

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERREL HALLMARK

IF YOU HAVE not started Christmas shopping yet, you better hurry up and get started since you only have 10 shopping days left.

Cisco merchants stayed open late Thursday night for local shoppers to come to their stores after normal hours and try to catch up on their shopping. Merchants also plan to stay open late again next Thursday, December 16.

DON'T FORGET the First National Bank of Cisco's Open House Sunday, December 12, from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. I hope you enjoy the special section in today's edition of The Cisco Press concerning the local bank.

I would like to thank all the persons who helped support the edition by purchasing advertisements.

SANTA CLAUS letters started slowly coming into the Press office this week, as copies of the letters were forwarded to us for publication in our annual Christmas edition. We are planning the edition for December 19.

If you know a child who would like to have a copy of their Santa letter published, drop it by the Press office. Incidentally, letters mailed at the special mail box in the Post Office will automatically be forwarded to the Press. Also all grade students in kindergarten, first, second, third and fourth grades have been asked to write a letter for the Press.

Anyone who would like to purchase a Christmas greeting advertisement in the annual holiday edition, is asked to contact the Press office before 5 p.m., Thurs-

Time & Place Changed For School Board

The meeting of the Board of Trustees for Cisco Independent School District has been moved to the high school library December 13, 1982, at 8:30 p.m.

Mayor Changes Time Of Dec. 14 Council Meeting

Mayor Richie has changed the starting time of the regular City Council meeting of December 14, 1982 from 7:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. to avoid conflict with the Cisco P.T.O. Christmas program.

day, December 16.

SPEAKING OF advertising, to any merchant who has been thinking of running an advertisement to pull in Christmas shoppers, now is your chance to reach a large number of potential shoppers at a minimum of cost.

The Press will be running its second edition of an Eastland County shopper in the Thursday, December 16, edition of the Press. Any person who runs an advertisement in the Cisco, Eastland and Ranger papers on that date, will be offered the opportunity to have their ad printed in a shopper which will be mailed to 6,000 homes at the additional cost of 25 cents per column inch.

For additional information, call the Press office. But you better hurry, because the deadline for advertisements in the shopper will be at 5 p.m. Monday, December 13.

AS OF FRIDAY, Cisco had been lucky in missing having any icy streets, although they were very wet from rains which started late Thursday afternoon.

Local temperatures were forecast for the upper 20s Thursday night, but Friday morning nothing was frozen so apparently the temperatures did not get as cold as predicted.

Optimism Expressed For Hilton Project

Mayor Eris Ritchie expressed optimism concerning the Mobley Hilton Restoration Project Friday after he headed a group of Ciscoans in a meeting with University of Houston Foundation officials at Dallas-Fort Worth airport Thursday.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss areas in which Cisco residents can cooperate and assist with the project, Mr. Ritchie said. Making the trip with the mayor were President L.D. (Dick) Woolley of First National Bank, President Elaine Dixon of the Chamber of Commerce, and President Norman Wallace of Cisco Junior College.

Flying to D-FW airport to meet with the Ciscoans were Dr. John Van Ness, vice president of the University

BANK OPEN HOUSE SET FOR SUNDAY

The public has been invited to tour the First National Bank's new $1,400,000 facility at 418 Conrad Hilton Avenue during the hours of 1:30 to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 12, according to announcement by President Lee D. (Dick) Woolley.

Officers, directors and employees of the bank will be on hand to assist with conducted tours. The bank moved from its old location three blocks south during the past week.

This edition of the Press contains a special 16-page tabloid section devoted to the First National Bank.

of Houston Foundation, which owns the Mobley Hilton Hotel in Cisco; Dr. Virginia Barnett, secretary and treasurer of the foundation; and Dr. Jerry Latin, dean of the Conrad Hilton School of Hotel and Restaurant Management at the University of Houston.

The Cisco and Houston groups held a two-hour meeting which was described by the mayor as "cordial and productive."

"The University of Houston Foundation is very interested in proceeding with the Mobley Hilton restoration as soon as possible," Mr. Ritchie said. "They are working with the Hilton Foundation."

"The Houston group was interested in determining possible areas of cooperation with Cisco clubs, volunteers and groups in the long range operation of the Mobley Hilton as well as in the restoration itself. We pledged to the group that Cisco is very sincerely interested and that we will be alert for any and all opportunities to be of assistance during restoration work and in the future."

The mayor added that "we came away optimistic that results will be seen within a few months."

"We went to the meeting with the assurance that our citizens will do what they can to help," Mr. Ritchie said. "Although there is no time table, we came away with new confidence."

Blevins Resigns As Police Chief

Raymond Blevins, chief of police for the City of Cisco since last April, submitted his resignation to City Manager Mike Moore last Wednesday, according to a report Thursday. The resignation will be effective Jan. 3, 1983.

Mr. Blevins, who has been with the police department since Oct. 7, 1981, told The Press that he plans to work in the oil industry. Mr. and Mrs. Blevins will continue to live at their home on the Rising Star highway, he added.

"Working with the police department for the City of Cisco has been a rewarding experience," Mr. Blevins said. "My relations with city officials has always been excellent."

City Manager Moore said a replacement will be named later. "Mr. Blevins has done a good job for us," he said. Mr. Blevins is a native of Throckmorton County and has been in police work some eight years.

Cisco Music Study Club Holds Meet

The Cisco Music Study Club is a member of the Texas Federation Club of Music Clubs, and National Federation of Music Clubs.

Wednesday, December 8th at 10:00 a.m. the Cisco Music Study Club met at the Federated Club House.

Mrs. Hal Lavery presided. Club collect was repeated by the members.

The program: The story of the Messiah was brought by Viola Payne. Christmas Eve in no man's land, was presented by Mrs. Lynn Williams. The hymn of the month, "Joy To The World", was presented by Mrs. Lavery.

The members present were: Elizabeth Donica, Mrs. Hal Lavery, Ben Krauskopf, Garland Shelton, Mrs. Lynn Williams, Mrs. Milo Steffen, Ada Mobley, Viola Payne, and Ora Howell.

MR. and MRS. DAVID HOOD

David Hood Is Calvary Baptist Youth Director

David Hood is the new youth director at Bible Baptist Church. He will be working with primarily high school and junior high teens.

He and his wife, Tammy, moved here December 1 from Bonham where he had worked two years as a youth director. He is a graduate of Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Mo.

AARP Will Hold Annual Yule Dinner Thurs.

The annual Christmas dinner for the Cisco Chapter of AARP will be held in the Coral Room, beginning at 6:00 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 16.

This meeting will also be an occasion for installation of 1983 officers by the Assistant State Director of the Texas AARP, J. Howard Clemons. Elected officers are Walter Knowlden, president; Ruth Brown, vice president; Maurine Thompson, secretary and Velma Joyner, treasurer. New board members are Oren Speegle and Gertrude Miller.

Members are reminded that contributions will be appreciated for the Christmas money tree. Funds this year will go to the Rehab Center. President Knowlden announces that donations of foodstuffs at the last meeting were sufficient for two baskets for needy families, and were delivered by Mr. and Mrs. Anton White and Mrs. Gertrude Besselaar.

Ham will be the entree for the covered dish supper and will be furnished by the Association; members will bring the usual covered dish "delectables."

Street, Cisco. Vernon and Patsy Cherry have purchased the restaurant.

Mrs. Cherry said the donut and coffee shop will open Monday, but the restaurant will not be open until a later date. She said the restaurant will be opening in the very near future.

She also stated, "We will have good food and good service, with a lunch special each day."

Mrs. Cherry runs Patsy's Donut Shop in Eastland. She and her husband have three children, Patricia, 9; Brandy, 7; and Wallace, 5.

Masonic Lodge Birthday Party Is Set Dec. 11

A covered dish supper at 6 p.m. followed by an open meeting at 7:30 p.m. was scheduled at the Masonic Lodge Hall, 201 West 6th St., Saturday, Dec. 11, in observance of the organization's 100th anniversary.

Virgil Murphy, master of the lodge, invited the public to the open meeting. The program included an address by Bob Waters of Arlington, deputy grand master of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

The Cisco Lodge No. 556 was founded Dec. 16, 1882, by 20 men. The history of the lodge was prepared by E.D. Farley and was to be read at the meeting.

Holiday Choral Program To Be Presented Tuesday

A Christmas choral program will be presented at the Parent-Teacher Organization meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 6:30 p.m. at the Cisco High School Auditorium. The first and second grades will perform a medley of Christmas favorites. An American Indian song "Twas in Moon of Wintertime" will be a highlight of the second grade. The first will sing a special song "One for the Little Bitty Baby."

The sixth grade Little Lobo choir will sing a special arrangement of "Silent Night" and will play the Orff instruments on several songs. The Orff instruments were purchased by P-T-O in recent years. P-T-O extends a special thanks to Mrs. Davene Jeffcoat who will direct the choirs.

Mrs. Doris Lundstrom, president of P-T-O, will preside at the short business meeting. Parents and guests be sure to sign the registrar sheets at the doors, so that the class that has the largest attendance at the program will receive a party. There will be a winner from Primary and Intermediate school.

Merry Christmas from P-T-O to all the citizens, parents and children who give of their time, money and talent to P-T-O.

FIRST AND SECOND grade students at Cisco's Primary School were practicing singing Wednesday afternoon for a Christmas Choral Program which will be presented at the Parent-Teacher Organization meeting Tuesday, Dec. 14, at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Davene Jeffcoat was playing the piano and directing the children in their singing when the above photo was taken. Hot-Line Tip Nets Two Men Eastland County's new HOT-LINE (629-3161) not only is IN USE - it's BEING USED - and GETTING RESULTS!

As the result of a Hot-Line tip, two San Antonio men were arrested at an Eastland motel early Friday, in connection with gambling equipment, possession of unlawful firearms and possession of controlled substance, District Attorney Emory Walton reports.

Eastland Police Chief Bobby Arriola, three Eastland Policemen and County Sheriff John Morren arrested the men about 3:30 a.m. Friday on a search warrant drawn by City Judge Robert Webb.

Arrested are Charles Duane Grant, and Thomas Clinton Tondre Jr., both 38, and both of San Antonio. Seized were several hundred pair of dice, equipment reportedly used to alter dice, marijuana (less than two ounces) and white powdery substance which was being analyzed by DPS chemist. The pair had approximate-

Firemen Plan Christmas Party

Members of the Cisco Volunteer Fire Department made plans for their annual family Christmas party and inspected new air pack equipment at their regular meeting last Tuesday night at the fire station.

Plans call for the Christmas party to be held Tuesday night, Dec. 21. The fire department will provide meat and members will take covered dishes. Details will be announced later by Fire Chief C.W. Guthrie.

The two new air packs, which enable firemen to work in areas of heavy smoke or fumes, were provided for in the new city budget. The department now has six air packs and can have two fire hoses and a two-man rescue team on the job at the same time. Instruction in use of the air packs was reviewed.

Queens Defeat Eastland 38-27

The Cisco Queens defeated the Eastland Mavettes 38-27 in the 1982-83 District opener Tuesday at Lobo Gym. The Queens who trailed by one at the half, came back to hold Eastland to two points in the third quarter and take the lead for good. High point for Cisco was Karen Crutchfield with 15 and Beverly Starr with 11. Sue Maxwell was high point for Eastland with 13 points. Tawni Angel, Kim Chambers, Vicki Wilcoxon and Jeanine Reich also had outstanding performances for the Queens. Queens record season was 3-3, District 1-0.

Wendy Endsley led the Queens Junior Varsity with 17 points in a 40-36 overtime victory, bringing the junior varsity record to 2-0 and 1-0 in district.

ly $13,000 in cash with them. Bond was set by Judge Webb at $10,000 each for the gambling equipment charge, and $2,500 each for each of the other charges. At mid-morning a bondsman from Abilene was on the way to the Eastland County Jail where the men were being held, it was reported.

Roy Cartee Speaks At DAR Meeting

Charles Crawlow, Chapter, DAR, met in the home of Mrs. Joseph Perkins, 1021 S. Seaman, Eastland, at 2:30 p.m. Monday, November 22, 1982. Mrs. C.E. Terrell was co-hostess.

Refreshments of cookies, candy, Carrot cake, cranapple juice, and coffee were served.

Clara Barton by Helen Dore Boylston (Founder of the American Red Cross) was discussed.

A letter from Crossnore School, Inc. was read. The letter was thanking those for the support to the school, and told what contributions made possible for the children.

A note of thanks was read from Betty Wallace, DAR member, thanking the Chapter for the expressions of sympathy during the events surrounding the death of her son.

Mrs. Lillian Cromwell reported on the subscriptions to the DAR magazine.

Mrs. Perkins told the gathering about Mrs. Townsend. Dr. and Mrs. Townsend were residents of Eastland for many years. It was very fitting to learn of one of Eastland's own who was so much a part of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Townsend was a nurse in the Red Cross from Philadelphia. Pictures were passed out for all to enjoy. Mrs. Townsend's wedding dress and other memorabilia are on display at the public library.

In keeping with the program theme of the American Red Cross, Allie Terrell gave a report about the 100th anniversary of the Red Cross.

It is interesting to note that the DAR and the Red Cross had their beginnings in 1880's. Clara Barton, Mabel Barton, Jane DeLano organized the Red Cross. These three were also charter DAR Members.

Some of the outstanding traits and accomplishments in the life of Clara Barton were reviewed. Miss Barton was a teacher when few women were teachers. Clara Barton was said to have the brain of a statesman, the command of a general, and the heart of a woman. She died in 1912.

Helen Terrell told the group how Ed Freyschlag helped with the Red Cross in the county.

The program for the day was presented by Mr. Roy Cartee who is the chairman for Eastland County for the American Red Cross. Mr. Cartee is a graduate of Penn State. He and his wife to Eastland in 1973. At the time Mr. Cartee came to Eastland, the Eastland National Bank was almost completely subsidizing the Red Cross. Mr. Cartee operates out of his home. The primary function of the Red Cross Office is to verify emergencies. They can authorize the leave for a serviceman for an emergency at home. The Red Cross offers swimming classes, CPR classes, and First Aid Classes. To maintain the local Red Cross Office for one year costs about $1200. The main office for our area is in St. Louis. This office does give aid to the local office when needed. One area in which Red Cross helped in the area was the flood in Eastland in October of last year. The Red Cross helped purchase mattresses. The Red Cross is the only organization that can cross enemy lines and be recognized for what it is. The only exception to this is Russia. They will not let the Red Cross into Afghanistan.

After this most informative program on the American Red Cross, the meeting was adjourned at 4:15 p.m.

Rising Star Men Charged With Theft

Two Rising Star area men and a Colorado City man have each been charged with two counts each of oil field theft in connection with the stripping of two rigs in Mitchell County, according to Texas Ranger Gene Keas here.

Thomas Huff of Colorado City was charged, arrested, booked and made bond in that county; and Lloyd Luncford and Bill Gregg, both of Rising Star, were charged in Justice of the Peace Court here, booked and released on $40,000 bond each ($20,000 for each charge.)

The some $30,000 in oil field equipment has been recovered.

Working on the case were Ranger Kea, Mitchell County Sheriff, Cohoma Chief of Police, Rangers from Big Spring and Brownwood and Gene Hicks and Buddy Turner of Rising Star.

Federal Government Plans To Cut Taxes However...

On July 1, 1983, the federal government presently plans to cut taxes by ten percent — and on the same day, reach into every citizen's savings account to withhold ten percent of interest earnings.

That's the stern warning by Craig Beskow, Vice President and Cashier of Eastland National Bank, speaking before a county service club this week. Letter-writing action is needed immediately, he emphasized.

There's something I'd like to talk with you about that's part of the tax legislation passed this year. This part of the new tax law did not receive a lot of attention, but I believe it's a volcano that is about to erupt.

A part of the new law due to go into effect in July of 1983 requires you to make a mandatory interest-free loan to the government. This will happen—and you will have no choice in the matter—because the government will be requiring all institutions that make interest and dividend payments to their individual customers to withhold for federal taxes 10 percent of the interest and dividends you have earned.

This means that the government will have free use of your money. It means you and I and the other Americans who earn interest or dividends will lose a lot of money. Savers and investors will lose an estimated $3 billion in reinvestment and compounding on their earnings.

What is the government's purpose behind this law which, by the way, has repeatedly been defeated in Congress over the years? The stated purpose is to increase the level of reporting on this income. But let's look at the facts.

According to the Treasury Department, taxpayers are already paying taxes on 85 percent of their interest and dividend income that is subject to reporting. When you consider that approximately 75 percent of individual tax returns submitted end up with refunds, it is pretty obvious that instead of adding real income to the Treasury, there will be a surge of new money in 1983, most of which will have to be returned to the taxpayers the following year. This means most people who do save and invest, people who put their dollars away for their own future, will be punished for saving. What we have here is a disincentive for saving and investment.

This law calls for some exemptions from withholding. But the way exemptions will be handled is just another example of unnecessary government intrusion into our lives. People who are under 64 with a tax liability of $600 or $1,000 on a joint return, or who are over 65 with a liability of $1,500 or $2,500 on a joint return may apply for exemption from withholding, but the procedure for getting an exemption brings up a major privacy concern. To qualify for an exemption, you have to go to your bank and hand the teller a form on which you have written your tax liability. How would you like your bank teller, who may be your neighbor or a member of your church, to see how much tax you pay? Isn't that a personal matter?

Banks and other institutions that pay interest and dividends to individuals will be responsible for withholding this money for the Internal Revenue Service. There will be enormous expense involved for these institutions to develop and put into place a system that would take into account the vast array of investments and financial services offered to the public. Of course the institutions would have no choice but to pass these expenses along to their customers in the form of higher service fees and lower yields.

Literally, the government will be picking the taxpayers' pockets. I'll bet not many of you were aware that the tax law Congress passed on August 19 gave the government permission to loot your savings account. I don't know about all of you, but I know I didn't give my consent.

The American Bankers Association believes that besides taking money away from people who save and invest it, and besides the problem with the privacy issue for those who would qualify for exemptions, the other flaw in the plan is that it shows little or no promise for improving compliance.

The ABA believes that improved compliance will be accomplished through the parts of this bill that broaden information reporting. This means banks and other institutions will be required to file more reporting forms and the IRS will be required to improve its recordkeeping. These approaches are much more effective than withholding, which penalizes millions of honest taxpayers. And besides costing savers and investors $3 billion in lost reinvestment and compounding, advance withholding taxes will cost the Treasury a billion dollars it could be earning on taxes payable on these earnings.

The whole principle behind withholdings on interest and dividends is an insult, when you really think about it. The implication is that you and I cannot be trusted to pay the taxes we owe. I think the Congress and the Administration got it backwards. It's not trust in the American people that should be questioned—it's whether we can trust our government.

What can we do about this law? What can we do if we choose not to give the government a gift from our own bank accounts?

What we can do, all of us, is to make sure that our representatives in Washington know how we feel about making an interest-free loan to the Treasury. The lost income to savers and investors, the expense that banks and other institutions would be forced to pass along, and the obvious inability of this provision to achieve even its stated goals—all of these points must be made to our representatives in Washington. Our representatives will yield the reason and repeal this law if we make sure our voices are heard in Washington.

The advantage of living in a democracy is that the Congress ultimately must represent the will of the people.

That means, if there is a strong national protest from the people back home, our representatives will have no choice but to repeal this law. The way to force our representatives to repeal this law is to write to them. Tell them how you feel about the government raiding your savings account. Urge them to repeal this law before it goes into effect. I'm talking about our congressmen. I'm talking about the senators from our state.

The Speaker of the House and the Senate majority leader should also be made aware of how taxpayers feel about the government's lack of trust in us.

I'd like to issue a challenge to you. Ask your congressmen—and ask your senators—to commit themselves on this issue. Let them know that this issue is important enough to sway your vote. All the men and women sitting in Congress are there because we elect them. That's why their continued opportunity to represent us rests on their being responsive to us—to their constituents. That's why we must tell them in clear, unequivocal language that we would rather not have the IRS picking our pockets and raiding our savings accounts. We have the time for a grass roots movement to get this repealed. But it can only happen if we speak up now.

The government wants a piece of your savings. Give Congress a piece of your mind instead.

Word Of God

Psalm 23
A Psalm of David.

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

'Extra Terrestrial' Reviewed

By Yolanda Walters

"E.T."? What's so special about the "Extra Terrestrial"? A dream movie, a classic tale of enchantment, Pauline Kael of the New Yorker said. It was one of the best movies that Good Morning America's Joe Siegel has ever seen.

Well, I don't know if I would say that, but I do appreciate the Majestic Theatre showing a movie and other off color language the show was good. Yes, I admit it was a touching story.

I encourage the viewers of Eastland County to use discrimination in the movies that they view or allow their children to view.

Apparently Eastland Counties enjoy the squash, little, brown, space thing's antics or "E.T." would not be held over until December 14th. Aside from word puns Steven Spielberg, the movie creator, thought amusing

It seems as though the rating system is not quite reliable anymore. Tell the management of the Majestic those shows you would like to see. Maybe the theatre will offer a clean screen more often

Pest Alert

Gordon Woolam

The word mistletoe usually brings to mind kissing and Christmas festivities. But did you know that mistletoe is actually a parasite on many of our landscape plants? Hackberry, live oak and mesquite are most frequently attacked.

The mistletoe found in Texas produces clusters of perennial, green jointed stems on the branches and trunks of the host tree. The stems bear green, leathery leaves which persist for several seasons. Nutrients and water are supplied from an absorbing system which develops in the bark and wood of the host plant. However, mistletoe is a chlorophyll-containing plant, meaning it has green matter in its leaves which manufactures sugars and starches needed in its growth and development.

Mistletoe is a flowering plant. The flowers are born in the leaf axil and produce the familiar white berries in late fall and early winter. An important fact to remember, especially when mistletoe is being used for its decorative purposes during the holiday season, is that the berries are very poisonous.

Within the tough outer coat of the berry is a single seed which is embedded in a sticky pulp. Birds feed on this sticky pulp which results in the seeds sticking to their beaks, feet and other body parts. In this way the seeds are carried to other branches of the tree or other trees and deposited. When conditions are favorable, the seed germinates and sends its root-like structures into the host plant.

Mistletoe frequently becomes so abundant in trees that control measures become necessary. Mistletoe can be easily broken off. However, this will result in only temporary control because it will eventually grow back. More lasting control can be obtained by removing the limbs on which the parasite is growing. No chemical is presently available to successfully control mistletoe without doing excessive harm to the host plant.

Cut all the mistletoe you want for the holiday season to reduce the amount in the landscape plants. Remember to keep the berries out of reach of children. Most of all, remember that those caught under the mistletoe stand a better chance of catching a winter cold than of catching a mate, so be careful. Merry Christmas from your County Extension Office!

Headaches, A Common Problem

COLLEGE STATION-- About 20 million Americans--two-thirds of them women--seek medical help for headaches on a regular basis. This is one of the most common problems brought to physicians.

"Despite being so common, headaches are often difficult to sort out in terms of specific diagnosis and treatment program. The majority of headaches are not related to a serious underlying disease," reports Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

It is helpful to consider headaches in terms of some five major types, she says.

MIGRAINES

This type of headache is most often confined to one side of the head. Classic migraine consists of early symptoms--such as flashing lights or flickering vision--followed by an initial throbb-ing headache which later becomes steady or dull. Most migraines do not occur in this classic form, however.

Instead, they often take the form of "cluster headaches"--so called because they tend to occur in clusters over a period of days, weeks, or months. Associated symptoms may include nausea and vomiting. There is solid evidence that the migraine headache occurs when blood vessels in the neck and head expand.

TENSION HEADACHES

This type of headache is caused primarily by contractions of the muscles of the scalp and neck. Treatment includes heat and massage for the involved muscles and simple muscle relaxants.

In persistent cases, underlying emotional factors may require attention, however.

POST-INJURY HEADACHES

Headaches of this type are common following head and/or neck injuries. Sometimes these headaches do not begin until weeks--or even months--after an injury. They generally clear up with time.

SINUS HEADACHES

Sinus headaches should, as a rule, be accompanied by signs of infection, such as local tenderness, fever, or mucus discharge, to distinguish them from migraines.

Treatment usually involves an over-the-counter pain reliever or a prescribed decongestant to relieve sinus pressure.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE HEADACHES

This type of headache is uncommon and more often associated with the treatment for high blood pressure than untreated high blood pressure. When they do occur, they typically are located in the back of the head, are worse upon arising, and generally improve as the day progresses.

PREVENTION AND TREATMENT

Regardless of the exact cause of headaches, two areas of prevention and treatment--identifying and minimizing "trigger" factors and careful drug therapy--are effective for many patients.

The list of factors that can "trigger" a headache is virtually as long as the list of headache sufferers. Most common, however, seem to be:

- Dietary factors--including changes in patterns, such as fasting or missing meals; specific foods; alcohol or excessive caffeine, or sudden withdrawal from caffeine; food preservatives and flavorings, including salt.
- Hormonal and drug factors--hormones, such as birth control pills, and reserpine, used in treating high blood pressure, sometimes produce headaches.

• Emotional factors--when perfectionists are subjected to stress, they are more likely to have headache problems.

• Environmental factors--including temperature extremes, cigarette smoke, perfume, glaring light, and sudden changes in barometric pressure can lead to headaches.

Careful drug therapy emphasizes the need for attention to both proper use--timing and dosage--and potential side effects.

Besides the usual over-the-counter pain relievers, these drugs are commonly prescribed for treatment of various types of headaches.

- Ergot alkaloids, which prevent blood vessels from expanding.
- Anti-depressants.
- Propranolol, a new drug with minimal side effects.
- Diuretics, to reduce body fluids.

headache problems, write the National Migraine Foundation, 5252 North Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60625.

County Real Estate

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1982

Real Estate Consumer

The Real Estate Consumer is provided as a public service by this newspaper and The Texas Real Estate Research Center.

How easily can your address be found?

According to Changing Times magazine, a common complaint by emergency vehicle drivers is the unreadable address; either missing, incomplete or indecipherable.

The size and location of house numbers are very important getting help to your home quickly. Numbers should be large and clearly displayed so they can be read from the middle of the street, from both directions, day or night.

Some numbers can be seen easily during daylight hours but disappear into the shadows at night. Many homeowners select numbers that are so decorative the numbers cannot be read easily.

Check your address for readability before there is an emergency, and make the necessary alterations. This may require a different placement or a new set of numbers.

It's an improvement homeowners cannot afford to neglect.

APARTMENT RENTAL RATES ON THE RISE
Rents are rising, and the occupancy rate on rental units is near record highs in cities throughout the nation including Texas.

The American Chamber of Commerce Research Association has reported the results of its 1981 fourth quarter rental rate survey. For a two-bedroom, one-bath and no-utilities-paid apartment, the average rental rate in 28 major Texas cities was $311 per month, 9 percent above the fourth quarter of 1980.

Sherman had the lowest rent in Texas, an average of $195 per month. Nationally, the monthly average was $296, ranging from $180 in Cookeville, Tennessee to $594 in New York City.

LENDERS TURN TO "SECONDARY" MARKET FOR MORTGAGE MONEY

With the savings and loan industry fighting to hang on to depositors, many economists are wondering where the money will come from for new mortgage loans.

The old system, whereby money in individual savings accounts provided loans for a community's homebuyers, is breaking down.

Mortgage lenders are turning more and more to what's called the secondary market—which works like this: A lending institution makes a home loan, but instead of holding the loan, it steads it to a mortgage corporation. The corporation creates marketable securities, backed by the mortgages, and sells them to investors.

Recently, large brokerage firms have begun to create and market their own mortgage-backed securities. Such activities may become more common as the market seeks to satisfy the demand for home loans.

UNDERSTAND "CREATIVE FINANCING" BEFORE USING IT

It has been reported that six out of 10 real estate home sales last year were assisted by creative financing.

The word "creative" is being used to mean any arrangement that is not a new level-payment standard mortgage. At a 16 percent interest rate, a monthly payment of at least $672 is required for a $50,000 standard mortgage. Since this is unaffordable for many families, creative financing include buy-downs, which offer lower interest rates for the first two or three years; balloon payment loans, which require a large final payment in a few years; and seller financing.

These and other forms of financing have important implications for buyers and sellers, and they should be fully understood before they are used. Ask your broker for more information about creative financing techniques.

MANUFACTURED HOUSES ATTRACTIVE ALTERNATIVE TO SITE BUILT-HOUSES

Many families simply no longer can afford to buy conventional site-built house. The sizes, prices and styles vary and some families may find this type of house suits their needs and budgets as a first home.

The average size is about 1,050 square feet. Although the average price increased to more than $19,000 in 1981, the price per square foot of the typical manufactured house was about one-half the price per square foot of a similar site-built house.

In addition, the design and construction of manufactured homes have been improved over the last 20 years. Built today according to federal construction standards established in 1976, these homes can be found in better neighborhoods than earlier models and bear little resemblance to their predecessors.

Selecting your Christmas tree wisely and giving it proper care will help it last throughout the holiday season.

First, consider the tree species. Common species grown in Michigan, Minnesota and Oregon and sold in Texas include Scotch pine and Douglas fir. There are also some spruce, noble fir and concolor fir. All make acceptable Christmas trees. They are cut in October, then stored and shipped south as Christmas approaches. Generally, these trees are in good condition when they arrive in Texas.

Recently, producers in southern states have started growing Virginia pines in plantations for Christmas trees. Virginia pines make desirable Christmas trees because they have a pleasing fragrance, relatively short needles and can be pruned readily to a desirable shape.

Texas growers, too, have established plantations of Virginia pines, but only limited supplies are available in certain areas. More Virginia pines will be available within a couple of years and will have an advantage of freshness over trees shipped in from other states. Some local growers have sold the Mondell pine in recent years. They make good Christmas trees also and have the advantage of freshness.

Buy your Christmas tree early so you can select the type of tree you want. Check for signs of needle shedding and brittleness which indicate that the tree has become too dry. If a tree is too dry when purchased, it will continue to dry out even though it is set in water. Generally, trees available on retail lots in Eastland County are fresh and can be expected to remain usable in the home throughout the Christmas season.

When you get the tree home, cut one to two inches off its base on a slant. Stand the tree in water and store in a shaded area until you're ready to bring it inside. Keep water in the stand at all times and your tree will remain fresh.

In the home, place the tree away from all heat sources, such as a fireplace or heating unit. Check the water level often; a tree may use as much as a pint of water a day. Keep your lighting system in good order by inspecting and discarding wires with frayed insulation, broken sockets and loose connections. Use only lights and cords that carry the safety seal of Underwriter Laboratory.

As a final reminder remove gift wrappings and packing materials from around the tree once you have opened Christmas packages.

By selecting a fresh tree and following a few safety rules, everyone can have a safe and happy holiday season.

We have had calls about the use of wood ashes on gardens. Wood ashes contain both beneficial and harmful chemicals. Ashes are most beneficial on acid soils. Most of the soils in Eastland County are not acid, but most are alkaline. Ashes are alkaline and very high in potassium, calcium, and magnesium. Ashes can be harmful at high rates in soil that is already alkaline. High rates can cause salt to build up in soils, resulting in plant injury.

Always consider the following general rules in ap-

Selecting A Christmas Tree

plying wood ashes: (1) Do not apply wood ashes to your garden more than once per year. (2) Do not apply wood ashes to your garden more than three times. (3) Wood ashes are very low in nitrogen so, add adequate nitrogen fertilizer with the ashes.

Park Starter

Standing by the Pogue Industrial Park entrance sign is Mr. Horace Pogue whose land is being developed into the Pogue Industrial Park. The park was named in his honor.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Franz Gruber had hoped the old church organ would hold out at least until Christmas, but the mice had eaten at the bellows too long. Fr. Josef Mohr, the parish priest told Gruber, "We must have something special for midnight Mass."

Two days before Christmas Fr. Mohr was called to administer the last sacraments of the church to a dying man. On his journey home through the peaceful countryside the thought of Christmas came upon him. He began to think of that first Christmas night—"It was a holy and silent night". Before he knew it, angels voices were singing in his head. Powerfully affected, he hurried home and began to write. He wrote all evening. The next morning he took the verses he had written to Franz Gruber. Gruber instinctively began to hear a melody in his head. The inspiration was so great that he immediately wrote the melody which we are all so familiar with today. That night Gruber brought his guitar to midnight Mass and gently strummed the immortal "Silent Night" as Father Mohr sang. The people were so awed with the beauty of the new song that many of them sat with tears streaming down their faces. Each person in church that night carried the beautiful words home in his heart and from that time on the words have been instilled in almost everyone's heart until this very day.

CHURCH SERVICES

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Church School begins at 9:40 a.m. and morning worship at 10:50. The afternoon group of CWF will meet at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday. The choir will meet at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday. The 4-H Club will meet Thursday. The CMF breakfast will be held at 7:00 a.m. Saturday, December 18.

REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH

Sunday School and Bible classes begin at 9:30 a.m. The worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Pastor's Crockett's message is entitled "The Disturbing Joy of Christmas!" based on Zephaniah 3:14-18a.

The Lutheran Hour will be aired over KRBC in Abilene at 8:00 a.m. The darker and more miserable life becomes, the more the Christian shines with joy in the Lord. It's much like the luminous dial on a clock, the darker the room, the brighter the dial. Dr. Oswald ding anniversaries during the week include Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Farrow, Dec. 17; Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Taylor, Dec. 18; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Smith, Dec. 19.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

Last week we commented on the writing and philosophy of Dr. Leni Cecilia Reed, a recognized nutritionist. We shall continue this week to pass along some of her comments.

She feels in place of butter, bacon and lard, use polyunsaturated oils or margarine. Polyunsaturated oils include corn, sunflower, safflower, cottonseed, soybeans, sesame and walnuts.

Polyunsaturated margarines include one or more of these oils as the predominant ingredient. Since product labels list recipe ingredients in descending order by weight, you can be sure that the margarine is polyunsaturated if it contains one of these preferred oils and oil is the first ingredient listed on the label. Also, look for the word "Liquid" before the vegetable oil. This means that the oil is not hydrogenated or hardened.

These remarks of Dr. Reed are so important, not only to older people but to younger people as well.

We will continue to study her contribution in regard to good nutrition next week. The program for the past week included: Jane Thomas, from the Extension Office in Eastland, spoke to the center in regards to "Food Safety"; Leah Brown and Viola Brown with her violin presented a Christmas Musical program; Davene Jeffcoat and her school choir also presented a Christmas program. Dinner music by Dixie Montgomery, A.E. McNeeley and Mildred Johnson.

The menus for the week are:

Monday: Oven fried steak, mashed potatoes-cream gravy, spinach, apple cobbler, bread, butter and drink.

Wednesday: Chili-beans, potato salad, cole slaw, jello-topping, cornbread, butter and drink.

Friday: Lasagna, buttered carrots, green beans, bread pudding, bread, butter and drink.

Hoffman talks about the joy of the Christian in his message "Think Joy!"

The Advent worship service begins at 7:00 p.m. with the Lutheran Youth Fellowship participating. Pastor Crockett's message is entitled "A Word Or The Word!" based on Isaiah 40:1-8. Adult Information class will meet in the Parish Hall on Monday at 7:00 p.m. Sunday School staff meets at 7:30 p.m. The Cisco Nursing Center worship service will be on Wednesday at 10:00 a.m. Catechism at 4:00 p.m. and Adult Information class at 7:00 p.m. Jesus' Friends will meet in the Parish Hall on Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. Children Services Rehearsal will be at 10:00 a.m. Saturday.

Letter To The Editor

Editor

I received the December 2 issue of the paper and was struck by a familiar sight in the picture of the OIL BELT PRINTING COMPANY building on the front page. As a boy in the early twenties I sold and/or delivered papers which we picked up in this building.

One of the delivery boys was Harris (Dippy) Isbell, nick-named for his tendency to speak in poly-syllabic redundancies. He later became Dr. Harris Isbell.

We boys waited in the front office area for the papers to be ready. This office was separated from the plant by a wooden railing so we boys could watch the noisy, complicated (to us) machinery pound out the printed pages. There was a huge stove in the front office area for use in cold weather.

Sometimes at night, my older brother Grady or I would be dreaming of smelling papers on the street, and would be shouting "Eastland Daily Oil Belt News" in our sleep. I think this must have been about sixty years ago.

Truly Yours

Community Environment Helps Influence Development

COLLEGE STATION--Community environment and attitude are key factors influencing industrial development.

These factors and others were discussed at a recent Rural Industrial Development Workshop at Texas A&M University.

To be a candidate for industry, a community should have a good business climate, adequate public services, good living conditions, adequate recreational facilities and available educational facilities, such as colleges or vocational training schools, said Q.T. Jones, with the Westinghouse Electric Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. Westinghouse has located 43 new plants in the U.S. since 1967 and has considerable experience with the process.

"When I go into a community I want to look at all available housing in all classes, all churches, schools, shopping centers and existing industries. Sometimes I even stop at a store and talk to people to see what they think of their community," Jones said.

H.D. Davis of Saginaw, the 1981 Volunteer Small City Developer of the Year, agreed that community attitude is important. Davis helped bring $27 million worth of industry--which created 300 new jobs--into Saginaw over a one-year period. These plants have expanded to the tune of $1.5 million and have created additional jobs.

"We had to deal with the people of Saginaw--5,735 population--and their fears of bringing in big city problems and losing the small town atmosphere," said Davis. "We developed a positive, cooperative attitude toward industry among the people, Chamber of Commerce and elected officials."

According to Davis, developing this attitude meant cutting cost, time and red-tape for industry representatives. It also meant getting Saginaw prepared to extend its streets and utilities in any direction, depending on industry needs.

Another workshop speaker, Charles B. Wood, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, said the TIC exists "to promote and encourage development and protection of Texas business, industry, agriculture and commerce within and outside the state." The TIC is also there to provide an effective business information service, conduct research on business conditions, stimulate commerce and encourage location of new business, he added.

Wood said the TIC's advertising budget is a "tax producer, not a tax eater. For every 100 jobs created by new industry in Texas, 237 new secondary jobs also are created. That gives us a return of approximately 240 to 1 on our advertising investment."

Texas is among the lowest spenders on economic development, according to Wood. Texas spends about $1.5 million annually as compared to California, $8 million; Florida, $6 million; Illinois, $26 million; and New York, $31 million.

The annual workshop was sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

Spotlights And Sidelights

CHRISTMAS CRAFTS-1

It's that time again--time to deck the halls with holly and a tree with sparkling tinsel and fragile glass balls.

But if other decorations appeal to you, put your imagination in gear and your hands to work. You can personalize your own tree with baubles you make from felt, dough, clay or tin.

These could be your answer to the perpetual question of what to give the person who "has everything."

A choir of Christmas angels turned out from ceramic molds could afford double pleasure--yours in the making, and that of the giftee for years to come as such decorations might break, but they won't tarnish, wrinkle nor fade.

The patterns used for felt figures can be used for clay, too. Cut a cardboard template as the tissue of the original won't hold up on wet clay. Be sure to add the mans of hanging your ornament to your pattern when you cut it from clay rolled to 1/8 to 1/4 inch thickness. A drinking straw makes a neat hole for a hanger.

If you do not have access to a kiln, try one of the mixtures that "set" without being processed in a kiln. They are a pretty effective substitute, and after all, how many people put their tree ornaments through the dishwasher!

Those handicrafters who are nimble with crochet or tapestry needles can create thread confections for the tree or heirloom pieces for the mantel with their flying fingers.

More pedestrian means will seek other means to make gifts say, "You're special. I've spent my time on this token because I think you will like it as much as I liked making it for you."

Of course, you must be sure of the person for whom you mean the gift. Don't waste your time, nor your affection, crocheting an afghan for someone who'd prefer a bulky-knit sweater "Made in Hong Kong." The person who displays family portraits in sheets of plastic may not appreciate the walnut frame you carved.

The expense of Christmas gifts falls harder on the youngsters and the oldsters. In seeking ways to stretch monies available, both young and old are forced to think. This often results in gifts that are appreciated long after the holidays have passed.

Between ball practice and homework, drill team and choir, a youngster's time may not be enough to call his own, but she/he can manage to find time to draft promissory notes to make Christmas last all year with such pledges as to mow the lawn every ten days, scrub the bathtub, keep mildew out of the shower stall, make a compost heap--couldn't make a devoted gardener any happier!

Or don't strain your imagination--just volunteer to be a "slave" for x-number of hours and be prepared to vacuum rugs or remove birds' nests from gutters!

The cooks have it easy. There are few grandparents I know who wouldn't prefer to have a gift that calls for eating rather than dusting!

Be cautious, however. Your specialty may be larpapin'-good, chocolate fudge, but if Grandma is a diabetic, your gift won't ring the bell on "Thoughtful."

Grandparents on a fixed income should look at those things around the house they've had so long they have to think to realize they're there.

That silver baby cup that belonged to your little Johnny should be passed on to little Johnny's own "Little Johnny" before another Christmas passes.

If tracing one's roots has become the purple passion of one of the family connection, gather up old snapshots, label and gift wrap. If the connection of the rooting one is slight, you may want to present only copies of the original pictures and duplicated copies of the notes.

For any age, a gift of stamped, addressed envelopes is thoughtful. Or stamp a box of cards for various occasions--you can't address these because you don't know who's sick or who has a birthday. You can get two or three boxes of stationery and mix them so the letter-writer will have several choices.

Using your imagination is of the first importance in choosing any gift.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT WESTFALL Former Ciscoans Will Observe Anniversary

The Eastern Hills United Methodist Church, 1509 Wilson Road, Fort Worth, will host a reception honoring Albert Roy and Ida Louise Westfall on their 70th wedding anniversary. The reception will be from 3 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, December 19, in the church parlor. The Westfalls plan to repeat their wedding vows and Rev. Troy Cline-Smith will officiate. Old time love songs of the twenties and the early thirties will be featured at the reception.

Roy, age 92, and Ida, age 90, reside at 1605 Tierney Road North, Fort Worth, with their son, Jerre P. Westfall. Both are long term residents of Fort Worth. Ida was born in Fort Worth and they were married in Fort Worth 70 years ago on December 22, 1912, at the home of Ida's mother. They were residents of Wichita Falls, Texas, for 17 years before moving to Cisco in December 1937. They owned the large brick home at 408 West 8th Street, where they resided for 29 years. Roy Sr. owned and operated Mobil Service Stations until he sold to his son, Roy Jr., in 1958, when he retired. Roy and Ida sold their home and moved back to Fort Worth in 1966. Roy and Ida have always been members and very active in the Methodist church. Both have continually served in many leadership roles on the church boards and in other leadership capacities in their churches. They were members of the First Methodist Church in Cisco until moving and joining the Eastern Hills United Methodist Church of Fort Worth in 1966.

Roy was co-owner of the "Carmen Cafe," a well known restaurant on East Front Street, now East Lancaster in Fort Worth, when he married Ida. It was Rainfall measuring about one-fourth of an inch was recorded in the Cisco area Thursday night and early Friday as a cold front swept through the region, tumbling temperatures to a low of around 32 degrees.

Cisco recalls a stolen Christmas

By ERNIE HOOD
Star-Telegram Correspondent

CISCO — When Santa Claus comes to town Saturday for the annual Christmas parade, the town's children will be smiling with anticipation. But some old-timers can remember one occasion when Santa brought bad news to Cisco.

On Dec. 23, 1927, a man in a Santa Claus suit, along with three companions, held up the city's First National Bank, gunned down the police chief and fatally wounded another officer. They were prevented from escaping by children who expected gifts rather than gunfire.

The evil Santa — Marshall Ratliff — was convicted and later was sentenced from the Eastland County Jail and hanged from a telephone pole by an angry mob.

Cisco Police Chief Raymond Blevins is only 34, so he doesn't remember the "Santa Claus robbery." Neither did he know former Police Chief Bit Bedford, who was felled by the robbers' bullets.

But he does have a photo of Bedford in his office to remind him that "The rope broke, so they put another one around his neck and got the job done."

—A.C. Holder, justice of the peace

(Reprinted from Fort Worth Star Telegram)

of the incident, and to remind his troopers to be alert.

Blevins, who became police chief about a year ago, said, "We are more law abiding now than then." But he added, "You never know, do you, until it happens?"

Cisco Justice of the Peace A.C. Holder, 68, who was 13 at the time of the holdup and 15 when a lynch mob of about 2,000 converged on the Eastland County Jail, remembers the robbery vividly.

"My daddy was a personal friend of Chief Bedford, and I knew the chief real well, too," Holder said.

"In fact, my daddy bought Chief Bedford's fine mare for me... a beautiful horse she was... just three or four months before the robbery when the chief was shot down."

Holder said the late Alex Spears, manager and cashier of the bank, was wounded by the robbers' bullets during the robbery and that Spears subsequently headed a grand jury that failed to indict the lynchers.

"Justice was swift and sure in those days in West Texas," Holder said.

Holder said Bedford was shot down as he walked out of an alley to confront the robbers as they fled through the back door of the bank. He said one of the robbers, Henry Holmes, was executed at the state prison. Another, Robert Hill, was given a life sentence but later was pardoned.

"I believe he's still living somewhere in Texas, but those of us who know aren't talking," Holder said. He said Lewis Davis, another of the robbers, was killed during the hold-up.

Ratliff, who wore the Santa suit, was sentenced to hang, but he was brought back to Eastland almost two years later for another phase of the trial. Holder says the townspeople became impatient, broke into the jail and hanged Ratliff on the night of Nov. 19, 1929.

Holder said the mob took Ratliff across the street from the jail and hanged him from the cross-arm of a telephone pole.

"The rope broke, so they put another one around his neck and got the job done," he said. "There's supposed to be a superstition that if the rope breaks in a hanging, the condemned person escapes with his life, but it didn't hold true that night. The townspeople loved Bedford."

Holder said policeman George Carmichael was wounded during the shoot-out and died later

Federation Of Women's Clubs
Will Meet Tues.

The City Federation of Women's Clubs will meet in a Bylaws scheduled regular session (Art. VII, Sec. 1) on Tuesday, December 14, at 2:00 p.m. at the Federation's Club House. Mrs. Arlin Birt, president, is urging each member of the six member-clubs to make a special effort to attend and to be active in the proceedings.

The fund-raising sale of November 19-20, was a great success. The debts can now be paid and a spirit of cooperation, fellowship and interest is evident. Now is the time to make immediate, as well as some long-range, plans. Efforts in that direction will be in the agenda.

The Cisco City Federation of Women's Clubs is an inclusive organization — it and its facilities belong to the six member-clubs. Tuesday's meeting will be very important. The Federation's Elected Officers: Presidents, Trustees and the three appointed representatives of each member-club and all other members are urged to be present and to participate. It will be a time to remember and to revive the great "Esprit de Corps" demonstrated by those devoted members who organized the City Federation of Women's Clubs more than sixty years ago. — Unified Community service was their ultimate goal! — Remember December 14 at 2:00 p.m. at the club house.

People n Things

A MONTH OR so ago, Mr. C.B. (Runt) Dill, our county commissioner, met up with a man at one of the coffee counters and the man needed to know the location of some land. And Mr. CBD was able to answer his questions. The man took Mr. CBD's name and address.

Last Wednesday, Mr. CBD heard from the man - Mr. Rupert Triplett, a senior vice president of Tom's Peanuts, who lives in Georgia. There was a package for the Cisco - a box with one of everything that Tom's packages in the way of foods.

Mr. Triplett is the son of the late Will Triplett, he told Mr. CBD, and they lived here briefly during the oil boom days of the early 1920s. And the elder Triplett bought oil royalties over the country, including this region.

MET UP WITH Mr. Lonnie Pingree, son of Mrs. Edessa Pingree of 504 West 7th St., the other day. He and family are back in Cisco for the winter after a summer in New England where he has a summer resort. Lonnie takes on odd jobs (he was building a fence when we talked to him) and expects to be here until spring and warmer weather returns.

Lonnie reported that his son remained in Maine at their resort for the winter, and the snow is already deep there.

A NOTE FROM Mr. Paul Farrow of Estes Park, Colo., formerly of Cisco, reports that all's well in his neck of the woods. "Had a visit from Vera London on a recent Sunday afternoon. We still enjoy our beloved Rocky Mountains, their gorgeous scenery and wildlife. Give our love to the First National Bank force of which we were a part for 27 years."

Paul added that they hoped to see their old friends in Cisco sometime soon.

OUR SCOUTS report that Patsy Cherry, who owns a doughnut shop in Eastland, has acquired the Spot Restaurant in Cisco and that she hopes to be open to sell doughnuts and coffee by Monday. Plans call for the restaurant to open probably by next weekend. Prof Cleatus Rattan of CJC will be back on the job out there when the spring semester begins. He has been on leave for a few months to work on a doctor's degree at East Texas State University.

MRS. BARBARA Pope of Red Gap Western Store is chairman of the committee in charge of the Gene Abbott Memorial. She reports that a good many donations have come in, and her group plans to meet soon to decide on the nature of the memorial. Meanwhile, you can have a part in this very nice project by leaving a check at First National Bank, the CoFC, or sending it to Mrs. Pope.

THE CISCO Kiwanis Club is busy these days repairing toys that will go to the home of needy children during Christmas week, reports Mr. Joe Wheatley of Cisco Lumber & Supply. They still have a need for any kind of toys. You can help by leaving your surplus or discarded toys at Cisco Lumber or by calling Mr. Wheatley.

Several old bicycles were donated to the club. And they took parts from them and made three good bikes that will make some youngsters happy.

GLAD TO HEAR that Mr. Neal Callarman, who lives out west, is doing nicely following heart surgery last Monday in a Lubbock hospital. He is the son of Mrs. Dovie Callarman of Cisco. Aren't the Christmas decorations nice at Bandito's Corral? The Ralph Glenns visited the Paul Brashears down in Austin recently. Rick Whately and Billy Wright planned to spend the weekend hunting pheasants near Hale Center in northwest Texas.

YOU CAN SAY "welcome to Cisco" to Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Kidd. They're moving here from Guyton, Okla. They bought the house at 810 West 8th Street from Mrs. Lorena Smith through Ann Williams of Pat Maynard Real Estate. Mrs. Williams also sold the Larry Pence home at 810 West 18th Street to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adkins, who are moving here from Odessa. The Pences bought the Ruby Owens home at 508 West 7th and are moving there. Evelyn McGuire and Betty Alford attended an Olney Savings Christmas party at Olney last Saturday night.

IF YOU WERE watching the Abilene television last Monday night you saw City Manager Mike Moore and City Councilman Loyal Lundstrom on t.v. They were attending a West Texas Utilities Company rate hearing in Abilene. The CJC board of regents held a brief meeting the other day to hear and approve the annual audit of college finances. Sorry to hear about the death of Mrs. Wayne House, sister of Mrs. Ed Farley of Cisco, at Mountain Home, Ark., last Monday. And it was a shock to hear about the untimely death of Mr. Bryant Taylor, son-in-law of Mr. J.D. Yardley of Cisco, at Abilene. He was buried in final rites there at 2 p.m. Thursday.

HEAR THAT Bruce Stovall and Gerald Winnett are getting organized for another mission trip to Mexico under the auspices of the Shepherd's Staff - like they did last year. Many of you will want to donate something to help the mission's success. See Bruce or Gerald. Winston Heidenheimer will show picture slides made during their recent vacation trip to Africa at the Lions Club luncheon next Wednesday noon. The Vandell Weathers were in Abilene Thursday night for the annual West Texas Utilities Christmas party. Also attending were two retired WTUers and their wives - Don Reynolds and E.L. Jackson.

A TOUR OF the Baptist Student Center adjacent to the campus at Cisco Junior College will convince anyone that it is a very nice facility. The new 1,500 square feet center was built by the congregations of the First Baptist, East Cisco Baptist and Calvary Baptist Churches at a cost of just under $30,000. This does not count a lot of donated labor and items. A list of some 30 who contributed is posted on the Center wall.

Mr. Bill Philpott served as chairman of the building committee. The log cabin structure has a 30x50 meeting room equipped with tables, a ping pong table, piano, television, kitchen, rest rooms and a fireplace. They have central heat and air, an office for the director and closets.

The project has a debt of $7,000 that was financed over a five year period, and that's all they owe.

There are at least two student gatherings each week, and Bruce Stovall teaches a Sunday School Class for students there each Sunday morning. The building is available for parties and the like. Calvary Baptists are planning a Christmas party there Dec. 18th, we understand.

Sabanna Study - Profile Of A Watershed

by Viola Payne

A review of work done by various agencies on the Sabanna River Watershed Plan show that an amazing lot of information about the area was compiled. Anyone unfamiliar with the requirements of Government Departments and officials would be astonished at the details gathered into book form for presentation.

Although all persons who wrote the report appeared to be convinced of the long-term benefits of Flood Control on this river, planning assistance was terminated by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, in November, 1982.

This places about twenty years of work on the project in limbo. Some of the most intensive study of all came during the mid 1970's, when an Environmental Impact Study was compiled. Some interesting and surprising data came from this exhaustive work with soil, water, flora, fauna, geology, and archeological sites.

Flood Control on the 45 mi. long Sabanna, which rises in Callahan County and flows across southern Eastland County into Lake Proctor, was first sponsored in the 1960's by Commissioner Courts in Eastland and Comanche Counties. Other sponsors were the Central Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, and the Upper Leon District. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture furnished personnel from various agencies to assist in the studies. A note in the book indicates that financial assistance came from the Texas State Soil and Water Board.

The principal problem within the watershed was listed as one of intensive and frequent flooding on portions of 9,650 acres of flood plain, which resulted in damages to crops, grasses, soils, agricultural properties, public roads, and bridges. Total floodwater, sediment, scour and indirect damages were estimated (in 1977) to average $219,469 annually.

The remedy was to be structural measures - 15 flood retention dams - and land treatment on about 35,000 acres in the river drainage area. The planned land treatment alone was designed to increase soil productivity, reduce upland erosion by about 5%, create more drinking water for livestock, and reduce re-erosion damage in the flood plain area by 80%.

As Department of agriculture specialists studied the native vegetation in the Sabanna area, they found 22 kinds of native grass on the pastures. They were not able to locate any specimens of the rare and endangered "Texas bluegrass", which was expected to be growing in this vicinity. But plenty of ragweeds, daisies and sunflowers growing along with the grass.

There were several varieties of oak across the terrain - bigelow oak (what's that?) Texas oak, post oak, blackjack and liveoak. Pecan trees and honey mesquite completed the listing of major varieties of trees.

Since the Sabanna does not have permanent water, no fish were found in its long, winding channel. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department compiled a list of the fish in Lake Proctor however, assuming that these could live in the reservoirs created by the retention dams. There were about 28 different kinds - enough to keep all the fishermen happy.

One shocker is to read the list of Amphibians and Reptiles reported to live along the Sabanna! What a collection of frogs, turtles, lizards, and snakes! Surely some of these varieties must be found in very small number, or the human population would have to move over!

Listen to this: Texas blind snake, glossy snake, racer, ringnecked snake, great plains rat snake, rat snake, western hognose snake, night snake, milk snake, coachwhip, red-bellied water snake, diamond-backed rattlesnake, rough green snake, bull snake, Graham's water snake, Texas long-nose snake, Great Plains ground snake, brown snake, flat-headed snake, checkered garter snake, western ribbon snake, lined snake, copperhead, western diamondback rattlesnake, and a snake with the sinister name of "massasauga." Sounds like the scientists had their work cut out for them!

But if the snakes were plentiful, the variety in bird life was even more so. More than 100 kinds of birds were found in the Sabanna watershed! What a tremendous list for a naturalist to enjoy! Wildlife of other orders was also plentiful, in types generally familiar to anyone who spends time out-of-doors in this vicinity.

Perhaps the only surprises were listings of mink and porcupine - they would have to be very rare in this area. A porcupine was killed south of Cisco several years ago, however, so it is not impossible. Of course there were two kinds of rabbits on the list, and coyotes, fox, racoons, o'possums, bob cats, and whitetailed deer. And plenty of rats and mice for the snakes.

Now and then, among all the data, are little gems of generally unknown (or unrealized) information. The Sabanna drops more than a thousand feet in elevation from its heading in the Callahan County hills to where it joins Lake Proctor. There are about 14 archeological sites along the watershed, but none considered worth saving as a Historical Monument. There had been considerable overgrazing of the area by cattle, leading to increased erosion, according to the survey.

Some of the better parts of the report are sentences relating to how the Flood Control Project could improve human life in the area. It would, according to the writers, "Enhance aesthetic and scenic beauty on about 35,520 acres of agricultural land, create 502 acres of water surface in retention pools, furnish 74 jobs for local people for about 8 years, reduce sediments concentration carried by runoff water."

It was quite a study. It took a lot of time and manpower and money. At this time, no one knows whether the issue it dealt with is dead or simply in a coma. But surely such knowledge of our environment is not totally wasted. For land and water resources are the most valuable thing we have.

Someday, perhaps, governing bodies will realize that. When they get hungry, that is.

Lions Are Given Report On Trip To Mexico

Picture slides were shown to illustrate a talk on a missionary trip to Mexico last winter by Brad Kimbrough, well known Cisco business man, as the program feature Wednesday noon at the weekly luncheon of the Cisco Lions Club.

Mr. Kimbrough accompanied a group led by Bruce Stovall for the Shepherd's Staff to spend some 10 days helping build a church and working with people in a small community near Torreon in central Mexico. The group took building materials and supplies with them for use in the project.

Lion Walker Knowlden introduced the speaker.

Secretary Jasper Cook reported that the club's board of directors, meeting Tuesday morning, voted to return the Tom Stark Building - the old church of God building on Avenue F - to the Stark Estate. Restoring the structure for use would cost more than the club could afford, it was decided.

Mr. Cook told the board that 100 per cent of the club members had contributed during the year to the Lions Camp for Crippled Children. The club donated $50 to the Eastland County Child Welfare Fund, and subscriptions to the Lions Magazine for Cisco High School and Cisco Junior College libraries were renewed.

The secretary read a letter from the international president, expressing sympathy in the passing of Lion Gene Abbott, a member for more than 30 years.

Eastland County Grand Jury Considers Cases

The Eastland County Grand Jury, 91st District Court, met one day this week and considered a total of 16 cases with 14 indictments.

One case was passed and there was one no-bill. Of the indictments, there were two for felony DWI, one for aggravated assault and one for passing a forged instrument.

There were also three indictments for burglary of a building. Of these three, two were convicted on four counts of burglary. There was one indictment for indecency with a child, and four for felony theft over $200.

The jury foreman was Mr. R.L. (Bob) Shauls of Rising Star. David Allerman of Cisco served as Grand Jury secretary.

in the McClesky No. 1 and Ranger boomed over night from a sleepy village to some 20,000 eager, wild, and determined if not always ethical men. Oil at $4.00 a barrel (1918 value if you please) is literally flowing gold. Poor farmers were made rich, and many foolish in the extreme squandered their new found wealth. Murders were nightly affairs — and peace officers few and far between. Breckenridge and Cisco, as well as the now ghost towns of Desdemona, Lee-Ray, and Parks Camp, boomed excessively with tremendous gushers flowing oil without regard to conservation. Mule drawn wagons loaded with steel casing labored over muddy roads to the old wooden derricks with their caster wheel, walking beam, and steam boilers. Locally sponsored railroads raced to reach Breckenridge in high hopes of an ever expanding oil economy.

Ciscoans had great visions of growth which brought rapid expansion of debt. Then a dual economic blow of magnitude descended on its over enthusiastic populace. Practically overnight oil sands were depleted by greedy uncontrolled blowing off of gas pressures — major companies moved to more attractive areas. To cap this — depression and unemployment descended like a black cloud over a nation universally enraptured by speculation. N. R. A. and W. P. A. took charge — ruling the gloom of 1929. Just prior to this sad climax — in the year 1927 one of Texas' most spectacular bank robberies was staged in our town two days before Christmas. Old Santa Claus (depicted in our mural symbolically) followed by many children strolled into the bank supported by three of his gangster cronies. When the smoke cleared from the ensuing gun battle — giant size, "Big" Bedford and small George Carmichael, brave local police officers, lay dead along with one bandit. These two sacrificed themselves rather than shoot into the children and people in the bank who were used as shields by the fleeing criminals.

Days of the so-called "Okies" show in our mural, now seem so remote as to be almost ludicrous — not so then when these honest common folk were fleeing dust bowl areas in desperation. Roosevelt and all his "brain trust" planning during twelve long "democratic" years are yet to be evaluated by the long term historical viewpoint. Though even now it seems that Shakespeare had the correct words when he wrote "What fools we mortals be?" Our path led straight to World War II — millions killed and maimed — countries desecrated — hope, faith, and charity seemingly abandoned this time in the terrible bombing of great civilian population centers. The spectre of Hitler vanished in noble American and Allied efforts only to be replaced by the Russian menace of World domination by Communism — so evil and forboding in its actual practice. The artist without political design shows the atomic cloud as being symbolic of our day — a desperate factor which we are mightily concerned with now over five years after Hiroshima.

The bright side of our 100 year era is PROGRESS — mechanical, industrially, agriculturally, and we hope also morally. What would the old trail driver of 1850 say to our modern world with the automobile, airplane, television, etc.? He would most probably prefer the less ambitious days of yore with their simpler pleasures. Depicted finally are the magnificent developments to which Texas is particularly indebted for its progress — scientific farming, high bred livestock, oil development, and industrial expansion. The artist closes with all this and uses the jet propelled plane to leave the impression that we may be speeding into an era that will be even more phenomenal in retrospect.

For our Nation we pray for — the foresight and moral sense to adopt our economic progress to a social structure that will promote steady employment for all — fully realizing the folly and danger of resorting to permanent armament production as an economic necessity. For Our Town we pray for — at least the courage and faith our forebearers had to meet every challenge in order to leave a better world to posterity.

Famed Randy Steffen Murals Have

A Century of Texas (Reprinted from Old Poster) 1850-1950

These pictures are reproductions of a mural being painted by Randy Steffen, local artist, for the First National Bank in Cisco. The short history, reflecting our town in retrospect, was prepared by Charles A. Spears, president of the bank, for study and guidance of the artist. The mural will be on display in miniature Wednesday as the bank holds open house. The addition of a third and final panel will depict the wonders of progress in modern Texas.

In Texas the year 1850 saw the great trail drives of cattle to rail terminals for Eastern markets at their peak. This was a time of great disturbance from Indian trouble as the white "encroacher" moved ever westward. Here is pictured the old trail driver before the Alamo where the Spirit of Texas was born in the 1836 Massacre. San Antonio, appropriately shown, was a terminal for early day cattle barons. Cisco was just "Red Gap" in those days, a wagon camp about 50 miles west of the Chisholm Trail to Abilene, Kansas, and 50 miles south of the Goodnight-Loving trail to Denver. The Indian depicted with his "buffalo" economy (phantom above) could sense his own doom — so Comanches were killers. Old man McCough, who was the first white settler in the South part of what was later Eastland County, came in 1860 and knew well the danger of Indian raids. This pioneer didn't bother to buy any land which he could have had for 50¢ an acre — said it was all his anyway!

Then came the most terrible of all our national epochs — the bloody carnage of Civil War — 1861 to 1865 — the War between the States when Southern brother and Northern brother fought and died each for his cause. Texas boys died for the Confederate South — a tragic lost cause against the industrialized North. Great action years were those from the 1870's to the end of that century. Longhorn economy was Texas livelihood. The early surveyor and Protestant circuit rider herein shown preceded the railroads. The Texas and Pacific laid its rails through in 1880 and the Town of Cisco was organized in 1881 — when the Texas Central brought its bell-stack iron horse through — crossing the rails at Cisco on its Northwest advance. Max Elser, an early day Cisco resident, surveyed the first telegraph route to El Paso and California.

All was not just positive growth and good living. Hardship was particularly virulent in the terrible drought (depicted by cattle skull and vulture) of 1886-87 when no rain fell in 22 months and many less hardy residents of the Cisco area left the country in their wagons, abandoning years of labor and never returning. Then almost immediately thereafter came the cyclone (tornado) of April 1893 which leveled the old town. Hardy stock struggled bravely to rebuild.

From 1900 to 1915 was the cotton era here. Newly cultivated soil brought high yields and supported cotton gins, a compressed and a cotton oil mill in Cisco which was one of the main inland cotton markets. "Middling 7-8" was the basis of wealth — and paid for those early day automobiles, one of the first of which was driven by Alex Ward. Depicted here is a 1904 Packard with the first (1900) Wright pusher plane in the background. A tiny insect ended man's endeavor herewith — the boll weevil came and the cotton was finished in our town.

By some quick of fate two nations, England and Germany, cousins by blood, began a terrible and unwise struggle — the unfortunate consequences of which are historically not fully realized to the world today. The grand Old British Empire was challenged by a young and foolish (Circa 1870) German industrial giant, and the first World War began in August 1914. Our own Woodrow Wilson, elected on a neutral platform, took us into this struggle in 1917; and our Senate tragically refused to follow up in his League of Nations later. Trench warfare — disgusting to the troops — saw many local boys heroically give their lives. John William Butts was just one of these — and our American Legion Post is in his name. Depicted here is the American "doughboy" in action "over-there" with the first British tank in the background.

In October 1917, W. K. Gordon, a farsighted employee of the Texas and Pacific Coal Company at Thurber decided that he might find oil under the cross-timber hills of Eastland County — and with somewhat reluctant support of his company drilled down to about 3,000 feet with old standard rig cable tools. Oil was discovered

Conrad Hilton Planned To Buy A Bank In Cisco

BY EMMA LEE DONOVAN
(Reprinted from a thesis)

Unless one is familiar with or has read "Be My Guest" by Conrad Hilton, they do not know that Hilton's rise to fame and fortune began in Cisco, Texas.

In 1918 a friend, Emmett Vaughney, told Mr. Hilton to go to Texas and buy a bank. Banks were becoming popular, especially in Texas since they found a little oil and more was being sought. Texas was just beginning to be known for its oil fields.

"Where there was oil, there was money, business, building, merchandising and yes, banking." The oil boom from Burkburnett, Texas to Ranger, Texas interested Mr. Hilton - so he came to Cisco, Texas to buy a bank.

He doesn't name the bank he wanted to buy in his book, but he does mention the owner was very rude to him and that he lived in Kansas City and that it collapsed in 1921. This was the American National Bank of Cisco, which closed its doors on August 31, 1921. This was the only bank to close in 1921.

While he was waiting on a telegram from the owner of the bank, he went looking for a room to rent. Going to the Mobley Hotel, which was the newest hotel in town, he was told they were full up and would not have a room for rent for eight hours, or maybe 16 hours. Upon talking with the manager (also owner) he was told they awakened their guests and made them leave or pay for another eight hours. This interested Mr. Hilton very much.

He went back to the train station for his answer to the telegram he had sent to the owner of the bank who lived in Kansas City. Finding the owner had raised the price from $75,000 to $80,000, he decided to go back to the Mobley Hotel and see if it was for sale. This was the start of a new life, fame and fortune for Conrad Hilton and his chain of hotels.

He went East with the oil boom and bought hotels in Fort Worth, Dallas, Corsicana and in Marlin, Texas, where he held a gala opening for his eighth hotel on May 27, 1930.

Hilton built an underground tunnel from his hotel to the Marlin Sanitarium Bathhouse across the street. This enabled his guests to go take their mineral baths in their pajamas and robes.

A 1930 issue of the Marlin Democrat said "millionaires and less fortunate folks are lying side by side in the cooling rooms of the Marlin's bathhouses."

Within a few short years, Hilton's haven for the chronics went broke. The hotel is now "Falls Health Spa" and has around 70 bathers a day using the health restoring waters.

The Mobley Hotel in Cisco was closed and reopened by Sissy Springer in the early '60's as a "rest home". It was in such bad state of repair that a new rest home was built and later the Mobley was sold to Mr. Harold Martindale who lived in the east side of the once proud hotel in the wintertime and homesteaded in Alaska during the summer.

Who knows what would have happened if Conrad Hilton had bought the bank he came to Cisco to buy, or what would have happened to the Mobley Hotel had he stayed in Cisco.

(The Mobley Hotel now is the property of the University of Houston Foundation, and plans for its restoration as a memorial to the founder are underway.)

The infamous Santa Claus Bank Robbery was recognized in 1967 by the Texas Historical Association as a Texas Historical Landmark. The above plaque tells the story:

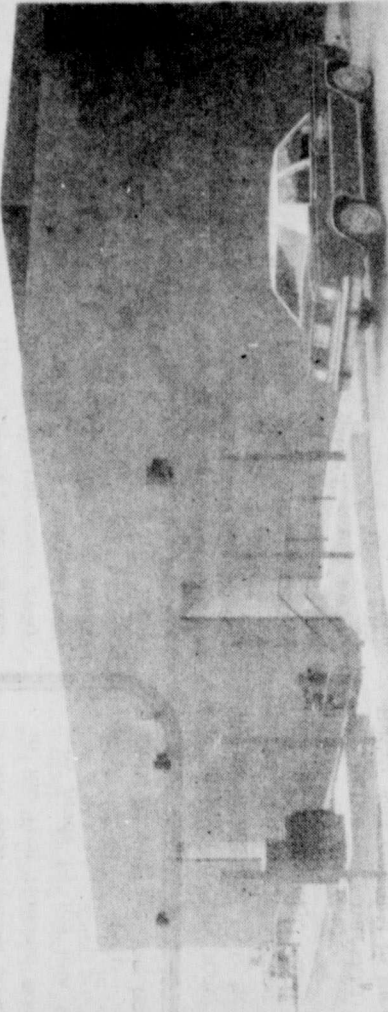

"First National Bank - Scene of daring Santa Claus bank robbery Dec. 23, 1927. During Christmas festivities, costumed Santa and three fellow bandits looted bank of $12,200 cash and $150,000 in securities. They escaped through gun battle with two little girls as hostages. A three-day manhunt followed. The children and money were recovered; the robbers captured. Six persons were killed, eight injured. Later, a mob lynched 'Santa' when he broke out of jail."

member of the board of the Eastland County Industrial Foundation. He has been a leader in the Mobley Hilton Hotel restoration project.

Mr. Woolley is serving as a member and chairman of the board of regents of Cisco Junior College. He is a director of the Hendrick Medical Center's development board and is a member of the Cisco Lions Club. The Woolleys are members of First Baptist Church.

Mr. Woolley and his wife Sandra, who is also active in community affairs, are the parents of three children - Audie, pre-med student in his junior year at Angelo State University; Michael Wayne, freshman at Cisco Junior College; and Janice, eighth grader in the Cisco Public Schools. The Woolleys live in their ranch home east of Cisco.

During his near two decades with the bank, Mr. Woolley has seen resources of the institution increase from $5,000,000 to $37,000,000. When he was promoted to be chairman of the board recently, a bank director observed: "The First National Bank has prospered under Dick Woolley's guidance. He has used his many talents for the betterment of our community as well as the bank."

The bank's growth was credited by Mr. Woolley as the result of its location in a good community.

"We serve a fine community of progressive people," Mr. Woolley said. "And we are very proud that we have been able to keep pace with community growth and progress."

History Of Cisco Banking Begins In 1889, According To Thesis

Banking in Cisco had its beginning in the year 1889, according to a thesis written by Mrs. Emma Lee Donovan, cashier, for a course in banking at Southern Methodist University a few years ago.

Banks chartered in Cisco over the years were listed in the thesis as follows:

The First National Bank of Cisco

The first "national bank" to be organized and chartered in Eastland County was The First National Bank of Cisco, Texas, which was chartered on January 7, 1902. It was time Cisco had another bank. They were: J.P. Montgomery, A.H. Johnson, Chas. H. Perkins, B.W. Rose and J.J. Butts. A charter was applied for on December 30, 1900 with a capital of $25,000 and granted on January 7, 1902.

Officers of The Citizens National Bank of Cisco, Texas were: President, Dr. J.P. Webster, Vice President, J.J. Butts, Cashier, A.H. Johnson, and Assistant Cashier, M.S. Stamps.

Directors were: J.P. Webster, J.J. Butts, J.J. Winston, A.L. Mayhew, A.H. Johnson and W.D. Davis. Citizens National Bank of Cisco, Texas enjoyed 16 years of good business and due to the early stages of the Depression which began in 1918 and the droughts of 1917 it was forced to be placed in voluntary liquidation on January 1, 1918, and was succeeded by Guaranty State Bank of Cisco, Texas, which was chartered January 31, 1919 with capital of $100,000. Five men signed for this charter. They were: Walter E. Morris, J.S. Hood, T.J. Dean, R.L. Ray, all of Cisco, and F.A. Van Deren from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

On August 31, 1921 this bank was placed in voluntary liquidation and was absorbed by Guaranty State Bank and Trust Company of Cisco, Texas.

The First National Bank in Cisco

The First National Bank in Cisco, Texas filed its application to organize on April 6, 1925. This application was approved on May 12, 1925 with a capital of $50,000.

The following five Cisco men signed the application: C.H. Fee, R.L. Poe, J.T. Berry, A.J. Olson and A. Spears.

Of the ten banks who opened for business in Cisco only the First National Bank in Cisco remains in operation.

The First National Bank in Cisco, Texas, saw many hard days during the Depression. Very few people had cash money and were afraid to deposit it in a bank. The only people who did have money to deposit were the very rich and a lot of the rich people did not trust banks as they read and heard about banks closing every day.

Mr. Alex Spears, Cashier of the First National Bank in Cisco, was a very good manager, and with his leadership the bank remained open and bought assets of several banks that were forced to close during the Depression which was raging its fifth year.

First State Bank, Cisco, Texas (formerly First Guaranty State Bank) was chartered on January 1, 1917. This bank opened its doors for business on March 20, 1917.

Directors were: John H. Garner, C.H. Fee, R.L. Poe, J.H. Reynolds, R.Q. Lee, Gus Ward and J.A. Lauderdale. All of them had homes and one car. Since they had no insurance, they sold their assets and paid their customers eighty cents on the dollar.

The once tall proud Cisco Banking Company Building now is known as the K & K Building, housing an attorney (its owner) and an oil operator and his son.

THE PRESENT BANK

The First Guaranty was later to become the present First National Bank. The first meeting of the stockholders was held on the 3rd day of January in 1917 in the City Hall, Cisco, Texas. J.H. Garner, C.H. Fee, H.C. Poe, R.F. Davis, R.L. Poe, George D. Fee, J.P. Leveridge, A.J. Olson and A. Spears adopted the by-laws and made their plans to open for business.

Bank and Trust Company of Cisco, Texas, which later became the First National Bank in Cisco, Cisco, Texas.

The Merchants and Farmers National Bank of Cisco, Texas was granted a charter on July 5, 1904 with a capital of $25,000.

Five men signed this charter. They were: W.H. Eddleman from Weatherford, Texas, Wm. Bohwing from Ranger, Texas, and W.C. Bedford, C.H. Fee and J.M. Hartman from Cisco, Texas.

The officers of this bank were President, W.H. Eddleman, Vice President, George P. Levy, Cashier, W.C. Bedford, and Assistant Cashier, W.J. Eddleman.

The Merchants and Farmers National Bank of Cisco, Texas was open for business a little over 11 years when, on November 12, 1915, it was placed in the hands of a receiver.

There are no records of this bank, so we have no way of telling why it was closed other than it is believed poor management and no increase in population played the major reason for liquidation.

The American National Bank of Cisco

The American National Bank of Cisco, Texas was chartered January 31, 1919 with capital of $100,000.

Five men signed for this charter. They were: Walter E. Morris, J.S. Hood, T.J. Dean, R.L. Ray, all of Cisco, and F.A. Van Deren from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

On August 31, 1921 this bank was placed in voluntary liquidation and was absorbed by Guaranty State Bank and Trust Company of Cisco, Texas.

Directors were: John H. Garner, C.H. Fee, R.L. Poe, A.J. Olson and A. Spears.

The first loan was for $630.00 and was granted to W.L. Sessions on March 20, 1917. The second loan made on the first day of operation was made to L.E. Huskey, M.H. Parish and J.P. Taylor for the sum of $212.50, all being commercial loans.

R.Q. Lee and J.A. Lauderdale pooled their money and built the Cisco Banking Company Building. The last part of 1919 they opened their doors for business with Gus Ward as president, John Ward as vice president and S.E. Hittson as cashier.

Directors were: J.H. Reynolds, R.Q. Lee, Gus Ward, Guy Dabney, John Ward and J.A. Lauderdale.

Three of the employees still living are S.E. Hittson, now a rancher, Tom B. Stark, insurance agent and realtor and James P. McCracken, Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank in Cisco.

The Depression, no new deposits, people out of work for years, earning only enough money for food, and the demand for more loans than they had money, the Cisco Banking Company was forced into closing its doors on September 30, 1931.

J.H. Reynolds, R.Q. Lee, Gus Ward and J.A. Lauderdale left everything they had except their homes and one car. Since they had no insurance, they sold their assets and paid their customers eighty cents on the dollar.

amid a gun battle with the pursuing posse, during which Robert Hill, one of the robbers, was shot in the shoulder, immediately began the transfer of the hostages, loot and fatally wounded companion to the youth's car.

It was not until they were discovered that the youth had removed the keys and thrown them away. The only indicated alternative was to return to the getaway car.

They transferred the young girls and one sack of money and sped away - leaving their dying companion, Louis Davis. Excitedly and without plan they turned on various dirt roads, finally choosing one that was little more than a trail and ended at a large area of thick post oak and heavy underbrush.

The three desperate, wounded thugs rushed off into the heavy brush, which was adjacent to past Congressman R.Q. Lee's farm, leaving the two young girls, Marshall Ratliff, Robert Hill and Henry Helms were afoot, less than five miles from Cisco...the posse, at one time, was within two to three hundred yards of them. Officers from all surrounding counties and the Texas Rangers were on their way to Cisco.

The hours stretched through the afternoon, shadows lengthened and grew into night; the fugitives were not captured. That evening the citizens of Cisco were still stunned, shocked by the harrowing events of the day - the bloody massacre, the roaring thunder of the bullets, the wounded, the deaths. At dawn the next day, Texas Rangers loosed a pack of bloodhounds but, because of the tracks of the posse (about 100 men), the dogs were unable to pick up the trail.

The search continued in the area into Christmas. Murders made their escape into the wild, rugged country of the Brazos River bottoms and were pursued by over 50 officers and citizens and an airplane. Three days later the pair was captured in Graham. They were feeble with exhaustion, starvation, exposure and fever. All three were placed in the Eastland County jail.

After long, sensational and separate trials, Henry Helms and Marshall Ratliff were given death sentences and Robert Hill was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Henry Helms feigned insanity but was adjudged sane and executed. Marshall Ratliff was more successful in his efforts to be judged insane. While in a death-row cell in the Huntsville prison, he made it appear that he and departed, carrying food with them. They hid out in dense brush during the day; the weather was bitter cold. Continuing their getaway that night, they sighted a posse car filled with armed men. Frantic with fear and crazed by exhaustion and exposure, Henry Helms, the wrecked the car at a cattle-guard. They were afoot again.

Henry Helms made his way to a nearby house, roused the farmer and explained that he was taking his wife to a doctor and had wrecked his car. The farmer sent his son and nephew with his car with Henry Helms. Upon seeing two men emerge from some brushy thickets, the farmer called to the boys to come back. The nephew jumped from the car; the farmer shot as the car drove away and hit his son in the shoulder, luckily a minor wound.

The men hid in a pasture during this day. At nightfall they began driving and arrived at the outskirts of Cisco. They stole blankets and another car, leaving the youth behind, drove away, heading north. The youth hiked into Cisco and quickly went to the City Hall where he told officers the direction the bandits had taken.

The pursuing officers sighted the men at South Bend, a very small village located along the Brazos River and a few miles south of Graham. After a chase of a few miles, the bandits jumped out of their car and sought the shelter of dense brush. All three of the fugitives were shot in the exchange of gunfire but managed to escape.

The captured bandit was armed with six automatics, a Bowie knife, a double barreled shotgun and three pistol belts loaded with cartridges. He was identified as Marshall Ratliff, the Santa Claus robber. The other two murderers made their escape into the wild, rugged country of the Brazos River bottoms and were pursued by over 50 officers and citizens and an airplane. Three days later the pair was captured in Graham. They were feeble with exhaustion, starvation, exposure and fever. All three were placed in the Eastland County jail.

After long, sensational and separate trials, Henry Helms and Marshall Ratliff were given death sentences and Robert Hill was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Henry Helms feigned insanity but was adjudged sane and executed. Marshall Ratliff was more successful in his efforts to be judged insane. While in a death-row cell in the Huntsville prison, he made it appear that he was having difficulty moving his hands and feet; he stared aimlessly into space, babbling deliriously, eating little.

Eventually Marshall Ratliff was returned to the Eastland County jail. It seemed that he was completely paralyzed, nothing more than a vegetable. Try as they might, the jailer and guards could not prove his condition to be otherwise. They had to tend to the prisoner's every need. After 25 days, the jailer and the guards accepted the fact that Marshall Ratliff was helpless and relaxed their vigil.

This Marshall Ratliff had been waiting for, and on the evening of November 18, 1929 he attempted to escape. He had coldly calculated every facet of the effort and his plans almost succeeded. He acquired a gun from the jailer's desk, pumped three shots into the guard and, amid a savage, brutal fight, nearly shot the jailer who engaged him in a wild, clawing brawl. The jailer's wife, in the living quarters below, heard the shots, shouts and noise and called the sheriff.

Marshall Ratliff was eventually subdued, stripped and returned to his cell. The guard, "Uncle Tom" Jones, sustained a crushed leg and bullet holes in his chest, shoulder and abdomen. A tremendous throng of excited citizens milled around the jail.

The next day, a large group of citizens remained around the jail - swelling to a great number at times, but never less than 25 or 30. That evening, at about 8:30 a crowd of 2,000 had collected. The jailer tried to reason with the mob, telling them Marshall Ratliff's case

The above photo is a reproduction of a water-color painting depicting the scene in the First National Bank when the Santa Claus robbery took place. The painting was made by the late Randy Steffen, well-known western artist, who formerly lived in Cisco. A mural in oils and numerous other water-color paintings by Mr. Steffen may be seen at the bank.

As the inert body of the Santa Claus robber dangled in the moonlight, "Uncle Tom" Jones lay nearby fighting a battle for life - a battle he was to lose.

The county officials stated that they stood ready to prosecute any person(s) that might be indicted. A special grand jury was called into session to investigate the circumstances surrounding the hanging, but evidence was insufficient for indictment.

The only robber remaining alive, Robert Hill, was paroled from prison after 14 years, remained in Texas, changed his name, and became a model citizen and successful businessman.

Bizarre Santa Claus Robbery

Captures Newspaper Headlines

(Editor's Note: The famous Santa Claus Bank robbery was given a prominent part in the thesis that Emma Lee Donovan prepared. Her story follows.)

The bizarre robbery of the First National Bank in Cisco, on the morning of December 23, 1927, received immediate attention by capturing the newspaper headlines such as the Fort Worth Star Telegram and the leadoff news reports of the radio stations across the nation, one being WBAP, Fort Worth. Frequent recountings and updating fanned national interest to a very intense degree. Nearly every Christmas the Abilene Reporter-News and Fort Worth Star Telegram run the famous Santa Claus story.

While Cisco was usually a quiet, small town with a population of about 10,000, it was not without its claim to fame. Cisco was the hub of the OILBELT (at the time, the largest oil and gas producing region in the world) - with Eastland and Ranger to made, a lady with a small daughter rushed out the bank, side door of the bank, ran to the City Hall and notified the police. Chief G.E. (Bit) Bedford and two of his officers rushed to the scene. Shots were being fired outside as well as inside the bank as aroused citizens, with firearms of all types, rushed to the fray.

Having acquired their loot and anxious to make their getaway, the uproar outside and surrounding the bank was making the robbers extremely excited and many times more dangerous. They determined to use the customers and employees as shields as they made their way to the waiting automobile and its driver, but they had not reckoned with the tremendous rain of bullets.

The cashier was shot in the jaw, his young friend, with whom he had been chatting prior to the robbery, was shot in the hip. Four other citizens were shot; Chief G.E. (Bit) Bedford and policeman George Carmichael receive mortal wounds, as did one member of the gang, Louis Davis. Santa Claus (Marshall Ratliff) was shot in the hip. Despite the fact that all of their other prisoners bolted and ran, the robbers gained their car and escaped, carrying with them two very young girls.

The gunfire directed at the car fleeing south along Main Street and the rain of bullets returned by the occupants dumfounded the imagination. But someone had fired a bullet into one of the back tires, and the car was practically without gas; the driver having forgotten to have the tank filled while Santa Claus was walking the streets prior to the robbery.

Realizing their precarious situation, the robbers were anxious and determined to commandeer another auto as quickly as possible. On the edge of town they hailed and stopped a car driven by a 14 year old youth, accompanied by his parents and grandmother. They forced the occupants out of the car and, ficers or directors. This is a practice no longer used at this bank.

The first meeting of the directors of each new year is used to pass on the bank's officers' and directors' loan

*Permanent records, First National Bank in Cisco, Cisco, Texas

Seven Presidents First National Bank in Cisco has been guided by seven leaders from its beginning to now.

They are: John H. Garner, the first president for the first year of the bank's life. Mr. Garner was a dry goods merchant before joining the bank.

C.H. Fee was the second president of the bank from 1918 to 1930. Under his excellent guidance and management the bank was able to remain open as this was during the Depression years which was at its peak during Mr. Fee's presidency.

Mr. Fee, father of Elisabeth Fee who married Alex Spears, our fourth president, came to Cisco from Mississippi, handling coffins as well. In 1918, however, he decided he would do much better as president of his bank.

Third president was R.L. Poe at the head from 1930 to 1934. Mr. Poe was a successful farmer from the Pleasant Hill community not far from Cisco.

Fourth president, and the first I remember, was Alex Spears who served the bank as president from 1934 to 1945. Mr. Spears was the first cashier of the bank when it opened in 1917.

An article in a newspaper found in between a couple of Statements of Condition credits Mr. Alex Spears with bringing the bank safely through the depression. This was due to the fact that his father-in-law, Mr. C.H. Fee, had taught him good sound banking and good bank management.

The fifth president was Charles A. Spears, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spears, who served as president from 1945 to 1963. He was in the Navy at the time of his father's death. After being elected president, he obtained a discharge and came home to assume the presidency of the bank.

During 1962 we did extensive remodeling, taking in the building next door which Committee presents millions to all old buildings where something happened to make it famous. The Bank's was the "Famous Santa Claus Bank Robbery".

The interpretive plate, made of cast aluminum with Swedish steel effect, was placed on the left-hand side of the front doors of the bank and was unveiled by Mrs. Alex Spears, a director then and now, on March 20, 1967 while the bank was celebrating its 50th anniversary.

The seventh president is Lee D. Woolley who was elected president in January, 1974. He was employed as a bookkeeper in January, 1964. In May, 1967 he was promoted to cashier of the bank. He is a native of Fort Davis, Texas and graduated from Sul Ross State College in 1962 with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree. In 1971 he graduated from SMU School of Banking in Dallas, Texas.

Most of the directors are either bankers or come from a banking family. Mrs. Alex (Elisabeth Fee) Spears was the daughter of the late C.H. Fee. Mr. Fee was one of the five men to sign the charter for the Merchants & Farmers National Bank of Cisco, Texas chartered on March 29, 1889.

Then on March 30, he signed for the charter of the First National Bank in Cisco, National Bank in Cisco, Texas. Mr. Fee was the second president of the First National Bank in Cisco. Mrs. Spears married Alex Spears who was cashier of the bank and was the mother of Charles A. Spears, the fifth president.

James P. McCracken was our sixth president, later became chairman of the board and director. He was in banking for over 50 years. He passed away Feb. 7, 1977. His wife, Kitty, was named to the board of directors after his death.

Mrs. Betty Fee Drumwright is one of the directors. She is the granddaughter of Mr. C.H. Fee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spears and the sister of Charles A. Spears, the fifth president.

W.B. Wright, director and attorney, was the grandson of J.J. Butts who signed the charter for The Citizens National Bank of Cisco, Cisco, Texas on December 30, 1901. Mr. Wright died in February, 1979. His son, W.B. Jr., was elected to his place on the board.

Lee D. Woolley, current president, is also a director of the bank. He also has relatives in the banking field. Mr. W.E. Devolin, Sr., was president and chairman of the board of the Marfa National Bank, Marfa, Texas.

In February, 1975, Abilene Savings & Loan opened an office at 707 Avenue D. This is too new to see how it will affect the First National Bank's savings accounts or our loans on real estate.

On our last State of Condition as of March 31, 1975 our deposits had grown to $16,000,000 which was an increase of over $700,000 as of December 31, 1974.

The bank's total resources passed the $37,000,000 mark with the state of condition on Nov. 30, 1982. Some 75 years earlier, on May 1, 1917, the bank's resources totaled $114,775.
