

HALL OF REMARKS

BY HERREL HALLMARK

BE MAKING plans now to be in town next Saturday for the Retail Trade Day sales to be held in Cisco. Advertisements from local participating merchants will be displayed in the next edition of The Press.

A contest will be held to determine the winners of a "Little Mr. Cisco" pageant. I understand there will also be an open-air concert at the City Park featuring the Glory-Heirs later that same day.

weekend, because they will have to start getting up early Monday morning to start off the new school year.

Registrations were held this past week and everything seems in order for the first day of school to begin on schedule Monday.

Local, public-school students will attend classes for two weeks and then have a day off on Labor Day. This is usually always the first holiday observed in local schools.

IF YOU ARE like me you were watching the skies late Thursday and hoping for the dark clouds in the east to move closer and drop some rain on the Cisco area. Local weather predictions were calling for thunderstorms on Thursday night, Friday and Saturday.

However, as of press time Friday Cisco had not had more than a very light sprinkle for a few minutes Thursday evening. As we have heard it said, rain clouds seem to split apart when they come to Cisco and leave the area dry.

Maybe we should start examining our lives and see if we can make improvements in them. Maybe that will help us get some rain.

WELL PARENTS and school children had better get plenty of sleep this Dr. Neely Will Bring Services

Dr. H.K. Neely Jr. of Abilene will be bringing both messages Sunday at East Cisco Baptist Church.

CofC Breakfast Meeting Is Set

New teachers at Cisco Junior College and in the Cisco Public School System will be special guests at the quarterly breakfast meeting of Chamber of Commerce members at 7 a.m., Thursday, Sept. 1, according to an announcement.

The breakfast will be held at the Elephant Room at the White Elephant Restaurant. Anyone interested in attending the event was invited to contact the CofC office (442-2537) for reservations.

President Robert Dudley, who will preside, said that reports on CofC activities would be included on the program.

Church Plans Ground Breaking

Ground breaking ceremonies will be held at 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 28, for a 3,200 square foot addition to the First Christian Church building at 303 West 8th Street, according to an announcement Friday.

Steve Cozart Construction Co. of Cisco was the successful bidder for a contract to build the church addition, according to Chairman Standlee McCracken of the building committee. The addition will join the church building on the west.

The addition will include five Sunday School class rooms, a youth activities room, a utility room for use by a group of women who make quilts for their annual bazaar, and rest rooms, Mr. McCracken said.

Dr. Earl Bissex of Abilene, area minister of Christian churches, has been invited to preside at the ground breaking ceremonies. He also was invited to be the church's speaker for the Sunday morning services. The Rev. Milo Steffen, church pastor, will assist in the ceremonies.

Mr. McCracken said the addition, including furnishings, would represent an investment of about $100,000. He added that financing arrangements for the project were being worked out.

To make room for the addition, the church recently purchased a lot just west of the building and sold the residence that occupied it. Serving with Mr. Mc-Cracken on the building committee are Lynn Williams, Vandell Weathers, Roy G. Hathaway and J.C. Fletcher. Mrs. Olga Fay Parker heads the church's official board.

Mangum Baptist Church Plans Aug. Revival

Everyone is invited to attend the youth-led revival at Mangum Baptist Church, August 19, 20 and 21 with services at 7:30 nightly. Regular times apply for Sunday services (11:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.). Joey Graves from Haskell will be preaching and Tom Jones from Lawn will be leading the singing. This revival is for all ages. Nursery is provided.

HAVE YOU EVER seen a centipede this big? The 7½ inch specimen shown above was found by Frank Wilcoxon who lives along the Old Canyon Road, north of town. He said it was crawling across the carpet in front of his fireplace with its tail curled up like a scorpion. After checking with several sources, this newspaper found out the object is a large centipede which is common to this area, although they are not seen very often. They like damp places and are poisonous, although there were varied reports on the strength of their poison. One source said they would probably only be harmful to young children or senior citizens. Southeastern Resources Gets 85 Barrel Producer

The No. 1 M.K. Courtney "E" has been finalized by Southeastern Resources Corp. of Rising Star. It is a developmental well in the JMJ Marble Falls Field, five miles northwest of Eastland. Drillsite is in a 160-acre lease in Eastland County's H&TCRR Co. Survey, Sec. 32, Blk. 4. Daily potential of 85 barrels of oil and 390,000 CF casinghead gas on a 18/64 choke was posted with the Railroad Commission. Tubing pressure came in at 150 PSI. The well went to a 4,125 ft. bottom. Production will be from perforations 3,416 to 3,422 feet into the wellbore. Jerry E. Wylie Oil of Abilene has filed first production figures on a new oil well in the Carbon Caddo

Field. The No. 3 Alvis Scitern showed potential to pump 12 barrels of oil per day on open choke. The operator has 160 acres leased, with drillsite in Eastland County's H&TCRR Co. Gordon Spot County Extension Agent

DeMarquis Gordon

This has been a very dry summer for most areas of Eastland County. I have heard of some producers who have had to sell their livestock, some have been hauling water to livestock and others have sold their calves early because of a shortage of grass. Hay is already in short supply and it would be disastrous to start feeding hay now. As one stockman told me this week "It's a long time until May." Hopefully by the time you read this column we will have had some rain from the gulf storm. Most of the time we associate feeding cows with cold and maybe wet weather, not exactly the conditions found in Eastland County this summer. Or, we know that extreme drought may require feeding. However, there are other times when certain types of supplements are useful. Late summer typically finds pasture and range grasses dropping in quality, particularly protein and phosphorous. In fact, phosphorous is deficient in warm season grasses a large part of the year, except late spring and early summer, the usual period of lush growth. For this reason, many successful operators supplement minerals year-round, but this practice is especially important once we reach mid-summer. Since phosphorous is deficient, mineral mixes should be priced and fed according to their phosphorous content. Appropriate minerals for range or pasture should contain 8 percent to 15 percent phosphorous. Salt should also be provided. While it may be just as deficient as phosphorous, protein supplementation is much less likely to be attended to by most cattlemen in late summer. But small amounts of protein can be very beneficial in making maximum use of low quality grass. Choice may be made from various feeds containing 25 percent to 50 percent protein such as oilseed and pellets (including salt-limited mixes), protein blocks, liquids, and molasses blocks. Lower protein feeds (15 to 25 percent) could also be used, especially good quality alfalfa hay, whole cottonseed, or breeder cubes. However, larger amounts of these lower protein sources should be provided, resulting in extra expense. Providing small amounts of supplemental protein will be helpful only if adequate low quality grass is available. But, if pastures are very short, either from drought or over-grazing, supplemental energy (usually as hay or grain) will be needed. Small expenditures for phosphorous and protein can be more than returned by eliminating typical late-summer drops in animal performance.

We have a hay show scheduled for October 4 in Eastland County, but now I am wondering about participation because of the short crop. I would like some opinions of hay producers.

Hay shows provide an opportunity to compare different samples of hay and help producers evaluate what makes high-quality hay. Hay is a major portion of the roughage diet of many ruminant animals, so an evaluation of food value and protein content can help growers determine hay quality more easily so that livestock can be fed according to hay value.

An individual entering a hay sample will know the value of his hay when the show is over. Samples will have a protein analysis run and physically evaluated as to leafiness, steminess, color, foreign material and maturity.

Livestock producers preparing to feed hay will know if their hay is adequate to meet animal needs or if supplements are needed. Hay shows can take a lot of guesswork out of livestock feeding.

Besides, providing a hay analysis, hay shows can be educational. Discussion topics often deal with such areas as hay production, haying equipment, soil fertility, hay storage, hay quality differences, feeding value, forage testing and forage for hay production.

It can be a place where interested individuals can learn a lot about a nationwide activity.

I would like to hear from hay producers so the livestock and forage committee can make a decision on whether to have a hay show this year.

Dried floral arrangements are very attractive in the home. It's also a way to preserve your lovely summer flowers and enjoy them through the winter months.

In selecting and preserving materials for dried arrangements, probably the only limiting factor in collecting materials suitable for making winter bouquets is the imagination of the collector. Proper preparation of the materials will determine the success one has in using the stems collected. The following plants produce excellent flowers for use in winter bouquets if properly prepared: Cockscomb, globe amaranth, baby's breath, strawflower, and statice.

Choose only the best flowers for drying, selecting those with the longest stems. If possible prepare twice the number of flowers needed so you can discard any that are damaged in the drying process. An airy attic with little or no light is an ideal place for drying the specimens. Tie the material in small bundles and hang upside down from a line or rafters in a comparatively dust-free, dimly lit attic or storeroom. After the material is thoroughly dry, store loosely in large dust free boxes until ready to use.

The ornamental grasses, as well as many of the native grasses, produce attractive plumes which can be used in winter bouquets. Cut the flowering grass heads just as they mature, but before they expand or shed. Tie them in small bundles and dry them in the same manner as the flowers discussed above. Pampas grass and Fountain grass are excellent for this purpose. Many of the native grasses produce smaller heads, but when gathered and used in arrangements look very attractive.

Many flowers are too delicate to be dried by hanging but can often be successfully cured by using a drying agent such as one-half cornmeal and one-half borax mixed together thoroughly. Since we are interested only in the flower, the foliage should be stripped from the stem before drying. Place a layer of the drying agent in the bottom of a box, then lay the flowers in the box and gently fill in around the individual flower heads with additional material. The drying agent should be carefully packed between the petals to hold them apart while they dry. Large, double flowers are difficult to dry successfully. After drying in this way, the flowers must be handled very gently or they will not survive long enough to use.

Considerable practice is required to learn the technique of packing the drying agent around the more delicate specimens. Flowers often dried in this manner include anemone, single chrysanthemum, clematis, cosmos, daffodil, dianthus, marigold, pansy, sunflower and zinnia.

Many of the more attractive flowers and leaves which cannot be preserved by drying can be cured with glycerine. Using the glycerine treatment, many of the fall leaves will retain their bright colors and last a long time. There may be some color change when using this method; however, the dark, silky appearance of the leaves makes them even more attractive in many instances. When properly cured, the material will last indefinitely and is usually less brittle, making it easier to arrange. Plant materials which can be preserved with the glycerine method include: bamboo, chestnut, magnolia, English ivy, eleanthus, iris leaves, oak leaves, sea grape and sanservieria.

When using the glycerine method, the bottom four to five inches of the stem should be placed in jars containing a solution of one part glycerine to two parts of water. The absorption of the glycerine can be facilitated by crushing the more woody stems before placing them in the solution. The effect of the solution is noticeable on the leaves as it rises through the foliage. The material should be allowed to remain in the jar until the entire leaf is cured. After the glycerine solution has penetrated the entire surface, remove the specimens from the container and hang them upside down until they are thoroughly dry. Leaves preserved in this way can be used with either fresh flowers or in dry arrangements.

In using dried materials for winter bouquets, the individual is restricted only by his imagination and good taste. Since dried arrangements need not be placed in water as fresh materials do, their use is unlimited. With a little imagination and experience, it is amazing the number of things that can be used in making dried bouquets. Each area of the state has many different plant varieties that can be used for dried arrangements.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK:

This summer, I have received several requests for information on cooking and serving spaghetti squash. The recipe I'm featuring this week sounds very good.

SPAGHETTI SQUASH WITH TOMATO SAUCE

1 spaghetti squash (3 lb.)
1 med. onion, minced
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 lb. ground beef
2 tsp. olive oil
4 c. cut tomatoes
1/2 tsp. basil
1 tsp. oregano
2 tsp. parsley
bay leaf
salt and pepper to taste
grated Parmesan cheese

Cut up tomato; add salt and set aside to make it's own juice. Split squash, using heavy knife. Scoop out seeds. Microwave for 8 to 15 minutes, cut side up, in a dish with a few tablespoons of water.

In a 3 quart casserole, brown the ground beef with onion and garlic by microwaving for 5 minutes on high; stir once. Add olive oil, tomatoes and other seasonings. Microwave on high, covered, for 20 minutes, stirring several times. Let rest, uncovered for 5 minutes. Pull cooked squash out with strands of a fork onto a platter. Top with sauce and cheese. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

RETIRING OR MOVING?

At least 18 per cent of the people in America will move this year. And many of you are thinking about retiring. These decisions are a part of your life and will affect at least one out of every five of your family and friends soon.

When making your retiring and moving decisions you'll soon discover that you've really accumulated a lot of possessions in the last few years. And you'll quickly see that it will be very difficult, time consuming and quite expensive to haul your possessions across the country or even around town.

But, you can turn these accumulated possessions into quick cash by holding an auction. A well planned auction can cash out your entire household in just a few short hours. And, I provide complete auction service so you don't have to worry about a single detail.

It's a whole lot easier to have an auction and put cash in your wallet than it is to put your piano, refrigerator & hide a bed in a truck. And remember, when it comes to buying or selling AUCTION'S BEST (SM)

Beyond the immediate mental and physical suffering that abused children endure, there is evidence that many children never outgrow the effects of that abuse. Statistics show that an abused childhood can affect a person's entire life. Many teenage drug addicts and teenage prostitutes report being abused as children. So do many juvenile delinquents and adult criminals. The fact is, a large percentage of many American social problems stem directly from child abuse. Yet child abuse can be prevented.

Granddaughters of the Bints served golden punch from a crystal bowl. A large, multi-tiered cake decorated in cream white and gold was also served by granddaughters. The cake was baked by Joyce Eaves. In an adjoining room a table laid with a golden cloth held chocolate cake and coffee.

Along with the refreshments guests enjoyed visiting, and reading from a "Memory Book" compiled

IRS Says Some Can Appeal Penalty

Taxpayers who are charged a penalty because of a tax delinquency and feel the penalty is unwarranted may, in some cases, appeal the penalty, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Tax bills contain information on how to request elimination of a penalty charge. Generally, the first step is to correspond with the IRS service center.

If the service center rejects the request, the taxpayer will receive a letter explaining the reason. The letter will also include information on further appeal procedures, along with the name and phone number of an IRS Appeals Office official.

Cases can sometimes be resolved at this point with a phone call to the appeals officer, the IRS says. But, if a formal appeal is in order the taxpayer should submit the request in writing to the service center penalty appeals coordinator. The coordinator will forward the case file to an appeals office. While a conference may be necessary at this stage, the majority of cases probably will be resolved by phone or correspondence.

The IRS stresses that when penalties are assessed in cases of fraud or criminal intent, there can be no appeal under the abatement procedures. These penalties are subject to appeal prior to assessment. Furthermore, there is no appeal for underpayment of estimated tax, according to the IRS.

For additional information on the appeals procedure, obtain the free IRS Publication 586, "The Collection Process, (Income Tax Accounts)" by calling the IRS Forms/Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER at the First National Bank hit 113 degrees the other afternoon, we stopped in for an interview. And we learned that a good many folks have been asking questions about their thermometer, including the bankers. The folks who installed the weather gauge have been back several times to work on it but its accuracy is still being questioned.

Understand more work is planned so we can have dependable readings. Seeing readings of 106, 109, 110 and 113 degrees tends to make you feel hot even if the temperature is under 100.

CofC OFFICIALS are getting organized for a quarterly breakfast meeting at 7 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 1, at the White Elephant Restaurant. All new teachers of the public schools and junior college will be invited as special guest.

Call the CofC office (442-2537) to make a reservation.

CofC Manager Randy Speegle and his wife Charlotte were at Lake Whitney, Thursday and Friday attending an industrial seminar sponsored by the Texas Industrial Commission.

THE GLORY HEIRS, a well known gospel singing group, will drive over from Abilene in their bus Friday night, Aug. 26, and present a program at the new Lions Picnic Pavillion at City Park. They're being sponsored by the Cisco Ministerial Alliance.

Bring your lawn chair and enjoy the singing is the advice of the Rev. John Clinton, alliance member. This group made a big hit at the recent Cisco Folk Life Festival and has appeared in several area churches. No charges...just a free will offering.

LOCAL GOLFERS had oughta start turning in their scores at the Cisco Country club because they're getting organized for a handicap golf tournament out there in amonth or two. Directors of the CCC decided on the event at a meeting the other day. They also decided to improve the tee boxes at the golf course.

Cisco is expected to have at least three teams in the annual Lone Cedar CC golf partnership tournament this weekend. Bennie Nichols and Ralph Glenn will play and so will Bobby Smith and Delbert Schaefer. And Bob Bennie and Tracy Owens have about decided to enter.

Several Cisco couples are expected to play in the couple's tournament at Lake Proctor CC this weekend, including Pat and George Owens, Mary Ann and B.J. Perry, Dorothy and Major Farnsworth and Flo and Robbie Robinson.

FORMER POLICE Chief Randy Whittle and Detective Jackie Hobbs are due in town Monday to testify at the Lundstrom trial...The Jerry McBeths have moved into their new home out in west Cisco. It might be several months before they finish all the little things they plan to do, he tells us...Paul Ray Judia telephoned his grandmother in Cisco last Wednesday night that Hurricane Alicia had hit in Galveston, where he lives, and that he was in a safe place...Local efforts to telephone folks in Houston and along the coast weren't very fruitful Thursday due to the hurricane and power outage down there.

LOOKED IN AT the new Red Front Shopping Center the other day and found several new businesses in operation. You'll want to drop in there...Mrs. Louise Pryor tells us that her son Wayne is still in a serious condition at Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene. As you know, he was critically injured in an auto mishap a month or so ago and is paralyzed from the waist down. Tests early this past week showed that his head injury is improving.

THANKS TO the folks at the Cisco Post Office, Mrs. Myrtle Shaw wasn't very late for work at Mayor Eris Ritchie's office the other day. She locked her key up in the car. This must have happened at the post office before for Window Clerk Rodney Sharpe handed her a wire that was made especially for the purpose of opening locked cars.

Mrs. Shaw told us that she had had previous experience like that. Ernie Rice, Eastland oil man, locked his keys in his new car out at the golf course here recently. And when he started working with a wire to open the door, the car's burglar alarm started sounding off loud and clear and kept sounding loud and clear until Ernie got the door open and shut it off.

THE BOBBY Ingrams planned to do some fishing and reunion attending down Lake Proctor way this weekend...Assistant Postmaster Melvin Wende had the past week off and wet his fishing hooks a few times...The David Callarmans were due home this weekend from Ruidoso, New Mexico, where they've been vacationing for a week or so...And Dizzy Dean and Jim Graham were planning to be in Texas Stadium for the major league baseball game this Saturday night.

As stated in earlier articles, Texas has been ordered by a federal court to stop the overcrowding in T.D.C. At the same time, the State realized it simply could not afford to continue building maximum security prisons as we had been in the past. Recent studies have also indicated that the rate of recidivism for those in maximum security prisons compared to those in less expensive programs really is not that different. If anything, prisons seemed to be less effective in changing behavior and served the public mainly by keeping the offender out of circulation, however, I might add, at a tremendous expense to taxpayers. These are just a few of the reasons why the Legislature decided we should attempt to develop alternatives to incarceration.

This week I want to tell you about restitution centers which have been tried in other states and which Texas is now initiating in some areas of our state.

We hear all the time about how everyone continues to worry about the rights of criminals but how society seems to forget the victims of crime. The use of restitution centers is a means to correct this situation.

Those who support the idea of such centers say they would save the state dollars by keeping T.D.C.'s population down, thus requiring less new construction. They believe a restitution center is one of extremely few programs which considers the victim and, at the same time, punishes the offender in a constructive way by requiring that his wages be divided to pay taxes, his room and board, contribute to his family's support, and pay victim restitution and court costs while he is living at the center. Intensive supervision and counseling can also be provided because of the low ratio of staff to client.

All of this sounds great and everyone is enthusiastic about the advantages of this program except when they consider what opponents of these programs believe to be an insurmountable problem. A restitution center, which would house at least 15 - 20 people, would not only be in the community but very possibly in your own neighborhood. Few people would volunteer to have such neighbors. Opponents protest such centers, citing lower property values, possible danger to the people and an increase in neighborhood crime as reasons to avoid this program. Even though, based on experiences from other community based programs now in existence, these things have not occurred, it is very difficult to convince the people whose neighborhood has been proposed as a possible location for a center.

The common feeling is, "That's a great idea! Let's be positive and progressive and create an innovative alternative to prisons and let's put it in your neighborhood."

So where does that leave us? Do we try to establish these programs which have been successful, are beneficial to victims, rehabilitative to offenders, and cheaper for the state but which also are opposed by the neighborhoods in which they are planned; or do we continue to spend massive amounts of taxpayer dollars on maximum security prisons?

What would you think about having a restitution center in our district? Let me hear from you.

When is the best time to buy a home in Texas? After examining 500,000 transactions over the past seven years, researchers have determined the best time to buy is during the winter months.

The first quarter of the year—January, February and March—is the best buyer's market. First-quarter buyers seem able to negotiate a lower price, perhaps because they are dealing with anxious sellers.

However, even though first quarter prices are lower for that particular year, they are still higher than were prices in the last quarter of the previous year. In other words, you may save money by buying in the first quarter rather than in the second or third, but you will pay more by waiting from one year to the next.

This means that if you have to sell a home in order to buy another, you may come out ahead in buying but lose in selling.

TAX BREAK FOR THE ELDERLY

Now that your kids have grown and moved away, does the home that once seemed so crowded now seem too big? If you are 55 or older, it may be possible to sell your house and not pay taxes on the sale.

Federal law allows persons 55 or over to get as much as a $125,000 tax exemption from the gain on the sale of a personal residence sold after July 20, 1981. Prior to that date, the limit was $100,000. There is a requirement that you have lived in the house at least three of the five years before the sale.

The Homestead Act prohibits Texans from placing additional debt against their home to raise money. Therefore, selling a home and using the tax exemption may allow you to have the best of two worlds—a home more fitting your needs and extra cash. Ask your tax consultant if you qualify for this important exemption.

If you expect your income to rise predictably in the next few years but cannot quite afford the full monthly payment to buy a house today, you may want to look into a graduated payment mortgage (GPM).

With a GPM, your payments in the early years of the loan will be inadequate to cover the required interest. The lender defers this interest and adds it to the principal.

A graduated payment mortgage may help you qualify for a loan on a more expensive home. It will reduce housing expenses in the early years but increase payments later. Note, however, that a GPM does not reduce the down payment, the amount of interest or the principal. You may find later that your income does not match rising housing expenses and may be forced to sell.

Talk to your lender about a GPM or one of the other alternative mortgage plans.

HINTS TO HELP YOUR HOME SELL

Whether you are selling your home yourself or working with an agent, here are some suggestions to help your house sell more quickly.

Curb appeal is important. The lawn should be mowed and edged, the flowerbeds weeded and the lot free of debris. Scrub or paint the front door so the home looks more inviting.

Windows should be cleaned and drapes should be opened to create an impression of airiness and light. If prospects are looking at night, be sure plenty of lights are on.

Rooms should not be crowded with furniture—give potential buyers the opportunity to imagine how their furnishings would fit in. Remember, buyers are distracted by television, stereos and noisy children. Give the would-be purchaser a quiet atmosphere in which to view your home.

WHAT'S IN A POINT?

When you borrow money to buy a house, one of the most confusing items you may deal with is called a point. You may find that in order to obtain a loan, you will have to agree not only to principal and interest payments but to payment of several points at the time the loan is granted.

A point is 1 percent of the amount of the loan. Thus, if you take out a loan for $40,000, each point will cost $400. When the lending institution charge you three points for making the loan, it really is charging you a $1,200 fee.

Many such fees are appropriately described as loan origination fees.

1983-84 Lake Leon Permits For Sale

The 1983-84 annual fishing and annual boat permits are now on sale at Lake Leon, according to Bob Elliott, Lake Patrolman. He said, "the cost of the permits have gone up a little this year because of the rising costs of upkeep on the lake". Elliott went on to say "the permits have not increased since 1971. Daily permits will be $1.00 and the yearly permits are $7.50. All water bikes, paddle boats etc., will also be required to buy a permit before putting them on the lake."

Besides the information center at the dam, Criswell's Bait Store, Lake Leon Lodge, Kent's Junction and the Boatel will also have permits this year.

"We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to each of you who are helping to keep our parks clean. We've put more trash containers in the parks for your convenience and we thank you for your help", the Elliott family is quick to say. They continued by saying, "We are striving to make Lake Leon a place for people to enjoy coming to. We look forward to seeing and serving you. If we can help, please give us a call."

Guess What? Tax Fees Up

When we're told that there are increases in various fees in the county tax office, we mustn't blame County Tax Assessor-Collector Nancy Trout or her deputies. They're just following guidelines from Austin.

- New Fee Schedule
- Duplicate license receipt, $2.00.
 - Assigned V-I-N's, $2.00.
 - Title Application Fee, $10.00.
 - Transfer Fee, $2.50.
 - Delinquent Transfer, $10.00.
 - A new 144-hour permit is now available at $50.00. Tax certificates, $4.00.

Reflections In Perspective

I.W. Ussery

The Iranian island of Lavan, lying twelve miles off the southern coast of Iran in the Persian Gulf is a most interesting sort of speck of land. Thrust up from the seabed a few hundred thousand years ago, it is almost as flat as a pancake, although there is a single ridge toward the southern side of the island and about halfway northwest-to-southeast which rises to just above fifty feet above sea level. There is also a sort of basin to the north of the ridge. And in the center of that basin there is a well which was excavated by the Portuguese for water for their fort.

Other than that single well...and although no one of my acquaintance checked the report that it was actually a cistern...the only source of water for the entire island is cisterns. With an annual rainfall of 8 to 12 inches, one immediately asks the question as to the source of water. And the water is, cisterns.

The principal vegetation on the island is that of scrub accacia, and a few other shrubs of a somewhat scrawly, thorny makeup. Grass, and spring flowers cover the most of the island. There are some banyan trees which mark points of interest on the island. Legend has it that those banyans were brought by the Portuguese from their colony of Goa, on the Indian sub-continent. Several are to be found at the site of the ruins of the fort, and there must be half a dozen or so in and around the principal village which is about five miles downwind from the ruins of the fort.

And in the head village there are two water wells. Not very deep, they yield blackish water to which the islanders appear to have become accustomed. And interestingly those wells belong to the two headmen of the village, Hajji Yussuf and Hajji Ibrahim. How they manage the revenue from those wells is a total mystery to me.

But the cisterns. I know of at least three, and they are a source of fascination. In the center of a shallow basin there is a well curb which is constructed of hand-cut coral blocks. Standing about three feet high, the curb protects the opening into a huge underground cistern. Looking into the cistern, it appears to be about thirty feet across and at least that deep. The basin may be of an area of three acres, and all the water which falls in it runs naturally into the cistern. Holes through the base of the curb allow the entry of the water...and, no doubt, an occasional unwary rabbit.

The cisterns are excavated to the depth mentioned above, and are lined or walled with a crude form of mortar made from beach sand and lime which comes from burning coral blocks over a charcoal fire. The cistern appear to hold water like a jug, and even the oldest native of the island hasn't the faintest clue as to how long they've been there. Similar cisterns are to be found in the high valleys of North Yemen, on the Arabian Peninsula. The cistern system of water supply is quite effective due to a peculiar form of cooperation from the elements. The annual rainfall most frequently comes in only two or three downpours. I once witnessed a rainstorm which dumped more than twelve inches on the island in less than six hours. Needless to say, the cisterns were quite well filled.

And the question of survival of the inhabitants always comes to mind. With their only means of communication being that of passing dhows and itinerant fishermen; what do they do for a living? Well; there's the sale of pearls. And the sale of the oyster shells. And then there is the fishing.

As for the pearls, the two "Hajji's" handle that. Likewise the shells. And that leaves the fishing to the rest of the people. And to the people of Dubai and of other states along the Arabian side of the Gulf.

During the fishing season, the fishing fleets come in force. Sailing dhows ranging in size from those with a keel length of not more than twenty feet to the big flagship dhows of sixty feet or more put in to the anchorage off the wide sandy beach on the southern (or southeastern) tip of the island. Putting hands ashore with supplies of food and water, the fleet captains direct the construction of temporary drying "racks" for their catch.

The Gulf teems with practically every known variety of edible fish, and the Coastal Arab Fishermen are experts in bringing them to the surface. Partially drying the cleaned fish aboard their vessels; they put in to the island to disgorge their holds so that the drying process may be completed ashore. At the peak of one fishing season, I identified not a single dhow flying a flag from a state other than Dubai. Perhaps that gave rise to Sheikh Raschid's comment that the people on the island were his people.

Comes the end of the season, the stacks of dried fish which have been accumulating alongside the drying racks are loaded back on the dhows, and they are taken to the bazaar in Dubai. Or they may be traded along the Iranina coast.

The islanders catch and dry their own fish, thank you. And dried fish is the staple basis of practically every meal.

In waving farewell to the island of Sheikh Schwaib, we may pat one of the twenty or so donkeys between the ears. And return the stare of one of the dwarf, humpbacked cows. Goats? Only a very few. And no sheep. And, strangely enough, no dogs! Nor cats.

National Weather Service Honors Putnam's John D. Isenhower

WASHINGTON—John D. Isenhower of Putnam, Texas, was honored today for his contribution to the National Weather Service's Cooperative Weather Observer program.

Isenhower was presented the John Campanius Holm Award for 37 years of continuous and exceptional public service. This NWS award, for "outstanding accomplishments in the field of meteorological observations" is one of the highest honors paid to a cooperative observer. In 1644, the Reverend John Campanius took the first known weather observations in this country, without the use of instruments. These climatic records were later published by his grandson, Thomas Campanius Holm.

The NWS, a major component of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, uses the observations of more than 12,000 program volunteers to help document the nation's climate.

As a dedicated volunteer observer, Isenhower provides his community, the NWS and the country with dependable and accurate daily records of temperature and precipitation in Putnam and its surrounding area. Isenhower's valuable observations have contributed immensely to Putnam's climatological history. For more than a third of a century, his diligence and enthusiasm as the area's official weather observer has been unequalled.

Even before Isenhower's appointment as an official observer in 1946, he took observations for the previous observers and kept the weather station in their name for many years.

Isenhower was previously honored by the NWS in 1981 when he received his 35-year Service Award.

The meteorological data gathered throughout the United States by volunteer observers benefit many segments of American life. In addition to making up the national climatic record, the information is valuable to various public and private users, including farmers, ranchers, builders and utility companies.

This used to be a forest.

MRS. JAMES BAYARD CLARK

Mary Katherine Martin & James Bayard Clark Are Married July 2nd

Mary Katherine Martin became the bride of James Bayard Clark in a double ring ceremony at 3:00 p.m., July 2, 1983 in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Abilene. Reverend Alvin Wilde of the Abilene church performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Martin of San Diego, California. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. E.S. Clark of Cisco.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Venise and Chantilly lace with Bishop sleeves and a Queen Anne neckline. The organza skirt had Venise and Chantilly lace trim with satin hemming and a chapel length train. The bride's veil was finger tip length with Venise lace on the edge. Pearls belonging to the groom's grandmother were sewn on the bride's dress. The pearls were also worn by his grandmother when she was married 60 years before. The bride also "borrowed" pearls from her mother. She wore blue satin ribbon garters accented with tatted lace and pearls made by Mrs. James Perry.

She carried a bouquet of orchids and gardenias with pink and white roses and baby's breath.

The groom wore the full dress tuxedo of ascot grey. The Lexington tail coat was accented by a grey satin band bowtie. His shirt was a white wing tip.

During the ceremony, the bride presented the groom's mother with a white rose and the groom presented the bride's mother with a white rose as they left the altar. The altar was decorated with candles and spring flower arrangements. White pew bows were placed on each pew.

Nuptial selections of "Ave Maria" and other religious and classical selections were played by Mrs. Iris Dankworth on the organ.

Maid of honor was Ann Martin, sister of the bride, from San Diego, Calif. The bridesmaids were Betsy Martin and Leslie Martin, both sisters of the bride from San Diego, Calif.

Best man was Bill Carroll, friend of the groom, from Abilene. Groomsmen were David Ivanhoe, friend of the groom, from Abilene, Phillip Bailey, friend of the groom, from Avoca, Tx. and Doug Hammer, brother-in-law of the groom, from Dublin.

Ushers were the groomsmen.

The bridesmaids wore pink taffeta gowns with a Queen Anne neckline and puffed sleeves, accented at the waist with a taffeta rose. They wore spring flowers in their hair and each carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Flower girl was Melissa Ann Hammer, niece of the bridegroom, from Dublin. She wore a pink taffeta dress with baby pleats in the skirt and lace on the bodice and puffed sleeves. She carried a basket of spring flowers and wore a crown of baby gardenias in her hair.

The best man and groomsmen wore coordinating tuxedos of ascot grey.

Mother of the bride was dressed in a full length mauve colored silk dress overlaid with chiffon and accented at the neckline with a ruffle and chiffon lace.

The mother of the groom chose a full length light blue silk dress, overlaid with blue chiffon, accented with baby pleats on the bodice.

Both mothers wore a corsage of gardenias.

The bride's parents hosted a dinner reception at the Dyess Air Force Base Officer's Club. The register table was overlaid with a white table cloth. Candles encased in flowers and a basket filled with rice bags were placed on the table.

The bride's traditionally appointed table had a white table cloth topped with a white net table cloth with satin bows. It held the punch fountain, a 3-tiered white iced cake decorated with pale pink roses with a bride and groom setting on top. At each end of the table were silver candelabras. Napkins with the bride's and groom's name and wedding date were on the table.

The groom's table was laid with a white lace table cover. On the chocolate cake was the groom's initials J.B.C. Coffee was served from the groom's table. An ivy plant in a wicker basket was the centerpiece of the table.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Shannon Brewer. The registering table held the traditional bride's book and spring flowers circling 3 tiered candles.

Betsy and Leslie Martin, sisters of the bride, presented one of the highlights of the evening by showing slides of the bride and groom, taking them from birth up to the wedding.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Shannon Brewer, Mrs. Kelly O'Neal, Mrs. Nancy Dippsey, Mrs. Elaine Duentanna and Miss Colleen Braun.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will reside in Abilene.

The bride graduated from Poway High School in Poway, Calif., and from Southwestern Oklahoma State University School of Pharmacy. She is employed by Eckerd Drug as a Pharmacist in Abilene.

The groom graduated from Cisco High School and attended Cisco Junior College. He graduated from Oklahoma State University School of Pharmacy. He is also employed by Eckerd Drug as a Pharmacist.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Royal Inn in Abilene, Friday, July 1. The honored couple's table was centered with a basket of spring flowers. Accented the other table were vases of greenery and flowers.

College Coach Talks To Lions

Coach Don Montgomery of the Cisco Junior College basketball team wants his players to be a real credit to the school and community as he takes over his new position, he told the Cisco Lions Club in a talk at their luncheon meeting last Wednesday noon at the Colony Restaurant.

"It has always been my coaching philosophy that athletes should remember that they are primarily in school for an education, and I encourage them to score high academically as they score well on the basketball courts," Mr. Montgomery said.

The new coach told Lions about the some 15 players, including seven back from last year's team, who are due to enroll in school next week. A list of the players appeared in The Press last week.

Mr. Montgomery, coming to Cisco from St. Edward's University in Austin, started coaching in 1959 and has achieved an outstanding record in 20 years of high school work and four years in college. He is beginning his 25th year as a basketball coach.

A native of Fairfield, where he finished high school, Coach Montgomery holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Sam Houston State University.

Lion Olin Odom was program chairman and introduced the coach.

Secretary Jasper Cook announced that the club's annual fish fry would be held at the high school cafeteria on Sept. 30 - the day of the high school homecoming football game. Tickets will go on sale soon.

It was announced that the Lions Benefit Bowl Football Game that will be played by Cisco and Ranger junior colleges in Breckenridge has been re-scheduled for October 22. Tickets for the event will go on sale soon. Chairman Ivan Webb of the club's football program ad sales staff urged Lions to complete their assignments soon.

Boss Lion C.B. Dill presided. A.R. Westfall of Fort Worth, formerly of Cisco, was a guest.

Senior Citizens Nutrition Menu

Last week we discussed the use of "old" canned goods and some of the problems you might encounter. This week we will discuss what happens to the vitamins in the original, fresh food, of this old canned product.

First, a portion is lost in processing... as much as 50% of vitamins B and C in some foods. If packaging allows exposure to light or air, more nutrients are lost. Still more break down while the product waits at the warehouse, waits in the store and waits on your shelf to be used. If your cupboard is warm, still more vitamins disappear. The nutritional life expectancy of foods is affected greatly by all these conditions.

There are many variables, but you should not, as a rule, store any food for more than a year... and then only those that are well processed, preserved, dehydrated or otherwise properly packaged and stored, such as canned goods, dried beans or a few fresh or frozen foods held under ideal conditions. If you can't use it within a year, think twice before buying it, no matter how low the price seems.

Next week we will talk about keeping account of your canned goods.

The programs for the past week included: the AARP president, Walter Knowlden, and his wife, Rose, presented a film entitled "Walk Without Fear." Jackie Tucker, RN, conducted a blood pressure clinic; AARP held their monthly meeting and a covered dish supper; and Pat Owens presented a piano musical and sang several old songs. S/C band and choir entertained during the week.

The menus for the coming week are:

Monday--ham, cheese macaroni salad, peas and carrots, orange whip with topping, bread, butter and drink.

Wednesday--beef macaroni salad, beets in orange sauce, lettuce-tomato salad, green beans, spice cake, bread, butter and drink.

Friday--oven fried chicken, glazed carrots, whipped potatoes, fruited gelatin, bread, butter and drink.

FOCUS

Q: I'm really interested in still lifes. All my life, I've admired the works of such painters as Renoir and Degas and Monet. I recently began experimenting with still lifes in photography, although I'm only an amateur. My question is, what type of lighting do I need to create quality still life photos? Can I get by without spending a fortune on special equipment? Any advice you can give me will be much appreciated.

A: About the best I can do for you in your efforts to hold costs down is to suggest three necessary items: a camera, some film, and Old Sol.

I know that sounds facetious, but it's really not. If you think about it for a moment, some of the most highly regarded still lifes in all of photography have come to us from the early photographers, the pioneers in the art, who were equipped with nothing more. Admittedly, their cameras were sometimes fitted with swings and tilts for perspective control. Still, a creative mind, the right light, and an interesting subject teamed up to produce quality still lifes, even on primitive film.

You're much better off than early practitioners of the art form, by far. You have color or black-and-white film from which to choose. In high-light situations, you can select a slow, fine-grained film. And, while many professional industrial and commercial photographers use bulky, sometimes complicated systems and arrangements of artificial lighting to insure results, you can rely on whatever happens to be available.

Photographing still lifes is one of the best ways possible of sharpening your compositional skills while creating original, often poetic, touching photos. Still lifes are simply arrangements of inanimate objects. They can be totally candid, objects you happen to stumble across and wish to record on film, or manipulated. And the really nice thing is that you can search for still lifes wherever you happen to go, from your own basement to secluded beaches.

The nice thing about photographing still lifes is that you have plenty of time to think about what you're doing. All too often, amateur photographers grow attuned to firing-off frame after frame of film, barely stopping to consider the consequences of what they're doing. When you shoot a still life, you're practically forced to slow down, to look over all the elements in the scene, to consider lighting and shadows, form, movement, contrast, colors.

And, if the light is okay but not marvelous, consider adding or subtracting whenever necessary. You can use a large sheet of posterboard to cast a shadow or fill electronic flash to raise the contrast. Just be sure you take time to meter carefully and focus critically on the most important part of the scene. Often, it helps to use a small lens aperture to get good depth-of-field. So go to it, and have fun!
