

Snow Slows Travel Across Plains

COLD, WET RIDE — While many Lubbock drivers were battling snow-covered streets in their automobiles this morning, David Sifford, a Texas Tech University junior, decided it would be safer if he used two-wheeled transportation to get to school. Lubbock was hit with about 3½ inches of the white stuff early this morning. Lubbock public schools were open as usual, but many private schools shut down operations for the day. Weather Closes Some Schools

By BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A surprise snowstorm moved into Lubbock and the South Plains early today, dumping up to a half-foot of snow in some areas and slowing traffic, but weather forecasters said the precipitation is expected to end by tonight.

Several schools were closed in Lubbock and over the South Plains, although major highways remained open and road and air traffic continued.

A travelers' advisory was issued for the entire South Plains and a heavy snow warning covered the central and southern counties of the area.

Lubbock had recorded about 3½ inches of snow at noon today, after the second phase of the storm ended.

Brownfield reported 6½ inches in drifts, however, and Seagraves and Wellman in the southern South Plains closed their schools.

Lubbock public schools were holding classes, but Grace Christian School, New Life Academy and All-Saints Episcopal School here had closed.

Reese Air Force Base suspended operations for the day.

Western Hills Baptist Academy here and Ropesville schools opened at mid-morning.

The forecast calls for the snow to pile up 4 inches deep or deeper in Lubbock and to end by early tonight.

Temperatures will be in the mid-30s today, near 20 tonight and in the low 40s Wednesday.

Winds will be northerly at 15 to 25 mph today and 5 to 10 mph tonight.

Although the cold would appear to be enough to discourage water sports, weathermen issued wind warnings for area lakes.

National Weather Service radar showed the heaviest snow in a band from Cochran County east through Lubbock County.

"Driving conditions will also be hazardous in the higher mountain passes of southwestern Texas, especially in Guadalupe Pass, where snow showers may be locally heavy at times today," a Lubbock weatherman said.

Lubbock police were called to five traffic accidents, none of them serious, between 6:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. today.

There was a problem with early traffic getting over an icy Loop 289-Brownfield Highway overpass, but a police dispatcher said traffic was moving efficiently there by the time a patrolman arrived.

Lubbock International Airport and Lubbock Bus Terminal reported that no airline flights and bus runs had been canceled.

Light snow started falling here about 1 a.m. and stopped about 2:30 a.m. The brunt of the storm started at 3:30 a.m. and continued until after daybreak.

The snow came out of an upper-level disturbance clashing with cold air pushing southward.

The storm system at mid-morning was centered 100 miles west of El Paso and was moving eastward at 20 mph with "another increase in snowfall likely again later today as the upper-level storm system approaches from the west," weathermen reported.

Most of the state had foul weather today, and forecasts gave little hope of any rapid improvement.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported along the middle and upper Gulf Coast into North and East Texas. Scattered thunderstorms also were reported from far Southwest Texas into the Concho Valley, and rain and drizzle fell across central sections of the state.

Occasional snow was forecast for Northwest Texas, rain for South Texas and scattered thunderstorms for North and Southwest Texas.

A flash flood watch was in effect for Southeast Texas, where heavy rain fell during the night.

The extended forecast for the West Texas region calls for continued cold weather with a chance of rain or snow in the Panhandle Thursday through Saturday.

Carter, Bush Get Boost In Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — George Bush led Ronald Reagan in returns from the Iowa precinct caucuses and claimed an upset victory that gave a solid boost to his campaign for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter renewed his political love affair with Iowa Monday night and thrashed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in their first official confrontation.

With results from a non-binding straw poll of Republicans showing him leading Reagan, Bush said he would leave today for New Hampshire "and we'll do better there."

The New Hampshire primary on Feb. 26 is the next major test of the campaign.

With 1,985 of the Republican precincts reporting, Bush held a 30,436 to 24,792 lead over Reagan in the straw poll.

Sen. Howard H. Baker was third with 12,908; John B. Connally, 9,024; Rep. Philip Crane, 6,578; Rep. John Anderson, 3,806; Sen. Bob Dole, 2,478.

The Republican caucuses chose delegates to represent their precincts at county conventions, but the delegates were not bound to candidates by Monday's outcome.

Results from 2,442 of the 2,531 Democratic precincts gave Carter 59 percent, Kennedy 31 percent, uncommitted 10 percent.

Based on those figures, Iowa's 50 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August would be divided 29 for Carter, 15 for Kennedy and 5 uncommitted. One is yet to be awarded.

Both the Democratic and Republican vote counting will be resumed Wednesday.

From the earliest Monday night returns, Carter jumped to a two-to-one lead over Kennedy and held it throughout the night.

It was Iowa that gave Carter his boost out of obscurity in the 1976 race, and as soon as his 1980 victory was assured, the president issued a statement at the White House saying, "I deeply appreciate the vote of confidence from Iowa Democrats. Their expression of support is particularly welcome in these difficult times."

Kennedy met with supporters at his campaign headquarters in Washington and vowed to remain in the race.

"The reasons I run for president still remain," said the Massachusetts senator, who once led Carter by a big margin in public opinion polls, a margin that reversed in recent weeks.

"Tonight, according to my count," Kennedy told supporters, "President Carter needs 1,643 (delegates) more to win the nomination. We need 1,657 and we're going to get it."

Famed Soviet Dissident Reported Under Arrest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today stripped dissident leader and Nobel Peace Prize winner Andrei Sakharov of a series of state awards, accusing him of "subversive work against the Soviet state." Dissidents said Sakharov had been arrested.

Police guarding his home hinted Sakharov might be deported.

The Tass news agency did not make any mention of an arrest or a possible deportation. But it said the 58-year-old Sakharov had been repeatedly warned against making "open calls to reactionary circles of imperialist states to interfere in the U.S.S.R.'s internal affairs." Sakharov has pushed for human rights in the Soviet Union in appeals to President Carter, Pope John Paul II and other world leaders.

After the Tass statement appeared, plainclothesmen at Sakharov's building told reporters "It's all over." They then suggested the reporters go to Sheremetyevo Airport, raising immediate speculation that the dissident was being summarily deported. But in response to a direct question, the officials would not confirm Sakharov was at the airport.

Shortly before the Tass announcement, The Associated Press office in Moscow received two telephone calls saying Sakharov had been arrested. The first was from an anonymous caller who said Sakharov's wife, activist Yelena Bonner, soon would be taken into custody as well.

The second was from someone identifying herself as Irina Kaplun, a long-time associate of Sakharov in dissident activities, who said he had been arrested on a Moscow street.

Reporters said many plainclothes policemen were milling about in the street near the Sakharov building on the southeast edge of downtown Moscow.

Later the uniformed police barred the entrance to the Sakharov building and explained that the authorities were searching an apartment, but that it was not Sakharov's. They would say nothing more.

Police had put up temporary no parking signs in front of the Sakharov building on Moscow's busy Ring Road.

Sakharov, 58, won the Peace Prize in 1975, but was not allowed to go to Oslo to collect it. His wife, then an eye patient in Italy, went and received the prize for him.

Sakharov has two children, Alyosha, 23, and Tatyana, 29, who live in Boston, Mass.

His first link with the Soviet dissident movement came in 1966, when he joined a group opposing the political rehabilitation of Joseph Stalin's memory.

He then came to the attention of Soviet police after the 1968 publication of his manifesto, "Progress, Coexistence and Intellectual Freedom," which catapulted him to the forefront of Moscow's dissident community.

Sakharov has said he and his wife have often been subjected to anonymous threats, house searches, obscene and cruel mail campaigns and other harassment.

Area Man Linked To Shot

PLAINVIEW — Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin this morning testified that he encountered Loy Stone holding a shotgun outside the Stone residence the harrowing Halloween night in 1977 in which Stone reportedly admitted to firing the gun to frighten some children.

Martin's testimony came outside the presence of the jury during the second day of arguments in Stone's trial for the murder of 15-year-old Roxanne Casas, a Dimmitt High School sophomore who died that night after being struck in the head by a shotgun blast.

"I saw the Stones come from behind some bushes, and Mr. Stone was carrying a shotgun," Martin said. "I asked what was going on, and Mr. Stone said he shot one time to scare some kids off."

Martin also said he earlier had received a call that "kids were harassing" the Stones. "I stopped the car coming from their house. They were kids from Hereford who said they were looking for the witches' house. I told them to go home."

Department of Public Safety patrolman Jackie Gunnels then testified he had arrived at the Stones' residence after receiving a call from Martin to help in the investigation of a shooting there.

"I told Mr. Stone there had been some trouble, and we wanted to get the

Gold Drops Sharply At Major Markets

By United Press International
The price of gold plunged to $727 an ounce in early trading in New York today, almost $100 lower than it closed the day before. The sharp drop started earlier in Europe and accelerated as U.S. traders took profits on gold's spectacular rise.

The U.S. dollar opened stronger on all major European markets except London. Right after markets opened in New York, gold was trading at $727 an ounce, down almost $100 from Monday's close of $826 an ounce.

In earlier trading in London, gold opened at $812 an ounce, down from $825 at Monday's close, then skidded to $763 at the mid-morning price fixing. The downward trend in London started Monday afternoon when profit-takers moved in after gold hit a record $850 an ounce at the afternoon fixing.

In Zurich, gold opened at $835, down $15 from Monday's record close of $850.

Turner Slaps Chamber

By MARY ALICE ROBBINS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

One former Lubbock mayor has criticized the Chamber of Commerce for not taking a public stand in the recent special election on pay raises and collective bargaining rights for city firefighters.

M.W. "Moe" Turner says the reason the chamber did not get involved in a campaign to oppose the firefighters' issues is because it is partially supported by city tax money. "And that's not good," he said.

Turner was referring to the dedicated portion of the city's tax rate that funds the Board of City Development, which operates under the chamber. This year, the BCD funding amounts to approximately $689,000.

According to Turner, he organized a special committee of former mayors and city councilmen to oppose the pay raise and bargaining rights measures because no one else in the local business community had taken a stand in the election.

"Of course, the chamber would have been the logical place for this to have been organized," Turner said.

In Turner's opinion, passage of the pay raise and collective bargaining propositions would have "greatly affected" Lubbock's business community. He said that the chamber represents the business community here and "should have gotten involved feet first in the campaign."

Turner charged that the chamber could more actively support issues for business here if it didn't receive tax funds. "Our chamber is one of the few in the U.S. that is tax-supported," he said, noting that most chambers of commerce are supported by contributions from the business community.

"I think we would have a more active chamber if it weren't on public sugar," Turner added.

Local chamber officials said the possibility of taking a public stand in the special election was discussed by the organization's executive committee. "It was

Treasury Bombarded With Taxpayers' Questions

By GLENN RITT
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Why are you making us live in sin?" the angry taxpayer asked. "Why can't I deduct this charitable contribution?" another writer wanted to know.

Day in and day out, letters stream in to the Treasury Department. Come tax time, the stream becomes a deluge.

The federal tax system doesn't invite sin, but it permits married couples only a $3,400 standard deduction (now called a zero bracket amount). Unmarried couples can take standard deductions totaling $4,600.

For many two-income couples, that's enough reason to stay unmarried.

And, of course, you can deduct charitable contributions, but only if you itemize. Otherwise, says Treasury, it would be a windfall to nonitemizers who get a standard deduction anyway.

Following are several complaints, or

Second In A Series

questions, taxpayers frequently bring to Treasury's attention.

"Even after withholding so much, I still owe taxes."

The IRS tries to match the amount withheld with the amount owed, but this is not always possible. You may earn additional income that isn't subject to withholding, or you may forget to claim the proper number of withholding exemptions at work.

Having too little tax withheld is a particular problem when both the husband and wife work — a very common situation in these inflationary times when two incomes are needed to make ends meet.

Withholding tables assume that each spouse is the sole wage earner and that the other spouse has small or no earnings. So at the end of the year, a couple may owe more taxes than the total withheld by their separate employers.

The same predicament may face a person who takes a second job.

The IRS recommends that, in the future, you either reduce the number of exemptions claimed for withholding purposes, request withholding at the higher single person's level, or ask your boss to hold back for taxes an extra amount of your salary each week.

"I purposely had less tax withheld each week; now I learn I may have violated the law."

The IRS requires that you estimate and pay what you owe by the end of the year. This assures a regular flow of revenues into the Treasury to pay for government expenses.

It also keeps those who underwithhold from having an unfair advantage over other taxpayers. Otherwise, they could take that money and invest it, earning interest that Uncle Sam doesn't offer.

"Why should unemployment benefits be taxed?"

This is the first year that some unemployment compensation can be taxed. Generally, only people earning substantial other income will be affected.

The government taxes one-half of the unemployment compensation that brings your adjusted gross income above $20,000, if you file individually, or $25,000 if you file jointly.

For example, if you earned $19,000 in 1979 and then received $2,000 in unemployment compensation when you were laid off, you will be taxed on $1,000 of that compensation.

"Inflation is killing senior citizens on fixed incomes. What tax breaks do we have?"

There are numerous provisions aimed at reducing the tax burden of people 65 or over. Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits are not taxed. A person also gets a special tax credit and an additional personal exemption worth $1,000 if they are age 65 or older.

In addition, anybody 55 or over can exclude for once-in-a-lifetime up to $100,000 of the gain on a home sale.

"It's hard enough to save today. Why isn't interest on savings tax-exempt?"

While it isn't exempt this year, the odds are improving that it may be soon. Congress is considering numerous plans to help the small saver. One proposal, for example, would exclude $200 in savings interest for an individual and $400 for couples filing jointly.

Until such a law, however, here's the official Treasury explanation:

"Excluding some or all interest income from taxation would pose significant equity problems by giving it a preferential status compared with income from wages, salaries and other sources. In addition, most of the benefits from the preference would go to higher income taxpayers."

"Am I eligible for an Individual Retirement Account?"

If you are not covered by a company retirement plan, you can sock away either $1,500 or 15 percent of your 1979 earned income whichever is smaller, in an individual retirement account and subtract that amount from your gross income.

If your spouse is not employed, he or she may do the same. If your spouse doesn't work, you can set up an IRA of $1,750 at any bank, savings and loan association, credit union or brokerage house. Of course, you must itemize your deductions.

Ohio Town's Economy Faltering

CLEVELAND (AP) — Within a year after 4,600 jobs were lost in Youngstown, employment in the area was back at its previous level, says a report by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

But even though the area has managed to recover from the loss of these jobs, the decline in its steel industry has meant a shrinking of the local economy in relation to the national economy, says an article in the bank's quarterly Economic Review.

The review, published by the bank's research department, reports in the current issue on a survey conducted nearly a year after Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. announced it was shutting down its Campbell Works.

The company, which was merged with LTV Corp.'s Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. when its parent company was taken over by LTV, made the announcement on Sept. 19, 1977. The shutdown took place over a period of about four months. The survey of 4,200 union workers laid off by the company was conducted in July and August 1978.

Total employment in the Youngstown-Warren market dropped by 4,600 over the last three months of 1977 because white-collar workers were also let go by the company and the layoffs affected other area businesses.

By the summer of 1978, it was found that about one-third of the workers were re-employed, though not necessarily in comparable or even permanent jobs; some 400-600 laid-off workers had relocated to other areas; and about 1,000 took early retirement. It also revealed that up to 1,500 were still seeking employment.

"Considering the relatively large number of workers involved in this plant shutdown," the article said, "the Youngstown-Warren labor market was remarkably successful in reabsorbing the laid-off workers."

The research found that expansion by other industries in northeast Ohio helped absorb the excess of workers.

"Between April 1977 (prior to the shutdown) and April 1979, the total employment in the Youngstown-Warren (area) expanded by 6,900, or 3.8 percent," the report noted. The increase was less than one-half as rapid as the increase nationwide, but was equivalent to one and one-half times the number of workers laid off at the Campbell Works.

Since the study was conducted, the Youngstown-Warren area has been hit by other steel industry shutdowns. Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.'s decision to close its Brier Hill Works and one remaining blast furnace at the Campbell works cost 1,400 jobs. U.S. Steel Corp.'s plans to shut down its Ohio and McDonald works this year mean the loss of 3,500 jobs.

The ability of the Youngstown-Warren SMSA (standard metropolitan statistical area) to restore its pre-shutdown levels of employment at comparable unemployment rates in as short a time as one year attests to the strength of the local labor market as an adjustment mechanism," the article concluded, while adding that does not mean the impact of the steel shutdowns should be minimized.

"The local economy has shrunk relative to the national economy as a result of the plant shutdown," it said. "Unless new sources of industrial growth can be found to replace the jobs lost to permanent shutdowns, the economy of the Youngstown-Warren SMSA will adjust by continuing to fall behind the national economy, both in employment and labor force growth."

'Icebergs' Painting Sold For $225,000

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — An early version of the 19th-century Frederic Edwin Church painting "Icebergs" has been sold for $225,000. The more famous rendering of "Icebergs" was sold last October for $2.5 million, the largest sum ever paid for a painting by an American artist and the third highest for any painting.

The smaller painting, sold Saturday at a Birmingham art auction to an unidentified Bloomfield Hills, Mich., businessman, was owned by Church's great-grandson, who lives in Birmingham. University of Michigan art historian David Huntington described it as "sort of a preview of the final work."

The Braniff Promise.

We hereby promise to make every effort to give the best airline service in the world.

Braniff sincerely believes that service industries — airlines included — have allowed their performance to deteriorate seriously. We want to take a stand against that trend.

That's why we're making a promise to do everything possible to provide the best airline service in the world.

Obviously, this is an ambitious goal. But we're no stranger to a difficult task.

Only 15 years ago Braniff was a small carrier. Today we fly between 75 cities all over the U.S. and the world.

We expect to perform a similar feat in the area of service. We promise to do everything we can to give you, not just good service, the best.

And when you make promises like these, you'd better be better.

1. We promise to knock ourselves out to be the world's friendliest, most professional airline personnel.

The rapid growth in air travel may have overwhelmed some airlines. Our people intend to go right on being friendly and professional. Because that's the kind of people we hire and train. For example, we screen 160 candidates for every flight attendant job we offer. Then we give them an intensive 5½ week course. And to keep them sharp we retrain them every year. The result is people who have the skill to do a good job and the confidence to be friendly.

2. We promise to provide frequent schedules throughout the U.S. and to Europe, Asia, Mexico and South America.

Only Braniff serves over 50 major cities in the U.S., 15 principal cities and capitals in South America and Mexico, 5 of the most important cities in Europe, and 5 in the Pacific and Far East. And because of its remarkable hub-and-spoke design, our system often provides the fastest service between many of the regions and countries we serve.

3. We promise to do everything we can to run an on-time airline.

Braniff now has a good on-time record. Of course, we'd like to have a 100% on-time record. We can't. No airline can. Here's some of what we do to minimize delays: We provide standby aircraft to replace delayed equipment. We're expanding our terminals to expedite arrivals. We keep schedules realistic by revising them to reflect wind and seasonal changes. And we use aviation's most advanced computer to generate flight plans that avoid potential delays.

4. We promise to provide quick, accurate ticket purchase and check-in.

Braniff has now linked all our airport ticket counters to a new computer that lets you pick up your ticket, check in and get your seat assignment all in one operation. And when you're taking a connecting flight, with Braniff's Connect Check-In you only have to check in once. And we've created Braniff's Advance Seat Assignment, so you can select your seat when you make your reservation by phone.

5. We promise to handle your bags with care and deliver them promptly.

You fly to save time. So the last thing you need is to waste time waiting for your bags. That's why we have luggage service teams assigned by zone for faster delivery at even the most distant gates in our big terminals. And why we have special expeditors to insure delivery of "connects" no matter how far they have to travel through the airport.

6. We promise to serve some of the best food you've ever eaten on any airline.

Our meals are prepared from fresh food. We buy the food at its source in markets all over the world and fly it — still fresh — throughout our system. And there's another reason our food is better — variety. We prepare dishes based on the cuisine of the many nations we fly to.

7. We promise to fly young, beautifully decorated airplanes.

Braniff's fleet is one of the youngest of any major airline in domestic or international service. In the U.S. we fly young Boeing 727-200s. Across the Atlantic or Pacific we fly young Boeing 747 jumbos and, the newest of the new, the Boeing 747SP. All these airplanes have exciting colors and bold designs to look at on the outside, soft restful colors, Halston wardrobes and most have real leather seats to enjoy on the inside.

8. We promise to fly airplanes you can depend on.

We've built our fleet on what we consider to be the two most dependable aircraft in commercial aviation today — the Boeing 727 and the Boeing 747. Both aircraft have a brilliant record of performance with us. And this year we'll be adding even more of them to our fleet, including the most advanced 747 in the sky — the Boeing 747SP.

In the most recent survey published by the Airline Passengers Association, the 727 and the 747 were chosen as the preferred airplane for short and long-distance flights respectively. So they're not only the airplanes we prefer to fly. They're the airplanes frequent travelers want to fly on, too.

9. We promise to offer bargain vacation fares to every Braniff city.

We can save you up to 50% on international fares including our new budget fares in the Pacific. And we can save you up to 40% domestically. And to some destinations we can save you even more. For example, we have standby fares to Britain and Europe that can save you up to 60%.

10. We promise to answer our phones and provide information promptly.

Braniff has just installed the most advanced telephone reservations and information system in the airline business. It has increased by a full 30% the number of calls we can handle at a given time. So for schedules, fares or other information on 7,500 flights between 15,000 city pairs, flown by 70 different airlines, in 107 countries, around the clock, call 800-492-4300.

We better be better.

Concern Beyond Afghan

THE KREMLIN may be accomplishing with its presence in Afghanistan what the State Department, the PLO, Ramsey Clark, the UN Security Council and Secretary Gen. Kurt Waldheim have not been able to do. That is, hasten the release of the Tehran hostages.

THE CAREFULLY orchestrated Western maneuvers to isolate the Soviet Union in the UN and to persuade at least the Islamic portion of the Third World to unite in condemnation may succeed to the long-term detriment of the Kremlin.

(Last Of Two Parts) WASHINGTON—Dr. Hans Albrecht Bethe, who fled Hitlerite Germany in 1935 and has been a prominent member of the American scientific community since World War II, told his interviewer for The New Yorker, Jeremy Bernstein, how German life between 1918-24 was painfully blighted by a situation in another country—despite the reign of nominal peace.

Bethe, then a schoolboy, had the task of bicycling twice a week to the cashier at the University of Frankfurt, where his father headed the physiology department, to collect the parent's salary.

THE MAIN REASON for such instability was that France held the Ruhr Valley coal fields for nonpayment of war reparations by the Germans. Without coal, Germany had an energy shortage which came near drowning it.

Sylvia Porter: Measure Mutual Funds With A Different Ruler

WASHINGTON—Of the more than 7.5 million Americans who have invested a huge $50 billion through one or more of the 440 mutual funds offered to the public, I'll wager only a minority of you truly understand how to measure your fund's performance.

THE REASON? Most of you understandably value your fund's shares the same way that you measure the action of a corporation's securities.

IF THE STOCK pays dividends, you also add up all the dividends you have received over the past year or the period of your holding the shares to determine your overall investment results.

THE DIFFERENCE in the methods of valuation centers around the capital gains distributions made by mutual funds.

THE DIVIDENDS you receive from a fund represent true earnings to you just as the dividends you get from a corporate stock. You treat both the same way when valuing your investment.

IF YOU TAKE the distribution in additional shares of stock at net asset value, you have more shares at a lower price which have the same value and earning power as the fewer shares you owned before.

YOUR CAPITAL at work in a mutual fund at any given time is the current net asset value of all your shares, not the total you originally invested in the fund.

Citizens Want Carter To Toughen Stand On Crises

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans support President Carter on the crises in Iran and Afghanistan but want him to take a harder line to try to resolve them, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Overall, Americans' ratings of Carter fell seven points in the last month, as the movement of Soviet troops into Afghanistan piled atop failure to secure freedom for the American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

But a number of Carter's specific responses to the Soviet military occupation of Afghanistan drew substantial public backing, including strong support for his partial embargo of grain shipments to Russia. The public, however, still wants him to be tougher in his dealings with the Soviets.

The poll was conducted Thursday and Friday, before President Carter announced Sunday that he was asking the U.S. Olympic Committee to withdraw from the 1980 Summer Games in Moscow unless Soviet troops are withdrawn from Afghanistan.

After the Soviets moved thousands of troops into Afghanistan in late December, Carter announced a series of actions against Russia, including a partial embargo on shipments of grain, an embargo on computers and other high-technology items and the possibility of withdrawing from the Olympics.

Just as approval of Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis boosted his ratings from the low figures of mid-1979, public frustration over failure to secure freedom for the hostages eroded Americans' judgment of his overall performance.

Thirty-eight percent gave Carter good or excellent ratings for his work overall in the latest poll. That's down from 45 percent in the mid-December AP-NBC News survey. Forty-four percent gave him an "only fair" rating last week, compared to 41 percent last month. Sixteen percent rated his efforts "poor," up from 12 percent. Two percent each month were not sure.

This drop is larger than the slump in Carter's overall job rating two months after the 1978 Camp David summit on the Middle East. In those two months, Carter's rating dropped four points from a peak of 42 percent.

Carter's response to the Soviet Union's intervention in Afghanistan drew the approval of 49 percent of those questioned. Thirty percent disapproved and 12 percent were not sure.

Nine percent of those questioned said they had not heard of the Afghan situation.

On the Olympics, 66 percent of the Americans who have heard of the Afghan crisis favored moving the Games from Moscow. Twenty-six percent opposed such a move and eight percent were undecided.

Olympic officials say a shift such as Carter wants is not possible because of the enormous logistics of the Games.

Asked directly whether the United States should refuse to compete in the Moscow Games, Americans favor withdrawal, but by a narrow margin.

Forty-nine percent of those who know of the Afghan situation said the United States should not participate in the Moscow Games, but 41 percent disagreed. Ten percent of the 1,595 adults interviewed across the country by telephone were not sure.

Those who favor withdrawal argue the Soviets must be punished for the Afghan intervention and that withdrawal of the U.S. team would be a severe blow to the international prestige the Soviets hoped to win by hosting the Games. Opponents of withdrawal argue that the Olympics must be kept above politics.

On the specific topic of the embargo on shipments of U.S. grain to the Soviets, 80 percent of those who had heard of the Afghanistan crisis backed the embargo. Sixteen percent were opposed and 4 percent weren't sure.

By an even larger 87-10 margin, they backed Carter's ban on shipments of U.S. high-technology items — like computers and machinery — to the Soviets.

Despite support for Carter's actions, 56 percent of the public said he has not been tough enough in his dealings with the Soviets, with 38 percent saying he has set the right tone. Two percent said he has been too tough and 4 percent were not sure.

This finding is changed only a bit from September — before the Iran and Afghanistan crises — when 56 percent said he was not tough enough, 31 percent said he set the right tone, one percent said he was too tough and 12 percent were not sure.

Carter's handling of the crisis in Iran still has the approval of Americans, but the backing has been eroded somewhat by the continuing captivity of the Americans taken hostage Nov. 4.

Fifty-six percent of the public approves of Carter's actions on Iran, down 13 points from mid-December. Thirty-eight percent now disapprove of his actions, up from 21 percent in the last AP-NBC News poll. The remainder in both polls were not sure.

American frustration is clear. Fifty-seven percent agree that it is time to "do whatever is necessary to teach Iran a lesson." Thirty-five percent disagree and 8 percent are not sure.

And the public is less likely to say Carter is doing all he can to spring the hostages. Sixty-one percent still agree he is doing everything, down from 72 percent in mid-December. Thirty-four say he is not doing enough, up from 21 percent last month. The remainder each month were not sure.

As with every sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News poll can vary from the opinions of all those with telephones across the country.

B-52 Bombers Surveying Soviet Naval Fleet In Indian Ocean

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a pointed demonstration of heavyweight U.S. military power, the Carter administration has sent B-52 bombers flying over the Soviet Union's Indian Ocean naval squadron.

In announcing the latest U.S. maneuver in the crisis generated by Russia's invasion of Afghanistan, the Pentagon said Monday that an unspecified number of the eight-jet bombers "performed sea surveillance missions" in the Indian Ocean-Arabian Sea area.

"This long-range surveillance capability of the B-52 is a reflection of the significant U.S. ability to project force worldwide," Pentagon spokesman Thomas Ross said.

While B-52s have been practicing sea surveillance over the Atlantic for more than three years, the U.S. Navy doesn't need the long-range bombers to watch the movements of the 24 Soviet Navy ships cruising in the Gulf of Aden, the Arabian Sea and the main body of the Indian Ocean.

P-3 Orion patrol planes, equipped with cameras and other sensors, regularly monitor Soviet naval movements in flights from the U.S. base on British-ruled Diego Garcia to turnaround fields in Oman and Kenya.

What's more, two big U.S. aircraft carriers operating off Oman are able easily to send up their own planes for shorter-range surveillance of Soviet fleet units. It is known, too, that U.S. and Russian navy surface ships "eyeball" each other in those critical waters.

But B-52s have a symbolic value because for many years before the advent of long-range missiles, they were the principal U.S. nuclear striking weapons. In the Vietnam war, many of them were converted to carry high-explosive bombs against targets in Vietnam.

Apart from announcing the first B-52 sea surveillance missions in those waters, the Pentagon made a mystery of the operation.

Ross said that the B-52s carry no nuclear weapons and that they "flew from existing U.S. bases."

But he refused to give any details — on the number of planes involved, identification of their bases, the routes they took, how close they came to the Soviet fleet, or what Russian reaction was, if any.

Other Pentagon sources indicated the planes came from the Pacific and were refueled in flight. The principal U.S. B-52 base in the Pacific is on Guam.

NTSU Teacher Cites Effects Of Boycott

DENTON (AP) — Economic sanctions against the Soviet Union may have their impact, but a boycott of the Olympic Games would be "almost devastating," a political science professor says.

Milan Reban, a teacher at North Texas State University, was in Russia when the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan began.

"The Soviet people have more money to spend now than ever before, but something like the boycott of the Olympics would be almost devastating, psychologically," said Milan Reban, a North Texas State University teacher who was in Russia when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan.

It would probably hurt the Russian people more than any other action that could be taken. The people of Russia are looking forward to the Olympics very much. Very much. It is very important to them.

Reban, 46, visited the Soviet Union in late December and early January in a group of U.S. professors and students and said anticipation of the games was obvious.

"You could see it in the proud wearing of lapel pins. Young Russians are obsessed with these lapel pins that point to the Olympics in Moscow," Reban said.

To the people in Russia, getting the Olympics was a very important statement in terms of their arrival in international respect.

Reban's classes focus on Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. He is a native of Czechoslovakia who came to the United States in the 1950s.

Activist Brings Letters To U.S.

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — An American Indian activist who visited the U.S. Embassy in Tehran this month says he has 140 letters for delivery to the relatives of 40 American hostages.

John Thomas of South Dakota, vice president of the International Indian Treaty Council and a member of the American Indian Movement, said he worked out a letter exchange agreement during his visit to Iran.

Thomas, at a news conference Monday, said some of the letters were for relatives of Frederick "Rick" Kupke, a former Oklahoman. He said he was delivering the letters personally and did not claim credit for a letter received last week by Kupke's aunt in Meers, Okla.

Kupke's relatives at Meers earlier criticized Thomas' visit to Iran, saying any good he accomplished was offset by his actions in leading a demonstration outside the embassy. They accused him of exploiting Indians and said he had shamed a noble race.

"I went there to promote the treaty issue and to tell the world of the oppression we suffer under this very day here in America," Thomas said Monday. "I understood the hostage situation, the students' position, prior to going to Iran. There would be no negotiation."

Buying new locomotives is just a part of our 1980 capital improvement program. Altogether we are spending $371 million. In addition to these new engines, our program includes adding 2,075 new freight cars, rebuilding 85 locomotives and 638 freight cars, modifying an additional 217 cars and adding 448 miles of new and reconditioned welded rail.

We have spent $1.5 billion in the past ten years on physical improvements. This is in addition to the $4.25 billion spent in the same period for the routine maintenance of our equipment and roadway. As a result, our railway is in top physical shape, ready to meet the transportation needs of a growing America.

Queen's Salary May Be Cut

LONDON (AP) — Britain's royal family may have to cut back on housekeeping expenses.

Cabinet Minister John Biffen, chief secretary to the Treasury, told the House of Commons on Monday that the royal family headed by Queen Elizabeth II won't escape Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's drive to cut government spending.

One Tory lawmaker protested that to reduce the royal allowance for official expenses would "devalue a major British institution." But a Laborite argued: "No one should be protected against inflation — the royal family has plenty of fat to live on."

The allowance last year amounted to $6.8 million in taxpayer funds, with more than two-thirds going to the queen. The allowance is used for salaries of royal staff and the cost of elaborate state ceremonies.

Mary Tyler Moore Tries Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Tyler Moore, whose first Broadway bid bombed, is trying again in "Whose Life Is It Anyway?"

The original play, as performed last year by Toni winner Tom Conti, centered on a man paralyzed from the neck down in a car crash.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

"I'm looking forward to it," Miss Moore said. "It's another level of relationship because the role will now be played by a woman. Some say it is not as important for a woman to lose her sexuality as it is for a man. But of course, that's not true."

"I look at the character as being a very aggressive, sexually active person. And that's the way I'll play her."

Miss Moore's Broadway debut 15 years ago in "Breakfast at Tiffany's" closed in previews.

Williams To Make Pops Debut

BOSTON (AP) — Slipping gradually away from the legend of the late white-haired Arthur Fiedler, the Boston Pops steps out tonight under the lead of a red-bearded devotee of movie music.

John Williams, winner of three Oscars for scores for "Star Wars," "Jaws," and "Fiddler on the Roof," is conducting the Pops in concert for the first time as its director. Williams says he plans to play more movie music with the Pops. "I want to encourage people to write new music in the popular and light field," he said Monday.

In his debut at Carnegie Hall in New York City, Williams will conduct a program ranging from a Saint-Saens violin concerto to his own compositions, "The Superman March" and Princess Leia's theme from "Star Wars." But he has no intention of abandoning Fiedler's show tunes and old-fashioned marches.

"We will play the 'Stars and Stripes Forever,' forever," he said.

Choir Takes Fall

ST. MAWGAN, England (AP) — The local male choir was singing "When Stars Begin to Fall" when suddenly the baritone and tenors fell right through the floor.

An astonished congregation looked on at St. Mawgan Methodist Church as rotten flooring gave way beneath the St. Columbia Choir.

"It's my most unusual experience in 10 years conducting," choir director Ivan Kessell said Monday.

"People gasped, but they all saw the funny side of it afterwards when it was discovered no one was hurt."

Within five minutes of Sunday's accident, the choir was back in action with the hymn "My Anchor Holds," he said.

Marcos Cancels Political Visit

DAVAO CITY, Philippines (AP) — President and Mrs. Ferdinand Marcos canceled a planned political visit to Davao City after grenade blasts killed eight persons here in four days, authorities said.

Tiny flags already had been passed out to school children for the welcome ceremony when the cancellation was announced today.

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, were to have campaigned here for candidates of their New Society Movement who are running in local elections to be held Jan. 30.

Suspected Maoist terrorists threw three hand grenades into the main police station last Thursday, killing three people and wounding 20. Sunday night, a grenade was thrown into a suburban family's home, killing five.

Win Gives Boost To Bush's Campaign Hopes

By WALTER R. MEARS

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — President Carter, back from the political depths, has taken command of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, and now it is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy who has to prove himself.

In Iowa's Republican competition, former United Nations Ambassador George Bush led Ronald Reagan, and burst from a crowded field as the prime challenger to the former California governor. The GOP returns were incomplete, but Bush said he had a victory whatever the final tally.

Iowa belongs to the president, by a landslide, but in a month Carter will face Kennedy again — this time in the challenger's home territory.

The verdict of Iowa's neighborhood political meetings Monday night did not alter the stakes in New Hampshire, which holds the first Democratic presidential primary election on Feb. 26.

The Massachusetts senator could, and did, shrug off his drubbing in the farm country, but his candidacy probably could not survive a defeat in New Hampshire, where the voters speak with his own clipped New England accent.

The Iowa vote was recorded in 2,531 precinct political meetings, which chose delegates to county caucuses and apportioned the state's votes for a 1980 presidential nominee.

With 2,442 precincts counted, Carter had won 59 percent of the precinct level delegates, Kennedy had won 31 percent, and 10 percent were uncommitted.

The protected lineup of nominating votes at the national convention was 29 for Carter, 15 for Kennedy, 5 uncommitted, and one yet to be awarded. Final computations could alter those totals.

Iowa Republicans changed their party's campaign landscape by awarding Bush his narrow edge over Reagan.

It was a near thing, but for Reagan, whose managers used front-runner as a synonym for his name, a defeat could be devastating.

Reagan campaigned sparingly in Iowa, saying that a man in his position had to campaign all over the country and could not concentrate on one contest. In fact, while Reagan was at work in other states, he spent a good share of his time at home in California.

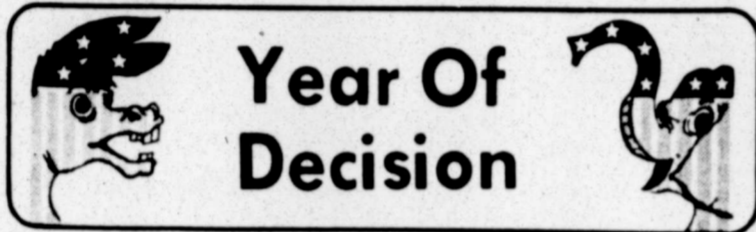

At 68, in his second all-out campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, Reagan had the advantages and faced the hazards of the acknowledged leader.

One of those risks lies in the fact that a leader's losses are magnified. Another, peculiar to Reagan, is his leisurely campaign pace could draw attention to the nagging issue of his age.

Analysis

tion, and now it is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy who has to prove himself. He'll have ample opportunity.

GOP Candidate For President Convinced Of Ultimate Victory

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — The crowd yelled their chant — "George... George... George" — and Republican presidential candidate George Bush, leader in the Iowa caucuses, yelled back.

"Because you believed in something, it happened," he shouted to the gathering of several hundred supporters while returns were still coming in from Iowa's 2,531 precinct caucuses.

"Because of what's happened in Iowa, we're going all the way to the White House — I'm totally convinced of it."

Only hours before, the large hotel meeting room with Bush posters taped to the walls had been deserted.

But when the first returns from the straw polls conducted at precinct caucuses were posted in a ballroom across the hallway, Bush had taken the lead over Ronald Reagan.

Before long, Bush supporters found the empty room. They sat down, watched television and waited for their winner.

Shortly before midnight, the brass band began to blare.

A chorus of "We want Bush" filled the room. The crowd suddenly parted and the former United Nations ambassador, his gray suit slightly wrinkled, climbed onto the stage.

Bush's Iowa campaign director, George Wittgraf spoke first.

"As John Sears said tonight, it's a two-man race," Wittgraf grinned, taking a verbal poke at the Reagan campaign manager's televised comments on the surprising Iowa results.

"No!" the crowd shouted back. "One man, one, one..."

Wittgraf laughed, then nodded.

"OK," he said. "We're down to a one-man race already because of the work of all the volunteers in this room and across the state. We've got a candidate for the '80s."

The rest was lost in the roar.

Bush moved to the microphone, thrusting both arms into the air.

"I want to express my heartfelt gratitude to each of you," he said, complimenting the campaign workers who had made his the strongest organization in the state.

"I've been savoring the (television) commentaries tonight. They're all saying it was good organization. Well, what is wrong with good organization?"

The crowd roared.

"That's grassroots politics," he shouted.

The crowd roared louder, longer.

Kennedy Concedes Defeat To Carter In Caucuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedys almost never lose elections, but Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was ready with a quip and a smile when he conceded defeat to President Carter in the Iowa caucuses.

"Well, we could have done a little better," the Massachusetts senator jokingly told several hundred supporters Monday night at his campaign headquarters.

Like all losers, he forecast better times ahead, declaring, "Tonight, according to my count, President Carter needs 1,643 delegates more to win the nomination. We need 1,657 and were going to get it," he promised. It will take 1,666 delegates to win the Democratic nomination at the party convention this summer.

Kennedy consistently described himself as the underdog in Iowa, but he had to be disappointed in the margin of his defeat. He had said that Carter would have to win 50 percent of the delegates to claim a real victory and the president did that, and more.

Kennedy began his challenge to Carter last Nov. 7, owning a wide lead over the president in national opinion polls. His standing dropped steadily and Carter's rose as the president dealt with successive international crises. Monday night, Tom Southwick, Kennedy's press secretary, attributed the defeat to the nation's "preoccupation" with foreign policy crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

Asked whether there was discussion within the campaign of Kennedy dropping out of the race, he replied, "No, absolutely none." But he said the Massachusetts senator was facing an "uphill battle" as he contests Carter for the Democratic nomination.

The next competition between Kennedy and Carter will be the Feb. 26 New Hampshire primary and Southwick said Kennedy would campaign almost exclusively over the next month in New England.

Morris Dees, Kennedy's top fundraiser, said, "It's my job to keep things going through New Hampshire," and he acknowledged that the Iowa defeat would make it tougher to raise money. Dees said he would make fresh appeals to the 15,000 people who contributed to Kennedy's last direct mail solicitation.

Iowans Cast Ballots In Record Numbers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Iowans went to their neighborhood political party caucuses in record numbers as Democrats gave overwhelming support to President Carter and Republicans gave former United Nations Ambassador George Bush an edge.

"What we have had is a primary, not a caucus," said Steve Johnson, press secretary for the Sen. Edward Kennedy campaign in Iowa, which was hoping for a lighter turnout. "The turnout was much larger than expected."

Iowa Democratic Party Chairman Ed Campbell and GOP Chairman Steve Roberts each said his party had about 100,000 caucus participants. That equaled the Republican turnout in 1952 during the Taft-Eisenhower campaign and far exceeded the previous Democratic record of 70,000 set in the 1968 Johnson-McCarthy campaign.

In 1976, 38,576 Democrats and 20,253 Republicans attended their neighborhood caucuses.

The unexpectedly high turnout resulted in crowded meeting rooms across the state.

In Bettendorf, it was standing room only as several thousand persons from 11 Republican districts and one Democratic precinct packed their way into Bettendorf middle school.

Organizers of the Bettendorf caucuses were forced to move three precincts into other rooms because of the overflow crowds. Registration and voting were postponed a half hour while organizers looked for additional rooms.

Spotlight On Family News

B-A Lubbock, Texas

Tuesday Evening, January 22, 1980

Dear Abby,

DEAR ABBY: Our very pretty and bright 18-year-old daughter (I'll call her Nancy) graduated from high school last May. She decided to stay home and work for a year before going to college. Nancy met a 29-year-old professional man about six months ago and they started dating. (I'll call him Paul.) They never actually went steady, but Paul gave her a big rush.

Well, for Christmas, Paul surprised Nancy with a beautiful one-karat diamond ring. It came as a big shock to Nancy because she wasn't even considering marriage with Paul. In fact, she told me she hated to kiss him because he had a bad case of halitosis!

Nancy is sure she doesn't want to be engaged, but every time she tries to return the ring, Paul cries, and talks her into keeping it.

Nancy is very tender-hearted and Paul is very persuasive, so do you think it would be alright if Nancy's father returned the ring to Paul?

POST-CHRISTMAS DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: No! Nancy should return the ring to Paul herself, and if he cries, he cries. It's time Paul learned that he can't buy whatever he wants with tears and diamonds. And Nancy needs to learn that people who "give in" in order to avoid hurting someone's feelings, usually end up hurting themselves. (P.S. About Paul's halitosis: Someone should tell him.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband shows a charming, well-mannered personality to others, but not to me.

When we have a social engagement, he always has to be the first one there, so he gets ready early and starts nagging me to hurry up.

If I'm five minutes late, as soon as we get into the car he turns the radio on as loud as he can, then he starts shouting that I had all day to get ready. I'm never on time and he's sick of always being late on account of me, etc. By the time we get to the party, I'm in no mood to have a good time.

It's getting so I hate to go anywhere with him. Is there a solution?

INSTANT HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: The solution is obvious. Get your act together on time and you'll have no problem. And if you can't do that, tell "antsy pants" to go ahead without you, you'll take a cab.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 76-year-old aunt to whom I have been very close ever since I was a child. She has a heart condition and is making preparations for her last will and testament.

My problem is that I am not mentioned in her will. She has a lot of property and assets. She came right out and told me that she was leaving everything to her two sons and their children. I know this is for a fact because she has discussed it with me.

Abby, since my aunt moved to Florida, I have taken her out to dinner faithfully, once a week. (She is a widow.) I have also taken her shopping every week-end. I handle all her paper work, pay her bills, cash her checks and even look after her home (I wallpapered her home.) I could not have been more attentive to my own mother.

I am very hurt to think that she is not leaving me a dime. Should I tell her how

I feel, or keep quiet? And, by the way, Abby, whom do you think she asked to drive her to the lawyer about her will? You're right — me!

HURT IN ORLANDO

DEAR HURT: Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it.

Do you feel left out? There are secrets to developing the art of making yourself popular. You're never too young or too old to learn. Get Abby's booklet: "How To Be Popular. Anita Bryant Advocates Return To Basic Values

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

Anita Bryant feels that the family is under attack in American society and can only survive by a return to old-fashioned moral values.

Referring to the White House Conference on the Family to be held in Washington in March, Miss Bryant said she hoped the "majority of Americans are truly represented" identifying as "the majority" the "Anita Bryants and Phyllis Schlafleys and the pro-life kind of organization."

Miss Bryant spoke with Family News after her rehearsal for her evening concert at the Civic Center yesterday.

There are groups and individuals in this country who are trying to re-structure the family, Miss Bryant said, "to say that a family constitutes two women, or two men. I think this is a frightening thing to consider," she said, "because I think the foundation of any nation is the family."

"We are in trouble in many respects," Miss Bryant said. "The warning signs are out there, and we have the opportunity and indeed the responsibility to turn things around, to bring America back to moral values, because that is the real problem in America, the moral decadence, which has permeated the family as we know it."

Miss Bryant had agreed to an interview on the condition that she would not discuss the homosexual issue which has thrust her into the center of controversy and, she says, threatened her career and even her life. However, she referred frequently to homosexuality, abortion, and the "brainwashing" taking place in public schools and the media as evils facing American society today. "These things are symptoms of the decaying institution called the family," she said. "We have much to preserve, much to fight for, to be concerned about."

Miss Bryant rejected reliance on government as a means of solving society's problems. "You don't need special legislation for the working woman; you don't need special legislation to solve your problems," she said, referring to such programs as "a bunch of garbage."

Miss Bryant criticized the public schools, which, she says, "no longer are under the blessing of God" because they are "brainwashing" the kids, through sex education, and are "no longer even teaching the kids the truth — that we are a nation founded by men who believed in God."

"We cannot rely upon Big Brother, or the public schools, to raise our kids," Miss Bryant said. "It is up to the individual and to the family to find out, first of all, who's teaching our kids, and what they're teaching our kids."

"We have become so selfish, so intent on doing our own thing, she said, that we don't care if our kids are taking drugs, we don't care if they're turning homosexual, we don't care if they're being brainwashed." As a result, she said, we are raising "rebellious, no-account kids."

Advising families to concentrate on communicating with their children, teaching them moral values, she admitted that it is not easy, with so many outside things vying for our attention. She admitted that she had much empathy for working women who have to leave their children and said that she regrets not having been able to stay at home with her children when they were very small.

But, she said, it is important to try, to put the effort required into communicating with husband and children. The result, of such an effort, she said, is that "we are not only building a strong character and a happy individual in our children but we are making this a stronger better nation."

Alcohol Harms Unborn Child

AUSTIN (Special) — Kate looked out the window to the sandbox in the backyard where little Cody was playing.

The child, small for his four years, peered intently through his thick glasses, but nevertheless the sand he scooped up with his shovel missed the pail he was aiming for as often as it went in. Losing interest, he listlessly surveyed his surroundings.

A tear trickled down Kate's cheek as she thought of her dreams for her baby before he was born. Now, the prospect of even being able to toilet-train Cody looked dim. And though Kate knew she wasn't responsible for her ignorance, she still felt to blame for Cody's condition, because it was her behavior which had caused it.

When Kate had found out she was pregnant, her husband and she had shared a bottle of champagne that night to celebrate. Further celebrations with friends and family followed on subsequent weekends, not to mention parties and holidays later on.

Cody was born with fetal alcohol syndrome (FAS), the most common identifiable birth defect after Down's syndrome and spina bifida, and the only one which is totally preventable. There has never been a baby with FAS born to a mother who did not drink during pregnancy.

But Kate didn't know she should have curbed her drinking during pregnancy. Only recently has FAS been identified and publicized. This week has been designated as Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Awareness Week in Texas in a memorandum by Gov. William P. Clements — the first time such a week has been observed in the state. Rita Clements, the governor's wife, is honorary chairperson for the event.

Not until 1973 did researchers give the name fetal alcohol syndrome to a pattern of physical, mental and behavioral problems they observed in infants born to women who drank too much during pregnancy. FAS symptoms may include lowered birth weight, slowed growth after birth, a small head, facial irregularities, heart defects, joint and limb irregularities and mental retardation. Behavioral symptoms such as hyperactivity, extreme nervousness and short attention spans are also common. Some FAS infants are born with all of the above characteristics, while others display only some less severe aspects of the syndrome. (Certain experts believe, for instance, that alcohol may be a major cause of minimal brain dysfunction and hyperactivity, from which 5-10 percent of the school-aged population suffers.)

Even now, pregnant women may not find out the information on drinking and pregnancy they need to know. Dr. Roger W. Perry of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine has observed that sometimes even generally well-informed obstetricians either lack knowledge of current research and findings on alcoholism and pregnancy and who can be affected, and for some reason or another they do not believe current claims being made.

One dangerous misconception is to think that only alcoholic mothers place their unborn babies at risk. It is a matter of degrees of risk.

No one knows yet just how much alcohol is "too much," and the National Council on Alcoholism recommends that expectant mothers not drink at all. The National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism says that if an expectant mother does drink, she should limit herself to no more than two 12-ounce beers, two 5-ounce glasses of wine or two ounces of hard liquor on any occasion. Two pregnant women, exposing their unborn babies to the same amount of alcohol may affect them differently. Genetic influences may be at work — weaknesses that make a particular fetus more susceptible. In addition, whether the alcohol was consumed all at once or spread over a period of time may be significant. Occasional binge drinking is believed more detrimental than daily or near-daily consumption at low levels.

At what point in the pregnancy the alcohol was consumed may also be critical. Excessive alcohol consumed during the early part of pregnancy may produce malformations, but during the latter stages is more likely to result in retarded growth.

For further information about FAS or about other alcohol programs, contact your local council on alcoholism (look under "Alcoholism" in the Yellow Pages) or the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, 8th Floor, Sam Houston Building, Austin, Texas 78701, (512)-475-2577.

Opening lead: Queen of ♦.

A bad trump break turned what should have been a simple contract into a touch-and-go proposition. A shortage of entries to dummy necessitated a virtuoso performance by declarer to salvage the game.

After a normal one diamond opening bid by South, West took advantage of the vulnerability to put maximum pressure on the opponents with a bold preempt.

North had too much to pass and too many diamonds to relish the prospect of defending four spades doubled. His decision to bid five diamonds was a reasonable compromise.

West led the queen of spades, won in the closed hand. As a preliminary measure, declarer led a heart to the ace at trick two, then ruffed a heart. This precaution was vital, as we shall soon see.

Declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, and learned the sad news that he had a sure trump loser. It seemed as though declarer would have to rely on finding the ace of clubs with West, but he was not prepared to settle for that.

Declarer entered dummy with the king of trumps and ruffed another heart. Next, he cashed the king of spades to strip his hand of major suit cards. Then declarer exited with a trump, giving East his trump trick.

As it turned out, declarer's stripping process had also removed all of East's safe exit cards. Down to nothing but clubs, East was forced to play ace of clubs and another, giving dummy not only a trick with the king of clubs, but also a vital entry. Declarer ruffed a heart to set up the long card in the suit, then got back to the table with a club ruff to cash the heart for his eleventh trick.

SHORN, NOT LORN

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (WNS) — Jean Pierre Rive, 28, claims that he was the loneliest bachelor on the French Riviera until he cut off his long hair and made himself totally bald. "It isn't true, but most women believe that bald men are more virile," he said. Rive is wealthy, and says he wants to be a film star. He says another reason for the attraction of bald men could be that women "tend to be jealous because men these days are frequently better coiffed than they are."

FIRST STEP — The first step to making Foolproof Fudge is combining sweetened condensed milk with semisweet chocolate morsels in a double boiler and heating until the chocolate melts. This fudge recipe is "practically fail-safe."

FINISHED PRODUCT — Foolproof Fudge is rich, smooth, creamy fudge. The secret of its ease and fast preparation is that handy dessert base, sweetened condensed milk. With all the difficult steps in fudge-making removed, only the fun is left!

Foolproof Fudge Recipe Cuts Preparation Time

NEW YORK (Special) — If you're like most Americans, fudge was your very first cooking venture, back when you were a teenager. And if you haven't made it in years, it's probably because you figure it's too difficult and complicated. Well, times have changed, and now there's Foolproof Fudge — the easiest and most delicious fudge ever!

It's practically fail-safe because it's made with that smooth, creamy dessert base, sweetened condensed milk. No long cooking's required, no thermometer or soft ball test is needed. And best of all, there's not a chance of this fudge getting sugary, for as soon as sweetened condensed milk is heated with the chocolate morsels, it forms a smooth, thick mixture and cools to a firm consistency.

There's only one problem with Foolproof Fudge. Once you've tried it, how do you stop eating it?

FOOLPROOF FUDGE

(Makes about 1 1/4 lbs.)

- 3 (6-oz.) pkgs. semisweet chocolate morsels
- 1 (14-oz.) can sweetened condensed milk (NOT evaporated)
- Dash salt
- 1 1/2 tps. vanilla extract
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts, optional

Step 1: In top of double boiler, over hot water, or in heavy saucepan, over low heat, melt morsels with sweetened condensed milk.

Step 2: Remove from heat; stir in remaining ingredients.

Step 3: Spread evenly into wax paper-lined 8-inch square pan.

Step 4: Chill 2 hours or until set.

Step 5: Turn fudge onto cutting board; peel off paper and cut into squares.

Cover and store at room temperature.

COMBINING INGREDIENTS — Next, stir in chopped nuts, if desired. Add vanilla and a dash of salt to complete the "cooking" of the fudge.

EVENLY SPREAD — After mixing together all ingredients and blending well, spread the mixture evenly in a waxpaper-lined 8-inch square pan. Chill two hours or until evenly set. It is then ready to cut — and to eat!

Diamond Bands Become Popular

NEW YORK (Special) — In Germany, it's called the "momoire" ring; in Italy, it is the veretta di diamanti (little wedding ring with diamonds) and in the United Kingdom, they call it the "eternity ring."

In the United States, reports the Jewelry Industry Council, it might well be called the "love ring," and its popularity is growing by leaps and bounds.

Surveys reveal that, next to the diamond engagement ring and the wedding band, the most popular ring is this little circular band of diamonds.

Rich in folklore, the love ring dates back to 2000 B.C., when the circle signified: "My love will run out at the circle's end" — small wonder that the eternity, or love ring, is prized by lovers.

In the United States, many husbands give the love ring to their wives to commemorate an early wedding anniversary or at the birth of a child.

FORT NIAGARA

Fort Niagara was captured from the Americans by the British in 1813 during the war of 1812. The British took 300 prisoners. The first fort was a log structure surrounded by a palisade, built in 1687 at the mouth of the Niagara River for LaSalle. It had been captured by the British from the French in 1759 and turned over to the United States in 1796.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seeking to flex their political muscle in an election year, opponents of the Supreme Court decision easing restrictions on abortion are again urging that Congress adopt a constitutional amendment outlawing abortions.

They planned a demonstration at the Capitol today, seven years to the day after the Supreme Court ruling, to emphasize their point.

Meanwhile, supporters of the watered-down 1972 ruling were holding a series of rallies around the nation to illustrate what they claim is widespread support for the eased rules.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Mart Turns Downward; Gold Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold and other metals issues were the biggest losers as the stock market turned downward today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up more than 2 points at the outset, was down 2.73 at 870.05 by noon.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 4-3 margin in the broad rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The price of gold and silver broke sharply today. Gold skidded to just above $700 ounce in late dealings in London, down from more than $800 an ounce 24 hours before, and silver prices also dropped by 10 percent or more.

Precious metals stocks came under pressure as well. Dome Mines lost 2 1/2 to 56 1/2; Homestake Mining was off 3 3/4 to 56 1/4; ASA lost 2 1/4 to 46 1/4; and Hecla Mining fell 2 1/4 to 40 1/4.

In the copper group, Asarco fell 3/4 to 47 1/4; Kennecott 2 1/4 to 39 1/4; and Phelps Dodge 1 1/4 to 38 1/4.

Eastman Kodak, a large user of silver, climbed 3/4 to 48 1/4 in active trading. The stock has been in a steady decline as silver prices soared in recent months.

The NYSE's composite index lost .16 to 64.35. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 4.34 to 262.05.

Volume on the Big Board reached 25.05 million shares in the first two hours of trading.

OCAW Strike Talks Near Standstill

DENVER (AP) — With negotiations at scattered oil refineries proceeding at a snail's pace, oil company executives and union officials continue to take a "wait-and-see" stance on the prospect of an end to a two-week strike by 60,000 refinery workers.

The meeting (Monday) with local union officials was short and largely exploratory in nature," said Jim Flockhart, manager of Gulf Oil Corp.'s refinery in Santa Fe Springs, Calif.

"I would have to say no progress was made. It's just that we're trying to get a few issues ironed out," Flockhart said. "We hope to meet again sometime later next week."

At union headquarters in Denver, OCAW spokesman Jerry Archuleta said national talks between the union and Gulf Oil Corp. remain "in recess."

Local meetings also were held between oil company executives and members of the striking Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union at Gulf plants in Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio, but no progress was reported at those plants either as the strike went into its third week today.

The scope of the strike increased Monday as more than 500 OCAW oil-field workers in Texas City walked off their jobs. But a pledge of support from the Teamsters' Union appeared to be having little effect on the 100 oil companies involved.

Teamsters president Frank Fitzsimmons has promised to aid the OCAW "in any way legally possible," but it remained unclear what the help would be and how it would affect progress toward ending the strike, which began Jan. 8.

Meanwhile, a Louisiana district court judge imposed a seven-day moratorium on all strike activities at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery in Chalmette where a supervisor was shot and killed last week.

The Texas City oil-field workers walked off their jobs after rejecting an offer by Amoco Production Co. that would have matched whatever agreement finally is reached between the OCAW and the rest of the oil industry.

Union President Robert Goss is asking for full medical and dental insurance, "substantial" wage increases and improved vacation benefits for long-term workers. The two-year contract that began in January 1979 allowed for renegotiation of wages and benefits for the second year, which began Jan. 8.

Chrysler Seeking Payments Delay

DETROIT (AP) — Because of a cash shortage, financially beleaguered Chrysler Corp. is asking its suppliers to wait until April for payment of bills due in January, a company spokesman says.

The cash shortage is temporary. We expect to pay our February and March bills on time and catch up with the January invoices in April," a Chrysler spokesman said Monday. "So far we have had a good response from the suppliers."

To date, the No. 3 automaker has delayed $100 million in payments.

Oil Firm's Profits Up

CHICAGO (AP) — A strong performance overseas pushed fourth-quarter net income at Standard Oil Company of Indiana up by 70 percent and 1979 profits up by 40 percent over 1978.

The nation's sixth-largest oil company reported fourth-quarter earnings of $368.7 million, or $2.45 a share, compared with $216.7 million, or $1.48 a share, a year earlier. Revenues were $6.1 billion, against $4.3 billion.

For 1979, earnings were $1.5 billion, or $10.23 a share, up from $1.08 billion, or $7.36 a share, in 1978. Sales rose to $20.2 billion from $16.3 billion, and spending on petroleum exploration and development, and other major projects, rose 35 percent over 1978 to $1.5 billion.

The earnings report was released as congressional conferees attempted to reach a compromise on taxing the "windfall" revenues resulting from the lifting of controls on domestic crude oil prices.

Accord Reached On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee agreed today on the major elements of a new "windfall profits" tax that would cost the oil industry $227.3 billion in the 1980s.

The biggest problem facing the conferees from the start was what kind of tax exemption or reduced rate should be applied to oil produced by the 12,000 independents, who produce oil but do not engage in refining or retailing.

The House wanted no special exemption; the Senate insisted that the first 1,000 barrels of oil produced each day by an independent be exempt from tax because independents, who drill most of the exploratory wells, lack the sources of money available to the major companies.

A big victory for independents came when the conferees agreed that the existing 22 percent depletion allowance would be continued. This allows an independent to deduct from its taxable income 22 cents out of each dollar earned from oil property.

City Growth Pattern Expected To Continue

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Lubbock planning director Jim Bertram predicted today that Lubbock's growth to the south and southwest will continue, despite attempts by the city to "pull things back to a compact growth pattern."

That could result in electric utility users served by LP&L having to pick up a greater share of the cost of the city system if LP&L isn't allowed to expand its service area as the city grows, Brewster argued.

Auto Hits House; Couple, Baby Die

ODESSA (Special) — Odessa police this morning were searching for the driver of a car that jumped a curb and crashed through the bedroom wall of a residence, killing a 5-month-old baby and her parents as they slept early this morning.

Reports show the errant 1969 Chevrolet apparently ran a stop sign at a T-intersection in Southeast Odessa, jumped the curb, tore down 16 feet of chain link fence and crashed through a northeast bedroom of the residence. All three victims were sleeping in the same bed. Police said they did not find any evidence of skid marks at the intersection.

Other areas "served" by LP&L have experienced declines in both population and income, while growth has continued in other areas.

Parachutist Killed In Practice Jump

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Two parachutists collided in a practice jump at the Yuma Proving Ground, and one of the jumpers was killed and the other seriously injured, Army officials said.

The two — who were among a group of five or six men who jumped from a plane at 6,700 feet — collided while free falling, knocking one unconscious, officials said Monday. The unconscious man hit the ground without opening his parachute, but the other man was able to open his, officials said.

The victims were identified as Jose Ramiro Salas and his wife, Maria Jesus Salas, both 27, and their young daughter, Yadina Salas, according to police. Their bodies were found tangled in bed sheets and the mattress. A police spokesman said firemen were called to the scene and had to use the jaws of life to free the victims from under the car.

Reports indicate the wayward vehicle hit the house sometime between 2:30 and 3 a.m. but was not reported to police until 5 a.m. Two other persons in the house at the time, Consuelo Serrano, 18, and her 5-year-old daughter Yeronica, did not awaken when the accident occurred.

Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee ordered autopsies on the three victims. Authorities said the couple had suffered head injuries, but a formal ruling on the cause of death was not made.

Funeral arrangements are pending with Easterling Funeral Home of Odessa.

Lubbock Judge To Delay Ruling On Venue Change

Although testimony in Maurice Eugene Dancy's venue change hearing concluded this morning, District Judge Thomas L. Clinton is waiting on another piece of evidence from the defense before making a ruling.

This morning, while waiting for the remainder of venue change evidence, Clinton went ahead with a separate hearing on a defense motion to suppress evidence gathered at Dancy's 2822 24th St. residence the night of his arrest. Near noon today the judge was hearing testimony from several officers who participated in the arrest and search.

They contend the amount of publicity given the slaying and Dancy's arrest the next night will prevent the seating of 12 impartial jurors.

In support of that contention, Cannon and Miss Wiley called 12 witnesses Monday. However, they are awaiting a videotape of a Lubbock television station's coverage of the alleged murder.

This morning, Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford and his first assistant, Jim Bob Darnell, completed presenting their evidence opposing the trial move.

If the judge denies the venue change, a jury will be seated immediately in Clinton's 99th District Court. A group of prospective jurors tentatively is scheduled to be in the courtroom at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Youth Injured In Collision
A 12-year-old Lubbock County boy was critically injured Monday afternoon when a van struck him as he was riding his bicycle on the Levelland Highway, about 2 1/4 miles west of Lubbock.

James Eric Eastman of Route 8, Box 369 B30, suffered head and internal injuries in the accident, which occurred at 5:30 p.m. He was reported in critical condition late Monday at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

Eastland is a student at Casey Elementary School in Wolfforth.

Department of Public Safety reports show that the boy was riding eastbound in the right-hand lane, hit some mud on the side of the road and swerved back to the center lane where he was struck by an eastbound van. The van was driven by Franklin Fortner, 47, of Lubbock.

Investigating trooper Johnny Jackson reported that Fortner almost had a head-on collision with another vehicle in trying to avoid the youth.

Clements Says Hospital Woes Not Unique To City

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY and BOB CAMPBELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Gov. Bill Clements, who toured Texas Tech University Monday, did not appear overly sympathetic to local financial concern at the county hospital or to the area's shortage of nurses, saying these problems are not unique to Lubbock.

Throughout the afternoon, Clements repeatedly said that financial problems at teaching hospitals and shortages of nurses are not unique to Lubbock and at one point said, "Every teaching hospital in Texas is in trouble."

He agreed that Lubbock had some unique problems, although he did not specify what they were, but he summed up his opinion on the issue by saying, "Most of these problems are not unique to Lubbock but a common disease among medical schools."

He also hinted at the possibility of requiring medical students to sign employment contracts to practice in Texas after their training to compensate taxpayers for the cost of their medical education. Clements estimated it costs a quarter of a million dollars to train each student to become a practicing physician.

The Republican governor said he expects legislation in the 1981 session to include higher tuition rates and stronger auditing procedures at all state colleges and universities.

And at a Chamber of Commerce noon luncheon, the governor applauded Lubbock's rejection Saturday of collective bargaining rights for firemen, saying, "I wish I'd been here to vote with you."

He said it was a classic example of what "the people want and don't want and they don't want their municipal employees in a union."

Clements refused to say yes or no to whether he would approve legislative funding for Tech's School of Nursing in the next biennium. He used his line item veto power last year to eliminate state money for the nursing school.

He did say there is a chance for nursing school money in the next session, however, noting, "We all live in hope. Certainly there is a chance." But he added that the matter "has to be studied carefully in the context of the medical school and teaching hospital as a whole."

Clements said he is aware of a nursing shortage across the state. "I have an absolute conviction of the need for nurses," he said, but explained that the question is not whether a shortage exists, but rather if Lubbock needs a nursing school "at this time."

Dr. Richard Lockwood, vice president of Tech's Health Sciences Center, (which includes the medical and nursing schools and which uses the county teaching hospital for its students), stressed the need for some type of "stable sources of support for primary teaching hospitals," saying that they are "our lifeline to teaching."

The governor rested his chin on his tightly interlocked fingers and leaned on his elbows as he sat listening to Lockwood's outline of needs for the medical school and teaching hospital, and afterwards Clements agreed, "I think you do have a recognizable problem here."

But he stressed, "It does not lend itself to a simplistic approach."

When Lockwood discussed the need for adequate faculty to teach medical students at the three Health Sciences Center sites (Lubbock, El Paso and Amarillo) he noted that local community physicians also help in the clinical teaching.

"That last item is very important," Clements interjected. "Use those local doctors. They like it, the community likes it and it's cost effective."

Clements took notes often during his tour as school officials continued to ply him with statistics and summaries and he sometimes stopped the administrators to ask very specific questions about operations.

"Explain to me the nebulous line of authority between the Tech president and the medical school," Clements said to interim president Dr. Lawrence Graves, who responded that it wasn't nebulous at all but a direct line of authority.

Clements, who has a strong business background, then questioned, "Is that a black line (of authority) or a dotted line (on the organizational chart)?"

"A black line," Graves said, explaining that Health Science Center vice president Lockwood reports directly to the Tech president.

Clements seemed impressed when Graves told him Tech reduced its state paid employees by 6.2 percent in 1979.

"We're pretty proud of that," Graves said, to which the governor immediately responded, "You should be. That's marvelous."

A slide presentation explained how Texas Tech has cut its energy consumption and costs despite rising fuel rates and Clements said the energy cuts were "very impressive."

Clements also seemed impressed with enrollment statistics which show that 70 percent of all Tech students are Texans and that they come from all areas of the state, not just the West Texas region although 44 percent are from surrounding counties.

The governor said the enrollment reports show an "amazing distribution" of students and that it means, "Texas Tech is no longer a local or regional institution" but truly a multi-purpose state university that joins the ranks of such schools as Texas A&M and the University of Texas.

Also at the chamber luncheon, the governor said the United States must make a stand against the Soviet Union in the Middle East "or we are going to pay a horrible price for our vacillation."

The former deputy secretary of defense under President Ford said one option the United States has in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is to put a naval blockade around Cuba.

"Tit for tat," Clements said, "I think they would back off from the confrontation because it doesn't fit into their plan."

Criticizing President Carter on several fronts, Clements said the "first step" toward resolving American problems abroad "shall be to replace Mr. Carter."

"The enormous mistakes he has made in his foreign policy — those chickens are coming home to roost," Clements said.

Clements also called for increased production as a solution to the problem of decreased energy supplies, saying, "We must turn loose and unfetter the oil and gas industry and the coal industry and let them go to work."

"Mr. Carter's program of conservation is no program at all," he added.

The governor told The Avalanche-Journal he has no preference between Texas Republican presidential candidates George Bush and John Connally.

Anita Bryant Keeps Firm Stand Against Gay Rights Movement

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Controversial entertainer and religious crusader Anita Bryant told reporters here Monday she has no qualifications for conducting her well-publicized battle against gay rights, except as a concerned mother and as one called by God to help defeat the push for such rights.

Mrs. Bryant, in town for a Monday night concert at the Civic Center, also said that despite the toll taken on her career and personal life because of her crusade, she "would not change my stand or convictions."

During an afternoon news conference, Mrs. Bryant said she has "never professed to be anything but just a sinner saved by God's grace."

She added she "wasn't the one who asked for the publicity" surrounding her fight, but that members of the gay community cast her efforts into the limelight.

Mrs. Bryant said she felt at the time of the battle over the legal rights of gays in Dade County, Fla., that "somehow God has raised me up" to speak out on the issue.

The controversy that constantly surrounds Mrs. Bryant's public appearances also was apparent in Lubbock, when two members of the local National Organization for Women, who had joined reporters at the press conference, were asked by concert promoters to leave.

Prior to Mrs. Bryant's appearance, a police officer escorted the two women, who were not members of the media, out of the conference room.

When questioned about the incident, the former Miss America said she was not aware of the problem and that she had made no rule concerning the presence of NOW members at the news conference.

But, she said, if the women had come for "ulterior motives," she would not have wanted them in the room.

Concert promoter Melanie Barrier said she had requested the NOW members leave "because of shortness of time," and asked that only media representatives be allowed to stay. Mrs. Bryant then added that she backed the promoter on her decision.

Mrs. Bryant said she does not know whether the controversy associated with her name helps or damages her image, but said she has "suffered greatly" because of her vocal attack on gay rights.

She said she still is blacklisted by the major television networks, but that she recently appeared on an entertainment special about the '70s at the request of Dick Clark.

Mrs. Bryant said she is devoting less time to public appearances and more time to her Anita Bryant Ministries, Fishers of Men booking agency, and the establishment and operations of counseling centers for homosexuals.

She said her anti-gay rights crusade had damaged her career financially, noting that while she once had been a top convention entertainer, after the crusade she received only two offers to work conventions.

She said it has been difficult "taking a fee for the testimony" she professes in her concerts, but that her family has adjusted to it.

Mrs. Bryant said she feels she has "the support of the the majority of Americans out there." She said that a Good Housekeeping Magazine poll listing her as one of the most admired women in the country "was not so much a vote for Anita Bryant, the person, but for standing for my convictions."

Mrs. Bryant said that people need to take on more responsibility and that she "could never go back to being apathetic."

ANITA BRYANT Appears In City

New Mexico Probing Clovis' Finances

By FRANK STANLEY
A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS, N.M. — An investigation of suspected mishandling of Clovis city finances has been launched by the New Mexico state auditor's office and the county district attorney, it was announced by city officials here Monday.

City commissioners Monday also accepted a leave of absence for City Manager Darrel Kreighbaum and Assistant City Manager Cleve Teague.

Mayor Chick Taylor Jr. said the city was being investigated for "a substantial misappropriation or misuse of public funds." He added that the City Commission was briefed on the situation by Curry County District Attorney Bill Bonem Friday night in a special closed session.

"Bonem told us that we had a problem with city finances and the city audit," Taylor said. Bonem reportedly spent Thursday and Friday reporting to the state auditor in Santa Fe on the results of an investigation of city records begun by the district attorney's office in early December.

TWC Approves Application

A-J Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission has approved the application of the Colorado River Municipal Water District for a weather modification permit for rainfall enhancement in the years 1980-83.

The commission voted its approval at its regular agenda meeting Monday. The permit covers the counties of Lynn, Garza, Kent, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Glasscock, Sterling and Coke with an operational crew in the southern High Plains.

Operations will occur from March 1 to November 30 of each year, the TWC reported.

The permit does not involve hail suppression.

Monday morning the city commission met for two hours behind closed doors with both Kreighbaum, Teague and city attorney Harry Patton. After emerging from the meeting, seven commissioners went into a public session at which time Kreighbaum announced that he would like to take a leave of absence in order to step aside while the state department of finance and administration checks the city records. Teague also requested a leave of absence.

Lupe Sanchez, deputy director of Finance and Administration, and his assistant, Jim Macias, arrived in Clovis late Monday to begin the investigation.

The mayor said part of the problem is a result of the city's computer records being "in such a mess that there is no place for the auditor to start or to obtain a balance."

Without those records, we have no idea how much money is missing, if any, or what has happened to it," the mayor said.

The city commission has appointed Bob Bright as acting city manager. Bright is Clovis city planner and heads the building inspection department. Bright late Monday clamped a freeze on all hiring and said all expenditures would be on an emergency basis only.

D.L.M.'S LAW: AN ANSWERING SERVICE IS NOT A SERVICE TO PATIENTS WHO WANT ANSWERS...

Cable TV Offers To Televisize Non-Moscow Olympic Games

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cable television industry offered recently to provide television coverage of any alternative games should the United States and other nations boycott the Moscow summer Olympics.

"The cable TV industry strongly believes that the athletes who have trained so hard... should not be deprived of their opportunity to compete," said Thomas E. Wheeler, president of the National Cable Television Association.

"Therefore, if a decision is made by the United States not to participate in the Olympics in Moscow, we believe an alternate World Olympics should be organized," he said.

"And to facilitate the organization of alternative games, the American cable TV industry is in a position to provide coverage on a non-exclusive basis."

Wheeler said it was too early to propose specific plans for covering any alternative games, and he could not say whether the three major networks would cooperate with the cable industry.

NBC has purchased the exclusive rights to broadcast the summer games in Moscow from the International Olympic Committee and is committing more than $100 million to the effort.

Wheeler told a news conference it is unclear whether NBC would retain exclusive rights if the summer Olympics are somehow moved from Moscow.

"If alternate games are held, there would be a problem for (any network) to pull this off," Wheeler said. "We're saying to everybody, 'Let's work together, because it will take us all working together to pull this off. We hope our announcement of an interest in and ability to provide TV coverage will be the first step toward participation by American athletes in alternative Olympic competition.'"

Wheeler said the cable industry has the ability to provide coverage through the facilities of the Entertainment and Sports Programming Network (ESPN) and Turner Communications, the firm owned by Atlanta sportsman Ted Turner. Turner Communications operates "super-station" WTBS-TV and is planning to begin a round-the-clock, cable news network in June.

ESPN is a total sports network which began beaming sporting events to cable franchises across the country via satellite last September.

Escaped Murderer Chauffeured VIPs

By NAOMI KAUFMAN
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — James Lee Walton is back in prison serving his sentence for second-degree murder after 13 years of freedom that he claims to have spent working at the U.S. Justice Department in Washington and serving as a chauffeur for several VIPs.

He offers his U.S. Justice Department ID card and autographs from various celebrities to prove his story. And at least one VIP says Walton was indeed his driver.

Back in 1967, Walton escaped from a state prison in Raleigh. He came back to North Carolina and turned himself in last week.

"I have a family here, brothers and sisters," said Walton, one of nine children. He sat crying softly in Wake County Sheriff John Baker's office. "We have a farm. I wanted to come back here and live."

Walton, 57, was convicted in Wilson County in 1959 of second-degree murder in the shooting death of Doc Dawson, whose body was recovered in a rural area about a week after he was shot. He was sentenced to 25 years in prison.

After serving eight years, Walton escaped while working at his job in the state printing office.

"One day at work, I just walked away," he said. "I was upset, dissatisfied, because the parole board had turned me down twice."

After staying in the woods on his family's farm near Garner and rejecting his father's advice to turn himself in, Walton took a bus to Washington.

There, he took the name of one of his brothers, Wilbert, and began work as a cook.

In 1969, he started work in the Justice Department and stayed there as a maintenance supervisor until 1972, he said. He still carries his Justice Department identification with him.

"A lot of times I'd get around a lot of policemen and you'd get nervous," he said of his Justice Department experience. He was fingerprinted for that job, but was never caught.

In 1974, he said, he left the Justice Department and became chauffeur to Dr. Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington.

"Tell him I wanted to tell him, but I couldn't," Walton said.

"I knew he was from North Carolina, and he drove me down several times," said Handler, a professor at Duke University. "I hope he gets sympathetic treatment."

After working for Handler, Walton began what he called "free-lance" chauffeur work in Washington, working for many VIPs and Handler's neighbors in the Watergate apartment complex.

Walton said he drove for Ronald Reagan, Elizabeth Taylor and Frank Sinatra. He said Handler introduced him to President Carter before Carter's election and to Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C.

Though that may seem like jailhouse bragging, Sheriff Baker says Walton has the autographs of many VIPs.

Baker said he called reporters in the hope that publicity would help Walton's case. "He hasn't been in trouble with the law (since his escape) and obviously he has been rehabilitated," Baker said.

Walton apparently remains eligible for immediate parole. However, he could face escape charges, said Stuart Shadbolt, spokesman for the Corrections Department.

DR. LAMB

Alcohol Affects Bowels

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 50-year-old male and I've been drinking a lot for years. I've always had soft stools but for the last couple of years, I have to go to the bathroom at least three times a day and I do have diarrhea. My rectum also itches terribly. Is it the liver that causes this or what could it be?
DEAR READER — There is a long list of things that cause chronic diarrhea and the only way to find out what's going on is a complete medical examination. You'll need to know that you don't have some chronic parasitic disease. You'll need to know whether you have ulcerative colitis, regional enteritis, are intolerant of milk or have some other intolerance that contributes to it or whether it's just from drinking too much alcohol.
 I'd like to emphasize again to all my readers that anyone who has a sudden, unexplained change in bowel habit must have an examination. It's sometimes the first and only sign of cancer of the bowel. That's important since cancer of the bowel is the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women.
 Excessive use of alcohol can cause loose stools in some people. Liver disease, particularly cirrhosis of the liver (scarring and contraction), can interfere with the normal venous drainage from the digestive system. This, in turn, can lead to hemorrhoids and cause itching as you described.

 I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-8, What You Need To Know About Diarrhea. You may pick up some clues out of it which will help you to control your problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
 The Health Letter will not be the solution to your problem. It may help improve your knowledge but you'll need to see a doctor for an examination. Considering your overall story, it sounds to me like you need one anyway. It wouldn't hurt to see if you can do something about eliminating the excessive use of alcohol.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have some questions about hyperventilation. I read in a magazine that if a person can learn to breathe properly that he wouldn't panic and have muscle spasms and other symptoms. I'd like to know how to breathe properly. Breathing into a paper bag is mentioned but I would prefer to learn to breathe properly and prevent such frightening occurrences.

DEAR READER — Hyperventilation means overbreathing and when that occurs the best thing to do is to try to breathe very slowly and not breathe very deeply. Slow, shallow breathing will stop the overventilation and will tend to reverse the process. People get into trouble with hyperventilation because they blow off too much carbon dioxide.
 Now as far as preventing the problem, you may need some help in finding out why you hyperventilate. There's usually a reason for it. Pilots who ascend to a high altitude over-ventilate in response to the thin air from decreased altitude pressure. Many people who hyperventilate are responding to something that has caused them to have anxiety. For that reason, professional counseling sometimes helps.

Barbara Feldon Active In Women's Movement

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Barbara Feldon, who starred for five years as Agent 99 in the defunct "Get Smart" TV series, interrupted her life dramatically two years ago, abandoning her home, friends and career to move to New York.
 As Barbara puts it, "When I left Hollywood, I threw my life in the air and let it fall down in new shapes."
 One of the elements contributing to Barbara's decision to radically change her lifestyle was the end of a long live-in affair with a television producer. Another was a compelling desire to escape tedium.
 "I went to New York to see what would happen," Barbara said. "To me a person's life is like a kaleidoscope. You hold it still and look at all the beads making a set pattern. Then you turn it a little and everything changes."
 "Well, I needed that sort of change. I gave the kaleidoscope of my life a real big twist. It was a tremendous upheaval for me. I'd lived in New York 12 years earlier, but I didn't have friends there anymore."
 "I sold my sailboat here in the marina, closed up my house, packed my clothes and restructured my private life entirely."
 "I bought part of a Manhattan townhouse and tried to meet the kind of people I hoped would become my friends. I accomplished this by accepting every invitation that came my way.

 "The result was that I did meet hundreds of people. I now have the seedlings of satisfying friendships, along with the adventure and excitement of new discoveries and challenges."
 Barbara's career has flourished, too. She completed several TV movies in 1978-79, including "Before and After" with Patty Duke and "Vacation From Hell" with Lorne Greene.
 Another factor in Barbara's abrupt move was her participation in the feminist movement and work for the Equal Rights Amendment.
 Barbara makes a clear distinction between her efforts on behalf of ratification of ERA and the social and personal implications of the women's liberation movement.
 "ERA is a legal matter," she said, "not an extension of the battle between the sexes. They're two different things. ERA is a battle all of us are waging against a handful of reactionary holdouts in a few states."

 Barbara became passionate about the women's movement when she discovered subtle but effective discrimination against women in the lucrative field of "voice-over" TV commercials. Those are blubs in which a performer extols a product's virtues without being seen on screen.
 Barbara's agent said she was not getting that sort of work because 93 percent of all voice-over jobs went to men.

 About 18,000 years ago, the sea level along the East Coast was some 100 meters lower than it is today, according to the National Geographic Society. Scientists have found giant sloth bones, mammoth teeth and peat containing grasses and twigs in the Atlantic seabed at depths of 90 meters.

Soviets Tightening Rule Over Afghans

By The Associated Press
The Soviet Union is reported tightening its grip on Afghanistan, with thousands of administrators taking over the government and troops transferred from Eastern Europe replacing Afghan army deserters.

The Sunday Times of London reported from Kabul that almost 5,000 Soviet bureaucrats have been flown to the Afghan capital to clean up the mess resulting from three communist coups in 20 months.

The Times correspondent said a senior Afghan official told him the Russians ordered him "not to show my face in the office unless it is to collect my pay."
The correspondent for the Indian Statesman wrote Monday after arriving in New Delhi from Kabul that the Soviet hold on the Afghan government is "complete and irreversible."

He said Afghan sources told him each minister in the cabinet has two Russian advisers. "No decision at any level of government ... is taken without approval of the Russian advisers," the sources said.

Sources in Islamabad, Pakistan, said Soviet troops being flown to Afghanistan from Eastern Europe were replacing deserting Afghans and not Soviet reservists as Pentagon sources in Washington reported last week.

One Western diplomat in the Pakistani capital said his embassy was receiving a large number of reliable reports that "the Afghan army is just evaporating—disappearing like so many soda bubbles."
"What's happening is that the Afghan army is suffering such rapid desertions that the Soviets are reaching the point where there will be no indigenous forces to rely on," he said.

The Afghan army at one time numbered about 100,000 men, but intelligence sources estimate the strength nearer to 50,000 now as a result of defections and casualties in the 21-month-old war with the Moslem rebels. The Soviet occupation army is estimated now at 76,000 to 80,000.

U.S. intelligence sources in Washington estimate as many as 2,000 Soviets have been killed, wounded or captured since the Russians poured into Afghanistan last month to crush the rebellion and replace President Hafizullah Amin with Babrak Karmal.

Amin had ousted Afghan revolutionary leader Nur Mohammed Taraki from power last September. It later was announced that Taraki died of a long illness, but Associated Press correspondent Marcus Eliason reported from Kabul today that a former presidential palace commander said in a radio broadcast that Taraki was strangled last Oct. 8 in the presence of Amin.

The commander said the strangulation was carried out by three of his subordinates on Amin's orders. It was announced after the latest coup that Amin had been executed.

Meanwhile, President Carter in his State of the Union message to Congress called for greater defense spending and increased aid for Pakistan because of the Soviet army in Afghanistan, on Pakistan's northwest border. He postponed his request to Congress for $400 million in military and economic aid because agreement on the amount had not been reached with the Pakistani government.

Pakistan's military dictator, President Mohammed Zia-ul-Haq, told a news conference last week that Carter's offer of $200 million in military aid and $200 million in economic aid was "peanuts."
In other reaction to the Soviet action in Afghanistan:

The United States sent B-52 bombers to monitor the movements of the 24 Soviet warships deployed in the Gulf of Aden, the Arabian Sea and the Indian Ocean. Twenty-five U.S. warships are cruising in the same waters.

New Zealand put off a visit to Moscow by Deputy Prime Minister Brian Talboys and Fisheries Minister Duncan Macintyre and curtailed other official contacts.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua, winding up a visit to Pakistan, promised to step up aid to the estimated 500,000 Afghans who have fled into Pakistan since the first communist coup in April 1978.

Japan announced it was sending $4.2 million in aid to the refugees.

Arab diplomats in Beirut said Saudi Arabia reported to the United States and Britain that hundreds of Cuban reinforcements and dozens of Russian advisers were flown recently from Ethiopia to communist-controlled South Yemen, at the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula.

Iranian Leaders Silent On Offer From Carter

By The Associated Press
President Carter extended an olive branch to Iran's revolutionary regime despite the continued captivity of the American hostages in Tehran. But he warned Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's forces that America's patience is "not unlimited."

There was no immediate response from Iran. Earlier Monday, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh lumped American imperialism and Soviet communism together as threats to his country.

Meanwhile, the approximately 50 hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran began their 80th day in captivity.

Carter in his State of the Union message to Congress said the United States has "no basic quarrel with the nation, the revolution or the people of Iran."

The threat to them comes not from American foreign policy, but from Soviet actions in the region," the president declared.

Carter said his government is "prepared to work with the government of Iran to develop a new and mutually beneficial relationship. But that will not be possible so long as Iran continues to hold Americans hostage, in defiance of the world community and civilized behavior. They must be released unharmed."

The president said the U.S. government so far has "pursued a measured program of peaceful diplomatic and economic steps in an attempt to resolve this issue without resorting to other remedies available to us under international law."

"But our patience is not unlimited, and our concern for the well-being of our fellow citizens grows every day," he warned.

Ghotbzadeh in a broadcast presidential campaign speech said Iran's borders "are in danger" because of the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan. He said Iran is "ready to render every assistance for putting an end to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan ... and in order to safeguard the interests of our country we should take decisive action on the Soviet threat."

However, he gave no hint of any specific action.

Ghotbzadeh was one of eight men on the final list of candidates, broadcast by Tehran Radio, for the presidential election Friday.

The others were Finance Minister Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, considered by some observers to be the front runner; Culture and Education Minister Hassan Habibi; Adm. Ahmad Madani, the governor of oil-rich Khuzistan Province who has been suppressing attempts at rebellion by the Arab population there; former Deputy Premier Sadegh Tabataba'i; Mohammad Mokri, the ambassador to Moscow; Minister of State Darius Faru- har and former Health Minister Kazem Sami.

Tehran Radio also reported an Iran Air Boeing 727 carrying 128 persons slammed into a mountainside in heavy fog and exploded Monday night, killing everyone aboard. The broadcast said there were no foreigners on the flight from Mashhad in eastern Iran to Tehran except the pilot, who was identified as Australian. Most of the passengers were Moslem pilgrims returning from a visit to a holy shrine in Mashhad.

President Gains Solons' Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's call for higher defense spending and increased aid for Pakistan in the face of the Soviet Union's Afghan occupation drew an initially favorable reaction from members of Congress.

Committee leaders in both the Senate and House predicted that approval of the $400 million in aid for Pakistan which Carter proposed would be "the first order of business."

And the Senate Budget Committee chairman, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said he anticipates a "very favorable" reaction on Capitol Hill to other segments of Carter's request for $158 billion in defense spending, which represents a 3 per cent hike over this year once inflation is taken into account.

But Muskie said it is too early to tell how much defense spending can be increased without damaging domestic programs or the effort to balance the budget.

Carter said in his 75-page State of the Union message that the aid was "designed to assist Pakistan defend itself."

He also said the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, Pakistan's neighbor, makes it evident that "we must pay whatever price is required to remain the strongest nation in the world."

Congressional leaders, told by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on Monday that the Pakistani aid proposal had been delayed, predicted approval when it does come.

Vance said after a two-hour closed briefing for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the request was delayed so the administration could consult with and get the fullest participation of American allies, China and Persian Gulf countries in aiding Pakistan.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the committee, predicted approval for the proposal. Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Middle East subcommittee, said "my judgement is that Congress will move with dispatch."

As for domestic programs, Carter said his budget will contain only a "critical few" new proposals, including a $2 billion program to teach teen-agers basic educational and job skills, a $12 billion program to help power companies convert oil-fired generators to coal, standby gasoline rationing, and continuation of the general revenue sharing program to aid state and local governments.

The U.S. Conference of Mayors praised Carter for promising "more targeting of the limited federal funds available."

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., agriculture committee chairman, said the embargo had "cast a cloud of uncertainty over the entire farm economy." Talmadge said he is considering proposing legislation that would include increased loans to farmers.

Airline Defeats Extortion Plot

DENVER (AP) — It was sky-high drama. An extortionist warned a bomb aboard a DC-8 heading for Hawaii would go off if the plane dipped below 5,000 feet. The jet landed at one of the nation's highest airports with 1,172 feet to spare — and no bomb.

After the bizarre episode ended, passengers who expected to spend Monday night in Honolulu found themselves running across a snowy runway at Colorado Springs Municipal Airport.

"We were all scared to death, but no one panicked," one passenger said later in Denver, where the 117 passengers and eight crew members of the United Airlines flight were brought after landing. He refused to identify himself.

From the captain on down, the whole crew did their jobs very professionally, said another passenger, A.T. Gonzales of Honolulu. "They are to be highly commended."

The FBI said there were no suspects in custody, but special agent Jack Egnor said that there were "promising possibilities."

Egnor would not say how much money the caller demanded. He said that only money was asked for and no political demands were made.

The threat used by the extortionist — an altitude-controlled bomb — served as the basis for a 1970 movie, "Doomsday Flight."

A passenger who would not identify himself said he had heard that authorities wanted to question a man who boarded the plane in Los Angeles and got off in San Diego without a shoulder bag he reportedly had been carrying. The FBI would not confirm the information.

Passengers and airline officials gave this account of the incident.

Officials at United's headquarters in Los Angeles received several anonymous telephone calls that a device programmed to detonate at 5,000 feet above sea level or lower was on board Flight 199. The caller demanded money. The first call came about two hours after the flight, which originated in Los Angeles, took off from San Diego.

At about 2 p.m. CST, while the plane was over the Pacific, the pilot found a cigar-box-size container in the airplane's lavatory. With the aid of two passengers — one a fireman — crew members gingerly moved the device from the lavatory and placed it near an exit door.

The crew members stripped the plane of cushions and pillows and packed them against the device, tying a table top over it.

The aircraft then headed for Colorado Springs airport — at 6,172 feet the highest in the United States capable of handling a DC-8. There, passengers slid down chutes.

It was then that panic almost set in. "But a couple of the people said, 'calm down, calm down,'" and everybody did," said an unidentified passenger.

When bomb experts from Fort Carson examined the suspected bomb, they found only wooden dowels covered with wrapping paper from real dynamite, said Col. Earl Burley, information officer for the nearby Army base. The sticks were wired to a real timing device and batteries, Burley said.

Several passengers received minor injuries as they slid down the emergency exit chute or slipped on the snowy runway, said Ed Nielson, United's director of public affairs.

The altitude-bomb extortion attempt was similar to a bomb hoax on a Qantas Boeing 707 in Australia in May 1971, when a Mr. Brown told police by telephone there was a bomb in a locker at the Sydney airport. A search revealed a gelatinous bomb with an altitude triggering device set to explode at 20,000 feet and a letter that said a similar bomb was on a London-bound jet with 128 people aboard.

Ex-Mayor Rips Into Chamber

our decision that we should not take a public position," explained chamber board president B.C. "Peck" McMinn.

According to McMinn, the chamber doesn't normally take stands in political campaigns, partly because it does receive tax funds. "We also felt that we represent the entire community, not just one segment," he said.

Turner said he believes the chamber board should consider breaking off its involvement with funding from the city.

However, chamber vice president Joe Horkey said he doesn't see any reason to end the tax funding. "The money from the tax funds has been put to good use," Horkey said. "And it's been used for the good of all people in the city."

According to both Horkey and McMinn, the BCD has played an important role in attracting industry to Lubbock. McMinn noted that promoting the growth of the city benefits all citizens.

Funding for the BCD was set in the city charter during the mid-1920s. At that time, the BCD tax was set at 5 cents on $100 valuation.

"The only way to change this would be through a charter amendment election," Horkey said.

In 1967, city voters turned down a proposition to eliminate the funding for the BCD in a special charter amendment election. Chamber officials said that vote expressed the wishes of local residents.

McMinn questioned whether Turner has a better way of promoting the development of Lubbock than the BCD currently offers. "If he does, I'm sure the city would be happy to hear it," McMinn said.

sum to there wouldn't be any more trouble," he said.
But under cross-examination from defense attorney Travis Shelton, Gunnels said he knew "there was a girl dead, but didn't tell the Stones."
When Shelton asked why not, Gunnels replied, "I felt it was not my place to do it."
Gunnels then said that, in his presence, the Stones never were given any warning or read any rights.

Castro County sheriff's deputies Jerry Jans and Lonnie Rhynes also testified that in their presence the Stones never were read their rights nor given any legal warning.

The seven-woman, five-man jury was excused from the courtroom early in Martin's testimony because attorneys felt they were dealing with "a touchy situation" and requested that 64th District Court Judge John T. Boyd rule on the admissibility of the testimony.

Arguments in the three-delayed trial are expected to continue throughout the afternoon.

Teacher Reinstated After Suspension

WASHBURN, Mo. (AP) — Diane Thompson, who was suspended from teaching because she lived with a man for two months before marrying him, is back in school but not with her second-grade pupils.

Mrs. Thompson, 34, returned Monday to Washburn Elementary School in this southwest Missouri town of 250 people.

She has been reassigned temporarily until the board knows what to do with her," said Guy E. Mills, school superintendent.

Mrs. Thompson was suspended in November on a charge of "immorality" after disclosing her living arrangement on a teacher's evaluation form which she said she had considered confidential. She successfully challenged the suspension in U.S. District Court last week.

Administration Hints Of Action To Enforce Embargo On Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration told Congress today it was prepared to take "appropriate measures" to ensure that other nations do not help the Soviet Union make up for grain lost in the U.S. embargo.

Administration officials also sought to assure American farmers they will not suffer any significant hardship from the partial cutoff of sales to the Russians.

Testifying before a Senate Banking subcommittee on international finance, Commerce Secretary Philip M. Klutznick said that "we do not expect to be able to prevent all transshipment of agricultural supplies through other countries" to the Soviet Union.

"However, we will be watching exports to and from other countries very closely to ensure that they are commensurate in volume with past shipments."

Klutznick said, "If we detect any circumvention, we will take appropriate measures, including enforcement actions under the Export Administration Act."

He did not specify in prepared testimony the steps the administration is considering.

Klutznick said President Carter was aware when he imposed the embargo that the Soviet Union could get some of the grain and other technology products from other countries.

Interests of the United States."
Dale E. Hathaway, undersecretary of agriculture, said the prices of wheat and corn have held up well despite the embargo.

"We are convinced that they will return to levels at least as high as they would have been had we not taken the suspension action," Hathaway said. "We have pulled out all the stops to make sure that the suspension does not alter supply-demand fundamentals."

The embargo was criticized by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson.

"Embargoes, like the freezing of Iranian assets, feed the general impression that the United States is impulsive, unpredictable and an unreliable supplier of goods and services," Stevenson said.

Stevenson said the United States should have, in effect, imposed the embargo in stages by having the Agriculture Department take over all grain supplies earmarked for communist nations without actually suspending most of the sales.

Then, he said, sales could have been scaled down "step by step, making it clear that the ultimate result could be an embargo."

That method would give "the Russians time to adjust to the carrot as well as the stick. This procedure would have avoided unnecessary damage to the U.S. economy," Stevenson said.

Corn and wheat that the Soviets were to get this year. But he allowed the shipment of 8 million tons under a long-term agreement.

Under a 1979 law, Congress has 30 days to exercise a veto over presidential export controls.

The administration has announced various steps to soften the blow of the embargo to American farmers and to shore up grain prices. Over the weekend, the president ordered the Agriculture Department to buy grain that dockworkers are refusing to load for ships bound for the Soviet Union.

The department's Commodity Credit Corp. expects to pay more than $2.5 billion in taxpayer money to exporters for the grain that was intended for the Russians.

The administration also has boosted government support rates for wheat and corn. It raised the support prices to $2.50 a bushel for the 1979 wheat crop, up from $2.35, and increased corn supports to $2.10 from $2.

But many members of Congress have attacked the moves as inadequate to protect all farmers.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., agriculture committee chairman, said the embargo had "cast a cloud of uncertainty over the entire farm economy." Talmadge said he is considering proposing legislation that would include increased loans to farmers.

City Teen-Ager Says McLin Fired Fatal Shot

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A third Lubbock teen-ager this morning named murder defendant Lawrence V. McLin Jr. as the man who fatally wounded Billy Joe Scott the early morning of Aug. 25, 1979.

The 16-year-old girl was one of several witnesses who told a 140th District Court jury that McLin earlier had been involved in a fight outside Chilly's club, 1704 Parkway Drive, before the shooting.

The girl, however, said McLin had attacked Scott's younger brother that morning. Earlier, two teen-agers said McLin jumped the shooting victim before gunfire erupted.

The O.L. Slaton Junior High student this morning said that after McLin scuffled with 18-year-old Lynn Scott, he and another man ran to a car in the club's parking lot. Both men removed guns from the car, she said, but McLin fired first.

After McLin fired five shots, one of them striking Scott, the other man fired his weapon, the ninth grader testified.

McLin, 32, of 2605 E. Bates St. is accused of shooting Scott, who was stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., outside of the 1701 Parkway Drive pool hall. Scott, 23, died about 6½ hours later at Health Sciences Center Hospital. He suffered a bullet wound in the chest.

Scott's death came in the midst of a "crackdown" on local clubs headed by the criminal district attorney's office. Only hours before the shooting, temporary restraining orders were delivered to 12 other city and county nightspots demanding that the businesses take steps to halt violence on the premises.

Lynn Scott, 18, told the 140th District Court panel he had been at Chilly's earlier in the evening and became involved in a fight with another man concerning a pool game. He said he left the club and went to the Rainbow Inn on Idalou Road, where he met his two brothers and some other friends.

Scott said the group returned to Chilly's, where another altercation broke out just outside the club's back door. Scott said his older brother Billy was trying to break up the melee when McLin, whom he had seen earlier standing in the club's back door, "jumped on his (Billy's) back and hit him in the back of the head."

But, Scott told prosecutor Travis Ware, he did not see where McLin went after the defendant and Billy scuffled briefly.

As Scott and his brothers were preparing to get into their car and leave following the second scuffle, the witness told the three-man, nine-woman panel, the fatal shot was fired.

"We was fixing to leave and that's when I heard the shots," Scott said. "The first one hit him (Billy). That's when he hit the ground."

Scott said he heard four shots, and all appeared to come from the parking lot area north of the club's back door.

The witness' other brother, Bobby of Dallas, also said the gunfire came from the parking lot, but that he heard six shots and then the sound of an empty gun clicking.

The Dallas man also told the panel McLin struck Billy without any apparent provocation and that he and his brothers were getting into their car when Billy was wounded.

"He (Billy) told me he was hit and asked for my mother," Bobby said, recounting the shooting for defense counsel Mike Brown.

Although Bobby also said he did not see who fired the shot that felled his brother, he told Ware that he immediately following the gunfire he saw McLin jump into a car on the passenger side and that the vehicle sped from the scene. He said immediately following the scuffle with Billy, the defendant had headed toward the parking lot.

Heavy Rainfall Cited For Preventing Riots

IDABEL, Okla. (UPI) — Flak-jacketed police officers patrolling city streets armed with M-1 automatic rifles today credited heavy overnight rains and cold weather with preventing another night of rioting.

"It'd say the rain helped keep things calm," said black city police officer Westell Frost as he unbuckled his armored jacket.

Frost, with more than 100 city and county officers and more than 50 Oklahoma Highway Patrol officers, watched over the city to try to prevent repetition of two nights of rioting in which two people were killed.

"This cold weather put a damper on things," Frost said. "I wouldn't mind if it stayed like this all week."

Police officers were ordered not to go to the west side of Idabel, the city's black ghetto.

"I don't know what it's like over there this morning, but I think we would have heard something," said Larry McInvene, a white policeman. "We were on orders not to go to the west side of town unless we were ordered."

Most businessmen, who had closed their shops before dark, were opening their stores early today, hoping the racial tension between the town's black and white residents would subside.

Only 6,000 people live in Idabel, a resort and lumber community nestled in the southeastern corner of Oklahoma just a few miles from Arkansas and Texas.

Idabel Mayor Rex Helms said he had decided against a curfew Monday because he feared the town's residents, both black and white, would react unfavorably to being ordered off the streets.

Refinery Explosion Debris Removed

BORGER (AP) — Cleanup crews hauled away piles of smoking, charred debris, hoping small "residual" fires would burn out today and let them get close enough to inspect the site of Sunday's refinery explosion.

At least 41 persons were injured in the blast, none seriously, when a cracking unit at the Phillips Petroleum Co. gasoline refinery blew up. The accident destroyed part of the plant, collapsed nearby homes and broke windows in buildings here, four miles from the plant.

Company officials still do not know what caused the explosion.

"If there were any clues as to what caused it, they're all gone now," said Phillips spokesman Norman Berkley.

Two of those injured remained hospitalized late Monday, one in Borger and one in Amarillo. Authorities said both were cut by flying glass, and one of them may lose an eye.

Jerry Norman, 26, worked in a unit next to the one that exploded Sunday. His reaction when an Amarillo reporter told him there were no serious injuries was one of disbelief.

"Nobody was killed? I just can't believe it," he said. "The whole thing was so terrible."

Norman said there were two blasts in the cracking unit. He said one threw him to the floor, and when he got up another one knocked him down again.

He said he felt "tremors" for another 15 seconds after that, but was deafened and had his vision obscured by the explosions. Then, he said, he ran for his life.

Judge Delays Hearings On Dallas Desegregation

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Judge William M. Taylor Jr. will wait until summer before convening new hearings on the Dallas school desegregation case, following Monday's ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Taylor said he would wait until then to avoid disrupting the current school year.

The nation's highest court ruled 5-3 it had made a mistake last year when it agreed to hear an appeal of the Dallas case, and that a lower court decision ordering further study of current desegregation plan should be reviewed.

The decision brought varying reactions on whether the Supreme Court decision would mean further realignment of districts to eliminate one-race schools through additional busing.

"We're looking forward to developing a constitutionally acceptable plan that will eliminate all one-race schools in the district," said Daisy Anderson, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP represents plaintiffs in the case.

She predicted more extensive busing will be included in the new plan, and so did school board member Robert Med-rano.

Two Ships Collide Near Galveston

GALVESTON (AP) — An empty oil tanker collided with a 377-foot banana boat in foggy seas near this Texas port early today, ripping a 10-foot gash in the side of the freighter.

All crewmen on both vessels were accounted for, and there were no reports of injuries.

But Coast Guard officials said the banana boat, the Lord Frontenac of Panamanian registry, took on water in the engine room and sank about 10 feet. It was towed to port by a Coast Guard cutter.

"The Lord Frontenac was hit amidship on the starboard side. It ripped a 10-foot gash at the water line. She settled 10 feet in eight minutes, but she's stabilized now," said Coast Guard spokesman George Blocker. "We have some of her crew and some of our people setting up watertight conditions and trying to pump her out."

The outboard 701-foot tanker Cephalonia, of Liberian registry, moved out of the area of the collision and set anchor, but apparently was not seriously damaged by the impact, Blocker said.

The wreck occurred in heavy fog about four miles from the Galveston jetty, and only a mile from the wreckage of the tanker Burnah Agate. The Burnah Agate collided with a freighter Nov. 1 and exploded.

Slaton Residents Name Man, Woman Of Year

SLATON (Special) — Lubbock County Commissioner Coy Biggs and retired school teacher Elizabeth Martin were named Monday night as Man and Woman of the Year at the 54th annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet held in the Slaton Junior High Cafeteria.

More than 200 Slatonites watched as members of the Athenian Study Club presented the award to Mrs. Martin, who was recognized as being instrumental in organizing "Slaton's Story." Biggs, recognized for his services in numerous civic affairs including his work as a volunteer fireman, auctioneer, master of ceremonies and Lion, was presented his award by last year's Man of the Year

John Landreth.

Named as Boss of the Year was Dillon Patterson, who is manager of Pioneer Natural Gas company.

John Dodson, a U.S. Postal Service employee, was honored as Citizen of the Year, because of his consideration and services to elderly post office customers. He was selected from 13 Citizens of the Month, who were nominated throughout the past year.

Lubbock Mayor Dirk West was featured speaker at the banquet which included a baked ham dinner. West, identified as the "Muleshoe connoisseur," was introduced by master of ceremonies Bill Ball.

RN Shortage Plagues Hospital

For the past few weeks, Health Sciences Center Hospital has been getting just what it needs — more patients.

But now that the hospital is filling up, a shortage of registered nurses at Health Sciences has made it necessary for the hospital to occasionally turn paying patients away. Administrator Jake Henry Jr. told board members that the hospital's intensive care unit is a particular problem because they can't seem to carry enough qualified RNs.

"And ICU is a money maker," Henry added. Henry also told the board that he expects increased usage of the hospital's dialysis facilities upon the completion of nurse training at South Plains Dialysis Center.

The teaching hospital had an average of 142 patients in the hospital during the week ending Jan. 11 and 145 patients the week ending Jan. 18. Hospital officials continue to advertise for registered nurses to fill the staffing gaps.

Grain Futures
CHICAGO (API) — The lack of fresh news about the tense international situation sent grain and soybean futures prices lower Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Brokerage firms which represent investors in the market for a commission fee were sellers as were exporters who dumped almost 6 million bushels of wheat back into the futures market, traders said.

Traders were also keeping their ears open to news from New York's Commodity Exchange Inc. which did not begin trading silver futures contracts until 1:30 p.m. eastern time. The exchange board of directors met in emergency session to consider the silver futures market. The board decided to allow trading in silver for liquidation only, but details of the decision were not immediately available.

Traders here said the decision could mean changes are in store for Chicago Board of Trade silver contracts, and that could be an indirectly depressing factor for the grains and soybeans.

Soybean prices, especially, took a dive when computer-triggered sell stops pushed prices even further downward. The sell stops are orders to get out of the market when prices reach a certain point to minimize losses if prices continue to plunge.

Australia Decrees Boycott

By The Associated Press
The Australian government today formally decided to back President Carter's call to boycott this year's Olympic Games in Russia if Soviet troops do not withdraw from Afghanistan.

The government's move followed a day-long cabinet meeting in Melbourne. Support for Carter's Olympic stance was not uniform, however. A 12-member Amateur Athletic Union boxing team was to leave for Moscow today to begin a three-city exhibition tour — though a State Department spokesperson said such trips "should be discouraged."

"We tried to make it clear to the kids that if they had any reservations, don't go," said Col. Don Hull, boxing liaison officer for the AAU, who disclosed heavy-weight Jimmy Clark of Philadelphia had exercised that option.

"Jimmy told me this afternoon he thought he'd sit this one out," Hull said Monday by telephone from Arlington, Va. "It was a personal choice. I didn't pressure him or make a big deal out of it."

Attempts to reach Clark for comment were unsuccessful.

The tour slates matches in the Soviet cities of Moscow on Jan. 26, Tblisi on Jan. 30 and Vilnius on Feb. 2, and Hull said, "The latest information we had was there was no (governmental) objection" to the team completing the trip that has been scheduled since January, 1979.

However, President Carter called Sunday for the movement, postponement or cancellation of the Summer Games if Soviet troops are not removed from Afghanistan within a month. And State Department spokesperson Susan Pittman said Monday: "The boxing competition in the Soviet Union is the type of bilateral activity which we believe should be discouraged."

Meanwhile, worldwide reaction from athletes and government spokespersons alike remained uniform only in its adamant.

Virtually all respondents — whether for or against a prospective American Olympic boycott — were clear in their stance.

"There's no way I want to be part of a boycott of the Moscow Olympics," said Irish miler Eamonn Coghlan. "I keep my political opinions completely separate from my athletic aspirations."

"There's no way they can move the Games," said Coghlan, who set a world indoor record of 3:52.6 for the mile last February. "The International Olympic Committee has had a binding agreement with Moscow since 1974 and there's no way they can break the contract. Millions and millions of dollars would be lost if they did."

That, essentially, has been the position of the IOC all along — a sentiment that was underscored Monday by two IOC officials. "It is the USOC (United States Olympic Committee) that has to decide whether American athletes will take part in the Games, not the U.S. government," said IOC President Lord Killanin, who labeled "a hasty decision" the policy Carter announced Sunday.

"I am not foolish enough to say politics don't exist in sport. What I do say is that sport should not be used for political ends," continued Killanin.

IOC director Monique Berlioux, a former French swimming star, said an American boycott could lead to a rethinking about Los Angeles as the site of the 1984 Summer Games.

Other reaction was a rainbow of emotion.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll indicated Americans favored not sending a team to Moscow 49 percent to 41 with 10 percent undecided.

Of the 1,595 adults interviewed, 66 percent favored moving the Games from Moscow, 26 percent opposed and eight percent were undecided.

Vladimir Popov, first deputy chairman of the Moscow Olympics Organizing Committee, said, "We are calm people, but we think that all the anxiety that people from the outside are injecting into the Olympics is hardly helping the Games."

"If one is to use sports terminology," Popov continued, "one can say that the Olympic annals will recall Carter as a man who erected, rather than cleared away, hurdles and that Carter's decision will, in the long run, doubtless prove a goal he scored into his own net."

Further developments may be expected after the USOC meets at Colorado Springs, Colo., this weekend to map strategy. The National Olympic Committees meet in Mexico City on Feb. 4, and the IOC meets at Lake Placid, N.Y., — site of the Winter Games — Feb. 8-10.

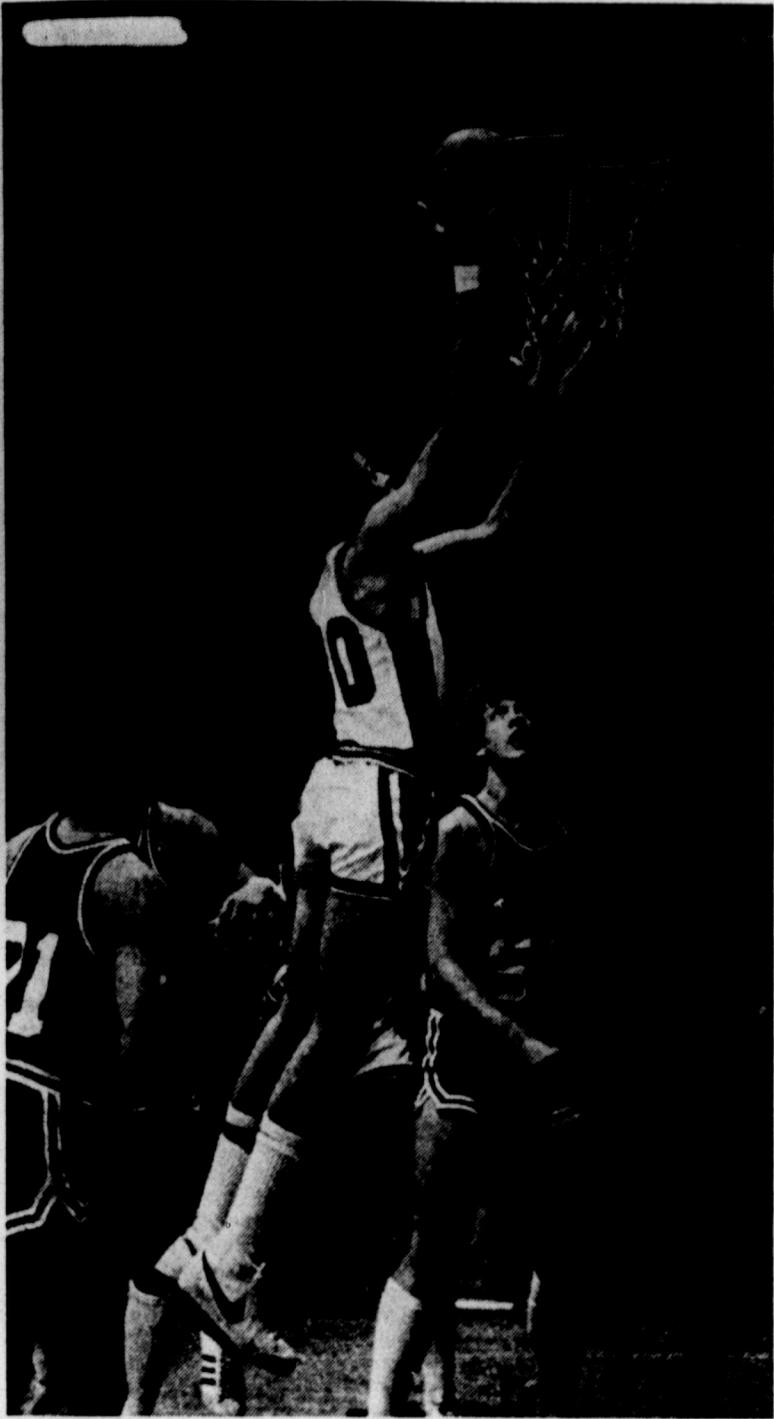

The Asahi Shimbun, an independent, mass circulation Japanese newspaper, said in an editorial: "The Games are the people's festival. The Games are held in Moscow but the sponsor is the IOC and not the Soviet government or the Communist Party. The request by President Carter is an unpleasant intervention in the IOC and it was only natural Lord Killanin reacted against it."

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said in Phoenix, while he doesn't disagree with the president's stand, it "is not an adequate answer."

"There are no gimmicks, no withdrawals from the Olympic Games, no individual measures that are going to solve the problem," he said.

Claude Collard, president of the French National Olympic Committee, said "France will be at Moscow... President Carter's problems will not change France's attitudes." He added his feeling that all the controversy "leads to one conclusion: that the Olympic Games, in their present form, are dead."

And a spokesman for the Hellenic Olympic Committee said that Greece will "undoubtedly" participate at the Games in Moscow.

LCC Maneuvers To 69-68 Win

By ERIC GALE
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Former Marquette University coach Al McGuire had a pet name for close basketball games, contests that allowed for little or no breathing room: white knucklers.

Lubbock Christian College coach Larry Hays has another name, by no means a pet, for such games involving his Chaparrals: "near disaster."

For better than half their game against Trinity University Monday night in the fieldhouse, the Chaparrals played in the absence of both intensity and foul-plagued center Kevin Wharton, but refused to buckle under and defeated the Tigers 69-68.

In a game that scraped the skins off the Chaps and much of the patience from Hays, LCC hit 72 percent of its field-goal attempts in the second half to erase a 41-33 halftime deficit and gain its second victory in three Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association outings. LCC is 11-12 overall.

"We played terrible in the first 10 minutes of the game," said Hays, finding no one to argue the point. "We tried to take ourselves completely out of the ball game. Our guards weren't playing any defense at all."

Wharton also played very little defense, but only because the 6-6 senior post was tagged with his third personal foul after just seven and a half minutes of action. With Wharton confined to the bench, LCC fell from a 10-9 lead into a 21-12 hole in the space of four minutes.

Trinity exploited open areas around the key for 15-22 foot jump-shots. Guard Mark Taylor scored 12 of his 15 first-half points from that vicinity.

The situation so distressed Hays that he yanked his remaining four starters — Keith Gardner, Marshall Smith, Bruce Carver and Bill McGee — in favor of reserves Rick Murdock, Keith Money, Larry Holt and Gary Norris, with 6:38 to play in the half and LCC trailing 25-16. They joined Wharton's replacement, Jim Steensma.

Chris Evert Lloyd Enjoys Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd, who hinted last week she might retire, was in top form and "had fun out there" as she breezed through her first-round match in the $200,000 Women's Pro Tennis Tournament.

Would she retire? she was asked Monday night after defeating Bettyanne Stuart 6-2, 6-3.

"I'm not closing the door entirely by saying I'm retiring," she replied. "I would like to keep the door open."

"The problem in the first half is that with Wharton out, the rest of the guys don't think they can play," Hays said. "This has been happening all year."

"It looks like they say to themselves, 'Oh, we're in trouble now.' It's the first time since before Christmas break that I put five different people into the game at once."

Those "different people" achieved different results.

Murdock, who finished with 12 points, and Money, sparked a mini-comeback that brought the lead down to 25-21, and then Gardner returned to score two big baskets down the stretch.

"Those five guys (the subs) went out and knocked heads," Hays said. "They played defense and got us back in the ball game."

The Chaps, their starting lineup rested in the second half, edged into a 51-51 tie on Carver's lay-in with 11:52 remaining.

By then, Wharton already had his fourth foul and finally was disqualified with 1:48 left after having played only 17 minutes and scoring five points. Gardner, also in foul trouble, did not score in the second half.

But LCC, playing aggressively at both ends of the floor, built a 64-59 lead on another Carver lay-up with exactly 5:00 left. The well-disciplined Tigers, however, exercised patience and again pulled into a tie, 64-64, on Walter Gordon's 18-footer with 3:56 to go.

Carver scored four of LCC's next, and final, five points, the big basket being a lay-in of a missed Wharton free throw with 2:51 left for a 67-64 advantage.

Trailing by that score, Trinity melted 45 seconds off the clock only to have Gordon miss an 8-footer with 1:23 to go.

Twenty seconds later, Carver scored the decisive points on a pair of free tosses that enabled LCC to withstand two quick Trinity baskets within the final 27 seconds.

Surprising Hereford To Challenge MHS

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Monterey will face its toughest test of the young District 4-AAAA basketball season tonight when it hosts Hereford.

Both teams enter the conference encounter, set for 7:30 p.m. in the MHS gym, will 1-0 marks. The Plainsmen opened the loop season by knocking off Lubbock High 70-50. Meanwhile, Hereford surprised Plainview 52-48.

In other Class AAAA action tonight, Coronado opens its loop season with a visit to Plainview. Also, the Monterey girls (2-0) entertain Hereford (1-1) and the Coronado girls (1-1) travel to Plainview (2-1). Both girls games are set to tip off at 6 p.m.

"Hereford's coming along," commented MHS head coach Joe Michaela. "They'll be ready to play us."

The Plainsmen, 18-5 for the season, have won 18 straight district encounters, dating back to the end of the 1977 season.

On the other hand, Hereford, led by 6-5 center Darrel Polk, is turning into one of the surprise teams of the area. The Whitefaces, not expected to mount much of a challenge, are now 9-13 for the year.

"We're starting to come around," commented HHS coach Bob Decker.

"Just give us some more time and we'll be all right."

Along with Polk, who is currently hitting at 13.0 points a game, the Whitefaces are also led by forward Joe Walker, a 10.7 scorer.

Trav Clardy, MHS's 6-6 center and leading scorer, enters the game as the top rebounder and point producer in the area. The senior is currently averaging 22.0 points a game and 10.0 rebounds.

Coronado coach Barry Arwine will be looking for his first loop win of the season tonight against Plainview, a team he expects that will still challenge for the conference crown.

"I thought they looked a little uptight against Hereford," said Arwine. "That probably had to do with the fact it was the first district game. But I know one thing, they'll play us a heckuva game. They always do."

On the first night of district play, Coronado took the evening off.

"I don't think that (the night off) hurt," said Arwine. "We needed the rest."

Scott Williams, another one of the top scorers on the South Plains, will bring his 17.0 average into the contest. He will be joined in the backcourt by Sam Law.

The Monterey girls, fresh off an easy 86-41 win over Lubbock High, are only a couple of wins away from clinching the first-half loop title. The Plainsmen need a victory over Hereford tonight and another win against Coronado Friday to claim the title outright.

Monterey, guided by coach Tim Tasker, owns a won-loss record of 21-2, one of the top in the state.

The Coronado and Plainview girls will be playing elimination derby tonight. Both teams enter the 6 p.m. contest with one loss under its belt. And that means another loss would all but eliminate either team from the first-half chase. Coronado desperately needs a win to force a showdown with Monterey.

Both Lubbock High teams take the night off.

WHBA WINS IN OT

Western Hills Baptist Academy had four players score in double figures and emerged with a tough 67-60 win over Whitarral in an overtime thriller Monday night at the WHBA Gym. Dan Moore had 15 for the Academy, Lee Carlie added 15, Jeff Shadden tossed in 18 and Gary Briggs tallied 10 to pace the attack. Jay Nicholson had 17 for the losers and Mark Brian had 13.

DePaul Receives Unanimous Berth

By The Associated Press

One week after taking the top spot in the nation for the first time in Ray Meyer's 38-year coaching career, DePaul became the season's first unanimous No. 1 choice in The Associated Press college basketball poll announced today.

Undefeated at 15-0, DePaul received all 57 first-place votes and a maximum 1,140 points in the nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The Blue Demons posted victories last week over Lamar, Maine, and Louisiana State-Oregon State, 17-1, moved from No. 4 to the runnerup spot, grabbing 1,049 points. The Beavers defeated Washington St. and Washington in action last week. Duke, 15-2, with victories last week over Wake Forest and North Carolina State, garnered 959 points and moved from fifth place to third. They beat Georgia Tech 56-49 on Monday.

Ohio State, with 929 points, slipped from second place to fourth. Both of the Buckeyes' games last week went into overtime, as they defeated Minnesota 75-74, but lost to arch-rival Michigan 75-74. Kentucky moved up a notch into the fifth spot, by virtue of 835 points and victories last week over Florida and Vanderbilt.

Syracuse dropped from third place to sixth, with 821 points. After winning their first 14 games, the Orangemen suffered their first defeat last week, losing 68-67 to Old Dominion. Their record went to 13-1 with a victory Monday over Detroit. Thirty-eight points farther back was seventh-ranked Louisville, which beat Tulane in its only action last week.

Notre Dame, which scored victories over Villanova and UCLA last week, held on to the No. 8 spot with 773 points, 37 more than St. John's of New York, which moved up from tenth place into ninth. With 494 points, Missouri vaulted from 15th to tenth to round out the Top 20.

Despite the loss to DePaul, Louisiana State collected 455 points and moved from 14th place into 11th to head the Second Ten. Clemson moved up five notches into 12th place, followed by North Carolina, Purdue, Maryland, Indiana, Virginia, Weber State, Tennessee, and Brigham Young.

This week's Top Twenty newcomers were 15th-ranked Maryland, 13-2, and 18th-ranked Weber State, 17-1. Iowa, ranked 13th last week, and North Carolina State, ranked 16th, dropped from this week's Top Twenty.

Dunbar, Mats Face Key Matches

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The District 1-AAA season is only one game old, but already Dunbar coach Joe McWilliams finds himself with his back to a wall.

His Panthers dropped their loop opener to Canyon Friday night. To make matters worse, the loss came at home.

"That was probably one of the games we needed to win," McWilliams said. "We need to win all of our games at home and one or two on the road to stay in this thing."

"Now we have to keep fighting really. We're not out of it. Nobody is with just one loss. I see a definite possibility at the end of the season of a three or four team tie. I think everybody's going to lose at least one."

Levelland coach Don Abbot has to be hoping so too. His Lobos, Dunbar's opponent tonight in Lubbock, dropped their opener too. Friday they fell to Borger, the district favorite, 66-58.

"This is a must game for both of us,"

McWilliams said. "Both of us lost our openers and both of us lost them at home."

The city's other Class AAA coach, J.J. Wood at Estacado, is in a different boat entirely. His Matadors beat Dumas 77-67 Friday night in their conference opener.

And since the Demons, now 11-6 on the year, were supposed to be among the top teams in the district, Estacado's right up among the big boys.

Of course that's really no surprise. Estacado lost to district favorite Borger by only one point at the Snyder Tournament and defeated another league tough boy, Canyon (now 16-7) 66-52 in the Caprock tourney.

But now they'll be playing for real money.

Tonight the Mats travel north to face Canyon and Friday night they'll host Borger.

"This is a big week for us," said Wood. "This really is definitely the biggest week of the season, at least so far."

"That doesn't mean that the other two weeks (of the first half of the district season) are any easier. It's just that after this week we'll be able to see what's going on."

Having beaten Canyon once fairly soundly and facing Friday night's big game with Borger, it's possible that Estacado could look past tonight's game. But Wood doesn't think so.

"I really haven't sensed that in my players or in myself," he said. "I don't think we're looking to the Borger game. Canyon's got too good a team to do that."

"They've got a good post in that (Bill) Gruhkey, an outside shooter in Kendall Walling and that (Mike) Sluder kid is out front. He's a good ballplayer."

"I think that when you beat somebody like that, you go out on the court not as apprehensive maybe as you would otherwise. You know how they play and you know what to expect."

In the other District 1-AAA game, Dumas travels to Borger.

In girls' action, Dunbar hosts Levelland. The Panther girls are in tough shape right now also. They've already lost two district games and have yet to play Dumas, ranked second in the state.

Levelland, on the other hand, is 9-1 in loop play. Overall, Dunbar is 9-11 and the Lobos 13-9.

Estacado, also 1-2 in loop play and 10-8 overall, travels to Canyon. The Canyon girls are 2-1 and 13-11.

In the other district game, Borger, 0-3 and 6-15, tries its luck against the awesome Demons. Dumas now stands 3-0 in loop play (wins over Canyon, Estacado and Levelland) and 19-1 overall.

In 3-AAA, 6-14 Sweetwater travels to 17-4 Snyder for the Tigers' first district game. 10-6 Lake View hits the road to 11-8 Brownfield and 14-5 Lamesa (co-favorites with Snyder) takes the night off.

In 3-AAA girls' action, Sweetwater and Snyder, the only two undefeated teams in the league, face off tonight in Snyder. The Sweetwater girls are 3-0 in loop play and 18-3 overall, Snyder is 2-0 and 14-7. In the other district game, 16-5 Lake View is at 6-10 Brownfield.

Seminole, Tigerette Squads Give Notice

By RICHARD DAY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The second half of the district basketball races begins tonight, and though the leaders at the end of the first round streaked impressively to the top, they must now start from a clean slate against tough foes who are out to dethrone them.

The Seminole boys and the Slaton girls appear to be the top Class AA teams in the area. The Indians cruised through the first half of the District 5-AA campaign with a perfect 7-0 record and stand 16-5 this season, while the Tigerettes did the same against the girls in 5-AA and have a 22-2 record overall.

Both teams are defending state champions so they have great traditions to live up to, but it looks as though they are both doing a good job of it.

"We've got a pretty good bunch this season," Seminole coach Lee Caffey said of his Indians, which returned only two starters from last year's team.

This year the Indians have five seniors as compared to nine last season. Three seniors start along with two juniors. Two additional juniors and one sophomore make up the remainder of the squad.

"The team is really coming on because it's a hustling, hard-working group of kids with excellent attitudes," Caffey said.

Seminole starts the second round tonight against its toughest district competition — Denver City — and will host Post Friday evening.

Sam Nichols' Tigerettes are led by two-time all-state selection Cindy Robinson, but the coach says it is the team's desire to excel and ability to play well together that keeps it on top.

Denver City, Lubbock Cooper and Post, Slaton's opponent tonight, are expected to be the top contenders trying to take the district title away from the Tigerettes.

In Class A, Hale Center and New Deal, both members of District 4-A, look like the top boys' and girls' teams, respectively, in the area. Both teams carry 18-2 records this season and have spotless 8-0 records in district competition.

"Our quickness and depth have been helping us all season long, but lately our defense has come around," said Hale Center coach Steve Butler. "We have three players who have come off the bench to bolster our attack all season long."

Junior Ashmore, who is averaging 25 points per game, is the leader of the Owl attack, but inside strength from Terry James and Robert Smith, and leadership from sparkplug W.H. Johnson, make the Hale Center team a well-rounded one.

Shallowater, which hosts the Owls tonight, and Petersburg are the two teams expected to give Hale Center the most trouble in District 4-A — which uses a round-robin format leading to a four-team season-ending tournament to determine its champion.

The New Deal Lionettes lead the girls' standings in District 4-A, but must play away from home against Petersburg and Lorenzo this week. Coach Judy Bowman credits the team's success to good all-round play and senior leadership.

Petersburg and Lorenzo pose an immediate threat.

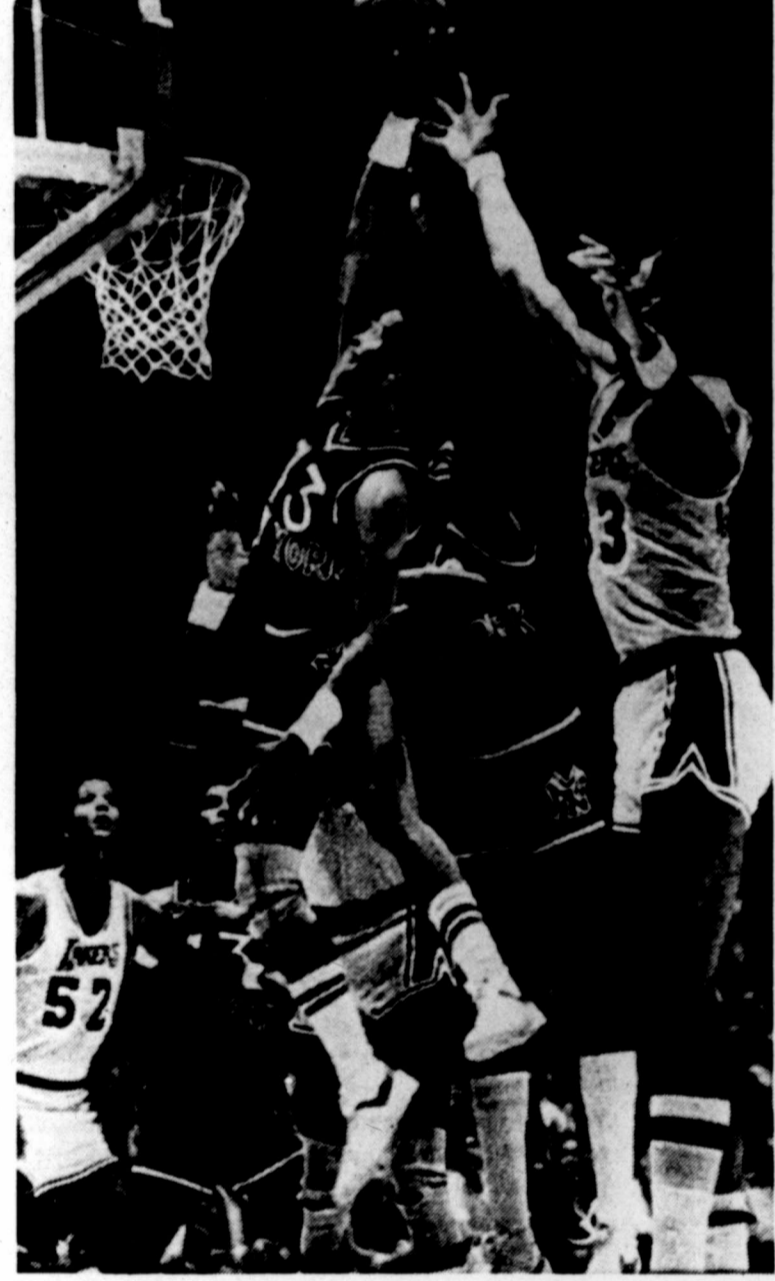

Despite her team's perfect mark in district action, Miss Bowman said, "it's a long way until the end of district plays, considering our round-robin schedule."

Vickie Teal is the team's leading scorer and rebounder, averaging 26 points per game and 15 rebounds. Miss Bowman also has praise for the senior leadership provided by Lisa Anglin and Lucrecia Schrophire.

The Sands Mustangs, who use a two-team attack, have a 21-2 season record and are 3-0 in District 9-B competition. The Mustangs appear to be the top Class B boys' team in the area.

On the feminine side of the Class B area races, three-time state champion Nazareth, which has a 25-2 record, looks tough again.

Several teams look to be in the driver's seat as the second half of district play begins, but as balanced as the area districts are, it would not be wise to bet too much cash on any of them.

Maravich, 76ers Confer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Maravich, one of the NBA's consistently high scoring guards, is still looking for a home, but he's definitely interested in joining the Philadelphia 76ers, a team spokesman says.

Pat Williams, the 76ers' general manager, said Monday that Maravich would talk to the Boston Celtics today before making a decision.

Maravich, who suffered a knee injury in 1978, was in Philadelphia on Monday for medical tests at Temple University Hospital. Williams said "our doctors cleared him physically."

Williams said he talked with Maravich for three hours Monday afternoon, and that coach Billy Cunningham conferred with Maravich for three hours Monday night.

Maravich became a free agent when he settled his multi-million dollar contract with the National Basketball Association's Utah Jazz.

"He's interested in coming here," said Williams, "but there are three other clubs interested and one is Boston."

Williams said he sees no problem in coming to salary terms with Maravich.

"I haven't got into that yet, but his main concern is landing on the club which he thinks has the best chance to win the NBA title," Williams said.

"He had a 10-year dream of being with a winner. He's played with nothing but second-division clubs and feels that joining a contender would be a unique experience for him," Williams added.

Williams said Maravich told him he would not sign with the 76ers until he has spoken to Boston. Williams said also that Maravich completely understood the role he would play if he became a 76er.

"He understands that we will not restyle our club. He understands he doesn't have to carry the load."

Lakers Teach Knicks Lesson In Teamwork

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Knicks got an opportunity to learn firsthand about the explosive tendencies of the Los Angeles Lakers. It wasn't a lesson they appreciated.

Los Angeles trailed New York 79-69 midway in the third quarter of Monday night's only scheduled National Basketball Association game, but the Lakers then went crazy, outscoring the Knicks 43-18 over a 13:07 span en route to a 132-114 victory.

The Knicks had scored 18 of the first 22 points in the second half to take their 10-point lead in the first game between the teams this season, but then the roof fell in on New York.

"The Knicks played excellent offensive basketball but it was only a matter of time until we got our running game going," said Los Angeles coach Paul Westhead, whose team has now won six straight games and 10 in a row at home. "Good defense helps our running game, which helps our team because we played much harder when we're running."

"Our guys are having more fun giving the ball up than scoring."

The loss was the seventh straight for the Knicks, who dropped to 22-28. The Lakers, meanwhile, are 22-3 at home this season and 35-15 overall.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led Los Angeles with 25 points and 14 rebounds. He had plenty of help as five other Lakers scored in double figures.

"Although we're playing better, they're too strong and we couldn't defend against their run," said New York coach Red Holzman. "Kareem is playing his best basketball ever. We tried to double-team him but he has too many other good shooters playing with him."

The Lakers made 53 of their 87 field goal attempts, a 60.9 percent performance. Abdul-Jabbar led the way by hitting 11 of his 15 shots.

Los Angeles got excellent guard play as Michael Cooper made eight of his 11 field goal attempts in scoring 18 points and also had eight rebounds and eight assists. Norm Nixon had 19 points and nine assists and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 16 points, six rebounds and seven assists.

Johnson didn't start and played only 25 minutes. The Lakers' rookie is still hampered by a groin injury that caused him to miss two games last week.

Another rookie, Bill Cartwright, led the Knicks with 21 points and seven rebounds. A key to the game was the Lakers' 44-29 rebounding advantage over New York. Michael Ray Richardson also had 21 points for the losers.

The first half was close all the way, with neither team leading by more than six points. Los Angeles led at halftime 65-61.

LCC Lady Chaps Even TIAA Mark With Win

The Lubbock Christian College women's team coasted to a 57-47 victory over Trinity University Monday night in the fieldhouse.

The Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association win jumped the Lady Chaps' record to 2-2, 4-10 overall. Trinity dropped to 1-2, 3-7 overall.

Each of 12 Lady Chaps played at least seven minutes in the contest and nine of them scored. Sherry Williams and Cindy Nix scored 14 points apiece and were joined in double figures by Darla Lynch with 13.

LCC overcame a 24-23 halftime deficit en route to the win. Terri Hailey led Trinity with 27 points.

MOB Coaches To Assemble

A meeting of Monterey Optimist Basketball (MOB) coaches will be held tonight at First Federal Savings and Loan, 3845 50th Street, at 7.

All persons who filled out applications to coach a MOB team should attend. Third-fourth grade coaches will be given their team rosters at that time, and coaches in the two older divisions will receive information pertinent to tryouts and the drafts.

A record number of players enrolled in the program, officials said, and a shortage of coaches has resulted. Burle Pettit, MOB president, urges any persons interested in coaching a MOB team to attend tonight's meeting, or to call 795-9689 today.

Tryouts for the seventh-eighth grade division have been rescheduled from Feb. 2 at Atkins to Saturday at Wilson Junior High.

The MOB season will kick off Feb. 18.

Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Chuck Noll Lugs Trophy Through Airport

Throng Welcomes Noll, Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A happy Chuck Noll held the Pittsburgh Steelers' fourth Super Bowl trophy high above his head when cheering fans welcomed the victorious team home from Pasadena, Calif.

"This is really great," Coach Noll said Monday night after the team's airplane landed at a cargo area of the Greater Pittsburgh International Airport.

"It feels every bit as good as our first one," said Noll, accompanied at the door of the aircraft by Mayor Richard Calliguri. "We're real happy with our football team. It had a lot of injuries during the season, but they rose to the occasion when needed."

The crowd, estimated at about 1,000 by Allegheny County police Sergeant John Brennan, went wild when the airplane landed and taxied onto the runway apron.

"We are the champions! The Steelers are great! They're number one!" yelled Jeff Jurges, 16, and Lori Gilbert, 15, both of nearby Aliquippa.

"The Los Angeles Rams played the best they could and we beat them," defensive end John Banaszak said as he disembarked. "It makes me feel real good."

Some team members and their families stayed behind in California. Ten players, including Super Bowl MVP Terry Bradshaw, left Pasadena for the Pro Bowl in Hawaii.

"You gotta be proud to be a Pittsburgh Steeler," said defensive end Dwight White. "It's one helluva feeling. The weather feels good here too. It was pretty warm out there."

Fans, buoyed by the Steelers' 31-19 win over the Rams on Sunday, began collecting at the airport hours before the team's arrival and cheered and danced to keep warm. The temperature was about 30 degrees.

Jimmy Pol, whose Steeler ballad to the tune of the Pennsylvania Polka has dominated local radio play in recent weeks, led the fans in song with an electric bull horn.

"We're from the town with the Super Bowl team ... Pol and the fans, most bedecked in the team's black and gold colors, crooned while waiting for the Steelers to arrive."

The airport crowd was smaller than the mostly college-age throng that flooded downtown Pittsburgh after Sunday's televised game. But fans of all ages turned out Monday night to wave black and gold pom-poms and black and gold "Terrible Towels," the team's talisman.

There was even a shaggy dog wearing a black and gold knit cap. "This is the terrible dog," said its owner, Joann Manek.

"I was born and raised in Miami and I thought the Dolphins were the best," said Karen Zuccaro, 32, of Aliquippa. "But nothing compares to the Steelers. They just get better every year."

Super Bowl Dust Settles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trucks have hauled off mountains of empty beer cups and hot dog wrappers from Pasadena's Rose Bowl, the talk in local bars returned to Iran and the Russians and the price of gas, and the last die-hard reveler has finally shaken off the morning after.

Super Bowl XIV, one of the best of the National Football League championship games, is now left to the sports historians and brooding armchair quarterbacks.

NFL fans and television watchers who feel overdone after four preseason games, 16 regular-season games, a minimum of two playoff games and one Super Bowl may feel the way Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw does.

"Right now I'm just tired of football," said Bradshaw, Super Bowl XIV's Most Valuable Player whose two long touchdown passes led the Steelers to a 31-19 victory over the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday.

Following the game, an exhausted Bradshaw said he wanted to think about "football and what it means to me," and gave other indications he was pondering retirement. But in an MVP press conference Monday, he said he had no more thoughts of quitting.

"I know I talked about retiring after the game," said Bradshaw, 31. "But later on I had a meeting with Jack Lambert and Joe Greene, and," he continued, smiling, "considering how important my health is to me, I am definitely going to play for the Pittsburgh Steelers next year and have officially ended all thoughts of retiring."

Although perhaps anti-climatic, there is one NFL game left in the '79 season, next Sunday's Pro Bowl in Honolulu, with Bradshaw one of the competing all-stars.

In Monday's separate press conferences for Coach Chuck Noll, whose Steelers have collected four Super Bowl rings in the past six years, and two-time Super Bowl MVP Bradshaw, each was asked if he considered the Steelers a dynasty.

"Dynasty? Isn't that someone else's?" Noll joked. Then he added, "The facts speak for themselves."

Bradshaw tiptoed around the question too, pointing out that there are too many good teams in the NFL and mentioning Dallas, Los Angeles, Houston and New England.

But asked his definition of a dynasty, he smiled and replied: "Winning the Super Bowl four times in six years."

The Rams, moving to a new location — Anaheim Stadium — next season, are already thinking about Super Bowl XV in New Orleans.

"We didn't get it this time, but we'll get another shot at it," said Rams coach Ray Malavasi.

"Pittsburgh was one or two plays better," said Los Angeles offensive tackle Doug France. "But we proved we can play football with anybody, and we know we can beat anybody. We'll be back."

Young Rams quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who completed 15 of 25 passes with one interception in a poised Super Bowl performance, said, "We'll get another chance ... and it would be nice to get another chance at Pittsburgh."

Gminski Pushes Duke Past Yellowjackets

By The Associated Press

The Georgia Tech Yellowjackets are one of the Atlantic Coast Conference's weakest basketball teams, but for a while there they were floating like a butterfly and stinging Duke like a bee.

"They play their game and don't make mistakes," said Duke coach Bill Foster. "They are a tough team and they are going to win. They're coming so close, knocking on the door. One of these days, the door is going to open."

The Yellowjackets had their foot inside the door for a while Monday night with a slowdown game, before Duke finally closed it at the end with the help of Mike Gminski's touch. Gminski had 24 points, including five during a game-breaking 11-2 spurt, to help the nation's No. 4-ranked team whip Georgia Tech 56-49.

Playing against slowdown tactics "is one of my least favorite things to do," Gminski said. "It's frustrating. You know it's going to be a close game down the stretch so we just stuck to our game plan and tried to keep from getting erratic with the ball."

The Yellowjackets held Duke to a 22-19 lead at the half with their slowdown techniques, and led 35-33 as late as midway through the second half. But Gminski put the Blue Devils ahead to stay with a three-point play with 10:04 left.

"We took the lead and then lost our composure for two or three minutes," said Georgia Tech coach Dwane Morrison.

"Then Duke controlled it and controlled it and controlled it. That's smart basketball."

Sixth-ranked Syracuse, the only other Top Twenty team in action Monday night, was an 89-83 winner over Detroit as Roosevelt Bouie and Louis Orr scored 18 points apiece.

The Syracuse victory followed a one-point loss at Old Dominion over the weekend and improved the Orangemen's record to 15-1. Syracuse also extended its winning streak at home to 53 games — the longest in the nation.

The Orangemen were losing 46-45 at the half before toughening up their defense after intermission.

"I just felt like we hadn't played really well on defense (in the first half)," said Orr, "and so, coming out in the second half we knew that if we picked up our defense, we'd be okay."

Elsewhere, Kiki Vandeweghe's 22 points led UCLA past Arizona 69-59. Jimmy Gray's 23 paced Vanderbilt over Florida 105-85. David Thirkill scored 20 points as Bradley edged Indiana State 61-60. Pitt beat Iowa 75-64 behind Sammie Ellis' 17 points. Cedric Hodges' 20 points led South Carolina past Dartmouth 88-49.

Also, Les Henson sank an incredible 93-foot shot at the buzzer to give Virginia Tech a 79-77 victory over Florida State.

Henson's spectacular shot followed a missed Florida State field goal. Henson fielded the rebound at the baseline, wheeled and threw the ball the length of the court, where it swished through the basket without touching the rim or back-court.

ODESSA (Special) — Midland Junior College, the nation's No. 4 ranked juco, nipped Odessa College 74-70 behind the 22 point outing of Robert Tate here Monday night. Midland is now 18-1 on the year and 7-0 in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

Odessa, 14-5 and 5-2 in WJAC action, got 17 points from John Savoie, 14 from James Ivie and 11 from Lubbock's Craig Ehlo. Charles Johnson added 14 for Midland.

Most All-Stars Deserve Honor

By The Associated Press

The voice of the fan has been heard. More than 21 million votes have been cast for the players who will start the NBA All-Star Game on Feb. 3, and for a change the fans did the job pretty well.

There was only one really gross miscarriage of justice in this popularity contest — Boston Celtics super-rookie Larry Bird being left off the East's starting five in favor of Atlanta's John Drew.

Although Drew is a fine scorer, he is not the all-around athlete that Bird is — and he certainly hasn't had as much impact on the National Basketball Association season.

Drew's election was a consequence of what so often happens when fans are given the mandate to pick all-stars: ballot-box stuffing, for want of a better term.

Although all teams receive the same number of ballots for distribution at games, one may be more active than others in promotions that draw fans and in getting out the all-star vote. Since fans tend to vote for their home team's players, that club is overly represented on the all-star team.

That's what happened this year with the Atlanta Hawks. Granted the Hawks are a good team, a first-place team, but for them to have two of the top three forwards and two of the top three guards in the voting is a bit much.

This is not to criticize the fans in that city. They are to be commended for their enthusiasm and for caring enough about their local players to support them in the balloting. Seattle and Boston led the NBA in early season attendance, yet fans in those cities didn't vote their players onto the all-star team.

Such support, of course, can go too far.

Remember 1977, the first post-merger season, when Denver had three starters — including Dan Issel over Kareem Abdul-Jabbar? The problem isn't unique to basketball, either. In 1957, baseball fans in Cincinnati poured in enough all-star votes to have seven of the eight Reds' starters finish first at their positions.

NBA officials are well aware of the problem. But from their standpoint, the positive public relations value of 2.1 million voters offsets the negative possibility of an unbalanced team.

And the second stage of the selection process acts as a check. The remaining six players on each team will be determined by a vote of the conference coaches, which is under way now. To further insure balanced, competitive teams, the coaches are being asked to vote for at least two forwards, one center and two guards among their six players, so that no team should be undermanned at any one position.

Some of these choices are pretty tough.

For example, on the West team, who do you pick as a backup center to Abdul-Jabbar? Jack Sikma, who has been so vital to Seattle's success, is one candidate. Swen Nater of San Diego, the league's second leading rebounder, is another. And Issel, who ranks seventh in the league in scoring, certainly deserves consideration.

Futuristic Sportsman Kap Predicts Participation

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The country has dropped back to earth, clanking its way out of the hysteria, raz-ma-taz and heady wine that marks the annual Super Bowl football game.

The pomp, pageantry and paralysis of Super Bowl Sunday — is it really, as they say, America's greatest one-day sports spectacular?

"Strictly bush, archaic, not in tune with the technological age," scoffs Bob Kap, a 56-year-old transplanted Yugoslavian. Yet, he sees football extravaganza into a multi-billion-dollar extravaganza that will give the sport global appeal.

Soccer, he insists, is decadent as a spectator attraction — "dry, dull and unintelligent" — whereas American football is "human drama, tactical, fast-paced and requiring the ultimate challenge of the mind and body."

But the game, he says, must move into the technological age.

Look at those silly chains on two sticks which are moved after every first down, he says. They've haven't changed since Princeton was playing Rutgers nearly 100 years ago.

"And those goalposts sticking up in the air, just like they've been for decades. A 15-yard kick counts the same as one from 50 yards and it's one point whether you boot the ball over the middle or bounce it inside one of the poles."

Kap is a round, puckish little man who migrated to this country 25 years ago, joined Dallas millionaire Lamar Hunt as general manager of the Dynamos hockey team and in recent years has been active in working with soccer style kickers in the NFL.

"They laughed at me when I predicted the conventional place-kicker would be passe," he says. "Now there are only two or three around."

A painter who often illustrates his ideas with murals, Kap says domed stadiums soon will become as obsolete as the straightaway kickers and millions of fans will have their football transmitted to them electronically in three-dimensional holographs.

He foresees the day that the game will be played in a glistening palace with 10 million cardsize screens replacing live spectators, with the fans, in the comfort of their living rooms, through futuristic electronics, having the feeling of being on the scene.

Electronic sensors, almost invisible in size, will be attached to each of the players' hands and sewn into the artificial surface to pinpoint the progress of play.

Football will change color as they change hands. The field will light up and change color — from red to green, for instance — to follow the progress of the ball.

A signatory ball, with an electronic sensor, will record the progress to the 100th of an inch. The ball will change color when fumbled and recovered. A player's headgear will explode into blinking lights when there is a rules infraction.

"Ridiculous? Silly? Something out of the Wizard of Oz? Don't try to sell that to Bob Kap."

Kap said modern technology would make his idea simple.

"Why should the fan go through all the trouble of having to park his car, queue up for food and fight the crowds when he can get the same sensation at home," he says.

"We have developed means for a viewer to talk back to a TV set. Third dimension is now a reality. You will feel that you can almost reach out and touch the players. And the spectators' presence will be felt at the field through the small screens.

"When something good happens, the screens turn into a bright glow. When the fans are unhappy, they will have a dull, gray look. The players will know it. They also will hear the sounds."

Kap said the modernistic game also could be a financial bonanza for the NFL.

"Imagine 10 million people buying season tickets for $200," he says. "That's $2 billion. This would be multiplied many times over. The NFL could have its own network."

"That's the Super Bowl XXXV in year 2000."

The NBA's best playmaker? Maybe it's (surprise!) Maurice Cheeks of Philadelphia. With plenty of assists, Cheeks has fewer turnovers than Phil Ford of Kansas City or Kevin Porter of Washington.

Different Measures To Show Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — What is the annual rate of inflation?

a. 12.6 percent.
b. 11.3 percent.
c. 10.5 percent.

All three could be correct, depending on how inflation is calculated to reflect Americans' housing costs.

Officially, the government-measured inflation rate for the 12 months through last November was 12.6 percent, as determined by the Consumer Price Index.

But the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the government's official inflation-taker, issued five experimental housing cost measures on Monday that would have lowered the inflation rate by between 0.1 and 2.1 percentage points in the last year, had they been used.

The bureau said it will issue the alternate measures monthly in response to criticism that the agency's current method of computing housing prices and mortgage interest costs overstates 1979's true rate of inflation by one to two percentage points.

Bureau Commissioner Janet Norwood stressed at a news conference that the alternate measures are experimental, and that none would be incorporated into the CPI for at least several years.

"We have one CPI and we will continue to have one official CPI," she said, adding that the alternate measures of housing costs were being published only to encourage public discussion and to provide comparative inflation rates.

She added that while the alternate methods produced a lower inflation rate than the official measure for 1979, they might show a higher rate than the official measure for 1980.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your judgment in business or financial matters may not be up to par tomorrow. Before jumping into anything, it may be wise to seek expert advice.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Shop only for essentials tomorrow, because you tend to be a mite extravagant. Don't buy something just because a friend does so.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Complications could result if you try to play politics with pals tomorrow. Don't put yourself in a position where you'll feel you have to jump on someone's bandwagon.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make no promises or commitments tomorrow which later could give you problems trying to fulfill. Don't offer what you can't deliver.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Looking for easy outs tomorrow will prove to be a hard way of doing things. Lady Luck may not be available when you need her.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Flattery is a tool which you will not be able to use competently tomorrow. Say nice things about others, but be sincere.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Check and double check all your financial dealings tomorrow. If you are careless and make a mistake, it could turn out to be a big one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Agreements you work out tomorrow are not likely to stand up unless everything is spelled out in detail. Take nothing for granted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be your own person tomorrow. Shoulder your own duties and responsibilities. Palming things off on others could backfire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Unless you set a definite schedule tomorrow, fun activities may take precedence over serious matters which should be attended to now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You must be careful not to step out of character tomorrow and play up to persons who can do you some good, while ignoring old pals. The role doesn't suit you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Appreciate what you have and all the good things you have going for you, rather than be concerned that another may have more. External appearances are deceptive.

Cup Trick May Fool Unobservant Friends

By SHARI LEWIS

People like to think that they are very observant and that they miss nothing, but the truth is, most folks don't notice even the most obvious things. This makes it hard for policemen to get witnesses, but it makes it easy for magicians to fool people.

Here's a trick where you, the magician, count on your audience not noticing.

To do this trick, you'll need a needle threaded with white thread, a paper cup and a handkerchief. Stick the threaded needle through one side of the cup, just under the lip, and out the opposite side of the cup, just under the lip. Leave a bit of thread dangling down on each side of the cup. Nobody will notice it! I promise.

Set the cup on a table top. Let your friends examine a handkerchief, and then roll it into a long tube. (To do this, fold the handkerchief into a triangle, hold the two opposite ends, one in each hand, and twirl the hanky away from you.) Then lay the rolled fabric on top of the cup. Tell your friends you are going to make the cup float in the air. As you lift the hanky, let your thumbs hook under the thread, and the cup will mysteriously rise.

Someone in the group will probably beg you to "do it again, please!" — but don't! A real magician never does a trick twice for the same audience, especially when he's counting on his audience not to know what to look for. Just smile, and pull out the thread as you take away the handkerchief. Hand them the cup and the hanky and tell them to do it themselves. Betcha they can't!

YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: What bird can be found in your throat?

ANSWER: A swallow.

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Do you know which fish climbs trees? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)
