helping may still do so by forwarding their help to the Richard Robinson Fund in care of Eastland National Bank.

Solid vinyl. Vinyl is one of the toughest, most durable man-made products known today. It's been time-proven to retain its original appearance and to withstand the worst conditions. That's why it is used in so many industrial, commercial and consumer applications.

One of the greatest advantages of vinyl is that its components can be altered to best suit almost any application. Many products that were once made of metal are now being made of vinyl.

Congressional Comment

by Charles W. Stenholm

WASHINGTON, D.C.—On December 15, President Carter announced that he had decided to establish diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China and break our mutual defense treaty with Taiwan. In negotiations with the communists the United States did not get a guarantee from them that they would not seek the reunification of China by military force. Despite this fact the State Department has tried to convince the American people and our allies that this new policy will not endanger the security of Taiwan.

Certainly it is very difficult to analyze the current intentions of the Chinese government, but we can learn from history. In 1950, the then Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, made a speech before the National Press Club in Washington delineating the U.S. defense perimeter for Asia leaving out South Korea. Several weeks later South Korea was invaded by communist forces aided by China. In that same year the Chinese ruthlessly put down a revolt in Tibet. In 1954 the Reds invaded and captured several islands held by Taiwan. In 1958 the communists shelled the islands of Quemoy and Natsu, which were very close to Taiwan. They withdrew after the U.S. government threatened armed intervention. From 1959 to 1962 there were repeated border wars with India. During the Vietnam conflict the Chinese supplied North Vietnam with military supplies and some troops. Recently they have had repeated border disputes with the Soviet Union and have set out on an invasion of Vietnam. While trying to analyze the reasoning behind current Sino-American relations one question repeatedly comes to mind: How can we be so naive?

Certainly there are some well founded justifications for the recognition of China. Trade between our two countries would be of great benefit. China desires to buy agricultural products and high technological equipment. They have great quantities of oil to sell. Also, improved Sino-American relations could further enhance the split in the communist world. The Chinese have been facing heavy Soviet military pressure since the Sino-Soviet border clashes of 1969. By the 70's they viewed the Soviet Union as China's major adversary and saw the United States as a source of useful leverage against the Soviet "threat." Thus it is the Chinese that most desperately need improved relations, not the U.S.

Despite the positive reasons for the recognition of China, the long term repercussions of this policy could be disastrous. Our failure to get a guarantee that the communists will not invade Taiwan could endanger the security of this long standing friend. Also the credibility of the U.S. is damaged by our unilaterally withdrawing from the mutual defense treaty. How good are our promises if we do not honor our commitments? This perception could endanger our relationship with Western Europe, Israel, and other friendly nations. A former Congressman once said that American foreign policy seemed designed to make friends out of our enemies and enemies out of our friends. Clearly this is the case in our relations with communist China and Taiwan.

Lone Star Supports State Regulation

Lone Star Gas Co. has announced its support of pending legislation before the Texas House and Senate to eliminate dual regulation of gas utilities within the state. The bill was introduced in the Senate by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan (SB 243), and in the House by Rep. Jim Browder of Cold-spring (HB 1290). It would shift regulation of gas utility rates for residential-commercial customers from the three-member Texas Railroad Commission (TRC).

Lone Star President Carol Neaves said the company believes that streamlining the current regulatory process will reduce the rate case expenses which by law the customers ultimately pay for their monthly bills. Lone Star now serves 417 incorporated cities in Texas. Presently each of the 417 separate governments hears testimony on the utility's rate filings and in some cases hires private consultants to help in reaching a final decision. The hiring of experts also is a cost passed on to utility customers. By initially placing the jurisdiction for rate-making in the hands of the TRC an ected body with a trained staff of utility rate analysts, the rising costs and regulatory lag time associated with the present dual system of regulation would be reduced.

At the same time, it would strengthen consumer representation by bringing all issues to focus on one case rather than scores of separate cases.

This process also would reduce the current disparity of rates among the communities served by Lone Star. Systemwide rate-making by one regulatory body would permit uniform cost of service among all customers of a given class.

Quality of service already is under the control of the TRC. If a gas utility is not meeting standards, any city may request TRC action.

Local regulation has long been an issue which some elected officials see as a burden, both in terms of time and political pressure. State regulation would assure their continuing voice in rate-setting through the public hearing process while transferring to the TRC and its staff the timely and equitable setting of residential-commercial customer rates.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — After six weeks of complicated and exhausting deliberations over one of the most difficult tasks facing the 66th session of the Texas Legislature—implementation of the voter-mandated tax relief amendment—the 13 members of the committee voted unanimously to send their omnibus bill to the House floor for debate beginning next week.

The committee also sent along their recommendation that the bill be acted on favorably.

Everyone appeared to get what they were looking for. Urban interests got intangibles—stocks, bonds, and bank accounts—knocked off the tax rolls, and corporations managed to convince the committee that their land, as well as the land of family farmers, needed to be taxed on its productivity, not its market value.

Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange said giving corporate-owned land "agricultural use" write-offs might destroy the tax base of 11 Texas counties.

Since the revenues of local school districts will be effected by any legislation implementing the tax relief amendment, approval of the bill is central to the pending arguments over how Texas will finance its public schools.

The measure also exempts two automobiles or light trucks per family from the property tax rolls beginning in 1980. Homeowners will get a $5,000 exemption and the elderly (over 65) and the disabled will get an added $10,000 homestead exemption along with a "freeze" on their taxes.

Understandably, the measure also provides $420.7 million for reimbursing school districts for revenues that will be lost. Under the terms of the bill, a school district would be repaid "dollar-for-dollar" in 1979-80 for revenue lost but in 1980-81 a district would be penalized by 10-15 percent if its appraisal rates of property are below the state average.

Globetrotter

When Gov. Bill Clements said earlier this week that Texans "didn't elect me to keep quiet," he should have also added, "or sit still."

Clements has already hopped to Mexico, skipped to Washington (twice) and now says he plans a trip to Russia as the head of a delegation to study food production. The trip will come later this year, whenever the governor finds time on his cramped schedule.

Clements announced his Russia trip on the heels of rumors that he might be going to China. "That trip has always been on the back-burner," said one Clements' aide. But stories persisted.

And confirmed reports that Clements' world-wide oil drilling firm, SEDCO, was negotiating along with Hunt Oil Co. for exploration rights off the coast of China, didn't help cool the headlines. Clements, seemingly irritated with all the talk about a China trip and possible conflicts of interest, finally told reporters: "I'm not going to China. I never said I was. How does that grab you?" But reporters weren't the only ones howling at the governor this week. June L. Karp, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, accused the governor of having a "plantation mentality" when it came to teachers and other educators in the public school system.

The harsh criticism came after a microscopic examination by Karp and associates of the governor's budget proposals by the Legislative Budget Board for education. The governor's budget eliminates the 5.1 percent pay increase for teachers suggested by the LBB. Those salary hikes amount to $314 million. Clements got the rest of $548 million reduction by increasing local school districts share of the Foundation School Program by $189 million. The FSP provides basic educational needs such as salaries, maintenance and operations.

"We believe the governor's proposals are a slap in the face of our profession," Karp said, "and we wonder if the public education system of Texas is not being sacrificed."

The slap Karp refers to is of a political nature more than a calculated attempt on Clements part to undermine the educational system of the state. Teachers, for the most part, enthusiastically supported former Attorney General John Hill in his unsuccessful gubernatorial race against Clements.

Primary Question

What the 66th Legislature will do about a presidential primary bill becomes more interesting every day. The Senate State Affairs Committee approved by a narrow vote of 7-6 SB 602 by Sen. Jack Ogg of Houston that would split the presidential primary from regular party primaries. The bill was sent to the Senate floor for debate where, surprisingly, 13 senators have already gone on record saying they oppose the bill. At this point, those 13 senators have enough votes to keep the bill from ever being considered, but after the first 60 days of the session it takes only a two-thirds vote to bring up a bill. Now, it takes four-fifths. Numbers aside, two men who are used to getting their way support this bill. They are Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby (the presiding officer in the senate) and House Speaker Clayton.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

An old lady said to a stranger, "If you're going to give me a pitcher of milk, please don't skim it first."

What she meant was: If you are going to do someone a favor, do not spoil it by an ungracious word or deed.

Some people give, but they give grudgingly, not gladly; and they expect you to grovel at their feet.

Other people do you a favor, but they never let you forget it. They keep expecting you to pay it back with interest.

Some people want you to look up to them for help, but they look down on you when they do help you. But a person who looks up to God never looks down upon man.

Do not expect to enjoy life if you keep the milk of kindness all bottled up. And if you are going to give, do not skim it first.

Give with a heart glowing with graciousness. Give as the air gives its refreshing breezes, freely and fully. Give as the sun gives its light, beautifully and bountifully.

Select Peach Rootstock For "Insurance"

COLLEGE STATION--Successful home peach plantings begin with selecting the right rootstock. "The right rootstock is one that is resistant to root knot nematodes and compatible with the variety to be grown," points out Dr. Jerral Johnson, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This is just as important to the life of a peach tree as selecting the right insurance for your family needs. Root knot nematodes are a serious problem for homeowners raising either peaches or plums. Root knot nematodes are microscopic "worm like" animals that live in the soil. However, once they begin to feed on plant roots, plant tissue forms a gall or swelling around the nematode. This galls is clearly visible to the eye. Nematodes interfere with normal uptake of nutrients from the soil to plant foliage which is essential to the continued health and development of the tree, explains Johnson. "Texas homeowners should insist on a nematode-resistant peach rootstock such as Nemaguard for their home orchard, emphasizes the plant pathologist. "Such a rootstock can be grown in an area infested with root knot nematodes, yet remains free from infestation." Nemaguard gives excellent resistance to nematodes, says Johnson. Most Texas nurseries are currently budding their trees on Nemaguard rootstock, thus making them available to homeowners throughout Texas. Recent rulings by the Environmental Protection Agency have severely limited the use of chemicals previously recommended to control nematodes on peaches. Therefore, homeowners must depend on plant resistance for nematode control. The alternative to using a nematode resistant rootstock such as Nemaguard would be to use a susceptible rootstock such as Elberta. When placed in nematode infested soils, it will soon become stunted and in many cases will die in two or three years. "Most peach varieties are now available on Nemaguard rootstock, and this should be a major consideration for homeowners selecting trees," contends Johnson.

Circus Costumes Beautiful But Complicated

A dazzling array of colors, textures, beads, spangles, sequins, and plumes adorn the 400 costumes used by the company of the great Carson & Barnes Five-Ring Wild Animal Circus which comes to Eastland County for performances at 5 and 8 p.m. on March 27, Tuesday, under sponsorship of Eastland Jaycees. Carson & Barnes is the only tent show maintaining the tradition of a giant production number featuring all of the animals and personnel of the circus, this year saluting our neighbors to the south and entitled "The Glory of Old Mexico." Ten ladies of the circus wardrobe department spent all winter, including many weekends, completing the gorgeous costumes and animal robes which are used in the glittering spectacle, as well as in other circus displays. Mrs. Isla Miller, wife of the circus owner, and their daughter, Barbara Byrd, designed each creation, then turned over production to the seamstresses. Mrs. Miller and Barbara step in occasionally to handle delicate-looking metallic gold cloth or brilliant ostrich feather boas and head-dresses which require years of experience for proper managing. The measurements of the performers had been secured in advance in most cases, so that tailoring and sewing could proceed immediately. The procedure is the same in each case. A pattern derived from the original sketch is draped and cut in muslin, then laid flat and traced onto paper. A special electric sewing needle is used to perforate holes through the paper, then a chemical solution is worked across, leaving dots on the fabric for the cutters to follow. The colorful embroidery designs are first done in pencil on tracing paper, then transferred to the fabric using magic markers. Each area is color-coded so the embroiderers and beadworkers will know just what goes where -- like painting with numbers. "It takes quality fabrics and sewing, because the costumes must stand up to more than eight months of extraordinary use," says Mrs. Miller. "They all have to be durable and allow for complete flexibility of body movement while withstanding all the packing and unpacking that goes on. "Actually, animals are easier to dress than people. The only problem is that camels love to chew the tassels on their blankets, and elephants have an inquiring mind which leads them to tug at their covers with their trunks. "Adjustments and repairs must be made during the circus tours. People and animals both grow and shrink, and there is occasional tailoring required because of personnel changes. Once the show hits the road, Mrs. Miller leaves the chores to a wardrobe mistress. The owner's wife has other duties to perform in the office, ticket wagon, or wherever needed, including baby-sitting with her two young granddaughters who still think the whole circus was created just for their personal entertainment.

When The Time Comes-

...to sign the deed, both buyer and seller are usually in a hurry. But alas! it is then that the buyer demands an abstract and the seller discovers that he has lost his abstract or never had one. As all title work must be carefully done in these modern days, it takes time and much work. To avoid situations such as these, let us suggest that you place your abstract or title insurance orders well in advance of an anticipated need.

UP ON WEST 6th Street, the Brown Chiropractic Clinic is undergoing a very substantial remodeling program these days. Dr. Chief Brown reports that they'll work over several offices along with the waiting room and remodel elsewhere. Rudolph Schaefer is in charge of the project.

Dr. Brown told us that he flew his airplane out to San Angelo recently and had to make a belly landing when the landing gear wouldn't lock in the down position. Fortunately, nobody was hurt and damage to the airplane wasn't too extensive.

WE BELIEVE that the community ought to know (if they don't already) that volunteer firemen are very interested in their equipment and its ability for use. For example, Fire Chief C.W. Guthrie and Volunteer Fireman Clint Eaton spent all afternoon Monday working on the rural fire truck. They, as well as others, have been helping David Gill and Bill Webb, paid firemen, with the truck problem.

The 1954 model GMC truck was taken to Albany last year to help out in the flood relief work. And the truck was trapped and inundated by water. The starter and voltage regulator haven't worked since, and finding replacement parts for a 1954 model truck isn't easy. Volunteers and regular firemen have put in something like 160 hours without compensation in efforts to get the old truck ready for work. THEY GOT THE tree planted Monday in front of the Chamber of Commerce. It was provided by the Civic League and a committee composed of Mrs. Allen McGinness, Mrs. Ed Beard and Mrs. Aita Dixon was on hand with shovels.

After they got the tree in place, a couple of spectators tried to get City Manager John Boland to tell them they'd have to move the tree as it didn't comply with city ordinances. But he didn't have the heart.

It's a pretty live oak and maybe it will be the forerunner for more.

MR. The book was printed by the Cisco American, a daily newspaper here at the time. It contains 84 pages of recipes for everything from appetizers to vegetables with weights and measures thrown in.

Many of the recipes were signed by names that old-timers will recognize, including Mrs. P.W. Campbell, Mrs. E.P. Crawford, Mrs. C.H. Fee, Mrs. G.N. Irvine, Mrs. R.F. Weddington, Mrs. G.E. # Proposed Sanitation Truck In Worse Shape

City manager John Boland reported to the Cisco city council at Tuesday night's regular meeting, that two representatives of the city went to Plainview last Friday to look at a sanitation truck the city was considering buying. They reported it was in worse condition than the one the city now owns.

Virgil Jones, city mechanic, and Frank Young, city field supervisor, both stated the truck was not worth buying. They said the truck was in bad mechanical shape and the packer would not operate properly.

Council member Ward Co., Garner's Department Store, J.P. Webster & Sons, Rockwell Bros. & Co., Gude and Norvell, Red Front Drug Store, Dean Drug Commercial State Bank, Cisco Banking Co., City Drug, Crawford Insurance, First Guaranty State Bank and others. The Old building across the Mobley Hotel was occupied by the Studebaker dealer at the time.

stated he thinks both men were correct in their actions. He said he appreciates what they did and feels they saved the city and themselves a lot of headaches by not purchasing such a truck.

City manager Boland said one recommendation is for Mr. Jones to work on the engine and steering problems of the present truck, and have the city to look at purchasing a new packer for that truck. Mr. Young said he thinks the present truck could be fixed enough to last another three or four years, if it had a new packer. Council member Louise Allison asked for the city manager to get some actual costs on different types of packers and chassis, then go from there.

In his February report, city manager Boland informed the council that plans for the repaving of Front Street should be ready by the March 27 meeting of the council. Other matters discussed included the following: the city should receive 200 water meters for the replacing of dead meters and those not functioning properly, with the replacing of meters being mainly in the spring and summer; city crews are continuing to work on streets and have recently concentrated on 12th street, 11th street and Avenue I, Randolph and Bullard streets as well as a drainage problem on 13th street near Avenue D; the sewer plant centrifugal blower blew a gasket; certification school for police officers began Tuesday and will continue for six weeks; 85-45 per cent of the year's city taxes have been collected to date; and the fire department received 21 calls in February (13 grass fires, 4 false alarms, 2 car fires and 2 house fires).

SPECIAL NOTICES

UNDERGOES SURGERY
Cindy Stovall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stovall, underwent surgery last Friday in Eastland Memorial Hospital. She is reported to be doing well. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pippen of Cisco.

Lake Extension Homemakers Club Hold 1st Meeting

The Lake Cisco Extension Homemakers Club met for their first meeting March 5, at the Federated Club House. Mary Stevens opened the meeting and Opal White lead the opening exercise.

Mrs. Birt and Mrs. Judia gave the program on "Whats new in Fabric and fashions," with emphasis on shoes and hats.

Plans were discussed about a 4-H program. There will be a TEHA district meeting in Temple on March 20, and the council fund day.

Each lady answered roll call with a mistake I will never make again.

Mrs. Patty Merile was a visitor and the recreation period was lead by Mrs. Judia.
