Precautions Save Lives Of Holiday Travelers

Two simple precautions that save lives on crowded Texas highways every holiday season are driver sobriety and use of seat belts.

"Many people who died last year might be alive today if they had buckled up or had driven sober," Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Commissioner of Health, said today. "It just makes sense to use your seat belts and to drive without drinking," he added.

Statistics from the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) show that in 1988, 73.6 percent of the 3,395 persons killed in traffic mishaps in Texas were not wearing safety belts.

The combination of bad weather, drinking drivers and weary travelers driving too fast makes Texas roadways especially hazardous during this time of year. Last year, according to DPS, 42 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the 78-hour Christmas period and another 38 died during the 78-hour New Year's period.

Safety belts hold passengers in place, preventing a second "human collision," in which unbelted passengers hit the windshield, dash, door or are thrown from the vehicle. Young children, who are especially vulnerable to being injured or killed in a traffic accident, should ride protected in child passenger safety seats.

Texas law requires children younger than 2 to ride in a safety seat. Youngsters from age 2 to 4 are required to ride either in a safety seat or secured by a safety belt. All front-seat passengers, regardless of age, are required by state law to ride buckled up.

more than 5,000 flavors in foods. Different foods contain a different number of these components. For example, coffee contains more than 700 different flavor compounds.

Flavor compounds in foods may occur in as small amounts as one part per trillion—about equal to one second in 32,000 years. However, flavors are usually present in foods from one to one hundred parts per billion. (One part per billion is about one second in 32 years.)

"Natural" flavors are either naturally occurring or generated from food components. "Artificial" or "synthetic" flavors are derived from non-food substances or other naturally occurring substances and then added to foods. Natural food flavors are labeled "artificial" if added to foods in which they are not normally found.

Flavors that are made of up to two or more ingredients may be listed on food labels by name or within this general listing: "all flavor ingredients contained in this product are approved for use in a regulation of the Food and Drug Administration."

- Flavor is composed of three characteristics:
1. Taste — includes sweet, salt, sour and bitter.
  2. Smell — thousands of aromas or odors that are detected by specialized cells in the nose.
  3. Pungency — cold and hot sensations.

City of Cisco Crews Repairing Water Leaks Caused By Bitter Cold Spell

The fire department also answered three fire calls and a house fire in Rising Star, Truett Horton, fireman, reported. Local utilities, Lone Star Gas and West Texas Utilities, were able to sustain service to customers with no interruptions. This was possible, they said, because of the holidays. Schools, factories and most businesses were closed and used less utilities.

With the temperature dropping to a reported -10 degrees, several houses suffered frozen water lines which were expected to keep local plumbers busy for several days.

Looking At Panama

By Richard Kurklin
The "rank and file" of the Panamanian people have indicated that they are for democratic government and that they are in favor of the United States' action to remove General Manuel Noriega from power in Panama, says Dr. Charles Barnes of Rising Star, who lived in Panama for three years as an employee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Barnes lived in an apartment on the seventh floor of a 14 story building between the Panama Defense Forces headquarters (Noriega's headquarters) and the hotel where some American hostages were reportedly held. Dr. Barnes said that both buildings, as well as the airport used by the armed forces of Panama, could be seen from the windows of the apartment. Recently much of the fighting between United States troops and Noriega's troops took place in that area.

Dr. Barnes, who had met Noriega while in Panama, said that he was disappointed that our newspeople took so much time before film shots and news from Panama were released in news broadcasts. It seems that the news we get is always at least a day old, he lamented.

Friends and former co-workers of Dr. Barnes are presently living in Panama, but his efforts to reach them by telephone last week proved fruitless. The lines were probably either jammed or out of commission.

Political and military disturbances in Panama are not unusual, points out Dr. Barnes, who saw the leadership of the government change 3 or 4 times during the 3 years he was there. Elected Presidents are usually rather weak and the chief officer in the army is very powerful. In fact, the Presidents rarely stay in office long enough to have any meaningful influence on the country, stated Barnes.

The people of Panama showed their support for the United States forces by beating on pots and pans to make noise when the troops advanced past them, pointed out Dr. Barnes. This is a tradition.

There is almost no manufacturing in Panama, the principal industry is banking, said Barnes, and there are about 140 banks in Panama City. The finance and trade restrictions levied by the United States have financially crippled the country, and many members of the government, army and police have not been paid in the last year. Noriega has forced them to remain on the job while obtaining food and money to live on in other ways, says Barnes.

Once the forces loyal to Noriega are subdued, taxes from the people and payments from the United States will be paid to Guillermo Endara's popularly elected government. With money to pay the police, Endara will probably receive their loyalty soon, Barnes speculates.

Having lived in the various countries of Central America, Dr. Barnes is also familiar with the situation in El Salvador. Two groups oppose the government there and it makes a very dangerous situation, Barnes continues. The government is committed to land reform and is forcing the more "well to do" land owners to sell off their land to poor people or the government. This creates a lot of opposition from the country's most influential people. The communists are taking advantage of the "split" in the country and are using terrorism to make matters worse in hopes that they can topple the government.

While there are always a few radicals, the vast majority of the people of Central America seem to be friendly toward the United States and look to this country for leadership and help.

Connally Conference Center Dedicated At Texas Institute of Texas Cultures

The recently-completed conference center at The University of Texas Institute of Texas Cultures at San Antonio was named for former Texas Governor John B. Connally and his wife, Nellie B. Connally, during a dedication ceremony on December 9, 1989.

John Connally was instrumental in the creation of the Institute as the Texas Pavilion during HemisFair '68, and served as commissioner general of the World's Fair.

The naming of this Conference Center recognizes that The University of Texas Institute of Texas Cultures at San Antonio owes its existence to the personal vision, effort and understanding of former governor John B. Connally and the enthusiastic ongoing support of Nellie B. Connally as the state's "First Lady," the UT System Board of Regents said in approving the dedication.

John R. McGiffert, executive director of the Institute, said "We are proud to commemorate the Connallys' many outstanding contributions to Texas and to the Institute. From a functional standpoint, the Conference Center provides the Institute, the University and the city of San Antonio with improved classroom space and new facilities to host high-level meetings, conferences and seminars with state-of-the-art audiovisual capabilities."

The reception for the Connallys was held on the Institute's exhibit floor, and featured music from variety of Texas' ethnic and cultural groups. There was a brief program highlighting the history of the Institute and the Connallys' involvement, the official dedication of the Conference Center, the announcement that the Connallys had been named Members Emeritus of the Institute's Development Board, and their acceptance remarks. Guest were then invited to visit the Connally Conference Center.

Since its inception as the Texas Pavilion at HemisFair '68 the Institute, now aligned with The University of Texas at San Antonio, has grown into a statewide research, education and communication center focusing on the history and diverse cultures of Texans.

A Thought For The Day.....

To each and every one of you, we at the Cisco Funeral Home wish you a happier, healthier and more prosperous New Year. As we begin the New Year, let us all start with a Positive, Mental Attitude (P.M.A.) It is always easier to downgrade or negatively criticize someone or some project. So instead, let each of us try P.M.A. for the coming year.

Begin by believing in yourself...if you first accept and like yourself, you can then accept and like others. By having confidence in your own abilities, whether as a father, mother, daughter, son, businessman or woman, etc., you will very likely succeed. A happy successful individual is one who is apt to have trust and faith in others and inspires them to have faith in themselves and to likewise succeed in their endeavors.

Believe in yourself, your family and your friends. Look for the good in all these and do something for each of them each day. This is what life is all about! This is P.M.A.

Dr. George Brazell Speaks At Mountain Top

By Ruth Schaefer Stewart
Dr. George Brazell, author and humorist, was the guest speaker at the Mountain Top Church banquet on December 22, 1989.

Several of his former students remembered some of his teachings at Cisco Junior College. Since retiring from teaching, he speaks at special occasions in several states during the year.

His topic at the Mountain Top banquet included three points to set goals, be happy, and stay healthy. He gave examples of these ideas as illustrated by his 92 year old father-in-law, who is still very actively enjoying life.

Dr. Brazell gave away two of his humorous speaking albums. One was given to the man that had the best cook and the other was given to the woman with the best looking husband. As determined by a quick show of hands, the first prize was won by Doyle and Charlotte Rascoe and the second was by Betty and Joe Lee Petree.

The annual Christmas gift was presented to Pastor John C. Jones and his wife Betty by Rhonda Pipkin and the Special Occasions Committee on behalf of the church.

Unique Christmas decorations were created by Donnie Petree and Donna Fields. The delicious meal was catered by Oscar's Barbecue.

Safe Driving Tips from Rhonda

Too often, people have what they consider a 'good time' consuming alcohol and then get behind the wheel of an automobile—only to be involved in a terrible tragedy! Not long ago, a man in Kentucky went out to have a good time. Before the night was over, his car had hit a school bus head-on. Twenty-eight children burned to death inside the bus because the man thought he could drink and still drive. Think about yourself and your loved ones before you make the foolish decision to drink and drive. Care enough about life and living. Drive sober!

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Breast Cancer Detection Unit To Be In Eastland

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's & Children's Hospital in Odessa, Texas 'the death rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists.' By using modern state of the art x-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt. A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has 90%-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast cancer detection unit will be made available to local women. On Tuesday, January 2nd, the Mobile Unit will be parked at Eastland Memorial Hospital, 304 South Daughtery, Eastland. Appointments may be made by calling 629-2601. For more information you may call the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's &

Children's Hospital at (915)334-8888/561-9999.

New Pesticide Regs Published; Comment Period Opens

Rules to implement new provisions of the Texas Pesticide Law and to place additional restrictions on sales of five pesticides were published in the Texas Register, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has announced.

Publication of these rules marks the start of an important 30-day period for public comment. We are holding hearings around the state in an effort to make sure that these rules are clear and are understood by everyone who must use them," Hightower said.

Five regional hearings are scheduled in mid-December in El Campo, Lubbock, San Juan, Dallas and Austin. Times and locations are listed below.

"The 1989 Legislature made several significant changes in the way pesticide use in Texas is governed. The rules are the step-by-step procedures for carrying out the intent of the Legislature," Hightower said.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is also proposing to remove five pesticide from the over-the-counter market. Each of the five pesticides has caused a number of complaints over the past few years. "Our main concern is the relatively long duration of the effects of these pesticides," Hightower said. "We recognize a need for their use in certain situations, but we think they should only be used by persons who are trained in correct, safe application methods. Among those proposed for restriction is hexazinone, the active ingredient in the herbicide used to poison Austin's historic Treaty Oak." The proposal by TDA would limit the use of the five pesticides to persons holding applicator licenses. "These pesticides have a track record of misuse," Hightower said. "A careful study of the files shows that most of the problems are caused when they are used by persons untrained in proper application methods. We want to keep them out of the hands of people who don't know what they are doing."

The pesticides proposed for restriction in addition to hexazinone are triclopyr, bromacil, prometon and diuron.

The proposed regulations also call for significant changes in licensing requirements for private pesticide applicators. Private applicators are persons who use restricted pesticides on their own property in conjunction with production of agricultural commodities.

The old Texas pesticide laws allowed private applicators to be certified for life, with no continuing education requirements. However, the 1989 Legislature made several changes in the private applicator laws. In addition to spelling out proposed requirements for continuing education for private applicators, the rules would also allow the Texas Department of Agriculture to revoke licenses for persons no longer actively involved in agricultural production. The rules also detail new recertification requirements for private applicators.

Private applicators holding certificates dated prior to January 10, 1989, do not have to apply for new licenses at this time. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency may impose additional requirements on these private applicators in the future, but for now, those holding the old certificates may continue to buy and use restricted pesticides.

Other highlights of the proposed rules include:

• A clarification that complaints about possible pesticide misuse may be made orally as well as in writing.

• A guarantee that in most instances, complaints about pesticide misuse may be made anonymously.

• An expansion of current provisions for prior notification of aerial application of pesticides to include airblast and mistblowing equipment.

Hearings are scheduled: • At 10 a.m., December 18 in room 118 of the Stephen F. Austin Building, 1700 N. Congress Ave., Austin.

• At 9 a.m. December 20, in the Duson Room of the El Campo Civic Center, 2350 N. Mechanic, El Campo.

• At 20 a.m. December 20 in the TDA Lubbock District Office, 4502 Englewood Ave., Lubbock.

• At 10 a.m. December 20, in the TDA San Juan District Office, Expressway 83, two blocks west of Morningside Road, San Juan; and

• At 10 a.m. December 20, in the TDA Dallas District Office, 1801 N. Lamar, Suite 103, Dallas.

Copies of the proposed rule are available for inspection in

Bullock Report

State Comptroller Bob Bullock says that shoppers in Carbon will begin paying 1 percent in city sales tax on January 1st.

"Voters in Carbon approved the city sales tax last August and we're ready to make the start up as smooth as possible," Bullock said.

The tax increase in Carbon brings the total sales tax rate to 7 percent for area shoppers. The city tax is added to the six percent state sales tax.

Bullock said that all area taxpayers with an active tax permit were sent a notice from the Comptroller's office on December 6 explaining the rate change.

Merchants collect the state and local sales taxes and send them to the Comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its 6 percent share and sends local governments their portion of the sales tax each month.

The money generated by this tax increase may be used for any legal city spending although most cities put the money in the General Fund and use it for general operations like fire fighting, maintaining roads and providing police protection.

tions like fire fighting, maintaining roads and providing police protection.

Cities first imposed local sales tax in 1968. In that year, 280 cities collected just over $48 million.

Today, there are 1,053 cities that impose local sales taxes and in 1989 sales tax rebates to Texas cities passed a record $1 billion.

"Local sales taxes are a vital source of revenue for local areas," Bullock said. Taxpayers who would like a new rate card or who have questions about the tax increase may call the Comptroller's office 1-800-252-5555 or may write Bob Bullock, State Comptroller of Public Accounts, Tax Assistance Division, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78744.

Russian Impressions:
Leningrad

Come to find out, when the train pulled into Leningrad, not many of the 20 in our group had slept well, so we were a pretty "unappreciative" bunch on the morning sight seeing tour, after having been checked into the Leningrad Hotel and a hasty breakfast. Here we found cooler weather, and some showers. It didn't behoove tourists to get off the bus to make photos of each and every monument.

Guide Lidia is still with us, and we pick up local guide Emma who does a magnificent job of detailing the glorious history of the city, originally known as St. Petersburg; later changed to Petrograd (to get away from the German "burg") and later renamed to honor Lenin, the man held high by the Russians.

It was a free afternoon, with an evening at the ballet coming up, so Gay Nell and several of the women tried the Russian beauty operators. ("Not bad," but not like at home). Some of the men got 50¢ hair cuts, but after seeing their cuts, which were indeed, 50-centers, we brought our long licks back home, even to being jeered in some quarters here for "going hippy."

Ballet, as much or more universal in language as music, was a real treat. As stated, the Bolshoi was out of the country, so the company, Kerov we saw in Leningrad is considered second best. The concert hall far surpassed Tchaikovsky Hall in Moscow. In fact the sorcerer here produces dancers for both. Program for the evening was "Bayaderka," which loosely translated could be the "Sorcerers," he has to do with an Indian legend in which a prince is denied marriage to his pauper girl friend, even in spite of the sorcerer's help. It could of course be construed as propaganda, if you choose. After all, so much had been heaped on our heads, a little more wasn't going to hurt. It just ran off like water. The music is good; by Minsk; and the staging, costuming, and the house itself are a thrill. We photographed much (no restrictions), and a friend recorded the music, so we're going to exchange tapes and films. The native Russian loves the ballet and they excel in the art.

Coming out late we discovered something strange: it was still daylight, at say, 11 or 12 midnight. What gives? we asked, and the guides explained "White nights," wherein there are but 2 hours of darkness this time of year. A month earlier it had been light all night. Leningrad is further north than Anchorage, Alaska. Many people were out and active.

The next morning brought a quick tour of the museum. The Hermitage, which is made up of the 1,057 room Winter Palace, and adjoining buildings, facing the river on one side, and Revolution Square on the other. It is a treat with 300,000,000 relics (guides quote) from the Russian past, dating to Peter the Great, Catherine the Great, Ivan the Terrible, etc. etc. and I'd hate to have to take a test on that history. There was so much dealing and double-dealing among the rulers. The museum is one gold-leafed, satined, crystallized, precious stoned, room after another. Robes, crowns, carriages, thrones and palatial extravaganzas extraordinary.

One is given, and can imagine, the reason for the revolution, and you can see to the Russian attitude toward the church, when you realize that it too, was intertwined in corruption with the Czars and Cyarrinas. Such extravaganzas you've never seen. Art seen here included some by Leonardo De Vinci, Michelangelo, Rembrandt, Picasso, etc.

I believe it was here that Lidia paid Gay Nell and me, what we later decided, is the supreme Soviet compliment. At one of our bus loadings when other members of our group were tardy, she told us, "You're to be complimented. You're well disciplined."

In the afternoon we went by hydrofoil into the Bay of Finland to the Summer Palace of the Czars, the Petrovets. These sophisticated boats ride on a curtain of air, and holding some 100 passengers, are as smooth as silk, with only the aft part touching the water. We learn that they are built in several models and sold around the world, including the U. S. (There's even a small four-seat model).

The Summer place, like much of Russia, was virtually destroyed during the war and is still under reconstruction. We walked its grounds, photographed its elaborate fountains, and inspected the small cottage that Peter the Great, who succeeded in westernizing Russia, built himself. The Germans occupied the main palace and sacked the treasures. We were bussed back to the hotel and passed many apartment buildings.

The evening program was a visit to a fine Russian restaurant for a feast and ultratypical musical entertainment: consisting primarily of stringed instruments including the balilikia, three string guitars, models of which our people bought at $7 each in the shops. On top of the caviar, vodka, champagne, wine, offerings included fancy crepes which looked a lot like pancakes to us, onto which they put sour cream and some sweets.

A trip to St. Isaac's Cathedral proved interesting. Naturally it's a museum, and the most ornate former house of worship you can imagine. When in use, 14,000 could stand (the Russian Orthodox manner for worship) in it. Rich tapestries, the famous Russian icons (religious figures painted on wood), and of course a goodly number of tombs. The church was heavily damaged during the war and is being repaired. It's a favorite visiting place for locals and tourists. There's a lot of gold leaf to be seen.

Last tourist call in Leningrad was the Peter and Paul fortress, an island compound in the river where political prisoners were held prior to the revolution of 1917. Tombs of practically all the Czars and their families are seen in the Cathedral of 1700's here.

The prison is of course, a dreary place, and the small cells are marked to this day by flowers placed in honor of Russia's first freedom fighters. Out from the tyranny of the czars and into that of Soviet. Will history repeat itself?

Leningrad, like Moscow, is metropolitan; heavily industrialized, and as you might guess, polluted. It was interesting to note that guides were careful to point out that much is being done to improve the environments, and it sounded almost like a recording made in the states, when they began to say, "The trees are lungs of the city, and we're adding more green spaces for the enjoyment of our people, and to improve the quality of the air."

Leningrad has 19 active churches. Sixteen Orthodox, one Baptist, one Moslem, and one Synagogue, we were told. Our Hotel Leningrad over looked the Neva River. And believe it or not, we didn't have to buy one bottle of water! The water was safe everywhere we stayed, but tasted and smelled fishy in Leningrad.

Waco Conference Features Health Issues For Women

A special session focusing on health issues for women in the 90s is scheduled as part of the 28th Annual Blackland Income Growth (B.I.G.) Conference. Based on the theme "Public Opinion and Farm Policy," the two-day conference at the Waco Convention Center begins on January 15.

The volatile topic of food safety highlights the Monday program with a panel of experts discussing the issues of food additives, growth hormones, and microbial agents and how they affect our food supply. According to Conference Chairman Judy Edwards, these sessions should be especially useful to health care professionals and educators in the health care field. Women are expected to continue assuming responsibility for their family's physical well-being in the coming decade," said Edwards. The sessions, Dr. Peter Smith, director of the wellness program at UT Health Science Center, will present the latest research on diet, heart disease and cholesterol. Also included in the day's events will be a "Heart Healthy Luncheon," featuring Marylea Henderson speaking on an integrated approach to wellness.

Concurrent with the Monday session on Health Issues for Women, will be the Texas Vegetable Seminar, and the Texas Agricultural Forum with the B.I.G. Conference beginning on Tuesday morning, January 16. The Mid-Tex Farm and Ranch Show

Savings Bonds Semiannual Rate Set At 6.98 Percent

The semiannual market-based interest rate for United States Savings Bonds, in effect from November 1, 1989, through April 30, 1990, has been set at 6.98 percent, the Treasury Department has announced. Jerrold B. Speers, Executive Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division, said that the new rate "reflects market activity during the past six months, and keeps Savings Bonds in the mainstream of financial products for the coming semiannual rate period."

Savings Bonds semiannual rates are changed each May 1 and November 1 to reflect market activity during the preceding six months. The new rate is 85 percent of the average market yield on five-year Treasury marketable securities between May 1 and Oct. 1, 1989, 8.21 percent.

Yields at redemption are the average of semiannual market based rates during the time held, compounded semiannually or a minimum rate, whichever is greater. The current minimum rate is six percent. EE Bonds held less than five years earn interest on a fixed, graduated scale.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN-While the price of natural gas rose with the cold front, so did the tempers of many Texas state district judges, one of whom accused the attorney general of selling them down the river.

Capitol halls and state agencies slowed for the holidays, but the judges were locked in battle against a federal judge, Attorney General Jim Mattox and minority interest groups.

At issue is how Texas will restructure elections of state district judges to give minority candidates a better shot at winning.

Mattox met with Hispanic leaders and endorsed a plan to hold single-member elections by legislative districts in some counties.

They say an appointment plan pushed by the governor is a device to take away the voters' rights to elect minority judges.

The plan would force incumbent judges, elected at-large last time, to select a district in which to run, whether or not they reside there.

The judges fear it will cause a political party grab bag fiasco in most elections.

Judges Fight Back

Several judges met shortly before Christmas to decide how to respond.

One contingency was a lawsuit by State District Judge Ted Poe to restrain Mattox, as the state's lawyer, from signing anything on their behalf.

Another was a resolution condemning Mattox, who they say intervened uninvited to represent them, for settling the issue without even consulting his clients.

Ethics, Rights Votes

Legally, Mattox is violating state bar ethics, they say, and his settlement will leave them with no basis for legal appeal.

Politically, he is a candidate who has traded their legal rights for black and Hispanic votes.

Poe didn't shirk from ripping Mattox, a candidate for governor, for selling them out for his political gain.

"Mattox is the only lawyer I know who handles cases in the interest of himself and not his clients. He doesn't represent me," Poe said.

"If I were in a courtroom right now and had to choose between being represented by Jim Mattox or Duffy Duck, I'd favor retaining Mr. Duck," Poe said.

"He sold us down the river," echoed Judge Bill Harmon.

Campaign Spending

Campaign insiders and outsiders predict Clayton Williams, Republican candidate for governor, is on the way to a primary spending record.

They predict he will have between $3 million and $4 million by mid-January, most of it his own money.

At this same point in the 1986 race, Mark White and others had spent only $2 million each.

In contrast, GOP challengers Kent Hance, Tom Luce and Democrat front-runner Ann Richards will probably have spent only one million. Mattox will have stockpiled about $4 million, but has spent relatively little.

Brown Eyes Showdown

State Sen. Buster Brown, R-Lake Jackson, is headed for a showdown in the Texas Supreme Court after the 1st Court of Appeals in Houston ruled him ineligible to run for attorney general because last session he voted to increase retirement benefits for that office.

Brown, who was knocked off the 1986 ballot on this issue, has deliberately set himself to be a test case.

Campaign Happenings

The GOP state party chairman returned the filing fee of Houston entrepreneur Tommy Fatjo, saying recent revelations of a business failure weakens his candidacy for comptroller.

Instead, the party will likely back Mike Toomey, Gov. Bill Clements' chief of staff.

Former U.S. Ambassador Bob Krueger named a campaign treasurer and said he will formally announce next week for the Texas Railroad Commission seat being vacated by Hance.

Wes Gilbreath, Houston businessman running for Texas Land Commissioner, blasted incumbent Garry Mauro for "conflicts of interest, sweetheart leases, one-bid contracts and outlandish travel expenses."

Gilbreath finished first in the GOP primary for U.S. Senate, but lost the run-off election.

Other Highlights

State Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, launched a campaign to capture the congressional seat of retiring U.S. Rep. Marvin Leath of Waco.

Former state Rep. Anthony Hall, the Houston city councilman who lost a congressional bid to state Sen. Craig Washington, was named chief of Houston's mass transit agency.

Gov. Clements appointed the first Republican state district judge in Travis County history. Austin lawyer Will Wilson Jr. succeeds Harley Clark, who vacated the bench earlier this year.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower announced for reelection, saying his third term would be his last.

Delayed Retirement Credits Increase

Beginning in 1990, a change in Social Security regulations will make it more attractive for people over 65 to delay retiring, Glyn Hammons, Social Security manager in Abilene, said today.

Credits which are given for each month that a person over 65 delays retirement, increase to 7-24 of 1 percent per month, or 3.5 percent per year in 2008.

These percentage increases, known as delayed retirement credits, are applied to a person's 65 benefit rate. For a person who continues to work several more years after turning 65, the increase can be substantial, Hammons said.

Increasing the rates of the delayed retirement credits is a result of 1983 Social Security amendments designed to encourage seniors to stay in workforce.

Even though they plan to continue working, people should be sure to sign up for Medicare just before turning 65, Hammons cautioned.

If a person is eligible for a benefit increase because of delayed retirement credits, it will be automatically calculated on his or her record after processing of the annual work report, Hammons said.

For information about Social Security benefits, call Social Security at 1-800-234-5772. The Abilene office is located at 142 S. Pioneer. The office is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

GUEST SLOT

Goodbye Leningrad and hello to Aeroflot again for a two hour flight to Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, and oldest city in the U.S.S.R., founded 1400 years ago. Kiev is green and lovely, high above the cliffs of the old, romantic Kniphr River.

This is the farmland: the bread basket of all Russia. The Ukrainians speak their own language and live much their own lives. One guide here told us, "We have all we need but cotton." The obvious answer: "Break away and we know where you can get cotton".

Kiev, perhaps because it's Ukrainian and not Russian, has a freshness of environment we didn't notice in Moscow or Leningrad. We arrived at a new modern airport, like the one we left in Leningrad but here we saw many more new, clean apartment buildings (some even with window boxes and flowers) than in Russia.

The city was almost wiped out during World War II, so obviously it would for the most part be newer—but this is not all that explains the chance we noticed and felt.

We've read that some of the Ukrainians would like their independence from the Soviet Union. Our local guide, Luda, told us that the Ukraine is the only state in the Soviet Union with the right to succeed, but she indicated that they would not and we felt we knew why. The Ukrainian people do not want another war! They lost one out of every four people in World War II, the same as the people of Minsk in Bello-Russia.

We were told how the Slavic people of the Ukraine worshipped pagan gods until 988 when Christianity was introduced. The Russian Orthodox religion was brought in during the Revolution. Even now, Protestant churches far outnumber others, but few people attend the existing churches, as elsewhere in the Soviet Union, since atheism through Communism is prevalent now.

WHY ARE WE SELLING WHEAT TO RUSSIA WHEN THE UKRAINE PRODUCED

16,000,000 TONS OF GRAIN LAST YEAR? Many speculated that Russia sells ours to other countries at a greatly increased price. Winter wheat in the Ukraine gives higher yields although they grow it year round. State and collective farming was explained to us and how the farmers receive fixed salaries with bonuses for reaching a "target" in production.

Among the youngest on the trip, we, as luck would have it, invariably, were assigned to the deluxe suites almost every where, and the Kniphr Hotel was no exception. Here our three-room suite overlooked a beautiful square with a terrific view. Our friends dubbed us the "Honeymooners". It was here that we drew our nearest "western" meal in the Soviet Union. Late in the hotel, we went down for broiled, not boiled this time, steak, a baked potato, and what you believe, giant strawberries for dessert. We were already wishing that we could have traded one of our already spent days in Russia for an extra day in Kiev. It was in the serenity of Kiev that Tolstoy, chose to write his "Resurrection". It was here, too, that our companions cheered us up good. Recognizing that we were pretty anxious about being so many miles away from our young ones, they "plotted" up to our room one evening, knocked and announced, "We have a good news cablegram for you." They wisely reported it in this fashion so we didn't faint dead away, and then proceeded to read us their concocted message, as though it were from our children: "We're doing fine with Nonna and Td. Don't worry about us. Have fun...etc." It did really make us feel better.

The next day, we had a good tour of the city and in the afternoon, a beautiful boat ride on the romantic Kniphr River, which was busy with Sunday swimmers on the beaches and boaters as far as one could see.

From the river we could see the quite beautiful Kniphr Monastery on the shores. We were told that his is now a museum, full of mummified bodies, at one time buried there, which would not decay for lack of micro-organisms in the soil caused by the air. The place was considered sacred by the ancient Slavic people.

We'll remember Kiev for many things. One of the least favorable was the opera. Any story told by singing in a foreign tongue is bad enough, but heap propaganda on top, and you've got a real whopper of an evening. Bill of fare was "The Hugonots", historically accurate, no doubt, about the murder of the Protestants by the Catholics in early day France, but the manner in which the church and all its elements, including the "evil" priest who sanctioned the slaughter, are portrayed, leaves nothing to per of an evening. Bill of fare was "The Hugonots", historically accurate, no doubt, about the murder of the Protestants by the Catholics in early day France, but the manner in which the church and all its elements, including the "evil" priest who sanctioned the slaughter, are portrayed, leaves nothing to the imagination. You get the impression that the company takes delight in showing the church blessing the assassins, and during the melee, vividly staged, when the baby is tossed into the air to come down to be impaled on swords, you nearly gag, even though you know it's a rag doll. A real blast.

It was refreshing to know that Van Cliburn, Benny Goodman, American orchestras groups, etc. have presented a different form of entertainment here.

The Soviets primary medical problems, we learned, like ours are heart disease and cancer.

We are convinced that the Soviet people do not want war, and that they are just as afraid of us as we may be of them or more so. At the same time we are just as convinced that their leaders must abandon their plan to socialize the world if peace is ever to exist. They, of course, hope to do this without an all-out war. We, in America, must keep our guard up!!

Mattox Names Eastland County Coordinators; Has Organization In All 254 Texas Counties

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Jim Mattox Tuesday announced that Sheri De La Cruz of Eastland and J. V. Hyser of Cisco will serve as the Eastland County coordinators for his 1990 primary campaign.

"We support Jim Mattox because he is the only candidate in the race who is unequivocally opposed to new taxes and in favor of a lottery," De La Cruz and Hyser said. "Mattox has pledged to veto a state income tax.

"Mattox' record as a prosecutor, State Representative, U. S. Congressman and Attorney General proves that he can follow through on his promises," De La Cruz and Hyser added. "He can fight a real war on drugs and crime, and he can revive our failing education system.

"He is the only candidate who has ever been to the front lines in the war on drugs, the only candidate who ever prosecuted a pusher or sent a rapist to prison."

Mattox also announced that he has accomplished the amazing political feat of establishing coordinators in all 254 of Texas' counties. "This proves the strength of our grass-roots organization and the appeal of our pro-lottery/anti-tax campaign," the Attorney General said.

"When this campaign moves into full swing after the first of the year, I'm confident that De La Cruz and Hyser will be lead drivers on our road to the nomination. Eastland County is an important part of our campaign, and I'm proud to have De La Cruz and Hyser on board."

Press Tax Relief

"Most employers are in for a pleasant surprise in the new year," announced Mary Scott Nabers, Employer Representative on the Texas Employment Commission. "Unemployment insurance taxes will decline substantially for most Texas businesses," Nabers explained.

The minimum tax rate for experienced employers will .29 percent of the first $900 of each employee's wages. This is down from .64 percent in 1989. The maximum rate will be 6.29 percent, down from 8.34 percent. The entry level rate for most new businesses remains 2.7 percent.

"These rates are the lowest that Texas employers have seen in many years," Nabers said. The decade of the '80s visited severe economic recession upon the state and record numbers of unemployed Texans filed for unemployment benefits. The trust fund from which benefits are paid was quickly depleted and replenishing it resulted in higher taxes for employers. "Those higher tax rates came at a time when employers themselves could least afford it," said Nabers. "Now that the fund is again on sound footing, it is gratifying to see employers getting a break."

Translating the new rates into dollars, a minimum rated employer will pay $26.10 per employee per year. A maximum rated employer will pay $566.10 per employee per year. Roughly 40 percent of all Texas employers are minimum rated, 4 percent have the maximum rate, and the remaining 56 percent are somewhere in between.

The Texas Employment Commission will begin mailing 1990 tax rate notices the first week in February.

Q. It is time for New Year's resolutions and one of main resolves it to try to love my husband better, but I see some things that need to change in him, and maybe I need to change, too. Can you help with some ideas?

A. "Love is the most satisfying when we see the one we love make a change for the better. Yet, there is nothing more discouraging than loving someone who never seems to grow. They may stay trapped in the same fears or negativity, this invalidating the worth of your love. Such person does not love himself enough to return your love.

It is tempting to point out his failings under times of stress. You may be prompted by frustration and bitterness to do so. But you do have a choice. You can decide to look for your partner's good points without being blind to his faults. You can be encouraging, but not unrealistic. You can be truthful, but not using truth as a way to punish. Be consoling, but allow him to feel the pain of disappointment. Love should be supportive, but not dominating. Love should be returned. Receive the love he gives you. Love encourages you to be yourself in the presence of one who loves you." (Quoted from Love You, Let's Work It Out by David Viscott, M.D.)

Star-Telegram Features Story On Texas Hospitals Closing

'Editor's Note' The following is reprinted from the Friday, Dec. 15th edition of the Fort Worth Star Telegram. It appeared on the editorial page. Bill Philpott brought it in to the Press.

Last year, 19 rural hospitals died in Texas. Since then, the obituary has been written on others, and still others are gasping for breath.

When rural hospitals die, people are at risk. The elderly, who account for a large percentage of a rural hospital's patient load, are terribly inconvenienced when they need medical care. As a result, some of them either do not receive it or receive it too late. Without a rural hospital, expectant mothers do not always get the early and continuous care that they require.

Yet, a rural hospital closure is damaging in other ways besides lost patient care. Jobs are lost. A community's economic lifeblood is diminished. Lives are disrupted as physicians and other medical personnel are forced to relocate. A community loses its appeal to business and industry.

Rural hospital officials and community leaders have been working with legislators and members of Congress to improve the chances for survival of rural hospitals. Some headway has been made. The Legislature has approved the Rural Health Care Rescue Act, which is designed to assist in several ways, from limiting the liability of doctors to encourage students to pursue rural health-care careers. Recently, Congress took steps to improve Medicare payments to rural hospitals.

But Texas rural health care is still critical, and the line between some community hospitals remaining open and possibly closing is fragile.

The Legislature and Congress must continue to monitor rural hospitals and provide more help, especially by speeding the planned equalization of Medicare payments between rural and urban hospitals. The Legislature should assist by improving the Medicaid payments to physicians and more fully funding Rural Health Care Rescue Act programs.

Rural hospitals need continued life so that they can give life and protect life. The Legislature and Congress must help them do that.

Donations To Food Drives Should Be Nutritious

For many Texans, the holidays include the spirit of giving to those less fortunate. One of the most beneficial gifts is food.

However, state health officials urge food drive donors to be selective in food they give. People who need food bank help because of poverty, homelessness or some type of emergency often are seriously undernourished.

Nancy Robinett, public health nutritionist at the Texas Department of Health (TDH), said, "Their diets probably lack adequate proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals to maintain their health."

She said that food banks need easily stored foods of good nutritional quality. Donated foods that come in cans or durable boxes are most welcomed.

The following foods are recommended donations:

Powdered milk, flour, cornmeal, masa harina, canned tuna and chicken, rice, noodles, spaghetti, peanut butter, oatmeal and cream of wheat, canned or dry beans and peas, ready-to-eat cereals, canned soups and stews, canned fruits and vegetables, macaroni and cheese mix, canned fruit and vegetable juices.

"One of the big problems we are encountering at food banks is the lack of baby foods," she said. Needed items include infant formula with iron.

"We encourage mothers to breastfeed their babies. But if they are not able to, we stress that they give babies iron-fortified formula," Robinett said. She added that iron deficiency is common at all ages among nutritionally at-risk people.

Other appropriate donations for infants include:

Baby food meats (plain), baby food meats with vegetables (if meat is the first ingredient), plain baby food fruits and vegetables, dry infant cereal.

"When we donate food for distribution to the less fortunate we should consider its nutritional value. Basic items from the four major food groups are the most beneficial and healthful gifts," Robinett said.

The major food groups are milk and dairy products, meats and protein, cereals and grains, and fruits and vegetables.
