Moslem Forces Claim Victories

By The Associated Press
Moslem rebels claim to have disrupted three roads into Afghanistan's capital, forcing the Soviet Union to send troop reinforcements and supplies to Kabul and Kandahar by air, a Pakistan newspaper reported today.

The rebels also claim to have killed the governor of the northern province of plies, and the convoy was guarded by only one armored troop carrier for every two or three dozen trucks.

The U.N. General Assembly on Monday called for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Afghanistan by a vote of 104-18, but the Soviet occupation of the Central Asian country was expected to continue indefinitely, until the Moslem rebellion there is under control and the communist government is safe.

The resolution adopted Monday after four days of debate did not name the Soviet Union specifically. But it said the assembly "strongly deplors" military in-

Iran Sets Deadline For U.S. Newsmen

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian government, which has ordered all American reporters to leave Iran, today gave them until Friday midnight to obey the directive.

The announcement, made by the director of the foreign press, Sadegh

Abolghassem, said that with American reporters out of the country there will be less emphasis on the American hostages held at the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4 by Islamic militants demanding the return of the ousted shah.

"I think it will be good for Iran, the United States and the hostages," said the foreign press chief.

Abolghassem's orders, received verbally by a reporter for The Associated Press at the Ministry of National Guidance, are the result of a decision taken jointly by the ruling Revolutionary Council and Cabinet ministers on Monday.

On Monday night, the government ordered all American reporters out of the country, accusing them of biased reporting. But it said French, British and West German journalists could stay for the time being.

"The foreign (American) journalists have been misusing our kind cooperation and freedom we have given them," Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council said in a statement issued after a three-hour meeting Monday night. "They have used this against our revolution and we are going to expel all American correspondents effective immediately."

British, French and West German reporters were being allowed to remain for the time being, but he added: "We give them a strong warning that if they send anything but the truth about the news they will be expelled as well."

The expulsion order follows a long series of public accusations that American reporters were sending out biased and incorrect reports, and the eviction previously of 23 Western reporters whose reporting or reports appearing in their publications angered the revolutionary regime.

Some observers viewed the expulsion as an attempt to reduce publicity about the ethnic minorities challenging Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's authority and demanding autonomous home rule. But others thought the regime might be trying to improve chances for the release of the American hostages by curtailing the extensive TV coverage and other publicity given the students holding them captive.

In Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell said the expulsion

Ted Kennedy's Story Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A crucial element in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's oft-repeated account of the incident at Chappaquiddick has been thrown into doubt, the Washington Star reports.

In today's editions, the newspaper outlined what it called new information concerning tides, currents and topography at the time of the July 1969 car accident in which Mary Jo Kopechne drowned.

The Star contended that tidal tables, on which Kennedy's story and subsequent investigations were based, were written by the National Oceanic Survey from topographical data gathered in 1964.

The Star contended that the topography had changed and the tables were no longer valid when the accident occurred.

On Monday, Kennedy's presidential campaign manager and brother-in-law, Stephen Smith, held a news conference to rebut both the Star's then-unpublished contentions and those in an article to be published in the February edition of Reader's Digest magazine.

Kennedy has said that during his swim across a channel between Chappaquiddick and Edgartown on Martha's Vineyard, Mass., after the accident, and during subsequent rescue attempts, he feared being swept out to sea.

The Star reported that the tide at the time of the accident actually would have carried Kennedy inland. The changes in area topography had resulted in a reversal of the tides, it said.

At the Monday news conference, Smith presented admiralty lawyer Timothy R. McHugh, who said the topographical change cited by the Star actually did not affect the channel current until November 1969.

The newspaper published two satellite photos, from May 1969 and November 1969, that illustrate the gradual shift in topography.

The photographs show the gradually joining of narrow strips of land extending from the south ends of Chappaquiddick and Martha's Vineyard across Katama Bay.

The phenomenon, known locally as the "Katama Opening," has occurred periodically for much of this century.

In the May 1969 photograph, that opening near the south end of the bay appears almost closed. The November photograph shows the opening completely sealed.

In 1964, when data was gathered for the tidal tables, the opening enabled ocean currents to flow from the south, through the bay and on through Edgartown Harbor, the Star said.

The closure meant that the rising tide no longer flowed outward toward the mouth of the Edgartown Harbor, but inward from the northeast, the newspaper added.

The Star said National Oceanic Survey staff scientist Michael Sagalow supported the contention that the topographical change would have reversed the current.

Keesee said he could provide better law enforcement service for the county without having to hire additional deputies. The key, he said, would be to redistribute duties of the existing staff.

D.L. "Sonny" Keesee today became the first Republican candidate, possibly in the county's history, to officially enter the race for Lubbock County sheriff.

A former deputy in the sheriff's department here, Keesee announced his candidacy for the sheriff's post during a morning news conference attended by approximately 40 supporters.

"In the six years that I have been employed as a deputy sheriff, I've become aware of the many needs for better law enforcement in our county," Keesee said. "These needs obviously must be handled by a person with a new and more progressive outlook on training of available personnel and the more effective utilization of these people."

PRIME MINISTER BEGIN
Reveals Military Preparations

Israeli Leader Warns Syrians

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin said today Israel is on guard against a possible attack from Syria, reportedly bolstered by new supplies of jet planes and tanks from the Soviet Union.

Begin warned Syria it had no chance of winning a war against the Jewish state.

"Nothing should cause any alarm to us," Begin said after reporting to President Yitzhak Navon on last week's Aswan summit meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

But Begin pointed out that "Syria is connected with the Soviet Union and there are Soviet advisers in Syria." He also said the Soviets are carrying out a "continuous delivery" of sophisticated weapons to Syria.

"We don't have any news about the Russians encouraging an attack," Begin said. "I hope they don't encourage an attack, because Syria doesn't stand any chance to win."

"They will lose — no doubt whatsoever — if they should attack Israel."

Begin said Israel is "not frightened" by developments on the Syrian front, but added, "We should be very careful and we are on our guard."

He said there were no reports of Syrians massing forces on its border with Israel.

Meeting with a visiting British parliamentary delegation Monday, Begin said Syria may try to start "some warlike actions" against Israel.

"There was news that he (Syrian President Hafez Assad) may try to start some warlike actions against us," Begin said. "We are prepared, of course. We are not frightened by such threats. But we would like to have complete peace on all our borders."

Begin said the Soviets had supplied Syria with MIG-25 bomber interceptors and the new Soviet-built T-72 tanks.

Gold Prices Set Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold touched a record $700 a troy ounce in early trading today on New York's Commodities Exchange before slipping to $683, up $12 from Monday's close.

The $700 price was for January futures contracts, calling for delivery of the bullion this month.

Earlier in Europe, gold hit a London record of $684 an ounce at the afternoon fixing, up $27 from Monday's closing price.

In Zurich, the price at noon slipped to $673.50 from a record $678.50 at mid-morning, but was $19 ahead of Monday's closing price.

The metal touched an all-time peak of $683.06 in Hong Kong before European trading began.

Clements Orders Supervisors To Speed Slashes In Payroll

AUSTIN (UPI) — Realizing that his effort to reduce state payrolls by 8,000 employees this year has succeeded on paper — but not in fact — Gov. Bill Clements has given department supervisors the rest of the month to detail their cut-back plans.

Clements for months had been saying the state bureaucracy was well on its way to meeting his payroll reduction, claiming the number of state workers had been cut 4,000 since he took office a year ago.

Figures released by Comptroller Bob Bullock last month, however, showed there were 2,931 more people on the state payroll in November than when Clements became governor.

'Paranoid' Gunman Killed After Shooting Agent

DENVER (UPI) — A "paranoid" gunman hospitalized last year for attempting to get into the White House shot and killed a Secret Service agent in the Denver bureau, then was killed in an exchange of gunfire.

Agent Stuart Parison Watkins, 39, a nine-year veteran, died Monday night while undergoing surgery at Denver General Hospital. Doctors said more than half his liver was destroyed and both large and small intestines were badly damaged. The assailant, identified as Joseph Hugh Ryan, 31, Lakewood, Colo., died of multiple gunshot wounds Monday afternoon at Denver General Hospital.

"Who knows what was going through his mind? He is a paranoid," said Glen Weaver, Secret Service agent-in-charge of the Denver office. "We're still trying to piece it together."

Weaver said Ryan had been committed to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Washington, D.C., last year after appearing at the northwest gate of the White House demanding to see President Carter.

He appeared at the Secret Service office Monday afternoon, telling employees in the reception area that he wanted to file a complaint, Weaver said. Then he confronted Watkins and began arguing with him.

"His problem is with former presidents and the president," Weaver said. "He told us he had come to our office to register a complaint and that he was armed."

Weaver said he was sitting in an office next door when he heard the gunshots. "I was reading a memo from our assistant director that brought to the attention of all agents the number of increased assaults on all federal agents," he said.

"I was on the second paragraph when the shooting started. The man was highly irate and volatile. The agent approached him carefully, but the subject pulled a weapon from under his coat and fired at very close range," Weaver said.

Small Firms Urged To Increase Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is urging small businesses to increase exports, but many entrepreneurs charge that government policy is impeding international trade.

Deputy Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges Jr. told the White House conference on small business Monday that the United States "can no longer pretend" to be economically dominant and must stop thinking of international trade as a "side-show."

"American business, large and small, must awake from its Rip Van Winkle sleep and start paying closer attention to a fast-changing world," Hodges told the 2,100 delegates to the conference.

But many small business officials countered that, despite fresh efforts by the administration, trade is hindered by a slew of federal policies.

A report prepared for the conference cited such disincentives as export controls, environmental regulations, anti-trust laws, anti-bribery legislation and human rights restrictions.

Moreover, many foreign companies, unlike U.S. firms, are directly subsidized by their government.

"The Internal Revenue Code and IRS can be the principal impediment in an export transaction," the report says.

While a large multinational corporation can afford a tax department and can retain high-priced Washington law firms, the small exporter is left at the starting gate in efforts to deal with tax problems.

International trade is one of a dozen topics being discussed by the delegates during their five-day conference here. They intend to pare scores of proposals — developed during the past year and a half — to 15 recommendations that will be delivered to President Carter and Congress.

Delegates appear most intent on finding some way to cut government regulation and finding new ways to obtain capital at reasonable interest rates.

While Hodges touched on these topics, he focused on international trade, saying that 20,000 businesses could easily sell their products abroad, but don't.

Earlier, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., criticized the government's support of the ailing Chrysler Corp. with loan guarantees.

The guarantees, he said, redirect capital away from healthy small businesses to a mismanaged, huge corporation.

"Thousands of small businesses will go belly-up in the rough economic weather ahead — not as a result of mismanagement, but instead for lack of capital," Weicker told the delegates.

Dispute Resolved On Nixon's Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government and Richard M. Nixon have reached agreement in their dispute over who pays for improvements made to the former president's home in San Clemente, Calif. Uncle Sam gets $33,295 and it doesn't come directly from Nixon.

The arrangement could still fall apart, a source said, if Nixon feels he is being pictured as admitting that he intentionally benefited at the taxpayers' expense.

To avoid that impression, Nixon won't write the check; the buyers of the estate will do that. There is, however, nothing to prevent him from quietly reimbursing the buyers, a three-man partnership.

The dispute arose last summer when Nixon disclosed plans to sell the property and move to New York. The government said then it wanted back some of the $702,321 it spent improving the place while Nixon was president.

Nixon sent a check for $2,300 for a flagpole and invited the government to remove the rest of the improvements, which he said were put in at the insistence of the Secret Service. But an audit showed it would cost $106,442 to remove items with a salvage value of only $27,481 — a loss of $78,961 — and negotiations began.

They neared conclusion Monday when Nixon's agreement on terms worked out by his aide, Jack Brennan, and Ross Biatek, the General Services Administration's regional controller in San Francisco.

Nixon plans to move to New York City in mid-February if his East 65th Street townhouse is ready.

An independent appraiser hired by the GSA figured that, with depreciation, the property was worth $33,295 more than it would have been had the improvements not been made, a California source said.

The source, asking not to be named, said that in addition to being paid for the flagpole, the government will receive $30,995 for these items.

—$23,000 for a fire prevention sprinkler system, installed in 1971 at the request of the Secret Service because the house is isolated and far from a fire station.

—$6,260 for a fire hydrant and an enlarged water line, even though the new owners may have to tear it out when they divide the property into 16 home sites.

—$98.50 for handrails on a stairway leading to a den on the second floor of the residence.

Smaller amounts for windows that were enlarged and a sewer line installed because of the large number of Secret Service men stationed on the estate.

"Because of these decisions, made by agreement of the new owners and the former president, the government has saved more than $50,000 in removing costs in excess of salvage value," the source said.

During Nixon's presidency, the audit showed, the GSA spent $565,004 improving the estate's grounds, $55,446 on the residence, and another $81,871 for intangible items such as design and inspection.

The most expensive improvement was $217,006 in labor and material for electronic systems and lighting. The cost of removing the wiring would be prohibitive compared with any salvage value, the GSA determined.

Ex-Astronaut Leaving Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former astronaut Michael Collins, who piloted the command ship on the first moon landing, has quit as under secretary of the Smithsonian Institution to take a job with Vought Corporation.

Collins, 49, will be in charge of the aerospace company's field operations in Washington. He joined the Smithsonian in 1971 as director of the National Air and Space Museum.

Collins will be replaced by Phillip Hughes, 62, a former deputy director of the budget and one-time assistant comptroller general.

Julian Bond Toasted By Solon

ATLANTA (AP) — It wasn't exactly champagne, but state Sen. Julian Bond was toasted, nevertheless, by a colleague on his 40th birthday — the first day of the 1980 legislative session.

Standing in the Senate well Monday, Sen. Culver Kidd said he was toasting Bond "with this bottle of champagne." He pointed to a bottle of amber liquid in his hand.

Further examination revealed that the "champagne" actually was a bottle of cane syrup put there earlier by another senator.

Undaunted, Bond followed Kidd to the well for what he said was a "free speech" on his birthday.

Monday's congenial reception was a far cry from 1966 when Bond, a civil rights and anti-war activist, was 25 years old and newly elected to the state House. The House refused to recognize his election and it took a federal court order to seat him.

Cleveland's Donations Low

CLEVELAND (AP) — Princess Margaret wowed them in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Houston, but her fundraising talents for the Royal Opera House at London's Covent Garden were not as successful in Cleveland.

Opera and ballet patrons in Ohio's largest city contributed $1,250 out of more than $472,000 raised in the 17-day tour last fall.

Royal Opera House development appeal director Pat Spooner said only $250 in donations from Cleveland had been received as of Monday. However, the Eaton Corp. in Cleveland has said that it donated $1,000 on Dec. 12 through the New York-based American Friends of Covent Garden Inc.

Cleveland's total compares with $200,000 raised in Los Angeles, $134,000 in Houston, $133,870 in San Francisco and $4,000 in Chicago, Spooner said.

It was in Chicago that the princess ran into controversy after reportedly making derogatory remarks about the Irish.

Princess Margaret's unofficial visit to Cleveland was sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club, which arranged a dinner-dance on Oct. 26 in honor of the princess.

Publisher Disavows Book

NEW YORK (AP) — "Katharine the Great," a controversial biography of Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham, has been disavowed by its publisher.

Harcourt Brace Jovanovich has "reverted the (book) rights to the author," said spokesman Richard Udell. He declined to give a reason, saying only "This involves our relationship with the author and it would not be nice to comment."

The book alleges that the CIA fed the Washington Post information about the Watergate case because it was angry at President Nixon.

Author Deborah Davis was not immediately available for comment. Elaine Markson, the author's agent, said 21,000 of the 25,000 books in the first printing had been sold.

New 'Annie' To Join Cast

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaping Lizards! There's another Annie on Broadway — the fourth since the hit musical by the same name opened in April 1977.

Allison Smith, 10, takes over on Jan. 29 for Sarah Jessica Parker, 14, who has outgrown the part.

Allison, who lives with her parents in Waldwick, N.J., was selected last Friday from more than 500 applicants. She is the third Annie from the Garden State. Miss Parker lives in Englewood and Shelley Bruce in East Rutherford. The original star, Andrea McArdle, is from Philadelphia.

Firm Tells Client To Buzz Off!

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A beekeeper has been stung by his insurance company, but 86-year-old Myron Surmach says those folks just don't know the difference between wasps and bees.

"They don't understand...," said the Ukrainian immigrant. "Everybody gets stung by wasps, but they blame bees. And you can't insure yourself against wasps. They are all over."

For the last 28 years, Surmach has been conducting school tours of his apary, located at his Bergen County home — apparently without the knowledge of the Great American Insurance Company. Surmach said his policy was canceled when the company found out about the tours because of "increased hazard."

Surmach, who says only one or two children have been accidentally stung in 28 years, won't disband his 30 hives but thinks he may have to stop the tours if he can't find another insurance company.

Meanwhile, he tends his hives daily, crediting his good health, in part, to his honey and the bees. Once, he said, he let a couple of them sting him on his arthritic knee.

"The doctor made a face when I did it, but it cured my arthritis."

Durante's Condition Worsens

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Jimmy Durante's condition has deteriorated and officials at St. John's Hospital say the 86-year-old entertainer has slipped into semi-consciousness.

"There has been a slight deterioration in his vital signs," a hospital spokeswoman said late Monday. "Progressive pulmonary condition remains serious and he is semi-conscious."

Durante was admitted to the hospital Jan. 7 for treatment of a form of pneumonia.

Earlier Monday, a hospital spokeswoman said Durante had taken a sharp turn for the worse during the weekend.

"Mr. Durante's condition is listed as serious," Marsha Bolyanz said. "There is deterioration in vital signs from the weekend."

The long-nosed comedian, known affectionately as "schnozzol," has been in failing health since suffering a stroke in 1972 which left him partially paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair. He was admitted to the hospital Jan. 7.

Durante began his career as a 17-year-old piano player and has worked in all facets of entertainment from honky-tonk speakeasies to modern television. His last regular show was ABC-TV's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters," a musical variety series introduced in the fall of 1969.

Mideast Turmoil Influenced By 'Geopolitics'

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

Soviet expansion into Afghanistan has triggered a geopolitical showdown between the world's superpowers along Southwest Asia's so-called "arc of instability."

Having upset the balance of power in the turbulent region between Turkey and the Indian subcontinent, the Soviet Union finds itself pitted against two dissimilar adversaries seeking to right the scales — the United States and China.

The ultimate stakes in what is expected to be a drawn-out global drama are extremely high since Afghanistan forms the backdoor to the fabulous oil wells of Iran and the Arabian peninsula and to the Indian subcontinent.

Second In A Series

of Iran and the Arabian peninsula and to the Indian subcontinent.

Even if the Soviet Union, as it avows, is pursuing only short-range goals in the bloody suppression of Islamic insurgents in Afghanistan, the long-range effect is that the Russians will be more strategically placed to destabilize the autocratic Moslem regimes in Iran, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia, whenever the Kremlin's interests dictate.

The powerful Red Army also has moved within easy striking distance of the warm waters of the Arabian Sea and the Strait of Hormuz, through which 60 percent of the world's oil trade flows.

With this in mind, President Carter has described the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan as "the greatest threat to peace since the second World War."

However, both the United States and China have ruled out a direct military response to the Russian move, choosing instead to bolster their common ally Pakistan and other nations in the region.

"Geopolitics" is the name of the risky game now being played in a volatile region where the British Empire once held sway and checked the expansionist ambitions of imperial Russia.

The British pulled back their forces east of Suez in the decade following World War II, leaving behind a power vacuum never adequately filled by such ill-fated Western defense schemes like the Baghdad Pact or its successor, the Central Treaty Organization, which loosely linked Britain, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey.

By dictionary definition, "geopolitics" is the interrelationship of politics and geography. This sometimes assumes the mystical form of "manifest destiny," the 19th-Century doctrine postulating the inevitability of American expansion westward, or of "lebensraum," the catchword for Nazi Germany's aggressive drive for more living space.

Here is a geopolitical overview of the interests of each of the Big Three in the "arc of instability" as viewed by diplomatic and other analysts in the East and West:

SOVIET UNION

From the Moscow perspective, analysts view the current crisis as part of a Soviet maneuver to finally carve out concrete spheres of influence in the region following years of superpower jockeying that brought few clear results.

The most obvious and pressing concern behind the Russian move was that the unpopular Marxist regime of Hafizullah Amin would be overturned by tribal insurgents and expose the heavily Moslem populated southern regions of the Soviet Union to the infectious Islamic revolution.

The Soviets, therefore, chose to quell the Afghan insurrection and, according to experts, liquidate Amin, replacing him with a more responsive Satrap.

The Russians also appeared to be worried about the possible loss of credibility with the Kremlin's East European allies, eager to discourage their own dissident movements by raising the specter of Soviet intervention on the order of Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Then, too, there was the half-century-old Soviet sensitivity about encirclement by unfriendly states.

A glance at the world map shows that by effectively annexing Afghanistan, the Russians have come close to severing the first chain of anti-Marxist or anti-Soviet states surrounding them.

Key links in this chain are Japan, South Korea, China, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and Western Europe.

A military thrust of less than 300 miles from Afghanistan through western Pakistan or southeastern Iran would cut the chain and bring the Soviet Union to the Arabian Sea, near the entrance to the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

U.S. observers believe Russia's old thirst for warm waters may have been aroused anew by the prospect that the Soviet Union may face an energy shortage of its own beginning in the mid or late 1980s.

The Soviets are now the world's largest oil producers, turning out about 12-million barrels a day — three million more than Saudi Arabia, the United States' chief foreign supplier.

But, according to a two-year-old analysis by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, Soviet production will be down to 8 million to 10 million barrels a day by 1985, when the Soviet Union is expected to become a net importer of oil.

With the price of oil skyrocketing on the world market, U.S. officials believe the Russians could not meet the hard currency costs to buy the 3.5 million to 4.5 million barrels per day of expected shortfall.

UNITED STATES

The Soviets may have their eye on the last half of this decade, but Arabian oil is immediately important to the United States and its Western allies.

About 20 percent of 8-million-plus barrels of oil the United States imports each day comes from wells on the Arab side of the Persian Gulf — 1.2 million alone from Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia, a leading purchaser of U.S. weaponry, sits atop the world's largest proven reservoir of crude oil — 28 percent of the world total. Estimates of probable Saudi reserves range up to 300 billion barrels.

Through a "stepping-stone" approach, the Soviets conceivably could seal both the Strait of Hormuz, guarding the entrance to the Persian Gulf, and Bab Al Mandab (Gate of Lamentation), the strait between Yemen and Ethiopia at the entrance to the Red Sea and gateway to the Suez Canal. This would cut off Persian Gulf oil and strangle the economy of Western Europe and Japan.

While Washington does not appear to perceive an imminent threat to the Arabian oil fields or the tanker routes, President Carter has told members of Congress that the Soviet move in Afghanistan directly threatened U.S. security because, if the Soviets suffered no adverse consequences from their action, there would be the temptation "to move again and again until they reached warm water ports" or gained control of world oil supplies.

Shaking off the Vietnam syndrome, Carter has referred to prospective U.S. facilities in Somalia, Oman and Kenya as "the kind of thing that I think is important to our nation to prepare for the long-range meeting of any threat to the peace in the Mideast, Persian Gulf, northern Indian Ocean area."

The Russian action also has brought the United States and China closer to a community of interests.

Although the United States is sticking to its policy of not selling arms to China,

Secretary of Defense Harold Brown said at the conclusion of his recent visit to Peking. "We found we have views very closely parallel on the need to strengthen other nations in the region."

CHINA

The tip of Afghanistan's Hindu Kush panhandle barely touches China's Sinkiang Province and Peking's direct interests in the landlocked, Moslem nation are minimal.

But the Chinese see the Soviet moves there as a new gambit in the Kremlin's attempts to dominate the world.

At the time of the Russian coup in Kabul, the two feuding communist giants already were locked in a fierce struggle over spheres of influence in Southeast Asia. For the time being at least, the Russians have gained in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

China's senior vice premier Deng Xiaoping regards intervention in Afghanistan as "a grave step taken by the Soviet Union to make a southward thrust to the Indian Ocean, control the sea lanes, seize oil-rich areas and outflank Europe so as to gain world hegemony."

In the Chinese view, Western Europe is a second-front against the Russians in Peking's own political confrontation with Moscow.

Of more pressing concern to China is the security of its old friend and ally, Pakistan, to which it has given $2-billion in aid since 1966. Both the United States and China supported Pakistan in the December 1971, Bangladesh war with India, which they considered pro-Soviet.

In addition to coordinating military aid to Pakistan with the United States, China can be expected to gain propagand da points in the Third World by pointing to Afghanistan as an example of the dangers faced by developing countries that get too friendly with the Russian bear.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

All Eggs In One Basket

PRESIDENT CARTER is widely assumed to have benefited from a situation in Iran that gave him an opportunity to "act presidential" and to display leadership qualities well hidden during his first three years in office. Undoubtedly, the President merits the acclaim he has received for producing a delicately balanced amalgam of pressure and patience as an immediate response to the crisis. But Mr. Carter has acceded to a high-risk political gamble of incredible proportions by placing most of his re-election eggs in one basket even though many aspects of the situation are far beyond his control. His record of early and mid-crisis management undoubtedly will be quickly forgotten not long after the standoff's conclusion.

assumptions about its political impact are wearing thin. Carter's boast several months ago that he "never panicked in a crisis" should have been ringing in the ears of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Carter's principal rival in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, when Kennedy was attempting to formulate a strategy for minimizing the damage of his harangue against the ousted shah. THAT EPISODE showed that as long as Kennedy remains in the presidential race, he cannot afford to confess that while under pressure he made either a misstatement or misjudgment without evoking memories of the most politically damaging event in his life. Finally, a thought that seems to have eluded all of the presidential candidates, i.e., nationalism may pose the gravest threats to global stability in the 1980s and beyond. For example, the Soviet Union currently is meddling in Afghanistan not in Iran. Hostility toward the U.S. in Iran, in other Moslem nations and even in our "good neighbor" is being fanned out by national pride as much as by the Communists. Yet no candidate as yet has stepped forward to address the fundamental problem of dealing with soaring aspirations and frustrations all across the world.

IF THE HOSTAGES are freed and returned home unharmed soon, the President could well retain the 20 to 30 points he has picked up in the public opinion polls. But if the hostages are killed as a result of what is perceived to be a critical misstep by the White House, the electorate's approval rating of Carter's performance probably will plunge to unmatched depths. The crisis in Iran is likely to be one of the most important events affecting the 1980 presidential campaigns but some of the initial

TUNNEL VISION

James J. Kilpatrick:

Paralysis Of Will Contagious

WASHINGTON—Let me back into the problems of Jimmy Carter, if I may, by first addressing the problems of Jonas Savimbi. Jonas who? Most Americans never heard of him. That is perhaps his first problem. Savimbi is the leader of UNITA (the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola). He is a guerrilla, a true freedom fighter, and he is a victim of our own country's paralysis of will. It may be especially useful to write of Savimbi because the wrongs that were done him antedated the administration of President Carter. These particular failures developed during the time of President Ford. The failures, moreover, were not the fault of the White House, but chiefly of the Congress. The failures were above all a failure of will, and a failure of perception. YOU WILL RECALL that Angola gained its independence from Portugal in November of '75. The agreement was that power would be shared among three liberation movements, one led by the Marxist Agostinho Neto, a second by Socialist Holden Roberto, the third by Savimbi. Fighting broke out the very moment the Portuguese struck their flag. Neto's forces seized the capital of Luanda. The Soviet Union sent in 15,000 Cuban troops at once and eventually sent in 35,000 more. Neto's Luanda regime demanded and got admission into the United Nations. Roberto's forces disappeared.

What we have in Angola today is a pro-Soviet regime, an economy in chaos and a state of continuing civil war. Conditions are even worse than conditions in Mozambique. Angola is host to the infamous SWAPO terrorists who seek power over neighboring Namibia (South West Africa). NOW, THERE WAS a time at which this sad state of affairs might have been prevented. At a crucial time in late November 1975, we of the United States might have done for Savimbi what the Soviets were doing for Neto. In the judgment of knowledgeable men—Henry Kissinger, for one—decisive action at a decisive moment could have turned the tide of events around. We did not have to lose Angola. But we did lose Angola because Congress, at this critical juncture, adopted legislation that handcuffed the executive's hands. Savimbi survived the debacle. His UNITA forces still control half the land area of Angola, a nation larger than Texas and California combined. He is nobody's puppet. HE IS A leader of courage and integrity, fiercely anti-communist, a natural ally. But when Savimbi visited the United States this past November, our State Department treated him as if he carried bubonic plague. Our policy, such as it is, is to temporize with the Luanda regime. What does all this have to do with Carter's im-

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

$30 Billion Bigger

THE AMERICAN Civil Liberties Union has gone to court—again—this time to get the courts to declare it's unconstitutional to post the Ten Commandments in a public school. My Neighbor Twice Removed says he guesses the ACLU is afraid students might be exposed to a little moral law while walking from their forced buses to their sex education classes. Digbelieving a 1974 study which found that only 2 percent of the surgery in this country is unnecessary, a Congressional committee which thought it was closer to 17 percent demanded a second opinion. HEW, after a second study costing $300,000, came up with this answer: Less than 1 percent of the nation's surgery is unnecessary. It's safe to say that the President's embargo against the Soviet Union went against the grain in the farm belt. SOMETHING for university students to ponder the next time they're tempted to think their tuitions and fees give them the right to help run the place. In the 1960s, a plan was proposed to charge all public and independent students the full actual cost of their college education. Under one version of the (revived) student loan bill now before Congress, graduates would repay their debt at 7 percent over a period of 20 years. Now, imagine two young graduates who marry and begin their adult lives with a combined note for about $148,000—$80,000 in principal and about $68,000 in interest. Their monthly payments would be about $616 a month for 20 years. —Allan W. Ostar, president, American Association of State Colleges and Universities. Taxpayers still pick up the major share of the cost of higher education—and have every right, through boards of regents, to set policy. That right should not be delegated to administrators, let alone to faculty or students. Marvin McLarty Jr. says he's been told that Sen. Ted Kennedy thinks nuclear fission refers to trout fishing off Three Mile Island. Dee Eaton read that a woman considers her best years to be between the ages of 29 and 30. FINAL CHAPTER: Bob Blake finally got his $1,000 back from President Carter's re-election campaign committee. It took about six months. Back in the early summer, Blake wrote the President suggesting that the way to solve the energy problem and, incidentally, boost federal revenues was to encourage domestic production. Trying to get Carter's attention, he included a $1,000 check for his re-election campaign. Kind of like the Guv'ment with its strings, Blake said the check could be cashed if the President would just read his letter. He didn't have to adopt Blake's suggestions, just acknowledge receiving and reading them.

The Lubbock man hasn't heard 'til yet from the President. After I reported that the re-election committee had cashed the check without Carter having met the conditions, Blake did hear from the committee staff, from the White House and from the Department of Energy. But nobody wanted to reply to his letter; they just wanted to keep the money. Blake finally told 'em it didn't make much difference any more whether the President or anybody else in Washington read the letter; they'd already ignored his suggestions by tentatively passing the windfall profits tax and doing everything else they could think of to make the U.S. more at the mercy of foreign oil cartels. AND SO IT WAS that, in the dead of winter, Blake got last summer's $1,000 back along with a letter signed by some functionary at the campaign headquarters to the effect that they hoped he hadn't been caused any inconvenience. In the meantime, the American people and the nation's economy have been inconvenienced by about a 50 percent increase in the price of gasoline and oil—and shortages and/or rationing are a distinct probability. And instead of Blake's $1,000, the politicians in Washington will have $20 billion to $30 billion coming in from their windfall tax each and every year. You can spread that kind of money around to influence a lot of re-election votes.

JOSEPH SOBRAN:

Bishop Seduced By Marxism

WASHINGTON—Maybe you've heard of Bishop Paul Moore. He's the well-known Episcopal bishop of New York City who likes to ordain lesbians. He's probably ordain a cannibal, provided the fellow talked about liberation theology and defended anthropophagism as an alternative life-style. The good bishop is not unlikeable. He is handsome, urbane, the soul of kindly condescension. But if he weren't so fatherly you might think him fanatical. Fanatical? Well, yes, in Mr. Dooley's sense. Mr. Dooley defined a fanatic as one who does what the good Lord would do if only He knew the facts of the case. Bishop Moore knows the facts of the case. That's why he's willing to ordain lesbians.

It may look like idealism; but in fact it is dreadful arrogance. All the revolutionaries who have tried to purify man and society by violence, to create utopias by means of the firing squad, have been possessed by a desire for power far more devilish than mere greed.

Greed, gluttony, lust, even sloth are disgusting and destructive. But they are nothing compared with the spiritual sins of pride, envy and anger. One of the perverse achievements of Marxism has been to disguise and sanctify these malignant moral passions, so that even bishops have trouble recognizing them.

Sylvia Porter: 'Ups' And 'Downs' Part Of Commodity Trading

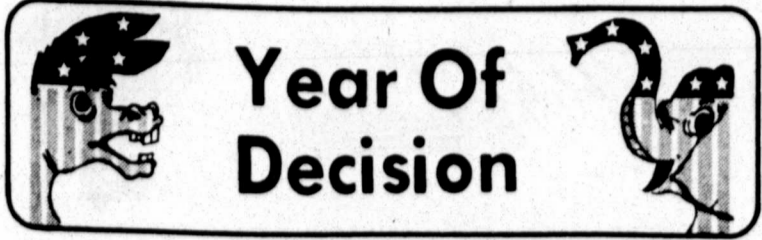

(Second of three columns) WASHINGTON—Once you have opened an account with a broker, trading commodities becomes a simple matter (at least as far as the mechanics are concerned). You need only call and tell your broker how many contracts of a particular commodity you wish to buy or sell, and at what price. The broker then will relay your order to the trading floor of the appropriate exchange. After it is executed, the brokerage firm's representatives on the trading floor will report back to your broker, who will relay the information to you. Often, this entire procedure takes no more than several minutes. Within a few days of every transaction, you will receive a written confirmation of your activities. EVERY TIME YOU initiate a futures position you will be required to post a specific amount of margin money with your brokerage firm. Commodity margins are really performance bonds that guarantee the customer's willingness to accept any profits or losses. In general, you the customer, are asked to put up an original margin deposit equal to 5 percent to 20 percent of the total value of the commodities involved. Minimum margin requirements are set by the commodity exchanges themselves, but brokerage houses are free to require higher margins if they wish. Margin requirements are always specific dollar amounts rather than percentages—e.g., $1,000 per contract of copper or $2,500 per contract of soybeans. Unlike the securities market, there are no interest charges on the difference between margin and full cost. ANOTHER UNIQUE FEATURE of futures markets is the existence of daily trading limits. To lessen the likelihood of an overly extreme market response to unusually dramatic news, all U.S. (and most foreign) exchanges have adopted maximum fluctuation limits beyond which prices cannot move in the course of a trading session. For example, the daily limit on silver is 20 cents. Thus if July silver closes at $5.50 one day, its permissible range the following day will be $5.30 to $5.70. If there are no bids at or above the lower end of this range or no offers at or below the upper extreme, no trading will take place. So They Say... Two ministers were among six chosen as delegates to a General Conference at Indianapolis. The first, with pardonable pride, told his wife he had been the No. 1 selection. "That doesn't surprise me," she said warmly. "You have always been No. 1 with me, too." So, the second told his wife he was the No. 3 selection. You can guess, can't you, how she responded? What wife could resist? "That doesn't surprise me," she said. "You have always been No. 3 with me, too."

MINIMUM PRICE FLUCTUATIONS also are set by the exchanges, and although these usually appear small, the quantities of the various commodities involved are large enough to make even minor price changes significant. For instance, the minimum price fluctuation for wheat, corn and soybeans is 25 cent per bushel. Doesn't sound like much, does it? But multiply that by 5,000 bushels (the size of a single futures contract) and you'll find that you, as a trader, make or lose $12.50 every time the price changes by the minimum amount—which it often does several times a minute! And if that's not fast enough action, you can always trade five, 10, 50 or more contracts at a time. To give you a clearer idea of what commodity price changes mean to you in terms of real, out-of-pocket dollars, here are some examples of the effects of a one-cent price move up (or down) in a variety of the more actively traded items: THE ONE-CENT change on a 40,000 pound cattle contract would amount to $400; $300 for 30,000 pounds of cocoa; $250 for 25,000 pounds of copper; $50 for 5,000 bushels of corn; Or, $500 for 50,000 pounds of cotton; $300 for 30,000 pounds of hogs; $380 for 38,000 pounds of pork bellies; $500 for 50,000 pounds of potatoes; $500 for 5,000 troy ounces of silver; $50 for 5,000 bushels of soybeans; and Finally, $1,120 for 112,000 pounds of sugar; $1,250 for 125,000 Swiss francs and $50 for 5,000 pounds of wheat. # Kennedy Backers To Swamp Iowa

By United Press International
Sen. Edward Kennedy's Iowa strategists say President Carter still holds top cards in the state, but ingredients are there for a Kennedy victory in the Jan. 21 caucuses that start the delegate selection process.

Kennedy operatives Bob Miller and Paul Tully said Monday the deciding factor could be the success of a massive get-out-the-vote effort in coming days. Tully said Kennedy should have organizers in 2,300 of the state's 2,531 caucuses by next Monday.

"If we do our job, we'll be in good shape in this state," he said. "We think we'll have enough identified support by the 21st to make it very close or possibly a win."

Kennedy bought 30 minutes of television time in eight cities in Iowa and neighboring Nebraska Monday night for a commercial featuring his "answers" — on foreign policy, military strength, agriculture, the economy, price controls, nuclear power, tax reform, ERA and the grain embargo — in the debate with Carter that never came off.

Also on Monday, former Ambassador George Bush predicted that only he and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan may be left in the Republican race by the time the votes are counted in the March 18 Illinois primary.

There now are nine Republicans in contention. Bush told reporters Monday the number may be down to two by Illinois: Which two? "Me and Reagan," he replied, grinning.

Bush revealed his New Hampshire organization chart to reporters in Concord, N.H. It showed the names of campaign chairmen in all but 19 of the state's 236 towns and cities, and Bush said the remaining 19 will be added by the end of this week.

Bush's Vermont manager Clark Benson, meanwhile, said he was not dismayed at news that 600 seats had been sold and another 800 applicants turned away from a dinner arranged for Reagan's first swing through Vermont this week.

"It doesn't strike fear into our hearts," Benson said. "He (Reagan) is a national figure. People want to see him because they remember him from the 1938 movies. It transcends politics."

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. also was in New Hampshire Monday — laying full blame for the Iranian crisis on President Carter's shoulders.

"He's the fellow who made the decision to let the shah in and not bring the diplomats home first," Brown told factory workers in Manchester. "He left them exposed to that Iranian mob."

And in Iowa, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas challenged Republicans "to take a final, closer look at the candidates for the party's presidential nomination."

UAW Head Expected To Support Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Auto Workers President Douglas A. Fraser, whose union gave Jimmy Carter an important, early boost in the 1976 presidential campaign, is lining up with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy for the 1980 race.

Kennedy arranged to meet today with UAW leaders attending a political conference in Washington. An aide to Fraser said the union chief would announce his personal support for the Massachusetts senator at a news conference several hours later.

Kennedy's schedule called for him to leave Washington in mid-afternoon for a two-day campaign trip to Maine, New Hampshire and New Jersey.

Fraser's individual endorsement will not commit the full resources of his 1.5 million-member union to Kennedy's cause. But his decision is certain to have a strong impact on the UAW.

State UAW organizations are free to back any candidate they choose, and the autoworkers' organization in Iowa has been at work for months trying to build support for Kennedy, who is challenging Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination.

Iowa's precinct caucuses next Monday will provide the first important test of the campaign. The UAW supported Carter in Iowa four years ago, when he led other candidates.

Fraser's decision coincides with a disclosure Monday by Fred J. Kroll, head of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, that he is backing Kennedy's campaign.

"I've done this as an individual, not speaking for our organization," Kroll said in a telephone interview. He stressed that BRAC, with 200,000 members, is officially neutral in the campaign.

The backing from Fraser and Kroll means that 10 union presidents are in Kennedy's corner. Carter has the support of seven presidents or their organizations.

Labor organizations can provide important money and manpower to a political campaign, and both Carter and Kennedy have wooed labor officials ardently.

Fraser has rarely been a political ally of the president. Four years ago, he backed Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., for the presidency while then-UAW President Leonard Woodcock gave Carter an important early endorsement.

Fraser has differed with the president on several major issues since 1976, including national health insurance and the administration's economic policies.

But the UAW chief worked closely with administration officials in pushing legislation through Congress to provide federal loan guarantees to Chrysler Corp. and Fraser attended the White House ceremony last week at which Carter signed the bill into law.

Kennedy's new labor endorsements come at a time when he is declining in popularity in public opinion surveys, particularly in Iowa.

Stepping up its advertising in the state, Kennedy's campaign spent $10,000 Monday night to air 30-minute television commercials in seven Iowa cities and in nearby Omaha, Neb.

Many Styles Offered To Skiers

By LYNN HOHERTZ
Family News Staff

Getting ready to "hit the slopes"? Well, do it in style — and oh what styles!

Today's new ski fashions offer winning looks, practicality and versatility.

These ski fashions are not just for skiing either. Most outfits take you from the slopes to sitting in front of a blazing fire at your favorite lodge.

Ski wear has come a long way from layers of bulky clothing. According to David Wyatt, ski technician at Cardinal's Sport Center, everything is lighter and sleeker because people are more design-conscious than ever.

Colors run the length of an artist's palette. "Earthy tones are really popular now," Wyatt said. "Men seem to prefer browns, tans and greens. Women seem to lean toward bolder colors such as black and white trimmed with a bright color." Other popular colors include grape, slate, gold, cinnamon and vanilla.

"Ski suits are still the most sought after apparel, especially the bib overalls with coordinating parka," Wyatt said. Many ski suits feature a striking contemporary graphic treatment and/or unusual fabrications. Most of the ski crowd chooses waist length jackets for appearance sake and mobility. These short parkas are less binding than a three-quarters length coat.

Powder suits are another option. These are parkas that zip to the overalls so no snow can get inside the suit.

"Levis makes a popular line of ski parkas," said Wyatt. "Their parkas feature zip-out sleeves so the jacket may also be worn as a vest." How's that for versatility? "These jackets are especially popular around here," he continued, "due to the western styling."

Sweaters are also more colorful; however, they are not made of a heavy wool.

"They are just as warm," said Wyatt, "but made of a lightweight acrylic which is more comfortable."

Making an appearance on the slopes once again are — would you believe — stretch pants. These new stretch pants are a lot more comfortable than the ones of years past, Wyatt explained. They are constructed in a rayon, nylon and spandex blend and instead of fastening under the foot go over the boot.

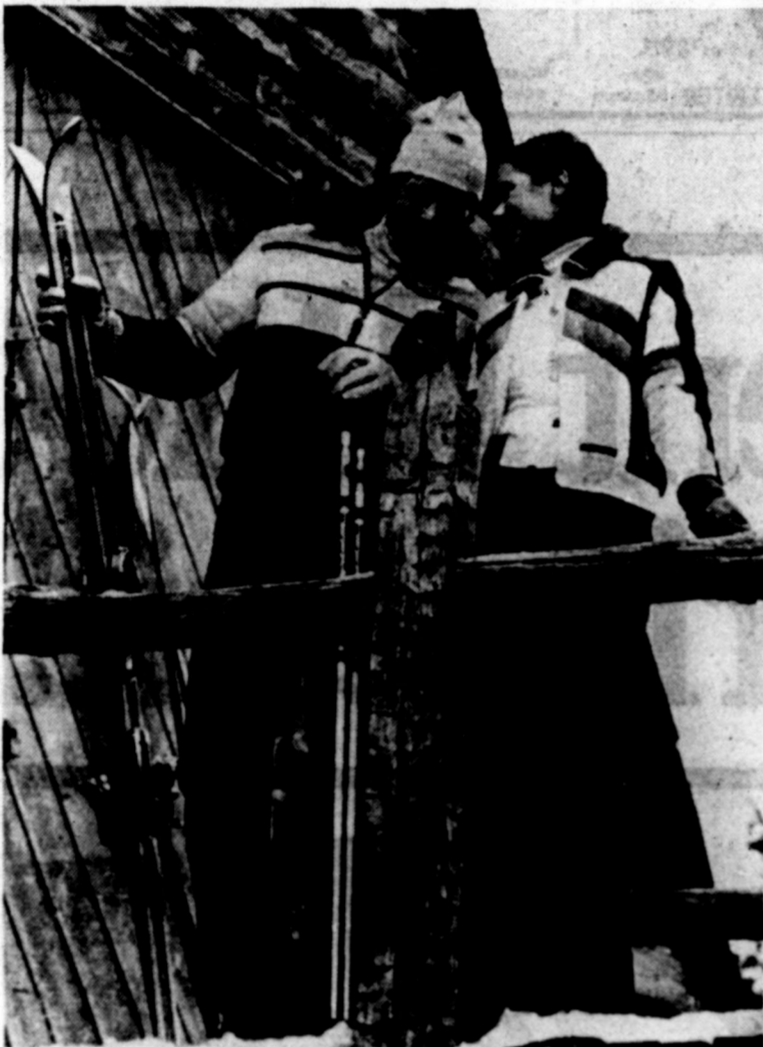

When selecting ski wear Wyatt offers these suggestions:

Bibs should be slightly baggy (remember you need room for long underwear).

"Most bibs come with a stretch side panel so they won't rip out and to allow for a more stylish, tight fit."

A parka fit should also allow for sweaters. When you pull both arms forward the jacket sleeves should not pull up more than an inch. There should also be enough room through the shoulder area so the coat will not bind.

So, whether you're a spectator or sportsman, you can make an outstanding fashion statement on the slopes this winter.

OFF TO THE SLOPES — Lightweight skiwear offers protection from winter weather and freedom to enjoy the sport. Man's quilted parka becomes a turtleneck. Woman's vest-over-jacket combination features colorful quilted insets.

Doctor Analyzes Insomnia

By STEPHEN J. MORGAN
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — If you're one of the millions of Americans who suffer insomnia, don't lose too much sleep over it.

Dr. Ralph B. Little, associate clinical professor of psychiatry at the Medical College of Pennsylvania, says worrying about insomnia is one thing that aggravates the problem.

Statistics are hard to come by, but Little said surveys have shown that 30 percent of Americans are insomniacs.

Even though "there is an awful lack of information about sleep disorders," Little said enough is known to offer help. First, people must recognize that loss of a few hours sleep here and there is not insomnia. Nor are people who can get by on as little as four or five hours a night insomniacs.

"Insomnia is not really how much sleep you get but how it affects you. It's when the person feels upset and tired the next day, that's what makes the condition called insomnia," Little said in an interview.

Second, everyone has his own "individual time clock" that establishes a sleep pattern. This clock can be disrupted if a person "goes on shift work or takes a jet flight," Little said.

In addition, people should be wary of using drugs to alleviate insomnia. Little said some doctors prescribe sleeping pills for insomniacs without understanding the nature of sleep.

"They feel that the only way to cure insomnia is to increase the time of sleep. But that's not what it's all about," he said. "Insomniacs may get the full amount of sleep but they have a hard time getting the right kind of sleep."

So, what can insomniacs do? "People should have a definite routine about preparing themselves (for bed)," Little said. "The bedroom should be a quiet place of sleep, and the bed should only be used for two things: sleeping and sex. It should not be used for studying or watching TV or bookwork or anything like that."

"Go to bed at a definite time every night. And you must get up at the same time (each day), and there should be no naps."

Little also suggested "trying to rid your mind of worries during the day. Any time you catch yourself thinking of an unfinished problem, think of something else. Get away from stressful and upsetting subjects."

Heavy meals should be eaten not less than four hours before going to bed. "And you should not have any tea, coffee or chocolate at least six hours before," he said.

There are three common types of insomnia, prompted by psychological rather than physical causes.

One, Little said, "is the person who is tired and can't wait to hit the bed but as soon as he hits it, he's up."

For this, Little advised, try to "relax the muscles of the forehead, eyes and nose and get a certain word to think about while you are doing that."

The second type is a person who arises in the middle of the night feeling wide awake, but worries that if he doesn't get a few more hours he won't be able to make it through the day.

Little suggests staying up. If a person feels refreshed, he probably has had enough sleep.

The third type is the sleeper who awakens at 3 a.m., feels dead tired and can't drop off again.

Little advised "trying not to disturb (yourself). Try not to get the senses fully awake. Try to get a little something to eat, not too much though."

Little said there are two kinds of sleepers — the short sleeper and long sleeper.

"Short sleepers sleep under seven hours and tend to be people who don't worry about things," he said, "whereas the long sleepers sleep eight or more hours and tend to be the doers, the worriers, the creative people."

"In general, you can say the person who is a non-worrier, doesn't let things upset him, seems to know where he's going and is not too upset about interaction with people probably sleeps better."

"The person who is more introspective and more easily upset, he's the fellow with more difficulty with insomnia."

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: This letter has taken me 2½ years to write. It is in response to someone who asked you if she should acknowledge the birth of a friend's baby who had been diagnosed as having Down's Syndrome (Mongolism). Thank you, Abby, for saying, "Yes, the mother of such a child needs all the support and cheering up she can get."

I read that column the day I came home from the hospital with little Jimmy, my newborn Down's Syndrome baby. But there is so much more that most people need to know, and as one who has had that experience, may I say it: Please keep in mind that what happened to Jimmy was tragic, but the child HIMSELF is not a tragedy, and neither is his birth. He is as much a loving member of our family as our other children, so do send a card, a note or a little gift to acknowledge his birth.

Here are a few suggestions that will help you feel more comfortable when talking to new parents of a Down's baby:

Please don't ask if "insanity" runs in the family. Down's Syndrome is a chromosome defect and is rarely hereditary.

Furthermore, a Down's child is retarded, which is vastly different from insane.

Don't hesitate to ask how he is getting along. Some people avoid mentioning the child (as though he had died) because they think the situation is too horrible to even discuss.

When the child seems to be progressing, please don't say he seems "normal" and maybe won't be retarded after all! New parents need to face up to the facts regarding their special child before they themselves can accept him as he is. By denying his limitations, you encourage false hopes, and convey the message that you don't really accept or love him.

About a third of all Down's children are born with heart defects. Our Jimmy required open-heart surgery. He survived the operation and is much improved. We thank God for that, so please don't say it might have been a "blessing" had he died. And don't express surprise that they "would bother" to operate on such a child.

Please believe the parents when they say that their special child is a very worthwhile little person, and they are actually glad to have him. While Down's Syndrome is nothing to wish for, it CAN be accepted, and is not nearly as catastrophic as it seems the first few weeks.

In the beginning, the parents need to talk about their feelings. Don't argue. Listen. Let them weep, and weep with them. And when they can finally smile about their baby, you smile, too.

Don't refer to the child as "that poor little thing." It hurts me to see people look upon my child with pity, and know that they wish he had never been born. He's not repulsive in the least, and I can honestly say that much good has already come from our little treasure. Our other children (the eldest is nine) have learned understanding and compassion because of their little brother. We told them the truth immediately, and they have loved him from the day they first saw him.

I cannot imagine life without Jimmy. He is the sunshine of our lives.

People don't mean to be insensitive or cruel — they just don't know how to handle the birth of an exceptional child.

I know this is much too long for your column, Abby, but please print as much of it as possible. You will be doing a tremendous service to many.

Picking Sunglasses Deserves Much Care

NEW YORK (Special) — Whether your favorite winter pastime is basking on a tropical beach or skiing the slopes, it's important to remember sunglasses.

Taking a pair of dark glasses to the beach is second nature. But what about snow country? Glare reflected off ice and snow can be even harsher than the reflection from sand and water.

Glare is brilliant light that's intense enough to cause discomfort. When your eyes are exposed to bright sun without adequate protection, the results can be eyestrain, headaches and a tired-out feeling. In extreme cases — when you're on the water or snow, or diving into the sun — glare can actually interfere with seeing.

The solution is a good pair of sunglasses. Eyewear experts offer these tips on selection:

Choose lenses dark enough to cut at least 65 percent of the light. Try this simple store test: Put the glasses on and look in a mirror. If you can see your eyes easily, the lens are probably too light, unless they are the photochromic kind that darken in the sun. Sunglasses should also filter out potentially harmful ultraviolet rays. Optical quality lenses of dark green, neutral gray or brown give the best color perception and visual acuity.

Fit is as important as fashion. Look for a style that complements your face shape and feels comfortable. The weight of the frame should be evenly distributed so it doesn't feel heavy on your nose. Temples (sidepieces) should fit securely with a slight head-hugging pressure.

Quality is a prime consideration. Frames should be as well made as those used for prescription eyewear — plastics smooth and unrippled; metals polished to a high, even luster. Hinges should be strong enough to withstand normal wear. This season, there are mirror sunglasses for high glare situations from skiing to sailing. These unique sunglasses not only change color in response to sunlight and temperature, but also provide the added glare protection of a mirror coating. The lenses are amber to sharpen contrast on overcast days; turn brown to cut glare on warm, sunny days and become gray to block the rays on cold, bright days.

Whatever the season, whatever the sport, eye protection is important for comfort and performance. You have only one pair of eyes — it's important to see as well as you look.

Engagements

MOERBE-DROWNS

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Moerbe announce the engagement of a daughter, Karen Kay, to Joe Drowns, son of Mrs. Olive E. Drowns of Rock Island, Ill. The prospective bridegroom is also the son of the late Mr. Woodrow W. Drowns.

The couple will be married Feb. 16 in St. Paul Lutheran Church.

FOOD FAIRE

DATE OAT COOKIES

1 cup finely cut pitted dates
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 large egg
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup commercial sour cream
1 cup quick-cooking oats

Mix dates with 1/4 cup of the flour to separate pieces; reserve. Stir together remaining 1 cup flour, baking soda and salt. With electric beater, cream butter and sugars; beat in egg and vanilla until blended. With a wooden spoon, stir in flour mixture in several additions, alternating with sour cream, until smooth. Add reserved date-flour mixture and oats; stir to mix well. Drop by level tablespoonfuls, a few inches apart, onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool. Store tightly covered.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
3 NT Pass 4 ♣ Pass
6 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

The average player finesse everything in sight. The expert looks to see how many finesses he can avoid! Consider this hand from a recent rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club.

The bidding was straightforward. South showed his strength by jumping to three no trump and North felt that his spade support was too good to suppress. South needed no more encouragement to contract for slam—his wealth of prime controls made his hand worth considerably more than its 19 points in high cards.

Despite the fact that his left-hand opponent had bid the suit, West elected to lead the queen of clubs. When dummy appeared, it seemed that declarer was dependent on either the trump or the diamond finesse for his contract, with the outside possibility of setting up clubs. But South, Andrew Gabilovitch of Stamford, Conn., showed that he could make the hand without relying on either finesse.

Declarer won the king of clubs and immediately returned a club toward the ace. If West ruffed, he would be spending a trump on air and the club ace would be good for a diamond discard; if East ruffed, chances were that it would be with a long trump. When the ace of clubs survived, declarer continued with a club from dummy. East discarded a diamond and declarer ruffed.

The ace and king of hearts were cashed and a heart was ruffed in dummy. Next came the king and ace of diamonds, spurning the finesse. Another club was led from the table, declarer ruffing as East sluffed a heart. Now declarer exited with his last diamond.

East, left with nothing but four trumps, was forced to ruff, and he was end played. He had to lead away from his queen of trumps into dummy's tenace. So the slam rolled home despite the fact that declarer did not take a finesse and did not even use the established fifth club.

SPACE SAVERS — The microwave oven nestled in an upper cabinet is readily accessible and is still a space saver. Countertop space is available for informal eating.

Parents Influence Eating

NEW YORK (Special) — As children, many people learn to associate food with all that is good about life. Mother prods. "Good boys and girls eat everything on their plates," and smiles proudly as her little one shoves yet another mound of mashed potatoes into his mouth.

Is it any wonder some 15,000,000 Americans are overweight? Patterns and attitudes formed in early life tend to doggedly persist, and establishment of a habit of overeating can lead to a lifetime battle with overweight and what many experts believe are its potential attendant health problems: diabetes, hypertension and heart disease, to name a few.

Once an adult comes to terms with motivations for overeating, an intelligent effort can be waged to curb the self-defeating habit. But it isn't as simple as stop "doing as mother did" and encouraging infants to drink every last drop in their bottles or eat every last bite on their plates. Feeding can become a parent's expression of love for a child, comforting yet misguided, and on and on it will go until one day someone says, "What a PLUMP baby," and you'll want to slap the hand (yours) enroute to feeding your hungry child another cookie.

"Foodaholism," as some experts have dubbed the addictive pattern of over-eating, can begin in infancy when the baby is urged to consume more than he or she obviously desires. Every parent should respect the fact that children are born with a natural "appetite" (capacity for appetite control) which will serve them well if it isn't inhibited early in life. It's important to learn to recognize a child's satiety and to conclude feeding as soon as an infant has ingested a sufficient amount of food.

Once parents are committed to helping their children develop sound eating habits, there's much they can do in each child's first year of life to build a nutritional pattern that will help establish lifelong good health.

Mother's milk provide the ideal diet mainstay, including most of the nutrients required by children up to one year of age. It has the added advantage that, since the mother cannot check the amount left in the bottle, she tends not to be overly concerned with the amount the child has taken. And breast milk offers the baby natural protection against many infant diseases, nutritionists believe. Except in the rare instance where the mother cannot breastfeed, it is the method of choice for all newborns. Upon the advice of the pediatrician, where necessary, prepared infant formula is given.

Cow milk is never recommended for feeding during the first year of life, for it contains saturated fats rather than the more easily absorbed polyunsaturated fats of human milk and prepared formula. What's more, cow milk provides more protein than an infant can successfully metabolize and is deficient in the iron and Vitamins C and E an infant needs, while mother's milk and prepared formula more adequately meet the child's nutritional requirements. Soto establish a healthy eating pattern, human milk or formula should compose the primary nutrition provided an infant in the first year of life.

Another way to prevent development of "foodaholism" is to avoid introduction of solid foods too early. For about the first four to six months of life, mother's milk or formula or a combination of both will provide all the nutrients a child needs or can effectively metabolize. Following this period, solid foods will gradually be introduced into the baby's diet regimen (according to the pediatrician's advice). And as is the rule for all food consumption, moderation is the key to the development of an ultimately healthy pattern.

Of course, throughout a child's first year — and forever after — food should never be offered as a "reward" or distraction. It helps if parents realize that their baby's crying is not necessarily a sign of hunger. Most babies have irritable periods, usually occurring in the afternoon or evening. Colicky babies, in particular, may seem hungry when they're really only fretful or bored. And if a baby wakes an hour or so after a feeding, it's likely he has been awakened by indigestion rather than by hunger.

So instead of automatically feeding a fretful child, a parent is well-advised to experiment with various soothing techniques, including singing, cuddling and drawing the child's attention to an interesting toy. Some pediatricians are even recommending simple stretching and relaxation exercises for babies, which parents can employ to calm and amuse their restless infants.

Parents can also do their children — and themselves — a favor by not worrying excessively about a minor decrease in appetite. A slowdown in weight gain is normal at about five or six months and several natural functions, including the process of teething, can diminish a child's desire for food.

To live free of unhealthy dependence on food or any substance is a goal we all strive to attain. And to start your child with a sound nutritional base and the right eating pattern for maintenance of lifelong slimmness, health and vitality is a gift beyond measure.

Poor Handwriting Causes Problems

GREENWICH, CONN. (Special) — Should handwriting be emphasized in schools? Yes, say 234 out of 235 secretaries polled recently by the Parker Pen Co.

Plagued by their bosses' poor penmanship, more than 50 percent of the secretaries decried the handwriting of the people they work for as difficult or impossible to read. And the result is often friction in the office.

As one irritated secretary put it, "We get the blame for typing errors in letters, reports and invoices, when the fact is some executive has handed us a sheet of chicken scratches to decipher. And then has gone to lunch."

Presumably because the topic touches a raw nerve, many of the secretaries who completed the questionnaire, which was sent to members of the National Secretaries Association, took the time to describe some of the problems the bosses' bad handwriting has caused them.

One secretary reported that her employer's handwriting is so muddled that when she brings a letter in to him for clarification he can't read it either. Another reported that she wasted hours each week deciphering not only memos her boss had made for her, but also memos for other people in the firm who stood in line to have her interpret them.

Reflecting on the results of the study, a Parker executive suggested that a small investment by local school boards to improve handwriting might eventually pay dividends in time and money saved by business, and in improved relations between secretaries and their bosses.

Schools Await Data On Asbestos

MARMADUKE by Brad Anderson

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Exposure to asbestos in schools and other buildings is a major public health threat, warns a New York researcher, but Lubbock public school officials are waiting for more conclusive evidence or a mandate from the state education agency before launching a full-scale investigation into the substance here.

"We have to be convinced there is a danger" before taking further action in the matter, said Ronnie Gooch, assistant superintendent for business affairs for Lubbock public schools. But, he said, he does not believe there is any great danger to children attending the schools, "or we would have already moved" to remedy the situation.

The director of the Environmental Sciences Laboratory at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York recently renewed the attack on the controversial fireproofing material, predicting 20,000 asbestos-related deaths from cancer and other diseases will occur each year by the end of the century unless there is a massive public health campaign to eliminate its use.

He noted that 700,000 tons of asbestos still is being used each year, including its use in schools.

The presence of the substance in schools also has been attacked by various educational publications, but Gooch said just as many other journals cast doubt on the certainty of any danger.

"At this point from the publications we've read, it is as much an uncertainty as a certainty."

Gooch also said school officials are awaiting guidelines from the Texas Education Agency that would spell out whether schools will have to take action to determine the possible asbestos hazard in their buildings. He said he has had no indication when those guidelines might be issued.

Gooch, who has been monitoring developments in asbestos research, said the district has looked into the possible problem by conducting a "visual inspection" of all buildings in the district for signs of deterioration of any type of material that could signal a danger.

He said that inspection yielded no surface problems, but noted that school officials could not tell just by looking whether or not there is asbestos in the schools' building materials. Only microscopic tests of laboratory samples can confirm the presence of asbestos, he said.

Gooch said that further testing may unduly alarm people, when no danger may actually be present.

If further tests are warranted, however, the next step would be to take samples of any insulating material and send them to an outside laboratory for investigation.

Gooch said the testing would not prove costly but that a remedy of the situation would.

He said if a danger is proved present, there are three options for repairing the damage. If the asbestos is producing airborne particles, the asbestos would have to be removed. Gooch said that procedure is "very costly" due to guidelines required by the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Health and Safety Administration.

An alternative would be to seal the asbestos with a "plastic type spray-on sealer," said Gooch. But he added that the effect would be short-term because the added weight of the sealer would cause the fibers to pull away.

The third remedy would be to conceal the asbestos by installing a new ceiling under the old one.

Either one of the last two alternatives would require a "continual monitoring process to make sure the fibers do not reach a certain level," Gooch said.

The administrator said there are a "lot of uncertainties" about who would pick up the tab for any repair work done in the schools. The federal government has checked into the possibility of "putting the burden back on the asbestos companies," he said.

But, he continued, there has been some "political pressure applied by the companies" and there is now the possibility of funding the repairs either through federal grants or through local tax money.

Gooch added that federal grants would be of a "matching funds" variety so that the cost would ultimately fall on the taxpayer anyway.

He said that most of the information concerning asbestos has centered around the hazards to shipyard workers and that there is not much information related specifically to schools.

"There are so many intangibles and there is still testing going on," Gooch said.

"Tell Mom I'll be a little late getting to the dinner table tonight!"

Brownfield Woman Delivers 21st Child

Julie Martinez has been pregnant for almost 16 years, her life.

Mrs. Martinez, who delivered her 21st child in Health Sciences Center Hospital Saturday, has spent about 190 months of her life pregnant — which adds up to 16 years.

Of the 21 children the Brownfield woman has delivered (three of them in her home), 18 are still living. The newest addition, Mary Lou Martinez, brings the number of kids living at home up to 12.

It was a pretty routine birth for Mrs. Martinez, 42, who simply walked into the hospital asking directions to labor and delivery. Two hours later, the tally was up to 21.

She had her first child, a girl, when she was 17. Of the string of children to come, none were multiple births — it was a slow, one-by-one process.

Her husband Raymond, now employed in a cottorin, used to do seasonal farm work. Because of their extensive traveling, their children's birthplaces span a number of states, including Maryland, Florida, Nebraska, California, Colorado and South Carolina.

One of 16 children herself, Mrs. Martinez is already a grandmother 10 times over.

But if the Martinez family staggers the imagination, consider the case of a Russian peasant woman in the 18th century. She and her husband boasted 69 children — 16 pairs of twins, 7 sets of triplets and four sets of quadruplets.

Isom Appointed To LCHD Board

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A former Idalou mayor, Bruce Isom, Monday was appointed to fill one of two vacancies on the Lubbock County Hospital District Board of Directors.

Isom will serve a two-year term on the board and will replace veteran board member Joe Stanley, whose latest term and 10-year tenure on the board expired Monday.

Isom is also a former Idalou school board president who has insurance, grain elevator and farm supply business interests in Idalou.

After appointing Isom, Lubbock County commissioners approved a resolution commending Stanley for his service on the board beginning Jan. 14, 1969.

County Judge Rodrick Shaw said a replacement for Jack Strong, who also resigned, may be named when the commissioners court reconvenes at 9 a.m. Thursday.

The commissioners approved the purchase and renovation of a building in downtown Slaton to house a branch of the county tax office, an office for the Slaton justice of the peace and an office for the Texas Department of Human Resources.

The county-state agreement calls for the expenditure of $46,000 by Lubbock County to buy the former appliance store building at Garza Street and 10th Avenue in Slaton. It also calls for the county to spend $20,000 and the state agency $52,000 for renovations.

In other business, Lubbock County justices of the peace Wayne LeCroy and Charles Smith and Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford were authorized to discuss possible courthouse renovations with county engineer Arnold Maeker.

Hal Hensley, office administrator for Montford, appeared before the court with LeCroy and Smith to discuss how the handling of hot checks might be improved and whether or not office and courtroom space should be increased for the justices of the peace.

Smith and LeCroy said they need more space for secretaries who now must work at desks in the courtrooms.

The three men said the offices now are both filing and handling hot check cases, and they said the district attorney's office should begin filing the cases in the appropriate courts, according to the precinct in which a check was written.

CDAC To Mull Use Of Funds For Study

Using $20,000 in Community Development contingency funds for an engineering study of the intersection at East 34th Street and Quirt Avenue will be one of the topics of discussion at a Community Development Advisory Committee meeting today at 7 p.m.

Last week, the City Council approved a contract with the engineering firm of Turner, Collier and Braden to evaluate the city's options in redesigning the intersection, especially whether an overpass or underpass is feasible.

It was expected such a study would cost about $10,000, which was available in street improvement bond funds, but the study could cost up to $30,000 if a grade separation proves feasible.

Therefore, the council wants to use CD contingency funds for the remaining cost of the study.

Railroad companies with crossings at the intersection and area residents have insisted an overpass or underpass be constructed, rather than a city-planned at-grade crossing.

Such an interchange is expected to cost about $3 million.

Also at the meeting in Room 214 in City Hall, the committee will discuss using $16,000 in contingency funds for the renovation of Rodgers Community Center.

The renovation is needed because the center was extensively vandalized and all the windows broken. The windows were replaced with steel panels which provide no insulation for the building.

The CDAC also will be asked to approve a program amendment to reallocate funds to three parks projects rather than a senior citizens meeting room.

Under the amendment, CD funds would be used to replace the irrigation systems in Carlisle and Clapp parks ($27,450) and to renovate Clapp Community Center ($30,000).

The parks projects were to have been funded with revenue sharing monies, but the council approved the fund shift so the revenue sharing money could be used to build a community room at the new Southwest Lubbock branch library.

Citizens are asked to attend the meeting and express their opinions about funding the various projects.

Two Slaton Exhibitors Take Honors At FFA Meet

Two exhibitors from Slaton took top places Monday in the Lubbock County Future Farmers of America and 4-H livestock show among 349 entries.

Slaton FFA member Vicki Davidson led her champion crossbred hog to the grand championship after the animal ranked first in the heavyweight and overall divisions of the crossbred show.

Cliff Steffens' first place heavyweight and champion Duroc won the reserve grand championship. Steffens is a Slaton FFA member also.

Steers were judged Monday night and lambs will be placed today beginning at 8 a.m. The premium sale will start at 6 p.m. today in the livestock arena of the Panhandle South Plains fairgrounds.

Murder Suspect Pleads Guilty To Lesser Charge

Davey Roland Burks, charged with the shooting death last year of his father, Monday pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 9, 1979, incident.

Burks, 26, of Route 9, Box 101, Lubbock, originally was charged with murder in the death of his 63-year-old father, Chester. State District Judge Thomas L. Clinton accepted Burks plea of guilty to the lesser charge and sentenced Burks to five years in prison.

Sheriff's deputies found the elder Burks lying in a pool of blood outside his 1122 96th St. residence, a knife in his right hand, the evening of Sept. 9. He had been shot in the back, chest and hand with a rifle.

NTSU Official Says Nolen Sought Student Sponsorship Of Rally

AUSTIN (AP) — A North Texas State University official has told a House committee that former NTSU President C.C. Nolen suggested the method used to get a reduced fee for the use of a campus coliseum for a 1978 political rally for John Hill.

Hattie Fansler, who was in charge of scheduling for campus facilities, Monday told the House General Investigating Committee that Nolen suggested she ask the campus Young Democrats to sponsor the Aug. 5, 1978, rally.

The campus group got use of the facility for $383. The off-campus Hill committee would have paid $1,800, said Fred McCain, coliseum director. Nolen, who has been subpoenaed to testify here, was a member of the rally committee and attended planning sessions, according to Denton lawyer Jack Gray, co-chairman of the rally.

The testimony came as the five-member committee began its investigation into several allegations of financial misdeeds at the Denton university. Nolen resigned shortly before the committee started its work in April.

Local Woman Reports Assaults By Six Men

Acceptance of an offer to have a beer led to the multiple rape of a 44-year-old woman late Monday, Lubbock County sheriff's deputies were told.

The Lubbock woman, who reported the incident shortly after 4 a.m. today, said she was raped by six men in a trailer house on East 19th Street. She told deputies each man assaulted her once before she was able to flee the residence.

One of the suspects reportedly confronted her at a liquor store on FM 1729 about 7:15 p.m. and asked her to have a beer at his house. When the woman refused, the man said, "Oh, come on. It's only a block or so from here."

The complainant said she then agreed and followed the man and his two male companions to the trailer house. After about three hours of talking, one of the men allegedly told the woman she was not going to leave until she had "satisfied" all of them.

By this time, three other men had entered the residence, according to reports. The complainant said the men left the house after the rapes. She added that she "played dead" during the assaults.

All of the suspects were described as white men between the ages of 18 and the mid-40s. Two of the men reportedly were short and had blond hair. One was short, had graying black hair and a beard.

The woman said one of the men was about 35, had short brown hair and weighed approximately 160 pounds. The other suspect was described as a 6-foot, 200-pound man with black hair and a fat face.

In a separate incident, a 24-year-old Lubbock man suffering a stab wound in the stomach was listed in serious condition early today at West Texas Hospital.

City police said Elroy Lee of 708 1/2 13th St. was in considerable pain when he told investigating officers he was stabbed by a woman about 9:30 p.m.

pull into the roadstop and drove on. Truckers using their CBs finally stopped him. Cockrell said no one was helping the screaming woman, who was being pulled into a car, so he came to her rescue.

In a fight straight out of Hollywood, Cockrell says he calmly broke one man's jaw with a single blow, broke another's arm and disabled a third with a kick in the groin.

The 245-pound ex-Marine said the only reward he considered was "when those two little girls hugged and kissed me. That made my day."

Several women have since called Cockrell to find out if he's married (he's divorced) and a few have propositioned him.

One man sent $20 "because I want to buy that man a steak dinner," he said. Despite a front-page story in the Dallas Times Herald, Cockrell said he didn't tell fellow employees at Kroger about the rescue. But the office has been so swamped with phone calls, he said, "my supervisor told me he was going to have to hire me an answering service."

"I thought I'd get a lot more crank calls than I've been getting," he said. "About the only one was a man who said he was with the Ku Klux Klan and they

Monday near 13th Street and Avenue F. Reports indicate the victim was talking to two other persons on the side of the street when the suspect came up and stabbed Lee once in the stomach. Lee was scheduled to undergo surgery early today.

The suspect was described as a tall black woman, about 20. Kathy Hall, manager of an apartment complex in the 3000-block of South Loop 289, told police $855 was stolen from her office between Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Monday.

The victim said three women, two white and one black, possibly could be suspects in the theft.

A 26-year-old Lubbock man, who allegedly was intoxicated and involved in a traffic accident about 11:20 p.m. Monday in the 2600-block of Avenue P, was taken into custody by Lubbock police.

The man was arrested after he staggered out of a house near where the accident occurred, according to reports.

Jackie L. Bynum of 3411-B Ave. R told police his residence was burglarized between 2:20 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Monday and about $830 in property stolen, including camera equipment, jewelry and a piggy bank containing $30.

Charges Draw DA's Response

AMARILLO (AP) — Potter County District Attorney Tom Curtis has filed a number of motions in response to two Class A misdemeanor charges against him.

Curtis and three other county officials are scheduled to stand trial the second week of February. He and Amarillo Police Chief Capt. E.N. Smith are charged with conspiracy to commit aggravated perjury in connection with an aborted capital murder trial.

Jimmy Paul Vanderbilt later was convicted for the 1975 death of Katina Meyer, 16.

First Assistant District Attorney Morris Overstreet and Assistant District Attorney Bill Bowden are charged with Curtis for hindering a November grand jury session. Overstreet and Bowden are accused of trying to force their way into the session and "laying hands on" the grand jury foreman.

Curtis, saying he "cannot expect a fair and impartial trial in Potter County," Monday filed applications for changes of venue for each of the two counts.

He also filed three documents seeking to set aside the hindering charge, one seeking to quash it, two to dismiss it, and one saying the county attorney has no authority to prosecute Curtis in either case.

New Device Measures Weight On Elevator

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — An antidote is available to the practical joker who gets a kick out of pushing all the floor buttons on an elevator, causing other passengers the inconvenience of delays.

A new computerized elevator system designed by Otis Elevator senses by weight how many passengers it is carrying.

If too many buttons have been pushed for the registered weight, a special device recognizes a mistake or mischief and cancels all the calls.

Firefighters Use Burning Gloves To Gain Support

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although collective bargaining rights and a pay raise for city firefighters are the central issue in Saturday's election, a burning cotton glove has become the rallying symbol for the group.

City voters will decide on the bargaining rights issue and the firefighters' request for a 15 percent pay raise in a special election scheduled Saturday.

During the past two weeks, the cotton gloves have had a starring role in newspaper and television advertisements supporting the collective bargaining issue. In the advertising, the gloves are shown burning, and the message of the ad indicates that cotton gloves afford firemen little, if any, protection in hazardous firefighting situations.

Spokesmen for the firefighters group have maintained that the cotton gloves, which they say are "worthless," are symbolic of the reasons why firefighters need the right to bargain collectively.

According to Dick Brightwell, a former president of the firefighters association, past requests for better gloves and safety equipment have gone unanswered by city officials.

However, city officials say the gloves are a false issue because management at the fire department — not city management — is responsible for determining equipment needs.

"When I say the management of the fire department, I'm not just talking about Fire Chief Tom Foster," City Manager Larry Cunningham noted. "I'm also talking about all the supervisory personnel at the fire department."

Cunningham said that he is not aware of any equipment request made by the fire department management that has been denied.

However, firefighter association representatives say one of their major equipment concerns has been about the breathing equipment believed to have caused the death of three firemen. And they say there are still many unanswered questions about that equipment.

The cotton gloves in question were first issued by the fire department in the early 1970s, according to Foster. At the time these gloves were selected, they were being used by fire departments in a number of Texas' larger cities, as well as the firemen's training school, he said.

"It's a method of protecting the hands, and it does a pretty good job,"

Foster commented, "But I'll admit that it (the cotton gloves) does have a lot of limitations."

Foster said the cotton gloves provide adequate protection to a firefighter if the gloves can be kept wet. But in firefighting situations, a fireman may not always have an opportunity to wet down his gloves, he added.

But despite possible limitations of the cotton gloves, City Safety Director Bob Shannon said he feels they are the best available. Shannon said the local fire department has reported 22 hand injuries in the past decade, and only half of those injuries were sustained at fire scenes.

The most serious hand injury occurred in May 1970, when veteran firefighter Neil Boyce was burned severely enough to lose portions of two fingers.

Spokesmen for the firefighters group have maintained that Boyce was burned seriously because he was wearing a pair of the cotton gloves issued by the city. However, Boyce said the incident occurred prior to the time the city issued gloves, and he was not wearing any glove on the hand that was most seriously injured.

But Boyce noted that he would not wear cotton gloves in a firefighting situation. "Those things are worse than nothing," he added.

The cotton gloves apparently didn't become a real issue here until 1978, when the firefighters association cited them in a pay proposal package presented to the city manager's office. In that proposal, the firefighters said the gloves "are completely inadequate for firefighting when protection is needed from heat, flames, cuts, pinches and punctures."

According to Cunningham, he requested Foster and Tom Witt, city personnel director, to meet with representatives of the firefighters association to discuss the complaints about the gloves and bunker coats and pants. The group met in 1978, but nothing was heard from the firefighters concerning the gloves until November 1979, after petitions had been circulated calling for the election.

Foster said he had planned to meet again with firefighter association representatives in early January, but when the gloves became an emotional issue, he postponed the meeting until after the election.

"There are other gloves on the market we're going to look at," Foster said.

One type of glove that probably will be considered, he said, is a leather-like glove with a synthetic shank that affords more protection to the wrists.

"What I want to get is something the men will be satisfied with and that I'm satisfied will give them protection," the fire chief added.

While the firefighters' gloves have emerged as a symbol in the current campaign, they aren't the only equipment complaints aired by the firefighters association. Still of major concern is the breathing equipment, which apparently caused the deaths of three firemen last March.

Firefighter spokesmen claim that many firemen believe city officials have withheld information regarding the deaths of Kenneth Haggard, Eddie Swafford and Larry Tucker because of possible legal action against the city.

According to the city's safety director, all of the fire department's breathing equipment has been tested by the manufacturer, Scott Aviation. Some minor adjustments were made on the control valves on some of the equipment, he said, but no major defects were found.

"As far as I'm concerned, we have the best breathing equipment you can get on the market," Shannon added.

Lubbock Youth Describes Fatal Shooting

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A 12-year-old boy, who was guarding cars in the parking lot at the AA Faith Club the night Robert Lee Johnson was fatally shot, this morning said he saw a woman fire two shots out the door of the club.

But the youngster, when asked if he saw the woman in the courtroom who did the shooting the night of March 17, 1979, answered, "I don't think so."

The youth is one of several club employees called to relate the events of the shooting outside the 2819 Clovis Road club last March.

Grace James, 51, is accused of firing the fatal shots at Johnson and is standing trial for murder this week in 140th District Court.

The boy testified this morning he saw the couple arguing inside the building shortly before the night's bingo game was to begin. He said he did not know the man, but later saw him fall outside a gas station down the street from the club.

The seventh-grader said the couple was arguing but that he did not see any physical threats made by either person. The boy added that a younger man wearing some type of uniform, appeared to ask the other, older man to leave the club.

The youngster said the older man who had been arguing walked out the club's front door and was immediately followed by the woman. The boy said he saw the woman take a gun from her purse and fire two shots through the door. But he said he did not see whether the bullets struck anyone.

The young witness also said he saw no scuffle immediately before the shooting. Monday afternoon, two other club employees said they had seen two men wrestling just before Mrs. James fired shots through the door.

Police found Johnson, 57, lying unconscious in front of a gas station near the club about 7:40 p.m. March 17. He had been shot twice in the chest and was pronounced dead about half an hour later on arrival at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Mrs. James, of 2730 Erskine St., was indicted for the slaying in early October and arrested later that month in Fort Worth.

Neither of the club employees testifying Monday knew the name of the man Mrs. James allegedly shot, but both men said it was a male companion with Mrs. James that night had been scuffling inside the 2819 Clovis Road club moments before the shooting.

Club employee Monte Bowman told the three-woman, nine-man panel that when he noticed the pair fighting just inside the club's front door, he ran toward the front of the building to break up the fight.

"The younger man (Mrs. James' companion) seemed to more or less have control of the situation and he more or less walked the older man out the door," Bowman said.

"I was running toward the front door when a black lady stepped in front of me, about four to six feet from the door, and I saw she had a gun."

"She opened the door and fired three shots at the men," Bowman said, identifying the 51-year-old defendant as the woman he saw wielding a short-barrelled pistol that night.

Bowman said he told Mrs. James to put the gun away and she went back inside the club where the night's bingo game was about to begin. Bowman said he then approached the older man, who was standing beside the building and had a pocket knife with a curved blade in his hand.

The club employee said he also asked the man to put away his weapon, which he did, and the man began walking east along Clovis Road toward a gas station.

When he went back into the club, Bowman said, he asked Mrs. James and the young man and woman with her to leave. He said he escorted the trio out the door and watched them walk southeasterly across the club's parking lot.

Bowman said as he was about to re-enter the club, he asked a man in the parking lot what had happened to the older man involved in the fight. Bowman said he was told the man had reached the abandoned gas station, but had fallen.

When he went to investigate, Bowman said, he found the man lying on the ground, a pool of blood around his head. Bowman said that was when he notified police.

Under questioning from defense counsel Pat Simek, Bowman said that when he talked with the man immediately following the gunfire, the man appeared more intoxicated than wounded.

"I assumed he had been (drinking) because when I asked him to leave, he kind of staggered off," Bowman said.

The first witness called by prosecutors Everett Seymore and Danny Hurley also said the man did not appear to have been shot.

Top Leaders Attend Funeral For Meany

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Meany, the gruff voice for American workers, was eulogized today as "one of the most influential public figures in recent American history" at a funeral attended by the powerful in government and labor.

President Carter headed the large contingent of officials who attended the funeral for the retired AFL-CIO president, who died Thursday at age 85.

Carter, Vice President Walter F. Mondale, the president's Cabinet, members of Congress and several foreign ambassadors were among 1,400 mourners at the Roman Catholic Cathedral of St. Matthew the Apostle for the celebration of a Mass of the Resurrection. Carter was accompanied by former Sen. Muriel Humphrey, widow of Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn.

The funeral was disrupted at the outset when a young man and woman ran up and threw leaflets on the coffin as it was being carried up the steps of the cathedral.

"We're working people of this country," the unidentified man shouted. The two were shoved away by police and arrested on a charge of disrupting a religious service, said police Capt. J.E. Mazur.

One of the leaflets was signed by the National May Day 1980 Committee from Detroit, and called on American workers to "fight this capitalist system and the oppression, discrimination and inequality it thrives on."

Meany was "one of the truly great figures in the history of the American labor movement" whose career "stretched back farther in time than most of us can remember," Monsignor George G. Higgins said in his written homily.

Higgins, a long-time supporter of the labor movement, hailed Meany for working "so diligently and with such great integrity in the service of the working people of the nation and to the great benefit of the nation as a whole."

The cause of freedom everywhere, both at home and abroad, has been greatly enhanced and, in these troubled times, is now the more secure because he did his job so well," Higgins said.

Meany's successor as AFL-CIO president, Lane Kirkland, delivered a tribute hailing him as "the best there was" and a man who devoted his life advancing the interests of "plain people."

"And we now have faith that better days lie ahead for the working people of America, and of the world, because George Meany is up there negotiating the matter with God," said Kirkland.

"Now we take our last leave of what remains of him here. Goodbye, George. Fare thee well."

Earlier, a 23-musicians procession carrying Meany's family and labor leaders lined up behind the hearse outside the marble headquarters of the AFL-CIO for the short drive to the downtown cathedral.

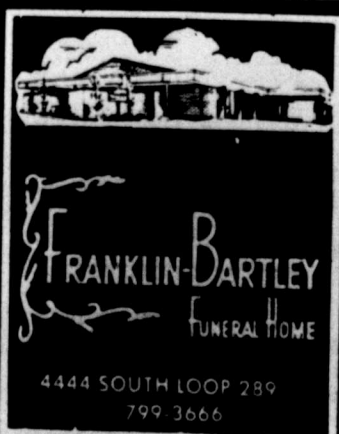

Volunteer firemen from Woodrow, Slaton and Wolfforth battled the blaze more than an hour. The names of persons whose homes were destroyed or damaged were not immediately known.

No one was injured in the fire. Wolfforth volunteer fireman Joe Johnny Rosales said by the time firemen arrived at the scene two trailers houses had been destroyed and a third sustained heavy smoke damage. Rosales said the blaze was contained about 5:15 p.m.

Rosales' father, Wolfforth Fire Chief Joe Rosales said a communication breakdown — a problem he says happens often — slowed his fire department's response time and increased the extent of the damage. The fire chief said if those reporting the blaze had known who to call, the residences might have been saved.

Joe Rosales added that many times those reporting a fire call the Lubbock Fire Department. "If the people had known who to call, I don't think there would have been that much damage," the chief said of Monday's blaze. "If Lubbock (fire department) would turn around and call who is supposed to be contacted there wouldn't be as much damage. I don't think Lubbock helps us out that much," he added.

A spokesman for the Woodrow Fire Department said the blaze Monday may have been started by a trash fire. However, she stressed a cause was still under investigation early today.

WTSU Women File Complaint

CANYON (UPI) — Two dozen females athletes at West Texas State University have filed a discrimination complaint with athletic officials, the first step in a process that could result in a lawsuit.

The complaint, given to Dr. Gail Shannon and Clarence Thompson, alleges the university has not complied with Title IX of the Federal Educational Amendments of 1972 and that female athletes are being denied opportunities and benefits afforded male athletes.

Shannon is executive vice president at the university and Thompson is the school's business manager.

Because of a 1979 ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court, students are required to first submit a complaint to the organization involved. If relief is not granted voluntarily, a lawsuit can be filed at a later date.

Betty Wheeler, attorney for the 24 women athletes, said, "I would think that if by May things have not changed, these parties might very well take the matter to court then."

The complaint lists 12 specific allegations of non-compliance and requests that charges be investigated immediately, that the students be apprised of the progress and that the school bring its program into compliance at once.

The Department of Health Education and Welfare issued final guidelines on Title IX in December, noting that scholarship funds be allocated to men and women on a participation ratio.

If, for example, women comprise 20 percent of a school's athletic pool, they must receive 20 percent of the available money.

Among the complaints listed:
—Men's athletic programs received $93,700 in scholarship money for 1979-80 versus a $15,380 allocation for women.

—$158,668 was allocated for men's travel expenses compared to $27,100 for women.

—$143,401 in funding is available for men's coach salaries versus $24,824 for women's coaches.

—An outlay of $9,124 has been earmarked for men's supplies compared to $1,409 for women's supplies and equipment.

The complaint quotes athletic director Myron Dees as saying there are 225 men and 60 women in the West Texas athletic program. On that basis, the women should receive 21 percent of the money funneled to athletics. Currently, figures indicate the women receive about 14 percent of the funding.

The complaint further alleges the women have not received parity in training help, sports publicity and game scheduling, and that because women are discouraged from participating in sports the number of female athletes has been artificially depressed.

Elvis' Physician To Take Stand

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Over the objections of his attorneys, Elvis Presley's physician today agreed to testify as a state witness in a hearing in which he faces charges of indiscriminately prescribing drugs for the late singer and others.

Dr. George Nichopoulos' attorneys agreed to let him testify to avoid a long delay in the proceedings.

Nichopoulos, 52, could lose his medical license if he is found guilty of prescribing a variety of addictive drugs for Presley and 15 other patients.

The state Board of Medical Examiners began hearing the charges Monday morning, but it was halted in mid-afternoon when Nichopoulos' chief attorney, John C. Thomason, refused to allow his client to testify for the state.

Thomason told the board Monday afternoon he intended to call Nichopoulos to testify in his own defense and would seek a Chancery Court ruling on whether his client could be forced to testify for the state.

Assistant Attorney Gen. Hays Cooney said the issue could affect every regulatory board in the state if he were not permitted to call the defendant as a state witness.

Hearing Officer Mike Branham agreed to a closed meeting with defense and prosecution lawyers and following the meeting it was announced that Nichopoulos had agreed to testify.

The last person to testify Monday was Dr. Raymond Harbison, a Vanderbilt University pharmacologist.

Harbison said the amounts of drugs prescribed by Nichopoulos for Presley and the other patients were enough to cause the patients to develop physical and psychological dependence on drugs.

On cross-examination, Harbison said he knew nothing of the involved patients' physical needs, and acknowledged that the patients' records did not show evidence of dosage escalation that would be expected in the case of addicted persons.

Ten current and former patients of Nichopoulos also testified, each praising the physician's medical care.

"I think he's the finest physician in Memphis and I have total, absolute trust in him," said Ivan Cook, an antique dealer.

According to charges in the 59-page complaint against Nichopoulos, the doctor wrote 40 prescriptions for Cook — 3,050 doses in all — for Qualude and Sopor, both sedatives, and Preludin, an amphetamine-like diet drug, between Feb. 26, 1976, and Aug. 15, 1979.

Panel To Set Safety Standards In Trial

WINAMAC, Ind. (AP) — A judge's decision to let the jury, and not federal transportation officials, set safety standards by which Ford Motor Co. will be judged in its Pinto liability trial "is a bad omen for the automobile industry," Ford's chief attorney says.

Both Ford attorney James F. Neal and prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino said the ruling Monday by Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeldt was crucial.

"If we had won that ... one, we all could have gone home," Neal said. "It was the most important one."

Ford is charged with three counts of reckless homicide in the August 1978 burning deaths of three teenagers in a Pinto that exploded in flames when struck from behind by a van traveling 50 mph on a northern Indiana highway.

The prosecution contends Ford knew Pinto fuel tanks were defective but did nothing about it. Opening arguments in the unprecedented trial were scheduled today.

Neal tried unsuccessfully to convince Staffeldt that National Highway Traffic Safety Administration standards set in 1977 should apply to the 1973 Pinto sedan involved in the Indiana crash.

"One would think if we met those standards, we would not be subject to prosecution," he said.

The ruling was one of 15 issued by Staffeldt on defense motions to exclude sensitive Ford documents and evidence because it is irrelevant or might prejudice the jury. But Neal said letting the jury set its own safety standards was "one the state had to win."

"Every engineer in Detroit will be subject to prosecution," he said. "This is what I see as the problem with this case in its entirety. It's a national industry. You need a uniform standard."

Staffeldt's rulings Monday generally excluded evidence not specifically relating to the 1973 Pinto sedan. He said, however, he might change all but three rulings once the trial is under way.

The prosecution argued that the documents and other evidence showed that Ford knew Pinto fuel tanks were defective but marketed the cars anyway, neglecting its duty to warn the public.

Jury Selection Continues In Lance Case

ATLANTA (AP) — Former federal budget director Bert Lance took notes and exchanged whispers with his wife as jury selection began in his U.S. District Court trial on charges of bank fraud.

At the end of Monday's opening session, attorneys for the government and the four defendants had interviewed eight of the more than 100 prospective jurors.

Judge Charles A. Moye said he hoped to have 12 jurors and six alternates chosen by this afternoon, but the early pace of questioning made it appear that goal would not be met.

Lance and his three co-defendants — all north Georgia businessmen — are charged with conspiracy, bank fraud and misuse of bank funds in a 33-count indictment issued last May. The government contends the defendants arranged $20 million in loans to themselves, their friends and families.

Lance was considered President Carter's closest friend and adviser during the eight months he served as budget director. Lance resigned in September 1977 under heavy criticism for his banking practices.

As the prospective jurors were questioned, Lance took notes, glanced at papers and exchanged whispers occasionally with his wife LaBelle, who sat at his side at the counsel table.

At the end of the day, Lance chatted amiably with reporters but said he could not comment on his first day on trial. Arriving at court Monday, he shrugged off most questions but said, "I'm ready to go."

Meanwhile, for the second consecutive day the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected Lance's request to delay the trial until another federal judge in Atlanta conducts a hearing on defense charges that prosecutors leaked secret grand jury testimony to reporters.

The questions to the prospective jurors focused on the panelists' personal experience with banking, including loans and overdrafts. The panelists also were asked about news reports of the Lance case they may have read or heard.

Prosecutor Edwin Tomko asked several persons whether they had read Mrs. Lance's book, "This Too Shall Pass," or seen Lance's commentary on an Atlanta television station.

All the prospective jurors were mailed lengthy questionnaires several weeks ago, providing the attorneys with answers to questions about the candidates' age, employment, previous jury service, favorite television programs, leisure time, activities and the like.

Lance's co-defendants are Richard Carr, former president of a small bank the government contends was controlled by Lance; Thomas Mitchell, a contractor who was Lance's trustee; and Jack Mullins, a former pharmacist and high school chum of Lance's.

SMU May Cut Baseball, Programs From Budget

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University may drop its baseball program and is studying proposals to cut seven courses of study to balance rising costs.

SMU Athletic Director Russ Potts said that, barring a change of heart, baseball will be dropped or reduced to a non-scholarship status as he trims the college's list of scholarship sports from eight to seven.

The move could come about the first of April. Potts will have the alternative of allowing the Mustangs to have a non-scholarship team in the Southwest Conference, a non-scholarship team with an independent schedule or drop the sport completely.

"What would be the use of playing in the conference without scholarships?" SMU baseball Coach Steve Adair asked. "I would hope we'd withdraw from the conference." Potts has told 15 athletes (including 10 seniors) receiving parts of 6½ scholarships that they will be allowed to keep them but he has also told Adair that no new money will be spent on baseball next year.

"I can't print money," Potts said. "I've told Steve and the alumni who've phoned that we'll go first class in base-

Jurors Still Sought In Stone Trial

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Attorneys need to pick 12 more prospective jurors to reach a panel of 32 in Loy Dean Stone's murder trial.

Once the 32 are selected, the defense and prosecution each will strike 10 persons, leaving the final panel of 12.

Four more persons were added to the group Monday, the sixth day of jury selection.

"I've given up on trying to predict an exact date" the trial will start, State District Judge John T. Boyd said Monday.

Stone and his wife Louise are accused in the Oct. 31, 1977, shotgun slaying of Roxanne Casas, 15, at their home near Dimmitt. Miss Casas was killed and two of her friends were injured when two shotgun blasts ripped into their pickup as it turned around in the Stones' driveway on Halloween night.

The Stones, who say they never heard the shots, are members of the Church of Wicca, a witches' group based in New Bern, N.C.

Mrs. Stone will be tried separately.

DR. LAMB

Relief Of Headache Pain

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you can help me. I'm 53 years of age and get a lot of headaches. I take Excedrin and it does help somewhat. However, I'm hesitant about taking the pills because of the acetaminophen which it contains.

Some time ago I read a newspaper article about the dangers of pills containing acetaminophen. Would you please enlighten me on the use of taking Excedrin?

DEAR READER — Excedrin contains aspirin, salicylamide and acetaminophen. Actually, each Excedrin contains only about 97 milligrams of acetaminophen. You need to take three to six times that much for it to have any appreciable effect. It follows that the main and most important ingredient in Excedrin is aspirin as far as relieving headaches or mild pains in concerned.

Unless you happen to have some unusual reaction or are on some other kind of medication, the amount of acetaminophen in an Excedrin tablet is so small that it would not be possible for it to cause you any trouble. People do have toxic effects from acetaminophen but that's in very large doses taken over a period of time.

However, if you're worried about acetaminophen in the Excedrin, you might just take aspirin, and if you want to get a little additional help, you might drink a cup of coffee at the same time. The standard Excedrin tablet also contains about 65 milligrams of caffeine.

If you read my column regularly, you know that I'm not a big fan of coffee or caffeine. However, it is a drug and as such has medicinal purposes for some occasions. In some instances it does help to relieve headaches if it is taken at the onset of the headache in some people. If headaches are associated with anxiety and tension, however, drinking too much coffee may result in too much caffeine stimulation, which can make the situation worse.

There are a wide variety of medicines that you can use for relief of pain or mild headaches. Many of these depend principally upon aspirin for their effect. Therefore, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 8-8, Aspirin and Related Medicines. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of The

This issue will tell you what the effects of these medicines are, such as acetaminophen that you asked about. There's a table that will give you the contents of many of the common pain relieving medications that you can buy without a prescription.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please mention the hazards of smoking cigarettes for all people with digestive problems. I used to be in agony with cramps and all the other symptoms. An upper and lower X ray of my digestive system proved nothing was wrong but something was. My trouble disappeared shortly after I smoked my last cigarette.

DEAR READER — You're one of thousands who've had such an experience. Many people with burning pain in the pit of the stomach, cramps of the stomach and intestinal area are surprised to find that their symptoms are greatly decreased or even disappear when they change some of their bad habits. This applies to cigarette smoking and drinking coffee, tea, colas and even hot chocolate.

'Lohengrin' Opens At Met Opera

By MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP) — German tenor Siegfried Jerusalem, whose first name certainly suggests that he belongs in Wagner operas, made his Metropolitan Opera debut recently in the title role of "Lohengrin."

Jerusalem is a very good tenor but he isn't a heldentenor, the word used for the heroic tenor voice usually heard in this role. When this production was new, for instance, German heldentenor Rene Kollo sang it.

Donald McIntyre, the Telramund, has a voice quality which didn't overbalance Jerusalem. The New Zealand baritone's voice has enough heft for the part but it doesn't have the brooding, dark sound of deep evil which some Telramunds have.

Polish soprano Teresa Zylis-Gara sang Elsa for the first time at the Met. She was singing very well, sounding best in tender passages. American mezzo Mignon Dunn, a Met veteran as Ortrud, was splendid once again, singing beautifully and inserting evil and mystery into her presentation.

Allan Monk was clear voiced as the king's herald and Bonaldo Giaiotti was sometimes overly tentative vocally as the king.

Giuseppe Patane conducted. Phebe Berkowitz did the stage direction, reconstructing the August Everding production not seen since its debut season, 1976-77.

Jerusalem, who has a voice to be relished — if the listener refrains from comparing it with heldentenor — was born in Oberhausen, Germany. He is a member of the Stuttgart Opera and often sings with the opera companies of Berlin, Munich and Hamburg.

Banderillero Gored During Bullfight

VILLACOLIMA, Mexico (UPI) — A 65-year-old banderillero was gored and killed during a bullfight fought by Spanish matador Manolo Reyes, authorities say.

The fatal accident occurred recently when Jose Hernandez Rios, who worked 40 years as a banderillero — the person who throws darts or "banderillas" at the bull — came too close to the animal and was gored, authorities said.

Hernandez was killed instantly.

On this day in history:
In 1870, a cartoon done by Thomas

Nast appeared in Harper's Weekly with a donkey symbolizing the Democratic Party for the first time. The symbol stuck.

In 1922, the Irish Free State was formed.

In 1943, the Pentagon, world's largest building of its kind, was completed on the Virginia side of the Potomac River just outside Washington, D.C.

In 1976, a federal judge sentenced Sara Jane Moore to prison for life for her attempt to assassinate President Ford in San Francisco.

A thought for the day:
Dr. Martin Luther King, Nobel Peace Prize winner, said, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere."

President Sets TV Appearance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter will be the only guest on NBC's "Meet the Press" program next Sunday despite offers by Sen. Edward Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund Brown to debate with him.

The rare Carter appearance will come one day before the Iowa caucuses begin the presidential delegate selection process.

Brown and Kennedy had hoped to appear with Carter in a scheduled debate Jan. 7 in Des Moines, Iowa, but the president canceled out because of the crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

In a telegram to NBC, Brown said it would be "improper" for the network to have Carter on the program alone on the eve of the Iowa caucuses. Kennedy said he would be available to participate, but NBC said the 30-minute program was not the right forum for debate.

At the White House, press secretary Jody Powell said Carter considered his appearance on "Meet the Press" as non-partisan, a chance "to keep the American people informed." Appearing with Brown and Kennedy would turn it into a political debate, Powell said.

French Moviemaker Introduces New Sex Goddess

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—French moviemaker Roger Vadim is inexorably identified with exotic film damsels some of whom he directs on screen and seduces, marries or impregnates off screen.
 A charmer of great stature, worthy of consideration as a 20th century Casanova, Vadim married Brigitte Bardot, guided her to stardom in "And God Created Woman" and made her an international sex goddess.

He launched Catherine Deneuve's career in "Vice and Virtue," fathering a son by the gorgeous French blonde in the process. They were never married.
 Jane Fonda became a major star after working for Vadim in "La Ronde" and "Barbarella." She married the Paris-born director and bore him a daughter.
 Vadim was later married to Annette Stroyberg, another ravishing beauty, whom he starred in a couple of movies.
 Vadim also directed Jeanne Moreau,

Monica Vitti, Alida Valli and other European sex symbols, inviting speculation as to his personal and romantic involvements with the ladies.
 Now, in startling contrast to his past record, Vadim has picked a little-known American actress to star in his newest and perhaps most erotic movie, "Night Games." The games are patently sexual—she is blonde Cindy Pickett, a tall (5-foot-8) golden-eyed native of Oklahoma whose professional acting career has been limited to three years in a demure role in the soap opera, "The Guiding Light."

In "Night Games" Cindy's physical charms are photographed in nude and semi-nude scenes in swimming pool, bathtub and boudoir with loving directorial attention.
 It was only natural, then, to ask Vadim and Cindy whether working together had produced a romance—not to say sexual—liaison between director and star during production, as it has so many times in Vadim's past.
 The question, which certainly is nobody else's business, is not new to Vadim and Cindy. Cindy has never been married. Vadim currently is single. But they responded to the query, while lunching in Hollywood, with equanimity.
 "Well," Vadim said, "let us maintain some mystery. When I am involved with actresses, it means I've known them a long time. I don't believe such affairs unless it is something important. I will leave our personal relationship to the imaginations."
 He kissed Cindy on the cheek, looking to her for confirmation.
 "I think I fell in love with Vadim when we met," Cindy said unblushingly. "But then I think all women do."
 So much for impertinent personal questions. Inasmuch as most of "Night Games" was filmed on location in Manhattan, one assumes Vadim and Cindy did not go out of their way to avoid one another on moonlight nights.
 Vadim, who moved to Southern California from his native France two years ago, explained how and why he chose Cindy for "Night Games," an obvious departure (excepting Fonda) from the busy, sultry European sex symbols in his past.

Two reasons, he said. "I always hope to find a different type in my pictures. Also women have gone through a lot of changes in 20 years. Sensuality and sex is no longer the exclusivity of empty brains."
 "We can accept sexy women without making them symbols. Intelligence goes with sex today as with Fonda in "Coming Home" and Jill Clayburgh in "An Unmarried Woman." There were explicit sex and nude scenes in both by intellectual, politically aware, sexually aroused women."
 "Today intelligence is more explosive and arousing than just plain beauty. Farrah Fawcett and Bo Derek are sex symbols. Fonda and Clayburgh, like Cindy, express exciting, erotic sex intelligently."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 You're especially lucky tomorrow with things you personally supervise or manage. You won't be afraid to be aggressive and can show others the way.

Tornado Death Toll Given For Decade

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—An official of the National Forecast Center says 8,560 tornadoes killed 986 Americans during the last decade—and more people may be killed by twisters in the 1980s.

Deputy Director Fred Ostby said the chances of death increase with the spread of population centers. Figures compiled by the center show that Texas was most often hit by the tornadoes—1,425 that killed 137—but 145 people died in the 292 tornadoes that hit Mississippi.

Ostby said the "super outbreak" came in 1974, when 146 tornadoes struck in the United States on April 3 and 4, killing 307 persons and injuring 5,000.

State Parole Boards Win Court Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — States may give parole officials absolute immunity from being sued because of their parole decisions, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled today.

The justices, upholding such immunity, thwarted a San Diego man's attempt to sue California authorities in connection with his daughter's slaying in 1975.

George Martinez tried to sue for $2 million after his 15-year-old daughter, Mary Ellen, was kidnapped and killed by a convicted sex offender who had been paroled five months earlier.

Martinez charged that state parole officials abused their duty when they paroled Richard J. Thomas, who previously had been convicted of attempting to rape two young girls.

The California immunity law "neither authorized nor immunized the deliberate killing of any human being," Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the court.

"A legislative decision that has an incremental impact on the probability that death will result in any given situation, such as setting the speed limit at 55 miles per hour instead of 45, cannot be characterized as state action depriving a person of life just because it may set into motion a chain of events that ultimately leads to the random death of an innocent bystander," Stevens said.

He added: "Whether one agrees or disagrees with California's decision to provide absolute immunity for parole officials... one cannot deny that it rationally furthers a policy that reasonable lawmakers may favor. As federal judges, we have no authority to pass judgment on the wisdom of the underlying policy determination."

Stevens also said the young girl's death was "too remote" to the parole board's decision to release Thomas to allow her father to file a civil rights lawsuit against board members.

Thomas had been committed to a mental hospital for six months in 1970 after attempting two rapes at knife-point in San Diego's Teecole Canyon.

In the hospital he was designated as a medically disordered sex offender not amenable to treatment.

He was subsequently sentenced to a prison term of six months to 20 years. The sentencing judge suggested that Thomas not be paroled, but a parole was granted on March 10, 1975. Thomas has served five years in prison.

On Aug. 1, 1975, Mary Ellen Martinez was kidnapped from the same San Diego neighborhood. She was sexually molested and murdered by her abductor.

Thomas was convicted for the girl's death, and was sentenced to die in the gas chamber. The death penalty law under which he was sentenced later was declared unconstitutional, and he was sentenced to life in prison.

"I sued because they (parole officials) should not release these convicts so they can go out and commit the same crime," Martinez said in an interview last May when the Supreme Court agreed to study his appeal.

"I sued to change that," the father of two teen-aged children said.

The Supreme Court also ruled today that a U.S. citizen may be expatriated only after the government proves by a "preponderance of evidence" that the person intended to give up his citizenship.

By a 5-4 vote, the justices reversed a lower court ruling that imposed a more stringent burden of proof on the government — "by clear, convincing and unequivocal evidence."

But the court was unanimous in rejecting State Department arguments that only proof of some voluntary act — such as pledging allegiance to a foreign nation — was needed to strip someone of citizenship.

The justices said the government must prove specific intent to relinquish U.S. citizenship.

"In proving expatriation, an expatriating act and an intent to relinquish citizenship must be proved by a preponderance of evidence," Justice Byron R. White wrote for the court.

White's opinion also said expatriating acts are presumed to be voluntary unless the person facing loss of citizenship proves them not to be voluntary.

Today's decision came in the case of Laurence J. Terrazas, born in Takoma Park, Md., in 1947.

Terrazas' father was a citizen of Mexico, his mother a U.S. citizen. Under the U.S. Constitution and Mexican laws, he was at birth a citizen of both countries.

Absentee Vote Pace Steady

With the deadline for casting absentee ballots in the city's special election only a few hours away, the City Secretary's Office reported that absentee voting was continuing at a steady rate this morning.

By shortly before noon today, 43 persons had voted at the absentee polls during the morning hours. Today's voting activity brought the absentee vote total to 370, according to a spokesman in the City Secretary's Office.

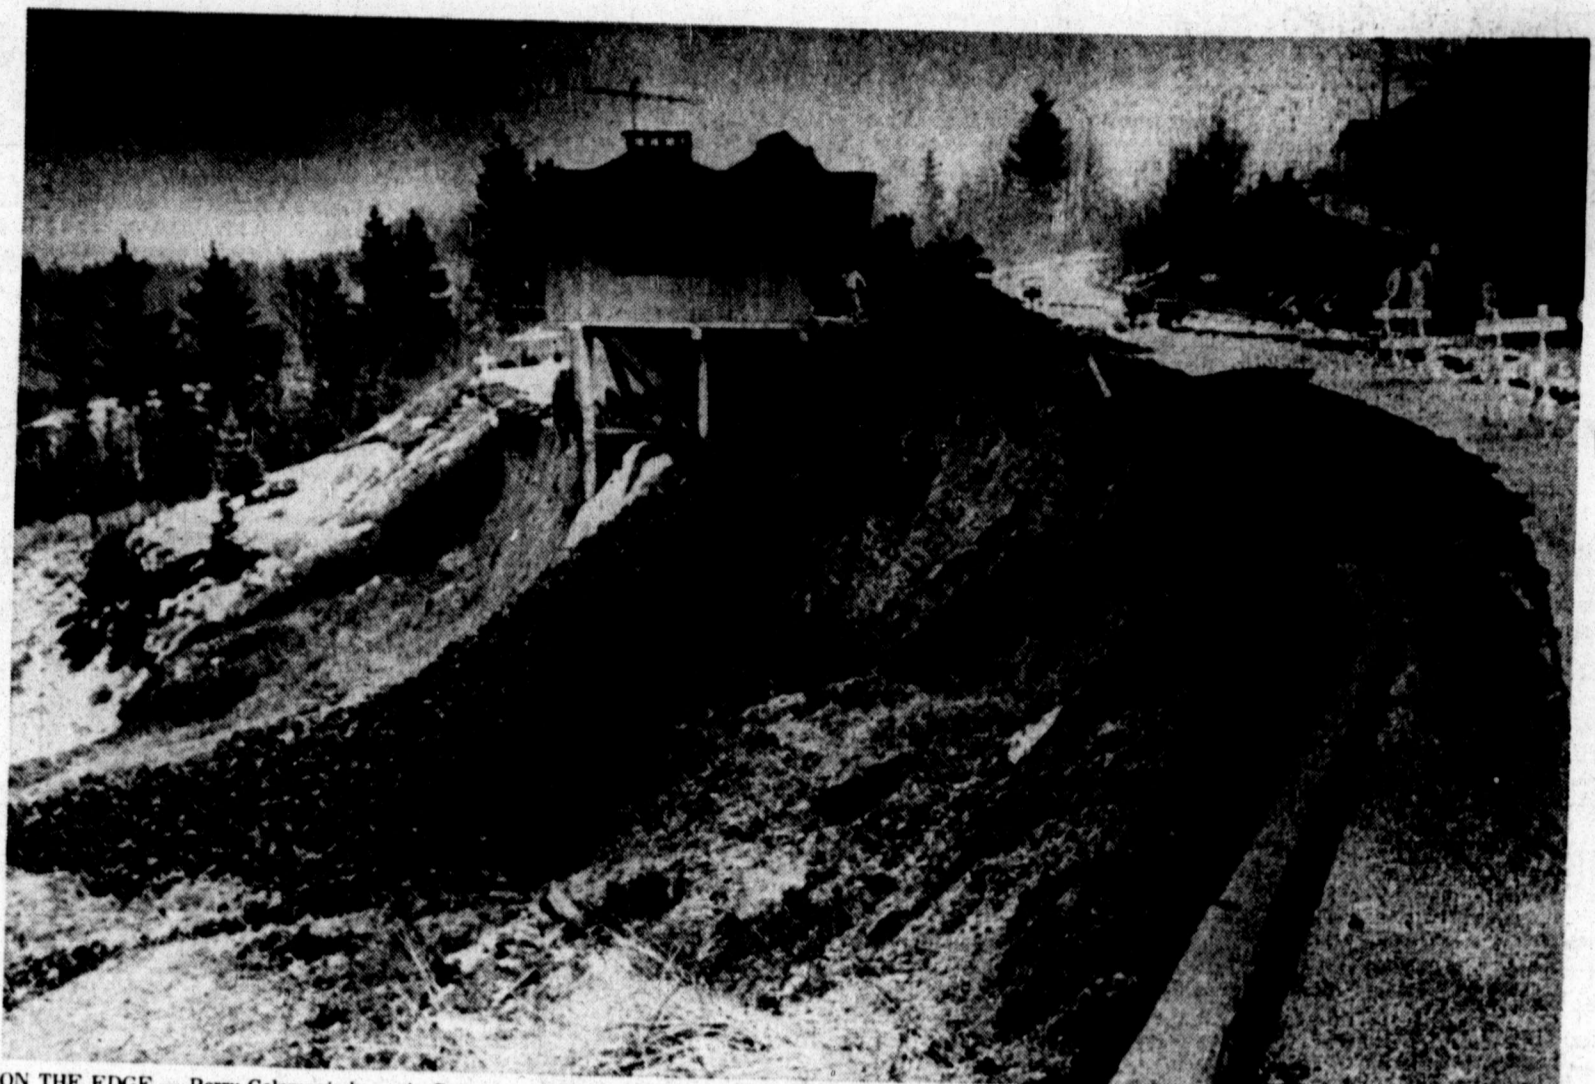

The special election, which is scheduled Saturday, will determine whether local firefighters will get a 15 percent pay raise and collective bargaining rights.

Absentee voting polls will close at 5 p.m. today. However, ballots can be received through the mail until 1 p.m. election day.

Airline To Continue Using DC-10 Planes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite the sale of four DC-10s to Federal Express Corp., Continental Airlines says it is not trying to get rid of its fleet of the jumbo jets.

"We're not abandoning the airplane," spokesman Bruce Plowman said. "We have on order two more DC-10s." Plowman's comments were made after the airline announced the $95 million sale to Federal Express in Memphis, Tenn., on Saturday.

ON THE EDGE — Perry Coleman's home in Gresham, Ore., perches very close to disaster after a mudslide swept away half of the street and all of his back yard Monday. The slide was triggered by heavy rains and melting snow, which have caused flooding across much of the Pacific Northwest and California. A train plowed into a mudslide at Ridgefield, Wash., and slide warnings were posted in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties in California. (AP Laserphoto)

Storms Batter West Coast

A-J News Services

A twister-like windstorm hit the central portion of California Monday, causing heavy property damage but no injuries, and the Pacific Northwest prepared for more flooding and mudslides with the advance of a new storm.

Police in Turlock, Calif., reported a 1:45 p.m. cloud passed over the city about 1:45 p.m. and ripped off several roofs and knocked down power poles in its path.

The twister lifted roofs off a vacant cannery and industrial plant, and a witness said the funnel lifted several steel beams at another site and hurled them several hundred feet.

The drenching rains that battered northern California and the Pacific Northwest during the weekend melted much of the snow from last week's fierce storm, but caused mudslides and flooding.

A Burlington Northern freight train plowed into a mudslide at Ridgefield, Wash., Monday, seriously injuring two crewmen and causing a tank car to leak anhydrous ammonia.

About 15 homes near the derailment were evacuated, but officials said there was no serious danger from the dissipating fumes.

The 80-car train hit the slide a few minutes after leaving Portland, Ore., a Burlington Northern spokesman said. Nineteen cars and four locomotives derailed and three of the engines tumbled into Lancaster Lake next to the tracks. The accident blocked the main north-south rail route in the region.

In California, mudslide warnings were posted for Santa Barbara and Ventura counties, but no incidents were reported.

The break in the stormy weather enabled Butte County authorities to resume a search for a 7-year-old girl swept away by currents of a tributary to the Feather River Friday.

A National Weather Service spokesman said the excessive rainfall raised river levels and there was a 60 percent chance of more rain "and more rain could mean an overflow."

The forecaster said the rains will continue at least through Thursday, as a new weather system swirls over the state.

The torrential rains that caused power blackouts and disruption of telephone service throughout northern California also virtually wiped out the snow at Sierra ski resorts and forced some evacuations along rivers due to flood danger.

Some 20 residents of Guerneville, in Sonoma County, evacuated when the Russian River rose four feet above the flood stage, but most stayed at home.

"Flooding is normal there when we have heavy storms," the weather service spokesman said. "They've learned to live with it, moving furniture around... They just move upstairs."

Yosemite National Park officials said Highway 140 was open to one-way traffic only, due to mud and rock slides and trees on the road.

Persistent rain in northwestern Oregon added to flooding problems, especially in the Portland area where rivers are expected to crest as much as 6 feet over flood stage.

In Portland, power crews continued to work around the clock to restore electricity to thousands of homes still without service Monday because of last week's ice and snow storm.

A heavy snow warning continued over the Colorado mountains tonight, with 8 to 12 inches of new snow forecast for the higher elevations.

Rain Teases Area Again

A-J News Services

North Texas braced for a possible round of severe weather late today, as a cold front collided with warm Gulf air, but Lubbock and the South Plains enjoyed another springlike day.

With the mercury soaring into the 70s again, Lubbock on Monday missed by just one degree having its warmest Jan. 14 since 1938.

The high temperature Monday was 76 — one notch off the 1938 record of 77. Lubbock will not be so warm today, however, as partly cloudy skies hold a 20-percent probability of precipitation.

Temperatures will be in the mid-60s today, low 30s tonight and near 60 Wednesday, weathermen predict.

Winds will be northwesterly at 10 to 15 mph this afternoon and northerly at 10 to 15 mph tonight after shifting from southwesterly this morning.

Parts of the South Plains Monday were even warmer than Lubbock. Readings of 78 were reported at Snyder and Spur and 79 at Matador.

A southeasterly flow of marine Gulf of Mexico air was colliding with the weak cold front today to produce rainy weather over much of Texas.

Showers were falling in eastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle this morning in a line stretching from Clovis to west of Amarillo.

Thick low clouds and fog covered the eastern half of the state at dawn today, and the front was expected to bring scattered showers and thunderstorms over the Panhandle and South Plains.

Rainy weather would spread into Northeast Texas by late this afternoon, weathermen said, and possibly cause thunderstorms were forecast for central North Texas tonight.

Soviet Union Denounces General Assembly Vote

intervention in Afghanistan, urged the "immediate, unconditional and total" withdrawal of all foreign troops and called on the Security Council "to consider ways and means to implement" that withdrawal.

The Soviet Union condemned the U.N. move as "backstage actions by American diplomats and others."

The statement from the official Soviet news agency Tass, read over Moscow Radio, quoted Afghan Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost as telling the assembly the resolution was "aimed at interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan."

Tass said the United States, China and their allies "imposed" the "artificially concocted Afghan question" on the General Assembly.

"This resolution," the report said, "is not mandatory, but bears the nature of recommendations."

U.N. observers said it was unlikely the issue would be raised in the council again because the Soviets vetoed a similar resolution there Jan. 7. There is no veto in the assembly, but it can take no punitive action to enforce its resolutions.

However, most Moslem and Third World nations voted for the resolution, and this constituted a stunning rebuke to the Soviet Union, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim declared. "The real value of such a decision is the moral value, because it is an appeal to the international community."

"This is the strongest action in the United Nations in 25 years against the Soviet Union," said Deputy U.S. Ambassador William Vanden Heuvel.

"It is an overwhelming vote, unexpectedly strong, from all quarters, and I think it reflected the almost practical unanimity of the Third World countries, first of all in recognizing the Soviet aggression for what it is, and secondly in condemning it."

Speaker after speaker condemned the Soviet intervention as "naked aggression." Only the Soviet Union's close friends voted against the resolution. Eighteen members of the 152-nation assembly abstained, and two either were not present or did not participate.

Although Cuba, the nominal head of the non-aligned movement, supported the Russians, only eight of the other 91 members of the non-aligned movement went along with this, while 57 voted for the resolution, 17 abstained and nine did not participate.

An estimated 100,000 Soviet troops poured into Afghanistan to insure the success of the coup that eliminated President Hafizullah Amin and put Babrak Karmal, a man more to the Kremlin's liking, in power and to reinforce the Afghan army.

Meanwhile, the U.S. government kept up its campaign to get its allies to join in its retaliatory action against the Russians. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, after meeting with officials in London and Rome, was meeting in Brussels today with the North Atlantic Council, and Common Market ministers were also discussing collective action at a meeting in Brussels.

Christopher told reporters in London that sentiment in favor of boycotting the summer Olympics in Moscow is "spreading around the world." But Christopher's British counterpart, Douglas Hurd, told the House of Commons a boycott or moving the Olympics to another site "is not a matter for the government, but for sporting authorities and the athletes themselves."

tation study if the hospital wishes to continue participation in the federal medical programs.

But he said the state will only come in upon invitation of the hospital or the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He added that when the state is called in, HEW will make the final decision on accreditation.

Maritt said the JCAH decision came at the end of a one-year accreditation granted the hospital.

He said JCAH works with 5,000 of 7,000 hospitals in the country and that about 2 percent fail to meet accreditation requirements.

Iran Sets Deadline For U.S. Newsmen

"would seem to be a comment upon the desire of the authorities in Iran to prevent not only the rest of the world, but indeed their own people from knowing the disastrous impact upon Iran of the taking and continued holding of the American citizens."

Meanwhile, Los Angeles radio reporter Alex Paen reported the students at the Embassy told him spy trials for the hostages will begin as soon as Khomeini gives the word. Paen said they told him the ayatollah agreed to the trials in principle "since the Iranian people want them tried."

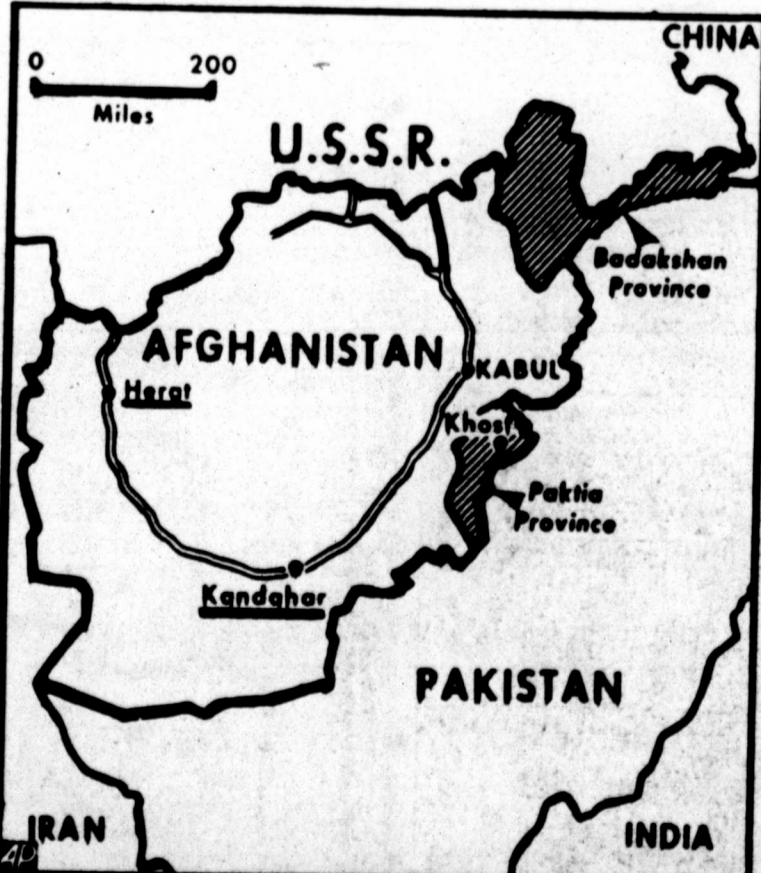

Paen also said the students would allow the captives to hear a recorded broadcast of the Super Bowl football game Sunday.

Four black ministers from Houston and their attorney met with the students at the Embassy for eight hours Monday and said they expected to hold religious services for the hostages today to commemorate the birthday of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

The students released eight of the nine blacks who were among the hostages, along with five women, two weeks after they took over the Embassy last Nov. 4.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said again Monday that the hostages would not be released until the shah was returned to Iran for trial.

D.L. Keesee Seeks Post As Sheriff

ment and more people won't be needed in the future," Keesee added.

One of his first moves, Keesee said, would be to beef up the criminal investigation division at the sheriff's department. He said that this division should be working from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily, but that it currently concludes its duties at 5 p.m. each day.

Another of his goals for the sheriff's department, Keesee said, would be to computerize the warrant division. He said that the computer already installed in the county courthouse probably could be used to process warrants, without creating additional expense for the county.

According to Keesee, Lubbock County citizens are not getting the full benefit of their tax dollars from the sheriff's department. He said, "In Lubbock County, we see bars on the windows of our residences, increased sales of guard dogs, burglar alarms and handguns for personal protection. Our friends and neighbors worry about muggings and assaults, and our wives and daughters worry about rape."

Keesee said the sheriff's department needs a man with experience to be sure the office is operating properly. "As a deputy, I have worked in and am familiar with every department," he noted. "I have that experience."

The Republican candidate also cited a need for better training for deputies here, saying that schools are available through the Federal Bureau of Investigation and state agencies. He charged that the incumbent, Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard has not taken full advantage of the training programs that are available.

Keesee is the first Republican to officially announce his candidacy for sheriff. However, former Department of Public Safety trooper Wayne Kirkpatrick has filed for sheriff in the County Clerk's Office and has confirmed he will run on the GOP ticket.

Blanchard and former deputy Mike DeRosa previously announced as Democratic candidates. A fifth candidate, Willy V. Turner, has filed his campaign treasurer designation but has not announced which party ticket he will be running on.

More Stations Sell Liter Gas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Metric Board estimates more than 2,000 stations in upwards of 30 states now are selling gasoline by the liter.

The board said it expects many more service stations to switch to liters because of the problems in modifying pumps to compute prices of more than 99.9 cents a gallon.

A liter is slightly more than one quart. Many stations outside the United States sell gasoline by the liter.

The Metric Board said most of the United States' 1.5 million gasoline pumps are incapable of registering prices of more than $1 per gallon. The "half pricing" solution whereby attendants double the amount shown on the pump has led to complaints by dealers, attendants and customers.

"State weights and measures officials generally agree that the half pricing method is only a temporary solution," the board said in a statement.

The board said it has investigated the problem and determines it would cost only $50 to convert pumps to liters as opposed to $200 to convert them to gallons that cost more than $1.

"We expect the trend toward liter gasoline to continue," said Dr. Malcolm E. O'Hagan, the board's executive director. "Price per liter signs are becoming more common in all parts of the country."

The independent, federal board is charged with planning and coordinating the increasing use of the metric system.

U.S. using half million barrels less per day than in 1978.

The average driver used 7% less gasoline in 1979 compared to the year before. In total, the savings are equivalent to the gasoline used by Alaska, Arizona, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon and Washington in an entire year.

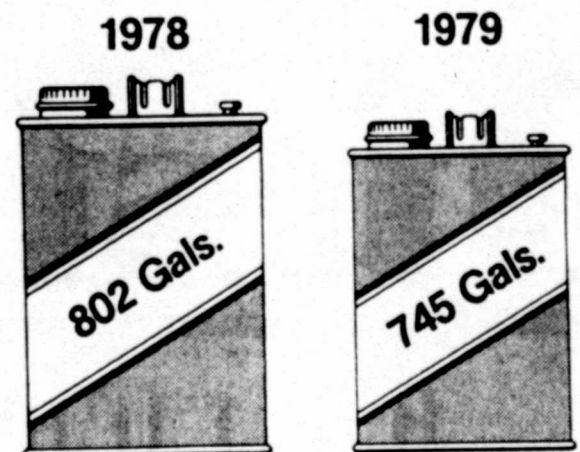

Also, U.S. consumption of all energy, including electricity and natural gas, is growing at a much slower rate than in past years.

The energy saved is sizeable, and has helped America reduce its oil imports.

We've all made a good start, but greater energy savings can and must be achieved. Continuing uncertainties in the Middle East make foreign oil supplies even less reliable, so it's critical that we each do even more to conserve. Little by little, it will help a lot.

Thank you for listening.

Average amount of gasoline consumed per licensed driver.

Increased use of public transportation and car pools, shorter trips, more fuel efficient cars, and drivers going easier on the gas pedal have all helped to cut gasoline consumption.

Hostages' Relatives Skeptical

By United Press International
 Relatives of American hostages say they are skeptical about the Iranian foreign minister's threat that the captives in Tehran might be held "more or less forever." So is the State Department.

"You can't believe anything they (the Iranians) say," said Mark Kennedy, 22, of Washington, son of hostage Moorhead C. Kennedy, 49, a career State Department employee. "I'll just take another deep breath."
 "I don't think it would be possible for the situation to continue forever for a lot of reasons," said Ann Elisa Moeller, 27, of Caruthersville, Md., wife of hostage Marine Staff Sgt. Michael Moeller.

"Obviously that kind of 'more or less forever' situation is not practicable for them nor for us," she said.
 "I don't think it would benefit them — (the militants) to keep the hostages forever," said Dorothea Morefield, wife of the U.S. Consul in Tehran, Richard Morefield. "But it's a frightening statement and certainly it's an upsetting one."

 Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Gotbzadeh said the hostages held since Nov. 4 might be held "more or less forever" unless the deposed shah is returned to Iran for trial.
 "As long as the Americans are prepared to stay right there and try to keep pressures, the situation remains the same," Gotbzadeh said.
 State Department spokeswoman Anita Stockman said the United States would give the statement the same treatment that it has given to other sometimes contradictory remarks from Iran.

Washington's Complaints Sound Familiar To Soviet Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's complaints that Soviet military actions in Afghanistan are an "extremely serious threat to the peace" must have a familiar ring at the Kremlin.

Over the past two decades, Soviet leaders have used almost the same words to condemn the United States.

From the Bay of Pigs invasion to the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, Soviet leaders have chastised, castigated and condemned the United States for military moves contrary to Soviet interests.

But those occasionally harsh words were little more than ripples in the overall calming of U.S.-Soviet relations during the years that saw the Cold War give way to "peaceful coexistence" and then to détente.

In 1961, then-Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev accused the United States of backing an invasion of Cuba by Cuban exiles and vowed to give Fidel Castro's new government "all necessary assistance."

Commenting on the Bay of Pigs invasion, Khrushchev said the Soviets were "sincerely interested in a relaxation of international tensions, but if others aggravate it, we shall reply in full measure."

In 1965, the Soviets lashed out at the United States for two actions: The sending of U.S. troops into the Dominican Republic to prevent a feared communist takeover and the massive U.S. military buildup in Vietnam.

Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan said the U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic was intended to "frighten the peoples of Latin America who are seeking a road toward an independent development."

The Soviets also denounced the U.S. move into the Caribbean nation as a violation of the United Nations charter, a charge similar to Carter's complaint against the Soviets for their intervention in Afghanistan.

However, the escalation of the Vietnam War in 1965 brought even sterner Soviet condemnations and threats.

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin warned that "every new aggressive act in Vietnam undertaken by the Americans... will be followed by an appropriate rebuttal from the communist camp."

Expulsion Of Journalists Used To Downplay Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran's decision to expel all American reporters may indicate a desire to keep the Iranian people from realizing the "disastrous impact" of the hostage situation, a White House official says.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the expulsion announced Monday "would seem to be a comment upon the desire of the authorities in Iran to prevent not only the rest of the world but indeed their own people from knowing the disastrous impact upon Iran of the taking and continued holding of the American citizens."

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the decision was "unfortunate," adding that Americans should "have the opportunity to cover a story of intense national interest."

Meanwhile, the United States urged members of the United Nations to impose economic sanctions against Iran despite the Soviet veto of a Security Council resolution on the issue. The Carter administration believes international observance of sanctions would increase pressure on Iran for release of the American hostages.

Spokesman Carter said it was "logical to assume" the Soviet veto was motivated at least partly by a desire to gain influence in Iran. U.S.-Soviet relations also have been strained by recent Russian intervention in Afghanistan and American reprisals in response to that action.

Carter said the United States plans to "act as though" the Security Council resolution had been put into effect.

Ex-Ambassador Sees Threat To U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., says the Iranian-American crisis and the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan threaten the existence of the United Nations.

"If the U.N. does not uphold our rights, then what good is it?" Moynihan asked at a news conference Monday.

"All international law begins on the inviolability of envoys," he said referring to the seizure of diplomats at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

He called the Soviet takeover of Afghanistan "a clear violation," and declared, "If the U.N. lets this pass, the U.N. will do what the League did and prove itself impotent and it will pass into history."

The former U.S. ambassador to the U.N. said the world organization should brand the Soviet Union an "outlaw nation," rule that it committed an act of aggression in Afghanistan, and take economie sanctions against Moscow.

 "If the Brezhnev doctrine is being extended to countries outside the Soviet borders, we should make it clear we do not consider this a rehearsal for an invasion of Yugoslavia," he said.

Stadler Takes First PGA Win In Desert Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Craig Stadler was once described as a bear in a man's clothing stomping down a fairway.

He also was described as a short-tempered, self-centered young man who would never win a golf tournament.

Today, while admitting he's not especially happy about his body size (5-foot-9 and 220 pounds) and his temper, Stadler has the last laugh on his critics.

That's because he kept both his appearance and temper under control Monday to shoot a 5-under-par 67 and win the $304,500 Bob Hope Desert Classic by two shots.

It was not an easy victory. Tom Purtzer and Mike Sullivan in particular and half a dozen others in general pressed Stadler all the way. But he was not to be denied and one of the big reasons was that he kept his cool.

"Every time I made a bad shot," he said of the final round of the 90-hole event, first of the year on the PGA tour, "I bounced back to make a good one. It went that way all day.

"I'll admit, though, I did get upset a couple of times, especially on the 15th hole. But I managed to keep it together."

The 15th at La Quinta is a par-3, 195-yard hole that can be troublesome. Stadler hit a four-iron off the tee and put his shot in a bunker. He came out 12 feet short of the hole and then he missed the putt. That dropped him back into a tie with Purtzer.

"I was a little hot about that hole," Stadler said later. "But I told myself I was still in good shape, and it was a mat-

U.S. Asks To Move Olympic Games

By The Associated Press
As U.S. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher prepared for a meeting today with the NATO Council in Brussels, the envoy said it would be "highly preferable to hold the (Summer) Olympic Games some place other than Moscow."

But the head of the International Olympic Committee says steadfastly it would be "physically impossible" to hold them any place else. And that statement by Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, was supported Monday by Munich and Montreal — the two previous Summer Olympic hosts named by many as alternative sites for the 1980 Games.

A spokesman for Munich's city government, Gunther Wolfbauer, said a switch of the Games to that West German city "is not feasible" and would spell "the end of the Olympics."

Wolfbauer added there is not enough time for preparation and that the Olympic village, home to contestants at the 1972 Games, has been rented and could not be taken over by the city.

Meanwhile Prime Minister Joe Clark said Canada is "prepared to look at Mon-ter of me or him (Purtzer, with whom he played in the same threesome)."

As things turned out, that was the winning putt because neither Purtzer nor Sullivan, playing in the threesome behind, made a move. In fact, Purtzer bogeyed the final hole and that dropped him into a tie with Sullivan for second place.

Stadler, a former University of Southern California All-America and U.S. Amateur champion, thus walked off with the $50,000 check and his first tour victory after four years of trying.

"I played quite well all week," said Stadler, who is 27 and now lives on the East shore of Lake Tahoe in Nevada. "Every time I needed a shot, I got it, and I guess that's the key to winning a tournament."

Stadler and the tour move east from here for the $300,000 Phoenix Open, which gets under way in only two days. The Hope, the lone 90-hole tournament on the PGA calendar, was held over a day because of rain.

Stadler's final round 67 gave him a 90-hole score of 17-underpar 343. Purtzer and Sullivan both shot 68 to finish at 345 and win $24,200 each. Larry Nelson, second on the money list last year with $283,000 and with Stadler the co-fourth round leader, had a 70 and finished alone at 346.

Mark Hayes was at 347 while George Cadle, D.A. Weibring, Dave Hill, Tom Kite, Bob Murphy and Lanny Wadkins tied at 348. Keith Fergus and Jim Colbert were next at 349 and defending champion John Mahaffey landed at 356.

treaf if they — the IOC — are looking elsewhere for a site.

But the IOC isn't looking, as it has insisted throughout the talk of boycott in response to the Soviet military action in Afghanistan.

"We signed a contract with Moscow. Up to this date there are no sporting grounds for the IOC to remove the Games from Moscow," said a statement issued Monday by Monique Berlioux, director of the IOC.

"The IOC reiterates that National Olympic Committees can compete or refuse to compete. It is up to them. The IOC does not want to interfere with the international affairs of the National Olympic Committees," the statement said.

President Carter has not called officially for a boycott of the Summer Games, but on Sunday, a White House official said Carter "cannot support U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan."

And Christopher said in London Monday sentiment for a boycott is "spreading around the world."

Tech, Rice Meet Tonight

Raiders Remember Last Season's Upset

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
If you don't think revenge will be first and foremost in the minds of the Texas Tech cagers when they square off with the Rice Owls at 7:30 this evening in the Municipal Coliseum — well, talk to Owl coach Mike Schuler.

"We are really going to have our hands full," said Schuler of the Red Raiders, who are 3-1 in Southwest Conference play and 9-3 overall. "Tech's got everybody back and they've had some tremendous wins this year.

"Plus," he added with a sigh, "we've got to fight that revenge factor and that whole rigamarole. You know, Rice isn't supposed to beat anybody."

"I read where they said that was their worst defeat of the year. But that was yesterday and nobody cares about yesterday. We've got four new guys that are going to play and they don't even remember that game."

But the Raiders remember, oh do they remember.

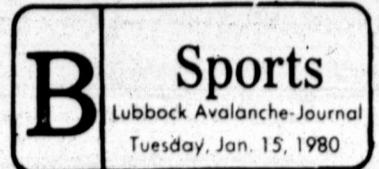

Rice knocked off Tech 62-56 — in the Coliseum of all places — and knocked the Raiders out of first place early last season. The Raiders came back to defeat the Owls 62-56 in Houston and then crushed the Hooters 82-49 in the first round of the SWC post-season tournament.

But that loss to Rice, like Schuler says, is bound to linger.

"We know that we have to go out and play hard every night," warned Tech mentor Gerald Myers. "We learned that last year. I'd be disappointed if our players didn't take a different attitude (than they did last year)."

The 3-1 Raiders are only a half step behind Texas A&M and Arkansas — both 3-0 — in this year's SWC race. Obviously, a loss here could crush the Raiders. The Owls, meanwhile, are 1-2 in league action and 3-8 on the year.

"I think our kids are still kind of disappointed with the Baylor game," said Schuler. "We had a chance to win it, but we didn't."

Baylor defeated the Owls 73-63 last Saturday.

"But we've made progress," Schuler continued, "and I'd be disappointed if we didn't make a good showing."

Myers is quick to second Schuler on that motion.

"Rice is a much improved ball club from a year ago," stated Myers. "Ricky Pierce, Kenny Austin and Bobby Tudor have done a lot to help their program."

Both Pierce and Austin are new additions to the Owls but Tudor is an old vet after averaging 11.6 points a game as a freshman last year. The 6-8 Austin and 6-5 Pierce will be in the wings tonight and 6-5 Tudor will be at a guard position along with 5-10 Anthony DeCello.

At the post for the Owls will be 6-8 freshman Robert Shaw. That means that Rice will start two freshmen, two sophs and a junior.

"Shaw has really played well," Schuler said of his young center. "He's not the biggest or quickest player in the world but he had a big game against Houston. He's going to have his hands full with (Ralph) Brewster though — because I think Brewster is one of the premier big men in the league."

And Brewster is coming off of his best outing of the season. Against the Frogs he was six of nine from the field, pulled down eight rebounds, had two blocked shots and two assists. The 6-8 junior is averaging 11 points a game in conference action.

Tech is still getting most of its points from sophomores David Little and Jeff Taylor. After scoring 26 against the Frogs, the 6-6 Little is averaging 15.7 a game and 6-4 Taylor is next at 13.6. Kent Williams, who set a school record with 11 assists against TCU, is averaging 11.5 and Ben Hill is only inches away from double figures with a 9.9 per game average.

The Raiders' 60 percent field goal effort against TCU also boosted the squads marks to 55.0 — one of the top marks in the nation.

"I saw Tech on television (against Houston)," says Schuler, "and they are playing well. But I'm anxious to play. I think we'll have a good showing."

DePaul Takes Top Spot

CHICAGO (AP) — It has taken 38 years and 609 victories. But Ray Meyer and DePaul have finally made it to the top.

"It's quite an honor, we've never been No. 1, you know?" Meyer said. "The boys like being No. 1," said Meyer. "They're proud of it and I'm week's Associated Press basketball poll. "In a way it's a penalty because from here on in we have to be good every night."

Meyer, whose 609 career victories at DePaul are the most by an active coach, said he thinks the No. 1 rating will be an incentive for his young team, rather than a hindrance.

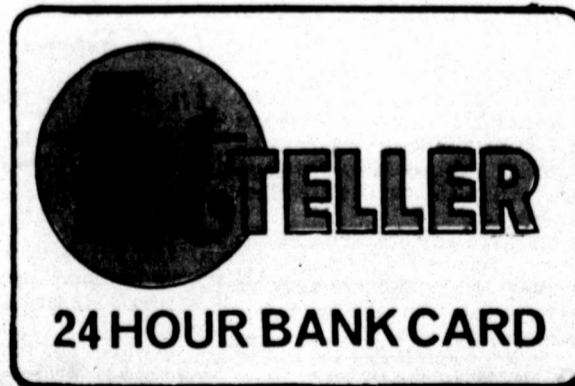

Illinois and Eastern Michigan. sure they're going to want to stay there."

Before the Blue Demons came up with key victories at Missouri earlier this month and at Marquette last Saturday night, Meyer was apprehensive about his team's ability.

The Blue Demons, led by sophomore sensation Mark Aguirre, appeared to be playing only as well needed as evidenced by narrow triumphs over Northern week," said Meyer. "We want to remain No. 1. It should give us a sense of "I thought what we needed a while back was a big loss, a blowout," said Meyer.

Chris Evert Lloyd To Retire

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd — saying the drive that took her to the top in tennis probably has burned out — has revealed plans to retire from competition after five more tournaments.

"I'm not enjoying playing tennis anymore — that's the problem," she declared. "There's a good chance I'm burned out. Although I'm only 25, I've been at it for eight years."

The Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel said in a copyright story today that Mrs. Lloyd will forego competition to travel with her husband. She said in a statement issued Monday she plans a "a long indefinite rest" after playing in Championship tournaments in Chicago, Seattle, Detroit, Houston and Boston.

"I will fulfill that obligation, but if I

Willis Signs Pact With Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have signed their No. 2 selection in the recent free agent draft, 21-year-old pitcher Alan Willis.

The Indians said the 6-foot-5, 225-pound right-hander was signed to a contract with their Class A, Waterloo affiliate in the Midwest League.

The Indians' No. 6 pick — Charles Tillet, a left-handed pitcher who also plays the outfield — also was signed to a contract at Waterloo.

had my choice right now. I wouldn't play anymore," Mrs. Lloyd said.

She said she didn't like the word retire, but couldn't think of a better word for what she expects to do.

"I've been disenchanted for the last year and a half," she said in a telephone interview from Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lloyd said she didn't decide to quit because of Sunday's loss to Tracy Austin, her third in as many weeks to the teen-age sensation who mirrors the playing style Mrs. Lloyd herself used to rise to the top as a teen-ager.

"I've lost before," she explained.

"I've never enjoyed losing, but now I don't enjoy winning, either. I just don't have the same love for the game that I once did."

She said her play was as good as ever, but she no longer has the desire to stay on top. After five years there, she lost the No. 1 ranking in 1979 to Martina Navratilova.

"Against Martina and Tracy, I need that mental sharpness," she said. "I need the concentration and it's simply not there. My mind is in other places and that's not good enough against the great players."

Mrs. Lloyd skipped a news conference in Detroit Monday, sending a statement that she was "physically and mentally exhausted" and needed a week's rest. Then she told the Sun-Sentinel she plans a longer rest with her husband, British pro

John Lloyd.

"I want to travel with John and support him the way he supported me last year," she said. "He gave up his tennis last year."

"I'm glad I'm not pregnant, though. That would be the easy excuse for leaving tennis. I don't want the easy way out, I want the right way out and I think I'm headed toward it."

Mrs. Lloyd was the toast of women's tennis when, at age 16, she made the semifinals of the U.S. Open in 1971. Now, she said, she feels lucky to have been so good so young.

"I'm not trapped in tennis like some (unhappy) people are in their profession," she said. "I've been lucky. The game is a lucrative one and I've played well enough to make retirement a reasonable alternative."

She won 94 of the 156 tournaments she entered: Wimbledon in 1974 and 1976, the U.S. Open from 1975-78, three French Opens, an Italian and an Australian Open. Her record for the 1970s was 666-64.

After the 1977 season, she took four months off, saying she was exhausted and near breakdown. When she returned, the women's tour was more competitive and she didn't dominate as she once did. She met Lloyd during the 1978 season and married him last April.

"Right now I'm playing people in the first round that I used to see in the finals," she said. "That's how much better the competition is."

In the Italian Open last summer, Miss Austin snapped Mrs. Lloyd's unprecedented 125-match winning streak on clay. Miss Navratilova won a second Wimbledon and Miss Austin kept Mrs. Lloyd from winning her fifth straight U.S. Open last September.

This year, she had vowed, she'd be hungry to be back on top and would play harder trying to regain her old mastery. But Miss Austin has won seven of their last eight matches and Mrs. Lloyd said she couldn't find the old desire.

"I have never played tennis the way I'm playing right now. It's not the way I want Chris Evert to be remembered."

"When you've been No. 1 for five years and tasted all the fruits your sport has to offer, it's difficult to accept anything less."

Her husband, she said, wants her to be sure and has encouraged her to finish up the Avon circuit.

"He doesn't want me to do anything I would regret," she said.

Mrs. Lloyd recalled the plans she'd had as a just-discovered teen-ager who learned the game from her father on the city courts near their home.

"When I was younger, I always had visions of playing until I was 22 or 23," she remembered. "Then, I would retire, get married and have a family. Maybe this is all destined to be."

College Athlete Transcript Scandal Spreading To Eastern Schools

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The fraudulent transcript scandal which erupted in November at New Mexico and other western universities is spreading east, sources close to the investigation have told the Associated Press.

"The overall number of schools involved is going to be significantly bigger than what has become public now," the AP was told. "It's not all confined to the western part of the United States. Apparently, there may be schools east of the Mississippi."

Six universities in five western states have been named in investigations by the FBI and the National Collegiate Athletic Association — New Mexico, San Jose State, Arizona State, Utah, Oregon and Oregon State.

"We're finding a common thread involved where individuals know each other, individuals who are willing to help each other," the AP was told by persons who wished to remain anonymous.

"At this point, it seems to revolve around a certain group of people who have been employed together. Some individuals within that group have gone on to other jobs farther east and they are being looked into. From the evidence we now have, those are potential problem areas."

An FBI wiretap at New Mexico first disclosed the practice of keeping student athletes eligible through the use of fraudulent transcripts from various summer and extension programs. Several athletes admitted they received credit for an extension course in Los Angeles offered by Ottawa University in Ottawa, Kan., which they never attended.

Resignations have been turned in by the head basketball coach at New Mexico and assistant basketball coaches at New Mexico and Oregon, and games have been forfeited by New Mexico, Arizona State and San Jose.

The enforcement department of the NCAA immediately leaped into the probe and has been working closely with the FBI and other agencies.

"We are not in daily contact with the FBI, but you could say we are in continuing contact with them," said David Berst, head of NCAA enforcement. Hale McMenamin, a retired FBI agent now with the NCAA, has been helping coordinate the joint efforts.

One aspect of the situation the NCAA has been probing is a report that "hire education agents" have been used by coaches needing to keep players eligible.

"So far, we haven't been able to pin down the truth of that," said Berst. "But we've got reports of individuals working as agents, as go-betweens between coaches and instructors in extension courses."

Berst confirmed published reports that several institutions besides Ottawa are thought to be involved in the fraudulent credits, including Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash., Pacific Christian College in Fullerton, Calif., Compton Community College in Compton, Calif., and Los Angeles Valley College in Van Nuys, Calif.

But he and other NCAA operatives disagree with speculation that the practice takes in "hundreds" of student-athletes throughout the nation.

"Nobody can say for certain at this point what will eventually come to light," he said. "But it seems highly unlikely to me that it could involve hundreds of student athletes."

Nevertheless, the NCAA is moving full speed ahead on the probe, pulling several field investigators off other assignments.

"We've been able to anticipate almost everything that's public so far," Berst said.

The long-range strategy worked out by the NCAA enforcement staff in the situation is two-fold.

"It's unlikely we would take any cases through our procedural processes while individuals involved are under federal or local indictment, or when court cases are pending," Berst said.

"When those cases have been adjudicated, we should be able to take appropriate action, and our cases could be strengthened through court testimony and subpoenaed evidence which we would not otherwise have access to."

"And there may be instances where law enforcement agencies are not able to bring indictments, or choose not to bring indictments, but we would be able to take them through our processes," said Berst.

Although the NCAA is getting the assistance of the FBI in the far-flung investigation, nobody at the association's headquarters in suburban Mission, Kan., is expecting a speedy resolution in the situation.

"It probably looks like we're proceeding more rapidly on this than we normally do, but that really isn't true," Berst said. "It could be a year or more before we actually present evidence to the Committee on Infractions, which is the final link in our procedures."

ASU Fires Six Assistant Football Coaches

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Six assistant football coaches at Arizona State University were looking for new jobs today after a housecleaning by the school's scandal-riddled athletic department.

Interim head coach Bob Owens informed assistants Don Baker, Richard Mann, Bob Karmelowicz, Greg Mohns, Bill Maskill and Al Luginbill that their contracts will not be renewed for next season.

Monday's action follows the October firing of head coach Frank Kush, a November player-ineligibility scandal that caused the football team to forfeit five victories, and last month's dismissal of athletic director Dr. Fred Miller.

In a related development, Morrison Warner, director of experimental programs at ASU's College of Education, said Monday he formally will apply for the $48,000-a-year athletic director's job.

Warren frequently had been mentioned as a possible replacement and reportedly has considerable support among various community, university and legislative officials. The Arizona Republic said.

"I have not particularly aspired to the position of athletic director, but because of the nature of the problems, it might be that I could help," Warren said.

"I think I could be a key factor in reconciling the community, the faculty and the student users of the service."

Warren, 57, is a former Phoenix city councilman, serving from 1966 to 1970, and a former Sun Devil player. He received varsity letters in 1946 and 1947.

Owens said he acted on instructions from acting athletic director Robert Knox. He said he told some of the assistants in person and sent a formal letter to each of them.

Owens said he has not been given notice that his contract will not be renewed. Knox was unavailable for comment.

One paragraph in the letter to the assistant coaches said they could apply for jobs on the staff when a head coach is hired, Owens said.

Baker, in his 15th year at Arizona State, said Monday's action did not surprise him. He said he will see who is hired as head coach before deciding whether he wants to apply for a job on the staff.

Maskill, in his second year at ASU and a defendant in the $2.2 million lawsuit filed by former Sun Devil punter Kevin Rutledge, said he was hopeful his record would be impressive enough to warrant a job on the new staff.

The prime defendant in Rutledge's suit is Kush, who is accused of punching Rutledge after a poor kick against Washington in October 1978. Miller fired Kush for allegedly asking his assistants to lie about the incident.

In another related development, a source told The Arizona Republic that Michigan State coach Darryl Rogers has been offered the head coaching job at ASU.

Sue Cummings, however, chairman of the selection committee charged with finding a football coach and an athletic director, said the committee has not offered the post to anybody.

The Republic source, who requested anonymity, said Rogers has some reservations about accepting the job without knowing whom ASU will hire as athletic director and wants specific information on the financial package he can expect.

Rogers, who was on a recruiting trip, was unavailable for comment.

Coach Claims 'Home' Advantage For Super Bowl

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers have one big edge in having a Super Bowl-experienced quarterback, and Los Angeles has an edge of its own because Sunday's showdown in Pasadena will be a "home game," Rams Coach Ray Malavasi said.

"I think Pittsburgh's one big advantage is that Terry Bradshaw has been there before," Malavasi said, referring to the quarterback who's guided the Steelers to three Super Bowl championships.

"On the other hand, I think it's a big advantage to us that the Super Bowl's being played in the Rose Bowl, in our back yard," continued the Rams' coach. "We're used to the weather and used to the natural turf, and they're not."

While experience was Malavasi's theme, he downplayed the fact that the Rams have never been there while the Steelers have been in three Super Bowls.

"I've been involved in playoff games for the past eight years," pointed out Malavasi, in his second season as the Rams' head man. "And we've got four coaches on our staff who've been with Super Bowl teams. I think we know how to approach it."

Malavasi's approach to the Super Bowl seems relatively relaxed. The Los Angeles players are being allowed to live at home if they wish until Friday, when the team will gather in a hotel and the coaching staff will make bed checks for the first time.

The Rams took a couple of days off last week after their 9-0 victory over Tampa Bay, and their practices were relatively light the remainder of the week. The team had this Sunday off before going through a full workout on Monday.

"I think some coaches in the past in the Super Bowl went to work too early, tried to put too much in that first, extra week," Malavasi said. "I feel we're sharp right now. We'll finish up with some hard work Wednesday and Thursday."

"I think we've done it just the right way. We'll see Sunday."

Malavasi laughed about the point spread, which has the Steelers favored by at least 10 points.

"That's made by gamblers for gamblers," he said. "That's got nothing to do with us."

The coach, however, made one prediction of his own.

"I think it will be a low-scoring game," he said. "They've got too many good defensive people for it to be high-scoring, and so have we."

Racquetball Player Makes Comeback After Stroke

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Racquetball player Jane Tubbs is on the comeback trail after a setback almost unheard of among young athletes. She suffered a stroke.

"I woke up in the motel room ... and noticed I couldn't move," she said of that day less than a year ago in Fresno, Calif., where she was preparing for a tournament.

Although not fully recovered, the remarkable 23-year-old has left California and is on the court in Michigan, planning to enter a statewide singles tournament this weekend in Lansing.

"I had to relearn everything again. Like a baby, I had to learn to crawl before I could walk," she said of her struggle. "My speech was slurred and my whole right side was paralyzed."

Jane was stricken shortly after she quit college in California to become a professional racquetball player.

Having worked with stroke victims as a student therapist, she knew immediately she was in serious trouble and recalls giving in to "complete depression" at first.

"I cried constantly except during my therapy sessions," she says. "The doctors had discovered that the main artery on the left side of my brain had a complete clot."

"People aren't aware that something like this can happen to young people," she says, remembering the turning point of her long hospital stay. "I remarked to someone, I don't remember who now, 'why me?' They responded 'Why not you?' Are you someone special?"

"I thought about that and asked myself, 'What does make me so special?'" She proceeded to demonstrate.

"I went through a lot of therapy and within 5½ months I was back on the court again, and they told me it would take a year."

A native of Newport Beach, Calif., she came to Michigan in August to visit her sister, a teacher at Gull Lake High School near Kalamazoo.

"I wanted to get away from California and the memories," she says.

She was playing one day at a Kalamazoo racquetball club when she caught the attention of the manager, who offered her a job as program coordinator there.

After a brief return to the west coast, she accepted and moved to Michigan.

"I still have some stiffness in my fingers and I'm not as quick anymore," she says of her court skills since the stroke. "What I have to do now is develop muscle strength."

And a return to the fast-growing professional racquetball circuit?

"I don't know if I'll ever be that good any more. I hope. It's just a dream."

Steelers Owner To Toss Coin

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, will make the opening coin toss at Super Bowl XIV.

Rooney, who will celebrate his 79th birthday on Jan. 27, was invited by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle to flip the coin even before Pittsburgh qualified for its fourth appearance in the Super Bowl, to be held in Pasadena Sunday.

Rooney did not accompany the Steelers players on their flight to California Monday. He'll make the trip Thursday.

UCLA Begins Search For Athletic Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 12-member search committee was announced Monday by UCLA, the first step toward finding a replacement for retiring athletic director J.D. Morgan.

Chancellor Charles E. Young said he hopes the panel will have several recommendations by April 1.

The 60-year-old Morgan has held the post since 1963. He announced his retirement Oct. 29, effective June 30, 1980, due to health reasons.

Automakers Report Large Inventories

DETROIT (AP)—Despite heavy production cuts, U.S. automakers still are saddled with heavy inventories of unsold cars—the largest in five years.

The trade publication Automotive News said Monday the industry had 1,661,718 cars on hand on Jan. 1, enough to last 75 days.

A month earlier, inventories stood at 1,767,097, a 74-day supply.

A year ago, the stockpile was larger—1,729,221 cars—but would have sold faster, in 67 days.

The figure on Jan. 1, 1975 was 1,654,500, a 96-day supply then.

Generally, the industry is most comfortable with a 60-day supply.

Chrysler Corp. improved its supply from 128 days' worth on Dec. 1 to 113 days. On Jan. 1, 1979, Chrysler had enough cars for 103 days. Chrysler sales picked up after passage of aid legislation in Congress on Dec. 21.

General Motors Corp. supplies rose in December from 63 days to 66 days. A year earlier, stocks stood at 54 days.

Ford Motor Co. had 86 days' worth of cars compared with 87 a month earlier. Last year, Ford had 75 days' worth on hand.

American Motors Corp. had cars for 110 days, up from 91 days on Dec. 1 and down from 170 days a year earlier.

Volkswagen of America stocks rose, but that was an improvement because they had been so low. VW's inventories rose from a 33-day supply on Dec. 1 to 42 days compared with 51 days the previous year.

As has been true for months, GM's new front-wheel drive compacts were almost sold out. Despite production increases in the fall, supplies of two of the four models fell, one was unchanged and one only rose. That one was the Buick Skylark, from a bottom-of-the-barrel nine-day supply, to 14 days, leaving it still the industry's most demanded car when measured by tightness of supply.

Chrysler Corp. improved its supply from 128 days' worth on Dec. 1 to 113 days. On Jan. 1, 1979, Chrysler had enough cars for 103 days. Chrysler sales picked up after passage of aid legislation in Congress on Dec. 21.

Oil Industry Officials Brace For Long Strike

DENVER (AP) — The nation's first industry-wide strike of refinery workers in 11 years ended its first week today with no major talks scheduled and with a court ordering an end to violence outside a Houston refinery.

Most of the 100 oil companies affected by the walkout continued production at near-normal capacity with supervisors at the controls of the highly automated refineries.

"There's a possibility that this could be a long strike," said Jerry Archuleta, spokesman for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, which is headquartered here.

About 60,000 OCAW members walked off their jobs last Tuesday when union and oil industry officials failed to reach agreement on a new wage-benefit package for the second year of a two-year contract.

The companies say supervisory personnel, working 12-hour shifts and seven-day weeks, can operate the highly automated refineries for several weeks without interrupting fuel supplies. Five small refineries in various parts of the country have closed because of the strike.

Each of the union's locals negotiates its own agreement with its respective company, but each pact must be approved by the union's national bargaining committee.

Union talks with Gulf Oil Corp., traditionally the industry's pacesetter, broke down last Thursday. Robert Goss, OCAW president, called it a recess and said he had no idea when the parties would meet again.

The union won an 8 percent pay hike for the first year of the contract, which was the first negotiated under President Carter's wage-price guidelines. In announcing the strike, Goss called those guidelines "irrelevant to these talks."

The last pay raise added about one-tenths of a cent to the cost of a gallon of gasoline, Archuleta said.

Goss says he wants a "substantial" pay raise for 1980, but insists that wages will not be discussed until the entire industry provides fully paid medical-dental insurance.

Archuleta said that Gulf workers now have $84 a month paid for family medical coverage. The workers pay from $21 to $63 a month for their share of the premium.

In Houston, State District Judge Shearn Smith on Monday approved a temporary injunction prohibiting violence at the Atlantic Richfield plant and two allied firms after a worker was injured when rocks broke a bus window.

Town To Pay Family's Rent

EDGEMONT, S.D. (UPI) — The city of Edgemont will use U.S. Housing and Urban Development funds to pay nine months' rent for a family forced to leave their home because it was radioactive.

City planner John Krueger said Monday Neal Bradford, his wife and three children have moved into an apartment, and the city will provide $190 monthly to cover the family's rent and utility bills for nine months.

The Bradfords moved Friday after the Environmental Protection Agency advised them that their home of 28 months could pose a health hazard. The EPA specifically said 5-year-old Chris Bradford should be moved from his basement bedroom.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has estimated it would take at least four years to clean up the existing uranium tailings ponds and 213-acre mill site, which was decommissioned after heavy mining activities in the 1950s and 1960s.

The EPA has determined that at least 17 buildings in the southwestern South Dakota town of 1,200 may be on uranium tailings.

17 TEXAS CITIES Representing Millions of Texas Tax Paying Citizens Have VOTED AGAINST GRANTING COLLECTIVE BARGAINING:

Dallas	North Richland Hills	San Marcos
Mesquite	Grand Prairie	Brownwood
Houston	Galveston	League City
Hurst	Wichita Falls	Kingsville
Victoria	Baytown	Bryan
	Corsicana	Ft. Worth

These Cities Were Faced, As You Are Now, With Giving Control to Outside Union Agitators

And They Didn't Do it. They Voted AGAINST COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

VOTE AGAINST COLLECTIVE BARGAINING FOR FIRE FIGHTERS and VOTE AGAINST PAY RAISES FOR FIRE FIGHTERS

OUR FIREMEN DO A GREAT JOB, BUT

They received a 7% pay increase for this year in spite of an uncertain economy. The turnover is almost non-existent in the fire department. Most firemen are able and do hold second jobs while receiving FULL TIME pay as a Lubbock fireman (the third highest paid fire department among the major cities in Texas) Almost a third of them live outside the city of Lubbock.

VOTE AGAINST BOTH THESE PROPOSITIONS SATURDAY, JAN. 19, 1980

PAID FOR BY THE CITIZENS COMMITTEE, HEADED BY FORMER MAYORS AND COUNCILMEN FOR LUBBOCK
