

Interest Rates Rise As Economy Proves Stronger Than Expected

NEW YORK (AP) — Long-term interest rates rose to record highs in early trading Friday as evidence mounted that the United States economy is stronger than economists had expected.

The yield on 30-year Treasury bonds climbed to 10.58 percent at one point, just above the previous record of 10.55 percent set during the hectic weeks following the Federal Reserve's decision to tighten credit last October.

First National Bank of Chicago, the nation's ninth-largest bank, raised its prime lending rate to 15.25 percent from 15 percent. It had been one of only three major banks to drop to the lower rate.

Most interest rates, including the prime rate, are still significantly below the peaks set last fall. The declines have come in part because of widespread predictions that the economy was falling into a recession, which would reduce the demand for loans.

But the government on Thursday reported that housing starts actually rose in December and on Friday said that the economy grew at an annual rate of 1.4 percent in the last three months of 1979.

The sharp increase in interest rates came Friday morning before the report on economic growth was released. Dealers said that after the Thursday reports there had been fears of an even sharper growth in the economy.

After the report on the gross national product, bond prices rebounded slightly but were still down sharply for the day. The rate on 30-year government bonds hovered around 10.5 percent.

The prime lending rate is charged by banks to their most credit-worthy corporate customers, with other commercial and industrial borrowers paying higher rates. It does not directly affect consumer and mortgage loan rates, but is widely followed as an indicator of the direction of short-term loan rates.

The prime rate reached a peak of 15.75 percent in mid-November, and began edging down at the end of that month. Citibank and First of Chicago dropped from 15.25 percent to 15 percent on Dec. 14, and were joined on Jan. 2 by Bankers Trust Co., but other major banks resisted the move.

Donald Maude, an analyst with Merrill Lynch, said Friday the action by First of Chicago indicates that loan demand remains strong and that the bank probably expects other short-term interest rates to rise.

Citibank, the second-largest bank in the nation, and Bankers Trust, ranked ninth, held to the 15 percent rate.

At the close of corporate bond trading Friday, industrials were off 1/2 point in moderate activity and utilities were off 3/4 to 1 1/4 points in moderate to active trading.

Government issues declined 21-32 in intermediate and 17-32 in long maturities. Short-term governments were off 10-32, according to the investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers.

Three-month Treasury bills were up 3 basis points to 12.07 percent; six-month bills were unchanged at 11.87 percent; and one-year bills were unchanged at 10.93 percent.

Dollar bonds and general obligations were both down 1/2 to 3/8 point in light activity.

Federal funds, the loans of uncommitted reserves among Federal Reserve System member banks, traded at 13 1/2 percent.

Kennedy Leads Carter In Private Poll

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's popularity in his home state has dropped in the past year, but as the Massachusetts primary approaches, he is still running ahead of President Carter, according to a private poll.

The poll, taken in December by the Becker Research Corp. of Boston, focused on the Carter-Kennedy race in the March 4 Massachusetts primary.

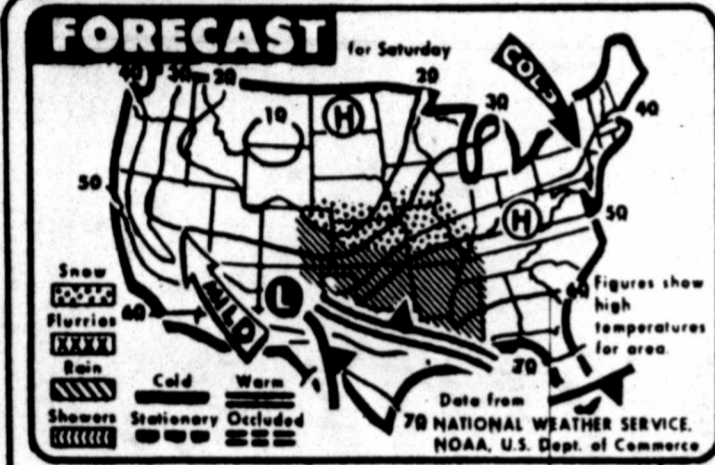

It indicated that in a three-way race between Kennedy, Carter and California

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., 47 percent of Massachusetts voters would select Kennedy, 34 percent would choose Carter, 4 percent would select Brown, 11 percent were undecided and 4 percent refused to respond.

But the telephone sampling of 501 Massachusetts Democrats and registered Democrats who intended to vote in the Democratic primary also showed Kennedy fell from an 81 percent "favorable" rating last March to 62 percent in Decem-

Car Theft Ring Suspect Waives Extradition

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Barbara Jean Scott, who Wednesday was charged with theft in connection with an alleged four-state car theft ring, was in custody of Oklahoma City police Friday afternoon, according to Lubbock authorities.

Ronny Lynn, decided to waive extradition to Lubbock, according to Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford.

Scott, 30, was arrested Wednesday by Oklahoma City police and is being held in lieu of a $50,000 bond. Four theft charges were filed against Scott by the Lubbock prosecutor's office.

Montford said he received a phone call from Scott's attorney, Jim Durham of Amarillo, saying that Scott would fight attempts to have him brought to Lubbock to face the charges. Arrangements with the Lubbock County Sheriff's Office were being made Friday evening.

The district attorney, however, said he does not know if Mrs. Scott, 29, will fight local extradition efforts.

The Del City, Okla., couple and Ralph Baez, 42, of Los Angeles, Calif., were charged Wednesday with theft in connection with an alleged "salvage switch" stolen car ring operating in Texas, Oklahoma, California and Kansas.

vehicles. The stolen vehicles allegedly were sold to dealers.

Local authorities confiscated 11 vehicles earlier this week they say were stolen by the ring. Officials estimate the 11 automobiles represent a $75,000 profit made by the alleged thieves.

Supervisor Shot To Death At Strikebound Tenneco Oil Plant

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — A supervisor at the strikebound Tenneco Oil Co. was fatally wounded by a single bullet as he stood with two other supervisors by a plant gate Friday, and a striker was booked with murder, officials said.

"There was nothing, nothing, then bang!" said Don Brown, a spokesman for Tenneco of the shooting of John Hurst, a maintenance supervisor with 28 years at the company who was once a union official.

Officials of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, on strike nationwide since Jan. 8, called the death a great tragedy and pulled down pickets "in an act of mourning and deep remorse."

Hurst — like other supervisors — was keeping the refinery operating during the strike. There were no other injuries in the incident.

St. Bernard Parish Sheriff Ralph McDougall said Edward Massey, 41, was booked with murder in the parish jail pending the filing of a formal charge. Union members said Massey was not on picket duty when the shooting occurred.

Brown said Hurst was shot at a side entrance where he and two other supervisors were helping keep plant traffic from blocking the Mississippi River ferry road. The refinery sits on the river in this suburb south of New Orleans.

The entrance was barricaded and no pickets were allowed there.

Brown said traffic had cleared and Hurst and supervisors Jerry Singletary and Jill Tagliavore were standing shoulder to shoulder beside a pickup truck when shots rang out: apparently fired from a vehicle parked across the street.

Brown said no argument preceded the shooting. "Things had been quiet around the refinery since early this week when the company went to court."

Sheriff's deputies said Hurst was hit once in the upper right chest with a bullet from a 30-30 rifle and fell to the ground, bleeding heavily. Brown said several shots were fired. He said another person, not employed by the refinery but not otherwise identified, wrestled the rifle from the assailant, who then fled.

Massey was arrested at his home a short while later.

There was talk in the union hall that the fatal bullet was a ricochet, but it was not confirmed. Strikers gathered at the temporary union headquarters near the plant, and were visibly shaken by the shooting.

"It was weird, absolutely weird," said Harold Salles, strike chairman of the local. "We don't know why it happened."

The strike was called after nationwide contract negotiations broke down in Denver. About 400 Tenneco workers, along with about 2,000 others in Louisiana, were among the 68,000 workers who struck over higher pay.

Commission Slates Alcohol Workshop

PLAINVIEW (Special) — "Lost in the Shuffle — Kids of Alcoholics" will be the topic of presentation at a workshop Monday conducted by a representative of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism.

The session is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church, 2101 Utica Ave. Sponsors of the program are the Central Plains Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center and the state commission on alcoholism.

Frank Stone, who has been with the commission for seven years, will make the presentation. He is known for his publication, "Alcoholism, the Children's Viewpoint," and for his media campaign on alcoholism and his work in the area of children of alcoholic parents.

The workshop is free to the public and has been approved by the commission for alcoholism counselors. More information may be obtained by contacting Arlene Miller, director of the alcohol abuse program at the South Plains Association of Governments office in Lubbock.

AN EDITORIAL: Vote No On Fire Referendums

TAXPAYERS in Lubbock have such a huge stake in today's twin referendums on firefighters' pay and collective bargaining demands that every informed voter should make certain his voice is heard at the polls—loud and clear.
The cost of government is certain to go up significantly if the referendums pass. The Avalanche-Journal unequivocally recommends a vote Against both—repeat, both—issues.
A double-dip pay increase for the firemen (15 percent vs. the 7 percent all City employees, including them, got less than three months ago) cannot be justified.
TAKING ALL SKILLS, training, hazards, working conditions and job requirements into consideration, the firefighters already are exceptionally well paid in relation to other municipal employees.
The lowest-paid third-year man on the totem pole makes a base salary of $15,446—which is more than the average wage earner in Lubbock is paid—and that's averaging in all those with college educations, all executives, all those in hazardous occupations and all those with 30 years or more of experience.

AN EDITORIAL: Food For Thought

DO YOU ever wonder real-ly who or what is to blame for rising food prices?
George Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., to a major degree points an accusatory finger at labor costs.
GMA recently commissioned a study of 15 commonly purchased food items.
The results:
More than 50 cents of every dollar spent for typical supermarket foods can be traced to labor costs—both direct and indirect.
Pickles, sauces and salad dressings take the cake with a 59.6 percent high.
Meat-packing trails the shopping cart field with 39.4 percent.
Koch finds it hard to understand that White House spokesmen and government agencies, while focusing their attention on food manufacturers, processors and retailers, fail to take into consideration the impact of the labor "middleman" on the inflationary spiral in the grocery marketplace.
Mr. Koch says he has no objection to, and furthermore, there is nothing wrong with, paying a fair wage.
He just wants to set the record straight.

M. STANTON EVANS: Russian Grain Embargo Leaves GOP Speechless

WASHINGTON—President Carter has not exactly covered himself with glory in his response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, but his would-be opponents in the Republican Party have hardly done much better.
It is generally conceded that the measures taken and suggested by the President are unlikely to cause a Soviet pullback from Kabul.
The more probable impact is simply to convey to Moscow a sense of our displeasure, and perhaps inflict some marginal discomfort on the Soviets for their malfeasance. Not much of an answer, but an answer of sorts.
Among the more promising of the President's initiatives is a crackdown on U.S. exports to the Soviets, beginning with a grain embargo.
As has been previously argued in this space, the Soviet Union has become a virtual dependent of the United States, relying on us to rescue it from agricultural crises and using our advanced technology to build up its war machine.
THE DEGREE to which we have bailed out the communist economy, indeed, is one of the major scandals of our time.
A proper rejoinder to Carter's suggested curtailment of trade with Moscow would be that the suspension of grain sales and advanced technology shipments to the Soviets didn't go nearly far enough.
Denial of such vital assistance to the Communists should be part of a systematic policy of cold war defense, rather than a one-shot response to some flamboyant outrage.
This is not, however, the answer to Carter that appears to be emanating from the Republican Party.
TIMELY QUOTES
It's jolly good that the government is authorizing some banks to raise their interest rates on savings accounts to 5 1/2 percent. What this means is that you can now deposit $1,000 in a savings account and, after a year, you will own the equivalent in buying power of about $900 (which includes the interest).
Oh, yes, and you'll have to pay income tax on interest of about $52.50, too.

Device can be operated electronically by remote control at distances up to three blocks. Simple switching operations convert mechanism into radar-speed-trap alert device, pocket calculator, or electronic chess-playing companion.
AND IOWA, as everyone knows, is one of the major grain-producing areas in the United States.
Confronted with this situation, the Republican candidate—with the exception of liberal GOPer John Anderson—ducked.
While holding forth on a number of things that could or should be done to strengthen our defenses or rebuke the Soviets, they pointedly opposed the one thing that, at the time, actually was being done: the embargo against additional grain sales to the Soviets. (Three of the candidates—Howard Baker, John Connally, and Philip Crane—did oppose advanced technology sales.)
The motivation for this soft answer on the grain sales by candidates otherwise known for hawkish cold war statements is not mysterious: they were in quest of Iowa votes, and favoring an embargo of Iowa exports to the Kremlin would not have been a popular stand.
CONVERSELY, THE issue offered a chance to score political points against the President for allegedly "victimizing" Iowa farmers in the conduct of his foreign policy.
The temptation is great to lament the lack of backbone displayed by the Republican hopefuls in Iowa, but the day is probably long since past when we could expect anything better.
In a choice between picking up some votes in the Iowa caucuses, and speaking the whole unpleasant truth about the nature of our commerce with the Soviets, the result is a foregone conclusion. It is not very realistic to hope for something different.
What is perhaps most disturbing about the episode is the degree to which it reveals the warping of our domestic politics by detente.
MOST VOTERS aren't that interested in foreign policy but are greatly concerned about their own economic well-being.
By promoting Communist trade so strongly in recent years, we have created a clique in our society—farmers, computer manufacturers, middlemen and so on—that has an economic interest in detente. When you're selling to the Communists; the issue isn't foreign policy—it's dollars and cents.
That's the grim reality behind the Republican fumbling contest in Des Moines. It tells us something about the GOP—but even more about the sapping of our national will to resist the Soviet enemy.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

'Dutch' Is In Dutch

JANESVILLE, Iowa—The night before the Iowa Poll revealed a catastrophic 24-point drop in Ronald Reagan's strength, the possibility that Monday's caucuses could devastate his 12-year search for the Republican presidential nomination was raised by a vivid contrast here in east central Iowa.
Principal speaker for a party fund-raiser was George Bush, Sen. Howard Baker's daughter Cissy was present. So were campaign leaflets and posters for Bush, Baker, Connally, Crane and Dole.
But there was no sign of Reagan—not a campaign button, not a poster, not a word—in Reagan's rural heartland.
ANDREW TULLY:
WASHINGTON—Over the long haul, there is for the Soviet Union in Afghanistan a perilous Catch 22. The Russians have worked their will in such countries as Ethiopia and Somalia, but this is the first time they have gone adventuring in a pure Moslem state.
The Afghans are a proud people. What may turn out to be more important, their Moslem faith gives them an innate hostility to both foreign traditions and atheistic ideologies.
They are weaned on hatred for a Russian regime that has locked the door on all religions, including Islam.
There are about 550 million practicing Moslems in the world, most of them in Russia's neighborhood.
THE TAKEOVER of Afghanistan has caused the leadership of those 550 million Moslems to launch an ideological war on the Soviet Union.
This is a challenge to all the Moslem countries, says Alaeddin Kharafa, director of the Moslem World League in New York. "We call upon the Moslem nations around the world to stand up together and to see it that the aggressors are thrown out of Afghanistan."
One cannot—yet—see Moslems sending expeditionary forces to battle the Russian invaders. But Moslems are more given to righteous action when pushed around than members of other sects.
Every statement of outrage issued seems to reflect a determination to do something forceful about the plight of their brethren in Afghanistan.
IN SHORT, the Russians may have committed an awesome blunder. For they have acquired some new enemies abroad, enemies whose faith encourages them to fight and, if necessary, die for their religious cause.
The trouble the ragged Moslem rebels have given the Soviet's well-trained troops in Afghanistan is evidence of a fervor that in times of stress becomes militant fanaticism.
Meanwhile, the Russian leadership has alienated millions of Russian Moslems who live mostly in the southeastern portion of Lenin's Paradise. Those followers of Allah have always given the Soviet state a lot of trouble and now they have added reason to maintain their intransigency.
Already, intelligence reports tell of new acts of sabotage and "slowdowns" in the areas bordering on Afghanistan, Iran and Turkey.
IN THE PAST, a number of Moslem regimes have found it convenient to play footsie with Moscow.
But they have discovered that the expansionist Soviet empire is still intact, still bent on imposing its sovereignty on countries where it sees opportunities to strengthen its national security and economic interests.
Moslem countries made little protest as long as Moscow kept its jackboots out of their territory. Now they are faced with Soviet colonialism in one of their brother states, and their anger is boundless.
In that context, the Russians may have shown enormous stupidity by invading Afghanistan. Even a superpower should be leery of adding its name to the enemies' list of a religious alliance numbering 550 million souls.
"This is what we've been complaining about for months," a local Reagan loyalist told us. "There is no visible Reagan campaign."
That absence, when compared with Bush's painstakingly built organization, suggests Reagan could finish second to Bush at Republican precinct caucuses Monday.
Since Reagan's campaign is based on invincibility and inevitability, losing Iowa would not be easily overcome. Thus, the cautious strategy of campaign manager John Sears, undergoes an early critical test.
If "Dutch" Reagan loses the state of his young manhood, the Sears strategy will be blamed.
That chorus would be led by Lt. Gov. Terry Branstad, 33-year-old hope of Iowa conservatives and a 1976 Reagan activist. Branstad repeatedly has warned Reagan headquarters of Bush on the march in Iowa.
WHEN HE spotted Sears in the Fort Des Moines Hotel coffee shop the other morning, Branstad complained Sears had not returned his calls for months (the debonair Sears replied with a smile and his patented chuckle).
Branstad did get five minutes alone with Reagan himself during a rare Iowa stop Dec. 14, and gave him detailed advice: Come to Iowa often, not for one monster rally but to hit several towns, above all, participate in the debate.
None of this advice was followed. Branstad now gives Bush at least an even chance to win.
Senior Reagan strategists privately admit they underestimated Bush.
ALTHOUGH BUSH at his best cannot match Reagan's charisma on an off-day, he will have spent 27 days in Iowa by caucus time; when Reagan comes to Iowa today, it will be his sixth day.
Reagan's campaign did not reach full gear until December when Kenny Klinge, a skilled professional from Virginia, was dispatched to Des Moines. His phone bank has found over 50,000 Iowa voters "favorable" to Reagan.
Klinge feels that Bush's operation is bogged down with the 25,000 Republicans who attended the 1976 caucuses, while Reagan seeks new blood.
Iowans contend Klinge is running a primary election campaign unable to drag ordinary citizens to play politician a couple of hours on a cold winter night.
While Klinge hopes for 60,000 to 100,000 at the caucuses, the consensus is a maximum of 40,000—the fewer the better, from Bush's standpoint.
BUT REAGAN'S hope in larger numbers is undermined by his refusal to debate. Steve Fausel, a young manufacturer attending Bush's rally in Burlington, told us he worries about Reagan's age and "electability" but is more familiar and comfortable with Reagan's issue positions than Bush's.
Did Reagan's no-show at the debate bother him? "If he had debated," Fausel told us evenly, "I wouldn't be here tonight."
After hearing a Bush speech no less conservative than Reagan in attacking big government and supporting hard-line foreign policy, Fausel seemed inclined to Bush.
Although Bush's Iowa backers come mostly from the party's liberal wing, his only real quarrel with Reagan is experience.
He told the Janesville dinner that as CIA director, he was approving national intelligence estimates, "not lecturing about it out there on the tree enterprise circuit"—the closest he comes to outright criticism of Reagan.
BUSH WORRIES the anti-Reagan vote will be diluted by Baker, rising with a lavish television campaign.
But Bush technicians believe Baker's feeble organization cannot bring his supporters to market; they think Baker, even with Bush in the Iowa Poll, could finish fourth or even fifth in the caucuses.
Second place in Iowa by Bush would help make him Reagan's top challenger, but leave him the formidable task of actually beating Reagan somewhere. In contrast, a Bush win here would change the world.
"Just in case we lose," one Reaganite told us, "I'm glad John (Sears) will be in Des Moines caucus night to explain why it doesn't mean anything." In that event, he would also be called on to justify his famous strategy.

NOVAK

VIRGINIA PAYETTE:

Let Her Have It

DALLAS—Okay, fellas, this one's for you: The next time a lady asks you to lunch and makes a grab for the tab, let her have it.
It's the "in" thing now. Any protesting or squirming merely proves you haven't got your macho act together yet.
Most of the other guys are doing it—and beginning to enjoy it.
So it takes a little practice. So practice.
And don't waste time worrying about what the waiter will think. Most waiters have their minds on their arches, not your manhood, and if they give it a thought, it's likely one of admiration for the way you've got your women in line.
They'll probably hand you the check, but that's only out of habit; they don't really care who pays as long as someone does.
WHEN YOUR hostess says this one's on her, they'll cheerfully shove it her way and pray she's liberated enough to figure out a proper tip.
And don't think this happens only on business occasions.
When a woman takes a man out for lunch or dinner, it's more apt to be for social reasons (65 percent of the time) than because she wants to sell you something (13 percent).
So while she fishes for her credit card, you can entertain yourself with titillating fantasies about what, if not a new line of tractors, she's really selling.
These momentous statistics come to you courtesy of the Magic Pan restaurant which, ever mindful of those 42 million women in the work force, ordered up a Gallup poll to find out how "comfortable" Adam and Eve felt about Eve picking up the check.
VERY COMFORTABLE, it turns out.
Most of the men, a whopping 75 percent, said they don't feel their virility is threatened when they let a woman pay.
Nine percent "fessed up" to squirming a little, especially on a social occasion, but when it was strictly business, only three percent felt embarrassed.
And how do the ladies carry it off? They're pretty cool about it: 82 percent said they felt "at ease" playing hostess to men.
Only four percent "felt funny" doing it just for fun, and barely one percent did the squirming when the man was a prospective customer.
(One admitted she usually ducks the issue by taking her clients to restaurants that mail the bill to her office.)
BUT WHEN a man grabs for the check, their reactions are mixed.
Fourteen percent said they never, or rarely, let him have it, 48 percent said they "sometimes" do.
And 22 percent think it's not important enough to stage a wrestling match over; they let him pay.
Still, thanks to the lady libbers, there's less wrestling these days. Thirty-six percent of the men said, what the heck, if the little lady wants the check, she gets it every time.
Forty-two percent said they give in gracefully "sometimes," and only 21 percent were male chauvinists who admitted they'd rather starve than let a woman buy them a meal in public.
TRULY, BABY'S come a long way, but headwaiters are an unconstructed lot, especially when it comes to parting with their choice tables.
One woman out of five said she got better tables when her guest was a man. And almost half (42 percent) said the service was better, and that the waiter invariably presented the wine list to the man.
But there's a footnote here.
It was usually the older women who had this problem. Those under 40 said they got the same type of service when they entertained women as they did when their guest was a man.
So next time a lady asks you out, gentlemen, relax and let her pay.
It's the only way to beat the high cost of groceries, unless, of course, your gratitude leads you in to a more expensive arrangement.

OUT OF Ackington, England, came the report that a British prison included among its educational courses for prisoners a series of how-to-lessons on the construction of scaffolding. You've got it. Two convicts studied carefully and put together a 16-foot scaffold in just a matter of minutes. And awaaaaay they went.
No end to the cute wrinkles that bright promoters come up with. Sponsors of a Virginia fishing tournament not only judged winners of fish actually caught, but used a lie detector to judge winners in a "fish that got away" category.

Q: How can I tell if my toilet tank is wasting water by leaking?
A: Nothing to it. Put a spoonful of food coloring in the tank. Don't flush. If the color shows up in the bowl after awhile, better get the thing fixed.
Item No. 444C in our Love and War man's file is a follow-up on what happened after a woman in Miami hired a pilot to skywrite the message: "I love you, John. Get a divorce." Turned out the pilot got a whole bunch of phone calls from furious women married to Johns who wanted to know who hired him.

Lions Slate Mid-Winter Conference

SEMINOLE (Special) — It's been 10 years since the Lions of District 2-T2 have gathered for a convention in this Gaines County seat, but representatives of 73 Clubs will gather here Sunday.

The annual Lions Mid-Winter Conference will be hosted jointly by Ron Minier and the Seminole Noon Club and Raymond Barrandey and the Seminole Evening Club.

Seminole High School, located at 6th Street and Ave. A, will be the site for the meeting, which will get underway at 8 a.m. with registration. The day-long affair will last until approximately 4:15 p.m.

Ladies activities and a noon luncheon also are planned, with Glenn Crawford, Executive Director of the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville being the dinner speaker.

Dist. Gov. N. K. Snodgrass of Lubbock Southwest will have special mention for the Lamesa Lions, Lubbock Lions, Plainview Lions and Brownfield Lions. Those four clubs have, since last July, celebrated their 50th Anniversaries.

Snyder, founded in 1924, is the oldest Club in 2-T2. Crosbyton (1937) and Morton (1938) have celebrated their 40th anniversary in recent years and Levelland did this year.

Seminole Mayor Rob Clark, himself a Lion, will welcome the delegations from some 50 South Plains cities and towns. Dr. Elzie M. Wright has served as unofficial chairman of the Mid-Winter Conference.

Highlight of the noon luncheon will be the vest auction. For the past five years Past District Governor Hack Lasater of Slaton has collected pins at the International Convention, put them on a Texas Vest and auctioned it off at the Mid-Winter Convention. In five years more than $9,000 has been raised for Crippled Children Camp. This year's vest is expected to sell for $1,500-$2,000.

In addition, there will be meetings for all district and club officers at Seminole, plus plans will be finalized for the district convention, set for May 15-17 in Levelland.

Catalogue Company Outgrows Printer

FREEMONT, Maine (AP) — L.L. Bean Inc., the company that began in a small store here in 1912 and now sends 21 million copies of its catalogue of clothes and outdoor goods to 70 countries, may have outgrown its local printer.

Dingley Press has done the catalogue for 30 years, but its president, Alexander Fowler, recently told employees the contract may go to an out-of-state firm after March 1981. And L.L. Bean Vice President William End said the company will decide between Dingley and seven other bidders within two weeks. Other companies can offer cheaper rotogravure printing.

Congressman Wants Fusion Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Mike McCormack said Friday he is urging President Carter to propose a crash program to develop nuclear fusion as a virtually unlimited new energy source by the year 2000, at least 10 years sooner than the Energy Department now anticipates.

McCormack, the Washington Democrat who chairs the House energy research and production subcommittee, told reporters he believes fusion can be demonstrated as a practical power system within 20 years under an "Apollo-type" program, pushing its development the way the space program set out to send people to the moon.

McCormack said he has not yet contacted Carter directly with his proposal because of the Iranian and Afghanisthan crises, but he has discussed it with other top administration officials.

"We know he has read it," McCormack said of the president.

He said he would send Carter a formal letter urging his commitment to the effort and seeking an immediate $100 million increase in fusion development funding in the fiscal 1981 budget.

A complete development and demonstration program, McCormack said, may cost some $20 billion but the Energy Department estimated it would cost less on an accelerated schedule than on the slower schedule the department itself has proposed.

Although they bear confusingly similar names, nuclear fusion is a very different energy process from the nuclear fission that powers today's atomic plants.

In existing fission reactors, large atoms such as uranium and plutonium are split into smaller atoms, releasing energy that can heat water into steam which spins turbine-driven electric generators.

A fusion reactor, instead of splitting large atoms, would slam together the smallest atoms, hydrogen, to construct larger atoms of helium; oddly enough, that process also releases energy usable as heat.

But uranium and plutonium, the fuels of today's fission reactors, are rare metals and leave behind wastes that stay dangerously radioactive for thousands of years, posing a serious and still unresolved disposal problem.

The hydrogen fuel of a fusion reactor, on the other hand, is as abundant as all the water in the world; in fact, that's where it would come from.

And scientists advising McCormack said the radioactive wastes from a fusion system would be smaller and less dangerous, and would become harmless within 50 to 100 years, making storage much easier.

Experiments have proven fusion theoretically possible, and McCormack's proposal aims for early proof that it is commercially practical. His estimate of a timetable was supported in a new report by the Atomic Industrial Forum, a nuclear industry group, which said a demonstration fusion plant was possible by the end of the century.

The Department of Energy's fusion development program anticipates operation of an Engineering Test Facility by the mid-1990s, and a power-generating demonstration plant early in the next century, around the year 2010.

Government Files Suit Against Student

Government attorneys have filed a federal court lawsuit against a former Texas Tech University student they say defaulted on a $950 government loan.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials in Dallas alleged in the lawsuit, filed in U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward's court here, that Guillermo Arriaga Jr. received the money in two payments in 1972. The federally insured loan, the HEW document states, was to finance Arriaga's studies at Texas Tech.

In addition to the $950 Arriaga allegedly has failed to repay, the government is seeking $352.23 in interest accrued through July 2, 1979, and interest of 7 percent per annum on the principle since last July.

The federal lawsuit comes on the heels of several similar student loan lawsuits filed earlier this week in Lubbock's state district courts.

Brothers Charged After Officer Dies In Crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two brothers have been charged with capital murder in the death of a Live Oak police officer, who was killed Thursday in a fiery collision with a gravel truck during a 100 mph chase.

Authorities said shots were being exchanged as the officer, Alfredo Araiza, chased a fleeing auto allegedly containing Richard Graham, 27, and Robert Graham, 24.

Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos said Friday his autopsy showed 25-year-old Araiza had not been shot before the crash. But Santos ruled homicide because of the circumstances of Araiza's death.

Assistant District Attorney Tony Kajak said the state will allege the two brothers intentionally caused Araiza's death.

Raul Garza, driver of the truck that collided with Araiza's patrol car, said the officer appeared to lose control of his speeding auto as he chased another car through northern Bexar County at speeds estimated at 100 mph.

It was not known until the autopsy whether a bullet wound had caused the accident.

The two brothers were jailed Friday in lieu of $50,000 bonds each set by Night Magistrate Mary Elizabeth Ladd.

Officials said Araiza, a rookie patrolman on the suburban police force, apparently attempted to stop a car for a traffic violation. The car sped away, and Araiza gave chase.

Others officers joined the chase after Araiza radioed for help. State troopers arrested the Grahams at a nearby residence shortly after the crash.

Bexar County Sheriff's Lt. Kenneth Bilhartz said three pistols were recovered from the Grahams' car.

The Live Oak patrol car virtually disintegrated into flames when it slammed into the 16-wheel, tractor-trailer rig. Araiza's body was tossed more than 50 yards away.

Garza escaped with only minor injuries.

Araiza was the first Live Oak officer killed in the line of duty since the San Antonio suburb's police department was formed in 1971.

DENTIST FACES CHARGES

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A Tulsa dentist faces misdemeanor assault and battery charges for allegedly striking a 3-year-old patient who wouldn't open her mouth, police said. Dr. Stanley G. Ware was charged Wednesday with striking Nicole R. Lawton in the face on Saturday morning, detectives said. Police said the girl allegedly refused to open her mouth for dental treatment.

SUPPORT YOUR

Pay $5⁷⁰/hr.

This will be the pay of an experienced journeyman firefighter if the Lubbock citizens grant our pay request.

Your firefighters have been forced to go to the people for a decent cost-of-living pay increase. The City gave us only 7% in a year when inflation for necessities was 18%. For the third consecutive year, the Council has given city employees cost-of-living raises far below the annual inflation rate.

The ballot will read 15%. But this proposition will add an actual increase of only 8% to your firefighter's pay. (The City has granted 7% of our 15% request.)

Experienced firefighters now make $5.31 per hour. An 8% pay increase raises a firefighter's salary to $5.70 per hour.

VOTE FOR Pay Raise

The Most Deadly Job

More firefighters are killed in the line of duty each year than in any other occupation.

67 firefighters per 100,000 died in 1978 (the last full reporting year). The death rate for miners was 63. And 26 policemen per 100,000 were killed.

Nationally, over 50% of all firefighters are injured on the job every year. Just 10 months ago, 3 Lubbock firefighters were killed in the line of duty!

Safety

2% Rate Equipment

Our personal safety equipment is second rate.

The dangers of firefighting can never be completely eliminated. However, adequate personal protective gear can significantly reduce the threat of injury and death. The City has bought the cheapest personal gear on the market.

Our "firefighting" gloves are not even fit for light gardening. They cost 39¢ a pair and are flammable. Better equipment is available at reasonable prices.

Lubbock firefighters have asked, in writing, for better gear. The City has ignored us.

Finance

Pet Projects

The City Council paid for its pet projects with employees' wages.

The City cut 2% from the recommended employee pay raise. This money was not returned to the taxpayers. It financed such pet projects as speeding the development of some city parks.

That 2% would be more than enough to finance the firefighters' raise.

The City has the money.

OPPOSITION

Big Money Cartel

Lubbock's Big Money Cartel controls Lubbock! Firefighters are opposed by this cartel. Local politicians, ex-politicians, big business, and the Avalanche-Journal urge you to vote against the firefighter's pay raise and collective bargaining.

This cartel has controlled Lubbock for decades. It has opposed any group that has sought changes in the status-quo. From minorities to property owner's associations.

It is time for the Voice of the People

The Texas Fire and Police Employee Relations Act

- Local Option-the citizens must vote this act in and can vote it out.
- Firefighters only-this election applies only to firefighters
- Recognition-this act requires only that the City recognize the firefighter's Association as the voice of the firefighters.
- Contract not Required-the act does not require that any agreement be reached or any contract signed.
- No Arbitration-the act states "...nothing contained herein shall be deemed a requirement for compulsory arbitration."
- No Strikes-this law prohibits strikes and applies heavy penalties for strikes. This act requires only that the City sit down and talk to its firefighters. Nothing more.

VOTE FOR Collective Bargaining

Strikes Never In Texas

There has never been a firefighters strike in the state of Texas.

Voters in 9 Texas cities, large and small, have enacted the "Fire and Police Employee Relations Act" for firefighters. No firefighter in any of these cities has ever walked off the job.

People who say Lubbock firefighters would strike are implying your firefighters are the most irresponsible firefighters in the state of Texas. No one, not even our arrogant opposition, actually believes this.

The Union

32 Years With No Outside Control

The Lubbock Professional Firefighters' Association, Local 972 of the International Association of Firefighters (AFL-CIO) was chartered in 1948. This organization has always represented over 90% of Lubbock firefighters. Our union has been a productive and useful member of this community.

Our local organization is affiliated with national and state bodies just as the City belongs to the national and state League of Cities. These bodies represent our interests in Washington and Austin.

The AFL-CIO cannot control your firefighters any more than the National League of Cities can control the Lubbock City Council.

Win or lose, your firefighters and their Union will always be ready to serve you.

Burial will be in the Muleshoe Cemetery under the direction of Singleton-Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Neely died Friday morning in Overall-Morris Hospital in Coleman after a lengthy illness.

A resident of Muleshoe since 1929, Mrs. Neely moved here from Marlowe, Okla. She was born July 11, 1891 in Greenville.

She was a Methodist.

Survivors include a son, Charles D. Julian of Grand Prairie; two daughters, Joyce Prather of Coleman and Edith Wilt of Muleshoe; three sisters, Jennie Newman of Hartlingen, Georgie Brown and Mrs. Rae Harling, both of Oklahoma City; 16 grandchildren; 22 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild.

Robert Shrimpton

BROWNFIELD (Special) — Services for Robert Shrimpton, 53, of Brownfield will be at 10 a.m. today in the Westside Baptist Church with the Rev. Jackie Matlock, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in the Terry County Memorial Cemetery under the direction of the Brownfield Funeral Home.

He died Thursday at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Ada, Okla., he moved to Brownfield from Roswell, N.M. in 1937.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S.V. Shrimpton of Brownfield; three brothers, Charles of Brownfield and Arnold and Donald of Lubbock; and a sister, Nola Jones of Pasadena.

Several patrolmen responded to the call. One officer said a youth wearing blue jeans and tennis shoes flagged him down near the residence and told him a 250-pound Mexican-American man had attacked him and stolen his green coat.

A road grader operator who was working in the alley behind the residence said he had seen the boy leave the back yard. The green coat was recovered at a nearby apartment complex.

Neilon said the same youth had been detained last week by sheriff's deputies in connection with two other burglaries. The youth was referred to the Juvenile Probation Office.

In other activity, a commercial washed-wire, an air compressor and electric motor, valued at $1,055, were stolen from the rear of a service station at 2815 Slide Road, police said.

The theft occurred between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Friday, owner John Lee Hartsfield told police. Hartsfield said the items were to have been sold as scrap metal.

Two motorcycles were stolen from a storage shed at 3206 Ave. H between 11 a.m. Thursday and 2 p.m. Friday, police said.

A 1978 Suzuki 550 motorcycle, valued at $750, and a 1975 Suzuki 250 motorcycle, valued at $500, were taken, owner Robert Stalter told police.

Michael Lee Davis of 8601 Jordan Drive reported that $500 cash was stolen from his wallet at the Supreme Court Racquet Club, 5507 Brownfield Highway, Friday between 8 and 11:15 a.m. Davis told police the wallet was in a locker at the club when the theft occurred.

A Spartan 100 Sink Machine, a device used in plumbing repairs, was stolen from the back of a pickup parked at 5009 53rd St., reports indicate.

Owner Randall Joe Rushing of Joe Rushing Plumbing told police the theft occurred between 5:20 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday. The machine was valued at $646.76.

Two rubber truck tarpaulins valued at $600 were stolen from a truck driven by J.C. Hunter of Livingston between 1 and 7 a.m. Friday, police said. Hunter told police he was asleep in the cab of the truck, which was parked at 46th Street and Avenue A, when the theft occurred.

The tarpaulins were described as blue, with the word "Western" in white letters.

Southwest Airlines Employees Accept Pay Hike, End Walkout

 ice to its customers in 12 Texas cities and New Orleans.

The airline's Lubbock operation, that provides transportation for more than half of the area's air travelers, will continue its reduced schedule of six daily flights to Dallas Monday through Thursday, seven on Friday and four on Sunday until February. A schedule for Saturday flights had not been announced by Friday evening.

The airline's vice president explained the 12-day delay in resuming full service was needed to reprogram computers and inform the public.

"We have been accepting reservations in our computers during the strike, and to convert back to the increased schedule during the interim and try to get the word out to the customers would be very complicated," Barron said. "It's simpler to stay with this one (abbreviated schedule) and put the full schedule back into effect Feb. 1."

Karen Critcher, of the company's public relations department, said Feb. 1 would be a convenient time to reinstate a full schedule because a schedule change had been planned for that date even before the strike. She would not elaborate on what changes were planned.

Southwest officials, who said they were expecting a lengthy strike, took several steps to ensure their passengers' safety and mobility.

Supervisory personnel replaced striking mechanics and Howard Putnam, Southwest's president, asked Federal Aviation Administration officials to increase the number of times the planes were inspected. Because the striking mechanics generally performed only minor repairs, with major repairs contracted out to other airlines, Southwest officials said the airline could have operated for an indefinite period of time.

A maintenance contract signed Tuesday between Southwest and multi-millionaire H. Ross Perot's E-Systems will end after repairs on Southwest's planes are completed, a company spokesman said.

Local union president Lanny Rogers issued a statement Friday saying a meeting with federal mediators is scheduled for next week to draft final language for the new contract.

LEFTISTS DETAINED

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's small leftist party claimed Friday that ten of its active members and 40 sympathizers have been detained by the police. Khaled Mohieddine, who heads the Progressive Nationalist Union, said the detentions were made at dawn Tuesday, the day his party planned a rally to commemorate the birthday of the late Socialist president, Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Convicted Rapist Draws 30-Year Term In Prison

By KAY BELL
 Avalanche-Journal Staff

After deliberating 25 minutes Friday afternoon, a state district court jury assessed William Keith Carruth 30 years in prison for the August aggravated rape of 20-year-old Lubbock woman.

Although the 22-year-old Carruth had testified that the woman consented to sexual intercourse the early morning of Aug. 16, 1979, the panel returned with a guilty verdict on the case after 80 minutes of deliberation earlier Friday afternoon.

Carruth accepted both verdicts with the same stoic demeanor he maintained throughout the two-day trial in 140th District Court.

Prosecutor Travis Ware emphasized the defendant's unchanging expressions during punishment arguments, calling Carruth "calculating, unemotional and unmoved."

Ware also told the seven-man, five-woman panel that the circumstances of the knife-point abduction and rape at a southwest Lubbock cotton field painted "a portrait of a night of terror in Lubbock County."

Defense counsel Bob Jones, however, asked the jurors during punishment deliberations to consider Carruth's age and the support he provides his elderly grandparents.

Jones told the panel that even though a knife was used during the incident, the victim suffered no serious bodily injury.

Ware acknowledged that the young mother of a 3-year-old son "wasn't carved up," but added that such a defense argument "suggests we must have something like that before we can remove somebody from society for a period of time."

Ware also elaborated on coprosecutor Mark McBride's argument that rape is "the ultimate dishonor for a woman."

"This act is the ultimate insult to (the victim) and her family," an emotional McBride told the panel.

McBride also reminded the jury that Carruth is serving a six-year probation sentence assessed him five years ago when he was convicted of burglary of a vehicle.

Because of the prior conviction, Carruth was not eligible for probation. Jones, however, asked the panel not to "ruin another life" and assess Carruth the least number of years available within the five-to-99 year punishment range. The prosecutors had sought a 75-year term.

During guilt-or-innocence arguments earlier Wednesday, McBride emphasized Carruth's "inconsistency" in relating the events of early Aug. 16.

A Lubbock police officer testified Carruth offered two explanations for being with the woman just before his arrest about a block from his 2822 65th St. home. Referring to that testimony, McBride told the panel, "And now, this man has presented a defense of (the victim's) consent, a third distinct story."

Friday morning, Carruth took the witness stand and admitted he was with the woman that morning.

But, he said, she invited him to leave a 19th Street club with her and consented to his advances. Carruth added that after they both got into her vehicle, the woman took off her blouse.

The victim, however, testified Carruth followed her from the club to her car. She said they were never introduced and when she told him she had to leave, he pulled the knife and forced his way into the vehicle.

Torch To Be Lighted Despite Fuel Pinch

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's Public Service Commission has ruled that energy crisis or not, the giant Olympic torch will burn brightly next month at Lake Placid's 1980 Winter Games.

PSC rules ban the use of propane or natural gas to fuel outdoor lighting. That could have snuffed out the flame of the Olympic torch which traditionally burns in the host community during the Games.

But the PSC said this week it would allow propane to be used to fuel the Olympic torch at Lake Placid and for torch replicas in Glens Falls, Tarrytown and at the Empire State Plaza in Albany.

Suspect Sentenced To Life For Murder

Avalanche-Journal Staff
Alvis Ray Sanders, who was indicted for capital murder in connection with the Aug. 20, 1979, throat-cutting slaying of a 74-year-old Lubbock man, Friday avoided the possibility of receiving the death penalty by pleading guilty to murder.

In return for his guilty plea on the first-degree felony charge, Sanders was assessed a life sentence by 237th District Court Judge John R. McFall.

The Criminal District Attorney's Office agreed to the plea-bargaining arrangement in return for the "deadly weapon" clause included in the 29-year-old defendant's plea.

First Assistant Criminal District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell said that when a defendant pleads guilty to using a deadly weapon in the commission of crime, the defendant is required to serve at least one-third or 20 years, whichever is less, of his prison sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

In Sanders' case, he must serve the 20-year minimum before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles can consider releasing him from the Texas Department of Corrections.

Darnell added that the prison time must be "straight time," that is, Sanders cannot count the usual extra time given prison inmates for good behavior.

Earlier this week, McFall had denied a motion from Sanders' defense counsel Floyd Holder that the upcoming trial be moved from Lubbock County. Holder had argued that because of the publicity surrounding the slaying and Sanders' arrest and the possible racial prejudice he might encounter, the case should be granted a change of venue.

Before this morning's somewhat sudden action, Sanders had been scheduled to stand trial for the slaying of Paul Raymond Benton on Feb. 4.

Sanders, of 513 Ave. C, was arrested by Lubbock police on Aug. 28, 1979, eight days after officers had discovered Benton's body.

Benton was still breathing when found lying face down on the living room floor of his 2311 Eighth St. residence. A blood-soaked cloth was wrapped around his throat, which officers said had been cut from "ear to ear."

The elderly man was pronounced dead, however, on arrival at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

An anonymous tip that a man had been cut led police to Benton's home. Eight days later, two more anonymous calls made through Crime Line, Inc., pointed to Sanders as a suspect in the killing.

Hostages' Letters Give Families Different Views

By United Press International
Two men being held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Iran have written their families in Texas, giving widely different pictures of life in captivity.

A letter from Sgt. John D. McKeel Jr., apparently written around Christmas, arrived Thursday at the home of his parents, Mrs. and Mrs. John McKeel of Balch Springs, a Dallas suburb.

McKeel, likening his living conditions to that of a dog pound, said he had lost 25 pounds and was "thin as a board."

"You would not believe the food here — you can't eat half of it. I have never been so sick of rice in all my life," he wrote.

McKeel said his guards were "crazy."

"They have machine guns and shotguns and they go around shooting up the place," he said.

"The only thing (that) keeps us going is our family and praying the Lord will save us because the government is not doing a thing... I need all the support the family can give-me, so please pray and write, if it's just two words.

"We are not afraid of dying," the letter said. "I just wish it was for a cause."

At the bottom of the letter he wrote:

"Please return the shah so we can get the hell out of here."

But another captive, a civilian school teacher with the U.S. International Communications Agency, wrote his mother in Houston that he had been bored during the 75-day ordeal but his health has remained good.

Dorothy Royer, who has avoided interviews, said she received the letter from son William B. Royer, 48, on Wednesday. She refused to show it to reporters saying it contained personal messages for the family.

"It's the first word I've had of any kind, and I'm delighted," she said. "I'm real pleased because it shows that he is stable, still under control and has retained his marvelous sense of humor."
"I'm sure that this is clearly from Bill. It's his handwriting and this is his signature."

She said Royer described himself as "getting a little bored with the situation" but that "his health continues fine and that the only problem is inconvenience and the problems with personal hygiene."

Fireman Issue Goes To Voters

and bargaining rights issues would raise the cost of city government and would set the stage for outside labor leaders to play a role in determining city policies.

Cunningham told the council that giving firemen collective bargaining rights would be "expensive, time-consuming and very divisive" and that the pay raise would create more problems than we could cope with.

The city manager charged that the fire fighters association had misrepresented what collective bargaining rights would mean.

To allow labor leaders to determine salaries would render our personnel department useless in our efforts to keep our salaries competitive with other cities and to be fair in our treatment of all city employees," Cunningham said.

Cunningham noted that even though the firemen said there is no possibility of strikes if the bargaining rights issue were passed, the employees of one Texas city had gone on strike over higher wages and benefits granted to union police officers and firemen.

A few days later, fire fighter association spokesmen angrily denounced city officials for making "false accusations" regarding the two issues. The firemen blasted Cunningham's report, saying that "a more twisted interpretation of the actual facts would be difficult to imagine."

On Jan. 4, the firemen gained a new set of opponents when a committee made up of former mayors and city councilmen called a news conference. Dr. Jim Granberry, co-chairman of the committee, charged that passage of the pay raise and bargaining rights issues would raise the cost of city government and would set the stage for outside labor leaders to play a role in determining city policies.

Granberry maintained that city firemen are well paid and that the city has striven to provide them competitive salaries.

A few days later, the firemen responded with charges of their own. They claimed that Granberry and his group represent "Lubbock's big money cartel," which the firemen said has controlled Lubbock for decades.

"These prominent, wealthy political bosses have pledged unlimited amounts of money and time to preserve their stranglehold on our city," fire fighter spokesmen Dick Brightwell declared.

However, financial statements submitted to the City Secretary's Office indicate the firemen have raised more and spent more than the special committee. As of Jan. 11, the fire fighters association had spent approximately $11,600 on its campaign.

Expenditure figures were not available for the special committee, but its contribution statement turned in Monday showed donations totaling approximately $5,400.

The major expense for both sides has been advertising, which has built to a crescendo during the past two weeks. Newspaper, radio and television ads have carried both pro and con messages about the issues, and both sides have claimed their opponents have misrepresented the facts.

Spotlighted in many of the fire fighter ads have been the cotton gloves issued to firemen. The firemen claim the gloves are worthless because of their flammability. They say their complaints about the gloves have been unanswered by city officials.

Mayor Dirk West, in a news conference this week, charged that the firemen's complaints about the gloves should be aimed at the fire department. Fire Chief Tom Foster said the glove issue will be settled after the election.

In advertising this past week, the firemen have said that Foster does not represent the fire department and that collective bargaining is needed to assure adequate safety equipment.

The latest flap in the long, drawn-out campaign came Friday, when firemen charged that city officials have been "on strike" against property owners who live outside the city limits.

"The city council has been on strike against the county for two years," Brightwell said at an election eve news conference. "The county refused to pay the price demanded by the city council for fire runs, so the city council withheld that vital service."

"As a result, people's homes have been destroyed and lives threatened because the city council has ordered Lubbock fire fighters to stop at the city limits, even when they are within sight of a raging fire that demands their attention," Brightwell added.

Brightwell called on the council to resume fire service in the county at a "reasonable price," which he said would provide more than enough money to finance the firemen's pay request. He also said that the $1,200 per run charge that the city had proposed to county commissioners was not a reasonable fee.

West angrily responded to Brightwell's charges, saying, "This is none of their (the firemen's) business, nor will it ever be their business."

According to the mayor, the council is responsible for any contract negotiations, and the firemen's group has no business trying to tell council members what they should do about contracts with other governmental entities.

Also at Friday's news conference, Brightwell took issue with recent advertisements claiming that the lowest paid driver on the fire department staff makes $19,953.

According to the firemen, the annual base salary for the lowest paid driver is $15,142.44. One fireman charged that to get the figure published in the ad the opponents "double-charged" for the fireman's holiday, vacation and sick leave.

Firemen have claimed they are optimistic about the outcome of the election, saying they believe the people of Lubbock are behind them. Opponents to the two issues said the propositions probably will be defeated if there is a large voter turnout.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today.

Pakistan Aid Bill Rushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders agreed Friday on an accelerated legislative timetable that would allow the Carter administration to resume U.S. economic and military aid to Pakistan as early as February.

With Soviet helicopter gunships and tanks reportedly pursuing Moslem rebels in Afghanistan close to the border with Pakistan, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., said fast congressional approval of the first $200 million of the administration's two-year, $400 million aid plan was essential.

"They need the equipment," Zablocki, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said in an interview. He was referring to defense supplies to meet any Soviet military threat.

Administration officials have told congressmen the military package will include credits for purchase of anti-aircraft and anti-tank weapons and such economic assistance as fertilizer. Details were still being worked out, said a Zablocki aide.

The first $200 million installment will be half military and half economic aid.

Zablocki said his committee may approve the proposal within two weeks, and leadership aides said it will come up quickly for House and Senate floor votes.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is to present the aid request to a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Monday, the day before Congress reconvenes, and at public hearings of the Zablocki committee later in the week.

Acting under requirements of a federal law, President Carter last year halted all U.S. aid to Pakistan, except Food for Peace shipments, because of that country's refusal to allow international inspection of a nuclear research program which U.S. officials believe is geared to produce a nuclear weapon.

But at the Capitol Friday, the nuclear dispute was all but forgotten in the concern over a possible Soviet thrust into Pakistan from Afghanistan, and the need to meet Pakistan's defense requirements.

"We'll do it as fast as we can," said Gary Hymel, chief aide to Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill.

An aide to Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd said he told Carter he would hold early Senate sessions, if necessary, to speed approval of the Pakistan aid package.

The leadership plan calls for quick approval of a bill authorizing the initial $200 million and attaching the actual appropriation to an $8 billion foreign aid money bill under consideration by a House-Senate conference committee.

February Targeted
An aide on Zablocki's committee, who asked not to be named, said U.S. officials hope to start sending defense equipment to Pakistan by the end of February.

Pakistan's president, Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, belittled the $400 million U.S. aid plan in Rawalpindi Thursday as "peanuts" and "terribly disappointing." He said Pakistan "will not buy its security with $400 million," but the sum "will buy greater animosity from the Soviet Union."

Zia said Pakistan needs warplanes, ground-to-air missiles, anti-tank weapons and communications systems to strengthen defenses along its western border with Afghanistan. Stressing the particular need for communications and radar equipment, he said: "We are blind on our west totally."

Seen As Ploy
U.S. officials said privately Friday that Zia's remarks probably were a bargaining ploy intended to pry additional aid out of the United States.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said the U.S. aid plan should be considered as part of a larger, cooperative assistance program involving several countries.

The Zablocki committee aide said the $400 million is part of a package that will include equipment and other assistance from China and Saudi Arabia.

Carter is reported to have agreed to assure Congress in his forthcoming request for aid to Pakistan that it will not lessen U.S. efforts to prevent development of nuclear weapons in that country.

Afghan Rebels Reported Fleeing From Soviets Toward Pakistan

stan. Upon his arrival, he told reporters: "The recent developments in Afghanistan have added new significance to my visit."

U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown last week completed a nine-day visit to China that centered on the situation in Afghanistan, and both China and the United States have since expressed interest in getting additional arms to Pakistan.

China is already a major arms supplier to Pakistan. Western diplomatic sources in Islamabad say the Chinese delivered more than a third of the Moslem nation's warplanes and 700 of its 1,070 light and medium tanks, and the Press Trust of India reported Friday that the Chinese were already pouring additional arms into Pakistan.

PTI quoted unidentified sources as saying civilian traffic has been banned on the Pakistani side of the Chinese-built mountain highway linking the two countries. There was no confirmation from Pakistan but a Western expert in New Delhi noted that the roadway is normally closed by snow from December through February.

United News of India reported that about 900 Chinese have "infiltrated" China's 900 border with Afghanistan. It did not elaborate and there was no confirmation.

—In Peking, Chinese Vice Premier Ji Pengfei told a visiting U.S. congressional delegation that "the recent direct, naked invasion and occupation of Afghanistan by Soviet troops is in no way a matter only affecting that area, nor does it merely serve the immediate interests of the Soviet Union. It has further revealed the Soviet Union's long-term strategic objective to dominate the world."

—In New Delhi, the Indian government said it objected strongly to Zia's proposal that Pakistan and the United States sign a defense treaty. An Indian government spokesman, J.N. Dixit, said such a move might touch off an arms race in the region. He also said "historical experience" has shown that Pakistan has always used arms supplied by Western countries, against India. India and Pakistan have fought three wars since winning independence from Britain in 1947.

—In London, Lord Carrington, the British foreign secretary, returning from a 10-day visit that took him to Turkey, Oman, Saudi Arabia, Pakistan and India, said everyone was concerned by the developments in Afghanistan. He told reporters at Heathrow Airport, "I suppose the country most worried was Pakistan. They now feel they have the Soviet Union on their western borders and are very much at risk."

U.S. Describes Iran Near 'Disintegration'

tegrity stands despite their violation of international law represented by their continued holding of our people."

The Houston ministers, accompanied by a lawyer, have been in Tehran for several days, trying unsuccessfully to conduct religious services in the embassy for the hostages.

One of the clergymen, the Rev. Gene A. Moore, a Baptist, said in a telephone interview they plan to travel to Qom, Khomeini's headquarters city 100 miles south of Tehran, today and hope to meet with the revolutionary leader.

Moore said the Moslem militants holding the embassy told him Khomeini would meet only with spiritual leaders to discuss the crisis. The Iranian revolutionaries also have shown some favor toward blacks and other American minority groups.

But Moore conceded there is no guarantee the meeting with Khomeini will take place.

"We're going to suggest a plan for releasing the hostages," he said. "We're dealing with him on a spiritual level because it is a spiritual crisis rather than a political one."

He would not discuss details of their proposal.

The ministers — the others are the Revs. Bobby Mills, J.P. Paley and Don Lee Everett — are scheduled to return to the United States on Sunday.

U.N. Secretary-General Waldheim, who had little evident success in a mediation mission to Tehran earlier this month, was flying to India this weekend to open a U.N. conference.

His travel plans had aroused speculation he might stop off in Tehran for new discussions with Iranian authorities, but U.N. spokesmen denied it Friday. They said consultations would continue in New York among the United States and other members of the Security Council about possible avenues of conciliation — including a U.N. investigation of the Pahlavi regime.

At his Tehran news conference, Ghotbzadeh was asked about reports of a buildup of Soviet troops in western Afghanistan, not far from the Iranian border. He said the Iranians were looking into the reports.

"We are going to protest fiercely about any such buildup," he said, according to the monitored Tehran Radio broadcast.

The Soviets, whose troops are helping the Marxist Afghan government put down an anti-communist rebellion, strongly deny they intend to cross into Iranian territory. U.S. officials say they have detected no signs of such plans.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show, was asked how long the embassy crisis could go on.

"Nothing is the same from one day to the next in Iran," he replied. "Iran is a country which is on the verge almost of disintegration." He said the economy is "in shambles" and the military "in many ways non-existent."

"They are paying a terrible price for their fascination, their preoccupation with these hostages," Powell said.

He said the United States would go ahead with its plans for new economic sanctions against Iran.

Skunk Driven From Hideout

LAFE, Ark. (UPI) — There are certain satisfactions a rural school administrator can savor that will remain forever unknown to urban educators.

For example, outwitting a skunk.

Rick Saunders is the school superintendent at Lafe, population 139.

"They don't teach you these things in graduate school," said gsaunders, who is completing his dissertation for a doctorate in Educational Administration at Memphis State.

The skunk crawled under the school building last week and wouldn't come out. No one saw him but they very definitely knew he was there.

But no one could figure out how to get the skunk out.

Two students offered to crawl under the school and fetch the skunk for a bounty of $20. "But I couldn't do that because some of these skunks are rabid," he said.

There were discussions of smoking the critter out, but they were afraid they might set the school on fire.

Economy Shows Surprising Strength; Predicted Recession Fails To Arrive

very nearly disappeared," as the fourth quarter-to-fourth quarter computations showed.

"The good news was that the resiliency of the economy in the second half of the year suggests that the recession, expected now in the first half of this year, 'will be modest'."

"I think we have to view some brief and moderate recession in the first half of this year as fairly inevitable," Miss Slater said.

The main reason, she said, was the consumer spending could not be expected to continue buoying the economy. "The personal savings rate has gone so low... I would not expect it will go lower," she said. And she added that there were limits on how much consumers could buy on credit, now at record levels.

Miss Slater was not, however, optimistic that the downturn would result in inflation relief. Inflation, as measured by the report's price index, averaged 9.4 percent last year.

"I think there will be only modest improvement in inflation next year," she said.

She added, however, that inflation as measured by a different index — the Consumer Price Index, which measures the value of a fixed marketbasket of consumer goods and services — could drop from its current annual rate of increase of 13 percent to about 10 percent because it will be more sensitive to a decline in mortgage interest rates expected next year.

Meanwhile, higher energy prices and rapidly rising mortgage interest rates took their tolls on two key segments of the economy.

Business investment fell at an annual 7.7 percent in the final three months of 1979 to an annual $203 billion after rising 7.2 percent in the previous three months. This was "due entirely to a drop in business purchases of motor vehicles," Miss Slater said.

Over the year, business investment had advanced 2.2 percent, compared with 7.1 percent in 1978, Commerce Department data showed.

Residential construction declined at an annual rate of 9.8 percent in the final quarter of 1979 to $55 billion and ended the year 6.1 percent below 1978 construction levels, the report indicated.

Exports rose an annual 5.8 percent in the final quarter of 1979 to an annual $123.9 billion to end the year 10 percent ahead of 1978. Imports, meanwhile, grew an annual 4.5 percent in the fourth quarter to $103.2 billion, ending 4.2 percent ahead of 1978.

Before adjustment for inflation, the nation's gross national product was an annual $2.5 trillion in the fourth quarter, up nearly 10 percent from the $2.2 trillion of the fourth quarter of 1978.

After inflation adjustment, the quarterly changes this year looked like a see-saw. The economy had grown at an annual rate of 5.6 percent in the final quarter of 1979. Growth decreased to 1.1 percent in the first quarter last year, then fell at an annual 2.3 percent in the second quarter. The economy rebounded in the third quarter to show 3.1 percent annual growth and continued into the fourth with 1.4 percent growth.

Kennedy Campaigns For Iowa Delegates

By The Associated Press

While Jimmy Carter remained at home and Edmund G. Brown Jr. prepared to tour New England, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy sought Friday to make points with Iowa's Democrats, three days before precinct caucuses marking the initial delegate-gathering test among presidential candidates.

Kennedy arrived in Sioux City at midday and promptly renewed his assault on Carter's decision to curtail grain shipments to the Soviet Union.

"It will hurt the American taxpayer and the American farmer far more than it will the Soviet transgressor," said the Massachusetts senator, who was accompanied by his wife Joan.

In another part of the state, Vice President Walter F. Mondale encountered a demonstration by farmers who waved placards demanding: "Embargo Carter." And in New Hampshire, Rosalynn Carter said the president prefers to stay in Washington, "where he feels that he must be because of the international situation."

Kennedy said food should not be used as a weapon, adding that the embargo of 17 million metric tons of grain destined for the Soviet Union was unwise and unjust to Americans.

"It will effectively mean that the Soviet Union citizen will eat less meat and more poultry next year," he said. Kennedy said he supports punishing the Russians for their move into Afghanistan, but believes U.S. foreign policy should be based on security efforts and diplomatic moves instead.

Protesters Confronted
Mondale, who has been Carter's chief surrogate in Iowa, confronted about 100 men and women protesters in a pickup truck motorcade as he arrived for a tour of the Mason City Globe-Gazette newspaper.

The demonstrators stood across the street from the building for a full hour while Mondale visited newspaper employees and toured the facilities.

When the vice president left the building, he immediately crossed the street and walked into the crowd of protesters. He told them, "We did not want to do what we did, but we had to punish the Russians."

He was interrupted several times by farmers' questions as he tried to explain the Carter administration's position.

"Doing Everything"
"We are doing everything we can to firm up the farm prices," Mondale said. "We want the family farmer to prosper."

"We can't survive," retorted Darrell Buchholz, who owns a farm south of Mason City.

There were no incidents.

In another development, Joan Kennedy stressed she believes her husband's account of the July, 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick Island, in which her husband's companion, Mary Jo Kopechne, was drowned.

Mrs. Kennedy told an airport news conference at Sioux City she questioned the timing of recent stories challenging the senator's version of what happened that night.

"I happen to believe that these stories are coming out now because of this crucial time, you know, the Iowa caucuses next Monday," she said.

"Speak For Itself"
Later, in Des Moines, Kennedy was asked about his wife's statement.

"I think there have been a number of stories all within the final days," he said. "I would let that speak for itself."

Kennedy said he believes Iowans are "fair-minded" and would make up their minds in the presidential race on the basis of issues, including the grain embargo.

Carter planned to spend the most of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., mountaintop retreat, while Brown was in his home state of California Friday. The governor, who had vowed earlier that he is in the presidential race to stay, made plans for a visit to New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont during the weekend.

Iran's Troubles Multiplying, Says Ousted American Newsman

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch was submitted from Tehran, where UPI correspondent Alvin B. Webb arrived Friday after leaving Tehran under the government's order expelling American journalists.

By ALVIN B. WEBB
TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — American journalists and photographers, expelled by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic government, are leaving Iran in droves, but the standoff at the U.S. Embassy — and the bloody internal battles — go on.

Iran's troubles, if anything, appeared to be multiplying. Western sources in Tehran said there is evidence of a Soviet buildup in Afghanistan along Iran's eastern frontier, and reports reaching Rome told of dozens of deaths in rioting Friday in Iran's western province of Kurdistan.

In a news conference in Tehran broadcast by Tehran radio and monitored by the BBC in London, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said Friday that Iran "cannot remain indifferent to an increase in the Soviet military presence on our borders."

In Iran's increasingly xenophobic society, there were no journalists from American news agency, television, newspapers and magazines left to report the new troubles, and the campaign for Iran's presidential elections, set for Jan. 25.

Friday midnight was the deadline, set by the ruling Revolutionary Council, for most of them to get out of the country. The few that were allowed to remain were forbidden to file any reports.

Tehran's hotel lobbies and Mehrabad Airport both were littered Thursday with cameras, tape recorders and typewriters ticketed for shipment out of the country.

Behind them reporters left telex and teletype machines and telephones that have been idle since midnight Tuesday, when the order for them to cease filing went into effect.

Behind them also were left the reason they came to Iran in the first place — the 50 American hostages who have been held in the occupied U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4 and who Friday were in their 76th day in captivity.

Around the massive embassy compound, there were the thousands of posters proclaiming "death to Carter, death to the shah" — and silence.

Gone were the massive crowds that once jammed the street in front of the embassy, chanting their defiance of the United States, their demand for the return of deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and their support for the man who replaced him, 79-year-old Ayatollah Khomeini.

The disappearance of the mobs, coinciding with the disappearance of journalists, particularly television crews, was interpreted in some Iranian circles as an indication the hostage crisis might be defused if the journalists were removed.

The expulsion of the journalists was ordered by the Revolutionary Council, which has collided on more than a few occasions with the estimated 500 Moslem militants holding the Americans.

But there seemed to be little prospect that removal of the journalists would resolve the problem. The link between the young militants and the bearded Khomeini, operating from his headquarters in the Moslem holy city of Qom, is almost mystical, and there seemed little indication the religious leader would break that tie.

This week in Iran has been marked by another string of celebrations — Wednesday's first anniversary of the Shah's flight from Tehran; Thursday's observance of the death of another imam, or religious leader, centuries ago; Friday's regular Moslem sabbath.

Mixed in all was one demonstration after another — hundreds of thousands of Iranians marching for a variety of reasons in a variety of cities around the country, chanting the anti-American, anti-Soviet and pro-Khomeini slogans that have become almost trite.

Ten Motorists Missing After Bridge Collapses In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Frogmen searched for at least ten motorists hurled into deep water Friday after the mid-section of a highway bridge collapsed when a freighter rammed it in early morning fog. Six cars and a truck plunged into the strait on the Swedish west coast, police said.

More than a dozen frogmen were dispatched to the scene. But chances were slim of finding any survivors in the freezing temperatures. None of the vehicles had been found by nightfall.

Because of poor visibility, frogmen were able to search only halfway down the 130-foot deep waters under the bridge connecting Tjorn Island with the mainland about 300 miles north of Goteborg.

Police feared currents had carried the vehicles 600 feet or more away from the collapsed bridge.

During a critical hour before police cordoned off both approaches, witnesses said seven vehicles plunged into the cold water when speeding onto the 1,700-foot bridge, missing an 800-foot mid-section knocked down by the freighter.

About 12,000 vehicles normally cross the bridge each day.

Trucker Jan Rosenberg, who entered the Almo Bridge from the mainland in darkness and fog, told reporters he suddenly realized it ended in a "big nothing."

"I hit the brakes and stopped 10 meters (33 feet) from the edge," he said. "I just sat there for a minute, staring. I went outside and saw two headlights coming up on the opposite side. Suddenly, they dove and disappeared."

There were no reports of cars using the bridge at the moment it was rammed by the Liberian-registered 16,000-ton Star Clipper at 1:27 a.m. The 33-member crew of the freighter escaped injury. Police said they planned to question the pilot and captain.

One Spanish crew member, Josto

Souto Villa, said he saw six or seven cars speeding over the edge of the bridge and falling into the water. He said, "We could do nothing."

After the Star Clipper rammed the bridge, the crew radioed authorities and mainland policemen were on the scene in 14 minutes setting up a roadblock at one end of the bridge, police said.

A policeman on Tjorn Island was called at home some 10 minutes after the accident, police said, but it took him 50 minutes to get dressed and drive to the bridge to block the other end.

Coast guard officials said the freighter, owned by Norwegian Alfr. Olsen Line, hit the bridge span while apparently being piloted too close to the island.

The concrete and steel bridge, costing $3.6 million, was completed in 1960. Experts estimate it will cost up to $12 million and two years to complete repairs on the bridge. Sweden's worst bridge disaster occurred in 1939, when the Sando Bridge in the northern province of Angermanland collapsed while being built, killing 18 construction workers.

Geologist Predicts High Plains May Experience Earthquakes

By RAYNIE HARDESTY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although the geo-structure of the earth is considered "very stable" beneath the Texas High Plains, two events are taking place which could trigger earthquakes in this area.

A Lubbock geologist, Dr. Warren Wood, has expressed concern about certain oil recovery techniques and their relationship to earthquake occurrences. Another geologist in California has predicted that pumping of ground water may trigger the quakes.

Man's injection of water into oil fields already has caused a significant number of earthquakes in the United States, said Dr. Wood, a professor at Texas Tech University.

Wood, who formerly was a scientist for U.S. Geological Survey at the research center in Menlo Park, Calif., explained that a "secondary flooding operation" sometimes is used to pump all of the oil from a field.

The professor explained that oil is pumped from beneath the surface until no more can be drawn, then water is injected into the field.

"The oil floats on top of the water and is pushed up toward the pumping wells," explained Wood.

"Injection of that water has caused a significant number of earthquakes," he added.

Among the examples he cited were a disposal well, located near Denver, Colo., where "liquid waste matter from manufacturing processes was injected 12,000 feet down," he said.

Scientists have recorded more than 100 earthquakes in that area, some reaching up to five on the Richter Scale. He said they are attributed to the disposal well.

Wood said this oil recovery technique may have caused the June 16, 1978, quake which shook West Texas from Lubbock to San Angelo and Abilene. The small earthquake, which originated from a fault a split rock beneath the earth's surface 20 miles north of Snyder, ranged from 3 to 5 on various Richter scales across the country.

Dr. D.H. Shurbet, professor of geosciences and director of the Texas Tech Seismological Service, told The Avalanche-Journal the day of that quake that he expected more to occur on the South Plains because "they've been happening over there for a year."

"I don't think they're going to stop," he concluded. That tremor occurred within miles of a major oil field.

Wood also supports studies done by Dr. Thomas Holzer, a scientist at the Menlo Park research center, who believes that removal of water from an aquifer encourages the occurrence of quakes.

Wood, who has discussed the theory with Holzer, said "I would agree with him. It's a possibility."

West Texans draw about two feet of water from Ogallala Aquifer annually. Holzer defines the possible triggering of earthquakes because of the dwindling underground water supply as an "unloading phenomenon."

Wood explained that the earth has been compressed "by the underground water which weighs about 62 pounds per cubic foot.

"With less weight on the earth, then it is free to move up," explained Wood. "The earth responds and rebounds" as the water is removed.

The geoscientist said that even though removal of groundwater allows the earth's crust to expand, the structure of the earth below West Texas is tectonically stable. He said the phenomenon could cause possible uplifting in the area, but that the occurrence of earthquakes is "not likely."

Other earthquakes in West Texas have been recorded in the Kermit area since 1964 or 1965. Quakes were reported in the Borger area in 1968 and 1974.

Changing San Andreas Fault Puzzles Scientists At Center

By DONALD J. FREDERICK
National Geographic News Service
MENLO PARK, Calif. — Massive compressors hiss ominously and things go bump in the day beneath the U.S. Geological Survey's campus-like Center for Earthquake Studies at Menlo Park.

Buried in the basement of the headquarters building are the laboratories where the strange things happen. In one of the labs, the compressors put rock samples under the same stress and strain they would experience more than 60 miles beneath the surface of the earth during a severe jolt.

In another, huge chunks of rock, some weighing tens of tons, are first cracked and then subjected to incredible pressures in a device that can simulate the effects of a major tremor. Dozens of tiny sensors record how the rocks respond to the stress.

"The labs are an invaluable adjunct to our work in the field," said Dr. Barry Raleigh, who heads many of the USGS earthquake programs. "Despite the number of quakes that jar the West Coast each year, scientists are still mystified about what's really going on beneath them."

Although the restless earth keeps Dr. Raleigh and his colleagues guessing, they are doing their best to hasten the day when reliable earthquake predictions can be made.

California is a natural focus of their attention. The awesome San Andreas Fault system slices through it for 700 miles, almost to Oregon. And faults maze

Ugandans Take First Census Since 1969

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Millions of Ugandans stayed indoors Friday as 50,000 census takers conducted the nation's first headcount since 1969.

All shops in Kampala, Uganda's capital, were closed and only the country's 1.5 million Moslems were allowed on the streets to attend mid-day prayers.

Police ordered a 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. curfew for the census, which was scheduled to last one day in larger cities and as long as a week in remote, rural areas.

Government officials said the census will cost $8.6 million dollars.

the southern part of the state almost as extensively as its freeways. Perhaps 10,000 quakes of various sizes jolt California each year.

It's no surprise then that California is the most closely monitored place in the world for earthquakes.

"Strainmeters" gauge the tension in rocks; "creepmeters" measure the subtlest movement of the earth's crust in fault zones; "tiltmeters" look for distortion in the slope of the land; and "magnetometers" record change in the earth's magnetic field caused when rocks are subjected to great pressure.

Backing up this esoteric gaggle of instruments is a network of 400 seismometers designed to feed information on tremors into central data collecting points. They're so sensitive they pick up the vibrations of rabbits that hop by.

The interior of the earth hasn't been neglected, either. In the last four years, five wells have been dug in southern California to detect escaping radon gas. Many experts believe that in some instances the amount of the short-lived radioactive gas seeping into the water increases perceptibly a few days or even a month before a severe jolt.

Preliminary findings are encouraging. Scintillation counters used to monitor the water showed a sharp increase at the three wells within about 20 miles of three large quakes that rocked southern California last year.

The wells are relatively shallow compared with the holes being drilled near the San Andreas Fault. So far two have been dug, one to 2,000 feet. A third, planned for 3,000 feet, will be started in a matter of days. In the next few years at least one more a year will be drilled.

"Eventually, we hope to probe more than a mile beneath the surface of the earth to a zone where earthquakes can be detected at their inception," said Dr. Raleigh.

Meanwhile, materials from the deep drill project are being sent back to the labs for analysis. As USGS geophysicist James H. Dietrich pointed out, "By subjecting the granite and other substances we gather from these deep levels to exhaustive tests, we may be able to formulate a precise idea of what occurs down there then a tremor strikes. This would be a tremendous help in everything from prediction work to recommendations for more stringent building codes."

Nothing, however, baffles USGS scientists more than the bulge — a 32,400-square-mile region centered in the western part of the Mojave Desert about 40 miles northeast of Los Angeles near Palmdale.

Since 1960 it has risen about a foot and a half, but in the last five years has slowly begun to subside. Recent measurements indicate that just north of Pasadena it has dropped 2 inches and about 4 inches near Gorman, just in the last year.

Equally puzzling and a bit frightening is the westward expansion of the terrain along the San Andreas Fault in the Palmdale region, a startling switch from the north-south contraction previously indicated. Laser measurements show that a 15-mile stretch of the land has grown by a quarter acre in the last six months.

Whether the westward move is due to a rise in hill elevation along the fault or to a decrease in the density of rock has yet to be determined. Both are interpreted as land expansion by the USGS.

The 3,000-foot drill hole, which will probe the mystery area, may give USGS scientists a better idea of what's going on.

One thing seems disturbingly evident. According to Dr. Raleigh, "If the present pattern of expansion and straining continues, it is likely to lead to a large earthquake on the San Andreas Fault sooner than would the earlier pattern of north-south contraction."

Extensive Area In East Rocked By Earthquake Series In 1800s

By JOY ASCHENACH
National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — Chandeliers shook in Charleston, S.C. Clocks stopped. Church bells rang. Windows rattled in Washington, D.C. Dishes clattered in Boston. The earth trembled in Detroit and New Orleans.

Back in the bootheel of Missouri, the ground rose and fell in earth waves. Houses cracked. Chimneys toppled. Forests were flattened. The mighty Mississippi briefly reversed course.

The culprit was an often forgotten series of earthquakes that struck the New Madrid, Mo., area in 1811-12 and sent shock tremors over more than million square miles of the continental United States. No other earthquake in U.S. history affected so extensive an area.

When Americans think "earthquake," they think "California." But earthquakes east of the Rocky Mountains — while they do not occur at great magnitudes as frequently as their California counterparts — generally have more far-reaching effects than those in the West. A major earthquake that hit Charleston in 1886, for example, was felt as far away as Burlington, Vt., Dubuque, Iowa, and Milwaukee.

The New Madrid earthquake was comparable in force to the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, which killed 600 people, according to geophysicist Dr. Otto Nuttli of St. Louis University. But in the then sparsely settled Missouri frontier, there was little loss of life. The principal devastation was the violent disruption of the environment.

"Because the area affected would be so great, if an equivalent earthquake struck today the potential for destruction would be enormous," said Dr. Robert M. Hamilton, a geophysicist with the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS).

Eastern earthquakes travel greater distances, scientists theorize, because the rock is more uniform, less broken up than in the West. There also is less water — which absorbs shocks — deep in the earth in the East, Nuttli pointed out. But he added, "We do not know the ultimate cause of the difference."

While most U.S. earthquake experts are kept busy hovering over California's San Andreas Fault and Palmdale bulge, there are small teams at the USGS, state geological surveys, and area universities that are seriously poking around the New Madrid and Charleston earthquake zones.

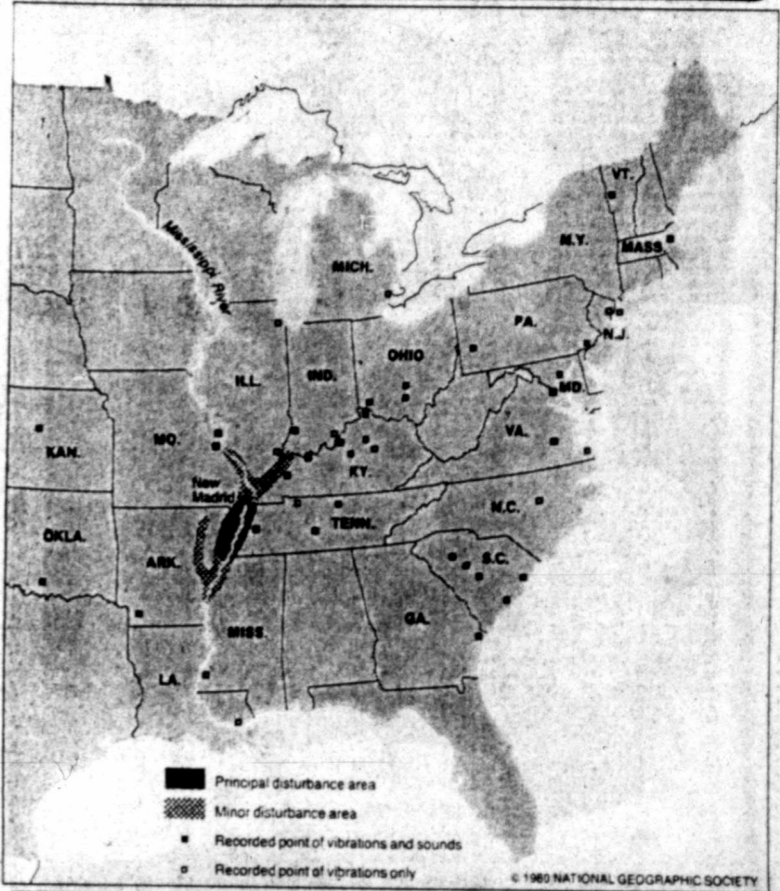

"When you had a major earthquake halfway between St. Louis and Memphis, you have to ask, 'Could it occur in St. Louis or Memphis?'" Hamilton said. Recent USGS surveys, which for the first time pinpointed the main fault zone of the New Madrid earthquake, reveal that it does not pass under either city.

"The goal of our work is not to alarm. See EARTHQUAKES Page 6B

VISTA Neighborhood Meeting Hears Ways Of Lowering Energy Bills

By JACQUE HUTCHINS
Family News Staff

Volunteers In Service To America (VISTA) held a community meeting for the Arnett-Benson residents at McWhorter School Thursday night to discuss ways to conserve energy.

Lubbock utility company representatives gave presentations and answered questions concerning the residents' energy dollars.

Jim Goodwin, of Southwestern Bell, reported that phone bills have gone up less than other bills, with only a 14 percent increase since 1973, compared to 155 percent increase for mortgage payments, and a 264 percent increase for oil.

Goodwin cited ways to save money on telephone bills. He suggested taking advantage of these money-saving tips if at all possible:

1. Use the two-party service. The cost is $5 per month, compared to $7.15 for the one-party service.
2. Take advantage of residence measured service. The cost is $5.10 per month, with each call above 25 costing eight cents per call. There is a standard service charge for switching to this system.
3. Never make long distance calls through the operator unless you have to, since this way is more expensive.
4. Make long distance calls from 5-11 p.m. weekdays for a 35 percent discount or all day Saturday and up to 5 p.m. Sunday for a 60 percent discount.
5. Do not make more than 10 directory assistance calls per month. There will be a 20 cent charge for calls over this.

Joy Parnell and Armando Gonzales, of Southwestern Public Service, advised not comparing your utility bills with those of other households. They stated that to make a difference in your bills, you will have to make a difference in your house. Making the changes below could result in a lower utility bill.

1. Cut down on your cooling.
2. Insulate well, using weather stripping around the doors and caulking around the windows.

3. Change air filters regularly.
4. Turn the lights out when you leave a room, and teach your children to do the same.
5. Check the energy efficient ratio (EER) when buying appliances. If the EER is high, then the cost of running the appliance will cost you less.

J.D. Young, of Lubbock Power and Light, said not to be confused by your utility bill if it differs from month to month. The meter could be read anywhere from 28 to 34 days, which causes the bill to vary.

Young suggests being aware of how much energy each of your appliances uses and try to cut down when possible. To ensure a proper reading he suggests taking care of your meter by following these guidelines:

1. Keep the glass clean so the person reading the meter can take an accurate reading. Don't paint over the meter when painting your house.
2. Protect the meter reader from dogs in the back yard. If the reader can't get to your meter, an estimate will have to be used.
3. Set aside a time every day to read your meter to see the difference that your appliances make.

Bill Wade and Billy Jack Hacker, of Pioneer Natural Gas, told the group what utilities to cut down on and how to help decrease the cost.

1. In the winter, the biggest cost is the heating system. Keep the thermostat at 68 degrees.
2. Water heating is the second biggest

Marchers Ready Campaign

Volunteer marchers for the Mothers' March of Dimes have picked up their packets of materials for the house-to-house campaign which begins Sunday.

Although volunteer workers hope to contact most Lubbock homes Sunday, the campaign to raise funds to fight birth defects will continue throughout the week.

Linda Greener, executive director of the March of Dimes, said that community support for the campaign has been such that workers hope this will be the most successful year ever for the March.

Among the groups which have helped with the campaign are the Jaycee-ettes, fraternities and sororities on the Texas Tech campus, Angel Flight, Tri-Hi-Y, the ESA Business women, and other organizations and clubs. Furr's Supermarkets have agreed to serve as drop-stations throughout the day Sunday, where campaigners can turn in their materials. Bell Dairy has contributed to publicity for the campaign as well.

The newest thrust of the March of Dimes, which changed its name this year to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation to better reflect the emphasis on improving the outcome of pregnancy through the prevention of birth defects, is on the changing status of the family in regard to health care needs, programs of research, medical services and education.

Homeowners Use Custom Products

NEW YORK (MNS) — Unlike his early-American counterpart who chose handcrafted products out of necessity, today's homeowner chooses the custom look deliberately. He does so as an expression of taste and pride of ownership.

The past recaptured
Real traditional pieces require traditional materials and traditional craftsmen. Today, however, homeowners can find factory-made products that feature reproductions and adaptations of aristocratic designs.

Stock wood entries that recapture the authentic detailing and exquisite craftsmanship of period architecture are one example.

The front entrance of a house, an obvious and important exterior feature, is too often overlooked in remodeling plans. It shouldn't be.

A drab, uninteresting doorway can be replaced with a distinguished stock entry. They are available in a variety of styles at local building supply dealers.

Some of these early entries duplicate the simplicity and graceful lines of Colonial and Federal architecture.

Others are modern in design, but executed with the same skill and care to complement contemporary, ranch-style.

Mediterranean, country cottage or formal home styles.

Available as complete packages with sidelights, overhead fan lights, columns, pediments and other decorative features, wood entries are sanded smooth and can be painted to blend or contrast with the rest of the house.

For a special touch
Decorative hardware such as brass door plates and knobs can be added to further enhance the appearance. For comfort and easy care, these wood doors are easily weatherstripped. The wood itself is a natural insulator.

Replacing a commonplace front door with one that looks custom-made has the look of entries found in the most expensive homes and of the kind that were once made only by master craftsmen.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Maybe you could help me and others who want to know how to get the shine out of polyester pants that are still in good condition?
I've read the "Heloise" column for many years and wonder what I'd do without it — it's a real blessing. — Glen You're a dear, Glen, but don't you dare laugh when I tell you what will dull down shiny polyester, hear?

No, it's not my all-purpose standby nylon net but it IS 5 percent white vinegar.

Dip a terry washcloth in the full-strength vinegar and rub the daylight out of the shiny seat of those pants. Rub north and south, then east and west. Don't press them, though, cause that'll only undo what you've just done.
Let those pants air-dry and the vinegar will leave no odor.

What causes shine is the fibers being pressed down tightly. The acid in the vinegar plus brisk rubbing helps to bring the fibers back up to the surface of the garment.

This treatment will work on wool and flannel too.
With fashions changing as fast as they do, when that old suit comes back in style, just dust it off, vinegar-rub out the shine, and be "with it" again!

In the meantime, check that office, lounge or hard-surfaced chair. Soiled cushions or no-cushion hardness cause the shine on pants in the first place.
See you tomorrow? — Hugs, Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

For potato salad in a hurry, make a batch of instant potatoes.
Add the normal potato salad seasoning and dressing and — presto! — you have a delicious dish.
The added ingredients, which seem to penetrate the mashed potatoes better, suggest a good way to use those leftover mashed potatoes too. — Irma McConnell

DEAR HELOISE:

Must tell you how I take care of my patio plants in the winter.
My attached garage opens on the patio. So I use a mechanic's creeper (that contraption they slide under your car) to hold my plants.

On sunny days I roll it out onto the patio and then back into the garage at night. — Peral Trugrove

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's another great use for nylon net.

My grandmother made a basketball-size ball of net and attached it to a three-foot stick.

Works great for getting at hard-to-reach cobwebs because grandmother stands about 4 feet 10.
She made one for each of her daughters and granddaughters. I love mine! — Debra Ashby

DEAR HELOISE:

Winter storms and stuck windows prompted me to send you a tip which I discovered last winter.

If ice forms in aluminum window tracks, it's a "pane" to remove them. And chipping at the ice is definitely a no-no.

Instead, just put the hose to the vacuum cleaner in the exhaust end (for blowing) and direct the warm air at the ice.

In a matter of minutes the ice melts, the water is blown away, and the track is dried by the warm, swift-moving air.
You can free up thumb latches or sleet-covered doors the same way. Of course a door may take a little while longer if it's frozen shut and you have to work from the inside. But how can you work from the outside if you can't get out! — Mrs. Leo Mentnech

If you have a hand-held blow hair dryer, it'll do a pretty quick job, too! — Heloise.

Snow, sleet, ice, hail! Have any hints on the how-tos of coping with winter weather? Send them to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. She can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in her column.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I ran across something I would like to share with all the wonderful people who read your column. This piece was reprinted in "The Ohio Mason" and signed, "Author Unknown."
There is so much common sense here it could save a lot of grief if enough people would only take it to heart.
Thank you for your consideration. — Lutkin, Tex., Ann Fan

Dear Fan: I appreciate your sending the essay on. I agree, it is loaded with common sense. Now let's hope my readers will learn from it.

The Enemy

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world. I have destroyed more men than all the wars of all nations. I massacre thousands of people every year. I am more deadly than bullets, and I have wrecked more homes than a cabal of the world's most sensuous women.

In the United States alone, I steal over $500 million each year. I spare no one, and I find victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and weak. Widows know me to their everlasting sorrow. I loom up in such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor.

I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, yet, you heed me not. I am relentless, merciless and cruel. I am everywhere — in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings, on land, in the air and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, yet few seek me out to destroy me. I crush, I maim, I will give you nothing and I may rob you of everything you have.

I am your worst enemy — I am CARELESSNESS.

forget about me, Toots. I'm here for you, too.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Women Face Underemployment

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most important problems facing working women today, says career counselor Marcia Fox, is the problem of "underemployment."

People who are underemployed are those who feel their talents and their abilities are not being fully utilized in their jobs, Dr. Fox noted.

"Feeling underemployed is one of the sources of deep discontent of the working woman," she said.

Dr. Fox is an assistant dean of career development and job placement at New York University's Graduate School of Public Administration and author of a recent book, "Put Your Degree to Work."

Changing jobs is a very important first step for people who feel they are underemployed, Dr. Fox said.

But, she added, "make sure you know what you're all about and make sure you know what you want and make sure you're twice as smart as everybody else out there looking for the same thing."

She said a lack of career goals was one problem that many people faced.

"A career is something that you have to have some control over, whereas a job or changing jobs, gives you less control over the path you've been charting," Dr. Fox said.

She stressed that career goals were going to become more and more important to women in the work force in the years ahead.

"To the extent to which we care about career goals — and I predict that we will inevitably be caring more about career goals certainly as the divorce statistics continue to grow and certainly as the economic inflationary pressures are upon us — it's going to matter more and more that women can be responsible for their own survival and can be responsible for their own destiny," Dr. Fox said.

Her suggestions for charting career goals include the following:

— Ask if your career fits you psychologically. Are you in a career where the kind of talents and skills required are basically not the ones that you feel comfortable with or enjoy using?

— Ask if you are in-tune with the career you've charted for yourself. And then, are you managing your talents?
— Are you leading from your own strengths — the things that you can do easily and well? Are those strengths in some way being integrated into your career planning activities and are they being used in your daily life?

"If not," Dr. Fox said, "try to think about ways in which you can integrate them because chances are the things you do well or the things you enjoy doing can be a great source of success in your career if you are able to integrate them."

She said one trend that was likely to occur in the workplace in future years was an increase in the number of women who owned their own businesses — particularly among women who were trying to juggle the demands of both a career and a family.

"I think one of the reasons why women entrepreneurs will grow in numbers over the next decade is because this is one of the ways in which a woman can dictate how she wants to spend her life and can accommodate all of her multiple and complicated roles," she said.

Dr. Fox was among a group of panelists at a recent "Stress and the Working Woman" workshop held recently at the Ford Foundation here. The workshop was co-sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation and the Clairor Corp.

ATTENTION CITIZENS

Don't be misled by unsupported and UNTRUE CLAIMS ABOUT OUTSIDE INFLUENCE OR TAKEOVER

The claim that collective bargaining will bring outside labor bosses into Lubbock is totally ridiculous and unfounded. It is not supported by fact — In the nine Texas cities that have had collective bargaining (some for 5 years), firefighters have handled their own negotiations.

Our affiliation with the AFL-CIO is just that, an affiliation. The AFL-CIO has absolutely no authority in our local affairs. They cannot and would not interfere in our operations. Any claim to the contrary is an outright lie!

Our association consists strictly of firefighters. We have always and will continue to conduct all our affairs and business in an honorable, respectful manner.

We would like to point out, however, that the City Administration belongs to a union, the Texas Municipal League. And, they use your tax dollars to pay their dues. Although you pay their dues, you, as a taxpayer, have no voice in their activities. CHECK IT OUT. There is nothing within the law we seek that can possibly limit the city's authority. This law merely requires the city to meet with us. This is also a fact!

GIVE US YOUR TRUST ... VOTE FOR COLLECTIVE BARGAINING Jan. 19

For a complete discussion of the issues involved in this election, see the main firefighters ad in this newspaper. For further information or a ride to the polls call 747-7661.

To Your Good Health

By PAUL DONOHUE, M.D.
Dear Dr. Donohue: Two years ago my husband had malignant hypertension. His blood pressure went up to 300 and he was hospitalized for a month and since then has been on lots of medication. What is the difference between malignant and regular hypertension? Would this cause him to have leg cramps? — Mrs. M.H.

Some medical terms are scarier than others. "Malignant" is one that is so associated with cancer that the layman may see it almost exclusively in that context.

However, the word is used in many other ways. Malignant hypertension, in its strict sense, means elevated blood pressure that causes changes in the eye — swelling of optic discs (nerves) and bleeding into the retina area.

In a looser sense, malignant hypertension refers to any sudden sharp increase in pressure. "Regular" high blood pressure is featured by a moderate sustained rise. There are no sudden sharp increases.

The hypertension itself should not cause leg cramps. Associated circulatory problems or a lowering of potassium might. Some blood pressure medication may produce cramps.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a continuing problem with athlete's foot. Every time I turn around it seems like I have another case. What steps, actions, precautions can be taken to help reduce the frequency of recurrence? I usually wash my feet every night, dry them thoroughly and then apply an anti-fungal powder. I also try to wear sandals as much as possible for better ventilation. — J.R.V.

Athlete's foot is so named because the fungi causing it thrive in a warm, moist environment to which the athlete's feet are usually exposed.

You are doing all the correct things to prevent it: keeping the feet clean and dry and dusting with an anti-fungal powder. Sometimes, an oral medication griseofulvin, is necessary to eradicate the fungus completely. Even after the skin has healed the fungus may still be present, ready to blossom as soon as circumstances are right. This may be happening to you. The booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," discusses this and other foot-related problems. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

POPULAR PARKA — This functional skiwear offers bold colors, striking contemporary graphic treatments and special water repellent and insulated fabrications.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Quite a while back there was a column about some kind of non-prescription powder that could be added to milk so that a person who could not drink milk normally could drink it.
Could you please make a note of this again, and give the name of the product? — J.D.B.

People who lack the ability to digest milk sugar (lactose) may have bloating, flatulence and even diarrhea from it. The enzyme (lactase) is lacking. That is the substance that breaks down the sugar normally.

It is possible to obtain the missing enzyme and add it to milk before drinking so that the sugar is pre-digested, so to speak. This is now available in a commercial product. Perhaps a health food or drug store can advise you. I try to avoid using commercial names, but one is "Lact-Aid." For all I know it might be the only one. If it isn't, I will hear about it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was admitted to the hospital and was told I had cellulitis. Please tell me what cellulitis is. — Mr. P.M.

Cellulitis is infection of the skin and loose tissue under it. It is usually caused by one of two bacteria — strep or staph. These bacteria may get into the skin by unnoticed scratches or puncture wounds. Once there they spread quite rapidly. Treatment is with one of the penicillin drugs. This has nothing to do with the so-called cellulite, a non-medical term in current use to describe the pocked fleshiness some women may develop on thighs or under arms.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that use of the birth control pill can cause a yeast infection in women? — Mrs. T.W.

A recent study of this in England apparently refutes the idea. According to the study of 1,498 women attending a family planning clinic, vaginal swab tests found yeasts and fungi found in 311. The organisms were found to be no more prevalent in pill users than in those not using the pill.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)." Write to Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Recently, we inaugurated a new policy in this column. No hands will be shown for Saturday articles. Instead we will continue to answer bidding problems and if you want to keep these columns they will eventually give you a complete, simple form of standard American which may well be known as the basic Jacoby system if you want to give them a name.

We will also discuss advanced expert methods, but most of you readers should leave them alone. They are all too complicated for anyone who does not want to make bridge a major part of his life.

We use the 4-3-2-1 point count as is universal from beginner to expert, but want to add a warning. Cards take tricks. Points don't.

The American team that just won the World championship all used standard American as their base. In particular, not one of them used any artificial club opening bids although they did open one club (non-forcing, of course) with hands such as the South hand shown in Friday's article.

They all used two clubs as their only forcing opening bid. This two-club opening showed either a very strong notrump hand or a normal forcing two bid in one of the four suits.

They made light opening bids in all seats so there was no need to ever protect a partner's pass and open silly weak hands in third or fourth seat.

They all shaded the standard notrump openings to 15-17 points which is standard expert practice.

Exercise Proven To Improve Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — Improved appearance, strength and general health can be the benefits of regular physical conditioning, according to medical researchers.

To help Americans interested in getting fit, the government has available a booklet, "Adult Physical Fitness: A Program for Men and Women."

The guide presents fitness programs for men and women, beginning easily and painlessly but allowing you to bring all major muscles into use.

The program progresses through five graded levels and charts are provided to help you gauge your progress.

"Adult Physical Fitness," sells for $1.50 and can be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Order stock number 040-000-00026-7.

Earthquakes East Of Rockies Overlooked

 everyone about something that probably happens only every 500 to 600 years," explained Hamilton, who is part of the study team. "We are gathering information that can be factored into land use planning, designs of buildings, and construction of nuclear reactors." The work is being carried out under the Earthquake Hazards Reduction Act of 1977.

USGS scientists so far have covered a total of 150 miles in Missouri, Arkansas, and Tennessee trying to track the jagged fault line. With the discovery of the main fault zone in northeast Arkansas, they plan to continue to survey to find out how far northeast it extends.

Besides the differences in range, there are other significant distinctions between eastern and western earthquakes. The most obvious one appears on the surface. The San Andreas Fault is visible for its 700-mile length.

The surface scars that show up in the West can be attributed to its geological youth, he explained. Most rocks in the West are tens of millions of years old while most rock east of the Rockies is hundreds of millions of years old.

In the West and elsewhere, earthquakes are associated with movement of the great plates that form the earth's outer layers. Along the San Andreas Fault, the North American plate and the abutting Pacific plate scrape against each other as they move in opposite directions. But the New Madrid fault lies in the middle of the North American plate.

"What we probably have here is the last reactivation of ancient features, breaks within the plate that never made it big, faults that never broke the continent in two, but that form a weak zone in the crust," Hamilton explained.

To study this buried fault and the one near Charleston, USGS teams are in effect stamping on the ground, using sophisticated deep-sounding techniques developed by the oil industry — large trucks equipped with vibrating pads that shake the ground, and sensitive instruments that put together a profile or cross section of the earth.

Studies at New Madrid indicate that there have probably been three major earthquakes in the last 2,000 years — or only one about every 600 to 700 years. In the West, Nuttli said, earthquakes occur five times as often.

Fort Knox Gold Worth Billions

By The Associated Press
 The spectacular price surges on the gold market have had a golden touch on United States government reserves locked away at Fort Knox.

There are 147.3 million "fine ounces of gold" at Fort Knox, and officially it is valued at only $42,222 a troy ounce.

But current market prices are nearly 2000 percent higher, making the Fort Knox bullion actually worth billions.

At last Tuesday's closing price in New York of $602.50, the gold was worth $88,748,250,000.

By Thursday, when gold closed in New York at $792 an ounce, its worth rose to $116,661,600,000. That closing price was recorded at Republic National Bank in New York. At the Commodity Exchange in New York, the price of gold futures contracts for delivery this month closed at $802.

William Humbert, chief of internal audits at the U.S. Bureau of the Mint in Washington, D.C. — and the man who releases information about the gold at Fort Knox — said "there has been no effort made to adjust it (the value) to market prices."

Bob Mudwilder of Merrill Lynch in Louisville said the $42,222 valuation has not been changed since trading in gold was barred years ago. President Nixon made it possible for U.S. citizens to purchase gold in 1975.

When congressmen and reporters were allowed to tour the gold depository at Fort Knox in 1974, it was estimated that there were 400,000 gold bricks.

"We don't measure the gold in bricks. We just go by the number of fine troy ounces," Humbert said. "Maybe since then, there have been insignificant amounts removed for assay verification, but that's all that's been taken out of there."

He said the United States also stores gold at the Mint in Denver, the United States Assay Office in New York, and a small amount in San Francisco and at the Federal Reserve Bank in New York.

The U.S. government has retreated to the sidelines during the current price spiral. The price of gold has more than doubled since the last Treasury Department gold auction on Nov. 1, when gold sold for $372 an ounce.

The United States has the world's largest official government reserves of gold, with holdings of 262 million ounces, according to Thomas Wolfe, a former director of the Treasury's office of Gold and Silver Operations and now a private consultant.

Clerk-Typists Most Needed Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clerk-typists were the most needed workers across the country in November, according to the Labor Department.

The latest job bank highlights issued by the department said employers had permanent, full-time openings for 12,894 clerk-typists in November.

Overall, there were 504,426 jobs listed at the 190 local job banks in the country. That averages out to 2,654 openings at each job bank, although conditions may differ considerably from city to city.

However, this is a 19.8 percent drop in available jobs from the month before and 8.3 percent less than November a year earlier.

The second most available jobs listed in the report were for material handlers with 12,948 openings nationwide.

ELECTRIC HORSEMAN, THE (PG)—Robert Redford, Jane Fonda. (Romantic drama) A textbook case of much ado about nothing, this is a lavish and loving production...

GOING IN STYLE (PG)—George Burns, Art Carney, Lee Strasberg. (Drama/Comedy) Much talent is wasted on this tasteless film about three old men who turn from boredom to bank robbery...

HEAD OVER HEELS (PG)—John Heard, Mary Beth Hurt. (Comedy-Drama) On-again, off-again romance between a confused young woman and a flakey young man...

KRAMER VS. KRAMER (PG)—Dustin Hoffman, Meryl Streep. (Drama) A faithful adaption of Avery Corman's novel, this is basically the story of a court battle over custody...

"1941" (PG)—An all-star cast. "A comedy spectacle" Universal and Columbia call it. It may be the biggest disappointment in recent years...

QUADROPHENIA (R)—Phil Daniels, Leslie Ash. (Drama) Teen alienation in mid-60's British mod garb, but a good treatment of an old and troubling theme...

ROSE, THE (R)—Bette Midler, Alan Bates, Frederic Forest. (Drama with music) This story of the tragic decline of a Janis Joplin-like singer is ugly and unpleasant...

Fireball Sighted In Midwestern States Keeps Experts Baffled

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A fireball in the night sky spotted Thursday by pilots, police and residents in four Midwestern states may have been a dying meteor...

Federal Aviation Administration officials said several commercial pilots reported sighting a brilliant light northwest of Salina, Kan. The FAA said the pilots described the light as a meteor or satellite...

A North American Air Defense Command spokesman in Colorado Springs said NORAD received "numerous reports" of activity in the air from points in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas...

Air traffic controllers at Kansas City International Airport said one pilot reported spotting an "explosion with particles coming off it" in south-central or southeastern Kansas...

"It looked like a shooting star when I first saw it," said Jim Huff, Salina police captain who spotted the aerial display as he was leaving home about 8:30 p.m.

"Then there was this large orange flash as it apparently entered the atmosphere, and it was followed by a green tail as it went down past the horizon. It might have hit in northwest Kansas, there's no way of really telling. It was visible for a good five seconds. It was very spectacular," said Huff.

Stephen Shaw, associate professor of physics and astronomy and director of the KU observatory, said no meteor showers had been expected Thursday.

"It sounds like a single type of object that broke up in the atmosphere...a good-sized chunk of something," he said. "It would not have been a meteor shower. It probably was a meteor, or it could have been a satellite."

"From what little I've heard it could be anything," Shaw added. "It's safe to say it was not aliens from another planet."

"We had a real clear shot at it. I never saw anything like it before," said Salina police officer Donald Zimbleman. "As it broke up, there was one big flash and the small pieces disappeared. It was like the flash when a high-power transformer is hit by lightning."

Air traffic controllers at Kansas City International Airport said one pilot reported spotting an "explosion with particles coming off it" in south-central or southeastern Kansas.

Modest Films Slated For 'Quiet Months'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The holiday blockbusters have been duly launched, and now the film companies are settling back for the quiet days before summer.

The movie business gets more and more seasonal as the years go by, the major product jamming theaters in December and summer. That leaves a lot of months when the supply is lean.

With a few exceptions, the film fare for the first six months of 1980 appears modest in ambition and scope, with the accent on comedy and terror.

The major exception is "The Empire Strikes Back," the much-awaited sequel to "Star Wars." And 20th Century-Fox, which has been undergoing a corporate upheaval, is hopeful that the May release will renew the company's prosperity.

The Western, which has been ailing in recent years, may be helped by Steve McQueen's return to the screen after a lengthy absence, in "Horn."

The disaster movie will be back with "When Time Ran Out" (formerly "The Day the Earth Ended") starring Paul Newman, Jacqueline Bisset and William Holden.

Two stars are making their directorial debuts with spring movies: Anne Bancroft with "Fats," also starring Dom DeLuise, and James Caan with "Hide in Plain Sight."

Certain to create controversy is "Cruising," Al Pacino in a drama about violence in the gay world.

Robert DeNiro will star in May as the prizefighter Jake LaMotta in "Raging Bull."

Charlton Heston returns to the West in "Last of the Mountain Men."

So much for the star vehicles. The big thing in the coming season is Comedy, with a capital C. Romantic comedies, action comedies, satirical comedies — you name it. Among them:

"Little Miss Marker," Walter Matthau, Julie Andrews and Bob Newhart in the fourth reworking of the Damon Runyon fable.

PEKING MEETING

PEKING (AP) — Six members of the U.S. House of Representatives met with Vice Premier Ji Pengfei and Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin on Friday to learn Chinese views on current world trouble spots, an American spokesman said.

"The Last Married Couple in America," domestic comedy with Natalie Wood, George Segal, Dom DeLuise, etc.

"Simon," with Alan Arkin and Madeline Kahn, written and directed by Marshall Brickman.

"Nothing Personal," romance with Suzanne Somers and Donald Sutherland.

"Wholly Moses," Old Testament comedy with Dudley Moore ("10") and Laraine Newman ("Saturday Night Live").

"Gilda-Live," Radner of "Saturday Night Live" in concert.

"The Nude Bomb," Don Adams returns as Maxwell Smart.

"The Serial," life in Marin County with Martin Mull, Tuesday Weld and others.

"K-GOD," satire of religious TV programming.

"Just Tell Me What You Want," Sidney Lumet's social comedy with Al MacGraw.

"Happy Birthday, Gemini," Madeline Kahn and Rita Moreno.

"Hero at Large," John Ritter ("Three's Company") and Anne Archer.

"Foolin' Around," Gary Busey and Tony Randall.

"Full Moon High," funny stuff among the werewolves with Adam and Alan Arkin.

"Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown," the Peanuts gang as exchange students.

Thrillers are the second most plentiful product for the first half of 1980. Among them: "Night of the Juggler," James Brolin; "Windows," Talia Shire; "The Watcher in the Woods," Bette Davis, Lynn Holly Johnson; "Death Ship," Richard Crenna, George Kennedy; "The Fog," Janet Leigh, Hal Holbrook.

Less classifiable but promising are: "Coal Miner's Daughter," Sissy Spacek, Tommy Lee Jones; "To Elvis with Love," Deborah Raffin; "The Baltimore Bullet," James Coburn, Omar Sharif; "The Black Marble," Robert Foxworth, Paula Prentiss; "Steel," Lee Majors, Jennifer O'Neill; "Atlantic Incident," Roger Moore, James Mason; "The Ninth Configuration," Stacy Keach, Scott Wilson; "Health," all-star cast directed by Robert Altman; "Nijinsky," directed by Herbert Ross; "American Gigolo," Richard Gere.

Laity Address Planned For Methodist Meeting

DALLAS (Special) — A United Methodist News Service release focuses on several events involving Texas and New Mexico Methodists as expected highlights of the new year. These events include United Methodism's first formal statement by the laity to their General Conference meeting April 15-25 in Indianapolis, a Dallas-based bishop delivering the Episcopal Address to that Conference, and the assignment of three new bishops to Texas and New Mexico later this summer.

Pat Stroman of Waco heads a team of youth, women and lay leaders from across the nation assigned to develop and write the Laity Address, the first ever for this denomination. "We have had the Episcopal Address presented every four years at General Conference by a bishop representing our Council of Bishops for nearly 200 years," said Stroman. "This will be the first time that a cross-section of laity have composed a formal statement for presentation to Methodism's highest law-making body."

The group will decide in February who delivers the Laity Address, according to Stroman.

Bishop W. McFerrin Stowe, resident bishop of the denomination's Dallas-Fort Worth area, is finalizing the Episcopal Address of the Council of Bishops he will present on the opening day of the two-week General Conference. With a note of optimism, he plans to tell Methodists, "the decade of the '80s will be a decade of achievement. Christianity is concerned with the inner self and with outreach. One without the other is heresy."

"We must address ourselves to the large issues in society. Racism is an incomplete agenda in the world," said Stowe. "War and peace and human rights and human dignity are not national issues but worldwide concerns. We must be at the forefront of these battles for human justice."

Stowe said his optimism for the church does not mean no debate or conflict will occur at the General Conference. But he indicated he believes the battles will be minor and the denomination will seek to influence society as well as the church membership.

Evangelism, he said, will be a prime concern of the delegates. He expects the issue of homosexuality to be raised, and he plans to refer to it in his statement on "giving stability to home life. It's too important an issue not to express some moral aspects."

Regardless, Stowe said, "The outlook for the future of Methodism is bright, and the expression of the bishops to the membership will be upbeat."

Stowe is one of three bishops in the Texas and New Mexico area expected to retire in July at the denomination's

South Central Jurisdictional Conference Meeting in Little Rock, July 15-18. The 8-state regional body is expected to elect five new bishops because of the retirement of a similar number of bishops.

The Conference assigns a total of 20 bishops to the episcopal areas in the region for a minimum appointment of four years each. Bishops may be reappointed for no more than a total of eight years in any one area.

New bishops will be assigned to the three areas in Texas and New Mexico where bishops are retiring. Stowe retires from the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Bishop J. Chess Lovern retires from the San Antonio area. Bishop Alsie H. Carleton of Albuquerque retires from the Northwest Texas-New Mexico area.

Bishop Finish A. Critchfield will be eligible for reassignment to the Houston Area or appointment to anyone of the other nine episcopal areas in the South Central Jurisdiction.

City Voters To Decide On Firefighters Issue

City voters will go to the polls today for a special election to determine whether local firefighters will get better pay and collective bargaining rights.

The firefighters are seeking a 15 percent pay raise for the city's 1979-80 fiscal year. Since firefighters, along with all other city employees, received a 7 percent raise effective Oct. 6, 1979, passage of the pay issue would give five personnel an additional 8 percent raise retroactive to the beginning of the city's fiscal year.

Opponents of the pay raise measure say the 7 percent increase already given to firefighters is sufficient and is all the city can afford. According to Mayor Dirk West, the city council set employees' cost-of-living raises at 7 percent in order to stay within guidelines established by President Carter.

City Manager Larry Cunningham estimates that the additional 8 percent increase sought by firefighters will cost the city approximately $285,000. "The most likely source of new revenue would be an increase in the garbage service charge," he said, noting that a $1 increase in that monthly fee could be implemented beginning in April.

Cunningham said that granting firemen an additional salary increase would be unfair to other city workers. However, he noted that granting all employees the same raise would cost the city about $1 million this year.

The city manager and other city officials have argued that firefighters already receive fair compensation for their jobs.

"Lubbock ranks about average in every job within the fire department (compared to other Texas cities), and our starting salaries are higher than all but four of the state's largest cities," Cunningham said.

During the past six years, Cunningham said, base salaries for the different fire department ranks have increased in amounts ranging from 67.9 percent to more than 110 percent.

The Lubbock Firefighters Association has taken strong issue with some statements made by city officials concerning the pay raise issue.

Firefighter spokesman Dick Brightwell noted that in a year of 18 percent inflation for necessities (14 percent overall), city workers were given "an inadequate 7 percent pay increase."

Brightwell said the council cut 2 percent from the city manager's proposed city pay raise. "Then, in the ultimate gesture of contempt, the council used that 2 percent to finance pet projects, such as speeding up the development of some city parks," he said.

According to Brightwell, the first year cost of the raise requested by firefighters can be paid for by transferring money back out of the council's pet projects.

Firefighters also have argued that the pay for a journeyman firefighter in Lubbock compares poorly with the pay received by a firefighter of the same rank in other Texas cities. "There are 10 cities paying more than Lubbock on an hourly basis and nine on a total compensation basis," Brightwell said.

The collective bargaining issue also has drawn strong opposition from city officials, who claim that passage of the measure will take control of Lubbock's Fire Department out of the hands of the people who are responsible to local taxpayers.

"It is our feeling that the elected city council should be responsible for determining all city pay scales and benefits, because it is the city council that is responsible for setting the tax rate and other charges that finance all budgeted expenses," Cunningham said.

The city manager claims that if a negotiated agreement with the firefighters were rejected by the council, a decision would be made by an outside arbitration board.

Cunningham expressed concern about the cost of the negotiating process under collective bargaining. He said the cost of city staff handling the negotiations could range from $20,000 to $40,000 a year.

The possibility of strikes is another concern for city leaders. Cunningham noted that employees in one Texas city (Beaumont) went on strike three years ago because policemen and firemen were granted higher pay and benefits.

However, firefighters maintain they would not strike because calling a strike is prohibited under Texas' Fire and Police Employee Relations Act. Brightwell said that there has never been a firefighter strike in Texas and that Lubbock firefighters should not be compared to firemen who recently went on strike in Kansas City, Mo.

Brightwell claims that collective bargaining prevents strikes because grievances can be discussed.

One of the chief grievances that has surfaced in the current campaign has been the cotton gloves issued to city fire personnel. Brightwell and other firefighters claim the gloves are worthless and that the city has refused to listen to their complaints.

The cotton gloves have become a symbol in the firefighters' campaign for collective bargaining. Firefighters have claimed that the city's refusal to change the type of gloves issued demonstrates city officials' unwillingness to discuss matters regarding the safety of firemen.

Rehabilitation Conference Set At Tech

The Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation at Texas Tech University will sponsor a conference in regional rehabilitation research dissemination Tuesday through Thursday.

Special guest speaker at the conference will be Dr. Philip Browning, association project director for the Oregon Research and Training Center in Mental Retardation, Eugene, Ore. Other speakers include Texas Tech R&T Center staff and former staff.

Approximately 40 to 50 participants from Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas will attend. Management personnel, rehabilitation counselors and mental retardation specialists will participate as representatives of state schools, community agencies and public school systems.

GAS PRICE HIKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Automobile Association said Friday that the price of all gasolines has jumped, an average of 6.1 cents per gallon.

Fellowship Representative To Speak At Gathering

Clyde Rill of Harrison, Ark, will be the guest speaker for today's 8 a.m. meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship at Furr's Cafeteria in the Town and Country Shopping Center.

Rill is a field representative for the Fellowship and has served as an officer in the chapter in Harrison. He is presently engaged in transforming the Ozark community of Dogpatch into a family Christian center which will be called God's Patch, Incorporated.

Rill and his wife have led prayer groups and seminars in this country and in Europe.

FIND STRENGTH FOR YOUR LIFE — ATTEND CHURCH

"Thank you for my doll and our other toys," exclaimed Mary. "And take care of Mommy and Daddy," added Janie. "I help Billy not to be lonely in the hospital," offered Bobby for his little school friend.

Children believe in prayer. They believe their prayers are heard in exactly the words they use. They say simply what is in their hearts, trusting Mom's promise that they can talk to God and be heard.

But sometimes the adult heart is skeptical. We wonder if prayer really does any good — whether it is heard. It is then we need the simple trust of a child. We must remember that, through the ages, men have found answers through the Church. There God speaks with perfect wisdom to the hearts of His children. Attend church this Sunday.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

A FINAL DECISION ON A POSSIBLE GRAIN diversion program likely will be made next month, an administration official said Friday. The first step, he said, would be for agreement among the various agencies within the administration on the need for a diversion program in light of the U. S. suspension of grain shipments to the U.S.S.R.

If a diversion program is needed, he said, the alternatives range from having a small individual participation level of 5 percent with high payment rates to a large individual acreage with low payment rates. Another possibility would be a "bid diversion program" he said. Under this option, farmers would inform the USDA of how much land they would be willing to take out of production and at what payment level. Then, he said, USDA would accept the lowest bids until the acreage reached whatever level was deemed sufficient, he explained.

But the official added it may be difficult to establish such a bid diversion program in time before spring planting of corn and other feed grains.

PLANTING OF COTTON IN NORTHERN California, where the fiber crop was grown experimentally for the first time last year, may be expanded this year.

Cotton was produced on an experimental basis last year at a number of places in colder parts of the state. A Winters, Calif., grower harvested 30 acres last fall and other test plots were harvested in Tehama and Colusa counties.

Yields at one time were reported averaging 1.9 to 2.2 bales per acre, said Buel Mouser of California State University at Chico.

Plans call for planting to be expanded this year, said Mike Murray, Colusa County farm adviser. He said commercial production could take place in a few years.

There appears to be no reason why cotton can't be grown at a profit in Northern California, Mouser said. He said it's an economical crop there, particularly because water is cheaper there than in Southern California, where cotton of course is a major crop.

Mouser and others have been testing about 16 different varieties the past four years. The top producers have been an early Acala and Paymaster Dwarf and Tamcot SP37. The latter two were developed for the short season conditions on the Texas High Plains.

A COTTON PLANTING INTENTIONS REPORT will be released by the USDA after the market closes Monday.

The value of the report may be questionable, some sources say, since the survey was cut off around Jan. 1. That of course was prior to the partial embargo on U. S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union and subsequent uncertainties and gyrations in the grain and cotton markets.

One interpretation likely to be put on the report is that it, at best, may show an acreage base. Whatever the intentions are shown to be, many will say, the actual cotton plantings likely will be larger.

It is believed the report — which will include only upland cotton and will not include New Mexico and North Carolina — will show national cotton intentions within a range of 13.4 million to 13.7 million acres. The most likely total would appear to be around 13.5 million acres, possibly a little more.

Intentions in Texas, it is thought, will be in the area of 7.4-7.5 million acres, down from plantings in 1979 of 7.7 million. Earlier tentative indications had pointed toward an appreciably larger cut.

This intentions report, as in the past, won't include district or regional estimates in Texas, only the statewide total.

COTTON FUTURES COLLAPSED ON LATE, massive commission house liquidation Friday to close near the session's lows, off 72 to 64 points in nearys.

Estimated volume was 15,050 lots, close to a record. Floor brokers said selling represented, in a large measure, evening-up ahead of the USDA planting intentions report Monday.

The market, reflecting strength in precious metals, exploded on the opening to gains as much as 129 points in spot March on commission house buying, brokers said. Prices retreated when a large sell order from a major commission house prompted more selling.

Trading on Telcot totaled 29,889 bales on an average price of 54.71 cents, an average over the loan of 1,239 points. Most of the activity was recorded before the break in the futures market. Price quotes were up 50 points Friday morning but fell to 50 lower on the day at the close.

The volume on Telcot this week has totaled more than 180,000 bales.

Hale County Slates Annual Fertility Meet

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Eight speakers are scheduled to address Hale County farmers Tuesday at the 33rd annual soil fertility meeting, according to extension agent Ollie Liner. All speeches will be at the Hale County Agriculture Center.

Area cotton agronomist Dr. James Supak will open the sessions at 10 a.m. with a discussion on cotton seedling disease, varieties and hybrids.

At 10:30 a.m., Dr. James Leser, area entomologist, will talk about bollworm control.

Inflation, energy and gasohol, and the grain embargo will be the topics for Dr. Ronald Knutson of College Station, economist and marketing specialist. George Autry, a P. M. farmer, will describe ways to make gasohol from a $5,000 still at 11:30 a.m.

Following a noon lunch, courtesy of Plainview Co-op Compress, Inc., Myran Namken of Lubbock will explain a water wagon. Namken is Soil Conservation Service area engineer.

Jim Lindsey, president of the Southwest division of Pioneer International and president of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, will talk on "Let's Keep Farming" at 1 p.m. Marvin Sartin, area economist-farm manager, will follow at 1:30 p.m. with ways to use a computer to assist in farming operations.

At 2 p.m., Dr. Dale Pennington, area soil chemist, will describe soil testing and infrared information. Carl King of Dimmitt, president of Texas Corn Growers, will discuss his organization at 2:30 p.m.

A report on the beef referendum will be given by Jim Peterson of Amarillo, staff coordinator of the Texas Beef Referendum at 2:35 p.m.

Concluding the meeting at 2:40 p.m. will be a report on Pheasants Unlimited, Inc. by Joe Don Scott, president.

Election of the Hale County noxious weed district board members and recognition of the outstanding conservation farmer also will take place at the meeting.

The program is sponsored by the Hale County Extension Service program building committee with the Plains Co-op Compress, Inc.

Female Added To Texas Tech Agriculture Ambassadors Team

World food production during 1970-78 has increased 20 percent, while the corresponding figure for the United States is 24 percent.

That is just one aspect of how efficient the American farmer is and has been, but the total story can be heard from a group of outstanding students at Texas Tech University who have excelled in the art of public speaking and have tip-of-the-tongue knowledge about agriculture.

The students form the Ambassadors for Agriculture team, which for the first time includes a female student, Velvet Smith, a freshman agriculture communi-

Higher Fertilizer Prices Eyed As Result Of Demands, Costs

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Farm prices for fertilizer are expected to average 16 to 20 percent higher this spring than a year earlier and nine to 11 percent above last October as a result of strong domestic and export demand and rapidly rising input costs, the U.S. agriculture department said.

In a summary of its fertilizer situation report, the USDA said favorable crop prices anticipated through the planting season plus the possibility of additional corn and wheat acreage could bring 1979-80 U.S. fertilizer use to record levels.

Consumption of all primary nutrients could rise three to four to about 23 million metric tons during 1979-80 if fertilizer prices increase as expected, the USDA said.

The department said rapidly increasing expenses for other farm production inputs could stem the expected increase in planted acres, with farmers keeping marginal land out of production, which would hold down fertilizer use.

The USDA said worldwide production capacity is sufficient and supplies should be adequate to meet the fertilizer needs of U.S. farmers.

Domestic anhydrous ammonia production capacity, presently at about 204 million metric tons, appears adequate. Additional plants are available for production but because the cost of natural gas feedstocks is expected to increase and offset higher fertilizer prices, some plants — mainly high cost operations — will remain idle, the USDA said.

(President Carter has overruled a recommendation by the U.S. International Trade Commission that imports of anhydrous ammonia be limited as such imports were being sold in the United States at less than fair market value. The domestic fertilizer industry had complained that shipments from the U.S.S.R. were keeping U.S. plants idle and harming the U.S. industry.)

The department said world fertilizer consumption increased about eight percent in the 1978-79 year to a record 107 million metric tons, despite a dramatic increase in international prices.

Energy cost increases have been an important factor behind the increases, particularly for nitrogen and phosphates, the USDA said.

Steers, Sheep Place At Hereford Show

Four steers and four sheep exhibited by Lubbock County 4-H members placed in the annual Sand Hills Hereford and Quarter Horse show earlier this month in Odessa.

Approximately 175 Herefords and 300 finewool sheep were shown.

Lubbock 4-H club members also exhibited the second place pen of five finewool sheep and brought home a third place ribbon for the pen of five Hereford steers.

Participating in the steer division were Kevin Pounds, Kyle Pounds, and Blake Anthony. Ten finewool sheep were exhibited by Sandi Dillingham, D'Wayne Drennen, Cheryl Mason, Jana Winter and Kevin Pounds.

Farm Sales Receipts Show Increase

AUSTIN (Special) — Texas' share of U.S. receipts from foreign sales of farm products was more than $2 billion in fiscal 1979, with cotton continuing to bring the highest returns to the state. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

Total U.S. export sales rose 17 percent above those of 1978 to $32 billion, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture reports. Texas' share of that income is based on the state's percentage of total U.S. production.

In 1979 the estimated receipts for cotton reached $720 million, with an additional $80 million from cottonseed oil.

Other major exports from Texas and estimated receipts in fiscal 1979 are: soybeans, $512,872,000; feed grains, $332,850,000; wheat, $293,520,000; and rice, $203,320,000.

Brown said by-products of the livestock industry brought in increased receipts from higher prices, not volume. Decreased cattle numbers in all major producing countries have boosted prices. Hides and skins accounted for $96,300,000; lards and tallow, $91,650,000; and meat products, $67,520,000. Poultry sales amounted to $18,400,000.

Texas wool and mohair sales, most of which were to foreign markets, are expected to exceed the $112 million in 1978.

Fruit shipments reached $38,720,000 and vegetable products, $30,240,000.

"Raw export commodities have consistently been promoted by producer groups and the Texas Department of Agriculture, but there are many specialty items grown and processed here that are becoming very popular and are now included in promotions," Brown said. "We are looking forward to increases this year in these products."

"The Department is maintaining a strong promotional effort to increase sales of livestock to other countries and is seeing good results for Texas ranchers," Brown said. "Texas livestock exports reached $29 million through November 1979, and when all reports are in, we expect for the first time to top $30 million."

Brown added that the department will exhibit the state's agricultural commodities at an international trade show in New Orleans in February. The department is a member of the sponsoring group, the Southern U.S. Trade Association. It is one of several international trade shows held in Europe and Japan in which Texas farm and ranch products will be displayed in 1980.

"There is some uncertainty about what we can expect in foreign markets this year. With the tension between America and Russia over Afghanistan and the turmoil in Iran, grain and rice trade could slow down early in the year," Brown said.

"Other countries, however, still need our products. Weather problems have shortened the harvest in some of the traditional foreign markets for grain, rice, and feed grains and the demand, I believe, will be there in 1980 in for Texas commodities."

Cotton Council Names Program Leaders

MEMPHIS (Special) — National Cotton Council president Hoke Leggett has announced names of industry leaders who will head the organization's program committees in 1980.

They are: Foreign Operations — Fred Deans, Memphis, Tenn., chairman, and Dan Miller, Marianna, Ark., vice chairman; Industry Practices and Policies — J. S. Francis Jr., Peoria, Ariz., chairman, and Robert D. Pugh, Portland, Ark., vice chairman; Technical — Lloyd Cline, Lamesa, Texas, chairman, and Samuel B. Hollis, Memphis, Tenn., vice chairman, and Public Relations and Promotion —

R. E. Coleman, Greenville, S.C., chairman, and James H. Sanford, Prattville, Ala., vice chairman.

The program committees will meet jointly Jan. 25 at the Hyatt Regency in New Orleans in preparation for the council's annual meeting.

THE ENERGY CRISIS: ARE WE REALLY RUNNING ON EMPTY?

Gas lines, brownouts and fuel shortages aside, Americans are still skeptical about the energy crisis. Many blame profit-hungry oil producers. Others point to government interference in the energy business. And still others name decisions that put the environment ahead of energy needs.

The complex issues in the current energy debate are illuminated in Courses by Newspaper's winter series "Energy and the Way We Live." In this thought-provoking series, energy experts weigh the pros and cons of such likely energy sources as solar, nuclear, synthetic fuels and conservation. And Courses by Newspaper also makes it possible to earn college credit in a convenient study program.

As you debate America's energy future, plan to make Courses by Newspaper "must" reading. It's definitely worth the energy.

Fear Of Numbers Keeping Many Women From Career Options

By Cheryl Scutt

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (NEA) — Algebra. Geometry. Trigonometry. Calculus.

These words and others like them often strike fear into people's hearts. Why? Because they are all part of shiver, shudder, shake — mathematics.

Females seem to suffer most from this math anxiety. That leads them to avoid math courses whenever possible.

And that immediately eliminates 90 percent of their career options, says Darlene Keihn, one of a growing number of educators who are helping students overcome their fear of math.

"I think it's an acceptable thing to be afraid of or not to do well in (math), especially for women," says Miss Keihn, a doctoral candidate at Indiana University and teacher of its non-credit course titled "Mathematics — Reducing Anxiety and

IN AMERICA

Building Skills.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science arrived at this findings when it studied women's performance and interest in mathematics in the mid 1970s.

•Girls have about as much interest and do about as well in math as boys until about age 13.

•Then boys begin to make better grades in math. The gap widens with every year. Girls opt out of advanced math courses and score lower than boys on math tests and on the math portions of college aptitude exams.

•By the first year of college, more than 90 percent of the females lack qualifications for the beginning calculus sequence that is required of all science majors. They are thus effectively shut off from any careers.

•Women are even more under-represented in mathematics than in other scientific professions. Women make up less than 10 percent of mathematicians and less than 5 percent of tenured math professors.

Some educators believe that the way math is taught may also help induce math anxiety.

"There is this basic human need to count and to know how much," Miss Keihn says. "Somehow we kill that curiosity."

Another problem for girls may be the lack of role models in mathematics.

Miss Keihn explains that few people have heard of Emmy Noether, a 19th-century German woman who became a mathematician though she had been barred from college classes and had to learn from the notes she borrowed from male students.

The problem of role models also exists in many families where it is Dad who is good at math. Miss Keihn says that many mothers who did not do well at math seem to think it is all right if their daughters do not do well either.

Steps are finally being taken to help people fight their fear of numbers.

Special programs to help students overcome math anxiety have been offered at such schools as California State University at Long Beach, the University of Minnesota, the University of Missouri at Kansas City, Mills College in Oakland, Calif., and Wellesley College in Wellesley, Mass.

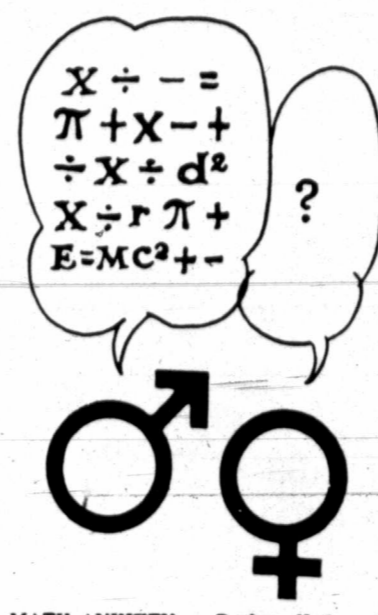

Miss Keihn says her course emphasizes the how and the why of math while de-emphasizing the basic operations of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. She notes that even mathematicians goof on simple arithmetic.

The important thing, she explains, is figuring out which process is needed to solve the problem.

In the process, she hopes her students also develop self-confidence in mathematics.

But what if you still are hung up on

The first talking movie, "The Jazz Singer" starring Al Jolson, opened in New York City in 1927.

MATH ANXIETY — Darlene Keihn, a doctoral candidate at Indiana University, believes that the "basic human need to count" is somehow killed. She adds that many people have a fear of numbers. To help people fight these fears, many universities, such as the one Miss Keihn is associated with, are offering classes to reacquaint people with mathematics. (NEA Photo) adding 34 plus 9?

Miss Keihn says it is perfectly acceptable to use a calculator, which can be a big aid in problem solving. She says that even people who have trouble with adding or other basic operations should be able to do math with a calculator.

Mathematicians also develop little tricks to simplify their arithmetic, she remarks.

For example, Miss Keihn would not find the sum of 34 and 9 by adding 4 to 9, then carrying the 1 to add to the 3. Instead, she would add 34 plus 10 and just subtract 1."

"Kids aren't taught this," she complains.

"I think it's really important that people learn what problem-solving skills are acceptable," continues Miss Keihn. Among them, she says are guessing, making lists of all the things that could possibly happen, and developing logic skills.

"A lot of these things are based on common sense," she says. "Common sense has been kind of foreign in a mathematics classroom."

"It's almost considered cheating if you 'work together on a problem,'" Miss Keihn says.

"We don't face many problems in life completely alone. You're bound to improve your skills when you talk about them."

Actor Being Sued For Failure To Report To Work On Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor James Garner, hospitalized after an angry motorist beat him up following a car accident, is being sued for $1.5 million by Universal Studios for not reporting to work on "The Rockford Files."

Universal filed the breach of contract suit against Garner in Los Angeles Superior Court on Wednesday, the same day the actor was beaten and sent to a hospital.

The suit charged that Garner, 52, failed to complete 11 episodes of "The Rockford Files." NBC canceled the show after Garner had not reported for work since November. The last episode aired last week.

Associates of the actor said he had been unable to work because of illness.

His producer, Meta Rosenberg, said he was suffering from a viral infection, ulcers and sinusitis.

Garner, now at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, may be released Saturday, his spokesman Wally Beene said Friday. He suffered a possible concussion, a back injury, several loosened teeth and cuts and bruises in the attack.

The actor was punched and kicked by a motorist Wednesday night after a minor collision on Coldwater Canyon Boulevard.

Universal's suit said Garner was notified on Dec. 19 to report for work Dec. 26 but that Garner told the studio on Dec. 20 he could not return for another month or two because of illness.

Busy Talk Show Host Finds Time For Celebrity Special Series

SNYDER HOSTS SPECIAL — Tom Snyder, already one of NBC's busiest people, will host a blockbuster of his own Monday evening at 9 p.m. CST. On "The Tom Snyder Special," Snyder will interview celebrities, such as lovely Bo Derek, star of the film "10." (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — After struggling for more than half a year, with little success, to build an audience for NBC's "Prime Time Saturday," you might expect to find Tom Snyder a discouraged man.

"It's frustrating," Snyder concedes. "We'd like more people to watch. In the ratings, you'd have to say it's been a failure."

"But I attach that to the fact we've been on the air such a short time, and it is difficult to establish an audience, especially against the appeal of 'The thing that discourages me is reading every week about 'Prime Time Saturday' losing to '60 Minutes' and '20-20' on ABC. We're not competing with them."

Already one of NBC's busiest people, Snyder tries a "blockbuster" of his own Monday evening, "The Tom Snyder Special," at 10 p.m. EST. It's the first in a planned series of celebrity specials, with Snyder as host.

The initial hour-long show includes interviews with Clint Eastwood, Bo Derek, Barry Manilow and Gary Coleman.

The face-to-face interview is Snyder's specialty, a technique he practices four nights a week as host of NBC's early morning "Tomorrow" show.

There will be elements of "Tomorrow" in "The Tom Snyder Special," though the interviews were taped outside the studio and the program will include shots of the celebrities in action.

"The only thing I don't like about it," Snyder says, "is that we did about 45 minutes with each of the people, and we can't put it all on the air, as we do with 'Tomorrow.'"

"I've got my version of what should be included, and the producer's got his, and we've simply got to compromise."

The celebrity show takes Snyder another step away from the news.

He joined NBC in 1970 as evening news anchor at KNBC, the network's station in Los Angeles, and moved on to WNBC in New York in the same capacity in 1974.

He began the "Tomorrow" assignment in Los Angeles in 1973, took the show to New York in '74, and dropped the local news job when "Tomorrow" returned to the West Coast in April 1977.

Snyder and "Tomorrow" came back to New York last summer when "Prime Time Sunday" was added to the NBC lineup. NBC switched the newsmagazine to Saturday night earlier this month in an effort to boost the ratings.

"We've got to have a show like 'Prime Time Saturday,' but we've got to tighten and strengthen what we're doing, and make it better," Snyder says. "I'm convinced we'll hit on the right format and style, and begin to attract an audience."

"I'm personally comfortable with the show," he says. "It's not great in the ratings, but it's no disaster area. I think there are more positives than negatives."

I've got my version of what should be included, and the producer's got his, and we've simply got to compromise."

College Student Gets Paid To Cover-Up For Coeds Living With Boyfriends

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Living in sin with your boyfriend without your parent's knowledge? Use the Alibi Service."

That classified advertisement in the University of Arizona student newspaper is directed toward female college students who don't want their parents to know they have moved in with their boyfriends.

Now they can hire Lisa to act as their roommate.

Lisa, who said she was a 22-year-old student and declined to give her last name, operates the Alibi Service and makes her services available for $20 a month.

The ad first ran Thursday and Lisa said she already has signed up two customers. She said she will accept only eight more women as clients, because keeping track of more than 10 persons could become difficult.

Lisa said her service includes taking unexpected telephone calls from her clients' parents, receiving mail for her clients and delivering messages to them. In case of calls or surprise visits, she said, she will act as the client's roommate.

For the $20 a month, her customers get the use of her name as a roommate, her telephone number and her address. In case of parental visits, the customers can pay more — at hotel room rates, Lisa said — for use of her spare bedroom to make it look as if they live there.

In addition, women who make advance arrangements to get calls from their folks can take them at Lisa's house at prearranged times, she said.

Lisa said she plans to meet with each of her clients for dinner, at the client's expense, to get acquainted and gather information to enable her to feign roommate status in any phone calls she receives from parents.

She said she will keep index cards listing information about her clients near the telephone so she can express some knowledge of the daughters of people who call.

Paul McCartney Facing Up To 10 More Days In Japanese One-Man Jail Cell

TOKYO (AP) — Former Beatle Paul McCartney, spending his third night in a Japanese jail on suspicion of possessing marijuana, was refused permission to play a guitar in his cell but was in "good spirits" and being treated like an ordinary prisoner, his associates said Friday.

A spokesman for McCartney said the 37-year-old rock star was in a one-man cell and slept on the floor on a Japanese mattress. Friends were allowed to deliver a blanket, a change of clothes and hot food to the vegetarian, according to Harvey Goldsmith, McCartney's tour promoter.

"He's in good spirits, he's being treated fairly well," Goldsmith told a press conference in his first meeting with reporters since McCartney was arrested Wednesday when he arrived for a series of concerts in Japan.

McCartney has been in jail since customs agents at Tokyo International Airport said they found 7.7 ounces of marijuana in his suitcase during a routine inspection of his luggage.

The former Beatle was to remain in custody for up to 10 days, and if no decision was reached to free him or charge him with marijuana possession, he might face up to 10 more days in jail, authorities said.

Goldsmith said McCartney's American wife, Linda, however, was "rather distraught, frustrated and confused because authorities will not tell us what is going on." Goldsmith said Mrs. McCartney had asked authorities for permission to take a guitar to her husband but the request was denied. The two have been allowed to see each other once, briefly, Goldsmith added.

He said "Paul is very upset" that the concerts have been canceled and has asked whether it would be possible to arrange a "free concert for the kids when this is all finished."

McCartney and his rock band "Wings" had been scheduled to give 11 concerts in Tokyo, Osaka and Nagoya from Jan. 21 to Feb. 2 but the tour was canceled by its sponsor, the newspaper Yomiuri. McCartney's Japanese agent said $1.8 million would be returned to the holders of the 100,000 tickets sold for the concerts.

Goldsmith termed the loss "a considerable" amount. "I'm frightened to think about it," he said, adding that the total loss in promotional costs could be as much as $1 million.

Earlier Friday, the Tokyo district court granted a request from the Tokyo prosecutor's office to hold McCartney for up to 10 more days for questioning.

However, a spokesman said that even if charges are brought, a magistrate could then approve bail. That would permit McCartney to leave the country since there is no provision in Japanese law restricting the travel of bailed suspects.

Some Japanese news reports said it was likely that McCartney would be expelled from Japan without facing formal charges. Goldsmith declined to comment on this, saying he did not want to prejudice the case.

Mystery, Murder Await Customers Of 'Whodunit?' Bookstore

By Lou Gaul

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — Mystery is in the air. Murder beckons beyond the door.

Blackmail waits beyond each bend; And intrigue lurks in every corner.

Only a bloody dagger or a smoldering pistol is missing.

Inside Philadelphia's Whodunit? bookstore waits a world of unsolved crimes, wily suspects and sly sleuths.

It's a heavenly place for any mystery buff. Even Sherlock Holmes would feel right at home.

Whodunit?, the brainchild of owners Art Bourgeau and Sandy Sullivan, sells only mystery novels and magazines. With more than 7,000 titles, it is said to be the second-largest mystery dealer in the world.

In addition to carrying a complete line of current mysteries, Whodunit? has a back room overflowing with used paperbacks at bargain prices. Customers can trade in paperback mysteries for 25 cents in cash or credit and hardbacks for twice that amount.

The soft-spoken Bourgeau, a Tennessee native in his early 30s, has become a sort of godfather to local mystery fans. He estimates that 75 percent of Whodunit? customers purchase mysteries solely on his recommendations.

"Our trend seems to run opposite of the book industry," he says. "We only sell a few copies of our best-selling mysteries because they are available at every corner store."

"We sell hundreds of copies of obscure novels, like the 1930 mystery 'The Moving Toy Shop' by Edmund Crispin."

Bourgeau read that book, which combines humor with mystery, when it came back into print in 1978. Once he started describing the book to his customers, it became the store's best-seller; between 1,500 and 2,000 copies were sold within 10 months.

"People who read mysteries are the most intellectual of all readers—including textbook readers," Bourgeau observes.

"Normally, mystery buffs are establishment people with a clear sense of right and wrong. Very few students read counts of robbery, and one each of rape, aggravated assault, simple assault and involuntary deviant sexual intercourse.

The charges stemmed from crimes last March 4 to 11 along a one-mile stretch of Allegheny Avenue. The assailant would approach his victims at red lights, point to his wrist and ask for the time.

Hattenbach had pleaded guilty to four mysteries because the basic system always wins in a mystery story.

"The radical element is always brought to justice in the end...mystery readers like to see right triumph."

Bourgeau notes that 65 percent of his clients are young women.

"Women gravitate to the English mysteries by Agatha Christie and Dorothy Sayers or the up-to-the-minute authors like Amanda Cross, Lynn Meyer and Susan Isaacs," he says. "These new authors all have modern-day, hip, 'Fear of Flying'-type women as their heroines."

"Women also like the occult mysteries. They will come back and say, 'That book scared me to death! I love it!'"

"Women go for books with details, low violence and settings, and look for more suspense and terror."

"Men, on the other hand, are interested more in movement. They usually don't care whether it's a straight spy story or a mystery as long as there is an action hero, suspense and a touch of sex."

Bourgeau notes that almost all mystery readers prefer a "series type of character rather than a one-shot character."

Who are the best-selling authors at Whodunit? Bourgeau divides them into two categories: British and American.

The first group is topped by Agatha Christie, Ngaio Marsh, P.D. James and Elizabeth Ferrers. The second group includes Raymond Chandler, Dashiell Hammett, Ross Macdonald, John D. MacDonald and Roger Simon.

The "mystery motif" in the front window of Whodunit? has done much to generate interest and controversy.

To publicize the mystery novel "Body on the Couch," for example, the owners obtained an old-fashioned couch and placed a mannequin representing a dead woman on top of it.

When the Pennsylvania Ballet sponsored a store-window contest to promote National Ballet Week, Bourgeau and Sullivan hung a noose from the ceiling, dressed their mannequin in a tutu, put a black covering over its head and placed its neck in the noose.

Next to the hanging mannequin they positioned the mystery book "Death in the Fifth Position." (The title refers to a ballet stance).

"The Pennsylvania Ballet received 400 telephone calls protesting the display," Bourgeau recalls. Some called it tasteless; others, some of whom visited Whodunit? to voice their complaints, termed it offensive to women.

Yet, Whodunit? won first prize in the ballet company's contest.

Saturdays are special at the bookstore. Mystery fans from across the Delaware Valley travel to Whodunit? some to spend seven or eight hours perusing the used-book section.

Other mystery buffs drop in just to exchange views on mystery classics, hear news about new mystery publications or exchange gossip about authors.

Due to tremendous interest from people outside Philadelphia, Whodunit? also offers a mail-order service. One of the store's best customers, says Bourgeau, is the Swiss attorney general, "who came in one day and spent the afternoon talking about mysteries."

To the armchair sleuths who patronize this unique store with murder on their minds, the ultimate crime would be life without mystery stories—and without Whodunit?

FOR YOUR WANT ADS

Classified advertisements originate in the Morning Edition, then appear in the Evening Edition of the same day. Advertising appearing in the Saturday or Sunday Avalanche-Journal counts as one full insertion.

12 WORD MINIMUM
1 day, per word	23c
2 days, per word	20c
3 days, per word	18c
4 days, per word	16c
5 days, per word	15c
6 days, per word	14c
7 to 30 days	FREE
15 days, per word	1.35
30 days, per word	2.70

These rates are for consecutive insertions and apply to set solid ads only. If special paragraphing, captions or large type are desired, display rates apply.

Out of town ads CASH IN ADVANCE.

In case of error in an ad not the fault of the advertiser, the same will be reclassified if notice is given within one day following publication. The Publisher will not be responsible for purely typographical errors or misprints beyond cancellation of the charges for the space of the item affected.

Please call early as possible to avoid the deadline rush.

Tech, Little Greet Bears

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

It'll be brother against brother tonight when Texas Tech and Baylor square off at 7:30 in the Municipal Coliseum in a key Southwest Conference tilt.

David Little will be starting at forward for the 4-1 Red Raiders, who need a win to stay abreast of the league leaders, and Mike Little will handle the quarterbacking chores for the 1-4 Bears, who need a victory to get back on the right track.

But this civil war of sorts almost did not happen. Only a cruel twist of fate pitted the two brothers against each other on the court, rather than side-by-side.

"If we had it to do over again," said Tech's David Little, "we'd probably be playing together. But the year I had to make my decision about where to play, we both thought he (Mike) was through playing basketball."

Mike — two years older than David — played a year at Howard Junior College before going to Baylor as a sophomore. But after he had started Baylor's first 14 games, Mike quit the Bears. Later that year, it came time for David to choose a college and he went to Texas Tech where older brother Richard had starred in the early 1970s.

But Mike came back to Baylor this year and he's started the Bears last two games.

"I wish I would've stayed here (Baylor)," says Mike, "because I think I could've talked him (David) into coming here. I'd a lot rather be playing with him than against him," he added.

The Bears have decided to put Mike on his brother in their man-for-man defensive scheme. The older Little is a 6-3 guard, while Tech's Little is a 6-6 forward.

"I expect to get picked a lot," says Mike, "because if you give David a couple of inches, he'll shoot it in your face. I'm just going to do the best I can and hope he doesn't hurt us too bad."

The similarities between the brothers may go only as far as the last name is concerned. David leads the Raiders in scoring with a 15.5 per game average while Mike is scoring 2.9 points a game. But that statistic, claims the younger Little, doesn't tell the entire story.

"The stats are misleading," says David, "because he's been shooting less than three times a game. If he was in a position where he could shoot 14 or 15 times a game, it would be a lot different."

"Coach (Jim) Haller has told me to start looking at the hole (basket) more," admits Mike. "I just haven't been looking at it the way a player like (long pause) David has."

But the Bears are loaded with players who aren't afraid to go to the hole. Sophomore Terry Teagle leads the SWC in scoring with a 21.1 average and Mike Battle is averaging almost 11 a game. Baylor's shooting guard, senior Pat Nunley is hitting at 12.5 a game.

Nunley and Little will be in the backcourt for the Bears. Teagle and Battle will front in the wings, and freshman James Bailey will be at the post.

"Teagle is a good all-around player," said Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers. "He is a solid player but Baylor runs a more team-oriented attack than they did last year with Vinnie Jonsson."

The Raiders are coming off of a narrow overtime win over the Rice Owls while Baylor turned in one of its better showings of the year in a 14-point loss to Arkansas.

"That score is deceiving," says Baylor's Little, of the Arkansas game. "We were ahead until the final nine minutes of the game. I was a little worried about us until that game. But I think that playing Arkansas that close should help our confidence."

"Baylor handled Rice a lot better than we did," concedes Myers. "In the last month or so they've really played good basketball."

"I expect them to run a man defense," he added, "but they are liable to do anything. They can run that 1-3-1 zone or a zone press pretty well."

The Raiders saw plenty of full-court pressing from the Owls last Tuesday, and had their share of problems with it.

"It's hard to say how a team will play after a close game like that one (the Rice game)," said Myers. "You hope you learn from those things and try to correct them."

The Raiders will operate with their usual starting five of Kent Williams and Jeff Taylor at the guard spots, Little and Ben Hill on the wings and Ralph Brewster at the post.

Myers won't specify who'll be covering whom in Tech's man-to-man defensive alignment — but don't bet on seeing David Little on Mike Little. And that suits David just fine.

"It's going to be kinda strange out there," he admits. "But whatever happens, we'll still be brothers after the game."

Raiders Emerge As SWC Power

By United Press International

What was expected to be one of the most evenly balanced Southwest Conference races in years may be already over — at least as far as the top three spots are concerned.

And those top three teams — Arkansas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech — will try to put more distance between themselves and the rest of the SWC tonight.

The first three finishers in the league race draw byes into the portion of the league's post-season tournament that will be played in San Antonio, Feb. 28-Mar. 1. The other six teams must take part in first-round games Feb. 25 just to win the right to go to San Antonio.

Arkansas (4-0) will be at home against Houston (2-2) while co-leader Texas A&M (4-0) travels to Rice (1-3). The regionally televised afternoon game pits TCU (0-5) against visiting SMU (1-4). The Razorbacks and Aggies will be tuning up for their key confrontation Tuesday night.

Baylor coach Jim Haller, whose Bears

But I'm not so sure anymore. Arkansas is equal in my eyes because of their depth factor.

"Texas A&M may have the best starting five in the league, but Arkansas has the best squad. Arkansas has 10 or 12 truly outstanding athletes while A&M may be has six.

"They look just like any Arkansas team has the last two or three seasons."

D SPORTS

lost to Arkansas 71-57 Tuesday night in a game much closer than the final score, still nods to A&M as title favorite, but has doubts.

"I've been saying all along that A&M would definitely be league champions."

Raider Women Coast In Meet

The Texas Tech women's basketball team stole their way past Central State of Oklahoma Friday night in opening-round action of the Texas Tech Basketball Invitational and set a single-game scoring record at Raiderland.

The Raider women laughed their way past hapless Central by a 125-48 score in a game that was never, never in doubt. The Raiders picked off 47 errant passes — 28 in the first half alone — to roll over the Bronchettes. Tech is now 13-5 on the year, Central State is 0-15.

Tech led 30-4, 40-10 and 56-14 in the early going before establishing a 61-16 halftime lead. Coach Jay Benson's starters lasted the first 10 minutes of the game before the Raider coach emptied the bench.

Tech will now meet Texas Women's University in the championship game of the tournament at 4 p.m. in the Municipal Coliseum. TWU defeated Oklahoma University of Science and Arts 74-59 to advance to the finals.

The Raiders had seven players score in double figures and everyone scored. Vicki Lee and Gwen McCray led the way with 18 points apiece and Liz Havens added 15.

Louise Davis led the Raiders in the steal category with 10 and Miss Havens had seven rebounds.

Laura Hulín led the Bronchettes with 15 points. The 125 total was the most ever by the Raider women since they began playing basketball in 1975.

Kristy Kapps, a transfer from Baylor, fired in 30 points to lead TWU's drubbing.

Bridgett Phillips added 21 points and hauled down 11 rebounds for the Pioneers. Lori Golden was TWU's other player in double figures with 19.

The win raised TWU to 11-6 on the year while USAU fell to 5-9 with the loss. Leading the way for the losers was Sandra Tischer with 19 points, Kathy Kinsey added 18.

TWU connected on 35 of 78 field goal attempts in the game for a 45 percent accuracy rate while USAU was 21 of 57 from

Plainsmen Knock Emotional Stuffing Out Of LHS

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 Ho hum... Monterey won another District 4-AAA basketball game Friday night.

So what else is new, ugh? This time it was Lubbock High's turn to serve itself up as the sacrificial lamb. And, like with the previous other 17 offerings that hopped up on the altar, the Plainsmen cordially accepted the hospitality, with arms open wide. Thankee kindly.

Joe Michalka, the MHS head coach, had predicted earlier in the week that this just might be the night MHS would suffer a conference setback.

Horsefeathers.

The Plainsmen, using the strong inside play of center Trav Claydon and the hot outside shooting by Greg Thomson and Mike Wooten, totally dominated the Westerners in scoring an easy 70-50 win. Clardy scored 22 points, while Wooten and Thomson pumped in 17 and 14 points respectively during the conference opener for both teams.

For a split second, it appeared Lubbock was gearing up to bushwhack the Plainsmen. Pumped up on a kilo or two of straight emotion, the Westerners jumped out to an 18-14 first-quarter lead. The Westerners appeared to have grabbed hold of a spark plug before going heading out of the court.

But early in the second period, the Plainsmen took total command of the contest. First Clardy hit a six footer; that was followed with a bucket by Bill Breedlove. Then Clardy gave the Plainsmen their first lead of the night (20-10) after hitting from the key with 5:19 left in the period.

Lubbock, which scored only five points in both the third and fourth quarters, never sniffed the lead again.

"We were simply dominated by them," explained LHS head honcho Craig Wells. "They just have more basketball talent than we do. It's that simple. We have to play on emotion. We've won eight games this year on emotion alone. They win by controlling the game...the boards. You're going to win more games like that."

In the first quarter, explained Wells, the Westerners gained the lead because they shot the ball extremely well. "As long as we shot well we were still in the game," commented Wells. "But then we started missing. We'd shot once and run down to the other end of the floor. We just couldn't rebound when we were there."

Michalka saw eye-to-eye with Wells: "We played good defense. And we played with a lot of intensity for a change. But the difference was the way we were able to control the boards."

LHS head only one player, Jeff Manley, in double figures. He scored 16 points, while teammates Oscar Lopez and Kirk Cole each added 8 points.

The Plainsmen are now 18-5 for the year, LHS 8-12.

In girls action, Monterey ran its conference mark to 2-0 with an easy 81-46 win over the Westerners prior to the boys' contest.

Janet Meers paced the MHS scoring attack with 20 points.

EHS Holds Off Dumas Charges

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
 Estacado twice blew leads of 10 or more points before finally subduing Dumas 77-67 in a District 1-AAA basketball game Friday night.

The Matadors led 12-2 with about six minutes showing in the first quarter, only to see that vanish within four minutes. Then, they piled up a 31-19 lead with six minutes left in the half. That lasted about five minutes before Dumas tied the game again at 31-31 with 55 seconds showing.

Early in the third quarter, Dumas even edged ahead a little, leading 41-40 at one point, before the Matadors put on the clinching run, outscoring the Demons 15-4 in a spree lasting until just before the end of the third quarter.

"This was kind of what I expected," said Estacado coach J.J. Wood afterwards. "What we're doing wrong is just flat shooting our lead away."

"It's happen in a number of games. Tonight we got a lead, then went down and tried to add to it. We shot ourselves out of the lead."

"When that happens we need to go down and set up and run our offense so we can get help on our rebounds. What we do is run down and shoot the first shot before anybody's in position."

"We just run down and fire the ball right up. That's fine if you make it, but if you miss it and the other teams will come right back on you."

Dumas never again got closer than seven points, and at one point Estacado led 77-61 before the Demons scored the last six points of the game.

Preston Davis led Estacado, now 14-8 and 1-0 in loop play, with 20 points. John Jones chipped in another 17. James Barnett 12 and Tim Hereford and James Rose 11 each.

Dumas, now 11-6 and 0-1, was led by Mark Kehoe who scored 20. Scott Herron got 15, Randy Davis 11 and Don Duncan 10.

The Matadors forced Dumas into 26 turnovers to Estacado's 16.

Indeed, it was a switch to full-court pressure midway through the third period that resulted in Estacado's final spree. Leading 45-43 with 4:28 remaining, the Matador press contributed three turnovers that were converted to baskets as they outscored Dumas 10-2.

Tuesday night, Estacado plays at Canyon and Dumas travels to Borger.

Of opening league play with a victory, Wood was understandably happy. "Every district game is a big win," he said.

"It's always good to start off the district with a win. We played Dumas twice last year and then this time this year and every game they've played the socks off us."

"Other people might take it to them pretty good sometimes, but they always play us good."

Dumas, ranked second in the state, proved to be too much for the Estacado girls Friday night, taking an easy 70-51 victory in a District 1-AAA basketball game.

The Demons jumped to a 39-24 half-time lead then pressed that margin to 55-33 before sending in the subs. The win raised their season mark to 19-1 and their District 1-AAA record to 3-0.

Estacado, now 10-8 overall and 1-2 in loop play, had two girls carry much of the scoring load. Cynthia Walker poured in 18 points on six field goals and six free throws and Joy Dale Guyton popped in another 17 on eight field goals and a single free shot.

Dumas was paced by Trish Fortenberry with 22 points. After her, only one other girl scored in double figures. Sheri Hagler had 11.

OSU Receives Extra Penalty

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma State University, which was placed on a two-year football probation in 1978, has had the probation extended for another two years by the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

The NCAA extended the probation until Jan. 9, 1982, because of additional alleged violations in Oklahoma State's football program that were discovered during a review of the athletic program.

Under the new action, the Oklahoma State football team may not appear on any regular-season NCAA television program or series for the first year of the extended probation.

Foreman Charged With Trespassing

TOMBALL (AP) — George Foreman, former heavyweight boxing champion and now a preacher, is free under a $28.50 bond after being charged with trespassing.

Foreman was arrested Wednesday night while conducting a religious service on the campus of Tomball Junior High School.

Police in this community on the outskirts of Houston said Foreman did not have permission to use the school grounds and that complaints had been re-tended probation.

The original probation also included a ban on postseason football bowl appearances and restrictions on the number of football scholarships, but those penalties were allowed to expire on Jan. 9.

During the NCAA review of the university athletic program, Oklahoma State stated it would take full responsibility for any additional allegations made by the NCAA.

The additional allegations primarily involved the reported promise or receipt of improper financial assistance by several prospective and enrolled athletes from 1975 through 1978.

Foreman said, "Jesus Christ told me in a dream two days ago to go to Tomball and preach, that there are good people there. Jesus went to jail, too, and if he hadn't, he may not have accomplished all he had to do."

The former champion, who said he lives on a farm near Humble, said he would plead innocent at a court hearing scheduled Feb. 6.

"It is not a crime to serve God," he said.

Jeff Mitchell Braves Weather, Ties For Second In Phoenix Golf

PHOENIX (AP) — Lubbock golfer Jeff Mitchell, who learned to play golf in the uncertain weather conditions of the High Plains, vaulted into a tie for second place after the second round of the $300,000 Phoenix Open tournament Friday.

Jack Renner, playing before the worst of the winds and cold rain showers swept the course, scrambled to a 5-under-par 66 and established the lead in the uncompleted second round.

Mitchell's 136 ties him with Mike Sullivan. Bob Hope Desert Classic runnerup, one stroke from the lead.

The rains and lightning forced a halt to the day's play with 26 players still on the course. None of them, however, appeared to have a shot at Renner's lead. The round is scheduled to be completed this morning, with the third round following immediately.

All leaders but Mitchell played in the better weather of the morning.

"It was really difficult out there, really difficult," Mitchell said. "I may have had a little bit of an advantage, having played in the wind in West Texas all my life."

Renner, 23, who scored his first pro victory last year in the Westchester Classic, put together a 36-hole total of 135, seven shots under par for two trips over the 6,726 yard Phoenix Country Club course.

The slender young man, one of the game's most intense competitors, played in chilly, breezy conditions in the morning, but finished before the weather turned really foul. The gustier winds and cold rain squalls were more common to the New England coast than the southwest deserts. Late afternoon lightning finally forced an overnight halt to play.

The difficult afternoon conditions — winds that required a driver to the par-3 holes on the back nine — produced scores unusually high for this old event and troubled some of the game's premier players. Among them were U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, 78-149, and Masters king Fuzzy Zoeller, 75-148.

Sullivan had to work hard for a 71 while Mitchell fought the wind and rain for an afternoon 67.

Tied at 137 were Bill Rogers, Andy Bean and Rod Curl. Rogers shot a 69, Bean 71 and Curl 68.

The group at 138, four under par, was made up of veteran Gene Littler, a three-time winner of this old tournament, Ray Arinno, Lon Hinkle and Hubert Green. Green matched par 71, Hinkle had 69, Littler 68 including bogeys on his last two holes, and Arinno was 67.

Defending champion Ben Crenshaw shot 71-142.

Charles Coody had the best score of the players stranded on the course by the late storm. He was one under par for the day — four under for the tournament — with two holes to play.

After they finish, the cut will be made to the low 70 scorers and the survivors will play the third round. It appeared a score of 144 or 145 would be required to qualify for the final 36 holes. That's exceptionally high for this event and compares with a cut score of 141 last year in the rain.

Although he missed the worst of the weather, Renner had to scramble hard for pars on his first two holes, missing the green on both.

"That was important, getting those pars. That set the day up for me," Renner said. He birdied the next hole from 30 feet, made the turn two-under for the day, moved into a share of the lead with a 20-footer on his 14th hole, then took the top spot with a chip-in birdie from 25 feet on his 17th hole.

Stovall Retains Rein's Assistants At LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — New Louisiana State football coach Jerry Stovall introduced his staff to reporters Friday, saying "I'm betting 18 years of my life in preparation for this job that they can do the job."

Six of the assistants had been chosen earlier by the late Bo Rein, who was killed in a plane crash last week, just over a month after being named head coach.

Stovall, an assistant to Athletic Director Paul Dietzel, was named head coach last Saturday.

The newest assistant is Bob Gatling, 44, who comes from the Wyoming football staff.

Rip Scherer was the only assistant coach chosen by Rein who decided not to stay on at LSU.

Those remaining who came with Rein from North Carolina State and are remaining include Greg Williams, Bobby Morrison, Bishop Harris, George Belu, Darrell Moody and Steve Regan.

Rein appointees from other schools also are staying. They are Jon Mirlovich, who came from Kentucky and Otis Washington, who coached at St. Augustine High in New Orleans.

Pete Jenkins, who was an assistant coach at Florida, was named Thursday by Stovall to be his assistant head coach and defensive line coach.

Holdovers from retired coach Charlie McClendon's staff are Sam Nader, who will be junior varsity coach, and Bruce Hemphill, who will be acting recruiting coordinator.

Regan, Nader and Hemphill are classified as part-time coaches.

LCC Entertains Texans

The Lubbock Christian College men's basketball team will NOT try to make it two in a row when the Chaps welcome Tarleton State to the Fieldhouse for a Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game at 8 tonight.

LCC, you understand, lost to Austin College 68-65 in its conference opener last Saturday, and Coach Larry Hays wishes no more delays in winning his first TIAA game ever.

Tarleton may be the perfect foil. The Texans are 2-11 and also 0-1 in the TIAA following a 98-72 loss to McMurry last week. In addition, Tarleton has scored an average of 76 points per game while allowing an average of 93 — a 17-point discrepancy.

The Texans are scheduled to start post-men Wilmer Forge and Lonnie Nichols, forward Dwayne Johnson, and guards Ricky Stanford and Willie Sneed. Forge leads the team with 15.4 ppg.

The Chaparrals, 9-12 overall and currently ranked sixth in District 8, will counter with post Kevin Wharton, forwards Bill McGee and Keith Gardner, and guards Bruce Carver and Marshall Smith.

Gardner averages 16.6 points, Carver 14.9, McGee 10.0, Smith 8.4 points and 7 assists, and Wharton 14.0 points and 10.1 rebounds.

The LCC women, 1-1 in TIAA play, meet the Tarleton women at 6 p.m.

Tarleton, 2-0 in the conference, has won the TIAA in each of the last two years and is led by 6-0 center Tyann Harrell.

The Lady Chaps, 3-9 overall, will start center Daria Lynch (19.4), forwards Cindy Bigham (3.6) and Sherry Williams (10.7), and guards Debbie Pitchford (2.5) and Sherry Brown (10.3).

Super Bowl Celebrating Reaches Orgiastic Level

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Era of Swing provided the theme Friday night for the traditional National Football League bash preceding Super Bowl XIV.

Tons of exotic food and rivers of wine and strong drink were laid out for an estimated 3,000 guests attending what is mis-called the annual press reception.

A host of media types were invited but were well outnumbered by the In People — the NFL brass and friends, members of the movie colony, corporate tycoons, merchandisers and high society.

It has developed into a Roman orgy. Sixty thousand square feet of the Pasadena Center, a sprawling convention hall, were transformed into a scene resembling a New York subway of the 1940s complete with tile walls, newsstands, food kiosks and authentic posters.

Four electronic signs were programmed to flash cover headlines of the period.

Ninety airline stewardesses served as hostesses, presenting each woman guest a wrist corsage and a dance card done in the colors of the Los Angeles Rams and Pittsburgh Steelers, who vie Sunday for the pro football championship in the historic Rose Bowl.

Dancing music was provided by the Tex Benke and Woody Herman Orchestra, the latter with the Young Thundering Herd, Swing, a popular Los Angeles harmony group.

Each year the Super Bowl party seeks to outdo its predecessors in size and imagination. In 1973 here, the NFL leased the Queen Mary. The next year Houston barbecued cows on open spits in a Texas motif and in 1975 in New Orleans the party was held in an auditorium that could hold four football fields. Last year, the sponsors took over the international terminal of the Miami airport.

The menu this year included 20 separate dishes, comprising a ton of corned beef, more than 3,000 chicken thighs stuffed with sausage, 5,000 barbecued beef ribs, a ton of linguine and 10 trailer loads of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Guests could munch on a Sandy Bain specialty — two popcicles, a Brandy Alexander and a Grasshopper. Two old-fashioned ice cream parlors served tutti-frutti ice cream with sprinkles.

A highlight of the evening were two walking, talking and dancing eight-foot robots dressed as Mean Joe Greene of the Steelers and Jack Youngblood of the Rams.

Noll Likes Current Squad Best

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Chuck Noll said Friday that the Pittsburgh club he is taking into Super Bowl XIV is the best of the four that have played for the National Football League title.

Noll held his final press conference before the Steelers face the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday.

"Football makes progress all the time," Noll said. "Our players are more efficient. Our training methods are more efficient. Yes, I think this is the best team I've brought into a Super Bowl game."

At the same time, Noll said he felt the Rams compared favorably to the two Dallas teams and the Minnesota club that the Steelers defeated in their first three

Super Bowl games. "They have a very capable defense and they have the offensive weapons that can produce the big play," the Steeler coach said. "When you have two defensive teams on the field, the penchant for the big play can separate them."

The difference in the Steelers, he said, was in depth experience. "When our defensive line was hurt early, Gary Dunn and Tom Beasley came in and did a great job for us. We had no fall off in efficiency. When we had our left line-backers hurt, Dennis Winston played there and then moved to the right side when Jack Ham got hurt. And he did well on both sides. He's a great athlete."

Noll said the Steelers enjoy the Super Bowl scene.

"Our team responds well to big games," the coach said. "We have the kind of people who get excited by big games."

Once again, Noll shrugged off the 11-point favorite role the Steelers are taking into the championship game.

"Point spreads encourage gambling and since we try to discourage gambling, I don't pay attention to point spreads," he said.

Greene Repays Ex-Coaches

TEMPLE (AP) — Don't call him "Mean" Joe Greene and mean it if you're talking to two of his former high school football coaches.

The Pittsburgh Steelers star is paying all expenses for the two men who coached him at what was then Temple Dnbar High School. The all-black school has closed since the days when Greene played football there.

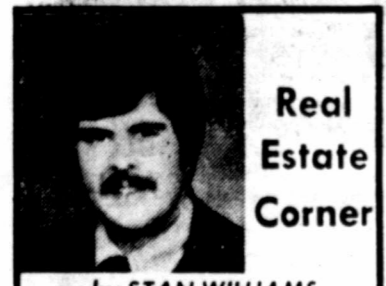

Curtis B. Elliott, 72, and Lester Moore, 62, were enroute to California Friday to attend Super Bowl XIV with Greene picking up the tab for all their expenses.

"I thought my husband was going to jump out of the bed when Joe called at 6:30 a.m. that day Joe called to tell him about it," said Mrs. Elliott.

"He's just a nice guy," she said of Greene.

PHYLIS TO COVER BOWL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Phyllis George, wife of Kentucky Gov. John Y. Brown, rejoins the CBS Super Bowl coverage crew Sunday, but instead of teaming up with Brent and Irv, her sidekick will be Archie Bunker. The former Miss America will co-host a pregame remote broadcast from a popular Beverly Hills nightspot. She and Carroll O'Connor, star of the long-running television "All in the Family," will work the bar in the "Ginger Man," a restaurant owned by O'Connor.

Real Estate Corner

by STAN WILLIAMS THE IMPORTANCE OF LOCATION

Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are: "Location, Location, and Location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice.

Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your home long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and immediate neighborhood.

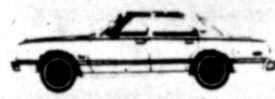

Select a location where raw land and house values have an increasing price trend. Especially check into the zoning laws for any unfavorable change which could cause a depreciation in the value of the neighborhood and the resale price of your home in the future.

Remember-you can remove, replace or remodel a house, but you can never change the location. So choose carefully.

Carter, IOC Confer; Olympic Status Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Olympic officials met with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and White House aides Friday in what was described as a "candid discussion," but they did not learn whether President Carter will call for a boycott of the Olympics in Moscow next summer.

Following a two-hour meeting at the White House, Robert Kane, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, told reporters: "We were informed that President Carter has made no decision on a boycott."

Although the president has no legal authority to force American athletes to boycott the Olympics, the administration has been considering calling on the U.S. Olympic Committee to avoid the Moscow Games in retaliation for the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Following Friday's meeting with the committee members, the White House released a statement saying the session was "for information purposes. The president has made no decision as to what recommendations, if any, he will make to the U.S. Olympic Committee or as to any other action with respect to the Olympics."

President Carter did not attend the meeting.

Kane, who was joined by F. Don Miller, executive director of the U.S. committee, said both sides presented their views on "both the policy and practical aspects of recent suggestions that the United States team withdraw from the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow unless the Games are transferred to another site."

Pete Rozelle Takes View On Raiders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday that the Oakland Raiders would be in violation of the National Football League constitution if the team attempts a move to Los Angeles without formal league approval.

Rozelle appeared at the hotel where hundreds of reporters covering Sunday's Super Bowl are staying for what has become his annual "state of the NFL" press conference.

But with thousands of questions already asked of the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Los Angeles Rams, the topic for Rozelle became Los Angeles' possible next team instead of the one playing for the league championship.

"It is my responsibility to uphold the constitution and to see to it that a vote is taken," Rozelle said. "I'd take whatever steps that are appropriate if a move were attempted without a vote."

The Raiders have been negotiating with city officials and are contemplating a possible transfer from Oakland to replace the Rams, who will be moving to Anaheim next season.

Rozelle said: "The Raiders have not asked the NFL to consider any move. Should they do so, I would call for a meeting and the Raiders could present information at that time."

To move, the Raiders would need approval from 21 of the 28 member clubs.

Rozelle said he had discussed the Raiders' possible move with some owners informally. "The ones I've talked to have said they'd listen, but I don't know that they've made up their minds."

The commissioner said that one of the factors the owners would be concerned with in examining a proposed move would be the effect on the league's television situation. "We've asked the networks to make a study for us," he said.

Rozelle said he personally supported stability in the league and was opposed to the movement of franchises from city to city.

Rozelle said he thought his powers as commissioner include the right to veto a move if he believes it is not in the best interest of football. "I probably could veto a move, but I see no way I would if the votes are there," he said. "I'd be in a weak position for any court challenge."

Besides television considerations, Rozelle said the owners would also look at the Raider's 13-year string of sellouts in Oakland.

Rozelle said he anticipates expansion by two more teams during the 1980s, giving the NFL 30 teams divided into six five-club divisions.

WOMEN'S TEAM COLLAPSES

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Diamonds of the Women's Basketball League folded Friday after 18 games, citing low attendance and revenue losses of $300,000. The Diamonds, 6-12 since they were formed last fall, were to have played the Houston Angels tonight in Houston. The Diamonds, which needed to average attendance of 3,000 to break even, became the third WBA team to fold, following Washington and Philadelphia.

floated "suggestions" in the past week suggesting either a boycott, moving the Games to another site or setting up a rival Olympics.

Kane said the U.S. Olympic Committee remains steadfast behind its position that any opposition to holding the Games in Moscow must be aired through the International Olympic Committee.

The U.S. committee released a statement, which Kane said sums up the panel's position that the Games should be kept separate from political turmoil.

The statement said: "In order to keep world politics out of the Olympic Games, each National Olympic Committee ... functions, by charter, independently of its home government, on Olympic matters.

"The current situation makes us conclude that the Olympic movement worldwide may have to reconsider whether or not it can maintain this freedom and independence in the future. That is a matter for the IOC to take up, and we hope, if they do consider it, consult with the USOC.

"Our responsibility is to the American athletes. If our government advocates a boycott, our athletes, under Olympic rules, must decide whether or not they wish to comply."

The statement said that if Carter advocates a boycott, "we will immediately poll prospective members of the U.S. team to ascertain their feelings about such an action."

He said based on the view of the athletes the committee's executive board would then make a decision on whether or not to enter athletes in the Games.

Lubbock's Big Money Cartel

Lubbock's Big Money Cartel, made up of local politicians, ex-politicians, big business and the Avalanche-Journal, has controlled Lubbock for decades and has opposed every group that has sought changes in the status quo—ranging from minorities to property owners associations.

These prominent, wealthy political bosses, with the active help of Lubbock's monopolistic newspaper, are in the process of performing a hatchet job on your firefighters that is unparalleled in the history of this City. With absolutely no regard for truth or fact, this special interest group has bombarded the public with misstatements, misrepresentations and outright lies.

It's time for the citizens of Lubbock to show that they will no longer be manipulated by Lubbock's Big Money Cartel!!!

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is fine to handle routine chores. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby later in the day. You would be wise not to discard carefully laid plans of the past.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to please friends in some way and gain their favors. Be more willing to cooperate with others. Be more optimistic.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Know your true position with higher-ups and show that you are loyal to them for best results. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take time to study a project that could give you added income in the future. Take right steps to gain a personal wish.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to please family members and establish more harmony at home. Take needed health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day to make new friends who can be of great help to you in the future. Be careful of one who is jealous of you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on how to become more efficient at your work so that you can advance in your line of endeavor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to enjoy the company of good friends at mutually interesting amusements. Take time later to study your favorite interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to forget own desires now and do more for your family. Take the right steps to gain a personal desire. Be poised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use tact and get others to go along with your ideas. Be sure to control your temper at all times today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plans how to invest your assets so that you can gain a profit in the days ahead. Stop feeling sorry for yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your personal goals are vital to you now, so plan how to make real progress toward them. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Be sure not to jeopardize your present security in any way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a conscientious person who will want to cooperate with others, so be sure to give a fine education as you can. Be sure not to neglect ethical training early in life. There's a fine sport in this chart.

Gasohol Station Owner Says Business Booming

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Chip Parker says business has been booming since he opened a service station that sells only gasohol.

"We decided to go into it and we just lucked out," said Parker, vice president of Parker Energy and Petroleum Co. in Wakefield.

He says the station, converted from a closed Citgo facility and opened in late November, pumps about 2,500 gallons of the gasoline-ethanol mixture a day and is developing a growing roster of regular customers.

Parker said he decided to sell gasohol rather than gas to get around supply problems. Since gasohol is 10 percent grain alcohol, it saves him that much gas, he said.

Parker said his firm gets its ethanol by truck from a company in Pennsylvania, stores it in a 20,000 gallon tank and then blends it with standard unleaded gasoline.

Parker sells gasohol along with standard gasoline at a station in Wakefield, and he said he plans to start offering the mixture at a Petersburg station.

Gasohol is expensive. Parker sells it for $1.15 a gallon for regular unleaded and $1.25 for premium. Gas in the area averages a little more than $1 a gallon.

Parker says he has had no supply problems and keeps his station open 16 to 18 hours a day on weekdays and eight hours a day on Sunday.

"We've got people coming on a regular basis," from all over the city and surrounding counties, attendant Wilson Rook said.

"The feedback I'm getting from regular customers is that they're getting from two to five miles a gallon better mileage. We haven't had any complaints as far as I know."

Nelson Terrell, a regular customer, said, "It seems like everything runs easier and quieter and without much hesitation. I think it's a good deal, but it's expensive. I get $5 worth every day."

Desegregation Plan For City

Termed 'Fair'

By LISA PAIKOWSKI

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock's desegregation plan is "fair and effective," say school attorneys in a court document filed Friday in preparation for an upcoming second federal court trial on the contested plan.

The document is an update of the school district's original answer in 1977 to U.S. Justice Department claims that the district operates and has preserved a segregated school system here.

In the document filed in U.S. District Court, attorneys contend that the district has attempted to rid the school system of segregation by following court orders.

Lubbock public schools have "strictly followed this court's desegregation order of 1970 and all of the orders made following the hearing in 1977 in word and in spirit and thus has undertaken to eliminate and eradicate all vestiges of a dual system," attorneys state in the document.

The court document continues, "The attitude and the approach of the school board in its dealings with the United States and with this court, as well as the action it has taken to implement desegregation policies, clearly shows that it is not motivated by segregative intent or design."

Attorneys claim that any remaining segregation in the system was not caused by discriminatory acts by the school board but by other factors beyond the control of the board.

School attorneys and U.S. Justice Department attorneys meet again Jan. 28 in federal court so that federal judge Halbert O. Woodward can conduct further findings in the case.

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals sent the case back to district court so that Woodward could determine whether the school board intentionally drew attendance zones — thus influencing housing patterns — to preserve segregated schools.
