Police Catch Thief In City Drug Store

A burglar alarm that alerted police resulted in the capture of a man in the act of looting City Drug Store here last Friday night. Arrested in the building was David Martin Long, 27, of Graham, who was charged in connection with the robbery.

Police Chief Bill Pence said he was in a police car about two blocks from City Drug when the alarm went off. He was notified by radio and arrived at the store in less than a minute. He parked near the rear and took a shotgun and approached the front of the store.

Chief Pence said he saw the man who was picking up drug items from shelves, placing some in a bag he carried and putting others back.

Within minutes, a second Cisco police car with Officers Steve Bracheen, Leland Watson and Jerry Carter arrived, and within ten minutes Sheriff Johnny Morren and two deputies arrived from Eastland.

The area was sealed off. The man, seeing lights, fled from the store through a hole in the wall he had made from the old Daniels Hotel lobby. Officers then began a room by room search of the three story building. Finally, Long was discovered on the ledge over the front door area and under an old door.

Long's blue denim bag, measuring three feet long and about one foot in diameter, was left behind and the loot was recovered. Gary Harris, store owner, was notified and he arrived soon after officers began searching the building. He said all of the drug items were recovered.

J.D. Yardley is the building owner.

Long was charged in Justice of the Peace Carlton Holder's court and bond was set at $5,000. Police learned later that Long was wanted on an arrest warrant for a drug robbery in Grand Prairie and JP Pat Ingram of Gorman set a bond of $25,000 in that case.

Chief Pence said quite a crowd of spectators had to be cautioned about getting too close to the store because of the possibilities of shooting becoming necessary.

Cisco Lobos Continue Towards District Title

The Cisco fighting Lobos again proved their determination and strength as they battled to the winner's circle for the second week in a row. The Lobos continue on their road to seek the 10AA District title as they achieved some of their best times of the season last Saturday night on the A.C.U. campus in Abilene.

Cisco was too strong for the other nine teams that were entered in the division

II class. Final point team totals were as follows: Cisco 118; Permian JV 81; Munday 79; Colorado City 58; Brownwood JV 54; W. Falls JV 51; Abilene 41; Hobbs 25 and Cooper 12.

Individual points scored for the Lobos were as follows: Long jump-4th Larry Adams, 5th Gary Speegle; shot put-3rd Kenneth Preston; high jump-2nd Gary Speegle, 3rd Forrest Starr; pole vault-4th Brian Fleming; discus-2nd Randall Rattan; 3200 meter run-4th Tommy Elrod; 400 relay-3rd Cisco (Adams, Potter, Rattan, Starr); 110 high hurdles-1st Gary Speegle; 800 meter run-1st Larry Adams, 6th Davey Kenemur; 300 int. hurdles-1st Forrest Starr, 2nd Gary Speegle; 1600 meter run-4th Tommy Thackerson; 1600 meter relay-1st Cisco (Rattan, Starr, Speegle, Adams)

Coach Tom Slagle's team will continue to work this week as they enter the Bearkat relays in DeLeon Friday, April 10. The goal of the Lobos is to still try to prepare to win the district track meet to be held in Brownwood Thursday, April 23rd. "Lobo Fever-Catch It"

Ruling Awaited After Voters Recall Mayor And Councilmen

City officials were seeking word from Austin Tuesday as to the procedure to follow after a record number of voters went to the polls last Saturday and voted the mayor and four council members out of office.

The attorney general's office advised city officials Tuesday that they believed Cisco's mayor and council members who were recalled in Tuesday's election should remain on the job until their successors are selected.

A called meeting of the Cisco council was expected to be held Friday night to begin legal action to hold a new election to select a mayor and four council members. The meeting time and agenda will be posted on the door at City Hall as required by the city charter, officials said.

A record 1,283 voters cast ballots in the election that resulted in recalls for Mayor Roy Cartee and Council Members Louise Allison, Jerry Jeffcoat, William J. Eudy and Harold Pippen. The same election named Ivan Webb and Bobby Ingram to take places on the council, replacing Raymond Whitley and Lucy Collier who did not run for reelection.

City Attorney W.B. Wright, Jr., talked with officials in the Secretary of State's office and the Attorney General's office in Austin on Monday. A decision was expected Tuesday as to whether incumbent council members would stay on the job until they are replaced or whether the recall becomes effective with the vote can't pass.

Mayor Cartee was recalled with 761 votes for recall and 511 against. Council Woman Allison had 748 votes for her recall and 523 against.

Councilmen Jeffcoat, Pippen and Eudy, who were often at odds with the mayor and Mrs. Allison, were recalled by votes as follows: Jeffcoat-For 658, Against 579; Pippen-For 682, Against 557; and Eudy-For 693, Against 548.

Spirited campaigns were conducted for and against the recall and the vacancy candidates by organized groups of residents. This resulted in the all-time record turn-out of voters, observers said. Last year's regular city election attracted 960 voters.

City Manager R.J. Turpin told The Press that city hall hopes to have a decision soon on how to proceed.

"We will abide by the decision of the people and proceed in a legal way," Mr. Turpin said. "We, the city's employees, are here to serve and our offices and records are open to one and all."

City Attorney Wright said there was a possibility under the Voting Rights Act that the governor would need to call a special election. This would be the case, he added, if the offices of those who were recalled were declared vacant immediately. The next regular meeting of the council will be April 14th at which time the election results will be canvassed if no special meeting is ordered, Mr. Wright said.

Mr. Cartee told the Abilene Reporter-News on Monday that he wasn't surprised by the election results. "There was no basis for surprise or otherwise," he said. He added that the election showed that people of Cisco approve the city manager and he should not be bothered in his activities whatsoever."

Mr. Cartee had been at odds with City Manager Turpin and with the man he replaced, John Boland. Cisco adopted the city manager form of government in 1974.

Mr. Cartee was quoted as saying "I have no animosity whatsoever. I'm willing to abide by the decision of the voters."

The Reporter-News quoted Mrs. Allison as saying she "was not terribly surprised by the outcome but regretted not being able to remain in office for the people who support her." She said she hopes the Citizens for Better Government, an organized that supported her and Mr. Cartee, "will continue their efforts toward better government."

Mrs. Allison said she planned no further ventures in politics, adding "I am relieved to escape from vocal abuse and venomous attacks by some detractors."

A suit filed by Mr. Cartee and Mrs. Allison in 91st District Court last month was expected to be dropped, although Mrs. Allison was quoted by the newspaper as saying she would pursue the suit but District Judge Jim Wright, who denied a temporary restraining order, said it was "now a moot point."

Joe Wheatley, chairman of People for Progress and Unity in supporting Webb and Ingram and the recall of Mr. Cartee and Mrs. Allison, told The Press his group was "real proud of the good turn-out of voters." He saw the big turn-out as evidence that "our people are concerned and are interested in progress and unity."

Webb And Ingram Win City Council

Ivan Webb and Bobby Ingram won seats on the Cisco City Council as a record 1,283 voters turned out to vote in the annual city election last Saturday. Both will serve on the council for the first time.

Mr. Webb won the Place 5 seat, receiving 786 votes to 461 for his opponent, Mrs. Audye Wagley. Mr. Ingram won over two opponents. He received 635 votes while Randy Linn had 388 votes and Jay Maples got 206 votes.

The two new councilmen who will replace Raymond Whitley and Lucy Collier, will be sworn in as councilmen after the returns of the election are officially canvassed. The next regular meeting of the council is scheduled for April 14. There was a possibility, however, that a special called meeting might be held earlier.

Mr. Webb expressed his appreciation for the support his candidacy received.

"I am real pleased with the large turn-out of voters, and I am ready to work with other council members for the progress and prosperity of our city," Mr. Webb said.

Mr. Ingram also pledged himself to work wholeheartedly for the benefit of Cisco. "I believe the people of Cisco have spoken - they're for unity," he said. "I think that discord will now be behind us and that there will be smooth sailing when the new council is formed. I see the vote as an expression of confidence in Mr. Webb and me. I love this town and I love the people in it, and I'm ready to work for all of them."

Both of the new council members grew up in Cisco, and both are young family men.

Mr. Whitley and Mrs. Collier did not run for reelection.

First Baptist Church Begins Revival Event

A revival meeting began Sunday night at the First Baptist Church in Cisco with services scheduled at 7:30 p.m. daily through April 18th. The Rev. D.J. Bennett, pastor of Southside Baptist Church in Abilene, will be the revival speaker this week.

Plans call for the Rev. Butch Pesh, also an Abilene Baptist minister, to be the revival speaker April 9-11, and the Rev. Derrell Monday of Bethel Baptist Church in Eastland will be in the pulpit for revival services April 12-18.

Plans call for the revival to have a lay evangelism theme with church workers spending the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. daily visiting homes in Cisco to invite attendance.

Ben Streiff, music director at the church, will direct music for the revival with Mrs. Manning Davis and Mrs. William E. Austin at the piano and organ, respectively. The Rev. Buddy Sipe, pastor, invited the public to attend all services.

The public is invited to attend the garden club meetings.

Two Elected To Hospital Board

Armo Chambers and Bruce Stovall were elected to serve two-year terms as directors of the E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital in the annual election held last Saturday at the Corral Room of Laguna Hotel.

Results of the election were posted as follows: Mr. Chambers 726, Mr. Stovall 702, and the Rev. Dell Crockett 432. Approximately 1,000 ballots were cast in the hospital election with Mrs. Wilson Smith serving as election judge.

Mr. Chambers, incumbent candidate, is an owner of Cisco Funeral Home, and Mr. Stovall operates an oil field service company here. Results of the election will be canvassed at the next regular meeting of the board.

School Trustees Installed Monday

Two newly elected members of the board of trustees of the Cisco Independent School District were given the oath of office Monday night after the results of last Saturday's election were canvassed and accepted.

Willis Parker, incumbent, was elected to Place Four with 996 votes without opposition. Incumbent Johnny Cagle was re-elected to Place Five, receiving 759 votes to B.D. Trice's 281 votes. County Judge Scott Bailey administered the oath to the two successful candidates.

The board then reorganized and elected Emmett Rich as president for the coming year. Mr. Cagle was named vice president, and Donald Gorr was chosen as secretary. Other members of the board are Roy Hathaway, Charles Humphries and Shirley Smothers.

Drugs Stolen At Nursing Center

City police were investigating the theft of a quantity of drugs at the Cisco Nursing Center last Sunday night, Chief Bill Pence reported Monday. He said the drug theft was discovered Monday.

The board then reorganized and elected Emmett Rich as president for the coming year. Mr. Cagle was named vice president, and Donald Gorr was chosen as secretary. Other members of the board are Roy Hathaway, Charles Humphries and Shirley Smothers.

LOOK WHO'S NEW

I, Stephen Glynn Jones, being 19 inches long and weighing 6 lb. 10 1/2 ozs. was happy to join my sister Kristi, and my parents, Bill and Carlene Jones at 5:56 p.m. April 6, 1981. Formerly of Eastland, the Jones' are now living in Stephenville.

Paternal grandparents are Bobby and Betty Jones (formerly Eastland) in Longview, Tx.

Maternal grandparents are Pat and J.J. Wood, in Olden...also...Frank Kuhn of Olden.

THE JAHNKE TRIPLETS of Plano, Craig, Cary, and Chad, greet April, Prevent Blindness Month, with big smiles and big patches on their amblyopic left eyes. Early detection of the eye problem that the three boys share prevented them from losing all sight in their weak "lazy" eyes.

April Is Prevent Blindness Month

April is Prevent Blindness Month, an important month to the Jahnke Triplets of Plano. The boys, Craig, Cary and Chad, are six year old and they'll soon have, between them, six good eyes. But if the eye problem that they all share - one called amblyopia - had not been detected and treated early - then each boy might have been blind in his left eye by his seventh birthday.

"With amblyopia one eye functions so much better than the other that sight is gradually taken over by the strong eye while the weaker one becomes virtually useless," explains Elvin J. Schofield, President of the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness. "The problem must be caught early, preferably in the preschool years, if sight is to be saved in the 'lazy eye.' If treatment isn't started before the age of six or seven, sight is irrevocably lost."

Such blindness was prevented in the Jahnke's boys because their mother Judy noticed about two years ago that Chad seemed to be holding everything uncomfortably close to his eyes. When she had him examined for this, amblyopia was diagnosed. Since the problem tends to be genetic, Craig and Cary were also checked. The result: three identical looking little boys (except for some missing teeth in front) each wearing a big smile and big eye glasses and, covering each good left eye, a surgical patch. The patch is forcing the right "lazy eye" to see and thus be strengthened. Having three amblyopics in the family is not a norm, but, warns the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness, one child in every 20 does have an eye problem that can be best treated if detected in the preschool years. The Society therefore urges all parents to make sure that their children have a vision test early in life, preferably by an eye professional.

If this is not possible, the Society encourages the parents to get the child to a vision screening. Prevent Blindness has trained 55 volunteer groups in Texas to do vision screening and will train other groups who wish to offer this service to their community.

The Society also has a Home Eye Test for Preschoolers that is available without charge for parents who wish to screen their child's vision at home. Prevent Blindness also urges parents to be alert, as was Mrs. Jahnke, for signs that can indicate eye problems.

Are the child's eyes cross? If so, the child needs professional help because, contrary to some popular legends, a child will not outgrow this condition. Are the eyelids swollen? Do styes recur regularly? Does the child rub his eyes excessively or become irritable when doing close work? Any of the above can indicate trouble, says the Society. Be aware of them, especially during Prevent Blindness Month.

For information on TSPB's vision screening programs or for a copy of the free Home Eye Test that also lists signs of possible eye problems, send a long stamped self-addressed envelope to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 2020, Houston, 77001.

The Texas Society to Prevent Blindness is an affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness, the oldest voluntary health organization in the country working to prevent the one-half of all blindness that is needless.

Tax Questions & Answers

Q: How do I apply for my exemptions?

A: Exemption applications must be filed with each local tax office on an annual basis. To insure that you do not lose any tax relief to which you may be entitled, it is to your advantage to file before the local rendition period ends on April 1 or April 30. While you may be able to file later under a recent Attorney General's opinion, the burden and expense of proving an equitable reason for the application being late will fall on you, the taxpayer.

Q: I own agricultural land. Can it be taxed on its productivity rather than on its higher, market value?

A: Two amendments to the Texas Constitution permit agricultural and open-space land to be taxed generally at its productivity value instead of market value. These provisions are effective only if applications are filed with the tax office in a timely manner (during the rendition period). Your local assessor can provide information on the legal qualifications for agricultural or open-space designation.

Q: What effect does the new Property Tax Code have on the way property taxation is administered in my area?

A: A countywide appraisal district, which becomes fully operational in 1982, will be responsible for conducting property appraisals and providing values to each taxing jurisdiction in the county. This means that each taxing jurisdiction which levies taxes on your property will place the same value on it. Your local elected officials, however, will continue to set the tax rate, just as in the past.

Q: What advantages are there to central appraisal?

A: Under the old tax laws, each jurisdiction which levied a property tax did its own appraising. This means that your property was valued by several different assessors, each of whom may have assigned a different value. With the countywide appraisal district, the expense of separate appraisals, and the confusion of separate and sometimes different values, will be ended.

There are other advantages to the taxpayer under the new system. First, you will have to appear before only one body, the county appraisal review board, to contest your values, rather than appealing to each board of equalization separately as under the present system.

You will have to turn to only one office for any questions regarding your property values, renditions, and for filing all exemptions and productivity value applications.

Additionally, under the new system, you will have more clearly defined appeal rights if you disagree with the value placed on your property.

Q: Doesn't the new Property Tax Code provide a form of initiative and referendum?

A: Yes. Beginning in 1982, if the tax rate adopted by a particular local government exceeds the maximum tax rate calculated under the truth-in-taxation law by more than five percent, the voters may, by petition, call an election to roll back the tax rate to a five percent increase.

The tax rate calculated for truth-in-taxation process, in essence, is a rate which would produce the same amount of operating revenue that the particular jurisdiction levied in the prior year. Any increase in values due to revaluation or change in the assessment ratio automatically triggers a proportional change downward in the tax rate for truth-in-taxation purposes.

To give an illustration, if a school district were to revalue all property with a resulting average increase in value of 100 percent, the tax rate could be cut in half and the same total revenue as last year still be produced.

Q: I was told that my house must this year be assessed at 100 percent of its value because of the new Property Tax Code. Won't this cause an increase in my taxes?

A: For many years, after jurisdictions determined the full value of all property, many then elected to tax that property on a percentage of its value. The problem with so-called fractional assessment, however, was that many taxpayers did not know the true value on which their property was being assessed. For example, if a jurisdiction formerly had a 50 percent assessment ratio and a tax rate of $1, the total taxes on a $50,000 home would have been $250. With elimination of assessment ratios in 1981, the jurisdiction could cut its tax rate to 50 cents per $100 valuation and the total tax on the $50,000 house used in our example would still be $250.

With elimination of assessment ratios in 1981, the jurisdiction could cut its tax rate to 50 cents per $100 valuation and the total tax on the $50,000 house used in our example would still be $250. Elimination of the assessment ratio will result in no local tax increase if jurisdictions which formerly used a ratio adjust their tax rate downward to the extent that the assessment ratio increased to reach 100 percent.

Q: Where can I turn for additional information on my property taxes?

A: You may contact your local tax assessors; if, if you are a resident of one of approximately 30 counties which implemented their countywide appraisal districts in 1981 under local intergovernmental contract, you may also contact the district's chief appraiser. All tax offices have copies of a State Property Tax Board pamphlet titled "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" which contains information about the property tax system and gives advice on how to appeal the values placed on your property.

If the tax office has run out of pamphlets, you may obtain a single copy free by writing the State Property Tax Board, P.O. Box 16900, Austin, TX 78761.

Roof Decay Hazards— Do You Have Some?

Most decay problems found in homes are caused by roof construction errors, says a wood specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Wood cannot decay if kept dry because wood decay fungi require moisture," contends Chuck Stayton. "Therefore, a main objective of a roof is to keep water away from wood in the home. Water should flow readily off the roof and be diverted as far from the house as possible.

At the Gulf Coast, the roof overhang should be at least 30 inches at both eaves and gable ends so cascading rain water will fall a safe distance away from the house. East Texas homes require a 24-inch overhang. Fascia boards should be perpendicular to the roof line, slanting away from falling water. All roof coverings should extend at least one inch beyond any wood at the eave and rake edges. If not, water that curls under shingles will drain over the fascia boards, leading to paint failure and decay."

"Roof edges are most important," Stayton says. "In high rainfall areas such as

With asphalt shingles, the first line should be continuous with no space between shingles, advises the specialist. Any openings leave the decking and fascia exposed to rain at every shingle tab along the eave. Noncorrosive metal flashing also helps water flow away from the fascia board. The flashing edge should extend at least one inch from any wooden piece and should divert water away from the house at the drip edge. If flashing wasn't installed when the home was built, it can still be added. Just slip the metal under the shingles and fasten with roofing nails.

"Gutters and downspouts can become a decay liability if not properly installed and maintained," Stayton warns. "If gutters are not cleaned often, they become clogged with leaves or dirt and overflow at the back onto the fascia board. Clogged downspouts also cause gutter overflow. The best way to attach gutters is with metal straps hanging from the roof edge, rather than nailing them to the fascia board. They may leak at nail holes. However, straps must be installed before roofing shingles are laid."

Anything that protrudes through the roof, like chimneys, vent pipes or dormers, presents an opportunity for water leakage, says the specialist. The only safeguard is adequate flashing installed completely around the object. No wooden siding material should ever touch the roof surface. It should be at least two inches above the roof surface, with flashing installed between the roof and wood.

"Roof slope is important since it determines the water runoff rate," Stayton points out. "Flat roofs present a special problem because some water never leaves the roof except by evaporation. A minimum slope of 4 feet in 12 feet is needed to prevent water from backing up under the shingles."

Sorghum Growers Need to Watch for New Greenbug, Midge

COLLEGE STATION—As if grain sorghum growers didn't have enough to worry about, they must now deal with a new type of greenbug in addition to the perennial villain, the midge.

The new greenbug, or aphid, labeled biotype E, was found in 1979 in the Texas Panhandle. Now it's a potential threat to the entire sorghum crop in Texas because it attacks sorghum hybrids that were previously greenbug resistant. It is known to exist presently in Northwest Texas from the Panhandle to Vernon, south to the Roby-Rotan area and west to the Midland-Odessa area.

"This means that Texas producers can no longer depend on greenbug resistant sorghum hybrids for battling the tiny green aphids," points out Dr. Thomas W. Fuchs of San Angelo, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"It also means that producers need to check their fields more closely than ever for greenbugs — at least weekly from the time the crop comes up until it reaches the hard-dough stage. Spray programs at particular levels of greenbug infestations will become more critical to reduce damage from the pest."

Insecticides currently recommended for greenbug control are effective on the new biotype. Fuchs notes that details on determining spraying needs are spelled out in the publication "Insect and Mite Pests on Grain Sorghum — Management Approaches" which is available at county extension offices.

"Hopefully, sorghum hybrids are resistant to the new greenbug biotype will be available in a few years," says Fuchs. "Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists have already identified sources of resistance in certain plants and are including these in their breeding programs."

While greenbug damage can be severe, the real culprit in sorghum production is the midge, a tiny orange-colored fly that can reduce yields more than 90 percent.

According to Fuchs, the key in avoiding midge damage is uniform early planting of sorghum. Since midge only attack sorghum during the following stage, farmers that plant early usually escape damage to their crop because the pests have not yet increased to damaging levels.

"Midge have a life cycle of only about 16 to 18 days so infestations can build up rapidly and destroy late-flowering heads of sorghum. Growers that find at least one midge per sorghum head should begin a spray control to prevent extensive crop damage," points out Fuchs.

Experiment Station scientists also have a breeding program under way to develop sorghum hybrids that are resistant to midge. However, this task is much more difficult than developing greenbug resistant hybrids because both parents of the sorghum plant must be midge-resistant while only one parent has to have greenbug resistance, explains Fuchs. Resistant hybrids may be available in three or four years.

Along with these two key sorghum pests, growers also need to keep their guard up for wireworms, white grubs, chinch bugs, headworms and seed-feeding bugs. It's enough to boggle the mind.

Since flags are the symbols of our story, you will find them flying high over the entrance of to the theatre grounds. You will see one on the high hill behind the dining areas. And you will see them in the show, six of them, the Spanish, the French, the Mexican, the flag of Independence, the Texas flag and that of the Nation.

The dancers weave around them. The rider carries one to the top of the cliff where he overlooks the audience six hundred feet below.

And at the end, the riders gallop around the road letting them stream out behind as the horses run.

"Texas," the romance of Panhandle history, plays in the beautiful Palo Duro Canyon half an hour away from Amarillo and Canyon, Texas in the Panhandle, near seven important US highways. The theatre is on the floor of the canyon and performances start at 8:30 p.m. nightly.

Barbecue dinners are served each evening before the show. Admission to the park is free to theatre goers after 6:00 p.m. There is nightly bus service from Amarillo and Canyon both. For tickets and information write "Texas," Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call (806) 655-2181. It is well to make reservations far in advance for choice of seats

Baptist Revival To Open Sunday

Rev. Jim Hooten

Fifteen services of praise will be the Spring Harvest Revival at First Baptist Church, Eastland, beginning Sunday, April 12, it has been announced here.

The Rev. Jim Hooten, pastor, will be preaching in each service and Music Director Wiley Peebles will be in charge of music.

Services will be at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. on the two Sundays; 12 noon and 7:30 p.m. weekdays; and 7:30 p.m. only on Saturday.

The weekday noon services will be held in Fellowship Hall where the entire community is being invited for lunch and worship. Serving will begin at 11:45 and the service will conclude at 12:50, Rev. Hooten said.

What the Bible says about certain subjects will be the sermon topics for the weekday services: Monday, The Christian and the State; Tuesday, The Christian and Communism; Wednesday, The Christian and War; Thursday, The Christian and Science; and Friday, The Christian and Death. "Come when you can and leave when you have to," Rev. Hooten said. The Saturday night service will emphasize old-fashion revival singing and worship, the pastor said.

A veteran of 18 years as a missionary in Uganda, Rev. Hooten was later director of mission for First Baptist Church in Dallas for nearly two years, and came to Eastland, from a pastorate at Madison, N.J. He and his wife, Peggy, are native Texans, and he pastored in Cisco in the late 1950s.

Wiley Peebles

Among the special music features to be heard during the Spring Harvest will be "The King Is Coming," "God's Choir," "The Family of God," and others as well as old gospel favorites for congregational singing, Director Peebles has announced.

Rev. Hooten said in announcing the Spring Harvest Revival, "We are old-fashioned enough to believe that Jesus is the answer to our every problem."

The public is cordially invited to attend each of the services, he emphasized.

THE LONE STAR LEGACY

By Viola M. Payne

Part II

Texas has a collection of Sunday laws ranging from a statewide Saturday-Sunday law, which permits a store to open either one or the other of the two days, to city ordinances which make the buyer rather than the seller liable for purchase of items prohibited for sale on Sundays. And who can remember all the things you are not supposed to buy? I remember one time in a city when I went to a supermarket to buy several items I needed. I soon found I could purchase flour, but not the sifter I needed to make my bread. I could buy a newspaper but not writing paper and envelopes. Signs located around the store proclaimed: "These items cannot be sold on Sunday". And a uniformed policeman stood nearby to enforce the law.

Sometimes the reasoning behind such laws is religious, and sometimes commercial. Well-meaning people are arrayed on each side. But I keep remembering the reasoning of Roger Williams, early American exponent of religious liberty. The Ten Commandments, he declared, were divided into two parts - the first four and the last six. The first four pertained to man's relationship to God, and should not be legislated by anyone. The last six lay within the realm of Civil Law.

The issue of religious liberty was deeply entangled in the Texas revolution, and has remained an issue since. The early settlers, however, had not come from a perfect society on this score, for most of the States back home had religious legislation in varying degrees. But when Moses Austin rode horseback into Texas in 1820, he found Texas in the final throes of Spanish rule. One of his main hopes for permission to found a Colony lay in the failure of the Missions to civilize the territory. From the beginning there had been Spaniards who distrusted the system of colonizing by means of Missions and Presidios. So it was not surprising that an old friend of Austin's trading days in Louisiana, Baron De Bastrop, used his influence to help the Anglo settler obtain permission to establish a Colony in the area.

Before Austin could complete his plans, he died, and it was left to his son Stephen to finish the task. In the meanwhile, Mexico had plunged into another Revolution. This would free her from Spain, but throw her Government into chaos, while military and civil leaders skirmished over power.

The framework of the revolution against Spain had actually begun several years before, within the membership of the Catholic Church, and was called "The War of The Virgins". Hidalgo, a Mexican Priest with democratic, far-reaching ideas, had as his banner The Virgin of Guadalupe, denoting the supposed appearance of the Virgin Mary in the New World. The conservative Mexicans and Spanish who tried to stop the revolt chose as their sponsor "The Virgin of The Remedies", represented by a doll-like statue.

After Hidalgo's groups was defeated, conservative Mexican political leaders and Churchmen decided upon another sort of independence - a less-sudden kind of revolution. This would mean separation from Spain, but continuation of the old order in religion and privilege.

At this time, in March, 1822, Stephen F. Austin left his newly-founded Colony on the Colorado River, where Austin now stands, and traveled to Mexico City to negotiate with the new government for the Colony rights promised his group by Spanish authorities.

The Mexican Legislature confirmed the contract, requiring, however, as the Spanish had, that the colonists should be of good character, and furnish evidence that they were Catholics or agree to become such.

Historians still remark about the lack of good faith many of the settlers must have had on the matter of becoming Catholics. Evidence indicates that the edict was resented and flagrantly ignored. For a time, a few of the settlers became nominal Catholics. Then religious stagnation settled across the Austin Colony and others which followed.

Young Austin, though he had ratified the religious agreement with Mexico, did not live up to it. Apparently he felt morally free to disregard it, or looked on it as part of the old order which he hoped would soon disappear.

Henry Smith, District Commissioner of the Colony of Brazoria, wrote a letter about religious conditions in his Colony. This has been preserved in the Texas State Historical Quarterly. He tells of a Priest who came out to live with the people. "For a time he and his parishioners got along very well together. He never troubled them with Church services, but confined his duties to baptism and marriage ceremonies..."

"I was called upon to act as a precursor...and take down the names of the candidates of matrimony and baptism. Now the test was to be made. Though no religious societies were tolerated in Texas, yet prejudices deep rooted by early education rose up in strong opposition..."

In Mexico the military leader for Santa Anna bided his time, while different powers scrambled for the Government. He sent a General Farias to do some "reforming".

Although supposedly a student of American Government, General Farias had not absorbed the concept of separation of Church and State. For his idea of reform began with placing the appointive power of bishops and priests in Mexico City instead of Spain. Religious leaders, in alarm, called for a protector - the opportunity Santa Anna had been waiting for. Denouncing the religious reform measures as impious and demoralizing, Santa Anna made a bid for the support of the Church. Now he could assume the leadership of Mexico.

Dissatisfaction against the laws governing them was seething in the colonies of Texas - among democratically minded Mexican as well as Anglo settlers. William B. Travis, a young lawyer, called for "A Methodist Minister to hold a service." But Austin, hoping to avoid friction with the Mexican Government - and with the expectation of finally obtaining privileges for all faiths - forbade Protestants to hold services in his colony.

About this time a figure from the United States, Sam Houston, entered Texas. Experienced as a Congressman and a Governor, he was welcomed by the Colonies. In order to secure a head right in Austin's Colony, he joined the Catholic Church a year later under the name of "Samuel Pablo". It was doubtful that he was ever a practicing Catholic.

Houston helped write a new Constitution, which it was hoped Mexico would accept. Austin was sent to Mexico City to try to persuade Santa Anna to set up the area as a separate state, with laws pleasing to its citizens.

Austin was thrown into a Mexico City prison, even as the legislature of Coahuila passed reforms for the Colonists. These included freedom of worship, permission to use the English language in public documents, and establishments of a new Judicial system.

These reforms of 1835 were interpreted as giving permission for ministers to enter the Colonies openly and hold worship services. This they began to do: Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, and Christian Churchmen.

Santa Anna watched this from his palace in Mexico City. His political position was growing worse. Having been warned that the people of Texas would never submit to a dictator, he decided to exterminate the Colonists or drive them into the United States. Austin was released from prison and headed home, convinced that war was the only recourse for the people of Texas.

Santa Anna arrived in San Antonio on Feb. 23, 1836, and laid siege to the Alamo. Meanwhile a convention of colonists was meeting at Washington-On-The-Brazos to form a government and declare independence from Mexico. There, under the leadership of Sam Houston, new Commander-in-Chief of the Texas Army, a declaration of independence was written. Among numerous things, the document declared: "The Mexican Government denies us the right of worshipping according to the dictates of our own consciences..."

It was impossible for Houston, with the other Anglo and Mexican patriots assembled there, to look ahead to the heartbreak of defeat at the Alamo and Goliad, and the eventual victory by Houston and his men. But it was no secret why, when the Constitution of Texas was written, that it included a Religious Liberty amendment very similar to that of the United States of America. For the early Colonists had learned a lesson which they never forgot.

By: Josephine Cleveland

A mother told this story to her small daughter. "A group of people sat in a large room around a huge table. In the center of the table were platters of delicious food. Each person had a fork. There were some who were handicapped. They had no hands; others were ill and others had arms too short to reach the food. These people were continually hungry and continually frustrated.

They sat helplessly watching those who were greedily eating the food. No one was attempting to help them in their need. Crying and frustration permeated the room.

In another room was a large table. It too was spread with delicious foods. Around this table sat people whose forks could not reach the platters of food. Those who were able were feeding the less fortunate. Happiness, smiles and peace radiated from this room.

"Remember, my child," the mother said, "this is the difference between heaven and hell."

The daughter thoughtfully considered her words. She prayed, "Lord, help me to feed others."

Billy Graham, the noted evangelist said, "Don't count the score at half time." Friend, have you been counting the score in the middle of the game? Are you discouraged at what you see?

Joseph's father, Jacob, loved him more than any other of his brothers. This led to his brothers hating him. Joseph went through many crises. These trials and difficulties became stepping stones to Joseph and he learned to lean and trust in the Lord. Eventually, he became leader of a great nation and the deliverer of his own people. The Lord has His divine timing for everything. If Joseph had counted the score at half time he no doubt would have given up hope. Instead he trusted God. Trust was the answer.

Friend, you sins and failures can be forgiven as you let Christ become your personal Saviour and Friend. He will forgive and forget. You will find that as you trust in Christ and patiently run the race that is set before you that you will finish your course a winner.

Homemaking Hints

By Janet Thomas

You can make your own "high-power, low-cost" home cleaners. You can conjure up homemade products that clean bathroom fixtures, window, mirrors, furniture, marble, tile and aluminum. Here are the recipes:

BATHROOM FIXTURES - Start with a recipe for soap jelly and add whitening. To make soap jelly, mix one cup shaved bar soap and/or soap flakes with one quart of boiling water. Dissolve the soap in the boiling water. Once it is entirely melted or dissolved, pour it into a wide-mouth jar. Let it stand in a cool place until it jells.

To make a rust remover for lavatories or tubs, combine one part of the soap jelly with four parts of whitening. This makes a mild scouring agent which won't injure most surfaces.

WINDOWS, MIRRORS - For this job, there are four ideas.

1. For heavy greasy soil, add four tablespoons of household ammonia to one quart of warm water.

2. For water-spot removal, add 2 tablespoons vinegar to 1 quart warm water.

3. For light greasy soil, use one tablespoon kerosene to 2 quarts warm water.

4. For general cleaning, use one tablespoon washing soda with 1 quart warm water.

Remove surface soil with tissue or soft cloth, apply cleaner, then rub dry and polish with newspaper or cloth. Avoid spilling ammonia on painted or varnished ed woodwork because it may damage the finish.

FURNITURE - This can be a breeze without spending a fortune. Clean furniture with "dustless" cloths made at home. Here's how:

Mix one tablespoon of kerosene with one quart of hot water. Dip squares of clean lintless cloths into the solution, wring them out, dry and store them. Store in covered containers, such as glass jars or coffee cans. Keep them clean by washing and re-treating.

MARBLE, TILE - Remove acid stains with household ammonia, baking soda or borax. If acid has roughened surfaces, rub the spots with pumice stone and water. Polish with a soft cloth.

For grease spots, make a thin paste of Fuller's Earth, spread it on the spot and let stand for 24 hours. Wash with soap and water. Repeat the process, if necessary. Scrub very soiled spots with pumice stone.

ALUMINUM - This metal can produce surprisingly bright results when soap jelly and whitening are part of the "cleaning plan". Scour badly abused aluminum vessels with whitening and soap jelly. Use very fine steel wool on aluminum. Brighten discolored aluminum pans by boiling one of the following solutions in them until the discoloration disappears:

- a) one tablespoon vinegar to one quart of water, or
- b) two tablespoons cream of tartar to one quart of water.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Cauliflower Salad

1 pound fresh cauliflower
6 sliced bacon, cooked until crisp, drained, crumbled
1/4 cup & 2 Tbs. wine vinegar
1 Tbs. brown sugar
2 Tbs. vegetable or olive oil
1 (10 oz.) package frozen french style green beans, cooked according to package, drain
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup sugar
2 Tbs. chopped stuffed Spanish olives

Break cauliflower into flowerets and steam until just tender. Drain; mix with prepared green beans, celery and bacon bits. In a saucepan, heat vinegar and sugars until boiling; pour over cauliflower mixture. Stir in olives and oil; cover and refrigerate over night. Salt and pepper to taste. Garnish with more sliced olives.

IWU Reflections in Perspective

By I. Will Ussery

The devout Moslem is as strict, if not moreso, in matters of diet than is the Orthodox Jew. Pork, for instance, is unclean and must under no circumstances be eaten by the Faithful. And the flesh of any other animal...or fowl...is considered to be clean only if the animal is slaughtered in a prescribed manner.

In order to render the flesh suitable, the animal must be killed by having its jugular vein slit just between the jaw bone and the ear. The left vein, that is. I have witnessed chickens being prepared for dressing. Wings are held, and the vein is slit quite expertly along the left side. Same is true with sheep, or beef.

Now our servants were very fond of "Shikari Meat", the meat from the animals which Agha would from time from time bring in from the hunt. Whether mountain sheep or ibex, it was "Shikari". "Shikar" is the Persian word for the hunt.

In Iran, one rarely hunts alone. As a matter of fact, a man entitled to be addressed as "Agha" just doesn't hunt without taking along a guide or "beater". In the case of hunting as a guest of His Imperial Majesty on one of His Majesty's preserves, the beaters are provided from the Imperial Guards. While they are members of the Guards, their sole duty is assisting in caretaking on the preserves...and serving as guides to the invited guests of His Majesty. And they are very capable.

When Agha stalks an animal, and brings it down with a well-placed (and in my case, lucky) shot from his rifle, he stands beside his horse and discusses the shot and the stalk with his hunting companions while his guide proceeds to bring in the game. The guide, of course, before shouldering the animal ceremonially slits the throat. Must cleanse the flesh, y'know.

On one occasion on the preserve which lay almost along the city limits of Teheran and extended easterly for some thirty miles, I downed a right impressive specimen. Through the binoculars, it could be determined that the horns were above average. They would be worth mounting. So; the guide was instructed not to do the work with his hunting knife. He acquiesced...somewhat incredulously.

When I arrived at home late that evening, the servants were anxiously awaiting my return. Somehow, they had infinite confidence (though somewhat misplaced) in my skill as a hunter. And they were pleased as Punch to take the animal from the vehicle and to the courtyard where they would butcher it. Upon depositing the sheep on the pavement of the courtyard, Noelli immediately noticed that the neck, especially that just below the left ear was un-marked. "Why, Agha?" She asked. I explained that I wanted to save the head and cape. "Very bad". She said, shaking her head. And know something? Neither she nor Reza, the cook-houseboy ever touched a bit of that wild mutton. Unclean, it was. And no amount of argument on my part would avail. They agreed that the sheep was very, very dead when the guide reached it, but ceremony should have been observed. Even discussed it with their Mullah who, of course, informed them that the infidel Agha was only attempting to lead them into sin. I never made that mistake again.

'An Evening With Our Representatives'

Congressman Omar Burleson and local Democratic leaders announced today a special fund raiser for April 23rd at the Abilene Civic Center. It is titled: "An Evening with Our Representatives". The reception is to begin at 5:00 p.m. Tickets are $10.00 each. Tickets at $100 per couple are available for a dinner planned for later in the evening.

Congressman Burleson will be joined by Congressman Charles Stenholm in hosting several from Washington D.C. as well as state officials include Senator Grant Jones and Representatives Gary Thompson and Walter Grubbs. Congressman Kent Hance, who serves on the Ways & Means Committee, Congressman Dick White from Armed Services, and Congressman Jack Hightower of the Appropriations Committee are to be in Abilene for this event which is designed to give local citizens an opportunity to learn more about trends in the Democratic party and discuss future needs. All these congressmen have been active in the Conservative Democratic Forum led by Charles Stenholm.

"I have been a lifelong Democrat", Congressman Burleson said. "In recent years, I have been very concerned about the direction of our party. I want to do what I can to insure that we are always the party of the people".

Charles Scarborough, local attorney and member of the State Democratic Executive Committee added: "We want to have local funds available in 1982 to open a headquarters to help Senator Bentsen, Charles Stenholm, and other nominated in the primary".

Congressman Charles Stenholm recently said, "We are convinced that unless our party changes direction, we will become the minority party in the U.S. House of Representatives in 1982. I urge everyone to take an active part".

Tickets for both the reception and dinner are available at 302 Chestnut, telephone 673-3792, or Box 3819, Abilene, Texas, 79604.

Proceeds from these events will be divided between the Texas Democratic Party and the Taylor county organization.

Livestock Raisers Meeting

Twelve new directors will be elected at the next Eastland County Livestock Raisers Association meeting. This meeting will be the 9th of April at the County Show grounds. Attendance of association members is very important.

Anyone who wishes to come to this meeting may do so. To become a member of the E.C.L.R.A., a person needs to pay an annual membership due of $5.00 and be interested in livestock.

Letters to the Editor

(Editor's Note: The following article was brought to attention by Bud Black)

Country not so bad
I am sad that so many good and well-meaning Americans believe our Government has become evil, that their leaders are immoral, and vicious men! I think they are wrong and unfair. I am a naturalized citizen of this country, and very proud of it!

Some people tell us, we need to return to the way the forefathers have intended it to be. While I believe that

Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

Well, the old mesquites are finally getting green so I suppose spring is really here. It is such a pleasure to drive in any direction from Putnam. The buffalo clover literally covers the road sides and all the old rocky hills. Have you been out to the Putnam Cemetery lately? It will be worth your while to go out there. It is a veritable carpet of clover. The bluebonnets are just beginning to bloom in all their beauty. Also yellow and white daisies. No place on earth is more beautiful than this part of Texas in the spring time when we have had a lot rain, of which we can urgently use more right now.

The country musical will be at the school house Friday, April 10. Food will be sold in the library. The proceeds will go to pay for the utilities bills at the Community Center. We invited all area musicians and anyone who enjoys good music.

CLEAN UP DAY!
Saturday, April 11, is clean up day at the school house. So come and bring your tools and help get the school house and grounds ready for the Putnam Homecoming on Saturday before Easter. If you cannot come on Saturday come any day the following week.

I'm sorry but this reporter was out of town last weekend and failed to get the news out. I spent several days with Homer and Carolyn Taylor at Sweetwater, coming home on Wednesday.

Still sorry to report that we have some on the sick list. Mrs. Bessie Jobe is in very serious condition at Hendrick Hospital at Abilene. I understand that most of her family are at her bedside.

George (G.B.) Jobe is in the Veterans hospital at Big Spring.

Elvie Payne is also in the Veterans hospital at Big Spring.

Mrs. George Weeks had facial surgery Monday at an Abilene hospital. At last report she is doing fine. She is staying with a son, Dick Weeks at Abilene to be close to the doctor.

We are happy to report that Mrs. R.C. Speegle is home from Odessa where she spent the winter with a daughter. We welcome you back home Mrs. Speegle. I.G. Mobley spent several days at Waco last week attending a school for Veterans affairs.

Mrs. Roy Lee Williams of Houston visited Mrs. Ollie Burnam last week. She is the former Mary Lou Eubanks and was reared at Putnam.

Hall Green of Denver, Colo., visited his parents, the I.G. Mobleys and his brother, Ray Green last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Ramsey and son Tim of Glenwood Springs, Colo., have been visiting their parents, the Milton Donaways and Jack Ramsey and Maxie Solomon the past week.

Mrs. Grace Bozeman of Coleman and Mrs. Betty Hudson of San Angelo visited their aunt, Mrs. R.B. Taylor Sunday.

My good neighbor, Mrs. Rue Sunderman is spending some time at the Golden Holiday Nursing Home at Bird. We visited her today and she is very happy there.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Jewell of Chester, Neb., spent the weekend with her cousin, Mrs. R.B. Taylor. The Jewells have spent the winter in the Rio Grande Valley and are on their way home.

The following were elected to the city council Saturday at the Municipal Election. Marie Maxwell 31 votes, K.V. Riffe 25 and Dean Cavanah 17.

these great men had ideals and moral standards, and probably succeeded in forming the best government existing anywhere in those days, one need only to go back to the days when people were enslaved, small children having to work in factories or fields for a few pennies, instead of being in school, minorities and people of different religious persuasions mistreated, the poor trusting Indian driven from his land?

These are only a few things that were acceptable in those days. Thank God the government did never stop (improving) when it saw it should.

I believe this government to be the most Godly, humane government in all the world, and I am proud to live in this great country! I will always do my best to support its leaders and pray for them.

Editor:

Our President lies wounded, felled by a bullet fired from a "Saturday Night Special." This favorite weapon of the assassin was easily obtained at a Dallas pawnshop.

In all but one of the 11 assassinations and attempted assassinations of Presidents or Presidential candidates, the assassin used a handgun. Presidents Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley were slain. Candidate Robert Kennedy was killed. Governor George Wallace is crippled. In September 1975 alone, President Ford's life was threatened twice by assassins wielding handguns. Now President Reagan has been shot.

Must we bury another President before the Congress acts to pass an effective national handgun control law? Together we can make the Congress act now to control handguns. Join with us today.

Mr. and Mrs. James Huddleston Return From New Orleans Trip

Mr. and Mrs. James Huddleston have just returned from New Orleans, La., where they visited their son, Dr. Rodney Huddleston and his wife, Rodney is the grandson of Mrs. S.B. Parks of Cisco.

New Orleans is located at the gate way of the Mississippi Valley. A great national refuge for pleasure seekers. The city of many cultures. Here romance and history, frozen in iron lace, literally drip from the eaves of ancient Vieux Carre buildings. Pirates, and creoles, the swamp and the river, history and pageantry, music and food - just living from day to day can be an adventure.

In 1718 New Orleans was founded, and has thrived under five flags.

The Huddlestons stood behind the spires of the St. Louis Cathedral, where is centered the social, and religious life of a land that was an empire within itself. This Basilica is 193 years old. The cathedral is religious, historical, architectural, and art interest. They visited the ancient Cabildo where the actual transfer to the United States of the Louisiana Purchase was made. They strolled through the old corridors, patios, and courtyards. They had refreshments at the side walk cafes.

They also walked down narrow Bourbon St., and imbibed the jazz that comes from every door, but the most authentic, and soulful music heard in New Orleans emanates from Preservation Hall on St. Peter's Street. Next door to Pat O Brines where you can get the famous Hurricane cocktail and bring the tall glass home for a souvenir.

The picturesque French Quarter exudes old world charm.

They had dinner at the French restaurant "Antoine." This restaurant was started in 1840. It has 16 sons; in memory of C.B. Midkiff by Mr. and Mrs. Leak Lane; in memory of Ruth Bolinger by Word Home Demonstration Club; in memory of Mrs. Cora Plumlee by Word Home Demonstration Club; in memory of Mrs. Sadie Youngblood by Word Home Demonstration Club; in memory of Fred G. Guyger by First Industrial Arts Club, Mrs. Leah Brown, Ladies 42 Club; in memory of W.C. Hogue by Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wender; in memory of J.H. (Boone) Boggs by Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Penn.

dining rooms available for banquets and private parties of two to two hundred guests. They enjoyed the displays of the wax models of the former kings and queens of previous years of Mardi Gras in their full dress or costumes. They also toured the famous wine cellar. The oldest brandy in the stock dating back to 1811.

Another day they shopped at the French market, and explored the tiny Pirates' Alley where all the artists where showing their paintings. This is located also in the French quarter, and is the one time home of many American writers and artists.

Perhaps the most popular novel to come out of the South, "Gone With the Wind," is represented here in the Crescent City. On Arabella St., and St. Charles, stands a replica of Tara, Scarlett O'Hara's beloved plantation home. (Although most of Margaret Mitchell's story takes place in Georgia, she did send Scarlett and Rhett to New Orleans for their honeymoon.) One day the Huddlestons went to the Chalmette National Historical Park, and stood on the earthen log reinforced rampart that spans the width of the park as General Andrew Jackson did on the chill and foggy dawn before the Battle of New Orleans in January 1815. They went through the museum there.

They took long drives and witnessed the serene majesty of the great galleried plantation homes coolly flanked by ancient oaks leading to the rivers levee.

A person can take a drive to Grand Terre from New Orleans, and see real backwoods Cajun country - houses built on stilts above the water, fishing boats anchored along the bayou, home-style eateries serving some of the best seafood in the world. They had to try it, and it was delicious.

The unpredictable swamps may have held ghastly terror for the British back in 1815 but these days they hold something more akin to fascination. A person can take a canoeing, and hiking excursions into the many beautiful, unspoiled wilderness areas near, and not so near New Orleans. Typical is an all day canoeing venture into the Honey Island Swamp on the Mississippi border. There can be seen the mud flats studded with tupelo trees, a favorite haunt of the crayfish. Giant cypresses at the water's edge are heavy with Spanish moss, create a perfect setting for swamp spirits.

Back in New Orleans a person can take a sightseeing tour on the world's largest side-wheel steamboat or ride on a street car. Only one operating line left.

Less dive into the frenzy that is Mardi Gras. There are few ritual events in America that are as firmly entrenched in ancient rite, and tradition as New Orleans' Mardi Gras. It celebrates Shrove Tuesday - the eve of Lent, otherwise known as Fat Tuesday - when human self-indulgence breaths its last great gasp before the Austere pre-Easter observance convenes on Ash Wednesday. Mardi Gras officially begins two weeks before Fat Tuesday.

and parties, formal balls, and parades rage right up to the feverish climax, on March 3 this year. Mardi Gras in shot is the world's biggest party, and everybody is welcome to come as they are, or as they rather be.

From the early hours of the morning until the toll of midnight, signaling the official beginning of Ash Wednesday the streets of the French Quarter are jammed with crowds of elaborately costumed maskers.

Carnival beads and souvenirs are thrown from the floats, and its fun to see how many a person can catch.

Two parades passed in front of their son's house. One in the day time, and one at night. People were lining the streets by 7 o'clock for the day parade some brought lawn chairs, and lunch baskets. This particular parade consisted of 37 elaborate decorated floats plus a lot of bands. One band being from Houston. Everyone seems to be in a mood of celebration.

The Huddlestons were told that there were 49 parades in all, but they only watched three.

A GOOD CROWD of folks from a good many states is expected for the 6th annual Heyser Registered Angus Sale at 1 p.m. Sunday at the Eastland Auction Company. The event is being sponsored jointly by the Heyser Ranch and the Texas Angus Association. John Brandon of Stephenville will be the auctioneer.

A total of 70 heifers and one steer will be sold. Proceeds from the sale of one of the heifers will be donated by the Heyser Ranch to the Texas Angus Association to benefit the organization's new office building in Fort Worth.

J.V. and Helen Heyser are well known over the state for their work in the junior Angus Association.

WENT OVER to Abilene last Saturday afternoon to see the Thunderbirds at the Dyess AF Base open house, and we're here to tell you they put on a super show. It was the 2,400th appearance of the crack Air Force flying team in the squadron's 21-year history.

Program highlights were rolls and loops by the four airplanes in the precise formation. If you've ever flown formation, you know that it's a pretty good trick to stay 15 feet above and 15 feet diagonally away from the lead plane—much less than holding that position as the leader takes his formation through perfect loops and rolls. In addition, they made pass-overs flying inverted in perfect formation.

The squadron is stationed at Nellis AF Base, Nevada, and performs for special events all over the country.

SEEING THE wild flowers along IH-20 en route to Abilene and back was a bonus for the day. Buffalo clover, bluebonnets, an assortment of daisies and other flowers are in beautiful bloom right now. And a rain would contribute mightily.

In the area just west of Putnam, the delightful aroma of the wildflowers makes you want to stop and treat your nose to some good smelling.

Bluebonnets are especially nice out at the Wesley Smith's front yard. And they're very pretty in front of the Church of Christ on IH-20. Also at City Hall in downtown Cisco. The following shrubs are real nice at the Post Office, too: Lilacs, wisteria, creeping phlox and other flowers are prettier than usual around town, it seems to us. At the home of Mrs. R.N. Cluck, 707 West 7th, you'll want to see the climbing yellow roses on large tree stumps in the yard.

GUESS YOU'D have to call Mr. Bill Carr's face cover whiskers—same are too heavy to be called a beard. Bet he'll come close to winning if he enters the Centennial Beard Growing Contest. Tax Assessor-Collector Steve Thomas has a handsome beard for a late starter. Glad to hear that Mr. Luke Phippen is doing nicely. He has been in Eastland Memorial Hospital for some time. Mrs. Betty McGinness, chairman of Centennial promotion, was real pleased when we met up with her Monday. She had just received word that the Owens Sausage people will send their hitch of horses and wagon here for the Centennial Parade.

MR. BOB Bennie, who grew up here and retired from the army last week, took over his duties Monday as pro at the Cisco Country Club. Glad to have him back home. There's reports of unrest out on Primrose Street. Paul Blaine's cat has lost most of its tail, and Paul has been looking askance at neighbors, we're told. The Billy Wrights took in the annual meeting of the Texas Cattle Raisers Association last week in Fort Worth.

YOU'LL BE pleased to hear that Mrs. Sam Hart, who lives out on the Breckenridge Highway, was doing nicely Monday after undergoing surgery last Friday at Scott & White Hospital, Temple. She suffered a hip fracture in a fall at her home.

Doctors installed a new hip joint and said they'd have her walking in another week. Mrs. Violet Frasier of Abilene remained in Temple with her mother as Mesdames Effie Kamon and Rose Clark and Mr. Tom Hart came home Sunday.

IF YOU WERE watching both of Abilene's television stations last Friday you'd have seen Miss Charlotte McGuire, daughter of the John McGuires, twice. She was on both Channel 9 and Channel 32 during the noon hour—one live and one taped. She made a good appearance, we've heard several folks say. Mary Ellen Woods, who is a student at TSU, Stephenville, got into a thunderstorm as she drove home from over there last Friday night.

The Cyclone of 1893

By Tim Scarlett
8:00 a.m. Friday, April 28, 1893

From through a window across the street we see little Edwina: yellow dress, flaxen hair, violet ribbons, skip one, two, three over grass filled sidewalk cracks and across mucky dirt streets. Her rippled reflection follows a half step behind across the shop windows. As seen through a town's admiring eyes, Edwina is below the poet's bright sun even under the cool dark clouds of this day. She is crossing an open lot now, and her raven hair is blown high, carrying with it one of her violet ribbons. The ribbon spirals slowly up against the thick black sky. As Edwina stands looking up at the ribbon it seems to take on some special significance. She stares at the unfamiliar sky and feels something is wrong.

8:30 April 28, 1893
Mr. Howard stands looking out across the pasture of his farm. He seems to look through or between the cattle and trees at something that spawns a feeling of darkness and uncertain change to come. He moves like a sleepwalker and bends down to scoop up a handful of the black soil. Just outside his field of vision something slowly moves even more sinister than the dark clouds above.

10:00 April 28, 1893
In a small, white box house in a little bedroom with faded, pink rose, wallpaper, a window, Mrs. Myres lives. There is a thick smell of rosewater and a faint haze which seems to suspend the colors in the room, as if looking through a frosted window.

Walking quietly from the kitchen into the bedroom we see Mrs. Myres from the back slowly rocking. On one wall is an embroidered plaque in yellow, green and gold, saying "God Bless This Home." On a mantle there are several brick-a-bracks: a brown and white porcelain dog, a boy in blue knee pants with a straw hat, holding a fishing rod. A gray circus elephant stands on hind legs waiting for command. To the right of the elephant is a golf-colored filigree frame containing a tin type photograph of a girl and a young man. The girl is without expression and she wears a black dress with a white collar. The man has dark black hair and beard. He has a look of stalwart determination that seems a bit strained as if to fortify his hopes for the future. By the photograph on the mantel sits a clock ticking a slow begrudging meter of time. A pendulum swings back and forth reflecting the room in a convex copper colored swirl. Second slowly follows second, seemingly tied with a goosemer thread spinning a cobweb in which time is tied up and suspended. Mrs. Myres is reflecting on the dream of destruction she had last night in the little bedroom with the sound of the wind and the rocking chair and the muffled tick of the clock. The girl in the picture is still without expression. The elephant still stands in wait.

In another house across town Miss Swartz sits in a large leather chair looking at an eastern mail order catalog, turned to the ladies fashion section. She pushes back her hair with one hand and reads, "Ladies Double Spring Cape—all wool ladies cloth, 4 inch black lace collar, upper cape trimmed with two rows of satin ribbon 1/2 inch wide and 4 inch black lace; full sweep colors—Havana, navy, tan and black—each $3.00.

She stares at some invisible spot on the floor by the family dog who punctuates his presence by lazily waging his tail as if to justify his sedentary behavior while the wind blows a ceaseless aria outside. A smile moves across her mind and rests on her lips as she sees herself wearing the cape at the Sunday church picnic under a cloudless blue sky which seems to shine bluer and more dazzling above where she stands. With the heavy gaze of Ezra on her she talks with the ministers wife. "And Mrs. Wheeler, you know how fragile they become during a cold spell, and a body just cannot depend on Mr. Thornton's claims. But let me tell you what I did....."

Her mind returns to the room again. The wind has been blowing with an increasing violence. The dog has left the room and lies in the kitchen floor listening to the creaking of the shed door outside.

The cyclone is now upon the town. In a brown two story house, up a long flight of stairs, down a long narrow hall flanked by little country scene pictures, near the corner of a low ceiling room stands little Bobby with his rag toy brown bear in hand with the white button eyes. The bear's shadow is seen swinging back and forth with blank limp submission like the limbs of the now uprooted trees lying flat and defeated an iconic flash of lightning illuminates and reflects the bending tree limbs in Bobby's anxious eyes.

Edwina, Mr. Howard, the widow, Miss Swartz and Bobby all unwilling performers in nature's capricious play.

These people were not killed although about 20 of Cisco's citizens were and many more were injured. The total cash receipts for cyclone sufferers amounted to $30,521.46. This was to be first test of courage and optimism that the citizens of Cisco were to face and triumph over.
