IF YOUR CHILD does not attend Cisco Public Schools and he or she has written a letter to Santa Claus which you would like to see published in the annual Christmas edition of The Cisco Press, then please be sure and have the letter to our office by noon Thursday, December

The annual holiday edition of Dear Santa letters and greeting advertisements from local merchants will be put together on Thursday in preparation for printing on Friday and distribution in the Sunday, December 18 edition.

MRS. LOUISE Allison of Cisco reports that she found a small, black, male dog which is friendly and trained. She says it needs its former owner, or a new owner.

If you have lost a dog fitting the description, call Mrs. Allison at 442-3976.

LOCAL POETS will be interested in knowing that a $1,000 grand prize will be offered in a new poetry contest sponsored by the World of Poetry newsletter. There are 100 prizes in all, totaling over $10,000.

"We want to encourage new poets, especially those who have never entered a poetry contest before," says Contest Director Joseph Mellon. "We expect our efforts to produce exciting new discoveries!"

For a free brochure of rules and prizes write, World of Poetry, 2431 Stockton Blvd., Dept. E, Sacramento, California 95817.

LOUISE PRYOR reports the Wednesday before Thanksgiving, Wayne Pryor was returned to the West Texas Nursing Center, Room 25, 2630 Old Anson Road, Abilene, Texas, 79603, after another three weeks stay at Hendricks Medical Center.

She said Wayne is looking forward to getting to come home for a visit during the Christmas holidays, due to the generosity of the staff at the nursing center. The bookkeeper are giving their time to bring him home, if health and weather permit, Friday, Dec. 23rd and will pick him up Monday, Dec. 26th

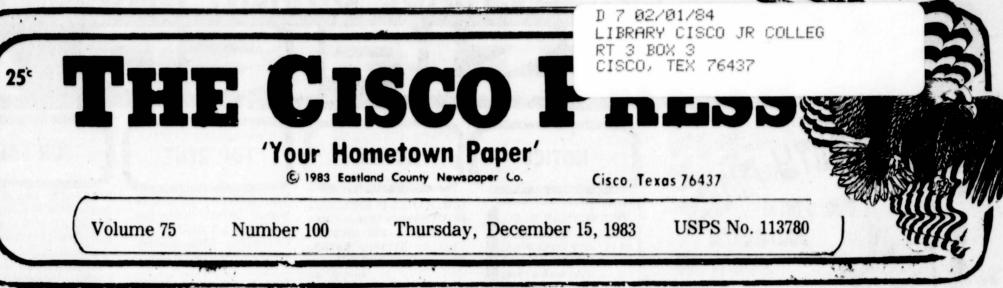

The administrator has given them permission to use the center's van, which is equipped with a lift to make the trips, with Wayne paying for the gasoline. He will be loaned a wheel chair and a lift to use at home while he is there, which he and his family are very thankful and grateful for.

Mrs. Pryor stated, "Everyone has been so kind and helpful. A 'Special Thanks' to everyone and a Merry Christmas."

With only ten more shopping days before Christmas, Cisco business firms were making final preparations Tuesday to accomodate area residents in their annual 'last minute buying spree,' according to officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

The preparations include a return visit Saturday, Dec. 17, by old Santa Claus, CofC Manager Randy Speegle reported. Plans call for Santa to appear at the Chamber of Commerce offices at 10 a.m. Saturday and for him to spend some time on downtown streets, weather permitting, to meet and greet area youngsters. In case of bad weather, Santa will be in the CofC offices. Randy said Santa will be in front of the CofC office from 10:00 a.m. till 12:00 noon and in front of Motts from 2:00 p.m. till 4:00 p.m. Picture taking will be available then. Mr. Speegle reported that Santa would have candy for young admirers and that he would be available for private conferences with any who might want to talk to him.

Most retail stores were expected to stay open later than usual next week for the benefit of shoppers who work during the day, Mr. Speegle said. Some stores are already remaining open beyond the usual closing hour, he added.

The CofC's retail trade committee has announced plans for a "Moonlight Madness" event from 8 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 22. In this program, there will be special bargains for Christmas shoppers, Mr. Speegle said. There will be advertisments and stories in The Press to give full details of this project.

unusually good selection of gift merchandise," Mr. Speegle reported. "Most stores are feeling an increase in business every day as we get closer to Christmas. We urge shoppers to visit our stores first.'

With unsettled and cooler weather in the outlook, a touch of winter spirit was expected to become more evident in Christmas preparations. City streets have attractive holiday decorations and more and more Christmas color has been showing up in residential areas.

"Our stores have an rific sale on clothing and tennis and jogging shoes this week. There is soft nightwear and sweaters, bright blouses, jeans and flannel shirts. We all know the good quality of the staples from Penneys. This sale is worth checking out. If you haven't been to Western Auto, 600 Conrad Hilton Avenue, you must go see the great assortment of things for the home and for the automobile which are available and on sale now.

There is a large group of bicycles, including the Western Flyer "Trail Duster". And what child wouldn't love one of the little red wagons, or small rocking chairs? Older folk, of course, are tempted by the auto stereo sound center, appliances, glasswares, or washing machines. There's something for everyone here.

Heidenheimers has stood for quality for a long time, and the store has its usual good supplies of name-brand products. There is a full line of Cannon sheets and towel sets - what woman couldn't use some of those? Girls and women would also be pleased with the Texsheen lingerie - made here in Cisco at Russell Newman Manufacturing. Women also have Wrangler blue jeans and sportswear. The men have a number of things -Resistol western hats, men and boys velour shirts, Hanes dress shirts, and mens, boys and childrens Acme boots.

STRECKER MUSEUM Director Calvin Smith was a visitor in our county Monday, and he was most impressed with our peoples' concern for preserving the past, Strecker, located at Baylor University in Waco, is the oldest accredited museum in the state, and one of the most highly-reguarded collections in the nation. Mr. Smith was originally associated with the Spindletop Museum at Beaumont where he was instrumental in developing one of the state's outstanding collections.

On a whirlwind tour here with 'us through Cisco, Eastland and Ranger, he praised to high heaven what has been done, what is being done, and the potential for what can be done. He is a dedicated "We owe it to our children and grandchildren to preserve everything we can" man.

Throughout the towns he was pleased with the historical markers already in place and encouraged us to assist our county

An avid picture-taker, he photographed the billboard and facilities at Kendricks Religious Pageant, and of course the old oil well on Charles Clark's place alongside old Highway 80. In Eastland he was proud of what has been done with towns along I-20 collectively have a lot more to offer.) You can be assured that the visitor was impressed and promised to return to savor further the spirit that is Eastland County.

Attendance Up

At Six Flags

More than two and a half million persons visited Six Flags Over Texas during the 1983 season which ended November 27. The final attendance figure represented an increase of almost five per cent, or 120,000 guests, over the previous year's total.

The theme park's general manager, Ray Williams, attributed the boost in attendance to the drawing power of new rides which were added for the 1983 season and an increase intourist traffic flowing into the Dallas/Fort Worth area.

"Our new river rafting stable peanut production.) adventure, Roaring Rapids, "Thus we'll likely see and our new children's secfewer and fewer peanut tion, Pac-Man Land, both apfarmers in the years ahead peal strongly to the family and a greater concentration audience and we feel the of production," Feagan season's results reflect that notes. fact," Williams said.

geting $400 to $450 per ton for additional peanuts this year, considerably above the $185 per ton support level-the price farmers could sell them to the government if the market price dropped. However, this support price will not normally cover the cost of production, so once demand declines and prices drop, small farming operations will be hard-pressed to continue to grow peanuts, contends Feagan. Peanut use in the United States is up sharply this year compared to 1982, notes the economist, but will likely be down in 1984. Food use of peanuts is up 14 percent for 1983 compared to last year and use of salted peanuts is up more than 30 percent.

Roy Johnson, farmer and rancher of Desdemona, has been re-elected as a State Director of the Farm Bureau, and appointed as Secretary-Treasurer of the State Board of Directors.

The election and appointment came during the recent State Farm Bureau Convention in Houston, which was attended by ten voting delegates from Eastland County.

Among the County delegates were Roy and his wife, Charlotte Johnson. Policies directing the organization, and recommendations on national policies were approved.

Johnson is descended from a pioneer Eastland County family, the J.S. Johnsons. He grew up on his father's farm - the Doyl Johnson place - 5 mi. north of Desdemona.

Looks like the "halls are decked" now-with holly and everything else. Shoppers are looking more hurried and flurried, and clerks are beginning to say, "We've run out of the kiboodles and the framoozlies never did come in."

If you set your heart on a Cabbage Patch doll for your dearest and youngest, the word is that Santa's shelves are empty of Cabbage Patchers. I do not share the craze, but I'll try to get enough time at my sewing machine to come up with a distant relative (maybe a little Brussles Sprout?) for Mandi...also need to make slaw, but not a the sewing machine.

In my eyes time is still the most valuable gift you can make your family and friends.

You don't have to make a candle nor a holder, knit a sweater nor crochet an afghan, bake a cake nor paint a picture-all of which take time. There are other time-taking gifts. You do need pen, cards, envelopes and an inventive mind.

Think of those friends for whom you have found nothing you can afford, unless they already have it or don't want it.

Such friends with your relatives (and I think it's perfectly all right for you to be friends with your relatives) usually are among the elders, and they mean it when they say they don't want anything. "Things" usually need dusting, polishing and displaying. Believe me, by the time you are on the senior list, you've put in a lot of mileage on "things." At least, most people have. My dusting is more casual than careful, as well as infrequent. I shouldn't set myself up as a judge, and I don't-but I listen a lot. Make you gift as personal as you can without encroaching on privacy. The aunt whose eyesight is failing might appreciate your reading her the current issue of her favorite magazine more than cleaning out her hall closet, so be careful. On your cards you "promissory note" should be specific as to time and place. "Thursday afternoon I can take you to..." is much better than I'll take you shopping when you want to go." "Id like to cook something for you. Would you like sweets, bread or a pot of soup?" Remember, diabetes is possible, and that chocolate fudge cake you find so fascinating to make

Right now, I need to dig out some unbleached muslin to see what kind of Cabbage Patch relative I can come up with.

What will and won't change

With the separation — or "divestiture" — of AT&T now less than a month away. I'd like to use this column to review what will and won't change about your Southwestern Bell Telephone service come January.

Actually, the biggest change for many customers will simply be who will provide which services. The way you use your telephone won't change at all. However, since customers no longer will be able to take care of all their telecommunications needs from Southwestern Bell Telephone, it's important to know where to go for a particular need.

With that in mind, here's a breakdown on how divestiture will (and won't) affect you:

Local service

Southwestern Bell Telephone will continue to provide local service after it is separated from AT&T. To start, stop, change or move local service, you will do the same as you now do call your Southwestern Bell Telephone business office.

Long distance service

Beginning January 1. Southwestern Bell Telephone will also provide long distance service but only within your surrounding area. Calls outside this area will be handled by other long distance companies includ. market telecommunications equipment for multi-line business customers beginning next year. The company also is considering entering the single-line business and residence telephone markets.

Repairs

If you continue to lease the telephone(s) now in your home, repair of those sets will be performed by AT&T. Telephones purchased from Southwestern Bell Telephone before the end of this year also will be serviced by AT&T beginning in January, but you'll be charged for those repairs if your set is out of warranty.

Repair of telephone lines will still be handled by Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Billing

At divestiture. you'll continue to receive one monthly bill for all services you presently receive. This bill — to be produced by Southwestern Bell Telephone will list charges separately according to the type of service received and who will provide that service. Since Southwestern Bell Telephone will act as a billing agent for AT&T, the total amount due on your bill will continue to be payable to Southwestern Bell Telephone.

We want you to know

If you have other questions about divestiture, feel free to contact me at the address below. Or, call Southwestern Bell's tollfree number for divestiture

RANGER

The new Crosswind Motel and Restaurant, located in Ranger between the Fina Station and Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, is expected to open Jan. 15. Charles Cross, moving to Ranger from Missouri, will be manager of the 30 unit motel. The building is being done by Roy Byrd Construction Company of Comanche. Byrd is a native of Eastland County.

The Roaring Ranger Museum has 11"x14" prints of the Hugh Ryker original artwork of the Depot Building available for Christmas giving for $17.50 each. These prints are quality lithographs and are exact replicas of the $1600 original which hangs in the Ranger Savings Building, and of the 50 signed and numbered prints which sold for $100 each during Roaring Ranger Days. All proceeds from the replicas go toward expenses of the Museum.

The First Baptist Church in Strawn will present the second annual live Christmas Nativity Scene on Friday, Dec. 16, from 6 to 9 p.m. The setting will be the front lawn of the church. Members of the First Baptist Church and others in the community will portray the characters. Live animals will share the stable, including a donkey and "Curly", the camel from Kendrick's Amphitheater near Cisco. The public is urged to come out.

CISCO

There'll not be another sale quite like the "Moonlight Madness" sale in Cisco, which will be held Thursday, Dec. 22, 8 to 9 p.m. Participating merchants will be open during that time with some of the greatest bargains ever. Don't miss this one for last-minute Christmas buying!

Dr. Charles M. Cleveland, local optometrist, has been awarded Life Membership in the American Optometric Association by action of the board of trustees of the A.O.A. Dr. Timothy Cline, President of the Association, and Board members sent Dr. Cleveland congratulations and an engraved certificate. Only persons who have long and faithfully served as an active member and who have been nominated by their association are eligible for such an honor.

EASTLAND

Work on the new First Baptist Church on South Seaman St. is continuing at a rapid pace. Bricklayers are finishing brickwork on the exterior of the building, and the steeple has been lifted into place. The interior of the structure is unfinished as yet.

The Commissioners' Court of Eastland County, during a called meeting Dec. 5, passed a Resolution requesting drouth disaster area designation for Eastland County. The Resolution states that 1983 has been one of extreme drouth throughout the County and adjoining ones, resulting in shortage of livestock water, hay, and other agricultural crops. The Commissioners requested the proper state and federal officials to make the disaster designation. This would make Federal assistance available to eligible citizens of Eastland County.

Pecans Are Among Most Delicious Food Available

Pecans are among the most delicious food available on today's produce market. It would be hard to convince squirrels, deer, wild turkey. raccons, corws and most other wildlife that the pecan is not absolutley number one on the food list.

This delectable nut desired by both man and beast is native to Northern Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisana, Arkansas and parts of Mississippi, Alabama, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri. Tennessee and Illinois. But. Texas' has more native pecan trees than any other state or area - there are some 152 counties where the pecan is found growing along the rich alluvial flood plains of major rivers and their tributaries.

The pecan is truly Texana - the early settlers in this state treasured the golden kernels as a tasty and welcome supplement to their diet in the fall and winter months. The earliest recorded writings on Texas pecans were in the diary of Cabeza de Vaca as he described his years in Texas (1529 - 1535). As a captive of Indians, he pointed out that the pecan was one of their most important food items. He emphasized that they congregated in the river valleys to harvest pecans during the fall and on into the following spring.

The Indians ground the pecan kernels into a meal and used this in thier bread and added the meal as a thickening agent to their soups and meat broth. Archaeologists have found a definite pattern of Indian camps and settlements in the areas of native pecan groves. Since the pecan was so important as a staple food item for the Indians, it is fitting that all of the 13 new U.S. Department of Agriculture pecan varities are named for Indian tribes. When you plant Shawnee, Sioux of Choctaw pecan trees you are planting a newly developed variety and in a sense, paylook forward to fall when the ing homage to the fact that Indians loved pecans and depended on them to sustain

STORING PECANS There is a bumper crop of pecans this year to take advantage of. When buying inshell pecans look for smooth clean shells that are free from blemishes, adhering shucks, dark stains, insect damage and broken or cracked shells. consumption A 300-million-pound harvest in the country's pecan-growing states, which include Texas and other parts of the South and Southwest, is expected to give consumers lower prices this year. Now is a good time to stock up on the nuts, which will store a year when frozen and have a Texas Department of Agriculture home economists offer these suggestions for buying, storing and chopping this Texas native.

When selecting whole pecans look for shells that are clean and free of cracks and scars. The kernel should not rattle when the nut is shaken. Shelled pecans should be plump and crisp.

The high polyunsaturated fat content of pecans, that provides their rich taste also causes them to dry out, shrink or turn rancid if not properly stored. Though whole nuts retain their quality longer and should be avoided. Large nut size is often desirable but a high kernel percentage is a must. In 10 pounds of pecans there may be as little as three or four pounds of nut meats or as high as six pounds. Variety and good management factors influence kernel percentage. If possible, you should always crack several pecans to determine how well they are filled. Nuts that are poorly filled with shriveled

When buying shelled pecans look for kernels with a birght golden color. Most packages will have a "best if used by date" on them. Be sure to follow the date codes for maximum freshness. You can extend the recommended dates by storing the pecans in your freezer. The following chart gives the relative storage life of pecans at various temperatures.

Drinkin' 'N Druggin' May Prevail During Holidays

T. Jay Newcombe "Don we now our gay apparel, Fa la la'

Thanksgiving is a pleasant memory and now we begin seeing signs of the upcoming Christmas. This is the time when Christmas Parties are starting to materialize and our spirits start to elate with the anticipation of good will and fellowship; of gifts and of giving; of warmth and affection.

Some, unfortunately, see it as a time of hopelessness and loneliness; of cold and timeliness; of tears and despair. For some it is going to be the time of the last blurred look at the foreign, uncooperative world before the final solution is applied through the use of some tool of self-destruction. We have entered the time of our highest suicide rate.

Many people will find the Christmas-time as the time of mobilization, of gearing up to share the bounty of a comfortable life with those more unfortunate. A collection of toys; an organization of food for the poor; a spreading of the word of the Godless. Some do their most humanitarian works in November and December of every year. Too many of which are charitably inactive the other ten months. There is one holiday occur-rance in which we all share in equally. A tradition of some sixty years for which the active participants deny and the passive participants ignore. We have entered the time of the Highway Holocaust, or the Days of the Drinking Driver. Within the last years it has been the Drinking or Drugging Driver, to be more exact. We have already started to see several civic organizations start to spread the annually unheeded warning, don't drink and drive.

abusive drinker or the Alcoholic. That is one myth we need desperately to debunk. The abusive drinkers statistics stay much the same throughout the whole year. They are a menace all the time. March the third is as much the time to drink as well as December the thirtyfirst. Of course their statistics go up as the Holidays progress, but not near as impressively as the "social-drinkers". Most of the carnage is done by the amateur drinker who isn't used to omnipresent high blood/alcohol level of the Alcoholic. This is the Mr. and Mrs. Average American who have been to a party or to a friends house and had "just a few" in fellowship. Or maybe the businessman who had "just a few" with a client before coming home. The DWI to be feared are the

caused, by and large, by the self-righteous ones who feel they "drive better" when they've had a few, especially those who look down on the lower life forms who can't ty and "O,K,ness' chemically is a tradition that is here to stay, and we better get knowledgeable about it because as our populations swell and our technology advances the "stress' factor in our emotional lives is going to be pushed more and more to the point of overload. Whatever we might believe about drugs we must recognize that they are being found by more and more people as a ready, instant, and more and more socially acceptable way of loosening tension, relaxing and bolstering sagging egos. Many drugs, including alcohol, increase our feeling of socialbility and let us feel the need for going out amongst the multitudes to share our wonderous feeling of comraderie. For this excursion the automobile has become a widely accepted tool of mobility. As one af-drugs such as alcohol, mariwalk." Logic like that is the automatic response of a juana, cocaine, peyote, psilicybin and others to alter drugged mind. As soon as his (and her) mood. To the feeling of comfort or create an illusion of capabilicapability is obtained by any amount of alcohol or other drugs, the ability to reason logically is affected > Between Thanksgiving and January first you will be driving amongst drugaffected drivers more than any other time of the year. You don't have to drink or drug to become involved in a chemically caused accident. When a drinking or drugging driver runs into someone it doesn't have to be someone else who is drinking or drugging. All too often it is the completely innocent who are sent to the hospital or mortuary. This is your problem and you can't do anything to remove yourself from it short of locking all your family and friends in a storm shelter until January second. If you throw a party be sure to have non-alcoholic drinks as well as the booze.

About an hour before the party lets up, close the bar and bring out the coffee and other non-alcoholic beverages. Observe your guests and don't be shy about offering to drive someone home if you feel they've had too much. Never forget that when you are providing alcohol to someone who is obviously had too much you are morally and sometimes legally responsible for their actions as well as they are.

> Most people who drink do so reponsibly. It is those people that have the best opportunity to help the ones who fail to drink reponsibly. To sit at a bar or in a party and watch a friend lurch his drunken way to his automobile without offering an alternative is to sit and watch the beginnings of a tragedy and by inaction become part of the cause.

YOU'LL BE pleased to hear that Treasurer Ron Patton has deposited $6,000 in Cisco Community Chest Funds since the drive opened recently. And work is just getting underway. Folks are apparently real interested in seeing that the $13,450 budget is fully raised this year.

Chairman Ivan Webb reports that Chest workers planned a meeting Tuesday afternoon to complete preparations for a canvass of the residential areas. Workers are busy in the business district. Letters went out last week to all area citizens.

See by the Eastland paper that their annual United Fund drive stood at 103.3 per cent last Friday - $16,500 raised. Well done!

Let's all be ready to do our part.

LAST THURSDAY'S landing of the globe-circulating Columbia in California was something, indeed, to see. reports Mrs. Carolyn Page, CJC prof, who flew out to join brothers and sisters and her mother for a reunion there. They even had an invitation to meet the astronauts who spent 10 days in the big sky lab that made a perfect landing at Edwards AFB

Mrs. Page said they were pretty tired when the day was done as the landing was delayed several hours due to equipment problems. By being there in person you could literally feel the excitement of the huge crowd as the big plane came in, reports Mrs. Page.

Christmas plans call for Mrs. Page to visit her two daughters and their families

A GOOD MANY folks have called our attention to the attractive Christmas decorations at the First United Methodist Church auditorium. Thirty-five members bought pretty poinsettias that will appear in the auditorium through Sunday, Dec. 25, and they will then take the pot plants home. The poinsettias are on display throughout the auditorium. They also have a beautiful Christmas tree with original decorations. And there is a nativity scene of people and animals and things made by Robert and Judy Dudley - he of the J.C. Penney store and she of Sears (Do you suppose the Dudleys ever have a conflict of interest?) Some of the tree decorations were made by the late Rachel Smith, longtime good member of the church.

THE STELLAR Class of the FUMC honored their Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Trixie Whatley, at their annual Christmas party last Friday night. Mrs. TW reaccounted some of the class's accomplishments over the 26 years she has taught their weekly lesson. These included a large donation of the community hospital project, furnishing a room at the hospital, carpeting the auditorium of the church and the like in addition to adopting children in Methodist homes and numerous other activities over the years.

Right now, the class is supporting a student nurse Instead of exchanging gifts, class members put money on a miniature tree, raising some $60 for their work The program featured a Christmas Carol singing led by Burnice Gorr . Gifts were presented to Mrs. Whatley and to Class President Mabel Kuykendall.

A PHEASANT HUNT was enjoyed last weekend by a group of Ciscoans, including Duffey White, Rick Whatley, Billy Wright, Jammie Fry, Ronnie Ledbetter and Bob Moore. They went up in the Panhandle country and had good luck. Understand Mr. Whatley brought home some pretty feathers . . .
