Researcher Warns Asbestos May Kill 500,000

CHICAGO (UPI) — Despite years of medical warnings about asbestos fibers, the fireproofing material is still in widespread use in America and could account for half a million deaths by the end of the century, a researcher warns.

Dr. Irving J. Selikoff of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York says cancer and other diseases caused by asbestos since its introduction during World War II are only now beginning to show up.

He predicted 20,000 asbestos-related deaths will occur each year by the end of the century unless there is a massive public health campaign to eliminate its use.

"In the period between World War II and the end of this century, well over half a million Americans will have died of asbestos-related diseases," Selikoff said in this week's edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

He said 700,000 tons of asbestos is still being used each year in the United States, chiefly in products such as cement pipe, brake linings, paper products and textiles. The substance can be found in buildings, schools, homes and cars.

Most recently, its use in home hair dryers touched off a public health scare that resulted in the manufacturers' voluntary recall of many of the dryers.

Research linking asbestos with cancer and other incurable illnesses began surfacing more than a decade ago. Because it often takes 25 to 30 years from the time of asbestos exposure until the disease symptoms occur, Selikoff said Americans already are facing a major public health threat.

Aside from "meager attempts to regulate new asbestos use and to monitor occupational exposure, virtually nothing is being done to remedy the public health failure and turn back the legacy of death from asbestos," he said.

"Unless we learn the lessons of the past, we are destined to compound the deadly legacy of asbestos and start the clock ticking for the next 40 years," he said.

Selikoff said an epidemic of asbestos-related diseases is a public health failure rather than a failure of the medical profession.

"We have made an unconscious decision to accept some level of mortality as the price we must pay for its usefulness," he said.

Selikoff said he does not believe there is any "safe" level of exposure to asbestos and the only way to eliminate its diseases is to eliminate the material.

He said a number of substitutes for the substance are available, although the asbestos industry claims that few function as well.

U.N. Aims New Slap At Soviets

By The Associated Press

The U.N. General Assembly reconvened its emergency session today on the intervention of Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Late this afternoon, it is expected to vote on a resolution which "strongly deplors" the move and calls on the Soviets to withdraw immediately.

The session, which was scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m., got under way 45 minutes late with about 20 diplomats scheduled to address the group.

A vote is expected after the speeches, which U.N. officials said could go into late afternoon.

A draft resolution proposed by 17 Moslem and Third World countries "strongly deplors" the armed intervention in Afghanistan and calls for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the Central Asian nation.

It does not mention the Soviet Union by name. The assembly has no power to enforce the resolution and the Soviets are considered sure to ignore it.

The assembly debate comes after the Soviets vetoed a U.N. Security Council resolution criticizing the Soviet move into Afghanistan shortly before former President Hafizullah Amin was deposed on Dec. 27. Amin was executed and replaced by Soviet-backed Babrak Karmal. Western sources in Kabul estimate the Soviet troop force in Afghanistan at 100,000 men.

Throughout the assembly and council debates, the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan has been defended by Moscow's allies in Europe and Asia and sharply criticized by Western and most Third World countries.

During the third assembly session on Saturday, U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry said the Kremlin "cannot ignore international law without suffering serious consequences." He said America and other nations were considering taking unilateral action to convince the Soviet state "of the magnitude of its error."

Meanwhile, Moslem rebels were reported putting up stiff resistance to Soviet troops in the highlands of eastern Afghanistan, as thousands of Afghans packed mosques in the capital city of Kabul to mourn political prisoners killed by the previous communist government.

Diplomats in Islamabad, Pakistan, said the Afghan rebels had stepped up fighting near the eastern border with Pakistan. Pakistani newspapers reported heavy fighting across the rugged countryside of the Central Asian nation, including SOVIETS FIND Page 14

Tahoka Man Rebuffed By High Court

A-J News Services

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court today left intact a Tahoka man's 1977 drug conviction despite his claim that Lubbock County systematically excludes Mexican-Americans from juries.

Without comment, the justices refused to hear arguments from Pedro Delarosa Flores aimed at invalidating his 1977 conviction for possession of marijuana.

However, Flores' attorney, Mark Smith of Lubbock, said he will ask the Supreme Court to reconsider its decision not to hear the appeal.

Flores, a former cocktail lounge operator, was convicted of possessing about 10 ounces of marijuana when his pickup was stopped by police officers Jan. 2, 1975.

In June 1977 Flores was assessed a three-year probation sentence.

In seeking Supreme Court review, Smith argued that Mexican-Americans, shown by census figures to comprise at least one-fifth of Lubbock County's population, are greatly under-represented on local grand jury and petit jury panels.

"The evidence is overwhelming that such a systematic exclusion exists," the appeal said.

Upon learning of the Supreme Court's decision not to hear the case, Smith said it fell into a pattern of current court decisions to "roll back individual rights in crime cases."

Smith also claimed the fact that Flores is Mexican-American contributed to the court's decision. "I don't think our Supreme Court holds out much hope of aid if you're in one of the inferior groups like blacks, Mexican-Americans or women."

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals rejected the jury bias argument, along with others mounted by Flores in upholding his conviction, last Sept. 19.

The case originally was tried in Judge Denzil Bevers' 72nd District Court.

The Supreme Court today also left intact a ruling that meals regularly given to workers are not considered wages subject to Social Security taxes.

The justices refused to review a U.S. Court of Claims decision that such meals cannot be taxed for payments by employers and employees into the Social Security fund.

The lower court also ruled that the meals are not subject to federal unemployment taxes paid solely by employers. That aspect of the ruling also remains intact.

At stake, said government lawyers, were $12 million in disputed tax assessments and payments.

What's more, the government now may be hit by a wave of new refund claims from other employers and employees.

In other action today, the high court:

—Agreed in a case from Puerto Rico that a public official is immune from a civil rights suit if he is not accused specifically of acting in bad faith.

—Agreed to decide whether South Dakota can refuse to sell cement to out-of-state buyers until all orders from state residents are filled.

Iran Ready To Hold Hostages 'Forever'

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh warned today the American hostages might be held "forever" if the United States refuses to extradite the shah, and told other governments they risk harming their relations with oil-rich Iran if they join the United States in imposing sanctions.

(Other Iranian Stories On Page 10, Sec. A)

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar said today that all American reporters would be expelled from Iran "in the very near future" because of "biased" reporting. Moinefar is a member of the ruling Revolutionary Council.

In another development, an American reporter said embassy militants had told him the hostages will be allowed to hear a recorded broadcast of the American Superbowl football game, scheduled for Sunday.

The reporter, Alex Paen of Los Angeles, also quoted the militants as saying spy trials will begin for the hostages as soon as revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini gives the word. Trials have repeatedly been threatened for the American captives, whom the militants call "spies."

Ghotbzadeh said Khomeini's regime was prepared to wait "more or less forever" for the return of the ousted monarch, the basic demand of the students who seized the U.S. Embassy on Nov. 4.

In another development, Iran warned that it "will not accept any unilateral measures" concerning the security of the strategic Strait of Hormuz and that such action would be considered "as detrimental to Iran's vital interests," the Pars news agency said.

A statement carried by the official agency noted that discussions "are being heard concerning protection" of the strait, which links the Persian Gulf with the Indian Ocean. About 40 percent of the West's oil passes through the strait. President Carter has left open the possibility of taking unilateral military action in the area, such as a naval blockade, if the Americans are not released.

"We have set very definite procedures for solving the problem," said the foreign minister, adding if the United States continues to "play politics" with the crisis, the hostages will remain in captivity.

Referring to the Soviet veto Sunday of a U.N. Security Council resolution asking sanctions against Iran, Ghotbzadeh said:

"Now that the United States' stubborn and baseless attempts have failed, we are calling on other governments not to get involved in the U.S. political games and avoid any measure which may blur our relations with the respective governments." Iran's oil minister has

County Blisters Phone Changes

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Beleaguered with complaints about the new courthouse telephone system, Lubbock County commissioners today took telephone company representatives to task about the two-month-old system.

"People are just really chewing us out over here," County Judge Rodrick Shaw told a half-dozen Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. representatives.

Bell service consultant Barbara Elmore told the commissioners that three more incoming lines were opened last Friday and said more might be added after an evaluation beginning today.

In addition to numerous complaints from the general public, Shaw said, "nearly every lawyer in town" has complained to him about the system.

The central switchboard was eliminated and each county department given its own number or numbers when the change was made.

"I thought we were going to have more incoming lines, but we're not getting as many calls," Shaw said.

Miss Elmore said the new $90,000 system, designed to save money in the long run, apparently has not worked well because of an inaccurate pre-installation evaluation of how many incoming lines would be needed.

Commissioner Coy Biggs said he and other persons he has discussed the system with have repeatedly gotten busy signals and recordings when trying to dial into the courthouse.

In other business, adult probation officer Lloyd Watts reported that construction of the new Lubbock County Youth Center reform school is progressing rapidly.

The foundation, underground plumbing and steel structure work has been finished, he said, and work was to begin today on the walls and roof of the $1 million center at University Avenue and North Loop 289.

"It's really moving now," Watts said. The commissioners were to tour the newly completed new Lubbock County Jail this afternoon and possibly were to make appointments to fill two vacancies on the Lubbock County Hospital District Board of Directors.

Interest Up In Special Election

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The city secretary's office today reported a substantial increase in the absentee voting for Saturday's special election to determine whether local firefighters should receive a 15 percent pay raise and collective bargaining rights.

By shortly before noon, 35 voters had cast ballots in today's absentee voting activity, according to City Secretary Evelyn Gaffga. She said that a total of 270 absentee ballots have been cast since the absentee voting polls opened Dec. 28.

City residents planning to vote absentee have only one more day in which to cast ballots, Mrs. Gaffga noted. The absentee voting polls will remain open in Room 206 at City Hall through 5 p.m. Tuesday. Mailed-in ballots can be received at City Hall until 1 p.m. election day.

Saturday's special election was called by the city council after the Lubbock Firefighters Association successfully conducted a petition drive here last September. More than 7,000 city voters signed the firefighters' petitions, calling for an election to determine the two issues.

On Oct. 1, the council approved a 7 percent salary increase for all city employees, including fire department personnel. However, the firefighters group has contended that the approved 7 percent raise is not sufficient because inflation has climbed at an average annual rate of more than 13 percent.

Firefighters also have contended that they need collective bargaining rights to give them a voice in matters that concern their well-being and safety.

Gold Prices Soar Again

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices jumped by more than $30 an ounce to record levels in Europe this morning, following sharp rises over the weekend in the Far East. The dollar was mixed.

At mid-morning, gold traded at $648.50 an ounce in London and Zurich. Later, London's major bullion dealers "fixed" the afternoon price at $660 an ounce, and the late price in Zurich was $654.50. The previous European trading high was $645 in Zurich on Jan. 3.

Last Friday, gold closed at $622.50 in London and $621.50 in Zurich.

The new surge to record heights followed hectic weekend trading in the Far East. Gold hit an all-time peak of $674.54 in Hong Kong on Saturday, topping its previous high of $673.16 a week ago.

School Rolls Show Fewer Anglos

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Minority enrollment was up and Anglo enrollment was down over the first three months of this school year, a Lubbock public schools report shows, but officials say the numbers follow a normal trend.

Administrators also discount as insignificant the slight increases in minority attendance at the majority of the elementary schools ordered desegregated in U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward's 1978 court order.

The enrollment and racial breakdown report filed in federal court shows an increase from September to December of 87 blacks and 255 Mexican-Americans and a decrease of 115 Anglos in the school district.

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, said he does not believe the numbers are "anything unusual. It's very normal."

Leslie said "the trend is there" toward a loss in Anglo population and an increase in minority enrollment during the school year. He noted that from September to November 1978, the district lost 110 Anglos and gained 81 Mexican-Americans and 45 blacks.

He attributed the gain in minority population largely to late enrollment, saying that "a lot who come in late are minorities."

Leslie said he could not fully account for the loss in white enrollment, but pointed out that the loss was partially due to the graduation of 53 seniors at the end of the first quarter.

He added that often enrollment also decreases when high school students who dropped out the previous year return in September "with the best of intentions" of staying in school, but then drop out again before the first quarter is up.

He said he does not believe the drop in Anglo population is indicative of any "white flight" from the school district.

The school district report also shows a gain in minority enrollment at five of the minority elementary schools involved in the district's integration plan. Only Guadalupe showed a drop in the black and Mexican-American population and an increase of 13 Anglos.

At Mahon and Martin, Posey and Wheatley showed slight gains in minority enrollment that ranged from 27 percent at Mahon to 2.56 percent at Wheatley.

However, Leslie said he does not believe "the numbers are significant enough to create problems. The numbers

$1,000 Reward Offered In Area Murder

Crime Line continues to offer a $1,000 reward for information about a Lamb County murder in which the identity of the victim is unknown.

The body of a man described as a Mexican male, 38 to 42 years old, was discovered Dec. 16, 1979, on a dirt road two miles south and one and one-quarter miles west of Springlake. The dead man was 5 feet 1 inch to 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed about 115 pounds. He had black hair and a heavy mustache slightly gray in color.

A hunter discovered the body, which had a deep wound from the chin to the breast bone. The man's throat had also been cut from ear to ear.

A three-blade pocket knife with a black handle was in the victim's throat. An autopsy revealed the man was dead or near death from strangulation before the knife slashing.

The man was last seen leaving the Starr Dance Hall at Dimmitt about 12:30 a.m. Dec. 16.

No identification was found on the body, which was clothed in a green western shirt with a white yoke and dark Levi-type pants.

The man was also wearing shoes made of soft brown leather with thick rubber soles. A black muffler scarf was found near the body.

Crime Line will pay $1,000 to any person with information about the murder. The Crime Line telephone number is 741-1000. Callers may remain anonymous.

Crime Line is supported entirely by private tax-deductible donations. Reward amounts, which are determined by the Crime Line board, range from $300 to $1,000.

Persons wishing to contribute to the Crime Line Reward Fund should mail checks to P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas, 79401.

A $300 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest of Timothy Ray Bates, who is wanted for the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith has issued a felony arrest warrant for Bates, who is described as a 19-year-old white male. He is a fugitive.

A $300 reward is offered in the burglary of a residence at 5312 43rd St. in which approximately $4,000 in goods was stolen.

The burglary occurred between Dec. 31, 1979, and Jan. 7. Entry was gained through a northeast bedroom window at the house.

Items taken were a Sansui G9000 stereo receiver, a Dual CS-604 turntable, an Audio Technics AT9128A stylus cartridge, a TEAC F300 cassette deck, two HPM 150 Pioneer stereo speakers, 150 long-play record albums and an HBO control box.

A $300 reward is offered in the Oct. 21, 1979, burglary of First Manufactured Homes, 9602 University. Total loss and damage was estimated at $3,372.

Taken in the burglary were a 6 1/2 inch Skil saw, a 100-foot extension cord, a steel framing square and two 50-foot air hoses. Also taken were 12 Senco nail guns.

A $300 reward is also offered in the Jan. 6 burglary of a residence at 2217 5th St., Apt. G, in which approximately $2,000 in goods was taken.

The missing items include a Browning 16-gauge shotgun (serial No. X36862), a Mossberg 20-gauge shotgun, an Electrophonic AM-FM 8-track recorder, a Sony stereo (serial number 117820), an Epiphone 87330 guitar, an HBO control box, a black-and-white television and a Polaroid one-step camera.

L.J. Blalack Running For Re-Election

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Precinct 1, Place 1 post he has held for the past three years.

Blalack succeeded F.H. Bolen in the justice of the peace seat after defeating Bennie Melton in 1976.

"Since my election three years ago," Blalack said, "there has been a substantial increase in the business of my court of more than 400 percent in inquests, 300 percent in criminal complaints and 140 percent in civil litigations. Revenues have increased more than 250 percent."

Blalack said the above percentages were determined by an actual inventory of the work that has been done in his court during the past three years, as compared to the final year his predecessor was in office. "The percentages can be substantiated," he added.

According to Blalack, the increases in the business of his court have been handled with the same number of personnel used by his predecessor, with no additional costs for the county.

Blalack said his greatest achievement during his term in office has been the upgrading of the justice of the peace court's environment and procedures. When conducting business in the courtroom, Blalack said he always wears jurist robes.

"Counseling with individuals and families in trouble is an integral part of my daily activities," Blalack said, "and the services of this court have been and will continue to be made available to resolve these problems."

The incumbent estimated that an average of 200 to 250 persons have used his counseling services monthly during the past three years.

Blalack also said that his court's prompt and expedient handling of matters for the Lubbock Police Department, Criminal District Attorney's Office and the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office has resulted in good relations with law enforcement agencies here.

Prior to taking on the justice of the peace position, Blalack served 21 years with the federal government. He formerly served as administrative officer for the Lubbock office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Blalack is running as a Democrat. No other candidates have announced for that post.

Church Fights Thermostat Inspection

HOUSTON (AP) — The framers of the U.S. Constitution, aware of the need to keep church and state separate, probably never dreamed those two entities would cross swords over a thermostat.

But that's precisely what has happened, as some religious leaders and city officials are going to the mat over the "Houston Plan," the city's answer to federal regulations requiring certain thermostat settings in public and private buildings.

"I want to emphasize that we have no problem and are in total agreement with the idea of energy conservation," says the Rev. J.K. Minton, pastor of Lazybrook Baptist Church.

Wilson Brumley, metropolitan mission coordinator of the Union Baptist Association, echoes Minton's sentiments.

"We have the feeling that as churches we should take the lead in saving what God put on this Earth," Brumley says, adding that what worries him is the "erosion of the separation of church and state privilege."

Brumley's concerns center on a provision of the plan that requires each building that complies with the plan's thermostat regulations to post a certificate of compliance in the lobby of the building.

Further, city officials are charging a half a cent a square foot for inspecting the buildings to make sure thermostats are at the correct settings.

"The municipality is assuming the role of licensing a church," Brumley says. "If a church builds a building, it has to get a permit. But the builder or plumber has to get it."

"To that extent," adds Brumley, "every church is licensed. This is a matter of semantics, I'm sure."

Phil Baker, head of the city's newly created Office of Energy Conservation, agrees. "Maybe the thing to do," he says, "is to change it (the terminology) from license to receipt."

"This isn't a violation of the Constitution with regard to the regulation of churches," says Larry Schenk, assistant city attorney.

Baker adds "they (churches) have gotten the idea it's a license for operation, that we're going to regulate the use of their building."

"We're not. We're going to regulate their use of energy."

As far as the licensing fee is concerned, Baker maintains churches should help pay for the inspections, along with everyone else. If the churches don't pay, he says, "it will put all the costs on business. The churches will get a free ride."

Baker says the fee charged is an inspection fee, not a tax or a licensing fee. "It will go into a fund," he says, "it's not a general revenue kind of fee."

Despite city assurances that the fee and license are not violations of constitutional tenets, ministers are worried that the city will be able to close down un-

Agents Arrest Brownsville Man For Holding Shipmates Captive

FREEPORT (AP) — A Brownsville man, accused of turning a gun on his shipmates and holding them on a shrimp boat over the weekend, was in a Houston jail today awaiting arraignment.

The man, identified as Robin Alexander Stansbury, 21, was arrested Sunday morning by FBI agents, who boarded the boat in the Gulf of Mexico about 20 miles out from Freeport on the upper Texas coast.

A spokesman for the FBI in Houston said charges of crime on the high seas-kidnaping were being prepared. A $100,000 bond was recommended in the case, the spokesman said.

Crewmen aboard the 68-foot Easy Rider told authorities the drama began Saturday morning, while they were shrimp fishing off the coast of Intercoastal City, La., about 240 miles off the coast from Freeport.

"He (the suspect) told me he wanted to go home, that it was an emergency. We didn't have any indication that he was upset. He was real quiet," said Jack Waller Jr., captain of the boat and son of owner Jack Waller Sr. of Brownsville.

Waller said the suspect had been quiet and created no problems since he hired on. The three men had been fishing together off Morgan City, La., since Jan. 2, Waller said.

The man forced Waller and crewman Ronald Bush, 24, into the ice hold, where the shrimp are kept, the captain said.

"The only part I hated was going into the hold, but if somebody's holding a gun on you and the safety is off, you do it," he said.

Bush said the man had a rifle and a pistol, and Waller said he didn't think he knew much about guns.

"He told us he wouldn't hurt us if we'd just take him home," Bush said. "He said there was an emergency. But yes, we were still worried. When someone's holding a gun on you, you're going to be worried."

"I was very scared," Waller said the suspect didn't know how to operate boats and would have run into trouble trying to operate the boat himself.

"He was gonna crash the boat on the beach and leave," Bush said.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Joe Gibson said the agents, one of them skilled in terrorist operations, boarded the boat and arrested the man after shadowing the vessel for nearly 24 hours.

Gibson said the agents were aboard the 82-foot Coast Guard cutter Point Nowell, and at one point Saturday, tried vainly to halt the shrimp boat.

The Easy Rider "made a course change about 20 miles outside Freeport harbor" at 8:10 a.m. Sunday, "came to a stop and he (Stansbury) gave up," Gibson said.

When the Point Nowell drew alongside, Gibson said, Stansbury brought Waller and Bush on deck to show they were not harmed.

The Coast Guard learned of the takeover from several vessels which overheard a radio transmission from the captain of the shrimp.

Anti-Nuke Protesters Want To Have Trials

GLEN ROSE (AP) — Anti-nuclear demonstrators, arrested on trespassing charges twice at the Comanche Peak power plant, say if authorities do not press charges, they will lose valuable publicity for their cause.

Somervell County Sheriff Frank Laramore, citing expense to the taxpayers, has said he will not file charges against 103 protesters arrested in November during a demonstration at the North Central Texas power plant near here.

"We like having the trials because we like the subpoena power and the publicity. When you get publicity, you educate more people," said Dallas attorney Tom Mills, who has defended several protesters.

"Obviously we're curious, but I can't really say what our strategy will be," Mills said.

Members of the Comanche Peak Life Force were escorted onto buses Nov. 25 after scaling the plant's outer fence with homemade ladders. They were arrested on Class C misdemeanor criminal trespass charges, punishable by a maximum fine of $200.

Mills said the trials of two protesters arrested in June have been delayed twice, and no trials have been scheduled for others.

Of the two cases that have been tried, one defendant is in jail for refusing to pay a fine and another is pending appeal.

"We just don't know what they're going to do. We don't know what that's going to affect future protests, if they are not even going to prosecute them," Mills said.

But Texas Utilities Generating Co., operator of the plant, and the Somervell County attorney still could press charges.

The sheriff said he did not consult Somervell County Attorney Charles Jordan before making his decision. Jordan could not be reached for comment, but a secretary in his office said "at the moment, there are no plans" to file charges.

Ray Ward, spokesman for Dallas Power & Light, one of three owners of the power plant, refused comment on the charges.

Safety Tips Given For Use Of Microwave Ovens

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

At least one household in five and possibly one in four will have a microwave oven by the end of 1980, according to industry predictions. And the increased use of microwaves for cooking has led to increased concern about their safety.

The Food and Drug Administration, which has regulated the manufacture of microwave ovens for nine years, says public fears are generally unfounded. "Ovens that meet the FDA standards and are used according to the manufacturer's instructions, are safe for home use," the agency says.

The FDA also says that there have been no documented cases of radiation injury from microwave ovens. All the injuries reported so far are things like burns that could just as easily have happened with conventional cooking appliances.

There are several rules to follow to avoid trouble. Among them:

- Check a new oven before you use it
- Never operate a microwave oven if the door does not close firmly or if it is bent, warmed or otherwise damaged.
- Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal.
- Do not turn the oven on when it is empty.
- Clean the oven cavity, the door and the seals frequently with water and a mild detergent. Do not use scouring pads, steel wool or other abrasives.
- Check door seals periodically. Have them replaced by a qualified serviceman if they have deteriorated.
- If you think your oven might be leaking, contact the manufacturer, a microwave service organization, your state health department or the FDA. Do not rely on do-it-yourself testing devices. The FDA says they are "generally inaccurate and misleading."

An FDA leaflet, "Microwave Oven Radiation," is available at no charge from Dept. 558G, the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

It explains that microwaves are a form of electromagnetic radiation — waves of electrical and magnetic energy moving together through space.

Inside the oven, the microwaves — which are reflected by metal — bounce back and forth until they are absorbed by food. They cause the water molecules in food to vibrate. The vibrations produce heat. The heat cooks the food.

Microwave ovens can be more energy efficient than conventional appliances because foods cook faster and because the energy heats only the food — not the entire compartment.

You usually cannot use metal containers or aluminum foil to cook in a microwave oven because the microwaves would bounce right off.

House, Auto Sales Decline To Continue

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Sales of houses and cars will continue to drop during the first half of this year as consumer confidence in the U.S. economy nears an all-time low, the latest quarterly survey by University of Michigan economists shows.

"The appeal of buy-in-advance rates, which had held buying attitudes at an elevated level until early 1979, has now significantly diminished," economists at the U-M Survey Research Center said in a summary prepared for release today.

"Recent tight credit conditions and high interest rates have led to considerably lower buying attitudes," the report said.

The Index of Consumer Sentiment was 63.3 in the November 1979 survey of a nationwide representative sample of 1,307 respondents, down from 64.5 in August 1979, the economists said.

Although the index has remained largely unchanged since mid-1979, the current level of consumer sentiment "represents a significant decline from a year ago when the index figure was 75.0," the report said.

The November figure is just 5.3 index points above the record low recorded in early 1975. February 1966 is used for a base 100.

"The largely unchanged reading in the Index of Consumer Sentiment was due to offsetting shifts in its subcomponents," said Richard T. Curtin, survey director. "In the November survey, attitudes toward personal financial progress and buying conditions declined sharply in comparison to the August reading.

"In contrast, attitudes toward short and long-term business prospects improved somewhat in the November survey over August readings."

Buying attitudes for houses declined sharply in the November 1979 survey, the report indicated. Just 28 percent of all families rated buying conditions as favorable for houses in November, down from 46 percent in August 1979. Unfavorable attitudes grew during the same period from 48 percent to 66 percent.

Nearly two-thirds of all families mentioned high interest rates as a factor in unfavorable buying conditions, up from just 27 percent in August.

Favorable market attitudes for cars were held by 38 percent of all families in November, about the same as a year earlier. But unfavorable assessments were held by the majority — 52 percent — up from 40 percent in November 1978.

Buy-in-advance rates declined significantly.

Strain in personal finances is evident. In November 1979, 44 percent of all families reported they were worse off financially than a year before. In November 1978, the comparable figure was 31 percent. Nearly half of all families said they were worse off financially because of higher prices.

Confidence in government economic policy to combat inflation and unemployment improved somewhat over the late-summer low point, although it remains significantly lower than a year earlier.

Manager Defends Suzanne Somers

NEW YORK (AP) — Suzanne Somers didn't do nude layouts 10 years ago to publicize herself, "she was trying to survive," her manager, Jay Bernstein, has told People magazine.

According to the magazine, the photo offers came when Miss Somers, then a struggling model, was divorced and her young son was injured in an auto accident, running up hospital bills of $20,000.

Photos from a 1970 test for Playboy magazine were printed this month. In the resulting flap, Ace Hardware Corp., which pays Miss Somers $200,000 a year, said it was dropping her as a pitchwoman. The company has since changed its mind and decided to keep on the star of ABC's "Three's Company."

"I've tried so hard to be a good person," Miss Somers told People. "but now they're bringing up things out of context in my life. It makes me want to cry."

Duke Fails To 'Buy British'

LONDON (AP) — The smartly dressed Duke of Kent, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, has come under fire for buying some of his suits in Hong Kong.

Labor Party legislators and other critics said Sunday the duke was unpatriotic not to "buy British" when the domestic textile industry is having a rough time against foreign competition.

The 45-year-old nobleman served in the British colony when he was in the army. He now is vice-chairman of the exports-boosting British Overseas Trade Board.

The Laborite Sunday Mirror said the duke gets his Hong Kong suits at $157 per, while a similar suit on Saville Row would cost about $675. Labor M.P. Frank Allaun said the duke "should be able to afford a British suit on the 60,000 pounds ($135,000) he gets from the state every year."

Kissinger Upset With Frost

NEW YORK (AP) — Friends of British interviewer David Frost say Henry Kissinger is furious that Frost got an exclusive interview with the deposed Shah of Iran, according to the New York Daily News.

According to the newspaper, the former secretary of state tried to win the interview for "his very close friend" Barbara Walters, then pressed for Walter Cronkite or Mike Wallace.

But Frost got the interview when the shah's chief of staff, Robert Armao, backed him, says the News. The shah is currently living in Panama.

Meanwhile, Kissinger — who complained about his own recent interview with Frost — paid a backstage visit to the cast of the hit Broadway musical "Evita." Kissinger reportedly loved the show, which is based on the life of Argentina's Eva Peron.

Tito's Surgery Unsuccessful

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Surgery designed to improve circulation in President Tito's left leg did not work, but the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader remains in good condition, doctors said today.

There was no immediate word what additional steps doctors planned to try to alleviate the aged leader's circulation problem.

A medical bulletin issued by an eight-member medical panel said, "The general condition of President Tito is good." But it added about the surgery: "The desired effect has not been achieved."

The statement, reported by the national news agency Tanjug, said the surgery had resulted only in a "temporary improvement."

79 Pounds Of Protest

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — It will cost Donald Tennant $19.30 to make his point, but he hopes U.S. Sen. Max Baucus gets the message — 79 pounds worth.

Tennant saved a year's worth of unsolicited mail — including mailings from Baucus and members of the state's congressional delegation — and counted it on Dec. 31. He had 876 pieces, 79 pounds, enough to fill a 50-gallon kettle.

"Senators and congressmen irritate me the most," he said. "They send their mail free, utilizing their free franking privilege to tell me about their good work. I should have franking privileges to write to them. They are my representatives."

Tennant, a biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said he resents the reduced rates businesses get for bulk mailings. He was unsuccessful in earlier attempts to get the post office to deliver only first-class mail to his box.

Tennant said he will send the entire collection to Baucus' Washington, D.C., office at a cost of $19.30.

Recreational Vehicles Pared In Size, Weight

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Small is big in the 1980 recreational vehicles now being shown across America. Manufacturers have pared size and weight to cut gas consumption and raise sales.

Some makers are no longer using heavy wood for frames, but are switching to aluminum or an alloy steel lightened by magnesium. And they're going in for aerodynamic design to lessen wind resistance.

One can spend from $1,500 for a pop-up tent camper to $80,000 for a 35-footer with central vacuum cleaning, large beds, and built-in bars, television and microwave ovens.

Smaller cars will pull the 1980 units. One tent camper unit can be pulled by cars such as the Volkswagen Rabbit or Toyota.

The biggest units are among the biggest sellers. Industry figures show 35 percent of the units bought last year were intended for full-time parking on one spot. That kind of use, plus lighter weights for over-the-road units, could mean a 20 percent reduction in RV gasoline consumption this year, a spokesman said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Gold Coin Rush Is On

THE SKYROCKETING price of gold may be bad news for national currencies, but it is great news for the coin business nationwide.

Most individuals in the inflation-beset industrial world cannot play the game of the gold dealers who buy and sell by the bar, with the minimum stakes now in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

But plenty of folks can scrape up enough to buy coins and as a result the market "is booming," according to syndicated columnist Don Graff.

Trade in Napoleons, U.S. Eagles and similar traditional pieces is brisk, but the real boom is in special coins brought out by the governments of major gold-producing nations in recent years.

"SOUTH AFRICA," writes Graff, "is pressed to keep up with demand for its Krugerrand. Canada introduced its Maple Leaf last year and now the Soviets are actively pushing their Chevrons."

The latter, weighing in at just under a quarter of an ounce, has been around for a while but not promoted and thus is virtually unknown to the buying public.

With ads in The Wall Street Journal and similar channels of communication to the affluent, the Soviets are now giving the Chervonet the class one-Capitalist sell.

No sales figures are available, however, and dealers apparently do not regard the Soviet entry as a serious market contender.

The Maple Leaf may be "One million were minted for the first year's sales," writes Graff, "and if demand justifies, output may be upped."

BUT THE TOP of the line remains the Krugerrand, which contains an ounce of gold and the unusual status of being a legal unit of South African currency with a floating value, fluctuating with the market price of gold—steadily upward at $630 per ounce last week.

The economic textbook objection to the holding of gold is that as an investment the metal is passive. It does not earn interest as bank accounts, stock and similar alternatives do.

But these obviously are not the times to try to sell that line to those who have seen the value of their "passive" holdings multiply several times in the last year alone. Currently, gold as an investment is proving every bit as good as gold.

GOP Show Brings Down House

WASHINGTON—When Alice was wandering about in Wonderland, you may recall, she got involved in a caucus race.

The event turned out happily for all concerned, and it provided a nice model for a Saturday night Republican exercise in Des Moines Jan. 5.

In the caucus race of Lewis Carroll's imagining, the contestants began running when they liked, and left off when they liked, so that it was not easy to know when the race was over.

When time ran out, it was left up to the Dodo to decide who had won. His was a splendid judgment, far superior to the judgment of certain football officials.

"Everybody has won," said the Dodo, "and all must have prizes."

THAT WAS THE size of it in Des Moines. The six participating candidates put on a class act. In varying degrees they emerged on the TV screen as articulate, informed, attractive, intelligent, witty—and, alas, as bombastic also.

With the sole exception of John Anderson of Illinois, whose honesty would have caught the light of Diogenes' lantern, they groveled together for the Iowa farm vote. It was a good show.

Watching the GOP forum as most of the country saw it, on the tube, I thought the only loser was the man who wasn't there—Ronald Reagan. Maybe spectators on the scene had a different perception.

The other six candidates had seized a marvelous opportunity to match wits before a national audience, to advance their own views and to challenge their colleagues.

Reagan chose to play the percentages, which teach us that front-runners shouldn't take needless risks of a stumble. Maybe so, but a refusal to fight is unbecoming in a champion.

AND THE IRONIC aspect is that Reagan might well have mopped up on the lot of them, for the format was ideally suited to Reagan's manifest skills. He passed up a piece of cake.

It would have been asking for miracles, of course, to have asked the participants to level with the farmers on the President's grain embargo.

By putting a stop to the prospective shipment of 17 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union, Carter did indeed lay a costly burden on the farm belt.

But the President cushioned his decree in ways that would spread the burden among taxpayers everywhere, and the ultimate consequences to growers of wheat and corn are not likely to prove disastrous.

Anderson had the guts to defend the embargo, though even he tended to waffle toward the end of the program. The others delivered themselves of dolorous orations.

THE POOR FARMERS were being singled out for sacrifice; they were being made the scapegoats for a failed foreign policy; the embargo wouldn't work in any event. And so on.

It would have been pleasant to hear one of the group cut through the pious palaver and say clearly that when it comes to putting the chill on the

There is no truth the President's message was brought to you by the Republican National Committee.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

A Fireside Chat

MEMBERS OF the Lubbock Firefighters Association are publicly united but, privately, some of them harbor doubts about the wisdom of forcing Saturday's union and pay referendums.

And well they might. Firefighters here already enjoy one of the best pay schedules in the state, for example, and there's nothing to indicate that, over time, the union can do any better for them under collective bargaining.

The union's own survey shows that firefighters here are paid better than are those in Fort Worth, San Antonio, El Paso, Waco, Amarillo, Galveston, Corpus Christi, Wichita Falls, Midland, Odessa, Abilene, Brownsville, Austin and all but 10 other Texas municipalities.

Of those, San Antonio, El Paso, Brownsville and Corpus Christi have collective bargaining already.

IN FACT, THE union found that only Houston and Dallas, much larger than Lubbock and without collective bargaining, a few of their suburbs and the heavily unionized Beaumont-Port Arthur communities pay their firefighters more than Lubbock pays.

After two years as a firefighter, the Lubbock man gets $15,446 a year and this goes up automatically after that in longevity pay.

Although last year's horrible double-digit inflation exceeded the annual cost-of-living raise the firemen also get—as it did for most of us—the City Council and city manager have treated the firemen especially well over the years.

The firefighters' base pay has increased by 88.2 percent since 1973-74, during which time the cost of living has gone up by a smaller 64.9 percent.

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Straight Reply To Gay Query

WASHINGTON—Playboy seems to be branching out via an article on the gay scene in San Francisco. Reporter Nora Gallagher manages to make gay sex sound even more depressing than Playboy ordinarily makes straight sex seem.

If you are appalled by the idea of a one-night stand with a member of the opposite sex, you are unlikely to be uplifted by the lunch-hour rendezvous with a stranger of your own sex.

It is best to be frank. I regard homosexuality as an evil, and usually a maladjustment. People don't go to psychiatrists asking to be turned into gays.

But the purpose of saying that is not to wound or disgrace the homosexual. It is to uphold an ideal, not to "straight" sex as such, but of sex in the context of the family, loyalty, permanence.

MORALLY SPEAKING, THE heterosexual adulterer is more to be despised than the homosexual who maintains a steady relationship. But there is no reason to idealize either. There is reason, moral and social, to idealize faithful mothers and fathers.

"It is so far from being natural for a man and woman to live in a state of marriage," said Samuel Johnson, "that we find all the motives which they have for remaining in that connection, and all the restraints which civilized society imposes to prevent separation, are hardly sufficient to keep them together."

What is disturbing in the gay scene today, is the constellation of evils Miss Gallagher describes: the quest for the bizarre, the want-ad courtships, the violence, the hostility to women and "straights."

IT GETS HARDER and harder even to make temperate criticisms without provoking irrationally savage reactions from homosexuals.

A couple of years ago I wrote a piece on the idea of "gay rights." I did my best to specify that homosexuality should not be treated as a crime nor homosexuals as objects of mockery.

A few weeks later a Boston friend sent me a gay newspaper with a reply to my article. The writer did not at all try to meet my arguments. Instead he accused me of wanting to kill all homosexuals.

The same newspaper also carried an article advocating lowering the age of consent for sexual relations. Ostensibly the purpose was to give minors the same freedoms adults enjoy.

The current gay movement seems to aim not at a parallel structure of ordered sexuality for homosexuals, but at the dismantling of all structures. I

Thus, the record shows that the firemen's good job has been matched by good pay and good treatment. Just as they are "good old boys," so are City Mgr. Larry Cunningham, Mayor Dirk West and Council members, past and present, who have set their salaries.

LUTHER DEAN, president of the union local, himself told The A-J Editorial Board he holds Cunningham in high regard.

Dean has said, too, that if the City Council had not cut Cunningham's proposed 9 percent pay raise for all City employees back to 7 percent last summer, the referendum likely would not have been petitioned.

The union spokesman was openly miffed because the mayor did not sit down with him to discuss salaries.

Under collective bargaining, however, the union would be even further cut off from the City Council. Union representatives would sit down with management negotiators—not the Council—in hopes of mutually agreeing on salaries, benefits and working conditions.

The only difference between that and the present budgeting process is that it would be union representatives, rather than the fire chief, speaking for the firefighters and they would have an equal voice with management in setting their own pay.

CONTRARY TO WHAT has been widely alleged, the firemen have had no trouble in getting their wishes known at City Hall.

Everybody in town knew they had a pay dispute going last summer, for example. But there's a difference between having your views heard and accepted or rejected and in having an equal voice with management and the threat of a strike to hold over the bargaining table.

Under the present arrangement, the city manager and the City Council carefully consider the needs of the firemen and Fire Department alongside the needs of other departments and City employees and try to treat everyone and every need fairly.

Under collective bargaining, the firemen would become a special class set apart from the normal budgeting process so necessary for efficient and effective management.

LUBBOCK FIREMEN say that, unlike their sister locals in other states, they would not strike.

I think they're sincere, right now, in saying that. But I can also look at the average age of the union leaders (on average, firemen here have been on the job 14 years) and know that they'll begin retiring soon.

Younger, perhaps more militant, firefighters will be the ones casting ballots to strike or not to strike in future wage disputes.

Nationally, the incidence of strikes and sickouts has gone up dramatically in cities under collective bargaining.

I don't blame the firefighters for wanting more pay—doesn't everybody?—but I think they've been fairly treated and that a 15 percent pay raise and collective bargaining would be a mistake for everybody, including them.

have seen no sign, for instance, of homosexual objections to pornography like the objections raised by responsible heterosexuals.

A homosexual orientation is not nearly as obvious as race or sex, and discrimination can hardly arise unless such an orientation is advertised. People who call attention to their sexual inclinations when they apply for jobs are usually objectionable for other reasons anyway.

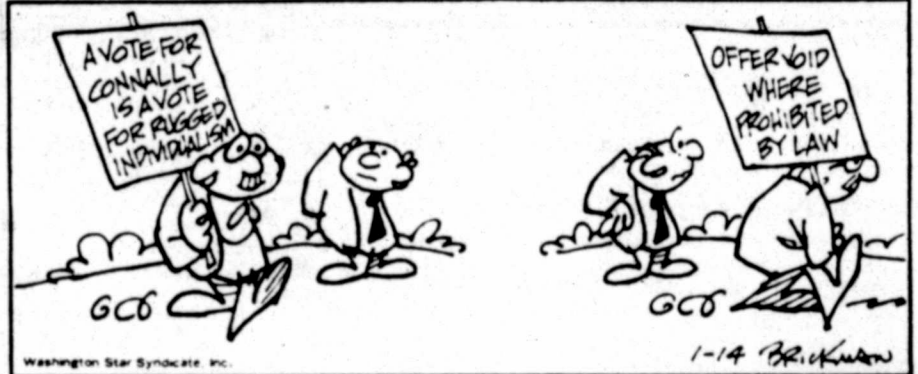

Besides, laws against anti-homosexual discriminations tend to increase the power of the state over the property owner in principle and in fact. And they give the job applicant an actual incentive to reveal (or even feign) homosexuality, since if he is rejected he can force the employer to prove that the rejection was unrelated to that particular trait—which otherwise wouldn't have been an issue.

It shouldn't be a political issue either. Society has enough sources of acrimony. The rights of privacy leave plenty of room for discreet people to do things others regard as vices.

Sylvia Porter:

Future Part Of Present In Commodity Trading

(First of three columns)
WASHINGTON—Commodities are traded on commodity futures exchanges. These exchanges are located in major U.S. cities, plus London, Paris, Hong Kong and other cities around the world.

The biggest of the dozen or so U.S. exchanges is the Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT), which accounts for about half of all the trading done on U.S. futures exchanges.

The Board of Trade was founded in 1848, and is the home of trading in the all-important Midwest agricultural commodities, among the most significant of which are wheat, corn and soybeans.

THE CHICAGO MERCANTILE Exchange (CME) is the second largest commodity exchange, and in recent years has been the fastest growing. It is the hub of the nation's huge livestock activity, and has active futures contracts in live cattle, live hogs and frozen pork bellies (bacon), among others.

The CME also has a subsidiary exchange known as the International Monetary Market (IMM) which trades futures in eight different foreign currencies.

The U.S. dollar's well-publicized battering during the late 1970s helped spark interest in these challenging contracts.

Both the CBOT and CME also offer interest rate futures contracts, which became increasingly popular among both financial institutions and speculators after their inception in the mid-1970s.

The Commodity Exchange, Inc., of New York, offers futures contracts in gold, silver and copper, and is the third largest U.S. commodity futures exchange.

OTHER IMPORTANT NEW York exchanges include: the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, the New York Cocoa Exchange, the New York Cotton Exchange and the New York Mercantile Exchange.

The Kansas City Board of Trade and the Minneapolis Grain Exchange offer futures contracts in types of wheat different from the CBOT.

The Mid-America Commodity Exchange (MACE) in Chicago offers "mini-contracts" in several major commodities. For instance, the MACE soybean contract consists of 1,000 bushels compared with the CBOT's 5,000-bushel contract.

Outside the United States, the major futures markets are in London. The most important of these are the London Metal Exchange, the London Cocoa Terminal Market and the London Sugar Exchange.

DESPITE THE RICH variety of commodities and locations, all futures markets operate in much the same fashion. Commodity exchanges, like stock exchanges, are membership organizations. Most members are either engaged in the producing, marketing or processing of commodities, or are brokers whose principal activity is to execute orders for others.

The basic unit in commodity trading is the futures contract. Futures contracts are standardized in terms of quantity, quality and location and require delivery of the commodity during a specified month in the future.

Thus if you, a trader, buy one contract of December soybean oil, you know that you are taking responsibility for 60,000 pounds of soybean oil that will be delivered in Decatur, Ill., or at a specified alternate delivery point, sometime in December.

Actually, only 1 or 2 percent of all futures contracts are settled by physical delivery. The rest are offset by an opposite futures transaction prior to maturity.

MOST PROSPECTIVE commodity traders had had experience with securities, and the chances are that their own securities firm also handles futures transactions.

In addition to the major, full-service brokerage firms, there are firms which specialize in commodities and handle little or no business in other areas. Some brokerage houses require a minimum initial deposit (usually $3,000 to $5,000) to open a commodity account.

Others have no minimums and will accept accounts as small as several hundred dollars.

London Casinos' High Rollers Flee Spotlight

LONDON (UPI) — The golden era of big spenders that made this city the gambling capital of Europe for 20 years seems to be over, the owner of one of London's most elegant and expensive clubs remarked the other day.

The tables in his restaurant (dinner for two with wine about $225) were comfortably filled. But he said the evening's take, minus those patrons buying a shah's ransom of caviar and champagne, would sadly reflect the fact the diners were only the ordinary rich.

Missing were the legendary plungers in the highest-stake gambling in the world. And they may never return here in strength.

London's supergamblers were a comparatively small group of men willing and able to wager from hundreds of thousands to millions of dollars in a single evening.

Las Vegas gets many times the number of gamblers who frequent the 120 clubs in Britain. But where else is — or was — there a game with $22,500 (chips) and a bettor habitually rising $40,000 to $80,000 on a single spin of the roulette wheel?

London had at least a couple of games at that level. Not any more.

Le Cercle, the club that started it all in 1960 when gambling casinos became legal, lost its license on a technicality that it believed would rate a reprimand at most. The Gaming Board made clear it will enforce every rule to the letter.

The rich and powerful Ladbroke Group lost the licenses of three of its four London casinos — profits estimated at $100 million in six years — on charges of illegally soliciting big gamblers to play in their saloons. It is appealing.

Criminal and license charges are pending against a number of other London clubs and individuals.

The Gaming Board campaign has made London much less attractive to the most famous players. The ultra-rich demanded confidentiality above all else, and the Ladbroke hearings and other cases have seriously endangered their anonymity.

In this instable world, a low profile is imperative. But some names have been published, notably that of Abnan Kashoggi, a Middle East arms dealer and entrepreneur, added to the publicity by demanding a divorce settlement of more than $2 billion (and admitting a warm friendship with Winston Churchill, politician grandson of the great statesman).

Kashoggi is reputed to have lost $14 million at Ladbroke's before he stopped playing in 1977. According to files produced in court, a friend who introduced him to the club received a commission on $100,000 covering only three months' play.

Gunther Sachs, the German industrialist once married to Brigitte Bardot, was said to have played for $40,000 a night, according to the Sunday Times. Department store tycoon Sir Hugh Fraser lost $3 million in 18 months, mostly at Ladbroke's and Le Cercle.

One of the Arab princes whose presence helped create the gambling boom reportedly staked between $400,000 and $600,000 a night.

As a result of their owners' unwanted attention, some huge apartments and luxurious houses are for sale and there is distinctly less of what Britons call "Arab money" around.

"The vast amount of money that changes hands ($2 billion a year) and the possibilities that this provides for exploiting human weaknesses are such that firm control is needed," said Home Secretary William Whitelaw.

Lord Allen of Abbeydale, chairman of the Gaming Board, said practices uncovered thus far have "besmirched the fair name of London gambling." He wants implementation of the report of the Royal Commission on Gambling, which recommends full disclosure of casino and company records, and the right to appear unannounced at casino company offices to seek additional information.

Philosopher and medical missionary Albert Schweitzer was born Jan. 14, 1875.

On this day in history:

In 1914, Henry Ford began the "assembly line" method of manufacturing cars, completing one "Model-T," car every 90 minutes.

In 1940, FBI agents seized 18 people in New York City and charged them with conspiring to overthrow the U.S. government.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill opened a 10-day World War II strategy conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

In 1976, Secretary of Labor John Dunlop resigned because of President Ford's veto of a construction picketing bill.

A thought for the day: Albert Schweitzer said, "Truth has no special time of its own. Its hour is now — always."

Small-Business People Take Cases To Washington

By JOHN CUNIFF
 NEW YORK (AP) — Fired with "a collective passion that will make Proposition 13 pale by comparison," small-business people are the latest to congregate in Washington to have their case heard.

Fund Established For Energy Projects

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of Chicago foundations has established a special monetary fund to help non-profit agencies save energy, according to an industrial journal.

The Joint Foundation Energy Conservation Fund is making grants and loans to charitable organizations that are finding larger chunks of their operating budgets eaten up by rising energy costs, reports Energy User News.

The foundation has funds available to divide among applicants who propose projects ranging from educational programs to building improvements.

Eligible agencies include museums, hospitals, schools and small community organizations in the Chicago area.

itt, Jr., who applied the "passionate" tag to the small-business people who, he said, are fighting for their life.

Levitt, chairman of the American Stock Exchange, made his comments as head of a commission that in one year held 57 hearings leading to this week's White House Conference on Small Business.

The business people, representing companies with one or two employees to those with hundreds, are fired up, said Levitt. Fired up about their lack of recognition, about inflation, their inability to attract a fair share of capital, about taxes, paper work and regulation.

Being practical people, their long list of grievances is nevertheless exceeded by their total of corrective proposals, gathered from 30,000 business people who attended the regional meetings.

Some 1,500 of them will attend the Washington conference this week. Delegate voting will reduce opinions to 60 proposals and then to 15 priority recommendations to be made to the president.

The biggest fear of the delegates, said Levitt in a recent interview, is that after all their effort and passion they will go back home and legislators will do nothing.

"I hope a response will come out of this conference," said Levitt. "I think the White House will follow up." But there is no assurance; or if there is, it is that the intensity of delegate feeling can hardly be ignored. Nor can their increasing political sophistication.

Several local groups and the Small Business Association now keep legislative scorecards, and when November comes around they spread the word about who is and isn't a supporter.

Some small business advocates hope that out of the conference there will emerge a permanent organization, something that can be used to keep pressure on Congress and the White House.

Is "fighting for its life" too extreme a description of the predicaments of small business? Small-business people don't think so. They say they are being crushed by big business, big government and big unions.

They maintain that too often they aren't even recognized as a distinct constituency, and that as a result their special needs and goals are ignored by legislators.

They argue that they are excluded from many capital markets simply because they are too small. That inflation hurts them more than other businesses because they are financed by high-interest debt. That regulation imposes disproportionate burdens on them because of their small organizations and limited sales.

They are disturbed also about inheritance taxes that, in effect, rob children of their inheritances or impose such financial penalties on them that it might have been better had their parents not succeeded so well. They are angry about rising Social Security taxes. And about red ink federal budgets that they see as inflationary.

Many of them are expected to push for two-tier legislation in some areas, such as in minimum wage rates, which they say impose a severe penalty on them and prevent them from employing apprentices, teen-agers, and people of limited skills.

They are interested also in expanding their markets. Levitt, for example, believes the foreign market represents an "enormous frontier" for small business, "totally untapped because they don't know about it." He feels an assistance program should be considered.

"We must speak with one voice," said Levitt as he prepared to leave for the conference. "There must be unity."

Some people say, however, that the problem of a unified voice is that "small business" is so vague a concept. Levitt offers no precise definition, and others say it consists of any company not among the top 1,000 corporations. That's a huge, and often disparate, grouping.

Perhaps one way to identify businesses that fit the category is to consider their similarity of views, their goals, their interests, and maybe the intensity of their feeling for independence and freedom.

"They are missionary in their zeal," said Levitt. "All are paying their own way to Washington. They just want an equal break. They don't want government in their hair, they don't want road-blocks in their way."

Russia, Iran Testing America's Might

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says the U.S. economy, as much as its military might, is being tested by Iranian terrorism and Soviet aggression.

"The United States is being severely tested today — tested for our moral courage, tested for our military might, for our economic strength," Carter told the White House conference on small business Sunday night.

"Just as we must (seek) human freedom and maintain military strength second to none, so must we also sustain a national economy that will make all this possible," he said.

That economy, however, is suffering from double-digit inflation, sky-high interest rates, lagging productivity, and a developing recession — all conditions that hit small business particularly hard.

While Carter denounced the Soviet Union for its intervention in Afghanistan and Iran for its holding of 50 American hostages, he devoted most of his speech to the U.S. economy and the state of small business.

Earlier, to even louder applause, the conference's chairman said small businesses are "looking for less government interference and less harassment."

"We're looking for fewer intrusions into the freedom to run our affairs and our lives," said Arthur Levitt Jr., in opening the five-day conference.

Levitt also linked military security to economic health.

"If our military forces had the kind of problems our economy now seems to have, people would demand that something be done about it — and soon," he said.

Kissinger Denies Role In Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger says he had no responsibility for the administration's decision to admit the deposed shah of Iran to the United States for medical treatment.

Kissinger said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" that he joined Chase Manhattan Bank President David Rockefeller in seeing that the shah's medical records got to the State Department.

Then, he said, it was up to President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to make the decision.

The shah, now living in Panama, was admitted in October for cancer and gall-bladder treatment. On Nov. 4, militants demanding his return seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, taking Americans hostage.

Kissinger said he felt Carter's decision was correct.

"We cannot have reached a point where the kidnapping or holding of 50 American hostages can make us give up the settled policy of this country, especially toward friends of 37 years," he said.

He blasted over-regulation, and said he is cutting his fiscal 1981 budget deficit in half, to $15 billion, while continuing to work toward a balanced budget.

Carter also said his new budget, due at the end of this month, will feature a financial aid program to help minority firms and an increase in Small Business Administration funds for management programs to help companies owned by women.

His criticism of over-regulation drew loud applause from the 2,100 delegates.

"There is going to be a lot of bloodshed in this country," a long-time foreign resident said. "People will never accept the Russians."

They (the Russians) will try their hardest to let the Afghan army take care of the mujahideens," he said, sitting in a sunny garden of orange trees and roses.

"But if they have to, they'll come out and do it themselves. But there will be a general uprising when the Russians come out of the barracks and take control."

Soviet Troops Encountering Dissidence

JALALABAD, Afghanistan (UPI) — The Soviet occupation of the key town of Jalalabad has caused a four-way duel of nerves among Russians, their Afghan supporters, Moslem guerrillas and the townspeople themselves.

The Soviets supposedly control Jalalabad, located on the main highway midway between the precipitous Kabul Gorge and the Khyber Pass leading to Pakistan, 45 miles away.

Shoulders emerge carrying Soviet rifles and automatic pistols. A few hours later, gunfire sounds in the distance, part of the fighting between mujahideens and Soviet-led Afghan troops.

Questioned about the Afghanistan crisis and the concentration of Soviet troops there, Kissinger said he thought the Olympic Games scheduled to be held in Moscow should be moved to a "neutral site," such as Greece. He also said he advocated building air and naval bases in Pakistan to act as a deterrent to further Soviet expansion.

But residents say the Soviet troops never come out of their barracks just east of town on the road to Pakistan because anti-Russian sentiment runs high in Jalalabad. Instead, they leave the fighting against the mujahideens — the Moslem rebels — to the Afghan army.

There are no outward signs of the battle of nerves in the daytime, when Jalalabad is bathed by a brilliant winter sun.

But as the sun sets and a bitter chill creeps back into the air, men with blankets wrapped around their heads and armored personnel carriers manned by Afghan troops loyal to Russian-installed leader Babrak Karmal guard approaches to the Soviet camp, where anti-aircraft guns, tanks, and trucks can be glimpsed by passersby.

Most of the fighting in the Jalalabad area is concentrated on the town of Surkhrud, just southwest of Jalalabad, but off the main road. Residents say a 24-hour battle took place from Jan. 9 to Jan. 10, including a sustained bombardment by Soviet-made helicopter gunships.

"Every night there is fighting, sometimes here, sometimes there," the foreign resident told his guests over tea. "They work by day and at night they are guerrillas."

Moslem guerrillas have been able to avoid being wiped out despite the vastly superior firepower of armor-plated Mi-24 helicopter gunships, tanks, armored personnel carriers and the like.

"They're putting up a very good show," the foreigner said. "But when they're put under pressure they must disappear into the mountains. They hit and run."

Afghans in Jalalabad are surprisingly open with a foreigner about their anti-Soviet and anti-government feelings, once they establish that he is not a Soviet.

"Babrak Karmal says there are Americans and Germans and Chinese inside Afghanistan," one Afghan said. "You tell him I only see Russians."

Pakistani Chiefs Urge War Against USSR

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (UPI) — Chieftains of some 3 million frontier tribesmen urged Pakistani President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq to declare an Islamic holy war against Russian invaders in neighboring Afghanistan, but Zia cautioned the time was not right.

formally asked Zia to declare a Jihad, or holy war, against Soviet troops who overran Afghanistan in a Christmas week invasion, but Zia told them that "the time has not yet come" for such a call.

Western diplomats said the possibility of Pakistani tribal action against the Russians raised the alarming specter of Pakistan becoming embroiled in the conflict against its will.

But Yusaf Khan of the 800,000-member Mohammad Tribe said some border tribes were already fighting Afghan government troops. Others may declare their own Jihad in defiance of Zia's declaration, Yusaf said.

"The tension is there and anything could happen," Yusaf said. "We believe that the Russians will sooner or later withdraw and leave Afghanistan as an independent country. Otherwise the tribesmen will have to take up arms."

This martial spirit is the hallmark of our tribal culture.

But he also called for restraint. "I want the world to know there is no war in Pakistan," Zia later told reporters. "We do not want to create a war involving Pakistan."

"I told the tribal chiefs the time has not yet come. When the time comes, we will give the call. When the time comes, we will handle the situation to the best of our abilities."

Iranian Firm Cuts Cigarettes

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iranians will soon lose the pleasure of puffing away on Winston cigarettes. The Iranian tobacco company has canceled its contract to manufacture them under license in Iran.

The state-controlled company said Sunday the Winston contract hurt the production of domestic cigarettes and turned the firm into a sales agency for foreign products.

company have put the attainment of self-sufficiency at the top of their agenda," a company statement said.

"Unfortunately, this company, which could have been one of the largest productive and economic plants of the country, had been turned into a sales agency for foreign cigarettes."

About 5 million Winston cigarettes were sold in 1969-70, but by 1977-78, the figure rose to 10 million, the company said.

The tribal areas of northwestern Pakistan are a wild, mountainous zone inhabited by some 3 million tribesmen who manufacture their own firearms and recognize no outside authority, including the Pakistani government.

In his reply to the chiefs, Zia said, "I fully understand your sentiments and appreciate your spirit for Jihad — holy war."

Striking Mechanics Force Cutbacks By Southwest

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The airline which has been "spreading love all over Texas" is determined to keep doing so — albeit more thinly — during a contract dispute which has no end in sight.

The 106 mechanics trying to ground Southwest Airlines until it comes up with more money are having small success convincing pilots and flight attendants to honor their picket lines.

In the mechanics' absence, management and supervisory personnel, "all licensed mechanics" according to one spokeswoman, will be filling in, attempting to keep at least some of Southwest's 1,646 weekly flights in the air.

Currently 745 of the flights — about a one-third reduction — are scheduled, but Judy Christa of Southwest's Dallas office, says "we can't make projections" as to how long the airline will operate that schedule. "We'll decide according to how well we operate those runs," said Miss Christa.

During the strike, the airline, which boards more than half of Lubbock's passengers, will limit its flights here to Dallas only. Connections can be made there for other cities.

There will be six flights Monday through Thursday, departing at 6:30 a.m., 8:45 a.m. and 10:45 a.m., and 2:45 p.m., 4:45 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. The same schedule will be in effect Fridays, with an additional flight at 8:45 p.m. The carrier will close completely on Saturdays, with only ticket counter personnel on duty. Sundays four trips are slated, departing at 10:45 a.m., 2:45 p.m., 4:45 p.m. and 6:45 p.m.

Southwest's regional manager in Lubbock, Ernie Reese reported boardings were nearly full Sunday and have been "good" so far today. "We're running normal for a Monday," he said this morning.

Reese admitted the reduced weekend schedule "could cause some problems, but with loads like we've had the past couple of weeks, I don't foresee much of a problem."

Other airlines have adopted a wait and see attitude toward the Southwest strike, reserving any decision to add extra flights for later.

"We don't have any plans (to add extra flights) at this time," said Braniff's

Jerry Cox in Dallas. "We still have seats available, but we'll continue to monitor the situation," he said.

The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, which represents Southwest's 125 mechanics, clerks and cleaners, declared the strike at 12:01 a.m. Sunday after "overwhelmingly rejecting" the carrier's "complete and final offer" during a Saturday session that lasted until midnight, said Joe Medley, IAM's assistant general chairman.

No further negotiations have been scheduled.

Pickets were placed at Dallas Love

Field, with unconfirmed reports that more would go up in other cities today.

Because no mechanics are based in Lubbock, it is unlikely a picket line will be established here, said Miss Christa. Reese, however, refused to rule out the possibility, saying "maybe later" the strikers would set up camp at the city's international airport.

Ray Philips, a negotiator for the striking union, said he was disappointed only the machinists walked out, but held out hope other employees would follow eventually.

"We've been in touch with them all along and coordinating with them fairly closely," he said. "We were very much disappointed that they decided to work. Apparently the majority of them elected not to honor the picket lines."

"We're still talking to them. They've had to let about 70 percent of the flight attendants go because of the cutback in service."

The company has denied the 70 percent cutback, saying all personnel who show up for work will be paid their basic rate at least through Feb. 1.

The union walked off the job in a dispute over pay, which it claims is the lowest in the nation. Current salaries are about $9.10 an hour. Similar workers at other airlines make more than $11 per hour, the union says.

The contract ran out in August 1979 but negotiations continued until early Sunday morning, when the union rejected what the airline said was its final offer.

Southwest spokeswoman Camille Keith said 12 of the carrier's 18 Boeing 737's were in service and all 11 Texas cities plus New Orleans, La., normally served by the airline still will be served.

The airline normally employs some 1,500 persons.

Administration Settles HEW Disagreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, in a move to bolster civil rights enforcement in the areas of health and welfare, has settled a Cabinet-level dispute over how to split up the HEW division that pursues cases of illegal discrimination.

The accord — part of the effort to carve a new Department of Education out of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — fueled some fears that civil rights enforcement in all areas might suffer.

The dispute involved deployment of the 1,700-person Office for Civil Rights at HEW.

Administration sources say two-thirds of HEW's civil rights enforcement staff will move to the Education Department when it is created later this year. That will leave one-third to pursue health and welfare violations, more people than now work in these two areas.

The sources say the decision by the Office of Management and Budget was made last week, resolving a disagreement between HEW Secretary Patricia Harris and Education Secretary Shirley Hufstедler.

The secretaries disagreed on the distribution of civil rights enforcement staff members: Mrs. Harris sought to keep half in what will become the Department of Health and Human Services, sources said, while Mrs. Hufstедler asked that 80 percent be assigned to education.

Mrs. Hufstедler's request was based on the proportion of civil rights work that had been devoted to education. Last year, that was more than 86 percent of the 3,700 complaints.

But Mrs. Harris argued that the figure left too little staff for health and welfare cases. By keeping one-third of the staff, she won enough employees to increase enforcement in these areas.

The split left both sides reasonably satisfied, said officials who requested anonymity.

But civil rights organizations are taking a wait-and-see approach.

The private groups argued for an overall staff increase to satisfy what they see as a need for greater enforcement efforts in all three areas.

Many Pay Respects To Ex-Labor Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of visitors are passing through the "House of Labor" to pay last respects to its builder — George Meany.

Meany, who died Thursday of cardiac arrest at the age of 85, lay in state at AFL-CIO headquarters today and Sunday, drawing viewers from union halls, the halls of Congress and the White House.

Funeral services were scheduled Tuesday for Meany, who helped form the AFL-CIO in 1955 and headed it until his retirement last November.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was among the 1,000 people paying respects Sunday to the gruff-talking, cigar-chomping former plumber from the Bronx.

"We've lost a great, great American," Mondale said.

"I had to come today if I had to crawl on my hands and knees," said plumber Henry Bosma, 77, of University Park, Md. "He always was a man for the poor fellow, for the working man, for the

Suspect Sought In Shooting

LEVELLAND (Special) — An 18-year-old Levelland man was charged Sunday night with the shooting of Danny Cline, 27, Police Chief Ted Holder said.

The chief added that the suspect, Danny Tijerina, remained at large early today. Cline, also of Levelland, was listed in fair condition today at Health Sciences Center Hospital after undergoing surgery for a gunshot wound in the chest.

The two men were arguing over money about 7:30 p.m. Sunday in front of a Levelland restaurant when Cline was wounded, police said. Holder said Tijerina was formally charged with aggravated assault Sunday night.

"Some people were sitting in a van outside the grocery store when two of the guys got into an argument over some money," said Levelland Police Lt. Billy Weaver. The argument ensued until the suspect shot Cline with a .25 or .32 caliber pistol, the officer said.

"I didn't see anything happen," said a store clerk. "The man's wife came in here and said her husband had been shot, so I called the cops."

"As I walked by I saluted him," said Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., who teamed with Meany on many pro-labor

Meany, who gave up plumbing 57 years ago for a full-time labor career, had been a major power broker in Washington since his arrival in 1939 as secretary-treasurer of the old American Federation of Labor (AFL).

Witch's Trial Jury Screened

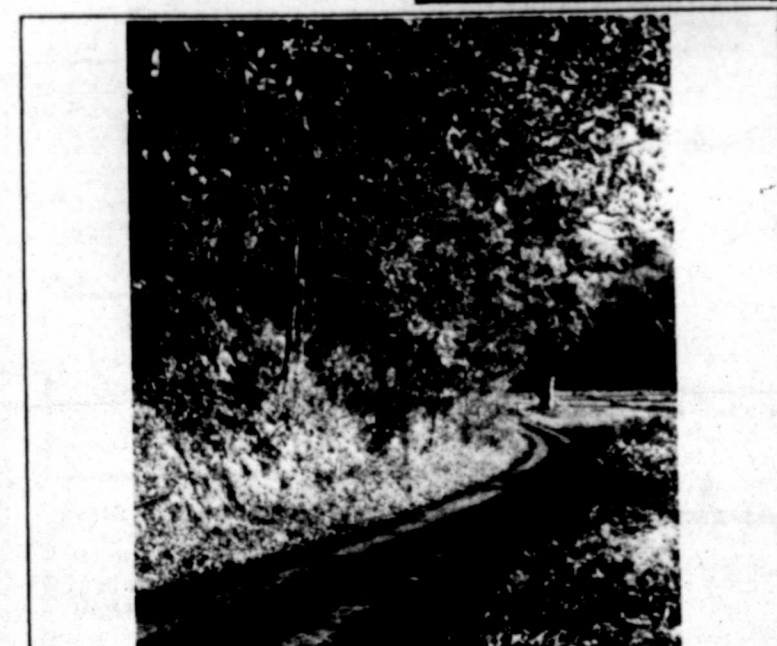

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Prosecutors and defense attorneys today attempted to detect any bias by prospective jurors being questioned in the trial of a self-proclaimed witch accused in the Halloween 1977 slaying of a Dimmitt teen-ager.

The slow process of selecting a jury continued today, with only 13 of 32 prospective jurors selected. A panel of 140 additional prospects was called in case a panel could not be chosen from the 280 in the first group.

Loy Dean Stone and his wife Louise, both members of the Church of Wicca, have been charged in the slaying of 15-year-old Roxanne Casas. Mrs. Stone will stand trial later.

Miss Casas was killed by a shotgun blast when the truck in which she was riding pulled into the Stones' driveway to turn around. Two other passengers were injured.

CONTEMPORARY BEAUTY — Contemporary furnishings offer exceptional decorating versatility because of their simplicity of design. Uninterrupted expanses of birch veneer with special wood grain patterns enhance the contemporary look.

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on your CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHOULD I GIVE IN?" You responded with this sad refrain:

"When I met him, I liked him.

When I liked him, I loved him. When I loved him, I let him. When I let him, I lost him."

(Author Unknown)

That might have been true once, Abby, but not today.

I know how many girls (now women) who "held out," and were left out. I am a living example — and a very bitter one. I believed that holding out was the way to get a man, but I lost a number of good men to other women who met their needs for a "total relationship." (Sex). Now these women are happily married and are righteous pillars of our community, while I spend nights and weekends alone. Now I'm too scared to try a sexual relationship; all I can do is fantasize about one. (I only wish I had some real memories.)

I know this has no chance of being printed since you need to protect your point of view. Why do you perpetuate such nonsense?

HELD OUT AND LEFT OUT

DEAR HELD OUT: "Letting" a man is vastly different from being a party to a mature love relationship — one in which each gives equally. To "let" someone is to allow yourself to be used.

Have no regrets for not "letting" yourself be used. Regret only having passed up a mature love relationship, playing instead that childish game of hold out, thinking that was the way to get a man.

I don't know your age, but you are never too old for a sexual relationship if you want one.

DEAR ABBY: I am part of a triangle. All three of us are in our 60s.

I have been in love with this man for nearly 30 years. He loves me, but his wife will not give him a divorce — or at least that is what I have been told all these years.

I have no social life, and very little family life because I've wanted to be available when my sweetheart found an hour for me.

Local club activity is gaining momentum as several organizations work toward "notable events" coming up in the near future: for instance, the ARCS Auction and the Symphony Guild ball, for which planning committees are already hard at work. Watch for announcements of dates and other details in the next few weeks.

This is also the time of the year when many clubs and organizations are electing and/or installing new officers. We will be glad to announce such events and list names of new officers in this column.

Family News also will be glad to take and publish pictures of your new officers; however, please help us by remembering that:

1. A picture appointment is necessary; and
2. No more than five persons may be in a picture.

Tuesday is the best day for these pictures to be taken, so please call us the week before and make an appointment with our photographer.

Salads Feature Marinated Vegetables

NEW YORK (Special)—When the tomatoes are pale and the lettuce limp, you don't have to give up on salads entirely or switch to cole slaw. You can turn out terrific marinated vegetable salads and relishes with a minimum of effort, using canned vegetables from your pantry.

An unusual combination appetizer and salad—antipasto on a skewer—can be made by combining canned vegetables and Italian cold cuts. Canned beans, corn, chick peas and beets can also be the basis for tasty salads.

Marinated vegetable salads are a boon for working women since they can be made ahead of time and stored in the refrigerator for several weeks. In fact, all four of the vegetables we've selected can be prepared at the same time in an hour by slicing and chopping all the onion, green pepper and pimiento first and dividing the correct proportions among four glass storage containers.

ANTIPASTO ON A SKEWER
 1/4 cup olive oil
 1/4 cup wine vinegar
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. sugar
 1/2 tsp. dry mustard
 1/2 tsp. leaf oregano, crumbled
 1/4 tsp. pepper
 1 pkg. (8 ozs.) mozzarella cheese
 1 pkg. (4 ozs.) sliced salami
 12 small mushrooms, trimmed
 1 can artichoke hearts, drained
 24 pitted ripe olives

Combine olive oil, vinegar, salt, sugar, mustard, oregano, and pepper in a jar with a tight lid; shake well to mix. Cut mozzarella cheese in thick slices, then cut slices lengthwise into sticks. Wrap each stick inside a slice of salami; cut in half crosswise; fasten each half with a wooden pick. Thread 1 mushroom, 2 artichoke hearts, 3 salami rolls, and 2 olives onto each of 12 long skewers; place in a large shallow baking dish. Drizzle dressing over top. Let stand about an hour to season and blend flavors. Lift

Add celery seeds and cover with hot vinegar mixture. Cover jar tightly, cool, and store in the refrigerator. Let stand overnight before using. Enough for 10 servings.

MARINATED CHICK PEAS
 2 cups canned chick peas, heated and drained
 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
 1/4 cup vinegar
 1/4 cup olive oil
 1 garlic clove, minced
 1 tsp. sugar

 ♠6 ♥J92 ♦852 ♣AQJ1054
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
 2 ♦ Pass ?
 What action do you take?
A.—Technically, North's rebid in a lower-ranking suit is not forcing, but he will be very surprised if you pass after making a two-over-one response. And your hand might not be worth much to partner—its main feature, the long, strong clubs, will be useless at any other contract. Rebid three clubs to show your long suit and warn partner that your initial response was made on minimal values.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

 The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1 ♦ Dbie. Pass 1 ♣
 Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?
 What action do you take?
A.—This has become a very good hand indeed. All your cards are working—you have a fifth spade, and your length in diamonds suggests that partner is very short in that suit. Since partner's spade raise shows a hand worth about 16-18 points at a spade contract, we would jump all the way to game. Three spades is much too conservative for our tastes.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AK87 ♥K92 ♦AJ74 ♣93
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?
 What action do you take?
A.—While your hand evaluates to 16 points at a spade contract, it is rife with losers and you might be on a 4-3 fit. Even if partner has a super-maximum 10 points for his single raise, game is doubtful unless he has a magic hand. You have no way to discover his holding without endangering your part score, so pass.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
 ♠1094 ♥K75 ♦AQ1087 ♣63
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South
 1 ♦ 2 ♣ ?
 What do you bid now?
A.—Here is a situation where you can expect the enemy to compete in an effort to deny you an easy rubber. Therefore, you should plan on having to take two bids. It might seem that you should show your five-card diamond suit now, and then support spades next, if you have to. But that is uneconomical. If you bid two spades now and then three diamonds and should the enemy compete with three clubs, partner will be able to take preference in either suit at the three-level.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable with 60 on score, you hold:
 ♠1094 ♥63 ♦AQ1087 ♣K75
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South
 1 ♦ 2 ♣ ?
 What do you bid now?
A.—The difference from the previous problem is that the overall has been at the two level in hearts, rather than clubs. You still want to make two bids, but this time it will be more economical to bid three diamonds first, so that you can bid three spades over three hearts. If you chose two spades, you would either have to suppress the diamonds or introduce them at the four-level.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K10654 ♥862 ♦Q93 ♣76

A.—There is a misconception that a jump to two no trump is a game force. Not so. It shows a balanced 19-20 points, but responder can pass if his original response was in the nature of a courtesy. Here, your hand might not produce a single trick for partner if he started with a doubleton spade, and even if he has three spades, there is no guarantee that your side can make a game. Pass.

President Defends Handling Of Crises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is warning that normal trade with the Soviet Union will not resume soon "under even the best of circumstances," as his administration steps up a campaign of reprisals that could lead to a boycott of the Moscow Olympics.

Strongly defending his handling of the crises in Afghanistan and Iran, Carter declared Sunday night that "political considerations and economic profit" must be set aside in responding to the threats they pose.

The White House press office followed up those comments by releasing a statement today that accused the Soviets of opposing international efforts to resolve the Iranian crisis through peaceful means while "seeking to crush the independence of Afghanistan through military force."

"Like the presence of Soviet tanks in the streets of Kabul," the statement said, "the Soviet veto (Sunday) of the United Nations Security Council resolution on Iran exposes, for all of the people of the world to see, the Soviet Union's disregard for international law and the world's machinery for peace."

"Their veto is an act of political cynicism. It offends the conscience of all who honor freedom and who seek to strengthen the grip of law over lawlessness, of peace over strife — in this crisis and for the future," the statement said.

Earlier, a White House official said Carter "cannot support U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan."

The president dispatched Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher to Europe Sunday to consult with U.S. allies about a possible Olympic boycott and joint military and economic aid to Pakistan, which borders Afghanistan.

Carter tentatively has approved $400 million in U.S. military and economic aid to Pakistan beginning immediately, if Congress consents, the administration disclosed.

All the weapons would be "defensive" and warplanes would be excluded in deference to India's concern about strengthening Pakistan, its neighbor and long-time antagonist.

The administration's thrust Sunday also included a renewed threat to Iran. Defense Secretary Harold Brown indicated a naval blockade of that country still is being considered to counter its holding of 50 U.S. hostages.

"Specifically, we cannot rule out the option of cutting off Iranian imports by one means or another," he said when asked about a possible blockade.

Such a blockade, however, is considered a long-range contingency.

Brown, who just completed talks with Chinese leaders in Peking, said he expects continued cooperation with the Chinese in response to the Soviets. "I'm sure the Chinese will be assisting Pakistan in various ways," he said on a television program.

Carter, addressing the White House conference on small business, denounced the Soviet Union's "massive invasion of the small, nonaligned country of Afghanistan" and asked all Americans to "stand with me."

"Normal trade and commerce has been interrupted to demonstrate vividly our abhorrence and condemnation of terrorism and military aggression against innocent people," he told the 2,100 small business delegates.

"In reaching my decision to act, I had to face some tough choices," he said. "There are many risks. There are economic costs. We are sharing those costs, so the burden will not fall only on you or on American farmers or any other particular group."

His remarks were greeted with scattered applause.

Several of Carter's rivals for the presidency have sharply criticized his decision to embargo 17 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union, saying American farmers will suffer more than the Russians.

However, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted meat shortages in the Soviet Union as a result of the U.S. embargo. Bergland said he expects the Soviets to have a deficit of 14 million metric tons of grain, forcing them to cut livestock production 5 percent to 8 percent below last year's levels.

"They're going to have protests from their consumers, who have had a taste of the good life in recent years when meat production has been expanding," he said.

"I would advise anybody traveling to the Soviet Union, especially to the summer Olympics — bring your own lunch. You're going to need it," Bergland continued.

The fate of the summer Olympics, however, appeared uncertain Sunday as Christopher flew to Europe.

After a stop in London, he was heading for Rome, Paris and Bonn to meet with European leaders.

Report Gives Boost To Nuclear Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservator, synthetic fuels and a combination of coal and nuclear power are the best ways for the United States to meet its energy needs in the near future, says a major new study.

The report, released today by the National Academy of Sciences, gave a boost to the expanded use of nuclear power for the rest of the century.

Although nuclear power has its risks, it appears to be safer for health and the environment than using coal-fired electric generating plants exclusively, the report said.

However, the long-awaited energy study, billed as one of the most comprehensive ever attempted, said coal and nuclear power used together would be preferable to using either alone as the major source of electricity.

The 800-page study discounted a major contribution from solar energy by the year 2010, and warned against the nation committing itself too early to promising new energy sources before they prove their worth.

The four-year, $4.1 million study for the Department of Energy is two years overdue because of the ever-changing worldwide energy situation and differ-

LANCE ARRIVES — Former federal budget director Bert Lance holds hands with his wife, LaBelle, as they arrive at the federal courthouse in Atlanta today. Judge Rejects Lance's Motion For Dismissal

ATLANTA (AP) — Former federal budget director Bert Lance arrived at federal court today for his trial on bank fraud charges, proclaiming his innocence and saying, "I'm ready to go."

Lance and his wife, LaBelle, approached the federal courthouse holding hands. Two of his four sons accompanied him.

More than 125 prospective jurors crowded into the courtroom for the opening of the trial.

Earlier today, U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. rejected Lance's motion for dismissal of the indictment and said he hoped to have a 12-member jury panel, plus six alternates, ready to hear testimony for Lance and three co-defendants by Tuesday afternoon.

Lance had sought on the eve of the trial to overturn the indictment, pleading for dismissal on grounds that the grand jury was influenced by news reports based on leaks from federal prosecutors.

Lance, once one of President Carter's closest advisers, is charged with three associates of misusing $20 million in bank funds to help themselves, their families and friends.

Lance says the charges are "totally ridiculous." If convicted on all counts, he faces up to 95 years in prison.

The trial is expected to last two or three months.

During his eight-month tenure as director of the Office of Management and Budget, Lance was so close to President Carter that he was sometimes called the deputy president.

But controversy over his practices as head of two Georgia banks forced Lance to resign on Sept. 21, 1977, and a federal grand jury indicted him and three associates in May 1979. The defendants pleaded innocent to all charges in the 33-count indictment.

The charges against Lance and his friends — former bank president Richard Carr, contractor Thomas Mitchell and former pharmacist Jack Mullins — include conspiracy, misuse of bank funds, false entries in bank records and false statements to banks.

The grand jurors said a pattern of overdrafts, loans to cover the overdrafts and new loans to pay the old loans added up to $20 million in 383 loans from 41 banks to the defendants, their friends and families.

Women Warned About Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women took up widespread use of cigarettes about 25 years after men, but the surgeon general said today that projected lung cancer death rates indicate they are fast catching up.

Female deaths from lung cancer will surpass those from breast cancer within three years, suggesting "an epidemic of smoking-related disease among women," Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond said.

The death rate from breast cancer for women currently is higher than that of any other type of the disease. But Richmond said lung cancer is not the only problem associated with women who smoke.

Cigarette smoking, an early sign of woman's social emancipation, is now a major threat to her personal health and her ability to bear healthy children," Richmond declared at a news conference as he released a report to Congress on women and smoking.

In an accompanying letter, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris called the report one of the most alarming that her agency has compiled.

Data that formerly supported the belief that women smokers faced lower risk rates than men amounts to "an illusion reflecting the fact that women lagged one-quarter century behind men in their widespread use of cigarettes," Richmond writes in the study.

Smoking patterns for men and women once differed markedly — in terms of when they began smoking, the number of cigarettes smoked per day, the quantity of each cigarette smoked and the tar and nicotine content of each cigarette.

But those patterns are becoming more and more uniform. As a result, female smokers no longer face lower death rates than men from lung disease, heart disease and lung cancer, Richmond says.

Cigarette-smoking already contributes to one-fifth of newly diagnosed cases of cancer and one-fourth of all cancer deaths among women — higher rates than for any other agent, Richmond says.

Last November, the American Cancer Society reported that lung cancer, ranked eighth among cancer killers of women in (Continued From Page One) spokesman Dick Brightwell issued a challenge to city officials to come up with a reasonable alternative to collective bargaining. Brightwell said the challenge was issued in response to the city council's decision to pass a resolution opposing the bargaining rights for firefighters.

According to Brightwell, collective bargaining might not be necessary if the city would agree to some plan that would allow association representatives to meet on a regular basis with the city manager.

However, City Manager Larry Cunningham said today that he has not been contacted by members of the firefighters group about devising any type of plan that would avoid collective bargaining.

Dunbar-Strugs, the district's secondary level magnet operation, lost 41 students from September to December for various reasons, according to the schools' report.

Statistics show that 16 students moved out of town, nine returned to their home schools, nine left due to poor attendance, four left to work or join the military, two enrolled in the Homebound or New Directions programs in the district and one graduated.

Twelve of the students lost to the high school are black, 22 are Mexican-American and seven are white.

The school district provides written reports on enrollment and ethnic breakdown four times a year, in compliance with the court-ordered desegregation plan.

Many of the hotel's employees received at least one free meal a day, provided by management primarily to cut down on the time employees needed for meals during working hours.

For 1971, the hotel's management withheld money for employee Social Security (F.I.C.A.) taxes and computed its own F.I.C.A. and unemployment tax liabilities on a value basis of 45 cents per meal.

After an audit, the Internal Revenue Service ruled that the meals should have been valued at $1.25 each. The agency assessed additional F.I.C.A. and unemployment taxes.

The Tropicana's management, Hotel Conquistador Inc., paid the additional taxes but filed a claim for refund of all taxes paid with respect to the provided meals — including the money paid by it based on the 45 cents calculation.

After the IRS turned down the refund claim, the hotel management sued.

Iran Threatens U.S., Hostages

He said if Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's proposal for a U.N. commission to investigate the shah's alleged

Soviets Find Rebels Still Tough Foe

The reports could not be confirmed, and Western diplomatic sources in Kabul said the Soviets had tightened their military hold on the country, gaining control of the north-south, Herat-Kandahar highway in the western part of the country. The highway is one of the two main paved roads in Afghanistan.

One Western informant told Associated Press correspondent Marcus Eliason, who is in Kabul, that fighting had stopped "almost everywhere." But other sources in Kabul told Eliason combat apparently was still going on in the north-eastern province of Badakhshan, and in Paktia, southeast of the capital and near Pakistan.

"They (the Moslem rebels) can go on harassing the Russians forever," said one source. "They have been doing this sort of thing for centuries."

In neighboring Moslem Iran, where up to 50 Americans are still being held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh linked the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan to American "interference in the internal affairs" of Iran and other countries.

The Soviet military action has been condemned throughout the Moslem world, but Iran's revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has not commented on it.

In Kabul, thousands crowded mosques Sunday to mourn political prisoners slain during Amin's regime. Unconfirmed reports have estimated 12,000 Afghans were killed by Amin and his predecessor, Nur Mohammed Taraki, who installed the first communist government in Kabul in an April 1978 coup.

The fiercely anti-communist rebels launched their guerrilla war after Taraki came to power. Amin, Taraki's prime minister, overthrew his chief in September 1979 and Taraki was killed. Amin in turn was ousted and executed in a Soviet-backed coup Dec. 27, two days after the Soviets began pouring an estimated 100,000 troops into Afghanistan to prop up the new president they picked, Karmal, and fight the Moslem insurgents.

crises is not taken up. "I see no solution to the problem." But he said the commission's recommendations would not be binding on Iran, and the hostages' release would have to be "simultaneous" with the return of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran.

Three Tehran newspapers on Sunday published a letter from Ghotbzadeh to Waldheim in which he referred to the proposal for the investigating commission and also asked for the U.N. General Assembly to express its views on the U.S.-Iranian crisis.

"The U.N. General Assembly has been asked to announce its views concurrently on three issues: 1. Extradition of the deposed shah, 2. Returning the property of the deposed shah, and 3. The hostages," said the newspaper accounts.

Meanwhile, Tehran radio quoted Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar as saying Iran had agreed to sell crude oil to North Korea and was planning to sign its first oil sales agreement with that country. The radio said a trade protocol had been signed today by Iranian authorities and members of a visiting North Korean economic delegation.

The Rev. Gene A. Moore, three other black ministers and their attorney, all from Houston, met with the students holding the hostages and the U.S. Embassy to work out plans to hold a service for the hostages Tuesday, the birthday of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

John Thomas, an American Indian activist invited to Tehran by the militants, met with one of the hostages Sunday and said he was taking some 150 cards, letters and other messages from the captives for delivery to relatives and friends in the United States. He refused to identify the hostage he met with.

Before his news conference, Ghotbzadeh met with the foreign minister of neighboring Pakistan at Tehran airport and said they discussed the U.S.-Iranian crisis and the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, which borders both countries.

"The Soviet Union is in Afghanistan because the United States doesn't understand it should get out of Iran, even in politics," said Ghotbzadeh, adding that the U.S.-Iranian crisis was a "golden opportunity" for Soviet intervention.

Hijacked Airliner Lands In Sicily

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — A hijacker demanding to go to Libya commandeered an Alitalia DC-9 jetliner with 87 persons aboard today, an airline spokesman said. But the captain landed the plane here instead because, he said, Tripoli airport was shut by a sandstorm.

The plane was hijacked about 40 minutes after taking off from Rome's Leonardo da Vinci airport on a flight to Tunis, Tunisia, the spokesman said. Most of the passengers were reported to be Tunisians and Italians.

It was not immediately known who commandeered the plane at about 5 p.m. local time. It landed at Punta Raisi Airport here shortly before 7 p.m.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Tuesday calls for rain over Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico as well as the central Atlantic coast. (AP-Laserphoto)

Chance Of Showers Predicted For Area

A-J News Services
A slight chance of rain on Tuesday could give Lubbock its first measurable moisture of the new year.
Forecasters this morning pegged the probability at only 20 percent and said that any rain that occurs will likely amount to less than a tenth of an inch.
Up to now, Lubbock has recorded only a trace of moisture since Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, warm and windy weather appeared to be in store for the South Plains.

Temperatures today were predicted to rise to the low 70s, not quite as high as Sunday's springlike 77, but still far above the seasonal average of 53 for this time of year.

Tuesday's high should be in the middle 60s.

Winds, stirred by a low pressure trough, were expected to pick up to 15 to 20 mph from the southwest this afternoon, then drop to 10 to 15 mph tonight.

The early morning low on Tuesday should be in the upper 30s, about like this morning's low of 37, forecasters said.

Sunday's high, despite its balmy level, was not a record for the date. A reading of 82 was posted here on Jan. 13, 1928.

The extended forecast for Wednesday through Friday calls for partly cloudy skies and minor day to day temperature changes. Highs should be near 60 and lows in the 30s.

Elsewhere in the state this morning, dense fog cut visibility to near zero over much of Southeast and East Texas.

Driving conditions were hazardous as far north of the coast as the Lufkin and College Station areas, weathermen said.

The fog was expected to dissipate soon, however, and forecasts predicted clear skies and warm temperatures statewide.

Rivers in northern California surged toward flood stage today and the National Weather Service issued flash flood warnings for the western foothills of the Sierra Nevadas.

Some 3 to 5 inches of rain fell over lower elevations of the Sierras during the past few days, with more than 10 inches reported higher up.

By Sunday night, the Russian River had reached its flood stage of 32 feet and was expected to rise to near 36 feet later today.

Flood stage warnings were also issued for the Sacramento, Cosumnes, Eel and Napa rivers, while the Smith and Klamath rivers in the extreme northern part of the state were also at the warning stage.

Tahoe Public Utilities District officials reported that some 10 million gallons of raw sewage spilled into Heavenly Valley Creek and into Lake Tahoe when a treatment plant was incapacitated during a power outage.

In the Sierra foothills community of Three Rivers, some 100 residents were evacuated from their homes due to flooding, authorities said.

Police Arrest City Man At Neighborhood Center

A Lubbock man, apparently in the mood for a game of pool this morning, was arrested for allegedly breaking into the Parkway Neighborhood Center at 405 N. Quirt Ave.

Police answering an alarm about 6:30 a.m. found the 21-year-old suspect inside the center's pool room. The man had the balls racked and was about to begin a game when officers made their entrance, according to reports.

The suspect was taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of burglary.

In other activity, a 76-year-old Lubbock man was shot in the thigh after getting into an argument about 5:30 p.m. Sunday with two men and a woman, according to reports.

Willie Sylvester Jackson of 806 David Ave. was treated and released at West Texas Hospital. Witnesses said the man was shot in front of a residence in the 3200-block of East Seventh Street.

Reports indicate Jackson knew his assailants but refused to tell investigating officers.

A Lubbock man was arrested about 1:40 a.m. today after he allegedly struck a 17-year-old woman inside a club in the 1800-block of East Broadway.

Helen Moreno said the man entered the nightclub and struck her in the face, causing her to fall to the floor. Reports indicate the woman was not seriously injured in the incident.

A 17-year-old man slipped out of a police patrol car shortly after midnight today while the officer struggled with another man in the 1900-block of Avenue N.

The teen-ager and an 18-year-old man were taken into custody after they were spotted acting suspiciously, according to reports. Police said the older youth jumped out of the patrol car, but the officer chased him down.

However, the other man slipped away while the officer was handcuffing the older suspect, according to reports. The man in custody was taken to the county jail and booked on suspicion of evading arrest.

A 26-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 11:50 p.m. Sunday after he was caught allegedly stealing mirrors off vehicles parked in the 1900-block of East Fourth Street.

Richard Allen Michaels of 2016 Sixth St. told police she returned home about 11 p.m. Sunday to find her place burglarized and $1,500 in property stolen, including stereo equipment and a television set. The residence had been ransacked, according to reports.

Windows were shattered and a television set stolen from Shirley Jean Gernon's 2902 E. Bates St. residence between 4:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday. The victim reported about a $680 loss.

City police detectives questioned a man Sunday in connection with a shooting shortly after midnight Saturday which sent two men to Health Sciences Center Hospital.

The man, however, was released pending filing of charges, police said.

One of the two men shot outside a club at U.S. 87 and Erskine Street, Louis Pesina of Wolforth, was listed in serious condition this morning at HSC. The other victim, Charles Pesina of Lamesa was listed in satisfactory condition.

Detectives said they were seeking a second suspect in connection with the incident. refused to fight. When the two left the skating rink about 11:30 p.m., they found the two youths who challenged them to fight, along with about 15 other youths, waiting for them in the parking lot, police said.

It was then that Carabajal was stabbed once in the lower back. The victim told police he did not know the attacker, described as a Mexican-American male, about 17 years old, weighing 130 pounds and standing five-feet-seven. The suspect was wearing a black felt hat with a feather in it and a long black coat.

A 23-year-old Lubbock woman was shot in the leg with a shotgun early Sunday morning after she tried to break into the house of the man she had been living with.

At first, police were called to the man's house, where he explained that he had heard glass breaking on his front

A 15-year-old Lubbock youth was in satisfactory condition today at Methodist hospital recovering from a stab wound to the abdomen suffered late Saturday night at Rollertown, 50th St. and Ave. P.

Saturday when they were approached by two youths who wanted to fight, police said.

The victim and his friend, however, door. He said he got up and got his shotgun, and then fired through the door when he heard the door knob turn. He said after he fired he did not see anyone.

Shortly after police got that call, they also were called to Health Sciences Center Hospital where the woman had been treated for a gunshot wound in the leg.

At the hospital, the woman explained that she had gone to the house to get her clothes. When the man did not answer the door, she admitted to breaking the glass out of the door, police said.

A 22-year-old Lubbock man was arrested about 1 a.m. Sunday after police stopped the man's vehicle for speeding and then found about a half ounce of marijuana in the glove compartment.

According to reports, police stopped the man in the 1000th block of University. When the officer approached the car, he said he smelled burning marijuana.

Testimony Begins Today In NTSU Finance Probe

AUSTIN (AP) — Members of the House General Investigating Committee huddled behind closed doors today to "draft a game plan" for its look into allegations of financial mishandling at North Texas State University.

Chairman Richard Slack, D-Pecos, said the committee planned to talk with its lawyers about possible litigation and the lineup of witnesses.

Twenty witnesses, including NTSU officials and faculty members, have been subpoenaed. Slack today said "another witness or two or three" might be called.

The committee is investigating the transfer of funds from the university's general fund into a private foundation. Committee counsel Jim Vollers said former NTSU President C.C. Nolen would testify but would not be the first witness.

Testimony was to begin later today, Slack said.

John Weeks, NTSU public relations director, said he heard several school officials have been subpoenaed. However, he said the only subpoena he actually saw was for John Carter, vice president for fiscal affairs. Carter served as acting president after Nolen resigned.

Weeks said Carter was asked to bring some financial records from the Denton university.

Winfree Brown of Midland, chairman of the NTSU board of regents, said he was invited to the committee hearing.

Brown has been on the board since August and said he does not have detailed information about the questionable financial transfers.

Local Advertisers Slate 'Baddy' Awards Friday

Perhaps wondering who writes the darned things, the average TV viewer sits through dozens of commercials nightly, knowing that the next sales pitch is only moments away.

For Lubbock advertisements, there is a moment of truth. The Lubbock Advertising Federation will display some of the biggest bloopers made in local advertising at their first "Baddy" Awards Friday in the Lindsey Theater.

"Not many professionals are brave enough, or perhaps foolish enough, to air their mistakes in public," federation president Carol Talcott said. "We think it not only gives ad people more credibility, but it will be just plain fun for those in attendance."

The Baddy Awards are a cockeyed take-off on the organization's Addy Awards, which annually recognize the best in local advertising. Mrs. Talcott stressed that the program, which starts with a social hour at 7 p.m. with the show scheduled for 8 p.m., is open to the public — not just advertising folks.

"All of you judge them every night," federation member Phil Price said. Taking his cue from another federation member, Price added, "Doctors bury their mistakes; ad men run them on the 10 o'clock news."

The program will include entries from radio, television and newspapers. Categories for the entries include ad bloopers which actually ran, outtakes or

Meeting Slated For Parents

Informational meetings on course offerings are scheduled for tonight and Tuesday for parents of eighth and ninth grade students at Evans Junior High School.

Sessions are at 7:30 p.m. today for parents of ninth graders and at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday for parents of eighth graders. Both meetings will be in the school auditorium.

Evans students also will have meetings on course offerings and are invited to attend the evening sessions.

Students will be expected to choose subjects for next year and to make preliminary choices for the remaining years of high school, and parents will be asked to approve those choices.

Representatives of high schools will be at the meetings and will be available to answer questions and meet with parents.

ads that sponsors never allowed to run, and X-rated bloopers.

Entries must be entered from the people responsible for them, to avoid lawsuits from entering a rival's advertising.

The "Baddies" marks the first event housed in the Lindsey Theater since 1950. Theaters, which had leased the theater from the Lindsey family heirs, closed the theater last year. The Lubbock Theater Center, which purchased the Lindsey, will offer the last show of their spring season this year at the historic theater.

Seats are not limited for the Friday Baddy Awards, but reservations may be made by calling 762-0811. Tickets, at $7.50 each, will be reserved at the door.

Officials Find Hot Lead In Wood Murder Probe

EL PASO (UPI) — The arrest of three men and confiscation of sophisticated weapons and equipment last week in Philadelphia is regarded as a "red hot lead" in the investigation of the assassination of U.S. Judge John H. Wood Jr., a newspaper reported today.

In a copyright story, The El Paso Herald-Post quoted a high Justice Department source as saying the arrests on Jan. 5 were not apparently related to the Wood case, "but it's a red hot lead, and there are some very close connections to Jimmy Chagra."

Bradley Bryant, 35, of Savannah, Ga.; his cousin, Larry Earl Bryant, 38, of Midway, Ky., and formerly of Las Vegas, Nev., and Roger Dale Barnard, 29, of Lexington, Ky., and Kilgore, were arrested by officers of the Philadelphia Police Department and agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms executing a search warrant.

Among equipment confiscated from the rooms of the Airport Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia, occupied by the trio for seven days, were several weapons, pistol silencers, Gerber-type "commando" daggers, ski masks, false identification documents, bogus permits to carry firearms in several states and "electronic warfare" equipment, including telephone scramblers (sophisticated telephone security devices built in briefcases), federal officials said.

The newspaper quoted a source close to the investigation as saying the men tried unsuccessfully to identify themselves as Central Intelligence Agency agents during the arrests.

"These guys are heavies, for sure," the source told the Herald-Post.

Bradley Bryant was taken into custody at the Philadelphia International Airport while awaiting a Delta Airlines flight to Atlanta. Agents found a 9-mm pistol and a .22-caliber magnum two-shot derringer inside his luggage, according to the federal firearms complaint against the trio.

All three men had "phony Kentucky driver licenses," federal officials said, and Bradley Bryant also allegedly possessed false firearms permits from Pennsylvania, Georgia and Nevada.

LUMINIST SHOW WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Gallery of Art is featuring what it terms "a fresh and comprehensive examination" of the movement now called luminism. It said the exhibition focused "on the culminating phase of 19th century Hudson River school painting." The show runs through June 15.

Three Lubbock Diet Centers Afford Weight Loss Programs

Does a weight loss program (that really works) seem especially sensible after the holiday round of sumptuous dining?
 Does assistance and attention by a counselor who cares hold special appeal as one looks ahead to spring and summer when excess weight might keep you from enjoying the related activities to the fullest?
 All this points to very pertinent reasons for depending upon the Diet Centers in Lubbock, now located in Security Park (3602 Slide Road, phone 799-1441), at 8302 Indiana Ave., phone 793-3438, and at 4311 Boston Ave., phone 793-8300.

In introducing and explaining the Diet Center programs in Lubbock, let us first learn about the counselors heading each of the units. Each of the three counselors became head of her business after personal experience in Diet Center weight loss, becoming "sold" to the program through personal trial. What better proof could there be?
 Deanne Alewine heads the 8302 Indiana Diet Center. A native West Texan, Deanne is more recently a 10-year Bryan (Tex.) resident where she attended Texas A&M.
 Connie Dunlap is owner of the Diet Center at B-10 Security Park, 3602 Slide Road. Connie is a longtime Lubbock resident, and began her Diet Center program under Deanne.
 Sheryl Shields, from Idalou, recently opened her Diet Center at 4211 Boston Ave.

There's a Diet Center near you!
 In citing their personal experiences with Diet Center, each of the three counselors relate a personal and measurable weight loss that has remained stabilized. In fact, they report that each probably has lost over 200 pounds during their lifetime in other programs and on their own, what with fad diets, crash diets, etc., but each prefer the Diet Center program because it has worked for them. Each has had special training at the Dietology Training School in Rexburg, Idaho, before opening centers as franchise owners. Each has graduated from the Rexburg school.

Program Defined
 No drugs or shots are involved in the very practical program that features (1) well-balanced diet, (2) individual counseling and (3) daily weigh-in.
 A 12-week program most usually is utilized, with 17 to 25 pound loss normal within a six-week period.

Stabilization after weight loss is an important facet of the Diet Center program, it is emphasized.
 Diet Centers in Lubbock are open five days a week, no signing of contracts is involved; it is a plan to "live with" pleasantly.
 Some may not realize that Diet Center programs are set up to meet each individual's needs, and that these can be adjusted for folks with special health problems. Counseling is afforded men and children, as well as women.
 Finally, and in brief, it is explained that the Diet Center program calls for a well-balanced diet, and the clients will

Near Two Centuries Combined Experience Mark Service Staff

"Taking your car to a 'pro' is not just a figure of speech when applied to patronage of the Don Crow Chevrolet Service Department, Loop 289 and Slide Road in Lubbock."
 After all, service technicians there have combined total of 172 years experience in the field!
 Count and add it yourself:
 There's Jess Nichols, service manager, with 26 years professional experience; Emmitt Booher, 6 years; Roger Paschall, 7; Buster Singleton, 35 years; Mario Molina, 2; Jim Dickey, 15; Leon Roberts, 21; Beauford McCain, 28 years; Robert Gutierrez, 6 years; Chana Hernandez, 6; and Andy Orta, 20 years.

Small wonder that customer satisfaction not only is a motto and pledge but is a reality at the Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.
Service Special
 The trade accorded the Service Department is sincerely noted and appreciated, and a graphic expression of this appreciation is the still-continuing offer of oil and lube job for GM autos at just $9.95. Yes, just $9.95, and this includes up to five quarts of Quaker State HD 30 oil, AC filter, and grease.
 "Of course, we welcome your business throughout the department, but we are listing this good price as indicative of the customer-considering operations at Don Crow Chevrolet."
 And Don Crow still has some of those sought-after Target engines, with the 350 Target engine priced at just $995, including installation, intake gasket set and labor for Chevrolet passenger cars and not lose the essential fat on the body, but only the extra adipose fat; the dieters will have all the nutrients necessary to maintain good health while losing adipose fat from the body. At a very modest price, one may avail herself or himself of daily counseling during the weight loss period, counseling during stabilization, and further aid during later maintenance for a lifetime of weight control.

 "With the aid of one of the Diet Centers in Lubbock, you can feel well and if you persevere, in no time at all you'll begin to look as great as you feel!"
 "After all, wasn't one of those New Year resolutions to lose excess weight?"

light duty pickups. Cost for heavy duty trucks understandably is slightly more.
 Service advisors are on the job at 7:30 a.m. at Don Crow to aid in servicing for folks en route to their work. Mini Maid service has long been appreciated gesture, and the firm also affords bus service to and from the South Plains Mall at the customers' convenience!
 It all is a part of the "customer satisfaction" image carefully guarded at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc.
 From the service manager to the service advisors and technicians (including five master technicians) at Don Crow Chevrolet, Inc., all take pride in the ultimate in customer service at a price that can be lived with.
 "And don't forget Don Crow Chevrolet's invitation to compare costs; we are glad to show you the posted hourly rates and allotted Chevrolet factory time for any job, eliminating any confusion. We are aboveboard in all dealings."
 Don Crow believes that it pays you to know all the facts: it pays to know and trust Don Crow Chevrolet!
 "When you consider our honesty in dealing, the dedication of a professional staff with true know-how, our reputation for saving for you in dollars and cents, then why consider anything less than Don Crow Chevrolet for your every auto repair need?
 All service work is guaranteed 90 days or 4,000 miles on all General Motors parts and accessories.
 More than a dozen technicians and three service advisors are on the job.

Maxine's Accent January Sale
Featuring Exceptional Values

It is January Clearance time at Maxine's Accent, in Briercroft Shopping Center! For this once-a-year event, Maxine's not only is offering many racks at 50 percent reduction, but also is arranging storewide reductions of 30 percent and more off on all fall and holiday sweaters, coats (including leathers and fake furs), jeans, short and long dresses, sportswear, robes and gowns, and accessories. Also, reductions in the Designer Room include some ultra suedes.

Maxine's Accent has an excellent selection of ultra suedes. A new shipment of ultra suede jackets has just arrived, and also spring ultra suede suits and dresses.

Beginning their eleventh year, Dr. and Mrs. Will Willingham especially invite their many friends and customers to come in for this storewide clearance sale.

Three years ago this February, the store was expanded to twice its original size, and a beautiful new "Designer Room" was added. Here, merchandise from top designers is displayed, and privacy is afforded the discriminating customer looking for uniqueness and many lines exclusive to Maxine's Accent.

Fur Showing
Another situation merits special attention at this time: An added venture for the store has been the association of Maxine's Accent with Pam Mahoney, noted furrier of New York and Dallas. Mrs. Mahoney is bringing a $500,000 collection of exciting furs for an early February fur sale.

"Maxine and Pam extend a joint invitation for you to watch for specific dates and details and to come by at that time and see this collection at most competitive prices before you purchase a fur."

Referring to the shop's current January Clearance, Maxine emphasizes: "We've had a most enjoyable and rewarding 10 years in ladies and junior apparel here in Lubbock and have met with tremendous response from not only Lubbock but from many of the surrounding cities."

"We are happy to offer the exciting savings during the January Clearance, and we hope our many friends will be able to take advantage of these values. The storewide reductions (30 to 70 percent, remember) involve fall and holiday lines, long dresses and short dresses, beautiful mix-and-match sportswear for both juniors and misses, fall coats, sweaters, ultra suedes, party looks, lingerie and accessories.

Outstanding Labels
Some of the lines are Pant-Her, Collegian, Lady Wrangler, Body English, Melissa Lane, Lilli Ann, College Town, Dorce, Halston, Mollie Parris, Strawberry Plant and many, many others.

The capable staff at Maxine's includes full-time staffers Maxine Willingham, her daughter, Sharon Harris, who is assistant manager; her mother, Mary McCollum; also Lue Ree McGee and Kay Shook. Part-time members include Michele Hunter, a Distributive Education student. Other occasional part-time staffers include Poppy Burnette and Kaye McGee.

Maxine is the fashion coordinator each year for Miss Lubbock, and she also assists other pageant entries locally in their wardrobe rightness.

Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed on both sale items and regularly-priced merchandise in the store where everything from the capable staff, the famous labels, the attractive decor, the management's devotion to fashion rightness and leadership, and currently the January Clearance contribute to the enviable Maxine's Accent image.

Sale Days, Workshop, Class Schedule
Announced By Hagood's Arts & Crafts

Hagood's Arts & Crafts, at 8211 Indiana (around the corner at 83rd and Indiana in spacious, modern quarters) starts the new year with new classes and still further inventory expansion.

One of the key announcements from the popular shop is that a special Dollar Day Sale will be conducted on the first Monday of each month, with a 10 percent discount at that time on all purchases except frames which already have marked-down prices.

Be sure and check each sale day for unadvertised specials.

Inventory of Hagood's Arts & Crafts was expanded last fall, and now even more is being added. One must see all that is new to realize just how much is offered.

Due to popular demand, matting and backing materials will be stocked. (And if there are other arts and craft items not yet stocked but which you would like for us to carry, please let us know.)

Students Aided
Hagood's also would like the opportunity of serving the art and craft needs of the college students, offering a full 10 percent discount with proper ID.

Another situation of immediate interest at Hagood's is the really impressive class schedule announced.

Among the opportunities are:
Monday nights, 6 to 9 o'clock, Beginner Toile with Carolyn Fortenberry instructing.

Tuesdays, 6 p.m. until 9 p.m., Beginner Canvas, Terri Burdette teaching.

Tuesday mornings, 10 a.m. until 12:30, Beginner Toile, with Carolyn Fortenberry.

Wednesday afternoons, 1-3:30, Acrylic Painting with Judy Sprehe.

Thursday nights, Advanced Canvas, Terri Burdette.

On Tuesday night, Jan. 22, and on Saturday morning, Jan. 26, there will be Gold Leaf Workshops with Sidney Field directing.

Hagood's will be scheduling other workshops and classes as time permits.

Chennault Prints
Included in the enlarged inventory are the sought-after Robert Chennault limited-edition prints, signed and numbered. Hagood's is quite proud to be able to make these available.

Due to popularity of the Hagood's workshops and classes, it is advised to call beforehand when possible to assure inclusion in the class of one's choice.

"We invite you to start off 1980 by taking advantage of the workshops afforded," is the sincere message from Billie Hagood, owner of the big store; "we invite you to visit and discover our upgraded, enlarged and specialized stock arranged to be of added service to the arts and crafts community."

NEW RV ELEGANCE AT AFFORDABLE PRICE

Rentals, Sales, Storage, Top Service Mark Pharr RV Center

For new fun experiences and for economy, the rental of a new motor home, trailer or pop-up from Pharr RV's, 1702 Clovis Road in Lubbock, could well be the happiest solution yet! Get details now about the ease and convenience involved in these three-day-minimum rentals.

Pharr doesn't stop here; he offers even more services and products. Such as some extremely good buys in '79 Coachmen customized vans (some equipped for trailer pulling). And two '79 5th Wheel units and a '79 Silverstreak, all at discounted prices.

New Arrivals

Plus new 1980 units including the value-marked Coachman Citation and Crest-line trailers on the big lot at intersection of Avenue Q and the Clovis highway near downtown Lubbock, with some Deluxe models arriving soon.

For Winterizing

It is conceivable that some trailering folks have not yet winterized their units; if so, turn to Pharr without delay. Servicing and winterizing are specialized services there. And one can purchase anti-freeze from Pharr at reduced prices at this time.

Pharr also maintains covered and open storage for RV units.

Parts, accessories and service add to the picture of the firm's popularity.

More about the Coachmen units in stock:

Coachmen is the world's largest full-line manufacturer of recreational vehicles. New this year is the Citation model with livability features you've asked for, and with features you'd expect to find on much more expensive trailers. Now might be the very best time ever to acquire a great trailer with Coachmen value.

Among the Citation features are one-piece aluminum roof, full fiberglass insulation, tubular frame, painted exterior graphics, galvanized metal underbelly, interior cabinets fastened to sidewall studs, floor and rafters, aerodynamic front end styling, tandem wide track Kelsey Hayes running gear, four-wheel electric brakes, lockable outside storage compartments, dual holding tanks, positive latches on cabinet doors and lined wardrobes, increased kitchen counter-top, vinyl backsplash, rolled edge, laminated countertops in most models, and larger double stainless steel sink, plus name-brand refrigerator, range and oven. And much more assuring elegance, serviceability and full value. Options are available for even greater convenience and flexibility.

"Let Pharr open a whole new world of livability, convenience, comfort and style for you . . . the kind of travel excitement and vacation value you can rightfully expect from Coachmen . . . and Pharr RV, Inc.

Pharr appreciates the customer confidence in the just-concluded year and in years past, humbly recognizing the loyalty of the growing family of customers, appreciating every friendship and every transaction, pledging entry into the '80s with all-around value and consideration in each department. It is just another situation of home folks serving home folks to the best of their ability, we believe.

Winfrey Private School's Registration Underway, Ages 3 Through Sixth Grade

For outstanding instruction, learning environment and physical facilities, Winfrey Private School likely is just what you have been seeking!

Accommodating age 3 through the sixth grade, the Spring semester begins Jan. 21, with registration now underway at the school, 83rd Street at Salem Avenue in Lubbock, phone 794-2230.

"We hope you will consider us and investigate immediately; we want you to get full information just as soon as possible, we want you to learn of the comprehensive program, of the outstanding physical facilities provided on the big 3.2-acre campus, with 40,000 square feet under roof. We believe you will find the school and its curriculum an eye-opener, and we hope you'll find how its program can be of service within your own family or scope of acquaintances."

Remember, registration is presently underway.

Dorothy Winfrey is founder and director of the school now in its second school year. She had conducted a school on Broadway for three years before personally designing and establishing the present facility involving 18 self-contained classrooms, all adjacent to a huge 60 ft. by 235 ft. gymnasium accommodating over a dozen sports!

All classrooms are air conditioned, independently heated and opening to the gym.

Construction is functionally attractive, of concrete and steel, and the building is reported completely fire safe. A heat detecting system is installed.

Dorothy Winfrey holds Bachelors and Masters degrees from Texas Tech in the field of Elementary Education; she is certified in three special education areas, certified in learning disabilities and physically handicapped, and has completed 40 hours study on the doctorate level.

To reach Winfrey Private School, just turn off 82nd Street on Toledo; the school is two blocks west and one block south of the Quaker Avenue-82nd Street intersection. You can't miss it!

'Plus Factors'

Discover at Winfrey Private School how "the best in education" is afforded.

Student-teacher ratio in the grade school age is one instructor for 20 students or less; for ages 3 and 4 it is one instructor for 15 students.

Modest Charge

Rates are most reasonable.

Many parents are surprised to find that their children can get the best in care and in educational opportunities at such modest fees — at Winfrey Private School.

Aside from the comprehensive curriculum, after-school private instruction (for ages 3 and up) is available in baton, gymnastics, tap, ballet and piano. After-school care is available until 6 p.m.

Every teacher in the school is "degreed" and certified in elementary education.

To give a hint of the school's concept and opportunities . . . and quality, a special sheet applicable to age 3 and 4, a suggested curriculum content for early education, points out the school's assistance and leadership in social development for the child, art and music opportunities, nature study units, writing readiness, number concepts and math readiness, and language arts and reading readiness helps.

"You must see the Winfrey Private School to understand its quality — in planning, concept, physical facilities, and operation. We hope you'll come out this week (enrollment is enabled now for the spring semester); we think you'll like and appreciate what you find."

Tuftwick's January Clearance Affording Savings, Selection

"Tuftwick's January Clearance is underway, with rock-bottom prices posted throughout the stock in the big Lubbock store.

"Don't delay . . . come to Tuftwick Carpet, at Brownfield Highway and Slide Road in Lubbock, and select during the sale. You'll readily recognize the quality and the selection that sets Tuftwick apart; and Hal, Arvel, Nancy and Beth will be glad to assist in any manner possible; they know carpet, and they know that satisfied customers are the biggest asset a firm can have.

"Tuftwick wants to serve you now and throughout 1980 just as they have in years past, and they believe this sale kicking off the new year is the most practical way of proving their desire to serve best."

Whatever the selection in the very large stock, including full rolls, short rolls and remnants, one can save by purchasing from Tuftwick during this meaningful sale.

"Tuftwick takes pride in selling at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, no matter if just arrived in stock!"

AREA WINDOW INSTALLATIONS BY SCORES ATTEST TO FIRM'S POPULARITY

Insulating Windows Advantages Include New World of Savings

"Put your windows to work conserving energy!"
 This is not a trite suggestion, but rather a very practical procedure. Aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors can be a great factor in energy conservation, in comfort, in economy and in the overall beauty of the home.

And these windows and doors can be custom made for you, right here in Lubbock at Insulating Windows, Inc., now in its new home at 327 E. 74th St. (formerly serving at 1616 Ave. F).
 Come by the big new facility or call Insulating Windows at 745-5768 for full details about how this experienced firm can work for you.

 (Insulation-related installations can qualify for income tax credit, too, it is reminded by the manufacturing firm.)

For All-Year Comfort
 Insulating Windows, Inc. can open a whole new world in one's enjoyment of the home every day of the year, winter and summer, with the finest in storm windows and doors, with insulating windows enhancing the beauty, comfort and hospitality of the home.

For Cost Reductions
 Properly designed, properly located and properly used windows actually can reduce heating and air conditioning costs, research has proven. In winter, now with us, a window can capture the sun's warmth while providing a barrier to heating system losses.

Energy Conservation
 "Proper windows would seem to be a very, very rational approach to energy conservation . . . and with the help of the experienced staff at Insulating Windows, Inc., the job is simplified . . . with you, the customer, benefitting now and for seasons to come."

Don't delay: call (806) 745-5768 or come by and visit the new home of Insulating Windows, Inc., 327 E. 74th St. (just south of Loop 289).

Briercroft Dance/Gymnastics Academy Adds Ladies Aerobics To New Program

"Did you realize what a tremendous program in dance and gymnastics is offered at the Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, 50th & Q?"
 Even with the already-outstanding program, something new has been added.

It is Ladies Aerobics, with sign-up underway (what a great time and opportunity to take off that "Christmas bulge"!)
 The Ladies Aerobics classes meet from 10 a. m. until 11 a. m. on Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 23, with the six-weeks program just $25.

Continuous enrollment for gymnastics is a feature of the Academy.
 Dance enrollment is available now for those with previous training (with beginner session set for summer).

Another item of interest at the popular Academy in the impending recital May 9 in the Municipal Auditorium, with preparations now well underway.

For particulars about any phase of the opportunities at Briercroft Academy of Dance & Gymnastics, call 747-5850 or come by the big facility just off 50th & Q.

There is special, modern equipment for toddlers through primary, and includes the mini vault, low bars, kindergarten work set, low beams and much more.

The Gym has wall-to-wall ethy-foam matting, floor-level trampoline and the new equipment units.

 Elsie Jackson is business administrator of the 14-year-old Academy.

Over 9,500 sq. ft. of clean, uncluttered space with in-place equipment, and instruction from truly outstanding personnel contribute to the envied capabilities and reputation of the Academy, with students there excelling in competition at many places and levels.

Linda and Mac Laceywell are the safety certified gymnastic instructors. Eight adults and three specially trained young adult instructors care about the good physical and mental development of the children with whom they work, and they all feel that progression comes with good instruction as well as fun and enjoyment.
 The gymnastics programs, for all ages and skill levels, include beam, bars, vault, tumbling, floor exercise and floor-level trampoline.

Outstanding Dance Program
 The Dance Studio affords ballet, tap, jazz and the newly added aerobics, even with pre-school classes, musical theatre, ladies ballet and jazz.

Janis Geddes, in charge, is president of the Texas Dance Teachers Association and holds numerous other prestigious posts in the field. She is active in the Lubbock Theatre, playing the role of Mama Rose in the recent "Gypsy" presentation, as example.

Linda and Mac Laceywell are well recognized for their expertise in gymnastics instruction. Linda is a USGF-rated judge, and the Academy is a member of USGF, AAU and USGSA.

Enrollment is underway in the Kinder-Gym program, and walking tots to three-year-olds can be included, with mothers participating.
 From tots to primary students, a program is set up to improve coordination, flexibility and strength.

Team competition in Classes I, II and III has resulted in much success for local representatives traveling throughout the state for competition. Last year, 10 places were copped in state Class II competition, and the Academy had the only team in this area to qualify a Class II for regionals in Little Rock, Ark., last summer. Two girls qualified for the Junior National Olympics in Lincoln, Neb.

"In every department, Briercroft Academy invites comparison. Won't you come in, look at the entire facility, meet and visit with instructors and learn of the many dance and gymnastics opportunities? You owe no less to your child's pleasant learning experience. And don't forget the new Ladies Aerobics opportunities . . . but don't delay!"

HOUSE CLINIC SETS SPECIAL SAVINGS FOR BRAND CLOSE-OUT

House Clinic Reveals Drastic Reduction On Close-Out Items

There's a special money-saving announcement from the House Clinic, 1922 Ave. E.
"There presently are limited quantities, in several decorator colors, in both soffit and fascia materials from Arrowhead Steel that we are closing out at 20 percent or greater reduction!"
This is quite an opportunity to get those desired materials for overhangs and at exceptionally low price while quantities last.
House Clinic, at 1922 Ave. E., phone 747-4436 in Lubbock, is closing out its Arrowhead line and will in the future stock U.S. Steel products.
So... you still can depend upon the House Clinic for finest in materials... for soffit and fascia, but now exclusively from U.S. Steel.
Attention is re-directed to the following:
"Do you as owner of a brick home realize just how very much the House Clinic can do for you?"

"You can eliminate all painting of your overhang cover and on gables with a metal product exclusively designed to cover overhang in beautiful decorator colors... even guaranteed against such problems as flaking, chipping and peeling, for 35 years!"
The invitation is extended to "let the people who know solve your overhang problems, assisting your budget, helping in energy savings and certainly contributing in large manner to overall beauty and comfort of the home."
"People Who Know"
The House Clinic, not only has proven products, but it prides in the over 85 years of combined experience on its staff, factors that point to the evident fact that "you can depend upon House Clinic to get the job done, right."
First Quality
All the products at House Clinic are manufactured in the United States and all metal siding, just as all the related items, is first quality only.

Soffit and Fascia systems (call it "overhang," if you wish, but call it trouble unless you give it prompt attention as signs of deterioration start) do more than just fix up what's run down! Their superior construction, advanced design styling and colors actually will make one's home more beautiful than it ever was before.
Also, House Clinic invites and urges that one inquire about the involved long-term prorated guarantee.
Factors to be considered in deciding upon an overhang and gable system from House Clinic include fire resistance, maintenance savings, elimination of costly repainting, termite resistance, a finish that cannot crack, peel, flake or blister; choice of colors and renewal by simple hose washing.
"Stop in and visit at 1922 Ave. E. in Lubbock to see the graphic displays and to get complete details on how House Clinic can benefit you, even as owner of a brick home..."

'The Best In Beauty Care' Tradition At Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design

"Don't let the rigors and changes of winter take its toll insofar as a beautiful complexion and beautiful, healthy hair is concerned!"
Possibly in no season of the year is the best in beauty care more necessary and more appreciated than now.
And for excellence in beauty and hair care, the recommendation by so many is Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design, 4630 50th St., Suite 106, phone 792-4688, a salon worthy of full consideration and reliance.
Extraordinary Facials
For extraordinary deep-cleaning facials, for waxing of facial hair, for sculptured nails, manicures, and of course the most elegant and desirable in hair care, it is Elisabeth's in Lubbock Square.
For soft-looking perms, for addition of highlights to the hair, for the ultimate in hair conditioning, why delay, give your hair the proper care during the winter, for sure, to aid in its beauty this spring and summer.
One of the key services at Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design is the facial care enabled by the new Dermodyn steam machine for scientific treatments. It affords a truly deep-cleansing facial, with penetrating action on the skin, moistening of dead cells and dirt accumulation (all with lukewarm ionized vapor), a machine that does not generate ozone even in small amounts.
Staffed to Serve
Staffmember Angel Smallwood, with European training, is a specialist with this equipment.
The entire staff is exceptionally qualified, including newest staffmember June Cloude, a Jessie Lee graduate with 15 years experience in Lubbock including tenure with the House of Hair.

Anita White is another well-known and appreciated member of the Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design family, together with Elisabeth Pyron who also is a Jessie Lee graduate who later served as stylist at the Jessie Lee Salon before establishing her own salon.
Open Mondays through Saturdays, Elisabeth's encourages appointments and drop-in traffic alike.
Both men and women customers are invited, with precision haircuts one of the salon's specialties, with haircuts with blow dry or wet set provided.
Remember the facials that are most refreshing and "out of the ordinary", and don't forget that for relaxation at a really beautiful salon, for an exhilarating experience in hair care or facials, for modern techniques by a skilled, proven staff, for all the best in beauty services, acquaintance with Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design at earliest opportunity is urged as a great way to enjoy the winter weeks and to prepare for a great new season to come.

Storkie's Staging Storewide Maternity, Baby Wear Sale

A Storewide Sale is in progress at Storkie's Maternity and Baby Shop, in the Family Park Shopping Center, 34th & H.

Great savings are provided, and anything in the store not already marked down in price is being discounted 10 per cent throughout this week!

This includes not only the maternity department but also the baby department, and a number of price markdowns in the infant and toddler sizes.

Response is growing stronger for quality merchandise, good selection and budget prices," owner-operator Faye Spoth points out, and "everyday there are new faces at the shop, all expressing a real excitement in being able to find youthful looking fashionable styles at truly affordable prices."

Maternity sizes are stocked in sizes 4 to 24, with good selections in everything from blue jeans to formals.

There are several styles of nursing gowns, robes and nursing smock tops, underwire nursing bras as well as the conventional type nursing bra; maternity panties available from size small to X-large.

"If this is your first pregnancy and you need information and help in selecting your wardrobe, or if you need questions answered in the nursing department, please feel free to come in and chat, sale time or any time."

Faye will be delighted to help answer your questions or help you coordinate a wardrobe.

Convenient layaway, Visa and Master Charge purchases are available.

For maternity needs, baby and toddler girls selections, Christening sets for boys and girls, shower and baby gifts, Storkie's Maternity & Baby Shop is the place.

"Remember, Storkie's is located at 34th & H, Family Park Shopping Center (next door to Anthony's). See you at Storkie's where your dollar buys more!"

Edwards & Abernathie, Realtors, Tell Small Items That Make Big Difference

Bernice Turquette, real estate director at Edwards & Abernathie, Realtors, not only points out that "now is a very good time to purchase a home in Lubbock" but she goes further to explain how one can work with the Realtor in making home sales and purchases easier for all.

Whether the primary concern is saving in cash, in securing a home for immediate occupancy upon transfer here, for location elsewhere, for upgrading one's living accommodations, or whatever, Edwards & Abernathie at 3217 34th St., phone 792-5166, is on the job to meet the need.

Home ownership is an investment with benefits many other investments lack, let us at Edwards & Abernathie explain all facets of opportunities presently advantageous. Contact us now and let us go to work for you in one or all of our several departments. Capability for service and a genuine interest in your welfare is our way of doing business.

Among Selling Hints
 Bernice gives the following hints to those planning to sell.

"You can help, in a very realistic way. The prospect we bring to your residence is looking at your house as a future home, so first impressions are very important; a little time on your part will pay dividends. Even the shrubbery, flower beds and trees should be shown to best advantage. Keep the grass well cut and neatly trimmed around walks and driveways, weed the flower beds and trim the shrubbery where needed.

And at a minimum expense, you can clean the shutters and painted surfaces of the house, washing screens and even polishing doorknobs. Careful maintenance of the little things is indicative of a well-maintained house that can continue to be a pleasure and an asset for a new owner.

Also, consider painting the house before showing it, and the same applies to papering in some instances. The inside of the house really should be spotless when shown to the prospective purchaser.

Attics and basements should be cleaned and organized to give maximum floor space. The garage should likely be hoisted down. Lubrication of sticking doors, windows and doors can pay off, too.

Curtains should be fresh and clean, and mirrors, picture frames and glasses covering the pictures should be clean. Even the contents of bookshelves should be clean and in order, making for an attractive room.

A cheerful house is a "wanted" house, so many have found, so don't neglect the many little things that can show it to best advantage as a home to enjoy.

Children and pets should be absent, in most instances it is believed, when the house is being shown, to prevent undue confusion.

Then let your house and the salesman do the selling. The salesman will tell the prospects why the home is being sold, you won't have to tell them. Don't go along with the prospect and salesman, they will call if you are needed. You have given your house a chance, now, give the salesman a chance."

Bernice Turquette and the staff at Edwards & Abernathie are glad to offer further suggestions to both purchaser and seller, all working toward a mutually rewarding transaction.

"Aren't these the type people to whom you wish to entrust your real estate transactions?"

'The Cotton Patch', In Idalou, Holds January Clearance Sale

It is January Clearance time at The Cotton Patch in Idalou, a distinctive shop appreciated region-wide for concept and selection.

"We're right on the highway in Idalou, clearly marked, with parking made easy right at the door. And what bargains and selection within!"

Featured in the sale are fall and winter items at a full 30 per cent to 50 per cent off!

Select in the Misses and Junior department from designer jeans, fancy jeans, junior tops, blouses, sweaters, rabbit coats and Halston robes.

Then, in the Infants and Girls department are further sale items including jeans and tops, long dresses, nightwear, velour overalls and velour joggers. Rabbit coats in girls sizes, too.

Well-known lines mark The Cotton Patch and its merchandise that is sale priced. For misses and juniors, labels include Calvin Klein, City Girl, Original Sin, Organically Grown, Turtle Back and SW I Sweaters. For little girls there are the popular Luv It items, Billy the Kid, Health Tex, Tulip Tops, Her Majesty Nightwear, and Wiggles.

Elizabeth Arden Specials
 Also, during the spectacular sale, two Elizabeth Arden cosmetic specials are posted.

Cabriolet cologne by Elizabeth Arden, regularly priced $9.50, is marked down to $5.

And the Red Door skin fitness kit, also by Elizabeth Arden, and containing milky cleanser, active day moisturizer and skin lotion, regular $17.75, is now $8.50.

What an opportunity to select and save!

Clinic Scheduled
 Also, watch for announcement and details of another Elizabeth Arden skin and makeup clinic to be conducted at The Cotton Patch in February. One arranged last October was so well received that this second one is planned and eagerly awaited.

Convenient store hours at The Cotton Patch are 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, and Master Charge, Visa and layaway purchases are welcomed.

Local, Dedicated Ownership
 The Cotton Patch is owned and actively operated by Janis DeBuck. Opening the shop last July, Janis explains that she believes in cotton as a comfortable, superior fiber and she has purchased accordingly, staying with quality lines and fashion.

"Living, producing and shopping here in the midst of such a large cotton area, I felt upon establishment of this shop that it was high time for a store to really stock and promote cotton. We buy as much cotton wear for the shop as possible, while staying with respected brands and today's fashions.

"Response to the type store provided has been most gratifying, and we want to thank each of you who have discovered The Cotton Patch; we shall try to serve equally well in the new year, extending our new year greetings and assisting with the very practical sale as a starter. We look forward to our early visit; we know we can save for you, and we think you'll be surprised at the really impressive inventory maintained.

"Welcome to January Clearance at The Cotton Patch, on Hwy 62/82 in Idalou!"

Tensions Along 'Arc Of Instability' Examined

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Persian Gulf and northern Indian Ocean have become seas of instability at a time when American prestige and credibility in the region are at a low ebb. In this first part of a five-part series, "Arc of Instability" — Otto Doelling, who is chief of Middle East services for The Associated Press, presents a nation-by-nation look at the region.

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

The focus of world tension — once embattled Berlin, later the hilly battlefields of Korea and then the jungles of Southeast Asia — has shifted to a string of states along the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

Turmoil in Iran. Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Unrest of varying degrees in Saudi Arabia, and in the Yemens — North and South. Iraq, India and Pakistan wracked in wary dispute with neighbors.

Almost two years ago, U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski coined the phrase "arc of instability" to describe the region. He put it in a dramatic historical perspective:

"If you look at the postwar era, the '50s were dominated by the struggle for the survival of Western Europe, and our greatest attainment was the creation of stability in Western Europe. The '60s and the early '70s were dominated by the aftermath of colonial revolution and of World War II in Asia ...

"Today, the area of crisis is a group of states on the shores of the Indian Ocean — literally an arc of instability, which can be drawn on a map from Chittagong in Bangladesh, through Islamabad, all the way to Aden.

"Their internal fragility, social and political, could interact with the projection of Soviet power, and that together could create a problem as acute as the one that we faced even in the '50s or '60s, especially because of oil."

The turbulence that has struck the region since the Islamic uprising began in Iran in February 1978 has exacerbated regional and international rivalries: Iraq vs. Syria, India vs. Pakistan, the United States vs. the Soviet Union.

Ultimately at stake is the oil wealth of the Arabian peninsula and Iran, as well as the West's oil tanker routes.

Here is a nation-by-nation overview of the crisis areas along the "arc of instability":

IRAN

Until the fall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Iran was regarded as the West's "policeman" in the Persian Gulf, providing a block between the Soviet Union and the oil fields to the south.

Iran also was the world's second-largest exporter of oil, producing up to six million barrels a day.

Its pampered 400,000-man armed forces were equipped with the West's most sophisticated weaponry, but when the shah was challenged last February, the army collapsed. Soldiers deserted or deserted; hundreds of officers were slain or went before Islamic firing squads.

Amid the political upheaval, Iranian oil exports have been practically halted. Unemployment is rampant.

The unity that brought victory to the revolution led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini quickly disintegrated as the aged religious leader grimly began to impose autocratic, Islamic rule.

Domestic violence continues to shake the predominantly Shiite Moslem nation. Kurdish, Baluchi, Arab and other minorities are clamoring — and sometimes fighting — for greater autonomy.

Iran's relations with its neighbors are strained. Tehran has clamped down on Marxists, lending at least moral support to Afghan insurgents fighting the Soviet-backed rulers in Afghanistan.

Arabs in Iran's neighboring states were angered by its suppression of the autonomy-seeking Arab minority in the oil-rich Khuzestan province and they feared the spread of Islamic revolution to the western shores of the gulf, where Sunni-Moslems rule a sometimes restive Shiite minority. Furthermore, there are suspicions that Iran may attempt to reclaim the archipelago of Bahrain, site of the only U.S. naval support facility in the gulf.

Border clashes sporadically flare between Iran and Iraq, which Tehran has accused of supporting Kurdish and ethnic Arab rebels. But Iran's most serious confrontation is with the United States, which Khomeini branded as "Satan" for its backing of the shah.

The shah's admittance to the United States for medical treatment prompted the Nov. 4 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militant students demanding Pahlavi's extradition. Although Pahlavi has left the United States, militants continue to hold some 50 American hostages at the embassy.

The United States has reacted with a series of political and economic sanctions, but neither the sanctions nor the new threat posed by the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan has budged the militants. The Carter administration believes they are Marxists who may be beyond the control of Khomeini.

Khomeini still commands the popularity to maintain a tenuous hold on Iran. However, there is concern among neighboring Moslems states that if Khomeini stumbles, leftist will make their move.

SAUDI ARABIA

The wide belief in East and West that Islamic revolution "can't happen here" was shaken when 1,200 armed fanatics stormed the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine, last November.

By the time the remnants of the invaders were overcome two weeks later, the official death toll had risen to 244, including 127 members of the Saudi security forces.

Of the 143 gunmen reportedly captured alive, 63 were beheaded on Jan. 9.

Arab sources say the mosque siege was part of a plot to overthrow the Saudi royal family and proclaim a government patterned after the early days of Islam. The attack surprised observers who regarded the kingdom as orthodox enough to avoid attacks from religious conservatives.

The Mecca incident led to a shake-up in the Saudi armed forces and replacement of a half-brother to King Khaled as governor of Mecca.

America's vital interests are at stake in the kingdom. The world's leading exporter of oil — 9 million barrels a day — sits on a century's worth of oil reserves, up to 300 billion barrels.

Relations between Riyadh and Washington have cooled because of U.S. sponsorship of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty. Saudi disenchantment also stems from concern with the reliability of the Americans as allies following U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam, refusal to support Somalia-backed Moslem insurgents against Ethiopia, severance of U.S. diplomatic ties with Taiwan and failure of the United States to intervene to prevent the fall of the shah.

The Saudis hold that defense of the gulf is the business of local nations and are attempting to generate cooperation. As a deterrent to Soviet expansionism, the Saudis prefer to see U.S. military might just "over the horizon." Although pro-Western Oman lies just next door, a Western diplomat said he thought the Saudis would regard it as an ideal location for an American base.

IRAQ

The Arab socialist oil state now packs the biggest military punch on the Persian Gulf. Its 212,000-man armed forces are largely Soviet supplied, boasting 1,900 Russian-built tanks and some 350 aircraft.

Ideally, Iraq could form the nucleus of an intergulf security force, but its revolutionary credentials and past links to the Soviet Union make it suspect to neighboring Arab rulers.

Recently, Iraq has cooled toward the Russians, with whom they concluded a 15-year treaty of friendship and cooperation in 1972. After purchasing more than $1 billion worth of Soviet arms, Iraq is diversifying its purchases and is shopping in the West.

President Saddam Hussein denounced the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan as an act that "should not be justified and for which no pretext should be found." At the same time, however, he accused the United States of exploiting the crisis to justify its own possible intervention in the area. Iraq is a leader of the Arab hardline opposition to the Camp David peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Hussein assumed full power last July and tightened his grip on the nation, of 12.5 million by executing 21 leading Iraqi politicians. He pointed the finger at Syria as being behind an abortive coup by renegade members of the ruling Baath Arab Socialist Party.

Syria is ruled by a rival Baathist faction. Until the latest Iraqi purges, the two neighboring Arab countries had been working toward unity following years of violent feuding.

Amid border clashes with Iran, Iraq is demanding that the Iranians evacuate three gulf islets — the greater and lesser

YEMENS

The two Yemens — North Yemen and South Yemen — have been a frequent flashpoint, but they did not become the focus of superpower rivalry until their two-week border war last February.

After troops from Marxist South Yemen crossed the border at three points, the United States rushed in $383 million in military aid along with $200 million in backlogged orders to the north.

That seemed to put North Yemen firmly in the Western camp, but last fall the Soviets sought to neutralize the north with a large-scale weapons deal of its own. Senior officials in North Yemen say they hope to balance competing interests to avoid future wars so that its backward economy can be developed. Tribalism and political factionalism have kept North Yemen's central government so weak that it barely controls the major city, Sana'a.

The strategic significance of Yemen is its open desert borders with Saudi Arabia, and the one million Yemeni workers in the oil-rich kingdom. Western diplomats say that a Marxist guerrilla campaign in southern Saudi Arabia could threaten the oil fields.

North-South unity talks have continued for nearly a year without any practical results, though there have been periodic reports of a breakthrough.

Significantly, South Yemen became the first Arab state to support the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

INDIA, PAKISTAN

India and Pakistan, both recently wracked by domestic political turmoil, appear as much concerned about their own 33-year-old rivalry as they are about the implications of Russians on their doorstep.

An Indian political expert in New Delhi has said the Soviet move has added a completely new dimension to the region, where 300 million Moslems live in India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan.

Nevertheless, both the caretaker government of Charan Singh and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi have been slow to judgment of their political ally, the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Gandhi, who denies pro-Soviet leanings, says a U.S. "global strategy" that includes firmer alliances with China and Pakistan "does pose a danger" to India.

Puzzled by India's reaction, U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher has said the Indian government "ought to see the action of the Soviet Union as a threat to India as well as other countries in the region."

Pakistan is reacting cautiously to President Carter's decision to speed military aid. Pakistani President Zia ul-Haq has made it clear he does not want American troops in his realm and has said that geography — meaning the proximity of the Soviets — dictates accommodation with his new "superpower neighbor."

Pakistan has had bitter experiences with U.S. aid, which was stopped in the war with India over Kashmir in 1965 and curtailed in 1971 during the Indo-Pakistan war over Bangladesh. More recently aid was stopped because of Pakistan's refusal to allow international inspection of its nuclear facilities.

The depth to which U.S.-Pakistani relations had sunk prior to the Soviet incursion into Afghanistan was dramatized by the sacking of the U.S. Embassy and cultural centers in Pakistan by angry mobs reacting to rumors that the armed attack on the Grand Mosque in Mecca was instigated by the United States and Israel.

New American arms sales to Pakistan can be expected to put new strains on U.S. relations with India, and there are fears the move might also set off a new East-West arms race in the area.

Criswell Undergoing Tests At Hospital

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. W.A. Criswell, the controversial, silver-haired pastor of the world's largest Southern Baptist Church, remains in a Dallas hospital today, undergoing tests for "exhaustion."

Criswell's personal physician said the 70-year-old pastor was admitted to Baylor University Medical Center early Sunday after a restless night.

"He had not slept much last night (Saturday night). He is under a very heavy schedule, including completing a book," said the doctor, who asked that his name not be used. "We have persuaded him to remain in the hospital for a few days, (but) he possibly might be there a week.

"We just want to run some tests, blood exams and lab studies to look for any specific problems."

Gary Holder, an associate pastor at First Baptist Church in Dallas, preached the Sunday morning sermon at the downtown church.

A close Criswell associate, who also asked that he not be named, said the preacher had "secluded himself in his study" the past two weeks, rushing to finish a book for young pastors. He also has been traveling extensively on a nationwide crusade, the friend said.

Criswell has been pastor at First Baptist for 35 years. Widely known for his fundamentalist views within the denomination, he often has drawn criticism for his outspoken views on world affairs.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Oil Stocks Lead Gain In Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil issues led a broad advance in the stock market today. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.49 at 865.02. Gainers opened up a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Aided by buying on the part of investing institutions, the Dow Jones industrial average climbed almost 30 points last week in the busiest trading week ever at the NYSE. Some of that activity evidently persisted today.

In the economic news, there were reports that threatened cutbacks in sales of oil by Iran posed a diminishing threat to the world oil-supply outlook. Among actively traded oil stocks, Texas was up 1 1/4 to 30 1/4; Exxon gained 3/4 to 53; Standard Oil of Indiana 1 1/4 to 78; and Phillips Petroleum 3/4 to 49 1/4.

Merrill Lynch rose 3/4 to 22. The shares of the nation's largest securities and brokerage firm benefited from the recent surge in market activity.

The NYSE's composite index added .39 to 63.72. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.12 at 257.88. Volume on the Big Board totaled 22.66 million shares after the first two hours.

Elvis' Doctor Blames Charges On Network

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An attorney for Elvis Presley's former physician complained to the state Board of Medical Examiners today that charges were lodged against his client to accommodate the ABC television network. There was no immediate reaction from ABC.

"This has become a media event," John Thomason said as the board began hearing charges that Dr. George Nichopoulos overprescribed drugs for Presley and 15 other persons.

The hearing was delayed briefly when the hearing officer, Michael Brumhan, ordered more than a dozen television cameras moved to the side of the city council chamber where the hearing is being conducted.

Assistant Attorney General Frank Scanlon, who outlined the state's charges, said Nichopoulos, 52, had been granted a trust when he was licensed to practice medicine in 1960.

"The issue is whether Dr. Nichopoulos has violated that trust, whether he prescribed drugs in quantities subject to misuse and in combinations that were not medically appropriate," he said.

Thomason said charges against his client resulted from a meeting between a state health department official and representatives of ABC. The attorney charged the meeting occurred shortly before the network last Sept. 13 aired a "20-20" program that alleged that Presley's death was related to drugs.

The television program also charged that the true cause of Presley's death on Aug. 16, 1977 — officially labeled as heart disease — had been covered up by Dr. Jerry Francisco, Shelby County medical examiner.

The autopsy report on Presley has never been publicly disclosed. However, attorneys for both the board and Nichopoulos were given copies of the report last week under a court order that will prevent the document from being entered into evidence during the hearing.

The lawyers involved in the case said the court order would not prevent them from using information in the report to develop questions for witnesses.

Shelby County Medical Examiner Jerry Francisco has maintained the only drugs found in Presley's blood and tissue samples were there in therapeutic quantities and were not sufficient to cause death.

Low-Level Radiation Seaps From Mishap

DUBOIS, Pa. (AP) — A tractor-trailer carrying radioactive cobalt pellets collided with another truck in an ice storm, and Pennsylvania police said extremely low-level radiation was leaking from the crash scene.

A 15-mile section of Interstate 80 was temporarily closed after the accident about 11:30 p.m. Sunday. By daybreak, the cobalt truck was removed from the roadway and the highway was later reopened, police said.

Authorities said no radioactive material was spilled, and no evacuation was ordered in the sparsely populated area in rural northwest Pennsylvania 100 miles north of Pittsburgh.

Neither driver was seriously injured, said state police Cpl. Donald Bedford. Bedford said Geiger counter readings taken by Civil Defense personnel measured the radiation at less than 2 milliroentgens per hour.

Initially, authorities had said Geiger counter readings varied from 0.65 roentgen per hour to 4 roentgens of gamma radiation per hour.

"The readings turned out to be not nearly as high as they said at first," Bedford said. The pellets were being shipped from Cleveland to a New York hospital. The truck collided with a rig carrying turkeys.

State police had been waiting to approach the truck until a state radiation expert arrived. But Bedford said the Department of Environmental Resources agent was stranded several counties away by the bad weather.

State police said radiation apparently was coming from a crack in the trailer compartment of the rig. Warren Bassett, administrator of nearby Brookline Hospital, had said earlier that 4 roentgens of gamma radiation per hour would represent a major health hazard. But he added that tests showed no contamination on anyone who had been near the cobalt cargo.

A representative of Advanced Medical Systems told state police the pellets were sealed in a steel canister that would break only under stress much greater than that produced in a highway collision.

The cobalt truck was operated by Gateway Transportation Corp. of Cleveland, state police said. Cleanup operations were to begin after the radiation was accurately measured, state police said.

Mrs. Gandhi Becomes New Prime Minister

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indira Gandhi took the oath as India's prime minister today, capping a phoenix-like rise from the ashes of political defeat in the 1977 national election.

In a ceremony at Rashtrapati Bhavan, the presidential palace, President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy swore in the daughter of India's first prime minister, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, for her fourth term as leader of this nation's 640 million people, the world's most populous democracy.

Five hundred supporters packed the ornate Ashoka Hall for the ceremony. Mrs. Gandhi, beaming in a maroon and gold silk sari with a shawl, greeted many of them personally.

She told The Associated Press her new government would "make India stable, strong and fully independent." One of her posters in the election campaign that returned her to office charged that the governments in power since her defeat were "under the thumb" of President Carter.

Mrs. Gandhi's Indira Congress Party scored a landslide victory in the national election Jan. 3 and 6, winning 351 of 525 seats in the lower house of Parliament.

U.S. Authorities Blamed For Bombing By Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union charged today that Sunday night's bomb explosion at the Aeroflot offices in New York was "the result of direct instigation" by U.S. authorities.

In a dispatch from New York, the official news agency Tass said, "Such provocative acts, which became frequent of late, cannot be separated from the anti-Soviet hysteria which is being fanned up in U.S. government circles."

The term "anti-Soviet hysteria" was an apparent reference to the Carter administration's condemnation of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

In an earlier dispatch, Tass termed the bomb explosion at the Fifth Avenue offices of the national Soviet airline "another malicious provocation... by thugs from the reactionary terrorist organizations."

The report said the Jewish Defense League and an anti-Castro organization, Omega 7, had claimed responsibility for the attack. Tass branded them "bandit units of the chauvinistic trend" in the first report, and "fascist terrorist organization" in the second.

Tass accused the Carter administration of not taking effective measures to protect foreign institutions and missions, and added: "The duplicity of the administration manifests itself, on the one hand, in the fact that it talks about condemnation of terrorism in connection

Trains Pile Up In Cairo Crash

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Three commuter trains piled up this morning near an industrial suburb 20 miles south of Cairo, killing one person and injuring 96 others, police at the scene said.

Police said all three trains were headed for Helwan on the same tracks when the first two stopped at a red light. The third train slowed, but did not stop in time and hit the back of the second train, sending it plowing into the first. An investigation was begun to determine if the brakes on the third train had failed or whether the engineer missed the signal.

Each train carried five passenger cars. None of the cars was seriously damaged, but police said the force of the impact tore loose some of the seats, causing the injuries.

Police Col. Hussein Tewfik said those injured were taken to three area hospitals after the accident at about 8:30 a.m. local time.

Da Vinci Used Mirror Writing

By SHARI LEWIS

Way back in the 15th century, a genius named Leonardo da Vinci studied everything around him. During his studies he filled many notebooks with his discoveries, but no one could read them. Why? Because he had written them backwards. That's usually called "mirror writing." It means you have to hold up the writing in front of a mirror in order to read it.

Today you can do almost the same thing by using your electronic calculator. Certain numbers look like letters when they are upside down. Here are those numbers and the letters they resemble: 1 is I, 3 is E, 4 is h, 5 is S, 7 is L, 8 is B, 0 is 0.

Scribbles Real Art To Child

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Red scribbles on paper. A purple dog. A doll with a broken arm.

It may not sound like art to most people, but art therapist Robert Rice says it definitely is art.

"We don't expect 2-year-olds to talk in complete sentences, and we shouldn't expect kids to make pictures that make sense to us. But we do expect it, all the time," said Rice, who holds a master's degree in clinical art therapy.

Children see the world in their own special ways and draw it that way too, Rice said. Parents who want children to draw "right" aren't letting them express their own feelings.

"To a child, 'My drawing is me.' If parents don't accept a drawing for what it is, the child may not feel accepted either," Rice said.

Children learn to walk and talk in stages. They learn to draw that way too, Rice said. "Until they are about 4, most children are more interested in how it feels to draw than in making a picture adults will recognize. They like the feel of scribbling.

Pictures come after the scribbles, he says. "We reinforce children's sounds by making sounds along with them. We can do the same by letting children scribble and praising them for it."

As children learn to talk, Rice said, they will name their scribbles. "It doesn't matter whether it looks like a dog to you," he said. "To your child, it's a dog. So call it a dog."

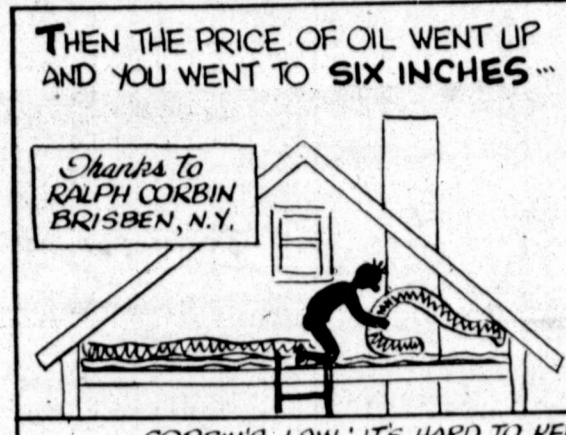

But he cautioned that the same scribble may mean different things to a child at different times. "Just go along with them," he advises. He also notes that children's drawings develop in stages and children reach these stages at different ages.

He adds that parents shouldn't be alarmed if their children draw war pictures. "Drawing exciting pictures is one way children live out their fantasies," Rice explained.

Rice says there are many simple ways a parent can encourage a child's creative ability.

Artist Advises Viewing Works With Humor

By DAN HALL

OLD LYME, Conn. (AP) — If you liked the Nut Museum, you'll love its eccentric curator's latest venture into sculpture and women's liberation.

Artist Elizabeth Tashjian has been working furiously since last spring on a series of sheet-aluminum sculptures, 12 of which were on exhibit here recently.

Many of the pieces relate to her pet theme, the beauty and basic nature of nuts. (She earlier developed the thesis that humanity sprang from the nut.)

There's "Aaron's Rod" (which according to the Bible blossomed and bore an almond), "Rockabye Pine Cone Baby," "King Solomon's Garden of Nuts" and "Due Drops." The word "due" in the final title, she explains, refers to "giving nuts their due."

"One must see these through the lens of whimsy," the small, bubbly sculptor said while explaining her work during an interview in her 19th-century home-museum.

The exhibit, "Sculptures of the Nut," has another dimension that has been growing in its creator's mind since she began a series of women's heads based on the shape of nuts in 1975.

Miss Tashjian, 58, who studied art and piano, considers the painting studies a beginning of her contribution to women's lib: an effort to use humor and surprise to shatter the stereotype of woman as a sex object.

Commission Seeks Trade Access For Rhodesia

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The European Commission will propose to ministers to grant Rhodesia free access to the European Community for all its agricultural products, mainly tobacco.

European officials explained, however, that exceptions would be made for beef, meat and sugar which Rhodesia, anyway, does not export to Europe.

The new British colony was given same preferences as associated African, Caribbean and Pacific countries and French overseas territories. The free access will last one year, allowing time to agree on the future regime when Rhodesia will be independent.

Borg, Miss Austin Claim Tennis Crowns

Swedish Superstar Now Eyes U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm the happiest guy in town," said a beaming Bjorn Borg, and with good reason.

Borg, the spectacular, stoic Swede, extended his mastery over Vitas Gerulaitis with a lopsided 6-2, 6-2 victory Sunday in the final of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters, breaking a New York jinx and reaffirming his status as the best tennis player in the world.

"I was very eager for this one," said Borg, who has beaten Gerulaitis, his friend and practice partner, in all 15 of their meetings. "I've never won a big title in New York. I've wanted to win here for a long time. I've been close so many times, it feels great to finally win."

Borg has never won the U.S. Open, and called that "my next goal — very, very important to me."

Meanwhile, he pocketed $100,000 for winning the eight-man event at Madison Square Garden that serves as the championship of the Grand Prix circuit. If there was ever any question about who is the best men's tennis player in the world, Borg answered it.

"The money is great, but I prefer the title," said Borg. "To win the Masters was very important. I have to put this title very high, because the best players in the world were here."

And Borg beat them all. One by one they challenged, and one by one they fell by the wayside — Roscoe Tanner, Jimmy Connors, John McEnroe and finally Gerulaitis.

"He's on a plateau by himself," said Gerulaitis. "You can't compare any of these guys to Borg. He's been the dominant force in tennis the last few years. He's obviously not unbeatable, since some guys came close this week. But he's definitely a little bit ahead of all the other guys."

Sunday's final was decided in the fifth game of the first set. With the score tied 2-2 and Gerulaitis serving, Borg's brilliant passing shots began to take their toll. Gerulaitis struggled to maintain control, sending the game to deuce nine times and saving nine break points. But finally, Gerulaitis hit a volley into the net, giving Borg all the opening he needed.

"I was a little tight in the beginning, so it was important to get that break," said Borg. "After that I was a little more relaxed."

Gerulaitis had Borg at 0-30 in the next game but failed to break back, and was never really in the match after that.

"After I was broken in that long game, I had a couple of chances to break back in the next game but couldn't," said

Teen-Ager Defeats Tourney Favorite

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd had just lost the $30,000 first prize in the Tennis Championships of Cincinnati to 17-year-old Tracy Austin Sunday, her fifth loss in a row to the California teen-ager, and now she had to talk with reporters.

"I wonder if anything positive will come out of this interview," Lloyd said aloud.

"Was there anything positive?" she was asked.

The 25-year-old former queen of women's tennis thought a moment and smiled. "Well," she answered, "I'm a great sport."

Austin, currently ranked No. 3 behind Martina Navratilova and Lloyd but admittedly gunning for the top spot, needed just 56 minutes to crush Lloyd 6-2, 6-1. She broke Lloyd's serve five consecutive times in the process, three times in the second set alone.

"After this match," Lloyd admitted, "I should be No. 3."

Both Lloyd and Austin attributed the change in their rankings to confidence and attitude — not to age.

"Age doesn't matter. It has nothing to do with it," Austin said.

"She has confidence when she plays against me and has an answer for everything I throw at her now," said Lloyd in explaining her repeated losses to Austin. "She's hungrier. I'm a little impatient against her. It's not life or death anymore if I lose at tennis. It used to be."

Austin, who will return to high school classes in Rolling Hills, Calif., Monday, said, "It's a question of confidence. It's always toughest to beat someone the first time. There's that little hill to get over."

Austin said she always gets more psyched when pitted against Lloyd or Navratilova.

"Those two are above me and I want to win more. We're very close on the computer rankings (Austin and Lloyd) and maybe this will put me ahead of her. My goal has always been to be No. 1," Austin said.

Lloyd explained that she had a strategy against Austin, but it failed.

"I tried to jerk her around the court because if she has a weakness, it's in movement," Lloyd said. "A player can capitalize on her movement. That's what

Earl Scudday Steelers All The Way

A VERY SMART FELLOW once said that the race goes not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, but that is the way to bet. And if the Pittsburgh Steelers are not the swiftest and strongest team in Super Bowl XIV, then I better turn in my typewriter and press box pass.

Really, there is no department in which the Los Angeles Rams can claim an edge, unless it is a semi-home field advantage. The Big One will be played in Pasadena's Rose Bowl, which is commuting distance from the Rams' plypen at the Los Angeles Coliseum. But that shouldn't bother the Steelers at all, since their fans will get a fair share of the tickets and a lot of transplanted Pittsburghers in Southern California will be happy to cheer for their old home town.

In every other category, Pittsburgh looks like a winner. There is no comparison on offense: Terry Bradshaw vs. Vince Ferragamo, Franco Harris vs. Cullen Bryant, Lynn Swann and John Stallworth against Bill Waddy and whoever.

That has all the earmarks of a mismatch, although Wendell Tyler's speed will help the Rams a bit.

DEFENSIVELY, IT LOOKS more like a contest. The Rams were one of the better defensive teams in the National Football League this season, statistically. But so were the Steelers, and the guys who played against both teams came out of the battles with a lot more respect for Pittsburgh.

Dallas, even on a mediocre day, put 19 points on the scoreboard in the playoff tussle with the Rams. Against the Steelers in late October, a field goal was the best the Cowboys could muster. Dallas receivers dropped a lot of passes that could have made a big difference that day, but the Steelers have a way of making opponents nervous.

There are many factors that do not show up in the statistics, like intimidation, hitting and making the big plays. Those are Steeler trademarks.

DALLAS COACH TOM LANDRY always has said that a team has a chance if it has a solid defense. So, giving the Rams full benefit of any doubt, they might be able to make the game respectable. But their only chance of winning is for the Steelers to have a very bad day.

Followers of the Rams think that is a possibility, since the Steelers blew a few during the regular season. At a time when the Steelers were hobbled by injuries, Philadelphia eked out a close win over them. The Eagles had a pretty good team, though, so that was no disgrace.

The next Pittsburgh defeat was a disgrace. The Steelers gave up the ball nine times in losing to Cincinnati, 34-10. That made Chuck Noll's gang so angry they turned around and stomped the daylight out of Denver, 42-7.

Bradshaw had a horrible day against San Diego late in the season, being intercepted five times by the Chargers in a 35-7 defeat. That game probably knocked ol' Terry off some Pro Bowl ballots.

Unfortunately for the Rams, the Steelers don't fool around like that in the playoffs. Bradshaw suddenly has a telescope sight on his passing arm and Swann and Stallworth start jumping like kangaroos for touchdown passes. Franco feels like a kid again and Mean Joe Greene doesn't even pause for a Coke while he demolishes enemy ballcarriers.

SO I FIGURE the Steelers will win by at least three touchdowns. It could be more if Ferragamo throws the ball a bunch of times. The biggest thrill for the crowd will be when the Embraceable Ewes bounce onto the field, and ain't it a shame that fans across the land will not get to see another of those Pittsburgh-Dallas barn-burners?

Say what you will about the Pokes, they have battled like demons in two Super Bowls against the Men of Steel. They have lost both, 21-17 and 35-31, but those were the most thrilling Big Ones ever played.

Sure, Dallas was below par defensively this season. But think they wouldn't have come up with a supreme effort facing those bitter rivals in the Black and Gold? You better believe it.

The Cowboys and their coaches will be hurting inside as they watch SB XIV on the tube. Except for one stupid mistake in the final minutes against the Rams, they would have had a chance at their third Lombardi Trophy.

But the Pokes lost and the Rams won, so Los Angeles gets to challenge Pittsburgh. The Rams will be lucky to score.

Dunbar Grid Coach Quits

Van Jefferson, head football coach at Dunbar High School for the past five years, announced today he was resigning for personal reasons.

"I've done everything I can do for the program at Dunbar," declared Jefferson. "Now I feel it is time for a change. I've enjoyed the time I spent there, but I feel it's time for a new challenge."

Jefferson, 45, has asked to be re-assigned in the Lubbock Independent School District and stated he would not seek another coaching position.

"I've been coaching for the last 20 years," said Jefferson. "Like I said before, it's time for a new challenge."

Under Jefferson's guidance, the Panthers compiled a record over the past five seasons. Dunbar was 1-9 in 1979. Jefferson's problems were compounded by a lengthy illness that eventually claimed the life of his wife toward the end of the football season.

"The decision to resign was all mine," stated Jefferson. "I've been thinking about it for a long time."

Jefferson added that he had no idea who would take his place next season as Dunbar head coach. Lubbock Independent School District athletic director Pete Ragus suggests that anyone interested in the coaching vacancy at Dunbar should call him at his office, (806) 747-2641.

Poll Shows Support For Olympic Boycott

BRISTOL, Conn. (AP) — When a nationwide cable television sports network asked its viewers whether the United States should participate in the 1980 Moscow Olympics, a big majority said no and there weren't many lukewarm responses.

"People came out very vehemently against or very vehemently pro. There were only a few 'maybes,'" said Fred Muzzy, a producer and director for the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network.

And 69 percent of those who called the network's Bristol headquarters during the weekend were in favor of staying out of the summer games because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

From 6 p.m. Friday until 6 p.m. Sunday, sportscasters on the network asked viewers in 46 states and Guam. "Should the United States participate in the Moscow Olympics?"

President Carter has said he is against holding the Olympics in Moscow this summer if Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan.

About 6,000 persons telephoned their opinions to the ESPN offices in the unscientific opinion survey. More than half paid for the calls themselves while others used toll-free numbers.

"We have a predominantly sports audience," said Muzzy, who originated the idea of the poll. "It sort of gives you an idea of what the real fans think."

Racer Drives Home Opinion Of Iranians

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Veteran stock car driver Dave Marcis brought a small taste of international politics to the Western 500 Grand National stock car race Sunday.

There were murmurs from the crowd at Riverside International Raceway as Marcis first drove his Chevrolet Monte Carlo around the track with the message "Iran Release Our People" lettered on the side of the car.

Marcis, from Skyland, N.C., is a veteran of eight years on the NASCAR circuit.

Atlanta Rides Spurs 107-104

By The Associated Press
When the Atlanta Hawks are around, the San Antonio Spurs barely jingle, jangle, jingle.

After trouncing the Spurs 120-101 in Atlanta Saturday night, the Hawks began a grueling Western trip with a 107-104 triumph in San Antonio Sunday evening, giving them six victories in their last seven meetings with the Texans.

"It was just a great win for us, a sensational way to start the trip," said coach Hubie Brown. "We just seem to play well in this building (HemisFair Arena) and against the Spurs."

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, the Los Angeles Lakers nipped the Boston Celtics 100-98, the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Golden State Warriors 109-101, the Houston Rockets shaded the Milwaukee Bucks 121-117, the Philadelphia 76ers trimmed the New York Knicks 126-112, the Kansas City Kings trounced the New Jersey Nets 120-101, the Phoenix Suns edged the Utah

Jazz 106-103, the Washington Bullets crushed the Portland Trail Blazers 127-95 and the Detroit Pistons downed the Chicago Bulls 107-102.

Dan Roundfield had 31 points and Eddie Johnson added 27 in Atlanta's victory over San Antonio that gave the Hawks a five-game lead over the Spurs and Houston in the Central Division.

"It was a big game for us. It got us started toward the West," said Roundfield. The Hawks visit San Diego, Phoenix, Los Angeles and Kansas City in the next nine days.

"We're 11-12 on the road and we're going to San Diego, Phoenix and Los Angeles with great expectations," Brown said. "We play all those teams well. We're playing good basketball now."

The Hawks, who led the Spurs 78-68 with 10:41 remaining, fell behind 95-90. Roundfield cut the score to 95-92 before John Drew, held to only two points until then, scored the Hawks' next seven points.

The Spurs, the NBA's best offensive team, shot a paltry 38 percent. Larry Kenon hit only eight of 25 shots and Gerwin, the NBA's leading scorer, made only eight of 24.

Lakers 100, Celtics 98
Norm Nixon's two free throws with three seconds remaining capped a furious Los Angeles comeback. The Lakers, trailing by 14 points, scored 21 in a row as the Celtics went cold in the third period. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points and Jamaal Wilkes added 21 as Los Angeles handed Boston only its second loss in 20 home games.

The Celtics, who hit on 26 of 41 shots in the first half, managed only five of 28 in the third period.

"We had it locked up and then things collapsed," said Celtics' playmaker Tiny Archibald. "We just have to think of it as a single loss, not a catastrophe."

"We didn't do a doggone thing in the third period," added Coach Bill Fitch. "We looked about as bad as anyone could."

SuperSonics 109, Warriors 101
Dennis Johnson scored 15 of his 25 points in the third quarter to lead Seattle Johnson, who sank nine of 11 shots in the second half, combined with John Johnson to help the Sonics reel off 11 points for a 76-65 lead with 6½ minutes left in the third period. The Warriors could get no closer than three points as they dropped their 10th straight road game.

Rockets 121, Bucks 117
Moses Malone scored the last five of his 27 points in the final 25 seconds after the Rockets, who trailed by 19 late in the first half, overtook Milwaukee, rallied behind the shooting of Rick Barry, who scored five three-point goals, and Calvin Murphy, who poured in 14 of his 18 points in the second half. Marques Johnson led the Bucks with 30 points.

76ers 126, Knicks 112
Julius Erving scored 30 points and rookie Clint Richardson added a career-high 24 — 22 in the first three periods — as Philadelphia notched its fifth consecutive triumph. Michael Ray Richardson and Bill Cartwright had 25 apiece for the Knicks.

Kings 120, Nets 101
Otis Birdsong's 33 points led Kansas City to its seventh victory in the last eight games. The Kings lead Milwaukee by 2½ games in the Midwest Division. Birdsong had help from Scott Wedman with 24 points and Phil Ford with 21.

Suns 106, Jazz 103
Paul Westphal scored 28 points and Phoenix survived a late rally. The Suns had run off 12 straight points to take a 14-point lead early in the final period. But the Jazz, playing its third straight game without injured Adrian Dantley, rallied to take a 99-97 lead before the Suns came back and clinched the game on an 18-foot jumper by Westphal.

Bullets 127, Trail Blazers 95
Greg Ballard scored a career-high 32 points, sinking eight of nine shots in the decisive first half as the Bullets rolled up a 61-40 bulge. Larry Wright, making only his second start of the season, added 16 points in place of the slumping Kevin Grevey.

Pistons 107, Bulls 102
Eric Money scored nine of his 26 points in the final four minutes as the Pistons recorded only their second victory in the last 17 games. Detroit blew most of a 13-point lead before Money took over with three baskets and three free throws. Bob McAdoo also had 26 points for the winners.

Purdue, Duke Lose In Weekend Of College Basketball Upsets

By The Associated Press
The Purdue Boilermakers were hot, the Syracuse Orangemen were not.

"We knew we had to go after them all the way," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boheim. "We pressured them full-court and wanted to pressure their guards because we're a little quicker."

It was just what Syracuse needed to turn an 11-point deficit late in the game into a 66-61 college basketball victory Sunday.

"Purdue is a good team, but we just hung in there," said Roosevelt Bouie after scoring 17 points for the fifth-ranked Orangemen and anchoring a ferocious second-half defense.

"The pressure hurt us," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose, whose team is ranked 10th in the nation. "It was not the most beautiful game played. Syracuse had a good effort and maintained their poise. We played hard, but we didn't execute well."

The nationally televised game was one of two involving a ranked team Sunday. In the other, No. 7 Notre Dame routed Texas Christian 85-68.

Saturday's action was rife with upsets, as no less than seven Top Twenty teams went down to defeat.

Top-ranked Duke lost to No. 15 North Carolina 82-67. No. 4 Kentucky bowed to Alabama 78-64. No. 6 Louisiana State was beaten by Georgia 73-72 in double overtime. No. 8 Virginia dropped a 64-56 decision to North Carolina State. No. 16 UCLA was stopped 82-74 by Southern

Scanlon, Hipp Lead Japan Bowl Win

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — The West all-stars, led by the passing of Arkansas' Kevin Scanlon and the running of Nebraska's I.M. Hipp, slipped and slid to a 28-17 victory over the East all-stars in the fifth annual Japan Bowl Sunday.

Playing in the Tokyo region's first snowstorm of the winter, the teams fumbled a total of nine times — eight by the West — and the lead changed hands four times before the West pulled away in the last period.

Some 27,000 Japanese fans, about half the capacity of Yokohama Stadium, shivered through the game that gave the West a 3-2 edge in the series.

Scanlon threw touchdown passes of 41 yards to Emanuel Tolbert of Southern Methodist and 14 yards to Junior Miller of Nebraska as his team overcame a 10-7 halftime deficit.

Hipp, closing out a distinguished career for the Cornhuskers, scored once on a 14-yard dash and piled up 82 yards in 13 carries to be named the game's outstanding offensive player.

Fumbles led to the first three scores, with the East team coached by Ohio State's Earle Bruce and Jackie Sherrill of Pittsburgh drawing first blood early in the second period.

A West fumble gave the East the ball on the west 29, from where Tulane's Roch Hontas rifled a touchdown pass to Alabama wide receiver Keith Pugh a few minutes later. The East fumbled on its 41 and Scanlon delivered the tying score on the pass to Tolbert.

Before the half, yet another fumble gave the East the ball deep in West territory and Iowa's David Holsclaw kicked a 25-yard field goal for a 10-7 lead.

Despite the miserable conditions, Scanlon completed eight of 12 passing attempts for the West, which was coached by Tony Mason of Arizona and Scanlon's own coach, Lou Holtz of Arkansas.

Cal. No. 18 Clemson was upset 86-83 by Wake Forest and No. 20 Georgetown took a 76-65 beating from Oral Roberts.

Elsewhere Saturday, No. 2 DePaul beat Marquette 92-85. No. 3 Ohio State topped Northwestern 75-63. No. 9 Oregon State edged Arizona State 63-59. Purdue whipped Michigan 68-61. No. 11 Louisville routed Memphis State 69-48. No. 12 Iowa edged Wisconsin 66-65. No. 13 Missouri trimmed Nebraska 84-63. No. 14 St. John's routed Seton Hall 97-64. No. 17 Brigham Young turned back Utah 89-72 and No. 19 Indiana trimmed Michigan State 72-64.

The Orangemen, trailing early by 12 points and by nine at intermission, started the second half with a press that helped them outscore Purdue 11-1. Joe Barry Carroll, who scored 28 points for Purdue, helped the Boilermakers regain an 11-point lead midway through the final half. But the unbeaten Orangemen outscored Purdue 23-7 the rest of the way for their 14th straight victory. Louis Orr, who had 11 of his 13 points in the second half, put Syracuse ahead for good on two free throws with 1:34 left.

"I didn't feel we were ever out of the game," Boheim said, "because in watching Purdue (earlier), they never seem to be able to put it away."

Rich Brunning, Tracy Jackson and Kelly Tripucka each scored 13 points to lead Notre Dame's rout of TCU. Notre Dame led by as many as 23 points in the first half and 27 in the second.

North Carolina's victory over Duke avenged an earlier beating by the Blue Devils.

"Today we were much more aggressive," said Dave Colescott, remembering a listless loss to Duke in the Big Four Tournament. "I think we were scared to take it inside against them in the first game."

Al Wood scored 20 points and Colescott had 18 to lead North Carolina's offense. The Tar Heels broke away from a 56-56 tie in the last seven minutes, forcing turnovers, dominating the offensive boards and clogging up the shooting lanes with a brilliant defense.

Eddie Phillips scored 15 of his 23 points as Alabama took a 41-20 halftime lead and went on to a surprisingly easy victory over Kentucky in Lexington. It was the second straight upset of a ranked team on the road for Alabama, which defeated LSU earlier in the week.

"It looks like Alabama is for real," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "To lose at home is practically disastrous. I don't know what's wrong now, so I don't know what will turn it around."

The loss was only the third this season for the Wildcats, but the second already in the Southeastern Conference.

Eric Marbury scored 22 points and Dominique Wilkins had 20 to lead Georgia over LSU. It was the third straight SEC loss for the Tigers.

"Missed free throws at critical times killed us," said LSU Coach Dale Brown. "Three losses in the conference will hurt us, but we're definitely not out of the race."

Hawkeye Whitney scored 21 points as North Carolina State upset the Cavaliers. Don Carfino scored 24 points as Southern Cal beat UCLA in basketball for the first time since 1970. The Trojans' last victory over UCLA was an 87-86 triumph in March, 1970. Since then, the Bruins had beaten the Trojans 19 times.

"I think a lot of the guys were nervous, even the older guys," said UCLA's Kiki Vandeweghe. "I wasn't feeling well in the first half, but they just outplayed us."

Alvis Rogers hit four free throws in the final 14 seconds to ice Wake Forest's triumph over Clemson. Calvin Garrett's 24 points led Oral Roberts over Georgetown.

Stadler Ties For Lead In Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Craig Stadler, who has yet to win on the PGA Tour, was poised and confident entering today's final round of the long, rain-delayed Bob Hope Desert Classic.

"No, I'm not anxious," the bearded man said after gaining a tie for the top spot with Larry Nelson after the completion of 72 holes Sunday. "I'm pretty confident. What's gonna happen is gonna happen. I've been there before (in contention). I think I can handle it."

Nelson, meanwhile, is having problems off the tee — the result of a problem that had his right hand and wrist in a cast for three weeks.

"I'm hitting everything (to the) right," said Nelson, who won two 1979 titles and second spot on the season's money-winning list with $281,000.

It was that problem, a shot that got away to the right, that led to a triple-bogey 7 and Nelson's failure to hold the lead alone.

He and Stadler were tied at 276, 12 under par, after one round on each of four desert courses. Nelson rallied from the early triple bogey for a solid 71 as the first man off the tee at La Quinta, site of today's final round.

Stadler played in relative solitude at Indian Wells while the sponsor and his show-business, celebrity friends cavorted before the national television cameras. Stadler had a fourth-round 69, including a 17-hole bogey-6 that knocked him out of the lead alone.

Seven other players were locked within three strokes of the top going into the last round of the kickoff event for the 1980 PGA Tour.

Tom Purtzer, with a 69 at La Quinta, and Mike Sullivan, 71 at Bermuda Dunes, were a single stroke back at 277. At 278 were George Cadle and Victor Regalado. Cadle shot 69 at Indian Wells. Regalado, who had shared the third round lead with Nelson, three-putted from two feet at Bermuda Dunes and had to settle for a 73.

Lanny Wadkins, a two-time winner last season, Mark Hayes and Bob Murphy were three off the pace at 279. Murphy and Hayes each had a 71 at La Quinta and Wadkins a 71 at Eldorado.

Arnold Palmer, three under par after 36 holes, played the fourth round with the premier amateur group — host Hope, Jackie Gleason and former President Gerald Ford — and paid the price before the huge galleries that followed them under a bright, warm desert sun. Palmer, who won this title five times including his last American victory in 1973, shot a 78 and failed to qualify for the final round at 294.

Nelson appeared to have all but knocked himself out of title contention early in the day. His drive sailed to the right on the second hole, then his second shot hit a tree limb and went out of bounds. He finished with a "7," then bogeyed the next hole.

But he fought back, got a birdie before the turn and three more immediately after, then closed out with a gorgeous shot over a palm tree that set up a last-hole birdie.

TRouBLING SHOT — Larry Nelson follows through with a shot from the rough on the second hole of La Quinta Country Club during the fourth round of the Bob Hope Desert Classic in Palm Springs. He finished the hole with a triple bogie seven and ended the day tied for the lead with Craig Stadler at 12 under par. (AP Laserphoto)

Coast Guard Abandons Search For Missing LSU Coach

CAPE CHARLES, Va. (AP) — While friends of Robert "Bo" Rein attended a memorial service for the Louisiana State University football coach, Coast Guard officials called off their search for the plane that carried Rein 1,000 miles off course before disappearing.

The search for wreckage was suspended "pending further developments," Coast Guard Lt. Gene Brooks said Sunday. He said the search would resume only if more debris were sighted or the search area expanded.

Rein, 34, and pilot Louis Benscotter were presumed dead after their twin-engine Cessna crashed early Friday some 100 miles off the coast of Virginia. It had been on a flight from Shreveport, La., to Baton Rouge, La.

Coast Guard aircraft and ships made repeated trips through the area in which the plane disappeared as an Air Force pilot following the craft looked on.

Coast Guard officials believe an aluminum wheel sighted Friday night by a Norwegian ship "definitely belonged to the aircraft," Brooks said. But 11-foot seas in the 900-square-nautical-mile search area prevented the Coast Guard from recovering the wheel.

A memorial service for Rein, who had gone to LSU just two months ago after serving as head coach at North Carolina State, was held Sunday at Cary, N.C. In an emergency meeting Saturday, LSU named Jerry Stovall to succeed Rein as football coach there.

Rein and his pilot took off from Shreveport shortly after 9 p.m. Thursday for what was to have been a routine 60-minute flight to Baton Rouge. The aircraft disappeared at 1:30 a.m. Friday.

The Air National Guard and Air

Force sent up planes when the plane deviated from course in an effort to intercept it. Pilots said the plane, apparently on automatic pilot, was flying in a straight line at 40,000 to 41,500 feet — more than 7,000 feet above the maximum altitude for which Cessna manufacturers say the plane was built.

Aviation specialists speculated the men may have died long before the plane crashed due to a lack of oxygen from the high altitude or a leak of carbon monoxide from one of the engines.

Football Expenditures Examined

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — University of Arizona football recruiting funds were used for six trips for persons who weren't being recruited, but the trips were related to recruiting, Athletic Director David Strack says.

The use of the funds was reported Sunday by the Arizona Star in a copyright story which said that five of the trips involved women, one of whom was the owner of a California massage studio.

The newspaper said the university paid $1,800 for air fare and accommodations in connection with the six trips.

The Star said Strack confirmed that at least three of the trip recipients weren't prospective football players but said the expenditures were justified as being connected with the school's football program.

The message studio owner's trip was a "thank you" for her help in West Coast recruiting, Strack told the Star, saying she was entertained by Arizona football coach Tony Mason and his wife.

Three other trips were for sisters from a family that helped Mason recruit in the Houston area, Strack said.

The Star said its findings indicate the family only has two sisters. Among other instances of what it called discrepancies between its findings and Strack's comments, the Star also said the massage studio owner denied knowing Mason. Strack didn't say whether the sixth trip was a justifiable university expenditure but did say it was made by "a person who has helped us in our public relations," the Star said.

Howe Returns To Detroit Fans

DETROIT (AP) — This city's love for the automobile is peanuts compared with its absolute adoration for Gordie Howe.

And Howe — the world's greatest 51-year-old hockey player — returned every ounce of that love Saturday night at Joe Louis Arena.

A standing-room crowd of 19,905 — largest ever to see a hockey game in Detroit — packed the new arena to watch Howe play his first National Hockey League game in the Motor City since April 1971.

Howe scored 786 regular season goals and 67 more in 154 playoff games during the 25 years he wore a Red Wings' uniform. Now he was back wearing the green of the Hartford Whalers and nostalgia swept down from the rafters.

The thundering ovation began as a low roar the moment his famous No. 9 was spotted in the tunnel and built to a mighty, throaty roar as he stepped on the ice.

He wagged his stick over his head in acknowledgement as he glided around the rink to warm up.

Howe skated nine shifts — three in each period — for a total of 10:06 and each time the fans noticed his gray head coming over the boards they chanted "Gor-dee, Gor-dee."

"I think it's beautiful," Howe said afterward. "I always felt this was home. It's not that simple to express my feelings."

The Whalers got two goals apiece from Jordy Douglas and Blaine Stoughton to earn a 6-4 victory. Howe figured in none of the scoring, but the fans didn't mind.

After the game, Detroit's Dennis Polonich skated up to Howe and asked for his stick. Howe gave it to him.

Then, just before he stepped off the ice — perhaps for the last time, ever, in Detroit — Howe threw both of his hockey gloves high into the stands. Again the crowd thundered its approval — its collective thanks.

"The rink is the people," Howe said when asked if he found it strange not playing hockey at Olympia Stadium, where the Red Wings made their home until just last month when they moved to the spanking new sports palace on the banks of the Detroit River. "It's a new arena, but it's still like the old barn because of the crowd."

During a halt in play with 17:41 left in the third period, a fan hurled a dead octopus onto the ice — a ritual usually reserved only for playoff games in Detroit.

Howe smiled as he picked the octopus up with the blade of his stick, then skated over and dumped it over the boards in front of the Hartford bench. The crowd roared.

"I've always had a friendship with the fans of Detroit," Howe said. "It's been a long time since I've seen an octopus. That was all right."

At the conclusion of the game, to no one's surprise, Howe was voted the night's No. 1 star.

Gerulaitis. "That let the air out of my balloon. He got on top of me after that."

A crowd of 17,642 came to the Garden to cheer on Gerulaitis, who was raised in New York and still lives in nearby Kings Point. And the local boy wanted nothing more than to send them home happy.

"It would have been great to win in New York," said Gerulaitis, who earned $64,000 in defeat. "But I'd be perfectly happy to beat this guy in Little Rock, Arkansas."

Asked about strategy, Gerulaitis said, "I wanted to come in, play serve and volley. That's the way I've played him the last 15 times. Maybe next time I'll try something different."

The way Borg was playing Sunday, it's doubtful anything would have worked. "That's the best he's ever played against me," said Gerulaitis.

Borg was asked what strategy he'd employ if he had to play himself.

"I won't tell you, sorry," he said, and burst out laughing.

Okay then, why does he think he's so hard to beat?

"In big tournaments, I always seem to play well and win the big points," said

Borg. "Mentally I feel very confident. I really get up."

At the age of 23, Borg is now up on top of the tennis world. And he's going to fight to stay there.

"It's more difficult to stay on top than reach the top," he said. "The top is very small. There's always pressure on you."

"To win the U.S. Open, because I've never won it, and to win the French Open again, because no one's ever won it three times in a row," Borg replied. Otherwise, Borg says he's going to cut down on the number of events he enters to see if he can play as well with a little more rest, thinking this might prolong his career.

"For the next five or seven years, as long as I play tennis, I want to try and win as many big tournaments as possible," he said. "Then, when I retire, I want to sit back and see all the titles I've won."

Meanwhile, McEnroe, who lost a third-set tie-breaker to Borg in Saturday's semifinals, earned third prize of $40,000 when Connors defaulted because of a pulled groin muscle. McEnroe also teamed with Peter Fleming to win the doubles title, and $40,000, for the second straight year.

Connors earned $30,000 for finishing fourth, Tanner and Harold Solomon picked up $20,000 each and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and Jose Higueras of Spain won $13,000 apiece.

Player Admits Error In Statement

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State football player Arthur "Turtle" Lane now has said he erred in a sworn statement he made in connection with the ouster of coach Frank Kush, the Arizona Republic says.

In the Oct. 22 sworn statement taken by Kush attorney Harding Cure, the running back from Pomona, Calif., said he was told by drag racing promoter Rick Lynch to change his comments pertaining to Kush or "bodily harm, something of that nature would be done to me."

Lane said at the time he was asked to change comments favorable to Kush in connection with the coach's continued denial of allegations he had slugged a former punter, Kevin Rutledge, or had attempted to coerce players and coaches into lying if necessary to cover up after Rutledge filed a $1.1 million suit against Kush and others.

But, the Phoenix newspaper said Sunday, in a deposition made Oct. 31, Lane said his Oct. 22 sworn statement was incorrect.

"When I gave the (Oct. 22) statement I was pretty nervous," Lane said in the deposition in response to questions posed by Rutledge's attorney, Robert O. Hing.

Lynch is one of the defendants in a multimillion-dollar suit Kush filed after being suspended by Dr. Fred Miller, who then was Arizona State's athletic director but since himself has been suspended. Kush has contended Lynch was out to get him, which Lynch has denied.

Lloyd took home $15,000. Billie Jean King, who lost to Austin 6-2, 6-3 in a Saturday semifinal match, won $7,350, as did Dianna Fromholtz of Australia, who lost a semifinal match to Lloyd Saturday, 6-1, 6-4.

In the doubles finals Sunday, unseeded Laura DuPont and Pam Shriver upset third-seeded Mima Jausovec and Anne Kiyomura 6-3, 6-3 to take home $10,000.

Baughan Selected For Coaching Post

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Four-time all-pro linebacker Maxie Baughan has been appointed defensive coordinator and defensive backfield coach for the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Baughan, 41, played for 14 years with the Philadelphia Eagles and the Los Angeles Rams. He was defensive coordinator with the Baltimore Colts for the last five seasons.

Unbehagen To Join Aggie Grid Staff

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Rice assistant football coach Tom Unbehagen will become offensive line coach at Texas A&M, Athletic Director Marvin Tate announced today.

Unbehagen, 37, who coached with Wilson four years at Texas Tech, served as offensive coordinator and offensive line coach at Rice. He will replace Dan LaGrasta, who will be assuming the position of recruiting coordinator.

Unbehagen, a native of Brownwood, played football at Texas A&I and coached at Westchester High School in Houston and Texas A&I before joining Texas Tech in 1971, leaving in 1975 for a job at Rice.

Movie Gives Joe Don Baker Chance To Play Labor Boss

By PETER J. BOYER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Here's one that has been around the lot a couple of times: A burly warehouse worker climbs to the top of a mighty labor union, only to be corrupted and toppled by the power of it all.

That yarn was done by Sylvester Stallone in "F.I.S.T." and by Jimmy Hoffa in real life. Now comes "Power," a four-hour NBC movie (tonight and Tuesday) that gives Joe Don Baker his chance to play Sir Boss of the labor world.

The thing has its problems, namely: Four hours is too long for anything (except, perhaps, an extra-inning Sunday afternoon baseball game), and "Power" crouches under its own weight just the other side of the middle. Since you know the hero's fate (the movie begins with Joe Don getting out of prison as a middle-aged man), the telling by flashback of how he got there needs more fresh turns than are provided.

But "Power" has strengths, enough to make it worth the watch. There is, foremost, one Joe Don Baker, who is to burly what Truman Capote is to limp. Baker, as always, primarily plays Joe Don Baker; but here the role and persona happen to fit quite nicely.

Baker is Tommy Vanda (the name is a cute consonantal match to Jimmy Hoffa), a challenge-the-world tough-guy who's willing to take his lumps in exchange for the opportunity to deal out a few himself. He cheats, cajoles, throws punches and does a great deal of facing down adversaries.

Such traits Baker was created to portray, which is enough to make you overlook his "y'all take care" accent (even though he's playing a second-generation Chicago Irishman).

The story, though familiar, is big and roomy and comes fully furnished — there's the Depression, the Mob, suburbia, love and hate, ambition and death, and other bits of Americana.

Fine performances are turned by David Groh as Tommy's like-a-brother Mafia pal, Brian Keith as the prosecutor who seeks to bring the big man down and, especially, Red Buttons as a godfatherly Chicago mobster who gives Tommy Vanda a little "help" every now and then.

When Vanda meets bloody resistance from company goons when trying to organize local bakery drivers, Red Buttons lends him the services of some leg-breakers.

"But what do I have to do for you?" Vanda asks.

"Don't worry about it," Buttons replies, with a gentle smile, "someday you'll do me a favor."

Such debts are always collected, of course, which dirties Vanda's reputation and eventually provides Keith with enough to investigate the powerful truck drivers' union. Remember that the next time Red Buttons offers a favor.

Joe Don Vanda's big doings leave him very little time for his family, the noisiest member of which is wife Rose, his girlfriend from the old neighborhood. Karen Black plays the part, whining and nagging from beginning to end.

It's a large movie, with enough going on to divert attention from its weak spots, and it's a good chance to catch Joe Don Baker doing his stuff. He may soon run out of roles in which he gets to play Joe Don Baker.

Twin Slimming Down After Brother's Death

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Benny McCrary is slimming down a little these days, but he's still having a hard time adapting to life without the other half of what was once the world's largest twins.

Benny, who is down to 650 pounds now, traveled the country for "Ripley's Believe It or Not," with his brother Billy.

"It's been tough, very tough to adjust," Benny said, reflecting in an interview by his brother's grave recently. "We were inseparable. We did everything together. Never were we more than 200 miles from each other."

Their years of billing as the world's largest twins ended on July 14, when Billy died as a result of complications following a motorcycle accident near Niagara Falls.

To honor his brother, Benny, 33, has erected a mammoth-sized monument at Crab Creek Cemetery near their home at Hendersonville. The granite marker weighs more than 12,000 pounds and contains two wings, one for Billy and one for Benny.

On each wing is a carved sketch of a motorcycle, noting that the twins were famous for riding miniature motorcycles as part of their act.

Telethon Nets $13 Million

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — United Cerebral Palsy's "Weekend With the Stars" telethon broadcast for 20 continuous hours during the weekend raised a record $13 million in pledges.

More than 116 television stations in the United States and Canada carried the second annual telethon.

"I am deeply gratified by the excellent team work demonstrated by all of our starts, our nation and local corporate sponsors, the broadcasters and the United Cerebral Palsy affiliates," said Leonard H. Goldenson, chairman of the American Broadcasting Companies Inc., and board chairman of United Cerebral Palsy.

"I especially appreciate the devotion of our hosts John Ritter and Nancy Morgan, Gavin and Patti MacLeod, Dick and Pat VanPatten, Henry Winkler, Dick Anka, Dennis James, Joyce DeWitt and Robert Guillaume," Goldenson said.

The $13,076,421 raised by the telethon, more than $2.8 million more than last year's effort, support United Cerebral Palsy's community service programs for disabled persons and ongoing research programs.

The telethon was broadcast live from New York and Hollywood and featured more than 100 celebrities of stage, screen and television who contributed their time and talents to the show.

UNSUCCESSFUL HANGING
In 1803 it was reported that Joseph Samuels was reprimanded in Sydney, Australia, after three unsuccessful attempts to hang him in which the rope broke twice.

Zoo Rents Grounds To Raise Money

CLEVELAND (AP) — Want to rent a zoo? The Cleveland Metroparks Zoo, battling deficits and decay, is doing some different things — including offering all or part of the zoo for rent to businesses and social groups for special events.

"We rented the entire zoo grounds to the Ohio Recreational Vehicle Association to display their vehicles," Zoo administrator Michael N. Vitantonio said.

The fee for renting the whole zoo for one day is variable but could run $3,000 to $5,000, Vitantonio said.

Like the city itself, the zoo faces problems with deteriorating facilities at a time when revenues have been declining. And while attendance has dwindled, the lions and tigers and other exotic animals are growing older, and the care and feeding of keepers and animals alike are increasingly expensive.

Vitantonio, appointed last May, says the deficit has quadrupled over the last 12 years. He told the Zoological Society expenses this year will total $1.2 million while revenues are projected at only $840,000.

The administrator said one survey done for the zoo estimated it would take $2.2 million to stop the decay. "Just to fix up existing facilities, repairing plumbing, electricity, heating and so forth."

The key to paring the deficit is attracting more visitors, he says. Although 1979's attendance ran slightly ahead of the previous year's, it was still below 1977.

With backing of the park board and help of consultants, Vitantonio launched a program aimed at cutting costs and boosting attendance.

ACCIDENTAL CYCLISTS
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Although the motor vehicle accident death rate dropped in South Africa in 1979, motorcycle accidents have increased by 7 percent. The higher motorcycle rate follows a 94.7 percent increase last year in sales of the bikes.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do nothing tomorrow predicated upon hearsay information or gossip. Act on the facts only and be sure to lay all of your cards on the table as well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Problems could arise with pals tomorrow if they feel you are too inconsistent. Once you make a deal with another, stick to the terms.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Much can be accomplished tomorrow, but it is not likely you'll do it unaided. Give ample credit to anyone who assists you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conjur-ing excuses for not doing things could be your worst enemy tomorrow. Success will not elude you if you set specific goals and go all out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may not accomplish all you hope tomorrow if you divide your time unwisely. It's imperative to get your priorities in order first.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It takes two to make a bargain, so be prepared to yield a bit tomorrow if you're negotiating an important matter, provided the other party is willing to do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to get cooperation tomorrow, you must set a good example. Co-workers will emulate your actions, whether they're right or wrong.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Subdue temptations to take financial or material risks tomorrow. If you are going to gamble, take chances only on things derived from the sweat of your brow.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't take yourself or others too seriously tomorrow. Play everything light and loose. Getting uptight will prove counterproductive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are always able to recognize alternatives, but tomorrow you may see more negatives than positives in your involvements. Emphasize the hopeful, not the doubtful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be careful tomorrow that you don't permit high-pressure salespersons to talk you into buying something you don't really need. You know how to say "no."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) What you hope to achieve tomorrow may not come with your initial effort. However, if you're willing to try again your chances for success are excellent.

DEMO TRIO — Vice President Walter Mondale, campaigning for President Carter, shakes hands with Gov. Edmund Brown, of California, as Sen. Edward Kennedy greets the two campaigners. Vice President Lauds Carter's Health Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale, seeking the political support of the United Auto Workers union, praised President Carter's national health program as realistic, while calling Sen. Edward Kennedy's plan an "unachievable dream."

Mondale tackled the tough health plan subject during a keynote address Sunday to the UAW's conference on political action programs. The UAW, along with other major organized labor forces, has lined up behind the Kennedy health bill.

As Mondale was ticking off a list of administration accomplishments for the working men and women, a heckler demanded the vice president deal with health care.

"That's good," Mondale replied, never breaking his speech. "I'm glad you brought that up."

Mondale said Carter and Kennedy engaged in a dispute that involves "a question of judgment" and a difference of opinions.

"But, if you look at the president's health proposal which deals with bringing care to the poorest, care to the oldest, care to the youngest, and for people suffering from major illness, it can fairly be described as the most progressive health proposal ever proposed by a sitting president," Mondale said.

He said Carter's plan, which is less comprehensive and would take place over a longer period of time than Kennedy's, is "do-able and achievable."

Kennedy's plan, on the other hand, "has been languishing in committee" for 15 to 18 years, he said.

Mondale noted that many of the original sponsors of the Kennedy plan, most notably Rep. James Corman, D-Calif., have now endorsed Carter's proposal because Kennedy's program "has been a dream, an unachievable dream."

"These are differences. You may be right, and perhaps you are, but they are differences of judgment between two people who are caring and trying and that's the point I want to make," Mondale said as the crowd of more than 600 burst into applause.

Mondale's speech focused on Carter's labor record and his stands that Mondale said were truly progressive.

"We have to be judged by what is possible, by what can be done within the context of the do-able. I believe that this president, under fair analysis, has been a progressive and caring and compassionate and committed president."

Straw Polls Hold Little Clout

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Montgomery County, Md., Republican Harvest Moon Ball was the GOP National Convention, George Bush would be the party's candidate for president.

If Florida's Democratic National Convention delegates had been picked at the party's state convention, three-fourths would have been pledged to President Carter.

But the GOP will hold its convention July 14-18 in Detroit, not in the foyer of a Maryland dance hall, and Florida's delegates will be picked in the state's March 11 presidential primary.

The Florida poll got much more publicity than the Maryland balloting. But they have two things in common: both were straw votes and neither has anything to do with the selection of delegates.

The first delegates to be chosen for the national conventions will be picked in Republican and Democratic caucuses in Iowa next Monday.

Already, however, straw votes have been held in Maine, Florida, Iowa, Michigan and Vermont, not to mention Jefferson County, Ala., and Suffolk, Windsor and East Granby, Conn. Minnesota Republicans will take a vote Feb. 26 and Oregon Democrats March 28.

Perhaps never before in American politics have so many voted with so little effect.

In some states, straw polls are nothing new. In Florida, for instance, Carter's victory in an informal ballot at the 1975 state convention is counted by some observers as an early signal of the strength that swept him to the nomination.

In other states, such as Oregon and Michigan, the polls are being held for the first time.

Spokesmen for the major political parties and presidential candidates agree that the straw votes are growing in number but expressed doubts about their value.

"It seems to be a newly found device to get attention for a state and its political party leadership," said Bob Neuman, deputy chairman and director of communications for the Democrats.

"It is certainly not a device that has been encouraged by the Democratic National Committee. It tends to drag out and confuse the delegate selection process. To the contrary, our efforts have been to try to condense it and make it more simple."

Republican National Committee spokesman Mike Baroody said the straw polls "give you lists of names with numbers after them, but of course they don't mean anything in terms of delegate strength."

Representatives of candidates agreed that winning a straw poll can be an important boost to a relatively little known candidate, citing Carter's Florida victory in 1975 and Bush's surprise defeat of Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker at a mock Republican convention in Maine in November.

Most, however, said the candidates spend little time trying to win votes of straw.

"The validity of them ranges all the way from the sublime to the ridiculous," said Susan Morrison, deputy press secretary for Bush.

Tom Griscom, Baker's campaign spokesman, said straw polls taken before any delegates are selected have the effect of "adding credibility or taking it away from various candidates before the show starts."

In at least one case, a key supporter of a winner and an aide to a loser in a straw poll agreed that the balloting got more attention than it deserved.

Florida Democratic Chairman Alfredo-Duran, who backed Carter, said the mock vote at the state convention, originally designed to entice people to take part in party affairs, had been blown out of proportion.

And Tom Southwick, press secretary to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who lost to Carter in the Florida vote, said, "The name of the game is how many delegates you get, not how many straws you get."

Whatever their importance, the straw polls continue to draw attention.

GOP Slates Hearings On 1980 Platform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Bill Brock says hearings in 10 cities on what should be included in the GOP's 1980 platform will provide the most comprehensive and open attempt yet to establish party goals.

In today's opening hearing in Washington, more than 50 public policy experts planned to tell party officials what positions the GOP should take on such issues as the economy, national defense, energy, foreign affairs, education, housing, agriculture, taxes and transportation.

What is expected to be a massive record of testimony from the 10 hearings will be handed over to the more than 100 national convention delegates who will serve on the official platform committee when Republicans gather in Detroit in July to choose their presidential candidate.

The committee then will fashion the final version of the platform on which the GOP candidate will be expected to run.

Brock said the extensive schedule of hearings represents "a more comprehensive and open platform development process than either party has ever before attempted."

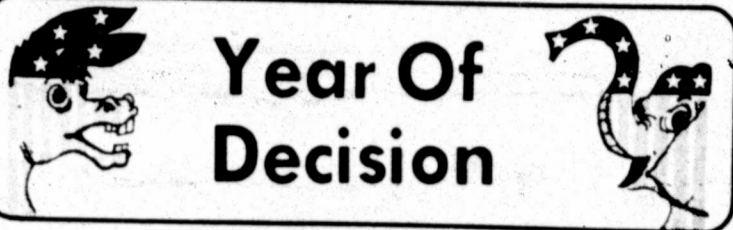

The 1980 Republican platform will be more than a contract with the people," Brock said. "We expect it to be an expression of their concerns, their interests, and their ideas. This will clearly draw the lines between the two political parties."

Additional GOP hearings will be held in St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 28; Los Angeles, Feb. 15; Indianapolis, Feb. 29; Philadelphia, March 7; St. Louis, March 21; Davenport, Iowa, April 18; Seattle, May 2; Chicago, May 3; and New York City, June 6.

The witness list for the two days of hearings in Washington includes members of Congress, governors, economists, and specialists in defense and foreign affairs.

The Democratic Party tentatively plans to start its platform hearings with a domestic affairs session in Washington Jan. 31.

The Democrats will hold hearings in Columbus, Ohio, Houston, Atlanta, Kansas City, Denver, and Seattle, but most of the hearings are planned for Washington.

Connally Throws Party In Arkansas

FAIRFIELD BAY, Ark. (UPI) — Republican presidential candidate John Connally made an unabashed bid for support in Arkansas by throwing a weekend-long party for state and district leaders who next month will elect delegates to the national convention. Connally mixed serious politics with dinner and dancing at the northwest Arkansas resort, where he hosted about 175 Republican guests for a two-day party at his own expense.

"You are absolutely essential to the selection of the delegates from the state of Arkansas, and it's no secret that I hope that most of those delegates support me," the silver-haired Texan told them.

At a news conference Saturday and in a brunch speech Sunday, Connally criticized what he called inaction by President Carter. The former Texas governor said he would have reacted to the crises in Iran and Afghanistan by sending in the Army and Navy to establish a military presence.

"I announced my plan for a strong military presence in the Middle East Oct. 11 before our embassy was overrun and before the situation in Afghanistan," he said.

Carter's decision to withhold grain shipments from the Soviet Union in retaliation for the invasion of Afghanistan, he said, was a "purely political move."

"I question whether he and his administration put any thought into this at all," Connally said. He said the decision should have involved Canada, Australia and Japan, but he doubted it would be effective anyway.

Republican state chairman Lynn Lowe of Texarkana — who said he remains "truly uncommitted" in the nine-way GOP race — said he believes Connally is one of the candidates with a chance to win delegates from Arkansas, along with George Bush, Howard Baker and Ronald Reagan.

The delegate selection will begin with district caucuses Feb. 2.

White House Accident Scares Secret Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was New Year's Eve, and suddenly there was crashing sounds in the room where President Carter was.

Seconds later, frantic Secret Service agents burst through the door followed by Rear Adm. William Lukash, the president's personal physician, his face drawn and white.

The president was crouched over a figure on the floor. He was perfectly all right, but the person on the floor was out cold.

The story of the president's knockout New Year's Eve leaked out during the weekend from someone who was in a position to know.

Carter was having a quiet, unannounced meal at the northwest Washington home of Nancy and Frank Moore, his congressional liaison and former Georgia aide. Press secretary Jody Powell, Hubert "Herky" Harris, an official in the Budget Bureau, Ruff Fant, Powell's next-door neighbor and a Washington attorney and their families were there, too.

Fant had prepared roast duck and Powell had fixed smothered quail and roast pheasant along with turnip greens, sweet potato casserole, cheese grits and homemade biscuits. Secret Service agents waited outside the home, and Rear Adm. William Lukash, the president's personal physician, was in a car behind Carter's limousine.

During the evening, Nancy Moore and Carter had been discussing a book she had been reading. As the president got ready to go, about 9 p.m., she suggested the president take the book with him to read. He agreed.

Up the stairs she dashed, picked up the book, and started to come down the steps. Her heel broke. Down she tumbled, until she came to an abrupt stop, at the president's feet, unconscious.

Agents, hearing the noise, looked in the window just as the president bent over Mrs. Moore. Powell shouted to Harris in the entrance hall to get Lukash.

An agent tried to open the door, but it was stuck. Just as Harris started to open it from the inside, the agent used his shoulder to ram it open. The impact of the agent's body almost pasted Harris to the kitchen wall.

Mrs. Moore quickly recovered. The president returned to the White House, leaving Lukash to keep an eye on her for a while.

Texas Collective Bargaining Means

NO STRIKE

According to the Texas Fire and Police Employees Relations Act, C Article 5154C-1, U.T.C.S.)

The only public employee bargaining statute on the books in the State of Texas covers police and firefighters but applies only in local jurisdictions where voters petition their municipal governments for a referendum and adopt the law by a majority vote. The Act grants exclusive recognition and bargaining rights, prohibits strikes and permits binding arbitration of bargaining impasses. Excerpts follow:

Sec. 2 Policy. (b) (i) It is also the policy of the State of Texas that firefighters and policemen, like employees in the private sector, should have the right to organize for the purposes of collective bargaining, for collective bargaining is deemed to be a fair and practical method for determining wages and other conditions of employment for the employees who comprise the paid fire and police departments of the cities, towns and other political subdivisions within the state. A denial to such employees of the right to organize and bargain collectively would lead to strife and unrest, with consequent injury to the health, safety and welfare of the public. The protection of the health, safety and welfare of the public, however, demands that strikes, lockouts, work stoppages and slowdowns of firefighters and policemen be prohibited; therefore, it is the obligation of the state to make available reasonable alternatives to strikes by employees in these protective services.

Sec. 10. Arbitration. (b) Although the policy of this Act favors and encourages the parties to elect voluntary arbitration, nothing contained herein shall be deemed a requirement for compulsory arbitration.

Sec. 17. Strikes and lockouts. (a) Strikes, lockouts, work stoppages, and slowdowns of firefighters and/or policemen shall be unlawful, and they are hereby prohibited.

(b) In the case of a lockout of firefighters or policemen by a municipality, or its designated representative or agent, or a department or agency head the Court shall (1) issue an order restraining and enjoining such violation, and/or (ii) impose on any individual violator a fine of not more than $2000.

(c) If a firefighter or policeman engages in a strike, or interferes with the municipality, or prevents the municipality from engaging in its duty, or commits, attempts, or directs any employee of the municipality to stop or decline to work, or slowdown work, or causes any other person to fail or refuse to deliver to the municipality goods or services, or pickets for any of the above illegal acts, or conspires to perform any of the above acts, the wages or compensation in any form of such firefighter or policeman shall not increase in any manner or form, until the expiration of one year from the date such firefighter or policeman resumes normal working duties, and said firefighter or policeman shall be on probation for two years with respect to civil service status, tenure of employment, or contract of employment, which that person may have therefore been entitled.

The above are excerpts from the Texas Fire and Police Employee Relations Act. Obviously, adoption of the Act by the voters of Lubbock would prevent strikes by the Lubbock Professional Firefighters Association. The Act provides for strict fines and reasonable alternatives to strikes. You need the FACTS before you vote.
