Lucy Hagen, Program Chairperson, asked her assistant, Fave Clack, to give the devotional.

Faye gave a short talk on Birthdays. Though some people don't like to mention birthdays, Fave told them that each person should be happy for each and every birthday because a birthday is really a gift from God. She said no matter the age a person should stay young at heart. She read three poems: "Birthdays - A Gift From God" - "Golden Years of Life": and "God of Creation Save Our Nation.

There were many great casseroles, salads, other covered dishes, cakes and condiments served, but this reporter did not get the names this time.

A Thought For The Day

Anger is a human trait. It has been a part of man since the beginning of time and since it is a natural emotion, anyone can get angry at times. Many references to anger and wrath are seen in the Bible.

It is a mental agitation, however, that should be controlled because it can be harmful. Any doctor will tell you anger causes blood pressures to go up. Release of uncontrolled anger cna only give temporary satisfaction and that is certainly a high price to pay for probably shame and regret.

No on can competely extinguish anger. It is as natrual as tenderness, sorrow, fear or joy. Because anger takes a heavy toll in mind and body, moderation is needed as a matter of selfconcern. Jefferson once said, "When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, count a hundred."

It was a good rule to live by in his time...It still is!

Obituaries

Eunic P. Chrestman

RANGER - Eunice P. Chrestman, 90, died Saturday, March 31 at a local nursing home.

Services were held at 2:30 p.m. Monday, April 2, at First United Pentecostal Church with the Rev. Ken Coldgrove officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery, directed by Edwards Funeral Home.

Mrs. Chrestman was born in Erath County, grew up in Pine Bluff, Ark., and moved to Ranger in 1945. She was a homemaker, was the widow of Ocie J. Chrestman, and was a member of First United Pentecostal Church and the Ladies Auxiliary Survivors include two sons, Ocie Foy Chrestman of Flora Vista, N.M., and Thomas William Chrestman of Roseburg, Ore.; two daughters, Thelma (Mrs. J. D.) Broyles of Olden and Velma (Mrs. Don) Cozart of Dallas; a sister, Velma Morris of Paris; 12 grandchildren; nine greatgrandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

I am writing in regard to the 'Rescue Line' in or local news paper. Please, those of us, who cannot see too well, would like for the print to be a little larger. Is that possible? It seems that the 'fishing outdoors' has a fairly large column.

Anyway thank you for the nice coverage you give this 'Rescue Line'. The print needs to be larger.

Thank again Irene Tuggle 100 Sandler Dr. Cisco, Tx.

Eastland County continues to be involved with the work of M. D. Anderson Cancer Center in a special way. The Anderson Network Open House last Saturday at the First Baptist Church on S. Seaman had a good turnout. There were visitors from the M.D. Anderson Center, and patients and former patients from Eastland County, Brownwood, Graham, Clyde, and many other places in the area.

It was decided to have a day-long patient conference in Eastland on June 2. Speakers from M.D. Anderson will discuss topics of interest to patients, their families, and others with concerns about cancer patient support.

Invitations to this event are going out to 800 former patients of M.D. Anderson who live in Eastland County and the surrounding area.

The Conference will provide the lastest in cancer information, education, coping mechanisms and employability/insurability issues.

The M. D. Anderson Center, a branch of the University of Texas, is one of the world's foremost Centers in cancer patient care, research and prevention. The Hospital's research center employs leaders in tumor and cell biology, immunology, biochemistry, genetics and other fields.

The Center is a referral hospital, so patients must be referred by their local doctors to the Houston facility. M. D. Anderson doctors then work closely with local doctors in arranging treatment for patients after they return home.

The Anderson Network and a number of other M. D. Anderson projects are being funded by the annual "Polo On The Prairie" Benefit at the Musselman Bros. Ranch near

Co-Chairmen of this exciting fund-raiser are Henry Musselman of Midland and Mary Anne McCloud of Eastland, the wife of Judge Austin McCloud, Musselman is married to the McCloud's daughter Melinda, who graduated from Eastland High

"Polo On the Prairie" holds a special place in the hearts of its Chairmen, as well as others who assist. Henry Musselman's mother was treated at M.D. Anderson Center for cancer for several years before her death in 1972. Her family appreciated the kindness shown her by the staff at M. D. Anderson, and wanted to show gratitude in some manner.

In the mid-1980's Musselman, the President of the Midland Polo Club, began to wonder if fund-raising Polo matches could be held on his ranch near Albany. He told his Mother-in-Law of his dreams, and she encouraged him. Mary Anne McCloud assisted in organizing the first "Polo On the Prairie" in 1987. The event had 750 attending, with $25,000 raised.

It has since mushroomed, with 1200 guests in 1989 and $80,000 raised for the Hospital. This year's event promises to be even more successful, with interested people who cannot attend the late-April Polo match sending contributions to raise the to-

Besides the Anderson Network, the 1990 "Polo On The Prairie" will fund a Long-Term Follow Up and Health Maintenance Clinic for Pediatric Patients, Reconstructive Surgery for Patients, Metastatic Melanoma Research, and Cancer Prevention Clinic Projects. Numerous other projects have been funded in the past.

"These programs would not be possible without this special funding," Mary Anne McCloud says.

She also explains there is

"M. D. Anderson is on the cutting edge of cancer treatment," Matthews says. He adds that the Hospital not only

ANGLERS PLACE WELL AT HUBBARD

Area anglers made an excellent showing this past weekend at Hubbard Creek. The Big Country Bass Club's 5th Open drew 159 anglers from across the state. The winning weight for three fish was just over 10 pounds.

Local anglers finishing well included: Butch Willingham, 3 fish 8.09, 4th; Gary Horton, 3 fish 7.10 5th; Al Senterfitt, 3 fish 4.08 17th; and Joe Bob Moore, 3 fish 4.11 for 15th place. The majority of the fish were reported coming from shallow water.

Just a few warm sunny days and all big country lakes should be red hot. Lots of buck bass are holding in shallow water waiting on those is credited with adding 18% to the average size of some varieties of peaches. An increase of size from 1.9 inches to 2.25 inches in early peaches will double their worth in most markets and make the back yard grower happier to. Why then is it so hard to accomplish adequate thinning? There seems to be several reasons. It is psychologically hard to remove ad discard immature fruit. It seems such a waste to see all the immature peaches on the ground. This seems to be an especially important factor for new growers and homeowners. But, after a few years of little peaches, or after a humid, hot year where every peach that touches another peach has brown rot, most find it easier to take the small fruit off.

We have lost so many crops to late freezes, it is understandable for people to be conservative about thinning. Some people reason that a spring hail storm or wind storm may come and destroy part of the crop. This could happen, but if the storm is bad enough to destroy part of the crop it will probably destroy the entire crop. This is one of the risk associated with the

Another reason why it is hard to thin is the time and labor required. That decision that must be made based on cost versus reward.

Timing is a key element in fruit thinning. The earlier that peaches are thinned, the greater the dividends. Bloom thinning is best for very early peaches but is unnecessary for most midseason and late peaches. It can even increase pit splits in varieties prone to that characteristic. After pit hardening, thinning doesn't do much good.

Mid and late peaches can be thinned in the dime size stage by scraping and plucking. Growers and the literature describe a procedure using a baseball bat padded with sponge rubber to thin peaches. A few firm swings shake loose a portion of the excess fruit. A stiff, rubber hose does a similiar job. The procedure is fast but inade-

Yellow Is In For C.M.N.

Time is upon us again for our Childrens Miracle Network fund drive.

Your local Wal-Mart has joined its efforts with our local Dairy Queen chain and the Eastland I. G. A. Store in several of our fund raising

Our C.M.N. theme color is yellow. Wal-Mart along with Dairy Queen and I.G.A. personnel will display yellow ribbons in support of Childrens Miracle Network.

C.M.N. was established by the Osmond foundation to help children's hospitals provide special services and programs, and to purchase stateof-the-art equipment. The primary goal of C:M.N. is to improve the quality of health care for children across the country. C.M.N. raises funds and educates the public on Thursday, April 5, 1990 This newspaper ran a story about runaway youth from Cisco stealing vehicles and being suspects. While there is a problem, readers should remember that there are several homes for problem youth or young people with problems in the Cisco area. The different homes are owned and managed by different people, even though some are related and have the same last name. And the homes have different problems and success rates with the different people they work with. While the total of problems for all runaways was published and seems large, individual homes may be doing an exceptional job of "straightening out" young people and providing homes for them. And their rate of failure and problem incidents may be extremely low.

We apologize for any criticism that may have been directed toward those people who are doing a good job with youth and don't deserve criticism, as the result of people having - read our news story.

the marriage of Staci Suzanne Jones and Daniel Howard Wilks, both formerly of Cisco, at the Hilton Hotel, Dallas/Fort Worth Airport.

Staci is the daughter of Pastor John C. and Betty Jones of Cisco. Dan is the son of Voy and Myrtle Wilks, also of Cisco.

Guests arriving at the hotel were directed to the Capital Room, which had been decorated by Donnie Petree of Cisco. A gleaming brass archway with intertwining red roses and wide silver lame ribbon was the focal point. It was flanked by matching brass candelabra.

A muted introduction from Wagner's "Wedding March" signaled the start of the 7 p.m. ceremony. Maid of Honor Allison Williams, cousin of the bride, and Groomsman Farris Wilks, brother of the groom, lit the slender white tapers of the candelabra.

Guests of honor, Mrs. Lula Petree of Cisco, the bride's paternal mother, and Mrs. Wanda Jones of Cisco, her maternal grandmother, were seated by Usher Daniel

Q. My child seems to be having learning problems in school. As a parent what should I do about it?

A. You have made the first step in recognizing that there may be a problem. It would be a good idea for you to talk with may be a problem. It would be a good idea for you to talk with your child's teacher about your concerns. By having a conference you and the teacher may find new ways of helping your child. Early intervention is the best way to curb problems that may become very serious in the years to come.

It is said that all people have learning disabilities to some degree, but when they interfere with normal progress, the teacher and parents may need to look for different ways of helping the child learn.

Some characteristics of learning disabled children are as Dallas opposite.

As the "Wedding March" began to swell, the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. At the front of the room he paused.

He said, "Her mother and I give Staci in marriage,' and put her hand in Dan's.

She wore a white gown of satin and organza. The elongated bodice, adorned with pearls and sequins, had a high, flaring collar which accentuated the V-neck. Long sleeves of embroidered organza were capped at the shoulder by puffs of gathered satin. The full skirt of embroidered organza, fitted at the waist, flowed into a filmy, profusely ruffled chapel train.

Staci's matching veil flowed from a puff of organza at her crown. Her hair was held by a satin band trimmed with pearls and tiny flowers. A gold necklace repeated the V of the gown's neckline. She carried a bouquet of tiny red roses in white lace, trimmed with narrow red ribbons.

Echoing those colors, the groom wore a white tuxedo

"THE WEEK OF THE YOUNG CHILD":

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service joins the National Association for the Education of young children efforts in promoting April 1-7, as THE WEEK OF THE YOUNG CHILD.

The purpose of the week is to build public understanding of the importance of carly childhood programs in our society and to foster needed public support for such programs.

The theme this year is "Quality Child Care: Good Beginnings Never End." Today more than half of all mothers of pre-school children and more than 2/3's of all mothers of school-age children are in the labor force. These numbers are expected to grow. The number of children living in households headed by a single parent female has also risen and will continue to grow. Having two children in child care costs a single Texas mother earning minimum wage 86% of her annual income.

Every child deserves a good beginning that provides growth and development. An estimated 30,000 Texas children under age six are left to care for themselves while their parents work.

Mrs. Janet Thomas, County Extension Agent, suggest these words that can help kids. Parents, teachers, child-care providers, grandparents can start using these words that will validate a child's feelings and give him or her encouragement...

According to the American Cancer Sociey, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small o even before it can be felt.

A story

I will never forget that day in 1960 when those two young boys from Cisco came to Moran and found me under that tree. It was pretty well known that I was available but the demand must have been low for my type. I remember how the older boy seemed to be advising the skinny one, who by the gleam in his eye, liked what he saw.

My owner was telling him how I had been driven under that tree some five years ago and should start with only a battery and tune-up. The skinny one didn't seem to care about those things, only how much it would take to own me. The price went $75 asking, $50 offered and $60 sale. It looked like I was destined for now ownershop but then my

The old Ford car has a story to tell

What a long wait I experienced while those two excited boys were gone getting that note of approval so I could be purchased. So many thoughts ran through my mind as I waited, "where would I end up, restored, hot-rodded, junked or even worse, rusted away." Hours passed and to my surprise, the permission was granted and with a chain and an old Pontiac, I started my journey to that new home. What a surprised young man it was behind my wheel, with its full turn of free-play, and mechanical brakes that were poor even in my youth.

We made it to Cisco but only after near calamity on a hill where no brakes and my "Ford" emblem made me try to pass the Pontiac in the lead.

At my new home at last, I settled down in an old doorless garage where "the kid" soon discovered that I had not run in years. What was expected to be a two week project ran into a two year project on the pay-as-you-go program. I was surprised at the ingenuity of "the kid" and his sister who assisted in my

He traded two old bicycles for four hours of welding to close the gaps in my fenders, he spent days in the junkyard bringing home parts needed and spare parts for problems to ome. He removed my seat and I was without it for nearly two years. By 1962, the motor had been rebuilt, non-professionally I might add, and I was being prepared for a coat of

When my owner started his senior year in high school, I proudly carried him that first day. I was constantly getting attention for the next few months. I looked good but it was obvious that my cosmetic improvements were applied by an amateur who was unable to see my many blemishes and imperfections.

My running gear was acceptable, but my on was 32 years old and so were my brakes. We had a great time that year my brakes. We had a great time that year going to pep rallys, ballgames, band practice and dating. I embarassed him more than once by knocking off at inopportune times and once by having a shaking-shimmying fit in front of the school during lunch break. He should have known better than to lubricate my front end. All this fun lasted only about six months, when his sister was driving me home and I when his sister was driving me home and I knocked a rod. Little did I know that he had decided that an old car was great to have, but not dependable enough for an "important" senior. Backed into the garage, I had no idea what was in store for me. The next five years, would fall victim to thiefs who took my gnition parts and other minor, hard-to-find items. By late 1963 I was moved to a garage with doors and bricks were placed under my axles. Did this mean I was to be ignored or was I just being saved from rust and the junkyard?

The next four years, my owner became a young adult appearing before me periodically to ensure that I was still there and not being disturbed. It was mighty peaceful those years, but 1969 would change all that. Air for the tires and a push from the garage landed me in the yard where my motor was changed and I was required once again to perform. As my owner and his belper did the work, I overheard talk of war and finally I realized that this resurrection was short-lived too. We that this resurrection was short-lived, too. We played for 30 days with his new wife who readily accepted his affection for the vintage tin. I will never forget the day they backed me into the garage and with tears in his eyes, I was drained of fluids and my motor was flooded with oil. Blankets were placed over me and a note stuck in the wiper explaining my condition and what to do if my owner never returned. As the doors closed, I don't know who was sadder, me, the now not so skinny lieutenant, or his sweet and pretty

What a surprise a year later when the doors flew open and there stood a tanned, smiling young man who I recognized as that boy who had saved me from the rust years before. We didn't start my engine that year but I knew that time would come again. Time passed and he checked on me at least once each year. He would turn my crank and talk to me but nothing was said to indicate his plans. One year he showed up with a baby boy, then two years later, he showed me a baby girl. After that I watched those two kids grow as they made their annual pilgrimage to Nearly 20 years passed and my garage became a storage for everything possible. Then it happened, my owner and his handsome son opened the doors with a look in their eye that meant only one thing. One day was spent just clearing the garage for access. My tires were inflated and I was pushed into the alley. The boy and his sister spent hours washing and rubbing. Next came antifreeze, gasoline and an oil change.

Suddenly, I was engulfed by neighbors and friends who installed a battery, set the timing, points and, plugs and the moment of reckoning was here. I felt the door open, his foot on my running heard and finally that foot on my running board and finally that familiar but almost forgotten feel on my seat. The ignition was switched on and his foot went for the starter. I had waited 20 years for this moment and no one was to be disap-pointed. The starter engaged and as had been rehearsed in my mind all those years, I fired as if I had been run everyday since 1960. The neighbors were surprised, my owner was thrilled and the kids couldn't believe how 'neat" I was. All I could hear was, "I can't believe it doesn't even miss," "Can we take a ride, Daddy?," "No, we won't drive it, I don't think either of us could stand the excitement." Now, with battery removed, body cleaned and garage secured, I await my next assignment. Will it be restoration, more rest, or even greater, raising the next generation owner, his skinny son.
