

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERREL HALLMARK

CISCO SEEMS to be enjoying pretty weather this week as the skies are clear and the temperatures warm. Over the weekend, beginning with last Friday, cloudy skies dumped some moisture in the area.

It seemed as though the Retail Trade Day and "Little Miss Cisco" pageant might be affected by the weather on Saturday, but the weather seemed to cooperate. By the time of the pageant, the clouds began to break up and the sun to shine through.

If you missed the pageant, you missed seeing a whole bunch of pretty girls from Cisco.

THE FOLLOWING letter was received in our office Tuesday morning and is addressed to the editor. Viewing the nature of the letter, I have chosen to run it in this column rather than in a letter to the editor column. It reads as follows:

Dear Editor
We, the Rebekah Sunday School Class of East Cisco Baptist Church, would like to express our concern for little Ashley Bailey. Most of us have never been involved in a situation where X-number of dollars might mean the difference in our child's life. So, we as a class would like to take our class fund and donate it to the Ashley Bailey fund.

We would like to see each Car Wash Set Here

The First Evangelical Methodist Church youth will be having a car wash Saturday, May 28, at the Robo Car Wash, located at West 9th Street starting at 10:00 and will last until 6 p.m.

The wash will be $3.75 per car, and includes inside and outside cleaning. Cars will be waxed, too, if so desired. Extra charge for wax jobs.

For pickup and delivery, call 442-3412. An adult will pick-up and deliver the cars to be washed and will return them after they are cleaned.

class from our city churches and those classes from surrounding cities to do the same. Would each class say a special prayer this following Sunday for this little girl. We know God will be listening.

Thank you,
The Rebekah Class

Allen Team Wins Local Golf Event

Harvey and Margaret Allen of Eddy, near Waco, successfully defended their title in the annual Couple's Golf Tournament at the Cisco Country Club last weekend. Their victory came on a scorecard playoff after they were one of three teams ending in a tie.

The Allens were tied with Charles and Tish Reeves of Baird and with the team of Joe Hawkins and Judy Casey of Abilene with two-day scores of 128 — eight under par. A comparison of scorecards gave the victory to the Allens, 2nd place to the Hawkins-Casey team, and 3rd to the Reeves team.

Fourth place in the championship flight was won by the team of Letha Stafford and Bennie Nichols of Cisco with a score of 130, six under par. Other teams and their scores were Towery-Towery 137, and Holland-Holland 140, Conley-Conley 143.

The team of Catherine Abbott and Anthony Strother had a score of 140 to win the first flight. Mr. Strother of Abilene is Mrs. Abbott's son-in-law. Coming in second was the Ray and Erma Kemper team of Baird with a 141. The Randy and Pat Harris team of Eastland had a 142 to win third place. Ralph Glenn and Dorothy Farnsworth of Cisco came in 4th with a score of 143.

The Tommy and Paula Higgins team of Baird had a 144 to win the second flight. Second place went to B.J. and Maryann Perry of Cisco with a 146, and Tex and Rene Cloud of Baird had a 151 for 3rd place.

Bennie Nichols of Cisco won the prize for the longest drive, and the prize for the ball closest to the pin on No. 8 green went to Harvey Allen of Eddy.

The tournament opened Saturday with 18 holes and concluded with 18 holes Sunday afternoon. The event was a good success with some 30 teams participating, according to Chairman Letha Stafford.

Next event at the club will be the annual low ball partnership on June 4 and 5.

Eastland County Commissioners entered a contract with the Texas Association of Counties to handle the county's unemployment compensation. The decision came at the regular scheduled meeting Monday, May 23, with all commissioners present.

They also entered into a contract with the Appraisal District Board, for the assessing of property tax. Commissioner Richard Robinson attended a meeting with the Appraisal District Board on this matter. He then reported to the commissioners at their Monday meeting. The Appraisal District Board already handles the appraisal work for the county.

In other business the commissioners:

• Heard from Mr. Jack McCrary, an attorney from Austin. The commissioners then decided to enter into a two year contract with Mr. McCrary's firm for the purpose of collecting delinquent oil, gas and mineral property taxes. According to County Judge Scott Bailey, the

Tips For A Healthier Living

by Josephine Cleveland

Robert L. Smith, publisher of "Total Health" magazine wrote the book, "The Best Of Total Health." This book is loaded with tips on how to have peace of mind, more pep, less stress, lower blood pressure, a more beautiful skin — and more!

This is interesting. The "Miracle medicine food" for lowering blood pressure? Garlic! No one can argue with success," says Willa Bowles who wrote the chapters. And garlic can be taken in tablet or capsule form, if you don't like the taste.

"Garlic is also known as the poor man's antibiotic," she says. It is a blood cleaner, stimulates blood circulation, normalizes intestinal flora, and helps rid the body of excess mucus or phlegm.

One can always sprinkle garlic in a lettuce salad. Garlic toast is quickly made and can be served along with a salad.

Garlic Toast
Take slices of bread as needed. Spread each with margarine. Sprinkle (sparingly) garlic salt on each slice. Toast in your oven broiler until lightly browned.

Here is a recipe I like which uses garlic. You might like to try it.

Lumberjack Hamburgers
½ cup margarine
2 cups finely chopped onions
1 cup finely chopped green pepper
3 pounds ground beef
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 finely chopped clove of garlic
¼ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup of chili sauce
1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese.

Melt margarine in skillet. Add onions and green pepper and cook until tender (about five minutes). Combine ground beef, eggs, Worcestershire sauce, garlic, and pepper. Mix lightly. Shape into twelve long patties. Spoon green pepper mixture into centers of six patties. Top each with 2 tablespoons chili sauce. Cover with the remaining patties. Press and seal edges together. Place in refrigerator until ready to cook. Broil 3 inches from heating unit for about 5 minutes on each side or until meat is of desired doneness. Sprinkle cheese over top of patties and broil just until cheese melts. Makes six servings. Notice I did not include salt. If you are not on a salt free diet use two teaspoons in meat mixture. Serves six.

STEPHENVILLE—Janice L. Agnew, a Tarleton State University student from Cisco, has been inducted into the Pi Iota Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education.

Kappa Delta Pi recognizes scholastic achievement in both graduate and undergraduate students. To be eligible for membership, students must have a 3.0 grade point ratio in 12 hours of professional education and at least a 3.0 average in areas of academic specialization or teaching fields. Candidates are also screened for other professional characteristics.

The Tarleton chapter was chartered in 1982 and now has approximately 200 members.

Production Credit Award
Patri Lynn Spurlen (left) of Eastland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.L. Spurlen, was selected from among Eastland County graduating seniors to receive the Stephenville Production Credit Association Agriculture Achievement Award. Eligibility is limited to members of Eastland County FFA Chapters or 4-H Clubs. She is shown with Cecil Crenwelle of the local office.

Two awards were given with Dane Gressett of Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gressett, being the other recipient. These were $200 cash awards. It is planned for these awards to be presented annually.

Double Yields Due To Wheat Breeders

The six-to-eight million acres of wheat grown annually in Texas bear mute tribute to the plant breeders of the past 60 years who not only doubled average yields but also improved the quality of grain as well.

"Problems of wheat production and wheat varieties are as many and diverse as the environments that exist in the various production areas of the state," according to Dr. Kenneth Porter, plant breeder with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of Amarillo.

Porter, a widely honored and internationally recognized plant scientist, has been involved in wheat improvement work since 1947. He is a member of a team of plant scientists engaged in this work in the state.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) has had for many years a state-wide wheat-improvement program to provide varieties better adapted for the different areas of the state, that are more resistant or more tolerant to the ever present production hazards.

Major centers of wheat improvement research include Amarillo (Bushland), Chillicothe-Vernon, Dallas, Overton and College Station, while TAES scientists at these locations conduct or supervise supporting research at other TAES installations and at off-station locations.

Since the release of the variety Denton, at the old Denton Station in 1926, this team approach has developed 20 improved wheat varieties for Texas wheat producers and farmers in other states.

Older farmers of the state may recognize variety names like Austin, Seabreeze, Wester, Quannah, Tascosa, Caddo and Crockett, while younger farmers may be more familiar with the varieties Strudy, Caprock, TAM W-101, TAM-105, TAMEX and Mit.

The significance of these releases is emphasized by the fact that 40% of the Texas wheat acreage is planted to TAES varieties and an additional 40% is planted to wheats developed by other state experiment stations with which TAES cooperates.

In addition to those developed by TAES wheat breeders, improved varieties developed by other state experiment stations have been evaluated, increased and released to Texas producers. Numerous germplasm lines with characteristics of value have also been released to commercial seed companies for use in their breeding programs.

One of the greatest contributions made by TAES wheat improvement research was the demonstration of the value and wide adaptation of semi-dwarf hard red winter wheats.

Sturdy, which was the first hard red winter semidwarf wheat released in the U.S. (1966), was soon followed by the release of the short wheat varieties Caprock, TAM W-101, TAM W-103, TAM 105, TAM 106, TAMEX and Mit. Porter attributes much of the credit for Sturdy to Dr. I. M. Atkins who was in charge of the small grain research from 1930-1970.

"Sturdy (1966) and TAM W-101 (1972) were the fore-runners which demonstrated the need for, usefulness, and wide adaptation of semidwarf wheats in the hard red winter wheat area," according to Porter.

"By 1981, Sturdy, which at one time was grown on 2 million acres in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas, was still grown on over 800,000 acres in Texas.

"TAM W-101 was grown on 1.5 million acres in Texas in 1981 and on 2.5 million acres in Oklahoma, or on more than one-third of that state's wheat acreage in 1979.

"The recently released TAM 105 (1979), promises to be planted on substantial acreage in Texas, Kansas, and Oklahoma. TAM 105 was grown on nearly 1 million acres in 1982, increasing the total acreage of TAES wheats to over 6 million.

"The TAES variety TAMEX, a joint release by Texas and New Mexico, will find a place in New Mexico while Mit, released by TAES in 1981, is a new leaf-rust-resistant wheat for South Texas. The significance of TAES wheats to the seed trade is emphasized by the fact that 25% of all certified or registered hard red winter seed production in the U.S. is sown to the TAES varieties."

Even with this record of accomplishment, it must be acknowledged that present challenges are formidable.

Better winter hardy varieties are needed for the High Plains while some spring varieties may be fall sown in South Texas. Wheat streak mosaic and root rot resistance are needed in varieties for the Panhandle, while resistance to rust, mildew, septoria, yellow dwarf and tan spot may be more badly needed but not exclusively required by varieties grown in the more humid areas of the state.

At present, biotype E is the prevalent greenbug biotype on the High Plains while both biotype E and C are found in the Rolling Plains and North Texas and only biotype C appears to exist in Central and South Texas.

Short wheats have produced significantly higher yields on irrigated land and in the 25-inch annual rainfall areas, while taller varieties may still be better studied for dryland on the High Plains. Better milling and baking characteristics are needed for varieties grown in all of Texas.

These are only a few examples of the problems to be faced and overcome by the dynamic TAES wheat research program. Results of 1982 trials indicate recently selected lines may have even greater yield potential than those varieties most recently released.

A number of these which have shown good quality characteristics at the Texas A&M's Cereal Quality Laboratory were entered in 20 bushel, large scale quality trials sponsored by the Wheat Quality Council and Kansas State University.

"Even greater use may be made of valuable TAES experimental wheats which are currently being considered for release, under appropriate agreements and contracts, to commercial seed firms for use as parents of wheat hybrids.

"The bottom line of TAES wheat research is service to the producer, seedman, processor and consumer," Porter concluded.

State Capitol Highlights

Texas Press Association

Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN—For two years Texas legislators have known that cuts in federal funds would hamper state government budgeting and last week lawmakers learned the latest report indicates federal aid here fell by more than $420 million in 1982.

The decline was 50 percent greater than the average loss to all states under the Reagan Administration's cutbacks.

Also last week, legislators discovered that the fragile $30 billion proposed budget now in conference committee may still have to be trimmed by some $220 million.

Lawmakers expect to free up the needed revenues by reducing the state's contributions to the Teachers Retirement System from the present 8.5 percent to 7.1 percent of teacher salary.

White has lobbied House Speaker Gib Lewis in several private meetings to relent on his decision to halt all tax hike bills in the House. Across the rotunda, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who predicted a hike was needed months ago, has remained publicly silent, perhaps waiting for Lewis to act.

Since by law all tax bills must originate in the House Ways and Means Committee, Lewis' stance is all-important in the tax debate. Forecasters see no tax bill coming out this session.

White v. Bullock

Meanwhile, Comptroller Bob Bullock continued snapping at White's heels last week, criticizing the governor for failing "to put his name" on any tax proposal and failing in leadership.

Bullock, who announced he would run against White in '86 before White even took office in January, would love to see White come out solid for higher taxes. Bullock would use the issue against him on the campaign trail.

Higher Taxes?

The scrappy budget yet to be finalized still has some lawmakers, and particularly Gov. Mark White, pushing for a major tax hike, especially to increase teacher salaries.

trail and White, who well knows the trap Bullock is goading him into, has already made several public statements which make him appear unsure of his course. Some wise heads predict White will wait until a special session to raise taxes.

Veto, Gasohol

White is also losing on another of his pet issues: making the Public Utility Commissioners elected instead of appointed. He has gone as far as threatening to veto the bill unless the election clause is included, but lawmakers don't seem to be giving in. In his search to find allies, he has also threatened to veto the Railroad Commission sunset bill.

Other action in the White-Bullock saga includes:

—White authorized Texas to repay $50 million in federal loans used for state unemployment benefits. The state, on former Gov. Bill Clements' initiative, borrowed $452 million when high unemployment drained the Texas fund.

—Bullock supported a bill to repeal the tax break on gasohol, saying state government could gain $1.5 million if the tax were reinstated. Bullock immediately drew good-natured but determined fire from Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, who said Bullock "was more fun than a summer picnic," but wrong Bullock, however, was backed up by Hobby and, apparently, Lewis.

The Water Plan

The eight-bill Texas Water Plan package was tabled in its entirety last week by Midland Republican Tom Craddick, who objects to the plan to protect river flow into coastal bays. The package won't come out of his House committee until it's amended, he explained.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said he will oppose any amended package that doesn't include the bays and estuaries.

The Senate

Measures passed by the Senate last week included:

—A five dollar fee on court costs in divorce cases.

—A five dollar saltwater sportfishing stamp fee to pay for coastal fishing law enforcement.

—Increase penalties for catching redfish and speckled trout.

—A bill requiring that topless bars and other sexually oriented businesses be maintained at least 1,000 feet from churches and schools.

—A bill to implement the federal brucellosis program and avoid a quarantine of Texas cattle.

—A five percent hike in mandatory liability auto liability auto insurance next year.

The House

Measures approved by the House included:

—A bill making it against the law for JPs to refuse to perform interracial marriages on the basis of race alone.

—Allowing schools to hire non-certified teachers for science and math classes.

—Requiring counties to help pay for emergency medical care of poor Texans. Rural lawmakers opposed strongly, arguing that rural tax dollars shouldn't be used to bail out urban hospitals.

DPS Warns Of Increased Dangers

AUSTIN—Memorial Day weekend signals the start of the summer vacation season and increased dangers to motorists, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, urged drivers to exercise caution during the upcoming holiday weekend and throughout the summer.

"During the vacation season, more motorists will be exposed to highway driving hazards," Adams said. "Heeding the traffic laws, wearing seat belts, and staying alert for drunk drivers is the best defense for avoiding an accident."

The DPS director requested the assistance of Texas drivers in minimizing traffic deaths.

"Statewide traffic fatalities are now about 13 per cent below the number for the same period last year," Adams pointed out. "But we also have to remember that the potential for additional fatalities during any holiday weekend is great and we must adjust our driving habits and attitudes accordingly."

A total of 58 traffic deaths resulted from accidents during the Memorial Day weekend in 1982.

"Troopers will be on the lookout for hazardous violations over the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to prevent accidents and we do not intend to relax our efforts to arrest drunk drivers and cite speeders," Adams said. "These two violations continue to cause most of the traffic fatalities in our state."

Governor Proclaims Safe Boating Week

AUSTIN—Gov. Mark White has signed a proclamation declaring June 6-12 as Safe Boating Week in Texas.

Texas boaters are urged to become more aware of safe boating procedures during the week and throughout the summer, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said.

Government agencies and the recreational boating industry are stressing the theme "Wear Your Life Preserver (PFD) - A Friend For Life."

"Personal flotation devices are required by law to be aboard all boats, but they won't do any good if they are not worn," said Capt. Larry Williford of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. "Today's flotation devices are lightweight and comfortable, and they don't restrict a person's movements."

Williford said Texas now is the third largest state in the nation in terms of recreational boating participation. "It's extremely important that boaters, especially first-time boaters, know how to handle their crafts properly. That is why the Parks and Wildlife Department offers the Texas Better Boating Course," said Williford. For further information on the Texas Better Boating Course, call toll-free 1-800-792-1112.

If you're renting a phone from the phone company, your monthly bill includes a rental fee. In the long run, that fee can add up to far more than the cost of a new ITT telephone. For example, if your current rental charge is $2 - $3 per month, an ITT phone priced at less than $50.00 can pay for itself in less than 2 years! All ITT phones are FCC approved, so they're legal to install. They're backed by a one-year, limited warranty on parts and service. And the ITT Own-A-Phone® line offers exciting features and styles you won't find with other telephones. Let us show you how easy it is to own your phone soon.

Reflections In Perspective

I.W. Ussery

We Americans (of the U.S. variety) are about the most pampered "public" in the world. In order to retain our business, countless services to which we have become accustomed to the point of taking them for granted are provided by a variety of commercial enterprises. In some other countries, those everyday services and conveniences are paid for by the individual.

Has it ever occurred to you that there is nothing in the fine print of the lease agreement which you sign when you register in a hotel that state specifically that the hostelry is obligated to provide a bar of soap besides the wash basin? With another in the bath? And yet another cube of the suds-promoting substance in the shower? Have you ever checked in at a hotel and proceeded to your room to find that there's not a smidgen of soap to be found? Not in the U.S., I can assure you.

Santos, Brazil, is a lovely little city on the Atlantic coast of Brazil some fifty miles or so from Sao Paulo, which highly industrialized city calls itself "The Detroit of Brazil". The distance is only a faint recollection of the one and only visit I ever made to Santos which, in addition to being the seaport for Sao Paulo was quite a resort center for that bustling inland city. Lovely, wide pink sand beaches, washed by the South Atlantic attracted the Sao Paulistas by the thousands during the season. Santos was also the site of a major refinery of Companhia Petroleos do Brasil, the nationalized Brazilian oil company.

I was living at the time in Rio de Janeiro where, as a consultant to Shell de Venezuela I had been assigned for the purpose of providing "technical assistance" representing Shell in the construction of facilities for the handling of imported Venezuelan crude oil which was to provide feedstock for a giant refinery of Petrobras. Petrobras felt it convenient to avail themselves of my services, even though my contract was with Shell, for such as would suit their convenience and serve any useful purpose...useful to Petrobras.

Called into the office of the manager of the project to which I was assigned by Shell; I was informed that an airline reservation, together with arrangement for hotel accommodations in Santos had been made for me. I would proceed on the following day to fly to Sao Paulo where a Petrobras car and driver would meet and transport me to Santos. In Santos, I would inspect and prepare a report on the acceptability of a facility at Caubatao Refinery, the construction of which facility was nearing completion.

It was a pleasant hour's flight to Sao Paulo. The driver was waiting and was easily recognized from the large placard with my name printed on it which he was carrying. And, as mentioned above, the distance to Santos is merely an estimate. The driver was apparently a direct descendant of a long line of winners of the Indianapolis "500", and felt that execution of any of the countless sharp turns on the road the mountains from Sao Paulo to Santos was more than two wheels would amount to a defect on his record. We arrived in Santos with his record unspoiled. It was with no small degree of relief that I dismounted at the entrance of the "Hotel Imperial", which appeared to be one of the more posh hotels on the wide pink sand beach.

It was during the "off season". The lobby of the hotel as well as the beaches was almost totally devoid of the usual teeming masses of sun-and-salt-water worshippers. The welcome I received at the desk seemed to be of the sort reserved for V.I.P.s of the first order. The receptionist, who appeared to have been thoroughly briefed, instructed the driver as to where he would locate his accommodations, and gave such other instructions as would have him at my beck and call, then he turned to the bellman who collected by bag and briefcase and led me to my room.

The room turned out to be what would compare favourably with the Presidential Suite in just about any luxury hotel in the U.S. The parlour could well have accommodated a ping pong table with maybe a badminton net on the side. The bedroom to which I proceeded was equally spacious, and the bathroom to which I proceeded immediately upon having instructed the bellman in the unpacking of my bag occupied more floor space than the average kitchen-breakfast-room in a four-room apartment.

It had been a busy day. It was quite warm, and I felt the need of a shower. Having duly disrobed, I instinctively reached for the soap upon entering the shower. No soap! Perhaps at the wash basin. Again; no soap! Nor at the tub. Oh, well. Part time help during the slack season. Purely an oversight, no doubt. Picking up the telephone from the dressing table in the bathroom, I dialed the desk and informed the individual who replied of the fact that there was no soap.

There was a disturbing pause at the other end of the line. And did Doctor (They pronounce it "DocTOR", with emphasis on the last syllable) desire some soap? The Doctor did indeed desire some soap. That would be taken care of, but immediately. I settled down to wait, having long since learned the total disregard the Brazilian has for the meaning of "immediately".

In a matter of minutes...almost immediately, in fact...the bellman appeared at my door. Resplendent in his Fleet Admiral's uniform, he bowed courteously and repeated the question of the clerk. Did Doctor desire some soap? He received the same reply as did the clerk; yes, Doctor would, indeed, like some soap. It seems that Doctor had long since established a habit of using soap in the course of his shower.

Then came the stunner. It was my turn to stand speechless when the bellman inquired as to the brand of soap Doctor would prefer. Now this was carrying service to a ridiculous extreme. What brand of soap, indeed! The bellman came to my rescue with a question submitted somewhat as a suggestive statement. "Will Palmolive do?" Well, yes; Palmolive will do quite nicely. With which...after first assuring me that my wish would be complied with "But immediately" the bellman departed.

I must have waited for at least fifteen minutes for the next timid rap on my door.

There he stood, my faithful steward, still resplendent in his braided gray uniform and holding just at the exactly correct level and angle his silver tray on which reposed one, each, bar of Palmolive soap. And underneath the soap was a slip of paper, a sales slip, no less, indicating that the bellman, identified by badge number, had indeed paid in cash at a local emporium the full amount of twenty cruzeiros representing the full price of one bar of Palmolive soap. It didn't take an interpreter to tell me the meaning of that piece of paper.

In addition to the honorarium for his excellent service, the bellman was paid the twenty cruzeiros which, at the then going rate represented the value in U.S. money of just a touch under two cents. Departing the Hotel Imperial three days later, my still serviceable bar of Palmolive soap reposed in my shaving kit. I'd not be caught short again. And on an occasion a month or so later I had occasion to use it. In a hotel in Sao Paulo.

*1981 Auction Marketing Network

POSITIVE SELLING Vs. NEGATIVE HAGGLING

Don't become another victim of negative haggling. Have you noticed how people haggle over the price and try to talk you down when you have something to sell? There is a better way.

Let me sell your items by auction. We're the pros at talking your things up.

A public auction is positive selling at its best. I'll list your items and advertise them properly so crowds of interested people will come to bid.

And when I conduct the bidding the prices increase for you. More bids mean more money for you. It's as simple as that.

I work quickly and can get cash for you right away. Avoid negative haggling by giving me a call now. You'll be pleased at the way my positive auction selling adds up to profits for you.

Remember, when it comes to buying or selling AUCTION'S BEST (SM).

"We want to express our gratitude to everyone for bearing with us through the fire of our Home Office, and some inconvenient times. This is our way of saying, 'Thank you,'" said Alan D. Myer, Jr., president and chief executive officer of Olney Savings.

The celebration begins at 10:00 a.m. with a brief opening ceremony with the Presentation of Colors, opening prayer by Phil Pierson, president, Olney Ministerial Alliance, a warm welcome from President Alan D. Myer, Jr., and a special recognition to Ms. Esther Boyd, wife of Mr. L.C. Boyd, Olney Savings' founder,

Tanning Salons, Sun Take Toll On Skin

The tanning season has arrived and you may find yourself complaining about not having enough time to lie out in the sun. You may have even considered buying a membership to a tanning salon.

Before you do, the Texas Medical Association warns that these salons can be harmful to your skin and eyes. So can excessive exposure to the sun.

Tanning salons use ultraviolet light, the same as that emitted by the sun. Ultraviolet light may either be short-wave (UVB) or long-wave (UVA).

Experiments on animals have linked artificial tanning with UVB to sunburn and long-term skin damage. UVB also can damage the cornea and lens of the eye, so protective goggles should be worn.

Artificial tanning with UVA has been found to be more suitable and safer than UVB, but this does not mean it is safe. UVA also may damage the eyes if protective goggles are not worn. It has damaged retinas and produced cataracts in laboratory mice.

In addition, your skin may be overly sensitive to UVA is you are taking medication such as antidepressants, oral contraceptives, antihistamines and a variety of other sensitizing drugs.

Both ultraviolet types can damage the skin. Three common types of skin cancer that can occur are basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and the worst kind, malignant melanoma. These occur most frequently on continuously exposed parts of the body such as hands, face and neck.

In basal cell carcinoma, cells just below the skin's surface become cancerous. A tumor may develop and become ulcerated. Caused by long-term exposure to ultraviolet light, this cancer will not spread to other parts of the body. Basal cell carcinoma usually occurs on the face, especially near the eyes or on the nose.

Squamous cell carcinoma attacks underlying skin cells that have been damaged by continuous exposure to the sunlight. With this type of cancer, a malignant, or life-threatening, tumor will develop. The cancer will usually occur on any region constantly exposed to the sun.

Malignant melanoma is the most serious form of skin cancer because it may spread. A cancerous tumor develops from a mole present since birth, but sunlight also can play a part in the development of the disease. For these reasons, it is advisable to avoid long-term exposure to ultraviolet light whether in a tanning salon or on a beach.

Cancer Answer Line

American Cancer Society

Question: "How many chemicals cause cancer?"

ANSWERline: About twenty chemicals are regulated as carcinogens by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. As of October, 1979, 2,590 substances have been reported to cause a tumorigenic response in animals, although not necessarily in man. These were tested by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) or reviewed by the United Nations International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC).

Wal-Mart Described As "Small-Town Hit"

Wal-Mart is scheduled to open a store in Eastland later this year, and most locals are curious to know what kind of store it will be. The firm recently opened two stores in Abilene recently and has a store in Graham, but is generally not well-known in this county.

The May 23 issue of Time Magazine called Wal-Mart a "Small-Town Hit" and told of says the following of "Sam Walton's wizardry" — "Give me a W!" shouts Sam Walton, 65, the chairman of Wal-Mart Stores, to employees at staff meetings. "Give me an A!" And so forth, down to the last T. Then he gives a final ringing cheer: "Wal-Mart, we're No. 1!" Walton has plenty of reasons to shout. In April, sales at his 570 outlets were up 32% from the previous year. By comparison, Sear's revenues increased just 7.7%, K mart's by 5.5%, and J.C. Penney's were down 1.3%.

Thanks to a strategy of selling big in small-town stores and deep discounting Wal-Mart is the fastest-growing major U.S. retailer. It is opening nearly two new stores a week, and its sales are increasing almost three times as fast as the average for the discount-store industry. They totaled $3.4 billion in 1982, up from $2.4 billion the year before. That made Wal-Mart the nation's ninth-largest shopkeeper, well behind the likes of Sears (sales: $30 billion) and K mart ($17 billion), but ahead of such old-time retailers as R.H. Macy and Carter Hawley Hale, parent of ultrachic Bergdorf Goodman and Neiman-Marcus.

Wal-Mart's profits last year mushroomed to $124.1 million, from $82.8 million in 1981. With first-quarter earnings up 51% over the same year-ago period, to $27.5 million, Wal-Mart has become a Wall Street darling. During the past year, its stock price has tripled, closing last week at $73.

Wal-Mart is based in the rolling Ozark hill country of Bentonville, Ark. (pop. 8,756). The sleepy mountain town was heretofore known chiefly as the birthplace of Louise McPhetridge Thaden, winner in 1929 of the first cross-country Powder Puff Air Derby for women aviators. Now it is famous as the home of Walton, an individualist who flies his own Piper Aztec, hunts quail, and is worth $500 million to $700 million.

Trim and suntanned, Walton is 1940 graduate of the University of Missouri and worked for J.C. Penney briefly before World War II military service. He and his brother Bud, now a senior vice president, opened the first Wal-Mart Discount City in Rogers, Ark., in 1962.

In some ways, Sam Walton is James Cash Penney reincarnated, right down the strict adherence to the Golden Rule, the name of Penney's first store in Kemmerer, Wyo., in 1902. Says Wal-Mart President Jack Shewmaker: "We make no bones about the fact that we believe in God, that we think everybody should."

Walton's formula for retailing success resembles

Penney's: growth in small-town America offer quality merchandise at a good price Wal-Mart undersells competition at almost every turn, and most stores are in towns of 5,000 to 25,000. Says Walton: "There's a lot more business in those communities than people thought."

Wal-Mart today dots 15 states, chiefly in the South and Midwest. Yet the stores try to tailor themselves to individual communities. Golf slacks may move well in one store, Wrangler jeans in another. By contrast, the 2,117 stores in the K mart chain, Wal-mart's principal rival, mostly offer identical merchandise.

Wal-Mart's 50,000 employees, called "associates," share in the company's profits, earn bonuses for reducing shoplifting or suggesting merchandising ideas. "Thier morale is fantastic," says one Wall Street admier. Each Saturday morning at 7:30 in the headquarters auditorium packed with new merchandise samples, "Mr. Sam" holds meetings with buyers and managers. Walton plans to continue expanding rapidly. The company will open more than 100 stores next year. At that sizzling pace, sales by 1987 would hit $10 billion. That would put Wal-Mart in a position to challenge K mart as the king of the discounters.

SENIORS 1987 — Cisco Junior High's eighth grade class held a party last Friday night to mark the end of the school year. The party was originally scheduled for the City Park swimming pool parking lot, but due to the weather it was moved to the home of Ted and Penny Fields. The students enjoy snacks and a cake which had written on top of it, "School's Out, Summer's In!" (staff photo)

Be Creative with Architecture

I wonder how many times someone has looked out the window of a tall skyscraper at another building across the way and thought, "Gee, what a first-class photograph!" Then, in the wink of a lens and the flash of a unit, that building is immortalized forever on film.

Ahh, but when the results come back from processing, what's the verdict? I'll bet even money it's thumbs down! Why? Because most modern architecture doesn't adapt well to two dimensional representation. Furthermore, perspective does some pretty strange things, especially viewed through the modern cartridge, disc, instant, or SLR camera. How attractive can a building be when its left side is slanting in one direction while the right side moves in the another... and neither one is at a right angle to the horizon?

So what's the answer? Well, you have a couple options. Either give up taking photos of buildings from other buildings, accept the fact that those photos are going to be distinctly second rate, or get smart.

Smart? What else would you call taking the drawbacks in a situation and turning them into advantages? Smart!

For example, looking out the window of the Flamingo Hilton at Circus Circus in Las Vegas, the urge is immediate and strong — a night photo of the sprawling complex right across the street! However, there are — in case you only recently joined us in the wide, wonderful world of photography — a couple of built-in problems. First, shooting a brightly lighted complex against a black sky is going to throw your camera's built-in meter for a loop. It was never designed to read reflectance levels like that; so, to be certain you get the shot you want, it's best to "bracket" your exposures using an adjustable camera. Take one shot at the meter-recommended setting, another shot one f/stop wider (or one shutter speed slower) and a third one f/stop smaller (or one shutter speed faster) than the recommended setting. If your camera doesn't have adjustable f/stops and shutter speeds, you may be able to bracket the shot by adjusting its ASA setting — one shot at normal ASA, a second at half and a third at twice the normal ASA.

Another problem in shooting lighted buildings at night is color. When shooting daylight-balanced color film to record night scenes, structures lighted by incandescent light will appear warmer and more golden in tone than to your eyes, while structures lighted by fluorescent and mercury vapor lamps will take on an eerie green cast. You'll have to decide in advance whether those color shifts will work — that is, add to the overall effect of the scene. If not, you'll need to use an appropriate color-correcting filter on your camera lens.

But how about shooting buildings in daylight? Won't that eliminate the majority of problems? I was in Minneapolis recently and was struck by the simplistic beauty of the Foshay Building in the heart of the city. From my hotel room, I had a glimpse of it sandwiched between two monstrous steel-and-glass structures. I could have shot it through a telephoto lens, thus narrowing the angle of view and eliminating all but the building I wanted. However, a telephoto lens brought the building too close to me, losing much of the impact from the scene.

I could have shot it through a wide-angle or even a fisheye lens, thus taking in part of the surrounding skyline and placing the Foshay in proper perspective. But that put the subject too far from me — again, losing impact. But I liked the distorting effects the fisheye had on the buildings nearest to me.

The solution? How about a fisheye mounted on a 2X matched multiplier, thus doubling the focal length of the lens without bringing the subject in too close. The resulting shot accompanies this article.

So shooting architecture isn't quite as easy as pointing the camera and snapping the shutter... at least, not if you want the best results possible. Spend a little time thinking about the scene and how best to make it work for you, and the results are sure to be worth the effort.

Shooting Minneapolis' Foshay Building proved more difficult than it first appeared.

In Lundstrom Case:

Judge Wright Expected To Rule On Letter Soon

Judge Jim Wright of 91st District Court was expected to rule this week on whether a letter written by the defendant to his pastor could be used by the state in the capital murder case of the State of Texas vs. Loyal Lundstrom.

The second pre-trial for Lundstrom, 59-year old Ciscoan who faces murder charges in the March 3rd shotgun slaying of his wife, ended last Friday with all motions except that involving the letter being ruled on by the judge.

Mr. Wright told this newspaper Tuesday that he would complete his study of the motion and render an opinion after the completion of several jury trials in 91st Court this week. Thomas LeFlore faced a mental competency in the court Monday, and a 16-year old boy went on trial Tuesday on charges growing out of his alleged slugging of a Cisco woman.

Judge Wright said that he would undertake to set a trial date soon. Observers believed that Lundstrom would go to trial in July or August as the 91st Court's June docket has already been drawn up.

In the two-day hearing that ended Friday, Judge Wright:

1. Denied a defense motion for a change of venue, which was opposed by District Attorney Emory Walton who contended that the defendant could receive a fair trial. Defense Counsel Bill Hart did not offer a number of witnesses that had been subpoenaed.

2. Denied a motion that a shotgun found in the Lundstrom home was illegally obtained, saying in effect that the gun could be offered by the state in presenting evidence.

3. Sustained a defense motion that an oral statement obtained by Cisco police after Lundstrom was taken into custody at DFW airport was not legally taken. Mr. Walton vigorously opposed the motion. Cisco police obtained the statement, which Mr. Walton described as a "confession" to Hart's vocal opposition, after they returned to Cisco from the airport.

Mr. Hart successfully opposed the state in the motion, charging that Cisco police recorded Lundstrom's comments on a cassette tape without an "on tape" warning as required by law.

It was brought in the motion to suppress the letter that Lundstrom wrote to his pastor, the Rev. C.L. Reneau, which was shown to Cisco police and the district attorney. Mr. Hart sought to block use of the letter, contending that it was a privileged pastor-parishoner communication.

To counter this, Mr. Walton presented the Rev.

John W. Clinton, Cisco minister and friend of Lundstrom, who testified that Lundstrom called him after he left Cisco on the day of his wife's death to discuss the letter before the Rev. Mr. Reneau received it. Mr. Walton said their conversation, in effect, gave Mr. Reneau permission to show the letter to police.

On the stand, Lundstrom said he didn't remember just how the letter was worded, observing, "I don't remember how I phrased it ... I was pretty broken up at the time."

Lundstrom remains free under $100,000 bond.

New Gaither Vocal Band Concert Is Rescheduled

The New Gaither Vocal Band concert, which was originally scheduled for Friday, June 3 in Abilene, has been rescheduled for Thursday, September 22, when gospel artist, Sandi Patti will be joining them in concert.

Those who are now holding tickets for the postponed concert may obtain refunds by taking tickets back to the outlet from which they were purchased, or by sending tickets to Morning Star, 907 Eicher, Springdale, Arkansas 72764. Money will be refunded in full. Another option available to those holding tickets would be to wait and exchange the tickets for the rescheduled concert. Tickets for the rescheduled concert will become available in August.

With the addition of Sandi Patti to the artist roster, the concert promises to be one of the most exciting gospel concerts of the year. Ms. Patti won gospel music's coveted Dove Award for Artist of the Year in 1981, and Female Artist of the Year in 1982. Her latest album, "Lift Up the Lord" won the best Inspirational Album in 1982. Her rendering of the song "We Shall Behold Him" has won her acclaim from coast to coast.

Make plans now to join Bill Gaither and the New Gaither Vocal Band, and Sandi Patti on Saturday, September 24 in the Abilene Civic Center.

In 91st District Court:

Thomas LeFlore Ruled Competent For Trial

A 91st District Court jury found Thomas LeFlore mentally competent to stand trial on charges of capital murder after a hearing Monday in Eastland. LeFlore, 41, faces murder charges in the slaying of Debra Garcia in Cisco in late 1981.

Judge Jim Wright, who presided at the trial, announced the jury's verdict after the group deliberated for only 10 minutes. A trial date for LeFlore, whose brother Charles was convicted in the case, is expected to be set for July or August.

Both the defense and the state presented expert witnesses as the jury considered the mental capacity of the defendant. Differences of opinion were given by the witnesses as to whether LeFlore had the ability to rationally consult with his attorneys about the case and could understand the charges against him.

Defense Attorneys Mike Eoff of Ranger and Jim Farrar of Eastland contended that LeFlore was mentally incompetent and should be sent to an institution. District Attorney Emory Walton, in his closing argument, said "I think this man ought to be tried for capital murder." LeFlore has been hospitalized twice at Wichita Falls State Hospital. He was committed to Rusk State Hospital in 1973 after pleading not guilty for reasons of insanity in a case involving a charge of burglary with intent to commit rape.

Mrs. L.E. (Slim) Booth, mother of Mrs. Garcia, expressed satisfaction with the jury's verdict, observing "it doesn't look like they could have done anything else." The Booths were in the court room.

Mrs. Garcia, 29, was kidnapped from Quickway Grocery during the early hours of Nov. 29, 1981, and her body was found several days later in a roadside ditch. She died of a bullet wound in her head.

Charles LeFlore, 19, pled guilty to a capital murder charge in the case and was sentenced to 65 years in the state prison. Brenda Gail Andrews of Rising Star also was arrested and charged in the case. She has been free under $10,000 bond. Her trial is expected to follow that of Thomas LeFlore, who remains in the Eastland County jail. After his arrest several months ago, a bond of $50,000 was set and he was never able to make bond.

Medical authorities from Brownwood and Austin were in Eastland to give expert testimony.

THE JOHN William Butts Post 123 of the American Legion needs some help from the younger veterans. Most of the leaders have been in their jobs for a good many years and the time is approaching when the help of younger men will be necessary to carry on.

The Post owns its own building and it's paid for. There's money in the bank. And there's a lot of activities that could be carried out with the support of men who are able, capable and willing to work.

Mr. E.L. Jackson has served in an assortment of positions for more than 35 years. He has been the post adjutant and finance officer for 25 years or so and would like to pass the duties on to somebody younger.

Brad Kimbrough, the present post commander, has been in the office several years. He is the only young Legionnaire we know of who is active in the post and he needs help. If you are interested or have suggestions, see or call Brad or Mr. E.L.J.

The Cisco Legion Post has been active in Cisco since just after WWI. It shouldn't be permitted to become inactive. Let's all help find the kind of leadership needed to keep this organization active in our community.

MR. WALLACE Johnston, whose home overlooks the Cisco Country Club golf course, is quietly getting ready to observe his 80th birthday in early June. He plays golf almost every day and does better than shooting his age. Country club folks enjoyed a family night supper last Thursday night with 30 or so people.

Services For M.D. Paschall Are Monday

Graveside services for M.D. Paschall, 82, of Kirbyville, the brother of a Cisco resident, were at 10 a.m. Monday at Oakwood Cemetery, directed by Cisco Funeral Home.

Mr. Paschall died at 6 p.m. Friday at his home.

He was a retired employee of General Dynamics. Survivors include a son, Pat Paschall of Kirbyville; three stepsons, Harold Clawson of Fort Worth, Don Clawson of Beaumont and Andrew Clawson of Minnesota; a daughter, Betty Lee Eads of San Antonio; three stepdaughters, Betty Ammon of Arlington, Gloria Hicks of Beaumont and Patty Cornelius of Beaumont; a brother, Crigler Paschall of Cisco; and a sister, Lola Gaston of Dallas.

Services For Flora Mae Lee Are Tuesday

Funeral services for Flora Mae Lee, 77, of Houston, formerly of Cisco, were at 2 p.m. Tuesday at First Christian Church in Cisco. Dick Crews, a Fort Worth minister officiated, assisted by the Rev. Milo Steffen, pastor of the First Christian Church, and Ben Hubert. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Lee died at 2 p.m. Sunday at St. Lukes Hospital in Houston.

She was born July 3, 1905, in Italy, Texas. She married Edward Lee, a former Cisco mayor and community leader. She had spent 32 years as a member of the faculty of Cisco public schools and was a member of First Christian Church where she was a deaconess, Sunday School teacher and Outreach Chairman. She was also leader of the Cisco Historical Society and a member and officer of the Christian Women's Fellowship.

Survivors include two brothers, Walter Allen Stockard of Houston and Carl Stockard of San Antonio; and a number of nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband, and a brother, Leroy Stockard.

Palbearers will be Richard Moore, Bob Hogue, Bill Austin, Stanley McCracken, J.C. Fletcher, and Bill Wright.

present... Glad to see Mrs. Forbes Wallace back on the job at Dr. E.E. Addy's office. She had been out for a couple of weeks or so for medical treatment.

AS THE SCHOOL system winds down another year, two members of the CHS coaching staff will clean out their desks in preparation for moving on to new jobs next fall. Coaches Danny Kent and Clyde Evatt resigned recently and will move during the summer.

Coach Kent will go to Early to be an assistant coach. He has been in the Cisco system for seven years, teaching world history in addition to his work as a coach. Coach Evatt will move to Rosenberg, near Houston, to work as an assistant coach at Terry High School in the Lamar Consolidated School District. He has taught courses in health in addition to coaching assignments here for some five years.

Both Coach Kent and Coach Evatt leave with the very best wishes of many, many folks in Cisco who are grateful to them for the work and leadership they have provided for our young folks.

THE FIRST Baptist Church is sponsoring a trip to Canyon for folks interested in seeing the musical "Texas." It has been staged for several summers at Canyon State Park in their outdoor theater. And it is a fine program, indeed.

Those interested should leave their names and addresses at the FBC office. Understand the trip is planned in late June.

YOU'VE PROBABLY noticed that when you go to your church you tend to sit in the same area (or even the same pew, if it's available) every Sunday.

Pastor David Adkins of First United Methodist Church caused a good many smiles last Sunday morning, our scouts report, when he asked those sitting on each side to stand and look at the other side. He suggested that maybe they'd like to move to another area in the auditorium next Sunday.

Our scout says he doesn't know why but he seems to sit in just about the same seat every Sunday. He's decided to move next week just to see if there's really any difference.

BACK HOME FOR the summer is Mr. Ed Pugliese, member of the coaching staff at Munday High School... Some of his Lions Club buddies asked Dr. E.E. Addy about eating with chop sticks. He said they did when he and Mrs. EEA visited China recently. And he promised to bring some and demonstrate their use at this Wednesday noon's luncheon. Bet you could sharpen the end of them and spear your food.

A ROOM FULL of women and one man attended West Texas Utilities Company's microwave cooking school here last Thursday night. The lone man in attendance was Mr. Standee McCracken... Rainfall measuring half to an inch fell in this region last Friday night and Saturday morning as cold front thunderstorms moved through.

local news in brief

Mrs. Lora Ford returned from Honolulu, Hawaii, May 18th. She had a long visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bim Makinney and also her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Ford, who was also visiting in Honolulu. She stated "The flowers and mountains were most beautiful. If you want a good place to spend your vacation, just try Honolulu, Hawaii."

GOES TO HOUSTON - Armo Chambers of Cisco Funeral Home was to enter a Houston hospital Wednesday to undergo tests and possible treatment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Chambers.

Archie Chamness Is Named Lions State Secretary

Archie Chamness of Cisco, governor-elect of District 2E-1, was elected to the office of state executive secretary of Texas Lions Clubs by the Council of Governors at the annual convention in Victoria last weekend. The office had been vacant since the death of the executive secretary more than a year ago.

As the executive secretary, Mr. Chamness will conduct business from the state office of Lions International in Austin. He will make periodic trips there and will have an office secretary to help with daily activities in the headquarters office.

The office is the state headquarters for some 44,000 Lions who are members of Texas clubs.

Mr. Chamness is one of 15 Texan district governors who will be installed for the coming year at the annual convention of Lions International in Honolulu in late June. He met in session with the other 14 newly elected governors at the Victoria convention.

Activities at the state convention included the state queen and the state speech contests for young people. Each district was represented by a queen nominee, and District 2E-1 nominee was Miss Tanya Dianne Anderson of Gorman, sponsored by the Gorman Lions Club.

The "Christmas in May" project is now complete, and Floyd Craft is the proud owner of his new home. The house was built for him by many friends, in a project sponsored by the Cisco Chamber of Commerce.

Many people have donated both time, money, and their own professional talent completing the hours in a professional manner.

When the people who gave their "work talents" to the job were named last week one very important person was left out. Bill McDaniel, a contractor in Cisco, did a very professional job of blowing in the ceilings. Bill was named on the work list, but not as a person who did a "special job."

The Chamber of Commerce and the city, as well, were very pleased with the people who helped. Many professionals in their field, gave quite a bit of time, which as all know, means giving away part of their own profit. Many thanks go to these people, and to the people who were faithful in "staying with the job until completion." A big "thank you" to one and all!!! (Floyd is a very happy man.)

mans Lions Club. The state winner was Miss Jenny Vererka sponsored by the Richardson Lions Club.

John Neese of Abilene, District 2E-1 speech winner, won the state speech contest with his address on the drug problem. He will receive a $1,000 scholarship for the college of his choice and will receive a free trip to the Honolulu convention.

Mr. Chamness said that both Miss Anderson and Mr. Neese did a fine job of representing District 2E-1. He said that he appreciated the honor of being chosen to the state office and that he was looking forward to the Honolulu meeting, "being installed as district governor and then getting back home and busy with the work at hand."

Mr. Chamness was accompanied by his wife to Victoria. He is a member of the Cisco Evening Lions Club.
