

Northern India Devastated By Severe Drought

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The worst drought in 34 years in northern India's populous Uttar Pradesh state has laid waste to millions of acres of cropland, driving people from their ancestral villages in search of food.

The situation apparently helped account for Indira Gandhi's overwhelming victory in elections that returned her as prime minister early this month after three years in the opposition.

Despite India's sophisticated technology, capable of launching satellites and firing nuclear devices, the fruits of modern science have yet to reach agriculture, the mainstay of India's 640 million population.

Only about 25 percent of the nation's cultivated land — about 400 million acres — is irrigated. When the monsoon rains fail to arrive, the age-old cycle of drought and famine begins anew.

The districts of eastern Uttar Pradesh, bordering Nepal, are perennially poverty stricken. But the current four-month-old drought has been especially severe, leaving entire villages deserted as inhabitants scour the countryside for food.

"I never knew my village would one day become a graveyard before my own eyes," said Ghore Passi, an 88-year-old farmer in Jaunpur district.

Passi's four sons deserted him when the crops began to wither. His daughters-in-law died of malnutrition a few weeks later, leaving behind four young children.

The aged farmer now lives in a roadside hovel with his 70-year-old wife and grandchildren "counting my last days as I hear five empty bellies groan inside the hut."

Passi joins other former farmers each morning in fishing for roots, bulbs and weeds in a dirty, mosquito-infested village pond.

The fruits of his labor are then dried, pounded and kneaded into dough for baking crude, unleavened bread.

In a nearby village, the entire male population has gone to work in brick kilns, each earning just over $1 per day for loading 3,000 to 4,000 bricks into trucks.

"We are producing more bricks these days than we need," said one kiln owner. "But the cost of labor has suddenly come down and naturally we like to exploit such a situation."

At the end of the day's work, the former farmers rush to a roadside bazaar to buy grain, brought in by camel caravans and sold at premium prices.

"All the day's earnings are spent in buying grain which still is not sufficient for the entire family," said one disgruntled buyer.

There is no official estimate of the death toll from the drought, which has affected 250 million people. Government officials point out that most deaths would be from malnutrition, which seldom are reported in a nation so often afflicted with starvation.

Indira Gandhi made an issue of the drought during India's recent election campaign and that may account for the overwhelming victory that returned her to power early this month.

Lack of sympathy and succor from the caretaker government of Charan Singh, himself a farmer's son, fed voter dissatisfaction.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1980 with 343 to follow.

The moon is moving into the first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mercury.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

American Patriot John Hancock was born Jan. 23, 1737.

American actors Randolph Scott and Ann Sothern were born on this date — he in 1903 and she in 1923.

On this day in history:
In 1845, Congress ruled all national elections shall take place on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November.

In 1937, during the Communist Party purges in the Soviet Union, 17 party members confessed they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine Josef Stalin.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said he could not accept a presidential nomination from either party.

In 1979, President Carter delivered his State of the Union address, asking Congress to help build a "new foundation" for the future by controlling inflation and strengthening peace.

A thought for the day:
The Chinese philosopher Confucius said, "When you have faults, do not fear to abandon them."

Market Indicators Look Good

"How come your door rattles every time your wife opens the refrigerator door?"

By CHET CURRIER
NEW YORK (AP) — When the stock market staged a sharp rally a couple of weeks back, it was greeted with more than the usual approval by some Wall Streeters.
 Sure, it was nice that the Dow Jones industrial average rose 19.71 points on heavy trading volume. But to those who study calendar patterns in their search for clues to the future course of stock prices, the upswing had a special meaning beyond that.
 The day of the rally — Tuesday, Jan. 8 — was the fifth trading session of the year. For those who believe that the first five sessions of any given year often foreshadow what is to come in the remaining 51 weeks or so, it meant the difference between a bearish signal and a bullish one.
 "The market took a sharp drop in the first couple of trading days of the month," Comparative Market Indicators, a Camano Island, Wash.-based investment advisory letter recalled.

 "Chances looked pretty slim that the Standard & Poor's 500-stock index could crawl out of the hole to register a net gain at the end of the first five days of trading in the new year — which would imply a positive result for January, and the rest of the year as well."
 "However, on the fifth day of trading the market exploded on the upside on a broad front. This provided a positive signal from the January early warning system."
 The S&P 500 index, down from 107.94 to 106.52 by Jan. 4, was back up at 108.95 as of the close on Jan. 8.
 "Saved by the bell," Comparative Market Indicators said. "To those on Wall Street who watch such statistics the strong market upmove must have been heartening."
 Why all the fuss about a few days' activity? According to Yale Hirsch, an investment advisor who is a leading advocate of the "January barometer," the direction of the S&P 500 in the first five trading days has been matched by pluses or minuses for the full year 86 percent of the time since 1950.

 Hirsch developed that finding as an outgrowth of earlier correlations between the market's performance in the full month of January with its showing for the full year.
 "It's just incredible how the January barometer has consistently predicted the annual course of the stock market," he asserts in his publication "The Stock Trader's Almanac."
 Not everyone is quite so enthusiastic. Many analysts who concentrate on fundamental research into companies and their stocks look on such calendar-reading with disdain.

 And even its advocates don't claim that it is infallible. In 1978, for example, the S&P 500 tumbled more than 6 percent in January, but wound up the year with a 1 percent gain.
 Still, many people confronted with the challenge of constantly trying to out-guess the market are willing to embrace almost anything that might give them an edge.
 Analysts at one firm who studied the January early warning system decided that, in some respects, it "fails most standard tests of statistical significance."
 That didn't stop them from concluding, however, that this year's gain over the first five days "reinforces a positive outlook for the Dow Jones industrial average for the coming year."

Retired Surgeon Studies For Bar Exam

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Like every other recent law school graduate, Jack Lee is feverishly studying for next month's bar exam. A career hangs in the balance, and he admits he's worried.

But the similarity ends there. Dr. Jack Lee was one of San Antonio's leading eye surgeons for 30 years before he retired three years ago to become a lawyer. He also happens to be 65 years old.

"I can't afford to fail the bar exam at my age," said Lee. "I'm getting too old. Time is running out. If I'm going to accomplish my goals, I need to get on with it."

"Plus, it would be very embarrassing. What would I tell my six grandchildren, not to mention my three sons?" he added. "Don't believe any law school graduate who tells you he's not worried about passing the bar exams. Yes, I'm worried."

"Law school was not easy for me. It's just as hard as medical school. I wasn't at the top of my class. I was right in the middle. I'm just thankful I wasn't at the bottom."

At this point, you no doubt think Dr. Jack Lee took leave of his senses three years ago when he took the St. Mary's University Law School entrance exam and abandoned his lucrative ophthalmology practice.

But there were a variety of circumstances three years ago that combined to land Lee in the St. Mary's freshman class. First of all, Lee was getting on in years, and he was determined to retire as a surgeon while he was still accomplished and respected. "I didn't want to stay past my prime and be an old, decrepit liability," he said.

Then there was the divorce from his wife of 36 years. "There was no other man or woman or anything like that. We just drifted apart," he explained.

And there were the often bitter battles between the medical and legal professions, usually centered around malpractice suits. Lee said he was never sued, but had plenty of fellow doctors who were. The bitterness troubled him.

Mix all that with a lifelong fascination with the law, and energetic Dr. Jack Lee was a law student.

His family, fellow doctors and patients were supportive, but some would jokingly tell him he had gone crazy. "I think they were half-serious," he quipped. He also got a great deal of support from his new classmates — most of whom were 40 years younger.

"The first day at registration, the young fellows were kind of worried about what to call me. There had been a little publicity about my decision, so they knew who I was. But they didn't know what to call me," Lee recalled. "I said, 'Why don't you just call me Jack?' So they did."

"I asked for and received no special treatment. I didn't do anything any other student didn't do."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In situations where you look out for the welfare of others as well as your own, you'll come out lucky tomorrow. In areas where you're selfish this won't be true.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your splendid imagination could play tricks on you tomorrow, causing you to see negatives where they don't exist. Don't be deceived by gloomy thoughts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Financial conditions will be rather unusual tomorrow in that things profitable in the past should be so again. However, new sources you're counting on could fizzle.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to keep a light demeanor even in serious matters tomorrow. Your chances for success are greatly enhanced if you don't get uptight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't attempt tomorrow to alter situations which are running smoothly. The changes you institute might be counterproductive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will be apt to be lucky for pals tomorrow, but they may not be quite so lucky for you. Take their inside tips with a grain of salt.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 2) Don't leave major decisions which could affect your career or finances in the hands of others tomorrow. You'll fare better if you personally call the shots.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are having anyone do special work or service for you tomorrow, keep close tabs on their progress or things may not be done as you'd like.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will be willing to help you tomorrow, provided you don't demand that they do so. Let their actions be spontaneous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Make it a point tomorrow to show the same consideration to family members that you would to close friends. In the final analysis, they're the most important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is a possibility you could be a rather sluggish self-starter tomorrow, but once you get rolling the chips will fly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Let your normally cautious judgment in material matters have full sway tomorrow. This is not a time to take foolish gambles.

Significance Of Iowa Turnout Examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The record turnout at the Iowa caucuses could signal a turnaround in the years of declining in Americans' participation in choosing their president, but experts say it is still too early to make that judgment.

More than 200,000 Iowans crowded into neighbor's kitchens, high school gyms and meeting halls Monday night to talk and vote in the kickoff for the process of electing a president this year.

Party officials said the more than 100,000 Democrats and 100,000 Republicans were a record for the caucuses, the first step in a long process that eventually leads to the selection of delegates to both party's national conventions next summer. In 1976, 38,576 Democrats and 20,253 Republicans went to caucuses in Iowa.

But the heavy turnout for the Iowa caucuses may not indicate a trend.

"I don't think you can tell from just one event," said Curtis Gans, of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, a private group that follows the trends in voter turnout.

"I'd need to see a lot more," added Walter Dean Burnham, a professor at MIT and a recognized expert on American political history. "I'd like to see some primary totals."

Nonetheless, the turnout in Iowa is contrast to the steady declines in participation in presidential and congressional elections for at least the past two decades.

In 1976, only 54.3 percent of those over 18 cast ballots in the presidential election won by Jimmy Carter. That was the lowest turnout since 1948. In the 1972 election, the turnout was 55.4 percent.

A similar pattern has been taking place in congressional election in years when there is no presidential race. Only 35.2 percent of those over 18 voted in the 1978 congressional elections, the lowest turnout since 1942.

Gans, Burnham and others have warned that declining participation in elections threatens to undermine the

Ford Accuses Carter Of Passing Buck

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gerald Ford, still standing by in case he is needed, accuses President Carter of rewriting history to cover up foreign and defense policy mistakes, aides say.

In a speech prepared for delivery to a Republican meeting in Rochester, N.Y., at 3 p.m. EST, Ford said Carter was blaming past Republican administrations for Carter's own national security mistakes.

Ford aide Robert Barrett said in a telephone interview from the former president's Palm Springs, Calif., office that Ford is keeping to his plans of being ready should the GOP need him to unify and lead the party in the November election.

Barrett said Ford as yet has made no decision to seek the nomination, and said Ford feels John Connally and Sen. Howard Baker cannot be counted out of the race, despite their showings in Iowa where George Bush upset Ronald Reagan.

In an interview with the Los Angeles Times published today, Ford said the Iowa results put "a whole new perspective" on the convention, ruling out a runaway.

"I am not a candidate and I'm not conning to be one. But if the ball bounces one way, I'll be available," Ford said in the interview.

In the speech Ford hinted he might be "interested" in debating Carter on the subject.

In his bluntest attack yet on Carter's performance, Ford said:

"While the Carter administration's foreign policy slides from crisis to crisis, the White House tried to rewrite history by blaming previous Republican administrations for current Carter weaknesses and failures.

"In an attempt to hide deliberately from responsibility for their foreign and military policy failures, the White House, through National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, is clearly falsifying the record for partisan political purposes."

Ford cited Brzezinski's Jan. 15 statement in the Wall Street Journal that the Ford and Richard Nixon administrations neglected national defense and Carter reversed that error.

Ford said he increased defense spending in office. He said it was Carter who promised as a candidate to cut military spending. "Unfortunately he lived up to those naive promises," said Ford.

The former president, defeated by Carter in the 1976 election, said he has always believed in a bipartisan foreign policy. He said he showed this in supporting Carter on such matters as the Panama Canal treaty.

"I will not, however, tolerate inaccurate or misleading partisan statements by the Carter administration... the Carter administration cannot have it both ways — one day asking for Republican help and the next day blaming us for their weaknesses in defense and indecision in foreign policy."

Aides said Ford was "highly disturbed" especially by Brzezinski's statement. "Mr. Brzezinski, who should have known better, is guilty of outright misrepresentation," Ford said.

democratic form of government as more and more potential voters reject any connection with the process of selecting the nation's leaders.

In telephone interviews, both Gans and Burnham pointed to the intense media attention focused on Iowa this year, the intense competition in both parties, and the foreign crises facing this country as possible explanations for the turnout.

Three More Names Added To Florida's Ballot

ALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The names of a little-known Democrat and two Republican presidential aspirants have been added to Florida's March 11 presidential primary ballot, completing the list of candidates.

Secretary of State George Firestone completed the ballot Tuesday after he and the six-member Presidential Candidate Selection Committee considered petitions from nearly a dozen little-known candidates who wanted their names on the ballot.

Focus Shifts To New Hampshire

By The Associated Press

George Bush says a victory in the New Hampshire primary would put him well on his way to winning the Republican presidential nomination — and Ronald Reagan may intensify his campaign there after losing to Bush in the Iowa caucuses.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he faces a must-win situation in New Hampshire after he was soundly beaten by President Carter in Iowa.

The campaign focus has shifted to New Hampshire, the New England state whose February primary, traditionally the kick-off for the long race to the presidential nominations, was upstaged by this year's intense campaign in Iowa.

Bush arrived in New Hampshire Tuesday night to campaign for the Feb. 26 primary and told a news conference in Keene that a win in New Hampshire would mean "there'll be absolutely no stopping me."

Asked if a victory would give him a lock on the nomination, Bush said, "I'd come close to saying that."

Reagan, who was criticized for limiting his personal appearances in Iowa, said he will reassess his New Hampshire schedule.

"I'm going to go all out in New Hampshire," he told a Los Angeles news conference Tuesday.

But Reagan refused to call the Granite State crucial to his candidacy. "I can't see any primary as being fatal," he said.

In Iowa, Reagan was considered the front-runner, but was beaten in the Republican straw vote caucuses by Bush, 32.8 percent to 26.7 percent.

"If I had to lose one, I'm glad it was a straw vote and not a primary," said Reagan.

Kennedy, meanwhile, lost by a 59 percent to 31 percent margin to Carter, who never made a campaign appearance in Iowa because he said he was busy in Washington with crises in Iran and Afghanistan.

In Washington, Kennedy called the race "a long road. It's a 15-inning fight and maybe it's the first round."

But the Massachusetts senator agreed that he can't afford to lose the second round in his home territory, including the Maine caucuses Feb. 10.

Asked if he has to win in both Maine and New Hampshire, Kennedy said, "Yes."

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, acknowledged the difficulty of beating Kennedy on the New Englander's home ground.

Kennedy, said Powell, "will be in a position in New Hampshire in the last few weeks to dump large numbers of people and organizational help in there that we simply will not be able to match."

Bush said his Iowa win boosts him out of the pack of Republican hopefuls, "but they will be after me, howling and yowling at my heels."

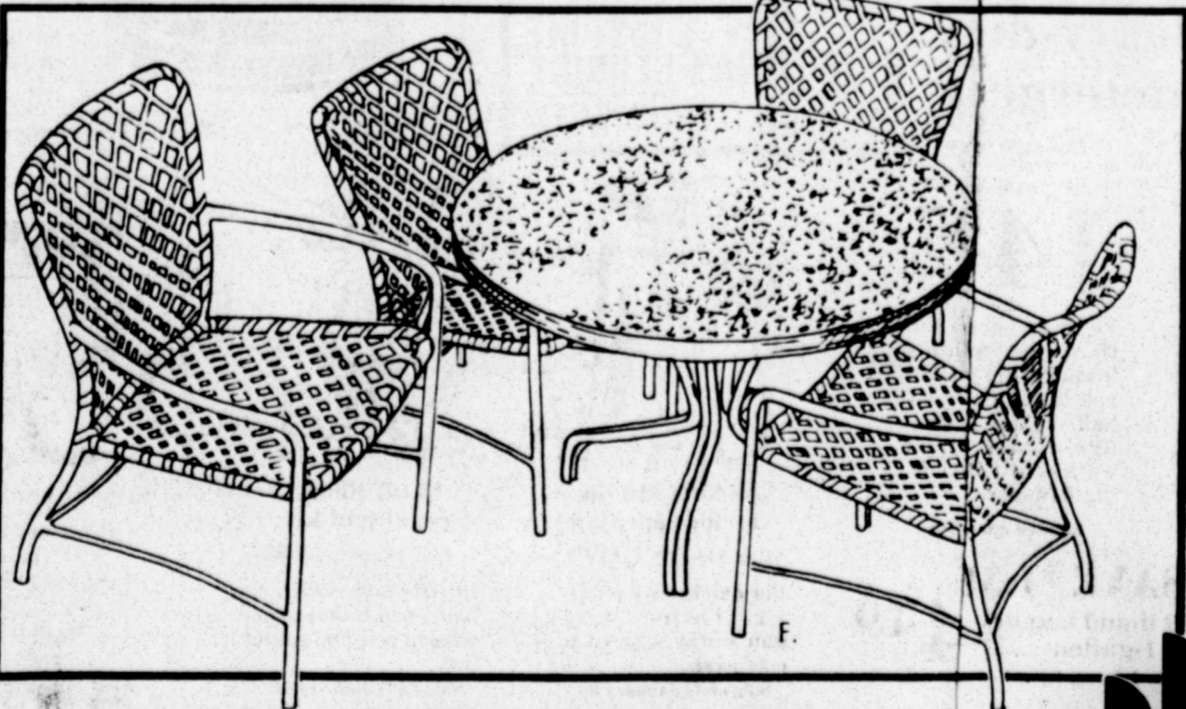

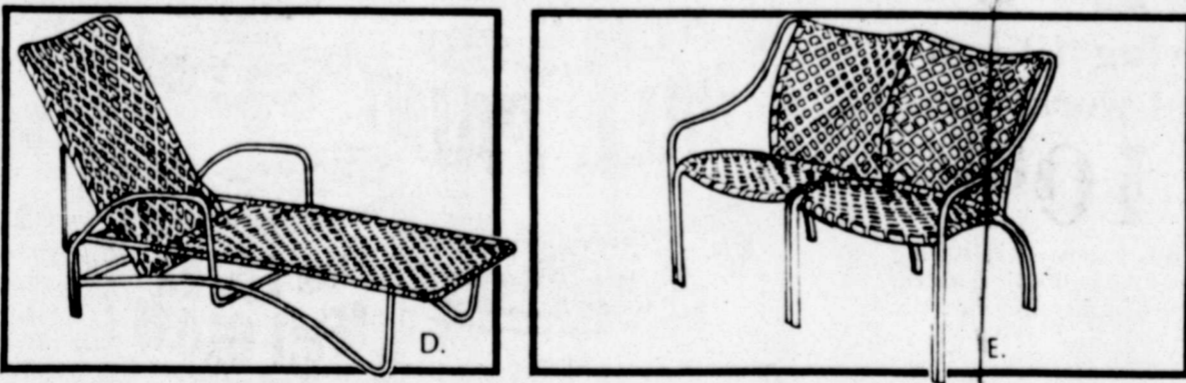

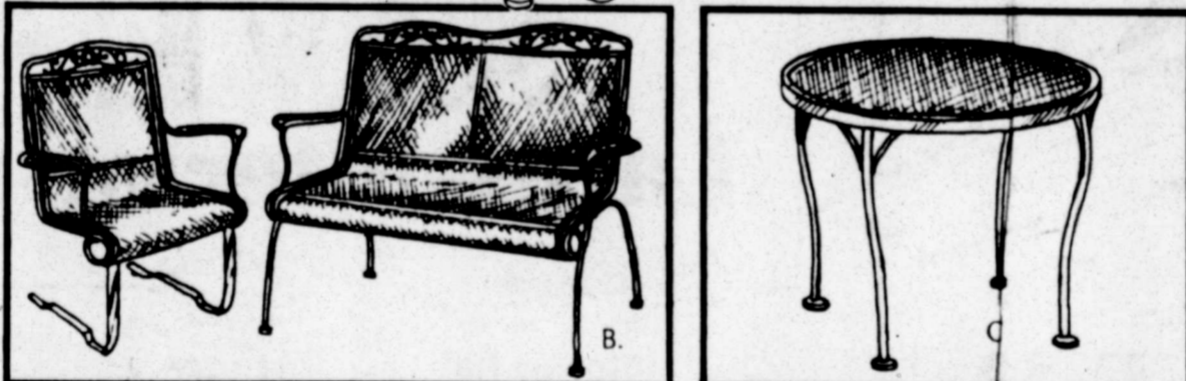

One of those hopefuls, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, said his third-place finish in the Iowa straw poll was "pretty much what I predicted." He called Reagan and Bush the front-runners in New Hampshire, but noted, "New Hampshire has a pleasant habit of devouring front-runners and I hope it continues that way."

The committee voted unanimously to put Richard Kay of Cleveland, Ohio, on the Democratic ballot. Kay filed a lawsuit against Firestone after the committee skipped over his name when it made its first selections earlier this month. In addition, the panel added Los Angeles economist Ben Fernandez and former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen to the Republican ballot.

Tools Point To Prehistoric Man In Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Primitive tools found in a valley outside Manila indicate man first appeared in the Philippines possibly 500,000 years ago and had links to Asia's earliest known man, who lived in China.

Fragments of flint-like rocks, for cutting or killing, suggest for the first time that the Filipinos' earliest ancestor lived in the Ice Age when much of the world was covered with glaciers, anthropologists say.

His contemporaries were primitive species of elephants, dinosaurs, crocodiles and 10-foot-long turtles who roamed the valley before they became extinct.

Today the valley is a sanctuary for communist guerrillas.

Experts say discovery of the tools makes the Philippines only the third country in Asia, after China and Indonesia, where traces of Asia's earliest prehistoric men have been found.

It links the Philippines to the wanderings of early man across vast distances and lengths of time in his search for food or possibly warmth.

The tools were returned from Cagayan Valley, a rich land of corn, rice and tobacco 200 miles north of Manila, according to anthropologist and National Museum Curator Dr. Jesus Peralta.

The tool fragments, numbering in the thousands, were found in 1971 in rocky formations several yards thick. But not until this year did Filipino experts positively date them to the Ice Age.

Peralta said help in fixing the tools' age was provided by a team of American geologists led by Dr. Carl Vondra of Iowa State University who worked the prehistoric site for two summers with Filipino geologist Nestor Bondoc.

Previously, it was thought the earliest man in the Philippines roamed the Tabon Caves in Palawan Island 23,000 years ago. The creature was known as the Tabon Man, though the skull was that of a woman.

A study of the skull, the only bone of the creature to survive, indicated she was a teen-ager who ate bats who were killed in caves and died of "respiratory disease," said the 47-year-old Peralta.

Peralta said his "extremely conservative" estimate is that the tools and fossils of prehistoric mammals found in Lubagan town in Cagayan Valley are at least 250,000 years old, and possibly twice that old.

"They proved man was there in the Ice Age. Since the tools were there, man was there," he said.

Microscopic tests may reveal if the tools were used to cut wood, flesh or fiber.

"It's like detective work, a whodunit — who killed whom, except that we operate in a time dimension of 500,000 years," the curator said.

The only older remains of man found in Asia were of the Java Man who lived in Indonesia more than 500,000 years ago and the Peking Man who lived possibly 100,000 years earlier in China.

The world's earliest known men are thought to have lived more than 1.5 million years ago in Africa.

Peralta said the Philippine Man apparently belonged to the same Homo Erectus species of the Peking and Java men. The name indicates man who walked erect, unlike apes, and gave birth to homo sapiens or modern man.

The Philippine discovery reveals a widespread distribution of the Homo Erectus in Asia, Peralta said.

He theorized that descendants of the Peking and Java man traveled on foot to the Philippines after most of the world's oceans turned to ice. Sea level went down 300 feet, exposing underwater shelves to form land bridges connecting the Philippines with the Asian mainland.

Anthropologists believe the Philippine Man had huge teeth in a massive jaw, which was thrust forward and supported by a powerful neck.

He was small and possibly lean because obesity would hinder his movements.

Like the rest of his species, the Philippine Man possibly lived mostly by foraging for food.

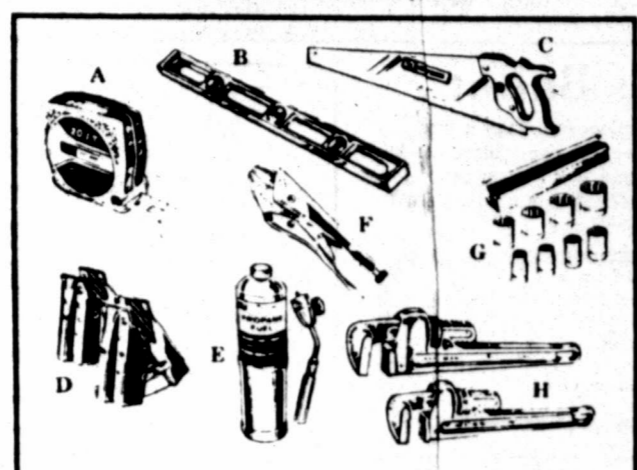

When he did hunt, Peralta said, he chose small or young animals he could subdue with his stone tools.

"Probably he spent three to four hours gathering food and other needs and then rested the rest of the day," the curator said.

Peralta does not rule out possibility that remains — bones or teeth — of the Philippines' first man may be found.

Massachusetts Auto Theft Rate High

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts has the highest incidence of automobile theft in the nation, and more severe punishment is the only way to deal with the crime rate, says Gov. Edward J. King.

King told the Governor's Task Force on Automobile Theft recently that the state crime figures have led the nation for a decade. He said more than 60,000 cars were stolen in Massachusetts last year — a rate State Public Safety Secretary George A. Luciano broke down to 170 per day.

The governor said there is a responsibility to create "a meaningful criminal justice system which unfailingly demonstrates that vehicle theft is a socially irresponsible act, reprehensible, indefensible and subject to certain punishment."

"Considering the immense proportions of auto theft, it is easy to begin to wonder whether it is even appropriate to define the act of stealing a car a crime," King told the panel as it opened a three-day hearing.

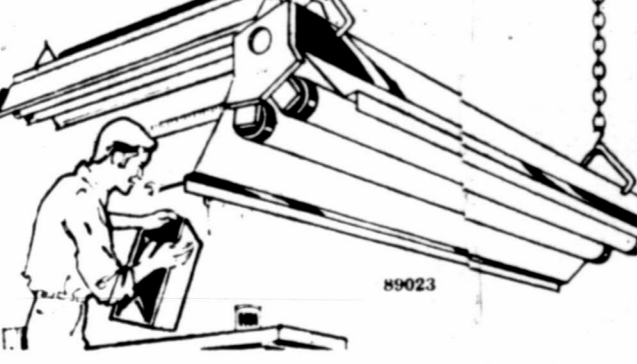

"You and I know that the great majority of those arrested for automobile theft or those charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle are only given probation or a suspended sentence, providing the case is not dismissed initially," he said.

The panel was created to study the scope of the problem and report to the governor late next month.

Herbert L. Burr, supervisor of the auto theft unit at the Registry of Motor Vehicles, said three out of four auto thefts 10 years ago involved youngsters taking joy rides.

Now, he said, 38 percent of the cars stolen are stripped for parts; 35 percent, joy rides; 15 percent, fraudulent insurance claims; 9 percent, undetermined reasons, and 3 percent, to use the car for another crime.

Joseph F. McDowd, manager of the eastern division of the National Auto Theft Bureau, said Massachusetts is part of a high auto theft region, extending from Boston to Washington, D.C., and accounting for one-third of the cars stolen in the United States each year.

Ex-Moonie Writes Critical Article About Sect

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Ken Freed was a fuzzy-cheeked young man when he arrived in West Virginia to bring the "word" to the residents of Appalachia, back in January 1973. Some folks might say he had stars in his eyes, but not this young man. He definitely had moon on his mind.

Freed, a Denver native, had come to West Virginia as an emissary of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon. His mission was to establish a base for the Unification Church in the state and begin spreading the word.

Freed felt he was dealing with people who had been prevented by Satan from seeing the pure, unadulterated light of truth. He planned to open their eyes, pronto, with Moon's "Divine Principle."

"I caught a bus from Washington, D.C., to Morgantown in January 1973," Freed, now back in Denver, said in a recent interview.

"I felt Morgantown was too small so I went on to Huntington, with the intent of looking around and then going to Charleston." But he stayed in Huntington.

"I thought Huntington, being larger than Morgantown, would be more liberal," he said, smiling at this statement. "Also, I was struck by the beauty of the city and the friendliness of the people."

Freed had joined the Moonies 18 months earlier in Denver, at a time when he had dropped out of college and was searching for some meaning to life. When he came to Huntington, he was among the first few hundred Moonie converts in this country. "I had been approached by a young woman and man while sitting in a Denver park during the summer of 1971," he recalled. "I assumed they were Christians, and having left my Judaic upbringing behind for atheism and then mysticism, I wanted to understand what Christians experience that propels them so."

He developed close ties with young people at the Denver center and moved into the center in September 1971. "Eight months later I joined a mobile bus team that traveled around the country, raising funds and recruiting new members. We visited 16 states in 16 weeks."

Freed's team leader was impressed by his enthusiasm and his ability to sell candles and flowers. He recommended that Freed be given greater spiritual responsibilities.

Freed said it didn't take him long to discover just how conservative Huntington really was.

He rented a house and began fixing it up as a church center. At the time, Moon was making his first tour of the country and relatively few Americans knew that his disciples considered him the Messiah.

"I didn't have much money when I got to Huntington, so I had to start fundraising immediately," Freed said. "I went from house to house, selling candles. Once, I remember, I needed $70 to pay the rent and raised the money in less than two hours."

Once the center was ready, Freed began daily visits to Marshall University.

"I'd go up and witness on campus," he said. "I'd just start talking to people without telling them too much about the church or what I was doing. I could see that if I told them what I was really up to I'd be rejected. So, from the very start I had to practice what we called 'heavenly deception.'"

Freed said his favorite approach was to find someone sitting alone. If he was able to strike up a friendly conversation, he would invite the student over to the center for dinner and "a little lecture."

"I was beginning to get students over to the center but I hadn't made any converts yet. I was getting a little desperate," he said.

In a daily diary kept during the early days in Huntington, Freed began each entry: "Dearest Father." From there, he would tell Moon about his hopes and dreams, his activities and his problems attracting new members.

In his effort to attract people to the center, Freed placed classified ads in the newspapers, introduced himself to city officials and leaders of the Campus Christian Center at Marshall, and appeared on a radio talk show.

The weeks dragged by. Moon was making hundreds of converts across the country, but Freed couldn't get anybody to move into his center.

He was still selling candles and candy and writing in his diary, but the entries became sporadic and their tone was one of discouragement.

A young woman was sent to Huntington to help Freed find Moon-struck disciples. "After five months and no new members, I was demoted and sent to the center at Lexington, Ky.," he said. "Meanwhile, the woman at the Huntington center was arrested for shoplifting and sent to Lexington, too."

"The couple that replaced us didn't stay long, however. They fled into the darkness one night after allegedly seeing an evil spirit in a big patch of plaster on a wall."

Freed soon was back on the bus team. He estimated he sold more than $100,000 worth of flowers, candles and candy, all of which went to Moon, tax free.

"I was beginning to have more and more doubts about Moon and the lack of intellectual and creative freedom in the church," he said. "It finally reached the point in Chicago where I would go out and sell just enough to buy my lunch and a newspaper. ... I finally left the church in 1974. My parents broke down in tears when I told them."

He worked as a free-lance writer in Chicago, then moved back to Denver, where he now is editor of "The Down-towner," a bi-monthly newspaper. He has completed a 56-page working outline about his experiences entitled "In Their Father's House."

In a recent article, Freed wrote: "Although I want to roundly condemn Moon and his followers for placing more emphasis on expedience than honesty, for exploiting people and situations to advance their cause, the fact remains they use basically the same approach as other groups seeking expanded political and economic power."

"For this reason, I'm distressed people focus on 'brainwashing' and ignore the more important issue — that Moon wants to replace democratic ideas and institutions with a theocracy."

Of his days in West Virginia, Freed, a short man with reddish hair and a fringe of beard, says: "It was a time of great spiritual inspiration and struggle for me, a struggle of intellect and emotion. And, it was a time of doubt. ... I cannot be vindictive. I was gullible, yes, but the choices were mine."

WHALE ATTACK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A father and son were tossed into the ocean when their small boat apparently was struck by a whale, county lifeguards reported. Paul Malley of Culver City and his son, Paul II, were pulled from the water Sunday by a Baywatch Redondo Lifeguard boat. Lifeguard Lt. Richard McCaney said the rudder of their boat, apparently damaged by a whale, was repaired.

Solons Rap U.S. Grain Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration says there will be less pork and chicken on Russian tables this year because of the partial U.S. grain embargo, but some senators think American farmers will be hurt the most of all.

"As far as I'm concerned the president pulled out his six-shooter and shot the American farmer in the foot and said, 'Russia, take that,'" Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, said Tuesday.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., added, "I don't think (Soviet Premier Leonid) Brezhnev or the military commanders will go hungry. The embargo punishes the wrong people."

But Carter administration spokesmen defended the embargo Tuesday before the Senate Agriculture Committee and a Banking subcommittee on international finance.

And in a report to Congress, President Carter said the embargo will cause "a significant reduction in USSR meat production."

"The restrictions can reasonably be expected to bring home to the Soviet leaders that they cannot act as they have in Afghanistan without paying a significant price," Carter said.

He said the embargo of 17 million metric tons of wheat and corn will bring about "a major reduction in the availability of livestock feed" in the USSR and that, in turn, will lead to the cut in Soviet meat supplies.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted there will be chicken shortages in the Soviet Union by the spring and pork shortages by summer.

Also, he said "our guess is they will not reduce their cattle herd" in order to provide more beef in the short run. He said the administration anticipates the Russians will have to dip into reserve grain supplies to feed pigs and chickens.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., chairman of the banking subcommittee, said the embargo was hastily imposed. Stevenson said he was worried that other nations will make up the missing grain supplies. He said the next move the U.S. could then make would be more embargoes against those unidentified nations, which would lead to further problems in the American economy.

Commerce Secretary Philip M. Klutznick and Bergland maintained that American allies are cooperating with the trade reduction and won't sell more corn, wheat or substitute products to the Russians.

Without providing specifics, Klutznick said the U.S. "will take appropriate measures" against nations that step up grain exports to the USSR.

The administration received backing from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who noted President Carter's 2-1 defeat of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in Monday's Democratic Party caucus in Iowa, a major farm state.

"The president won a smashing victory, even bigger than expected," he said to McGovern, who testified against the embargo.

McGovern answered by saying, "Farmers tend to rally around the president in an international crisis."

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., a loser in the Iowa Republican caucuses and an embargo opponent, also noted the Iowa vote.

"The voters in Iowa expressed support for the embargo, as I understand it," he said. But he also urged the administration to do more to protect the farmers, arguing that they are bearing most of the burden of U.S. retaliation against the Soviet Union.

Carter announced on Jan. 4 the embargo of 17 million metric tons of U.S. corn and wheat that the Soviets were to get this year. But he allowed a shipment of 8 million tons under a 1975 agreement.

Congress has 30 days to exercise a veto over presidential export controls. But there was practically no mention of that idea as Congress reconvened Tuesday.

Instead, embargo critics said they want to ensure that farmers don't suffer and that the embargo's impact isn't wiped out by added exports from other nations.

It is expected to cost taxpayers more than $3 billion to pay for loans to farmers and to buy up the grain that was ticketed for the Soviet Union.

Richard Gilmore of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace testified that the money may prove to be a windfall for a handful of grain exporting companies holding contracts for sales to Russia. "It will be virtually impossible to avoid rewarding some companies which least deserve it," he said.

In-laws, the way of referring to one's relations by marriage, is short for the term "in canon law," the reference being to the degrees of affinity within which a marriage was allowed or prohibited by the church.

Workers To Continue Soviet Cargo Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Dockworkers at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports will continue their boycott of cargo bound for Soviet Union despite a request by President Carter that some grain shipments be allowed, an International Longshoremen's Association executive says.

"We think it's time for America to stand up and be counted," James McClelland Jr., vice president of ILA Local 1497 in New Orleans, said Tuesday. "The action we are taking is a political action."

"Any employer trying to force the International Longshoremen's Association to load grain ships destined for the Soviet Union we feel would be very un-American."

Carter, who met last week with ILA President Thomas "Teddy" Gleason, urged dockworkers to end their wildcat boycott of Soviet vessels. Carter wants the United States to live up to an original trade agreement guaranteeing Russia 8 million tons of grain, although he has blocked shipment of an additional 17 million tons.

Although Gleason has yet to issue a formal response to Carter's plea for a lifting of the boycott, McClelland said Tuesday the union is "totally committed to a continuation of the boycott of all materials intended for shipment to Russia."

McClelland's written statement said a specific response to Carter's request that the embargo on grain shipments be lifted was still under "very serious consideration."

"No decision has been reached at this time," he said.

McClelland said dockworkers would not service the Greek-registered Julia L., anchored upriver from New Orleans in an attempt to load grain for Russia. The ship has been idled for more than two weeks.

"I'm not looking forward to any confrontation with the Julia L. and I don't believe there will be one," McClelland said.

THE CAPITOL

Solon Ends Tenure As Speaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gavel firmly in hand, the speaker was indisputably in control of the House floor. He made a final scan of the chamber to see if anyone wanted recognition, then quickly rapped the session to a close.

Joe Moakley strode from the podium a satisfied man. "It's been a great experience," he said.

The session had lasted eight minutes — about average for the once-every-four-day sessions that have been taking place since Moakley was sworn in as acting House speaker just before Christmas.

His tenure ended this week when the real speaker, fellow Massachusetts Democrat Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., returned with the rest of the Congress from a month-long recess.

Once either chamber formally adjourns for a recess, only the president can call it back into session.

O'Neill wanted to keep the House in formal session so that, in case the crisis in Iran took a turn for the worse, he could quickly summon members back without a presidential proclamation.

But House rules require that when the House is in session, it must meet at least once every four days.

So every four days since the "recess" began, Moakley has been presiding over these short, procedural sessions at which a prayer is said, announcements are made and several members have given short speeches — all to a near-empty chamber.

O'Neill had Moakley sworn in and vested with all the powers of the speaker-ship — meaning that for an entire month, Moakley and not O'Neill held the reins of the House.

Moakley had the power to sign payrolls, control jobs, fill committee vacancies and hire and fire congressional employees.

Will O'Neill return to find his furniture and staff gone?

"No," said Moakley, a close friend and political ally of the speaker. "That's why he appointed me and not someone else."

Moakley says it's all been kind of fun, since he had planned to be in town for the Christmas holidays anyway.

The highpoint of his tenure? Signing papers sending the $1.5-billion Chrysler loan guarantee bill to President Carter.

"I went home and told my wife I'd signed the biggest car loan of my life."

Playing Part

Moakley isn't the only one playing the part.

The Republican National Committee hired a beely, silver-haired actor whose chief qualification for the job was being an O'Neill look-alike.

In a GOP television commercial expected to be aired next month, the bogus O'Neill fumes as his car runs out of gas on the New Jersey Turnpike.

See, the Democratic-controlled Congress is supposedly letting the nation run out of petroleum while Republican policies would bring about increased oil production. Get it?

Trucking Conference

President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy may be rivals, but they agree that most government regulation of trucking should be done away with.

So the political byplay was low-key when representatives of the administration and of Kennedy took part in a conference called by supporters of trucking deregulation.

Alfred Kahn, the president's chief inflation fighter, started it out by introducing fellow panelist Jay Steptoe as "counsel to the Senate Judiciary Committee, whose chairman is a good friend of mine, but who shall be nameless."

The chairman, of course, is Kennedy.

Later, Frank S. Swain, chairman of the Coordinating Committee for Truck Regulatory Reform, told a luncheon audience that Neil Goldschmidt, Carter's secretary of transportation, would have to leave right after his speech because "he is flying out somewhere this afternoon — he didn't tell me where it was, just that it wasn't Chicago."

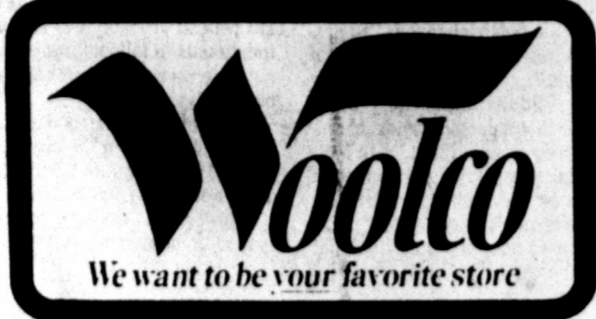

Goldschmidt ruffled some feelings in Chicago when he reportedly hinted he might withhold federal transit funds from the city after Mayor Jane Byrne endorsed Kennedy.

He told the luncheon audience, "Jay Steptoe and I flipped a coin and he got Chicago."

Barn Fire Destroys Valuable Horses

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A fire that swept through a barn in Washington Township has left 34 horses dead, some valued up to $10,000, and caused nearly $600,000 in damage, officials said.

Cause of the early morning fire Monday at the Vanity Farms complex was unknown, but officials said the fire apparently was an accident.

GOP Seeks Opinions On Platform

By ROBERT SHEPHARD
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Apparently hoping to demonstrate the party's interest in what the voters think, the Republican Party is investing a good deal of time and money this election year in the preparation of a national platform.
GOP officials have scheduled a total of 10 hearings around the country — more than ever before — to seek opinions about what the platform should say.
The opening session — a two-day hearing in Washington — produced a 3-inch high stack of written testimony plus transcript and video tapes of the oral presentations. That is far more than can be used in the final platform document, but the sounding goes on nonetheless.

Leaving the capital behind, the temporary platform committee now strikes out for nine other cities where it will hold public hearings to pick up regional and local concerns and listen to individual citizens.
In 1976, the platform committee held just two regional hearings in addition to the sessions in Washington.
This year's effort will cost the party about $175,000, but the GOP hierarchy apparently feels it will be worth it, even though most political platforms are read through only by the most devoted political activists or observers.
The regional hearings will include morning and afternoon sessions and then continue in the evening, at which time individual citizens — those who were to work during the day — will be encouraged to show up and speak their piece.
"We're really trying for diversified views," a party spokesman explained.
"We would like to have input from people who do not consider themselves to be Republicans, but who want to say what directions the new (Republican) administration should take," he said confidently.
At the Washington hearing, party leaders were fairly brimming with optimism that the final platform will be a masterwork and the elections will be won by the GOP.
The final document will be "a very honest and candid document that will appeal to the majority of the people of this country," said Sen. John Toler, R-Texas, chairman of the temporary platform committee.
The actual platform will not be written until July when the official platform committee gathers just before the Republican national convention in Detroit.
The 106 members of that committee will be furnished with transcripts of the earlier hearings and will be able to watch the video tapes of the witnesses who testified.
Party officials have another use in mind for the video tapes — probably some 60 hours worth — they will accumulate over the next several months. The tapes will be culled down to about a 15 minute segment that will be shown to the assembled delegates in the Detroit convention hall.
And if the television networks relay the show to the voters at home, so much the better, say the Republicans.

Panel Wants Recognition For Inventor

DEXTER, Mich. (UPI) — Frank Clisham is seeking justice and a rightful place in history for Thomas Crapper, the Victorian-era plumber credited with making the flush toilet a commercial success.
Clisham heads the Justice for Thomas Crapper Committee, the fairly tongue-in-cheek creation of a local portable toilet manufacturer that wants to see Crapper take his place beside other noted inventors.
For the past three years, Clisham, 50, a marketing executive for the Theford Corp., has been the organizing force behind the firm's annual celebration of Thomas Crapper Day on the plumber's birthday.
Thursday marked the 143rd anniversary of Crapper's birth in Thorne, Yorkshire, England, and Clisham took the occasion to urge an intensified campaign to have the plumber's three London homes recognized as historic sites.
The Greater London Council declined to take such a step late last year and Clisham said it was hoped public pressure might lead it to reconsider.
"The Greater London Council has chosen not to commemorate Thomas Crapper," Clisham said. "They probably felt it was beneath their dignity."
"We have had a 10-year campaign going to correct an historical oversight here. We're looking for public support of our efforts in this, for proper recognition of Crapper's achievements."

Witness Says Victim Shot Before Suspect Fired

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A Colorado man who accompanied Lawrence V. McLin Jr. to a Parkway Drive nightspot Aug. 25 said that Billy Joe Scott apparently was shot before McLin ever got his gun from his car.

John Lee Bolden also told the 140th District Court jury hearing evidence in McLin's murder trial that Scott and one of his brothers attacked Bolden immediately before the shooting.

Bolden, considered to be the defense's key witness, said that Scott apparently was wounded while the victim was scuffling with Bolden.

The Denver, Colo., man said he,

McLin and a third man arrived at the club shortly after midnight Aug. 25. He said they entered the club briefly and as they were leaving witnessed a group of men arguing outside the back door of Chilly's Club, 1701 Parkway Drive.

As they were watching the argument, Bolden said, the shooting victim's younger brother Lynn grabbed Bolden around the neck and "Billy Scott hit me in the mouth."

"They slung me against the wall and pinned me there," Bolden said. While wrestling in that position, he added, he heard a gunshot and received powder burns on his right thigh.

After the shot was fired, Bolden said, he was thrown to the ground. Meanwhile, he said, McLin had also become involved in the fight.

After getting up from the ground, Bolden told the jury, he walked to McLin's car and passed Billy Scott. Scott, he said, was curled up in pain beside his brother's car.

The witness said he got his gun from McLin's car and spotted the defendant crouched beside another vehicle. McLin also had his gun out but fired it only one time, up into the air, he said.

Bolden is one of the last witnesses expected to testify today as McLin's three-day trial for the shooting death of Scott winds down. Scott suffered a single .38-caliber bullet wound to the chest and died about 6 1/2 hours later at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

A defense witness in McLin's trial testified Tuesday afternoon that McLin fired a gun the night Billy Joe Scott was fatally wounded, but that he pointed the weapon in the air.

But on rigorous cross-examination, Eddie Walker told the jury he didn't actually see gunfire outside Chilly's club the early morning of Aug. 25, 1979.

Walker told prosecutor Travis Ware that he heard several shots that morning, although he saw only McLin wielding a pistol, and that he saw McLin's arm in an upraised position.

The 18-year-old witness also acknowledged that he did not wait for police to arrive after the gunfire erupted and never gave a statement to investigating detectives.

Walker's testimony ended the second day of the 32-year-old McLin's trial.

On direct questioning by defense attorney Mike Brown, Walker told the jury that McLin had been involved in a fight moments before the shooting. However, Walker said, he did not see who else was involved in the scuffle.

Walker said McLin grabbed a man from behind and then was thrown to the ground. McLin got up, Walker said, walked to his car parked in Chilly's parking lot and the fight appeared to be over.

Meanwhile, Walker told the three-man, nine-woman panel, Billy Scott was trying to get his younger brother, Lynn, into their car when gunfire erupted.

Walker said the shots sounded as if they were coming from different guns and were being fired from the building into the parking lot.

Walker told Brown he saw McLin get a gun from his car and fire it once into the air. But he hedged on that testimony under questioning by Ware, and said he did not see the shot, only the position of McLin's arm.

Walker also said the clean-shaven defendant did not have a beard the morning Scott was wounded. When Ware produced a photograph of a bearded McLin, taken the day after the incident and entered into trial evidence, and asked

Walker, "Do you think he grew this beard overnight?", the witness laughed slightly and answered, "No, sir, I guess not."

Also testifying Tuesday afternoon was a Department of Public Safety ballistics expert, who said the bullet taken from Scott's body did not have enough firing grooves to determine if it was shot from the gun McLin gave police and said he had taken to the club the morning Scott was killed.

Tuesday morning, a third Lubbock teen-ager identified McLin as the man who fatally wounded Scott.

The 16-year-old girl, however, said McLin had attacked Scott's younger brother that morning. Earlier, two teen-agers said McLin jumped the shooting victim during the scuffle preceding the gunfire.

The O.L. Slaton Junior High student said that after McLin scuffled with 18-year-old Lynn Scott, he and another man ran to a car in the club's parking lot. Both men removed guns from the car, she said, but McLin fired first.

After McLin fired five shots, one of them striking Scott, the other man fired his weapon, the ninth grader testified.

Oil Slick Discovery Alerts Coast Guard

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Discovery of another big oil slick drifting just south of the Texas coast has prompted the U.S. Coast Guard to resume its daily reconnaissance flights over the Gulf of Mexico.

The slick covers 9,000 square miles, according to Coast Guard Capt. Gerald Hinson, coordinator of federal anti-spill efforts in Texas last summer.

He said the slick is 150 miles long and 60 miles wide, and was spotted by aerial surveillance Sunday. However, he said the slick is just where scientists had predicted and was not endangering the Texas coastline yet.

"We're concerned about it from the standpoint that it's there," Hinson said, "but there is no immediate threat to the Brownsville area. I want to make that clear."

"We can't perceive any northern movement and it's where it was forecast to be at this time by the National Atmospheric and Oceanic people."

The oil originates from an offshore Mexican well that blew out in the southern Gulf of Mexico June 3.

The oil hit Texas beaches last August and September before shifting gulf currents drove the spill southward.

Coast Guard officers and government scientists predicted if the well was not capped soon the oil would reach Texas again this spring, when those currents begin moving northward.

A satellite tracking buoy was dropped near the new slick Saturday, Hinson said, to check the oil's movement.

Official Describes Clements As 'Good Friend' To Mexico

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Alfonso Martinez Dominguez of Nuevo Leon, Mexico, says Gov. Bill Clements established himself as a "good friend of our country" by refusing to blame Mexico for the offshore oil spill last year.

Clements said Martinez Dominguez's trip here Tuesday — the first state visit by a governor of Nuevo Leon to Texas — would be followed by visits by the governors of three other northern Mexican states.

Clements visited the four states — Nuevo Leon, Coahuila, Tamaulipas and Chihuahua — in 1979.

"We will have other visits in the not distant future and on a continuing basis," Clements told a news conference.

He added that Martinez Dominguez would come to Texas again soon to look at recreational and amusement areas.

The news conference at the Lorenzo de Zavala State Archives and Library Building climaxed a day in which the two governors toured the Capitol and the Lyndon B. Johnson Library, ate lunch on the University of Texas campus and met privately for about an hour.

In welcoming ceremonies in the Senate chamber, Clements said he hoped the meeting would show Washington how to treat foreign neighbors as equals.

Martinez Dominguez responded by saying he would never forget that Clements had stood by Mexico during the outcry over the Mexican oil spill that flowed onto Texas beaches.

Clements proclaimed Tuesday as "Texas-Nuevo Leon Friendship Day."

Texas Solon To Monitor Study On Closing Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas congressman has promised the Air Force he will be monitoring closely its preparation of an environmental impact statement on the proposed shutdown of Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo.

"I remain unconvinced that it makes any sense at all to close a vital cryptological training center, located in a safe and secure location, at a time when our national security is being challenged on so many fronts," Rep. Tom Loeffler wrote Tuesday.

"The proverbial ball, however, is in your court," the Republican congressman said in his letter to an Air Force official. "I take the Air Force at its word and look forward to an EIS of which we can all be proud — one which answers satisfactorily the substantial questions raised by the citizens of San Angelo and me."

Loeffler, whose district includes San Angelo, had sponsored an amendment to a military construction bill that required the Air Force to complete an environmental impact statement before it could close Goodfellow.

The congressman said he hoped the additional step would push the decision to close the base into a presidential election year.

Loeffler wrote to the Air Force in December after concerns were voiced that military officials would put together the EIS hastily in an effort to proceed with the decision to shut down Goodfellow.

Lubbock Rape Suspect's Conviction Affirmed

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals today withdrew its earlier opinion overturning the Lubbock County conviction of Donald Pirkle, sentenced to 25 years for aggravated rape, and affirmed the conviction.

The court's opinion says that a three-member panel of the appeals court had ruled that admission of testimony "relating to an extraneous transaction" — the attempted rape of another girl on Jan. 30, 1973 — constituted reversible error.

Pirkle was charged with a rape occurring Jan. 21, 1974.

The state had requested a rehearing in the case, which was granted by the court.

The full court said that Pirkle "did not apprise the trial court of the error that he complains of on appeal."

In an unrelated case, the court upheld the revocation of probation of Gerardo Loa Jr., found guilty of felony possession of marijuana in Hockley County.

The state moved to revoke his probation, alleging he had violated the terms of probation by possessing marijuana, driving while intoxicated and being intoxicated in a public place.

The trial court sustained the allegations regarding the DWI charge, and the appeals court upheld the revocation.

DR. LAMB

Wants To Shape Up

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB — I've read about so many different diets and now I'm concerned as to what not to eat and what to eat and how much or how little. It seems like every book has its own version of the perfect diet. I sat down one night and read a number of diets and almost all of them contradicted each other. What's a person supposed to do?
 I was wondering if there is any certain diet you could recommend for me. I'm 19-and-a-half and I'm approximately 5 feet 2 and I weigh 110 pounds. I know that may not sound too bad but instead of having the weight distributed evenly, I've got a stomach that bulges terribly and my legs are too big. Last summer I looked fine but during the winter I got depressed and ate constantly and, of course, it all just settled on me. Is it possible for me to lose all of these inches and look like myself again? I hope so.
 DEAR READER — Yes, there's an unending maze of information about diets. There are a wide variety of foods so it's not too surprising that you'll run into a lot of variation in different diets that are recommended. There are some basic facts, however. We know that fat contains more calories than any other food component. That means that any diet that intends to restrict your calories should limit the fat intake. This, in turn, means eliminating butter, margarine, cream, whole milk and removing the fat from any meat which one eats, as well as avoiding preparing foods by adding additional fats as in frying.

 Another source of calories that can be eliminated is excess sweets. While you're on a reducing diet and trying to limit calories, it's important to eat foods that provide bulk and water in them. That's why vegetables and fruits without added sugar are a good source of carbohydrates for your diet.
 I don't think you sound too bad and I would hate to see you on a starvation diet as some young women are prone to follow. Rather I would like to see you start an exercise program.
 Your description of your body build suggests that you should be walking, running and developing exercises that use calories, and that you ought to start some strength exercises to develop your arms and shoulders.

Many American women are particularly weak in the arms and shoulder area. Testing has shown that large numbers of women and young girls cannot even do a single chin-up. That's mostly from neglect and lack of training.
 I'm sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will help you some with the kind of exercises that you ought to be doing to help reduce the size of your abdomen. Nevertheless, if you do have fat inside the abdomen, you can't expect to have a real thin waist without getting rid of the fat.
 Why don't you exercise and just eliminate the excess fat, sweets and desserts from your diet and see if that isn't enough to help you gradually improve yourself without going on a overly restricted diet.

Advocate Of Solar Power Claims Environmental Concern Lacking

By AL ROSSITER JR.
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading advocate of solar power says the nation's concern over the environment appears to be faltering because of increasing worries about energy.

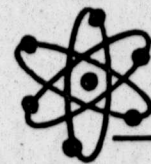

"It's not something that is reflected in the polls but it is reflected somewhat in the attitude of the press, the tone of stories that are written, and I think somewhat in the attitudes of elected and appointed public officials," said Denis Hayes, director of the government's Solar Energy Research Institute at Golden, Colo.

"What it seems to boil down to is that a lot of this environmental concern is a concern for birds-and-squirrels issues, whether something is pretty or not, and that that's very nice if you're in an affluent society with a lot of flexibility."

But he said it appears some of the country's leaders feel that if the nation is "in a real crunch, if we have important issues, not aesthetic ones — issues that have to do with maintaining the power that drives the American economy, then the environment is one of the things that can be traded off."

 Hayes called that a mistake. In some cases, "life and death" environmental issues are involved, he told the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in San Francisco.

A major environmental problem caused by the burning of fossil fuels, he said, is the increasing addition of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere. Scientists believe too much carbon dioxide will turn the atmosphere into a greenhouse, trapping more solar energy and warming the Earth with disastrous effects.

Hayes said nuclear energy has the problem of radioactive waste disposal and the threat of nuclear weapons proliferation posed by the plutonium produced in atomic reactors.

The answer to the environmental problems of fossil and nuclear energy sources, Hayes said, is to switch more to solar energy.

Hayes said the nation could be producing 20 percent of its energy from the sun by the year 2000. He said rapid progress already is being made and, "I expect this already rapid rate of growth to accelerate dramatically in the next couple of years."

The costs, he said, are not unreasonable when compared with the price for fossil fuels — when the environmental costs are included in the equation.

Hayes said most of the environmental costs of energy production from fossil fuels largely are ignored, "but rough estimates suggest that they are huge numbers."

Phillips Explosion Cuts Gas Supplies

By KIMBERLY PALMER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The explosion near Borger that shut down Phillips Petroleum Company's second-largest refinery will mean a temporary reduction in gasoline supplies at local Phillips stations and Lubbock's private airports may be without aviation fuel by next week.

Company officials announced Tuesday that the shutdown of the refinery will cause a temporary reduction in fuel allocations and a halt in aviation fuel deliveries to distributors in 38 states.

As cleanup crews hauled smoldering debris from the site of the Sunday explosion, distributors were notified that beginning Feb. 1 they would receive as little as 50 percent of the motor and turbine fuel they were allocated two years ago and there would be no deliveries of aviation fuel.

Phillips officials did not know when the Panhandle refinery, which processes an average of 97,000 barrels of crude oil daily, will be back in operation, but a spokesman said he expected the reduced allocation plan to be in effect from 30 to 45 days.

Because Department of Energy regulations specify that distributors must supply 100 percent of allocation to what have been termed "first priority" users — including agriculture, mail and cargo — farmers probably will not be affected by the reduction. But Phillips retailers and private airplane enthusiasts requiring high-octane aviation fuel may face "critical" shortages.

Although the major airlines serving the South Plains area will not experience a shortage because they are supplied locally by Texaco, the operation of small, private aircraft may be severely hampered by the cutback.

"We will have to find fuel somewhere else and we're waiting on Phillips to tell us where," said Vernon Wright of Avtech Aviation. "If we don't get any more fuel, our current supply only will last until Monday," Wright said.

Although the private aviation center has the capacity to store 10,000 gallons of aviation fuel, Wright said, their supplies were low when Phillips officials notified him of the cutoff. "We use about 2,000 to 3,000 gallons of the (aviation) fuel a day and if we don't get some soon, we're liable to be completely out of it and only have jet fuel to offer our customers."

Officials at Wes-Tex use Phillips aviation fuel, but said they had not been notified Tuesday of the cutoff. Town and County Airport uses Mobil products.

Area retailers said they would be uncomfortably squeezed by the allocation cutback and a few were looking to the U.S. Department of Energy and the state of Texas for relief.

Nelson Hall of Benton Oil Co. in Lubbock said he had contacted the Dallas office of the DOE about an alternative supplier, but had not heard from officials late Tuesday.

Myrtle Bradley, manager of Plainview Oil and Butane, which uses about 100,000 gallons of Phillips fuel each month, said he didn't realize what effect the explosion would have on his supply.

"I have considered applying for fuel from the state set-aside program, but haven't considered contacting an alternative supplier yet," Bradley said.

Phillips spokesman Brooks Garner said most of the Oklahoma-based oil company's aviation fuel came from the Borger plant and that delivery of the fuel would resume at a reduced allocation once the stockpile of products at the company's four other refineries had been inventoried.

Officials say a refinery explosion at Borger will deplete fuel supplies in Denver and other areas of Colorado at least through February.

A spokesman at the company's headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla., said the explosion also would affect supplies to cities outside Colorado, including Chicago and St. Louis.

The allocation of motor fuels will be reduced to 50 percent of the levels a year ago, the spokesman said.

School Trustee Ending Term; Real Estate Dealer Eyes Spot

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock public schools trustee Harold Harriger will give up his Place 4 spot on the school board when his term expires this spring, and a local real estate dealer has set his sights on capturing that open seat.

Med Hunt, owner of a southwest Lubbock real estate firm, told The Avalanche-Journal Tuesday he will announce his candidacy this week for the spot being vacated by Harriger.

Harriger, an attorney who has served six years on the board, told The Avalanche-Journal Tuesday that he will not run for re-election.

Trustees Jose Ramirez and Deaton

However, restaurant-owner Ramirez said he thinks he probably will run. He added he will "make up my mind sometime next month."

Insurance agent Rigsby, appointed

Garland Youth Commits Suicide With Same Gun Father Used

GARLAND (AP) — Ten-year-old Michael David Miller said he was lonely and longed to be with his father.

Tuesday he turned on a tape recorder at his home, told of his loneliness and desire to be with his father.

Authorities said the boy then took the same pistol his father had used to take his own life less than two years ago and shot himself in the head.

Robert Miller, 35, the boy's father, used the same pistol May 6, 1978, to kill himself at a Garland motel, according to police records. Officers said the cheap revolver found beside the boy's body was the same one they returned to the Miller family following the father's death.

It was the second time in the past week that a young boy in the Dallas-Fort Worth area died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. In the other, an 11-year-old Arlington boy shot himself in the head in a school restroom while a terrified teacher and some classmates watched.

Tony Badger, an investigator for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office, said the boy's body was found beside a bed in the family's home. The tape recorder containing the comments about loneliness and the sound of the pistol shot was nearby, Badger said.

Mrs. Cheryl Miller, the boy's mother, said she found the body when she returned home from work. She said he had called her earlier in the afternoon, apparently just before the shooting, to tell her that he had been disciplined at school. But she said he gave no indication of what he was about to do.

'Can't Judge Book By Cover' Doesn't Hold True, Scientist Says

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Health Editor

Is beauty only skin deep? Or is it in the eyes of the beholder? If the eyes judge, who are we to decide, anyway? We're told not to judge a book by its cover.

Maybe beauty is truth, as the poet said — and truth beauty.

If that is so, in fact, can you really call "beautiful" a plain face transformed into a ravenously beautiful one by layers of cosmetics, false eyelashes and such?

It isn't unadorned truth.

Such musings were provoked when Dr. Thomas F. Cash spoke at a symposium on the psychological, emotional, and social benefits to be derived from enhancement of personal appearance through cosmetics.

Cash, a behavior scientist from Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Va., does research on the influences of physical attractiveness in relations of all kinds — from romance to work and study.

His examples of how people to react, favorably or unfavorably, to others' appearance included these:

- Jurors have been shown to be more likely to convict unattractive defendants than attractive defendants, and issue them harsher sentences, too.
- Unattractive children are stereotyped by adults, including teachers, as having less intellectual, educational and athletic potential. When they misbehave, such children are more likely to be described as antisocial and maladjusted, and folks are quicker to forecast these kids will repeat their troublemaking in the future.
- Teachers may interact less frequently, it has been shown, with the unattractive than with attractive kids. They may be more prone to punish the unattractive children for their academic errors.
- Research showing both male and female applicants who are physically unattractive are apt to encounter employment discrimination. In general, the unattractive are less likely to be hired, offered smaller salaries, and are not expected to be very competent if in fact they are hired.
- Students were asked to judge the quality of essays presumably written by their peers who were presented photographically. The essays accompanied by pictures of unattractive students received poorer grades, although they matched in quality essays from attractive students.
- The New York symposium Cash participated in was sponsored by the Cosmetic, Toiletary and Fragrance Association. This is a Washington-based group representing manufacturers and distributors of potions, lotions, powders, and such in the $9 billion a year industry in rub-ons, rub-ins, sprays and pat-ons for males and females.
- The event celebrated completion of a major research study confirming the psychological, emotional and social benefits of cosmetics use.
- Cash also is an adjunct assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk.
- His credentials include past service as projects' coordinator of the Schizophrenic Research Program at Vanderbilt University and a research assistantship on the psychology service of Nashville's Veterans Administration Hospital.
- "When we first encounter other people," he said, "their physical characteristics, their body type, coloration, facial features and configuration represent a salient source of information."
- Social scientists have discovered that this visual information leads to perceptions of its esthetic appeal, what we commonly call its physical attractiveness.
- People are motivated to understand and predict the actions of others. For the sake of sanity and survival, all human beings are lay psychologists, striving to create in their minds at least a predictable, controllable, sensible world.

"In the absence of an encyclopedia of experience with another particular individual, people will use whatever information is available to make sense out of what that other individual is apt to be like, even if the information leads to characterization based on broad stereotypes."

Cash said stereotyping based on first appearances starts in the hospital nursery.

"Informal evidence of this is provided by observing relatives and visitors, peering through the glass at the hospital's nursery for newborns," Cash said.

"People comment, 'Oh, such a cute baby.'"

"Wow, what a handsome baby boy. Won't he be something when he gets older?"

"And for the physically less fortunate — 'Look at that fat one with the odd nose. I'll bet he's going to be a mean little kid.'"

Cash said many people, psychologists included, have offered the cliché that "beauty is in the eyes of the beholder" as a common sense argument that physical attractiveness is so subjective and so relative that few people would agree, if asked to rate others' physical attractiveness or unattractiveness on the beloved 10-point scale.

"Scientific inquiry, however, has once again shattered so-called common sense," he said.

He cited numerous investigations, including his own research at Old Dominion's Social Learning Research Laboratory, indicating that people can agree surprisingly well when asked to use such a rating scale on attractiveness.

"In fact, by five or six years of age children can reliably rate their peers, and within a couple of years their perceptions match those of adult raters," he said.

He told of research in which social psychologists asked college students to examine picture of men and women who were physically unattractive, average in attractiveness and physically attractive and to give their impressions of them along several personality dimensions.

Here's what happened:

- The subjects' reactions conformed to the stereotype that what is beautiful is also good.
- Persons in the pictures who were physically attractive were deemed by the subjects to possess more socially desirable attributes. For example, good looking women and men were thought more likely to be kind, sociable, interesting, sexually warm, poised and self-assertive.

—Attractive persons were expected to be more successful occupationally, more competent as dates or spouses and happier in general than their less attractive peers.

"Clearly," Cash observed, "people assign valuable social characteristics to those who appear well endowed with physical attractiveness and attribute socially undesirable characteristics to unattractive individuals."

"This is what psychologists call the 'positive halo' effect. Given that a person has one positive attribute, in this case good looks, we're likely to form a generally favorable impression of the person."

"Conversely, a 'negative halo' effect takes place when we develop negative opinions about a homely individual."

People who are less than beautiful or good looking may need some help, according to Cash. He suggested research on the objective social effects of cosmetic changes making them more attractive.

The focus of such research, he said, would be on the power of properly applied specific cosmetic changes in persons who represent each level of natural attractiveness.

Cash said therapeutic interventions might include counseling in the use of cosmetics, professionally administered cosmetic makeovers and cosmetic plastic surgery.

"If based on sound scientific data," he said, "such programs can be developed to maximize benefits and minimize liabilities."

"These interventions could be used in concert with psychological and medical therapies to assist people with problems in living."

One example he cited is assistance to the substantial number of persons whom psychologists call "minimal daters."

"Research has shown that they expeperience considerable rejection, lack of social skill, experience social anxiety and inhibition and are very likely to be physically unattractive.

Psychologists have developed special therapy programs to assist these people in increasing their confidence and success in dating.

"One component of this therapy is giving clients feedback and instructions on how to improve their physical appearance."

"In the future, clinical psychologists should work more closely with the cosmetics experts to insure greater effectiveness in improving the lives of persons whose social anxieties, poor self-images and depressions are related to the liabilities of their physical appearances."

"I feel that cooperation between the cosmetics industry and behavioral science holds promise for rewards that, like beauty, will continue to be more than skin deep."

perative to keep West off lead to prevent the king of clubs from being exposed to attack, declarer led a trump to the eight. East won the jack and could do no better than persevere with hearts. Declarer won, drew the outstanding trumps and set up two long cards in diamonds with a ruff. A trump was the entry, and both declarer's clubs disappeared on dummy's diamonds. Making five odd.

East lost the battle for his side at the very first trick. It was essential that he get his partner on lead for a club through, so he should have kept open every possibility of an entry.

It was possible that West had a heart entry. But it was almost a sure thing that West held the ten of diamonds, since the opening lead appeared to be the top of a sequence. Therefore, East should have jettisoned the king of diamonds under the ace at trick one.

Now there is no way for declarer to establish diamonds without letting West gain the lead with the ten for a club shift that will defeat the contract. And the club shift is obvious — hearts can be attacked equally well from the East hand as from West.

In bridge, as in life, you must be prepared to take certain risks if you want to succeed. East took safety to extremes on this hand and permitted declarer to sneak home with a four spade game that should have been defeated.

The auction was routine. West attacked with the jack of diamonds — a doubtful choice, in our view. We don't like helping declarer establish his long suits if we can avoid it. Declarer rose with the ace and East followed with the four. Declarer continued with a diamond from dummy, and East was on lead. He shifted to a heart, won in the closed hand.

Carter Talks About Faith

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says he has asked the leaders of China to allow Christian missionaries on the Chinese mainland again.

Carter told the National Religious Broadcasters' convention this week he had discussed the work of the Gideons with Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping.

"I told him about the need to open up the gates of China once again to Christian missionaries."

Carter spoke eloquently of his own faith and of his talks on religion with world leaders during his travels to Korea, Poland and other nations.

Carter said he had found a "brotherhood" of faith with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, a Moslem, and Jewish leader Menachem Begin. But he mentioned the problems the United States is facing with the Islamic revolution in Iran.

Religious faith and religious meaning can be distorted into terrible acts as recent experiences have shown," Carter said. "Their belief is so strong that faith has great power even when it's perverted into terrorism and tyranny."

Carter said that he and his wife Rosalynn read the Bible every night, not as a "mystical guide book" to find simple answers, but for insights and inspiration.

Elton John topped Billboard's list of the top popular albums two years in a row in 1974 and 1975.

Soviets Purchasing More Fish

LONDON (UPI) — When the mackerel were running off the Cornish coast of Britain last autumn giant Soviet factory ships — not permitted inshore — were buying all the fish they could carry from British boats.

Cornwall is one of many places around the world the Soviets are busily purchasing fish stocks.

The mackerel catches were so heavy last season Britain is expected to further restrict tonnage to preserve stocks. It already has imposed a licensing system and strict quotas on herring catches in the North Sea, the richest remaining fishing area of the Common Market.

One of the probable reasons for the Soviet push to gather in maximum tonnage of important food fish was given by Dr. David Tomazin, who used to head the Marine Economy Department of the Ukrainian Academy Sciences.

"The fishing industry of the Black and Azov seas has suffered a disastrous decline over the past 20 years," he wrote recently in New Scientist magazine. "The two sea basins once contained a large stock of valuable fish but they are now almost lifeless."

Tomazin estimates the cost to the Soviet economy of the loss of fish food and byproducts at about $1.6 billion a year.

The first fish to go was the famous Black Sea mackerel. Its 50,000 to 100,000 tons of stocks had all but disappeared by 1967.

"At the time... experts thought (the decline) was due to the rapid reproduction of predators and concluded that the place of the Black Sea mackerel would be taken by another valuable fish, a type of horse mackerel," Tomazin said.

But the horse mackerel also vanished, followed by the palamida and bluefish.

"It became obvious that something was profoundly wrong in the Black Sea," Tomazin said. "The only edible fish still being caught were the anchovy, a small type of horse mackerel and the occasional sprat."

The changes in the Azov Sea were even more destructive. Sturgeon, pike, perch, bream and herring proliferated in the 1930s. In the 1970s the catch of these fish was down 90 percent and the total catch was one-third what it had been three decades earlier.

Tomazin says "the piscatorial disaster" was the unforeseen result of a massive Soviet plan to regulate the flow of major rivers, which involved retention of fresh river water in storage lakes for use by industry and agriculture.

This deprived coastal areas of minerals and other essential food substances carried by the rivers to the estuaries and seas.

The disasters could have been prevented, or at least reduced, with a more scientific management, he said.

The Soviet experience with its fish supply underlies the danger in diverting natural resources. Once an error is made, it is extremely difficult to correct.

Odds Increased For Major Economic Downturn

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — After watching the economy expand last year, contrary to expectations of his economic advisers, President Carter is hoping his luck might last a while more.

In doing so, however, he is conceding the administration's vision of the economic future is blurred and that maybe hope, rather than insight or perhaps control of events, is the beacon that guides it.

"In recent months the economy has displayed much more strength than earlier forecasts had predicted," the President announced in his State of the Union message, a preliminary to tonight's address to Congress.

Therefore, he declared, "Forecasts of impending recession might... prove to be as wrong as previous ones."

They might, but Albert Cox, a former presidential economic adviser who now heads Merrill Lynch Economics Inc., a relative of the big brokerage firm, has just raised the odds on a "major downturn" to 75 percent.

limit government countermeasures."

Cox is among them. The Merrill Lynch forecast "assumes a tax cut in the third quarter and some automatic escalation in federal spending." However, it believes shrinking receipts and rising budget deficits at all levels "would sorely limit government countermeasures."

Cox assigns only a 25 percent chance to such an eventuality. "The message at this point is clear — unmistakably clear," he says. The index of leading economic measures points the way, he says, and it is being flashed by several other indicators as well.

The late OPEC price increases "will be major depressants," his report states. "Measures of consumer real incomes and confidence continue to signal major recession, as do the amazingly high debt ratios..."

Considering the poor record of economic forecasting — Cox was one of those who expected a recession to begin at least a year ago — Carter might be justified in relying on hope rather than forecasts.

But it doesn't do much for economic confidence.

dent announced in his State of the Union message, a preliminary to tonight's address to Congress.

Therefore, he declared, "Forecasts of impending recession might... prove to be as wrong as previous ones."

They might, but Albert Cox, a former presidential economic adviser who now heads Merrill Lynch Economics Inc., a relative of the big brokerage firm, has just raised the odds on a "major downturn" to 75 percent.

While, like Carter, that still leaves Cox with hope that one might occur, it is rare for economic forecasters to commit themselves so strongly. Remember, survival dictates that they learn double-speak.

Cox foresees "a steep drop" in economic activity beginning soon, if not already, and persisting into the third or July-August-September quarter. It would be followed by "modest" recovery later in the year. "Look for declines in consumer spending and inventory liquidation to trigger production curtailments across most major industries," Cox and his associates say in their "Planning Report" for business clients.

"Business spending on plant and equipment in real terms would fall, housing starts would reach a second quarter low of 1.1 million units, and corporate profits would sag," if the scenario is played out.

In his message, President Carter stated that so long as double-digit inflation continues and a recession doesn't appear, his top priority would be on "reduction of the deficit" rather than a tax cut.

Many economists place little credence in such statements. Having seen huge budget deficits persist throughout a prolonged expansion, they wonder why and how deficits can be reduced as the economy weakens. And they see a tax cut as

Patrol Cars Display Ad

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) — Hialeah policemen say everyone is laughing at "degrading" signs on their patrol cars — even prisoners on their way to jail.

The department has a job opening for one officer and has placed signs on patrol car doors saying: "Wanted: Hialeah Police Officers. Annual Salary $15,808. Apply Now."

"It looks like we're advertising for a carnival," said Officer William Schlafke. "This totally demoralizes the men."

"I'm humiliated and embarrassed. It's degrading," echoed Officer Lou Ann Williams.

Police Chief Lawrence D. Leggett disagrees, although his unmarked car doesn't carry a sign.

"I don't really see the big deal. People are going to ask questions. It gives people something to talk about," Leggett said.

"Sgt. George Kartis, president of Hialeah's Fraternal Order of Police, says he will make a formal request to remove the signs, which were dreamed up by the city's personnel division. The campaign is scheduled to end Feb. 4."

"We look like taxicabs and buses," Kartis said. "Probably the city's heart is in the right place, but their method is wrong."

Former Presidential Candidate Says U.S. Defense Poor

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Former Kansas Gov. Alf M. Landon says the military situation of the United States in the face of the Iranian and Afghanist crises is similar to that of pre-World War II.

"President Franklin Roosevelt assured the American people at the start of that war that we had on hand, or on order, all the military equipment we needed," Landon said. "In 1936 Republican presidential nominee who was defeated by Roosevelt."

"It took over two years to get that equipment ready for use on the battlefields. The English held off our enemy until we had what was essential to equip our troops. Today, we are in that same appalling, terrifying position," Landon said.

Iowa Caucuses Seen As Training For Campaign

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
 DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A number of historians tell us the Spanish Civil War was, in military terms, the tryouts for World War II. The Iowa precinct caucuses may serve the same function politically for the 1980 presidential campaign.

With the exception of John Connally's nonstop weekend marathon, none of the campaigns produced any real innovations in Iowa. But all candidates tried out various approaches to the voters and campaign tactics that may be adopted for the rest of the political season if they work — or discarded if they don't.

George Bush, for example, came up with a slogan calling himself "The President we won't have to train."

This is one of those constructions that does more than one job — it links the name Bush with the title president (Remember the 1972 buttons that said only "President Nixon"?); it refers to what Bush regards as his strong point, wide experience in various federal level jobs; and it implies the president we've got is a bumbling amateur. A slogan like that is good enough to go the full route to November — if Bush gets the GOP nomination.

Late in the campaign, Sen. Howard Baker also tried out a slogan: "We need someone who knows Washington well enough to change Washington." This one lacked some of the advantages of the Bush slogan, although it also stressed Baker's experience and implies Jimmy Carter failed to reform the federal government because he did not know how.

The front page of yesterday's paper tells how Iowa went. If Bush and Baker did well, the two slogans probably will be heard again. If they didn't, the slogans may be among the gimmicks and tactics that will go down the chute.

There is another Bush campaign play that got a test in Iowa. Regarded by some as too soft-spoken and gentlemanly, Bush tried to counter that image with broadcast commercials taken from speeches in which he nearly was shouting.

While Bush was defying the convention wisdom by projecting a "hot" image on medium that is supposed to be good only for "cool" rhetoric, Connally obviously was trying to go the opposite way.

At the big GOP candidate "debate," and in broadcast advertisements, "Big John" obviously kept his sometimes florid oratorical style under wraps, coming on conversational and genial. That is another tactic that may be continued or discarded according to the results of Monday's voting.

Sen. Bob Dole used an approach tailored strictly for Iowa.

His broadcast spots zeroed in on Carter's embargo on grain sales to Russia.

saying it would hurt no one but the farmers and urging them to register their objections by voting for the Kansas senator at the caucuses.

Only About One Taxpayer In 47 Audited By IRS

By GLENN RITT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax audit. It has an ominous sound, but long odds.

In the past, the Internal Revenue Service says only about one taxpayer in 47 has been audited each year.

The IRS checks about 1 of every 66 people earning below $10,000 a year.

Middle-income taxpayers, however, have a 2.4 percent chance; people earning more than $50,000, an 11.4 percent chance.

A computer will decide who is investigated and who isn't, and more than likely it will be attracted to the most unusual deductions or the most significant tax changes from last year.

Generally, to protect yourself, keep tax records at least three years. That's the time in which the IRS must start its investigation. Short of the shock from an audit is the embarrassment following a dumb mistake.

The IRS says the most frequent errors are: Forgetting to sign your form; failing to enclose the W-2 form or other statements detailing your wages and salary; and omitting your Social Security number.

To avoid mistakes and lessen the chances of an audit, make sure to report all income correctly and take only the deductions you can justify.

Here is a list of what income should be reported:

- Wages, salaries, bonuses, commissions, fees, tips, and unemployment benefits.

- Earned income from sources outside the United States.

- Interest received on U.S. Savings Bonds, but not interest on state and municipal bonds.

Third In A Series

- Profits, rents and royalties.

- Earnings and interest from savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, credit unions and similar institutions.

- Income from pensions, annuities and endowments after deducting the contributions you made to your own pension fund.

- Alimony receipts and separate maintenance payments.

- The value of prizes and awards, plus gambling income.

- Refunds of state and local taxes if they were deducted in a prior year.

Major income items that aren't taxed include: Social Security benefits, welfare payments, some disability retirement payments and other benefits, workman's compensation benefits, child support, dividends on veterans' life insurance, and gifts, money or other property that you inherited.

There are several basic rules for which tax form to use.

You can file the 1040A short form if your total income is $20,000 or less as an individual or $40,000 or less as a couple filing jointly. In addition, your income cannot include items other than wages, salaries, tips and unemployment benefits. And you cannot earn more than $400 each in interest and dividends.

You must use the 1040 long form if you itemize deductions.

The IRS estimates that about 96 percent of all taxpayers will be able to figure their taxes by looking at tax tables in the booklet rather than having to do complex arithmetic.

That's a key reason that the number of people turning to professional tax preparers is down 20 percent in two years.

One rule that should come as no surprise: You must file your return no later than midnight, April 15.

If you encounter problems meeting the deadline, you can seek an extension by filling out Form 4868. Technically, a penalty equal to 0.5 percent on the tax due may be assessed for each month or part of a month that the return is overdue for a maximum of 25 percent.

This year, the IRS will have more than 6,800 people available to help an estimated 93 million taxpayers answer questions about their returns.

The telephone number about tax information can be found in the phonebook under United States government, Internal Revenue Service. Toll free numbers are found in the 1979 tax booklets.

The earlier you file, of course, the faster the refund. It could be as fast as 4 weeks. This year, the IRS estimates that three out of every four Americans will get money back.

Cement Becoming Scarce Commodity Across U.S.

Bank Robbery Attempt Fails

NEW YORK (UPI) — An FBI agent got in line at a bank to cash his check. Standing in front of him was a man who wanted to rob the bank.

A police spokesman said the suspect, John Harris, 19, was arrested outside the Chemical Bank branch in lower Manhattan Tuesday by the agent, who had been behind the man when he passed a note ordering a teller to hand over cash.

that of oil, two industry spokesmen claim.

Chairman James E. Stewart of Lone Star Industries, the country's largest producer, said in a recent speech that acute cement shortages in some areas during the peak building seasons of the past two years caused severe construction delays.

This is not, he said, a "ripoff" by producers, as charged, but a lack of manufacturing capacity caused by environmental, antitrust and other governmental restrictions.

Only a decade ago, the $230 billion-a-year industry, which employs four million workers, was experiencing overcapacity. Upgrading and expansion slowed. Then regulatory and environmental obstacles prevented the industry from catching up.

Max Moore of the Portland Cement Association, headquartered at Skokie, Ill., said there is no shortage of raw materials for cement.

Eighty-five percent of cement is made from limestone, which is plentiful, the rest from clay, marl, oyster shells and a variety of substances.

"There are regional shortages of sand and gravel to mix with cement," Moore said. "In some areas it even is becoming economical to grind up old concrete and reuse it."

Next to limestone, fuel is the big ingredient in making cement. Moore said new technology using dry kilns and preheating the dry mixtures cuts fuel requirements by up to 50 percent as compared with the old let kiln method.

Lone Star's Stewart predicted that 70 percent of cement mills with high fuel consumption will be abandoned during this decade. Beginning in 1980, all new mills will utilize the low energy process.

Moore said while a new mill costs twice as much per ton of capacity to build as a mill put up 15 years ago, the reason is inflation, not the new technology.

Stewart said one result of undercapacity in the United States has been an 80 percent increase in imported cement. Foreign producers, he added, could decide it doesn't make sense to import costly oil to make cement for export.

Answering charges that regional shortages were manufactured to drive up the price of cement, Stewart noted the industry in the United States consists of 52 companies. Lone Star, the biggest, has 8 percent of the market.

"By contrast, four or fewer companies account for 50 percent or more of the telephone, auto, aluminum and transformer markets."

The Federal government, by hampering mergers, "is preventing American companies from achieving the strength and size they need to compete," Stewart said.

For example, Lone Star's high bid for the River Cement Co. in Missouri was lost to an Italian investment group because it was felt Federal Trade Commission practices would delay the sale to Lone Star.

Stewart said it makes sense to start building new mills now, even though the construction industry is in the doldrums.

It takes from two to 3 1/2 years to obtain the 28 separate environmental and permit agency decisions just to get a new mill project underway, Stewart said.

Noting that 90 percent of U.S. construction uses cement, Stewart sees a scenario "that will soon change a little-known, unappreciated industry into a sophisticated, high-technology (one) that is vital to the national interest."

"If oil is 'black gold,' then certainly cement is 'grey gold.'"

Turnout Surprises Precinct Captains

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — There didn't seem to be any losers at the Democratic caucus in Precinct 20. Everybody went home happy.

Precisely 100 people attended the neighborhood meeting this week in the library at Cleveland School. That made it easy for caucus chairman Bob Schorg to figure the percentages: 66 percent supported President Carter and 34 percent backed Sen. Edward Kennedy.

The caucus attracted more than three times as many Democrats as the 1976 meeting when Carter got five of the precinct's 10 delegates to the Linn County Democratic Convention. This time he got seven.

Vernon Numedahl, Carter's precinct captain, had been counting on fewer than 40 people showing up to support the president. "I had 36 that I was pretty sure of," he said. "That's the truth. I'm very impressed with the turnout."

For Bev Buss, who took over as Kennedy's precinct vote-getter just nine days ago, the attendance figure seemed phenomenal.

Hearing Slated For Murderer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A convicted murderer is getting a hearing to argue his claim that smoking marijuana made him plead guilty against his will.

Gary Doyle is serving a 25-year prison term for the Feb. 3, 1975, beating death of a 4-year-old girl. He pleaded guilty near the end of his Rhode Island Superior Court trial in October 1975.

In 1976, Doyle asked for post-conviction relief. His lawyer presented affidavits to Superior Court Judge Francis J. Fazzano from witnesses who said Doyle smoked marijuana on the day he pleaded guilty and the plea was not made intelligently or voluntarily. Fazzano refused to hear evidence from Doyle.

Over Doyle's objection, Fazzano called the defendant's former lawyer to the witness stand to question him about his client's condition at the time he pleaded guilty. The judge later dismissed Doyle's application.

The Supreme Court ruled Friday Fazzano should have allowed Doyle to present witnesses concerning the "voluntariness of his plea" and ordered the new hearing. If the judge grants Doyle's application, he will get a new trial.

Bush Followed Carter Formula

By NORMAN D. SANDLER
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Dogged determination, political savvy and coincidence shaped Monday night's Iowa precinct caucuses.

One frontrunner was upset, the other scored a desperately needed comeback victory.

Paradoxically, the two winners — Democrat Jimmy Carter and Republican George Bush — had much in common.

Carter wrote the book on Iowa in 1976, using the 2,531 neighborhood meetings to spring to national prominence. He did not win, but his second-place showing to the uncommitted outdistanced all rivals.

Many of the Republicans seeking support in Iowa recited Carter's formula as they campaigned in Iowa. But only Bush followed it religiously.

Defeat of Ronald Reagan seemed remote when Bush first came to Iowa in late 1978 to address the Spencer Chamber of Commerce.

In the months that followed, the Carter formula — heavy on the glamorous nuts and bolts of political organization — was applied to GOP politics.

Party leaders doubted that Bush, armed with endorsements that seldom translate into grassroots support in Iowa, could top the organizational expertise traditionally monopolized by conservatives.

Determined to "do better than the press expects me to," Bush traveled to small towns and large cities, impressing audiences with his background and suave style.

Bush benefited from discontent among Reagan's supporters — a result of a laid-back strategy and what one former Reaganite called, "the need to find some fresh blood to carry us through the elec-

Baker's third-place finish is regarded by GOP leaders as political resurrection. The Senate Republican leader's campaign had been floundering until bailed out with help from Republican Robert Ray, Iowa's popular governor.

The outlook for Kansas Sen. Robert Dole was not as clear. Dole campaigned hard in Iowa, especially among farmers. But he finished behind Illinois Rep. John Anderson, who announced months ago he would concentrate on New Hampshire.

The results of the caucuses reaffirmed the importance of political organization.

Baker, Connally and Sen. Edward Kennedy had blitzed the state with broadcast and newspaper advertisements in the closing weeks — all to little avail.

To Kennedy, big television buys were the only way to gain exposure he had hoped to share during the ill-fated Jan. 7 presidential debate. The Massachusetts senator logged more than 5,000 miles in Iowa during the final phase of the campaign and if he was inconsistent on the stump, his organization developed smoothly. The Kennedy camp considered victory within reach. The key would be moving people to the caucuses.

Analysis

"The discontent increased after Reagan refused to debate his rivals."

Meanwhile, Bush kept his public expectations low. "Nobody expects me to win," he said repeatedly in the waning days of the campaign.

Bush's opponents were not so restrained. Sen. Howard Baker and former Texas Gov. John Connally both predicted Bush would win.

Bush, complaining he was being "set up," worried about being saddled with the burden of defeating Reagan, which he considered a possibility, but one with maximum impact as surprise.

Baker and Connally had played the same game, insisting they had to do no better than they did — Baker coming in third and Connally fourth.

Man Confesses To Cannibalism

MALMO, Sweden (UPI)—A 30-year-old man described as a university graduate with a degree in philosophy told authorities he killed his girlfriend, cut up her body and ate her flesh, police said.

Rotting meat found in the man's refrigerator was being examined by forensic scientists to determine whether it was human, police said this week.

The woman, 28, has been missing for three months. Investigators have not revealed her name or that of the man, who was being examined by police and psychiatrists.

The unidentified man told authorities he threw other parts of the girl's body into Malmo harbor.

But detectives said they searched the man's flat and found the flesh wrapped in linen in his refrigerator.

Kremlin Challenges President
By Banishing Andrei Sakharov

MOSCOW (AP) — The banishment of dissident leader Andrei D. Sakharov from Moscow is a new Kremlin challenge to President Carter, and Western diplomats here say the American leader can't do much about it.

The steady deterioration in relations between Moscow and Washington has created an ideal climate for a crackdown on Soviet dissidents, the diplomats believe.

They say that since Carter has played his strongest cards short of war in retaliation for the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the United States has little muscle in reserve to protect Soviet human rights activists.

Soviet officials told Western journalists privately last week that their government would not "give in to provocations" by responding tit-for-tat to Carter's actions against it. Rather, they said, the Kremlin would follow up its action in Afghanistan with model conduct in world affairs, attempting to portray Washington as the real spoiler of détente.

But the move against Sakharov amounts to a direct Soviet challenge to the president, who after his inauguration sent the scientist a highly unusual letter of support, telling him, "I wish you well."

Since then, Sakharov has visited the U.S. Embassy frequently, and the Embassy closely monitored his welfare.

Western diplomats believe that the bases of Soviet policy have not changed substantially in recent months. But they believe that the ruling Politburo has become increasingly angry with the American president.

The Carter administration claims that its recent anti-Soviet actions were in response to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan last month. But the Soviet government claims Washington is continuing an anti-Soviet policy that it began several months earlier.

The Soviet news media claim this change of American policy was demonstrated before Russian troops moved into Afghanistan by foot-dragging on the ratification of the SALT II agreement, increases in U.S. military spending and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's decision to station new medium-range American nuclear missiles in Europe.

In addition, the United States had told the Soviet Union repeatedly that if it did not take draconian measures against dissidents and permitted more Jews to emigrate, it would receive the trade advantages denied it. Yet last year, when the Soviet government allowed 50,000 Jews to leave the country and left many dissidents alone, the Russians say they received nothing in return from the United States.

In such a situation, diplomats here say, the Soviet leaders may have been unable to resist the temptation — or demands from hardliners among them — to take strong action against the persistent problem of the dissidents.

Tito's Condition Better After Amputation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito was reported "further improved" today and beginning to get up from bed three days after his left leg was amputated.

President Tito spent the night quietly and feels well, a medical panel of eight doctors said in its daily advisory on the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader's health.

"He has started gradually to get up from bed," said the brief report carried by the national news agency Tanjug.

Communist Party Central Committee sources said Tito had begun to sit up in bed Tuesday and that he had received three leading members of the party.

A viewing monitor has been installed in his room to allow Tito to read news, they said. Doctors banned newspapers and other items from his room to reduce the danger of infection.

The sources said Tito sat up and read news twice Tuesday, once during the day and again in the evening.

Today's advisory said Tito's general health "improves further." The report was the most descriptive since Sunday's operation, apparently reflecting growing confidence about Tito's condition.

Tito's leg was removed Sunday in an effort to avoid fatal complications from an arterial blockage, according to his doctors.

Tito has been in the Ljubljana Clinical Center in Slovenia since Jan. 12. He entered the hospital after a week-long but unsuccessful effort to clear the blood vessel blockage in his lower left leg with medication.

The night he was admitted, doctors performed what apparently was a blood vessel bypass operation. But they announced two days later that it too had failed.

Doctors amputated Tito's leg after reporting tissue deterioration caused by blocked circulation had increased. Continued deterioration would have led to poisoning from gangrene.

The Yugoslav leader has not been seen in public since Jan. 6, when a photograph showed him with his doctors the day before it was announced medicine was being used to treat the blockage.

ART CONTEST PROTESTED
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Several Michigan organizations have sent teachers letters protesting a Navy-sponsored school art contest they say is "romanticizing weapons of destruction." The Rev. Richard Preston of the St. John's Student Center at Michigan State University said Monday the groups object to the U.S. Navy's contest to design a patch insignia for a new Trident submarine, the U.S.S. Michigan, which will be launched in April in Groton, Conn.

Andrei Sakharov, reacted with shock at the physicist's exile and warned it signaled a purge of the free speech movement in Russia.

Scientific organizations, recognizing Sakharov the physicist as a colleague, called his banishment from Moscow "repulsive" and warned that Moscow could be the loser because of a cooling of scientific cooperation.

In London, Amnesty International — like Sakharov, a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize — called the KGB's seizing of the human rights champion a violation of international treaties and the U.N. Charter.

The United States, in its sharpest denunciation of Soviet human rights violations, charged the Kremlin's forced exile of the physicist was an "official act of repression."

But few other governments, with the exception of Holland, had immediate comment on the KGB's internal exiling of Sakharov, 58, who helped develop the Soviet H-bomb before turning his mind to the struggle for human rights in Russia.

"The Dutch government is shocked and alarmed to a serious extent by the reports about the detention of Sakharov," the Foreign Ministry said.

Amnesty International delivered its protest by hand to Soviet Ambassador Nikolai M. Lunikov, saying the Kremlin acted solely "on account of Dr. Sakharov's public activities in defense of human rights."

In Washington hours later, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and read him the U.S. protest over the exiling of Sakharov.

"All those who value freedom will deplore this official act of repression against a man who has struggled valiantly for human rights in the Soviet Union," the State Department said.

Family Vows Dissident Will Not Keep Silent

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei Sakharov's family vowed the Soviet Union's leading dissident will still get his message to the world despite his banishment from Moscow to get him away from Western reporters.

"He was only concerned about us in those last minutes. He had no 'last words' for the world — but you'll hear from him again, I assure you," said Liza Alexeyeva, one of the family members who saw the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner and his wife put aboard a plane and flown off to Gorky Tuesday.

Miss Alexeyeva quoted Sakharov as saying a prosecutor told him the reason he was being sent to Gorky was "so you wouldn't have contact with foreigners." Gorky, 250 miles east of Moscow, is a major industrial city of 1.3 million that is off-limits to foreigners because military equipment is produced there.

Miss Alexeyeva told reporters Sakharov was picked up at his apartment shortly after noon by an official car that was supposed to take him to a regular weekly seminar at the Soviet Academy of Sciences, but that the car was stopped and he was transferred to another car that took him to the prosecutor's office.

She said Sakharov, a nuclear physicist who played a leading role in the development of the Soviet hydrogen bomb, told the family in a telephone call that the prosecutor read him an official order that he return the certificates of his awards, but that he refused.

The official Tass news agency said he was stripped of a number of state medals, including Hero of Socialist Labor, laureate of the U.S.S.R. and a coveted Order of Lenin because "for a number of years, Andrei Sakharov has carried out subversive work against the Soviet state."

It said the action was taken after Sakharov had been warned repeatedly against making "open calls to reactionary circles of imperialist states to interfere in the U.S.S.R.'s internal affairs."

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance called Sakharov's banishment "abhorrent. Dr. Sakharov is a man of extraordinary ability. The only way I can describe this is as a tragedy." State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Sakharov's well-being was of "grave concern."

America's allies also condemned the move against Sakharov, and the French national assembly president, Jacques Chaban-Delmas, cut short his visit to Moscow today to protest the banishment, French sources in the Soviet capital reported.

Sakharov began questioning Soviet nuclear policy publicly in 1966, and gradually moved into dissident ranks as a defender of freedom of speech and other human rights. Because of the prestige associated with the Nobel prize, the Soviet hierarchy had seemed reluctant to move against him.

But dissidents and Western observers said the Kremlin arrested him because it wanted to hit back at President Carter's partial grain embargo, ban on high technology shipments and attempts to organize a boycott of the Moscow Olympics over the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Police Probing Theft Of South American Jewelry

Police today were investigating the theft of more than $13,000 worth of South American jewelry which was reported taken Tuesday in the burglary of a South-west Lubbock residence.

Gonzalo Cartagena of 4811 55th St., administrator of Christ the King school, told police someone broke into his house sometime between 9:50 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday, ransacked a bedroom where the jewelry was kept and took 14 rings, bracelets and earrings he said he purchased in Ecuador.

Among the reported missing items include a large Incan design bracelet with three different colors of gold, valued at $5,000, a green emerald ring with surrounding diamonds valued at $3,000, an 18-karat gold chain with a cross bearing eight emeralds and a pearl in the middle valued at $1,200 and various 18-karat gold rings and earrings valued between $150 and $600.

Reports show entry was gained into the residence by breaking out a bedroom window with a brick.

A 20-year-old Anton man was arrested on suspicion of outstanding traffic warrant charges in connection with a reported aggravated assault about midnight Tuesday at a Lubbock nightspot.

Reports indicate a 22-year-old Lubbock man and his wife were at the club when two men approached them. The man told police one of the pair jabbed him in the forehead with a jack handle and threatened to kill him.

Both the couple and the two men were asked to leave the club. Afterward, police say, the couple was approached again by a vehicle reported to be a 1976 light blue Pontiac with the two suspects and two other men.

Reports show the man told police the car came driving toward them as they walked home, jumped the curb, stopped near the couple and the four men got out and threatened to kill him.

Police said the victim spotted the suspect's car as he talked to officers in a squad car. Officers who pursued and stopped the car then discovered the outstanding traffic warrants on one of the suspects and placed him under arrest.

Although the victim was not further injured in the incident outside the club, police said the man would file charges against the four men.

In other activity Tuesday, a woman reported the theft of $1,750 worth of stereo equipment and guns from her South-west Lubbock residence Tuesday.

Peggy Wood of 5216 87th St. told police someone broke into her house sometime between 6 p.m. and 10:20 p.m. Tuesday and made off with six rifles and shotguns, a 19-inch color television and an eight-track stereo.

Reports indicate entry was gained by forcing open the door latch with a flat object. The woman told police the front door was standing open when she returned home.

A Lubbock man apparently frightened away a would-be burglar early Tuesday after he was awakened by the sound of breaking glass, police said.

Soledad Salaz of 518 E. 36th St. told police he was awakened about 2 a.m. by the noise. When he turned on the lights in his house, he discovered the glass had been broken out of the storm door at the front of the residence, reports indicate.

Police said the burglar or burglars apparently had attempted to pry open the door before breaking the glass. The culprit apparently fled when Salaz turned on the lights. Damage to the door was estimated at $100, police said.

A custom exhaust system valued at $600 was stolen from a truck parked at 301 E. 64th St. between Saturday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

David Standlee, owner of the truck, said the system included a chrome exhaust stack, a muffler, a shield, a grab handle and mounting brackets.

A 1970 Buick four-door was stolen from 1906 Fourth St. between 10 a.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday, police said. The car is valued at $800. Owner Jack Merritt of 5602 38th St. told police he did not realize it had been stolen until Tuesday.

Jimmy Darrel Duncan of 3306 91st St. reported tools valued at $325 had been taken from the rear of his pickup between 10 a.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday.

A tool box containing assorted hand tools had been removed from a larger tool box in the bed of the truck, Duncan told police. The vehicle was parked in the driveway of his home at the time of the theft, police said.

Investigation Continues Into Clovis Funds

A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS — An indication of possible misuse of city funds for which the city is being investigated by state auditors surfaced in October 1979, when discrepancies on monthly sewer bills were brought before the city commission.

The matter apparently was dropped after commissioners received assurances from a former city employee that the discrepancies were due to problems with the city's computer which had been ironed out.

City records now are being investigated for possible misappropriation or misuse of public funds by representatives of the New Mexico state auditor's office and the Ninth Judicial district attorney.

Mayor Charles "Chick" Taylor Jr. has said the city's financial problems seem to have started during the 18 months that the former city employee was in office.

The employee was fired in October for conduct unbecoming a city official after he reportedly provided bond money for three employees of Clovis's only massage parlor after police raided the establishment Oct. 9.

Prior to the employee's firing, commissioners discussed several discrepancies on some monthly sewer bills at an October meeting. Commissioners were told that one person was billed several hundred dollars, another got five bills to the same amount and another received two bills with zero balance owed to the city.

At that meeting, the employee told the commissioners that there were some problems with the computer but that the problems had been solved.

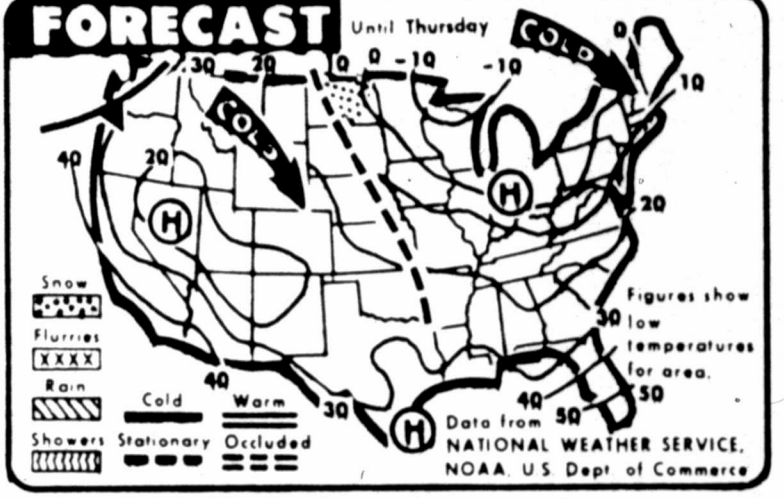

The mayor recently said the city's computer records are "in such a mess that there is no place for the auditor to start or to obtain a balance."

"Without those records, we have no idea how much money is missing, if any, or what has happened to it," the mayor said.

The city manager and his assistant both have been granted a leave of absence during the state's investigation and commissioners reportedly will discuss in study session today whether the two should be paid during their absence.

City commissioners Monday accepted a leave of absence for City Manager Darrel Kreighbaum and Assistant City Manager Cleve Teague.

Kreighbaum said Tuesday that his leave of absence came about after the

Relocation Sought By Nurse Service

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Visiting Nurse Service of Lubbock, Inc., has applied to the Texas Health Facilities Commission to relocate its offices to 2806 34th St., suite 18, Lubbock.

Persons wishing to protest the application may do so by filing as a formal party in the matter.

If protests are received, a hearing will be held on the application.

If no protests are filed, the application may be referred to a THFC voting session without a hearing.

Board Passes Parking Ordinance

By NANCY ALLEN

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Parks and Recreation Board members have endorsed a new ordinance that would replace an old city law containing a loophole big enough to drive a car through.

Responding to a recommendation made last September, the board approved a new ordinance which would prohibit driving or parking cars on city-owned "grassed and landscaped areas and areas served by underground irrigation sprinklers."

It passed by the city council, the ordinance will replace one specifying bicycles, motorcycles and motorcooters but saying nothing about four-wheeled vehicles.

The new ordinance also would allow illegally parked vehicles to be towed away and tack on a $200 per day fine for violators.

City Man Named To Committee

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Former State Bar president Paul Carrington of Lubbock has been named to the steering committee for Supreme Court Justice Will Garwood's election campaign.

Garwood, an Austin attorney recently appointed to fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court by Gov. Bill Clements filed last week for election to the court.

Garwood, who has filed to run in the Republican primary, has said he will conduct a non-partisan campaign.

Hal M. Bateman, Don Graf, Donald M. Hunt, J. Michael Irish, George W. McCleskey, James H. Milam, William R. Moss, Travis Shelton and J. Orville Smith, all of Lubbock, also are members of the steering committee.

Other members of the 395-member committee include Tom Burdett and Wayne Thomas, both of Hereford.

Odessa Teen-Ager Charged In Deaths

ODESSA (UPI) — A 19-year-old man was in jail today on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of a man, woman and child killed by a car that smashed through their bedroom window.

Francisco Aquado Andrade of Odessa was in city jail under $15,000 bond in the deaths of Jose Ramiro Salas and his wife, Maria, both 27, and their 4-month-old daughter, Yadina.

He was charged with involuntary manslaughter Tuesday and police said two more counts would be filed today.

Police said a runaway car jumped a curb, tore through a 16-foot section of chain link fence and smashed into the Salas' southeast Odessa home early Tuesday.

Lt. James Hallman said the driver of the car apparently failed to stop at a T-intersection and plowed into the northeast bedroom of the frame house.

Hallman said the suspect did not have a drivers license.

"Apparently he didn't know how to drive either," Hallman said. "When he came to the intersection (outside their home), he hit the gas pedal instead of the brakes."

Police said Consuelo Serrano, 18, who was also sleeping in the house, recalled hearing glass break about 2:30 a.m. but did not investigate.

Curtis Wins Round In Hearing

AMARILLO (AP) — Attorneys for Tom Curtis today hoped to wipe out the last legal action pending against the embattled district attorney, after already winning two court battles in his behalf.

Curtis appeared in court as a defendant, rather than a prosecutor, in a preliminary hearing that began Monday.

His attorneys successfully argued for the dismissal of a prosecutor's complaint, charging Curtis and Amarillo Police Capt. E.N. Smith with conspiracy to commit aggravated perjury. They also succeeded in having 47th District Court Judge Bryan Poff of Amarillo disqualified from hearing any cases in which Curtis was a defendant.

Today, Curtis' attorneys prepared arguments to quash an indictment against Curtis and two of his assistant district attorneys, charging them with hindering an official proceeding. The indictment says Curtis and the assistants forced their way

Health Center Seeks Facility

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Health Facilities Commission has received an application by Lubbock Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center to establish a 10-bed intermediate care, mental retardation residential living program.

The facility would be established at 3015 36th St., Lubbock, with residents coming from the community, the Lubbock State School and nursing homes.

Persons wishing to protest the application may do so by filing as a formal party in the matter.

If protests are received, a public hearing will be held on the application.

Weather Operation License Approved

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Water Commission has approved the reissuance of its annual license to conduct weather modification operations to Plains Weather Improvement Association, Inc., of Plainview.

The license expires Aug. 31, 1980.

Department of Water Resources officials report no application for operating permit, needed to conduct weather modification activities, has been received for PWIA.

President Nominates Ingram For Rank Of Brigadier General

By GERRY BURTON

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A snowstorm grounded planes Tuesday at Reese Air Force Base, but its commander needed no jet to become airborne.

"I'm floating, simply floating," Col. Richard A. Ingram said shortly after word came of his nomination by President Carter to the rank of brigadier general.

Official notification came from Gen. Bennie L. Davis, commander of the Air Training Command. Confirmation of the promotion by the United States Senate is expected soon.

"The sad thing is, they never have a general here, and, if they do as they have in the past, I won't be here much longer."

Being wing commander of the 64th Flying Training Wing at Reese has been the "most favorite" assignment since the West Texas native joined the Air Force as a private in 1950.

"Wing commander at Reese is the top job anyone will ever have."

As important as leaving the job, Ingram added, is the thought of leaving the area and the people he has grown to love.

"It's exciting, and it's great working with the folks downtown. They have been good and gracious to me, to my family and to everybody in blue suits."

Reminiscing a moment, Ingram noted that his immediate goal in the Air Force had been to survive his four years and soon after, he started looking for stripes.

There have been a lot of "super" jobs for the McLean native who saw Lubbock first as a high school football player working a summer wheat harvest job to satisfy a coach's desire for specific muscle buildup.

The most satisfactory job along the way also came at Reese as commander of the 54th Flying Training Squadron.

"Succeeding in that job meant as much to me as any job, working with great guys and gals."

None of the jobs have been easy, but the Reese boss added that work wouldn't amount to much if it was easy.

"It's a demanding business, not for everybody. It is tough and the rewards are as big as the investment you have to make in it."

The latest in a long line of rewards came Tuesday with the star of another rank.

Ingram assumed command of Reese Feb. 24, 1979, coming from Randolph Air Force Base where he was director of information for the Air Training Command.

At ATC headquarters he operated the buffer zone between worldwide press demands and the training of the Iranian crown prince at Reese. During his first months at Reese, he supervised an accelerated program to put pilot's wings on the prince. Ingram came to Reese in August 1972, serving as 54th commander, base commander and deputy commander for operations.

He was responsible for the acquisition and installation of the Eclipse windmill at Reese to show student pilots from the nation and the world the heritage of the area. It was dedicated as the centerpiece of Founders Park, a tribute to Reese-community relations, during bicentennial ceremonies October 1976, a few weeks after Ingram left to assume command of Shemya AFB, Alaska.

On Shemya, he was 70 miles from tomorrow, next door to Russia, on a treeless, tundra-covered island two miles wide by four miles long.

His duties included tracking space objects and providing a happy community life for 1,500 to 3,000 inhabitants closed in against the world long months of the year.

Other high spots of his 30-year career include duty as operations officer for the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations at ATC and assistant for colonel assignments for Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel at USAF headquarters in Washington, D.C.

After working up through enlisted ranks Ingram entered Officer Candidate School in 1958 and earned his Air Force wings at Vance AFB, Okla.

He logged 503 flying hours in 280 combat missions flying the A1E in Vietnam. He is a command pilot with 5,000 hours.

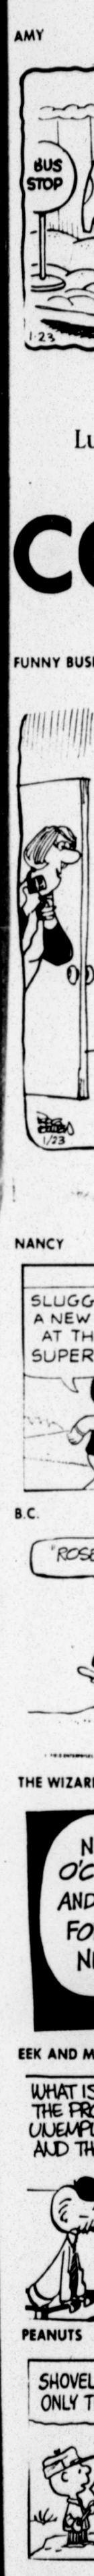

His decorations include the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit with oak leaf cluster, the Distinguished Flying Cross with two clusters, the Air Medal with 15 clusters, the Air Force Commendation Medal, Presidential Unit Citation, Vietnam Service Star, Korean Service Medal with star, Vietnam Service Medal with three battle stars, Republic of Vietnam Gallantry Cross with palm and Republic of Vietnam Campaign Medal.

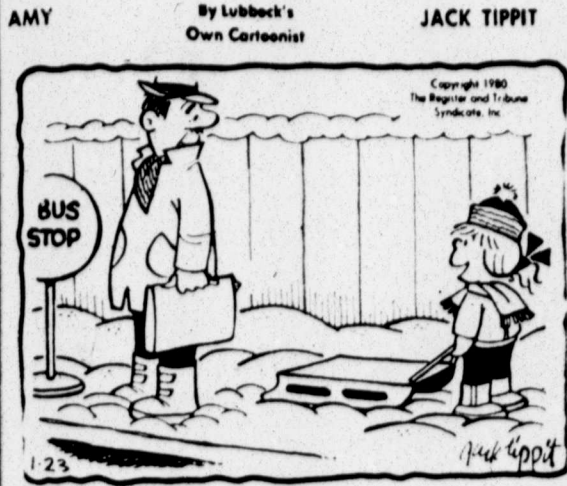

He holds a bachelor's degree in economics from Park College in Missouri and a master's degree in psychology from Troy State University in Alabama. He is a graduate of the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va., and the Air War College at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

At Reese, the wing commander is responsible for the total training and support activities of more than 3,300 military and civilian personnel providing the Air Force with about 450 new pilots each year.

Ingram is married to the former Phyllis June Toyne of Glidden, Iowa. They have two daughters, Lori and Jorjan, and two sons, Scott and Tod.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. O.O. Ingram, live in Fritch.

Arabs' Demands Threatening Egypt's Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a serious threat to the shaky Egyptian economy, Saudi Arabia and several other Arab nations are demanding the return of up to $4 billion in bank deposits, which they say the Cairo government has frozen.

Egypt is in such a shaky financial condition, say American sources, that it cannot afford to repay the money, which was deposited before Egypt signed its separate peace with Israel, a move that angered Cairo's former benefactors.

Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the others have complained to the International Monetary Fund, headquartered in Washington, that Egypt has frozen the deposits and asked for help in forcing payment.

"It's a rather ticklish issue," said one U.S. source. "Egypt can't pay, the Saudis are pushing."

The United States, which finds itself in an awkward position in the dispute, is trying to stay out in hopes the IMF can find a solution.

The United States considers it vital to be on good terms with both Saudi Arabia and Egypt — the Saudis because of their huge oil reserves and Egypt because of its role in helping fashion the peace pact with Israel.

Yet an American official acknowledged that it is virtually impossible for the United States to remain out of the dispute because it is the single most influential member of the 140-nation organization. Saudi Arabia also is a power in the organization, which supervises operations of the international economy.

Further complicating the American position is the fact that the Carter administration has frozen $8 billion in Iranian assets in this country. Both Kuwait and the Saudis criticized that action.

The IMF, which has refused to consider Iran's complaint against the United States, was scheduled to take up the complaints against Egypt on Monday, but deferred action at the request of Egypt.

An IMF spokesman said the complaints contend Egypt's refusal to pay "amounts to a freeze, while the Egyptians are taking a softer approach." He declined to discuss the matter further.

U.S. officials provided some details of the dispute, although they asked not to be identified. "You can appreciate the sensitivities involved," said one.

A Kuwaiti newspaper said over the weekend that as much as $4 billion may be frozen by the Egyptian government, including $1 billion each in bank deposits belonging to Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, and another $2 billion belonging to the Gulf Authority for Egyptian Development, a fund financed by other Arab nations. Smaller unspecified amounts belonging to Iraq and Libya are also said to be involved.

A U.S. official said the $4 billion estimate may be high. He also said that Egypt contends the bank deposits are not frozen as it feels the money was deposited for a fixed period of time, possibly 8 to 10 years, and shouldn't be withdrawn prematurely.

He said the money is of "extraordinary importance to Egypt. This would affect the Egyptian budget in an extraordinary manner if Egypt was called on to make payment earlier than the time frame.

Amin Reported In Saudi Arabia

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — Deposed dictator Idi Amin, still reportedly intent on regaining power in Uganda, has moved from Libya to a new exile in Saudi Arabia, diplomatic sources said today.

In Kampala, the country's interim parliament began debate on a human rights court statute, a mechanism whereby Amin will be tried in absentia and probably sentenced to death for crimes he allegedly committed while he ruled Uganda.

Authorities also investigated a major tailpipe between Tanzanian troops and villagers on the outskirts of Kampala, in which as many as 50 persons may have been killed. Tanzania's army invaded Uganda last April to topple Amin.

News reports said the clashes began after Tanzanian troops began drinking and sacking supplies. An angry mob reportedly killed three of the troops.

The diplomatic reports said Amin apparently moved his exile home from Libya to Saudi Arabia several weeks ago.

He was initially given sanctuary in Libya by the president, Col. Moammar Khadafi, one of Amin's strongest supporters. Amin then attempted unsuccessfully to rally Arab support to try to regain power in Uganda.

Thousands of Amin's former troops are living as bandits in Sudan, Uganda's northern neighbor, and Zaire. The Ugandan government of President Godfrey Binaisa has only nominal control over much of the northern part of the country.

Amin has said in several interviews that he is determined to return to power in Uganda, where, he said, people were becoming quickly disillusioned with the new authorities.

Khadafi announced recently that Amin was no longer in Libya, but gave no further details.

Eric Gale Fans Hold Heads In Dismay

CAN'T SEEM TO GET A SOLID GRIP on your sports pages these days? Feel as though they're weighed down by an anchor of some sort? Do you suppose there's a better explanation why reading them should leave you with that sinking feeling...?

The year 1980 is still in diapers, but already the sports pages of newspapers 'cross country have slugged readers with an assortment of happenings that might lead Walter Cronkite to blurt: "Is that really the way it is?" Scandal, threatened strikes, fatalities, violence and boycotts have combined to make this normally escapist realm just another decaying chunk in a violently deteriorating world mosaic.

Already in 1980 three boxers have died in the ring, the most recent a 13-year-old West Virginia youth who, rather than appear sissified, ignored his league's rule and fought his final bout without protective headgear.

AS THE STORY OF HIS FUNERAL service rode the wire services Monday, it was also reported that Spanish fighter Santiago Gonzalez-Monzon had lapsed into a coma overseas following what sources called "a brutal beating."

Meanwhile in New York, a pail containing various organs of deceased fighter Willie Classen was reported missing from the state medical examiner's office, which is conducting an investigation into ring safety standards.

Flight safety was also a residual topic following the death two weeks ago of new Louisiana State University football coach Bo Rein, whose chartered aircraft went 1,000 miles off course before crashing off the Atlantic coast.

Far-fetched, but not implausible, was the theory forwarded in casual conversation that embittered backers — or perhaps even members of the coaching staff — of deposed LSU coach Charlie McClendon had taken a part in creating the rare valve malfunction that led to the accident.

Rein, you understand, had been forced to operate out of a hotel during the first month of his contract at LSU when lame-duck staff members refused to abandon their offices until McClendon's contract had officially expired Jan. 1. Rein retaliated by firing the whole lot during his first day on the premises.

OAKLAND RAIDER OFFICIALS HAVE THREATENED to abdicate their base of operations for Los Angeles despite an intensely loyal stable of fans who have sold out the team's home games for 13 consecutive years. How's that for just rewards...?

And Raider defensive back Jack Tatum's autobiography, "They Call Me Assassin" (among other things) was released. Tatum, in his book, outlines the need to intimidate the opposition by overt threat of injury and offers no regrets for having paralyzed ex-New England Patriots' receiver Darryl Stingley in a 1978 exhibition game... Perhaps fans of the Raiders would be better off without the likes of Tatum in the Bay area...

The Baseball Players Association will begin negotiations with the owners and there is the distinct possibility of a strike in spring training. Some analysts have predicted the least amicable talks in years.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn stated last week that there is little, or no, chance of a strike by the ballplayers. That should convince us all that a walk-out is imminent...

MORE UNCOVERINGS OF ILLEGAL PRACTICES by major college athletic departments have hit the fan. The most recently exposed culprits include San Jose State, Arizona State, Utah, Oregon and Oregon State.

The scandal centers around phony issuance of classroom credits, but may also include point-shaving to please bookmakers.

None of this is surprising. The disheartening aspect is that the investigation, which began at the University of New Mexico two months ago, was initiated by the FBI — not the NCAA, which is the official governing body of collegiate sport. The NCAA undoubtedly has had knowledge of wrongdoing but refused to take swift action...

And last, but certainly not least, is the Olympic hoopla; the possible boycott of the Games by the United States as reaction to the recent Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Here is a sports item with elements of black humor as Jimmy Carter (self-righteous in theory as are all American politicians in matters of foreign policy) weighs the advantages of a U.S. pullout based on the pulse of popularity polls.

How laughable Carter's Olympic "ultimatum" must seem to the Soviets: cease their military intervention or have the U.S.A. refuse to send a team to Moscow. So imposing!

IT'S THE MOST LUDICROUS grandstand play in Cold War history, or ever since Nikita Khrushchev removed a shoe and pounded it on a desktop at the United Nations 20 years ago.

Alas, even Henry Kissinger, former secretary of strafed civilians, recognizes the absurdity in such impudent threats; he refers to an Olympic boycott as "not the answer" and "a gimmick..."

Oh, yes, sports in 1980 are off to a grand and glorious start. It might be worth a laugh if it weren't so blatantly depressing.

TAMBURO REMAINS AT TECH

MSU To Employ Weaver

By NORVAL POLLARD
Executive Sports Editor

Six days of speculation ended Tuesday night when Michigan State University named former Spartan football player Douglas Weaver athletic director at the Big Ten school.

For almost a week, Texas Tech Athletic Director Dick Tamburo, himself a former football great at Michigan State, was believed to be the top candidate for the position vacated last Tuesday by Joseph Kearney.

Weaver, a teammate of Tamburo's on MSU's 1952 national championship squad, leaves the athletic directorship at Georgia Tech open.

Weaver, 49, had been athletic director at Georgia Tech since 1976. He replaces Kearney, who quit last week to become athletic director at Arizona State. Kearney took Michigan State football coach Darryl Rogers with him.

Weaver also was athletic director at Southern Illinois and football coach at Southern Illinois and Kansas State.

Weaver played center and linebacker on Michigan State teams that won 26 of 27 games during the 1950 through 1952 seasons.

Tamburo, reached at home late Tuesday, had this to say about Weaver's appointment.

"Douglas Weaver is a fine guy and a good friend of mine. He was a teammate of mine and I think Michigan State got a super guy for a super job."

Tamburo would not say if Michigan State had offered him the job of athletic director. Tamburo has been Texas Tech athletic director since September, 1978. He was hired for the job by former Tech president Cecil Mackey, who is now the president of Michigan State.

"Like I've said all along, I am very happy here at Texas Tech," declared Tamburo.

Weaver's appointment, subject to approval by Michigan State's board of trustees, came just one day after the school's vice president, Ken Thompson, interviewed Weaver in Atlanta.

Michigan State spokesman Fred Stabley said a search committee recommended Weaver. Stabley said Weaver did not ask to be considered for the post.

Stabley said Weaver will assume his duties in East Lansing as soon as he can make arrangements to end his responsibilities at Georgia Tech.

One of Weaver's first duties, Stabley said, will be to help find a successor to Rogers, who resigned last week. Possible successors include Pittsburgh Steelers defensive coordinator George Perles and Steelers offensive line coach Rollie Dotsch.

"We are bringing in an excellent, proven athletic administrator in Doug Weaver," said Mackey. "I'm sure he will have the support of every segment of the university community."

Thompson said university officials were especially pleased to name an athletic director who is a Michigan State graduate.

U.S. Athletes Choose To Compete

By The Associated Press

Despite President Carter's call for a possible American withdrawal from the Summer Olympics in Moscow, sports contacts between the United States and the Soviet Union are continuing.

A United States boxing team left Tuesday night for a three-city exhibition tour of the Soviet Union, joining a team of American wrestlers already there for a tournament beginning later this week.

The 20-man boxing squad was delayed for nearly three hours before taking off from Dulles International Airport in Washington when ground personnel balked at servicing the flight as a protest to the Soviets' military intervention in Afghanistan.

Finally, after Soviet Aeroflot employees took over baggage handling and ticketing tasks which members of a local Teamsters union had refused to handle, the flight was able to leave.

The team is scheduled for matches in Moscow, Tbilisi, and Vilnius beginning Saturday and the American boxers were anxious to get on with their trip, despite a State Department request that they pass it up in view of recent events.

"I feel I want to go because politics shouldn't mix with sports," said Alex Ramos, a 156-pounder from New York.

"All the guys deserve to go because they've been training so hard and so long," said Lonnie Epps of Greenville, S.C.

Early today, a team of track and field athletes from the Soviet Union was scheduled to arrive in Portland, Ore., where they will compete Saturday, beginning a five-meet tour of the United States.

Another Soviet track and field team is scheduled to compete in Los Angeles, Albuquerque, N.M., Louisville, Ky., and Houston from Feb. 1-16. A Soviet hockey team is supposed to travel to Denver next week to begin training with exhibition games scheduled against Erie of the Eastern Hockey League Feb. 7 and the U.S. Olympic hockey team in New York Feb. 9.

The American wrestlers will compete in a tournament against the Russians Friday through Sunday at Tbilisi. A Canadian team has withdrawn from that event, although Pierre Trudeau, leader of Canada's Liberal party, said he does not support the boycott movement.

Trudeau said a boycott "will probably mean the end of the Olympics, but that may be what some countries want."

The United States Congress, convening its new session, was preoccupied with Carter's call for a possible postponement, cancellation or transfer of the Games to protest the Soviet action in Afghanistan.

Leaders in both the House of Representatives and the Senate rallied to support Carter. Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said he hoped for Con-

RAZOR'S EDGE — Arkansas Razorback U.S. Reed (24) scores inside as Texas A&M forward Rynn Wright converges too late during a Southwest Conference showdown Tuesday night in College Station. A&M played strong defense, according to Coach Shelby Metcalf, and remained undefeated in the SWC race with a 45-39 win. (AP Laserphoto)

Aggies Thwart Arkansas

By The Associated Press
Texas A&M stands alone at the top of the Southwest Conference basketball race, and by Coach Shelby Metcalf's standards, the Aggies are standing pretty tall.

"This may be our best team ever, defensively," Metcalf said after his team put away Arkansas, 45-39, Tuesday night to claim sole possession of first place in the SWC race.

The victory gave the Aggies a 6-0 mark, a game ahead of Arkansas and Texas Tech at 5-1. Next closest is Texas, 3-3, which dropped a 62-48 game on TV at Baylor Tuesday night. No other team is playing at 500 in the race.

"But it's too early to say who's going to win it. This is not the Iowa caucus," Metcalf said. "Our defense is carrying us right now."

In other games Tuesday night, Texas Christian surprised Houston 71-69 and Southern Methodist escaped Rice, 85-83.

Texas A&M led Arkansas most of the game. But the Aggies committed four turnovers, allowing the Razorbacks to fight back from a 24-20 halftime deficit to tie the game and finally take a four-point lead.

But with his team leading 35-32, Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton got too vocal in protesting the officiating, and A&M closed the gap to 35-34 on a pair of free throws on the technical midway through the second half.

The Aggies got the ball out of bounds after the free throws, and Vernon Smith scored after a rebound to put Texas A&M ahead to stay.

After getting a couple of more free throws, the Aggies went into a four-corner stall with 7 1/2 minutes to play. Arkansas guard Scott Hastings fouled out, and the Aggies cruised in for the win.

"A&M has a great team and played extremely well. Their defense was very good, and A&M did a good job of executing its four-corner offense. That's the primary reason we scored only four points in the last 10 minutes," Sutton said.

TCU's victory over Houston was the first time in four seasons the Horned Frogs have pulled off back-to-back SWC wins. In beating SMU Saturday, TCU won its first road game of any kind since 1976.

"I'd be in the wrong profession if I didn't think it was because of good coaching," Houston coach Guy Lewis said in praise of TCU's Jim Killing-sworth.

Decker Johnson got the winning basket for the Horned Frogs when Larry Micheaux was called for goaltending on his layup with 43 seconds to play. Trailing 70-69, Houston stalled the next 40 seconds but missed its final shot, and TCU made a free throw to wrap up the triumph.

SMU, whose head coach Sonny Allen is under fire for the team's mediocre performance, came from behind at the end to nip Rice.

Brad Branson won it with a turnaround jumper from the free throw line with six seconds to go, but was almost the goat. SMU had the ball and an 82-81 lead with 12 seconds to go, but Branson signaled for a time out when the Mustangs had trouble getting the ball thrown in bounds.

Rules allow a time out to be called only in the first three seconds of the five seconds allowed to put a ball in play, so Rice was given the ball. Glen Rieke then put Rice into an 83-82 lead with 10 seconds to play, but SMU got the ball to Branson in two passes and he connected for the game-winner.

Texas, after trailing by 10 early in the second half, took a 38-36 lead with 10 minutes to play. But freshman Jay Shakir came off the bench to trigger a second-half rally that put Baylor ahead again to stay. Shakir hit 10 of his 14 points down the stretch as Baylor pulled away.

Baylor coach Jim Haller praised Shakir for "just a super job," but Texas coach Abe Lemons had no explanations for Texas' loss.

"When a ball club goes sour, I just don't know how to get out of it. I wish we had Terry Teagle. He's the best player in the league, and it's hard to lose a game with him," Lemons said. Teagle was the game's leading scorer with 18 points.

Larry Bird Joins Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Boston players, including rookie forward Larry Bird, were named today to the East squad for the National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

Besides Bird, East Conference coaches chose guard Nate Archibald and center Dave Cowens from the Celtics. Also picked for the East team in the Feb. 3 game at Landover, Md., were forward Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets, Atlanta forward Dan Roundfield and guard Michael Ray Richardson of the New York Knicks.

Hayes will be appearing in his 12th consecutive NBA All-Star game, one short of the career record of 13 shared by Wilt Chamberlain, Bob Cousy and John Havlicek.

Herd's Poor Aim Helps MHS Win

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Maybe Bob Decker should have jumped the Hereford Whitefaces before the game instead of waiting around for the fourth quarter to pop up.

Decker's Herd scored only 28 points in the first 24 minutes against Monterey Tuesday night. And, well, that's really not saying a lot.

Taking advantage of Hereford's cold shooting and colder rebounding, the Plainsmen ran up a 58-49 District 4-AAAA lead. Monterey, which won its 19th straight conference clash and its 22nd of the last 23rd loop encounters, is now 2-0 in district play and 19-5 overall. Hereford is 1-1 and 10-11 in those respective departments.

Starting off like an Edsel on jacks or a pair of slick Goodyears at an icy intersection, the Whitefaces scored only nine points in the second quarter and four, yep, four more in the third. During that span, Monterey wasn't setting the court on fire, either. The Plainsmen had eight and 14 points, respectively.

Then, with Monterey on top by 17 points (45-28) after a pair of Brad Muehlbrad free throws, Hereford started a comeback of sorts. Hereford using the buckets by Norman Hill Joe Walker and Mike Fraser, cut the margin to 10 points (46-36) with four minutes left in the game.

"I'm disappointed in the way we lost our leads," said MHS head man Joe Michalka. "We can't afford to do that anymore. It really hurt."

A pair of layups by MHS's Trav Clardy, who ended the night with 33 points after hitting 15-of-22 shots from the field and four Mike Wooten freebies, allowed Monterey to own an 18-point advantage.

Then Hereford caught fire again, outscoring MHS 11-2 over the final minute of play. That surge resulted in MHS blowing another big lead.

Hereford appeared ready to jump on the injury-ridden Plainsmen who were playing without starters Greg Thomason (who had chicken pox) and Ian Hyslop (who had an ankle that resembled a watermelon). Playing on emotion and the hot-outside shooting of Darrel "Spiderman" Polk, HHS hopped out to a 9-4 lead with 5:40 left. A technical foul on Michalka at the start of the game put HHS on some kind of emotional high.

But slowly and surely, Monterey took the lead in the first quarter after Clardy scored eight points. At one time, the 6-6 senior had scored 22 of Monterey 26 points during the first three quarters.

Barbara Ragus scored 16 points and sisters Kami and Kris Ethridge pumped in 14 and 13 points respectively to lead the Monterey girls to an easy 77-62 win over Hereford in a District 4-AAAA affair.

The win upped Monterey's conference mark to 3-0. The Plainsmen are 22-2 for the year.

Monterey, which never trailed in the game, jumped out to a 24-20 first-quarter lead.

A&M TO SIGN ROBISON
PORTLAND (AP) — Texas A&M has won a commitment from prize defensive tackle Tommy Robison of Gregory-Portland to play his college football with the Aggies. Robison, recently named the state's No. 1 football player by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, visited the A&M campus over the weekend and announced Tuesday he has cancelled planned trips to Texas, SMU and Notre Dame.

Dunbar's Letdown Results In Levelland Victory

By RUSS PARSONS

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Coach Don Abbott couldn't remember when his Levelland Lobos played better, and coach Joe McWilliams couldn't remember when his Dunbar Panthers played worse.

Dunbar pulled to within eight with four minutes left in the game, 62-54, then to within six with 3:13 showing, 66-60, but could never put together the effort for that final big push.

and Levelland are 1-1. Dunbar and Dunbar stand 0-2. "I really feel like 4-1 will at least tie for the first half," said Abbott. That is no consolation to McWilliams, whose Panthers have not only lost their first two district games, but dropped both of them at home. "I don't know what the answer is," he said. "Some things that have been happening again and again happened again tonight. We get a person in trouble or try to rest a player, and the player we put in off the bench doesn't do the job."

man, Stanley Whitfield. Whitfield, the heart of the Dunbar team, picked up two fouls in the first two minutes of the game, picked up his fourth with 3:22 left in the third and fouled out with 5:44 left in the game.

Roland Comacho led the Panthers with 14 points and Daren Holmes got another 13. In the girls' game, Lisa Caviel scored 26 points as Dunbar evened its district mark at 2-2 with a 72-66 win over Levelland.

Dorcas Perkins chipped in another 16 for the Panthers, now 13-10 overall. Kevin Bigham scored 17 for Levelland and Rebecca Phillips and Karen Kinnison added another 16 and 14 as the Lobos fell to 2-2 and 13-10 overall.

Tech's Steady Ben Hill Proves No Flash In Pan

By CHUCK McDONALD

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
A funny thing happened to Ben Hill as he traveled from Camden, N.J., to Hobbs, N.M., to Lubbock. Hill, who led his high school team to a New Jersey state championship in 1975, learned something that a lot of cagers only hear about and pay very little attention to — defense.

"You can usually look at the man that Ben's covering," said Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers, "and you'll notice that he hasn't scored many points. Ben's not flashy, but he's a real key for us on defense. He takes only high percentage shots and he's one of the best rebounding forwards in the league."

"I feel like if we play good defense we're going to score on the other end," he added. "We've just got to work for the high percentage shots and they'll come to us." The Raiders, 5-1 in Southwest Conference play, took Tuesday off and have until Saturday to play again. And Hill, who spent a year at New Mexico Junior College before coming to Tech, says rest was just what the doctor ordered.

and now we're going to get ready," said Hill. "We're going to go over a lot of things and try and get back the intensity that we had at the beginning of the season. We played hard against Baylor and Rice, but mentally we may have been kinda relaxed."

tempts for a 67.6 percentage. On the year he's shooting 59.2 percent and averaging 10.1 and 5.5 rebounds a game. "It takes me a while to get going," admitted Hill. "But I think we're in good shape right now. Last year we lost some close ballgames — now maybe the tables are turned."

return home to tangle with the tough Arkansas Razorbacks on Monday. But Hill says there is no way that the Raiders will be overlooking the Ponies.

Mustang Teams Split Games

Coronado opened its District 4-AAAA schedule with a 69-68 thriller over Plainview Tuesday night, as Scott Williams hit two free throws to ice the victory.

Dwain Neff's 18 points were high for Coronado, whose record is now 12-10 and 1-0 in district. Plainview's Kenneth Storey was the game's high scorer with 26, but it was his team's second consecutive loss in district play.

Gay Hemphill dumped in 27 points to lead the Plainview girls to yet another District 1-AAAA victory Tuesday night over the Coronado Mustangs.

Plainview led 34-17 at the half and were never threatened by the Mustang girls. Pammy Paden led CHS with 11 points. Coronado is now 2-2 in District 1-AAAA action and 10-14 in the district.

Plainview Girls 44, Coronado 35. CHS — O'Dell 19-22, Padon 4-9, McFerrer 4-8, Scott 2-15, Hickman 1-0-2, Thomsson 1-1-3, Wade 0-4. Totals 15-53-35.

Mickey Walker, who held both the welterweight and middleweight boxing titles, was known as the "Toy Bulldog."

Olympic Talk Varies

Congressional approval by the end of the week of a resolution calling on American athletes to boycott the Games. Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., said "an overwhelming majority" of the Senate would support a boycott.

There were three resolutions introduced in the Senate Tuesday on the subject of the Games and one, presented by Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., called for an American boycott of the Olympics regardless of any Russian troop withdrawal timetable.

In another development, officials of the United States and Germany said in Berlin that despite President Carter's call, plans remain in place for a training camp to be located there before the Summer Games.

Two countries, France and Mexico, said they plan to send their teams to the Summer Games. Claude Collard, president of the French National Olympic Committee, said "France will be at Moscow ... President Carter's problem will not change France's attitude."

Mario Vazquez Rana, president of the Mexican Olympic Committee, said his country would send between 50 and 60 athletes to Moscow.

Greece and Denmark said they would participate at Moscow. Saudi Arabia, which has passed up some previous Games, said it would send a team to Moscow, and Egypt and Fiji said they would follow the United States' lead on the matter.

EHS Uses Balance To Top Canyon

CANYON (Special) —The Estacado Matadors scored 22 points in the third quarter to erase a 39-26 halftime lead and went on to defeat the Canyon Eagles in a key District 1-AAA basketball contest Tuesday night.

Led by the shooting of Tim Williams and Preston Davis, the Matadors outscored the Eagles 22-8 in the third quarter to take a 48-47 lead. Canyon regained the lead once in the fourth period, but the Matadors stormed back again to go ahead and stay ahead.

"It was a big win for us on the road," declared Estacado coach J.J. Woods. "I was pleased that we could come back from the big deficit at halftime. Canyon played a good first half, but we played a great second half."

Estacado is now 2-0 in league action and 15-8 overall. The loss was the first for Canyon in loop play against one victory. The Eagles are also 15-8 on the year.

Williams paced the Mats with 20 points. John Jones scored 12 and Davis finished with 10 for the winners. Kendall Walling tied Williams for scoring honors with 20.

The Canyon girls got 18 points from Cindy Mattox to roll past the Estacado girls 61-49 Tuesday night in Canyon. Penny Christopher was next for the Eagles with 10 points. Canyon is now 3-1 in district and 14-11 on the year.

The Matadors fell to 1-3 in District 1-AAA play with the loss and were led by Cindy Peoples with 13 points. The Matador girls trailed 33-24 at the intermission and couldn't come any closer.

John Shumate Helps Spurs Frolic

By The Associated Press
John Shumate, plagued by illness and injury, had just about decided to find another line of work. Then he was traded to San Antonio and suddenly is beginning to look like the answer to the Spurs' center problems.

Shumate scored 16 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, blocked three shots and had three steals in 25 minutes Tuesday night as San Antonio crushed shorthanded San Diego 129-109.

The 6-foot-9 former Notre Dame All-American came to the struggling Spurs last week from Houston for veteran center Billy Paultz. Many Spurs openly criticized the trade, even though the 31-year-old Paultz was having his worst season.

San Antonio was Shumate's fifth National Basketball Association team in five years. He missed two of those years with recurring circulation problems in his lungs. Injuries nagged him this season.

Detroit waived him last October, and Shumate signed with the Rockets. He averaged only 3.5 points, 2.7 rebounds and 1.5 minutes per game at Houston.

But San Antonio fans gave Shumate a standing ovation when he arrived Saturday night for his Spurs' debut. Shumate then proceeded to collect 11 points, seven rebounds and five assists in 18 minutes of a victory over Washington.

"I had gotten down on myself. I was beginning to think the NBA wasn't for me," Shumate said Tuesday night. "But coming here the other night and getting that ovation, really reminded me of being back at Notre Dame."

"The guy looked good. He played outstanding. It may have lifted up our entire team," said San Antonio coach Doug Moe, whose Spurs have been in a slump all season. "He did a good job on the boards. He gives us something inside. For two games, he's done an outstanding job. I don't see why he can't keep it up."

"We played good tonight. We just looked good. But it's only two games," added Moe.

The victory raised San Antonio's record to only 26-24 this season after two consecutive years as Central Division champions.

The Clippers were playing without injured Lloyd Free, the NBA's No. 2 scorer behind San Antonio's George Gervin. Free suffered an ankle injury last Friday night.

Gervin had 30 and James Silas added 25 for the Spurs, who shot 58 percent.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Bulls were hot as a pistol and so were the Boston Celtics.

The Celtics, battling the Philadelphia 76ers for the best record in the National Basketball Association, announced the signing of free agent Maravich shortly after Pistol Pete watched them defeat the Houston Rockets 112-106. The Bulls, on the other hand, had all the weapons they needed in shooting a team record 70 percent from the floor in trouncing the Detroit Pistons 145-131.

In other action, the Kansas City Kings downed the Atlanta Hawks 101-89, the Utah Jazz overtimed the Milwaukee Bucks 127-122 and the Cleveland Cavaliers whipped the Washington Bullets 114-91.

Rickey Sobers and David Greenwood scored 26 points apiece as the Bulls rolled up their highest point total in four years. The Bulls and Pistons set a Chicago Stadium mark by scoring 92 points, 50 by Detroit, in the fourth quarter.

The Bulls shot 83 percent in the first quarter, raced to a 67-52 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way. But from listening to Coach Jerry Sloan, you'd have sworn they lost.

"The fact that we won tonight and scored so many points is indicative of one thing only — and that is that we shot the ball well, but we did not execute well, at times," Sloan said. "Our defense broke down and we panicked in the fourth quarter when they put a press on us. This team has a long way to go."

Pete Maravich Signs With Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — After four years with the Hawks in Atlanta and 5½ with the Jazz in New Orleans and Utah, Pistol Pete Maravich is hoping to end his career as a winner with the Boston Celtics.

Maravich, wooed by the Philadelphia 76ers 24 hours earlier, signed as a free agent for the remainder of the 1979-80 National Basketball Association season Tuesday night after brief negotiations with Celtics' president and general manager Ted Auerbach.

"I've always wanted to play here," Maravich said. "To have many other players, it's understandable when you look up and see 13 (championship) flags hanging I have only one flag in my house — and it's a little United States of America flag."

Maravich, who will be 32 in June, was waived by the Jazz last Friday after the club agreed to pay him a reported $1.8 million over the last 2½ years of his contract.

After becoming a free agent, he underwent examination of his right knee, injured in January 1978, in Philadelphia on Monday. He passed the exam and was offered a contract, but wanted to visit two old friends, Auerbach and Celtics' coach Bill Fitch.

Billy Cunningham (76ers' coach) is a good friend of mine, but when it came down to the end, I really always have wanted to be here," said the former Louisiana State sensation, who has averaged 25 points a game in the NBA.

Terms of his Boston contract were not announced, though some observers feel the Celtics may have gotten Maravich for $100,000 or $150,000 because of his money coming from Utah.

Figures mentioned by both Philadelphia and the Celtics were comparable," Maravich said. "It was not a bidding war. Money was never a factor."

Auerbach and Maravich reached agreement during a 75-minute meeting behind closed doors. Then, while attorneys worked out contract details, the two watched the Celtics close to within one-half game of Philadelphia in the Atlantic Division with a 112-106 victory over Houston.

Noted for his shooting ability, Maravich is being counted upon to give the Celtics a bigger scoring punch. However, he insisted, "I'm not a super star any more — and I may never take another shot."

The only somber note at the post-game news conference came when Maravich said he is suffering a slight groin pull and, having been inactive for seven weeks, he may need some time to get into "playing condition." The Celtics then announced that Maravich was being placed on the injured list.

Pete is a fine addition to the Celtics family," Fitch said. "We're very fortunate he made the decision he did. I certainly would have hated playing against him with Philadelphia."

"He'll have time to get ready. We want him to play, and when he's ready, he'll play."

Memorial Set For Francis

A memorial fund to help educate the children of Ed Francis, former varsity basketball coach and assistant football coach at Meadow High School between 1975-77, is being set up by First State Bank in Miami.

Francis, 37, was killed in an automobile accident last Friday night. He had been serving the last two years at Miami High School and in addition to football and basketball duties, also coached a girls' Class B state championship track team in 1979.

Contributions may be made to the First State Bank, Box 8, Miami, 79059.

Tag-Team Matches Highlight Card

A triple main event is scheduled on tonight's wrestling card at Fair Park Coliseum.

Highlighting the event, which begins at 8 p.m., will be a tag-team match between Killer Brooks-James Dillon against Dory Funk, Jr.-Mystery Partner. The Mystery Partner will be unmasked prior to the contest.

Also, Rick Romero and El Gran Marcus will battle behind a seven-foot steel fence. Kevin and David Von Erich meet champions Gino Caruse and Gary Young for the Western States tag-team title, and Siva Ali wrestles Bob Morgan in a preliminary bout.

RUSSELL PUT ON ICE
CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers have put forward Campy Russell on the injured reserve list and reactivated guard Earl Tatum, who has been out of action for five games with a knee injury. Russell is in California so specialists can examine a groin injury.

DePaul Turns On Electricity Late, Beats UAB

By The Associated Press
 "We played our usual game," said DePaul coach Ray Meyer. "We get up on somebody and then die."
 And still win... and win... and win.
 The nation's only unbeaten major college basketball team made it 16 in a row Tuesday night but, like most games for the Blue Demons since they became No. 1 last week, it wasn't easy.
 This time, Mark Aguirre scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead DePaul to a 57-54 road victory over Alabama-Birmingham. The Blue Demons stretched a 23-22 halftime lead to 15 points midway through the second half but UAB chopped it to 48-46 with 4:34 remaining. It was 54-52 with 35 seconds left before DePaul wrapped it up on a free throw by James Mitchem and two by Aguirre.
 DePaul was one of only three teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty to see action Tuesday night. The others had it much easier — seventh-ranked Louisville trimming Marquette 76-63 and No. 9 St. John's, N.Y., whipping Manhattan 88-64.

 For a team that received all 57 first-place votes in this week's AP poll, DePaul isn't making any big claims. Just the opposite, in fact. After all, since becoming No. 1 the Blue Demons have beaten Lamar by two points, Maine by 14, Louisiana State by five and UAB by three.
 "When we had to play, we played," Meyer said. "We're still not a great team and I don't know how long we are going to be in this lofty position because we're going to lose eventually. Right now we're toying with fate."
 Nah, never in doubt, said Aguirre. "We were never concerned when it got close because we knew we could play when we had to play," he said. "I never felt the pressure, even when they cut the lead to two points. We knew we had to come through and we did."

Louisville coach Denny Crum won his 200th game when the Cardinals, paced by Darrell Griffith's 23 points, pulled away from stubborn Marquette in the final eight minutes to notch their 14th triumph in 16 starts.
 Marquette led 41-40 with 12:24 left but Pancho Wright put Louisville in front with an 18-footer from the corner and baskets by Rodney McCray and Wright made it 46-41. It was all downhill after that.
 "Basketball is a game of spurts and the right one came along for us tonight," Crum said. "We made a lot of silly errors, but we didn't lose our poise when the going got rough."
 Wayne McKay triggered a game-opening 15-4 burst with seven points and St. John's breezed past Manhattan for its 13th consecutive victory and 15th in 16 games. The Redmen opened a 29-11 bulge en route to a 43-29 halftime lead as McKay scored 13 of his 17 points before the intermission.

"We played good defense in the opening part of the first half and then let up a little," said Coach Lou Carnesecca. "Then we came back and played well in all aspects of the game in the second half. It was the type of game that enabled us to work on the things that got us this far."
 Elsewhere, Daryl Moreau scored 27 points on 11-of-12 shooting from the floor to lead Tulane past Southwestern of Memphis 87-82, Eddie Lee got 18 of his 20 points in the second half as Cincinnati trounced St. Louis 71-57, Pop Wright scored 32 points and Lewis Lloyd added 29 as Drake outlasted West Texas State 112-105 in a Missouri Valley Conference game and Old Dominion, last weekend's conqueror of previously unbeaten Syracuse, shaded Virginia Commonwealth 68-64.

Sadri Sneaks Up To Beat Gerulaitis

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Sadri, a 23-year-old North Carolina State graduate, engineered a dramatic upset Tuesday in the U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis championship.
 Sadri, who is ranked 83rd in the Association of Tennis Professionals, eliminated third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, 6-4, 6-4, to advance to the third round.
 "I've traveled around the world twice and nothing shakes me as much as it used to," said Sadri. "No matter what — the players, the surroundings — I play my own game."
 Sadri said the last time he played Gerulaitis the veteran beat him 6-2, 6-2. "I've improved a lot since then," he observed.
 Sadri did away with Gerulaitis with two service breaks, one in each set, and with his customary lightning service.

 Sadri jumped to a 3-1 advantage in the opening set. Then he survived Gerulaitis' service and took a 4-3 lead in the second set when the veteran knocked the ball out of court. Sadri won the set and match in the 10th game with a love service.
 "I tried to smack everything hard against Gerulaitis," Sadri said. "You have to against him."
 Gerulaitis had little success handling Sadri's service bullets and Sadri was also effective with his volleying, a skill he said has improved in doubles play with Tim Wilkison.
 "My serve's always been pretty good," Sadri said. "My volley's getting better since I've started playing doubles. It used to be I'd be out of most tournaments by Monday or Tuesday. Now, playing doubles with Tim, we're having some success and I'm playing more, maybe hitting 1,000 more volleys a week."

 In other action Tuesday, top-seeded Jimmy Connors, last year's champion, advanced to the third round with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Tom Gullikson.
 John McEnroe defeated Brian Teacher 6-4, 6-3; Heinz Gunthard of Switzerland defeated Romania's Ilie Nastase 0-6, 6-4 and 6-1; Mexican Davis Cup player Raul Ramirez eliminated 14th-seeded Victor Amaya 6-3, 6-2.
 Sixth-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain defeated Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia 6-4, 2-6 and 7-6; Fifth-seeded Harold Solomon beat Bruce Kleege 6-4, 6-2; Hank Pfister eliminated Marty Riessen, the 1975 champion, 6-3, 6-4; and Eliot Teltscher beat Tim Wilkison 6-1, 6-3.

Beavers' Miller Likes Publicity

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Ralph Miller has proclaimed it "celebration for senior citizens week" after his Oregon State Beavers joined Ray Meyer's top-ranked DePaul at the top of the college basketball rankings.

Meyer is 66, and Miller turns 61 in March.

For Miller, the recognition for his No.2-ranked team represents a long-awaited step out of the shadow of the UCLA Bruins on the West Coast.

Miller has had just two losing seasons in his 28 years as a major college coach. He won conference titles at Wichita State and Iowa before taking the Oregon State job in 1971.

The crotchety coach from Chanute, Kan., has 477 victories in his 28 1/2 seasons. Among active coaches, only Meyer, South Carolina's Frank McGuire and Washington's Marv Harshman have won more.

Although his teams have finished second a few times, Miller never has been able to unseat the Bruins as champions of the Pacific 10 Conference.

And the Oregon State coach knows that West Coast teams other than UCLA get little attention. Even today, the Beavers are the only Pac-10 team in the top 20, while the Big 10 has three teams and the Atlantic Coast Conference has five in the national rankings.

"You do sort of get the impression that just because UCLA is having a down year, everybody takes it for granted the other teams out here aren't that good either," Miller said. "But I'll take our conference and stack it against any other big conference in the country. It's ridiculous that Arizona State and Washington State aren't in the top 20."

Miller, in a telephone interview from his Corvallis office, said he may have had another No.2 ranking, "but I can't remember for sure. You know I've been around a long time."

But he has never had a team ranked so high this late in the season.

"In four-week period, we've jumped from 18th or 20th all the way up to second," Miller said. "That's jumping awfully fast."

Do the Beavers deserve the high ranking?

"I don't know," the coach said. "It's hard not to move up when you're winning and the teams ahead of you are losing. Certainly, I think we belong in the top 10."

Miller has gained the admiration of Oregonians by relying on a generous share of hometown talent.

The team's leader and No.2 scorer, guard Ray Blume, is from Portland's Parkrose High, the same school that produced another Beaver starter, sophomore Rob Hulbrook. Guard Mark Radford is from Portland's Grant High, and the team's sharpshooting substitute, Jeff Stout, is from the south Portland suburb of Lake Oswego.

Miller got all four at a time when then-Oregon coach Dick Harter said there wasn't much basketball talent in the state's prep ranks.

The other principles in Miller's cast are misfits. Steve Johnson, the brilliant but foul-prone junior center, played just one year of high school basketball. Oregon State was the only school to recruit him out of San Bernardino, Calif. He suffered a broken foot and missed his entire sophomore season.

But at times, Johnson has been brilliant, leading the NCAA in field goal percentage and scoring 38 points in a game against Brigham Young last December. He also had 33 against Southern Cal.

Another member of Miller's "seven-man nucleus" is Dwayne Allen, the only senior starter and a non-shooter who plays "because he's a helluva athlete," the coach said.

And when Johnson takes one of his periodic nosedives, Miller goes to 6-foot-9 senior Tony Martin. Miller has started the beefy center over Johnson twice, and the coach insists Martin is a better rebounder, passer and defensive player than the much-publicized Johnson.

"It's a good ball club," Miller said. "It hasn't even come close to peaking yet. I find it hard to find a game when all seven played well."

"Once you get to be a good team, the progression to being a very good team and on up the ladder is mostly a mental thing," he said.

Bear Bryant Advocates Post-Bowl Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — Bear Bryant says a national championship college football playoff is inevitable. He doesn't know when it will happen, but he thinks he knows why.

"We'll go to it someday because we'll run out of money," the 66-year-old coach of Alabama's 1978-1979 national champions said Tuesday as he accepted one of the many No. 1 awards the university has received following the Crimson Tide's 12-0 season.

Bryant envisions not only a great deal of exposure from a playoff during the time when pro football's Super Bowl commands the headlines, but plenty of television loot, as well.

"The big thing is exposure," he said. "They'd be coming to our house once in a while instead of to the Super Bowl. But someday it will come down to money, and when it does, we'll win over the academic people."

One of the major objections to a postseason, postbowl playoff, even though it might involve only four of the 139 Division I-A teams, is that the players would miss too much schoolwork. Bryant shrugs that one off.

"Football players don't really miss many classes," he said. "For instance, we leave for a game on Friday night and come back on Saturday night. Basketball and baseball players are the worst; they miss more classes than anyone."

The Bear said fast-rising costs of college athletics might help to push through the playoff idea, which never reached the floor of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's convention earlier this month.

"It costs so much now to put on a football game with fuel and energy so high," Bryant said. "But I don't think we'll ever win the academic people until it gets down to where we have to have the money."

Although he has been Alabama's head coach for 22 years and also serves as the school's director of athletics, Bryant considers himself one of those "academic people," too.

But not an egghead, mind you.

"I had to repeat one year of high school, taking Spanish and algebra, to get into Alabama," he drawled. "And then I had the lowest marks and cut more classes than anyone else in history."

He insists his academic "record" will never be broken.

"Our players didn't win the national championship by accident, but by hard work and dedication," he said. "More than 96 percent of the players who finish their four years at Alabama get their degrees, and that includes counting Joe Namath and Kenny Stabler. They promised to come back and get their degree but then got rich and didn't."

"My philosophy has changed. I tell the players I recruit that I want a special kind of student who's willing to work and sacrifice and discipline himself and do without some things other students have because if he plays football and makes his grades he won't have time to do anything else."

Unwanted Burroughs May Stay

ATLANTA (AP) — Jeff Burroughs may be unwanted in Atlanta but the Braves' outfielder is still unwilling to leave the National League club.

And, according to Burroughs' agent Dick Moss, the former American League Most Valuable Player expects to be with the Braves in 1980 despite the club's "sophomoric" statements and their attempts to trade him.

"They (the Braves) are doing things in strange ways," Moss said of remarks by Atlanta officials that Burroughs does not fit into the club's 1980 plans.

"Putting Jeff down is not the way. It's very sophomoric. I've heard they've said that Jeff will have to fight for a job, that he is not a starting outfielder," he said.

"I don't think that's constructive, either in terms of motivating Jeff or in terms of encouraging him to give his consent to a trade," Moss said.

Burroughs, who has a no-trade clause in his contract with the Braves, turned down a trade to the Texas Rangers in December. Atlanta manager Bobby Cox has said Burroughs will not be a starter next season.

"That's not how Jeff sees things," Moss said. He added that Burroughs expects to start even though Cox has said Dale Murphy will be his left fielder.

"I suppose if there is unhappiness, it is with some of the things they have said about him," Moss told The Atlanta Journal in a telephone conversation from Malibu Beach, Calif. "But I think Jeff knows who he is. Jeff likes Atlanta, he likes the community and he wants to play there."

Both clubs are still trying to make the trade, however.

"If they have an interest in doing something, they should contact us. They're poorly advised if they're standing on ceremony," he said.

Moss also questioned the role Burroughs would play in Texas.

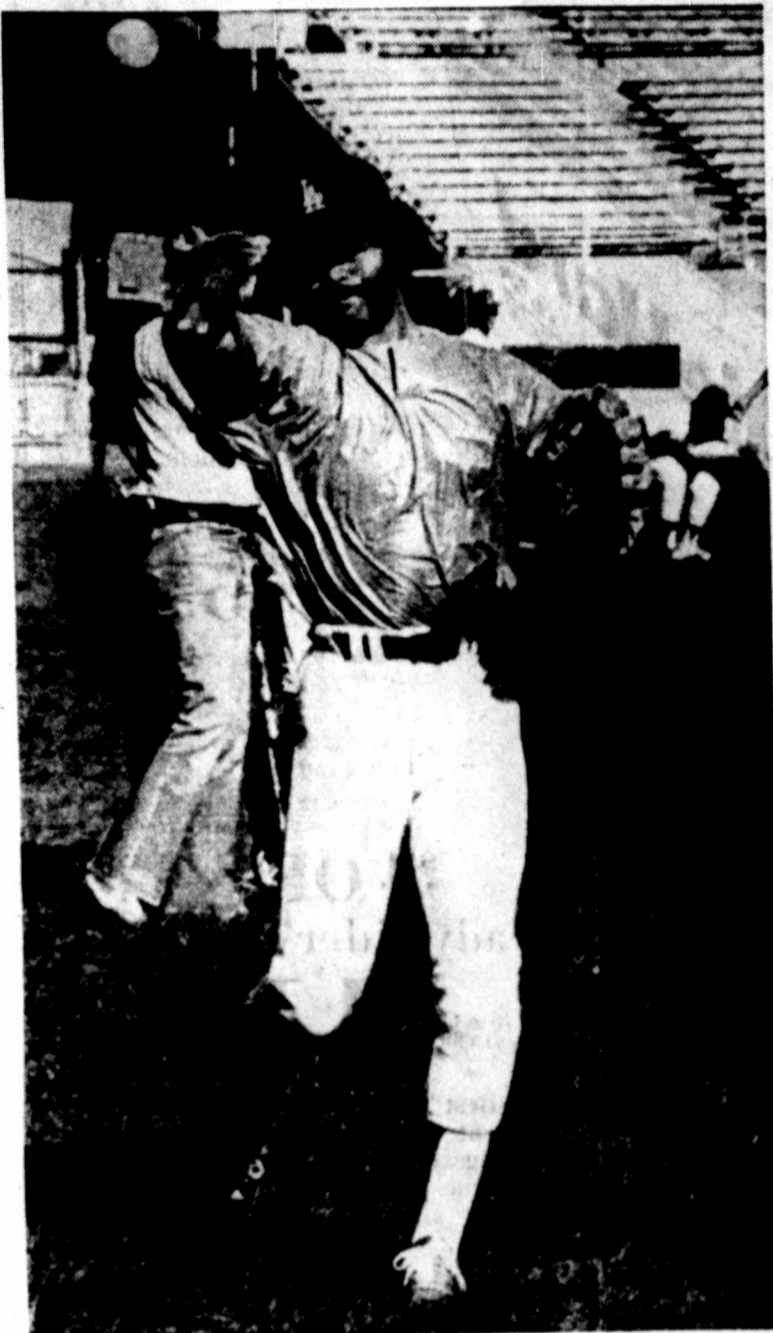

"Take a look at their club," he said. "I don't see that they have a crying need for a player of Jeff's talents."

Both clubs originally agreed to a five-player exchange in December involving Burroughs. But when he refused, the other four players were swapped anyway with the stipulation that Burroughs be sent to Texas at a later date should he change his mind.

Ironically, Burroughs came to the Braves in 1977 from the Rangers and hit 41 home runs. He was the AL's MVP in 1974 when he batted .301 with 25 homers and 125 runs batted in.

In 1978, he batted .301 before slumping to .224 last season and being relegated to the bench during the final six weeks of the season.

Hockey Fans File Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Four hockey fans have filed a $7 million damage suit, claiming they were beaten and stomped on during a Boston Bruins-New York Rangers National Hockey League game at Madison Square Garden last Dec. 23.

Among the defendants in the suit are the Garden, the National Hockey League, the City of New York, Sonny Werblin, president of Madison Square Garden Corp.; the Rangers, the Bruins and Paul Mooney, president of the company that owns the Bruins.

The suit, which was filed in Manhattan's U.S. District Court Tuesday, claims the attack came after an argument between players on the ice at the conclusion of the game.

Emanuel Kaptein of Clark, N.J., his two sons, John and James, and Jack Guttentun of Ocean, N.J., also named nine Bruins as defendants: Terry O'Reilly, Peter McNab, Al Secord, Mike Milbury, Stan Jonathan, Craig MacTavish, John Wenck, Bob Miller and Brad McCrimmon.

The plaintiffs were to hold a news conference this morning. Although a month has elapsed since the incident, NHL president John Ziegler has not taken any action against the players. The league president disputed expert legal opinion that if he had taken action against any of the players, it could prejudice the civil action.

"I did not stay my hand against the players for any fear of any civil action," Ziegler said in Los Angeles Tuesday night. "It is the responsibility of the National Hockey League to proceed with our investigation of the incident in its entirety. As far as the court action is concerned, we will simply let the judiciary court action take its course."

The complaint charges that James Kaptein, who lives with his father, was "struck in the face with a hockey stick" wielded by Jonathan, then attacked with provocation by O'Reilly.

O'Reilly climbed into the stands and "proceeded to beat and pummel" James Kaptein, the suit alleged.

When John Kaptein of Bellemead, N.J., attempted to aid his brother, McNab and Milbury climbed into the stands and "choked and assaulted" John, it was charged.

Milbury removed plaintiff John Kaptein's shoe and proceeded to beat him with it, the complaint said. Secord "hit and pummeled" John Kaptein while other Bruins climbed into the stands and stepped on both brothers with bladed hockey shoes, and attacked them, it was alleged.

Stallworth Realizes Bowl Dream

HONOLULU (AP) — Lynn Swann is not on the American Football Conference's Pro Bowl team this year. That, by itself, may not be so surprising — until you consider that one of the starters is John Stallworth.

Swann, the Pittsburgh Steelers' lithe wide receiver, is generally acknowledged as one of the best in the business at his position. Stallworth, his teammate, has spent most of his pro career carrying around the label "the other guy."

In 1979, though, Swann suffered a few injuries and became the other guy while Stallworth — a fourth-round draft choice out of Alabama A&M in 1974 when Swann was selected No. 1 out of Southern California — emerged as a star in his own right.

His own teammates acknowledged it when they selected him as Pittsburgh's Most Valuable Player for his 70 receptions, 1,183 yards and eight touchdowns. And the rest of the AFC's players and coaches acknowledged it, too, when they put him in the Pro Bowl for the first time.

"John deserves every recognition he gets," Swann, a three-time Pro Bowl choice, said when the team was announced.

Swann initially was left off the team this year, but became an alternate when Steve Largent of Seattle bowed out. And when Swann suffered a mild concussion last Sunday during the Steelers' 31-19 Super Bowl victory over Los Angeles, he was replaced on the AFC roster by San Diego's Charlie Joiner.

Defensive tackle Joe Greene, here as a Pro Bowl player for an extraordinary 10th time in his 11 years with the Steelers, agrees with Swann's assessment of Stallworth.

"I'm glad to see 'Stall' getting the recognition he deserves. He did a fine job this season for us. It's about time people paid him some tribute because he definitely deserves to be recognized as one of the best."

Stallworth, a 6-foot-2, 185-pounder, sees his selection to the Pro Bowl as the fulfillment of a special goal. "I always hoped my personal accomplishments would parallel the team's at the end of each season — and now they have," he said Tuesday.

Individual honors are nice, but I don't think they come ahead of team goals. I'd be lying to you if I said I hadn't thought during the season about making All-Pro, but what I was more interested in was winning the Super Bowl."

The Steelers did — thanks in great part to Stallworth, whose 73-yard touchdown catch put them ahead to stay and whose 45-yard reception set up Pittsburgh's final score that killed the Rams' hopes.

Small Boy Reports Slayings

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A 7-year-old boy with a stab wound in the chest walked into his elementary school this morning and told school officials his mother had been killed. Police rushed to his home and found his mother and 4-year-old brother stabbed to death.

The victims' identities were not released, but police said the woman was 27. Neighbors said the woman, who was divorced, and her two sons had lived in the small rented house for about a year and that she had recently lost her job as a hairdresser.

The wounded boy was taken to a hospital for treatment. His condition was not known.

Police were searching for a car that was believed to have been taken from the house, located southeast of the Topeka business district and about two blocks from the Avondale East Elementary School that the wounded boy attends.

"We're treating this as a double homicide," Detective Jerry Mills said at the scene. Mills said the victims were dead when police arrived at the green frame house.

Randy Lester, who lives next door, said the woman had not seemed unusually depressed since losing her job about two weeks ago. He said she had held several different jobs since moving into the neighborhood.

Despite the presence of police, some neighbors were not immediately aware of the slayings.

"Out here people don't mingle. They don't bother me. I don't bother them," said Sally Wright, who lives across the street from the house and said she knew the victims slightly.

"She never bothered anybody. There were always a lot of younger people going in or out. And she always played the record player very loud. She wasn't murdered or anything was she? You hear so much of that anymore," she said.

Utilities Scrap N-Plant Plans

CLEVELAND (AP)—Five Ohio utility companies are scrapping plans for the construction of four additional northern Ohio nuclear power plants which are already in the design stage.

A delay also was announced in construction at two sites where nuclear plant construction has begun.

Soon after the announcement by the utilities late Tuesday, at least one Ohio anti-nuclear power organization was claiming a victory. Don Schlemmer, president of the Western Reserve Alliance, said, "This proves the anti-nuclear forces were right all along, and it shows that their (the utilities') decisions are based solely on economics."

The estimated cost of the projects was $7.3 billion, said the companies of the Central Area Power Coordinating Group—the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., the Toledo Edison Co., the Ohio Edison Co., the Duquesne Light Co. of Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Power Co.

Students Attend Education Meet

Eight members of the Texas Tech chapter of the Texas Student Education Association are attending the annual convention of the Student National Education Association today through Sunday in Albuquerque, N.M.

Among the convention workshop topics to be discussed are: Students as Consumers of Education, Accreditation, Political Action, the Critical Issues of Testing, Multi-Cultural Education, Bilingual Education, Professional Negotiations and Collective Bargaining, and Attacks on Education by Far Right Groups.

The voting delegates attending the convention make up the official legislative body of the Student National Education Association.

SNEA is the largest deliberative student association in the nation and represents tens of thousands of college education majors who are planning careers as classroom teachers.

Student delegates to the convention will set future policies of the organization and will implement educational and student-oriented programs.

Flights Set For Skiers

EL PASO (UPI)—A Plainview charter service next week will begin flying weekend skiers from El Paso and Lubbock to Ruidoso, N.M. The corporation has announced.

Bohn Air, Inc., will be the only regularly scheduled airline flights to and from the skiing resort, according to Maxine Rigley, marketing director.

Miss Rigley said the Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday flights in 26-passenger DC-3 aircraft would be scheduled to connect with skiers arriving in El Paso and Lubbock from Dallas, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and other Texas cities.

The flights will continue "as long as the snow lasts," she said, and might be continued on into the Ruidoso Downs horseshoe season if they are profitable.

Bus service is available from Ruidoso to the Sierra Blanca skiing area, she said.

Joan Van Ark Calls 'Dallas' Spin-Off Of 'Knots Landing'

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — In the case of "Dallas" and "Knots Landing," the spin-off went on the air before the parent show.

Van Ark said, "and she's wonderful. She's the reason I ever got into acting." "I was a 15 or 16-year-old growing up in Boulder, Colo. I interviewed Julie Harris for the Denver Post — an aspiring actress interviews a successful actress. I didn't want to go to college — I wanted to get on with being an actress."

mercials and of cartoon heroine "Spider-woman," but considers herself very theater-oriented. When she isn't working, she's running.

But according to Joan Van Ark, the lovely blonde who plays Valene Ewing in "Knots Landing," that isn't what happened with "Dallas."

CBS had other ideas — the network wanted something grander and Jacobs came up with the wealthy Ewing family of "Dallas." When "Dallas" came a gusher in the ratings race, Jacobs suggested taking his original idea, populating it with a renegade Ewing branch and offering it as a spin-off from "Dallas."

CBS Fights To Tie With ABC

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When all was said and done, after plotting schedule strategies and analyzing the competition, the 1979-80 prime time television competition came down to this:

"ABC will finish No. 1, CBS will finish No. 2 and NBC will finish No. 3."

The prediction came from Robert Daly, chief programmer at CBS. It seemed a reasonable prediction at the time — last October — even if CBS was being drummed at the time by ABC and NBC. If you were partial to longshots, the only decent bet was that NBC might catch up to CBS this season; but few, including CBS' Daly, expected mighty ABC to be turned out from its penthouse digs this year.

Yet, entering the second half of the season, CBS has fought to a virtual tie with ABC at the top of the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s prime time ratings list. CBS has come on since Thanksgiving, scoring weekly ratings victories in eight of nine weeks and consistently filling the Nielsen top 10 with CBS programs.

The weird part of the CBS surge is that you can't quite put your finger on its cause — there were no new breakthrough shows, of the sort that put ABC at the top a few years ago (such as "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," or "Mork and Mindy" last season). CBS' charge has been built on series that have been there all along.

The present state of the ratings competition can be explained in part by moves made by ABC. "Smart" programming moves that CBS refused to make.

ABC tinkered with its hits, CBS did not. ABC split its "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley" tandem, the two-hit duo that had led ABC to happy times. The network moved other shows. "Mork and Mindy" was lifted from its Thursday evening slot and sent to Sunday night, where it was hoped CBS' hold could be broken.

Good moves all, on paper, at least. It is conventional television wisdom that you work your strengths, use strong shows to diminish the other guy's strengths and to protect your own new programs. For some reason, though, the strategy failed ABC.

"Mork" was chased back to Thursday night by "Archie's Place," and CBS Sunday evenings became stronger than ever, virtually beyond challenge. The splitting of "Laverne and Shirley" from "Happy Days" had the effect of all but killing "Laverne and Shirley" and leaving "Happy Days" vulnerable to a challenge by NBC's new "Misadventures of Sheriff Lobo."

CBS, meanwhile, sat pat. Its Sunday evening series grew in strength to become the most watched shows in prime time. CBS Football coverage led into "60 Minutes," which led into "Archie's Place," which set the viewing pattern for the rest of CBS Sunday lineup — "One Day at a Time," "Alice," "The Jeffersons" and "Trapper John, M.D."

Meanwhile, the network was digging in on Friday evening, with "The Dukes of Hazzard" and "Dallas" becoming a powerhouse ratings combination, and on Monday with "M*A*S*H," "WKRP in Cincinnati" and "Lou Grant."

The price of this strategy was a few new series, shows introduced last fall that were thrown into the fray without the protection of established hits. They didn't survive (except for "The Last Resort," which was recently resurrected and protected on Monday night), but CBS' hits weren't damaged by moves.

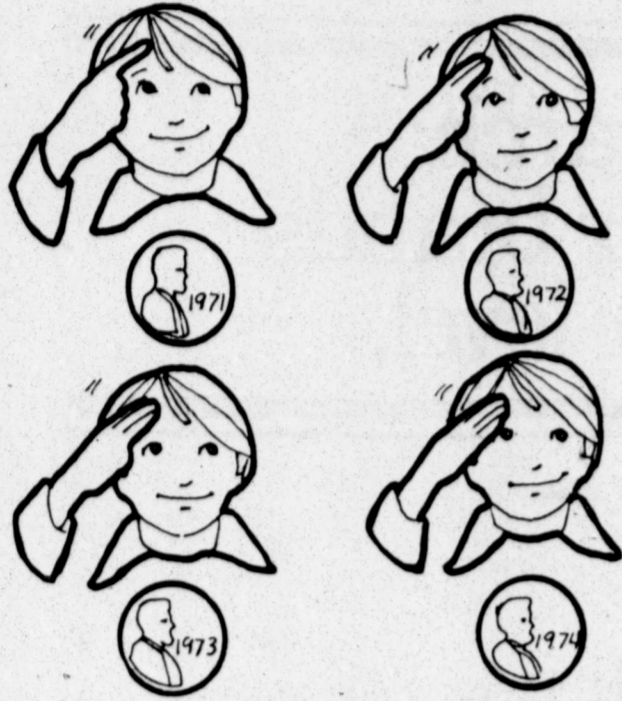

In the end, Daly's prediction will likely come true. ABC has the Winter Olympics upcoming, which is a license to make ratings points, and the gap created there may be too much for CBS to overcome.

But CBS proved that, as in baseball, there is such a thing as overmanaging. By going with its strengths, allowing its hits to be hits and not hit men, the network has put itself in a better position than could have been reasonably expected, given ABC's momentum.

It will be an interesting second half.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB Mothers, Daughters Love To Share

By SHARI LEWIS

Mothers and daughters love to share things: clothes, shoes, jewelry and secrets. My daughter Mallory and I are no exception. Lately she's grown too tall to wear my clothes and too big to fit into my shoes, but she'll never outgrow sharing secrets. For us, the best kind of secret is knowing how to do something that no one else can figure out. Here's a two-person magic trick that we call Up to Date:

We lay a pile of pennies on a table. Then I ask Mallory to leave the room. When she has gone, I tell one of our friends to pick up a penny and remember the date. (I even let that person mark the penny with a felt-tip pen, if he or she wishes.) Then the penny is placed on the table with the mark facing down.

I call Mallory back into the room and ask her to name the selected penny. "Think," I say, tapping my forehead. "Think hard, which penny was picked?" And she accurately tells me which penny was chosen!

Here's the secret: Before Mallory and I put the pennies on the table, we carefully make sure that there is only one penny of each of the following dates in the pile: 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975. When Mallory returns and I ask her to guess which one has been picked, I tap my forehead. I tap with one finger for 1971, with two fingers for 1972, with three fingers for 1973, and so forth.

It's a great gag to pull on your gang. All you have to do is share the secret with someone — a friend, a cousin, or maybe even your mother.

Yesterday's Brain Twister: Do you know which fish climbs trees? Answer: The mudskipper uses its front fins to pull itself up trees to catch insects for food.

Today's Brain Twister: Can you figure out what familiar phrase is hidden in this arrangement of letters: Symphon: (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Newest Wave Of Smoker Research:
MERIT favored 3 to 1 over high tar brands in tests comparing taste and tar level.

Merit Sweeps New Tests!

Smokers Report: MERIT Taste Matches High Tar Cigarettes.

New taste tests with thousands of smokers prove it.

Proof: A significant majority of smokers rate MERIT taste as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Proof: Of the 95% stating a preference, 3 out of 4 smokers chose the MERIT low tar/good taste combination over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

MERIT: Proven Long Term Alternative To High Tar Brands.

Proof: The overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers polled feel they didn't sacrifice taste in switching from high tar cigarettes.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

You've read the results. The conclusion is clearer than ever: MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar.

A combination that's attracting more and more smokers every day and—more importantly—satisfying them long term.
