Pensions Can Affect Social Security

People working in a Federal, State, or local government job not covered by social security should know that the pension from this work could affect the social security benefit they were expecting to receive as a husband or wife, Glyn Hammons, social security district manager in Abilene, said recently.

This is because the social security benefit for a husband, wife, widow, or widower will be reduced—dollar for dollar—by the amount of the government pension. This offset will not affect the amount of the government pension or the amount of any social security benefit the person receives based on his or her own work covered by social security.

In addition, Hammons said, the law provides an exception for some people. A person is exempt from the offset if:

He or she is eligible to receive a Federal, State, or local government pension before December 1982 even though he or she does not apply for it, and

He or she meets all the requirements for wife's, husband's, widow's, or widower's benefits in effect in January 1977. At that time, a man had to have been dependent upon his wife for more than half of his support to be eligible as a husband or widower, and a divorced woman's marriage had to have lasted 20 years, rather than the 10 years now required for her to be eligible.

The purpose of the offset is to prevent windfall payments to retired government workers who have their own pensions and would also receive social security benefits as a spouse or surviving spouse, Hammons said.

In addition, the offset will not apply if the person's government job is covered by social security on the last day the person works.

More information about the government pension offset can be obtained at the Abilene social security office. A free leaflet, Government pension offset—How it may affect you, can be obtained there. The office is located at 142 S. Pioneer and the telephone number is 698-1360. For those living outside Abilene, call toll free by dialing 1-800-392-1603.

"Pilate saith unto them, 'What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?'"—Matthew 27:22
I quickly glanced at the menu the waitress handed me. An array of foods leaped at me from the leaflet. I grimaced, "What should I order?"

The waitress patiently stood with pen and check pad. Noting my hesitancy she shook her head and said, "Decisions, decisions!"

No one likes to suffer from being unable to make decisions. One's decisions may at times be minor. At other times it may be a major decision which could change the entire course of one's life. The decision process holds a very significant place in renewing personal vitality.

Is not the most important life changing decision we have the same decision which confronted Pilate, the Roman procurator of Judea Matthew 27:22? The question was, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ?"

Pilate wished to avoid making such a decision. Finally he took water and washed his hands, side tracking the issue and saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this person."

Was he? Pilate in spite of his evasion did make a decision—one which altered the course of history.

Friend, what decision are you or have you made when confronted with the question, "What will I do with Jesus?" It will determine your life's direction, both now and throughout the ages.

SENATE
Here is how Texas

In the war against drugs, we need to muster all our resources to stamp out illegal drug abuse.

It is obvious that more must be done in Texas than has been done to this point, because there has been an alarming increase in the illegal manufacture and use of drugs in our state—up by 63 percent in 1980 alone.

The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration has provided me with preliminary estimates which show that the retail value of drugs illegally manufactured and used here increased from some $640 million in 1979 to over $1 billion last year.

The DEA reports that usage of cocaine and dangerous drugs such as methamphetamine or "speed" is on a dramatic upswing in Texas. Last year, cocaine use in the state jumped from 490 pounds to 800 pounds and the amount of dangerous drugs manufactured in the state—primarily methamphetamine—rose from 200 million dosage units in 1979 to 800 million units in 1980.

We can take some comfort in the fact that heroin use in our state has declined. The DEA reports that heroin usage in Texas dropped from 406 pounds in 1979 to 140 pounds in 1980; marijuana use declined slightly, from 1.5 million pounds to 1.25 million pounds.

We've also seen a drop in the manufacture of PCP, known as "angel dust"—which I consider the most dangerous illicit drug in use today.

According to DEA estimates, "angel dust" manufacture in Texas decreased from 200,000 units in 1979 to 150,000 in 1980. The President signed into law in 1978 my bill making it harder to obtain piperidine—one of the key ingredients in this drug—and the DEA indicates that this new law has helped their efforts to curtail "angel dust" abuse.

We can't rest easy, though, until we totally eliminate this drug—which can literally drive people crazy—as a threat to Americans.

I have other anti-drug legislation pending in the current Congress. One such measure, for example, sharply stiffens the penalty for pilots involved in drug smuggling. Currently the Federal Aviation Act provides only a $1,000 fine and a one-year flying certificate suspension. My proposed amendment sets a maximum five-year prison term, a $25,000 fine and revocation of the pilot's license.

I also have introduced legislation to provide longer prison sentences for persons who commit crimes while free from jail on bail.

My bill mandates consecutive sentencing for individuals convicted of federal crimes while they are free from jail on bail. It would require that in these cases the sentences for any additional crimes be in addition to—and not run at the same time as—the sentence for the first crime.

Someone in these circumstances, convicted of three armed robberies and sentenced to 10 years for each robbery, for example, would serve only 10 years if the sentences run concurrently. But 30 years would be the total time in prison if the sentences run consecutively, as I think they should.

Clearly, the overall picture indicates that we are losing the war against drugs in Texas. We simply cannot allow the drug pushers and smugglers to gain the upper hand in this battle.

In the 97th Congress, I intend to redouble my efforts to gain passage of anti-drug legislation and to take any other steps that are necessary to show drug-dealing criminals that we Texans are not easy prey for their deadly operations.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

For almost a decade we in government and you in the private sector have been talking about developing a national energy policy.

We have generated enough computer printouts from enough energy use models to bury the entire Congress, and a substantial number of bureaucrats as well. We have generated enough regulations to confuse the most dedicated businessman and make lawyers rich. But until now, we have not had anything that could honestly be called an effective energy policy.

But in all this fruitless search for an energy policy, the planners failed to take into account the most obvious and the most critical element -- the American people and their ability to respond to a changing world.

The Administration is in the process of evolving a policy which will put the people and their marketplace in the center of the equation where they belong. That is not to say government can wash its hands of the problem and walk away.

There is a legitimate role for the federal government in developing new sources of energy, in ensuring energy security and even in regulation. But this role should start where the ability of the private sector to handle the situation ends. We must stop the government from inhibiting energy independence.

All Americans are involved in making energy policy. When an individual decides to form a carpool because the price of gasoline is too high to drive alone, he is helping create a conservation policy. When an independent producer decides to drill an oil well on the hope of a return on his investment, he is implementing a policy of increased production.

Computers cannot gauge human responses to future situations with precision. That is a major reason so many projections of future energy production and consumption have been wrong.

Increased reliance on the market decisions Americans make every day offers a continuing national referendum which is a far better means of charting the nation's energy path than stubborn reliance on government dictates or a combination of subsidies and regulations.

Certain mitigating measures may be required from time to time to avoid unacceptable burdens on one sector of our society or another, but these can best be considered in the context of social, not energy, policy.

The President's action to end oil price controls and to dismantle the burdensome regulatory apparatus associated with those controls was a major step in implementing an energy policy focused on market realities. The challenge ahead is to provide a healthy economy and policy environment that enables citizens, businesses and state and local governments to make rational energy production and consumption decisions -- decisions that reflect the true value, in every sense, of all the nation's resources.

Panicky, piecemeal efforts by government to relieve energy supply and price uncertainties have been and always will be counterproductive.

I know that the citizens, the energy producers and the industries of Texas stand ready to do their share and more in implementing a reasonable energy policy which relies on the traditional greatness of the American people and their ingenuity and resourcefulness.

CCC Offers Corn For Sale

Farmers and other interested persons will be eligible to purchase corn from the commodity Credit Corporation starting July 27.

David W. Martin, County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office said the CCC will offer corn for unrestricted use sale at market prices, but not less than the formula price which is 115 percent of the county loan rate for corn where stored plus 54 cents per bushel carrying charges.

The minimum quantity that will be considered for acceptance is 1,000 bushels, Martin said.

According to the ASCS office, offers will be received and sales will be made on a first come, first served basis.

Interested persons should contact the county ASCS office as soon as possible for further details. The Eastland ASCS office is located in the Courthouse, Eastland Texas, and telephone number is (817) 629-1636.

Senator Glasgow reports from The 67th Texas Legislature

At the present time we are in the middle of the Special Session. I am optimistic that we can finish all of the five different measures within the allotted thirty days. In fact, we may be able to take up some additional matters.

We have been able to reach a compromise agreement on the Medical Practices Act and probably by the time this column appears, a Practices Act will have passed out. An agreement was reached in the osteopath-medical doctor and optometrist-medical doctor issues that prevented passage during the Regular Session.

The Senate this week passes a congressional redistricting plan which in most instances left the counties of District 22 in the same Congressional districts as before. The main exception being Denton County and eastern Cooke county being placed in a newly created congressional district and Somervell County being placed in Congressman Stenholm's district.

The House is now considering the Senate plan and although there will probably be some changes, none will substantially affect District 22.

The revision of the county-wide appraisal districts has, as of this writing, reached something of a stalemate in the Senate. The Senate made substantial changes in the bill when they voted to delay implementation of the Peveto Act and to have only elected members serve on the Board, along with the amendments to the Act. If the Legislature hangs-up on any measure, this will probably be the one.

The Senate should have considered by this week its decision on the abolition of the State ad valorem tax. The tax will probably be abolished as the sentiments and the votes are there to do so. The tough decision will be what source of revenues to use for higher education construction, as the State property tax revenue was used by non-PUF fund schools for construction fund purposes.

The water fund plan should also be out by the time this column appears. There is considerable support for the water fund although some question the wisdom of dedicating the fund in the constitution. We already have over two-thirds of the funds spent by the State dedicated in the constitution. This lack of flexibility presents a problem.

State Fair Creative Arts Premium Book Available

The creative arts premium book for the 1981 State Fair of Texas is now available to cooks, craftsmen, collectors and anyone else who believes his or her specialty might merit a blue ribbon in one of the 955 categories.

The 116 page booklet details rules and deadlines that apply to entries judges prior to the Fair describes 25 additional contests that may be entered as late as 30 minutes before the judging begins.

A new classification for young artists, ages 6-11, is being offered to express the theme of this year's Fair, "Going Places, Doing Things." Other additions for 1981 includes a Taste and Taste Contest for box lunches, a Look Alike Contest with family and celebrity divisions and competition for quick breads baked on the premises.

State Fair dates are Oct. 9-25. Premium books may be obtained by writing or calling the Creative Arts department of the State Fair of Texas, P.O. Box 26010, Dallas, TX 75226, (214) 565-9931.

Oct. 10-18, to compete for rating points and prize money.

Competition, always a cornerstone of the State Fair of Texas, can be applauded and appreciated in wide-ranging activities on a daily basis. Blue ribbons, trophies, cash awards and other valuable prizes will spur thousands of entries in livestock events, horse shows, creative arts contest, high school band competition and frisbee championships. The Pan-American Livestock Exposition, Oct. 9-18, will be highlighted by the prestigious World Congress of Santa Gertrudis Breeders, an international conclave which is being held in the United States for the first time.

Fairgoers will be able to find everything from Ronald Reagan's favorite candies to America's favorite cow, Elsie, in the mammoth exhibit buildings. The Fair provides an opportunity comparison shop all the 1982 car models, a chance to sample new food items and an occasion to learn about life in other countries, all in a personal one-to-one atmosphere.

Free entertainment will be offered continuously. Outstanding country talents Barbara Fairchild and Fiddlin' Frenchie Burke will present multiple shows on outdoor stages, and visitors will enjoy a full schedule of circus performances, street dances, gospel sings, fireworks display, high-wire acts, fashion shows and parades.

Midway rides and games, all kinds of food specialties, top quality museum exhibitions, multi-media shows and special guest appearances are part of the 1981 lineup that will continue to grow from now until the official ribbon cutting. Admission prices remain at $3.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12.

The tale of Daddy's little girl and the diamond that she found

Diamonds. Say the word, and it conjures up a charisma of romance and love, whether you're referring to the girl next door's engagement ring or one of the fabulous beauties listed in Notable Diamonds of the World, reports the Jewelry Industry Council.

And, there is a romantic tale attached to each one of the more than 350 diamonds, telling of how they were discovered and what happened to them.

It is true that most people think of diamonds being found in South Africa, India, Brazil and even Siberia, but at least 60 of the noted diamonds were discovered right here in the United States—and many by amateur "rock hounds," declares the Council.

Take, for example, the 11.92 carat Cotton Belt Star.

It was a damp, cloudy, drizzly Tuesday morning in June, 1963, when Art Rogers of Pine Bluff, Arkansas, took his wife and four young daughters to Murfreesboro's Crater of Diamonds mine.

The mine, a popular tourist attraction, was a favorite place the family visited whenever Art had vacation time.

In fact, the family had been visiting the area since 1959 and, between Art, his wife and daughters, the Rogers had unearthed 24 small diamonds.

There was a modest fee charged to visitors—$1.50 to adults, 50 cents to children, and infants were admitted free. Also, it was strictly "finders keepers" for any diamonds the visitors might find in the blue ground.

The morning drizzle and cloudiness burnt off under a smiling sun, and Art and his wife placed their youngest, Mary, 14 months old, on a blanket where she could be watched.

The precocious infant crept to the blanket's edge, and picked up some stones to play with. Just as she was about to pop one into her mouth, Art exclaimed, "Give it to Daddy!" and little Mary obediently handed over the object of her attention—a rough diamond of approximately 12 carats.

Art thought it too big to be a diamond, but something about the stone intrigued him. He took it to the mine operator, James Johnston, a geologist, who confirmed the stone to be a diamond in the rough.

In fact, the gemmologist pointed out, the stone had probably originally been almost 25 carats in size, for the crystal was split in the middle of the cleavage line. Somewhere in the mud and rocks, the twin half of the diamond lay.

Proud of his daughter's exceptional find, Art, a diesel locomotive electrician who worked for the Cotton Belt

Transportation Co., asked permission of his company to name the stone the "Star of the Cotton Belt."

The beautiful diamond, now cut into a handsome ring, is still in the Rogers family, and young Mary and her sisters still have the other gemstones they found with their parents made into jewelry—pleasant and nostalgic tokens of happier days when their father was alive.

So far, no one has found the other half of the Star, but the Mine, now taken over by the Arkansas Department of Parks and Tourism, still welcomes potential diamond hunters who just might turn up the other half of little Mary Elizabeth's precious stone!

NEWS Of Senior Citizens

81-Year-Old Author

(Inter-American News Service) The essays and stories of Jorge Luis Borges, one of Latin America's and the world's foremost writers, have long fascinated readers with their labyrinthine travels and psychic somersaults through the myths, history, and literature of Western culture. Now the 81-year old author's genius is on the silver screen, thanks to Argentine director Carlos Christensen's newly released movie, "The Tunnel." "The Tunnel" is based on the Borges short story of the same name concerning two brothers who fall in love with the same woman and twist the traditional lovers' triangle into an incongruous end. The film was made in Brazil and has been shown extensively in that country.

Steel Shot Seminar Set In Houston

AUSTIN—A free seminar on the use of nontoxic (steel) shot in waterfowl hunting will be sponsored by three sportsmen's clubs at 8 p.m. July 27 in Houston.

The seminar will be held in Room 131 of the Anderson Biological Laboratories at Rice University, 6100 S. Main.

Sponsoring organizations are the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas (SCOT), Houston Woods and Waters Club and the Houston Chapter of Safari Club International.

Nontoxic shot zones have been established in many states, including Texas, in efforts to reduce the losses of waterfowl from lead poisoning. The birds often pick up toxic lead shot, mistaking it for food or grit.

For more information on the lead poisoning/nontoxic shot issue or on the seminar, contact William C. Brownlee, Migratory Game Bird Program Leader, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, (512) 479-4800.

Texas Doctors Praise Passage Of Bill

AUSTIN--Texas doctors commended the state legislature for passing a bill that will continue the licensure and regulations of physicians in the state.
 "Passage of a sound Medical Practice Act is in the best interest of the public and will safeguard quality medical care in Texas," said William F. Ross, M.D., president of the Texas Medical Association.
 "The people of this state should be proud of the wise action taken by the Texas legislature," the Dallas family physician said. Dr. Ross noted that the legislation got one of the most thorough reviews of almost any other issue before the regular or special session.
 Final approval in the Senate on Tuesday (July 28) was by a 27-1 vote. The House gave unanimous approval to the bill last Friday.

With unanimous approval of the measure in the House and with only one vote of opposition in the Senate, the bill will become law immediately upon Governor Bill Clements' signature. Current laws regulating medical care in Texas expire on August 31, 1981, under the provisions of the state's Sunset Act.
 Under the new Medical Practice Act, the definition of the practice of medicine is continued from the current law. The Texas State Board of Medical Examiners, the body responsible for administering the laws regarding physicians and medical care, will be expanded from its present 12 physician members by the addition of three public, non-medical

Gar Pose Redeeming Qualities

Have you ever been fishing on a hot summer day when it seems the only fish within miles are schools of pesky gar slapping and rolling on the surface?
 At times like these, the angler usually decides it's time to pack up his gear and head for the nearest air conditioner.
 However, if catching fish for the sheer sport of it is in your blood, the lowly gar is willing to give you a thrill. There are several ways to hook the toothy gar, and once in the line gar jump and cavort like misplaced tarpon.
 One of the simplest and most popular methods for catching gar is with a large safety pin style spinnerbait which has no hook, but rather a skirt of tough nylon fiber.
 When a gar strikes the skirt, the fish's tiny teeth tangle with the nylon and the fight is on.
 There are other ways to rig gar-catching tackle. Some fishermen use a minnow hooked in the traditional manner, but with a steel leader formed into a loop around the baited hook. When the gar strikes the minnow, the steel leader forms a noose which tightens around the fish's long, narrow snout.

 There are several misconceptions among the fishing public about gar, according to fisheries biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. One is that they are harmful to game fish populations. While they may not always be beneficial, they usually have little effect on bass and other sport fish.
 Gar fed on small forage fish species such as shad and minnows, and they usually keep to more open-water areas. While they may consume some young game fish, the take is probably insignificant in most waters.
 Another perhaps little-known fact is that gar are quite edible. However, it takes some know-how to extract the boneless "back strap" from the fish's upper back. Although most consider gar scavengers, their diet of small fish gives them a good flavor if caught from water of reasonably good quality.

Wildlife Federation Asks Reagan To Fire Watt As Interior Secretary

The National Wildlife Federation has called upon President Reagan to fire James G. Watt as Secretary of the Interior.

Dr. Hay D. Hair, executive vice president of the nation's biggest citizens conservation group, said Watt has "lost the confidence of Americans who are concerned about our environment and the conservation of the natural resources Mr. Watt was appointed to protect."

The NWF, Hair said, has reluctantly decided that "evidence of Mr. Watt's unsuitability for the job he holds has become so overwhelming...that the sooner he is relieved of his duties the better it will be for our country and our resources."

NWF has 4.5 million members and supporters in all 50 states. Before deciding Watt should be fired, Hair said, NWF made an in-depth study of his six-month record in office and "found it wanting in nearly every respect." NWF also polled 4,000 of its members and found that although they voted two to one for Ronald Reagan over Jimmy Carter last year, they rejected Watt's position on 10 of 11 current environmental issues.

The 117-page study of Watt's record and the results of the membership survey were made public at an NWF news conference. While other environmental groups have denounced Watt in recent months, NWF held its fire, Hair said, in the hope that "patience is the best remedy for every trouble."

The Federation tried to maintain a dialog with Watt while others were calling for his ouster, Hair continued, but finally found that "our patience has not been rewarded."

NWF found, Hair said, that Watt "places a much higher priority on exploitation and development than on conservation...that while he pays lip service to environmental protection, he is working to undermine or circumvent many of our basic environmental protection laws...and that he is inflexible and unresponsive to ideas and entreaties from the conservation movement."

Hair said he saw no possibility of "rehabilitating" President Reagan's most controversial Cabinet officer and therefore "removal is the only option we see open to the President. We have reached this conclusion reluctantly - even sadly - because we have no personal animus against Mr. Watt, and we still want to cooperate with the Reagan Administration in bringing about the 'new beginning' for America that the President called for so eloquently in his inaugural address."

The NWF study of Watt's record listed what it called "ten Secretarial actions most damaging to the conservation of our natural resources." The list:

- Crippling budget revisions
- Emasculation of the Office of Surface Mining
- Amended rangeland policy
- Dismantling water policy reform
- Moratorium on habitat acquisition
- Accelerated offshore oil

- and gas leasing
- Concessionaire management of parks
- Less protection for endangered species
- Law of the Sea Treaty scuttled
- Destruction of Consensus on Resource Conservation

It also contained a list of eight issues on which Hair said he asked Watt to take "immediate action" during their June 9 meeting. The list included a lifting of the ban on park and refuge acquisitions to permit the purchase of "critically threatened" sites, a delay in oil and gas leasing on Alaska Wildlife refuges, a resumption of the listing of endangered species, and urgent implementation of new strip mine rules to prevent evasion of the Surface Mining Act.

In some cases, the study noted, Watt took no action and made no response. In others, he took a course of action opposite to what NWF recommended.

The poll of 4,000 NWF members revealed, according to Hair, that the Secretary is "out of step, not only with the views of conservation leaders who have called on him, but with the mainstream of American thought on conservation issues." The poll asked eleven questions on six environmental issues, including further acquisition of parklands, mineral exploration in wilderness areas, oil drilling in marine sanctuaries along the continental shelf, and further listing of endangered species.

Each question on the poll offered two or three choices which included positions that have been taken by or attributed to Secretary Watt. However, no option was identified as an NWF or Watt position.

Of the 65 percent of the members who returned their ballots, which were pre-tested to eliminate bias, 13 members favored NWF positions for every one who favored Watt's positions. Those who said they had voted for Reagan rejected Watt's positions by almost as big a margin as all NWF members.

The issue which received the highest anti-Watt response concerned those areas being studied for designation as wilderness. Only one percent agreed with the Secretary that industry should be allowed to explore wilderness study areas for oil, gas, or mineral deposits. Fifty-four percent thought wilderness areas should remain closed to exploration during the study period, while 42 percent thought exploration should take place "only if companies are able to erase the effects of exploration in those areas where they fail to find anything". Two percent couldn't choose among the 3 positions, and one percent didn't know.

Members were also asked how they felt about Watt's positions on conservation and development. Almost 80 percent of those who felt qualified to judge Watt's policies said he is "too extreme in promoting development."

To provide a cross-check on the results of the general membership survey, NWF also conducted a poll of 167 of

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A diner said to a waiter, "Look here. I ordered chicken pie, and there's no chicken in this pie."

"Well," he replied, "we also serve cottage cheese, and there's no cottage in it."

And sometimes I am afraid that Christ is not in many of our so-called Christians and Christian churches.

Look at the word CHRISTIAN. If you take CHRIST out of CHRISTI-

AN you have I-A-N. Without Christ, I-A-N signifies I Am Nothing.

Yes, you can have cottage cheese without a cottage, horse radish without a horse, and chicken pie without a chicken. But you cannot be a Christian without Christ.

St. John wrote in the Gospel that bears his name, "But as many as received Him to them gave He power to become the children of God, even to them that believe on His name." Dr. Luke wrote in the book of Acts, "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is no other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

Many people try to embrace Christianity without embracing Christ. But that is impossible. Receive Christ and you will become a Christian.

4-H District Fashion Revue Contestants: (L-R) Janice Woolley, Nimrod 4-H Club; Sue Ann Osborne, Gorman 4-H Club; and Cynthia Foster, Nimrod 4-H Club.

4-H Girls Win With Fashions

"Hoe Down in Cow Town" was the theme of the District 8 4-H Fashion Revue in Hamilton on July 28. Registration began at noon at the Perry Country Club. Participants from Eastland County were Janice Woolley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Woolley; Sue Ann Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Osborne; and Cindy Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Foster. Janice was our Sub-Junior contestant and modeled a pale yellow oxford cloth dress with white trim. Janice was especially creative by making a straw belt to coordinate with her dress. A blue ribbon was awarded to Janice at the district Fashion Revue.

Sue Ann Osborne modeled a yellow printed sleeveless summer dress featuring drawstring shoulders and waistline. Sue Ann won a blue ribbon at the Fashion Revue.

Cindy Foster, our Senior contestant, made a three piece coordinating outfit perfect for school or dress. The skirt and lined vest were made from 100% polyester knit. A blue rose design cotton/polyester blouse completed Cindy's ensemble. Cindy won a red ribbon at the district Fashion Revue Thursday.

Parents and visitors attending the Fashion Revue from Eastland County were: Sandra Woolley, Sandra Osborne, Stacey Slampa and Linda and Craig Foster.

Black Powder Shooting State Workshops

Most Texans haven't gotten closer to a flintlock rifle than watching old Davy Crockett reruns on television.

But Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials estimate there are between 60,000 and 100,000 Texans who at least occasionally participate in the sport of black powder shooting.

The popularity of using antique firearms or reproductions of target shooting and hunting prompted the department to include instruction on black powder weapons in its regular hunter safety training course.

Many of the state's 1,200 volunteer instructors not only teach black powder firearms operation in the classroom, but also include the actual firing of muzzleloaders on ranges.

Black powder workshops recently were held in Corpus Christi, College Station, Midland and Wichita Falls where 72 instructors learned the basics of black powder use from experts in the field. The workshop covered segments on powder and gun history and development, nomenclature, special equipment and how to load, fire, clean and store muzzleloading firearms.

Black powder firearms are legal for use in hunting most game species in the state, although they must be used during the regular gun seasons.

To find a volunteer hunter safety instructor in your area, or to locate an instructor qualified to demonstrate black powder firing procedures, contact a local Parks and Wildlife Department office, game warden, or call (512) 479-4999.

Commission To Set Waterfowl Seasons

AUSTIN--Texas hunters may comment on proposed late-season migratory bird hunting regulations before the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission takes final action on the proposals Sept. 3 in Austin.

Those interested in commenting on the seasons, bag limits or means and methods of taking ducks, geese, coots, sandhill cranes, snipe and woodcock may write William C. Brownlee, Migratory Game Bird Program Director, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, TX 78744, or call toll-free 1-800-252-9688. Comments also will be accepted in person at the commission meeting.

Hunters will notice very few changes in the proposals from last year's regulations. Season lengths will be the same, and duck bag limits will be calculated by the same 100-point system as in the past.

Officials said all the regulations will be contained in the department's migratory game bird hunting law supplement which will be available at hunting license outlets across the state by early October.

The following is a condensed wrapup of the proposals:

DUCKS AND COOTS

In the High Plains Mallard Management Unit (a portion of West Texas west of a line from Del Rio through San Angelo, Abilene and Vernon to the Red River) the season is proposed for Oct. 27, 1981, through Jan. 17, 1982. For the rest of the state, the season would be Nov. 7, 1981, through Nov. 29, 1981, and Dec. 12, 1981, through Jan. 17, 1982. Shooting hours are proposed for one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Point values assigned various species of ducks are proposed to remain the same as last season. The season is closed on black-bellied and fulvous (whistling) tree

Local Author's Book Hit With Indians

By Viola M. Payne
Lela Latch Lloyd's book - "If The Chief Vann House Could Speak" found an enthusiastic acceptance among the Cherokee Indians of Oklahoma recently. The Cisco author, upon an invitation from Chief Ross Swimmer of the Cherokees, drove up to Talequah, Oklahoma, where her books were placed in the Cherokee Museum, and Cherokee Arts and Crafts Center. While visiting in Talequah, the old Capitol of the Cherokee Nation, Mrs. Lloyd attended the "Trail of Tears" Pageant in an outdoor amphitheatre.

The setting of the "Chief Vann House" book is located in an area of Georgia where Lela Lloyd lived when a child. Much history of the Cherokees is detailed, including their removal from Georgia to Oklahoma by the forced march referred to in the Pageant.

"A replica of the Chief Vann House of Georgia, built by Chief Joe Vann near Talequah was burned by the Union Army during the Civil War," notes Mrs. Lloyd. "It is fortunate that the mansion in Georgia escaped destruction, and is now a National Historic Site."

After visiting several interesting places around Talequah, Mrs. Lloyd drove over to the Will Rogers Memorial at Claremore, Oklahoma, where her book is also carried in the bookstore. Will Roger's mother was a granddaughter of the Joe Vann who built the Vann house in Georgia.

State Park Site Purchased

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials recently completed the largest single purchase for a state park site by obtaining the deed to 4,709 acres on the north shoreline of Lake Houston in Harris and Montgomery Counties.

The total cost of the tract was a record $13.6 million, paid with funds from the state's penny-per-pack cigarette tax. The cigarette tax monies go into the Local Parks, Recreation and Open Space Fund created by the Texas Legislature to acquire park lands serving urban areas.

The land, which is located only about 30 miles north of downtown Houston, includes approximately nine miles of water frontage on Lake Houston, the east fork of the San Jacinto River and Caney and Peach Creeks.

The tract was purchased from Champion Realty Corp., which had owned it for more than 30 years. Parks official said the wooded tract should offer outstanding recreational opportunities for Houston area residents when developed and opened to the public in three to four years.

The new site, along with the Hale Ranch State Park site now under development southwest of the city, will eventually provide Houston area residents almost 10,000 acres of the new parklands within 30 miles of downtown.

WORD OF GOD
What shall be the sign?
Mark 13:4
But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel;
And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams.
And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy:
And I will show wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapor of smoke:
The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come:
And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.
Acts 2:16-21
