

Gas crunch curtails Midland's park maintenance

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Midland's usual summer maintenance of city parks is running out of gas, according to Wayne Kohout, director of the Parks and Recreation Department.

When tight energy supplies cut the city's allocation last spring, Midland officials began cutting back on maintenance in the parks, Kohout said.

More gasoline is available now, but the park situation may not improve much, he added.

And if the situation worsens, some city employees may face temporary lay-offs, Kohout said.

As a result, the city has switched to a program of alternate maintenance for its parks.

Gulf Oil Co., supplier of the city's gasoline, has announced an allocation for Midland of 51,000 gallons in August, October and December and 47,000 gallons in September and November.

Those figures compare with June, when the city received 38,000 gallons. At that time, the city obtained another 20,000 gallons to last through July. But the supply situation remained tight, Kohout said.

"The city had projected a need for 87,000 gallons for August," the director explained. The 51,000 gallon allocation represents a cut of 25 percent, he said.

WHEN THE GAS SHORTAGE hit, the parks department suffered more than other city departments, Kohout said. Average cut to each department was 25 percent.

"But you can't cut that much out of fire and police services," he said. "We're the low man on the totem pole."

While his department usually gets about 1,900 gallons of gasoline during the summer months and 1,200 in wintertime, Kohout said he was reduced to 1,090 gallons for August.

"That's even a reduction for the winter when we don't need much," he said.

The parks division should have been cut 45 percent and the golf course 70 percent, said the director.

"We couldn't cut back that much on the golf course," he said. "We might get an overall 10 percent reduction, but the only other alternative was to cut services."

Hogan Park Golf Course realizes about $16,000 in monthly income for the city, and closing the facility because it needed $400 in gasoline to maintain the course didn't make sense, said Kohout.

AS A RESULT, Kohout was given permission to buy extra gasoline on the open market.

But the other parks aren't included in that allowance. Watering and lawn mowing have been reduced, and some parks look unkept, Kohout said.

Beginning in September, the city will start an alternate maintenance program.

Parks that will be maintained weekly are Dennis the Menace, Grafa, Hogan Park — including ball fields and driving range, Moore, Sidwell and Taylor.

Also on this schedule are the lawns at City Hall, the Parks and Recreation Office and Midland Center, when it is planted.

Parks on the biweekly schedule through November are Alamo, Cole, County, Cowden, Crier, Dunagan, Elkin, Fasken, Garret-Brown, Haley, Half, Henderson, Hidalgo, Hill, House, Jacotte, Kiwanis, Lloyd, Raliff, Rusk, Sparks, Tolbert, Ulmer and Washington.

Also included are Hogan Park entrance, picnic and open areas, Lancaster Park including Tesco and the annex and all traffic islands.

Maintenance frequency, Kohout said, is based on the area's use and visibility.

THE DEPARTMENT HAS 30 full-time employees maintaining the parks, Kohout said. Employees are divided into various crews covering Cubs Stadium, the swimming pools, ball fields, mowing, watering, trimming and tree pruning.

Before the cutback, each crew had a truck to take it to the day's location.

Now, Kohout said, crews are doubling up — one is dropped off at a park, while the other crew goes on to its assignment in the truck.

This saves gas, said the director, but there is one problem which few people think about — bathroom facilities.

Only three city parks are equipped with bathrooms. Being assigned to work in a park which doesn't have a bathroom can be an inconvenience, said Kohout.

And if the cutback on fuel worsens, he mentioned in passing, it could mean lay-offs for some city employees.

"We can't have people standing around doing nothing when our gasoline runs out at the end of the month," he said. Kohout then added that the

Midland's cable business a $1 million connection

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Staff Writer

Roughly 15,000 Midlanders have at least one thing in common — a major investment in the "cable connection."

Each year Midlanders pay approximately $1,320,000 for cable television entertainment.

Sometimes well and sometimes badly, the industry serves about 17 percent of the Tall City's population.

West Texas cable consumers and cable television producers have had their share of problems.

One clear misunderstanding in Midland concerns the industry's limitations when it comes to programming on all cable TV channels.

"Midland is allowed by the Federal Communications Commission to have one independent station (Channel 11) and one education station (Channel 13)," said Tom Mixon, owner of a Midland cable television service.

According to the FCC, that ruling applies to major markets only.

And Midland, Mixon said by way of explaining the absence of programming from Atlanta or Chicago, falls in the "major market" category.

NEVER, MIDLAND'S 20-miles-away-neighbor, Stanton, can provide any amount of programming to its consumers, he added, because Stanton does not come under the major market heading.

"We can sacrifice the Dallas-Fort Worth channel for the Atlanta channel," Mixon said. "(But) we won't do it because many of our customers are from the Dallas-Fort Worth area and would like to keep in touch with that area."

Also, contracts with various microwave companies would not allow cable TV companies to drop a station and add another one, he noted.

However, Mixon predicted the FCC may change the current rule in January 1980 to allow certain major markets to have additional independent stations.

Should this occur, Mixon claimed, Midlanders can rest assured there will be no cable rate increase to pay for the additional channel programming.

Billing for cable TV services also presents a problem for Midland cable users and producers.

According to Mixon, some of the billing problems are "customer related" or are due to human error.

ALL BILLING procedures now being followed originated with an Atlanta billing outfit which handles many cable television companies, he said.

Mixon said his company will start having a California firm handle its billing in the near future.

Sometimes a keypunch operator will punch in a wrong digit and send an erroneous bill to a customer, Mixon said.

In those cases, the customer can call the Midland cable TV organization and settle the mistake with them, he maintained.

On other occasions, said Mixon, a customer may misread his or her bill.

Another misconception about cable television is that the industry can not be affected by poor weather conditions, said Mixon.

"Extreme heat and lightning affects cable reception a lot," he said.

Heat reaching certain electronic and metallic parts can cause a malfunction in the cable system, Mixon noted, due to what he termed super heating.

Naturally, when lightning strikes a pole or a line carrying cable TV service, one can expect the system to malfunction, he said.

WHEN FOUL WEATHER disrupts service, cable repairmen try to correct the situation as fast as is humanly possible, said Mixon.

"...People have to remember that our guys have to work in the elements. We will not send any of our people up a pole until the storm is over," Mixon said.

And the only way cable television producers can be aware of disruptions is through customer complaints, the producers said.

"When one area is affected by an equipment malfunction, this does not mean all of Midland is affected," Mixon explained. "Unless the problem is in our main distribution line, which can be easily located and repaired."

Mixon said most equipment used in cable television has a life span of 15 years. Some equipment now in the system has been updated, but there are other parts that have a 1968 vintage, he said.

Unfortunately — from Mixon's viewpoint — not every one can get cable service to his or her home.

He said this was a matter of economics within the industry.

"It costs something like $15,000 a mile to install an underground coaxial cable to establish service in an area," he said.

OBVIOUSLY, A CABLE TV company has to be cautious when deciding to bury a cable in an area with new development.

"Once that cable is in the ground, there is no practical means to recover it," Mixon said.

He explained that one way a cable service company assures itself of possible future customers in a new development area is by getting a deposit from the land developer to establish cable service.

In Midland, however, that just isn't the problem, the cable TV owner sighed.

Midland has sprouted and spread at such a fast pace, he said, that his company now is running behind schedule in attempting to provide new areas with cable service.

Some Midlanders have been known to try to establish their own cable service by illegally cutting into a cable TV line.

UNDER TEXAS LAW, such activity is known as theft of service and can be prosecuted by the county attorney.

Answer Line...

The trash container beside my back gate serves four houses. Would you explain for the benefit of my neighbors that it is me and not the city who has to pick up the boxes, Christmas trees, etc., which they leave BESIDE the container.

Two years ago, I tried to "wait them out," leaving the trash where they had left it. One of them had the city write me a nasty letter concerning "the clutter" in my portion of the alley. And thanks for Answer Line. — H.D.R.

ANSWER: We believe your letter explains the situation pretty well. Do hope your neighbors take notice. As pointed out in an earlier Answer Line concerning conditions around containers in city alleys, it is the responsibility of the property residents to keep the alleys clean. Persons with materials too large to be placed in the container are responsible for having the trash removed, at their own expense.

Caution on Chrysler

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH
HEARST JR.
Editor-in-Chief,
The Hearst Newspapers

SAN SIMEON — Nowhere was the Great American Dream more manifest than in the Great American Automobile. Since about the turn of the century, the ownership of a car has been one of the most cherished goals of a majority of our countrymen.

Now automobiles are no longer a strictly American product. There are nearly as many foreign-built cars on U.S. highways as there are domestically-produced models.

A few years ago, if anyone had said that Chrysler Corporation, one of the mighty "Big Three," would petition the government for a billion dollars' worth of help, he would have been laughed out of the room.

Yet, here we are, with Chrysler pleading for $1 billion in advance federal tax "credits" — whatever that means — and General Motors putting up $230 million to buy up Chrysler's commercial paper, which is really accounts receivables, from dealers and customers.

There is great concern throughout the land about the half-million workers who will be affected if Chrysler folds, 250,000 of them on the Chrysler payroll and the remainder on the payrolls of Chrysler suppliers.

Shouldn't we be concerned whether these same workers have, through their unions, priced themselves out of the market?

Shouldn't we be concerned that our politicians, responding to the wishes (sometimes whims) of the environmentalists, have turned the automobile into an impractical machine, too costly from a consumer's standpoint?

Shouldn't we be concerned that our corporate tax laws, which take away 50 percent of the profits of a large outfit like Chrysler, have stifled the ability of many companies, particularly those bordering non-profitability, to re-invest in new plant and equipment?

Shouldn't we be concerned that we have created triple-taxation on American-made cars — the corporate tax, plus the tax on dividends, plus the sales tax — to such a degree that new

Editor's Report

Farmers' expenses still on the increase

AUSTIN — Farmers again will be spending more money to produce crops this year, and those increases generally are in line with inflation throughout the economy.

Higher prices for fuels and farm labor and a sharp hike for farm machinery contribute most to increased production costs. Prices for agricultural chemicals and fertilizer may rise.

Cost increase should range from 7 to 9 percent, although recent hikes in fuel may add further pressure.

Of all the major crops, cotton experienced lower per-acre cost in 1978 than in 1977. This was due to the declining chemical costs, less use of fertilizer and lower ginning costs.

FARM-RANCH ROUNDUP

ASCS sets 57.7 cents as cotton target price

Target price for 1979 Upland cotton will be 57.7 cents per pound, said E.A. Baumann, chairman of the Midland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Committee.

The price, set each year, determines agricultural disaster payments. The 1979 disaster payment rate is 19.2 cents per pound, or one-third of the target price.

Disaster payments are made if the producer is prevented from planting Upland cotton or non-conserving crops, or if yields are substantially reduced.

In order to qualify for disaster payments, farmers must participate in set-aside requirements for agricultural products.

The target price also determines deficiency payments for Upland producers.

If the national average price during 1979 is less than 57.7 cents per pound, cotton producers will receive a deficiency payment equal to the difference between the average price and the loan level of 50.23 cents.

About 44,000 acres of cotton were planted in Midland County this year, according to the ASCS committee.

County officials estimate good weather and a normal-to-late frost will enable farmers in Midland County to produce 20,000 bales of cotton.

ASCS Committee member Vernon Chandler estimates the present value of the 1979 cotton crop at $4.5 million.

Increased insect activity has been evident recently following the cool, moist weather this summer, ASCS committeemen noted.

Iraan girl wins AJRA title

SNYDER — An Iraan girl, Candy Watts, won the AJRA national title in barrel racing and placed third in break-away calf roping and pole bending in the 13-15 age bracket here recently.

Shelly Jones, 12, of Lamesa won the All-Around Cowgirl title in the AJRA National Finals for girls age 12 and under and won the national title in optional roping and was reserve champion in barrel racing.

And an Odessa, James Zant, won the AJRA title in ribbon-roping for the 16-19 age group.

The winners won saddles as trophies.

Cotton may top 5 million bales

AUSTIN — Texas cotton production in 1979 may constitute a bumper crop and may top 5 million bales for the second time since 1949, said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Upland cotton yield may be 5,200,000 bales, which would be 37 percent higher than the 3,792,000 bales produced statewide in 1978.

Approximately 7,100,000 acres are expected to be harvested, and the average yield per acre will be 352 pounds, up from the 294 pounds last year.

Ag land loss a national problem

HARPER, Kan. — The creeping loss of agricultural land to urban expansion and wildlife refuges is becoming a national problem, reports Lyle Bauer, president of the National Association of Conservation Districts.

"There are 413 million acres currently in America's cropland inventory," says Bauer. "We are losing some three million acres per year as a result of urbanization and other factors." Erosion accounts for the effective loss in productivity of three million acres.

Wheat exporters successful

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A group of Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas farmers is claiming success in a pioneering effort to directly export a wheat shipment, collecting $5 million for wheat sold to Portugal.

"This is the first time anywhere we know of that farmers have been able to directly export wheat without the big grain companies," said Erma Sledge, secretary of Oklahoma Parity, Inc.

Many of the farmers who formed the Oklahoma City-based group have been active in the American Agriculture Movement, which has demonstrated for higher crop prices.

After expenses, farmers will receive about $4.27 to $4.30 a bushel for their wheat from their export sale, said Sam Whitham, president of American Agricultural Marketing Corp., which handled the sale.

Wheat prices at Oklahoma elevators Friday ranged from $3.86 to $4.02 a bushel.

"The farmers didn't get into this deal to make a big profit," Whitham said. "Rather they got into it to see if they could do it. It's just amazing the doors this first sale has opened. The phones are ringing off the wall. Farmers are wanting to sell their wheat and buyers are wanting to buy it."

Whitham said wheat producers are already talking about a second export sale.

Old but not yet due for retirement is this 1951 "aerial" fire truck, soon to be the focus of a $85,000 rebuilding contract aimed at saving the city about $60,000 on the price of a replacement vehicle. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

City refurbishing old fire trucks

By MIKE SLATON
Staff Writer

Old fire trucks never die; they just get a new ladder.

In the case of one of Midland Fire Department's trucks, they also get a new engine, new transmission, new cab, new gauges and lots of other parts.

The truck, a 1951 "aerial," one of two in Midland, is due for a complete refurbishing, according to Fire Chief Raymond Lewis.

Cost of a new truck like the one Midland has ranges from $150,000 to $160,000.

"Rebuilding this truck will save about $60,000," he said.

"It looked like the thing to do," he added.

The rebuilt truck will be certified by the State Board of Insurance for another 20 years, said Lewis.

The State Board of Insurance determines fire insurance rates for Midland based generally on the population of the town, fire department manpower, equipment and water supply, explained Lewis.

The 1951 truck, manufactured by American LaFrance, was the first one bought by the city, said Lewis.

When the fire engine was purchased, the State Board of Insurance required one such vehicle for every 35,000 population or fraction thereof, said Lewis.

A second "aerial" was purchased by the Tall City in 1960 when the population climbed to 60,000, said Lewis.

The trucks are not used very much, he said. They function mainly as a means of mass evacuation of multi-story buildings and as an elevated platform for hose-manning firemen when it is not safe to put men on the roof of a burning structure, the chief explained.

The Midland Fire Department presently has nine pump trucks, six of which have been repowered with diesel engines in the past three years, said Lewis.

Two other "pumpers" have been budgeted for repowering this year, Lewis added.

In addition to the "pumpers", the department has a booster truck used primarily for grass fires, three crash trucks at Midland Regional Airport and a dry chemical jeep that would be used in situations where a full-sized fire truck could not be used.

The fire department has on order a "mini-pumper" built on a chassis the same size as those on the ambulances, said Lewis.

"It was bought primarily for use on major traffic accidents and trash fires so that the big pump trucks could be reserved for major fires," said Lewis.

Jet makes emergency landing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 jetliner made an emergency landing at the Minneapolis-St. Paul Airport on Saturday, and a control tower spokesman said there were no injuries.

It was not known how many persons were aboard the plane and it was not clear whether Minneapolis was the flight's destination.

The three-engine plane, which can seat up to 180 persons, circled the field about one half hour to burn off fuel, then landed with its wheels up after foam was spread on a runway.

Preregistration at MC nearing 1,400 for fall

Preregistration for the fall semester at Midland College continues at a lively pace, according to registrar Dee Windsor.

Almost 1,400 students had preregistered by Friday afternoon, Windsor said, a comparable number to last year's count at the same time. Preregistration continues weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Aug. 28 in the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building.

Official registration dates are Aug. 29 and 30 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and again from 4:30 to 8 p.m. both days. Registration will be conducted in the Physical Education Building.

Those persons who are unable to preregister during the regular hours may call 684-7851, extension 166, to arrange for a late appointment. They also may report to the Physical Education Building between 6 and 7:30 p.m. Aug. 30.

Fall semester classes begin Sept. 4 and end Dec. 20.

Registration for the fall term is expected to be about 2,300 students in credit courses. An additional 3,000 to 4,000 persons also are expected to attend Midland College for one or more of the many adult and continuing education courses which start weekly during the fall.

academic and vocational subjects are designed to assist those who plan to continue their studies at a four-year school, those who are seeking to obtain or improve job skills and those who wish to take courses for personal fulfillment and enjoyment.

Persons who would like more information about courses offered, or who would like to visit with a counselor about their educational future should visit the Office of Student Services during the coming week.

In compliance with a recent change in Texas law, a tuberculosis screening program has been scheduled for all new Midland Independent School District employees and volunteers.

School nurses will give the Mantoux TB screening test Wednesday in the conference room of the MISD administration building from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The test will be read Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. in the same location. There is no charge for the screening.

New employees must, according to the new law, have a certificate on file with the school district when they start to work. New employees and first-time volunteers must submit their TB certification before beginning their duties this fall.

Throughout the school year, beginning Sept. 10, a school nurse will be available to give the test from 10 to 11 a.m. in the transportation office, 801 S. Moran St. The test will be read each Wednesday in the same office from 10 to 11 a.m.

Any person who has a positive reading on the Mantoux for the first time will be referred to the Midland Health Department for x-ray at no expense to the employee or volunteer.

George T. Abell

Midland and the Permian Basin Empire of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico lost a real friend and staunch, generous supporter in the death Monday of George T. Abell, a Midland resident for more than half a century.
Mr. Abell gave so unselfishly of himself to so many individuals and worthwhile causes that no one will ever know the extent of his benevolence. He is best-known for his generous contributions, financial and otherwise, to the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame; Midland Memorial Hospital, Boy Scouts of America and in the fields of education and culture, but this list by no means even starts to cover the extent of his broad-based giving. This was a marvelous trait, indeed.

But what really is significant, however, is the fact that George T. Abell plowed back into his beloved Midland and West Texas a generous portion of that which he had taken out and from which he had benefitted. His adopted community and region had been good to him, and, in return, he was good to them. Thus, Midland and West Texas are better and more enjoyable places in which to reside and work as a result of his generosity.

Modest to the nth degree, George Abell also was a kindly, gentle, compassionate and considerate man of the highest character and integrity.
Yet he was a determined person, one who never looked back once he originated or adopted a worthwhile idea, cause or project. He would go all-out in researching, organizing and promoting any endeavor he chose to support. He always solicited the assistance and support of others, but if it wasn't forthcoming, George Abell didn't lose interest in or give up on whatever project it was. His determination was responsible to a marked degree for the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum being what it is today. And so it was with numerous other programs. The Aeroplane Museum at Midland Regional Airport is another example of his determined effort.

This also was true in his business career. He held degrees in civil and irrigation engineering and in mechanical engineering, but George Abell trained himself as a geologist and began his petroleum career as an independent oil operator here in 1930. He became successful through determination and tenacity.

He was a staunch supporter of the free enterprise system and always was interested and active in public affairs.

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists in 1978 named Mr. Abell as the recipient of its coveted Public Service Award. He previously had received the Permian Basin Oil Show's top award for service and contributions to the petroleum industry. He also had been inducted into the Petroleum Museum's Hall of Fame.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in 1973, presented Mr. and Mrs. Abell with its Cultural Achievement Award. They also received an award from the Texas Historical Foundation, and the first Texas award for Historical Preservation. The Midland Rotary Club and other groups also had honored Mr. Abell.

But the wonderful part about it all was that Mr. Abell never failed to acknowledge graciously and sincerely his appreciation for any honors bestowed upon him. He was that kind of person. He was a distinguished citizen and business and civic leader, richly deserving of all the honors which had come his way, although he would have been the first to deny such a statement.

George Abell will be missed, certainly, but he has left behind living, lasting monuments by which he will be remembered and which long will benefit residents of this city and region and which will be appreciated and enjoyed by generations yet unborn.

The overlooked barrel

A Reporter-Telegram editorial page reader, noting H.C. "Hank" Avery's cost-per-barrel calculations of various items cited in the "Almighty Barrel" editorial appearing in this space last Tuesday, was quick to point out that the most expensive of all had been overlooked.

This one, he said, is the "pork barrel!"

We most certainly agree, but it could be that Mr. Avery, in the interest of listing only calculable items, did not list "pork" since there perhaps is no way of even estimating its cost to the "tax-paying consumer."

NICK THIMMESCH

People of all faiths look forward to Pope's American visit

WASHINGTON — So the Polish Pope, John Paul II, is headed this way and will probably visit President Carter in the White House. The Kluxers will burn no crosses on the lawn. Protestants and other Americans United for Separation of Church and State will hold no mass rallies. Times have changed. No one fears a papal plot any more.

In fact, there is such a clamor for John Paul II to see people of all faiths and visit all regions that he is going to disappoint many. The Pope is scheduled to land in Boston Oct. 1, very likely on an Air Lingus charter loaded with press and ecclesiastics. No divines are expected to be aboard. This is a sweaty, human Pope. Dr. Gallup proclaimed him the second most admired man in the world in 1978. Kissinger came in tenth right behind Menachem Begin and Richard Nixon.

The Pope will be on Air Lingus because he'll be coming from Ireland where there are also a few Catholics around, including relatives of the Massachusetts senator who will certainly be on hand to welcome him to Irish Boston.
Anyway, he'll draw up to a million in Boston, even if the Red Sox are playing when he arrives, and is expected to draw like numbers in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Washington, D.C. Officials here are already planning on a million souls to attend the Mass the Pope will celebrate on the Mall, that greensward which sweeps from the Lincoln Memorial past the Washington Monument up to Capitol Hill where aspirants for greatness send out self-promoting mail by way of the franking privilege.

President Carter recently told a clutch of out-of-town editors (he tells them more than he does their Washington colleagues) that he expects to meet with the Pope "in the White House in a private fashion." Now 20 years ago, and certainly earlier, such a statement would have caused all manner of non-Catholic divines to throw their hats on the floor and cry that the President has gone daft by seeing the king of the papists.
But the election of John F. Kennedy, the greatness of Pope John XXIII, the reduction of paranoia about Rome and the rise of ecumenical spirit have changed all that. Among the kind gestures offered Pope John Paul II on his visit is one from the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith for his staff to use several floors of their building, located near the United Nations, where he will speak Oct. 2.
This Pope already knows the American precincts pretty well. As

Scandal nets talk but few reforms

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The great General Services Administration scandal, unfortunately, has produced more ballyhoo than reforms. You might think that criminal prosecution of 114 federal officials and private contractors meant that the corruption had been entirely rooted out of Uncle Sam's housekeeping agency. Not so.

The GSA was exposed as an agency seething with chicaneries, riddled with graft and bogged down in trivia. If some of the culprits have been caught and the procedures tightened, the sloppy administration practices remain largely unchanged. Uncle Sam's grab bag is still open to greedy businessmen, largely because of a lack of proper oversight in protesting the public's dollar.

And Jimmy Carter's budget cutters, eager to put on a show of stringent economy before the 1980 election, have stymied efforts to clean up GSA's scandalous operations. They are more interested in cutting expenses than in conducting audits.

President Carter can't be blamed for the original mess at GSA; the multimillion-dollar thievery stretches back through at least three administrations. But he can be blamed for promising a thorough cleanup of the agency and, so far, failing to follow through.

Carter got off to an auspicious start. He brought in Jay Solomon, a conscientious businessman from Nashville, Tenn., to head the agency. The uninitiated Solomon, finding himself in the middle of a mess, set to work housecleaning with enthusiasm.

Too much enthusiasm, as it turned out. In a politically risky move, Solomon managed to oust his recalcitrant deputy administrator, Robert Griffin. Solomon won the battle but lost the war. Griffin happened to be a crony of House Speaker Thomas (Tip) O'Neill, whom Carter could not afford to offend.

The president first tried to restrain Solomon by assigning an old GSA buddy and close political confidant, Charles Kirbo, to oversee the GSA probe. The blatantly political move raised such an outcry that Carter quickly backed down, saying Kirbo would be only a consultant to Solomon. But it was only a matter of time before Solomon was out.

Now, months later, evidence has come to light suggesting that top GSA officials were aware of the agency's sloppy management and bookkeeping practices long before the scandal erupted last year. A series of internal audits obtained by Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., shows that GSA poohbais had for years resisted proposed reforms that could have saved the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

The potential for theft at GSA — from petty pilfering to large-scale fraud — is enormous. The agency administers 10,000 federal buildings, operates a fleet of 83,000 government-owned automobiles and buys hundreds of tons of office furniture and tens of thousands of office machines for Uncle Sam's army of bureaucrats.

Everything from construction of a $100 million federal building to replacement of a 15-cent washer in a Cabinet secretary's bathroom comes under GSA's jurisdiction.

United Nations. Some interpreted this as a rather rarefied protest of the war in Vietnam.

But to show how times have changed, consider the visit of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli (in 1939, Pope Pius XII) in 1936. The gossip was that he was here to get diplomatic recognition for the Vatican and to discipline Father Charles Coughlin, the radical, flamboyant "radio priest." Instead, Pacelli avoided politics studiously, though he did have a private visit with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park. "I enjoyed lunching with a typical American family," he quipped.

That was the same wit which prompted Al Smith, the first Roman Catholic presidential candidate, after losing in a landslide in 1928, to send the Pope the shortest cablegram on record: UNPACK.

ART BUCHWALD

The old, old story of the man who gave up smoking

WASHINGTON — Many people have given up smoking since all the bad publicity, and in the majority of cases I admire them for it. But occasionally there is an exception.

I'm thinking now of my friend, De Vries, as an example. De Vries was a "two-pack-a-day" man, and he was very upset about it. He finally decided to quit, and at lunch one day he said he wanted me to be the first to know. "I can do without," De Vries said. "All it takes is willpower."

I wished him well. A week later I saw him and asked him how it was going. "I haven't had a cigarette in seven days," he said proudly. "Bless you," I said. "Your wife must be very proud of you."

"I wouldn't know," De Vries said. "Why not?" "I moved out of the house three days ago. And I want to tell you something. I don't miss it at all. What a rat race! She was screaming all the time; the kids were driving me nuts; no one would listen to anything I had to say. Maybe I shouldn't have slugged her, but..."

"You slugged her?" I said. "Well, it was just a tap. Believe me, it's been building up for a long time. I mean — I'm amazed I didn't do it before."

I was very disturbed by the news, but I went about my business. I didn't see De Vries again for ten days. Then I ran into him on the street.

"Hey," he said. "You know, I haven't had a cigarette in 17 days. I don't even miss it."

"That's great," I replied. "How are things going at the office?" "What office?" he asked. "Where you work!"

"Heck, I quit four days ago. I was sick and tired of putting up with all the stuff they were handing out. They blamed me for losing the Waring account."

"But you had the Waring account?" "I did until Waring started giving me all the flack about not returning his calls. I told him I had other accounts besides his, and I'd get to his calls when I was good and ready. Boy, did he scream to the old man about that. So I told the old man he had to choose between me or Waring."

"That's terrible." "Who cares? Ever since I gave up smoking, my tennis game is great and I've been out on the court every day."

I guess I didn't see De Vries for a month. Then he turned up at the house one day. "Well," he said, "I haven't had a cigarette in 47 days. I'm adding years to my life."

"Swell. What can I do for you?" "That's a patronizing thing to say. You act as if I were going to hit you up for a loan. Well, I was, but forget it. You're like everyone else, mean and rotten and spiteful and a bore. I have a good mind to punch you in the nose."

"De Vries, I don't know how to say this to you, but as a friend, I think I should. Go back to smoking. There are some people who should give it up and some people who shouldn't. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Besides, you've proved you can give it up, that's the main thing."

My little sermon worked. De Vries is now back with his family, he has a new job where he's doing quite well, we're friends again, and the last time I saw him he said to me, happily, "I don't know how to thank you. Did you know that I'm back to two packs of cigarettes a day?"

To Califano and Schlesinger, add one more name I insist, And take your Chrysler dealer to lunch, 'Cause he's on the endangered list.

Have you chucked your dealer under the chin, Have you promised for him you'll pray, Have you brought him a batch of chicken soup, Have you told him to have a nice day?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'Horror-scope'

To The Editor:

This letter is written concerning the advertisement for Jeane Dixon in your Sunday paper, Aug. 8, 1979. It is of great concern on my part (and many other Christians) that Jeane Dixon's predictions could be called "fun."

When Moses was asked how you can tell a true prophet or prophetess he said all prophets of God are correct 100 percent of the time. If you look at Jeane Dixon's track record of predictions you will see she has missed more than just one prophesy.

Therefore she cannot fit the billing of being from the God that Christians recognize as Lord. Then who is deceived, those who do not know that she is a false prophetess. Since she can not be from the God whose words are always true, then she is being deceived by some other god.

All children of God should know about Mrs. Dixon and the fact that she does not fill the criteria for being a true prophetess, so as not to be deceived into believing her predictions are from God.

Why then do you offend the Christians of Midland by advertising this woman's horror-scope predictions as being "fun." In the spiritual sense you would consider Russian Roulette just a "fun" game.

For one will stand against such as Mrs. Dixon and hope others are as offended as I was.

Bearing arms

To The Editor:

I wish to say that I disapprove of FBI Director Webster's comments to the media following the slayings of three FBI agents last week. His comments were to the effect that the blame for the slayings lies with our constitutional right to keep and bear arms.

This is the kind of statement we can expect when our federal government appoints persons with no expertise to responsible positions. Mr. Webster has never carried a badge and gun on the street and I hope that those who heard or read his statement will not think that he is speaking for all of the law enforcement community. I have been a law enforcement officer for nearly eight years and I assure you that he does not speak for me. I can remember the events of November 1976 too well. You will recall that a vicious felon slew our highway patrolman five miles east of Rankin on U.S. 67. A patriotic citizen observed the fiend pumping 11 shots into the body of our patrolman. The citizen then shot and kill the assailant. Thank God for an armed citizenry! I want to add that as a local peace officer, I feel better and safer knowing that nearly all of the good people of the county in which I work own firearms and are probably not afraid to use them should a situation warrant their use.

As a law enforcement officer I very much resent Mr. Webster's using a law enforcement tragedy to attempt to further a liberal political philosophy, being that of gun control. That is exactly what Director Webster did when he made the above referred to statement.

To serve, protect

To The Editor:

Recently there have been several controversial letters concerning police harassment.

Two individuals claimed being maltreated, "harassed" if you will. The writer of neither letter chose to speak of their actions. They left the impression that there was no provocation at all on their part.

As I read those colorful accounts I could not help remembering officers like Terry Lowe, who was critically injured in the line of duty recently, which is a potential risk for every peace officer.

I hope no one was misled by these seemingly spiteful letters. Our peace officers deserve better than that! They take more abuse in a week's work than those individuals will face in a lifetime!

As Mr. Bryant pointed out, they have a job to do, just like everyone else and I can almost assure you they could care less if you are 18 or 118.

Before you publicly criticize these officers' competence, why not walk a mile in their shoes.

They are here to serve and protect you. No matter how ungrateful you are!

Susan Sexton

Was it sabotage?

To The Editor:

Finally it comes out! The admission in Newsweek that the "belching gusts of radiation" amounted to only 5 to 7 millirems or about one-eighth of a normal chest X-ray.

Could it, the incident at Three Mile Island, be one of sabotage? Could it be some are trying to stop the use of nuclear power for American homes and industry?

The problem at "the Island" was due to a valve, which was supposed to be open, but it was closed. This caused the main cooling system to be inoperative and the core began to overheat. There is a second complete cooling system that is supposed to automatically go into operation. But it didn't because its two valves had been closed by a switch in the main control room. These valves are always to be open when the reactor is operating. So who turned the switch off?

Rep. Robert Dornan of California said: "The safety features built into nuclear plants make it very unlikely that the chain of events that occurred did so without human design."

"This is sabotage," said Pennsylvania state Rep. Joseph Zeller, who worked for 15 years for a firm which constructed nuclear plants.

"Somebody or some team deliberately crippled that plant," Zeller said. "This just couldn't happen without tampering."

"Too many things have happened here for this not to be sabotage," said veteran nuclear engineer Jon Gilbertson after concluding his own on-site investigation.

It's not telling what Americans could do with the truth. We might be brave enough to build more nuclear plants.

Rev. Robert Neumann

Abuse of power

To The Editor:

Recently I wrote you a letter concerning reprisals from law enforcement personnel after a person exercises his or her rights and files a complaint with the U.S. Justice Department. I didn't sign the letter I sent you for fear of more reprisals, but I will sign this one, but I request you to withhold my name.

There is a new law coming into effect in September of this year, Texas Senate Bill 546, concerning law enforcement brutality against citizens while in their custody. There should be some safeguards against reprisals from law enforcement personnel to citizens who exercise his or her rights. The kind of reprisals I am writing about are:

1. Having most everybody believe you are a criminal.
2. Spreading malicious gossip with their friends or family.
3. Telephone monitoring to know where you are going and who you are going to see.
4. Discrediting a person's reputation.
5. Having you constantly watched from the time you leave your home with your family to another city by calling other departments in those towns and spreading the same malicious gossip, keeping you under constant pressure, trying to disable you to where you can't function as a normal person.

I believe this to be abuse of power for their own self revenge against a person who exercises his rights.

This country of ours, the U.S.A., is supposed to be free from all that I have written to you about. I believe there should be an investigation into this area of law enforcement here in West Texas.

Talk about Watergate in Washington, you should see what goes on here in this area. It's time to call the rotten apples out of the basket, whether a sheriff, a chief of police, a captain, a lieutenant, sergeant, or rookie, whatever.

Ripped off

To The Editor:

Last week I went into one of Midland's drug stores which advertises "discount prices" to purchase some hair coloring lotion. It was a product I had used for years. I do not normally pay much attention to prices of products I continuously use, but I was taken aback at the outrageous price of this item. The marked price was $3.15, and I was sure that I had bought the same item at the grocery store where I shop that has a very large health and beauty aid department for only $1.89 just a few weeks before.

I called this to the attention of the store manager and he was rather abrupt in informing me that the price had just gone up. I protested by saying that surely it had not gone up over $1. He made the pretense of checking his records, and he told me that it had gone up from $2.89 to $3.15. I continued to protest, telling him that I felt it was an oversight, that it really should have been marked up from $1.89 to $2.15. I realized that my protesting was futile, but I refused to pay that price for it.

I instead drove on down the street to the grocery store with the large drug department where I shop and paid $2.09 for it! One of the employees of this grocery store told me that it had indeed gone up — from $1.89 to $2.09.

Yesterday (a week later) I again checked the drug store's price and it was still $3.15. I also checked with two other stores that carry fairly large stocks of hair colors and their prices were $2.33 and $2.39 for this same item.

I am sick of hearing how the oil companies rip people off. I am an employee of the oil industry and proud of it. Maybe Jimmy should look into the profits of large drug stores.

'Back-up' thanks

To The Editor:

Send me a "back-up." Police jargon asking for help. That first call went out over the police radio Sunday night, August 5th. The call for help was in Officer Lowe's voice — weak, faint, and broken. He had been stabbed in the back.

Midland police officers are neither furnished with nor required to wear protective vests. His call for a "back-up" was answered from the police department with "Officer down — all units respond." And they did. It was the beginning of an immediate, competent, and concerned "back-up." The paramedics worked over him at the scene. The Emergency Room was ready and waiting. Officer Lowe had a collapsed lung and would have to wait for the doctor he needed to come from Odessa.

Officer Lowe's family, waiting in the Emergency Room, had sent up their requests — their prayers asking God for a "back-up." Fellow officers and supervisors were also waiting. As you looked at their faces, you could sense the brotherhood existing between them. One felt that the group of uniformed officers were as one man, and stood alone with anguish and frustration on their faces.

An eternity waiting for the doctor to arrive. Another eternity after he arrived waiting for the diagnosis. God in His mercy had sent His "Back-Up." Officer Lowe would live — and he would be well again with care and time.

Dr. Hutton and the Midland Memorial staff provided Officer Lowe with the most competent, concerned care one could ask. Midlanders showed an overwhelming interest and concern for a police officer wounded while on duty. People, unknown to Officer Lowe or his family, responded with phone calls and offers of support in every way.

We thank all of you — friends known and unknown. Thank you, too, for sending a "back-up."

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd R. Lowe
Parents of Officer Terry Lowe

DOE rules unfair

To The Editor:

Apparently many people are not aware of the unconstitutionality or even of the unfairness of many of the Department of Energy regulations.

Beginning with March 1972, the Railroad Commission permitted maximum allowable production from Texas wells. DOE subsequently categorized wells drilled prior to 1973 as "old" wells and later wells as "new" wells. They then cooked up a stealing scheme under which they would not allow the price of old oil to rise except by the amount by which production exceeded that of 1972 on a cumulative basis.

Since 1972 was a high production year because of wells being permitted to produce at full allowances for the first time in 25 years, the majority of Texas wells exhibited rapid decline in 1973 and subsequent years. With operating and workover expense rising rapidly in 1974, in view of the make-up provisions of the cumulative deficiency rules, it became very difficult to justify workover operations.

Apparently alarmed at the rate of decline in domestic "old" oil production, many politicians and government officials became proponents of various methods of incentives for increasing production. DOE did not issue information directly to producers, and it was difficult for small producers to maintain an accurate perspective concerning that which had been proposed and that which had been adopted. Many of us relied on instructions presented with certification requests from crude oil purchasers.

Oil producers utilized definitions acceptable to and employed by the Railroad Commission in regards to oil and gas measurements and property definitions. In 1977 DOE redefined and revised many of its rules and definitions, particularly in regard to property, and has ruled that they be retroactively applied. Under their property rules there are now wells in some reservoirs such as Spraberry which although drilled after the time which would have been considered as new are subject to three different price categories. Is this fair?

Enough, slob

To The Editor:

The people of Midland have been generous enough to give us a new club house and an additional nine holes to accommodate the increased traffic. It is a beautiful and spacious club house and the new nine holes look very sportive and exciting.

Unfortunately among us are some out and out slob. You slob are the ones who litter and damage the course. You bring beverages to the course, or purchase them at the club house, carry them on your round, and when finished toss out the cans and bottles wherever you are. You seem to think tree wells are suitable disposal places. Never mind that there are trash cans available. You are too much of a slob to use them. It is of no concern to you if the player behind has his shot spoiled by it striking one of your discarded beverage containers. You are too much of a slob to care.

You play your ball out of sand traps and walk off leaving your tracks and divots untouched. There are rakes for you to repair your damage. But so what? You are too much of a slob to use them.

You drive your carts into the rough (even though you are instructed not to) and leave cigarette butts on the greens. But then, of course, you are a thoughtless slob. As a somewhat controversial sportscaster says about such as you: "You wonder about the mentality of such people." Golf started out with The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland as a gentlemen's game. Honesty, integrity, sportsmanship, and decorum on the links were paramount. Someone once said: "Let me play a round of golf with a man and I will tell you about his character."

So please! Clean up your act. Appreciate what the people of Midland have done for you. Play as you would want the player in front of you to play. Stop littering, observe the rules and stop being a slob.

'Brer' Jimmy

To The Editor:

One thing puzzles me about the "Georgia Mafia." Apparently, their main goal is political — re-election of Carter. I do not agree with the goal, but do not disparage it. What puzzles me is their strategy right now. They are obviously (and, occasionally, overwhelmingly) from the South.

Did not even one of them read "Uncle Remus?" I am not referring to the Disney books and movies, excellent though they may be. The original stories, written by Joel Chandler Harris tell how a very clever "loser," "Brer Rabbit," turned defeat into victory, time after time after time. "Brer Rabbit, he just lie low."

Of course, I do not expect anyone to admit that failure or defeat was near. But, obviously, it was. And somebody pushed the panic button. Do something. Do something. Fire the Cabinet, or, at least, some of them. Go PUBLIC, etc.

Next time I'll tell you what I think about Carter's early campaign. A "sitting president" running 14 months before election.

Korean pen pal

To The Editor:

How are you? I am a 16-year-old Korean girl who is a monitor of a high school, and a secretary of Echo Teen-ager Club.

My club is led by a social studies teacher, and has about 300 boys and girls, aged 13 to 19.

For special activities in my club, we are doing various things — seminars, learning foreign languages (especially English), writing contests, music contests, oratorical contests, art exhibitions, playing dramas, cycling, traveling, and so on.

We are proud of being members of this club, since we are able to learn many interesting subjects, and enjoy leisure time very beneficially. It is the best time for us to invite some foreigners in Seoul to my club and have free discussions with them.

By the way, we are eager to learn more about your country — geography, history, culture, people, customs, way of life, holidays, educational system, school life, favorite things, etc. We also would like to tell you people about my country.

We are very anxious to make pen friends with the boys and girls from your country. Please print my letter so that I can receive a lot of letters.

Well, I shall be looking forward to hearing from your country.

Retro-action

To The Editor:

The Constitution of the United States of America forbids enactment of ex post facto laws, those taking effect retroactively. However, we today live in a society which is ruled and governed more by regulations and edicts of bureaus and agencies of our various governmental levels than by statutes per se. Yet these regulations, edicts, and rules are frequently promulgated retroactively. As they are ipso facto laws and have the effect of same, it would seem that the Constitution proviso against ex post facto laws should be applicable to them, also.

I have often wondered why the larger corporations with their full-time legal staffs don't attack these retroactive regulations in the courts. While this is just food for thought, it might be the first move toward curbing the rampant growth of our bureaucracy.

This thought is not original with me, but it does bear repeating: More American citizens have died in Ted Kennedy's car at Chappaquiddick than in all nuclear power accidents since the dawn of time.

Rodeoing son 'good and honest'

Call 'em what you want: cowpokes, goat-ropers, hoof riders, arena dirt-daubers, kickers, cowhands, bow-legged dudes, bull riders or a bunch of other names that flatter, slander or just tell what role the fellow is a 'playing.

But the name doesn't change a thing; they're still what they are: rodeo hands.

"They're good and honest," said Juanette Welch, a mother of a rodeo type, bull rider Chris Welch of Midland. "They respect people and other people's property."

Welch, 18, who just won the world championship in bull riding in the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals in Snyder, has already got his permit to go "big time" into the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

And for his AJRA feat, Welch got himself a buck-stitched Billy Cook roper saddle.

"He thinks he might start roping just to use his saddle just for the pleasure — not to compete," said his mother.

Her rodeoing son already is out on the P-RCA circuit and is aiming to set astride — proper, like — those mean, stomping, whirling, twisting and bucking bulls for the required eight long seconds.

Meanwhile, the untied roping saddle was at the home of his parents, Bill Z. and Juanette Welch, out off Cottonflat Road south of Midland.

"We've got it (the saddle) right in the middle of the living room," said the Mom, who was truly proud of her son's world title. "It's probably the most expensive piece of furniture in the house."

Before he got onto bulls, Chris Welch was showing horses as a youngster in Tyler. He was winning there, too. But after he reached age 12, he decided to put his horsemanship-showing ability aside and plow into the rodeo arena.

He's doing what he enjoys, his mother said, and she figures that he's in with a good, reliable crowd of folks.

"They're a good bunch of kids," Mrs. Welch said once in awhile they may drink some Coors (beer) or dip Copenhagen (snuff), but they stand up for anybody to see that they don't get run over."

Her "tough hombre" son (when it comes to riding bulls) stands about an inch shy of being a six-footer and, at 145 pounds, seems light on the hefty bulls. He's a long-legged fellow.

He has been paying his own way on the rodeo circuit. For awhile there, he was the "chief flunky" for his father, who is manager of Harris Rat Hole Service in Midland.

"He loves rodeo so much," said his Mom, that he worked and saved his money, so that he could afford bull riding.

And, in a way, he has been an inspiration to his younger brother, Cody, 5. (His older sister, Juanice Welch Elliot, leaves rodeoing to "the boys.")

"Cody, like his bud, is starting out as a horseman."

"He can't get off a horse pretty quick," Mrs. Welch said of her young'un, "and he can't manhandle a calf. He's 5, but he thinks he's 18. He's been a big boy all his life."

Maybe, someday, he'll fit in brother Chris' jeans and boots.

Meanwhile, Chris Welch, who will be attending Western Texas College at Snyder, plans to stick to bull riding.

"That's all I know, right now," he said. "I'm going to rodeo as long as I can stay healthy; that's the big factor. When it (rodeoing) get too much for you, that's the time to give it up."

And he's just starting.

POSITIVE THINKING

Five simple rules for success

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

After stumbling along for years a friend of mine suddenly found the secret of success. He says his success was due to five simple rules.

This man changed remarkably in middle life and really began to go places and accomplish things. When I first knew him years ago he was pleasant, but lacked force.

The most engaging thing about him in those years was his ingratiating sociability. He never seemed to turn it off. Finally I got suspicious that this was partly a cover-up for some underlying sense of inferiority. And that guess proved to be right.

As I got to know him better his frustrations came through and he admitted his failure as a person. He even referred to himself disparagingly as a mediocrity. He just didn't seem to have what it takes, he would say glumly.

This admission gave me a first real glimpse of the painful inner self behind the sociable exterior. It was that of a frustrated, deeply unhappy human being. We discussed his problem from time to time and I outlined a course of reading for him, including books that had triggered other people to better living.

Presently there were signs of something happening to the man. There was a marked difference in his manner. He somehow seemed more thoughtful, more collected and at the same time more dynamic. And on one occasion, he remarked to me — giving no details — that he thought he was at last beginning to make some progress in his life.

Well, the new beginning proved to be for real. From there he went on to become a successful businessman and a fore more impressive human being.

Afterwards I asked this man how he explained his new success. I already knew the basic thing that had given him his new beginning: He had found more faith in God and as a result more faith in himself. But to go so far so fast, especially after his uninspired performance, he must have applied that greater faith consistently in specific ways and that was what I wanted to hear about.

In reply he listed five rules by which he had learned to live more effectively. These are the secrets of his success:

First: "Be bold and mighty power will come to your aid." That is a sentence from Basil King's book "The Conquest of Fear" — and is a most significant statement. By fearfulness, by timidity you cut yourself off from power — and I suspect that this was one important factor in my friend's dilemma back before he found himself. But when you venture boldly, from the depths of your being, perhaps also even from the life-force of the universe itself, there comes a flow of power in response. Powers come to the degree that you attack life boldly.

Second: Deny adverse conditions. Do not think, or say, "Condition are against me." Or, "Things don't look good." Face facts, but realize it often happens that a person is defeated not by the facts of the situation, but by his negative interpretation of the facts. Avoid the subjective notion that conditions are adverse. Actually, they may only appear adverse. In every problem is an inherent good. Believe that.

Third: See and constantly picture good outcomes. By envisioning good things you actually bring good influences into play, both within yourself and in the world around you. Life tends to develop your long mental image of yourself.

Fourth: Pray for each client, customer or other business contact by name, asking that he may benefit from the dealings you have with him.

Fifth: Practice brotherly love toward everybody.

That is my old friend's five-fold formula for successful living, and I believe faithful use of these principles can lift anyone out of his failure pattern to real success.

MC offers special courses in history

Four special interest history courses are being offered at Midland College this fall, according to Dr. Robert Hollmann, chairman of the Cultural Studies Division.

Community residents may study in depth about the civil war, the early history of England, the history of modern Europe or the history of the American frontier.

"We offer the conventional studies of American and European history, but offer the special-interest courses for those who want to concentrate on a specific time," Hollmann said.

History 2308, Civil War and Reconstruction, covers the period from 1850 to 1877. Students will examine the causes of the war, the wartime events and the reconstruction of the nation.

History 2305 is the History of England from its earliest beginnings in 1689. Emphasis is on the development of the British Constitution, plus the social and cultural factors which developed English life.

History 1301 is the history of modern Europe to 1815, covering the period from the end of the Hundred Years War to the end of the Napoleonic Wars. It includes the rise of the National States, the reformation, the rise of Protestantism and the age of enlightenment and social development of Europe.

History 2308, The American Frontier, is a survey of the Trans-Mississippi western frontier development from 1803 to 1890.

All the special history courses are being offered this fall from 11 to 11:50 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Persons interested should pre-register between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays not later than Aug. 28 in the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building. Registration is Aug. 29 and 30. Classes begin Sept. 4.

Orientation scheduled

Orientation programs are scheduled for all incoming sophomores and their parents at both Midland and Lee high schools Thursday.

Students who are to attend Lee will meet in the auditorium at 7:30 p.m. A building tour will be conducted at 8:10 p.m. followed by a pep rally in the boys gym at 8:20 p.m. The Youth Center will host a reception at 8:45 p.m.

Parents of prospective Lee students will meet in the school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. to hear Principal Joe T. Smith; Don McGaha, driver education instructor, and Bill Collins, director of the Lee Youth Center. Parents also are invited to attend the pep rally and reception.

Midland High School sophomores and their parents will meet at 7 p.m. Students will go to the auditorium while parents meet with Principal Jack Stone in the cafeteria. Students will be welcomed by student council president Jeff Robinett and get a tour of the school. A reception at the Midland Youth Center for both the parents and students will close the evening's activities.

While kids have final fling, Midland's teachers prepare for school with inservice

While the kids have one last hurrah, Midland teachers and administrators are preparing for the new school year with four days of inservice training.

Inservice is to educators what classrooms are to students. The tables will be turned next week as more than 1,000 Midland school officials meet to hear experts discuss innovative professional ideas in the field of education.

Topics will range from the MAP testing program to the Texas Education Agency's guidelines for special education; from learning styles to game activities, from discipline to skill development.

And that's only for the elementary teachers.

Secondary teachers will have the opportunity to cover the arts, both fine and industrial, hear in-depth previews on the new math textbooks, receive an updating of goals for business courses and assess the involvement of local industry in the vocational education program.

A convocation at Lee High School Tuesday will open the week-long training session. New teachers will meet with Dr. D.W. Brown, assistant superintendent, at 8 a.m. All personnel will attend a 10 a.m. assembly in the Lee auditorium.

Presiding over the morning session will be Schools Superintendent Dr. James Malley.

Dr. Wallace David, dean of the College of Education of Corpus Christi State University, will deliver the keynote address.

Davis, a past elementary teacher and principal, has served as assistant director of elementary education and as assistant superintendent of instruction with the Corpus Christi schools. He assumed his present post in 1973.

An afternoon meeting of faculty members with their principals will close the first day of inservice.

Thursday, Friday and Monday will find faculties, principals and administrators attending various workshops related to their individual fields. Groups will gather at many of the city schools to hear local professionals plus special guest speakers.

Guest speakers for the workshops will include Dr. Jo M. Stauchfield, a professor of education at Occidental College in Los Angeles, Calif.; Dr. Blandina Cardenas, a staff member of the Intercultural Development Research Association in San Antonio; Dr. John Wesley Holloman, associate professor of education at The University of Texas in San Antonio, and Betsy M. Henderson, elementary music consultant for the Garland Independent School District.

Dr. Stauchfield is widely known and respected as an authority on reading. MISD adopted a new series of reading textbooks co-authored by Dr. Stauchfield this spring as a supplement reader for seventh and eighth grade use. She will meet with teachers of students in kindergarten through sixth grades and will return to Midland in November and February for other inservice sessions.

Dr. Cardenas was until July 1 commissioner of the Administration of Children, Youth and Families in Washington, D.C.

She will conduct a session on learning styles for teachers in grades kindergarten through six, head start and migrant programs.

Holloman, who has degrees in Spanish and Latin American Area Studies, will join with Dr. Cardenas in the learning styles session.

Ms. Henderson will conduct a session on "tricks of the trade" for music and art teachers in grades four, five and six.

Israel shells Lebanese border, port

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli artillery shelled southern Lebanese border villages and the port city of Tyre on Saturday, killing one person and wounding six others, Lebanese radio reports said.

Off the northern Israeli coast, meanwhile, an Israeli naval patrol intercepted a Palestinian guerrilla boat and captured three guerrillas, the military command in Tel Aviv said. It said the Palestinians were about to launch a raid in Israel. In Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization said two other guerrillas penetrated Israeli territory and fought with soldiers.

The Voice of Lebanon radio, organ of the anti-Palestinian right-wing Christian Phalange Party, said the first barrage of Israeli rockets and shells came at dawn and hit Tyre and the villages of Arnoun, Aishiyeh, Yuhmor and the Palestinian refugee camp at Rashidiyeh.

Israeli jets reconnoitered south Lebanon six hours later, the radio said, and Israeli artillery resumed the shelling of Tyre and the central border area around Nabatiyeh.

It was the fourth consecutive day of artillery bombardment of supposed Palestinian bases in Lebanon.

In a brief communique on the coastal incident, the Tel Aviv military command said the guerrillas' rubber commando dinghy was intercepted off Rosh Haniqra, near the Lebanese border, while "on its way to launch a raid in Israel."

Israel Radio said the guerrillas tried to outrun the navy vessel and fired a Soviet-made rocket at their pursuers before Israeli fire sank their boat. The command said a fourth guerrilla was wounded and evidently was lost at sea. There were no Israeli casualties, it said.

Yasser Arafat's PLO command said two other guerrillas "penetrated the northern coastal area of Palestine (Israel)," while others fired rockets at and hit Israeli naval patrols. The PLO did not announce an intended target for its attack nor did it announce casualties.

Last April four terrorists landed on the beach at Nahariya, six miles south of Rosh Haniqra, and entered a nearby apartment building. Four Israelis, including two children, were killed before the Palestinians were taken.

District clerks covered by error insurance

By BILL MODISSETT
Staff Writer

People make mistakes. That's a fact of human life. From time to time, errors are bound to occur.

When errors occur in legal transactions, however, they can be costly. And the Texas Legislature, realizing this fact, earlier this year mandated Errors and Omissions Insurance for district clerks in the state of Texas.

That insurance is required for Midland District Clerk Madge Wallis' office — and other district clerks in the state — effective Aug. 27.

County clerks have been required to carry the insurance for the past couple of years and while it adds cost to the operation of county government, Midland County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry said the insurance definitely is worth the additional cost.

She noted some counties have been sued because of errors or omissions in legal documents.

Mrs. Wallis could not be contacted Friday, but Mrs. Cherry shed light on the purpose of the insurance.

"It's strictly a protection," she said. "We've needed something for many, many years."

The insurance, based on the amount of fees collected by an office, provides protection in the form of insurance coverage in case of errors or omissions in legal documents.

It provides that protection, said Mrs. Cherry, for "any human error."

Mrs. Cherry's office carries $250,000 of insurance coverage. It isn't certain how much insurance coverage Mrs. Wallis' office will be required to carry.

The insurance also protects the county officials in the event of theft. Money collected for fees sometimes must be kept in offices for a couple of days, she explained, and the insurance provides coverage in the event someone breaks into one of the offices and steals the money.

Errors in legal documents apparently aren't too common locally. But when an office handles as many legal documents each day as the county clerk and district clerk offices here do, the possibility of an error or omission occurring is heightened.

"We've never had any case where anybody even accused us of making an error in that respect in this office," Mrs. Cherry noted.

But, she said, county and district clerks also haven't had the protection against errors, omissions or thefts until passage of the legislation requiring it.

She can't explain why Rosalynn needs $56,000 chief of staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — No matter how many times the question was asked, Kit Dobbelle couldn't explain why first lady Rosalynn Carter needs a $56,000-a-year chief of staff.

"We didn't discuss the details of why it was necessary," said Mrs. Dobbelle, the current chief of protocol at the State Department who was hired last week to the newly created position.

Mrs. Dobbelle, 34, a native of Hamden, Conn., said she was offered the job by Mrs. Carter. But she repeatedly insisted she did not know why the first lady needs someone of the same rank and pay as President Carter's chief of staff Hamilton Jordan, to manage the first lady's 19-member staff.

"It wasn't a question I thought to ask," Mrs. Dobbelle said in an interview at the end of the week. "I was offered the job, and I took it."

Fund started to help injured McCamey youth

McCAMEY — A fund to help defray medical costs of 18-year-old Alice Corrales has been set up at Security State Bank here.

Miss Corrales was in a coma for more than a month following injuries she suffered in a car-pickup truck accident May 21.

One person, Thomas Gomez, 13, of McCamey was killed and seven persons were injured in that crash. She began to come out of the coma in the latter part of July.

"Due to the loving care of her family, her devoted friends and the medical staff of the McCamey Hospital, plus thousands of prayers," said the Rev. Weems S. Dykes, "the miracle of life came once more to brighten the life of Alice Corrales."

Today, in her recovery from the coma, she is able to talk, feed herself and is improving on physical coordination.

"The young people of McCamey are to be commended for the loving attention they are giving Alice," Dykes said. "There is no substitute for this required medicine of the soul. Because of it, Alice has benefitted immeasurably."

Among the others seriously injured in the mishap was Lisa Gomez, 14, who is recovering.

Reagan Brown to talk at St. Lawrence supper

ST. LAWRENCE — Reagan V. Brown, commissioner of the Texas Agriculture Department, will speak at a 6 p.m. Monday barbecue supper at the St. Lawrence Hall here, according to Charles Braden, president of the St. Lawrence Cotton Growers Association.

Oil pumps capital into Andrews County

ANDREWS — The Andrews County economy was boosted by $447.9 million in 1978 by the sale of county-produced oil and natural gas, according to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Value placed on petroleum production statewide was $17.1 billion.

Production-wise, Andrews County ranked 10th out of the 202 Texas counties producing marketable production valued annually at $100,000 or more.

The county's wells produced 44.2 million barrels of crude oil valued at $411.3 million and 36.1-million MCFs (thousand cubic feet) of natural gas valued at $36.6 million.

Royalty owners in Andrews County received $56 million for their share of the output. Andrews County producers paid $21.6 million in state production taxes. Crude oil taxes amounted to $18.9 million and taxes on natural gas amounted to $2.7 million.

"Considering the shortfall in total U.S. petroleum production relative to our nation's energy needs, production from every Texas county is more vitally important today than ever before," said H.B. "Hank" Harkins, association president and an independent producer and drilling contractor in Alice.

Dawson County oil worth $79 million

LAMESA — The sale of crude oil and natural gas produced in Dawson County in 1978 accounted for $78.8 million of $17.1 billion placed on Texas-produced petroleum.

Dawson County ranked 56th among the 202 counties producing petroleum valued at $100,000 or more.

Kermit has antique car show

AREA REPORT

School board to meet Monday in Greenwood

The Greenwood Independent School District board of trustees will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the board room at the school.

Greenwood is located about 10 miles east of Midland.

Highlighting the meeting will be the adoption of the district's 1979-80 budget and the setting of the tax rate for the coming year.

Other items of business will include administrators' reports, personnel interviews and the authorization of payment of payroll and bills.

Courthouses recognized

FORT WORTH — Several noteworthy Texas courthouses, including those in Decatur, Denton and Fort Worth, are pictured in a new photographic exhibition at the Amon Carter Museum of Fort Worth.

"Courthouse: A Photographic Document" is an exhibition of 120 photographs of courthouses throughout the United States. Twenty-four photographers were employed in the project that originally began with a grant from Joseph Seagram and Sons, Inc. Richard Pare and Phyllis Lambert directed the photographers, who are among the best in the country, to more than one-third of the 3,042 county courthouses in the U.S. The exhibition is being shown in selected museums around the nation under auspices of the American Federation of Arts and the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

A number of Texas courthouses are featured in the exhibit. Among them are the classic structures designed by J. Riley Gordon in the late 19th Century for Ellis and Wise counties. The structures were built between 1894 and 1897 and are almost identical.

Other Texas courthouses pictured in the show are those of Tarrant, Shelby and Hopkins counties, all designed by Gordon, and the courthouses of Denton and Hill counties, both designed by W.C. Dodson.

The exhibition portrays a great variety of architectural styles, ranging from the brick courthouse in King William County, Va., (the oldest standing courthouse in the U.S.) to simple wooden structures such as the one in Hinsdale County, Colo.

Aside from these architectural styles, the exhibition also offers insight into the social and cultural context of the communities in which the courthouses are located. Several photos show the courthouses in relationship to the towns in which they are located; other shots were taken inside the structures to show judges' chambers and jury boxes. Some photographs juxtapose old buildings with their modern additions and counterparts.

The exhibition, which hangs in the mezzanine gallery of the Amon Carter Museum, will continue on view through Sept. 3. The museum is open to the public weekdays and Sunday afternoons.

Six die after being run down on country road

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Six young people watching friends drag race on an isolated country road were killed early Saturday when two other cars appeared from the darkness and mowed them down from the rear.

"They were roaring down on us before we knew it," said a survivor, 19-year-old Ken Miller, one of 20 to 30 young people watching the race. "It was dead straightaway."

"We were on the road, but we didn't see them until the last second. Four of us jumped out of the way. Eight got hit."

Two were hospitalized, one in serious condition and the other in stable condition.

After relatives had been notified late Saturday, authorities released the names of the dead, all Orlando residents. They were identified as Ned Schuler and James S. Gillmore, both 18; Ronald and Donald Henderson, 17-year-old twin brothers; Drea-ma Babcock and Julie Ann Narut, both 15.

The cars that hit the victims were not drag racing, according to Florida Highway Patrol trooper Wesley Golon.

Golon said a Chevrolet driven by Rebecca Ann Wagoner, 23, plowed into the group first. A Datsun driven by Robert J. Ray, 26, then smashed into the back of Miss Wagoner's car and also struck the group of youngsters, Golon said. Neither driver was seriously injured.

Police said neither driver was charged, although the accident was still being investigated.

Golon said the Wagoner and Ray cars were "using the road normally, heading westbound toward Orlando. The kids were on the road, watching the racers, and didn't see the cars on the road behind them."

Police said there was no indication that either of the cars had its lights out or was speeding. They said some of the spectators were using headlights from their own cars to illuminate the drag racing, and this may have prevented the victims from seeing the lights of the oncoming cars.

The victims, in their late teens and early 20s, all were pronounced dead at the scene. Four were pinned under the two cars.

"It was the worst accident I ever saw," said a Herndon Ambulance Service supervisor with five years' experience.

Miller and other eyewitnesses said 20 to 30 youths were at the site on State Road 420, about 20 miles north-east of downtown Orlando. They said the area is somewhat of a hangout often used for drag racing.

"We had been there, a couple of hours watching the guys race," said Miller. "We were in several small groups. The (racing) cars were turning around down the road and we were all standing around, watching and talking."

"We were on the road, not in the middle, a little to the side, and he could have gone around us," Miller said.

"I guess he didn't see us. I don't see how."

"The car must have been going 70 miles an hour...We didn't see the headlights until he was almost on us. Somebody hollered. Four of us jumped out of the way."

"You could feel it go by. And you could hear it hit the others. Then it swerved and seemed to hit something else, maybe one of the drag cars."

Winter Park Hospital officials identified the injured youths as Mark E. James, 18, listed in stable condition and Bernard Finnigan, 19.

Airman Monte W. Greer

Airman Garry H.E. Grosse

Several Midland service men have been in the news recently. They include:

Tech. Sgt. Johnny W. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Stevens of Big Spring, recently participated in Global Shield 79, an Air Force exercise conducted by the Strategic Air Command. Stevens is a construction technician with a SAC unit at Carswell Air Force Base near Fort Worth.

Airman Monte W. Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne M. Greer of McCamey, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training. Greer will now receive specialized training in missile electronics. He is a 1979 graduate of McCamey High School.

Airman Garry H.E. Grosse, son of Daisy M. Spencer of Big Spring, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

Grosse will now receive specialized instruction in the missile maintenance field. He is a 1976 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Stress pictured as greatest roadblock to creative process

NEW YORK (AP) — Kennedy, a research fellow at Harvard Medical School's Division of Behavioral Medicine, cited typical stress factors that were listed by executives in his stress reduction workshop at AMA's 50th Annual Human Resources Conference here.

He says they are: time management, travel, work-personal relationships, training new employees, lack of adequate staffing and the time to be one's self.

"Stress is one of the greatest roadblocks to the creative process," says Kennedy.

Howard Baker sees Reagan as strongest GOP opponent

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said Saturday that Ronald Reagan was clearly his strongest opponent for the GOP presidential nomination.

Baker predicted, however, that he would beat Reagan and John Connally in New York, despite a poll which showed the former Texas governor is a clear favorite now among the state's GOP county chairmen.

Baker was among three Republican presidential contenders who met this weekend with 39 of the state's 62 Republican County chairmen in the Thousand Islands resort of Alexandria Bay.

George Bush, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was scheduled to address the group Saturday night. Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, a perennial presidential candidate, mixed with the county chairmen Friday night. Connally said he could not attend because of a scheduling conflict.

Baker predicted that the Democrats would renominate President Carter, but he said he thought a weakened economy would hurt the party.

"I do think we'll have a recession in the first and second quarters of 1980, and it will probably damage the chances of the Democratic party," Baker said.

When he was asked whether he thought his support of the Panama Canal treaty had hurt him politically, he responded by joking, "Usually I take off my coat and show them my scars and bruises."

A telephone survey of GOP county chairmen conducted by Ottaway News Service and the Watertown Daily Times showed 18 of 44 chairmen who were contacted preferred Connally. The poll of GOP chairmen released Friday showed Baker with 10 endorsements, followed by Reagan with eight and former President Gerald Ford and Bush with three each.

Fourteen chairmen refused to name their choice and four could not be reached.

Bullock withholds paychecks from those tardy on loans

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock has made good a threat to withhold state paychecks from officials and government employees who are behind in repaying state college student loans.

Among the 200 persons receiving the bad news this month in letters from Bullock were State Rep. Dave Allred, D-Wichita Falls, the Austin American-Statesman, reported.

The newspaper quoted Allred as saying he had gotten behind because legislative duties kept him from practicing law full time. "I simply haven't had the money. It has been a struggle," Allred said.

Allred said he has made arrangements to finish paying the debt in installments.

The legislator said he had obtained a state loan several years ago when he attended classes at St. Mary's University School of Law in San Antonio.

"The practice has been going downhill, and I haven't had the money to pay back the loan. I'm not particularly proud of it, but I've got nothing to hide," Allred told the American-Statesman.

Allred opened the practice in 1978 after passing his bar exam.

The state makes loans to college students under the Hinson-Hazelwood program, launched in the 1960s. It issues revenue bonds and lends the proceeds at low rates of interest to students, who are given favorable repayment terms upon graduation.

Industry magazine says Congress infected with fuel shortage malady

TULSA — Congress, in tinkering with the U.S. shortage of energy, seems to have been infected with the malady itself, Oil & Gas Journal reports in its Aug. 13 issue.

By most indices, the 96th Congress has been one of the most lethargic in recent history, passing only half the pieces of legislation that its predecessor did in the same time. And its track record on energy legislation hasn't been any better.

Congress has passed only a handful of energy bills this year and still faces a full plate of controversial energy issues such as the excise tax on decontrolled crude, changes in the foreign tax credit, synthetic fuels development and fast-track permitting for large energy projects.

It's expected to pass all of those bills, although not in the rush and not in the form that President Carter wants, the weekly business magazine reports.

Congress failed miserably to meet its legislative timetable before departing Aug. 3 for a month-long recess and increasingly indicating that the energy program it passes will be its own, not Carter's.

In late July Congress failed to comply with a timetable its leaders and the Carter administration had drafted for passing energy legislation.

The ambitious timetable was drafted so Congress wouldn't slow the momentum of Carter's July 15 energy proposals.

The House was to complete a stand-by gasoline rationing and conservation bill and launch work on foreign tax credits, the Journal reports.

The Senate was scheduled to pass the excise tax on decontrolled crude oil and bills for and Energy Mobilization Board for fast-track permitting and an Energy Security Corp. to push synthetic fuels development.

That timetable quickly fell to pieces.

The House belatedly passed a stand-by gasoline rationing bill so loaded with amendments that the White House declared it "unacceptable." Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., called it "ludicrous."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate finance committee, announced his panel couldn't work on the excise tax until late September.

The excise tax — the Carter administration prefers the misnomer "windfall profits tax" — is crucial, the President says, because it will be used to fund the synthetics program.

Those reversals were bitter enough for Vice President Walter Mondale to rebuke Congress on behalf of the Carter administration.

"As the gas lines have receded and as the inevitable interest group pressure has mounted, I regret to say that Congress has failed to make adequate progress on the President's proposals," he said.

Mondale noted that the House adopted a gasoline rationing plan laden with exemptions "and in committees throughout Congress we have seen mounting pressures to weaken critical components of our programs."

Net income increases

HOUSTON — C&K Petroleum, Inc., reported unaudited net income for the six months ended June 30, 1979 of $991,000 ($.28 per share) compared with $685,000 ($.19 per share) for the six months ended June 30.

Gross revenues were $13,596,000 compared to $10,508,000 for a year ago. Noncash charges for depreciation, depletion and provision for deferred Federal income taxes amounted to $5,860,000 compared to $4,294,000 for the corresponding period last year.

The company's second quarter net income in 1979 was $328,000 ($.09 per share) compared to $323,000 ($.09 per share) for the same period last year. Second quarter earnings were adversely affected by a loss of $210,000 ($.06 per share) on sale of an inventory of miscellaneous tubular goods.

Production for the first six months was 348,000 barrels of oil and 4,793 million cubic feet of gas compared with 350,000 barrels of oil and 3,592 million cubic feet of gas for the same period last year.

Discovery potentials

HOUSTON — Pennzoil Company has announced the completion of a multi-pay oil and gas condensate discovery in the Williston Basin of North Dakota.

The discovery, the Pennzoil/Depco 15-44 Burlington Northern, was drilled to a total depth of 13,470 feet. It was production tested in the "B" and "C" zones of the Ordovician Red River formation, the Devonian Duperow formation and the Mississippian Ratcliffe formation, and had an initial producing rate from the Ratcliffe formation of 198 barrels of oil per day.

From perforations at 13,214 feet to 13,224 feet in the "B" zone of the Red River formation, the well potentialed for 782,000 cubic feet of gas, 392 barrels of condensate and 111 barrels of water per day through a 20/64-inch choke with 1,450 pounds of flowing tubing pressure.

In the "C" zone, from perforations at 13,284 feet to 13,312 feet, the 15-44 BN potentialed for 3,070,000 cubic feet of gas, 260 barrels of condensate and 56 barrels of water per day through a 20/64-inch choke with 3,100 pounds of flowing tubing pressure.

In the Duperow formation, from perforations at 11,452 feet to 11,462 feet, the well produced 355,000 cubic feet of gas, 333 barrels of oil and 45 barrels of water through a 22/64-inch choke with 325 pounds of flowing tubing pressure.

From perforations at 9,046 feet to 9,478 feet in the Ratcliffe formation, the 15-44 BN produced 230 barrels of oil and 32 barrels of water per day with a flowing tubing pressure of 200 to 450 pounds.

Application approved

AUSTIN — The School Land Board has approved an application by John C. Snyder for gas pooling in the Snyder-State Unit of the Worsham-Bayer field in Reeves County.

The unit contains 258.5 acres of state-owned land. The land board recommended the unit be limited to gas from the Devonian formation.

Revenues increase

Olix Industries of Midland reports that the financial results for the first six months of 1979 were the best in the company's history.

Total revenues for the six-month period were $6,157,000, a 36 percent increase over the like period of 1978 when $4,516,000 were reported.

Net profits increased from $299,000 in the first six months of 1978 to $485,000 in the first six months of 1979, a 62 percent increase.

Earnings per share for the first half of 1979 were 24 cents compared to 22 cents for the first half in 1978.

Earnings per share for 1979 were calculated on 2,057,000 shares outstanding, while earnings for 1978 were calculated on 1,364,000 shares outstanding.

Dr. Pamela Muller

New course scheduled

Dr. Pamela Hallock Muller will teach a new class, Earth Science 489, this fall in Midland.

The course will be conducted by The University of Texas at the Permian Basin at Lee High School. It will deal with geology of the Permian Basin.

Dr. Muller is assistant professor of Earth Science at UTPB.

Production announced

AUSTIN — State and federal leases in offshore and coastal Texas petroleum provinces produced 225,776 barrels of crude oil during May 1979 in contrast to 125,443 barrels in the same month of 1978 and 156,973 barrels in April 1979, according to operator reports to the Railroad Commission's Oil and Gas Division and data compiled by the U.S. Geological Survey that pertains to runs of wells in federal waters.

Gas well gas production on state and federal leases amounted to 63,535,976 in May against 20,880,769 mcf a year earlier and 60,567,387 mcf in April.

Casinghead gas production totaled 387,782 mcf in May against 214,487 mcf in the same month of 1978 and 288,604 mcf in April.

Condensate production on the state and federal leases amounted to 316,075 barrels in May, up from 153,282 barrels a year earlier and 287,128 barrels in April.

Wells on state offshore leases in May produced 69,375 barrels of oil; 131,375 mcf of casinghead gas, 18,402,663 mcf of natural gas and 176,523 barrels of condensate.

In April offshore state leases produced 69,889 barrels of crude oil, 99,124 mcf of casinghead gas, 16,269,780 mcf of natural gas and 75,437 barrels of condensate.

Gas study points accusing finger at U.S. refineries

By LARRY KRAMER The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — U.S. refiners did not produce all the gasoline they could have, and instead increased production of other, more profitable products during the gasoline shortage earlier this year, a government study suggests.

A consultant's report presented to the Department of Energy's Office of Special Counsel Aug. 7 and obtained by The Washington Post concluded that during the period from November 1978 to May 1979, domestic refiners increased stocks of what the American Petroleum Institute classifies as "all other oils" by 12.6 percent, while demand for those products dropped by about 8 percent.

During the same period, according to DOE figures, refining of gasoline dropped and then leveled off.

Energy Department sources said the decision of the oil companies to produce more of the other products was financially a logical one, because those products are more profitable than gasoline, on which the price is regulated.

DOE had hinted in a July 24 report to President Carter on the industry's role in the gasoline crisis that a key reason for a drop in gasoline production during the shortage period was a shift to the production of more profitable products.

"It is... possible that it is more profitable for refiners to maintain or increase the other... products at the expense of gasoline because of the federal price control regulations on gasoline," the DOE report stated.

But, the report warned, "DOE does not yet have adequate data on refinery output of other... products."

The newly obtained confidential consultant's report — which DOE Special Counsel Paul Bloom labeled as "preliminary," pointing out it has not been reviewed or accepted by his office — takes that DOE speculation a bit further. It points out that "during the shortage, U.S. refiners produced an unusually large volume of 'all other oils' which does not appear to be justified by the demand levels for these products."

The report notes that "it was not until June 1979, when the gas shortage had peaked, that (the other product) stocks fell below what they had been at the same time in 1978 and motor gasoline stocks rose above their 1978 levels for the first time." By that time, the rise in gasoline stock was too late to help alleviate the gasoline shortages.

A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute did not deny the report's analysis but said one reason for the increased production of some "other" products was that the industry was substituting heavier crude oil for the lighter Iranian crude oil that had been used. In the process of making gasoline from the heavier crude, more of the "other" products are by products, the API said.

The report was submitted under contract by Cexec, a McLean, Va., firm that has been Bloom's primary computer consulting firm but is just beginning to perform the type of analysis offered in this investigation. Consequently, Bloom cautioned that the report does not represent the views or opinions of DOE, and still must face careful scrutiny. He cautioned against accepting its findings out of the context of his overall investigation.

The actual mandate for the study called for an analysis of the Rotterdam spot oil market and its impact on the world oil situation, but the consulting firm went beyond that in drawing several conclusions about the recent shortage.

The report cites a need for further investigation into several factors that it said impacted on domestic shortages this year, including allegations that some traditional suppliers to the United States may have diverted shipments to foreign markets.

Three associations slate joint Midland meeting

The Permian Basin Petroleum Association, the Society of Independent Petroleum Earth Scientists and the Odessa and Central Basin Chapters of the Texas Association of Business will hold a joint luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Midland Hilton.

The speakers will be Lawrence Durland of Texas City, and L. W. Gray of Austin.

Durland has been manager of the Amoco Refinery at Texas City since 1971. He will discuss the role of the refinery in the total energy picture.

Gray, president of the Texas Association of Business, will discuss problems, possible solutions and activities of all association members.

Jim Blain, with John Drilling Co. of Odessa, will be master of ceremonies.

Reservations can be made through Monday by contacting one of the above organizations.

Gray was engaged in law practice in Caldwell seven years and served from 1951 to 1954 as Burleson County attorney. He was assistant attorney general of Texas two and one-half years and was serving in that capacity when he joined TAB in 1957. He became executive vice president in 1970 and was elected president in 1972.

Durland joined Standard Oil Co. as a technical service engineer at the Whiting, Ind., Refinery. He joined Amoco Texas Refining Co. in Texas City in 1971. He is chairman of the Texas Association of Business and a director of the Galveston Research Council.

SEG officers announced

TULSA, Okla. — New officers who will head the Society of Exploration Geophysicists in 1979-80 have been announced by the current president, T. Norman Corrk, with Exxon Production Research Co. in Houston.

The six earth scientists elected to head the new executive committee will take office at the 49th annual meeting Nov. 4-8 in New Orleans.

President-elect is Milo M. Backus, the Wallace A. Pratt professor of geophysics at The University of Texas at Austin.

First vice president is S. W. Schoellhorn, vice president of research and development for Seismograph Service Corp. of Tulsa.

Stanley H. Ward, chairman of the Department of Geology and Geophysics at the University of Utah in Salt Lake City, has been elected second vice president, and K. N. Burns, manager of the Houston Exploration Data Processing Center of Exxon, U.S.A. is vice president-elect.

Dennis R. Mett, a chief geophysicist of the Oil & Gas Division of Union Oil Co. of California, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Pierre L. Goupillaud was named editor-delegate of the Montly SEG journal, "Geophysics." He is with Systems, Science and Software, a geophysical consulting firm based in La Jolla, Calif.

Crook will be a member of the 1979-80 executive committee as past-president.

API agrees with Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Petroleum Institute says it agrees with President Carter's decision to remove price controls from heavy crude oil.

The action taken Friday "will stimulate production of heavy oil," the institute says, adding, "we believe this same logic could be applied immediately to all domestic crude oil." Carter's decision is aimed at increasing U.S. oil production by some 200,000 barrels a day by 1985, rising to 500,000 by 1990.

Insulation saves fuel

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — New insulation standards for houses financed by the Farmers Home Administration saved an estimated 2 million barrels of oil in their first year, a top Agriculture Department official said today.

The homebuilding industry unsuccessfully sued USDA to block the standards, saying some of the guidelines were unreasonable. They took effect July 1, 1978, and 140,000 new or rebuilt houses had to meet them to be financed under federal programs.

"These standards are the most stringent of any agency's in the federal government," Assistant Agriculture Secretary Alex Mercure said in remarks prepared for a solar-energy conference at the University of Colorado.

The rules cover heating and cooling equipment, roof and wall insulation, types of storm doors and weatherstripping.

The agency has financed 38 passive-solar homes and apartments in Colorado, he noted.

It also is testing in six states a design for an active-solar house heated by hot air. The heating system costs between $3,500 and $4,000 installed.

Experimental units are in place in Virginia, Maine and New Mexico and others are due to be installed before cold weather hits in Oklahoma, North Dakota and Illinois, Mercure said.

Rotary count in Basin logs 24-unit increase

The Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico showed an increase in drilling activity as Reed Rock Bit Co. reported a gain of 24 operations in the two-state area.

The tally showed 264 rigs making hole, while the previous count showed 240, a year ago at this time the survey reported 296 rigs turning to the right.

Lea County, N.M., the leader in drilling activity, reported 32 operations and a gain of four from the last count.

Eddy County remained second on the survey with 28 rigs and kept its tally from the previous count.

Pecos County, the West Texas leader, reported 17 rigs going and a gain of two from the last tally.

Ward and Crockett counties each reported a gain with 15 rigs going in their counties. The previous tally showed Ward with 11 rigs and Crockett with 12.

Andrews County showed a gain of one as 11 rigs were reported making hole, while Winkler and Crane counties followed with 9 rigs each. The last count showed Winkler with 8 and Crane 6.

The new Monterrey Cocina Mexicana, 1501 N. Big Spring, is now open to host all old friends and George and Gloria Veloz, the owners, are extending an invitation to new customers to come in and enjoy a drink and a meal in a little bit of Old Mexico transplanted in Midland, Texas, USA.

The new Monterrey welcomes all Midland

The new Monterrey Cocina Mexicana, 1501 North Big Spring, has opened its doors and welcomes Midland families inside for delightful dining and relaxing.

The new Cocina is readily accessible, and the parking is ample.

The entry doors merit special attention. Made of mesquite wood, they are the very old doors from a Spanish Colonial mission church in Zacatecas, Mexico. The benches in the foyer are heavy, and also mesquite.

To the right is the intimate bar area. To the left, step down to the first dining room. The second is beyond, with french doors to the patio and a fireplace. All glass is double-glazed, for insulating quality. With the very thick, well-insulated walls, and the insulating glass, the Cocina is very comfortable and energy-efficient. White walls and high, beamed ceilings give a feeling of cool serenity.

Genuine Mexican fold art pieces adorn the walls. Their authentic charm accentuates the all-over comfort of the Cocina.

Pepe Ruiz continues to preside at the bar, preparing his specialty, Pepe's Pina Colada, and the house specialty, the famed Monterrey Margarita, as well as almost anything the customer might name.

The Monterrey Cocina's menu has undergone some changes with the move in location. The steak menu has been enlarged, with typical Mexican steak plates. Desserts have been added, sopapillas and flan. There are several additions to the list of Mexican entrees, as well.

A new service of the Monterrey Cocina Mexicana is that it will now be open for business every Sunday from 11-10.

Bring the whole family to dine at Monterrey Cocina Mexicana, 1501 North Big Spring. The place is new and beautiful, but the warmth of the hospitality is old as Old Mexico herself!

Queen has new troubles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbara Williams, the so-called "Queen of Welfare" already in prison for what was believed to be the biggest welfare fraud case ever, has been charged with five other persons in another welfare scheme involving more than $100,000.

Los Angeles County District Attorney John Van de Kamp said Friday that the woman now serving an eight-year prison term for perjury and nearly $240,000 in welfare fraud has been named in 25 new counts.

The latest case involves bogus welfare claims for 30 nonexistent children, the use of a fictitious name, "Barbara Hunter," and charges of conspiracy, forgery, perjury and obtaining welfare aid by using fraudulent information, investigators said.

Four of the other five Los Angeles area residents accused in the new charges filed in Municipal Court were arrested, but Maxine Scott, 35, was still being sought. The five and Ms. Williams, 33, are accused of using fake birth certificates in filing the phony claims.

The scheme took more than $100,000 from the county welfare system between 1973 and 1978, said Deputy District Attorney Allen Field.

Others charged in the new case were Ms. Williams' brother, Odell Bowers, 28; Ms. Williams' sister Ruth Bowers, 27; a cousin, Ruby Jean Murphy, 30, and Denise Woods, 27. All four and Ms. Scott were accused of conspiracy, perjury and fraudulently obtaining welfare aid.

Ms. Williams was accused at her first trial of using fake drivers' licenses, forged birth certificates and phony Social Security numbers to file claims under eight identities for 70 children, most of them nonexistent. Her own four children were included.

Dealers left holding several months' supply of unsold cars

By PATRICK BOYLE The Los Angeles Times

The gasoline lines are gone, but the fallout remains for the U.S. auto industry.

American dealers are sitting on a three-to-four-month supply of unsold, big and mid-size cars. More than 45,000 auto workers have been laid off indefinitely — and tens of thousands more temporarily — as manufacturers have cut back production plans for the rest of 1979.

Introduction of the 1980 models in October has been postponed for two weeks. And the auto makers are scrambling to convince consumers that higher gasoline prices should not keep them from buying a fuel-hungry car.

Although there are some signs that inventories are beginning to shrink, the problem of too many big cars is expected to plague the industry for the rest of the year and perhaps into 1980. The 1980 models are too far along to be changed and will get about the same gas mileage as their 1979 predecessors.

Few industry officials believe big-car sales will bounce back to previous levels, as they did after a similar slump in the 1974-75 recession that followed the Arab oil embargo and its long gasoline lines. They expect smaller, more fuel-efficient cars to continue selling well as consumers continue to worry about the price and availability of gasoline.

"Our customers are buying with fuel efficiency paramount in their thinking," said Elliott M. Estes, president of General Motors Corp., the nation's largest auto maker. "It seems clear that this will continue to be the case in the future. A car which sits on a hot stove and gets burned might forget and do it again. But twice burned is a hard lesson learned."

On the other hand, few industry officials or analysts believe they are witnessing the death of the big American car. To Detroit auto makers, the thought of a world without full-size, six-passenger cars is heresy. Slumps have traditionally been followed by boom years, and industry executives are confident that price cutting, advertising and other tactics will get the big-car sales moving again, just as they always have.

No one expects the current sales slump to be as prolonged and deep as the one during the last recession, and the sales figures reported by the industry Friday hint that the worst may already be over.

Sales of domestic autos during the month of July were at an 8.45 billion annual rate, more than 1 million units above the slow pace of June. Sales of small cars, a segment dominated by imported model, continued strong, and dealers again ran short of meeting customer demand.

During the final 10 days of the month, domestic sales were down only 2.8 percent, compared to a 19 percent drop during the first 10-day selling period.

To sell marijuana, get license: detective

DENVER (AP) — An undercover Denver police officer has some advice for folks who want to sell marijuana — get a huckstering license.

The detective, who declined to be identified, said Thursday that suspected marijuana sellers were being arrested for peddling without a license because customary marijuana possession charges are virtually ignored by prosecutors.

"It used to be that we'd arrest a guy for selling a couple of joints and he'd say, 'Hey, you can't arrest me, nobody will take the case.' And he was right," the detective said. "Now, we advise these guys that we can arrest them, and if they want to sell marijuana in the future, they'll have to get a huckstering license."

But assistant city attorney Larry Bohning said such arrests, which started last week, are invalid and will never reach court.

"That charge is unenforceable," Bohning said. "A peddler's license implies that one could legitimately obtain a license for the purpose of selling marijuana, and you can't do that. Our office would be unable to take the case."

Detectives said they are using the peddling ordinance to protest what they say is foot-dragging by prosecutors in the city attorney's and district attorney's offices.

68,650 U.S. auto workers on layoff

DETROIT (AP) — About 68,650 U.S. auto workers, or about 30 percent more than previously reported, will be on indefinite layoff next week, automakers now say.

Nearly all of the 30 percent increase resulted from an announcement this week by General Motors Corp. that it had not included about 15,000 layoffs in its previous figures in parts and components plants.

The U.S. industry employs about 781,000 production workers.

GM spokesman James Crellin said the company had 13,000 indefinite layoffs in its U.S. vehicle assembly operations.

In new layoffs announced Thursday, Chrysler Corp. gave indefinite furloughs to 2,556 workers at five plants in the United States and Canada, according to the United Auto Workers union.

That will bring Chrysler's layoff total to 24,950 in the United States and 1,985 in Canada, according to company figures.

Ford Motor Co. said it had 14,500 indefinite layoffs in the United States and 597 in Canada, with 650 more coming in Canada on Sept. 10.

American Motors Corp. has said it has laid off 1,200 in the United States and 150 in Canada.

No figure was immediately available for GM's Canadian plants.

Thousands more workers are on temporary layoff as their plants change to new models.

Safety margin developing

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department says heating oil supplies appear to be heading for an adequate stockpile level this fall, with an added safety margin likely to develop as demand slows down.

In its latest weekly report Friday, the department said stocks of heating oil and diesel fuel have been increasing at a rate that should put them slightly over the administration's 240 million barrel target by the end of October.

From June 15 to Aug. 10, the report said, these "distillate oil" stockpiles increased an average of 813,000 barrels a day, reaching a total of 175.3 million.

At that rate, it said, the target would be topped by about two million barrels, providing a supply which should be adequate to cope with any likely combination of economic improvement and cold winter weather.

But the department, in fact, was not counting on substantial economic improvement this year; on the contrary, it issued a new analysis lowering its forecasts of oil demand this year and next, largely because of the nation's economic recession.

An analysis issued only last June estimated U.S. oil demand would average almost 19.2 million barrels a day this year and 19.5 million a day in 1980.

The new analysis cuts those forecasts to about 18.6 million barrels a day both this year and next.

If the nation experiences high economic growth instead of medium growth and severe cold instead of normal winter weather, the new analysis said, oil imports would have to increase about 360,000 barrels a day.

Officers announced

AUSTIN — The International Oil Scouts Association has elected four new directors to serve three-year terms, beginning in January.

They are A. D. Johnstone, Petro-Canada, Calgary, Canada; J. K. Matthews, Pogo Producing Co., Houston; Sam Strecker, Canadian Superior Oil Co., Calgary, and Charles J. Rogers, Kerr-McGee Corp., Houston.

The four men were elected at the organization's recent 56th Annual Meeting in New Orleans, La.

The association also announced the release of Volume 6 of Texas Oil and Gas Development, a 590-page yearbook of exploration and production statistics on Texas operations. It is available through the association's office, Box 2121, Austin, 78768.

Tenneco plugs project

HOUSTON — The second exploratory test to be drilled in the Southeast Georgia Embayment of the Atlantic Ocean has been plugged and abandoned, Tenneco Oil Exploration and Production Co. announced.

No indications of oil or natural gas were found in the geological formations underlying Jacksonville Block 427.

Tenneco had announced in July that an exploratory test on Block 208, 18 miles north of the second test, also was dry.

The latest dry hole was drilled to 7,472 feet in 97 feet of water at a cost of $2 million, exclusive of lease acquisition costs. Drilling costs of the first well were $3 million. Tenneco is the sole lea-holder on both blocks, having paid $6.3 million for Block 427, and $9.4 million for Block 208.

The company also announced that Robert Chacon and James Walter Schroeder have joined the company's On Shore Division in Houston as Exploration geologists.

Hedberg has worked for Sun Oil Co. as an exploration geologist and for Mitchell Energy as exploration manager in the Rocky Mountains. He was an independent before joining American Petrofina.

Chacon, prior to joining Fina, was a geologist with Continental Oil Co. in Midland, and with Tenneco Oil Co. in Houston.

Schroeder previously worked for Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co. in Houston.

HOUSTON — Milchem Inc., has established an area office in Wichita Falls as part of the company's Tex-Mex Region.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Senator

Paul Laxalt, chairman of Reagan for President, has named Houston independent oil and gas operator Michel T. Halbouty finance chairman for seven southern and western states. He will oversee campaign fund-raising in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

ARLINGTON, Va. — Copies of the "1979 Pipeline Research Summary" now are available from the American Gas Association. The publication covers line pipe research; gas storage research; liquefied natural gas; pipeline studies; pipeline corrosion research; emissions and air quality; offshore pipeline studies, and blasting research.

Copies can be obtained by inquiring to AGA Public Information Department, 1515 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, Va., 22209.

DALLAS — Sun Gas Co. has announced the start of production from its South High Island A-5111 platform 85 miles southeast of Galveston in the Gulf of Mexico. Sun anticipates a daily production in excess of 40 million cubic feet of natural gas. The lease was purchased in May 1974 for a bonus of $29 million, with the first discovery made in August 1974.

DENVER, Colo. — Resources Investment Corp. has announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Energy Management Corp. has closed sales for its second 1979 Energy Gas & Oil Drilling Program, with total subscriptions of $17,718,000. Combined with the firm's first 1979 Energy Gas & Oil Drilling Program, which was formed in April, total investor subscriptions total more than $33,000,000. The partnerships will drill approximately 80 initial phase wells in the Texas and Louisiana Gulf Coast and in the Permian and Anadarko Basins.

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc., of Midland No. 9-58 Eck is to be drilled in the seven-well Ecklaw (San Andres) area of Crockett County, 14 miles north of Ozona.

Scheduled for a 1,500-foot bottom, it is 2,010 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 158, block OP, GC&SF survey. Ground elevation is 2,537 feet.

EDDY COUNTY
The third Seven Rivers well has been completed in the Red Lake multipool of Eddy County, N.M.

It is H&W Enterprises, Midland, No. 2 Atlantic-State. It finished for a daily pumping potential of eight barrels of oil, through perforations from 716 to 772 feet after a 500-gallon acid treatment and a 400-gallon fracture job.

Total depth is 785 feet and 7-inch casing is set at 783 feet. Hole is plugged back to 776 feet. Well site is 990 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 16-17S-28E and 2"11 miles northwest of Loco Hills.

COKE COUNTY
Recent activity in Coke County includes the staking of a project in the Lygag field, completion of a well in the same field and finaling of another producer in the Bloodworth, North (Canyon 5650 oil) pool.

Sun Oil Co. will drill No. 13-A Central National Bank as a 1/2-mile southwest stepout to the Lygag oil and gas field,

Basin areas gain field projects, wells

Odessa Natural Corp. of Odessa No. 1-1 Odessa and others has been completed as a 5/8-mile northeast extension to the Ingham (Devonian gas) pool of Crockett County, 25 miles west of Ozona.

The well finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,300,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 8,108 to 8,150 feet and from 8,223 to 8,312 feet. The zone was acidized with 6,000 gallons and fractured with 18,000 gallons.

Total depth is 8,766 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 8,085 feet. The plugged back depth is 8,418 feet.

The Devonian was topped at 8,260 feet on ground elevation of 1,645 feet.

Other tops include the Yates, 1,068 feet; Queen, 1,442 feet; Canyon, 5,637 feet; Strawn, 8,092 feet, and Pennsylvanian detrital 8,182 feet.

Well site is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block FFF, GC&SF survey.

TURNER PROPERTIES OF BIG SPRING No. 2 Turner was completed in the Bloodworth, North (Canyon 5650) field of Coke County.

It finished for a daily flowing potential of 45 barrels of 43.5-gravity oil, no water, through a 9/64-inch choke and perforations from 5,693 to 5,714 feet after a 50,600-gallon fracture job.

The gas-oil ratio is 2,622-1.

Well site is one location northwest of similar production, 2.5 miles east of Silver and 1.350 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of R. H. Allison survey No. 10.

CONCHO RE-ENTRIES
Roy L. Carter of Eden announced plans to re-enter a pair of former Strawn producers in the Speck, North multipool field of Irion County and attempt completion in the Canyon.

If successful, the projects will be the fourth and fifth Canyon wells in the field.

Each will be tested above 3,400 feet.

The No. 5-B R. L. Carter is 1,138 feet from south and 1,905 feet from east lines of section 157, block 72, T&NO survey.

The No. 8-B R. L. Carter is 50 feet from south and 826 feet from east lines of section 157, block 72, T&NO survey.

COTTLE COUNTY
One and five-eighth miles northeast outpost to the one well Tippen, Southwest (Conglomerate 6660) field of Cottle County has been staked by Nueve Operating Co. of Texas, Abilene.

The new test, 1.5 miles northwest of Chalk, is No. 1 Gilbreath Pownell, 2,320 feet from north and 1,658 feet from west lines of Mary Ann Cook survey No. 1, abstract 65. The contract depth is 7,000 feet. It also is one location southwest of one of the pool's three conglomerate 6800-foot gas wells and one location southwest of the pool's only 6800 oil producer.

HOCKLEY COUNTY
I. W. Lovelady of Midland No. 1 Hodges is to be dug 3/8 mile south of the southernmost producer in the Whitharral field of Hockley County, 10 miles northeast of Levelland.

It is slated for a 7,100-foot bottom and is 660 feet from north and 723 feet from east lines of labor 17, league 714, State Capital Lands survey. It is 3/8 mile west of a 10,816-foot failure.

GAINES COUNTY
H. L. Brown Jr. of Midland No. 1 Jones has been spotted 1/2 mile east of one of the seven-well Edmonson (San Andres oil) pool of Gaines County, two miles southeast of Higginbotham.

The project is 2,310 feet from north and 1,800 feet from west lines of section 30, block AX, PSL survey, abstract 988. It will drill to 6,000 feet.

INDIAN WELLS OIL CO. of Ozona announced location for a long southeast outpost to the two-well Probandt (Canyon oil and gas) field in Irion County.

It is No. 1-43 Richey, three miles from the closest well and 467 feet from north and west lines of section 43, block 6, H&TC survey and 18 miles northwest of Mertzon.

Contract depth is 7,200 feet and the ground elevation is 2,526 feet.

MEADCO PROPERTIES of Midland No. 1 A. Sugg has been spotted as a Well site is 660 feet from north and 760 feet from west lines of section 1, block A-7, PSL survey.

IRION COUNTY
New locations and new wells have been announced in Irion County.

Cities Service Co. of Midland will re-enter and deepen to 9,300 feet its No. 1-A Tankersley, former well in the Mertzon (Ellenburger oil) field.

Originally drilled to 7,593 feet in 1978, it is 2,500 feet from north and 1,900 feet from west lines of section 35, GC&SF survey, abstract 130 and two miles southwest of Mertzon.

COLA PETROLEUM, INC., of Midland No. 1-1219 Tankersley is to be drilled as a west offset to the only well in the Crash

3/4-mile northeast stepout to the Ela Sugg (Wolfcamp oil and gas) pool of Irion County, 20 miles northeast of Barnhart.

The 7,800-foot test is 660 feet from south and 930 feet from west lines of section 1901, H. Nolte survey, abstract 490.

MORAN EXPLORATION, INC., Midland, No. 1-12 A.

The Baker Ranch (Canyon oil) pool of Irion County gained its second producer with completion of Suburban Propan Gas Corp. of San Antonio No. 1-5 Baker.

Three-fourth mile northeast of the other well, it finished for a 24-hour flowing potential of 9.4 barrels of 48.8-gravity oil, no water, through a 10/64-inch choke. The gas-oil ratio is 3,558-1.

Completion was through perforations from 6,874 to 6,979 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid and 33,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Total depth is 7,100 feet and 5.5-inch pipe is cemented on bottom. Plugged back depth is 7,038 feet.

Location is 2,310 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 5, L. Nicles survey, abstract 1278.

A. Sugg is to be drilled 5/8 mile west of the opener and lone producer in the Andrew A. (Canyon gas) field of Irion County, 14 miles northwest of Mertzon.

The test, scheduled for a 7,800-foot bottom, is 990 feet from north and west lines of section 12, block 6, H&TC survey. It is a southeast twin to a 6,755-foot failure.

Crude stocks given lift with lifting of controls

By KRISTIN GOFF AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil stocks benefited by President Carter's order to lift government controls on the production of heavy oil but the broader market was little changed in moderate trading Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed off 68 at 883.36 after falling by 4 points near the opening. At 31.63 million shares, trading volume was down substantially from Thursday's 1979 record turnover of 47 million shares. Losing issues outnumbered gainers by a slight margin at the close of the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said traders apparently were assessing a mix of economic news and also pulling back somewhat after steep gains earlier in the week.

There was little unified response to government reports showing lower aftertax corporate profits in the second quarter or the Commerce Department's revised figures on Gross National Product. The revised figures showed a 2.4 percent annual rate of decline in the quarter compared with its earlier estimate of a 3.3 percent drop.

Monte Gordon, an analyst at Bache Halsey, Stuart Shields pointed to the Federal Reserve's increase in its direct bank lending rate to a record 10 1/2 percent as a source of uncertainty in the market. The Fed took that step after the close of the NYSE Thursday.

While the move may signal a commitment to fight inflation, it comes at the risk of a more severe recession, said Monte Gordon, an analyst at Bache Halsey, Stuart Shields.

President Carter signed an order carrying out a previous pledge to lift government price control on heavy oil, which is more difficult to refine than light crude and renewed his call for Congressional action on his proposed windfall profits tax.

Oil stocks rose after news of Carter's actions. Among actively traded issues, Getty rose 2 1/4 to 54 3/4; Gulf gained 1 1/4 to 29 1/4; Reserve Oil added 1 to 26 1/2. Atlantic Richfield, less actively traded, jumped 2 to 68 1/4 and Standard Oil of California rose 1 1/2 to 51 1/4.

Gulf United Corp., up 1/4 to 26 1/2, was the most active issue as of the 4 p.m. close of the NYSE. The company said it has preliminary talks with other companies about a "business combination" or "substantial investment" in Gulf United.

Exxon rose 3/4 to 53 3/4 in less active trading and Reliance Corp. lost 1 to 63. A federal judge ruled after the close of NYSE trading that Exxon could proceed with its planned $1.17 billion acquisition of Reliance.

But said the ruling said shares must be kept separate to permit divestiture if that is required at a later time. The Federal Trade Commission is opposed to the merger on antitrust grounds.

Among the big movers on the American Stock Exchange were Home Oil class B stock which jumped 13 to 69 and Home Oil Class A, up 12 1/2 to 69 1/2. The stock had been under a trading halt since Wednesday. Consumer Ga, a Canadian company, said earlier it was considering a combination involving Home Oil.

The NYSE composite index of all listed stock rose .14 to 61.70. Standard & Poor's 400 industrial index rose .31 to 120.01 and the 500-composite added .21 to 108.30. The Amex market value index rose 3.02 to 211.00.

Nation's largest banks push rates to alltime high

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's biggest banks pushed their prime lending rates to a record-tying 12 percent this past week. But unless you are involved in finances for a business, that may not sound like hot news to you.

The prime rate is the rate that banks use on loans to their best corporate customers. The latest increase from 11 3/4 percent brings it to the peak reached in 1974, during the midst of the last recession.

While the prime rate doesn't directly affect consumer loans, it serves as a benchmark for general interest-rate trends.

And steeply rising interest rates do carry implications for consumers and for the economy in general.

Often the effect on consumer loans is indirect because many states have laws with ceilings on charges for auto loans, mortgages and other types of consumer credit.

And since in many cases those are already at the highest rate allowed, analysts don't foresee much likelihood of increased interest charges for consumer loans in the immediate future.

But there may be — and in many cases already has been — a squeeze on loan terms. Increased downpayment requirements for buying a home, for instance, or a less enthusiastic response by banks to requests for personal loans are frequent result of a tight money market.

The increase in the prime rate reflects both the cost banks must pay in short-term money markets for their funds and demand for loans from borrowers. And this week's increase came as the Federal Reserve Board increased the cost of funds to lenders and thereby tightened credit for borrowers.

After a policy-making meeting on Tuesday, the monetary authority forced up the federal funds rate a notch, and later in the week increased its discount rate to a record 10 1/2 percent from 10 percent.

Federal funds represent a key type of interbank loan, frequently borrowed for a short period of time so banks can meet government reserve requirements. The discount rate is less frequently used but is the rate of interest the Fed charges on its own loans to banks.

The net result of both moves is to increase the cost of money to lenders and broadly force up interest rates.

The Federal Reserve, in announcing the increase in the discount rate, said, "the action was taken against the background of the continuing strong inflationary forces," signaled in part by continued rapid growth in the money supply. Rapid growth in money supply can lead to a situation where prices are bid up because more money and credit is available than the goods and services for purchase. But analysts cite the need to keep the dollar from sinking in currency markets as another important factor when the government staged a major "dollar defense" plan that also included an increase in the discount rate, the dollar has fallen against most major currencies, although it still remains above its lows last fall.

Continental Bank calculates that from June 1 to Aug. 9 the dollar fell 5.2 percent against the West German mark, 4.7 percent against the Swiss franc, more than 7 percent against the British pound and almost 2 percent against the Japanese yen.

BUSINESS NEWS

in the strategy of rising interest rates. The Fed may be able to ease worries that high inflation is cutting the value of the dollar and, at the same time, make dollar-based investments more attractive because of the higher interest rates.

But as F. John Mathias of Continental Bank of Chicago recently observed, "The Carter administration and monetary authorities are faced with a dilemma in which aggressive efforts to control inflation will not bring quick results, but could further slow business activity and increase unemployment."

After rising sharply last November

Tall City permits soar over $65 million-mark

New construction so far this year in the city of Midland passed the $65 million mark last week after more than $3.6 million in new building permits were issued through the city's Inspections Department.

Big ticket item was a new Sears Roebuck and Co. store scheduled for construction at 4511 N. Midkiff Road in the Midland Park Mall. The facility is valued at $2.5 million.

Other new commercial construction included Midland College's new tennis pro shop on the college campus. Construction on the facility was halted temporarily earlier this summer when the contractor walked off the job.

Workmen from a separate construction company had to dismantle part of the structure before the building could be completed.

New residential construction and alterations to existing residential and commercial structures accounted for the bulk of building activity construction last week.

Permits for new residential construction were issued to: Tabor Construction, 1405 McDonald St., $60,000; James Morris, 3009 Goddard Court, $60,000; Ramcon, 5115 W. Storey Ave., $52,850; Ramcon, 5117 W. Storey Ave., $51,800; Ramcon, 5119 W. Storey Ave., $51,650; Ramcon, 5121 W. Storey Ave., $53,350; Palace Homes, 4600 Tammy Cove, $58,000; Palace Homes, Tammy Lane, $59,000; and Noel Construction, 5109 Ashdown Place, $70,000.

Permits for alterations to existing residential structures were issued to:

Jose F. Santos, 1006 S. Weatherford St., $5,000; L.Z. Coffee, 1200 Princeton Ave., $40,000; Mary M. Wallace, 207 N. Jackson St., $950; John Lawrence, 2801 W. Dengar Ave., $14,000; Max Curry No. 1 Deerfield Drive, $15,000; Kenneth Gordon, 1210 Burchill Drive, $600; Clyde C. White, 1506 N. Big Spring St., $7,000; Jack Calcote, 200 Thornridge Drive, $1,400; J.H. Huggins, 2404 Terrace Ave., $2,000; John Neighbors, 4201 Dawn Circle, $1,200; Alma L. Reid, 3600 Cunningham am Drive, $2,000; Benito Avilla, 1611 S. Terrell St., $400; Mary Granada, 1202 E. Walnut Ave., $1,000; Richard McMullin, 1204 Country Club Drive, $25,000; and Tom Minihan, 3612 Humble Ave., $7,000.

Permits for new commercial construction were issued to:

Sears Roebuck and Co., 4511 N. Midkiff Road, $2,500,000; and Midland College, 3600 N. Garfield St., $90,000.

Permits for alterations to existing commercial structures were issued to:

Felipe Morales, 2401 N. Big Springs St., $35,000; Block 37 Venture, 200 N. Lorraine St., $300,000; Permian Corporation, 1509 W. Wall St., $15,000; and Whitelley Inc., 304 W. Texas Ave., $40,000.

Other permits were issued to Checker Auto Parts, 1115 N. Midkiff Road, $1,500, a sign; and Eva Aquirre, 1608 E. Garden Lane, $7,300, mobile home.

RCA, CIT tale sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainment giant RCA Corp. says it is buying up the C.I.T. Financial Corp. for $1.35 billion — one of the largest mergers in U.S. business history.

The tentative agreement Friday between the two companies was reached just four days after negotiations resumed following a month-long estrangement apparently caused by disagreement over a price.

Under terms of the preliminary agreement, RCA would pay cash for 49 percent of C.I.T.'s shares and offer a package of securities for the rest. Before the merger becomes final, a definitive agreement must be drawn up and approved by the boards and stock holders of each company and various government agencies.

"We are pleased at the prospect of uniting with one of the nation's leading financial services concerns," said Edgar H. Griffiths, president of RCA, whose wide-ranging operations include the National Broadcasting Co. and Hertz Rent-A-Car.

In its announcement of the merger, RCA did not say what role C.I.T. Chairman Walter S. Holmes Jr. would have in the combined company beyond an invitation by Griffiths to Holmes to sit on the RCA board and a statement that C.I.T.'s management probably wouldn't change.

But sources close to the talks have said Holmes might be given a high executive position at RCA, possibly even the vacant post of chairman. Holmes was corporate controller at RCA before going to C.I.T. in 1962 and at that time was senior in the firm to Griffiths.

C.I.T. offers a wide range of financial services, from loans to insurance.

Volcker gives lift to market action

NEW YORK (AP) — The recent surge in stock prices is referred to as the "Volcker rally," by many Wall Streeters these days.

The name refers to Paul A. Volcker, a conservative whose nomination as the new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board has given a lift to the market in recent weeks.

Although there is disagreement over how long it may last, analysts say the market's march to new highs for the year last week reflects Wall Street's assessment of the new Fed chairman.

Since Volcker's nomination July 25, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks has climbed 53 points amid signs of heavy investing by big institutions.

This past week proved to be a significant one for Volcker watchers, whose hopes have been pinned on a tough inflation fight by the new Fed chief.

Volcker, in the driver's seat for the first time at the Fed's monthly policy-setting meeting on Tuesday, emerged with a renewed clamp-down on credit markets and signaled a apparent willingness to risk a worse economic downturn in order to slow double-digit inflation.

The stock market showed its approval with a rally marking the heaviest trading of the year and a 1979 peak close for the Dow industrial index. The 30-stock index rose 9.13 points Wednesday and closed at 885.84, its highest level since last Oct. 13 when it finished at 897.09.

While the strong advance faded somewhat later in the week, the Dow Jones industrial average still posted a strong 16.30 net gain to 883.36.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index, meanwhile, rose 1.06 to 61.70 during the week.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 8.59 to close at 211.00 Friday, extending its recent series of record highs.

Big Board volume also reached a high for the year, reflecting continued heavy buying by big institutions. It averaged 42.53 million shares a day, up from last week's 33.09 million average.

The Federal Reserve's clamp down on credit markets was first signaled Wednesday when the Fed moved to raise the target rate on federal funds to about 11 percent from earlier levels of around 10 1/2.

Later in the week the Fed followed through with an announced increase in the discount rate — the rate at which banks borrow from the Fed — to a record 10 1/2 percent, up 1/2-point from its earlier rate.

While high interest rates have tended to lure investors out of the stock market and into interest-bearing investments at other times, the immediate reaction was just the reverse.

"We can now see that investors are more concerned about inflation than they are about interest rates or a recession," commented Alan C. Poole, of Laidlaw, Adams & Peck when the stock market reached its midweek peak.

The rally may "run up against the consequences of what (Volcker) has to do. And that may give the market pause for thought," says Gordon.

Among the consequences he and others cite is the increased risk of a more severe recession if high interest rates choke off business investment, or the possibility that an election-conscious Congress and administration may increase spending later in the year, thus countering the inflation medicine of an interest rate squeeze.

In a commentary of the Volcker appointment earlier this month, economist Arnold X. Moskowitz of Dean, Witter Reynolds, argues that Volcker "is likely to enjoy a brief honeymoon, during which he will be allowed to establish his conservative credentials."

But he argues that over the longer-term, "performance of the dollar and United States stock and bond markets will depend on the ability of the present conservative consensus in Congress and the administration to hold together through the recession-election period, and not on the views of the Fed chairman alone."

Two seminars announced

The Permian Basin Graduate Center will offer two seminars this week to be taught by Jay Terry, vice president with Resources Corp., a nationally recognized training and consulting firm. Both seminars will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the PBGC building, 105 W. Illinois St., Midland.

The "Professional Secretary Seminar," scheduled for Thursday, is designed for secretaries, office managers, or administrative assistants, who are striving to reach a higher professional level in their jobs.

Fee for this seminar is $75, including materials.

"Discipline and Development of Employees" will be held on Friday. This action-oriented seminar for people up to and including middle management is of interest to anyone who supervises employees on a day-to-day basis.

The fee is $125, including materials.

Terry works with corporations, educational institutions, and associates throughout the U.S. and Canada. His special expertise and scope of service are in the areas of employee selection, supervision and development, time management, and communication.

He has been engaged in expanding human effectiveness more than 15 years.

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK

Texas employers often in dark about payments

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Despite the fact that they pay over $1.1 billion annually for worker's compensation coverage, Texas employers often are unaware of what they're paying for, or how to not pay so much.

Such is the conclusion of Walter Martin, head of the occupational safety division of the State Department of Health.

That division conducts inspection services to help employers who are "debit rated" — charged an additional amount of worker's compensation premiums because their loss experience is worse than the statewide average for similar establishments — solve the problems which lead to their higher accident rates.

Martin notes that the division can't conduct inspections for all the 200,000-plus employers in the state, and has a two-to-three month backlog of requests.

But the agency is conducting some checks, and is discovering some surprises, he reports.

"One of the amazing things that we are finding out," Martin says, "is that many of the smaller employers don't really know what worker's compensation is... or that the amount they pay is affected by their losses."

"The whole situation," he adds, "is alarming."

"We find some employers are paying a great deal of money for losses on the job, but they've done little to prevent losses — and they're not aware that they can save money by reducing their compensated losses."

Martin's division is working with the U.S. Department of Labor to gather information on first reports of injury, to get more information on where and why accidents are occurring.

"We want to direct any future (safety) standards to the areas where they're needed," he says.

Two areas where he feels attention may be directed are elevators and amusement park rides.

Texas, he notes, has no statewide program of elevator inspection, leaving it up to cities to require any safety inspections — and some don't. There are, Martin says, some elevators which have been installed for over 50 years, with no history of ever having been inspected.

"Look for a safety sticker the next time you're on one," he suggests. Texas is one of the few states — perhaps the only state — without such a requirement, he reports.

Martin also expresses concern over the lack of standards for carnival and amusement park rides, saying, "anybody can put up anything they want to, with no inspection at all."

The Office of the Consumer Credit Commissioner and the State Board of Insurance are engaged in discussions on transfer of regulation of insurance premium finance companies from the OCC to the SBI.

That shift is being made under new legislation, which takes effect Jan. 1, but which provides for the approximately 375 licensees (of which there are 25-30 large companies) to pay their fees for 1980 to the SBI, beginning Nov. 1.

SBI has not determined exactly where the responsibility for the premium finance companies will be placed within the agency.

Texas now has 231,000 active corporations operating within its boundaries, the Secretary of State's office reports.

During the approximately three months ending Aug. 2, another 8,000 domestic profit-making corporations were chartered in the state, along with 700 non-profit corporations, 220 professional corporations, and 280 professional associations.

Another 530 foreign, profit-making corporations were registered during the same period.

Of the 231,000 corporations, approximately 160,000 are domestic profit-making entities, the office says.

Another indication of business activity in the state can be gained from the report of First Main Capital Corp., Dallas, that there were 110 merger transactions in Texas in the first half of the year — with a total value of $2.9 billion.

Midget film star says he prefers tending bar

CHICAGO (AP) — Parnell St. Aubin, who is 4 1/2 inches tall, says there may be no business like show business but he'd rather tend bar.

One of the last known surviving "Munchkins" in the 1939 film version of "The Wizard of Oz," St. Aubin has been a bartender for 36 years.

For the last 21 years, he has operated the "Midget Club" on Chicago's South Side. The tavern's bar is scaled down to match the size of St. Aubin and his wife of 31 years, Mary Ellen, who stands a half inch taller than her husband.

In ceremonies at his tavern Saturday, St. Aubin presented the sixth limited-edition collector's plate in the "The Wizard of Oz" series — "Follow the Yellow Brick Road" — by the Knowles China Co.

The day marked the 40th anniversary of the release of "The Wizard of Oz" film.

St. Aubin, 57, says he found laboring in Hollywood anything but glamorous. He spent three months there in 1939 playing a Munchkin in the Oz movie.

"There were too many distractions in Hollywood and I didn't go for it," he says. "In those days, I weighed 62 pounds. I'm up to 85 now."

He said that playing "Scrubby The Pig" on television in Chicago 25 years ago was more fun and less demanding, but he eventually gave it up because it interfered with his bartending job.

"I chose the tavern business because like anybody else, I thought it was all profit," he said. "I used to sit at bars, blowing all my money, until I got into it."

St. Aubin said his scaled-down "Midget Club" is no gimmick.

"I started my first tavern in 1945 and it was full-size and we had to use a ramp system," he said. "I was jumping around all the time and couldn't take it, so I had to hire a big bartender. I sold the joint."

Parnell St. Aubin, one of the "Munchkins" in the original cast of "The Wizard of Oz," keeps his customers happy as he plies drinks. According to St. Aubin, there's no business like show-business, but he'd rather be tending bar. (AP Laserphoto)

Midland commuters to UTPB encouraged to form car pools

Midland residents who commute to classes at The University of Texas at Permian Basin are being encouraged to car pool this fall.

"We are urging Midland students to call us here in the Office of Student Activities at 563-2400, extension 2259, to set up car pools," Pat Jones, director of student activities, said.

There also will be a booth set up during the Sept. 4-5 registration in Odessa.

An estimated 290 Midlanders drove to classes at UTPB during the spring 1979 semester.

"Many of our students are already sharing rides. We just want to encourage them to expand their pools if possible," she added.

Dr. Edwin B. Kurtz, chairman of life sciences at UTPB, is a staunch supporter of car pooling as a means of energy savings.

"If people would share rides, they could cut their gasoline bills by 75 percent or more," the UTPB professor said. He points out that if just two people would alternate driving, they could automatically cut their gasoline purchases in half.

"There are also the savings in wear and tear on the auto, a decrease in pollution and less congestion on the streets and highways. Also if four people decided to alternate driving their cars, each person will drive only one week in every four."

Kurtz estimates the average commuter-student drives about 20 miles one way to the campus from Midland, or 40 miles for a complete trip to and from Odessa.

It would average about two and one-half gallons of gasoline to travel the 40 miles. "Therefore," he added, "for every person who would ride with another person, that would save two and one-half gallons. Multiply that by four people in one car and that would save a total of seven and one-half gallons of gasoline per day — an impressive savings."

Bible history course offered

During the upcoming fall semester, Midland College will offer a three-hour credit course in the History of the New Testament. The course content includes both a survey of the contents and the historical background of the New Testament.

Objective of the course is to give the student an opportunity to read and study the New Testament with greater understanding.

Dr. Jim Riddell, MC Baptist Student Union director, will teach the course. Riddell is a graduate of Sam Houston State University and Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, where he earned the Master of Divinity and Doctor of Ministries degrees.

The course will be taught on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The course is listed as Religious Studies 1302 (History of the New Testament).

Area residents interested in enrolling in the course should pre-register in the Office of Student Services in the Administration Building Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. not later than Aug. 28. Registration for the fall term is Aug. 29 and 30. Classes begin Sept. 4.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 166, or Riddell's office at 563-2623.

Budget, taxes top agenda

Midland College trustees are scheduled to approve the 1979-80 budget and set the tax rate for the coming fiscal year at their regular meeting Tuesday.

The 4 p.m. meeting will be in the board room at the college.

Although the budget will be slightly larger than last year's, no tax increase is expected for the district, college officials said.

Trustees also are expected to review and approve bids for changing the angle of the ramp leading into the rear of Chaparral Center.

While the rear doorway is large enough, trustees were told at an earlier meeting the angle of the ramp leading to it makes it impossible for some large trucks to drive into the center with equipment for some of the shows that have played there.

Some trucks, like the one bringing risers in for the Houston Symphony earlier this year, could drive in, but, once unloaded, could not get back out because of the ramp angle.

That problem was solved by leaving the truck in the tunnel leading to the doorway until after the performance when it was reloaded and driven out. Performers entered through the audience.

Also on the agenda for Tuesday's meeting are a request for use of the center and consideration of the group insurance program for the college.

Summer brings tree problems

By CHARLES W. GREEN
Midland County Extension Agent — Agriculture

During the midsummer months, questions always arise concerning the decline in health and vigor of shade trees.

Although many tree problems can be directly attributed to insects, diseases or weather conditions, the problem of tree decline usually lies below the ground in some form of root stress. Often this hidden stress exists for years, and it is not until symptoms manifest themselves in the above-ground portion of the tree that we notice a problem.

Soil compaction is probably the No. 1 cause of root stress. It is essential that air (oxygen) enter through the soil so that it can be taken in by the roots, and that carbon dioxide, when given off, can move up from the root zone and escape into the atmosphere. Where soil compaction exists, this process cannot occur normally and results in the death of many roots.

CONSTRUCTION DAMAGE is also one of the main causes of tree death, and it takes many forms. It can be "bulldozer blight" from heavy equipment or something more subtle such as misuse of fill dirt or the scraping away of soil. The former is more common, and if six inches or more have been poured around the tree's root system, it will usually kill the tree in the second or third summer.

Another type of common damage results when feeder roots are damaged from trenching. Most of a tree's roots are in the upper 18 inches of soil so that any trenching, be it for gas, water or other service lines, can seriously affect a tree. Subtle things like changes in drainage patterns may also have long-term effects on trees.

Girdling roots can be another cause of shade tree decline. If trees are improperly planted or located in areas where normal root development isn't possible, their roots may eventually grow around the base of the tree, either just above or just below the soil surface, and gradually strangle the tree to death. If you suspect girdling roots, carefully dig just below the surface (2 to 4 inches) and if girdling roots are involved, cut the troublesome root or roots with a sharp chisel.

OTHER MAJOR tree problems are caused by the use of weed-and-feed fertilizers on a lawn.

Pravda celebrates U.S. party's 68th birthday

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda celebrated the 60th birthday of America's Communist Party Friday with an article by U.S. party leader Gus Hall predicting a communist revolution in America.

"The Communist Party of the U.S.A. lives on and works because at every given moment of history it is the product of the current class struggle," Hall said in Moscow's party newspaper.

"During the 60 years of its existence, the Communist Party of the U.S.A. has been leading the fight of the working people for a better life and has been completely involved in it," Hall said.

"These efforts will increase in importance as the struggle of the working class and the people of the United States advances to the historic point of a revolutionary transition from capitalism to socialism," he said.

improperly used or when applied around or near the tree's root system, the weed killer damages the root system so that the tree begins to die back as if it had root rot or some other mysterious problem. Unfortunately, there's no antidote, and the chemical's effect may last as long as a year.

Weakened trees in the landscape are susceptible to a great many pests, especially boring insects which get into the trunk and larger limbs. If you suspect that your trees are weak, spray the trunk and larger limbs with lindane, which will help discourage borers. Do this three times per season — April 1, July 1 and Sept. 1.

WHAT CAN WE DO for trees that have been weakened by construction damage? One of the major counterattacks is to prune. Simply thin out the limbs, removing as much as one-third of the tree's canopy, so that some of the load is taken off the root system. This allows it to recover enough to support those limbs (and their foliage) that are left.

If fill dirt is the heart of your problem, then pruning alone usually isn't adequate since the roots will continue to suffocate. Get more air into the soil by drilling holes periodically around the drip line and lining the holes with PVC pipe filled with gravel. Patios constructed over a large portion of the root area of existing trees is also deadly.

Builders and new homeowners could do a lot to save trees if they would take some steps in the beginning. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has an excellent bulletin called "Protecting Trees from Changes in Grade," which is available from our office.

MONEY DOWN THE DRAIN

Some authorities say close to 50% of the water from a municipal system is wasted. Consciously work at saving water until it becomes a habit.

Have leaky faucets fixed. An average leak wastes up to 5,000 gallons a month at an estimated cost of about $40 per year. If the leak is from a hot water faucet, add from $30 to $40 for heating the water.

If you have an old fashioned shower head, replace it. New ones on the market use less water and permit you to regulate the spray.

Leaky toilet tanks waste from 3,000 to 5,000 gallons of water a month, costing you from $30-$40 per year. They are simple to repair.

Use full loads when using your dishwasher or washing clothes. You'll not only save water, but fuel too. Some little things to remember: stopper your sink whenever you wash dishes by hand. Stock them and rinse them with a hose spray. Don't leave the water running while shaving. Keep drinking-water in the refrigerator instead of running it for long periods prior to drinking.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Diet calls for caution

Dear Dr. Solomon: My 18-year-old son has decided to become a vegetarian, and I'm concerned about the possible effect on his health.

The chief concern about any such diet is the possibility that it may lack sufficient protein and vitamins D and B12.

Dear Mrs. K.: Vegetarianism takes various forms. Ovolacto vegetarians consume animal products such as eggs, milk and cheese.

Approximately 22 amino acids — all but eight of which can be produced in the adult — are required by the body to manufacture protein.

Anyone adopting a vegetarian diet should be careful to acquire some basic knowledge of nutrition. With intelligent planning, vegetarian diets can be made completely nutritious and healthful.

A food that contains all essential amino acids is called "complete protein"; those lacking or low in any one of the essential amino acids are referred to as "incomplete proteins."

Fiddling leads Stanton fair frolics

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

STANTON — Jim "Texas Shorty" Chancellor, 37, fiddled his way to the grand champion title at the 5th annual Martin County Fair's fiddlers' contest Saturday afternoon.

And his 17-year-old music student, Kristi Franklin, who hails from Chancellor's home town of Richardson, was reserve grand champion fiddler.

"It was just a knot's breath between first and second," said Johnny Louder, Stanton Jaycee and cotton farmer who was emceeing the fiddling contest, in announcing the fiddling champ.

Chancellor, the 1977 Texas Fiddlers Frolics state champion fiddler, Miss Franklin and Big Spring's Tom Castle were in the "fiddle off" for the champion title and the $100 prize.

Winners and runners-up in the three age-group divisions of the fiddling contests were:

—Age 30 and under: Miss Franklin, first; Jody Nix of Big Spring, second.

—Age 31 to 60: Chancellor, first; D.A. Penny of Midland, second, and J.W. Taylor of Odessa, third.

—Age 61 and beyond: Castle, first; Hoyt Roberts of Westbrook, second, and A.C. Powell of Stanton, third.

Chancellor and Miss Franklin both flew into Midland Regional Airport for the drive to Stanton to fiddle. Chancellor — Miss Franklin's fiddle teacher for 3½ years — is director of customer relations for Southwest Airlines. Miss Franklin is a student at Richardson High School.

After the fiddling was over, Stanton farmer Bill Stone auctioned off 38 homemade cakes, cookies and brownies, while Sharron Odom displayed the deserts one at a time. Bids ranged from $20 to $150.

Man robs convenience store, police are told

Midland police Saturday night were looking for a man who allegedly robbed a convenience store at gunpoint earlier Saturday evening, officials said.

The man last was seen running around the east end of the Speedy Pak No. 2 convenience store at 315 N. Midland Drive, according to police radio reports.

The man escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

Clarence Fryar of Lenorah wrote a check for $125 for a hummingbird cake baked by his granddaughter, Charlotte White, 32, of northeast Stanton.

And Charles McKaskle paid $150 for a batch of Bonnie Franklin's chocolate in-betweens which accidentally got dumped on the floor.

The night before, a bucket of homemade ice cream, made by Jean Hildreth of Lenorah, was auctioned off for $210 in a freeze-off sponsored by the Martin County 4-H Clubs.

And Courtney farmer David Stroud got the blue ribbon for "growing" the tallest — 11 feet — careless weed.

"Look at that sucker right there," Louder said of the giant weed. "That's a sign it's been a wet year."

Stanton farmer Kyle Cook picked up the prize blue ribbon for growing the grand champion stalk of cotton.

Ann Schafer, who lives between Lenorah and Big Spring, canned a quart of sliced peaches which won the grand champion ribbon in the canning judging.

On Saturday morning, the Martin County Young Farmers sponsored a stock show.

Leann Bigg, 19, Miss Martin County, reigned over the two-day fair.

The Hoyle Nix band out of Big Spring played

Country 'n' Western music for dances Friday and Saturday night at the Martin County Community Center.

An estimated 5,000 persons attended came to fair.

15-year-old dies of injuries sustained in Friday accident

Lisa Luckey, 15, of Dallas died about 7:32 p.m. Saturday at Midland Memorial Hospital as the result of head injuries received in a motorcycle accident early Friday, officials said.

Miss Luckey was the passenger on a motorcycle driven by Michael Rayburn, 21, 1800 N. H St., about 1:14 a.m. Friday, police said.

Rayburn was treated for cuts and bruises at Midland Memorial Hospital and was released Friday.

He apparently lost control of the motorcycle and it struck a curb, police said.

The accident occurred in the 3000 block of West

Wadley Avenue. Neither Rayburn nor Miss Luckey was wearing a helmet at the time of the accident, according to police.

'Godspell' to open in Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH — A musical entertainment of irresistible charm, "Godspell," opens Monday night at Casa Manana.

The show, billed as "a musical based on the gospel according to St. Matthew," is the seventh and final musical production of the summer season at Fort Worth's famed theater-in-the-round.

The creators of "Godspell," author John-Michael Tebelak and composer-lyricist Stephen Schwartz, have made a musical of rare and fresh appeal, using a circus, a clown show, a magic show and a game show based on teachings of the St. Matthew gospel.

FHA PLAN 203 is based on a cash price of $56,000 and a down payment of 2,300 and 360 equal payments of 10% A.P.R.

FHA Mini-Payments is based on *FHA 203 financing on a cash price of $56,000 and a down payment of $4,550, monthly payment reduction of 7.1% per year for 5 years. And $435 per month for 300 payments at a 10% A.P.R.

If you have ever considered buying a home but put it off because you couldn't make the monthly payments or felt you couldn't qualify, RAMCON has just solved your problem.

The Ramcon FHA Mini-Payment* allows your payments to start low, then gradually increase for five years. And, as always, Ramcon's price is the lowest in town.

Of course, the locations are the finest in the Petroplex.

NOT ALL HOMES OR LOCATIONS HAVE FHA MINI-PAYMENTS. PRICES VARY BY LOCATIONS.

Al Oliver paces 7-3 Texas win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Al Oliver hit two run-scoring doubles, the second capping a four-run second inning, leading the Texas Rangers to a 7-3 victory over Milwaukee Saturday night that ended the Brewers' six-game winning streak and the Rangers' six-game losing streak.

A's rally to trip Tribe

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dwayne Murphy singled home the go-ahead run as the Oakland A's rallied for two runs in the fifth inning and went on to a 4-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Rob Picciolo led off the Oakland fifth with a double and Jim Kern combined on an 11-hitter, with Kern recording his 20th save. —Oliver gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead with a double in the first inning that scored Mickey Rivers, who had singled. The Brewers tied it in the bottom of the first on a walk to Don Money and singles by Cecil Cooper and Gorman Thomas. The Rangers took the lead for good in the second inning by scoring four times. Richie Zisk led off with a single off loser Jim Slaton, 12-7, and Willie Montanez, Jim Sundberg and Nelson Norman all followed with singles to make it 2-1.

Bump Wills grounded into a fielder's choice to score a run, Rivers hit a sacrifice fly and Oliver hit his second RBI double.

Birds snip Royals, 9-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gary Roenicke hit his seventh home run of the season against Kansas City Saturday night as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Royals 9-2 and remained four games ahead of Boston in the American League East.

It was Roenicke's 19th home run of the season and his seventh in eight hits against the Royals this season. —Roenicke, who also had a single, homered off loser Larry Gura, 8-9, in the third inning. The Orioles, who had managed only 19 hits in their previous five games, banged out 14 against Gura and reliever Marty Pattin.

Rice, Watson ruin Chisox

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Rice and Bob Watson belted two-run homers and veteran Ted Sizemore had three consecutive key hits in his American League debut Saturday, powering the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in a game called after 5½ innings because of rain.

Backed by an 11-hit attack, right-hander Steve Renko, 9-7, posted his first victory since tossing a one-hitter against Oakland July 13. Renko allowed four hits, including Mike Squires' first major league homer and Lamar Johnson's 10th of the year.

With their fifth victory in six games and seven in the last nine, the Red Sox moved 30 games over .500 — 75-45 — for the second time this season.

The Red Sox, handcuffed by left-hander Ross Baumgarten Friday night, bounced back with their big guns against southpaw Steve Trout, 7-6, who lasted only three innings.

Sizemore, acquired from the Chicago Cubs Friday night, made his debut at second base for the Red Sox. He had a double and two singles, scoring one run and driving in two. Rice also had two singles, and hit his 33rd homer, a tremendous shot high over the screen in left at Fenway Park, in the third.

Watson also cleared the screen with his two-run homer, his 12th of the year, off Chicago reliever Randy Scarbery, in the fifth.

Boston slugger Carl Yastrzemski, who will be 40 Tuesday, had a single to center in the third, moving within 15 hits of becoming the 15th player in history to reach 3,000.

Boston Red Sox' Dwight Evans, left, joins Chicago White Sox catcher Milt May in a search for the plate during second inning action Saturday in Boston. Evans was safe on the play when May lost control of the ball. Boston won the televised game, 8-2. (AP Laserphoto)

ble and Rickey Henderson walked, putting runners on first and second. Murphy then singled to score Picciolo for a 2-1 lead as Henderson advanced to third. Wayne Gross then blooped a double into center field, scoring Henderson with the A's final run of the inning.

Scott McGregor, 8-4, with relief help from Dave Ford, got the victory. The crowd of 37,645 boosted Baltimore's home attendance to a club record 1,226,484. The previous one-season high was 1,203,366 in 1966, the first year the Orioles won the American League pennant.

NEW-YORK (AP) — Bobby Murcer hit a leadoff homer in the first inning and drove in another run in New York's four-run fifth as the Yankees defeated the Minnesota Twins 5-3 Saturday night. Murcer homered off surprise starter Mike Marshall, 10-12, normally Minnesota's relief ace. Marshall made only the 24th start of his career and first since 1977 when rain, which delayed the game's start by nearly 90 minutes, caused Twins Manager Gene Mauch to withdraw announced starter Dave Goltz. However, Goltz relieved in the third when the rain slackened and allowed New York's four runs in the fourth.

Houston's lead now only 2 1/2

HOUSTON (AP)—Greg Gross tripled home Del Unser with two out in the eighth inning and Larry Christenson, Tug McGraw and Ron Reed combined on a 10-hit shutout as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Houston Astros and J.R. Richard 1-0 Saturday night.

Richard, 12-12, had given up only three hits until Gross, a former Astro, connected to drive in Unser, who batted for Christenson and walked. Christenson, 4-8, worked seven innings.

allowed eight hits and struck out three as the Phillies handed Houston its third consecutive loss, trimming the Astros' lead in the National League West to 2 1/2 games over Cincinnati. The lead is Houston's smallest since June 19.

The Astros had three excellent scoring opportunities but Philadelphia double plays killed the threats.

Reds defeat Mets, 4-3

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dave Concepcion's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Junior Kennedy from first base with the winning run and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Although John Stearns' two-run homer in the top of the ninth following a two-out walk to Sergio Ferrer tied the score, Mike LaCoss, 13-5, pitched his fifth complete game of the season, allowing only five hits.

Dodgers slow Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dusty Baker drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and his 16th home run of the season to lead the streaking Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

The loss was the first-place Pirates' second in a row after a six-game winning streak and cut their margin over Montreal in the National League East to two games. The Expos nipped Atlanta 2-1. The Dodgers have won five games in a row and 21 of 29 since the All-Star break.

Baker's sacrifice fly off loser Don Robinson, 6-6, scored Steve Garvey to break a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning. Garvey had doubled and reached third on an infield out.

In the sixth, Garvey singled and was forced by Ron Cey. But Baker then hammered a pitch over the 400-foot mark in dead center field. Gary Thomasson homered in the ninth for the Dodgers' final run.

Neil Allen, 4-6, the Mets' third pitcher, walked Kennedy with one out in the ninth and Concepcion followed with his game-winning hit.

Cincinnati took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Johnny Bench reached on an infield hit, went to third on a single by Hector Cruz and scored on Paul Blair's forceout as the Mets barely missed an inning-ending double play.

Units reveals record numbers
CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Nobody had more impressive numbers than quarterback Johnny Unitas when he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame on July 28.
 Unitas had 18 years in the National Football League, most of them with the Baltimore Colts. He was all-NFL five times, played in four NFL title games, two Super Bowls, one AFC championship contest and 10 Pro Bowls.
 He had 2,830 completions in 5,186 attempts for 40,239 yards and 290 touchdowns. His string of 47 straight games with at least one touchdown pass, 1956-1960, is a record.

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP)—Amy Alcott, Sandra Spuzich and Sally Little shot 4-under-par 68 Saturday to share the first-round lead in a rained-out $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.
 Veterans Beth Stone, winless in 19 years on the tour, and Sandra Palmer were one stroke back at 69 on the 6,156-yard, par-72 Plymouth Country Club course.
 The field of 87 professionals and five amateurs will be cut to the low 60 pros and ties after Sunday's second round. The opening round was replayed Saturday after rain halted action Friday with only 16 players completing 18 holes. Those scores were washed out.
 The winner of the LPGA Barth Classic, scheduled to wind up on Monday, will receive $15,000.
 Alcott survived missing a one-foot putt to earn her share of the lead.
 "The ball hit a nail holding the cup in," said Alcott. "I saw it go in and then come out."
 The missed putt gave her a bogey on the par-3 No. 14 hole.
 "It was just a freak thing that never happened to me before," she said.

Theismann burns Falcons, 16-6

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Theismann fired two touchdown passes and set up a field goal with a 19-yard run as the Washington Redskins downed the Atlanta Falcons 16-6 in a National Football League preseason game Saturday night.

Theismann hurled a 30-yard scoring pass to Ricky Thompson early in the second quarter for the first Washington touchdown in three preseason games and connected with Danny Buggs on a 59-yard scoring play in the third quarter as the Redskins lifted their record to 2-1.

Atlanta's only score came late in the first half when Steve Bartkowski completed three consecutive passes for 57 yards, the last a 32-yard touchdown strike to Wallace Francis.

It was the third straight setback for the Falcons.

Theismann's 19-yard run to the Atlanta 17 in the second quarter set up a 27-yard field goal by Nick Lowery.

Theismann also had a 44-yard scoring pass to Buggs nullified in the opening quarter when the Redskins were called for holding on the play.

Patriots now face Oakland Raiders

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots try to regroup Sunday in their National Football League exhibition game against the Oakland Raiders.

Coming off a sloppy 15-3 preseason loss to Los Angeles, the Patriots were shaken at midweek when the team traded tackle Leon Gray to the Houston Oilers for a pair of 1980 draft picks.

Patriots Coach Ron Erhardt was unenthusiastic and some of the players, notably guard John Hannah, were bitter. New England General Manager Bucko Kilroy said he made the right move.

The Raiders, meanwhile, are 2-1 in the preseason and trying to put their offense in order, what with the offseason demands of quarterback Ken Stabler that he be traded.

Stabler still is a Raider and will play two quarters on Sunday. His backups are Jim Plunkett, once the backbone of the Patriots offense, and David Humm.

Plunkett hasn't appeared at Schaefer Stadium since 1975, prior to the April 5, 1976 trade that sent him to the San Francisco 49ers for draft picks that helped rebuild the Patriots.

Oakland Coach Tom Flores — a rookie like Erhardt — says Stabler "has played very well and is working hard." Plunkett, who had been mired in a lengthy slump, "seems to have regained command of the game. We're very pleased."

Both coaches say the game, starting at noon CDT, won't be a grudge match, although the last time the teams played an exhibition a year ago, Raiders safety Jack Tatum smashed into Patriots receiver Darryl Stingley, leaving him paralyzed.

The teams later met in a regular season game in Oakland, won by New England without incident. However, with Sunday's contest in Foxboro, Tatum may be absent. He's said to have a sore knee.

Chiefs roll over Cardinals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Steady Jan Stenerud booted two field goals and Horace Belton made a finger-tip catch of a 25-yard-touchdown pass from rookie Steve Fuller to lift the Kansas City Chiefs to a 20-3 National Football League exhibition victory Saturday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Stenerud, a 13-year veteran who ranks sixth on the NFL's all-time scoring list, hit a 51-yard field goal in the second quarter and added a 36-yarder in the third, his third successful kick in four attempts during preseason.

The Chiefs held a 13-3 lead midway through the fourth period when Fuller, a first-round draft choice from Clemson, threw a touchdown pass as he was being hit by defensive end Bob Rozier.

Belton snarled the ball with his finger tips and then lunged across the goal line. The victory raised Kansas City's preseason record to 2-1 while the Cardinals fell to 1-2.

Interception sinks Bengals

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Spivey intercepted a Jack Thompson pass and returned it 43 yards for a touchdown to cap a 17-point, third-quarter rally Saturday night and lead the Chicago Bears to a 17-13 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals in a National Football League exhibition game.

Trailing 13-0, the Bears scored on a 37-yard field goal by Bob Thomas. Then they turned a fake punt into a 77-yard gain which set up a six-yard touchdown run by Art Best. Spivey's interception then put Chicago ahead to stay.

Outplayed and pinned back on their own 17, the Bears resorted to a fake punt by Bob Parsons. He threw a pass to Brian Baschnagel, who ran another 39 yards to the Cincinnati 6. Best went around left end from there for the score.

Ken Anderson started at quarterback for the Bengals and guided them to a 13-point lead. Cincinnati took the opening kickoff and drove 68 yards in 13 plays with Anderson hitting Archie Griffin with a two-yard TD pass.

Griese paces Dolphin win

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Griese led Miami on two long scoring drives in the first half as the Dolphins stopped Minnesota 21-10 in a National Football League preseason game Saturday night.

Griese, in his first extended action of the year, completed 11 of 15 pass attempts for 180 yards and one touchdown in two quarters of play.

He hit tight end Bruce Hardy, who had taken over for the injured Andre Tillman, with a 27-yard scoring pass just four minutes into the game. Tillman suffered a broken right leg on Miami's first series of plays.

Miami, unbeaten in three exhibition games, also scored on a one-yard plunge by Leroy Harris in the second quarter and a 21-yard TD toss from reserve quarterback Guy Benjamin to rookie Ron Lee early in the fourth period.

Detroit bombs Cleveland

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit quarterback Gary Danielson and wide receiver Luther Blue connected on first-half touchdown passes of 33 and 39 yards as the Lions defeated the Cleveland Browns 21-10 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

Danielson, playing just over a half, looked extremely sharp for the second straight week. The former Purdue star completed seven of 10 attempts for 155 yards. Danielson led the Lions to touchdowns in each of the first three periods. The Browns put together their lone touchdown drive in the final period, going 58 yards in eight plays, culminating in a 9-yard scoring toss from reserve quarterback Mark Miller to Pat Moriarty.

Detroit's first touchdown was set up on an interception by James Hunter, who picked off a Brian Sipe pass at the Lions' 32-yard line and returned it to the Cleveland 46. Three plays later, Danielson hit Blue on the right side and Blue raced between two Cleveland defenders to complete the 33-yard play.

Chargers earn win

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Dan Fouts threw a 14-yard pass to Greg McCrary for the game's only touchdown and the San Diego Chargers downed the New York Giants 7-3 in a National Football League preseason contest Saturday night.

The Chargers' defensive line, led by John Lee, Wilbur Young, Gary "Big Hands" Johnson, Fred Dean and Leroy Jones, dominated the game — recording nine sacks for 62 yards in losses and sending Giant quarterbacks Joe Pisarcik and Randy Dean to the sidelines with injuries.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Mike Rae and tailback Ricky Bell combined on a 14-yard touchdown pass in the third period to snap a 7-7 tie and lead the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to a 14-7 National Football League preseason victory over the New Orleans Saints at Tampa Stadium Saturday night.

Starting quarterback Doug Williams drew first blood for Tampa, capping a seven-play, 88-yard drive with a 62-yard touchdown pass play to wide receiver Larry Mucker in the opening period. Neil O'Donoghue kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

Woods no place for some people

By JON CHASE

There is an old saying that the best and the worst show up in a person when he leaves the confinement of the city to enjoy the fields and streams.

How often have you seen the quiet, meek Sunday school teacher turn into Machine Gun Kelley after loading his gun to hunt? It happens far too often, and at best, leads to a miserable outing and, at worst, a tragedy.

I recall a few years back a first time hunt with one of these Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde types. Day in and day out this fellow was a picture of restraint and concern for others, but you should have seen him with a shotgun in hand. His motto was, "If it moves, shoot it."

I HAD invited this fellow to join me in a blue quail hunt south of Midland. Before I had loaded my gun, he had blasted two doves off a fence line. The birds were out of season and my illustrious partner quickly pleaded mistaken identity. It took less than 30 minutes for this fellow to unload on a covey rise, missing the birds and imbedding a few number sixes in my backside.

Enough was enough and I called a halt to the hunt. Needless to say, this was my last hunt with said trigger-happy individual.

Courtesy afield is something that far too many people ignore. Respect for the law and concern for the safety of others is far more important while hunting and fishing than at any other time.

A prime example of idiocy afield took place in the Hill Country around Austin a few years back. The event was so bizarre that it made the Paul Harvey news broadcast.

THE INCIDENT involved a young man with a deer rifle and an old man sitting in a tree blind along a deer trail. As the young man rounded a bend, he saw the old man's hat and promptly fired. His aim was true and he had successfully killed a 60-year-old deer hunter. His explanation? "I thought he was a turkey." The case was dismissed.

Had the young nimrod pulled such a stunt in the confines of the city, he would no doubt have been prosecuted. Unfortunately, stupidity and disregard for the lives of others usually goes unpunished when it occurs while hunting.

The most amazing incident in all of my hunting days happened on the J. D. Edwards ranch out of Deanneville. He allowed very few hunters on his property and I was one of them this particular day, along with two Air Force boys from New York City.

The boys had occupied a blind about a mile from Mr. Edwards' house, and while drinking coffee with Mr. Edwards, I heard a shot. After about an hour, the two proud New Yorkers came driving up with their "deer". Mr. Edwards and I went outside to congratulate them as they took pictures of each other standing alongside a freshly gutted mule. That's what I said — a mule! The heroes were allowed to keep the animal after paying a $150 exotic game fee.

ALL OF this proves nothing except that many of the people who participate in hunting and fishing should stay at home and help the little wife around the house. There is no room for the game hog or the completely uninformed when it comes to sports afield.

As the woods become more and more crowded, it seems that sooner or later we will have to demand written and practical tests of our hunters before allowing them to do their thing. It would be worth it to me to know that I am the hunter and not the hunted.

AREA BASS fishermen have had to work hard to put any fish on the stringer. The story is as usual — early and late and worm fishing during the day.

Brian Moore of Odessa limited on bass up to 3 1/2 pounds last Saturday on Lake Spence. He caught his fish on blue worms in 25-feet of water. Last Wednesday, Kevin Cline of San Angelo took seven bass to 6 1/2 pounds on Twin Buttes reservoir. He was trolling a Mud Bug in deep brush.

Cat fishermen have been doing fairly well on Lake Amistad on shad baited trotlines. Last Sunday, Bill Cochran of Andrews strung 34 channel cats and three yellow cats to 16 pounds on Amistad.

Until the cooler weather of October hits, the fish will be deep except for late in the evening and early morning.

Redskins' Houston still wants in Super Bowl

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Ken Houston's jersey hangs in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He's been in the Pro Bowl the past 11 years and probably will join his jersey after he retires from the National Football League.

Yet, Houston still has another major personal goal to reach before calling an end to his career. "I have never played in a Super Bowl," said Houston, who will start his 13th pro season — his seventh with Washington — in two weeks. "I know if I keep playing my best, I should make the Pro Bowl again. But I would like to play for a Super Bowl team before I go."

Houston, who turns 35 in November, stands a better chance of making his 12th consecutive Pro Bowl team this season than the Redskins have of reaching the NFL title game. The Redskins are in a rebuilding year and Houston acknowledges that the veterans are trapped in the youth movement.

Houston's jersey — the one he wore while playing with the Oilers — is in the Canton, Ohio, Hall of Fame for his all-time record of nine interceptions returned for touchdowns. Knowledgeable football people believe Houston one day will be elected to the hall.

"It's something I hadn't thought about until recently," he said. "I would like to be there some day, but I guess it wouldn't be the last strike because I don't want to set myself up for any disappointments."

"But that is the ultimate as far as being remembered. For years and years after you're gone, people can go there and see who and what you were."

more years does Houston think he can remain in the NFL? "I've probably lost some of the quickness I had when I came into the league," says the native of Lufkin, Texas, who spent his first six years in the NFL with the Houston Oilers. "But I can make that up with my experience. I believe that I probably will be able to play one more year after this one. But I don't know, I'll have to see how it goes."

Houston lost to current champ Larry Holmes in a 15-round bout, and in his last fight was knocked out by Earnie Shavers.

Graham regains Westchester lead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Australian David Graham, the recently-crowned PGA champion, mastered very difficult playing conditions with a two-under-par 69 and regained the lead Saturday in the third round of the $400,000 Westchester Classic.

Graham, who led the first round before dropping two shots back over the next 18 holes, established a one-stroke advantage over rookie Scott Simpson with a 54-hole total of 207, six shots under par.

Simpson, 23, had a hard-won 70 in the cool, windy, occasionally rainy weather that cut deeply into the anticipated gallery and produced some of the highest scores ever on the 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course.

Simpson had a 208 total going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize.

It was another two strokes back to Jack Renner, Lon Hinkle, Bob Murphy, and Tom Kite, tied at 210. Renner shot a 70, Hinkle a 72 and Murphy closed up with a 69.

Kite, the second-round leader, bogeyed four of five holes in one stretch on the back nine and scored his only birdie of the day on the 18th, finishing off a disappointing 74 that left him three shots off the pace.

Renner, also within striking distance, said he had no thought of winning the tournament, however.

"Realistically, I have no expectation whatsoever of winning the golf tournament," said Renner, who lost to Jerry McGee in a stretch-run struggle for the Hartford Open title. "I'm still in a daze from that."

Howard Twitty, with a 71, and George Burns, 72, were at 211.

Leading money-winner Tom Watson shot a 70 that put him at 214, seven strokes back. Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller was 70-216 and 67-year-old Sam Snead went to a 77 that left him at 223.

"I guess the golf course played much more difficult than I thought," Graham said.

"I thought the scores would be better than they are. The pins were very difficult and putting was very, very difficult. Each and every green has its own speed. No two are alike. It's very difficult."

His erratic effort put him in and out of the lead

several times. He mixed seven birdies with three bogeys, a double bogey and only seven pars.

"There's too much anxiety in my game right now for me to be pleased with it," he said. "I'm pleased I'm leading, of course, but I'm not at all pleased with my lack of consistency."

He took the lead alone with a 10-foot birdie putt on the ninth hole. That put him 3 under par for the day.

But he gave it back when he made double bogey-6 on the 304-yard 10th hole, generally considered the easiest on the course. He got his drive behind a tree, put his next in a bunker, came out short and 3-putted.

With everyone else having their difficulties, too, he regained the lead with another 10-foot birdie putt on the 14th, dropped back into a tie with Simpson when he missed the green and bogeyed the 16th, then took control again with another 10-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

Norton, LeDoux set for bout

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Ken Norton and Scott LeDoux, who gained a share of national prominence in entirely different ways, put their boxing careers on the line Sunday in a 10-round heavyweight fight that could vault the winner into contention for a title bout.

The nationally televised fight will be held at the Met Sports Center.

Norton, 34, burst onto the national boxing scene in spectacular fashion when he broke the jaw of Muhammad Ali March 31, 1973. Norton later lost two close decisions to Ali, but in 1978 was named World Boxing Council heavyweight champion after Ali was beaten by Leon Spinks.

Before a bout between Norton and Spinks could be arranged, Norton lost to current champ Larry Holmes in a 15-round bout, and in his last fight was knocked out by Earnie Shavers.

Norton, whose record is 41-6 with 33 knockouts, knows that another defeat probably means the end of his ring career, but that a victory could give him another shot at Holmes, the WBC champion. Holmes and Shavers meet in New Jersey Sept. 28. The World Boxing Association title, vacant since Ali retired, is to be decided in October when John Tate meets South African Gerrie Coetzee.

LeDoux, 30, has predicted that he will win by a knockout. LeDoux took a quite different route to national acclaim than Norton.

In 1977, LeDoux knocked the toupee off the head of Howard Cosell on national TV. LeDoux had just been pronounced the loser in a close fight against Johnny Boudreau during the U.S. Boxing Championships and inadvertently bumped Cosell during the post-fight scuffle.

LeDoux, 25-7-3 with 17 knockouts, also has a controversial loss to Ron Lyle on his record and a draw against Spinks.

Renner, also within striking distance, said he had no thought of win-ing the tournament, however.

"Realistically, I have no expectation whatsoever of winning the golf tournament," said Renner, who lost to Jerry McGee in a stretch-run struggle for the Hartford Open title. "I'm still in a daze from that."

Howard Twitty, with a 71, and George Burns, 72, were at 211.

Leading money-winner Tom Watson shot a 70 that put him at 214, seven strokes back. Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller was 70-216 and 67-year-old Sam Snead went to a 77 that left him at 223.

"I guess the golf course played much more difficult than I thought," Graham said.

"I thought the scores would be better than they are. The pins were very difficult and putting was very, very difficult. Each and every green has its own speed. No two are alike. It's very difficult."

His erratic effort put him in and out of the lead

several times. He mixed seven birdies with three bogeys, a double bogey and only seven pars.

"There's too much anxiety in my game right now for me to be pleased with it," he said. "I'm pleased I'm leading, of course, but I'm not at all pleased with my lack of consistency."

He took the lead alone with a 10-foot birdie putt on the ninth hole. That put him 3 under par for the day.

But he gave it back when he made double bogey-6 on the 304-yard 10th hole, generally considered the easiest on the course. He got his drive behind a tree, put his next in a bunker, came out short and 3-putted.

With everyone else having their difficulties, too, he regained the lead with another 10-foot birdie putt on the 14th, dropped back into a tie with Simpson when he missed the green and bogeyed the 16th, then took control again with another 10-foot birdie putt on the 17th.

Soccer fix doesn't work

NEW YORK (AP) — Rochester Lancer forward Mike Stojanovic, saying he was merely relaying a message from an opposing player, admitted that he told Lancer goalie Shep Messing that New England would allow a goal if Messing did the same. This proposed plan would have allowed both teams to make the North American Soccer League playoffs, but Messing did not comply with the fix attempt. Stojanovic said Friday he was acting as a messenger for New England goalie Kevin Keelan in the Aug. 11 game in Rochester, the final regular season game for both teams. When Messing was approached by Stojanovic, Rochester was leading 2-0, the eventual final score. Both Rochester and New England fell a point short of qualifying for the playoffs. Had the final score been 3-1, both clubs would have made it to the post-season as the final wild-card entrants, by virtue of the NASL's points-for-goals system.

"Keelan approached me and said, 'Why don't you give us a goal?'" Stojanovic was quoted as saying in Saturday's New York Post. "I said 'It's not up to me. I'm a forward. You should score.' Keelan said 'If you allow us to score a goal, we'll allow you to score 10 goals.' I relayed the message from Keelan to Messing." Keelan is in England, where he is playing for Norwich City. He has not yet been reached for comment. "We're going to investigate all the circumstances that have been raised," said Jim Trecker, publicity director of the NASL. New England spokesman Vince Casey said Friday night, "I don't believe it and I won't believe it. As far as I'm concerned, and the rest of this organization is concerned, it didn't happen." Messing was surprised that Keelan was fingered as the mastermind of the fix attempt. "What if I told you that the game Keelan played was the best I had seen any keeper play this year?" Messing said. "He was that good." Messing said Stojanovic alerted him with 3:41 left in the game when the clubs were arguing with referee Marco Dorantes over a call. "That's when everything happened," Messing said. "My player (Stojanovic) took off and ran 80 yards to my goal, and that's when he told me that we made a deal with New England. We'd each allow a goal and we'd both clinch, while Toronto and Philadelphia wouldn't." A little later, Messing bobbed the ball but came up with a save. "I didn't bobble it on purpose," the goalie said. "It was a good save. I could've gotten away with it right there without any suspicion." "Then with about a minute left, Keelan made a good save. That's why it's hard to believe Keelan wanted to fix it. But maybe after he saw me make a save, he realized I wasn't going to cooperate with them, so why should he cooperate with us?"

BOWLING BEAT

Brooklyn stings 279

By RANDY ISENBERG

Brian Gillette bowled the highlight game of the week with a strong 279 game in the Civic Summer League, enroute to a 655 series. Brian rolled 11 strikes in the game with a Brooklyn hit 5-pin separating him from the magic 300 mark. The following board members have been selected to serve on committees by the Midland Bowling Association. Nominating Committee: Jack Francis, chairman; Bo Randolph and Scott Skidmore, committee members. Rules Committee: Eddy Krupa, chairman; Bud Johnson and Doug Cunningham, committee members. Publicity Committee: Bill Milner, chairman; Jack Francis and Doug Cunningham, committee members. Youth Bowling Committee: Bo Randolph, chairman; Mario Torres and Tommy Miller, committee members. Yearbook Committee: Howard Shelton, chairman; Mario Torres and Scott Skidmore, committee members. Trophy Committee: Tommy Miller, chairman; Buster Davis and Eddy Krupa, committee members. Auditing Committee: Buster Davis, chairman; Bud Johnson and Bill Milner, committee members. Liason Committee: Doug Cunningham, Air Park Lanes and Scott Skidmore, Super Bowl.

while Bill Milner is the current past president. Charlie Lacy will be holding a meeting at the Super Bowl today at 12:30 a.m. to organize a handicap bowlers association.

On Labor Day, Air Park Lanes will be hosting a Scratch Doubles Double Elimination Tournament. The same day there will also be a tournament for men and women with averages of 175 or less at Air Park. First shift for the handicap tournament is noon, Sept. 3. Starting time for the Scratch Doubles Sweeper is 11 a.m.

Thanks to Jim Gaylean, Misty and all of those who helped for the fourth consecutive year put together an outstanding Muscular Dystrophy Bowl-A-Thon. Final results are not in yet, but $1500 will be raised this year. It looks like a lady will be the winner when the tabulations are in this week.

Cagers may now think twice

HOUSTON (AP) — Star center Moses Malone of the Houston Rockets said Saturday that pro basketball players perhaps will now think twice before fighting on the courts of the National Basketball Association. The verdict reached Friday by a federal court jury in Houston, awarding $3.3 million to Rockets forward Rudy Tomjanovich for injuries suffered when hit in the face by former Los Angeles Lakers' forward Kermit Washington, brought the comment from Malone, who recently was named the most valuable player in the NBA for the 1978-1979 season. He said, "It will make a lot of ballplayers, and especially owners, wonder what will happen to them if something like this ever happens again. Owners are going to realize that it shouldn't happen again ... that violence. This may put a stop to it." The jury of five men and one woman listened to two weeks of testimony in the celebrated case, deliberated five hours, and returned an award some $600,000 above the figure asked by attorneys for Tomjanovich. The Rockets' organization still has a $1.4 million suit against the Lakers' organization for loss of Tomjanovich's services. The jury will hear testimony on it later. Joseph Jamail of Houston, a widely-known injury suit lawyer who, in recent years, has won millions of dollars in settlements, told The Associated Press, "for a jury to go above the amount requested is not common. When it does happen it means the jury is completely turned off by what occurred. They believe it was an act with malice and with disregard for a person's safety; it was a brutal act, an act outside the human element." Film clips of the blow that landed flush on the face of Tomjanovich, in black-and-white and in color, in normal and in slow motion, were shown repeatedly to the jurors. Each time it was the same — Washington swinging a right and Tomjanovich hitting the floor of the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., covering his face with both hands, staggering to his feet, then being led to the dressing room. Ray Patterson, Rockets' general manager, said the verdict "is a landmark decision. It will do a great deal to make a club responsible for its players. It has justified our concept that the club was responsible and had to pay. It has placed the liability on them and that's what we have claimed all along."

Rockets' guard Mike Newlin, a witness during the trial, said the jurors "apparently decided that individual acts of violence are not part of the game of professional basketball. The verdict demonstrates that the responsibility for unnecessary violence isn't taken lightly. As long as justice is done — good."

Special stars Richard Crenna on Mayflower

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Anthony Hopkins and Richard Crenna star in "The Voyage of the Mayflower," a dramatic special for CBS about the crew and passengers of the Mayflower and its harrowing journey to the New World.

The drama focuses on the conflict between the opposing outlooks of the crew, led by Hopkins as Capt. Christopher Jones, and the colonists, led by Crenna as the Rev. Brewster.

Midland-Odesa Symphony continues tradition with end-of-summer concert

Continuing an end-of-summer tradition, the Midland-Odesa Symphony will present its annual "Pops in the Park" concert at 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

The event will be in Wadley Barron Park, corner of North A Street and West Cuthbert Avenue. It will be open without charge to all residents of the city and surrounding area.

"Symphony Night Fever" is the theme of this year's concert. Programmed for the popular annual event are light, "listenable" works, in addition to a pair of classical selections.

National Bank. The concert will be repeated at 8:15 p.m. next Sunday in Odesa's Freedom Park. That event also will be open to the public free of charge.

The bill of fare includes selections from the Bee Gees, including "Stayin' Alive," "Shadow Dancing" and "Night Fever." Also to be heard is theme music from the movies "Superman" and "A Taste of Honey."

More serious works on the program will be Handel's famous "Water Music" orchestral suite and the prelude to Act III of Richard Wagner's "Lohengrin." Dr. Tom Hohstadt, symphony music director, will conduct.

This year's "Pops in the Park" concert is being underwritten by a financial grant from The Midland

MCT issues reminder of upcoming tryouts

Midland Community Theatre is issuing a reminder of upcoming tryouts to fill parts in its next major production.

"The Passion of Dracula," a new-from-Broadway production, will go into rehearsal soon in preparation for an October opening. It will be MCT's 207th membership production and the fifth major production of MCT's 1979 membership season.

Tryouts to fill the seven male roles and two female roles in the drama will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday in Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. Persons do not have to be MCT season members to qualify for a part, and newcomers to the city and surrounding area have a special invitation to come and read for parts in the show.

Copies of the script of "Dracula" may be obtained from the MCT office.

Thouvenel Quartet to embark on third season as string quartet-in-residence

The Thouvenel Quartet soon will embark on its third season as Midland's string quartet-in-residence.

The expanded 1979-80 season will begin in early fall and continue through the winter and spring with a series of subscription concerts presented in the recital hall of the Midland College fine arts building.

The quartet has expanded its subscription series to six concerts for the coming season. In addition to performances by the ensemble with guest artists, two of the six performances will feature members of the quartet in solo and duo musical presentations.

Works by Beethoven, Brahms, Dvorak, Haydn, Mozart and Stravinsky will be presented by the ensemble during the season.

Subscriptions for the Thouvenel's new series now are being accepted.

The season tickets are priced $12 for adults, $6 for students, and may be purchased through the Midland-Odessa Symphony office, 563-0921. Mail orders of tickets should be sent to the Thouvenel Quartet Committee, P.O. Box 3787, Midland 79702. Checks should be made payable to the Midland Symphony and Chorus Association, sponsor of the Thouvenel Quartet.

The Thouvenel ensemble was formed a number of years ago on the campus of Indiana University in Bloomington, Ind. The group has played widely in the Midwest and elsewhere in the nation in recent years.

Since moving to Midland in the late summer of 1977, the quartet has identified itself closely with the musical life of the city and surrounding area. Members of the ensemble play in the Midland-Odessa Symphony; in addition, they teach privately and all hold faculty positions at Midland College.

The quartet plays an average of 100 to 150 concerts yearly, including concerts in schools and churches in the city and surrounding sectors. The ensemble also performs in other parts of the nation and in Europe.

During the current summer, the quartet has played concerts and conducted master classes in several cities, including San Diego, Calif., Stillwater, Okla., and Bloomington, Ind. Last spring, the ensemble participated in a prestigious music festival in Santa Barbara, Calif., devoted to performances of the music of 20th Century composer Ernest Krenek.

Members of the ensemble are violinist Eugene Purdue, cellist Jeff Levenson and violist Sally Chisholm. New to the ensemble this season is violinist Teresa Fream who has replaced Michael Rosenbloom in the quartet.

Quiet, shy and fat child's dream comes true with role in 'Hot Stuff'

NEW YORK (AP) — "To see my dream as an actor come true is a marvelous sensation," says Luis Avalos of his role in the movie "Hot Stuff."

"Since I was a kid I wanted to be an actor," the Cuban-born Avalos says. "But my family didn't think I was able to excel in that career — nor in any other one for that matter — because I was shy and very quiet, and on top of all that real fat."

Now, however, a much slimmer Avalos thoroughly enjoys the fame, the recognition and — not least — the money linked to his new top role status.

"Hot Stuff" was directed by Dom De-

Luise, who also plays the lead and shares star billing with Suzanne Pleshette, Jerry Reed and Ossie Davis.

"Acting near Suzanne Pleshette was a fantastic experience," says Avalos. "She knew that this was my first movie, so she would give me valuable acting tips, or take my hand and lead me to the precise spot where I should be in a certain scene to make the most of it."

What about DeLuise in his double duties as main character and director of the new Columbia Pictures release?

"I don't use the word genius very often, but I think it applies to him fully," Avalos says. "He never stops developing new ideas, giving everybody something exciting to do — even between takes!"

How did Avalos get his start in acting?

"I studied acting at New York University. Then I landed a trainee job with the Repertory Theater of Lincoln Center. Then came my big break in TV with 'The Electric Company' — all 650 shows and five seasons of it."

Looking at the world through rose-colored glasses

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

Dorothy Parker's famous line that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses" may have been true once, but with the new image of eyewear coming into vogue, that's likely to change now. And who will be making passes at who?

Many individuals who wear glasses still do not consider their eyewear as a fashion accessory, says Cecilia Rose, optical fashion advisor for a local optical center.

"Most women will don a designer gown, put on a pair of exquisite shoes, have their hair styled in the latest fashion, and will then plunk on their everyday glasses for a night on the town," she says.

"THEY SPEND AN ENORMOUS amount of money and time on cosmetics and then put a piece of garbage on their face that they've worn for the past 10 years."

And women are not alone in this practice. Says Rose, "A businessman will invest $300-$400 in a three-piece suit, buy all the matching accessories, and will top off the ensemble with a pair of glasses that are too small for the face and probably make him look 10 years older than he is."

"The conception has been to make the glasses look as inconspicuous as possible," says Rose. "Well, that's impossible," she states. Anything that covers one-third to one-half of a person's face and sits on his nose is definitely conspicuous."

Once regarded as useful for medicinal purposes only, eyewear has begun to take its place in the fashion world, especially during the past decade. More and more women are beginning to build wardrobes of glasses, in colors to match every ensemble, with frame styles ranging from casual and sporty to elegantly shaded lenses for after-five occasions.

Cecilia Rose

ONE OF THE NEWEST additions to the industry is Lens Cosmetints, a subtle tri-colored lens that compliment a person's wardrobe, eye color and facial features. "With the custom-shaded lenses, women and men alike can play down wrinkles around the eyes, bring out cheekbones and disguise bags under the eyes," says Rose.

The consultant notes that the market, once dominated by only a few manufacturers, has grown with the advent of the fashion eyewear concept. And, like every other item on the market, eyeglasses can be purchased in any price range.

"An attractive, up-to-date pair of frames will run from $20 to $100, with the average price of a flattering pair of glasses running about $55," Rose says. She adds that those wearing one pair of frames day in and day out feel that "glasses are glasses" and one pair is sufficient.

SHE SAYS THAT MOVIE STARS and other celebrities haven't helped the image much because they usually wear just one pair of glasses.

"For instance, take Sammy Davis Jr., Telly Savalas, or John Denver. They wear one pair of glasses all the time. The only celebrity who has helped the eyewear image is Elton John and he has over 500 pairs of glasses."

"When I had my optical store in Houston, one of my customers finally decided to bring matching frames with dominant colors in her wardrobe," recalls the consultant, "and within a few years had probably 40 pairs of glasses." Several weeks after that customer's first visit, the woman's best friend, apparently well-schooled in one-upmanship, came into Rose's shop, requesting the very same frames for herself.

"Of course, I talked her out of that notion quickly, explaining that frames should match face shapes, complexion color, and, last but not most importantly of all, should accommodate the individual visual problem, says Rose.

BEFORE DISCUSSING ANYTHING ELSE, Rose suggests an optician discover a customer's eye hair and eyebrow coloring. The men discuss beards, mustache, or sideburns, if any. Rose also checks complexion coloring, cosmetic preferences of the women and dominant colors in a person's wardrobe. Part of the facial analysis also includes bone structure. Last but not least, the client's lifestyle is discussed.

Glasses can help a person's image and self-esteem, believes Rose.

A person who does a lot of boating and skiing will probably prefer the Pierre Cardin style glasses with cable ears. Rimless glasses are good for someone who does a lot of socializing as they look great for evening wear, says Rose.

Frames should be purchased in much the same way one buys jewelry, scarves, or hats. "Most women wear different shades of make-up in winter or summer," points out the consultant, "and frame colors should also be bought with the seasons in mind."

She recalls an event where she was to address an eyewear convention and says that she made a stunning entrance wearing a red dress, red earrings, red shoes and a pair of glasses with red frames.

"I'M NOT AFRAID TO SAY I looked great," she says.

"Don't be afraid to put your money where the focal point is," she advises.

In choosing frames, the customer should ask the optician for an educated opinion, believes Rose.

As for the popular wire-rim frame style... "Metals of any color tend to age women, in general, with the wire styles causing the individual to look sallow or washed out.

Another myth in buying frames, according to Rose, is that the frames should match hair color. "Nothing could be less attractive than a woman with dark hair in a pair of black or brown glasses," she says. "The better choice would be a frame that goes with most colors in the wardrobe, such as blue, green, mauve, or beige."

She adds that men carry off metallic frames better than women, recalling that most of her customers purchased wire-rims for sports such as jogging, tennis or golf. "But, for formal occasions, a tinted, plastic frame style is much more attractive...after all, who would wear tennis shoes with a tuxedo?"

DARLA REEVES chooses a pair of frames which shorten her long face, make her close-set eyes appear larger, and play up her cheekbones. The glasses are great for Darla's

wide temple and seems to arch his cheekbones. (Photos by Brian Hendershot)

Next-to-New has school clothes

Parents who are looking for a bargain in those back-to-school clothes can find a large assortment of fall and winter clothing at the Next to New Shop owned and operated by the non-profit Junior League organization in Midland.

Located at 509 E. Illinois Ave., the newly-remodeled store also has in addition to clothing, shoes, books, records, games, toys, household items and furniture.

Clothing is also available for the entire family.

The store, in operation since 1954, sells all of its secondhand items at a nominal cost. All proceeds from the shop and the league's other fund-raising project, the Charity Ball, go to the group's Community Trust Fund and are returned to the community through league projects.

Some of these projects include Adult Basic Education aides, audiometric screening, Children's Dental Clinic, cardiopulmonary resuscitation training, cultural arts program, the Directory of Community Services, Getting Around Midland handbook, mural arts, Permian Basin Petroleum Museum docents, Prenatal Clinic, Partners in Reading program, Sara Wooldrige Clinic, Museum of the Southwest, Theatre Midland and Pickwick Players.

Time to pay tribute to newspaper subs

By ERMA BOMBECK

Let's hear it out there today for all the subs who are filling in for your paperboy while he or she is on vacation.

Those brave little bands of stand-ins roaming around cul-de-sacs with an illegible list in one hand, driving a bicycle with the other, and balancing 65 papers on the handlebars.

It's time to pay tribute to the patron saint of newspaper subs everywhere... Margaret Howell, Toledo, Ohio.

Margaret was your basic, full-time mother until her 14-year-old son sustained a neck injury during the aftermath of the 1978 Ohio blizzard and was unable to deliver on his paper route.

Not to worry. Her son had a "system" whereby the route was color-coded.

Red: Skip the first house on the corner partially facing the third block of the golf course.

Black: Deposit paper in milk box on left side of the house. Yellow: Vacation one week. Green: Vacation two weeks, etc.

Super Mom Howell then donned two newspaper bags, each weighing one half ton, and stepped from her porch into the snow. She would never have been heard from again had it not been for her young daughter. After two hours they were frozen. They also had three papers left over.

When Mrs. Forsham phoned to inquire, "Don't I get a paper tonight?" Margaret checked her color-coded list and informed her she was not to return from her vacation until next Monday. If she wanted a paper, she'd better tunnel on down to the house with the first dormer on the second-story window.

Beaten and depressed, our heroine did the only thing left to do... put a neck brace on her son and shoved him out into the snow to re-deliver the route. The first customer had the audacity to say, "You poor boy. I'm so glad you're back because the service has been lousy since you've been gone."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here is a thought on food costs and savings from the Federal Office of Consumer Affairs:

"Pre-sliced and pre-cut meats, cheeses, poultry and fish are usually more costly than solid quantities that you slice yourself."

Teenage parenthood causes many problems

COLLEGE STATION—Teenage parenthood usually leads to lower levels of education, employment and marriage satisfaction, says Patricia Lamson, a family life education specialist.

Women bear the greatest brunt—with pregnancy the number-one reason for female school drop-outs, the specialist says.

Ms. Lamson is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Effects of teenage pregnancy—as reported by a recent study of 30-year-old men and women who had children as teenagers—are the following:

EDUCATION—Quitting school is the most immediate result of teenage parenting.

EMPLOYMENT—Jobs depend on education levels. Among the men and women in the study, only three held professional positions. The others held low-level, low-paying positions.

MARRIAGE SATISFACTION—Having children at a young age also appears to cut short the period of teenage courtship.

This leaves little time for the teen to adjust from the role of spouse to the role of parent.

Teenage couples experience frequent marital problems and a higher divorce rate than older couples.

Keeping marble beautiful

COLLEGE STATION—Keep marble beautiful by keeping it clean, says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Just through use in the home, marble may become dull in appearance and may lose some of its brightness and luster, but this situation is easily remedied.

Wash marble with clean cloths and fresh lukewarm water.

Twice a year, wash it with a mild detergent as an additional safeguard—this will remove any residue dirt which might become ingrained.

Marble will, just through use, lose some of its polish and acquire an occasional scratch.

Buff away fine scratches and repolish the entire surface whenever necessary with putty powder applied on a damp cloth. Polish by hand or with an electric polisher.

Most stains will require the application of a poultice made of white blotting paper, white paper napkins, white cleansing tissue or commercial whitening.

Soak the poultice in the required solution and keep it from drying out while it is on the marble. Cover the poultice with a piece of glass or a sheet of plastic (a vegetable bag will do) to keep moisture from evaporating while the stain is being drawn out of the marble.

This process may take from one to 48 hours, depending on how old the stain is.

Once the stain is removed, the area may require polishing with putty powder applied on a damp cloth.

Keep the putty powder damp while polishing, and rub the area persistently rather than vigorously for about a minute. Remove the putty powder with a dampened cloth, folding and refolding the cloth to fresh dampen areas until the marble is clean and the surface shines.

Organic stains are caused by such substances as tea, coffee, wet bark, flowers and leached colors from paper or textile. These usually take the shape of the staining object and will often disappear without treatment after removal of the staining substance.

To facilitate removal of the stains, wash the surface with clear water and apply a bleach in poultice form.

Mrs. Jay Richard Frazier
TERGERSON-FRAZIER

Carla Denise Tergerson and Jay Richard Frazier exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. Saturday in Midland Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Charles Meyer officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Don Tergerson, 3314 Bedford Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Frazier of Houston.

Cindy Tergerson of Austin attended her sister as maid of honor, while another sister, Debbie Tergerson of Austin, Kayla Goodrich of Houston and Janet Gieb of Houston served as bridesmaids. Donna Carter Bryant of Snyder was bridesmatron.

Best man was Trey Ford of Lubbock. Groomsmen were Roger Holmes of Albuquerque, N.M., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Jim Kreuz of Austin, Terry Nelson of Waco and Lance Posey of Austin.

Karl Richter of Austin and Bobby Stevans of Tyler seated the guests.

Ring bearer was Donnie Tergerson of Midland, brother of the bride.

After a wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif., the couple will make their home in New Orleans, La.

Mrs. John Eric Scates
QUATTRINI-SCATES

Denni Kay Quattrini of Houston and John Eric Scates of College Station exchanged wedding vows at 10 a.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church Chapel. The Rev. Dave Slotje, minister of the Spring Branch Community House near Houston, officiated the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Hogan, 2803 Frontier Drive, and Annie B. and Joe Scates of San Antonio.

Honor attendants were Diane Hogan of Midland, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mark O. Scates of Clear Lake City, brother of the bridegroom, as best man.

Ushers were Gary Brumback of Monroeville, Pa., and John R. Miller of San Antonio. Shelby Miller of Odessa was flower girl and Christopher Wellman of Friendswood carried the rings.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will live in College Station at 306 Redmond, Apt. 206B.

Teens want star parents

NEW YORK (AP) — Most teen-aged boys say they would like a mother who's an angel — namely TV's Cheryl Ladd or Jaclyn Smith, a magazine survey concludes.

According to the September issue of Ladies Home Journal, 75 percent of 850 American high school juniors and seniors surveyed said they were dissatisfied with their parents and would replace them if they could.

The top parental choices among girls were Miss Smith and actor Burt Reynolds. Boys chose Reynolds and Mrs. Ladd, the magazine says.

Most of the teens from across the country named film or television stars like Carol Burnett, Lee Majors, Farrah Fawcett, Raquel Welch, and Robert Redford. President Carter broke in as the only non-entertainer.

Despite unhappiness with their parents, more than half said "being married" was their No. 1 goal in life. Ninety-five percent said they wanted to have children, the magazine said.

The students were surveyed in Escondido, Calif.; Brigham City, Utah; Vicksburg, Miss.; Hanover, N.H., and Avoca, N.Y.

Use grills with caution

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
AP Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing tastes quite as good in the summertime as a steak, hamburger or chicken charcoal-broiled outdoors. But charcoal grills can be a fire hazard, so use them with care.

There are many excellent lighter fluids on the market to help get your charcoal going, so never use gasoline, which is dangerously explosive.

And once the fire is started, let it grow at its own speed. Adding fluid to the fire can allow the flame to travel up the stream, causing the can to explode in your hand.

Immediately after using lighter fluid, put it back in its storage place, don't leave it near the fire.

The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration also suggests that wearing loose clothing or robes around grills should be avoided. Flaming grease can splatter up and set these clothes ablaze.

In fact, the experts suggest keeping a small spray container of water, such as that used to sprinkle clothes, handy to douse flareups. Never refuel these machines while they are running, or inside a closed shed or garage, refuel only outdoors in a well ventilated area.

DEAR ABBY

Dutch-treat wedding no treat to mad mom

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son never had much success with girls, so he fell for the first one who paid any attention to him and they're getting married next month. We tried to get him to wait, but he wouldn't listen.

I called the bride's mother to find out how many guests we were allowed to have, and I offered to pay for any extra people we want to invite over and above that number. She said, "We never had any trouble with our other daughter's wedding because the groom's parents realized it was also their son's wedding and they paid for half of it."

Abby, every etiquette book I've ever seen plainly states that the bride's family is supposed to put on the wedding. I realize that weddings cost a lot, but if people can't afford it, they shouldn't expect the other family to pay half.

Am I out of line to ignore their brazen suggestion even though we're better off than they are? — GROOM'S MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: You are correct about what the etiquette books say. But in MY book, consideration and common sense outrank etiquette. In some cases, the groom's parents have not only shared expenses, they've put on the wedding. But that happens only if they're delighted with the match.

DEAR ABBY: I have been courting a gorgeous woman for eight months. She is 20 years younger than I. (I am 82.)

We love each other dearly. My dilemma is whether it would be fair of me to ask her to marry me when I know she could find a younger man who could do more of the things she loves to do — dance, swim, garden and travel.

I'm afraid she would be giving up so much, but she says what time we would have together would be well worth any sacrifice on her part. We live in different states. I've visited her once, and she has come to visit me three times. We have a wonderful time together. Abby, I think about her constantly, but I don't want to deprive her of the chance to find a younger man while she's still able to.

She would have to quit her job and move here, but I am financially able to take care of her.

I'm still mentally alert and in fairly good health for my age, but I'm lacking in strength because, living alone, I don't eat properly. (She's a wonderful cook so I'm sure I'd get stronger if she married me.) Please help me decide what to do. — YES OR NO?

DEAR YES: Yes! You say you "love each other dearly," so what are you waiting for? All is fair in love and war. If the lady wanted a younger man, you wouldn't be in her life.

Can she cook a tart?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE AP Food Editor

A friend of ours has added to summer's charm by devising a lovely Nectarine Tart.

The cream-cheese pastry for the tart is not the richest of its kind, but it is a manageable dough and makes a firm underpinning when the sidewall of the tart pan is removed.

NECTARINE TART Tart Pastry, recipe follows

12-ounce jar apple jelly (1 cup plus 1 tablespoon)
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
5 or 6 (about 1 pound) firm-ripe nectarines
1 1/2 teaspoons very hot water
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Make up Tart Pastry. On a prepared pastry cloth, with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll it out to a 12-inch round. Fold into quarters. Lift, unfold and ease into a 10 1/4 by 1-inch round tart pan with a removable bottom and fluted sidewall. Press pastry against bottom and sidewall of pan.

In a small bowl, with a fork, beat together 6 tablespoons of the apple jelly with the flour until smooth.

Slice nectarines fairly thin; do not peel. Spread apple-jelly and flour mixture over bottom of pastry; arrange nectarines in a circular pattern over the mixture.

In a cup, with a fork, beat together 1/2 of the remaining jelly with the hot water to thin the jelly; brush it over the nectarines. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until pastry is brown and nectarines are tender — 35 to 45 minutes.

In small saucepan over moderately low heat stir the remaining apple jelly until melted; stir in lemon rind. Brush over hot baked tart. Place on wire rack to cool. Remove sidewall of pan and place tart on a large plate. Cut in wedges and serve while still quite warm or at room temperature. Makes 8 servings.

TART PASTRY 1/2 cup butter, soft
4 ounces cream cheese, soft
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

In a medium bowl beat together butter, cream cheese and sugar until blended. Stir in lemon rind. Gradually stir in flour until blended. Press dough into a ball; wrap tightly in saran and refrigerate until firm enough to roll out — usually at least an hour.

Specialist advises omit pressure from sports

COLLEGE STATION—Too much pressure in sports can turn a child off—with both the sport and with his parents, says a family life education specialist. Athletic events can play an important role in an adolescent's development and health, but parents should know both the positive and negative aspects of competitive sports, says Dorothy Taylor.

Miss Taylor is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Since competition puts pressure on children, parents can help relieve it by making "fun" the primary goal in sporting events.

Parents also can "play up" other benefits—in addition to the glory of winning.

Other benefits include learning the rules and tools of the "game of life"—agility, skill development, cooperation, discipline and fair play. Give these benefits plenty of attention, the specialist advises.

Concrete tips presented

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures
Things you should know about working with concrete:

When it is poured over a large area, such as a driveway, concrete should be reinforced with wire mesh sold especially for the purpose.

In mixing concrete, whether for a complete project or a patch, use only as much water as needed to make the mixture workable. Too much water weakens the finished product.

To prevent a slippery surface on concrete walkways, roughen the finish with a broom or something similar.

A thin surface of new concrete can be put over an old, thick surface if a bonding material is applied to the old finish or, in some cases, if the binder is added to the new mixture.

In repairing concrete, the crack or other gap should be cleaned of all loose chips or debris and soaked with water before applying the patching material.

For large jobs, buy concrete by the cubic yard and have it delivered to the site; or make your own mixture from portland cement, water, sand and a coarse aggregate; or make a mixture from portland cement, water and sand.

For smaller jobs, use one of the pre-mixes which require only the addition of water. Get a concrete mix, which includes the coarse aggregate, when the patch is large and may have to bear heavy weights. Get a sand mix for smaller patches, cracks and on ordinary surfaces.

Probably the most important step in a concrete project is the "curing" of the material. This means that it must not be allowed to dry naturally, but kept wet so that it can harden to its maximum strength. Curing can take from two to seven days, but it is best to stretch out the curing process as long as possible.

There are many ways to cure concrete. It can be wet down a couple of times a day. It can be covered with burlap or any other material that will keep it damp and at the same time prevent the sun from getting directly to it. Or it can be given a coat of a special compound made for preventing the moisture in the mixture from evaporating too quickly. Remember that the hotter the weather, the faster the concrete mixture will set.

Stretch fabrics popular

COLLEGE STATION—Popular fabrics stretch for action with increasing popularity, variety and availability, says Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Variety is the key with traditional non-stretch fabrics in the action. For example, think stretch corduroy.

Today's stretch fabrics are often created from the spandex fiber blended with others such as nylon or polyester, she points out.

The resulting action fabric usually stretches in both directions and can be styled into fashionable drapable or tighter form-fitting looks.

When selecting ready-made garments or fabrics for homesewing, check that the fabric recovers when stretched, the specialist recommends.

Stretch a short length, about four to six inches or 15 to 20 cm, against a rule or marked length.

After stretching, check that the fabric returned to the same size.

For two-way stretch fabrics, test stretch in both lengthwise and crosswise directions to avoid purchases that will bag or sag out of shape during wear, Ms. Culp adds.

Artist works with wood crafts

By WANDA MOUTON
Lifestyle Editor

A Midland man is reviving the vanishing art of woodcarving.

Larry Petersen, 4405 N. Garfield St., began what he calls "sculpting in wood" about three years ago in Fort Stockton.

He says that he has always enjoyed working with wood. He began experimenting with dead wood in the Fort Stockton area and still gets most of his materials there. His favorite wood is red elm.

He learned the basics in high school, where his first piece was a wood carved dish.

Larry prefers working with wildlife and Western scenes, and has carved owls, eagles, quail, pheasant, ducks, lions, windmills, covered wagons, roadrunners and fish.

He also enjoys sketching "fun" subjects, and has done a 12-legged caterpillar sitting on a toadstool and a turtle with Greek letters carved on the shell.

His work is unusual, done in natural shaped wood pieces. He scrapes a surface to sketch his scene which is done free hand. From there, he carves and chisels the surface. To finish the product, Larry uses stain and paints in natural colors.

The hobby is time-consuming for the young man, who is employed as a traveling switching equipment technician for the telephone company. He estimates that one piece will take about a month to complete, working in his spare time.

He would like to pursue the hobby, however, and may take some art classes.

Time measures marital discord

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — According to research into marital disharmony carried out by a Czech psychiatric institute, the length of time a marriage has been in existence plays a part in the irritations expressed by husbands and wives.

Men who had been married 5-14 years complained most frequently that their wives were: 1) too nervous; 2) always in opposition; 3) too hasty. Men married longer than 15 years said disharmony was caused by their wives being: 1) always in opposition; 2) too hasty;

3) unable to discuss things calmly. Women married 5-14 years complained most frequently that their husbands: 1) do not tell the truth; 2) are insincere; 3) are always in opposition. Wives married more than 15 years listed most frequently dissatisfaction with the fact that the husband: 1) likes to spend time without them; 2) does not tell the truth; 3) is insincere.

Birth defect kit unreliable

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer group urged the government Thursday to restrict the sale of a test kit for detecting serious birth defects in unborn infants, saying improper use of the kit could prompt frightened women to get unnecessary abortions. The Public Citizen Health Research Group, a consumer organization affiliated with Ralph Nader, argued that drug companies wanting to sell the kits should not be granted the unrestricted marketing privileges they seek.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Conscience must be developed

By Midland's
Family Services staff

Recently a psychologist developed a system of exploring the moral values of children by telling them stories and asking them questions. First there was Johnny. He was called to dinner. Unknown to him, behind the door of the dining room is a chair holding 15 cups. As he enters the room, he knocks over the tray and all the cups are broken.

Then there is Billy. He tries to steal some cookies out of a tall cupboard, and in the process knocks over one cup, which breaks. "Which child was naughtier?" the researcher asks. Most of the small children (up to about 5 or 6 years of age) said that Johnny was naughtier. He has broken so many cups. But older and more mature children said that Billy was naughtier, because he had intended to do a wrong thing. Johnny was just unlucky. The older and more mature children were able to judge an event based on the intent of the culprit, rather than the results.

How do children develop this kind of judgment about their own actions and those of others? Does it just develop naturally as they grow older or does it require some kind of stimulation on the part of parent and other influential adults?

Family counselors feel that children consciously and unconsciously learn moral values from their parents and other adults close to them. Babies are not born knowing what they should or shouldn't do. A two-year-old might well carry home an attractive toy from the home of a little friend, without knowing that he'd done anything unacceptable. It's up to the parent to explain, in terms that the youngster can understand, the property rights of others. Obviously, the two-year-old was not stealing.

It takes time for a child to learn how to behave in our society. Fundamentally, the way he can tell acceptable behavior from unacceptable behavior is by his parents' reaction.

In any case, if a youngster does something that is clearly contrary to his usual standards of behavior, the family will want to discover what is causing the change. It is a good idea to deal with a problem as soon as it arises. Once the youngster has gained a reputation as the neighborhood terror, he may feel that he has to live up to his image, and then it is much harder to help him change his ways.

Have you moved lately? If the answer is "yes", whether you realize it or not, you have just endured one of the most stressful occurrences in life. It ranks right up there with divorce and loss of job, etc.

Of course, whether or not you desired to make the move has a lot to do with it. Also, the "quality" of the move can help make it or break it. All you need to raise your adrenalin is a bull mover in your antique china closet!

AND GUESS WHO becomes the shock absorber and tranquilizer for the whole family? Good old Mom. Dad may breeze home, elated about the transfer and promotion or he may happily ask over the phone—as my husband once did, "How would you like to live in St. Paul, Minnesota?" He caught me in a weak moment. I was ironing on an August day in Ohio and the temperature was in the nineties.

Or, he may come home in the depths of depression and wearily force himself to tell you that they really don't need him in that particular position anymore and that they added insult to injury by offering a much lesser responsibility, so he quit. In either situation, it is so very necessary that the wife react in a supportive way and that often necessitates that she sometimes do a snow job even on herself.

THE TRANSFER-PROMOTION move is the easiest because you know where you're going and when. After you call the real estate agent and list the house, you get out the maps, etc., and learn all you can about where you're going, and psyching up the kids (and thereby, yourself) for the change. I often gave thanks for the one dependable, unchanging friend in every city, no matter where we moved—Captain Kangaroo.

The forced job change is traumatic for everyone. You try to maintain a secure feeling for the children, while shaking a little in your own shoes as you write the new resumes. You find yourself reminding one another that "this too shall pass"—and it does—but it often takes its toll on your health.

I OFTEN THOUGHT during our seven moves with the children that it would be so much easier without them, but not so. When they were grown and gone, there was no one I needed to psyche up, no one to get me into the community by way of the schools or the hospital emergency rooms, or to get me acquainted in the neighborhood by way of being introduced as Gretchen's or Bruce's mother, that left me with the identity of "the lady on the corner with the Siamese cat."

There are many ways to combat the "newcomer syndrome" but not everyone is a joiner and, depending on your age and time of life, sometimes you need and enjoy a period of anonymity and solitude. I am enjoying the latter type of lifestyle right now, and agree with Carol Burnett and Beverly Sills, that there comes a time in life when you should feel comfortable in replying to requests by answering, "I've already done that."

Low pay continues for women

By PAUL GLENCHUR
WASHINGTON (LAT) — More American women hold jobs than ever before, but supporters of women's liberation have little reason to celebrate.

Despite their growing proportion in the work force, most women are still employed in jobs with low pay and little status.

A report soon to be published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics concluded that "the largest single occupational group among women today is still the clerical one - stenographers, typists, secretaries - a category that first gained prominence among women in the 1920s and 1930s and continued to grow after World War II."

The bureau's findings were presented Thursday at the annual meeting of the American Statistical Association by Janet L. Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics and coauthor of the report.

The wedding will be held at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 29 at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Baytown.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ross S. Sterling High School in Baytown. She attended Schiller College in Strasbourg, France, and graduated from Texas A&M University with a major in environmental design. She is employed by The Lammers Partnership, Architects, in Baytown.

Brady is a graduate of Robert E. Lee High School in Midland and received a bachelor of science degree in building construction from Texas A&M University. He is employed by J. W. Bateson Co. in Dallas.

ALMON-MYERS

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Almon, 2205 Culver St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanette Wanda, to Gary Reed Myers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Odell Myers of Aspermont.

The couple will exchange wedding vows at 8:30 p.m. Sept. 15 in the First United Methodist Church.

Miss Almon attended the University of Houston and is employed by Southwest Airlines. Her fiancé was graduated from Eastern New Mexico University with a B.S. degree. He is employed by IBM as account manager.

Fatherly advice

Fathers, you will get respect, cooperation, love and positive rapport with your children when you are warm, nurturant, involved and caring.

Also, your sons are more likely to become appropriately masculine and your daughters appropriately feminine, says Patricia Lamson, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors can use a standard test to figure out whether people who have survived heart attacks stand a high risk of suffering a fatal heart seizure, a study shows.

"The results of the test are highly predictive of mortality in the next year (following a heart attack)," a group of Canadian doctors concluded.

The test, called an exercise electrocardiogram, or stress test, was given to heart attack patients before they were discharged from the hospital.

Among people whose tests disclosed particular warning signs of trouble, 27 percent died within a year. However, only 2.1 percent of the others succumbed during the follow-up period.

"If confirmed by others, the results of this study will have important therapeutic implications," the doctors wrote.

The study, conducted at the Montreal Heart Institute, was published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Paul Theroux, one of the researchers, said the people with a high risk of death may be good candidates to participate in studies testing the effectiveness of experimental heart medicines.

Investigate before buying pet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those puppies and kittens in a pet store are irresistible, but before you take one home be sure you know what you're getting into.

Pets take time and attention and some money for food and medical care, so be sure you have the time and resources to cope with them.

It helps to talk to someone who has a pet like the one you are considering to learn its habits and necessary training.

It's a good idea to see at least one parent of the puppy to get an idea of what it will look like when grown. And shop around to compare prices, supplies and animals available.

DEAR HELOISE:

Conversion to the metric system of liters, meters and grams is already in progress, but for the time being we are still involved with our present system of weights and measures.

The hint I would suggest can be used by anyone when needing a guide for measuring the size of something; small parts, hardware, buttons, trim, hobby items, etc.

That dollar bill in your wallet can be a handy measuring tool or a substitute ruler. Longways, it is six inches. Fold it in half and you have three inches, in thirds, one inch. Line up two singles for a foot, or extend one bill twice.

Other examples on the face of the note: The lettering

"United States of America" is four inches, base of numeral '1' in upper corners is one-fourth inch. The short side of the bill measures 2 1/2 inches.

You can make up a list of your own as other items on the bill measure various lengths. You'll always have a quick guide when a ruler would be needed for measuring.

Aloysius J. Stimp
Well, whoop-de-do! Sir, you just saved a lot of us gals — and guys, too, I'll bet — a heap of trouble.

This is one hint we're going to remember, at least till that pesky metric numbering system sticks in our head. — Thanks, pal...
Heloise

POST THIS UP!

DEAR HELOISE:
I save all the "stamps" that book clubs and clearing houses send out (the type you "paste here" for this or that magazine).

Then I use these and any pre-addressed envelopes I get in the mail and my little girl plays post office.

Also, you might try wrapping a few small boxes in brown paper. Keep all this in a paper sack on the top shelf of a closet.

It's a real rainy-day saver.

HOW TO LICK THE DUST!
DEAR HELOISE:
We were cleaning house the other day, and I was asked to dust the furniture, but discovered we were out of polish. My mom told me to put a few drops of baby oil on the dust cloth. It worked wonderfully. The oil picked the dust up very well and the furniture was nice and shiny.

TIP FROM THE HEAD CHEF
DEAR HELOISE:
I am 13 and I do a lot of baking. I came up with this hint when making rice cereal bars.
When you get to the part which says: "Press into pan with buttered spatula or waxed paper," I use the wrapper from the margarine stick. Just press it onto the bars with the butter side down. It never sticks and the butter rubs off on the top of the bars and makes them taste just a little better.
David Kortenkamp

HINTS FROM HIM

DEAR HELOISE:
I get the job of helping my wife tie quilts with yarn and find I must thread the darned needle many times.

To make the job easier and quicker, I use a small thin wire, make a loop and pass it through the eye of the needle.

Then thread the yarn through the wire loop and pull it back through the eye of the needle. Works very easy — no 'licking' the yarn when trying to thread the needle.

The garbage bags have wire twists — just peel off the extra paper and use this wire.
Carl Anderson

WATCH YOUR STEP!

DEAR HELOISE:
I feel I must tell you what we were taught in a class for people who are short of breath when climbing stairs.

As you raise one foot to a higher step, draw in a breath and as you raise yourself up, exhale slowly through your mouth.

The same holds true when opening heavy doors — draw in a breath, then as you pull (or push as the case may be), exhale slowly through the mouth.

It's amazing how much easier it makes the efforts. Hope this will help someone who finds these things difficult.
Ruby Flint

TRICK OF THE WEEK

DEAR HELOISE:
I needed to get a long cord off the floor. Not liking the messy look a rubber band made, I found a hosiery egg.

I notched the egg, rolled up the excess wire, stuffed it in carefully — don't have any pinched wires — and capped the egg.

With both ends (plugs) outside the notch, it plugged in just at the wall.
Very neat!
Mary Coons

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
When dressing toddlers, parents should ask children for the right or left hand, instead of just "your hand."

Children would learn to distinguish the difference between right and left at a much earlier age; also, the same idea could be applied to colors.

As an example, "Would you like a red apple," or "You may wear the blue shirt."

Prince Valiant IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
By Hal Foster

Our Story: "SO, WENCH, YOU'D DRAW A KNIFE ON ME? YOU WILL PAY FOR YOUR THREAT WITH YOUR HAND!" AND THE FALSE KNIGHT DRAWS HIS SWORD.

THE SQUEAKY VOICE OF GALAN IS HEARD: "HOLD YOUR SWORD, WOMAN BULLY! YOU WILL NEED IT, FOR HERE COME LORD VANOC AND SIR GAWAIN!"

THE SECOND NOBLE THUG STRIKES GALAN TO THE GROUND, DRAWS HIS SWORD AND FACES TOWARD THE SOUND OF GALLOPING HORSES. HE CANNOT SEE TOO WELL BECAUSE OF THE BANDAGES COVERING THE WOUNDS LADY ENID HAD INFLICTED.

LORD VANOC PAYS NO THOUGHT TO THE TWO ARMED THUGS BUT RACES TO HIS WIFE'S SIDE. SHE HAD FAINTED GRACEFULLY AND SIR GAWAIN HAS TO CLEAN UP THE MESS.

THEY FIND THE INNKEEPER AND HIS WIFE WANDERING IN THE RAIN. THEY ARE BROUGHT TO THE INN AND, AMID THE WRECKAGE, WERE ABLE TO SERVE A DINNER.

BEFORE THE TWO FALSE KNIGHTS WERE BURIED, THEY WERE SEARCHED AND ENOUGH MONEY WAS FOUND TO PAY FOR THE DAMAGE TO THE INN. THEN THE HOMEWARD JOURNEY IS RESUMED.

GALAN IS PLEASED AT HIS NEW HOME. THERE ARE FIELDS AND MARSH FOR HAWKING, A TROUT STREAM, AND, IN THE DISTANCE, A DEEP FOREST. WHAT MORE COULD HE HOPE FOR?
