HAVE YOU noticed that the Exxon station along Interstate 20 in Cisco has reopened for business? The station has been closed down for quite a while, but two young men from Abilene recently came to town and spent a lot of hours cleaning up the property around the station, as well as the building itself.

The cleaned up area really looks nice and Cisco should extend a warm welcome to Donny Davis and Gary Jarrett for the good job they have done in reopening one of Cisco's businesses.

They report they will be running a full-service station which will offer all the usual service station work, as well as some light mechanical work.

The station, named Cisco Exxon, will be open seven days a week from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. and may be reached by telephone at 442-4061.

THE END of February is close at hand since there are only 28 days in this month. Tuesday marks the beginning of March in 1983 and my thoughts are turning more and more to the beauty of promised spring and summer months.

I am looking forward to the nice warm days in store for us. I hope the moisture we have received so far this year, will be of good benefit to area farmers.

LOCAL SCHOOL children will be given a spring break next week. They will get out of school Friday afternoon on March 4th and will not have to return until Monday morning, March 14th.

I am not sure who will enjoy the holiday more, the students or the teachers, but a lot of parents may be happy when the week-long vacation is over.

But if you think about it, that may be the way kids feel in the summertime when their parents are on vaca-

All in all, I don't think either would like it if they didn't get to spend some extra time during the year with the other. They may act glad to see the one go back to school or work, but I don't believe most would trade the week or so that has passed with anyone else.

Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

This has been a nice day. Putnam missed the rain Saturday evening, but we did not miss the thunder. And you know the old adage Thunder in February frost in April" so look out for the last of April. Any way most everybody is planting gardens. And I will say it again. The grass and weeds are getting so green! We are sorry to report some on the sick list. Mr. George Weeks was taken to the Baird Hospital last Wednesday. He is not doing good at all.

Mrs. Bonnie Farmer of Baird was taken to Hendrick Hosptial at Abilene Thursday. She is home recuperating now.

Mrs. Ollie Burnam is home but not feeling well. There has been a lot of flu and virus around, but so for I have been lucky. Mrs. Dorothy McKinney ran blood pressure checks at the community center Tuesday. This is a once a month procedure anyone wanting a pressure reading, contact Mrs. McKinney.

We have learned that Mrs. Cordie Mask is a resident of a nursing home at Abilene. Mrs. Mask is the former Mrs. Robert McKinney and lived east of Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Sleepy Sutton and Mrs. Viola Everett of Cisco visited Ollie Burnam Thursday.

Mrs. I.G. Mobley of Baird ate lunch at the community center and visited friends at Putnam Friday. Jack Ramsey and Maxie Solemon visited her daughter, the Bud Taylor family at Mineral Wells Saturday.

Mrs. Georgia Rogensteins brother Mr. Massingale of Snyder is spending some time with he

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Taylor of Sweetwater spent Saturday night and Sunday with his mother Mrs. R.B. Taylor. THey attended the wedding of Carolyn's

The rent control issue often is considered a battle between landlords and tenants. Mounting evidence, however, suggests everyone in the community has a stake in the question.

Rent controls have been imposed in some cities to limit the amount of rent a landlord may charge for an apartment. The usual justification is that inflation and tight housing supplies lead to unreasonable rent increases. Thus, controls protect the tenant at the expense of the landlord.

A recent study by the National Apartment Association points out that the cost of controls are partially borne by all local taxpayers. This occurs because controls generally reduce the market value of rental property, which lowers the amount of property tax building owners pay. The reduced tax revenues must either be made up by other property owners or they will cause a decrease in local services.

FOREIGN OWNERSHIP OF AGRICULTURAL LAND The land area of the United States is about 214 billion acres, according to the U.S. Department of owned by state and local governments. Foreigners own slightly less than 1 percent of privately owned agricultural land. However, more than half the land classified as foreign-owned is owned by a corporation in which foreigners own a 5 percent or greater share of the stock. Of foreign-owned agricultural land, forest land accounts for about 1/2, cropland for 13 percent; the rest is in pasture and other land. Foreign owners must report their agricultural land holdings and transactions under the 1978 Agricultural Foreign Investment and Disclosure Act.

RESTORATION OF HISTORIC STRUCTURES There are important tax advantages in restoring certified historic structures.

The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 offers a 25 percent tax credit for the cost of a substantial rehabilitation of a certified historic structure. The credit is available whether the property is residential or commercial.

In addition to this tax credit, the owner may claim a 15-year depreciable life on the purchase price of a expenditures, less half the tax credit. Although some people may view this favorable tax treatment as a loophole, Congress has provided this law as an incentive to preserve and main> tain historic structures. These buildings, scattered through the small towns and cities of the United States, are part of the culture and heritage of the American people, and their preservation is being encouraged through tax incentives.

MORE TROUBLE FOR BALLOON LOANS

Mortgage lenders occasionally make loans with a long-term payment schedule but require the loan be repaid long before it fully amortizes. This reduces the length of time the lender must commit to a fixed rate of interest. When the loan is repaid, the lump sum payment of principal is referred to as a balloon payment. When this payment comes due, the borrower generally seeks to refinance the loan to provide funds for the balloon payment. While such loans have recently been used for home financing, they have been fairly common in the past for investment properties. Nationwide, there may be as much as $30 billion of such loans on apartment projects and another $100 billion on building and rehabilitation commercial buildings. These loans were originated at 7-8 percent interest rates; refinancing may be available at 15-16 percent.

Rent Control Effects

Foreclosure on some large properties could result if these balloons burst.

MAKE IMPROVEMENTS PAY As a general rule, the cost of a home improvement will be recovered on resale if it brings the property up to the standards in neighborhood. On the other hand, if the improvement causes the property to become superior to the other homes in the neighborhood, the owner may not recoup its cost, plus inflation, on resale. Keep in mind that cost is pletely furnished. $50,000.

will sell separate.

not the same as value. Sometimes, a low-cost improvement can make a home much more marketable. In other situations, however, an expensive improvement which is considered desirable by a homeowner, will have little or no value in the eyes of the prospective purchasers.

When planning a capital improvement, consider how long you intend to own the home and how the improvement will be viewed in the resale market. Make the improvement only if you expect to recover the cost through a combination of enjoyment or resale price.

Homemaking Hints County Extension Agent

Janet Thomas

This time of the year most of us are busy getting our financial records together for income taxes. This creates an ideal time to hold a financial contingency day. During financial contingency day, you review all household financial matters, update needed information and set goals for the coming year. The primary reason for holding this annual financial round-up is to gather all the information that would be needed if a death or accident should occur during the year. So an annual contingency day can save work and heartache in the event of a family crisis situation.

Use this check-list in planning the agenda items for your contingency day meeting with family members:

1. Review and revise net worth statement.

2. Establish financial goals for the coming year. 3. Revise the household budget.

they are up to date 6. Prepare or review a letter of last instruction. This letter informs survivors of matters needing attention. 7. Re-calculate survivors' income and expenses in case of a death in the family. Make out a tentative budget for survivors. It is important for survivors to know all sources of income they can depend on.

In a sense, an annual household contingency day is like an annual meeting of corporation, and should be considered just as important

"What can I do now, Mother?" Remember that question?

Too often uttered in a fretful whine!

Our children were on the inventive side, sometimes to our sorrow and theirs. One instance that springs to mind is when David, at four years and forty pounds, roped a seven-hundred pound steer. Oh, wow!

Nevertheless, notwithstanding, and despite innovative activities of our four-yearolds, we heard our share of the question that I'm sure our parents heard years before.

This same question goes with us through life, I've concluded after considering the matter for some time.

Mandi, David's daughter, has no calves to rope at age four, but it was her, "What can I do now, O-ma?" that brought on this fit of thought on the question.

Mandi, too, is inventive, or resourceful. When I discovered her whittling away at a cucumber, I explained to her that I'd prefer to peel them for her-she has a passion for cucumbers. She informed me that she was "careful, and I'm not going to cut myself."

Mandi also disdains help in dressing herself, so she sometimes begins her day with sneakers on the wrong feet and her panties are backwards. Some underwear maker was illinspired to print the picture on the seat of her "britches."

Mandi wants Huggy Bear where she can see him. But the question, "What can I do now?" tags along with us from the rocking cradle to the immobile grave.

By the time we begin school, it tapers down because we seldom are allowed enough time between schedules and activities to fret about what to do next.

Aside from learning the requisites of a new job, the question is pretty much in abevance in adulthood. It's not so much. "What can I

The Piano That Serves As A Reminder Of Fine Music

BY VIOLA PAYNE

Several years ago a concert pianist came to Eastland to play with a violinist at the Woman's Club building. This was a special "Friends Of Music" concert sponsored by the Eastland Music Study Club. The young man sat down at the 9 ft. Concert Grand piano, which occupied a corner of the main room. Soon the deep bass tones and clear high notes of the old instrument rang across the building.

After the concert was over, the pianist remained at the bench for a moment. He reached forward and touched the instrument gently.

"I am amazed," he said, "At the sound from this piano. It is what you would expect to find in some concert hall, in a large city -"

Local players, from Wilda and Wanda Dragoo to present artists Mrs. Kenneth (Mary Hearn) Heitschmidt and Mrs. D.L. Kinnaird, have expressed the same feelings,

"Everyone enjoys the tone of this piano," says Mrs. Earl (Billye) Bradley, the

Mrs. P.H. Wolfe of Eastland went to Dallas and then recommended the purchase of the Knabe piano from D.L. Whittle Music Co. The Music Club members understood that the piano had belonged to a concert pianist named Harold Bauer, who had performed in Eastland On Sept. 29, 1921 the piano was delivered in Eastland. The initial down payment was $512.60, of which $200.00 was paid by the Music Club, $200.00 by the Civic League, and more than $200.00 by the P.T.A. Freight costs were $17.77, with additional dray costs of $65.00. The Music Club assumed payments of $34.60 per month. The total cost of the instrument is not available, but the Music Club insured it for $1,000.

On Feb. 13, 1920, the The piano was carried to Eastland Music Club was the City Hall, a brick threeorganized. The Club was story structure on the corner of Daughtery and Commerce Sts. The first floor of the building housed the Fire Station, and the auditorium occupied the top floor. A wide flight of stairs swept up from the back of the building into this auditorium, and the stage reached across the front of it.

A number of performances and theatrical programs were presented in this building, but the acoustics were "terrible", according to Music Club members who were present.

The Music Club managed to pay off the piano by October, 1922. They raised money with such things as a "Movie Benefit at .35 cents per ticket", Musical Teas, Concerts, Box Lunches, and something called "Ripple Parties". But before they raised all the money, other problems became evident.

On Sept. 8, 1922, the Music Club Minutes included these statements:

"The attention of the Club was called to the deplorable condition of the City Hall, and neglect of the piano

"The Study Club will meet in the Elks Club Room this year, and the question of moving the piano there was discussed. Would it be possible, and agreeable with the different Clubs who helped in the purchase of same?

"Miss Knox and Miss Kinniard are asked to serve on a Committee to investigate the possibility.

of it is given to the City." At a Club Meeting on Sept. 22, 1922, the Committee reported on their interview with the Civic Club and P.T.A. concerning moving the piano. They were asked to leave the piano in City Hall for the entertainments given by the Fine Arts Faculty of the Public School. At this time a Committee was appointed to see the City thusiastic about their new meeting place, and moved in furnishings as soon as possible. No one quite remembers how the piano was moved - it must have been a terrific job! But, in spite of weighing a probable ton, it arrived at the Clubhouse with no mishap.

One of the Commissioners promised all sorts of help ... "The Piano cover was found in a secluded corner far from the piano." At this time a Church in Ranger asked to borrow the piano, but the request was denied. "The roads are in such a condition that safe removal to and from Ranger would be tubing too much of a risk," stated the minutes. As the months went by the situation in the City Hall apparently grew no better. And the Music Club members continued to be very concerned. In November, 1922 there was quite a discussion, and a committee was appointed to interview the Commissioners about closing the back of the auditorium to make the acoustics better and guarantee protection. Later the minutes mention "the miserable condition and neglect of the beautiful piano", and more about 'Closing up the back of the auditorium". There is no record that this was ever done Things looked dark indeed, but the Knabe was slated for a better home. By the mid-20's the "Oil Boom" had subsided, but a lot of new people had moved to Eastland, including dedicated Civic workers. The Eastland Clubs and the

The old piano has graced the Clubhouse since. Most early members of the Eastland Music Club are gone now, and memories of their concerts and other pleasant events have faded. But the work of these women left its stamp on the town - and their Eastland Music Club is still going strong.

> The Knabe is a tangible reminder of what they have all loved - fine music. And, like all good instruments, its beauty has been enhanced by the passing of time.

ションコンクはかけたちちちょう すうろう

Things are beginning to heat up but in the House assignment of bills continued. Possibly one of the most revealing referrals was the assignment by the Speaker of H.B. 440 dealing with pari-mutual wagering. This bill would create, generally speaking, a condition in the State of Texas where persons could, in counties choosing to exercise the option, wager on horse races, and perhaps, dog races. The assignment of this bill to the Urban Affairs Committee is revealing in that it is not assigned to the State affairs Committee where it is rumored Representative Pete Laney, the chairman of the Committee, would be opposed to it. The bill was also not referred to the County Affairs Committee, the Committee on which I sit and which is made up primarily of ruraloriented representatives. Obviously, the Urban Affairs Committee has little or no rural representation. I can only draw the conclusion that the Speaker desire that the bill have favorable Committee treatment and at least be reported to the House where we will all literally have to "fish or cut

This, of course, provides the perfect predicate for this week's issue discussion, pari-mutuel wagering. This issue has been before the Legislature; at each regular session, for a number of sessions, and has, to date, met with little success. It would appear that the horse racing lobby has about one million dollars to spend on the issue this session and that much money will get people's attention on any issue.

Proponents of the issue point to the fact that Texas is the largest horse raising state in the nation and we are geographically surrounded by horse racing states. They cite the increased revenues, both in the private and state sectors, that will be generated by horse racing industry and make it sound reasonably palatable to a state legislators who must, to maintain his position, avoid a general tax increase. Proponents say that the prohibition era taught a lesson that morality cannot be legislated and further point to the fact that on any given fall weekend literally millions of dollars are wagered on high school, college and professional football games with absolutely no regulations or controls and with no state revenues being generated. The number of Texas licenses in Ruidoso, New Mexico, in racing season may be one of the most visible indicators of revenue Texas is losing. Opponents are of the opinion, and probably to some extent rightly so, that estimates of the revenue which the bill would generate, are grossly out of proportion; that the climate provided by racetracks would be an open invitation to organized crime; that hard-earned money justly and properly destined for upkeep and maintenance of homes and families would be squandered away; and, increased cost of necessary policing efforts would far and away exceed any benefits derived. The legislation proposed would earmark funds received on taxation of wagering operations for increased expenditures for aid to financially dependent children and education, both areas desperately in need of funds. I will do what you want me to do but you have to tell me before I know.

Capitol Update

Senator John Tower

It is not often that a single issue is brought to the attention of Congress with opinion stacked almost unanimously on one side, but such an instance has occurred with the July, and with this law comes an administrative burden for public outery against the interest withholding requirement of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982. Since mid-December almost 30,000 letters, now at an cial institutions across this country. If quick action is taken declared on the return. average of 2,500 letters per day, have poured into my of- something can be done about withholding before it is too fice from Texans opposed to the provision.

Families tell of the forms which must be completed and filed on their own and their children's savings accounts. Banks, credit unions, savings and loans and other financial institutions, such as investment houses and brokerage firms, also tell of the added paperwork and elaborate on the fine points -- the new government reglations which must now be met, the added burden to their legal and tax departments. Practically unanimously, and with an insignificant few opposing, the Texans who have written to me 'eel that interest withholding is more of a government intrusion than efficient tax collection. I concur.

This provision is counter to the economic policies which are pulling us through and out of the lagging recession. It is, indeed, not a new tax, but it does have a dampening effect on the savings and investments we tried to encourage with the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981. I believe we must continue to encourage the improving trend of U.S. savings and investments, not discourage them.

The regulations recently released on withholding by the cessive government regulation. Internal Revenue Service are lengthy and complex. While paperwork requirements are necessary to receive that exemp-

That's still far too much "red tape," but it's a enactment, all federal agencies must cut the burden of their major good start in our efforts to reduce government intrusion into our regulations on farmers, ranchers and small businesses by 25 perlives.

I have long been concerned about excessive government paperwork and the burden it creates, especially for small businesses. Sip years ago I had the Joint Economic Committee study the costs of Thomas Jefferson in his first inaugural address in 180 federal regulations and paperwork.

of the regulatory activities of the independent agencies. Again, my proposal was adopted by the President as the core of a new regulatory review mechanism for the Office of Management and Budget. The slimmer Federal Register demonstrates that an effective program of outside review, such as this one, can go a long way toward eliminating duplication and unneeded regulation.

But there is more to be done.

Last year, I introduced legislation requiring that federal regulations affecting small businesses, farms and ranches be reduced by

There is no other task in the world so challenging and complicated as that of raising children. Being a good parent is so difficult because it calls for two opposite qualities in balance; giving up just enough childishness to appear mature, and retaining just enough childishness so that we can empathize with the youngsters - an equilibrium as admirable as it is rare . . The good parent is simply one who MORE THAN HALF THE TIME does the right thing instead of the wrong. He realizes that in the long run only three basic needs are essential: love, discipline, and independence. Give away your love to your children, and you will receive back more love than you can encompass. Discipline your children to recognize reality, and in so doing you will enrich your own understanding. Welcome their evolving independence, and you will be supported by the strength you have given them . . . CISCO FUNERAL HOME or lent is a time of fasting and penitence extending from Ash Wednesday until Easter, a total of 40 week days.

It has been, historically, translated as "Farewell Meat." Meat is usually replaced by fish, particularly among the affluent strata of society.

However, another traditional protein-rich substitute vastly under-rated is the lentil. Because lentils have always been comparatively inexpensive they have been looked down upon as inferior food and throughout history, those who could afford to eat more costly fare, did so. 7:00 p.m. The lentil itself is thoroughly at home in soups and salads, and makes a delightfull addition to a wide variety of savory vegetable dishes, and casseroles.

Next week we will continue to discuss the history of lentils and how they may be used in our diets in a nutritious manner.

The programs for the past week included: a film sponsored by AARP entitled "Arthritis" was shown; T.D. Sanders sang and played the guitar, accompanied by Mrs. O.T. Killion; and Judge Scott Bailey spoke to the Senior Center members using for his subject "Americanism." The menus for the week

Monday--chicken macaroni with cheese, mixed vegetables, sliced beets, birthday cake, bread, butter and drink. Wednesday--beef stew, fresh vegetables, tapioca pudding, cornbread, butter and drink.

Friday-barbecue brisket, potato salad, green beans, apricot cobbler, bread, butter and drink.

A VACATION OF a month or so in the Rio Grande (They pronounce the E.) Valley was winding down as this was being written Feb. 22 in our travel trailer parked in Fiesta Park, Harlingen. We moved from a park at nearby LaFeria to attend the annual rally of a regional association of trailer folks. More than 400 trailers were parked together.

The regional gathering was made up primarily of trailer families living in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana. The meeting was scheduled for the week preceding the midwinter conference of the association, which takes place March 2-7 in the same park. Some 1,500 trailers were being expected for this event.

The program for the regional affair includes entertainment furnished by local folks, lectures on safety in driving and trailer handling, sessions on arts and crafts, a tamale supper, a catered dinner, a pancake breakfast, an orange juice party sponsored by the Harlingen CofC, and the like.

The mid-winter national conference will have a lot of professional entertainment, including folkloric dancers from Mexico. There's time on the program for visitors to make the trips of 25 miles or so to visit the Mexican cities of Matamoros, Progresseo and Reynosa.

VISITING PORT ISBELL, the south end of Padre Island, once every couple of years, you're impressed with progress and development. More and more condominums are being built and they're selling. We've heard folks say they'd hesitate to buy Padre Island property due to the frequent gulf hurricanes. It's not in-

The Boca Chica country is very sparcely populated, indicating that living in this area is something less than a good life. Birds are there in big numbers and it's interesting to watch them.

HIGHLY ADVERTISED Is the valley's Aloe Vera plant and its use as a beauty cream, lotion and salve plus a internal medicine for just about anything that might ail you. We visited a center where they have fields of Aloe Vera plants growing in long rows and machinery that takes the goodies from the leaves for shipment in 55-gallon barrels to laboratories that turn out the finished products.

We inquired whether they had a product that would grow hair. And they had to admit that Aloe Vera had flunked that course.

Next day, we visited a home products show in nearby McAllen and ran into a new deal in hair growing. They sell a bottle of clear liquid (We didn't see a name on it. Too new, no doubt.) that will grow on 82 per cent of the bald heads, the lady said. If it doesn't grow hair on yours, she added, we'll re-
