Local Home To Receive Texas Historical Marker

The beautiful, stately home of Mrs. Kitty McCracken, located at 309 West 6th Street in Cisco, will receive a Texas Historical Marker in ceremonies on 10 a. m. Friday, July 4.

This will mark the first time a private residence in Cisco receives the Texas Historical Marker, and Mrs. McCracken is inviting everyone to share the joyous occasion with her. An open house will follow the dedication. Assisting Mrs. McCracken will be her children, Mr. and Mrs. Vance McCracken and family, and Mr. and Mrs. C.H. LaMontagne and family, all of Abilene.

The Cisco Historical Society will help with the dedication. Lela Latch Lloyd will give the history of the house, known as the Kean Home, and County Judge Scott Bailey will speak on the importance of preserving older homes.

Around Town

By Duke Dixon

This is July 4th week, a time of celebration, of picnics, and fellowship with our neighbors. As we reflect on how our fore fathers struggled to make us free, let's see that their struggles and hopes were not in vain.

America is the land of the Free and the Home of the Brave. She is a shining light to those who's desire is to become as free.

In New York harbor stands a statue that is a tribute to this great land. This year we celebrate her 100th anniversary. The Statue of Liberty, Lady Liberty, or Liberty Enlightening the World. Whatever name is given her, she stands as a shining monument to freedom.

We remember in talking to friends and family that fought in World War II, talking about her, and how when they sailed into the harbor, there she stood, as if to say, "Welcome home, you have kept my torch of liberty burning."

Let's all take time to remember that we have kept this land free for the past 210 years, and we want it to go on, at least another 210.

Freedom and Liberty does not come with a cheap price. It is very high, freedom comes with the cost of lives, lives of loved ones, husbands, brothers, sons, and fathers.

If you haven't heard and haven't seen the ad in this issue, Dan Dixon is reopening Dixon Auto Supply soon.

Merchandise and shelving started arriving Tuesday July 1, at 600 Conrad Hilton Ave. (The old Western Auto building).

Celebrate July 4th At The Cisco City Park

The Little Miss Cisco Contest is at 7 p.m. at City Park and many other events, listed elsewhere in the paper.

15-Year-Old Dead Of Gunshot Wound

A 15-year-old Olden youth is dead, his father injured and another youth is being held as the result of an altercation which is believed to have occurred late Monday or early Tuesday, according to Assistant District Attorney Bill Dowell.

Charles Daniel Jones was pronounced dead about 9 a.m. Tuesday by Eastland Justice of the Peace Guy Lyerla and his body was taken for an autopsy in Dallas by Bakker Funeral Home.

The boy's father, Bill Jones, was also allegedly assaulted with a deadly weapon, the assistant D.A. reported.

The Eastland County Sheriff's Office is investigating the series of incidents. The body reportedly was discovered early Tuesday near the railroad tracks in Olden, with gunshot injury about the head.

In custody is a youth reportedly on parole from the Texas Youth Council. A train crew discovered the body at 7:45 a.m.

Lela Lloyd of Cisco as she began her address to the Abilene Writer's Guild at the 1986 program of contest winners. She read the chapter called "Connie Comes to Cisco" from her new book. This won a Sesquicentennial Award.

Lela Lloyd Reads Prize Winning Manuscript

Lela Latch Lloyd of Cisco read the prize-winning first chapter of her book, "Cisco: Cradle of the Hilton Empire," to the Abilene Writer's Guild on June 26.

Mrs. Lloyd's manuscript, titled "Connie Comes to Cisco," won the Sesquicentennial Award in the annual contest.

Other first-place winners in the Guild competition also read their entries during the program. Mrs. Lloyd was the first to read, and received lengthy applause.

Billie McMillian, Guild President, and other officers welcomed Mrs. Lloyd to the meeting. Accompanying her to Abilene were Cheryl McComsey and Viola Payne of Cisco. A reception followed the reading of manuscripts.

Mrs. Lloyd's book is now at the printers, and is expected to be published in time for the opening of the restored Mobley-Hilton Hotel.

Little Miss Cisco Contest Will Be Held July 4th

The Little Miss Cisco Contest will be held at the City Park July 4th at 7 p.m. All young ladies between the ages of 4 thru 12 are eligible, and the deadline for entry is July 3. You may enter by calling 442-2573 or Lynn Wages at 442-3113.

There is also an entry blank in this edition of Cisco Press. If you do not have a sponsor, assistance will be given you in obtaining one.

She Strengtheneth Her Arms

(dedicated to American women)

Her arm seemed untiring, holding the torch for so long, but someone noticed that her arm did need to be strengthened. She had held up a beacon of hope for the hungry, homeless masses in search of freedom. But for her to continue, an inner strength had to be regained.

This year on July the Fourth our nation will celebrate the restoration of the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor. She was given to the United States by France in 1884 and her proper name is "Liberty Enlightening the World". She was refurbished in 1937 and again just recently. (2)

The 151 foot figure stands on a pedestal which elevates her to 305 feet from torch tip to the base. She is the largest statue ever made. (2) The colossal lady is "totally awesome" in today's vernacular.

She has massive, flowing robes; sandaled feet, with a broken shackle nearby (2); perfectly coiffured hair, and a crown with spikes, representing the seven seas. (1) The right arm holds a torch. She is the world's symbol of liberty.

Gazing at her we noticed the solemn facial expression. Her face was set like a flint. Nothing diverted her gaze. Her arms fascinated me the most, especially the arm holding the torch. It seemed that the sculptor could have used a slight virginal figure with slender, tapering arms. But we later learned that the sculptor Frederic Bartholdi purposely chose a more mature woman. He wanted to portray strength and tradition, so he chose his mother to be the model. (1)

Somehow, a very special Biblical lady comes to mind. Proverbs 3 tells about her. "She... strengtheneth her

Cottonwood Exes Met Last Saturday in Cisco

Mrs. Lucy (McGaha) Hagan and Mrs. Pearl (McGaha) Callaway opened the doors to the Corral Room in Cisco June 28 to their ex-students from the Cottonwood Community School, which was located 10 miles northwest of Cisco. Some 50 people gathered for the delicious meal prepared by those present.

Time was spent in reminiscing about the good old days, and they were good old days. The people of the Cottonwood Community had a closeness and love for each other that is hard to find now. We had community plays where parents and children acted together. Children put on plays to entertain their parents. There were ice cream parties, kool aid yard parties. Everyone played games together. The entire community came (unless they were sick in bed). There were front porch sing-alongs and people enjoyed each other. Television is fine but it has ruined the family communications to a great extent.

Every April Fools Day we went to school as usual but upon arrival the bell rang and roll was called, then the teachers took the entire school on a picnic in the pasture or to a tank or creek to wade in the water and play games, like Red Rover, stealing sticks, and follow the leader. Our children today don't know what it is to have a relaxed good time on almost anything. So they were good old days.

A picture taking session was held after the wonderful meal. Dr. C. M. Cleveland was MC for the program that followed. A short talk from each of the teachers was enjoyed by all. Jokes were told by Melton (Roy) Cleveland of Fort Worth, Dr. C.M. Cleveland and Catherine (Boatman) Pippen. John White recalled some school antics he took part in at the old school house. A duet by Mrs. Ila (Parmer) Wilson of Cisco and Mrs. Oletta (Huestis) Garvic of Downey, Calif. was joined by Dr. Cleveland for a trio number, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Anna (Parmer) Dytzel, was an enjoyable part of the program. This was followed by a solo by W. A. Marshall accompanying himself on the guitar, and he was joined by Catherine (Boatman) Pippen for a duet number.

Talks were made by Flourine (Yeager) Hagen and Oletta Garvic. Others joined in. The entire group sang together. Anna Dytzel played a piano number and a most enjoyable time was had by all.

Those present were: Mrs. Pearl (McGaha) Callaway, Ben and Sally White of Waco; Gordon Wadley of Eastland; Fuller and Era White of Mullins; Anny Spivey of Arlington; Roy (Milton) Cleveland of Fort Worth; Jim and Oletta Garvic of Downey, Calif.; Howard and Sarah Callaway of San Angelo; Jake (Jessie) Eloise Cleveland of Sanford, Fla.; Flournoy and Jeanene Cleveland of Amarillo; Loucie Callaway of Cross Plains; Sander and Marion Cleveland of Iowa Park; Dorothy (Dobbins) Williams of Abilene; Bill and Beulah Dobbins of Highland; Terry Campbell of San Antonio; Alpha Elder of Breckenridge; Howard and Edna Pryor of Indiana; and Wanda (Dobbins) Johnson of Jacksboro.

Those from Cisco were Mrs. Lucy (McGaha) Hagen, Edna Pence, Eunice Pence, Charles and Josephine Cleveland, Francis Parmer, Jewell Thomas, Thelma Watson, Shorty and Orella Callaway, Fay Callaway, John and Pearl White, W. A. Marshall, Lavern Carlile, Ila Wilson, Newt and Flourine Hagan, and Catherine Pippen.

Happy Keeps Clowning Around at Age 71

GRAND PRAIRIE - He hides his age beneath thick, white make-up, a big red nose and turned-up grin. An almost magical transformation takes place when Mel Hall paints his face. Like mild-mannered Clark Kent who becomes Superman, Hall becomes Happy Clown. Hall is 71 years young, and qualifies for the classification "senior citizen." His counter-part, Happy, shuns such labels. He jumps on his unicycle and takes pff; ole a teenager, going forward, backwards and around in dizzy circles. His chronological age may be 71 years old, said a recent admirer, but his physiological age is more like a trim and fit 42.

If Happy makes clowning look easy, he draws from a wealth of experience. He has worked with some of the greatest names in entertainment, including Bob Hope and Jack Benny.

After spending recent years in semi-retirement, Hall found an opportunity to bring Happy out of the moth balls and put him on center stage with the "Best Little Circus in Texas."

The circus, which performs matinee and early evening shows daily at the International Wildlife Park in Grand Prairie, is just what Hall needed to end retirement-blaha.

At the "Best Little Circus," Hall puts on a comedy routine using a Banana and a watch as props, and of course, by entertaining audiences with his unicycling feats.

Clowns traditionally provide transition between circus acts, and Happy hams with audiences and the ringmaster. The fast-paced circus covers several acts and plenty of smiles before the finale.

Happy puts on two, sometimes three shows each day throughout the summer without taking even a day off. In between shows, he often roams the park's Entertainment Village looking for crowds of people who receive one of Happy's spontaneous performances.

Audiences respond appreciatively, with loud rounds of applause. "I could sit in a dressing room, but I'd rather entertain," he said of his impromptu sidewalk show.

Idle time makes Happy unhappy. So at age 71, he vows to keep busy and keep clowning around.

New Telephone Directories Are Being Distributed

The 1986-87 Cisco telephone directory is being distributed through the week of June 30, 1986, according to Larry Vernon, community relations manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Vernon said a total of 7,654 directories will be mailed to area residents. Each residential customer is to receive one directory. For additional copies, customers can call their Southwestern Bell Telephone business of-ice during business hours Monday through Friday, Vernon said.

Vernon requested that customers not call right away. "If your friend across town gets his directory before you receive yours, we'll probably deliver yours within a few days," Vernon said.

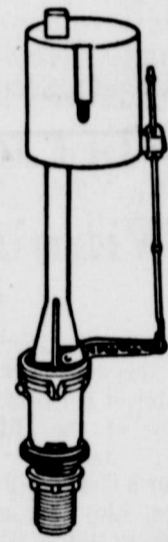

This year 19 white pages and 69 yellow pages make up the Cisco telephone directory. There are 7,906 white page listings.

Emergency telephone numbers have been placed in the inside front cover of the new directory. In the "Customer Guide" at the front of the directory customers will find tips on how to save money on their phone service and a new map illustrating long-distance service areas within Texas.

The Cisco telephone directory contains listings for Eastland, Ranger, Carbon and Olden.

CHIMES
Oh hear the beautiful chimes
Ringing loud and clear
Sending each of us a message
Of a Saviors love so dear.

When troubles and problems finds us
And we have no one to turn
If we just stop and listen
What a lesson we would learn.

For there is someone that loves us
Through out all of these years
In joy and all the good times
Through sorrow heartache and tears

When we hear the chimes ringing
Sending out hymns loud and clear
Let us tell others of Jesus love
That they may listen and hear.

Program Builders Analyzes Concerns

Over 50 concerned citizens from all locations of Eastland County were among 10,000 leaders in Texas who conducted intense examinations of local conditions in April, May and June. Their purpose was to identify critical issues that impose the greatest challenges on the citizens in various age groups, occupations, economic circumstances and community settings. Critical issues were identified in agriculture and natural resources, home economics, youth and community development.

The Eastland County Program Building Committee and the County Extension Agents now will prepare a long-range Extension program for 1987-1990 that will address the critical issues defined. Long-range programs from each county, in turn, will become the foundation of a state wide four-year program that will guide program development and resource allocation for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. In this way, educational programs are produced in response to local needs as defined by local leaders. This grassroots process of local program determination is the driving force of the Extension Service.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A woman had jumped from a bridge, and a little girl asked a bystander, "Why did she jump?"

"Maybe she was lonely, and she didn't have any friends in all the world," he answered.

"But," said the girl, "she won't find any friends in the river."

Are you all alone in your agony and grief? Is there too much month at the end of your money? Are you hooked by some habit? Did you marry for better or worse and is it worse? Have you come all alone to a dead end street and now you are in great pain? That is where the Lord is waiting for you. He is right there where you are, to offer you a lift, not a load; a blessing, not a burden; a song, not a sigh!

He wants you to soar, not to sink; to grow, not to grovel; to stand, not to stumble; to conquer, not to be conquered. And whatever He enjoins you to do, He enables you to do.

Once you invite Him into your heart, He will never leave you, or forsake you. Take Him, trust Him, and you will triumph!

SENILITY IS A MISLEADING TERM. Calling an elderly relative or friend "senile" is misleading and can cause a loss of self-confidence, says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren. "Senility is not a disease, nor is it a normal sign of growing old," states the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist. "It's simply a clinical term used to describe a large number of conditions with an equally large number of causes." Warren points out that some clinical symptoms of senility, such as serious forgetfulness, confusion and certain personality and behavior changes in older people may be the result of emotional stress. "The loss of friends and relatives through death, changes in living arrangements and lifestyle may cause the elder to be depressed, but that doesn't mean he or she is senile," the specialist says. Slight confusion or occasional forgetting may signify an overload of facts in the brain's storehouse of information rather than senility. There are a number of medical conditions associated with mental decline in old age, including multi-infarct dementia, Alzheimer's disease and Parkinson's disease. She stresses that only a thorough medical, physical, neurological and psychiatric evaluation by physicians can confirm or deny the presence of these conditions.

CHILDREN'S VITAMINS CAN BE A DANGER. Colorful, candy-like chewable vitamins are so appealing to children, that last year more than 8,500 youngsters under six swallowed large numbers of the pills at one time. "The greatest danger of vitamin overdosing is iron toxicity," says nutritionist Dr. Dymple Cooksey. "The symptoms include bloody diarrhea and vomiting, which can occur in a 30-pound child after eating 15 to 20 tablets of a children's multivitamin-plus iron." Parents need to treat children's vitamins as though they are a prescription medicine, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist. The child-proof cap should be tightly fastened and the vitamin bottle placed in a locked cabinet or a shelf out of reach. Since children may still get access to vitamin pills in spite of these precautions, she says parents should also teach their youngsters that vitamins may look like candy, but they are not.

GIVING CHILDREN VITAMINS NOT USUALLY NECESSARY. "After infancy, most children do not need routine vitamin supplementation," says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist. According to Dr. Dymple Cooksey, children who eat a balanced diet containing protein foods such as meat, poultry, fish and peanut butter; cereals and grains; dairy products; and fruits and vegetables should not need vitamins. Preschoolers often do have spells of not eating well, or wanting to eat only certain things. But over the course of several days their nutrient needs are likely to be met. Parents who are particularly concerned about children getting enough iron should be sure to include red meats in meals, notes Cooksey. Iron-fortified breads and cereals are another good source of this mineral. "When a child has an extremely poor appetite or does not seem to be growing, parents should consult a physician who can then prescribe vitamins or other nutritional supplements if needed," she advises.

VIRUS THREATENS SOUTH TEXAS PEANUTS. The tomato spotted wilt virus is once again threatening the South Texas peanut crop, says a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System. The virus has dealt severe losses to peanuts in Frio and Atascosa counties for several years, with losses in Frio County alone totaling more than $2.7 million in 1985. Numerous weeds carry the virus, and thrips transmit it to peanuts. Both weeds and thrips are numerous, so control procedures are difficult. A major effort involves determining which weeds are involved so that they can be targeted for control. Once plants are infected with the virus, there is no control method.

IRRADIATED FOODS ON THE WAY. Shoppers may soon find irradiated foods in their favorite supermarkets, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System. The Food and Drug Administration recently approved use of low level radiation to treat fresh fruits and vegetables for insects and inhibit ripening to extend shelf life. FDA earlier approved the use of radiation on wheat, potatoes, herbs, spices and pork. Irradiated foods must be identified with a logo, and the processor must maintain detailed records on the treatment. Among products that lend themselves especially well to irradiation are apples, citrus, tomatoes, asparagus, cherries, pineapples, mangos and papayas.

YEATS ENDOWMENT TO BENEFIT 4-H HORSE PROGRAM. A special endowment, with a goal of $100,000, is being established in honor of B.F. Yeates, longtime horse specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The endowment is an effort by former members of the 4-H horse program to insure the program's success in the future. The endowment is being established as part of this year's State 4-H Horse Show which will be dedicated to Yeates. The show will be July 21-26 in Abilene. The endowment will be used to hire an Extension assistant and to generate educational materials in horsemanship and horse production for both youths and adults, says the state 4-H program leader with the Extension Service. The 4-H horse project is one of the most popular of all 4-H project areas, with some 13,000 4-H ers currently enrolled.

Wedding Bells

Ewing-Clatterbuck Vows Said In Fort Worth

Miss Patricia Ann Ewing of Fort Worth and Gabriel Ross Clatterbuck of Boyd were married at four o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, June 28, 1986, at North Fort Worth Baptist Church. Rev. LeRoy A. Gemmill of Arlington, retired United States Navy Chaplain, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Barringer Ewing of Fort Worth. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel J. Clatterbuck of Clupeer, Va.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of taffeta with chantilly and alencon lace overlay. Seed pearls and sequins were scattered over the sheer neckline and deep V ruffle of the bodice. The full skirt formed a clover-leaf train. Her bouquet was of white gardenias and lilac tea roses accented with cascades of lily-of-the-valley.

Janice Jones of Fort Worth was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Kay Lea Donica and Lisa Ann Donica of Cisco, all nieces of the bride. They wore floor length taffeta dresses with spaghetti straps and matching jackets with ruffled stand-up collars. The maid of honor's dress was lilac, and one bridesmaid's dress was lavender and the other was anythet. Each carried a bouquet of lilac carnations surrounding white roses with a rose in the center to match their dress.

Curtis Spiva of Boyd was best man. Groomsman were Harold Donica of Cisco, brother-in-law of the bride, and Russell Sweeney of Fort Worth. Ushers were Fred Fleury of Fort Worth and Jerry Jones of Boyd. All male attendants wore silver western cut tuxedos and western ties and cummerbunds to match the bride attendants' dresses.

Mrs. Carl A. Horn of Aledo, aunt of the bride, played a medley of the couple's favorite musical selections on the organ.

The church was decorated the a fan shaped candleabra, two spiral candleabras, Japanese elms and palm trees, three blooming wisteria trees with two bouquets of gladiolus, carnations and roses in shades of lilac and mauve.

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the parlor of the church. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with cascades of wisteria, and there was a lighted champagne fountain. The groom's German chocolate cake was baked in the shape of Texas. Nuts and mints were served from his table.

Linda Hathaway, cousin of the bride, and Donna Ewing Hayes, niece of the bride, attended the bride's table. Cynthia Stooksberry served the groom's cake. Registering guests was Cynthia Sweeney. Jo Stafford of Fort Worth and Connie Donica of Cisco, sisters of the bride, were honorary hostesses at the reception.

Following a wedding trip to Austin, San Antonio, and the gulf coast, the couple will live in Fort Worth. The bride is a graduate of Castleberry High School and Harris Hospital School of Vocational Nursing and is an LVN at Harris Hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of Culpeper High School. He is employed by Dean Kolb Tractor Service as equipment operator-sales.

Congress Urged To Review Water Re-Allocation Pricing

AUSTIN, Texas - Some Texans will face severely increased water costs as federal Corps of Engineer pricing procedures for reallocating water storage in existing reservoirs are implemented, according to the executive administrator of the Texas Water Development Board.

"Instead of encouraging more efficient use of existing reservoirs, the policy of seeking a federal profit at the expense of state and local government sponsors may well cause needed reallocation projects to fail," wrote Charles E. Nemir in a recent letter to Texas members of a congressional conference committee that is completing major water legislation. "The consequence would be no return to the federal treasury and increased water supply costs for the State of Texas and its taxpayers."

Some of the water in a number of existing reservoirs built by the Corps is no longer needed for the purposes authorized by Congress in the original reservoir plans. Under provisions of the Water Supply Act of 1958, that water can be reallocated to other uses, such as for municipal and industrial supply. The Corps has historically required the entity purchasing the reallocated supply to pay 100 percent of the actual costs incurred by the federal government in developing the storage in the reservoir project.

In recent years, however, the Corps has changed those procedures and has required payment at replacement costs - the amount of money that would be required to build the same amount of storage at today's prices.

The result has been a 15-fold increase in the reallocation costs at some reservoirs.

"As already applied in two Texas cases, Lake Texoma and Lake Waco, non-federal sponsors have been required to repay 'updated' costs for storage in existing reservoir projects," wrote Nemir. "It is important to re-emphasize that this policy approach was adopted without review by Congress, and we feel that it is contrary to the prevailing pricing provisions in the Water Supply Act of 1958."

Nemir also noted that the Corps has developed special agreements that contradict its own reallocation pricing policy in at least two cases in other states.

Because of inconsistent and unfair application, the need to correct two Texas contracts... and the desire to promote additional efficient storage reallocation in the

'Old Rip' Sculpture Now In Homer Garrison Museum

In June Dale and Ruth Stewart stopped by the Homer Garrison Museum and Texas Ranger Hall of Fame in Waco.

While looking at the exhibits Dale was able to talk to the curator, Mr. Gaines de Gaffenried. Dale just happened to have one of his "Old Rip" detachable bronzes in his pocket and showed it to the curator who was slightly surprised. After he realized what it was, he cheerfully surprised a few others with it.

He decided that it should have a permanent home in the museum to make things even more interesting.

Arrangements were made for the "Old Rip" bronze to stay and Mr. de Gaffenried was still having fun when Dale and Ruth departed.

The bronze has been at the Eastland Courthouse beside the original Old Rip. It will be moved to Eastland National Bank to be on display for a few weeks.

Spotlights & Sidelights

By Julia Worthy

THE FARM PROBLEM
Willie Nelson grew up at Abbott just north of Waco.

That's some of the best farming country in the world, so it's not unnatural for Willie to be concerned about farmers.

Papa was a farmer, too, so topsoil has been a familiar topic for years, whether on the ground or on me.

The "plight of the farmer" means as much to me as it does to Willie, I think. His audience has a much greater scope than mine - unless I write a song for him to sing. That's an idea - not much of one, but it beats zilch - maybe.

No perfect solution to the current farm problem occurs to me, but it has been my observation over the years of a somewhat erratic life that the problems solved the soonest are the ones identified the quickest.

My sympathies go to people losing lands and homes. One part of me is a mush of sentiment, and my tear ducts operate independently of my brain - of each other, too. My left eye spurts forth salty water long before the right one tunes up.

While one part of my mind deplores the mean, of mortgage holders, another part says, "Banks are in business, too. A bank failure hurts more people than a farm failure."

Too, I can't recall a time when there wasn't a farm problem. The debate question I remember best, and this was more than fifty years ago, was about the Agricultural Adjustment Act - and Henry A. Wallace.

On a personal level the thing that pulled us through was that Papa always managed to keep a few head of cattle. He practices diversified farming, too. Our fields were never all wheat, all cotton, or all feed grains - not all anything except all plowed.

It didn't hurt any that every year for a long time, Mamma raised a flock of turkeys for market. Then she switched to "bucket" calves. Did you know that dairies used to GIVE away their unwanted baby calves? Then for awhile, they cost three dollars, and the last I knew about, they were up to twenty-five dollars.

Our milk came direct from the cow. Eggs were often warm when we picked them up. The can opener was usually at the bottom of a kitchen drawer. We didn't need it often as Mamma "canned" in Mason jars. She would buy "English" peas as she either didn't have very good luck with them or we ate them before she could get them in a jar.

Perhaps a major part of the farm problem is in size. As I recall our lifestyle, our creature comforts changed very little from the time Papa followed a team with a walking plow (Papa did the walking) to his acquisition of a Farmall tractor. We may have dressed better, but we didn't eat any better.

It is true, I believe, that the more one gets, the more one wants. This is especially true of land. "All I want is what's next to mine."

It is possible that root rot set in when the farmer took on more land than he could work by himself. "Himself" includes all his immediate family, of course.

No matter what "they" say, production and management are not the same. A good living and lots of money are not necessarily synonymous.

So, I wish Willie well with his Farm Aid efforts. Money is like a bandaid: it protects from further damage. However, the healing process comes from within.

Unless the farmers get "back to the basics" with Willie and friends, I don't see aid as a permanent solution to the farm problem.

Now, what ARE the basics?

Cisco Telephone Books

Now Being Delivered

The 1986-87 Cisco telephone directory is being distributed through the week of June 30, 1986, according to Larry Vernon, community relations manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Vernon said a total of 7,564 directories will be mailed to area residents. Each residential customer is to receive one directory. For additional copies, customers can call their Southwestern Bell Telephone business office during business hours Monday through Friday, Vernon said.

Vernon requested that customers not call right away. "If your friend across town gets his directory before you receive yours, we'll probably deliver you within a few days," Vernon said.

This year 19 white pages and 69 yellow pages make up the Cisco telephone directory. There are 7,906 white page listings.

Emergency telephone numbers have been placed on the inside front cover of the new directory. In the "Customer Guide" at the front of the directory customers will find tips on how to save money on their phone service and a new man illustrating long-distance service areas within Texas.

The Cisco telephone directory contains listings for Eastland, Ranger, Carbon and Olden.

Brings You These Important Tips...
YOU AUTO KNOW
Come see us in our new location Hwy. 80 East in Eastland...
Car radios may be pleasant, but DON'T drive wearing your portable stereo headset. It may block out important traffic noises that warn of potential danger.
What tires are right for your car? Remember that you may have to give up some treadwear to get the traction you want.
Don't drive in sunglasses, unless you have photochromic lenses which become clear out of the sun.
If your car air conditioner is not working at top efficiency, check for leaks of refrigerant. Usually occurring at fittings, these leaks are the most common cause of air conditioning malfunction.
It's smart to have your car checked by a mechanic you know and trust BEFORE you take it on the road for a trip.

It's smart to buy your car from a dealer you know and trust, too. In the long run, you'll always do best at Jim Caldwell Motors, Hwy. 80 East, Eastland, Texas 76448. 629-2636.

A Pink Bluebonnet?

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is working hard to tame 'Texas' most stately and beautiful wildflower, the bluebonnet.

If these efforts prove fruitful, the state flower of Texas may one day adorn yards and gardens rather than just the countryside in early spring.

The Extension Service is studying the bluebonnet with the hope that the flower will be able to be grown commercially, thanks to a special three-year $30,000 grant by The Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth.

Through the grant, the Worthington Bluebonnet Development Program has been established in honor of the newly-named Worthington Bluebonnet, a rare pale blue selection recently segregated by Extension Service horticulturists Dr. Jerry Parsons and Dr. Don Wilkerson. The program will support more intensive investigations into the bluebonnet's germination, pollination and color variations.

"Our role is to continue studying the plant's germination characteristics," Parsons points out. "We hope to eventually unlock the secrets of the bluebonnet's blooming cycle to make commercial production of seeds for garden annuals both efficient and reliable."

Bluebonnet transplants are becoming more readily available at local nurseries, notes Parsons, but too many variables remain that hamper full production of the flower for home gardening.

"A lot of mystery still remains to the bluebonnet's blooming cycle," says Wilkerson. "One possibility is that of 'forcing' blooms at a designated time, similar to the blooming poinsettias at Christmas and lilies at Easter."

"We also have identified and segregated several new color selections, such as the lighter blue Worthington bluebonnet. We now have varieties that are pink, white and very dark blue," notes Parsons. "But we remain several generations away from firmly establishing their final hues and mass production."

The horticulturists are hopeful that one day gardeners will be able to select, mix and match their favorite bluebonnet shapes, just as they do now with pansies, petunias and other annuals.

A big question regarding bluebonnets continues to be seed scarification and pollination. Since the seed coat is hard, most seeds are unproductive. In fact, commercially-produced seed currently have only a 30 to 40 percent germination rate, but Parsons is optimistic that this rate can be increased to as high as 90 percent through use of chemical abrasives.

Pollination studies are being intensified to enhance future breeding efforts, add the horticulturists.

"In many ways, the bluebonnet remains a mysterious flower, but we hope our efforts will unlock some of its secrets," says Wilkerson. "Since it is the state flower, we hope to make it available to all Texans so that they can enjoy it in their own yards and gardens rather than just in the wild."

Individuals wishing to contribute to these studies to domesticate the bluebonnet may do so by making checks payable to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and sending them to the Worthington Bluebonnet Development Program, 200 Main, Fort Worth, Tex. 76102.

Area News Briefs

CISCO
A curfew is still in effect in Cisco for the hours between 12 midnight and 6 a.m. The curfew has been in effect since June 12, after it was ordered by the City Council in a special meeting, which was called after a rash of fires hit. The curfew will remain in effect until it is cancelled by Mayor Joe Wheatley.

The Cisco City Pool will be having a swimming, diving and splash contest on July 4th, beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing until 12 noon. It will re-open at 1 p.m. for SPLASH DAY. Everyone is invited to come out and join in the celebration.

According to City Manager Mike Moore, water bills for the month of June, will be running about two days late due to an increase in sewer rates that has to be programmed into the computer. He also states that the date for late payment will be extended two or three days.

State fire marshalls who have been investigating the recent fires in Cisco, have sent samples to a laboratory to help determine the cause. City Manager Mike Moore stated that as soon as any news is heard, he will inform the citizens.

The second summer session of Cisco Junior College classes will begin July 15, at all locations. The Cisco and Clyde campuses offer both day and night classes, however, the Abilene campus will offer night classes only. For more information you may call the campus in Cisco, Clyde or Abilene.

A Texas Historical Marker will be placed on the home of Mrs. Kitty McCracken Friday, July 4th, at 10 a.m. The house is located at 309 West 6th Street, and known as the Kean Home. The Kean family lived in the house for over 70 years. During the dedication of the marker, Lela Lloyd will give a history of the house, and County Judge Scott Bailey will speak about the importance of preserving older homes. The public is invited to the program.

The Eastland County Health Fair will be Thursday, Sept. 4. The Fair will again be held in the Cisco Senior Citizen's Center in the Laguna Hotel. Health related organizations and agencies are invited to sponsor a booth, and space is free. Interested persons are urged to contact Mrs. Janet Thomas, Extension agent, at 629-2222 or 629-1093. This Health Fair is being sponsored by the Extension Service and the Eastland-Cisco A.A.R.P.

EASTLAND
The Eastland County Citizen Study Group met Tuesday night in the Eastland High School Library and outlined seven of the most critical issues for Eastland County. They were listed as: Economics, Natural Resources, Lifestyles, Community Services and Volunteerism, Youth, Health and Nutrition and Water. These issues will be added to the list of those selected by more than 10,000 other study groups across the state. These findings will be used to plan programs and channel resources in a way that will effectively meet the needs of Texas residents.

The Eastland Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently met and made plans to purchase a much-needed public address system. The money used for this came from proceeds of the CoC Barbecue, which was held Saturday, June 21. The Chamber is also looking for suggestions on possibilities for use of the giant Texas Flag.

The Eastland Jaycees are looking for entertainers to participate in their July 4th Festival. Many activities are planned for the day. The Jaycees are looking for bands, vocals, acts, and any type of entertainment. Arts and craft booths are also available at a cost of $25.00, with an additional charge of $10.00 for electricity if needed. If you are interested in obtaining a booth, contact Jaycee President Terry Simmons at 817-629-1707 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday or by mail at P.O. Box 202, Eastland, Texas 76448.

RANGER
Food Fare was the latest scene for a series of break-ins that have hit Ranger during the past week. A window was broken in order to gain entry and three cash registers were demolished. The glass door of Ranger Lumber and Hardware was broken, but no entry was made. Windows and doors were broken at Missouri Pacific Railroad Dept. The amount of damage is unknown at this time.

The City of Ranger is taking steps toward filing for a $300,000 grant for needed repairs on area homes. The repairs would include roof, porches, screens, windows and plumbing repairs on homes. An estimated $10,000 would be spent on each house, which would mean that 30 houses could receive repairs.

The Rangery Jaycees are planning a Rodeo and Parade to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 10, 11 and 12. There will also be a Rodeo Queen Contest. Anyone wishing to participate in the Parade may contact Johnny Graham at 647-3211 or 647-1987.

Booth reservations are now being accepted for the Roaring Ranger Days celebration. The event will take place Sept. 27th in downtown Ranger. Booths for food and crafts are available on a first come, first serve basis. Booths should be reserved by August 29th. To obtain a booth, you may call Kim Watson at 817-647-3091 or by writing her at P.O. Box 57, Ranger, 76470.

RISING STAR
Lane Wells, a long-time employee of the First State Bank in Rising Star, retired on June 10. He began at the bank in 1937 as a cashier, and retired as a vice president. In 1942 he took time out to serve in the Army, but returned to the bookkeeping department after the war was over. Some of the bank presidents during his years of service have been C.R. Tyler, Charles and James Rutherford, and Jim Rutherford. Wells says he is not much of a fisherman, but upon his retirement plans on putting in some time on the golf course, being involved with the community and visiting with his daughter in Cisco.

Rising Star is adding a celebration of the Texas Sesquicentennial this year to its traditional Fourth of July Celebration. The Festivities will include a dedication ceremony, barbecue lunch, music, a parade, and two nights of Rodeo. First will come a Bake Sale by the Saturday Club, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in front of Higginbothams on Main Street. A dedication will be held at City Park at 11 a.m., with a lunch to follow. There will be many events throughout the day, and musical entertainment.

The frequent rains we have had during the last 30 days have been most unusual. While the summer rains have been very beneficial in many ways, the humid weather has created many problems for agricultural producers to homeowners with gardens and ornamentals.

Many peanut stands throughout the county have been damaged by water erosion. This is a real problem since it is getting too late to start over and replant the fields. If peanuts were to be replanted in the wash out areas, they would mature much later than the rest of the peanuts in the field.

The warm, moist weather is also ideal conditions for all types of plant diseases. We are seeing many diseases on tomatoes such as Gray leafspot, Early Blight and Bacterial speck. Applications of copper-containing fungicides are most effective in treating this complex when applied on a seven day interval as long as high moisture conditions exist. Some fungicides that contain copper are Orthocide, Kocide 101, Kocide 404, K-Cop and Super Cu.

We have also seen a lot of Buckeye fruit rot on tomatoes. This is not the same as blossom-end rot.

Program Builders Committee Brings Up Critical Issues

By Viola Payne
(First of a Series)
The story of agriculture is as old as human history, and just as full of change and conflict. There has always been a clash of ideologies over land—whether it should belong to the heads of kingdom and governments, or whether individuals have the right of ownership, management and use.

So agriculture is always news - and especially so when the people involved in it get to speak for themselves.

4-H Club Holds Meeting To Install Officers

June 26, the Eastland 4-H Club met and voted who would hold the offices. The meeting was very successful. They elected Albany Sargent, president; Tammy Iyerla, vice-president; Kori Lewis, secretary; Cathy Thomas, reporter; Melaine Griffin, treasurer; Natalie Stevens, council delegate; Kyle Sargent, recreation leader; Monica Harbin, photographer; Bill Hughes and Mike Fox, telephone chairmen; Rebecca Massingill, refreshment chairman.

We know these 4-H'ers will do the best they can and we give them the best of luck to lead the Eastland 4-H Club to the tops. Thanks to all 4-H'ers who came to the meeting.

The Eastland 4-H Happy Go-Getters voted to paint the Siebert Elementary School flag pole this meeting.

Our next club meeting will be a swimming party in August.

aggressive, and usually tries to escape if given the chance. Most people are bitten when they come in direct contact with a brown recluse trapped in clothing, shoes, gloves, or bedding. Typical indoor habitats for the spider are behind picture frames, under tacked down carpeting, furniture, in closets, folded linens and areas that are seldom disturbed, such as corners, garages, attics and closets. Common places for an outdoor encounter with the toxic spider are wood piles, haystacks or under rocks.

There's no sure way to avoid the reclusive brown spider. However there are certain steps that can be taken to decrease the likelihood of an encounter: Be careful around the spider's outdoor habitats, such as rocks and loose bark. Frequently clean closets, cellars and attics. Shake out clothing and bedding before use. Remove collections of papers and unused boxes. Thoroughly clean beneath and behind furniture. Clean webs from living and storage areas. Use a water hose to wash off outside areas, especially under the roof and eaves. If you find what you think might be brown recluse on your skin or clothes, don't swat it; brush it off gently.

July 24, when the Eastland County Program Builders brought twenty-six critical issues for consideration in a public meeting. This event was sponsored by the County Extension Service.

Many of these issues had been under discussion since April 15, by about one hundred citizens divided into four task forces.

The general areas were defined as Agriculture and Natural Resources, Community Development, Home Economics, and Youth.

In an average year the sale of farm products totals around $3 million, with peanuts and cattle leading the list. Hay, pecans, melons and a number of other crops complete the amount.

With the drop in oil prices agriculture may come to the front as the largest source of revenue in the county. The sale of oil was running about $47 million annually until the sharp decline early this year.

There are 1,111 farms listed in this county, which gives this area a higher percentage of the farmers than the national average of around 2 percent of the population. The average size of a farming unit here runs around 422 acres, which makes it generally a family type of operation.

The total county acreage is 594,835 acres. Land use breaks down into 123,000 acres of brush, 123,982 of improved pasture, 25,000 acres of peanuts, and other cultivated land 107,000. More than land is in orchards, ponds, and lakes.

Irrigated land totals 12,000 acres in the county.

"The diversification of the farms here has saved Eastland County from the type of crisis people in agriculture are experiencing in other areas of the country," says DeMarquis Gordon, County Agent. "We need to diversify even more - to get some new crops for the county."

The County Agent goes on to say that these are the worst times for agriculture he has seen since coming to this county, however. "We've not only had bad prices for farm products - we've had inflation for everything we buy."

The County Agent mentions several positive things still going for agriculture around here. "Land prices never did escalate here like they did in the Mid-West, and we have not experienced such a sharp drop. The things that have kept land up around here is the sale for non-agricultural purposes. Hunting, for example, or small farms around town for homesteads.

Some financing is still available in the county for agriculture, Gordon says. "It's not as easy to get a loan as two years ago, but lending institutions will still consider agriculture."

Gordon looks over a late communication from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It is headlined simply "Managing For Survival 1986".

No big American Dream there - just survival. One of the features in the bulletin is called "Evaluating Changes."

There are enough changes to keep all the experts busy evaluating. For this is a challenging time for agriculture - a time of transition. Things are changing so rapidly that what you write one week may not be true to the time it is printed. It takes the best of brains to stay on top of such a situation. That is why the county owes a great debt to citizens such as the Program Builders, who contribute their time to working on problems which affect us all.

The testimony of vanished civilizations and the hungry mouths of the overpopulated areas of the world show what happens where people don't take the time to do this.

VA Warns Veterans Of Insurance Hoax

The veterans Administration is once again warning World War II veterans not to be misled by false information regarding the payment of a special life insurance dividend.

VA Administrator Thomas K. Turnage, responding to a reappearance of a hoax that has plagued the agency for almost 40 years, reiterated that the VA "does not pay dividends on lapsed insurance policies."

The hoax, which first surfaced in 1948, is once again making the rounds resulting in literally thousands of inquiries to the VA from all over the country. It is refuted every few years by the mysterious distribution of "applications" often poorly reproduced, and sometimes directed to a non-existent "Capt. Prosser" at the VA Insurance Center in Philadelphia. The forms claim that dividends are available for the asking and promises World War II veterans a dividend based on their military service, "even ed every few years by the mysterious distribution of "applications" often poorly reproduced, and sometimes directed to a non-existent "Capt. Prosser" at the VA Insurance Center in Philadelphia. The forms claim that dividends are available for the asking and promises World War II veterans a dividend based on their military service, "even if they haven't kept their policies in force."

The bogus application also claims that Congress has passed a law authorizing the dividends. There has been no such action nor is there any pending.

Army and Air Force Hometown News--Army Private J. D. Cathey, son of K. L. Cathey of 510 W. Fifth, Cisco, Texas, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

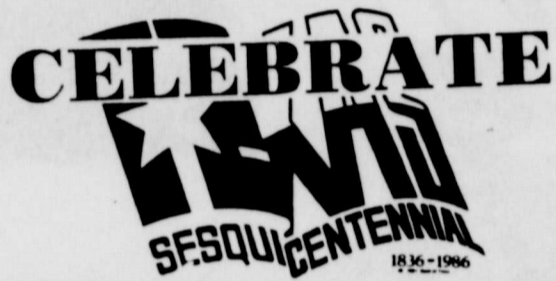

Fire Department To Sponsor Controlled Burning of Lots

The Cisco Volunteer Fire Department announced Monday, June 30, that they will begin controlled burning of lots in Cisco. Fire Chief Richard Connell said, "that the burning of lots consisted of vacant lots only, and that they must be clear of any out buildings." He said, "we cannot even consider burning lots with buildings of any kind on them."

Chief Connell stated that since the department has only a limited amount of time to burn lots that anyone wishing to have this done should call the Fire Dept. on their non-emergency telephone number: 442-3078, during regular business hours. He also stated that possibly one a week is all they can handle; and that lot owners need to still keep lots mowed until such time as the fire department can get to them.

Fire Chief Connell said that he will be in touch of those that request a lot to be burned, before it is burned.

Saturday morning June 28, the Cisco Volunteer Fire Department took delivery of the Jaws of Life. The Jaws of Life was purchased from the Texas Fire Rescue Company of New Braunfels.

This equipment was purchased by the CVFD, at a cost of $7100, through donations, and different types of fund raisers.

The Jaws of Life is a tool especially designed to remove victims from wrecked cars, or trucks in the quickest amount of time with a minimum loss of life. The Jaws is a power driven hydraulic tool that can lift, spread, or cut through metal, to extract a trapped person.

When the Jaws of Life was ordered some weeks ago, four firemen went to New Braunfels to school, to learn how to operate the tool. Those attending the school were: Joe Jarvis, Larry Weikel, Gerald Jackson, and David Gill. These men were trained so they could come back and share their knowledge with the rest of the department.

After a short indoctrination by two instructors from the school, who delivered the J of L, the members of the Fire Dept., went to a wrecking yard here in Cisco to get some first hand working knowledge of the Jaws.

The two instructors that came to Cisco with the tool are: Mike McKenna from Mission College, Santa Clara, California; and Vicki Cress from the Hudson Bend Fire Department of Austin, Texas.

AMERICA!

Americans celebrate Fourth of July, or Independence Day, as the birth of their country's independence.

Independence Day was adopted by the Continental Congress on July 4, 1776. The Declaration of Independence, declared to all the world "that these United Colonies are, and of Right out to be Free and Independent States." Since then the Fourth of July has been a special holiday for Americans. This marked the end of the American colonial period and entrance of the United States into the stage of history.

The event which took place on July 4 was the adoption of the historic document known as the Declaration of Independence, which was drafted by a committee headed by Thomas Jefferson.

Although the Fourth of July was set aside as the day to celebrate national independence, the actual "resolution of independence" was ratified by the Congress two days earlier. For several years Independence Day was celebrated on July 2nd, soon this was changed to July 4th. The Founding Fathers preferred to keep the day on which their decision had been announced to the world.

John Adams foresaw the future clearly except to the date of the celebration.

Early Americans celebrated their independence with more enthusiasm and violence than shown today. Due to the number of people killed and injured by fireworks and small arms, a movement grew for a "Safe and sane Fourth."

The Fourth of July is a legal holiday throughout the United States.

Arts and craft booths are also welcome. The Jaycees encourage any and all exhibitors to bring their wares to the Festival. Booth spaces are available at $25.00 per booth. DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

The Declaration of Independence was adopted by the Continental Congress, in Philadelphia, on July 4, 1776. John Hancock was president of the Congress and Charles Thomson was secretary. A copy of the Declaration, engrossed on parchment, was signed by Members of Congress on and after August 2, 1776. On January 18, 1777, Congress ordered that "authenticated copies, with the names of the Members of Congress subscribed the same, be sent to each of the United States, and that they be desired to have same put upon record." Authenticated copies were printed in broadside form in Baltimore, where the Continental Congress was then in session.

WHEN IN THE COURSE of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Liberty. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and according to the settled habits of the mind, men are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their duty, it is their right, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

HE HAS REFUSED HIS ASSENT TO LAWS, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained, and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places, unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, in order to fatigue them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsed to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies, without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our Laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us; For protecting them by a mock Trial from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States; For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world; For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent; For depriving us in many cases of the benefits of Trial by Jury; For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses; For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, and substituting in its stead a Government of their own contrivance, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies; For taking away our Charters, and abolishing our most valuable and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments; For suspending our own Legislatures and declaring that they invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

HE HAS ABANDONED GOVERNMENT here by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravished our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executors of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the Inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions in every stage of their Oppressions. We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. We have petitioned, we have remonstrated, we have supplicated, we have petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury.

WE, THEREFORE, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appeal to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, in the Name, and by authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Lady Liberty...

*"Give me your tired,
your poor,
Your huddled masses
yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse
of your teeming shore;
Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"*

Emma Lazarus

The Statue of Liberty - a National Monument, represents freedom and hope to millions around the world.

As a gift from the French, it was given to the people of the United States, and formally presented in Paris on July 4, 1884, with dedication being held in 1886. It's meaning from the French, was to commemorate the alliance of French and American Colonies during the Revolutionary War.

Located in New York, on Bedloe's Island, (which in 1956 was re-named Liberty Island) the Statue stands at 152 feet tall, with a 142 foot granite and concrete pedestal. She weighs 225 tons. In her right hand she holds a torch, in her left hand is a tablet representing the Declaration of Independence.

She started her journey to the United States on May 21, 1885, and reached her destination on June 17, only to find that the pedestal was not yet complete. It seems fund-raising efforts were not too successful up to this point. It looked as if the interest in the project was very low.

In an effort to raise more funds, Joseph Pulitzer, owner of the World, published an editorial titled "The National Disgrace". The article read as follows:

"It would be an inefaceable disgrace to New York City and the American Republic to have France send this splendid gift without our having provided even so much as a landing place for it...We must raise the money. Let us not wait for the millionaires...Take this appeal to yourself personally. Give something, however little. Send it to us. Let us hear from the people."

Shortly after the article appeared, over $25,000 was collected. In just five months, enough funds were raised for the completion of the pedestal. Striking, was the fact that 80 percent of the total received was from donations of less than one dollar.

With the completion of the pedestal nearing, it was time to start unpacking and assembling the Statue, which took four months.

Edward Rene Lefebvre de Laboulaye was the man who suggested the Statue, and organized it's financing. Frederic Auguste Bartholdi, a French sculptor, was to oversee the construction of the Statue, with Gustine Eiffel as the designer of the framework. Bartholdi's mother was the facial model for the Statue, and many believed that Jeanne-Emilie Baheux de Puyseux, who would later become Bartholdi's wife, was the model for the body of the Statue.

With completion near, the American Committee for the Statue of Liberty approached Emma Lazarus to write a sonnet. Her response was: "I am not able to write to order."

However, it was only a short time after that Lazarus had changed her mind. Two days later, the committee received the poem. It read as follows:

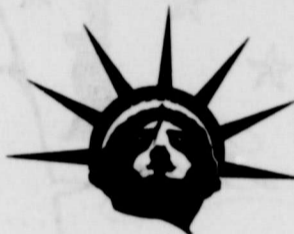

The New Colossus
Not like the brazen giant
Greek frame,
With conquering limbs
astride from land to land;
Here at our sea-washed,
sunset gates shall stand
A mighty woman with a torch, whose flame
Is the imprisoned lightning, and her name
Mother of Exiles. From her beacon-hand
Glowes world-wide welcome, her mild eyes command
The air-bridged harbor
that twin-cities frame.
"Keep, ancient lands, your storied pomp!" cries she,
With silent lips. "Give me
your tired, your poor,

Your huddled masses
yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse
of your teeming shore;
Send these, the homeless,
tempest-tost to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

Emma Lazarus became ill with cancer, and died at age
38, never to see the Statue assembled.

Annually, almost two million people travel from near and far to see the Lady.

The building and restoration of the Statue has been a joint effort by many, many people, from all around the world. Hopes are this effort to maintain the beauty, and symbol for which the lady stands, will carry on forever more.

Ice cream — always a reason for celebration

Legend has it that Thomas Jefferson introduced ice cream to the United States after he had tasted it in Italy. Although ice cream wasn't invented here, it has become quintessentially American.

Each year, according to the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, Americans buy more than 22.7 quarts of frozen dessert per capita.

Ice cream sales really zoom in the warm months, with the biggest consumption taking place in July. National Ice Cream Month. What a great way to celebrate America!

Most of our presidents were devotees of ice cream. Records for a New York merchant in 1790 show George Washington spent about $200 that summer for ice cream. Dolly Madison made a hit with her dinner guests with pink peppermint ice cream and cranberry sherbet! Andrew Johnson added benedictine to his lemon ice cream.

Hoover preferred a mango concoction. Truman enjoyed double dip cones on the campaign trail and the Kennedys chose elegant bombe glace desserts. At one of the many parties given for Ronald Reagan's 75th birthday, make-your-own sundaes were the hit of the evening.

What comes across is the diversity and versatility of ice cream. Today's ice cream manufacturers are dazzling us with the variety of flavors (more than 600 of them) and options.

Once you have chosen your favorite flavor, there are many ways of eating it: Plain, with fudge, whipped cream and nuts, or with a variety of other toppings, or in a soda or a float or a cone.

Are you a traditionalist? Then you'll want to continue to eat longtime favorite ice cream flavors — vanilla, chocolate, chocolate chip or strawberry ice cream — or to celebrate with the biggest banana split, the richest hot fudge sundae or the frothiest ice cream soda — or perhaps you'll go for a bowl of cookies 'n cream or butter brickle.

Statue of Liberty trivia

- The Statue of Liberty's face was modeled after its sculptor's mother, Charlotte, and the Statue's arms were inspired by the sculptor's fiancée, Jeanne-Emilie Baheux de Puyseux.
- Miss Liberty's mouth is three feet wide.
- The sculptor, Frederic Auguste Bartholdi, originally conceived the Statue as a monument for the Suez Canal, representing the West handing civilization to the East. Later, it became a symbol of Franco-American friendship.
- The Statue and its metal framework were packed in 85 huge shipping crates for the voyage across the Atlantic on the warship Isere.
- The original name of the Statue was "Liberty Enlightening the World."
- Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World, spearheaded the drive to raise funds for the completion of the Statue's pedestal. His efforts raised $100,000, and he brought 120,000 new subscribers to the paper.
- French and American schoolchildren played a large role in contributing to the statue and pedestal fund.
- Pennies, nickels and dimes were mixed into the mortar for one of the last stones to be laid in the pedestal, symbolizing the thousands of small contributions that made it a reality.
- The Statue's crown has seven spikes, representing the seven seas and continents.
- The broken chains at the Statue's feet represent freedom from slavery.
- The Statue has two 168-step stairways, one for ascending, one for descending. An elevator also carries visitors to the observation deck in the Statue's crown.
- Over 1,000,000 tourists visit the monument every year.
- The copper sheeting on Miss Liberty is only 1/100th of an inch thick.
- A small replica of the Statue stands in Paris on the Isle of Swans, a tiny island in the Seine River. It is a memorial to the French people for their part in sending Liberty to America.
- Emma Lazarus, author of "The New Colossus," the poem on the base of the Statue, was asked to write it to publicize the pedestal fund drive. Ironically, the poem was not well known during the peak years of immigration. It gained fame during World War II as refugees from another generation sought safe haven.
- Edward Moran painted two versions of the unveiling ceremonies for the Statue. The first, now at the New York Historical Society, was done in 1876 and shows an imaginary version of the pedestal, which was not yet completed. The second painting, at the Museum of the City of New York, was done in 1886 and illustrates the actual pedestal.
- Women were not permitted to attend the unveiling ceremonies at Bedloe's Island, presumably for their own protection from the crowds. However, members of the New York State Suffrage Association chartered a boat and sailed as close to the Island as possible.

My parents came here as immigrants from Warsaw in Poland. The Statue of Liberty was the first thing they saw when they came to this country. I heard many wonderful stories about it as I was growing up — stories about this flame, and the feeling it gave them, that they were welcome to this new land. I couldn't wait to visit it.

— Robert Merrill

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS are demonstrating their love of country and their renewed pride in the democratic system by proudly flying the flag. The one pictured here is from Lillian Vernon.

Flying proudly "o'er the land of the free"

Since that day on January 2, 1776, when George Washington raised the first American flag, the "Stars and Stripes" has been a symbol of unity, independence and an inspiration to millions.

As he gazed at the flag still flying over Fort Mifflin during the war of 1812, Francis Scott Key envisioned the survival of freedom and the American way of life, and immortalized it in our National Anthem.

A moving symbol

During the World Wars, the flag represented justice and dedication to bring democracy and peace to endangered peoples.

To the millions of immigrants who seek United States citizenship, Old Glory embodies their hope for a new start, a better life.

The emotion that the American flag stirred in the past may have started to waver, but today there is a renewed feeling of pride and patriotism abounding throughout the country. In keeping with this spirit, one of America's leading mail order catalogs is offering an American flag.

OPEN JULY 4th

We at the Quickway Grocery & Deli wish you a Happy Fourth Of July

We will be open on the Fourth for your last minute picnic Supplies.

Dear Editor:

As we celebrate the 210th anniversary of the birth of our great nation, it is easy to recall those whose names are recorded in the annals of history. However, there are many unsung heroes deserving our recognition and thanks who have namelessly contributed to the strength of the United States of America.

From the days of the first permanent settlement in Jamestown, through the American Revolution, the War of 1812, the American Civil War, both World Wars and most recently, Vietnam, men have borne arms to fight the common foe when occasion demanded.

During peace and during war, committed men have maintained the military strength so vital to the strength of the nation. Today we are blessed with peace and are fortunate to celebrate more than 13 years of draft-free existence. However, we must be prepared to bolster the all volunteer armed forces in the event of a national emergency.

Since Selective Service registration was reinstated in 1980, more than 16 million men have added their names to the list of those eligible to serve their country in a time of need.

As we take time to celebrate this national day of pride and rejoice in the unveiling of the refurbished Statue of Liberty, let us also take the time to celebrate the commitment of the 18-year-old men who take five minutes of their time to register with Selective Service and thereby continue our efforts to keep America the "land of the free and home of the brave."

Sincerely,
Wilfred L. Ebel
Acting Director
