It wasn't all work Wednesday on the first day of school in Midland. Happily, for this group of boys at Emerson Elementary School, recess offered a chance to catch up on summer's events and renew friendships. An estimated 13,981 students showed up for school in Midland Wednesday. That total represents a drop of 475 pupils from last year's first-day

figure, but school officials said today tney expect an enrollment of 15,000 within the next two weeks. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

The Texas State Legislature easily could be revised into an annual session, rather than the current biannual sessions, Midland's two legislators agreed Wednesday.

The two — State Rep. Tom Craddick and State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson - reviewed the 66th Legislature's accomplishments during a dinner meeting of the Midland League of Women Voters.

Texas' Constitution calls for a 140day session every other year, but Craddick said it is feasible for the State Legislature to meet every year. The off-year sessions would be just to Snelson agreed, saying the legislators now are trying to second-guess the rate of inflation and how it will affect prices two years hence in setting up a budget that won't be reworked for another two years.

Craddick remarked the Legislature passed a $22 billion budget which Gov. Bill Clements signed after vetoing some items.

The two solons reviewed bills concerning the prison and justice systems, welfare, schools, county powers and tax reform.

Carter hears energy experts

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter, campaigning for his energy program, said there is a "startling new realization" by Americans that the energy crisis is real and that it can be solved.

After two hours of listening to and occasionally questioning panelists at a seminar on new energy technologies at the Georgia Institute of Technology, the president said the cheapest and best way to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil is through conservation.

"This is an area that has not been fully explored," he said.

Carter said he had conferred with members of Congress by telephone in the past few days while he was at Camp David, Md. The legislators "almost invariably say there is a startling new realization (among their constituents) that we do have an energy problem and that it can be solved if we all work

The president asked a few questions but mostly listened patiently through presentations by energy experts on such topics as coal synthetics, advances in automotive technology and other energy issues.

Later, while his wife Rosalynn toured a solar tower on the Georgia Tech campus, Carter met with Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson and other Democratic mayors about urban problems.

During the symposium, Edward Jefferson, a senior vice president of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., told the president that most industries have met or surpassed conservation goals established by the government four years ago. Carter asked if such steps had been profitable. "Yes, sir," Jefferson

The president, whose energy proposals include incentives for development of substitutes for natural gas, asked Linden for his best estimate of the availability of unconventional gas by 1990.

Former Midlander may be named to utility panel

AUSTIN (AP) - University of Texas finance lecturer Henry Moak Rollins apparently will be appointed to the Texas Public Utility Commission, the Austin American-Statesman said today.

Before becoming a lecturer at UT-Austin in 1973, Rollins was a products engineering specialist in the design of oil well drilling tools for Hughes Tool Co. and vice president for engineering and manufacturing of the Drilco Oil Tools Co. in Midland.

The newspaper said Gov. Bill Clements' office has let it be known to Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, that the governor is considering Rollins for "It was confirmed to us that he is who they are considering," said Nancy Williams, an aide in Dogget's office Wednesday. Rollins was not available for comment.

discussed the housing loan program and definitely will try to institute it in Opposition to the program came at a meeting last Friday between local financiers and members of the Midland Housing Finance Corp., a local non-profit organization set up to administer the mortgage program.

The loan program would involve the corporation selling about $25 million bonds in the name of the city of Midland. The money would be administered through lending institutions to applicants applying for a home loan.

Under the program, the underwriting firm said at that Friday meeting the loans will carry about 8 percent interest - compared to 11 percent today - and will be available to low and middle income families who meet the criteria.

Marcum told chamber members that "local institutions are the ones who initiated the city (council) to get involved in the program. Through their urging, we got involved.

"The City Council feels strongly we have definite housing needs in Midland," Marcum continued. "To expand our industrial base, housing is needed. The council feels there is no money available for this type of hous-

"Unless this (loan program) is done, we're going to be left out and we won't have housing for people coming into Midland," he added.

The councilman said the loan money would go for houses that cost about $25,000 to $60,000. Applicants who qualify can have a household income from $33,000 down to as low as

After the meeting, Marcum said the city needs only one lending institution

Answer Line...

By Franchelle Moore

Could you give me the address of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington, D.C. — Becky

ANSWER: We understand why you turned to Answer Line for this information.

It seemed plausible to contact the George Mahon Federal Building in Midland to have a U.S. agency member check a directory of governmental agencies and departments. Well, guess this was not the most logical supposition after all, because after involved discussions with three such departments, such a directory did not exist in Midland - maybe in offices in

Next, came the idea of locating a Washington, D.C., telephone directory, because, surely the immigration service would be included. What next seemed logical? Checking with the telephone company for the directory. No, dead end, until a phone company representative remembered the Midland County Public Library has more directories available than the phone

It is the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, 425 Eye St. NW. Washington, D.C. 20536. Mrs. Odom not only had the address - here is the

I have been in cities where all three have all-night shows. We pay good cable money and don't get anything worth looking at. If we could get Channel 8 instead of 13 that would be better than we have. - L.A.W.

P.O. Box 1650, Midland 79702

ANSWER: Possibly, since writing your letter to Answer Line, you noticed the front page article on Midland's cable business by Staff Writer David Campbell. The article was published Aug. 19.

Campbell's story mentioned that one of the misunderstandings in Midland about cable television concerns limitations when it comes to programming on all cable TV channels.

Tom Mixon, owner of a Midland cable television service, said in the article, "Midland is allowed by the Federal Communications Commission to have one independent station (Channel 11) and one education station (Channel 13)." This ruling applies to major markets only.

In explaining the absence of programming from Atlanta or Chicago, Mixon went on to say that this falls in the major market category.

Stanton can provide any amount of programming to its consumers, he said, because it does not come under the major market heading.

Mixon said they could sacrifice the Dallas-Fort Worth channel for the Atlanta channel, but do not because many of their customers are from the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Seems that contracts with various microwave companies would not allow cable TV companies to drop a station and add another one. Here's a possible bright spot for you, though. Mixon predicted the FCC may change the current rule in January 1980 to allow certain major markets to have additional independent stations. He also said Midlanders will pay no additional amount for cable service should that occur.

Hurricane David leaves devastation

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) -Hurricane David roared past the southern coast of Puerto Rico today after cutting a path of destruction through three smaller islands, leveling houses, flattening crops and leaving untold numbers of islanders

Heavy seas and gale winds battered Puerto Rico's southern shore, flooding low-lying areas and forcing the evacuation of some seashore residents from Ponce, the island's second-largest city

U.S. National Weather Service officials, calling David "one of the great hurricanes of this century," said the storm had gathered force overnight. but had veered slightly south. They predicted it would pass 80 miles south of Ponce at middey

French authorities reported 12 persons injured on Guadeloupe and 15 on Martinique when the storm struck Wednesday, and said there was copsiderable damage on the two French Caribbean islands, including severe damage to the banana crop.

There were unconfirmed reports from ham radio operators of heavy casualties and devastation on the third island. Dominica.

Gale winds, gusting to more than 50 mph, sent patio roofs sailing in beach areas in Ponce and San Juan, reportedly injuring six persons in San Juan's Condado section

Forecasters said the storm was centered at latitude 16.4 degrees north and 65.5 degrees west, moving westward at 15 mph at 9 a.m. At daybreak, David passed about 80 miles south of St. Croix, the southernmost of the U.S. Virgin Islands

Dr. Jose Colon, chief meteorologist in San Juan, said the storm's concentrated center and southward course might spare Puerto Rico's south coast from heavy wind damage. Forecasters predicted David would move on to Cabo Beata, the southernmost point of the Dominican Repub-

SAN ANTONIO - An ill-fated marijuana smuggling mission to Mexico resulted in the decapitation of a Mexican citizen hit by the wing of an airplane piloted by a Midland man, a government witness has testified in the federal marijuana trial of two West Texas men.

On trial in federal court are Pecos oil man-banker John R. Dorr and his associate, John Grant Passmore of Royalty. They are charged with of conspiring to import about 960 pounds of marijuana from Mexico into the United States.

Dorr, 40, an independent oil operator who maintained offices in Midland, was president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association in 1974.

Gregory Mark Halteman, one of eight persons named in the alleged conspiracy, related details concerning the gory accident to a federal court jury

The 27-year-old Halteman said prosecutors allowed him to plead guilty to a misdemeanor marijuana possession charge in exchange for his testimony at the Dorr-Passmore trial.

The Mexican citizen was killed in April 1978 by a plane flown by Terry Wayne Fagan, a young Midland pilot and a former Fort Worth policeman, Halteman said.

Fagan is the government's star witness in the conspiracy case.

Halteman said that when the airplane attempted to land on a little-used Mexican highway, the right wing crashed into a horse drawn cart on which the victim

There's no way to win'

Dr. John J. McKetta, noted professor at The University of Texas at Austin and a recognized authority on energy matters, explained to members of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association meeting at Houston recently, why the United States will not achieve energy self-sufficiency.

It isn't a very pleasant subject to contemplate, but Dr. McKetta tells it like it is.

He has spoken in Midland on numerous occasions and is well and favorably known throughout the Permian Basin Empire.

Speaking on the subject "Perspective on Energy," Dr. McKetta told the newspaper publishers. "There is no way to win the energy game! No way to have energy self-sufficiency or to decrease the high cost of imported energy during your lifetime. I predict that by 1985, even if the public forces government to remove all the senseless, inflexible regulations we now have, the United States is going to have horrible sacrifices energy-wise.

"But we have to try to force changes...We must pass sensible rules now.

He went on to explain that the energy story is a very complex one and cannot be told in its entirety in one talk or article. He did say, however, that it is well known that "we are in a terrible energy mess, but only a few people realize there is no solution during our lifetime. By this I mean that we will not have the luxurious use of energy during the next 35 to 40 years that we have today. Contrary to the accusations coming from Washington, there is no conspiracy unless there is a secret conspiracy between Congress and the Middle East. This country is in trouble. We are just not going to make it."

And if this doesn't bring citizens of this great land to full realization of the energy crisis, we don't

The speaker said most of the people who understand the energy problem are disappointed, confused and appalled with President Carter's so-called energy plan. and disappointed with the mysterious, seemingly anti-U.S. voting record of the U.S. Congress in energy policies. Present policies of energy pricing and over-regulation of industry will spell disaster for the U.S. in less than 10 years, be said.

"Many wishful thinkers," he continued. "have been led to behere we will have energy sufficiency by 1985. I predict that at the current rate of energy demand graowth, the U.S. will have a severe recession brought about by the lack of domestic energy by 1985. In fact there will be an energy shortage in the U.S. by 1985 that will make your hair curl Most of this is because of the shortsightedness and lethargy of our Congress in energy mat-

He said that sometimes it appears that this country's politicians and environmentalists are linked together in a plot to bring America to eventual disaster by making domestic energy expansion impossible. He is firm in his belief that the problems of higher taxes, price controls, threat of excess profit penalties, embargoes on leasing or operating in favorable coastal areas, and rigid. excessive environmental requirements serve only as roadblocks in efforts to explore for new reserves or to build new facilities

He predicted also that the price of OPEC oil and oil products will reach $25 a barrel by 1985

"How in the world could the wealthiest and most powerful nation in the world get boxed into a corner like this?" he asked. "The reasons include the senseless, inflexible governmental regulations and the extreme demands of the environmentalists.

Dr. McKetta says in his bookiet. "Why the U.S. Will Not Achieve Energy Self-Sufficiency," that in order to meet the tremendous energy demands from a self-suff cient energy base by the year 2000. "we would have to do the follow ing and much more:

"Find 10 more Prudhoe Bays or four more states of Texas and produce them to capacity; ban all new cars larger than 40 horsepower; force a 20 percent improvement in building heating systems: force a 15 percent improvement in energy efficiency by industry: force a 15 percent improvement in efficiency of converting electrical power; totally develop all offshore oil and gas reserves of both the east and west coasts: increase coal production by a factor of 3: convert all of California. Montana and Idaho to geothermal steam electric power; double the present rate of hydroelectric power generation; produce 2 million barrels per day of shale oil by the year 2000, and add one conventional atomic power plant every two weeks from now to the year

ART BUCHWALD

New 'ideas' to save nation from oil crisis reported

WASHINGTON - Every time you pack up the newspapers you read of some newfangled thing that is going to save us from the oil crisis. One day it's methane made from garbage, the next day it's hot springs underneath Montana - then it's ocean waves that can be tamed, and then there are, of course, energy-producing windmills. can't keep up with all of it, but Great." I said. "When will they start making it?

Right now the price is too high. A paint of Faberge after-shave will cost you $25, but if the OPEC countries keep raising their rates the price will soon be competitive.

A few days later he came back. Well it's all over for the Arabs. A geologist in Colorado has just developed a method of squeezing oil out of asphalt roads. He was able to get one quart of crude out of a mile of asphalt. He figures with all the asphalt roads in America we should be self-sufficient by 1989, and we can tell Iran to go to bell

AT Buchwald

"I knew they'd come up with some-thing. Wait a minute! If they dig up all the asphalt roads in the United States there will be nothing for the cars to drive on.

Exactly! That's where the big conservation savings will come. He's just applied for a grant from the Department of Energy. To continue his research?"

"No, for ball money. They arrested him for digging up a stretch of U.S. Highway 70

I didn't hear from Carbuncle for a week. Then he called me excitedly on the phone

There is a man in New Jersey who has perfected a system to make coal out of gold. One ton of gold will give you one ton of soft-burning coal.

'Great! How does it work? "Once you get the gold you put it in a blast furnace of 1,500 degrees. This produces a gas, which you siphon off. The residue at the bottom of the furnace hardens and looks just like coal You scrape it up and shape it in pellets. A ton of it can get you through the winter. The beauty is that coal made from gold doesn't pollute the

'It sounds like the answer," I said A few days later the phone rang again. Carbuncle said. "You been watching television?

"There's a guy on the Today Show who runs his car on Tabasco sauce. He says he mixes three gallons of Tabasco with one gallon of no-lead. and a tank of fuel lasts him a month

"Tabasco does have a kick to it." I

You bet your sweet life it does. He told Tom Brokaw all the oil companies know about it, but won't use it because they're afraid it will cut into Yesterday Carbuncle called again. The energy crisis is over. A 14-yearold Boy Scout in Pasadena rubbed two sticks together and managed to get a fire out of it. The National Academy of Science duplicated the experiment and it works. This country has enough sticks to light every home in the United States for 2,000 years.

'Yeh, but what do you burn after the fire gets started? I asked.

Carbuncle replied, "Furniture. It's cheaper now than heating oil.

Bert Lance is confident of future

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - There is a quiet despair inside the White House over the political backfires that are expioding in President Carter's face. Not the least cause for dismay is the approaching trial of Bert Lance on the eve of the president's re-election campaign

The shrapnel from the trial could riddle Carter, who borrowed heavily from Lance's bank and then brought him to the White House to manage the federal budget. Yet by outward appearances, both men are unperturbed by the turn of events.

The president seems to possess an inner mechanism that detached goes on clicking and calculating amid the turmoil around him. Anyone but Jimmy Carter, facing the odds against his re-election, might anticipate defeat. Lance told us. "But Jimmy Carter just will not be defeated." said his friend "He is the most determined man I have ever met in my whole life. The embattled Bert appears to be equally unbowed - even cordially. defiant - over his criminal indictment. We sought him out to solicit his comments, having written some of the stories that led to his indictment He was unreachable when the stories went to press

But our associate Clark Mollenhoff. finally found Lance in his lair at Eagle's Nest, his country estate, in a wooded area not far from Calhoun. Ga. Lance filled his office chair, appearing even more massive than his actual dimensions. He is a handsome man, in a bull-necked, barrel-chested way, with a bluff, breezy manner. Above all, he was affable. He had cordiality that characterized his haleyon days in the White House. He told us he is proud of his past confident of the future and secure in his family. By his lights, he will be acquitted of bank fraud charges: Jimmy Carter will rebound in the polis; and God is still in His heaven.

He assailed the Jusagainst him - a former friend and business associate named Billy Lee Campbell - who now claims he was the fall guy and took the rap to protect Lance A share of the $250,000 that Campbell embezzied, he now swears wound up in Lance's pocket.

Lance replied that, on the contrary he was the one who reported Campbell's embezzlement to the Justice Department in July 1975. Lance called Campbell a "malicious liar" and accused the prosecutors of holding back witnesses from the grand jury. These witnesses, Lance contended, could have testified that Campbell had told them Lance was

There was no good fight between Democrats and Republicans. Indeed the major parties and issues seemed to be put out of mind. That's why it is refreshing to contemplate the 1979 Libertarian National Convention soon to be held in Los Angeles Where both parties seem becalmed

The Libertarians firmly subscribe to the doctrine that "that government is best which governs least." They favor abolition of all victimless crime laws, elimination of all government interference in the economy (and establishment of strictly free-trade), and a non-interventionist U.S. foreign policy. Simply put, Libertarians want the government to leave them and the rest of the citizenry alone.

The best 'man' for a job may be a woman

Reappraisal of women's role becoming evident in Midland

by RICHARD MASON News Staff

Sometimes the best 'man' for the job is a woman, even if the work is considered a 'man's' job.

Female faces are appearing slowly in occupations once considered the exclusive territory of men, both in labor and skilled work.

While most of the faces remain predominantly male, the reassessment of women's value - and role - in society is beginning to permeate the Midland area much as it has nationwide.

And that reassessment is evident in the local work

Women are employed locally as painters, carpenters, stockhands, investigators and utility workers. On occasion, there are women roustabouts in the

Do they experience any problems because of their sex? How do their male co-workers relate to them? Four Midland women took time to reflect on those questions. The consensus was not surprising. Each affirmed the belief that women work as well - and sometimes better - than men, even in those roles once considered primarily male.

Each of the women possessed a high degree of independence and individuality.

Beth Ashworth was the first. She appeared for an interview on the floor of the Chaparral Center at Midland College shortly before Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus began it's first performance in Midland two weeks ago.

Ms. Ashworth is a clown. She has a round cherubic face - even in circus make up - and brown sparkling eyes.

At the age of 18, she is confident and exuberant about her job and her future.

"When I tell people I'm a clown, they usually don't believe me," she said.

On stage, the Houston native (whose mother, Linda Robinson, resides in Midland) appears sexless. She's a neuter clown. But humor sometimes transcends sexual barriers.

MS. ASHWORTH FIRST BECAME interested in clowning when she was a child. Unlike others, she pursued her fantasy, attending clown school through the circus. She was one of 12 women in a class of 52

Ten years ago, that would not have been possible, she said. While women were relegated to the traditional roles of dancing girls, acrobats and an occasional trapeze act, clowns were always male. Ringling Brothers circus hired its first female clown nine years ago and women have been clowns with the circus ever since, she said. 'The odds may be against you, but if you work at it, you can get a position," she said. Clowns advance on their skills, not on their sexual characteristics, she said. For the most part, Ms. Ashworth is nonplussed by her life in show business. "It's not that different from any other job," she

And life on the road has been an education for her, she added.

"It made me grow up a little quicker," she ex-

LaVera Carruthers is a pioneer of sorts. Tired of the money she was making as an operator at Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., she decided to try a better-paying job in a company position normally held by men.

She's now a PBX installer. PBX stands for private branch exchange, and Ms. Carruthers has been installing the systems for the last six years. In the mornings, she picks up her assignments, packs her truck and begins servicing customers.

At times, she has worked on utility poles - once an exclusively male pursuit. "It's a little scary at first," Ms. Carruthers said,

"but after you've done it for awhile, it's like standing on the ground."

She brings that same spirit to her position. She once wanted to show other women in the company that the better-paying jobs were open to them. Now she takes pride when other women approach her and explain her example encouraged them to seek another position.

BOTH WOMEN FREQUENTLY find themselves in contact with men through the nature of their occupations. Both say the problems have been

"With a man, you've got to convince them you can do it," Sue Carson explained. "That's the hardest job convincing the man."

LaVera Carruthers said most men are just curious. Sometimes they ask her about what she is doing as a technical test. Some even offer advice. Does she take it?

"It all depends," she said. "If it's good advice I

Ms. Carson said there are also advantages in being a female in her line of work.

LaVera Carruthers once had a screwdriver taken from her by a man opposed to women performing laborious work. He said she could retrieve the screwdriver from him personally. "I haven't gone back," she said.

"They're all like big brothers," she said.

LISA HALE, 18, IS A small, petite woman with long, blonde pigtails and clear blue eyes. She works as a stockhand at Southwestern Livestock Auction east of Midland. She is the only female hand that works the pens. Dressed in jeans and a cowboy shirt and hidden beneath a large, dusty straw hat, she looks out of place among the lolling cows and unshaven alley None of that bothers her, however.

"I like the work because it's outdoors. I like animals, and I've been accustomed to hard work for Each day she - like her male counterparts faces the prospect of injury from an irate animal. 'You worry a lot. But if I'm gonna get hurt, I'm gonna get hurt. You've just got to take it in stride,"

There have been occasions where she was hurt. "A heifer and me had an argument over a gate that was unlatched. I guess it was a draw. She didn't get out." Ms. Hale said. But the heifer butted the gate against Lisa's nose, causing a minor injury.

LIKE HER BIG CITY counterparts, Ms. Hale said she sometimes had minor trouble with the male coworkers on her job.

But with the support of the older stockhands, the situation is usually under control, she said. Then, too, the men sometimes swear, but Ms. Hale said she closes her ears to it. "I was raised around boys," she said. "A lot of men were raised as gentlemen and feel uncomfortable around me. I just explain I'm used to it and it doesn't bother me in the least."

Ms. Hale said working cows was something that had to be acquired. "It takes a lot of practice and a lot of learning."

To hear her tell it, working around cattle is no worse than working around men.

Beth Ashworth in her 'work' uniform awaits final floor preparations before the opening act of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus. Woman have been clowns with the circus for nine years, she said.

Lisa Hale says the hard, outdoor work in stock pens suits her. She also enjoys working with animals. While Mrs. Hale is the only female stockhand at Southwest Cattle Auction, she said ranchers' wives traditionally have helped out with the stock work.

Smith said the agreement is subject to approval by the state Public Service Commission, a federal judge and the Justice Department. The latter has a lawsuit pending against other defendants in the case.

Corporate defendants - Florida Power Corp., Aminoil and Charter Oil - agreed to refund $4.5 million, Smith said without revealing how the sum would be divided.

The rest would be paid by Raymond F. Granlund@who was sentenced last Friday to three years in prison for his part on the scheme, Smith said.

Smith safd he was optimistic an additional $1 million can be recovered from other companies and individuals involved

BOND ISSUE: SEWAGE AND WATER

As a result of the recent rapid growth of Midland, and its anticipated future growth, voters will be asked to express their opinion on a $16 million bond issue on Tuesday, September 4. These funds will be used for the improvement and upgrading of sewage and water facilities, street improvements, and construction and renovation of city-owned facilities.

FACTS:

- · Midland has already experienced a near peak capacity of 32 million gallons of water usage in one day - dangerously close to the maximum available.
- If Midland is to continue to grow, these services must be expanded.
- $3.6 million of the bond issue will be for increased sewage treatment facilities - estimated adequate until the year 2000.
- $4.2 million is for water system improvements that will take care of the estimated needs of Midland until 1990 or 1995.
- A 10% rate increase will become effective in October to take care of present operational costs.
- With approval of these revenue bonds no rate increase will be required until 1983, and as revenue bonds, no new tax will be created.

The Citizens Committee urges all Midlanders to vote for continued growth and prosperity for Midland by voting YES to the issues on Tuesday, September 4.

IRA and KEOGH Retirement Plans at First Savings are the sure way to build for a secure retirement, and get a tax break at the same time.

With an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at First Savings you can save for the future at the impressive rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). Deduct whatever you save - up to $1500 - from your gross income. And defer every penny in taxes on your IRA until you withdraw it, normally after retiring. Then, you'll probably have less income and possibly be in a lower tax bracket. (NOTE: There are severe penalties for early withdrawals.)

Here's an example of what an IRA can do for you. If you start an IRA at age 30, and deposit the maximum of $1500 per year until age 65, at the current interest rate, your IRA will be worth over $300,000, That's a tidy sum to start retirement, if you want to retire that young. By the way, your IRA is in addition to standard social security benefits. But remember, the deadline is the date your tax return is due in order to get your full tax deduction.

A Keogh Plan works much the same as an IRA except that it is designed for the self-employed individual, whereas the IRA is designed for the individual not covered by a pension or retirement plan. A Keogh Plan permits an annual deposit of up to $7500. With a Keogh Plan, you get the same tax advantages and interest rate as an IRA. However, the deadline for starting a Keogh is December the 31st, and you can make your final deposit on the day you file your taxes.

So stop by the First Savings offices downtown or San Miguel Square and let the "FISCAL FITNESS PEOPLE" show you the sure way to save for your retirement. It's getting later than you think . . .

Pilots escape injury in crash

BROWNFIELD, Texas (AP) — An Air Force inspection team has been deployed to the site of a jet crash where two Reese Air Force Base pilots narrowly escaped fiery deaths.

A T-37 trainer jet skidded off a practice runway near Brownfield and caught fire Wednesday following a 40-mile early morning flight from Reese. located northwest of Lubbock.

Capt. Guy A. Woolman of Bluemont, Va. and Lt. Michael T. Gannon of Redlands, Calif. escaped injury, according to Bill Tynan, Reese spokesman.

A preliminary investigation showed the jet hit on the Terry County Air Force Auxiliary Landing Strip and skidded about 1,000 feet before coming to rest on a broken landing gear. Both pilots escaped the craft just before it burst into flames, Tynan said.

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) - Indian activist Russell Means vowed the Black Hills are not for sale as Sioux tribal leaders met to discuss a proposed $105 million settlement for the land Means called "our graveyard, our church, the center of our universe and the birthplace of our people."

"This is where our ancestors are buried," Means told the tribal chairmen gathered here Wednesday for a two-day conference. "It is everything we hold sacred and dear, and this is the reason it is not for

Under the Fort Laramie Treaty of 1868, the Sioux were guaranteed the Black Hills in perpetuity. But gold was discovered there and nine years later the Indians were told to give it up or starve.

The proposed settlement was $17.5 million, but in June the U.S. Court of Claims awarded interest for the past 102 years, bringing the total to $105 million, reportedly the largest Indian claim settlement on

U.S., Canada fighting tuna war

SEATTLE (AP) - Albacore tuna - the white, most expensive grade of tuna in your supermarket are swimming in the midst of a fishing rights squabble between the United States and Canada.

Although both nations maintain a 200-mile fishing control limit off their shores, the United States doesn't regulate the harvest of the migratory albacore beyond 12 miles.

However, Canada does control albacore fishing within its entire 200-mile limit, and eight American fishing boats were seized this week about 60 miles off the West Coast of Vancouver Island.

The captains posted $5,000 bond on each boat and were released pending another court appearance in February.

XIAN, China (AP) — Vice President Walter Mon-dale marveled today at one of the great archeological finds of the century, the underground army of Chin Shih Huang Ti, China's first unifying emperor who lived more than 2,000 years ago.

Emerging from the earth in 11 files, just as they were assembled before being dispatched on a mission of conquest, the life-size, terra-cotta figures of soldiers, horses and attendants struck the onlooker with the chill of realism.

"Absolutely incredible," Mondale said after threading his way through the labyrinth of men, horses and retainers with their war chariots. "This has got to be one of the greatest archeological finds

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An FBI photographer has testified he hid behind mirrored glass in the surveillance van while taking pictures of a meeting between Fort Worth industrialist Cullen Davis and informant David McCrory last summer.

George Ridgley told jurors Wednesday that photos were shot through reflective windows in the van that sat less than 100 feet from where Davis and McCrory discussed mass murder.

Defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes planned to continue cross-examination of Ridgley today, and prosecutors indicated they would call their star witness, McCrory, to the stand next.

McCrory had been expected to testify Wednesday, but in a last minute change of plans, Assistant District Attorney Jack Strickland called on Ridg-

Chamber hears about hospital brain scanner

A neurological computerized tomographic scanner valued at more than $300,000 has been in operation about 3½ weeks at Midland Memorial Hospital, the Midland Chamber of Commerce was told Wednesday by two physicians.

Dr. William P. Trotter and Dr. William McGavran, a neurosurgeon, explained the machine can quickly determine problems in the brain that normally would involve long, complicated tests.

Called a CT Scanner, the machine works quickly in determining a stroke, tumor, trauma or hydrocephalus, Dr. McGavran said.

"It can give a more definite diagnosis (than other tests) in about 15 to 20 minutes," he added.

For example, McGavran said, accident victims with severe head injuries can be diagnosed quickly as to whether or not surgery is needed and if so, what MMH currently has a certificate of need from the state to do head and neck scans. With some slight alterations and reprogramming of the computer, it could be capable of doing complete body scans, the physicians said.

But, Dr. Trotter said, this would require a certificate of need and the hospital will wait a while before applying for it.

In other business, the chamber directors were told that Midland Center, a convention center under construction in the downtown sector, is ahead of schedule. Completion date has been moved up from January to Oct. 15.

Ed Hagen of the legislative study committee announced an appreciation luncheon for two local legislators will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.in. Sept. 26 in Midland College Chaparral Center.

To be honored are State Rep. Tom Craddick, at Republican, and State Sen. Pete Snelson, a Demo-Hagen added that the barbecue luncheon will be a non-partisan affair. John Ingram advised the chamber that the first two vehicles for MidTran should arrive in Midland between Nov. 1-15. MidTran is a public transportation system which should begin around the first of

An editor for the chamber's new magazine has been selected, said Joe Kloesel, chamber president. Harvey Landers of Casper, Wyo., will be in charge of the publication, the first issue of which should appear in November.

Jaycees to operate highway rest stop

Midland Jaycees will be manning a rest stop, complete with refreshments, on Interstate 20 during the Labor Day weekend, according to Jim Pett,

Members of the organization will begin manning the Fred Wemple Memorial Rest Stop on the west bound lane of I-20 about 6 p.m. Friday. They are scheduled to close shop at 6 p.m. Monday.

Pett said the Jaycees are trying to provide an opportunity for about 1,000 drivers to stop and relax while while traveling

By setting up the rest stop, Pett said his group hopes to reduce accidents and save lives by reducing driver fatigue. "There is no way to estimate the value of the service or the number of lives saved. But one life saved will make it all worth while," Pett

Refreshments, donated by local merchants, to be served include soft drinks, coffee and cookies.

About 36 Jaycees and their spouses are slated to

The idea has become a national project. State chairman is Dr. Billy Cook of Midland.

Pett said last year about 1,300 people stopped at the Midland rest area. These travelers were from all but three of the 48 continental United States. The chairman said he doesn't expect there to be an increase in travelers this year because of the gasoline prices and shortage.

Two men charged with murder of Mountbatten

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Two acknowledged expert on time bomb members of the Provisional wing of mechanisms. McGirl is an unmarried the Irish Republican Army - one regarded as a time bomb expert were charged today with the murder of Earl Mountbatten. They showed no emotion but waved to friends and relatives as they were led away to jail cells to be held for a special court hearing Oct. 2.

Police identified the suspects in the bombing that blew apart the 79-yearold war he ro's fishing boat as Francis McGirl, 24, and Thomas McMahon, 31, and said they lived in counties in the Irish Republic adjoining the bor-der with Northern Ireland.

McMahon, a married man with one child, is an upholsterer, but security sources said they regard him as an farmer. His uncle, John Joe McGirl, was at one time one of the top six men on the Provisionals' Council, its top policy-making body.

Neither suspect showed any reaction in the tiny courtroom as the charge was read out that "on Aug. 27, in Donegal Bay in Mullaghmore, County Sligo, they murdered Lord Louis Mountbatten contrary to public

The two were flanked by policemen, and the suspects' lawyers were present but said nothing during the 41/2-minute proceeding.

McGirl sat expressionless, wearing a leather jacket and an open-necked shirt. Behind him was McMahon, who wore a parka-style jacket, also with an open-necked shirt.

As they were led by to the cells afterward, each waved to friends and relatives among a small band of spectators in the court.

The two suspects arrived at the court in a police van escorted front and rear by army Land Rovers and with sirens blaring. The convoy was driven at high speed through the streets of Dublin and screeched to a halt in front of the court building.

Troops wearing flak jackets and carrying automatic weapons leaped from their vehicles and formed a guard in front of the courthouse as the police van was driven into an enclosed courtyard adjoining the building.

Civilians were barred from the immediate vicinity and everyone entering the court was closely searched. The court is in a side street in West Dublin and is used exclusively for anti-terrorist cases.

The Irish government already had offered a $225,000 reward for information leading to Mountbatten's killers.

McGirl and McMahon were picked up Monday morning driving toward Dublin from the west of Ireland shortly before a powerful bomb ripped apart Mountbatten's 29-foot fishing boat in Donegal Bay, on the northwest coast. Police sources said the two men had traces of nitroglycerine and sea water in their clothing.

The bomb, which the Irish Republican Army said it set off, killed the World War II hero and three others. Several hours later and 95 miles to the east in Northern Ireland, 18 British soldiers were killed in a double bombing, the heaviest troop toll in a decade of violence in the British-controlled province.

Mountbatten's body was to be flown to London today, along with the bodies of his 14-year-old grandson and his older daughter's mother-in-law. The daughter, her husband and their other twin son were recovering in a hospital in Sligo from the injuries they received in the blast, which also killed a local teen-ager...

Mountbatten's funeral on Sept. 5 at Westminister Abbey is expected to bring together the largest assemblage in Britain of royalty and foreign dignitaries since the funeral of Sir

Market costs up, despite lower prices for meats

The Associated Press

August brought a little bit of relief at the supermarket meat counter, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey that showed widespread pre-Labor Day sales on barbecue favorites like frankfurters. The lower prices for meats were about the only bright spot in the grocery picture, however. The overall marketbasket bill went up by nearly 1 percent during the month, as coffee prices took another big jump.

The AP drew up a random list of food and nonfood items and checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. The original list included 15 items, but chocolate chip cookies were dropped when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest survey, just before the start of the holiday weekend, showed that the marketbasket bill increased in August at the checklist store in eight cities, rising an average of 3.4 percent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in five cities, down an average of 3.1 percent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store was nine-tenths of a percent higher at the end of

The encouraging news for consumers this month was that several cuts of meat were cheaper. Prices for livestock — cattle and hogs — declined some time ago, but the decreases were not widely reflected at the retail level until

The AP survey showed that the price of a pound of frankfurters declined at the checklist store in eight cities. Some of the drops were substantial. At the checklist store in Providence, R.I., for example, the price for hot dogs went from $2.09 a pound to $1.59. As of the end of August, the average price for the frankfurters checked by the AP was $1.64 a pound. That was the cheapest average recorded since Jan. 1, when hot dogs were selling for $1.60 a pound.

There also were scattered declines in the price of chopped chuck - down at the checklist store in five cities — and pork chops — down at the checklist store

Coffee prices continued to climb. Prices for green beans have been rising ever since spring when bad weather in Brazil dashed hopes of a surplus. By the end of August, the average price for a pound of coffee at the checklist stores Down 22.0 19.8 Unchanged 47.3 40.6 Unavailable

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents.

The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total.

The AP did not attempt to compare actual prices from city to city — to say, for example, that eggs cost more in one area than another. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease saying a particular item went up 10 percent in one city and 6 percent in

The USDA marketbasket issued each month is based on a complex set of

West Germans show very little interest in Hitler's 'Mein Kampf'

By NICK STAUDINGER

BONN, West Germany (AP) - West Germans can buy "Mein Kampf" for the first time in 34 years, but they've shown little interest in the book in which Adolf Hitler outlined his Nazi philosophy.

"From a book dealer's point of view, Nazi literature like 'Mein Kampf, and Rosenberg's writings remain without interest," said Gerhard Keller, manager of Bonn's Bouvier University Book Dealers.

Alfred Rosenberg, sentenced to death during the Nuremberg war crimes trials, was chief editor of the Nazi party organ Voelkischer Beobachter (People's Observer) and Hitler's anti-Jewish ideologist.

Sales of copies of Hitler's book printed before 1945 are legal under a recent Supreme Court ruling, but no new editions may be printed or sold in West Germany, with the exception of stores operated exclusively for U.S. and other foreign armed forces. Acting on an appeal, the Supreme Court in Karlsruhe reversed a lower court which sentenced a second-hand book dealer to a $656 fine for selling two volumes of "Mein Kampf," which means "My Struggle."

The book, written by Hitler during imprisonment after the failure in 1923 of his Beer Hall Putsch attempt to take over the Bavarian government, outlines his anti-Semitic views and plans to conquer Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

The Nuremberg court argued that Hitler's book was unconstitutional propaganda, glorifying the Nazi dictatorship, a crime against section 86 of the German legal code, which carries a maximum prison sentence of

Presiding Supreme Court Justice Hans Wolfgang Schmidt said in explaining the July 25 ruling that pre-1945 copies of "Mein Kampf" represent "preconstitutional writing," serve to teach history, and can thus be sold and displayed like any other book.

Before the court ruling, all copies of "Mein Kampf" were popularly believed to be banned, though university libraries had the book. Limited sales of a few used copies have continued quietly over the years in antiquarian or used-book stores and even flea markets by private owners hoping to make a fortune, Keller said.

"Under no circumstances shall we allow new copies to be printed," said an official at the Bavarian state finance ministry. The ministry is custodian of Hitler's copyrights and his belongings — which consist mainly of a building now housing the Bavarian Police Administration and a suitcase containing personal belongings and his copy of "Mein Kampf.

Book dealer Keller took another view on the court ruling. "It remains to be seen ... if the new Supreme Court ruling does not give certain publishers a chance to bypass the old rules and cash in on reprints after all," he

He estimated that several thousand copies of the original prints were still obtainable. He said some reports grosyly exaggerate the value of available copies. His company, he said, was never offered more than two or three

"We offer a run-of-the-mill edition of 'Mein Kampf' at about 70 marks ($38) and a special anniversary edition at 120 ($66)," a saleswoman for Stefan Hartmann bookstore in Bonn, said when asked about the book.

She agreed with Keller that very few copies change hands. "I would swy we sell about one volume every three months," she said.

Those interested in buying "Mein Kampf" are often Americans or the elderly, she said. Young people are not interested despite a recent declaration by the Bonn federal office watching publications harmful to juvenile morals, which declared "Mein Kampf" harmless.

The office said the book was published before the Nazis came to power and thus never served to glorify the Hitler state.

A Munich second-hand book dealer said his sales had been unaffected by the court ruling. "The books we sell are mainly for scholarly purposes and retail between 40 and 50 marks ($22 to $27)," he said.

Aquatic 'killer rabbit' comes out second best in bout with president By BROOKS JACKSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "killer rabbit" attacked President Carter on a recent trip to Plains, Ga., penetrating Secret Service security and forcing the chief executive to beat back the beast with a canoe paddle.

The rabbit, which the president later guessed was fleeing in panic from some predator, actually swam toward a canoe from which Carter was fishing in a pond. It was hissing menacingly, its teeth flashing and nostrils flared, and making straight for the president.

Carter was not injured, and reports are unclear about what became of the banzai bunny. But fortunately for Carter's credibility, a White House staff photographer made a picture of the attack and the president's successful self-defense.

It was fortunate because some of the president's closest staff members refused to believe the story of the aquatic attack rabbit when Carter related it to them later. Their skepticism arose despite Carter's strong and oft-repeated promises never to

"Everybody knows rabbits don't swim," said one former doubter. Carter, stung by this skepticism from his inner circle, ordered up a print of the photograph to offer as proof. But even this was not good enough at first.

"You could see him in the canoe with his paddle raised, and you could see something in the water," said the doubter. "But you couldn't tell what it was. It could have been anything." So Carter ordered an enlargement made. "It was a rabbit, all right," said the staff member after seeing the blown-up photo.

Another staffer who saw the picture

"It was a killer rabbit. The president was swinging for his life," this staffer said.

No news photographers were allowed within camera range of Carter on the fishing trip. Immediately afterward, White House photographers released an official picture of Carter fishing, but withheld the picture of him flailing at the swimming rabbit.

RABBITS AREN'T the only animal troubling the president. Mice have reappeared inside the White House after a protracted bureaucratic hassle that eventually reduced the population significantly earlier in Carter's term. There even have been reported sightings of rats recently in the execu-

Carter feels a keen revulsion for the rodents stemming from a childhood memory of a field mouse that ran up inside the leg of his father's trou-

Shortly after the president took of-fice, he found the White House, including the Oval Office, infested with mice. Initial efforts to control the problem were hampered by bureaucratic buck-passing when the General Services Administration insisted it was responsible only for mice inside the White House and that the Interior Department, which includes the National Park Service, had jurisdiction over the White House grounds from which the mice originated. It took some sharply worded messages from the White House to launch a coordinated attack.

TWO WHITE HOUSE employees who reportedly met during Carter's presidential campaign are honeymooning in the Caribbean. Margaret A. McKenna, deputy counsel, and Arnold Miller, director of presidential personnel, were married on Aug. 18 and are expected back at work Tuesday. As high-level employees, their courtship was marked by such strange incidents as listing gifts they had given each other on their financial disclosure forms.

Ag business is blooming

Story and photos by ED TODD

Agriculture is basic, but it's changing. Farmers no longer just till the soil and slip open the almanac to find out when to plant cotton or whatever crop. That's about like using DDT as a blanket insecticide; it just doesn't work. Ranchers just don't throw any old bull into the pasture to match up with any heifer or seasoned cow of his choosing. Nor do poultrymen just let the hens stir and scratch at will if they want to make egg-laying a paying proposi-

And another type of farmer grows catfish for a captive and paying audience of fishermen.

Those are but glimpses of some of the Midland County agricultural enterprises, which make up a $13-million a year industry - second only to petroleum.

AGRICULTURE IN Midland County, which long has been lauded for its cattle, runs a wide gamut: alfalfa, cotton, dairy cattle, bee-keeping, vineyards, garden crops, maize, sheep, cattle and more cattle. And on Tuesday, about 120 Midlanders, including those more familiar with the ways of the city than with the whims of nature, got exposed to several views of agriculture in the third annual Farm-and-Ranch Tour sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce. The day's offering began with a tour of a catfish farm southwest of town and ended at the Scharbauer No. 1 Ranch, where the fare was barbecued buffalo and beef, ham and quail and the trimmings; that bill was footed by the Midland Farmers Co-operative. And the setting was from "old times": picnic tables under shade trees and a cool breeze turning the old

The 89-mile tour, which took in the Greenwood and Valley View communities, began at Hogan Park at 8 a.m., when three buses pulled away and began the multi-stop tour. The cast of principals, aside from the farmers and ranchers, included Charlie W. Green, the Midland County agricultural extension agent, who handled much of the narration; Dick Hagelstein, district conservationist for the U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Midland, and specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

MIDLAND COUNTY HAS about 40,000 acres in cotton and approximately 480,000 in rangeland. Most of the county's cotton is dryland (without irrigation) farmed.

"We can really grow cotton out here if it rains," said Green. Though the rainfall this season generally has been favorable to cropland, the swaths cut by hail has wiped out hundreds of acres of waist-high cotton in Midland County and thousands of acres in Martin and Dawson counties.

"This is one of those years when you try to catch up if you're farming - if you're not hailed out or something like that," Green said.

MULBERRY LAKES: The product here is channel catfish, and the operator is Roscoe Lewis.

"It's very similar to a livestock feedlot," Green said of the enterprise, which may be Midland's quasi-answer to the barb: "Midland is in the heart of the best fishing country -300 miles in any direction."

The so-called lakes really are ponds, and prompted these comments from Dr. Norman Gould and his spouse, Evelyn: "Who says we don't have any lakes Midland County?" said Mrs. Gould. "Described them as oceans," quipped the dry-witted Gould.

Lewis operates several ponds, including former gravel pits, and regularly stocks the ponds with catfish, which he feeds pellets called "catfish chow." Ducks pedaling in the ponds also find the chow edible, if

"It took me 51/2 years to figure this all out," Lewis said of his fishing ponds, which are visited by weekend and daily fishermen; the fish are not sold commercially. "I've been in this business nine years," he said. None of the fish are sold directly to restaurants or grocery stores but end up in the home frying pans. Lewis charges $1.80 per pound for catches. "It's really two things," Green told the touring bunch over his bull horn: recreation and meat." "You just 'em out and bring them in" with hook and line, said Lewis. "In Arkansas, they seine them.

DON'S POULTRY & EGG CO.: Don Tergerson oversees a 18,000-hen egg-laying operation in two long metal coops barns. The hybrid (Hy-Line) White Leghorn hens, in caged nests of three or four fowl, are confined to cages, which allow them room only to eat meal from a conveyor belt, drink from a drip watering system, lay eggs and do very little stretching and no flying. On the average, each hen lays 265 eggs per year and has a peak production life of 15 months. Eggs are graded and crated at the poultry farm and are shipped to nursing and rest homes and hospitals, rather than to grocery stores, for consumption.

"It's not a real high profit business," Green said of the egg-laying operation.

After the high-strung laying hens have passed their productivity peak, they are sold en mass to Campbell's Soup Co., said J.C. Jackson, Tergerson's hen foreman.

BLIGHT ON COTTON: The eel worm. The next stop on the farm-and-ranch tour was the Roy Graham cotton farm in the Greenwood community. There, Graham has been using granular systemic pesticide (Temik) in an effort to rid his crop of parasitic nematodes, which are almost microscopic eel worms that feed on root.

"If you have a few nematodes, the population will build up real fast" and thereby cut into production, said Dr. Harold Kaufman, a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAES). Dr. Kaufman cautioned the farmers not to put the insecticide in the hoppers while they're "downwind," for it is "quite toxic." Nematodes build up to a high population on land on which cotton has been grown for years but without benefit of enriching crop-rotation which makes for a more healthy Cotton on which the pesticide had been applied yielded more lint per acre than non-treated acreage. The increase was 75 to 80 pounds of lint per acre. And the addition return per acres would be $37.50, while the cost of the insectcide would be $3 per acre. Other "bad bugs" adversely affecting the yield include the bollworm and the boll weevil. "We've got to have good field scouts to know what's going on out in the field," said Charles Neeb, TAES ento-

However, he noted that "most insects you encounter are not pest; they are beneficial."

JOHNSON GRASS IN cotton: Hoot Leonard and his son Guy are using the "rope-wick" method for applying the potent herbicide glyphosate (Roundup) on Johnson grass. Application is made directely on the tall grass and above the cotton stalk, for the non-selective will kill cotton and weeds alike.

"This is one of the best things that has come along in awhile," said Guy Leonard.

This wipe-on action claims a 80 to 90 percent root kill. The herbicide was developed by Dr. J.O. Dale, a plant physiologist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The "rope-wick" action is an "environmental sound" means of applying the poison by tractor, for it does not

PERENNIAL KLEINGRASS: North of Midland, Glenn and Em Carnett and their son Lane are experimenting with a warm-season perennial bunch grass, Kleingrass, introduced into this country from South Africa.

Dick Hagelstein of the SCS described the experiment as a 'plant nursery" to "get this grass established and let Mother Nature take her course. "This is something we've needed for quite a few years," he said. "This Kleingrass has done real well." The exotic grass is a fine-stemmed, well-seeded, leafy plant which grows three-to-four feet tall and which, in.

semi-arid West Texas, normally needs irrigation. The grass has been grown successfully in East Texas, where the rainfall is relatively heavy, and adapts to a wide range of soils.

Once established, Kleingrass will crowd out other grasses and weeds and, with three to five cuttings in a season, could be a profitable hay crop and-or provide lush forage. Last Aug. 8, a six-acre field of Kleingrass was harvested and netted 339 bales. 'You've got to watch the eonomics of it," said Green,

"because it'll cost you more than you'll get out of it." A good stand of Kleingrass could sustain one to 11/2 head

BULTER'S PECANS: Northwest of Midland, more than 1,700 pecan trees and some Carpathian (English) walnut trees are planted. "I think pecans have an important role" in West Texas agriculture, said Ray Siegmund, agent for the 21-coun-However, he noted that the slow-maturing pecan tree takes 10 to 15 years to be productive and profitable. "Your banker is not very receptive to his type of operation unless you have a lot of collateral."

Each tree is individually watered. Pecan varieties on the L.L. Butler Estate include Western Schley, Wichita, Burkett, Comanche, Barton and some seedlings and natives.

Planting began in 1970. The orchard is fronted by tall grassland, which is free of grazing

"This is probably what this country looked like before turn of the century," speculated Green.

SCHARBAUER RANCH: Chris Scharbauer, a fourthgeneration rancher whose forefathers settled in Midland County in 1887, briefed the farm-and-ranch "tourists" on the ranching operation - from raising horses to work cattle to breeding Hereford cattle to windmilling to controling

The Scharbauer No. 1 Ranch covers 30 sections (19,200 acres).

"As you can see," Scharbauer said, "there's nothing else that we can do with it (rangeland) except ranch it...unless something else comes up."

The Scharbauer operation sticks with much - from windmills to horses - from "the olden days" "We still round up cattle by horse," he said. The Scharbauers have 53 mares and four stallions to keep the ranch hands in horses specifically bred for handling cattle. "The cattle aren't interested in anything but grazing and water," he said.

Obscenity charges dropped

MEMPHIS, Tenn.

(AP) — At the request of prosecutors, a federal judge has dropped obscenity charges against 10 persons and five corporations involved in distributing the film "Devil in Miss Jones."

U.S. District Judge Robert McRae Jr. signed an order that was filed Tuesday.

In his dismissal motion last week, U.S.Attorney Mike Cody said a trial would take four to six weeks "and would involve numerous witnesses from various parts of the United States (coming to Memphis) to testify in behalf of the government."

According to court records, 13 persons and five corporations were named by a federal grand jury in the original indictment returned June 13, 1975. The defendants — including sexfilm star Harry Reems — were charged with conspiring to illegally transport the film from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Memphis for showing.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — It may cost him his political future, but Utah Treasurer Linn C. Baker says he won't pay out $71 million in property tax rebates authorized by the Legislature unless he gets a court order.

Baker said he believes the rebate program is irresponsible, unconstitutional and unjust.

Under the program, qualified homeowners and renters are to receive tax rebates this fall ranging from $100 to $400.

But Baker said he asked Monday for an attorney general's opinion on the program's constitutionality and has asked state officials to seek a court order forcing him to honor refund warrants. Legislative General Counsel Melvin Leslie said his office examined the rebate bill during the legislative session and that while "there might be some problems" with the bill, "we felt that the weight was in favor of constitutionality."

Gov. Scott Matheson's press secretary, Maggie Wilde said "As far as he's (Matheson's) concerned

Wilde, said, "As far as he's (Matheson's) concerned, the tax relief program has been mandated by law," and he will see that the checks are issued.
"This is something I've been agonizing on for a month or two," Baker said. "This is something that I've not been shooting from the hip on, that's for darn sure."

Baker, a Democrat, is prohibited by the state Constitution from seeking a consecutive term as treasurer.

The court action "will come about if the attorney general's office tells me I have grounds to stand on," Baker said. "I think I have grounds to stand on or I wouldn't have pushed it to this point."

Baker said the tax relief program "hasn't been handled in a fiscally responsible way."

He said the rebates would cost state residents $9 million in extra federal taxes, since the refunds would be subject to federal income tax. He also said Utah will lose millions of dollars in interest because it will have to sell bonds to pay for a new office building and won't be able to invest its budget surplus.

Baker said the rebate program is tied to local property taxes and that the Utah Constitution prohibits the Legislature from imposing taxes for the purpose of any local government.

He also said the rebates are unconstitutional because they attempt to bind future legislatures to supply tax relief and because they could drive the

Garments being recalled by manufacturers

WASHINGTON (AP) - About 50,-000 women's garments are being re-called because of a danger they will catch fire, a clothing manufacturer and the Consumer Product Safety Commission said Wednesday.

The Edgewood Chenille Co. of Tun-nel Hill, Ga., and the commission said the recall applies to thousands of garments sold nationally since 1975, including women's bathrobes, jackets, shorts and tube tops.

"Since December 1978, three women have been burned when their bathrobes caught on fire. One of the women was seriously injured with second- and third-degree burns which covered 25 percent of her body," the joint announcement said.

The commission said seven of 10 garments failed to pass the federal flammability standard for adult apparel in laboratory tests.

All the recalled garments are made of 100 percent cotton chenille, which is described as "a soft, unribbed fabric with a high, fuzzy nap.'

They have been sold under the "Edgewood" and "Wrappers" labels in department stores and ladies' ap-

The jackets are waist length and long sleeved. Some are fashioned as "fitted blazers" with notched collars and padded shoulders and others as pullovers with hoods and elastic waistbands. They have sold for about

The boxer-style shorts also have elastic waistbands and have sold from $12 to $15. The tube tops are fully elasticized, strapless garments that have retailed from $10 to $12.

The commission and the company said women who own the garments should return them to their retailers for free replacements that comply with the flammability standard.

Consumers' questions can be addressed to Edgewood Chenille Co., P.O. Box 14, Tunnel Hill, Ga. 30755, telephone 404-935-3121 or to the commission's toll-free hotline. THE BUTCHER

Old-fashioned meat market a thing of the past

By MERLE ELLIS

When I first started working in a meat market a year or two into World War II, there was only one kind of meat market around. Some were larger than others and some employed more butchers than others, but they were all essentially the same. They were what has since become known as "conventional" markets.

In a supermarket, in a small grocery store (there were lots of those then) or in a store by itself stood a meat case from 10 to over 100 feet long behind which from one to a dozen or more butchers plied their trade. In those days, even in large supermarket chains, the head butcher (we called him, though not always to his face, "the meat head") ran the meat market.

He bought the meat from the local packer and was responsible for its quality. He supervised the training of apprentice butchers, did the hiring and firing and saw to it that things were done right, which is to say, his

He made sure that we made sure the customers got what they wanted. They were customers then, not "consumers," and they were always right. Being "meat head" in those days was akin to being master of your trade in the ancient guilds of England, an honorable and respected position.

Then, because of the war and the resulting lack of manpower, and because we all became much more concerned with saving time (of which there was little with everybody working) and less concerned with saving money (of which there was plenty with everybody working), self-service meat cases came into existence. In most self-service meat markets. there are no butchers; they are meat cutters now.

While there is in most markets a market manager, he has little of the power and responsibility of the "meat heads" I worked for. Very probably, he does not buy the meat he sells. He may order what he needs from week to week from "the head office," but he has little to do with its quality. That is determined by company poliand priced.

He very likely does not age the beef he sells; that is a costly process and not in keeping with most supermarkets' "company policy." He and the meat cutters who work under him are not apt to be cooks or to know much about cooking. They do not have the opportunity even to talk about cookers in a conventional market did. As a result, they can't pass along to you today a great tip or recipe that they got from Mrs. Jones yesterday.

There are advantages to modern supermarkets, though. The greatest advantage is price. With the increases over the years in labor costs and transportation, meat would be priced considerably higher (even) than it is if it weren't for self-service markets. And they do save time. You don't have to take a number and wait to talk to the butcher.

They have their disadvantages, too. Few, if any, handle top-quality Prime beef, and few, if any, age it to the tender perfection of an old-fashioned conventional market where the 'meat head" need not answer to company policy, but only to the custom-

kets around - not many, but some, Meat will almost certainly cost you more there, but on occasion, it's worth it. Jack Shelton, one of this country's most respected restaurant critics, offers this advice regarding dining out: "When you're eating out simply to avoid cooking at home, seek out some place cheap. Then with the ing with their customers as the butchmoney you save, treat yourself on occasion to some place splendid. Don't waste your money continually on the many places mediocre.

The same rule of thumb can be applied to buying meat. For the dayin-day-out, feed-the-family cooking that most of us do most of the time, seek out the market that is the least expensive. The quality of meat available in most supermarkets is very much the same and generally not the best, so don't go there for great meal makings. Stay away from the expensive steaks in most supermarkets. Go there instead for their stew, frying chickens, ground beef and pot roasts; all those items they offer "on special" that can help you save money on family meals.

With the money you save, you may, on occasion, be able to afford a really great steak or a well-aged Prime rib roast. For those, go to an old-fa-shioned conventional butcher, one who handles USDA Prime or heavy Choice beef and ages it to perfection one who will cut it to your specifications and may even be able to offer a tip or two on how best to cook it.

Prepare Fresh Peach Kuchen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FRESH PEACH KUCHEN

Batter Topping, recipe follows 2 cups fork-stirred all-purpose flour 2 teaspoons baking powder teaspoon baking soda teaspoon salt 1 large egg 1-3rd cup sugar · 4 cup sour cream

4 cup butter, melted 4 large freestone peaches (about 11/2 pounds)

Prepare Batter Topping and reserve. In a small bowl stir together flour, baking powder, soda and salt, and reserve. In a medium bowl beat together until blended egg, sugar, sour cream and butter, and reserve. Cover peaches with boiling water and let stand off heat until skins loosen - usually a few minutes; drain; slip off skins; cut each peach into eighths, discarding pits. Add reserved flour mixture to egg mixture and stir only until dry ingredients are moistened; if too stiff to spread, stir in a tablespoon or so of extra sour cream. With a small spatula, spread batter evenly over bottom of a buttered, 2-quart, oblong glass baking dish (11% by 7½ by 1% inches). Sprinkle with Batter Topping; arrange peaches, cut side up, over it. Bake in a preheated oven, on rack below center, until bottom is a deep golden brown - 35 minutes. (Peaches will look slightly dry on top, but they will taste juicy.) Serve hot or warm. Makes 8 servings.

Batter Topping: Stir together 1-3rd cup granulated sugar, 1-3rd cup firmly packed light brown sugar, ¼ cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon cloves; work in 1/4 cup butter.

Ring around the fresh fruit with almonds complement fruits in many ways. SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. - Take Fresh fruit and a selection of cheese advantage of fresh summer fruits fillwith whole almonds - attractive in or ing markets at bargain prices now, and feature fresh fruits for dessert. As temperatures soar, simple summer fare makes the most sense, and fresh fruit desserts are easy, lightweight and economical alternatives to heavier endings.

For a refreshing change of pace and a touch of class, pair these fresh fruits of the season with a special nut that is also a fruit - the almond. While seldom referred to as such, almonds are botanically classified as a fruit, ancestors of later stone fruits such as peaches, plums and nectarines. This year's crop promises to be a record-breaking 350 million shelled pounds according to recent forecasts, which means almond price & availability will be quite favorable.

Since one good fruit deserves another, blend the special texture and taste of almonds with other tree fruits to make the most of the plentiful summer supply. Available in seven different convenient forms, almonds out of the shell - make for a handsome and wholesome dessert platter. Sliced or slivered almonds are a glamorous garnish for fresh fruits over ice cream or pound cake. Whatever you use almonds with, in, or on, they'll lend a crunchy, flavorful distinction.

For something different, serve this Almond Cornflake Ring with Peaches and Cream with toasted chopped almonds. Simple and delicious, it's a no-bake dessert that will satisfy the sweetest tooth.

With fresh peaches or any other fresh fruit you may favor, the Almond Cornflake Ring is a no fuss, fanciful treat that will delight brunch, lunch or dinner guests. For a perfect picnic dessert, pack the prepared peaches and whipped cream separately, wrap the ring, and you have an ideal portable feast, as well. It can be easily assembled in minutes and makes for an elegant outdoor offering.

Team the freshest fruits of the season with almonds, the nuttiest fruit around, and savor all the best of summer. With juicy plump peaches and almonds, it will be love at first

He'll leave her flat -- Broke, that is

BUREN DEAR ABBY: I have been going with Lenny for 25 years. When we fell in love we couldn't marry because he had an invalid father to care for and I had a sick mother.

He's in the entertainment business, knows interesting people, and we've had some great times together. (I pay my own way because I'm in better shape financially than he is.)

His father died recently, and so did my mother. I inherited a nice sum of money which I invested on the advice of my attorney and accountant. I have a nice income and a job that pays well.

Lenny says he wants to marry me and take charge of my investments. I'm not in favor of that because he hasn't been very successful with his own investments, and I think I'm better at handling money than he is.

He says if I don't accede to his wishes, it will be "goodbye." I'm in my early 50's, I love him, and it could be a lone-some life if I let him go. On the other hand, I don't want to lose my financial security, which I fear will happen if I turn my money over to Lenny. Help me. -- NEW

Haitian king fought in American Revolution

CAP HAITIEN, Haiti (AP) - Few visitors who venture by horseback up a 3,000-foot-high mountain slope to view the world-famous Citadelle are aware that King Henry Christophe, who built the awesome fortress, fought in the American Revolution 200 years ago.

According to Albert Mangones, supervising architect and director of a $2.5 million Citadelle restoration project, Christophe served in a constant of 800 United theory.

tingent of 800 Haitian troops, fighting alongside American revolutionary and French militia against the British.

During the Battle of Savannah on Oct. 9, 1779 — one of the critical engagements in the Revolutionary War - the French West Indies soldiers suffered severe casualties.

Christophe survived, however, to return eventually to his homeland where he would one day proclaim himself king and build, during his reign, the Citadelle.

Today the Citadelle — and nearby Sans Souci Palace, once the official residence of King Henry and his family — are undergoing extensive restoration. A team of Haitian architects and engineers, with U.S. technical assistance, is restoring some of the facilities of the two monuments and is preserving both historical structures.

Historic inlet now polluted

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The Golden Horn, the scenic inlet where sultans once cruised in boats rowed by slaves and royalty picnicked on the shores, has turned black with pollution. Fish can't survive in it.

"We have a major environmental cancer here," says Rafet Mentas, an engineer at the sewage control department of the Istanbul municipali-

"The Golden Horn is dying right in front of our eyes ... and we cannot really do anything about it."

The Golden Horn, a name that goes back to the Byzantines, is a 41/2-mile inlet on the west shore of the scenic Bosporus Strait, which connects the Black Sea to the Sea of Marmara and the Mediterranean. It divides this city of about 2.5 million into two sectors. Along its shores stand the 19th-century St. George's, the patriarchal church of the Greek Orthodoxy, and a mosque dedicated to the Moslem Prophet Mohammed, who died on the siege by Arabs in 670. The charm and enchantment of the Golden Horn all but vanished after industry began to locate along its banks about 40 years ago.

outskirts of this ancient city during a

Empire, which captured the city from the Byzantines in 1453, the inlet was a favorite picnic area for members of the court and sultans who rode in sleek, ornate, slave-propelled boats. Now, the foul odor of hydrogen sulfide rising from its water permeates the air over a wide area, stretching to the extremes of the metropolis. Necati Cinar, captain of a 200-passenger ferry that runs between the river's banks, says he has great diffi-culty steering his diesel-powered, steel craft around clusters of waste in the water.

A municipal official said recently it would cost about a billion dollars to clean the Golden Horn and construct a sewage system to prevent similar pollution in other areas of the city. The city's present sewage system dates back to the Byzantine era.
In the worst areas of pollution, visibility below the surface is only about four inches. One survey found that "not even tiny organisms are able to live (in the water), let alone fish."

About 250 industrial plants line the two banks of the Golden Horn, processing foods, dyes, textiles, steel and other metals, glassware and chemicals. A government-owned slaughter house disposes of animal parts into the water.

Authorities say that "oxygen is almost nil" in some areas where there also are heavy concentrations of or-ganic waste, fat acids, sulfuric acid, sodium sulfur, ammonium ions, copper ions, lead and zinc.

"The area was settled by ancient Greeks at 659 B.C," said muncipal engineer Mentas. "I am wondering whether there will be anybody left along its shores several decades from

The Palmer Drug Abuse Program was established in Houston in 1971 by a former heroin addict. The program is patterned roughly after the Alcoholics Anonymous plan. The four trained counselors who will start with the program here are former drug or alcohol abusers who have been helped through the Palmer method. Two centers are being established here to help young people primarily in two age groups. Teens 13 to 16 will be treated in one group while young people 17 to 25 will be in another.

Two Midland churches, the Church of the Holy Trinity and First United Methodist Church, have donated space for the groups to meet.

Devoid of trees, this neighborhood's streets are both symbol and cause of a staggering rate of crime and accident that is costing this impoverished area millions of dollars a year.

Many of urban Ameri-ca's downtrodden communities have put their rebuilding efforts into sprucing up a row of houses here or a business there — often with little more than cosmetic results. But Chicago's West Garfield neighborhood has decided to put its efforts toward "workable streets."

West Garfield has a shocking traffic safety problem, explained Erwin Miller, who is heading the "Workable Streets Project" for a local community group called the Christian Ac-tion Ministry. Using 1975 statistics, the ministry found there were about 11,000 traffic accidents a year in the neighborhood which has a population of about 160,-000 concentrated in seven square miles. It calculated the accidents were costing the area about $24 million a year in medical costs, lost worktime and other ex-

CHICAGO - The tavern is a lunchtime favorite of the Loop's LaSalle Avenue "L" Station Street crowd — lawyers, brokers and bankers mainly because it is the home of Chicago's only locally made booze, Co-stream of regulars. Ladner Bros. Tavern is the only saloon in America with its own exclusive label. Cohasset Punch is rum based, spiced with brandy and cherry juice.

Williams later moved to Chicago, brought the formula with him, and opened a saloon in the Loop where he featured slice of frozen or canned the drink. # Fall evening courses start next week

The fall semester of evening short courses begins at Midland College next week.

In announcing the start date, James Bramlett, director of the MC Community Services Department, pointed out two new procedures inaugurated for the upcoming semester. One involves the location for registration and the other concerns first-night

"Beginning Sept. 4, we are asking students to either bring in or mail their registration forms to the Business Office rather than the Community Services office. The business office is located in the MC Administration Building," Bramlett noted.

"Our new office facilities for noncredit courses are now located in room 156-A in the north pod of the Aministration Building complex.

"This is the new assembly room for the first night of all scheduled short courses. Students will fill out enrollment cards, receive parking stickers, get room numbers and directions to classrooms at this point.

"Students should assemble in room 156-A at least 15 minutes before the starting time of their first class," Bramlett said.

After entering the MC circle drive, students are advised to turn left and proceed to the first parking lot. This will put them adjacent to the Administration Building compex.

The two classes scheduled during the first week of the semester are Welding I, taught by Joe Smith, and Automotive Tune Up I, taught by Jerry Shankle. Concrete Masonry, originally scheduled to begin at this time has been cancelled.

Welding I is a fundamental course in arc and gas welding. Instructor shows the correct use and setting of torches, regulators and welding machine. Elements learned in this course can be applied to hobby as well as agricultural welding.

The course is limited to 15 students meeting between 7 and 10 p.m. each Friday for 14 weeks. First class meets Sept. 7, and the course fee is $52.

Automotive Tune Up I is a six-week course familiarizing students with general testing equipment. Students learn to perform both minor and major tune-ups.

Classes are limited to 15 students meeting from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Classes begin Sept. 8, and the course fee is $22. Non-credit short courses are part of the Midand College program of con-tinuing education. The full fall semester contains 14 weeks of course sched-

The first day's always the toughest

Story and photos by MIKE KARDOS News Staff

Most of the fresh young faces in the room Wednesday were smiling. Traces of obligatory or genuine curiosity appeared on some of them.

But for Amanda Franz, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Franz, 2910 Goddard Drive, the idea of starting kindergarten at Emerson Elementary was not that appealing, and she made no bones about showing her displeasure.

At left, Dot Franz gives her daughter a kiss on the cheek and holds out a chocolate chip cookie to try and soothe Amanda's anxiety and shyness, but with little success. The tears and a pained expression persisted.

Later, classmate Gregory Orr takes the initiative in striking up a conversation by asking about her name tag.

As the morning developed in teacher Linda Kleine's class, Amanda seemed to be accepting her lot as a student, her pixy face breaking into a smile as she became involved in the activities of the day.

Not surprisingly, by the time her mother came to get her at the end of the morning, Amanda looked like any other first-day veteran of kindergarten — she had discovered that school actually can be a lot of fun.

Family 'can rest in peace now' after conviction of MacDonald

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The deaths of Colette MacDonald and her two children turned the members of her family into bitter adversaries. "We can rest in peace now," her father said after Dr. Jeffrey MacDonald was convicted of murder.

A jury of seven men and five women deliberated for six hours Wednesday before convicting MacDonald, a former Green Beret, of one count of first-degree murder and two counts of second-degree murder in the deaths of his pregnant wife, 26, and their daughters, Kimberly, 5, and Kristen, 2. The deaths occurred in 1970 when the family was stationed at Fort Bragg.

"I have said before and I will repeat again that I never for one instant ever believed that 12 jurors would say he was innocent," said Albert Kassab, Colette's father, as MacDonald was led away to begin serving three consecutive life sentences.

MacDonald's attorneys said they would begin filing appeals today. U.S. Marshals took the 35-year-old Huntington Beach, Calif., resident to the federal prison at Butner Wednesday night.

Kassab and his wife, Mildred, of Cranbury, N.J., pursued prosecution after the Army found the charges against MacDonald "not true," taking their case to the Justice Department until a grand jury indicted MacDonald in 1975.

"We feel vindicated. We can rest in peace now," Kassab said.

"Sir, I'm not guilty," MacDonald told U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree Jr. before sentencing. "I don't think the court has heard all the evidence. That's all I have to say."

The jury returned verdicts of second-degree murder in the deaths of Mrs. MacDonald and Kimberly. MacDonald was convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Kristen.

Prosecutors contended MacDonald killed his wife in a rage and may have hit his eldest daughter with the initial blow. They argued he stabbed his youngest daughter and then himself in an effort to cover up his actions, and invented his story that four drug-crazed intruders killed his family and stabbed him.

MacDonald contended he awoke the night of the killings to find four people — one of them a woman chanting "Acid is groovy. Kill the pigs" — in his

Few jurors would talk about their verdict, which came after three ballots and a restroom conference between three who had initially voted for acquittal, according to some jurors.

"We just couldn't have come back with a hung jury after nine years. We had to have a verdict," said one juror who asked not to be named.

But, say aides, he also is disturbed about events in his country and is working on his memoirs.

"He remains loyal and patriotic," one of the aides, foreigners as a place for seclusion, especially by Mark Morse, said of the shah's concern for events in Iran that he left last January.
Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his family are

"basically vacationing" in a posh Spanish-style villa in Cuernavaca, a colonial resort 50 miles south of Mexico City, Morse said.

"He's a classic tourist. He enjoys museums and is intrigued by the Aztec culture," Morse said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. "His life is as normal as possible. "But he continues to be disturbed about what is happening in his country which is in a shambles now." Except for one news conference held after arriving here, the shah has shunned reporters. Security around the shah was sharply increased in June after Iranian revolutionary court judge Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali authorized the deposed monarch's assassination and said he would give a reward and plan to enter school in the fall. But he would not to anyone who carried it out.

Iran is now led by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, one of the shah's long-time foes, who is establishing an Islamic republic to replace the Pahlavi monarchy

Far from living in isolation, the Iranian imperial family, under heavy guard, visits with friends in Cuernavaca and other parts of the country, goes sightseeing and occasionally night-clubbing and receives visitors, who have included former President Nixon and former U. S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Morse declined to name any of the shah's other visitors and friends.

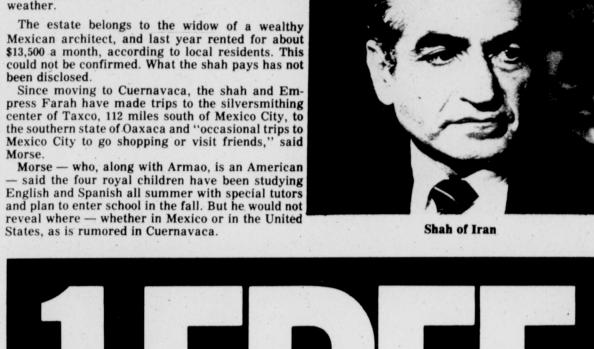

"We have received thousands of letters from all over the world since we've been in Mexico - and I don't think we've received one negative letter," Morse said.

'We've gotten several offers from Americans saying that if he needs a place to stay they have property available," Morse added. But he said the shah and his family plan to stay in Mexico for the foreseeable future.

The shah, Empress Farah and their four children - Reza, 18; Farahnaz, 16; Ali Reza, 13; and Leyla, 9 entered Mexico on June 10 on three-month tourist visas. The visas are renewable, and eventually could be upgraded to distinguished visitor permits. Another aide, Robert Armao, said that at home in Cuernavaca, "the shah leads a very quiet, relaxed lifestyle. He reads, trying to keep up with the situation in his country. He's also working on his

Depression could send oil away from Texas beaches

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -A new tropical depression drifting toward the Texas coast could send the flow of oil from a runaway Mexican well back toward Mexico, Coast Guard officials say.

Reconnaissance flights and satellite pictures detected a tropical depression 475 miles east of Brownsville early today, and National Weather

Service forecasters said the depression, which could reach Texas by Friday, might strengthen into a tropical Coast Guard officials have worried about the impact of wind-driven oil on wildlife breeding grounds. But Coast Guard spokesman Jim McGranachan said Wednesday scientists predicted the storm could generate winds that would drive portions of the world's largest oil spill toward Mexico, adding, "It is way to early to tell."

The storm comes on the heels of another tropical depression that fizzled out Wednesday over northern Mexico. Winds from that depression buffeted floating barriers protecting the southerly entrances to the fertile and fragile Laguna Madre.

Tar balls, apparently swept over the booms, washed ashore on Long Island, but scientists said they found no significant damage to the environmentally sensitive marshes along the Laguna Madre island. Light coverings of oil washed ashore on Mustang Island, areas of Padre Island and on the southern end of San Jose Island.

Gov. Bill Clements toured oilstained beaches and said, "We have a bad situation," but continued to oppose the idea of a damage suit against the Mexican government.

"Nothing is to be gained by beating your breast and making loud noises about suing Mexico. We should look upon a lawsuit as an absolute last resort. Any talk about a lawsuit at this time will only inflame the situation," Clements said.

Meanwhile, surveillance flights identified widely-scattered patches of sheen extending 300 miles off Corpus Christi. Officials said a huge offshore slick that had been drifting on a collision path with Texas beaches appeared to be beaching itself in Mexi-

NEW YORK (AP) -- Mobil Oil Corp. says it will provide its dealers with the same amount of gasoline next month that they received in September 1978.

The 100 percent allocation compares to a 94 percent allocation in August and is the first 100 percent figure in six months for the company. Other major oil companies have yet to announce September allocations.

More than 83 million gallons of crude has spilled from the Mexican well since it blew out June 3, spewing 1.25 million gallons of oil a day into the Bay of Campeche, 500 miles

Engineers for PEMEX, the staterun Mexican oil company, say they hope to cap the well by drilling two relief wells, which are scheduled for completion in mid-September and

Steel and lead balls are being pumped into the well and have helped cut the flow from the initial 30,000 barrels per day. Open water containment booms and skimmers are sweeping up some of the oil at the well head, and engineers have begun steps to lower a funnel onto the well to cut the flow and trap the oil.

The spill is more than 30 million gallons higher than the worst previous, that of the wreck of the supertanker Amoco Cadiz off the French coast in March 1978.

Gasoline prices this Labor Day weekend will be about 30 cents a gallon higher around the nation than they were a year ago, but motorists should be able to find fuel.

One possible problem area is northern California, where the state has gone to court to block a threatened shutdown by 1,200 members of the California Service Station Association to protest low profits.

San Francisco Superior Court Judge Ira Brown said Wednesday he would act today on Deputy Attorney General William Clark's motion for an injunction. The state says the protest would violate antitrust law and harm recreation-oriented businesses. But attorney John Hawkins said the group's plan to hold a convention in Sacramento beginning Friday was an exercise of constitutional rights to free speech and petition of govern-

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am all confused about fiber. What can you tell me about it? - Mrs.

Dear Mrs. P.T.: Fiber, sometimes called "roughage" or "bulk," is found in plant foods such as whole grains, fruits and vegetables. Because most of the fiber is not digested, it adds no calories. We do know that a moderate amount of fiber promotes normal bowel function. Fiber may combine with some nutrients and make them unavailable to the body. But this is probably not a problem in a well balanced diet with a moder-

Everyone in your family can safely lower their blood cholesterol by eating foods low in saturated fats and cholesterol. 3. Overweight is related to heart disease, and eating less fat is one way to reduce calories. 4. Whether it will remain there is another question. Knowledgeable officials say the policy has been institutionalized and swallowed by the bureaucracy since President Carter made the human rights crusade a hallmark of his foreign policy in 1977.

The result is a human rights policy that seems to many critics to be inconsistently applied.

They reasoned that the Soviets' paramount interest at the moment is in winning Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty. The Soviets, therefore, would be unlikely to continue or escalate the dispute.

These same experts felt it was very important not to allow the Soviets to "pull a fast one" by hustling the dancer out of the country after they had acknow-ledged the right of U.S. officials to talk to her before

So with the underlying political factors working in its favor, the decision to protect Miss Vlasova's human rights was taken.

State Department officials argued Tuesday that the decision would have been made anyway, regardless of political factors. But there have been many instances in past months where the bureaucratic process has determined that the political factors outweighed considerations of human rights.

The administration agreed to a major increase in

BUSINESS MIRROR Middleman may not be culprit, as public thinks

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - President Carter's recent criticism of the "middleman" in the food industry has revived an old and bitter debate.

Whenever food prices rise at a painful rate which seems to be most of the time these days consumers naturally start asking who's responsi-

And when prices on the supermarket shelf keep rising while farm prices decline, as has happened in recent months, the search for a culprit is bound to turn to the processers, distributors and retailers of

This collective "middleman" has never been a very popular guy, in any business or profession. The term itself has a distinctly pejorative ring, like 'money changer" or "10 percenter."

"It is well known what a middleman is," the British statesman and author Benjamin Disraeli said in a speech delivered 134 years ago. "He is a man who bamboozles one party and plunders the

But at least one voice, that of the weekly Financial Digest published by New York's Manufacturers Hanover Trust, has been raised in defense of the middleman in the current food-price situation.

First of all, the bank says, "The response of retail prices to changes in farm prices is not immediate. In the past it has taken two to three months before farm price drops were reflected at the checkout counters. Consequently, expectations of lower food prices resulting from recent farm price declines have been somewhat premature.

Secondly, the bank points out, the rise of retail food prices has in fact slowed lately.

That argument is supported by the government's consumer price data for June and July, which showed rises of only 0.2 percent and 0.1 percent, while the index of all prices was jumping a full percentage point in each month.

In addition, the bank says, costs of processing, distributing and selling food account for more than half of its retail price, and in an inflationary environment they can easily offset small declines in farm prices.

During the second quarter, it noted, food industry labor costs rose at a 7.4 percent annual rate, while packaging costs climbed 16 percent and energy costs were up by almost one-third.

There is even some evidence that the middlemen have absorbed some of those rising costs rather than passing them on, Manufacturers Hanover's economists maintain. The middleman's average share of the retail food dollar actually declined from 60.7 percent in the first half of 1978 to 59.5 percent in the first half of this year.

And the profits of food processors and retailers increased by a relatively modest 15 percent in the first half, while those of all industries posted a 29 percent rise.

Thus, the bank contended, although the spread between farm and retail prices widened by 6.5 percent from early spring to mid-summer, the situation does not seem to have "unduly benefited" the

"Indeed," it concluded, "rather than reflecting deliberate pricing actions by segments of the food industry to capture a larger share of the consumer food dollar, the widening of the farm-retail spread is indicative of the major economic problem of our time - inflation.'

The debate over the middleman's role will continue, of course. Like inflation, it seems to be something that just won't go away.

Mailer novel relates story of killer Gilmore

By DAVID BRISCOE

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Executed killer Gary Gilmore is described as sometimes crude and violent and sometimes artistic and gentle in Norman Mailer's upcoming book on Gilmore's 1977 Utah execu-

An excerpt from the 1,100-page "true-life novel," was published this week in Playboy magazine, 21/2 years after a Utah firing squad granted Gilmore his widely publicized death wish.

A Playboy spokesman said the three-part piece will be the longest the magazine has ever published, representing about 15 percent of the book, "The Executioner's Song.'

The spokesman, West Coast editor Larry Dietz, declined to say how much Mailer was paid for magazine rights. Promoter Lawrence Schiller, who conducted many of the interviews, said the families of Gilmore's two robbery-murder victims in Provo, Utah, will get the largest percentage of the book's proceeds next to Mailer and himself. He would not say what those percentages are.

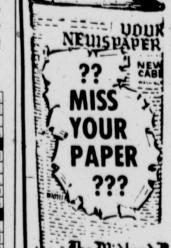

In the Playboy installment, Mailer describes intimate and explicit details of Gilmore's relationship with his lover, Nicole Barrett, prior to the two murders for which he was executed Jan. 17, 1977. Nicole has been kept away from news reporters, first by authorities and then by Schiller, who paid her to allow her life to be portrayed in a movie, which he said won't be filmed for three years. Gilmore was the first person to be executed in the United States in more than a decade. The only execution since was that of John Spenkelink, who died in the Florida electric chair earlier this year. Gilmore's story earned headlines when he demanded the death penalty, saying it was better than

The Mailer account chronicles Gilmore's life in the Provo area after his release from 13 years in pris-

On Oct. 3, he will fly to Philadephia, stopping the next day in Des Moines on his way to Chicago. The pope will then visit Washington for two days, according to the Vatican announcement.

Pavement of Streets in Midland County
Street Improvements
Midland County, Texas
$230,000.00
It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the County of Midland has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

This project will have no long-term negative impacts on any historic sites

This project will have no long-term negative impacts on any historic sites or wildlife habitat; no portion of the project is located in a flood hazard area (see Flood Hazard Boundary Map: Midland County, Texas, Comminuty-Panel No. 4812390005A); noise pollution will be short-term and negligible; existing air quality and water quality will not be adversely effected and solid waste disposal for the rural areas effected will be enhanced due to all-weather surfacing of the streets and resultant improved drainage and traffic circulation.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the County of Midland which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examina-

Peck's Bad Boys to clash

NEW YORK (AP) - Nasty

Ilie Nastase, the fiery Romanian whose court antics have enraged officials and enthralled spectators for more than a decade, against John McEnroe, tennis' latest Peck's Bad Boy.

It's the kind of match promoters dream about, and it will take place in the second round of the rain-plagued U.S. Open tennis championships.

When those fireworks will occur depends largely on the weather, which played havoc with Wednesday's program of first round matches.

After McEnroe and Nastase posted victories early in the day, rain halted play three times, the last at 4:13 p.m. After a wait of more than two hours, tournament officials finally decided to suspend the 10 matches that were already under way and postpone the 17 other afternoon matches that were never begun. The four night matches were also postponed.

Today's schedule was to open one-half hour earlier than usual with the completion of matches begun Wednesday. Among them will be a first-round pairing between fifth-seeded Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia and 21-year-old Kay McDaniel, which was suspended with Goolagong leading 6-7, 6-4, 4-2.

McEnroe, the mercurial 20year-old who is seeded third, whipped Pavel Slozil of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 6-2, 6-4 in his firstround match. Nastase, now 33 and unranked but still capable of flurries of brilliant shot-making, was leading 7-5, 7-5 against Leo Palin when the Finnish player was forced to retire because of a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

That set up the second-round confrontation that is certain to produce some fireworks.

"I think Nastase was a great player," said McEnroe, "but I don't think he's a great player anymore. I'm sure he's going to try to bug me, so it should be an interesting match." Nastase laughed when he heard that.

"Yeah, sure, I'll bug him," he said. "But I won't bug just John. I bug everybody.'

Actually he was close to his best behavior against Palin, pausing only occasionally to chat with his racket or stare off into space - or at a linesman. It was a far cry from the Nastase whose behavior was a cause celebre at past Opens, and whose list of fines and suspen-

Yanks' Guidry tames Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Ron Guidry wasn't at his best, but it was still good enough to give him his eighth straight victory.

His New York Yankees beat the Texas Rangers 7-5 Wednesday night, thanks to a three-run homer by George Scott that got Guidry by a shaky start.

"I've seen him sharper, but sometimes a super pitcher can get by without his best stuff," said Texas' Al Oliver, who got two of the 11 hits Guidry coughed up.

"But he got better later. He had the good fast ball in the late innings, and he was using a sharp slider earlier."

HELPED BY bobbles on two ground balls by second baseman Wil-lie Randolph, the Rangers scored three unearned runs off Guidry in the first inning. They loaded the bases in the second, before the Yankee lefthander settled down.

"It's hard to pitch when you give 'em six outs," Guidry said, referring to the second chances the Rangers had in their first inning.

Ex-Yankee Mickey Rivers was safe at first after Randolph couldn't find the handle on his ground ball. Bump Wills singled and Richie Zisk walked to load the bases. With one out, Guidry coaxed Bell into hitting what appeared to be a double-play grounder to second, but Randolph dropped

Rivers scored as Randolph managed to throw Bell out at first, and Texas' John Ellis belted a double to left center to put the Rangers into a 3-0 advantage. But the Yankees answered with five runs of their own in the second off lefthander Dave Rajsich, 0-3, making his second start. Bell lost Chris Chambless' grounder in the glare, Roy White beat out a bunt, and Scott boomed a homer over the fence in left center, tying the game.

Bucky Dent tripled and scored on a grounder, and Brad Gulden singled and raced home on Randolph's dou-

Guidry gave up a single and two walks in the second, but Lenny Randle's diving catch of Bell's fly in right center saved the Yankee pitcher.

AFTER THAT, it was mostly a pitching duel between Guidry and Texas reliever Danny Darwin, who gave up four hits in 6 2/3 innings, including Oscar Gamble's bases-loaded single in the fifth and two singles for another run in the eighth.

Bell hit his 18th homer in the seventh and doubled Oliver home in the ninth, Bell, Oliver, Ellis and Rivers each got two hits off Guidry. Dent and Gulden had two hits each for the

Dodgers defeat Cubs, 3-1, as Fobbs spoils Parker string

SAN ANTONIO-Larry Fobbs belted his 10th homer of the season in the fifth inning to end Mark Parker's string of shutout innings at 20 and keyed a 3-1 San Antonio victory over the Midland Cubs here Wednesday Tack Wilson doubled, stole third and scored on Ron Roenicke's single to right for what proved to be the Dodgers' winning run in the sixth. Ed Santos singled, swiped second, took third on the overthrow and scored on Mike Zouras' single to add an insurance run in the seventh It squared the series at 1-1, but

Midland had clinched the Texas League West pennant Tuesday and will meet the Dodgers in a best-ofthree game series here starting Monday to decide the Western champion. San Antonio beat Midland by three percentage points to win the first Manager Randy Hundley used the game to give some of his players a chance to relax. The loss was only the Cubs fifth in their last 22 games. Eric Grandy belted his 11th homer to left in the fourth to give Midland a 1-0 lead, but in the end all it did was avert a shutout.

The Cubs did threaten in both the eighth and ninth. Rocky Thompson and Jared Martin walked with two out in the eighth and Grandy beat out an infield hit, but Gary Krug's bid for a Texas Leaguer to right was caught by Ed Santos. In the ninth, Mike Turgeon and Carlos Lezcano led off with singles, but then Steve Lashley settled down to quell the threat for his 12th

Spahn claims Stengel yarn didn't happen that way

You know how it is with good stories. Repeated often enough, They are embellished and accepted as gospel...Lefty Gomez standing on the mound in the middle of a World Series game stopping to watch an airplane or throwing a grounder back to the box to second baseman Tony Lazzeri, "he was supposed to be so smart, I just wanted to see what he would do with it." Or Babe Herman trying to catch a fly ball with the top of his head...three Brooklyn Dodgers shaking hands after arriving on third

That's why we couldn't resist getting to the bottom of the story that Boston Braves' manager Casey Stengel took a look at the rookie lefth-ander and said, "Forget it, kid, you'll never make it.'

Warren Spahn said, no, after 363 victories he didn't finally concede that Casey might be right after all because "That's not the way it happened. I was just up from Hartford in 1942 and I came in in relief. The Dodgers were always beating us in those days and there had been trou-

"Pee Wee Reese was up and Casey told me he wanted him in the dirt. My first pitch sailed behind his head, but Reese didn't go down. Casey jumped up and hit his head on the top of the dugout. The next pitch was high and inside and Reese pulled back, but didn't go down. Casey was mad when he came out to the mound and took the ball from me. He said 'Kid, you just don't have any guts.' That night I was on my way back to Hartford."

SPAHN, courtesy of the war, wasn't to return until 1946 when he spent most of the season just getting his feet back on the ground with a modest 8-5 record at Boston. "How I would've loved to have pitched in 1945 when a singles hitter like Tommy Holmes was one of the home run leaders with

Raised in Buffalo, Spahn went into the army after the 1942 season and was sent to Fort Chaffee, Ark., and then to a base near Muskogee, Okla., and has made his home in Oklahoma

Unlike many established major league stars, Spahn didn't spend his service days playing ball. "The army asked what I did in civilian life and the next thing I knew I was in Europe." Apparently, they had talked to

Does he regret those four lost years and the victories that surely would have gone with them? "Why make yourself unhappy. I learned things in service that helped me out there," he said with a nod toward the Cubs Stadium diamond. "I learned to eat dirt, to sleep in the mud and starve a little. I always figured after that, it wasn't asking too much to go out and hustle for three hours a day.' Although a 20-game winner 13 times, one of many accomplishments by Spahn that no other lefthander can boast of, he had his moments of adversity, like in 1952. "Coming off knee surgery, I was 14-19 with a 2.98 ERA. The funny thing about that was that the previous year I was 21-14 and also SPAHN'S career started in Boston with the old Braves, but in 1953 the team which went to spring training in Bradenton as Boston opened the season in Milwaukee.

"Not many people know this, but Lou Perini (the Boston owner at the time) had no choice to move. Bill Veeck was threatening to move the St. Louis Browns of the American League to Milwaukee and the territory would have been lost. Besides, Fred Miller (the beer tycoon) who eventually would have bought the club if he hadn't died, guaranteed Perini 850,000 fans. We drew 1,800,000. It was a good move. There were always 40,000 in the stands, they were enthusiastic, receptive, appreciative and it infected the team. Spahn went on, "If we had stayed in Boston one more year, we would never have moved. We had all those young players like Eddie Mathews, Del Crandall and Hank Aaron coming up and we would have been a winAccording to Spahn, the fans in Boston were Red Sox oriented, "But they supported us when we had a winner. When we lost, they'd say 'same old Braves' and go back to the

WHOEVER coined the phrases poetry-in-motion and stylish-lefthander must have seen Spahn pitch...possessor of the picture perfect delivery, smooth, flowing, effortless, the kind of delivery a college junior marveled at in Ebbets Field in one of his early years and two decades later still marveled at in the company of a 15-year-

"I had to do something. I wasn't that big or overpowering," he ans-wered when asked how he perfected his textbook delivery. "After I finished pitching, I realized I did things without realizing it that I try to get young pitchers to do today. The key is that front shoulder. The opposite shoulder should follow smoothly, when it doesn't, a pitcher laboring as that pitcher out there is doing ... putting an unnecessary strain on the arm and shoulder."

He must have been doing something right. Although he had surgery on both knees, Spahn never experienced arm or back trouble.

Spahn, of course, in the final days of his long career played in a few of the new parks, but wonders wistfully what it would be like today. "I would have liked to have pitched to Musial in one of today's stadiums. At Braves Field, it was 310 down the line with the Jury Box out there in right waiting. And at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis, it was about the same distance. You couldn't let him pull the ball."

Since Spahn retired in 1965 with 363 victories, no one has reached that lofty career plateau and Warren doesn't believe the prospects are too good for today's young pitchers.

"Of the current crop, Tom Seaver, Ferguson Jenkins, Jim Palmer and Gaylord Perry have a shot at it, but after that I don't see anyone reaching that figure. With the kind of money the are getting today, none of the pitchers will play that long.

Bulldogs ready for scrimmage By TERRY WILLIAMSON

Sports Writer

According to Midland High football coach Dennie Hays, things are getting a little too famaliar around the Bulldog practice field, and that's the reason he is ready for Friday's scrimmage with Brownfield.

"We really need to see somebody else," Hays said. "We're getting to know each other too well and we need to go against some new faces.'

Brownfield will provide the playing field Friday and the new faces for the Bulldog edition that has Hays just a little more than optimistic.

Friday's session will be the only test against a foriegn opponent before the season opener. The Bullpups will serimmage at 5 p.m. while the varsities will tangle at 7 p.m.

Hays says his team is not exactly ready as far as complete technique is concerned, but mentally the Bulldogs are floating. Still, Hays has some things he would like to see in the scrimmage and would like a few questions answered before the season opener Sept. 7 in Memorial Stadium against Amarillo Tascosa.

'I think we will work on the running phase of the attack during part of the scrimmage and will deal with the passing game in another part. I really think we have the material to move the ball. We won't be that interested in scoring Friday, but we would like to see some movement.

'We also think we have a good defensive secondary. Pat Hickey returns and there are some good people behind him. We are interested in seeing how they do. Also the offensive line could be the key to our success this year. We have a lot of letterman and two starters back. Center Steve Mills started some last year also. I would like to see a good job from the Guard Paul Cox and split end Hickey are returning starters. Tackles Richard Barton and David Vinson were lettermen with playing experience. Gary Willis is up from the JV and plays guard.

It's no secret about the backfield with quarterback Michael Feldt, fullback Jeff Robnett and halfback Billy Applin back from last year. If the line can come through, the Bulldogs could be potent this year.

A three-way battle for the wing back job has evolved between Russell Hays, Bobby Stovall and Billy Taylor. Most likely all will play, and Hays is very high on fullback backup Mark Hewitt. Hays also thinks he is deep at quarterback with Brad Hixon and Doug McClean looking sharp.

"I think we have some people who can play. We have more depth and size than last year. If the injury bug stays away, I think things will be OK. We had a lot of injuries last

Indiana's controversial Knight finds defender

By DAVE KINDRED The Washington Post

Bob Knight made me promise not to write about it at the time, but that was four or five years ago. The incident has been forgotten by everyone except the most passionate critics of the Indiana University basketball coach. So I'll tell a story, changing the names, that adds ambiguity to the simplistic tales of despotism that Knight's detractors trot out from time

You know the critics' stories: Knight grabbing a player's jersey and jerking him off the court; Knight obscenely haranguing a teen-ager for a basketball mistake; Knight kicking chairs in rage; badgering referees irrationally; getting himself handcuffed and arrested while representing the United States in Puerto Rico, insulting the commonwealth with every breath. Knight has been a

Of course he has. At 38, he has room to mature. His friends have told him, politely, to grow up. They have told him he creates these incidents intentionally, if perhaps subconsciously - to build the pressure that drives him and his players to exhausting pursuit of victory. They tell him he is good enough at his work to win without that false, and ultimately destructive, stimulus.

But he keeps doing indefensible things. At midcourt in front of 17,000 spectators, he once cuffed an opposing coach on the back of the head. He meant no physical harm, but the action was condescending and the other coach, Kentucky's Joe Hall, said he would never forget the humiliation. And Knight makes it all worse by warring with the media, which might overlook North Carolina's Dean Smith's transgressions but leaps at Knight's throat when, say, a player quits his team.

LET'S CALL the player Bill Baxter. He was in all the newspapers when he

Knight refused to say a word in self-

"Look at this," Knight said one

He handed me a folder with Baxter's name on it. The enclosed material was dated three months before Baxter quit the team. As part of a Knight experiment, a university psychology professor tested the Indiana players that summer. The folder contained the psychologist's summations of those tests.

BAXTER, THE psychlogist reported, was a child in a man's body. He resented authority. In time he would rebel if driven by a demanding, authoritarian coach. Having rebelled, the psychologist concluded, Baxter would then lash out at the authoritarian figure in a childish attempt to exact revenge.

The affair was instructive of Knight's mentality. Knowing that Baxter, a gifted athlete, would rebel under the pressure of a demanding coach, Knight - as demanding a coach as ever put on a sneaker — refused to coddle the player. And when the inevitable consequences came due, Knight paid them without explanation. He allowed Baxter the last word. To Knight, it was important only that he be true to his coaching beliefs, not to what anyone thought.

Last week, Knight offered to resign at Indiana. That offer followed his conviction in a Puerto Rico court on a misdemeanor charge filed after an altercation with an off-duty policeman during the Pan American Games. Knight was sentenced to six months in jail, to be served in Puerto Rico if Indiana would extradite him. Both Indiana and Puerto Rico say they do not want to do that.

Knight's offer of resignation was, I believe, sincere. The man does not lie. He brooks no deviousness. There is a coach adored and sainted by the media, a coach most juniors address as "Mr. Raymond," to make up a name. Knight believes Mr. Raymond to be a cheat and liar. "I refuse to call him 'Mr Raymond,' " Knight said. "I call him by his first name, John. Let him figure out why."

THE PRESIDENT of Indiana University, John Ryan, turned down Knight's offer to quit.

The cynical view is that the president is a politician answerable to the people of Indiana. The only thing those people love more than basket-ball is winning at basketball. Knight's record at Indiana is spectacular, including a national championship in 1976 with a starting team of five players so talented, and so well-taught by Knight, that they all are still playing in the pros. So the president couldn't let Knight quit, couldn't let a little island in the Caribbean bring down a coach who only shoved an officious cop after the cop allegedly first poked him in the eye. That would be bad politics. It would also be bad for college athletics. Whatever Knight's faults, and this is not to minimize them, they are as nothing next to his strengths. In a college athletic system in which corrupt coaches keep right on coaching, Knight is an honest man. No one has ever suggested Knight breaks recruiting rules.

He is a brilliant teacher. His coaching films are standard texts around thhe country. When he yanked an erring Jim Wisman off the court with a sharp tug of his jersey, Knight delivered no physical abuse. He simply turned the player around to face his screams. If a professor in a literature class can reduce a student to remorse with a stare of the rebuke of an extra moment's silence, it is understandable that in the explosion of sound and fury that is an Indiana basketball game, the teacher-coach might seize the student-player's wandering attention however he can. Not admirable, but understandable.

"I know Coach Knight," said an unconcerned Wisman the next day when the Knight-pulling-his-jersey picture showed up on Page One of an Indianapolis newspaper. Wisman the next year was a starter for Knight, and a year later was Knight's team captain.

LAST SEASON, University of Kentucky boosters put on a 50th birthday party-roast for Joe Hall, the coach who Knight once cuffed on the head. Everyone showed up in tuxedos, except for one man, apparently an intruder, who walked on stage in a golf sweater. The fellow took the microphone and said Hall was a great coach, a coach Kentucky could be proud of.

"There's only one thing," the man said. "Why can't Joe behave himself on the bench like that nice guy they have up at Indiana?'

The Kentucky fans loved it. Joe Hall was laughing when Bob Knight walked off the stage.

Ellis Valentine has been in and out of hot water with the Montreal Expos of late.

Valentine, a controversial figure because of his sometime lackadaisical play, didn't appear to be too sluggish while running out a three-run Montreal tied the game homer in the Expos' 5-3 on Larry Parrish's 22nd victory over the Astros.

"All that hot-dogging is over," said Valentine. "I just want to help the ball club win.'

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Running back Mike Thomas, blamed for the Washington Redskins' collapse last year after a 6-0 start, said he "knew it was all over" when Coach Jack Pardee 'didn't defend me."

Thomas, traded to the San Diego Chargers during the offseason, said he became the scapegoat when he refused to take pain killers and play on his injured ankle.

"At the time we were 6-0 and playing very well, they started putting pressure on me to shoot up my ankle and I refused. Some of the players blasted me in the newspapers, saying I was only thinking of myself," Thomas said Wednesday as the Chargers got ready for Sunday's National Football League opener at Seattle.

"I knew it was over when Coach replaced Reuss, and Pardee didn't defend me or try to find out who was doing all the talking. I mean, telling someone he has to use pain killers, at the risk of further harm, is like telling someone what

Birds' Murray discovers Minnesota homer secret

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

In nearly three seasons with the Baltimore Orioles, none of Eddie Murray's 72 homers had been hit in Minnesota. Three swings later, the Metropolitan Mystery was solved.

"All I know is, I hadn't hit one in this ballpark before," said Murray, who hit three homers in the second game of a double-header sweep over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday. 'The Twins have been tough on me. I haven't had too many hits here of any

The 23-year-old switch-hitting slugger had a sacrifice fly in the 4-0 opening-game victory and then knocked in all of Baltimore's runs in the 7-4 second-game triumph with his three homers, two from the right side and one from the left.

Murray has built a reputation as a hitter you shouldn't throw fastballs to, but on Wednesday he said he "decided to sit on some slow stuff for a

Geoff Zahn blanked the Orioles until the fifth when Murray, hitting right-handed, connected for a threerun homer. A two-run blast off Zahn in the seventh and another two-run shot, Murray's 21st of the year, against Mike Marshall put the game away in the eighth.

In the opener, Scott McGregor won his seventh game in eight decisions since the All-Star break, scattering eight singles for the shutout, while Doug DeCinces hit a two-run triple to supplement sacrifice flies by Murray and Al Bumbry. After the second game, Earl Weaver was eligible to come off a threegame suspension for publicly questioning the integrity of umpire Ron Luciano, but he said he was "too nervous and upset" to go to the dugout after sitting in the stands during the first game.

"I feel I've been submitted to undue humiliation by Ron Luciano," said Weaver. "My health has become impaired and I'm better off not in the

Pete LaCock drove in four runs and Amos Otis three and the Royals got homers from LaCock, Otis and George Brett as they scored 17 of their runs in the first four innings. Infielders Sal Bando and Jim Gantner and catcher Buck Martinez combined to pitch the last five innings for the Brewers, allowing three runs. Gorman Thomas had two homers for the Brewers, tying him with Fred Lynn for the league lead with 36.

Al Unser to drive new

Indiana's controversial Knight finds defender

By DAVE KINDRED The Washington Post

Bob Knight made me promise not to write about it at the time, but that was four or five years ago. The incident has been forgotten by everyone except the most passionate critics of the Indiana University basketball coach. So I'll tell a story, changing the names, that adds ambiguity to the simplistic tales of despotism that Knight's detractors trot out from time to time.

You know the critics' stories: Knight grabbing a player's jersey and jerking him off the court; Knight obscenely haranguing a teen-ager for a basketball mistake; Knight kicking chairs in rage; badgering referees irrationally; getting himself handcuffed and arrested while representing the United States in Puerto Rico, insulting the commonwealth with every breath. Knight has been a

Of course he has. At 38, he has room to mature. His friends have told him, politely, to grow up. They have told him he creates these incidents intentionally, if perhaps subconsciously — to build the pressure that drives him and his players to exhausting pursuit of victory. They tell him he is good enough at his work to win without that false, and ultimately destructive, stimulus.

But he keeps doing indefensible things. At midcourt in front of 17,000 spectators, he once cuffed an opposing coach on the back of the head. He meant no physical harm, but the action was condescending and the other coach, Kentucky's Joe Hall, said he would never forget the humiliation. And Knight makes it all worse by warring with the media, which might overlook North Carolina's Dean Smith's transgressions but leaps at Knight's throat when, say, a player quits his team.

LET'S CALL the player Bill Baxter. He was in all the newspapers when he quit Knight's Indiana team four or five years ago. Baxter said Knight was inhuman. He said Knight had reduced him to a basket case, all atremble at the sound of the coach's voice. If this is big-time college basketball, if it meant he had to live in fear, Baxter said you could take it and stuff it.

All this went very badly for Knight, who the year before had made a big deal of recruiting Baxter. Now the newspapers printed Baxter's words, the very words that Knight's detractors in the media might have used in describing their relationship with the coach. It was all very neat. Knight refused to say a word in self-

"Look at this," Knight said one

He handed me a folder with Baxter's name on it. The enclosed material was dated three months before Baxter quit the team. As part of a Knight experiment, a university psychology professor tested the Indiana players that summer. The folder contained the psychologist's summations of those tests.

BAXTER, THE psychlogist reported, was a child in a man's body. He resented authority. In time he would rebel if driven by a demanding, authoritarian coach. Having rebelled, the psychologist concluded, Baxter would then lash out at the authoritarian figure in a childish attempt to

The affair was instructive of Knight's mentality. Knowing that Baxter, a gifted athlete, would rebel under the pressure of a demanding coach, Knight - as demanding a coach as ever put on a sneaker refused to coddle the player. And when the inevitable consequences came due, Knight paid them without explanation. He allowed Baxter the last word. To Knight, it was important only that he be true to his coaching beliefs, not to what anyone thought.

Last week, Knight offered to resign at Indiana. That offer followed his conviction in a Puerto Rico court on a misdemeanor charge filed after an altercation with an off-duty policeman during the Pan American Games. Knight was sentenced to six months in jail, to be served in Puerto Rico if Indiana would extradite him. Both Indiana and Puerto Rico say they do not want to do that.

Knight's offer of resignation was, I believe, sincere. The man does not lie. He brooks no deviousness. There is a coach adored and sainted by the media, a coach most juniors address as "Mr. Raymond," to make up a name. Knight believes Mr. Raymond to be a cheat and liar. "I refuse to call him 'Mr Raymond,' " Knight said. "I call him by his first name, John. Let him figure out why.'

THE PRESIDENT of Indiana University, John Ryan, turned down Knight's offer to quit.

The cynical view is that the president is a politician answerable to the people of Indiana. The only thing those people love more than basketball is winning at basketball. Knight's record at Indiana is spectacular, including a national championship in 1976 with a starting team of five players so talented, and so well-taught by Knight, that they all are still playing in the pros. So the president couldn't let Knight quit, couldn't let a little island in the Caribbean bring down a coach who only shoved an officious cop after the cop allegedly first poked him in the eye. That would be bad politics.

It would also be bad for college athletics. Whatever Knight's faults, and this is not to minimize them, they are as nothing next to his strengths. In a college athletic system in which corrupt coaches keep right on coaching, Knight is an honest man. No one has ever suggested Knight breaks recruiting rules. He is a brilliant teacher. His coaching films are standard texts around thhe country. When he yanked an erring Jim Wisman off the court with a sharp tug of his jersey, Knight delivered no physical abuse. He simply turned the player around to face his screams. If a professor in a literature class can reduce a student to remorse with a stare of the rebuke of an extra moment's silence, it is understandable that in the explosion of sound and fury that is an Indiana basketball game, the teacher-coach might seize the student-player's wandering attention however he can. Not admirable, but understandable.

"I know Coach Knight," said an unconcerned Wisman the next day when the Knight-pulling-his-jersey picture showed up on Page One of an Indianapolis newspaper. Wisman the next year was a starter for Knight. and a year later was Knight's team

LAST SEASON, University of Kentucky boosters put on a 50th birthday party-roast for Joe Hall, the coach who Knight once cuffed on the head.

Everyone showed up in tuxedos, except for one man, apparently an intruder, who walked on stage in a golf sweater. The fellow took the microphone and said Hall was a great coach, a coach Kentucky could be

"There's only one thing," the man said. "Why can't Joe behave himself on the bench like that nice guy they have up at Indiana?"

The Kentucky fans loved it. Joe Hall was laughing when Bob Knight

Birds' Murray discovers Minnesota homer secret

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

In nearly three seasons with the Baltimore Orioles, none of Eddie Murray's 72 homers had been hit in Minnesota. Three swings later, the Metropolitan Mystery was solved.

"All I know is, I hadn't hit one in this ballpark before," said Murray, who hit three homers in the second game of a double-header sweep over the Minnesota Twins Wednesday. "The Twins have been tough on me. I haven't had too many hits here of any

The 23-year-old switch-hitting slugger had a sacrifice fly in the 4-0 opening-game victory and then knocked in all of Baltimore's runs in the 7-4 second-game triumph with his three homers, two from the right side and one from the left.

Murray has built a reputation as a hitter you shouldn't throw fastballs to, but on Wednesday he said he "decided to sit on some slow stuff for a

Geoff Zahn blanked the Orioles until the fifth when Murray, hitting right-handed, connected for a threerun homer. A two-run blast off Zahn in the seventh and another two-run shot, Murray's 21st of the year, against Mike Marshall put the game away in the eighth.

In the opener, Scott McGregor won his seventh game in eight decisions since the All-Star break, scattering eight singles for the shutout, while Doug DeCinces hit a two-run triple to supplement sacrifice flies by Murray and Al Bumbry.

After the second game, Earl Weaver was eligible to come off a threegame suspension for publicly questioning the integrity of umpire Ron Luciano, but he said he was "too nervous and upset" to go to the dugout after sitting in the stands during the first game.

"I feel I've been submitted to undue humiliation by Ron Luciano," said Weaver. "My health has become impaired and I'm better off not in the

Pete LaCock drove in four runs and Amos Otis three and the Royals got homers from LaCock, Otis and George Brett as they scored 17 of their runs in the first four innings. Infielders Sal Bando and Jim Gantner and catcher Buck Martinez combined to pitch the last five innings for the Brewers, allowing three runs.

Gorman Thomas had two homers for the Brewers, tying him with Fred Lynn for the league lead with 36.

Tigers 2, Angels 1-Slumping California lost its seventh game in the last eight and 11th out of 15 as Detroit's Steve Kemp knocked in Lou Whitaker with a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning. Jack Morris, 13-5, got the victory with hitless relief the last two innings by Aurelio Lopez.

er when Cleveland erupted for five runs in the ninth to win. The Indians then captured the second game on Toby Harrah's two-run homer and a combined six-hitter by Rick Waits and Victor Cruz.

Andre Thornton hit his 21st homer, a two-run shot off Bannister, for the first big blow of the first-game rally, then a single by Gary Alexander and a walk set up a two-run double by Mike Hargrove off Shane Rawley that tied the game. Rawley then gave up a long single to Rick Manning that ended the game.

now is a household word among Texas bass fishermen and with good reason. The small (2,000 surface acre) powerplant reservoir near Mount Pleasant has produced some of the most impressive trophy largemouth bass caught in Texas during the past year. This trophy production has caused a virtual gold rush for fishermen with as many as 40 boats queued up at avail-

> The findings should allay anyone's fears, as a one-acre cove yielded 253 pounds of bass. Biologist Joe Toole, Marshall, pointed out that the per acre average for lakes in the area was only 30 to 35 pounds of bass.

"It was unreal to see that many near-trophy bass in one small area, Toole said. "We found excellent representation in each size class, from the young-of-the-year to the 20 inches.'

Toole added that apparently there is some concentration of the lake's fish population in some of the cooler areas, LAKE MONTICELLO as another cove sampled near the powerplant discharge turned up very few fish. But he said at least half the lake offers the same type habitat as the cove which held 253 pounds per acre.

Toole credits the presence of the Florida strain of largemouth bass for Monticello's ability to produce trophy-sized bass. Approximately 50 percent of bass picked up in the male were department-stocked Florida bass, and virtually all able ramps on some days the 10-pound-plus trophy bass caught from the lake so far have been confirmed as the Florida strain., including a 12pound, four-ounce lunker

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles in which individual Egyptians tell how they regard peace with Israel.

> By MORT YOUNG Hearst Newspapers

GIZA, Egypt — "I speak my mind frankly," said the merchant, "because Sadat is a great man and Begin is a great man. And because I know you will not use my name, please.'

For Egyptians, the mystery of the sphinx is how far they can go, just how much personal freedom they dare exercise. But that is not as important as the blossoming of peace. Peace means their sons won't die young. Peace means prosperity.

Seated on a cushion on the veranda of a friend's villa over which the great pyramid of Cheops stood black against the night sky, Abdel-salaam Kemal not his real name, as promised - arranged his flowing galabia over his legs to keep off mosquitos and listed some of his family's assets

"Cotton fields. Papyrus plantations. A perfume factory. Tourists shops," he began. "Then, many of the family work as guides, camel drivers, chaffeurs. Others are policemen, government clerks. My oldest son is in the army."

MR. KEMAL IS rich even by American standards. Semi-literate, he keeps his accounts in his head. Despite the family's wealth, over which he presides, he remains a villager and a traditionalist. Thanks to the family, he has fingers in many pies and his information is usually more accurate than what appears in the press. Uppermost in his mind these days is the preparation for full peace with Isra-

"We want the Israelis to come, we welcome them," Mr. Kemal insisted. "My brother's oldest son learned Hebrew at Cairo University and wants to open a travel agency in Tel Aviv. We want them to hurry up and come to Egypt.'

"The Jews are our cousins after all," the deep voice of Mr. Kemal's brother, Solimon, intruded. Already blessed as a Moslem by having made the pilgrimage to Mecca, Solimon was anxious to complete his travels. "Let the Israelis come. Let me go to Jerusalem," he added.

"Business will be good with peace," Mr. Kemal continued. "War is not good for Egyptians or Jews. With peace, everybody lives. Life can go on. No more sons die, no more brothers die, no more fathers

Mr. Kemal glanced around the veranda as if searching for someone who disagreed. Finding none, he said, "Let the Jewish people come and go. There is no difference."

A robust man of 45, Mr. Kemal has lived through the wars with Israel.

"WHEN SADAT WENT to Israel, we were very happy," he said. "He looked for peace for his country. After October 10 (1973, when The Yom Kippur War began), everything changed. After October 10, Sadat had the power.

"Everybody is behind him. Everybody wants peace! The Palestinians are stupid!" Mr. Kemal shouted, so that a servant making tea in the courtyard turned to look. "The Palestinians must talk with the Israelis. If they don't talk, they will lose

Solimon Kemal murmured in Arabic

'No," replied Kemal, still shouting. "We cannot spill our blood for them all the time. Let them talk, the Palestinians, not kill. Everytime the Arabs wanted to make war and Egypt made war, look what happened. The Syrians run away. The Jordanians run away. Egypt is left to fight. Our sons die. For

"Peace is better," his brother agreed. "But in any case, you must have 'cosa.' That is," he explained to the writer, "you must know someone, you must have

Mr. Kemal, calmer now, disagreed. "Sadat finished all that graft. He is good for the country. Now everyone can make money.'

UNDER PRESIDENT Sadat since 1979, Egypt's middle class has grown. The ceiling on income, set at a maximum of $10,000 a year by the late Gamel Abdel Nasser, was eliminated. Nasser's secret police, which visited shops like those owned by the Kemal family, had to be bribed regularly. If not, non-payers could find themselves charged with espionage or another serious crime and hauled to jail in the middle of the night.

'Sadat made it so that no policeman can come to your house after 10 o'clock at night," Mr. Kemal said. "I love Sadat. I love Begin, because he is making peace.'

Asked why he was afraid to have his identity known, since he supported the government, Mr. Kemal said, "I want to keep out of trouble. I want to sleep well.

"I am not an official. Frankly, a man from the government would come and ask me why I spoke. He would ask me who I am, to speak for Egypt. I would not be punished," he said. "I don't need the trou-

Nevertheless, Mr. Kemal does have trouble.

"MY SONS. I have two and also two daughters," he said. "The oldest boy went into the army three months ago. He will stay three years because he has not gone to the university. University graduates are drafted only for one year. I am not worried. He is stationed in Cairo. Insh'Allah! There is no war.

'But this one here," he said, pointing to a galabiaclad youth stretched across two cushions, his eyes glued to the TV set perched on a chair. "He is twelve. He smokes. I send him to school and he comes back. He won't go. What can I do? I cannot smoke and rock and roll all night with bad girls." "If I don't give them money, they go to their mother and get it," Mr. Kemal admitted. "It is very bad. You know, I must do for them what my father did for me. My father strengthened the family business and left me the shops and the fields. But inflation is terrible. A meter of land in this village cost $75 a few years ago. Now it costs $225 - maybe

"I must leave something for my sons, make them safe," Mr. Kemal said. "But they will not work in the family business. They do not know what they want.

"AT LEAST I WILL not have them shot in the back in a war," he said.

The Kemal brothers said they still feel they are part of the Arab world, but not as strongly as they once did.

"Nasser told us we were all Arabs and must help our Arab brothers in other countries," said Solimon. "Okay, we did. Egypt is the center of the Arab world, and it was our responsibility. Look what happened. They ran, we died. We won't do that again. First we are Egyptians, then Arabs.'

"We never asked them to die for us," Mr. Kemal commented.

The brothers were reflecting the official government line, as did most other Egyptians spoken to. Although President Sadat has made the Palestinian cause an integral part of his negotiations with Israel, he has also stressed that Egypt first must ensure its own survival.

THE KEMAL brothers, as well as their urban counterparts in Cairo, bluntly put the Palestinians second. They are aware Egypt is teetering on the verge of bankruptcy and depends on foreign

"With peace, the money spent on the army can be spent to make Egypt rich," said Mr. Kemal. "It is the same with Israel. If the Jews did not spend so much on their army and we did not spend so much on ours, we could all be harpy.'

The government-dominated press also has helped convince the Kemal brothers that over-population is Egypt's greatest enemy, that birth control must be practiced. The brothers each have four children; both said they would have no more. Simple economics has convinced others. Young married couples ordinarily cannot afford to have one child and are postponing having children until their incomes enable them to feed the extra mouths.

That a country, whose peasants for thousands of years raised large families in order to have enough labor to till the fields and survive, is accepting birth control, may be taken as a measure of President Sadat's popularity. It is an important change in a land with a reputation for being change-proof.

Although far from being a democracy in the western sense, Egypt is freer than it was under Nasser. If Egyptians do worry about what they can say and to whom, the question nowadays is of degree. If they no longer take the old dream of Arab unity so much to heart, they do feel themselves to be an important part of the Moslem world.

PRESIDENT SADAT IS almost, though not quite, universally admired for his bold journey to Jerusalem. He is looked up to as the leader, and, say the Kemal brothers, he can save Egypt. Yet the bridge to real peace is fragile.

"If Sadat dies, there is no one to take his place," said Mr. Kemal. "It will all be over."

The Kemal family, and other entrepreneurs here, look to the West for help. Egyptians seem to regard the United States with the same intense interest that the pharoahs showed in the life they anticipated after death. It was something valuable to hope for. What is new is the eagerness to welcome Israelis - and to sell them what the market will bear. "We also need the Israelis to teach us modern business methods," said Solimon Kemal. "I remember when the Jews were here and how Jewish merchants helped their Moslem neighbors. It was good for everyone's business.'

"Peace is good," said his brother. "Salaam." "Shalom," Solimon instructed him.

NEW YORK (AP) -This October, the newlyformed Creedmoor Repertory Company will produce "Curious Savage." It's a comedy about mental patients and some in the cast may be just that.

The CRC is at a state mental hospital, the Creedmoor Psychiatric Center in Queens Vil-lage, about 20 miles east of Broadway. The company held its first casting call this month.

The troupe's salaried artistic director, Bob Petito, a New York stage veteran, says CRC members will include hospital staffers as well as patients, plus theater amateurs and professionals.

The company is the brainchild of Dr. Yoosuf Haveliwala, director of Creedmoor. He says the hospital now cares for 1,-500 patients living there and treats another 9,000 persons on an out-patient

BOND ISSUE:

MUNICIPAL COURT BUILDING AND POLICE STATION

As a result of the recent rapid growth of Midland, and its anticipated future growth, voters will be asked to express their opinion on a $16 million bond issue on Tuesday, September 4. These funds will be used for the improvement and upgrading of sewage and water facilities, street improvements, and construction and renovation of city-owned facilities.

FACTS:

- Due to an increase in population, the Municipal Court Building is in need of more space.
- $380,000 of the bond issue will expand the Public Safety Building, provide space for a defense attorney, warrant officers and a jury deliberation room.
- City Clerks are presently in need of 3 times the space currently available.
- Due to Midland's growth we will soon be in need of a second judge and courtroom. This bond issue would provide for this contingency.

FACTS:

- Due to increased case loads resulting from our population growth, the police station has outgrown its present · facility.
- $550,000 of the bond issue will remodel the court area for occupancy by the police department, will remodel the downstairs area of the fire station for occupancy by the police department, and provide an exercise area for presents to meet new federal requirements.

The Citizens Committee urges all Midlanders to vote for continued growth and prosperity for Midland by voting YES on the issues on Tuesday, September 4.

BULLDOGS! Gee, it's good to see those suntanned, smiling faces back in the shining, spruced-up halls of MHS. The fresh paint, new lockers, new faculty and, of course, the Sophomores have changed things for the better.

Speaking of Sophs, the over-all turnout at Sophomore Orientation was a great success. Thanks to all parents, faculty, Packbackers, cheerleaders and Rasco for all the help and concern. From what we saw last Thursday night, the sophomore class puts the icing on the cake for a great pack of hungry Bulldogs.

Super Dog Night by all means has made a name in Midland. What a way to start off the year! The Packbackers scrubbed, scoured and shined their way to $160 at the car wash to start a super, sound savings for our Super Dogs. At 8 p.m., Midland Memorial Stadium was the scene of Super-Super Dog lovers. The hot dogs and the Bulldogs were great. The getting down at the Youth Center was even better.
All in all, Super Dog Night lived up to its name!
By the way, if you didn't happen to notice or wonder about the cordless microphone at the stadium, MHS is the proud possessor of a new mike. How it will be appreciated at all of the outdoor events! Thanks go to all Seniors of '79. It looks like it's straight from Star Wars.

GOOD LUCK, MEN, in the Brownwood scrimmage. It's just a sample of what's to come, right? Way to start off your senior year, Blake Hightower! We all wish you a speedy recovery, and don't get carried away with the nurses.

ATTENTION, all Sophomores! You are cordially invited to the first 100 Club organizational meeting of the year. We know you will want to become members since the Youth Center plays a big part in your high school life. Remember this date - Sept. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the YC. See ya there.

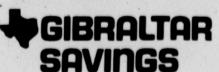

Also, all Junior Council members: First meeting is tonight at 7 in the YC. You had better already be Midland High will have a little more German and Finnish blood in our system this year. Annemarthe Hubner from Germany and Kirai Maaria Hytonen from Finland have joined us as our new AFS and YPU students. A big, warm Bulldog welcome!

We've got our bodies movin' and groovin' to the beat. Let's keep goin' and standing on our feet.
