MR. & MRS. EUEL CLIFFORD RAY

Merkel Camp Will Honor Cisco Family

The Earl Vernon Ray family of Cisco has been invited by Camp Butman director Phil Geissal to attend a dedication of the Ray Dining Room which will be named for his father, late mother, and their five sons and daughters at Camp Butman near Merkel on Jan. 27.

Camp Butman was built from ranch land given by Earl Ray's grandfather, the late Samuel Butman. It is a retreat and campsite for the churches of Northwest Texas Methodist Conference.

In use for many years, the dining hall was in need of restoration. The Ray family through the sponsorship of one of Vernon's sisters, underwrote the project. The camp director wrote in part:

"On Friday afternoon, January 27, the board of trustees will meet at 8:00. We will have dinner in the newly-decorated dining room. At approximately 6:45, we will hold a dedication service for the Ray Dining Room. Pictures of Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Ray will be hung and the names of the five living children of Margery Isabel and Euel Clifford Ray will be inscribed on a plaque.

"You are invited to the service with any guest that you might wish to bring with you for dinner. Let us know how many."

Not only did the Butmans give the land and the buildings for the camp in the 1950's, they also built the Pioneer Memorial Methodist Chapel near Merkel. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ray and Jane Wootton were married at that chapel and so were his three sisters. Of late, the oldest son and daughter of the Vernon Rays have both married in that same chapel. Marcus Ray (Cisco) to Judy Childers and Martha Ray to Don O'Grady of Dallas all spoke their wedding vows in the chapel built by their grandparents.

Vernon Ray's father, Euel Ray, lives now in the original ranch house in which his wife was born in 1898 on the Butman Ranch southwest of Merkel.

Control Spending Is Seen As Challenge for Congress

Bringing the federal budget under control is the top question of U.S. citizens and the only way it can be accomplished is to make across the board cuts in spending and increase revenue.

That was the message of Congressman Charles Stenholm when he spoke Monday night at a meeting of the Cisco Evening Lions Club at the Colony Restaurant. He entitled his talk "The Latest Dope from Washington." He was introduced by Archie Chamness of Cisco, Lions district governor.

Mr. Stenholm reported that Congress began the second session of the 98th Congress on Monday and he elected to remain in the 17th District for two days of meetings and to present Senator John Glenn to area residents at a breakfast in Abilene Tuesday morning. He planned to fly to Washington later in the day Tuesday and to be at his desk Wednesday.

"The No. 1 issue today is deficit spending," Mr. Stenholm said. "Everywhere I go, people are expressing concern over the state of the nation's finances. People in the areas such as the 17th district are more concerned than those in Washington."

Mr. Stenholm believes that the Congress will put

'Olympic Menu Day' Brings Flavor Of The Games To College Campuses

Cisco, TX., January 16, 1984 - A real taste of the Olympics is coming to Cisco Junior College it was announced today by John Rehak, food service director at the local school.

ARA Services' Campus Dining Division, which manages the food service at the school is sponsoring an evening event designed to bring students closer to the excitement of the Winter Olympics. 'Olympic Menu Day' will be held during the height of the Winter Games in February. Students will be served meals taken directly from ARA's official Olympic menu. (ARA is the official food service company of the Summer Olympics in Los Angeles, and food service consultant in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, for the Winter Games.) Several international favorites requested by other nations for Los Angeles will be included in the menu.

"We're excited about this 'Olympic Menu Day' program," says John Rehak. "Some of the same students we serve daily are competing for spots on the U.S. Olympic team. And for all the students we serve it brings them closer to a major international event."

All the meals being served during 'Olympic Menu Day' have been tested under stringent guidelines set by ARA so that they meet or exceed necessary nutritional levels.

"These meals will allow our students - from a nutritional standpoint - to be ready to 'go for the gold', whether it be in the classroom, or in an Olympic stadium," adds Rehak.

In addition to the Olympic menu items being served, banners, posters, and broadcast schedules of each competition will enhance this unique Olympic event.

Mr. Stenholm said he favors Ken Hance, who entered Congress at the same time he did, is the best choice for the Democrats to run for the John Tower seat in the U.S. Senate. And he considers John Glenn to be the best bet for President, calling him "a man with expertise, a man with business experience, a genuine hero, and an advocate of 'pay-as-you go' government."

Mr. Stenholm considered the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican as a mistake. He believes that the nomination of Edward Meese to be attorney general will meet Senate opposition.

CONGRESSMAN Charles Stenholm, right above, was introduced by District Governor Archie Chamness at a Lions Club dinner meeting in Cisco Monday night. Mr. Stenholm spoke on "The Latest Dope from Washington."

MR. AND MRS. Don Starr, pictured above, were in Cisco Monday night to attend a Lions Club dinner honoring Congressman Charles Stenholm. The Starrs live at Stamford and he is serving as the congressman's campaign manager.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Starr are natives of this area, having grown up in the Scranton community. She is the former Margaret Kinser. They have lived in Stamford for some 25 years. He was an executive with the Coca-Cola Company there for many years and presently operates a cotton gin and is engaged in farming in addition to managing Mr. Stenholm's campaign for re-election.

Mr. Stenholm said he favors spending cuts to equal new taxes as a start toward balancing the budget. "We cannot spend more taxes as a start toward balancing the budget. "We cannot spend more than 20 per cent of the gross national product, and this spending is now running at the rate of about 25 per cent," he said.

Mr. Stenholm has been in Congress for five years "and the only promise I made in the beginning was to serve with dedication and that promise I reiterate," he said. He said the Congress has leadership problems that must improve for effective government.

Answering questions, Mr. Stenholm said that progress was being made in efforts to balance the export-import situation with Japan, particularly in agriculture. "We are becoming increasingly mindful that business with Japan is a two-way street and are gradually tightening regulations," he added.

He said the fact that buying $9,000 wrenches (tools) was being publicized was good news.

Mr. Stenholm said he felt it was a mistake in the beginning to send U.S. Marines to Lebanon. He felt that the U.S. could have pulled out when Jessie Jackson brought home the downed flyer. He thinks a UN force should replace the Marines there.

Mr. Stenholm said he favors Ken Hance, who entered Congress at the same time he did, is the best choice for the Democrats to run for the John Tower seat in the U.S. Senate. And he considers John Glenn to be the best bet for President,

Bass Club Report

Thursday the 19th the Eastland County Bass Club meet with the Eastland County Water Board. An agreement was reached, that the Water Board would pay for the extension and improvement of the State Ramp at Chock-O-Block and the Bass Club would furnish the labor for this project.

This ramp was originally build by the state and then after a few years turned over to the water board. If the weather continues to hold, Saturday the 28th we will attempt to pour this extension.

This will close the ramp for a number of hours, but we believe it will be well worth it. We hope everyone will bear with us during the closing.

Also discussed were legalities pertaining to fishing regulations and lake fees. These items were tabled until further studies could be made.

February the 2nd we shall hold our monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Our meeting place has been moved this year to the Eastland National Bank Bld. We would like to thank

DON'T BLAME ME!
Did you ever break a thermometer and try to pick up the mercury that spilled out? Not easy, is it? It took something besides bare fingers and being willing to spend a little time—quite a lot of time—before it was all picked up.

Several thermometers were broken during my childhood. The pleasure of garnering tiny droplets of quicksilver and coaxing them into one big drop didn't come anywhere near even with the displeasure breaking the thermometer caused my mamma.

Nowadays, I could pass the buck to the manufacturer. It was a defective product to break so easily. Dropping it on the fireplace hearth had nothing to do with its breaking. Neither did stepping on the thermometer left on the floor when I checked my doll's temperature—clearly, the fault of the manufacturer.

I don't know why I didn't catch on to all this sooner. The guy that ran into the back of that famous Pinto didn't have a bit of responsibility. The Ford factory should have produced a heavier gas tank. Now that I think of it in depth, why didn't Ford sue the fellow who bought the Pinto? If he meant to drive where he might get bashed, he should have taken proper precautions and bought a Sherman tank.

There is a case in the courts now where the manufacturers of a gun sold about ten years ago are being sued because a young man has wound up paralyzed because of a bullet discharged accidentally from the gun.

Without going into all the tragic ramifications of the paralyzed person's probable quality of life, why not sue him for being where he could get hit?

This kind of thinking can be—has been—carried into the realms of the ridiculous. Consider the saddened parents of the convicted murdered of five people—the parents who were pictured holding up the drawings their son made while on death row. Could they file suit against the families of the murdered persons because the victims shouldn't have been where they tempted the couples' son to kill them?

Conversely, could the victims' families bring suit against the parents of the death row inmate because they didn't bring him up to be a good boy?

Why can't Henry Lucas sue the judge who turned him loose after the first killing? Or he might make a pretty good case against the estates of his victims. It seems clear they are to blame for Lucas' actions. If they hadn't been alive, he couldn't have killed them—mutilated and dismembered, but not murdered.

Where will this kind of thinking lead us?

Instead of recalling Pintos and checking gas tanks, maybe Ford should have sued the fellow who rear-ended the Pinto. He must have been less than careful with his driving. Or maybe a horsefly stung him—no, horseflies belong to my quicksilver days. Perhaps a wasp popped him one and caused a chain reaction. Perhaps his mother-in-law...well, we will never know.

There is only one thing I feel absolutely pluperfect positive about. The chief cause of cancer is being alive.

carried to the City Hall in De Leon. A fund has also been established for the family at the F & M Bank, De Leon, for any monetary contributions.

agree on the facts. All we are arguing about now is semantics. Semantics...language...words...Unfortunately, the words we use in our day-to-day communications almost invariably have multi-usage rather than mono-usage—the same word doesn't mean the same thing to everyone. This should not come as a surprise, especially when we consider the fact that the 500 most commonly used words in our language have a total of over 14,000 dictionary definitions. For example, consider the word fast.

A person is fast when he can run rapidly. But he is also fast when he is tied down and can't run at all. And colors are fast when they do not run. One is fast when he moves in suspect company. But this is not quite the same as playing fast and loose. A racetrack is fast when it is in good running condition. A friend is fast when he is loyal. A watch is fast when it is ahead of time. To be fast asleep is to be deep in sleep. To be fast by is to be near. To fast is to refrain from eating. A fast may be a period of non-eating or a ship's mooring line. Photographic film is fast when it is sensitive to light. But bacteria are fast when they are intensive too antiseptics. And just to show you the fact is no fluke, let's look at another common word. Consider the word round. We all know what that means, don't we? Or do we?

A ball is round when it is shaped like a disc. But it is also round when it is globular shaped. A person is round when he is plump. A dozen eggs is round when it is full and complete. A round trip means to return to one's starting place. A round is also a cartridge for a pistol or rifle. Or a round can mean a game of golf or tennis. To bring to completeness is to round. But this is not the same as completing one's daily round of activities. Nor the same as offering a round of applause for a job well-done. A round comment is candid or outspoken. While to go round a subject implies circuitousness. If you refer to me as round, am I for a date or a golf match? And what if I ask you to come round sometime, what would you do? And don't forget that a round is a place where you put your foot on a ladder. When you ask for a round in the meat market, what do you get? So on and on, and round and round we could go, but I think you get the point. So choose your words carefully. That term you use which is crystal clear in your own mind may mean something entirely different to the other person. Always try to communicate so that you can't be misunderstood.

Lights From The Christian World

by Josephine Cleveland

Oh, how wonderful it is, the days when your spirit soars and you have evidence to support your faith and trust in Christ. How restful it is, the days when you feel the joy of the Lord well up within you. Then the feeling leaves and joy departs. The enemy, Satan, comes in like a flood to place you once again into the valley. It is then, remember and repeat Isaiah 59:19 over and over again until it permeates every crevice of your being. "When the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him." Look to Him. Let not your feelings rule you. A parched, barren land looks to the hills for its rivers, its life. So look to the hills from whence cometh your help. Your help is from the Lord who made heaven and earth. It is He who will supply all your needs according to His riches and glory. "Our Father in Heaven, we thank you for your sustaining power and for your ever present help in times of trouble. Help us to look to Thee continually for our strength".

One Thing After Another -

... can and may happen to land titles in the passing of moments. During the time it takes you to read this ad, something could happen to your title that would change your whole financial structure, or indeed it could alter your plans and aspirations for generations to come. The abstractor, in a sense, is your land title guardian, for he keeps the records day by day as you or others make them. Advise with him often about your title.

Letters to the Editor

All letters are subject to editing, and must be signed. Names withheld on request.

Dear Editor: One of the most Hitler-type acts of tyranny is being carried out in Nebraska now. Six Nebraska fathers have been jailed since before Thanksgiving. Their only crime was sending their children to a church school where they didn't have state accredited teachers!

Most big anti-God, anti-American News Services have a near-blackout on this dastardly act.

Academics is not the question. The students tested from one and a half to two years ahead of nearby Omaha Public Schools! Twenty Christian Schools are under attack in Nebraska and the whole issue is control.

It appears that many of the Nebraska Legislators are indebted to the teacher's union, the NEA. It also appears that they are willing to let a judge impose this Hitler-like tyranny. (Hitler gave parents long prison terms for failing to enter their children in his Hitler Youth Program!) I am sure their teachers were accredited by the Hitler Government.

Among the rules reported to us, the Nebraska Education Association demands that all Christian Schools with high schools must have a library with 1200 books when they open and only 2% (or 24 books) can be Christian!!

Where are our United States Congressman when an attack on freedom of religion is happening that compares to the Dred Scott case where the Supreme Court ruled that a negro was not a person? They are evidently home counting votes (the exception of Senator George Hanson of Idaho), thinking the giant humanist-dominated NEA Teacher's Union is worth more votes than the side of freedom. A perfect example of why these "vote vultures" should be limited to six-year terms and out forever!

Write to the Paul Reveres of America, Box 639, Gillette, Wyoming 82716, for free information and pictures of Nebraska troopers throwing 80 preachers out of church in Nebraska for praying.

Wake up, Christians!! Freedom of religion is in serious trouble.

Sincerely
Dick Mader

The more brutal and pointless a murder the greater the desire of people to see the extreme penalty passed. Yet the courts must decide weather or not their case is strong enough and must also consider that even when they express no reservations against the death penalty, a juror might have reservations in his subconscious about putting an end to another life. The greater too is the pressures which might cause an acquittal or reversal on appeal.

The public is not well versed with the rules of evidence to the extent that we can say, better than experienced officer of the courts, what evidence will prove that in a plea bargaining situation the officers obtain evidence to bring out the greatest number of cases for prosecution rather than simply avoiding a lot of hard and expensive work.

It is the duty of a defense attorney to present the best he can for his client and this may include glosing of some points a wary jury might miss.

Who would not consider at all a plea that a woman has small children? But wait, the person swayed by such play on the heart strings might wake some night and wonder what he has wished on these innocent children by having them in the home of a criminal parent. Either way the innocent suffer.

There have been cases in the past where in certain states ALL parties involved in any way in a capitol murder were considered equally guilty. In a felony it has been charged that if an officer is killed in a wreck while in pursuit of felons, then they are guilty of first degree murder just as surely as if they had planned his murder beforehand. But how has justice worked? In one case I recall the driver of a get-away car involved in an armed robbery-murder was tried separately from the hold-up man. The driver received the death sentence but the trigger man had a slicker lawyer and only got a long prison term.

If justice, law, and equity seem like strangers too often then what have we to rely on except that promise, "Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy," and expect that the opposite hold true as "He who shows no mercy should expect none in the Judgement which can not be escaped though one boast of setting man's law at naught."

Who will be our moral guide?

Will some reader venture their opinion on this case? A woman in a state far from here was approached by another woman who said "I told some lies about you after a revival meeting I was convicted of the wrong I did you and I want you to forgive me."

The other woman replied, "You need not have told me you lied for I knew that all along, and I care not what you think about the others whom you deceived were those you wronged. Go then and ask them to forgive your lies."

The woman departed in sorrow because it was a penance she could not bring herself to make.

If she then justified by still trying to hide part of her sin? Was the victim of those lies justified?

Surely God will judge between them but what should our own course be in similar situation?

Will any guess as to how many different opinions I might receive?

Narrow is the way called straight.

Yours truly,
Gordon S. Clark

Early tallies of 1984 Show entries indicate that this year's Show will be larger than ever before, with more than 32,000 entries expected to fill the Astrohall during the two-week run of the Show.

"With new events added, this year's Show promises to be our best and most versatile ever," noted Don Jobs, Jr., Assistant General Manager. "It provides spectators with a truly unique opportunity to see some of the finest livestock anywhere, gathered all under one roof."

New events include a dairy goat competition, a mule and donkey show and a miniature horse show.

Local entries included Robert Gorr and Wade Shackelford of Cisco FFA. Gorr will show market steer, and Shackelford will show breeding sheep.

Members of Eastland County 4-H Clubs and their

Thursday, January 26, 1984

entries were listed as follows: Shawn Aurley, Alan Little, Charla Little, and Sam Scott, market broilers; Brian Bailey, LaTonya Caraway, Robert S. Hill, and Derrick Taylor, market barrows; Larry Bilby, Angela Burgess, Glenn Burgess, Jackie Harris, Alan Little, Charla Little, April Moylan, Sam Scott, Jeff Thackerson, market steers; LaTonya

Caraway, Michael Cunningham, Charla Little, John McKenzie, and Roy Varner, market lambs; Noble Laminack, April Moylan, Sam Scott, and Wade Shackelford, beef heifers; and Noble Laminack will participate in the beef scramble.

While the focus for the next few weeks will be on the Show as the world's largest livestock show and rodeo and an entertainment extravaganza featuring 21 star performers, Jobs pointed out that the Show is much more.

"The Show is the Southwest's premier charity event, where all out net proceeds go to supporters of the nation's largest agricultural scholarship program and some 28 research program at nine Texas universities," he said. "Additionally, the rewards for young exhibitors who've invested so much time into getting their animals ready for the Show can be phenomenal. The prestige of a Houston blue ribbon makes Houston the toughest showing competition in the world."

Premium monies available for open and junior show exhibitors top more than half a million dollars in prize money and in premium auction prices paid in excess of market value. Volunteer committee members of the Show line auction buyers to insure that each junior market animal sold in the Show's four market auctions brings a price about the current market value of the animal.

And, as the Show holds the worlds record price for all champion market animals sold at the auction, it is evident that widespread community support translates into real dollars for these deserving young exhibitors who come from all over Texas to enter.

This parrot was photographed on a perch using electronic flash bounced off a white ceiling.

and snaps the shutter. The problem with this technique is that you can't do it alone. You have to have a friend upon whose photographic expertise you can rely.

Also, with a moving finger, moving bird, and moving camera operator, focusing may be a problem. Just a couple inches closer to or farther from the camera may make the difference between a sharp and a blurry photo.

Rather than grapple with these problems, it's easier to set up a perch and get Tweetie used to visiting it. To do so, you may want to rely on bribery, attaching a small seed cup, orange wedge, or some other goodie too tantalizing to pass up.

Once your bird is in the habit of visiting its perch and remaining there for at least a few minutes, you're ready to set up a photo session.

Start by attaching your camera to a tripod across the room from the bird's perch. Extend it to about birds-eye level so you won't experience the distortion that comes from shooting down or up on your subject. Then, using a cable release to minimize camera shake during exposure, fire the pre-focused camera whenever the bird's pose strikes your fancy. If you have either an exceptionally loud camera or skittish bird, you may have to do some practice shooting with an empty camera until your bird gets used to the noise.

For lighting, you can rely either on a natural source like a window or use electronic flash. Direct flash mounted on the camera will produce harsh results. To soften the light, use bounce flash off the ceiling or a nearby wall, or remove the flash from the camera, setting it off to one side a foot or more and triggering it by means of a long PC cord, available at most photo stores.

For a lens, choose a short telephoto or zoom stopped down to around f/8. That will give you a tightly cropped closeup with enough depth-of-field to overcome minor movements toward or from the camera.

Photography for the Birds

Birds are fascinating creatures. Some "live" by day, others by night. Some feast on the flesh of living woodland animals, others on the seeds and berries of both yard and forest. Some are migratory, traveling great distances between spring nesting areas and winter stumping grounds. Others rarely travel more than a few miles from the spot in which they were born.

Yet, all birds have one thing in common. They're always around, always singing, hooting, chirping, or calling out as if for us to notice. Always, that is, until we want to photograph them. Then these marvelously cooperative little fellows become the most belligerent of beak bearers. Even birds in captivity can be awfully cantankerous when it comes to posing for the camera.

How do you do it? How do you come up with a first-class bird shot when these feathered friends treat you like a second-class citizen? The answer lies in outsmarting them.

Birds in captivity are usually more comfortable around people than those in the wild, so they should make better, more cooperative photograph subjects. And they will, if you don't scare them to death with your camera.

For starters, spend some time getting your bird used to being out of the cage. There's simply no way to produce a good photo by shooting past wire bars; and sticking your camera lens through the open cage door is more likely to scare the feathers off your bird than a cat with a growling stomach.

Finger training your bird is always a good idea, and one nearly any bird will adapt to in time. Once your bird is comfortably perched on your finger, it's only a short haul to photographic stardom for Tweetie. You can carry your bird to a suitable location, one with good natural lighting from a nearby window, for example, and hold him up and away from your body while someone else focuses

Prints from Slides a Snap

Ever since the introduction of 35 mm slide film more than three decades ago, photographers have been faced with a real quandary. What does the professional working photographer do when he shoots a job in color transparencies at the request of the customer and then gets another request for a black-and-white blow-up of the color shot?

What does the amateur do when he shoots a birthday party and then gets a request for color prints from grandma and grandpa?

And, worse still, what happens when the prints are needed immediately? In the past, a photographer with plenty of good equipment and time could create an internegative of the color slide by re-photographing the slide on black-and-white or color negative film, processing the negative film, drying the film, creating appropriate prints from the negatives, drying the prints, and then delivering the prints...usually anytime but promptly. It's an exhaustive procedure that nearly anyone who has done it hates.

Now, however, it's possible to do virtually the same thing in under a minute flat. And with surer results and less cost than ever before.

The process requires a special prints-from-slides machine and-natch!-Polaroid film. Pioneered by Polaroid, the technique is virtually foolproof with all but the toughest slides.

Polaroid's introduction last year of the Polaprinter as more than creative photo-optic tinkering by a group of cloistered engineers. It was an answer to a real need in the photographic marketplace...and the opening of Pandora's box. Today, some half a dozen prints-from-slides machines jockey for their share of a lucrative market. Here are a look at two of them.

The Polaprinter is the first and-not surprisingly-most expensive, listing at right around $600. Polaroid knew when it introduced the versatile Polaprinter that it was excluding a large portion of the amateur marketplace with so steep a pricetag, but it figured that most of its sales would come from professionals and labs who often required instant prints for proofing and technology purposes. They were, to a degree, right.

The Polaprinter is a hefty, sturdily constructed machine with capabilities of producing either color or prints (from Polaroid Polacolor Extended Range Type 669 or Polacolor 2 pack films) or black-and-white prints with negatives (from Polaroid Type 665 black-and-white pack film). It includes a lighted viewing panel with cropping control so that you can predict in advance how much of the original slide will be reproduced (some cropping is inevitable because of the difference in format sizes between 35 mm and 3 1/4 x 4 1/4-inch film). Exposure control is automatic, with additional manual control of up to 2 1/2 f/stops via a control on the machine. There's also a contrast control which allows for more or less contrast, depending upon the slide used. Once the film has been loaded and the switch set to 30 or 60 seconds (for black-and-white or color film), the exposure is made at the press of a button. An automatic timer begins counting down the second the print is pulled through the rollers. When the time is up, the print may be separated from its backing for perfect results.

Enthusied by the Polaprinter, the West Coast-based Vivitar Corp. produced a model of its own, the Vivitar Instant Slide Printer, with a pricetag more palatable to amateurs-around $200 list. It's identical to the Polaprinter in function, except that it lacks a contrast-control switch. Also, the timer must be started manually once the print is pulled through the rollers.

Are the results really as good as Polaroid and Vivitar promise? Well, I've been using the Polaroid printer for a year, now, and the Vivitar Printer for nearly six months with excellent results. In fact, since I do most of my shooting on color slide film, nearly 80 percent of the illustrations which accompany my columns are the result of instant-print conversions from slides. So are most of the illustrations used in my books. That's good enough for me. How about you?

Putnam News

By Mrs. R.B. Taylor

Didn't the sunshine look pretty yesterday. (Sat) It led us to hope for more but today is back to the usual. Cloudy, cold, dreary. Last week was not quite as bad as the Christmas spell, but was bad enough. We are thankful we did not have ice & snow. Most every one has their plumbing back to normal just hope we do not have more frozen pipes. Well be glad when spring gets here and we can look forward to some hard rains to fill stock tanks.

So far as I know we do not have anyone on the sick list this week.

Mrs. "Dink" Pruett who has lived east of town for a long time but who lives at Odessa now call friends here frequently. She says she still misses her friends at Putnam and wants to hear from them.

Mr. Hall Green of Alaska spent last week visiting his parents the I.G. Mobley at Baird and brother Ray at Putnam. Hall said he was going back to Alaska so he could get warm.

Did you look at "Real People" on TV last week? We were happy and proud to see Mr. and Mrs. Jay Harris and family and their pet pig, who thought he was a dog, on the program. Mrs. Harris is the former Wanda Cunningham, who was reared at Putnam, who reared at Putnam. Her mother Mrs. K.V. Riffe lives here.

Mrs. Virginia Stevens of Cisco visited Maxie Solomon Friday evening.

Mrs. Myrtle Weeks is staying a few days with her son Norris and Eleanor at Baird. Hurry and come home Myrtle we miss you.

Mr. Calvin King spent several days at Dallas last week. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Green of Clyde visited his mother and Calvin Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shirley have moved from the Shirley place south of town to Cisco. I understand that Mr. Benton Pruett has bought the Shirley place.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Weatherman visited a friend at the hospital at Abilene, Mrs. Homer Milan who is suffering from a broken hip.

Mrs. Jackie Willoughby's grandparents and an Aunt and Uncle from Cisco attended the Baptist Church at Putnam Sunday.

The quilting club at the Community Center is keeping busy. They have quilted nine quilts. If you want any quilting done please contact them.

Linda and Brenda Nettles of Abilene and three grandsons visited Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Nettles over the weekend.

Mita and John Doyle Isenhower visited her parents the R.W. Reynolds at Elmdale Wednesday. Mr. Reynolds is doing fine after quite a stay in a Houston Hospital.

THE SUPER Bowl was pretty super if you wanted to see the Washington Redskins get roughed up. But as a football game, it wasn't all that interesting. There was too much pagentry and pregame activities for us, so we tuned in about kickoff time and tuned off when the final whistle blew.

After the pro bowl - the game between the all-stars of the two conferences - in Hawaii, we'll all be set for the U.S. Football League to begin play in a month or so.

Lions International, was the top guest speaker.

Mr. Chamness reports that his district has a gain of some 50 new Lions for the club year. They have three new clubs in the organization stage - a Mineral Wells breakfast club, a Grafard noon club, and an Electra noon club. Mr. Chamness will speak at the charter meeting of the new Mineral Wells club on Jan. 27th.

WHY HASN'T Jeanine Reich, one of the Lobo Queens been playing lately, somebody asked us. So we inquired and can report that it was because of a ligament tear in her right knee several weeks ago. Miss JR was required to wear a cast for four weeks. She is now out of the cast but must wait another week or two before resuming practice. Miss JR hopes to be back in the lineup before the season ends.

Miss JR goes to Abilene several times a week for therapy treatments. She is a junior and has another year to play.

A WEEK OR two before Christmas we reported that Mr. Bill Darr, who retired some months ago, was back at work at Darr Automotive to make some Christmas money. He has been working there since Christmas and, suspecting that Mr. Bill may have "over bought" at Christmas time, we asked manager Royce Darr of the place about it.

Sunday Morning Fire Destroys Farm Garage

About 2 a.m. Sunday a shop on the B.L. White farm between Cisco and Eastland was destroyed by fire.

Two men noticed the fire and awoke Kevin and Joan Strickland, who lived nearby, but they were unable to extinguish the flames which started in a tin shed near a wood stove as all of the available water was frozen.

Two fire trucks from Cisco responded to a call for help while some passing motorists stopped and helped Strickland to extinguish a grass fire that started from the burning shop before the trucks arrived.

The grass fire had threatened to ignite other buildings on the farm.

Some cars which were parked in and near the shop were pushed away, but there was some damage to paint, glass, plastic grills, and etc.

A welding machine, air compressor, tires, mag wheels, auto parts, transmission, auto engines, and thousands of dollars worth of tools were lost in the fire.

The heat of the fire charred and even melted some of the metal items.

It was reported that two of the engines were new and were to be installed in two of the cars.

C.W. Guthrie and Joe Jarvis of the Cisco Fire Department stayed at the scene until nearly daylight enduring the cold to control the fire as it destroyed the building.

The Whites and Stricklands also wished to thank Max Squires and his friends for their help which kept the losses from being even greater.

"Bill is enjoying working again," Royce said. "And I hope he keeps enjoying it. He does real good work."

THIS COMING weekend is a pretty important time in the life of the Rudolph Schaefer's of our town. Jan. 28th is Mrs. RS's birthday. Jan. 28th is their wedding anniversary, and Jan. 29th is his birthday.

So...the four Schaefer children and families will come to town this weekend for a big celebration on Sunday - her 78th birthday, their 57th anniversary, and his 82nd birthday. Mr. RS recalls that it was on a sunny day that Jan. 28th 57 years ago when they went to the First Methodist Church parsonage and said their "I do's."

Due for Sunday dinner are Norma Sue Schaefer Harris and family of Stennett, Gloria Schaefer Moser and family of Fort Worth, the Gene Schaefer family of Austin, and the Joe Schaefer family of Arlington.

The Sunday dinner table won't feature wild turkey or venison. This past season was the first time in more than 50 years that Mr. RS didn't get a shot at a turkey or a deer. There will, he assured us, be plenty of other good food on hand.

Although it won't be a public open house affair, there won't be anything wrong for old friends of the family to drop by Sunday afternoon to wish the Schaefer's many happy returns.

HOME FROM A California Christmas season vacation are the J.C. Fletchers of our town. They drove out to Hanford, Calif., in mid-December to visit their daughter and family, the Bob Lloyds. Mrs. JCF, who is recuperating from a serious illness, made the trip fine and they're happy to be home... Firemen tell us that they were in error in reporting the location of grass fires last week in South Cisco. It was on the Rich place on El Paso Avenue - not the Claborn place.

VISITING IN Cisco Monday night, Congressman Charles Stenholm said he was looking forward to returning to Washington after the Redskins lost in Sunday's super bowl. "DC folks have been giving me a fit about the Cowboys," he said... Like Mr. Al Anderson of our town, we were somewhat disappointed. He didn't want Washington to score any points... At the district Lions convention in Stamford last week, Jack Farleigh of Cisco was one of four Lions who were blindfolded while eating lunch. "It was pretty messy," he reports.

WORD of GOD

Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies, Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revelings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.
