

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERBEL HALLMARK

A SET OF keys on a key ring were found Thursday night at the Lions Club pavillion in Cisco City Park by two small boys. They were taken to the pavillion where some members of the Lions club were working and one of the members turned them into the Press office Friday morning.

If you can identify the keys and tell what kind of key chain they were on, then you may claim them at the Press office, Monday thru Friday.

SOME AREAS of Cisco, as well as Eastland County, received some very light portions of rain on Thursday and Friday. The skies were overcast and thunderstorm clouds built up all around the area, but no appreciable amounts of rain fell in the area.

Twice on Thursday it rained in the downtown area of Cisco, but not a drop fell at our house in the southeast part of Cisco. Maybe we will get a good rain here before long.

SPEAKING OF rain, be sure and read the two articles on this page concerning the water supply of Cisco. One is from City Manager Mike Moore urging Ciscoans to be as conservative with their water usage as possible and the other is telling of a time on Tuesday when the water pumps on College Hill will be replaced.

During that time on Tuesday, everyone is urged to use as little water as possible so the water tower may possibly keep enough water in it to supply the city with water. There will not be any water pumped from the lake during Tuesday morning while the pumps are being changed.

Let's all do our part to conserve water this summer and help ourselves with better water pressure in the lines. Also let's all pray for rain to fill Lake Cisco, since there has been very little gain, if any, at the Lake during the past several years.

Non-Compliance Suit Will Be Filed

The Attorney General of Texas has notified the City of Cisco that a suit will be filed in 91st District Court against the city for non-compliance with regulations governing operation of its sewage treatment plant, according to City Manager Mike Moore.

Ginny Agnew, assistant attorney general in the Environmental Protection Diviter to the Attorney General. "Due to the long history of non-compliance, it is necessary for us to file a suit against the city, seeking an injunction and civil penalties," Ms. Agnew wrote. "I am currently in the process of preparing that lawsuit and will notify you with a copy prior to requesting service of process

Roy Dennis Is Only Candidate

Roy Dennis, owner of Quickway Grocery, will be the only candidate to file for a vacancy on the City Council in the August 13th special election, City Secretary Ginger Johnson reported Thursday.

Mr. Dennis was the only candidate to file for a place on the ballot as the deadline passed at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Mrs. Johnson said. He is running for the vacancy on the Council that resulted when Loyal Lundstrom resigned.

Mrs. Johnson said a scheduled ballot place drawing set for 10 a.m. Thursday was not held since there was only one candidate.

Absentee voting will begin July 25 and continue through August 10.

Report Is Made By City Judge

A total of 1,063 cases were handled by Judge Jasper Cook in City Corporation Court during the past year, according to a report submitted Tuesday. Fines collected during the period totaled $29,729 and more than $20,000 of the sum went into the city treasury, the report said.

The report showed that 156 new cases were filed in the 2nd quarter, 1983 with a total of 176 fines being levied. Traffic tickets were issued as follows:

April 49, May 42, and June 31.

Revenue during the quarter amounted to $5,496 of which $4,440 went to the city and the balance to the state.

Judge Cook said he plans to attend a school where new state laws will be studied. The school will be held in San Angelo on August 5.

Correction

Some family members of the Huffman family reunion were left out of a recent article in The Press.

The correct listing should have read John and Anna Huffman Connors, of La Costa, Calif., and Michael and Mary Jane Huffman Stanford and son, Eric, of Waco.

Water Pumps Will Be Turned Off Tuesday

As part of the City's improvements to the water system, West Texas Utilities will be changing out the transformers at the College Hill pumping station (which feeds the water tower) and replacing them with larger units. In order to accomplish this project, it will be necessary for the City's water pumps at College Hill to be turned off for approximately four (4) hours. The work is scheduled for Tuesday morning, July 19, from 8:00 a.m. to 12 noon, City Manager Mike Moore reported.

"The City shall do everything necessary to keep the water tower full prior to Tuesday morning; however, because of heavy summer water usage and with the pumps being down for this 4-hour period, it is requested that citizens CEASE all unnecessary water consumption Tuesday morning; and especially refrain from ALL lawn and garden watering," Mr. Moore said.

OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF CISCO

Earlier this summer I made an appeal through the Cisco Press to the citizens of Cisco to conserve water and reduce wasted consumption; and I would like to thank the citizens for their continuing efforts at this conservation. However, as the summer progresses and our weather remains hot and dry, water consumption continues at a point where water usage is outstripping the City's ability to provide adequate water pressure and volume during all hours of the day. Since July 1, the City has pumped between 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 gallons of water daily, with the pumps on College Hill, which feed the water tower, running virtually 24 hours a day for the last week.

In an effort to maintain adequate water volumes and pressure, and to prevent a critical situation should there be a fire or other such emergency, I must again this year solicit your cooperation and request that ALL unnecessary water usage be curtailed this summer season, especially during the peak usage periods of 6:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 to 9:00 p.m. Cooperation from all our citizens in holding down unnecessary water usage and water waste will help to insure an adequate volume of water and water pressure throughout the City for this summer. With all of us working together during this period we can minimize the inconvenience and eliminate the hazard of inadequate water pressure. Again, thank you for your patience and cooperation.
Michael D. Moore

'Gas Line Explosion' Provides 'Disaster' For Hospital

A make-believe gas line explosion at Cisco High School provided the cause for a mock disaster drill at E.L. Graham Hospital Tuesday afternoon with police, firemen and others cooperating with medical personnel in the annual project.

The mock explosion took place around 1:30 p.m. Patterson Ambulance Service sent three vehicles to the scene, firemen took a truck and a rescue unit, and city police hurried there to direct traffic and help with rescue work.

There were eleven persons injured in the blast, and the part of the wounded was played by members of Mrs. Wanda Wheatley's LVN Class at Cisco Junior College. Mrs. Wheatley, supervisor of the CJC program, assisted with the project.

There were three simulated deaths in the disaster. Two were dead on arrival at the hospital and another, who required an amputation, expired in the hospital.

Hospital nurses, LVNs and student nurses along with staff personnel were directed by Dr. Ayres Cermin as they admitted the injured that ambulances brought them in. Simulated injuries were "real" in appearance, thanks to the work of Mrs. Wheatley and her assistants, including Janet Purvis.

City police, firemen, ambulances and others cooperated to make the disaster training project a good success, reported Mrs. Helen Orr, hospital administrator. Patients started coming into the hospital emergency room 10 minutes after the explosion.

Police Chief Bill Rains and Policemen Lynn Johnson were on the job along with Firemen David Gill, Kim Squires and Johnny Jarvis.

Kay Mosley, director of nursing at the hospital, was the project director, and others of the hospital staff and the student nursing class assisted her. Kitty McCracken, head of the Hospital Auxiliary, and some 10 of her members were on duty.

"This drill was a realistic experience for the people of our community who will be called on in the event of a real disaster," Mrs. Orr said. "We appreciate the community participation and the work of the volunteers who played various roles."

The Cisco Ministers Association was represented by the Rev. Milo Steffen, pastor of First Christian Church, at the hospital during the mission.

Lions Hear Talk On Use Of Drug

The use of marijuana, even in small amounts, has been proven or suspected to have multiple negative effects on the health and well being of the young and the old, Dr. Ayres Cermin told the Cisco Lions Club in a talk Wednesday noon at their weekly luncheon.

Dr. Cermin, local general practice physician, was introduced by Program Chairman Bob Conner.

A survey among high school seniors showed recently that the use of marijuana has dropped during the past year, Dr. Cermin said. He saw this fact as an encouraging indication that young people were becoming increasingly aware of problems facing those who use the drug.

Young people use marijuana to be socially accepted, out of curiosity or, perhaps, due to ignorance, Dr. Cermin believes.

Marijuana affects the central nerve system, coordination, and causes confusion, anxiety and depression, Dr. Cermin said. The effect of one marijuana cigarette will last for 45 days. The drug has some 423 different compounds that cause negative effects on the human body, he added. One cigarette three times a week can cause chronic intoxication, he said.

Marijuana is grown through the world. Tests on animals have proven that brain tissue changes, Dr.

Cermin said. The heart rate and blood pressure of users are affected, as is the respiratory system and the propagation system. Tests with monkeys have produced offspring with birth defects, the speaker said.

Marijuana is sometimes prescribed by doctors for those taking chemotherapy treatments who suffer nausea, Dr. Cermin said.

"The little that we have learned about marijuana warrants national concern for those who use it," Dr. Cermin said. "Medical research is needed as we seek to deal with the marijuana problems."

Secretary Jasper Cook reported that Lions netted $2,210 from their July 4th carnival. Receipts totalled $3,095 with $884 in expenses.

Mr. Cook said the club has sent $400 to the Crippled Children's Camp at Kerrville for the year beginning July 1, 1983.

Lion E.L. Jackson reported that he attended a meeting of the Mena, Ark., club last week and heard an address by Dr. Jim Fowler, the new international president. He said Dr. Fowler will attend a meeting of Lions at the Kerrville camp on August 6th.

Owen King, who was a member of the club when he lived here in the 1950s, was inducted as a new member in ceremonies directed by Lion Winston Heidenheimer. The Kings recently bought a home here and moved to Cisco from Arlington. He is in the oil business.

Lions welcomed Dr. C.M. Cleveland, who had not attended meetings since he suffered serious burns last winter. Guests included Mrs. Owen King, Mrs. Ivan Webb and Donald Lynn Johnson.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

July and August are two of the hottest months in the year, and the Senior Center members come to the center for their luncheons and games and fellowship each day and throughout the week.

Each week we have new members added to the roster of names and the new members are surprised at the types of programs the Senior Center provides for the elderly of the City of Cisco and the surrounding area.

We encourage you to call 442-1557 or 442-2263 and tell the registrar that you want to participate. Bring a friend with you and both of you enjoy the day.

The programs for the past week included: a musical program presented by Loyce Jones, Tracy Jones, Terry Jones, Karen Harris and Betty Lucke accompanied by Lou Jones at the piano. T.D. "Slim" Sanders sang and played the guitar. Several members of the Cisco Senior Center went to Eastland for game day. Dinner music was by Anna Dytzel and Vida Killion.

The menus for the coming week will be:

Monday--chicken casserole, stewed tomatoes, potato rounds, cookies bread, butter and drink.

Wednesday--beef patty, pinto beans, apple, carrot, celery salad, banana pudding, bread, butter and drink.

Friday--swiss steak, cauliflower, cheese sticks, pineapple and carrot salad, fruit cobbler, bread, butter and drink.

FACIAL INJURIES were sustained by Beverly Naylor, student nurse, in the disaster and she was awaiting treatment when this picture was made.

Growers To Illustrate Techniques During Course

COLLEGE STATION—The 20th annual Texas Greenhouse Vegetable Short Course and Conference is scheduled July 16-18 in College Station, and is expected to attract some 200 vegetable growers from throughout the South.

It will feature nearly 30 presentations by growers, business leaders and educators, as well as a trade show, other special events and a tour of the Texas A&M University vegetable greenhouses, says Dr. John E. Larsen, plant nutrition specialist in greenhouse production with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Also scheduled are two meetings of directors of the Texas Greenhouse Growers Council as well as the annual business meeting of the Council.

Dr. Grant Vest, head of A&M's Horticultural Sciences Department, will welcome conferees at 10 a.m. July 16 at the Aggieldand Motel, headquarters for the session.

Joe Pena, Extension economist-management headquartered at Uvalde, will give a slide presentation on types of greenhouse structures, their construction materials, the heating, ventilating and cooling systems and the automation of the systems.

Les Addison, a grower from Baton Rouge, will illustrate techniques in construction, materials used and operation of his inexpensive gutter connected greenhouses.

Farid Badlissi, a grower for Smith Farms in Flatonia, will show how he converted a horizontal cooling pad to a combination horizontal-vertical pad using lava rock. Badlissi will also illustrate a different type of rice hull bag culture employed at Smith Farms.

The supplemental cooling system incorporated into the Texas A&M greenhouses will be explained during a tour of the greenhouses.

Pena will also explain differences in management of cucumber and tomato production, discussing proper methods for planting, pruning and harvesting.

Dr. Charles Cole, Extension entomologist, will discuss insect and mite problems and their control.

Several growers will discuss various results in vegetable production. Dan Rosenthal, a grower from Aledo, will discuss his experiences with leaf deformities on tomato plants which were diagnosed as having TMV. Jesse Hornsby, a grower from Copparras Cove, will discuss results from using chlorine bleach as a control chemical on Botrytis on tomatoes, and Henry Hawley, a grower from College Station, will present results on his research on the control of Pythium in NFT tomatoes.

Other presentations will include soilless culture systems, EPA-approved disease control chemicals, a panel discussion on media heating to save energy and improve production, and a question and answer session.

The conference is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas A&M's Department of Horticultural Sciences, in cooperation with the Texas Greenhouse Growers Council. Officers and past Council officials will preside at the various sessions.

Gordon Spot County Extension Agent DeMarquis Gordon

We are seeing a lot of drought injury on oak trees in Eastland County. The leaves begin turning brown around the margins and finally many of the leaves are brown.

Drought injuries can occur naturally or it can be man-made. Natural drought injury occurs when there is an inadequate supply of soil moisture available to the plant. A deficiency of water affects the marginal leaf tissue more than other parts of the plant. This results in a partial or complete collapse of cells, thus death of the leaf margins with the dead area progressing into the leaf and causing desiccation of leaf tissue between the veins toward the mid-rib. Areas one quarter to one half inches wide along veins are the last to become desiccated.

When the weather gets extremely hot along with wind a plant may show these type symptoms even though it is receiving an adequate amount of water to the root system. This is usually more common in areas where there is an accumulation of salt in the soil. Salt accumulations can develop from using irrigation water containing salts or by the use of excessive rates of inorganic fertilizer. High salt concentration simply reduces the root absorption by the root hairs and may finally result in death of the roots. The roots, which become non-functional, cannot supply water to the top growth; therefore, the top has to collapse. This salt injury, which is a form of man-made injury, is usually more severe in extremely dry weather than in time with adequate rainfall.

Whether the drought injury is naturally occurring or man-made, its existence over an extended amount of time results in a greatly weakened tree and the recovery to normal is extremely slow. As always, for drought injury the recommendation is an adequate water supply, and by an adequate supply it is not meant wetting the top three inches of the soil. For a tree to be watered properly, it needs probably 12 to 24 hours of water application at one time. This will allow the soil to become wet for several feet into the root zone. Short duration watering may keep the grass green under the tree, but it will starve the tree for water.

When trees are under moisture stress, herbicide injury is more likely to occur. The root system, which is under stress to absorb and transport as much moisture as possible, is forced to reach out further and further in its search. Under these conditions it is more likely to come in contact with other chemicals which are toxic. The herbicides or toxic chemicals kills portions of the roots and creates the drought symptoms.

Following the 1980 drought when many large trees died, plant scientist told us that so many roots had been destroyed that we would see drought symptoms and even trees deaths every summer for the next five years.

Trees showing marginal burn at this time are not suffering from plant diseases. Plant diseases, in most cases, occur when there is adequate moisture.

Other man-made drought injuries are caused by compaction such as a new road under a tree, construction of a building or patio over part of the root system, gas leaks, and mechanical root pruning caused by plowing or ditch digging.

The best thing you can do for this problem is slow, deep watering.

Landscape With Perennials

COLLEGE STATION—Perennial plants—those that grow from year to year—can be a highly useful and attractive addition to the home landscape, says a landscape horticulturist.

Dr. William C. Welch, who is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, says the landscaping potential of perennials is often overlooked by today's gardeners and nurserymen. However, he cites their lack of availability as a possible problem.

Common perennials include bearded iris, garden mums and spring flowering bulbs.

"Most perennials are easily propagated by division, seed or cuttings, which many gardeners will gladly share, if asked," he notes.

Division is an important cultural requirement of many perennials. They often persist for many years but will slowly lose their vigor without occasional thinning.

Divide and reset spring and summer flowering plants in the late summer or fall. These include iris, daylilies, penstemon, phlox and coreopsis. Fall flowering plants such as asters, chrysanthemums and physostegia respond best when divided in the early spring.

Some species only need dividing every three to five years while others respond favorably to an annual division, says Welch.

Many perennials tolerate relatively poor growing conditions but respond favorably to well-prepared planting areas containing high amounts of organic matter and moderately high fertility rates.

"Notice which species grow well in your vicinity," says Welch. "Some of these plants have been handed down for several generations and are interesting from a historical viewpoint. Many herbs are perennials and offer still another dimension to the home landscape."

Well, you can tell them that an auction beats garage sales by a mile and a half. You can explain to them that your friend in the auction business will arrange to do all the things necessary to set up and conduct the auction.

You can also tell them that your friend in the auction business knows the value of all types of items, knows what to ask to start the bidding and knows how to get top dollar.

And, you'll also be pleased to tell them that your friend in the auction business will sell everything they have in a few hours and the only thing they'll have left over will be cash.

Please tell them that I'm your friend in the auction business. And please tell them to remember that when it comes to buying or selling AUCTION'S BEST.

House Of Representatives
Jim Parker-District 03

Having discussed the teacher pay raise issue in last week's article, I would now like to mention some other areas which the Select Committee on Public Education may be studying along with possible problems which the Committee must eventually face.

Something the Committee will hear about and that we have all heard about these days is the decrease in the average achievement scores of students compared to those of 20 or 30 years ago. Does this mean the kids today are not as smart or learning as much today as "when I was in school?" Does it mean that the schools are not teaching as much?

Some people believe the tests given today are "outdated" and are simply not measuring learning in all areas of education, while others believe the schools have spent so much time on areas not considered "the basics" such as art, music, drama, field trips and just trying to make learning fun, that they have fallen behind in teaching the "3R's." Some people believe fine arts, such as music, art, etc., social graces and such are of major importance for a good education, while others believe those areas are outside the function of the school system which should, they believe, teach more of the basics and require more work and higher standards for advancement from grade to grade. They believe teachers should demand learning, even going back to having students learn by rote if necessary.

We often hear that the European and Japanese high school students are far above U.S. students in overall education. They are required early to learn at least one foreign language and are years ahead in both math and the sciences. Assuming it may be true that their high schools are equivalent to our Jr. Colleges as some say, we must remember that in those countries only those students who have passed certain tests and met certain requirements even go to high school. Others, at around the 6th or 7th grade level, are diverted into technical or trade schools. We need to be aware that we are comparing their brighter students to the "average" students over here.

With regard to the education of teachers, I believe some of the Colleges turning out teachers are requiring a certain number of hours in "education courses," some of which, in my opinion, are absolutely a joke. It would seem that time could be better spent in courses in the field the student plans to teach.

The Committee will hear testimony regarding these issues, as does the State Board of Education each year. They will also hear of all the Federal requirements such as head-start programs, busing to integrate, bi-lingual education and special education requirements, even for those under school age, which have been added to the school systems' responsibilities in our country.

Just where does the responsibility of the schools for education end or does it at all? What priorities, if any, should the school system have—reaching the most students, including handicapped, non-English speaking, etc., or quality education for the average and brighter student? Should we have separate schools for "college bound" and vocational training or continue to mix the students except for a couple of classes per day? What do you think?

Let me hear from you.

Sesame Place Expands Attractions For 2nd Season

IRVING—Outdoor play activities, live entertainment including Muppet characters Bert and Ernie, a trained animal show, strolling street characters, and new challenging science exhibits are all part of the second season lineup at Sesame Place, the action-oriented play park for children ages 3 to 13 and their families.

The 7-acre family play center, located in Irving on Highway 183 at Esters Road between Dallas and Fort Worth, has added much to its repertoire of challenging outdoor play activities, creative science elements, live entertainment and one of the largest collections of computer games in the nation.

Popular Muppet characters Bert and Ernie, from "Sesame Street," sing and dance in the park with their Muppet friends "the Honkers" at regular times during the day. Strolling performers make the entire park their stage and greet visitors throughout the day.

Among new outdoor play activities is the Sesame 500, a 500-foot-long race track just for big wheel-type pedal bikes. As bikers get the green light, an electronic timing device monitors their speeds around the banked track and flashes the winning time on a scoreboard at the finish line.

Also new are two water-oriented elements, the Zoom Flume and the Slippery Slope. The Zoom Flume is a 120-foot-long, 3-foot-wide tube slide with an ice-slice sliding surface created by a thin layer of water on a soft spongy padded vinyl surface. Sliders jet down a 25-foot drop before ending up in a dish-shaped spin-out basin.

Slippery Slope is a 45-foot-long slide with eight lanes which carry sliders down a 15-foot drop into a pool of water at the bottom. There is also a smaller version for younger children with a 6-foot vertical drop.

Another addition is an outdoor arena where trained animal shows, produced by well-known Hollywood animal behaviorist Ray Berwick, are performed several times a day.

Berwick's company has trained animals for a number of movies and television shows, including Baretta's "Fred," the cockatoo,

"Boomer," the dog; and the birds in the movie "The Birds."

Trainer Mike Jones, who hosts the Sesame Place show, has appeared with animals on "The Johnny Carson Show" and "Those Amazing Animals." He has also toured with the Universal Studios show and has performed with animals in John Davidson's Las Vegas act.

Among Jones' co-stars at Sesame Place are Jasmine, a yellow nape Amazon parrot who sings opera and passes out kisses; Hot Shot, a cat who lies down, rolls over and shakes hands; and Rosie, a rose-breasted cockatoo who retrieves dollar bills on command.

Most of the animals the Berwick company trains are retrieved from the pound or simply purchased through want ads in the paper. Boomer, for instance, came from a dog pound, as did Jessie, a cat who recently joined the Sesame Place show after spending a few weeks in the Irving pound.

Indoors, visitors will find several new and challenging science activities.

"Sesame Dream Network" is a video electronic device which allows members of the audience to perform on television as part of a prerecorded video show. A storyteller directs the "cast" as the audience stars in its own TV dramas.

In the "Rainbow Room," the principles of light are graphically illustrated as children play and perform before a screen. Their actions are captured and projected on the screen in a colorful display of lights.

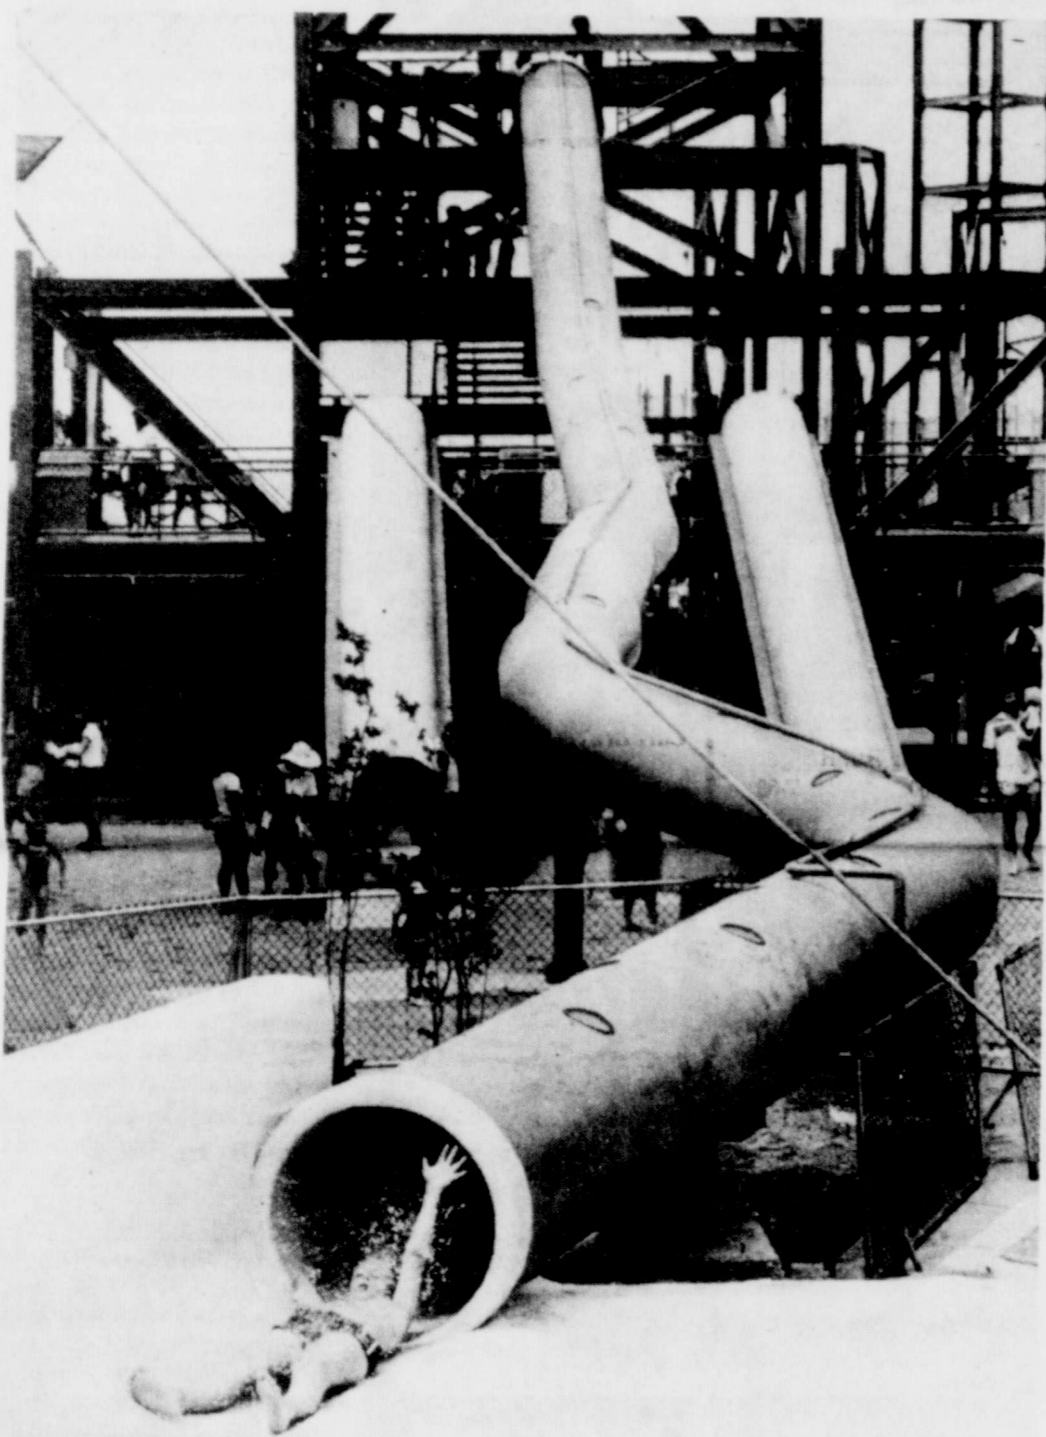

"Foot Notes" relates sound to light. As visitors step on different colored lights, distinct musical notes are created.

In the Sesame Studio, "Ernie's Bathtub" invites families to purchase photos taken with a life-size replica of Ernie taking his daily bath.

Other additions to Sesame Place include additional landscaping; a shaded area where adults can enjoy a variety of juice bar drinks and watch their children play.

Sesame Place is open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. through August 28, when it will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on weekends only through October 30, plus Labor Day, September 5.

Zoom Flume

New in 1983, the Zoom Flume at Sesame Place in Irving, Texas is a 120 foot long wet tube slide that propels riders on an ice-slick wet and spongy vinyl surface down a 20 foot drop. At the end of the slide is a spin basin with another six foot drop which carries riders into a splash pool at the bottom.

Real Estate Consumer

David S. Jones

The Real Estate Consumer is provided as a public service by this newspaper and the Texas Real Estate Research Center. Address inquiries to The Texas Real Estate Research Center, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

If you are about to buy a house, here is some information on down payments you might find useful.

The larger your down payment, the less money you will have to borrow, and that means smaller monthly mortgage payments. On the other hand, a smaller down payment may allow you to leave at least some of your savings in a cash reserve for emergencies.

If you decide to make a smaller down payment, you may have to buy mortgage insurance in order to get the larger loan. Mortgage insurance guarantees that the lender will be repaid in cash you default. Because this limits the risk, the lender may make a larger loan.

Mortgage insurance is available from the Federal Housing Administration, the Farmers Home Administration and private mortgage insurance companies. Such insurance costs about $10 to $20 per month and is added to your monthly house payment.

SELECTING A HOME IMPROVEMENT CONTRACTOR

Because of the high price of housing, many homeowners are upgrading their present homes rather than buying new ones. If you are in this category, remember to select a home improvement contractor with care.

Ask the prospective contractor for a list of recent customers, and call these people to find out if they are satisfied with the work. Or ask the Better Business Bureau about the contractor's performance record.

Get estimates from two or more contractors and compare materials to be used, warranty terms and other factors, as well as price.

Remember that cheapest is not always best. Before you sign a contract, make sure it contains a detailed description of the work to be performed and be certain you understand all parts of the contract. Finally, make certain the work has been completed in accordance with the written contract.

PREVIOUS MORTGAGE DISCOUNTS

A few lending institutions are now offering a loan program which could save you money if you are buying a home.

Such institutions will give interest rate discounts to people who are buying houses already being financed with mortgages from these lenders. The loan companies will finance—at lower than market interest rates—a loan equal to the outstanding balance of the existing mortgage.

Any additional funds needed by the buyer are furnished at the current interest rate. This loan package produces an overall interest rate somewhat below the prevailing market interest rate.

If you are buying a house, you might inquire whether or not the current mortgage is being held by an institution offering such a discount program.

HEAT PUMP BASICS

Many homeowners are replacing worn out heating and cooling units with an electric heat pump.

The heat pump is basically a refrigeration system designed to provide heating and cooling. The outside air contains heat, even when the temperature is below freezing. The heat pump extracts this heat from the air and pumps it indoors.

The heat pump cools by reversing the procedure. It removes heat from a building and pumps it outdoors. Heat pumps now on the market are more than twice as efficient as electric resistance units for heating, and their cooling efficiency is about equal to that found in many central air conditioning units.

Heat pumps are expensive, however. They cost about 10 to 25 percent more to install than do most central heating and cooling systems. Before you buy a heat pump, investigate whether your operational savings will justify the initial investment.

CONDOS SPAWN HOMEOWNER'S ASSOCIATIONS

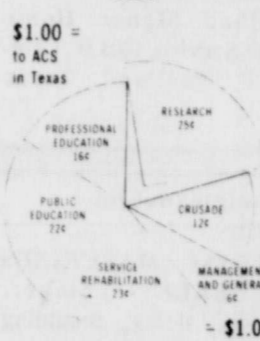

A decade ago many Texans considered it impractical, if not impossible, for homeowners in a neighborhood to form associations that would work for their mutual best interests.

This was when condominiums, as a form of ownership, were just getting started. Because of the increasing popularity of condominiums, which require such associations to maintain and operate the commonly owned properties, there are now hundreds of homeowner groups.

There is also a trade organization which serves these groups. This is the Community Associations Institute, headquartered in Arlington, VA. The CAI publishes guides for forming and operating associations and conducts workshops and seminars to train association leaders. If you have a need to form a homeowners association, contact the CAI.

Homeowners Can Effectively Kill Cockroaches

Although cockroaching infestation is usually thought of as an urban problem, many a rural dweller knows from hard experience that "la cucaracha" can survive in almost any place that humans can live.

The first, and most direct, approach to killing the critters is simply to step on them or swat 'em with a rolled-up newspaper. This method is quick, effective, and probably the most humane way to put the beasties to sleep. Unfortunately, though, the technique doesn't do anything to eliminate hidden multitudes of the pests. And, as a rule, these bugs do tend to congregate in large, usually hidden, masses.

If you're plagued by swarms of cockroaches, your first thought may be to call an exterminator ... but think again. Not only is pest control service expensive, but if you live in an apartment and the exterminator doesn't fumigate very unit in your building, the roaches will simply move next door until the fumes die down ... and the bugs will come back with a vengeance.

Of course, there are poisons and there are poisons. Some naturally occurring bug killers - such as rotenone and pyrethrum (which are derived from derris and chrysanthemum plants, respectively) - are biodegradable and fairly nontoxic to humans. Ask your garden supply store about these two insecticides.

A mixture of borax and sugar will also kill cockroaches but should not be used in a dwelling where dogs, cats, or infants live.

However, even for those who do have youngsters and/or pets, there's another way to beat the bugs. A very effective and safe way to exterminate roaches is to put out dishes of baking soda. When the slender brown bugs consume even the tiniest amount of this substance, they get gassy ... and since they can't burp, their innards explode. Just add a little sugar to the baking soda and set the mixture behind the refrigerator. It'll get 'em every time!

Then again, Mr. and Ms. Roach do have another weakness ... a "fatal" flaw.

They dearly love a little drink now and then. All it takes to get the pests' attention is about a quarter inch of sweet wine in a glass or bowl. Simply leave this libation in the bugs' "stomping grounds", turn off the lights, and go to bed. The roaches will smell the stuff, head for that container with a will, clamber up the sides, and guzzle away. After a few sips (not many insects can hold their liquor), the carousers will fall drunkenly into the glass or bowl ... and they won't be able to muster up the coordination or ambition to get back out again. If roaches can giggle, then can surely titter while they drown. It doesn't even matter how many leggy corpses are already afloat in the fatal pool ... new bugs will keep on fighting their way in to meet the same soggy death.

If you're in need of a preventive method, you'll be glad to know that one of our readers, Frank Walsh, sent a letter to tell us how folks in the monsoonal tropics of Indonesia deal with roaches. "As the rains taper off, the dry-season beasties - scorpions, cockroaches, and various other unpleasant, harmful insects - migrate indoors seeking cool, damp places to reproduce. To prevent this, spread burnt builder's lime, at about the time of the last big rain, around your house's foundation in a band approximately one meter wide. When the lime gets wet, it combines with the upper soil to prevent the sort of mud that's tracked indoors, and crawling insects just won't cross that band of calcium oxide."

And yet another reader, Canadian Winell Callahan, told an amusing story about his older sister Nita to demonstrate a different remedy for cockroaches invasion. Nita, he says, was once employed as an assistant cook at a large sheep ranch and lived in an old hotel where most of the ranch hands were fed and housed. One night she slipped back down to the dark kitchen to finish a minor chore. In nightgown and robe, she padded down the hall barefooted. When she reached the kitchen, she sneaked in quietly, without turning on the light. At the door she stepped on something, quickly flipped on the light, and promptly screamed bloody murder. The kitchen was alive with cockroaches scurrying away from the sudden brightness.

When Nita's parents were told the story of how their daughter had awakened the entire hotel in the dead of night with her screams, they had some advice that Nita took back to the sheep farm with her. Their answer was very simple. "Scatter a few cucumbers every way imaginable and very carefully deposited the peelings under sinks, refrigerators, and dishwashers ... and even in her bedroom. And wonder of wonders, the nasty little bugs did disappear. Every

Ridge Oil Co. Finalizes New Producer In County

Pumping 93 barrels of crude oil and 160,000 CF casinghead gas daily on open choke, a new producer has been finalized in Eastland County's Rebecca Field five miles northeast of Cisco.

The well is designated as the No. 1 Higginbotham. Ridge Oil of Breckenridge is the operator.

The well was drilled to total depth of 4,000 feet. It will produce from a set of Marble Falls Formation perforations 3,584 to 3,639 feet into the hole. Drillsite was in a 471-acre lease block in the H&TCRR Survey Sect. 53 Block 4.

A 1,500-ft. Eastland County wildcat is slated for drilling five miles northeast of Romney. The explorer well will be known as the No. 3 De De, with Jack Warren Co. of San Angelo as the operator. It will be spudded in a 70-acre lease in the H&TCRR Survey Sect. 95 Block 3.

Many Good And Sincere Individuals

...give little thought to the question of values when we should measure them in terms of personal worth in everything he buys, enjoys or does. For example, some folks will buy real estate without any kind of evidence of title disregarding the fact that the principal value of the purchase is in the title, not in the land itself or the improvements thereon. This kind of thinking costs property owners thousands of dollars annually which could be saved and a part of the savings wisely spent for an abstract of title or title insurance.

'The Chemical People' Is Introduced To Countians

BY VIOLA PAYNE
Feature Writer

"The Chemical People", a nation wide drug abuse outreach program, was introduced and explained to Eastland County citizens at a Teleconference Monday night, July 11 at Cisco Junior College Library.

About 40 persons, including school and community leaders, attended this special "War On Drugs" program. It was presented by Marilyn Golightly, Coordinator for a 60 county

TONI LITTLE, R.Ph., is the Pharmacy Consultant at E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital and has acted in that capacity since May, 1982. She is the wife of Jimmy Little, who is employed by Lone Star Gas in the Gas Supply division. They have 2 children, Randy, age 2½, and Sara, age 5 months. Toni's parents are George and Dorothy Simmons of Cisco. She is a 1972 graduate of Cisco High region across this area.

Ms. Golightly explained that "The Chemical People" project would simply be an enhancement, a way to build a wider base on what she described as "The already very fine Eastland County organization, People Against Dangerous Drugs." Comments from Golightly and a Question and Answer period were interposed between television segments explaining how to use the network of "The Chemical People", and how to tie in the local organization.

On November 2 and 9 Public Television will broadcast "The Chemical People" two-part series, a program designed to bring concerned citizens together and offer guidelines for helping young people. This will be hosted by First Lady Nancy Reagan, and has the participation of over 25 national organizations. It will be broadcast over 200 local PBS stations all across the country.

The plan calls for community volunteers to organize "Town Meetings" to watch these programs, which will offer hard information about the alcohol and drug abuse problem.

Following the first broadcast, the local situation will be discussed. Everyone will be invited to return and watch program Two, at which time decisions will be made about community task forces. Some of these are already in operation in Eastland County.

The second program will show how other parents, schools and neighborhoods are fighting drugs and alcohol, and explain what a task force does.

Ms. Golightly stated that volunteers are needed to assist in these programs. Various leaders in the Eastland County P.A.D.D.

organization were requested to spearhead this new effort.

Much of "The Chemical People" plan involves the education of young people about the mind-altering effect of drugs. As Ms. Golightly commented: "There's not one teen-ager who sits down and deliberately decides to become a drug addict or an alcoholic. It's something they gradually get into."

On liquor, she cited a survey from a typical U.S. High School in 1982 which discloses that 97% of the young people had tried liquor, 74% used it monthly, around 25% weekly, and 6% daily. Alcohol was listed as the most common drug-abuse problem in the U.S. today.

When questioned as to the social acceptance of alcohol consumption vs. that of a drug such as marijuana, and the laws dealing with each, Golightly replied that the thrust of "The Chemical People" was to deal with adolescents and their problems rather than becoming involved with all situations.

The television segments of Monday evening's program demonstrated various approaches to the drug problem throughout the country. Literature telling of the "Texans War On Drugs" and other educational publications were distributed after the meeting. After the formal program the audience had a few moments to visit and assimilate information. Most expressed interest and a desire to assist young people in any way possible. Announcements will be forthcoming as to time and place for the next "Chemical People" Program.

Batteries Harmful To Small Children

Progress is not without its hazards - especially to small children.

The so-called "button" batteries, which power everything from electronic wrist watches to hand calculators and toys, are being swallowed accidentally by an increasing number of small children says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Each year, between 500 and 800 button batteries are swallowed because of improper handling. In the case of toddlers, sheer fascination with something so small makes it a candidate for a taste test," she adds.

Many batteries make it non-stop through the body's digestive system and little harm results. But those which aren't passed and remain in the body are a threat to health and even life, Shirer says.

Leakage of alkaline electrolytes from a battery can cause chemical burns and internal bleeding, she notes.

Shirer recommends treating button batteries like you would old medicine when it comes to disposal. Wrap and discard them where they are not likely to be found by little hands.

WORD OF GOD

New Testament

And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jona: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven.

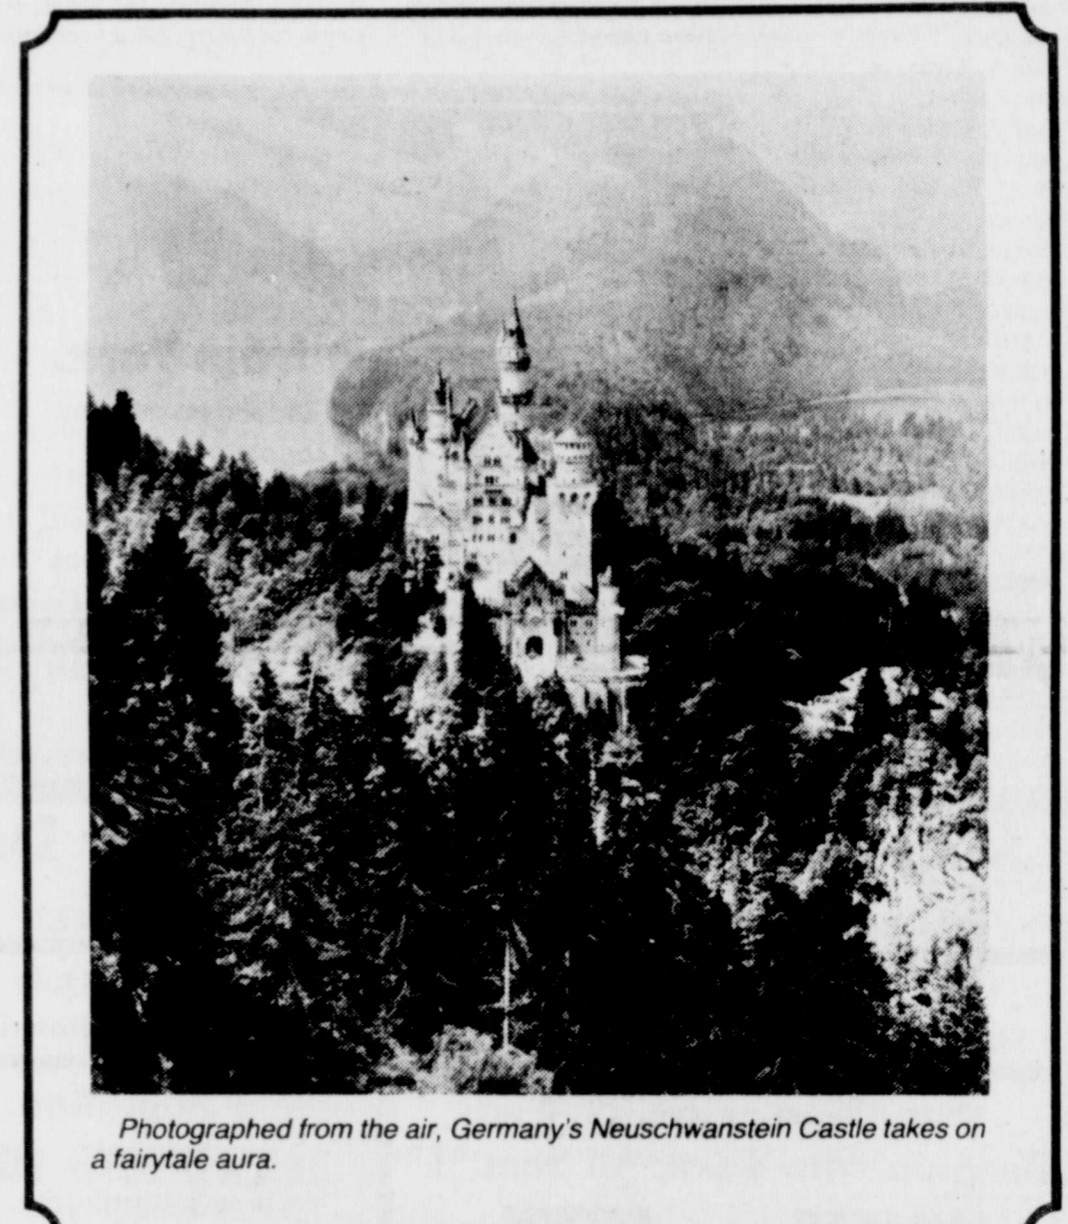

And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.

Matthew 16:16-18

Flying High on Photography

I'm not exactly high on photography. That is, I'm not big on high-flying photography. Well, you know what I mean. Photography done while onboard one of those proud birds isn't my cup of tea and hasn't been since I took some aerial shots half an hour after a nourishing lunch of chili dogs. The two, let me tell you, don't mix.

But be that as it may, photography from the air is a useful and effective pastime. I'm not talking about commercial aerial photography. I mean shots taken for your own pleasure, to enhance a photo record of a trip, etc. And, if you're lucky enough to come up with something truly unique, it may be saleable, repaying you time and again for your efforts.

Air-to-ground photos and airborne views of clouds, sunsets, sunrises, and atmospheric effects can be taken with ordinary commercial films and standard photo equipment during commercial flights. Although it's safe to assume you'll have no control over the route or altitude you fly (unless, of course, you rent a plane solely for the purpose of photography from the air), there are several things you can do to improve your picture-taking success during a flight.

First, select a window seat, preferably on the shady side of the plane. In that way, you won't be plagued with sun spots, flare, and other problems associated with shooting directly into Old Sol. Take a little time before getting your seating assignment to consider the direction you'll be flying, the time of day, and the approximate position of the sun, remembering that it usually rises in the east and sets in the west.

Secondly, set the camera's controls before taking off. If you want the airplane's wing in the scene (to act as a natural frame and to lend perspective to the shot), pre-focus the camera at 15 meters (about 50 feet) with a normal lens. That will keep the wing identifiably sharp, throw any dirt or smudges on the window out of focus, and still keep the ground sharp. Exposure settings should include shutter speeds of 1/250 second or faster.

If you're shooting an auto-exposure camera, simply let the camera make the necessary exposure selections.

Thirdly, don't brace the camera against the window, and don't brace your body against the bulkhead or fuselage of the plane. Vibrations may be transmitted to the camera, and your shots could fall victim to camera shake and blurry photos.

Fourthly, start shooting as the airplane prepares to leave the ground. Include anything that appears interesting, from runways and skyscrapers to other planes, housing developments, interesting highway patterns and farms.

As you get higher into the air, the opportunity for exciting, dramatic photos is sure to decrease. There's very little you can shoot from 30,000 feet that will look interesting when your prints come back from processing.

Once you're more than 5,000 feet high, set your manually adjustable camera one f/stop smaller than your on-the-ground readings.

Remember that airline pilots sometimes make an effort to identify famous landmarks like the Grand Canyon and fly in such a way as to give you a good look. Have your camera ready for action, because at better than several hundred miles an hour, it doesn't take long before something coming up on the right is something just passed on the left.

While you can use a skylight, or ultraviolet, filter in order to cut down on the haze slightly, be wary of using a polarizing filter, as it may interact with the polarizing materials present in the plane's windows. View through the filter before shooting.

MR. W.E. (Dizzy Dean), who takes pride in keeping a pretty lawn and looking after his property, has got his hands full these warm days. The Deans have sold their home at 701 West 7th Street to the Harlton H. Lacys of Dallas and are to give possession on Sept. 1st.

The Deans have purchased the Lewis Starr residence at 900 West 9th Street and plan to have it remodeled and redecorated, inside and outside, before moving there by Sept. 1st. And, in the meantime, Diz will have two large lawns to keep mowed.

The Deans purchased the home of the late Mr. Starr from his granddaughters and heirs. They've lived at 701 West 7th for more than 25 years, and decided that they would like a smaller place.

BRENT LEE, 7-year old son of the Tommie Lees of our town, is very probably being supplied with cookies and other goodies in plenty by his grandmother these days. He sustained a broken wrist in a bicycle mishap recently and it occurred while he was riding to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Jimmie Lee, also of Cisco.

Brent is doing nicely and is due out of the cast in another two or three weeks.

THE COMMUNITY'S annual disaster drill, which was held last Tuesday with E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital personnel, CJC Student Nurses, local police and firemen, Patterson ambulance and others taking part, was a good success. It was not without a few light moments.

One of the students nurse victims was made up as a pregnant woman near delivery time. She had realistic facial injuries. And the baby was delivered soon after the "injured" woman was taken to the hospital. It was a girl.

There were three fatalities who were sent to a temporary morgue after being pronounced "dead." In a few minutes, one of them was discovered in the hospital lobby. He was asked what he was doing there. "I received permission to get a Coke," the "dead" youth said.

The drill was serious business and it enabled various groups and organizations about town to familiarize themselves with what and how to do things in the event of a real emergency.

ONE OF OUR friends was listening while folks talked about how good Mr. Wallace Johnston, who turned 80 last month, can play golf for a man his age. Observed our friend: "I don't know about his golf, but he's the best Sunday School teacher I ever knew." Bet Mr. WJ likes that. Glad to hear that the doctors at Baylor Hospital in Big D found the problem and Mrs. Willis (Vallie) Parker is back home and doing nicely. The E.L. Jacksons are home from Meana, Ark., where he attended a meeting of the Lions Club, of which he is the last surviving charter member.

MISS JANICE WOOLLEY, CHS student, attended a basketball clinic at Wayland College in Plainview a week or so ago. Her parents, the Dick Woolleys, went out and picked her up and they went to Canyon to see the musical TEXAS. Next, they drove to Chama, N.M., and took the train ride

Services For Ralph Smith Are Thursday

Funeral services for Ralph C. Smith, 60, of Cisco were at 2 p.m. Thursday at Cisco Funeral Home. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery.

Mr. Smith died at 1:15 a.m. Tuesday at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. He was born May 8, 1923 in Winslow, Ark.

Survivors include his wife, Leta; a son, Johnny Ralph of New Mexico; a sister, Margie Wright of Odessa; five stepchildren; and 11 grandchildren.

Pallbearers were Joel, Homer, Jake and Roger Baker, Terry Gosnell and Bill Swindle.

north into Colorado.

Then, the Woolleys went to Red River, N.M., for several days of vacationing. And it was very nice, indeed, he reports. They got home last Monday night.

HOW DID Eddie McMillan, local insurance man, spend July the 4th? Well, he went to a Pub in London and announced to one and all that he was celebrating Independence Day. And before long, a group of Londoners were helping Eddie.

The McMillans got home last week from their tour of some three weeks in Europe. They visited Ireland and Scotland as well as England, went to Paris for a few days (Yes, he was at the Folies.), then to Germany and Switzerland and Italy. They saw the Pope in Rome, ate delicious dark and white chocolate in Switzerland and enjoyed riding the trains over Europe.

What Eddie didn't like most was riding an airliner to and from Europe - eight or nine hours in the same seat! Mr. and Mrs. McMillan and son Bret made the trip.

PROF WYLEY Peebles, the CJC music man, had a visit with the daughter and son-in-law of the Ralph Glenns during a recent visit to Zurich, Switzerland. He especially liked Scotland. Prof Peebles was the tour guide for Mr. and Mrs. Tim Jones. A group of Hospital Auxiliary members spent last Monday at the First Christian Church mending blankets for beds at the hospital. The group included Hellen Hathaway, Louise Anderson, Kay Sitton, Rebecca Walker, Mabel Kirkendall and Dorcas Sitton.

THE J.C. Fletchers of our town visited their son in Oklahoma City last weekend. Mr. JCF has been having trouble with bugs eating the young squash on the plants in his garden. He says the bugs thrive on commercial sprays. Somebody told him to try powdered garlic.

The best remedy we've heard about is to take a hammer and a piece of flat steel to the garden. Place bugs on steel and hit with hammer.

THE FOLKS UP on Avenue N have their hats off to Supervisor Frank Young and his City Street Department. They've just finished seal coating the street and they did an outstanding job - better than the south end of the street that a contractor fixed last year.

Avenue N was paved about 25 years ago and this was the first substantial repair project. They even covered up the telephone ditches that had bounced folks for several years. Work has now moved to the Royal Oaks Addition and Royal Lane.

IT'S VACATION time at our house, and we're heading west and north in our travel trailer. Plan to visit in El Paso, Ruidoso and points north. Will report from there.

Cancer Society Conference Is Planned Aug. 2

Three students and one advisor from Cisco High School FHA Chapter in Cisco are planning to attend an Area conference sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The conference will be held at the Americana Hotel in Fort Worth on August 2.

The Conference is a result of a partnership between the American Cancer Society and the State FHA. Local FHA Chapters participate in American Cancer Society activities in the areas of education among their peers, fund-raising through special events, and the Great American Smokeout.

The theme for this year's conference is "YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW." Students will hear about past activities, and learn about new events and how to plan them. Shelley Bruce, from the Broadway play ANNIE, will be featured. Shelley, in remission from a bout with leukemia, will tell of her experience with cancer, and sing the famous song from ANNIE, "Tomorrow".

City Joins Others In Opposing Rates

The City of Cisco joined other cities of this region in opposing a 11.4 per cent increase in electricity rates in action at the semi-monthly meeting of City Council last Tuesday night at City Hall.

In the action, the Council adopted a resolution "suspending the operation of the proposed rate schedules as filed by West Texas Utilities Company for a period of 120 days from the effective date (July 16) and authorize participation with other Texas Municipal League cities in the intervention of the WTU rural rate case."

The cities affected plan a joint presentation in opposition to the rate hike before the Texas Public Utilities Commission, City Manager Mike Moore reported. Copies of the resolution will be sent to the WTU, the City of Abilene, and to members of the PUC, he added.

City Attorney Wm. B. Wright said the City of Cisco's participation in the PUC hearing would cost about $250 as all cities of the region cooperate in the presentation.

Jack Kennedy, WTUC's local manager, was present at the meeting and told the Council that his company needed the additional revenue to finance new construction and to meet growing expenses.

In other action, the Council approved finance reports for May, heard City Judge Jasper Cook's quarterly report, approved plans to have a company edit and publish all of the city's ordinances in book form, and took up other agenda items.

The May finance report showed that 82 per cent or $590,458 of the general fund budget has been collected while 62 per cent or $450,466 of budgeted expenses had been used. The city's working fund gained some $13,000 during the month to $34,072. Savings account balances totaled some $140,000 including $32,738 in the oil and gas royalties savings account.

The Council, acting on recommendation of the city manager, approved a contract with Municipal Code Corporation to prepare and publish a code of ordinances. This will include classifying, editing and codifying all ordinances ever passed by the council and publishing them in a loose leaf book form for easy reference and use. The service will cost about $7,000.

Application of Thomas C. Canan of Wichita Falls for three oil well drilling permits were approved. The wells will be on city, college and public school land.

Mayor Raymond Hart of Ranger and others appeared before the Council to ask Cisco's cooperation in seeking help with expenses in fighting rural fires. The county now contributes $100 per month for rural fire service in Cisco, Eastland, and Ranger, and the sum is inadequate, Mr. Hart said.

The Council voted to work with the group and asked Councilman Bobby Rains to represent the city on a committee of county citizens working on the project.

Plans call for the group to meet and discuss the problem. It was noted that several area counties, including Jack and Parker, levy a small tax to support rural fire programs.

The Council decided to advertise their some 200 street parking meters for sale. The meters were removed last month and stored at the city barn. The City manager told the Council that several inquiries had come to his office from individuals and groups wanting to buy one or more of the meters.

Travis G. Lenard of 1600 Liggett asked the Council to vacate an easement on the southerly end of Wright Street from old Highway 80 west, now know as FM Road 2945, to Liggett Street. He said the area was never dedicated to the city and that it has never been used as a street. Mr. Lenard owns both pieces of land that the street dissects. The Council approved his request.

After considerable discussion, the Council voted to consider again the West Texas Utilities Company's recently submitted street lighting contract at their next meeting. It was turned down at the June 28 meeting.

City Manager Mike Moore told the Council that he has been conducting a survey of street lights and the work is partly complete. There are a total of 345 lights, he said, and the inspection has covered 223 of them. Of this number, 27 were found to be non-operative. He said that between 20 to 25 per cent of street lights in town are on private property and are being paid for by individuals. When the survey is complete, Mr. Moore said he would advise WTU by letter of findings.

The ABC Club was given permission to close the west end of Royal Lane (west of the Primrose Street intersection) during the Aug. 1-4 state baseball tournament in Cisco. Bill Manire, president of the club, had requested the action.

Mayor Pro Tem Ivan Webb presided. Councilmen present were Bobby Ingram, Bobby Rains, Brad Kimbrough and Linton Batteas along with City Manager Moore, City Secretary Ginger Johnson and City Attorney Wm. B. Wright, Jr.

AARP Gives Away 3,750 Lbs. Of Cheese Here

The Cisco Chapter of AARP distributed 3,750 lbs. of cheese, under the Department of Human Resources and Agriculture regulations, during the month of July to 684 self-declared needy families in Cisco. To 403 families in Rising Star, 2250 lbs were distributed.

This brings to a total amount of cheese distributed this year by the Cisco Chapter of 8,520 lbs to 1,573 families in Cisco, and 4,980 lbs to 929 families in Rising Star; a grand total of 13,500 lbs.

President of the Cisco AARP Chapter, Walter Knowlden, expresses thanks to each and all who helped to make this project a success.
