Shooting in the Old Southwest

Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah. The Old Southwest. If you've never visited it, stick around awhile. Chances are good that you will. Whether on business or pleasure--all pleasure--the Southwest offers plenty that appeals to nearly all of us. From sunny, dry climate and clean air to miraculous canyons and mysterious missions, there's plenty to see and do there, if only for a few days.

And what a great spot for a photographer! If you doubt me, check the work of Ansel Adams, Weston, and White. They and hundreds more have been shooting in the Southwest for decades. While you may not be ready to tackle the moonrise over a virgin mountain lake, there are plenty of subjects suitable to shoot. Here are just a few suggestions to get you going.

Indian Ruins. As the man once said, the place is lousy with 'em. Among the best: the cliff dwellings of the Anasazi--the ancient ones--in Mesa Verde National Park 10 miles southeast of Cortez, Colorado. For best results, use a normal or wide-angle lens and color film shot early in the day or late in the afternoon. That will give you plenty of dramatic shadows. Or use a fine-grain black-and-white film like Panatomic-X for very large, "artsy" shots which, once matted and hung, will look terrific.

Narrow-Gauge Railroad. One of the truly great remaining railroads of the world, the narrow-gauge "Silverton" runs between Durango and Silverton, Colorado, along a mountainous route that is nothing short of spectacular. Formerly operating only during the summer, now the train runs all year long, utilizing heated coaches and a plow on the engine to move the people along and the snow from the tracks. Do yourself a favor and shoot both from the train and from the ground...capturing the last narrow-gauge railroad in the U.S. forever.

For best results, use a short-to-medium telephoto lens and a fast film (ASA 200 - 400 or faster) aboard the train and a normal or wide-angle lens to photograph the train, itself. The locomotive is a coal-fired steamer, so there's always plenty of puffy, dark smoke for dramatic effect billowing from the stack. Just remember when shooting a moving object (or from a moving vehicle) to use as fast a shutter speed as possible in order to avoid motion blur.

Arizona Desert. Come down out of the mountains of Arizona, and you're in the desert. You don't have to look for it; it's simply there. All around. And always beautiful, though perhaps more so in spring, when the desert cactus and shrubs burst into carpets of kaleidoscopic bloom. Even during the other seasons, though, the desert is alive and exciting. To best capture the aura, stay clear of the general-purpose normal lens and rely, instead, on a macro lens, closeup lens, or bellows for 1:1 lifesize shots of flora and fauna. Look closely, though...especially early in the day and late in the afternoon. Otherwise, you'll miss half of what the desert is all about.

As an alternative to closeup photography, use a short telephoto lens and photograph a friend against some of the magnificent rock formations or cactus. Or use a zoom lens to switch from portraits to distant sceneries. The sun in the desert can be extremely bright though, so leave the fast film at home. Under most conditions, you'll find an ASA 32 - 125 plenty fast enough. Or, if you're stuck with fast film in the camera, use a neutral-density filter to reduce the amount of light entering the lens without affecting color or contrast.

Historic Buildings. The Southwest is filled with them, from Santa Fe and south to Salt Lake City and north. Whenever possible, photograph them with a wide-angle lens from a very low or a very high position (like from the upper floor of a neighboring building). And, unless the building is a literal work of art, include something else in the scene--a person, a tree, a bench, an old jalopy parked outside, or even the mountains or setting sun in the background--for added interest. Try to select a time of day when the building receives both sunlight and shadows to add depth to the shot.

Photographing fish in an aquarium is easy...if you take a few precautions.

WORD of GOD

For wives only:

Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.

For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church; and he is the saviour of the body.

Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing.

Ephesians 5:22-24

WORD of GOD

For husbands only:

Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it;

That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word,

That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.

So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.

For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church:

For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

Ephesians 5:25-31

Something Fishy

Did you ever set out to find something you'd read somewhere and couldn't locate it? Did you ever set out to find something you'd read and could? Well, the latter is more often than not the case with me. Between my rather extensive library of photo magazines, clippings, public-relations releases, and books, I imagine I have information at my fingertips on how to photograph just about any conceivable subject in the world.

So when one of my editors called the other day and asked if I could furnish a photograph of a goldfish for a book on pets, I said, "Sure, no problem."

Of course, I couldn't find the information I was seeking. And I know from experience that pointing the camera at a fish tank and pressing the shutter-release button usually leads to disaster. Either the fish swims out of the zone of focus, resulting in a fuzzy photo, or the light has a funny blue, green, or yellow cast to it...if, that is, there's enough light present to make an exposure.

And then there's the problem of reflections. Shooting through the glass of an aquarium is a bit like shooting through the window of the local grocery store. Assuming there's no glare, you may capture what's on the other side, but you'll also have a rather distracting reflection of your camera and you right smack dab in the middle of the scene. Slightly distracting.

Well, I set my mind to the task at hand and, one by one, eliminated all the potential sources for problems. This isn't the only way to photograph a pet fish, but it worked for me and can work for you, too.

First, set up the camera on a tripod or other firm support. Make sure the camera is as level as possible for critical focusing. You can use a normal lens and crop out the fish tank in the darkroom (or have your photo processor crop it out, providing you're shooting negative and not slide film), or you can put a short telephoto lens on the camera to zero-in on the subject.

Check the minimum focus distance on the lens and use a tape measure to position the camera appropriately. If your lens will focus down to 3.5 feet, measure a distance of 3 1/2 feet from the subject to the camera's film plane, the horizontal plane long which the film runs. Do not measure from the front of the lens, or your focus may be off by several inches!

In order to prevent your finny subject from turning away from the camera just as you snap the shutter, place a sheet of clear glass or plastic in the aquarium so that it forms a narrow corridor in the front of the tank. The fish, of course, should be within this corridor and able to move from side to side but no more than two or three inches toward or away from the camera. Set your camera's lens aperture, if adjustable, on f/8 or f/11 for maximum sharpness.

To light your subject, you can use color-balanced photo-floods, one on each end of the tank and pointing toward the fish inside. Or tape one electronic flash unit to the side of the tank and hook it up to the camera with a PC cord. Then use a second flash unit for "blind-side fill" on the other end. Use an inexpensive photoelectric slave unit available at many photo stores to trigger the auxiliary flash.

Color-balanced light (or electronic flash with daylight color film) is necessary to give you the right temperature of light when shooting color film. If you're photographing with black-and-white film, you can use any light source whatsoever.

Finally, turn down the room lights to eliminate any possibility of reflection from the front of the tank, wait until your subject is centered just perfectly, and fire. As easy as shooting fish in a barrel.

Handle Firearms With Care

COLLEGE STATION--Firearms are deadly weapons, deadly enough to kill 19 Texas hunters in 1981 and 23 in 1982.

Texas hunting accidents also result in up to 100 non-fatal disabling injuries each year.

"With increased fall and winter hunting activities at hand, it's appropriate to recall the basic rules of hunter safety," reminds Dr. Gary S. Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Nelson points out that although basic hunter safety rules may seem elementary and a matter of common sense, the occasional violation of these simple rules by otherwise safe hunters results in both fatalities and injuries.

He lists these basic firearm safety rules:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun, even if you "know" it's not loaded.

2. Guns carried into a camp or home, or put into automobiles, must always be unloaded.

3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions before loading.

4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble. Keep the "safety" on until you are ready to shoot.

5. Always be sure of your target and your background before putting your finger on the trigger.

6. Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.

7. Unattended or stored guns should always be unloaded; guns and ammunition should be stored safely beyond reach of children and careless adults.

8. Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.

9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.

10. Never mix gunpowder with alcohol.

"Safety costs nothing while carelessness can lead to devastating results," emphasizes Nelson. "So practice safety every day."

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido,

Metter, Georgia

One day a teacher asked, "Sandy, where are elephants found?"

"They're so big," she answered, "they're seldom lost."

But it matters not how big you are mentally, physically, or financially; if you have not come to the Lord you are lost.

You do not have to be one of the underworld; you can be an understudy of an angel and still be lost.

You do not have to be a reprobate; you can be religious and still be lost.

You do not have to sit in the seat of the scornful; you can sit in the amen corner and still be lost.

The word "lost" signifies "in the wrong place." Man is made for fellowship with God. Out of fellowship with God, man is disoriented; that is, he is lost.

When man is lost; life is unreal, meaningless, purposeless, empty. It is to be satisfied, yet unsatisfied.

But you do not have to find the Lord. He has come to seek and save you. You are not further than one step from Him. That one step is turning around. You will turn to Him now, won't you?

Information about your changing telephone service from Bob Cox, Manager-Community Relations

1984 brings a new corporation

With the coming of the new year, Southwestern Bell has a new beginning. The operating company that was once part of the Bell System has become a stand-alone entity, Southwestern Bell Corporation, or SBC as it appears on the New York Stock Exchange.

Southwestern Bell Telephone is just one of four companies within Southwestern Bell Corporation. Southwestern Bell Telephone will continue to provide:

- Installation, maintenance and repair of local telephone lines
- Local telephone service
- White Pages directories
- Custom Calling Services
- Monthly billing statements, which will include invoices for SWBell Telephone, AT&T Communications long distance, AT&T Information Systems and possibly other companies
- Long distance within Service Areas
- Public telephones
- Directory Assistance
- CO Centrex and ESSX-30

Southwestern Bell Telecom will provide terminal equipment and modems for business customers and also sell residence telephone sets.

Southwestern Bell Publishing will handle Yellow Pages directories and other services.

And, Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems will handle cellular mobile phone service.

Each of the four companies of Southwestern Bell Corporation will exist separately and apart from each other. In fact, one or more of the subsidiaries will form their own subsidiaries to enter other competitive fields.

Directory deliveries

You may have wondered how you will receive telephone directories during 1984.

If you are a new customer, or a customer transferring service from one area code to another, your directory will be delivered to you once you order your telephone service from Southwestern Bell Telephone.

You will be provided with the directory in which your name is listed. If you want copies of other city directories, you may order these for a fee through your local telephone business office.

Modular jacks

Today, most houses and apartments are equipped with modular phone jacks. When you move, there is usually no need to take your modular jacks with you. Removing these jacks can damage telephone wires connected to the jacks.

Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

Looks like the Big Boss opened the gate and let it all come down on us again. Charlie says we are going to have bad weather all this week. We said last week we hoped to be able to report a rain. Sure enough we did have 1.3 inches last Monday. We are so thankful. Now for a hard rain to fill tanks. It was snowing at Farmington, N.M. yesterday and we heard that it is snowing at Dallas today. Just hope this is not a repeat of the Christmas spell.

We are so sorry to report the death of Mr. George Weeks on Thursday. Mr. Weeks was a long time resident of Putnam and a native of Callahan County. Having been raised in the Admiral Community. Our deepest sympathy goes to the family, Myrtle and the four sons, G.W. of Brownwood, R.D. of Eastland, Norris of Baird and Dick of Putnam and the grandchildren.

Mrs. Dianne Wagley of Moran had surgery last week at Abilene. At last report she is doing well. Mr. "Chuck" Thorne entered the Golden Holiday Nursing Home at Baird last week. "Chuck" has lived at Putnam a long time and carried the mail from Cisco. We will miss him.

Glad to report that Mr. Reynolds of Elmdale, formerly of Putnam, who has been a patient at Methodist Hospital at Houston several weeks, is now at home and doing fine. Birthday greetings go to Annie Mae Donaway on her birthday today.

Mrs. Jewell Webster of Clyde and Mrs. Glover Johnson of the Scranton community visited Jack Ramsey and Maxie Solomon Tuesday.

The Maxwells had a family reunion last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Dixie Parten at Cisco. Present were her two brothers, Ray Maxwell and family of Putnam and Henry Moore of Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McCarver of Cisco visited Mrs. R.B. Taylor Thursday. Mrs. McCarver is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Jobe.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Sunderman of Fort Worth visited their aunt, Mrs. Ruie Sunderman at the nursing home at Baird last Saturday. Mrs. Edith Ivie and son John spent the weekend at Valley Mills with their daughter and sister.

Had the good luck to "run" into Mrs. Ioma Howard of Cisco at the grocery store this week. Ioma lived neighbor to us out at Zion Hill Community. Its always good to see her.

Mrs. James Isenhower of Coleman visited her mother, Ollie Burnam Saturday. Rev. and Mrs. Jackie Willoughby of Abilene also visited Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Petty of Brownwood visited friends at Putnam Thursday including the Bell Feeleys and Mrs. Taylor. We still miss the Pettrys at Putnam.

Studying the history of the camellia, you will find the natural camellia belt along the coast of China and the offshore islands including Japan and Formosa. In 1948, twenty plus varieties of camellia reticulata were introduced to the United States from the vicinity of Kunming in the province of Yunnan, China. The camellia belt extends from cold areas of Korea in the North to the Semi-tropical area of Indo-

China in the South. One story about the camellia introduction to the western world involves the Tea plant which is a close relation to the camellia. Around 1700 a British Trading Company commissioned one of its sea captains who was leaving for China to bring back specimens of China's Tea plant. The British were planning on growing Tea in Europe thus eliminating the expensive time-consuming and hazardous trips to the Orient for Tea.

China, however, was aware of what would happen if they let their tea plants get to Europe. They gave the sea captain ornamental camellias as tea plants. This is reported to be the introduction of Japonicas to England. The botanical classification of which the camellia belongs is called Theaceae. The camellia is one of sixteen genera of this family. The camellia is the only genus of this family of major ornamental importance, measured by their popularity, the japonicas, the sasanquas and the reticulatas.

Japonicas, being the most popular, are therefore considered to be the most important by many growers. There are several thousand named varieties of the Japonicas. The Japonica has a uniform growing habit and superior foliage and flower. You will find the simple five petal single to the most complete double camellia.

In Japonica species you will also find the widest range of colors, pink, rose, red, chalk white and blushes. The Japonica has the longest blooming season due to the large number of varieties. You can have a continuous bloom up to six months from late fall to late spring with Japonicas. This is good for landscaping giving the yard and garden color when they are bare in the winter.

The foliage of the Japonica

Halftime - CJC 37, RJC 12. Rebounds - CJC 43, RJC 30. Fouls - CJC 11, RJC 24. Fouled Out - None. Records - CJC 10-8, 2-0; RJC 0-2.

looks as if it has been waxed, making its appearance far superior to the other varieties. The Japonica bloom is noted for its diversity, formality and lasting qualities. The bloom size varies from miniature or boutonniere (under two inches in diameter) to semi-double ranging up to seven inches across.

Sansanquas have several hundred varieties and colors available. The Sansanqua has small blooms that make up for their size with a mass effect that cannot be surpassed by any other flower of the plant kingdom in the eyes of camellia growers. Their bloom is very similar to an azalea bloom and has been referred to as the "azalea" of the camellia world. They begin blooming early in the fall about the same time Chrysanthemums and last till frost.

So long for now until next week and GOOD GARDENING from your GARDEN EDITOR, Ted Brice.

Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

Royalty Depletion Deduction Ruling Favorable

Oil and gas royalty owners have prevailed in a lengthy dispute with the Internal Revenue Service.

The high court held in a 5-4 decision on Jan. 10, that independent holders of oil and gas leases may take the depletion deduction (now 18%) for cash bonuses and advance royalty payments received in exchange for the right to explore for and produce these resources on their property.

Even if such bonuses and royalties are paid in advance of production, the court said they should be treated as income and are eligible for the income deduction authorized by congress.

"Royalty owners have won a great victory," stated Bruce Anderson, President of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn.

He said royalty owners should review their tax situations in light of this decision.

"We expect that many will need to file amended returns for years in which they received advances royalties or bonuses," he added.

The Supreme Court decision said that while deductions may be taken for bonuses and royalties paid on future production, these deductions would have to be repaid if production is never obtained.

letters to the editor ...

Dear Editor,
 On Sunday morning, the past January 8th, while getting a newspaper at the Cisco Thrift Mart grocery stand, a vicious large collarless dog sank his teeth into the calf of my left leg. I screamed and a woman at the telephone booth close by asked if the dog had bitten me. Answering yes, I asked about who owned the dog, she replying that she did not know.
 Not finding a police officer, I drove to Police Chief Billy Rains home and reported the happening, requesting that proper procedures be carried out with this dangerous animal, for the public's sake as well as myself; since, I, an older man in poor health, might not tolerate a series of rabies shots. Mr. Rains, an old acquaintance, recorded information from my driver's license and asked various other questions. He assured me that upon their apprehending the dog, same would be taken to and kept by a local veterinarian for nine days.
 The Chief and I then drove back to the store. The same woman was still at the phone and several other dogs nearby, but the biting dog was gone. I later learned that through the years there had been other complaints about dogs from this same woman's home, now located near the store. Mr. Rains then said he would locate the vicious dog and notify me for identification.

 I then called my physician and upon his advice went and received a tetanus shot the next morning. Upon calling the police station about 10:30 the next morning, the attendant knew nothing of the event. After calling the local veterinarian about 5:00 p.m. I received a negative reply as to whether the dog had been brought there.
 Tuesday I called the Texas Department of Health in Abilene and this agency told me that any city should pick up any animal that was a threat to people. However, when a doctor there in the Abilene office told me he knew Mr. Michael Moore, the city manager, and felt he would see proper action would be taken, I had a sinking feeling from my past experience with City Hall.
 About 4:00 that day Mr. Moore called me, said he had heard from the Abilene Department and told me that the dog would be brought to the city pound, kept three days and destroyed. I replied that was unsatisfactory and I would sue the city if the dog was destroyed before rabies determination.

Later, the City Manager called me and said he was allowing the dog's owner to chain the dog for 10 days. The next day, Wednesday, the dog was loose and standing between the store and home. This dog and the other strays from this house roamed free until Saturday when the store manager complained. Then most or all were taken to the city pound. The next day, Sunday, they were all gone from the pound.

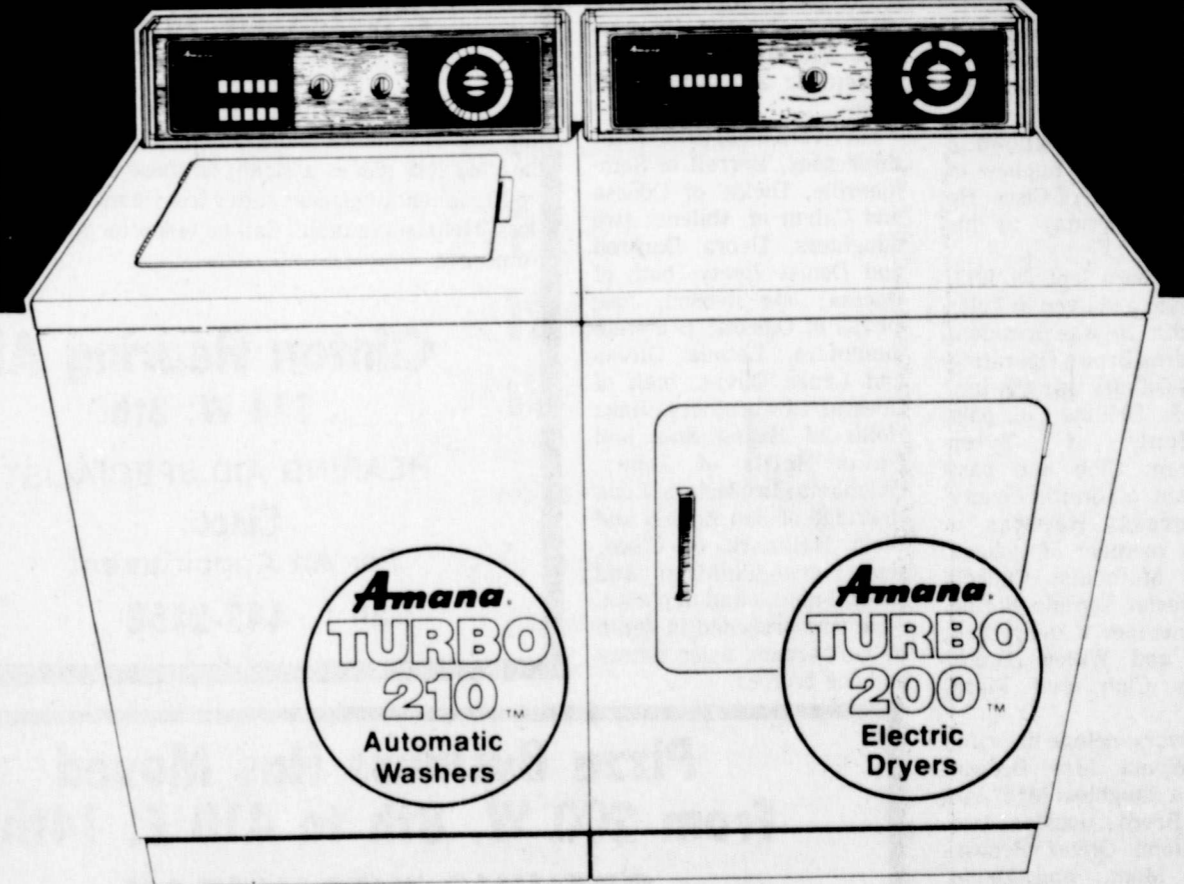

I am not a dog hater. On the contrary, I feel that a dog allowed to run loose in a town is abused and subject to risk of rabies, being struck by vehicles, or abused by other animals or people. But I would like to feel safe going to the nearest news stand to pick up the paper.

We have had little enforcement of leash laws. When, if ever, will anything be done about this?

Sincerely,

DRIVING BY the Texaco Service Station on I-20 access road toward the Colony Restaurant you'll notice some acreage just east of the service station that's just been enclosed with a nice fence.

We asked Mr. Randy McCoy of the Texaco Station if he knew what was going on. He did, he said, because he had purchased the acreage and was doing the fencing. He has a project underway that will be ready to announce in three weeks or so.

It promises to be a good thing for our community.

THE CISCO Country Club lost a lot of pipes during the recent severe freezing spell, reports Secretary Letha Stafford. A lot of pipes had to be replaced in the club house, the pro shop and caretaker's residence and in the area of a lot of the greens.

Mr. Bob Bennie, the golf course manager, and Mr. Ed Wende of the golf committee did most of the work in replacing the leaky lines.

THE TEMPERATURE was around 33 degrees Saturday and Sunday afternoons, but that didn't stop all of the golfers. Seven golfers played Saturday, and there were six playing Sunday. Mr. Ralph Glenn, who played both days as did David Callarman, Bobby Smith, Delbert Schaefer, Kevin Winnett and others, told us the weather was brisk.

Mr. Glenn is in about the third or fourth week of growing a mustache. How do you like it? If you vote "yes" or "no" tell him.

WE HAD AN item here the other day about Golfer Tim Jones (CJC band director) hitting a ball to the No. 6 green only to see a wolf grab the ball and run off with it. We're informed that it was a pet coyote and that the animal had recently suffered a broken leg and same had been pinned. The wolf hangs out in the golf course area.

Sunday was Golfer Jones' birthday (also Martin Luther King's) and a goodly number of friends dropped by the Jones home on Country Club Ridge to wish him many happy returns. A bonus for those who dropped in was seeing samples of the pictures that come from the Jones camera.

Prize of the pictures is a scene from the Lake Cisco dam out toward the setting sun - very, very scenic, indeed. You'd never guess it was made in the Cisco area.

GUESTS IN Cisco last weekend were the Rev. and Mrs. Russell Pogue of Valley Mills. He is a former pastor of the First Baptist Church and they were guests in the home of Mrs. Bernice Carter in our town.

The Pogues, who have been back home a year after spending a year in Uganda where he was a Baptist pastor, have volunteered to go back to Uganda - this time to do missionary work over the country. They will know by mid-February if they'll be going and, if they are, they'll leave about March 1.

Mrs. Pogue spoke to several women's Sunday School classes at the FBC Sunday morning, and Rev. Pogue filled the pulpit Sunday evening. They told about Uganda and their year there.

The Jan. 11th issue of The Baptist Standard, church newspaper, contains a full page with picture story about the Pogues. The headline says: "When They Spell Bible in Uganda, It's P-O-G-U-E." And the story tells about how he directed the distribution of some 60,000 bibles during the year they spent there in addition to carrying on the work of a church minister.

WE CALLED the Cisco Family Medical Clinic (No. 442-3220 in the telephone directory) to see how Dr. Tim Boersma's first day in Cisco was going. Answering the telephone was Mrs. Buddy (Carolyn) Sipe, who was substituting for the office assistant who will be joining him in two weeks.

The doctor was busy with an emergency and the first day was a busy, busy one, Mrs. Sipe reported.

As you may have seen in this space last Sunday, there will be a reception for Dr. Boersma and family at the bank's community room on Jan. 29th. It will be hosted by the E.L. Graham Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. The Sunday item didn't mention the Auxiliary.
