Soviet troops in Cuba, U.S. sources confirm

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources have confirmed the existence in Cuba of Soviet combat troops - possibly some 2,300 to 3,000 men, says Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Sen. Frank Church.

Church Thursday called on President Carter to insist on immediate withdrawal of the brigade of ground-combat

"The United States cannot permit the island to become a Russian military base, 90 miles from our shores, nor can we allow Cuba to be used as a springboard for Russian military intervention in the Western hemisphere," Church said.

Church, an Idaho Democrat, said he and other members of the committee heard reports several weeks ago of a Soviet troop buildup in Cuba. He said members of the committee agreed to say nothing until the reports were confirmed

Church said Secretary of State Cyrus Vance called him Thursday to confirm the buildup. He said "American intelligence units" confirmed existence of the Soviets. but he said he could not disclose the type of opera-

Church said he was advised by Vance that the Soviet Embassy in Washington has been asked for a full explanation. Asked why the Russians were placing troops in Cuba, Church said: "That's one of the questions we have asked the Soviet Embassy."

Russia has had military advisers in Cuba under agreements reached shortly after the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. But Church said they are there for training and communications.

This is the first time Russia has placed combat-type troops in Cuba, he said, adding, "... our concern for deployment of Russian combat troops in this hemisphere

"It is one thing for Russians to engage in such activities in places like Angola )nd Ethiopia. It is quite another thing to move into what always has been regarded as our own front yard."

Church said the type of troops involved, ground combat units, also concerned him.

On Aug. 7, the Defense Department said "there might have been a very modest increase"in the Soviet military presence in Cuba. U.S. intelligence sources said then that estimates indicated 2,000 military advisers and between 4,000 and 6,000 civilian technicians and advisory personnel

The Defense Department had no comment on Church's report. But in response to previous such reports, Pentagon spokesmen said the Soviet military in Cuba were advisers and technicians and were not combat troops.

Church said the presence of Russian ground troops did not pose the threat of the 1962 missle buildup. But, he said, "The president must make it clear, we draw the line on Russian penetration of this hemisphere.'

Clements minimized spill to lease rigs, Demo says

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements minimized the Mexican oil slick because he wants to lease drilling rigs to Mexico, says State Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg.

Goldberg said he supports Attorney General Mark White's exploration of a possible lawsuit against Mexico, the oil drilling contractor or SEDCO, the owner of the drilling rig.

"Let's put them under oath and see who is really to blame for the $100 million disaster. Then I suspect we will learn why Clements tried for over a month to downplay the whole affair and argue against the lawsuit," Clements founded SEDCO but put his interest in a blind trust upon becoming governor. His son now runs the company. Goldberg was a leading campaigner for former Attorney General John Hill, whom Clements defeated in the 1978 governor's race. He was elected state Democratic chairman on Hill's recommendation.

Goldberg asserted Clements had downplayed the oil slick because "he wanted to maintain good relations with Pemex (Mexico's nationalized oil industry) so that he could lease them more drilling rigs in the fu-

"He's afraid to offend the Mexicans for fear they won't let SEDCO have any more of their business," Goldberg said.

Mayor says city's growth may be tied to bond issue

By ED TODD Staff Writer

Midland's continued growth and the city's providing of adequate services may be tied to the $16.83 million bond issue confronting Midland voters Tuesday, Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. told the Downtown Midland Rotary Club in The Midland Hilton at noon Thursday.

'We're not in an emergency," Angelo said. "There's no crisis. But to prepare the city for a growth of up to 120,000" population toward end of the century, certain propositions on the bond issue must be implemented, he

The nine-part issue includes water and sewer improvements, drainage and street upgrading, new city-county health department building apart from Midland Memorial Hospital, a Municipal Courts Building, renovating the Public Safety Building, adding two stories to the three-story City Hall, remodeling the city's service operations building and adding on to the city garage.

Each of the nine propositions will be voted on separately.

Angelo said the City Council was not acting frivolously in submitting this "fairly complicated, expensive bond issue" to the voters.

"We've had a greater growth than any of us could imagine 41/2 years ago," he said.

"We've tried to be prudent in growth planning."

Angelo side-stepped placing priorities on the proposals. However, he did suggest that the first three - sewer, water and street improvements - on the ballot "have a lot more obvious and immediate needs than the others

City Hall addition in bond issue EDITOR'S NOTE: Midlanders will go to the polls Tuesday to decide the fate of a $16.83 million bond issue containing nine proposals. This is the sixth in a seven-part series examining the proposals.

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

After 13 years of use in both boom and bust periods, the seams of Midland's City Hall now threaten to burst under the pressures of increased workloads and personnel, said City Manager James Brown recently.

Because of that, the City Council has included a proposal for a $750,-000 two-story addition to City Hall in the $16.83 million bond issue going to the voters Tuesday.

The present City Hall building was finished in 1966, said Brown. Even then, the building had been scaled down from the original plans because of "building costs exceeding the amount of money available for the construction of the project.

"It meant every office was filled to capacity insofar as a good working situation was concerned," he said.

Plans had called for two more floors, but these were deleted because it would have cost an additional $160,-000 then, according to the city manag-.er. But in looking ahead, the City Council instructed the contractor to build the roof so two more floors could be added later.

A second elevator shaft also was built into the structure, and these are now being used as closets in most offices, according to Brown.

When city personnel moved into the new building in 1966, there were 69.5 employees, Brown said. With the 1979-80 budget, that number will have increased 52 percent to 105.5 employ-

Also, Brown said there is an increasing shortage of storage space as files keep growing with material that can't be thrown away.

Offices which are not crowded include those for the city secretary. data processing and water accoun-

"The rest of the departments range from moderate crowding to very crowded," Brown said, citing the engineering drafting room and the Planning and Zoning Department as examples of extreme overcrowding. In 1966, the Planning Department had three people in the offices. Today there are nine, Brown said.

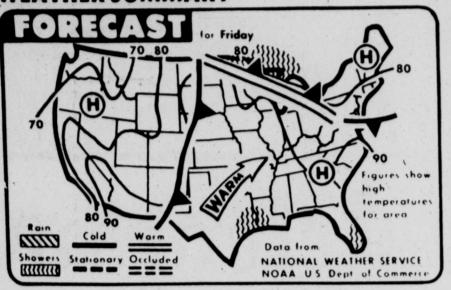

Situation in the Finance Department is complicated by the copying machine for the entire City Hall being located in a back room, Brown said. This means everyone needing to copy materials must walk all the way through the Finance Department, and

Witness in drug trial says he, DEA agent were in bar

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A government witness in the marijuana conspiracy trial of two West Texas men has testified that he and a Drug Enforcement Administration agent shared a night out at a San Antonio bar last weekend with two women. Defense attorneys brought out the testimony Thursday in an attempt to discredit Terry Wayne Fagan - the star witness in the government's prosecution of Pecos oilman-banker John R. Dorr and his associate, John Grant Passmore of Royalty.

Dorr, 40, and Passmore are charged with conspiring to import about 960 pounds of marijuana from Mexico into the United States.

Dorr, who in 1974 was president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, maintained offices in Mid-

Eight persons were named in the alleged conspiracy, which came to light after federal agents seized an airplane loaded with marijuana at an airport in Roswell, N.M.

A prosecution witness testified Wednesday that Fagan, a former Fort Worth policeman, flew the plane during its ill-fated mission.

Fagan said the evening of drinking occurred last Friday night and early Saturday in a San Antonio nightclub at a hotel where Fagan and federal agents are being housed during the Dorr-Passamore trial.

The former policeman testified he turned down the agent's offer of a "night on the town" three times before finally agreeing to go out. Fagan said he finally accepted the offer because "it's my practice not to hurt anyone's feelings unnecessarily."

U.S. District Judge D.W. Suttle, who earlier ruled the testimony inadmissable, changed his mind Thursday and allowed Fagan to tell jurors about events surrounding the night.

Fagan said he sat at the club with a DEA agent Ed Alcorn of Midland and two women and drank until the bar closed at 2 a.m.

The four then went to the agent's hotel room and partied for almost another hour, he testified.

After leaving Alcorn with one of the women, Fagan said he took the other woman to his room. He and the woman slept in separate beds until 6 a.m., when he asked the woman to

Carter should apologize for bashing bunny: Dole

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Bob Dole, who wants to be president, says President Carter should apologize for "bashing a bunny in the head with a paddle."

The Kansas senator put his oar in Thursday, claiming to be the Senate's foremost authority on rabbit rights.

"I'm sure the rabbit intended the president no harm," Dole said. "In fact, the poor thing was simply doing something a little unusual these days trying to get aboard the president's boat. Everyone else seems to be jumping ship.

The incident in question involved reports that Carter, while fishing in a pond in Georgia, was "attacked" by a "Banzai Bunny" that swam toward Carter, pressed Thursday about the rabbit incident, said, "It was just a nice, quiet, typical Georgia rabbit." Dole, who said in May he would seek the Republican presidential nomination, has been involved in two Capitol Hill bills involving rabbits.

Adding to that department's crowded conditions are the auditors who are housed there three to four months each year while checking the city's books, he added.

The Credit Union takes up part of the space in the Personnel Department, affording those applying for credit no privacy, Brown said.

And the vault, which stores old records, "is seriously overcrowded to the point that any semblance of order is very difficult to maintain for those seeking to look for old files," Brown advised the city council.

Another primary reason for adding two floors is to clear out the Inspections and Building-Permits Department in the basement, placing the personnel on an upper floor and moving an Emergency Operating Center into that space, according to Brown.

Some space out of the Conference Room in the basement also would be taken for the emergency center, he

The four building inspectors, when they moved into the basement in 1966, had large offices. But the City Council took part of their offices to enlarge the Conference Room. Thus, the four men were put in a small room, originally intended to house the city's telephone swithcboard.

The city manager said the city staff first had looked at adding a one-story structure north of the present building. But architects suggested adding the upper two floors to City Hall, making the building more "architecturally pleasing and saving our parking lot, which we desperately need."

The two floors would relieve the crowded conditions and give City Hall some surplus space for future growth, Brown said.

"Once a city gets to a certain size, or is growing, the necessity for space will be there for many, many years," Brown said

Expanding City Hall will appear as Proposition No. 7 on the ballot.

A brief rain shower Thursday afternoon caught just about everyone in Midland - including the weatherman - offguard and dropped almost half and inch of rain in downtown Midland. Most points on the city's north side recorded about .4 inch, according to reports. The Midland Farmers's Coop, located in far east Midland, reported receiving .25 inch. The National Weather Service, located at Midland Regional Airport, recorded only an official .02 inch. That rainfall brings this month's total to 2.17 inches and this year's figure so far to 12.2 inches. Low temperature tonight should

Winds tonight should blow out of the south at 5-10 mph. Thursday's high temperature was a

Hurricane David heads

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) -Hurricane David headed for the Dominican Republic today after leveling the little Caribbean island of Dominica, where as many as 4,000 persons were reported injured, and five to 16 or more killed.

Three persons were killed as the storm skirted Puerto Rico.

The Caribbean News Service reported at least 16 persons had died on Dominica, but officials aboard the British navy frigate Fife, leading a rescue effort, said only five deaths had been confirmed.

TheHFife report said preliminary estimates indicated up to 5 percent of the island's 81,000 inhabitants were injured. Dr. Jose Colon, San Juan's chief meteorologist, said the eye of the storm should come ashore on the Barahona Peninsula, the Dominican Republic's southernmost point, by 5 p.m. EDT and cross through Haiti early Saturday, heading on a course that would take it between Jamaica and Cuba.

There was no prediction where it the center.

The government of the Bahama Islands issued a hurricane watch for the southeastern island groups of Turks and Caicos, which lie north of the Dominican Republic.

Police in the southern coastal city of Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, evacuated residents from low-lying areas.

Farther to the south in the Atlantic, the season's third hurricane was building up midway between the northwest coast of Africa and the Windward Islands, lashed two days ago by David.

The U.S. National Weather Service in its noon advisory said David's center was about 70 miles south of Santo Domingo, at 17.4 degrees north latitude and 70.0 degrees west longitude.

It was still moving west-northwest with maximum sustained winds of 150 mph, but the speed of its advance had dropped slightly from 15 to 13 mph. Hurricane-force winds of 74 mph and more extended for 50 miles out from

A 22-year-old man was indicted by the Midland County Grand Jury Wednesday on charges of murder and attempted murder in connection with the Aug. 21 shooting death of a Junction man and the alleged attempted murder of a Midland woman.

Coy Preece Jr. was indicted on the charges by the Midland County Grand Jury. The grand jury also returned nine other indictments against seven other individuals.

Daniel Nixon, 22, of Junction died the evening of Aug. 22 in Midland Memorial Hospital after he was shot more than once with a shotgun and small caliber weapon nearly in front of the Midland Police Department offices, according to police reports and accounts at that time.

Witnesses said Nixon and a passen-

Later, Preece was charged in connection with the incident and was arrested in San Angelo and returned to Midland.

Preece remained in Midland County Jail Thursday in lieu of posting a $100,000 bond on the murder charge and a $50,000 bond on the attempted murder charge.

He was in Midland City Jail Thursday in lieu of posting a $10,000 bond on each of the charges.

Red navy rules waves

Jane's Fighting Ships, the acknowledged bible of the world's navies, for the last decade has been sounding annual alarms over the growth of Soviet seapower. And this year is no excep-

In the foreword to Jane's 1979-80 edition, Editor John E. Moore warns that the Soviet fleet is now strong enough to deny the West access to raw materials and markets. He says the United States and other free world nations have let their navies wane to the point that they can no longer keep the Soviet navy from cutting our sea lanes.

Mr. Moore, a former deputy chief of British naval intelligence, concludes that the steady increase in Soviet naval strength and the concurrent reduction in the numbers of warships available to the United States and its NATO allies jeopardize peace and leaves the West vulnerable to Russian blackmail.

The U.S. Navy, for instance has been slashed by almost half since the end of the Vietnam War. The Soviet navy now has more than four times as many combatant

Mr. Moore emphasized, as well he might, the increasingly offensive cast of Soviet naval power and shipbuilding programs. New Soviet aircraft carriers and amphibious warships reveal an emerging offensive doctrine for a fleet that was little more than a coastal defense force less than 20 years ago. These most recent additions to the Russian navy coupled with an expanding network of bases in Africa and Asia clearly signal the liklihood of new Angolas, Ethiopias and Vietnams in the not-too-distant future.

Editor Moore's carefully chosen words should be required reading at the White House and on Capitol Hill. The Carter administration in particular has been slow to recognize the need for a sharp increase in U.S. naval strength.

As a former naval officer, Mr. Carter should be conversant with the critical importance of seapower made all the more essential at a time of growing American reliance on imported raw materials and petroleum. It is true, nevertheless, that Mr. Carter and his secretary of Defense have yet to develop either a naval strategy to meet the Soviet threat or a longrange budgetary commitment to a shipbuilding program which could reverse the decline in U.S. naval power.

This is something which is difficult to understand, particularly when it is pointed out so clearly that the free world will suffer immediate collapse if denied raw materials from abroad.

Americans should and must realize that the United States no longer rules the waves. This is something which most of us haven't thought too much about, but it is time right now that we start thinking. Most of the free world is dependent on supplies which come in on those waves. Once the Soviet navy closes those sea lanes it will be just to bad for the U.S. and other free world

Mr. Moore is absolutely right in suggesting that the indecision in Washington poses the greatest dangers for the United States and its allies.

Let's make every effort to arouse the White House and Congress as to the hazards involved.

Well, it could have been written today, but actually it was published in The Salem, Mo., Post on Aug. 21, 1919, and reproduced recently in the "Sixty Years Ago" column in The Salem News.

Many people today don't prefer to take a stand By CHARLEY REESE

ORLANDO, Fla. - A lady recently complained about my calling the president a liar. She agreed that he lies, but she said I shouldn't call it lying. She said I should just point out the inconsistencies and contradictions and leave it at that.

Well, she is certainly not the Lone Ranger. I get that criticism often, sometimes from editors, and most columnists do just what she suggests. It's a fair question to ask why I don't imitate them. There are several reasons. First, I think it's a cop-out. When you point out a contradiction and stop short of applying the proper name to that contradiction, then what you are doing is avoiding the task of making a moral judgment.

This has become a widespread habit in our society and one which I think is dangerous to the health of the Republic. I suppose it is an offshoot of situational ethics, the brainchild of a leftist theologian which says, in effect, that there are no absolutes and good and evil are only relative.

I don't buy that theory. I think when you throw the concepts of good and evil out the front door, then evil comes in the back door. It is the pornographer, the thief, the liar, the grafter, and the killer who want you o avoid making moral judgments.

A pornographer came to my office once and asked me to write a column defending his first amendment rights. He started talking about James Joyce, D.H. Lawrence and Shakespeare. I threw him out. He wasn't selling Joyce, Lawrence or Shakespeare. He was selling pornography and what he was asking was that I void making any judgments and simply consider that any words on paper are literature. That is the position of the courts these days, but I don't buy

Others I suppose avoid making moral judgments simply out of timidity. When you make a moral judgment, you commit yourself. You say, in effect, this is where I stand. A lot of people these days don't like to stand anywhere. They find it safer to keep

They are like a preacher I know. The husband of a regular churchgoing women left her for a much younger woman. Then he brought his girlfriend to church before the divorce was final. When the aggrieved wife said somethimng to the preacher, the minister replied, "Well, I like you both and I'm not going to take sides." God must have thrown up over that one.

I happen to have a moral code based on the Judaic-Christian values and as I comment on passing events, I apply it. This is, of course, an opinion column and that's what you get, my opinions, and they are worth precisely the price of this newspaper.

You are not required to either accept them or like them. It is not my goal as a columnist to persuade anyone to accept my view of things. I am not in the guru business. My goal is to provoke thought and to stimulate discussion of issues. I am a firm believer in the rule that everyone must think for himself and make his own decisions. If your thinking leads you to disagree with me, that's fine; I haven't cornered the market on

A second reason I speak bluntly about public figures is that I wish to offset a distressing tendency among some people to be heel-clickers.

We are a nation of free individuals, all equal before the law. A president or a senator is only one of us, hired to do a job. He is not a lord, a king, or an emperor. We should not worship him or even defer to him. We do not swear allegiance to the president or the Congress, neither the persons nor the offices. Our allegiance is to the Constitution and to the republic

Every president since Harry Truman has fallen into the trap of believing that he is some kind of special person. That's bad enough, but it's even worse when the people believe it,

What the lady was really saying was that we should apply a different standard to public officials. Probably, she has fallen for the old cliche, "Respect the office if not the man." The office, however, is a mere abstraction. You can't pay your respects to a job description.

The president is a human being, just like us, with the same human limitations. He is hired by us to do a job - to make certain decisions, to execute the laws in accordance with the Constitution. We, as his employers, have a perfect right to criticize his performance and to fire him if we don't like it.

A politician, even a president, is entitled to the same courtesy and respect for his rights as is the janitor's helper at the courthouse - no more, no less. Never forget, in our country, they are equals.

Best wishes for fine(less) holiday

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - This weekend, millions of Americans will take to the highways despite the gasoline crunch. Along with the new discomfort of $1-a-gallon gas, many motorists will encounter an old discomfort as well - that peculiarly American institution, the speed trap.

The "small-town heist," as it has been called, still flourishes in some parts of the country. And the use of sophisticated radar equipment has made it easier for the local cops to nail their unsuspecting prey — and fill the town's coffers with on-the-spot

Indeed, the speed trap "heist" is no longer confined to small towns. Enforcement has become big business, extracting millions from otherwise law-abiding citizens each year.

In some jurisdictions, the speed laws are truly draconian. In Missouri, for example, a speeder can get a jail sentence of up to a year and be fined as much as $1,000. The Delaware state legislature recently passed a law calling for steep fines for motorists clocked at only one (1) mile per hour over the speed limit.

Here are some localities to be wary

- Friendly, W. Va. The sign at the edge of this sleepy Ohio River town (Pop. 190) cuts the speed limit by 20 mph. Until recently, the $800 a month in fines paid the salary of the one-man police force. But he left last month, giving motorists a respite until a new enforcer is hired. Delaware. Most Delaware constabularies have their hands in the pockets of speeders. Fenwick Island drops the speed limit abruptly to 35 mph. Stern - and lucrative - justice is dispensed by the local alderman, a disbarred attorney from Maryland, netting the resort town thousands each year from vacationers in a hurry.

The nearby town of Bethany bought its first radar unit three years ago, and recouped its entire investment in the first month, perhaps the best municipal investment since Peter Minuit bought Manhattan for $24. Other Delaware towns to keep an eye on are Smyrna, Elsmere, Little Creek, Ellendale, Milton and Greenwood. The flat, straight roads leading to the Atlantic Ocean beaches are a temptation that can be costly.

Selma, Texas, is located in another temptingly flat area. (A state official told our reporter Matt Speiser, "If you haven't driven across Texas at 55 mph, you don't know the meaning of the word 'eternity." Selma's four-man police force patrols a short stretch of Interstate 35 relentlessly and profitably. At one time, more than 80 percent of the city's annual budget came from speeding

- Jordan Valley, Ore., is hidden away close to the Idaho border on U.S. 95. Until recently, the police chief operated on a unique incentive system, paying his expenses from speeding fines and getting to keep anything left over. Now he's on salary, but the speeders - and their greenbacks keep rolling in.

- Other places where it's wise to keep your eye on the speedometer include St. Petersburg, Fla., on Pasadena at the north end of town; in central New Jersey, where U.S. 22 and I-78 merge and police are looking for cigarette- and gun-smugglers heading for New York; in Kentucky, from Winchester to Salyersville; in Virginia, U.S. 301 through Dinwiddie and Sussex, and Interstate 85 from McKenney to the North Carolina state line; in Ohio, Interstate 70 in Licking County; in Pennsylvania, Cresson on U.S. 22 and the village of Chinchilla in South Abington; in Tennessee, Cookeville; in New York, Route 17 between Wellsville and Olean; most of Louisiana and all of Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and New Mexi-

Footnote: Although radar generally intimidates speeders, the devices are not infallible. One Florida judge threw out 80 speeding cases after watching a Miami television broadcast. It showed a radar unit that clocked a tree doing 86 mph, and another that caught a house doing 28

Have a nice weekend.

ENDANGERED INDIANS: Another Indian tribe is threatened with extinction by the white man's insatiable quest for wealth and "progress." The 8,000 Yanomamo Indians in Brazil's Ajarani River valley were invaded, not by soldiers and armed settlers, but by government road-

The results were as lethal as a military operation. The Northern Perimeter Highway cut through the Yanomamo's once-isolated tribal land, exposing the primitive Indians to the white man's infectious diseases. Lacking immunity to this destructive onslaught of civilization, the Yanomamos died like flies. The death toll reached 28 percent within a year of the road's construction.

Now the Brazilian government is plannning a second highway through Yanamamo land to facilitate tin mining in the area. The state has designated 21 small, separated pockets of land as Yanamamo territory, but several Brazilian religious and anthropological organizations say this will only speed up the destruction of the tribe. They suggest instead a 16-mil--lion-acre refuge in the Amazon region to save the dwindling Yanomamos.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Signals are growing stronger that 75-year-old Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., has decided not to run for re-election next year. Some of his senior staff members are discreetly letting It be known that they'll be available for new jobs toward the end of the year. They've confided to friends that while Javits has said nothing definite, his hints have been clear enough to start them looking around.

Moreover, the particular target of the president's trip down the Mississippi was far removed from all those jolly crowds on the riverbank: the January precinct caucuses in the first state to start the delegate-selection process for next summer's Democratic national convention. Carter was "reinspired" by those smiling crowds, but many local leaders of the Democratic party were left sulking

"If he's coming out to our city, do it wide open," Democratic Mayor Charles Wright of Davenport told us he advised the White House when he was first contacted about the president's "vacation." But instead of making himself accessible to party léaders, Wright said, "Jimmy Carter used that phony old vacation gimmick and that means as many Republicans and business leaders get to see him as Democrats and labor guys.' Wright's view was prevalent. A for-

The cost of this insensitivity could be high next January because of the nature of the Iowa caucuses. Carter will be judged not by the voting public - the cheerful throngs that "reinspired" him - but by a small handful of party workers who take the time and trouble to attend those precinct

These party operatives were not at all impressed by Carter's sudden turn from preaching the gospel of "malaise" on top of the Camp David mountain to a line here that echoed Hubert Humphrey's politics of joy. 'We're the greatest country on earth, do you agree with that?" he said at the docks of Davenport.

But what can a single individual do to help, he was asked on a radio call-in show. "The first thing we can do is to count our blessings," the president replied.

Such talk was easy to listen to and the voters who flocked around Jimmy Carter listened well. Burt unlike the president himself they showed no sign of inspiration or confidence in the way their country is running.

As one top Midwestern party leader told us, they listen because they are polite and because "they know Carter is fighting for his life." They gave him a shot of adrenalin, which is a long way from a cure, a reality that the president and his men may not quite

All three sister utilities are owned by Texas Utilities Company System. Texas Utilities provides common stock capital and short-term financing to the three sister utilities as needed.

In addition to the three sister utilities, Texas Utilities also operates:

—Texas Utilities Services Inc., which provides engineering and other services to all subsidiaries in

-Texas Utilities Fuel Company, which operates the company's natural gas pipeline system and acquires and delivers fuel gas and oil for all three

-Texas Utilities Generating Company, which operates power plants owned jointly by all three sister utilities. Those power plants include some of the lignite-coal operated facilities in East Texas and will include Comanche Peak, the nuclear power plant, when it begins operation in 1981. -Chaco Energy Company, which is chartered by the state of New Mexico. Chaco currently is seeking leases on coal in western New Mexico and uranium for plants in the Texas area. Under current plans, coal from New Mexico would be transported to new coal-fired electrical generating plants in Texas.

One of those plants tentatively is scheduled for construction within the next 15 years on Stacy Reservoir in Central Texas.

-Basic Resources Inc., which is engaged in the development of energy resources and technology. Among projects under study are coal gasification experiments in East Texas. Ironically, technology on coal gasification has been obtained from the Soviet Union. The subsidiary also is attempting to reclaim uranium from mine tailings in Karnes County.

Electricity from the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant will be split equally between all three sister utilities. All three utilities also will split costs for the power plant.

Also under study for the future is a solar energy plant near the Monahans area.

Mayors threaten to quit in nuclear plant protest

BADAJOZ, Spain (AP) - Nearly 100 mayors from cities and towns in the Extremadura region of southwestern Spain are threatening to quit unless the government reverses a decision to build a nuclear power plant in their water-starved district.

The mayors claim the U.S.-made nuclear reactors will take away water badly needed irrigation water from the arid Extremadura plain, a region encompassing the provinces of Badajoz and

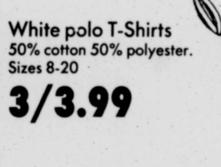

About 25 mayors began a sit-in three-days-ago at the town hall in Villa de la Serena to draw attention to their demand that the government move the proposed plant. By Wednesday night, their ranks had grown to 96 mayors.

In addition to the threatened mass resignation, which could paralyze municipal services in the district, the mayors say they will join with unions in a mass weekend strike and demonstration against the proposed plant.

The government, showing no sign of giving in, has sent two companies of national police to the vil-

According to TESCO officials, the company originally signed contracts which provided gas for electrical generation at the rate of 75 cents per million BTUs. (BTU stands for British Thermal Unit, an industry standard for measuring heat.)

Natural gas now costs more than $2 per million BTUs, those officials maintain, while lignite, a low-grade coal plentiful in East Texas, costs about 50 cents per million BTUs.

That economic fact has encouraged the utilities to undertake the massive construction program on lignite-fired plants to wean themselves away from natural gas-fired plants, company officials maintain.

As a result, construction costs jumped from $50 million in 1969 to more than $210 million in 1978, due in part to work on the new lignite plants and Comanche Peak, the company's completion of the additional plants, each utility enjoys a surplus in reserve peak capacity of at least 30 percent, Barclay said.

What that means is that the utility could shut down one third of its power generating system and still meet the heaviest demand loads.

Barclay said the reserve capacity is only temporary and will be phased

BY 1983, TESCO hopes to generate equal amounts of electricity from lignite and gas. Those fuels will contribute more

"The decommissioning of a power plant is not because it's 35 or 40 years of age," Barclay said. "The efficiency of that plant becomes less than the efficiency of newer power plants to the extent that we cannot justify them economically."

As far as generating plants are concerned, the company plans 10-15 years in the future. Those plans are revised as power demands shift. Conservation by customers has already postponed by five years the construction of two additional lignitefired plants, a company financial statement said. While company officials agree the construction is planned obsolescence, they contend the building program is necessary to maintain the electric supply at the same level. 'It's a big system," Barclay concluded. "And it's all in one pot. It's all for the future benefit of all our customers. You theoretically never fin-

It's another in a series of experiments in the Loss of Fluid Test facility at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory in eastern Idaho. The LOFT series is designed to cope with the dangers posed when nuclear reactors lose their cooling fluids

About the first of December, officials will launch the "small break" test.

A small leak will be simulated in the test reactor's cooling system. Within an hour, water pressure will drop from about 2,200 pounds per square inch to 1,000 psi. If uncorrected, that could lead to disastrous overheating of the nuclear reactor's core.

Inflation affects the cost of crime

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A fund to repay victims of crimes in Texas will begin collecting a $10 and $15 fee from every person convicted of a criminal charge, Comptroller Bob Bullock said Thursday.

"The cost of crime just like everything else in today's world is going up," Bullock said in a statement.

Under a new law passed by the 1979. Legislature and effective Saturday a $15 fee will be assessed against persons convicted of felonies and a $10 fee charged to persons convicted of misdemeanors punishable by a jail term or fines of more then $200. The fee, collected by the comptroller's department, will be added to other fines or costs that may be ordered by

The money will be used to create a fund to compensate victims of crime.

"The fees are expected to raise more than $205 million the next five years, including $37 million the first year," Bullock said.

Fan dancer Sally Rand dies of heart failure

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP) - Sally Rand, whose peekaboo fan dancing scandalized and delighted audiences for more than 45 years, died today of heart failure. She was 75.

Miss Rand died at Foothill Presbyterian Hospital in Glendora, where she had been kept alive since suffering cardiac arrest late Wednesday, said hospital spokeswoman Jane Tessitor.

The cause of death was congestive heart failure, the spokeswoman said.

The petite, blonde-haired dancer and her ostrich plumes were the hit of the 1933 Chicago World's Fair — and just about everywhere else. Until last year, when ill health forced her to curtail her appearances, she was still waving the fluffy white fans up to 40 weeks a year.

"People ask me, 'What the hell are you doing it for?' "she told The Associated Press. "Well, it's a lot better than doing needlepoint in the

While Miss Rand settled in this Los Angeles suburb, she never made it big in the movies. So she came up with the ideal of dancing in the nude with ostrich plumes to set her apart from other striptease acts. She first performed her dance in a Chicago speakeasy in 1932, when she coined the phrase "the Rand is quicker than the eye." But it was at the Midway in the World's Fair that she really She took her fan dance all over the country,

Inquiry into asbestos hazards launched WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal agency, caught off guard this year by disclosures that many hair dryers emitted dangerous asbestos, is launching a major investigation into any asbestos hazards in nearly 150 other types of products.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is working on the wording of a request for information from scientists, manufacturers and the general public on the products. Many of the product types are known to contain asbestos in at least some brands.

However, asbestos is not considered dangerous unless its fibers are released in a way that consumers can inhale them. Thus there is not necessarily a problem with all products containing asbestos.

Breathable asbestos fibers have been associated with cancer and other diseases in numerous scientific studies. Once inhaled, the fibers can become lodged in the lungs for life.

The list of product types that the commission will publish in the Federal Register includes some very common products, including toasters, ranges, automobile mufflers, flower pots and paint. Whether any asbestos is released in a way that people can breathe it is expected to be a subject of intense scrutiny by commission

The commissioners approved in principle Thursday placing the list in the Federal Register. However, its publication is being delayed until the Environmental Protection Agency is ready to announce its own inquiry into the impact of asbestos on the environment, expected in October.

The Federal Register publication will be an "advanced notice of proposed rulemaking," which is a state-ment of an agency's intentions that invites interested people to respond. The comments can then be considered as the agency makes final plans.

In addition to the Federal Register request for information, the commission said it plans to compel manufacturers and importers to provide information on some products, which have not yet been designated, "for priority attention in this investigation.'

The draft of the commission's Federal Register notice said, "The high tensile strength, flexibility and heat and chemical resistance of asbestos makes it adaptable to a large number of uses. Precise figures on the number of asbestos-containing products are not available....

"Many consumer products, for example, contain asbestos paper as a thermal or electrical insulating barrier. Asbestos is also commonly used in household building products to resist rotting and to provide strength and stability," the draft said.

A Washington television station revealed this spring that various brands of hair dryers emitted respirable asbestos fibers, something the commission did not know up to then. The nationwide consumer reaction, as reflected in telephone calls to the agency, was the greatest in the six-year history of the commission.

Over the next few months, the commission put enough pressure on manufacturers and sellers that asbestoscontaining models were taken off the market. Replacements, modifications or refunds were offered to millions of customers.

The draft mentions three particular problems with asbestos in household products:

-Exposure of young children is of special concern because exposure to a cancer-causing agent at an early age "presents the greatest opportunity for development of the disease.

-Fibers in the home are not readily dispersed by air currents.

-Unlike asbestos workers, family members do not have protective clothing and engineering systems to minimize their exposure.

Unique surgery scheduled for today

BALTIMORE (AP) - A 33-year-old woman who has lain motionless for five weeks since removal of a football-size tumor and a portion of her spine today is undergoing unique surgery doctors hope will offer her a chance to walk again.

Doctors performing the operation, a medical first, are replacing missing vertebrae in Jesse Thomas' lower spine with a metal prosthesis to protect her spinal cord until a bone transplant can be performed.

Mrs. Thomas, paralyzed since May, has been immobilized in a special stretcher since June, when in another medical first surgeons at University Hospital here removed a rare bone tumor the size of a football and four vertabrae from her lower spine, said Dr. Charles C. Edwards, chief of orthopedic surgery.

Surgeons planned to begin the fivehour operation, Edwards said, by placing two steel rods on the back of Mrs. Thomas's spine to keep the spinal column from twisting. They are then implanting the prothesis designed to protect the spinal cord, part 's vital nerve ce to serve as a temporary spine, he

The final procedure, he said, involves removal of a section of the pelvic bone and grafting it to the front of the spinal column.

"Man-made materials don't last forever as any of you who own a car well know," he said, adding that the graft would grow to connect the remaining vertabrae and serve as the permanent spinal replacement.

'There is a remote possibility she will be able to walk" as a result of the replacement, Edwards said. 'None of us can know how many of the nerves (in the spinal cord) will survive," he said. "What we are trying to do is create the best possible environment in which the spinal cord can survive and heal."

Edwards, who engineered the prosthesis and the tools to implant the device, said the procedure "was developed to enhance and speed recovery to a good quality of life." The alternative, he said, would be for Mrs. Thomas to remain immobilized for the rest of her life. The prognosis on such cases is not good, he said, because of skin, pulmonary and psychological problems. Dr. Mukund Dibolkar, who assisted on the July operation and was to assist today, said that once Mrs. Thomas healed, she would be given chemotherapy to make sure the malignant tumor did not return. He said there was only a slim chance of recur-

Edwards said if the operation was a success Mrs. Thomas would remain on a rotating stretcher for several weeks and could be discharged from the hospital after a few months

A hospital spokeswoman said Mrs. Thomas was in good spirits and was excited when she learned the operation had received television cover-

Edwards' team has performed 10 other operations involving major skeletal reconstruction, he said. All were successful.

Lump on breast

Dear Mrs. C.: Protein is required throughout life for the maintenance and repair of body tissue. It is essential for normal growth in children. Protein also helps make hemoglobin, which carries oxygen to - and carbon dioxide away from - the cells; forms antibodies to fight infection; and supplies energy. Important sources of protein include meat, poultry, fish, milk, cheese, eggs, dry beans, dry peas, and nuts.

Cereals, bread, and fruits and vegetables provide relatively smaller amounts of protein. However, in combination with animal protein (taken at the same meal), their protein value is enhanced.

Dear Don: Alcohol may appear to be a stimulant since it reduces inhibitions and enables a person to behave more aggressively than he or she ordinarily would. Physiologically, however, alchohol decreases the speed of bodily functions, including muscle contractions, digesti thought processes, and reaction time, and thus is very much a depressant.

Farm Bureau to move site of '82 convention

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) - The board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation has voted to move its 1982 convention from San Francisco because that city's board of supervisors supports boycotts of certain farm products.

The federation said Wednesday its decision was prompted by a vote of the board of supervisors in June supporting boycotts called by the United Farm Workers, led by Cesar Chavez. The UFW has asked consumers to stop buying iceberg lettuce and Chiquita bananas.

The boycotts are part of a strike against California lettuce growers, now in its seventh month. One lettuce firm, Sun Harvest, is owned by a company which also owns Chiquita.

Farm Bureau President Allan Grant said the board of supervisors' position "has simply undercut the base of a San Francisco convention.

"Thousands of California farm families who have for very good reasons developed the strongest antipathy towards the UFW boycott won't be coming to San Francisco," Grant said. "And across this land there are thousands more who will stay home.

New orders decline for second month

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the second month in a row, new orders for manufactured goods declined in July, the Commerce Department says.

Factory orders dropped 2 percent to $139.7 billion in July, giving fresh evidence of the economy's sluggishness, the Commerce Department reported

The July decline in orders for manufactured goods was attributed primarily to declines in the transportation equipment and electrical machinery industries, the Commerce Department said.

Auto sales were particularly sluggish, an indication of consumer wariness of new purchases because June.

Overall, orders for durable goods dropped 4.6 percent to $72.5 billion in July, with orders for non-durable goods climbing 1 percent to $67.1 bil-

Meanwhile, factory inventories grew 1.3 percent in July to $217.1 billion, which was about equal to the average increase in each month of this year. Shipments were $140.4 billion in July, up 1.1 percent from

Cuba steps up anti-American campaign during summit

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Cuba is stepping up its cam paign against American influence in the Western Hemisphere by calling for an end to a U.S.-Latin American mutual security pact that dates back to the Cold War era.

Cuba has appealed for the revocation of the 1947 Rio de Janeiro agreement. the Western Hemisphere's equivalent of the North Atlantic Treaty Organiza-

The appeal is contained in a Cuban draft declaration being circulated among the foreign ministers of the non-aligned nation who are meeting here in preparation for next week's non-aligned summit.

The United States and 20 Latin American countries signed the Rio treaty. The Organization of American States invoked it against Cuba in 1964 after finding Cuba's Communist government guilty of spi eading subversion in Venezuela. The OAS imposed economic and diplomatic sanctions against President Fidel Castro's government.

Argentina, Panama, Peru, Nicaragua and Bolivia are the only members of the Rio alliance that also are in the non-aligned bloc. Delegates from the five countries said they had not yet discussed the Cuban recommendation

In a welcoming speech to the foreign ministers on Thursday, Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca accused the United States of having "divided our peoples, violated our fron tiers, isolated our cultures, discriminated against our peoples, seized our natural resources, imposed their language, their morals and their customs on us, converted our economies into appendages of their economy and made us poor and dependent on the U.S. economy.

Malmierca also allege d that the United States and Chin a are trying to divide the non-aligned movement.

"Those who are really interested in dividing the movement are our well known enemies: imperialism and colonialism," he said.

Malmierca called on the movement to mobilize as; ainst the forces of "colonialism, neo-colonialism, racism, apartheid, Zionism and all forms of domination and exploitation."

Canada seizes 6 more U.S. boats

VICTORIA, British Columbia (AP) - Six more American tuna boats were seized Thursday, bringing to 16 the number of U.S. boats confiscated off British Columbia this week in a dispute over fishing rights, Canaclian officials said. Patrol boats had seized two boats late Wednesday and were escorting all eight ships to Victoria, where their catches will be inspected, the Canadian Fisheries Ministry announced in Ottawa

5 Soviet officers shot, paper says

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Anti-government guerrillas in Mozambique last month shot and killed five Soviet "senior officers" working as military advisers in the Marxist nation, a South African news said today. The Citizen newspaper gave no source for its report, but claimed these were the first Soviet soldier: killed in southern Africa. It said they died in a firefight with guerrillas near the northern town of Nampula and their bodies were flown home in a Soviet aircraft on July 28.

7 dead in Canadian plane crash

PRINCE RUPERT, British Columbia (AP) — A Trans Provincial Airline plane with 10 persons aboard crashed at nearby Digby Island during a flight to its terminal here, killing seven people, officials say.

The other three people aboard the Grumman Goose were injured, two of them critically, in the Thursday night crash, said Howard Merth, manager of the Prince Rupert Airport. He said one of those injured was flown to a Vancouver hospital while the other two were taken by helic opter to a Prince Rupert hospital, he said.

The main airport serving this city on British Columbia's central coast is located on Digby Island, but Merth said the 10-seat amphibian plane, with nine passengers and one pilot aboard, was not scheduled to land there. He said the plane was bound for Seal Cove, the site of Trans Provincial's seaplane terminal, in Prince Rupert.

The plane was on a flight from Kitsault, a mining community at the end of Alice Arm, about 95 miles northeast of here.

Diplomatic offensive underway to end war in southern Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration has begun its diplomatic offensive to end the war in southern Lebanon, but it apparently is not threatening to cut off military

State Department spokesman Hod-ding Carter said Thursday the American effort would rely on diplomatic persuasion and hope that the combatants will realize that escalation of the fighting has not solved their prob-

Carter said the United States was not threatening a cessation of military aid to Israel, chief recipient of American arms in the region.

In fact, the Pentagon announced that Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman would meet with Secretary of Defense Harold Brown next month to discuss the possibility of joint Israeli-American production of fighter sources who asked not to be named said the talks would not result in an American commitment and were regarded as exploratory.

Defense Department spokesman Tom Lambert said Brown would see Weitzman Sept. 14 "to discuss a number of defense issues, including the Israeli desire for increased participation in fighter arcraft production.'

According to the Pentagon, there is now about $2.7 billion in American military equipment earmarked for Israel, including tanks, jets and other weapons. The Carter administration has committed itself to provide more aid in the future.

Arab opponents of Israel have long maintained that cutting off military aid is the only way to influence Israel, but no recent American administration has decided on such as step.

Ambassador Andrew Young told the United Nations Wednesday that the Israeli raids, as well as Palestinian terrorist activities, were part of a cycle of "terror and counter-terror" that was "unacceptable" to the Unit-ed States and must end. It was the strongest condemnation of the Israeli policy yet voiced by the administra-

Other officials, speaking privately, said the goal of the diplomatic offensive was a simultaneous agreement by the Lebanese Christians, the Israelis, and the Palestinian guerillas to cease firing.

Meanwhile, Clovis Maksoud, an Arab League envoy, urged Thursday that the United Nations force in southern Lebanon be strengthened to deter Israeli attacks against Palestinian forces there.

"The Arab League thinks it vital to embolden UNIFIL numerically and logistically, so that its mandate should become clear, and a deterrent effect complements its peace-keeping operation," Maksoud said.

Jewish leader roams Israel with bullhorn

JERUSALEM (AP) — Rabbi Meir Kahane, who once led the militant Jewish Defense League in New York City, now roams Israel with a bullhorn and a handful of followers in a campaign to drive out Arab resi-

He is spurned by the Israeli government, has been arrested numerous times and is sharply criticized by the Israeli press because he wants to deport Arabs from Israel and the territories it occupies.

At 46 and with no major following, Kahane is waging a desperate battle for respectability. He was twice defeated in bids for a seat in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, but he runs daily advertisements in the local English-language press in which he bills himself as "the most exciting and dynamic Jewish leader of our

Preaching that the growing Arab birth rate in Israel is a "time bomb waiting to explode," Kahane claims to have compiled lists of Arab families ready for deportation and exhorts the Israeli government to provide them with visas and one-way tickets

Kahane personally delivers his message to Arabs throughout the country and to groups of young American students at his newly opened Jerusalem Museum of the Potential Holocaust.

Kahane emigrated to Israel with his wife and four children in 1971, leaving his native Brooklyn because "you have to act on what you say." He says, though, that he still is preoccupied with American Jewry.

"We have to work to prevent a tragedy, and the tragedy is that there is going to be a Holocaust in America and no one is saying anything about Kahane's Holocaust museum occupies three rooms on the first floor of an old, Arab-style house in Jerusalem. It is filled with clippings from Ku Klux Klan and American Nazi Party newspapers. The clippings are faded and crumbling, and are identified only by simple white index cards labelled "Hard Core Hate."

"I believe there is a certain importance to hate. One has to hate injustice. You've got to burn it out."

He defies arrest by entering Arab villages with a carload of followers to explain what he calls the purpose of Zionism and the Jewish state. "Love it or leave it," he yells as police haul His longest detention in Israel was

"I'm not here to be loved," he also says. "People may not like to hear what I'm saying, but I'm sure that there are plenty out there who agree with me even though they won't say

But some groups with similar sympathies say they are leery of him.

Said a spokesman for Gush Emunim, the ultra-nationalist settlement movement: "He has good intentions but he alienates people. For that reason we have no connection with him even though we both fight for the Land of Israel."

The plant is described as "a 14-foot buggy whip with hibiscus blossoms" and it could grab a healthy share of the newsprint market from shortage-prone wood pulp, according to the publisher behind the Yuma experiment.

Depending on the results of an upcoming commercial test of the soon-to-be-harvested crop, widespread use of kenaf is likely "within perhaps five years," said Donald Soldwedel, publisher of the Yuma Daily

Soldwedel also is president of Western Newspapers Inc., a member of the American Newspaper Publishers Association Board of Directors and chairman of the association's newsprint committee.

Like many publishers, he has been forced to reduce the number of pages in his editions periodically because of newsprint shortages.

His longtime interest in the paper-producing potential of kenaf was shared by Yuma farmer Walt Kammann, who last year agreed to plant 30-acres of the non-wood, annual fiber plant. In a speech at a recent ANPA conference, Soldwedel listed the advantages of supplementing wood-pulp with kenaf: -The increasing demand for wood in new as well as traditional uses will continue to drive supply down and price

—The future will bring continued ecological demands for paper recycling and kenaf fiber may make a singularly superb pulp;

-Kenaf can be grown anywhere in the continental United States, which would promote construction of regional

By MORT YOUNG Hearst Newspapers

MA'ADI, Egypt — Leila abu-Saif is alone. Educated, she is engulfed by the uneducated. An emancipated woman, she disturbs a society that punishes adultery with prison terms. A writer, she endures close censorship.

That this attractive, 39-year-old, American-educated Egyptian is a Coptic Christian among a majority of Moslems is the most negligible factor of her isolation.

Ms. abu-Saif is Egypt's sore thumb. She sticks out, sometimes jabbing into the eyes of ministers under whose impa-

She was the only Egyptian woman to join the international protest against the treatment of women in Iran, where she traveled last March to demonstrate alongside Bella Abzug

"NOT A SOUL here uttered a word about the condition of women in Iran," she said. "But when the Ayatollah banned music, all Egypt arose, enraged."

Despite the hypocracy she sees in that reaction, Ms. abu-Saif said that "after Iran, I became pro-Sadat. I prefer a dictator who looks to the west rather than to the 14th century. That is the only alternative to Sadat: a religious regime.

Unfortunately, a political vacuum exists."
"Anwar Sadat," she commented, "is a man of enormous vision and imagination. I know Americans find him charming. Well. As for Menachem Begin - I have heard more criticism of him in New York than in Cairo," she added,

Ms. abu-Saif looked like a woman intellectually besieged in her new high-rise apartment overlooking the Nile in this suburb six miles south of Cairo.

A government minister has accused her, informally, of attempting "to pit Moslems against Christians and causing unrest by downgrading Islam," she explained. "That is a

A WEEKLY MAGAZINE, "October," indirectly charged her with immorality by comparing her to Simone de Beau-boir, the French writer. Ms. abu-Saif sued for libel and "I have never lived with a man in Egypt," she said. "I have lived alone. The editor could not prove adultery in

The penalty for having sexual relations adulterously, or between single-persons, is a prison term of two years - mild considering that daughters and wives killed for "dishonoring the family" are reported frequently in the newspapers here. The murderers, usually close male relatives, receive light sentences of a few months in jail.

Ms. abu-Saif's latest difficulties began when she wanted to produce three one-act plays, drawing room comedies, by a 19th-century Egyptian nationalist, Jacob Sanoua. Known as "Egypt's Molere," Sanoua was Jewish.

'The council of censors unanimously approved the production," Ms. abu-Saif continued. "We started rehearsals in April after I returned from Iran. I knew the government would no longer subsidize me after that trip and I would have to do a low-budget show on my own.

"SUDDENLY I WAS accused of using political events the Iran thing - to put on a Jewish play. I was called in to see a deputy minister of culture, Saad Wahba, who told me I should do an Islamic play. The Moslem holy month, Ramadan, started at the end of July and it would be fitting,

'When I agreed, Wahba said they'd get another director because the people near the theatre would protest, Sanoua being a Jew — though I had just agreed not to put his plays on right now," she related.

In a burst of the typical frankness that has not endeared bureaucratic decision. He is a former policeman from the Nasser regime who has been given the responsibility of deciding what is culture. You find fascists all over the world," she remarked. The outspoken woman, who holds a doctorate from the University of Illinois and a master's degree from the University of Chicago, has been using the courtyard of a medieval inn for her plays. It is across the street from the oldest university in the world, El-Azhar, in old Cairo. The area is dotted with mosques.

USING INEXPERIENCED young actors, she put on a play about a brother who murders his sister when he learns she was seduced by her fiancee and has turned to prostitution. The drama is based on an actual case. The brother was sentenced to six months.

The cast arrived for one evening performance to discover the inn's door mysteriously padlocked. Now and then the water has been cut off. One night, a fight nearly broke out between the actors and some unidentified men who complained about the play's theme. Ms. abu-Saif had spent most of that day in the local police station trying to straighten things out.

"The only reason I am being allowed to use the theatre after being there without any trouble for six years - is because the new minister of culture, Mansour Hassan, is supporting me. He is trying to fight the bureacracy," she

Although censored in the theater, she enjoys complete freedom where she teaches drama, at the national institute of the theater. There is no academic censorship. Life for her is not only difficult professionally, she said, but on the personal level.

"POLITICALLY, THE government has nothing to fear from me. I support the establishment," Ms. abu-Saif insist-ed. "But I want to influence women. People still criticize me for living alone. A single woman's problems are traumat-

"I cannot accept as reality what life is for some women here," she said. "You cannot live as a vegetable. An educated person is isolated. It is three times worse for an educated

The problems facing Egyptian women, Ms. abu-Saif continued, depend on the woman.

"It is all right for a woman to work. If she looks on the job as a way to make extra money - no problem. If she has higher aspirations and seeks a decision-making position, life becomes complicated. This is a patricarchal society.

"We have an odd cultural heritage," she reflected. "Concerning modern Egyptian culture, there is a small but highly-developed intellectual sphere. On the other hand, 80 percent of the women are still circumsized."

A NEW LAW WAS recently passed to improve the status of

"It's a minor but important step: a huband must tell his wife when he decides to divorce her. Until now, a man could desert his wife without paying alimony or child-support. Now, he must also let her keep the apartment. That alone will dissuade many men from divorcing. Apartments are difficult to find and very expensive," she noted.

Further changes may come with increased contact with the outside world, she suggested. Peace with Israel, which Ms. abu-Saif said she "wholly supports," might speed up the "Peace may affect me," she mused, "We talked a lot about 'normalization of cultural relations' with Israel. I hope a sense of cultural competition will arise and raise the level of art and music - and bring a more liberal outlook for the "But we are all tired of fighting," she said. "Young men will do anything to escape the draft.'

ALTHOUGH ANTICIPATING the effects of peace with Israel, however, Egyptians also look to the United States, Ms. abu-Saif said

"There is great love for America here. I don't know why; perhaps when you are poor you love the rich. The fellaheen think America will solve all our problems. I wish Americans understood how much hope Egyptians place in them," she commented

But the days when Egypt aped American life-styles are over, she insisted. "This is not a consumer society, even though a small consumer class sprang up about five years ago. Most people still hold spriritual values, real values. Ms. abu-Saif said she hoped to tour the villages one day and perform folk plays designed to improve the life of women. "They are uneducated but they are not fools," she said. "I think they will understand the plays, that they will be encouraged to better their lives." "As an Egyptian," she added forcefully, "I have the right to oppose certain things." Nevertheless, there are times when she grows weary, Ms. abu-Saif admitted. "I am, after all, a minority of three woman, an educated person, a Christian. I could pack it all in, go to New York. I would have so many more people to talk with. America is rich in the arts. Yet there is so much more to be done in Egypt."

Leila abu-Saif remains alone, uncertain of the future.

Greyhound experimenting with new, expensive turbine engine for bus

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Greyhound bus hit the road Thursday with a new federally subsidized engine so expensive its builder is reluctant to say how much it cost.

The engine is a turbine that eventually may be able to run on alcohol on any other liquid fuel that comes along. But in the meantime, it runs on diesel fuel and gets slightly worse mileage than the 5½ to 6 miles per gallon of a standard Greyhound.

The new bus was built with substantial federal help. Greyhound put up $500,000 and the Department of Energy put up $1.7 million. That money will pay for four buses and five engines and a lot of experimenting to see what fuels of the future can be used to operate buses.

Detroit Diesel Allison, a General Motors Corp. subsidiary, is building the engines. William Campbell, a spokesman for Detroit Diesel, declined to say what they "Engines are very expensive in a prototype stage and I'd rather not tell you how expensive," he said. Greyhound chairman

Frank L. Nageotte said the new bus is less bumpy. "You can actually bal-

Monitor artifacts aid scientists' study

WASHINGTON (AP)

— The variety of artifacts recovered from the Civil War ironclad Monitor will give scientists their first opportunity to study a broad range of material kept under the same underwater conditions for more than a century, authorities say. Although the famous warship cannot be raised at present because of its fragile condition, researchers have been able to bring up bits and pieces of its contents and structural material for study, officials said Wednesday at a National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration brief-

"These artifacts, primarily from the captain's cabin, represent the broad range of mate-rials archeologists hoped to recover, including wood, brass, iron, leather, glass and ceramic," said Richard A. Frank, NOAA administrator.

In 49 scientific dives this month, scientists recovered a wealth of new artifacts from the ship. Among the items are three identical mustard bottles, a mason jar still containing relish, a brass lantern base, fragments of wood and a porcelain soap dish from the captain's cabin.

Officials said the gov-ernment has decided against trying to raise the entire ship from its resting place off the North Carolina coast because of its extremely fragile condition. The recent dives to the wreck, which was discovered in 1973, revealed that the ship has deteriorated seriously after 117 years under water, and may have been da-side-down hull has collapsed inward and many of its iron frames are weakened and badly distorted. Officials said the damage supports the theory that the Monitor was harmed inadvertently by depth charges dropped by U.S. ships hunting German submarines.

"If we tried to bring the Monitor up, it would do a substantial amount of damage," Frank said. "We will not risk shattering the remains in such an effort."

However, Frank said, the government will put together a panel of experts to determine whether historically significant parts of the seagoing tank should be raised and preserved for public view. The cost of such a project has not been determined, he The dives to the Moni-tor, lying in 210 feet of water off Cape Hatteras, N.C., were an undertaking of NOAA, the state of North Carolina and the Harbor Branch Foundation, a private, non-profit oceanographic organization based in Fort

BOND ISSUE: SEWAGE AND WATER

As a result of the recent rapid growth of Midland, and its anticipated future growth, voters will be asked to express their opinion on a $16 million bond issue on Tuesday, September 4. These funds will be used for the improvement and upgrading of sewage and water facilities, street improvements, and construction and renovation of city-owned facilities.

FACTS:

- · Midland has already experienced a near peak capacity of 32 million gallons of water usage in one day - dangerously close to the maximum available.
- If Midland is to continue to grow, these services must be expanded.
- $3.6 million of the bond issue will be for increased sewage treatment facilities - estimated adequate until the year 2000. • $4.2 million is for water system improvements that will take care of the estimated needs of Midland until 1990 or 1995.
- A 10% rate increase will become effective in October to take care of present operational costs.

• With approval of these revenue bonds no rate increase will be required until 1983, and as revenue bonds, no new tax will be created.

The Citizens Committee urges all Midlanders to vote for continued growth and prosperity for Midland by voting YES to the issues on Tuesday, September 4.

Storm may delay beach cleanup

up operations at oil-stained Texas beaches - beaches that are drawing the curious in droves to the skies overhead - could be thrown off schedule if a new tropical storm brings winds and rains officials say.

Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency said Thursday it was too soon to tell what effect Tropical Storm Elena, expected to reach Texas today, might have on the oil spilled from a runaway Mexican well.

"One of the strange things of this oil spill is that it is really a wait-and-see situation," said Meacham. "What might look like it's coming ashore today could be pushed back into the gulf tomorrow.

Meanwhile, beaches and parks at Mustang Island north of Corpus Christi were almost deserted, except for those who came to look at the crews removing the crude left from the world's largest oil spill.

Federal officials reported a "safety hazard" above the beaches created by private helicopters and planes crowded for aerial views of the brown

Robert Furr of the Federal Aviation Administration said a four-mile-wide area from Matagorda Island to Brownsville was declared restricted to allow Coast Guard survey crews enough room to monitor the oil.

Pilots generally are ignoring the order, Furr said, adding, "It's a terrible collision hazard."

Work crews have collected more than 44,000 gallons of oil and several thousand pounds of debris from Texas beaches, and had hoped to clean large sections in time for the Labor Day

"If it's too stormy and rainy, like it got earlier at Port Isabel, we've already seen that the crews can't work," Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark said.

A federal multi-agency force moni-toring the spill at first thought currents were working in their favor Thursday by flowing south and taking oil away from breeding grounds for marine life.

However, the currents reversed direction and began heading north again. Survey teams reported heavy concentrations of thick brown oil rolling up along a 25-mile stretch of the Padre Island National Seashore. Additional patches were sighted just off those beaches.

But biologists reported no oil in certain checkpoints in the southern Laguna Madre, home to many varieties of marine life and a wildlife breeding and nesting ground.

On Thursday, a 14-foot pilot whale died on the oily beaches of Mustang Island. Scientists planned an autopsy to determine if it died because of the

Slick could devastate redhead duck population

AUSTIN (AP) - The effect of the Mexican oil slick fish and wildlife seems slight so far, but the black sludge could devastate the nation's redhead duck population, says a Texas Parks and Wildlfe

Bob Kemp, director of fisheries, made the report Thursday to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, a citizen board that sets policy for

"Impacts to fish and wildlife appear to be minimal at this time. Less than 20 'oiled' birds have been found. Observations are that 90 percent of the shorebirds have left the beach and moved to the bay side of the islands." Kemp said.

He told the commission there have been no kill-offs of fish, and shrimp taken from an oil sheen area "are apparently not harmed, although samples have been sent to a lab for testing.'

'Department staff is concerned, however, about effects of the oil on larval fish, shrimp and migratory waterfowl," Kemp said. Red drum spawn mid-August through September, the fertilized eggs hatch on the surface, and larvae are carried through passes into the bays,

"Recent bioassays indicate that the eggs will hatch even while resting against mousse (water saturated oil) but that larvae may be more

He said concerns about migratory waterfowl center on the redhead duck since 80 percent of the total redhead population winters on the south coast of Texas.

'Again, large amounts of oil in the Laguna Madre could be devastating to redheads. Oil in the Aransas Bay area could also cause problems with the whooping cranes and brown pelicans, both endangered species,"

"Love it, love it, love it!" said Bert Wegener, a secretary from Milford, N.H., one of a group of 10 cyclists who toured recently in Vermont.

She's a member of the Granite State Wheelmen, New Hampshire's largest recreational bike club, which arranged the tour.

"Time spent wading in the brooks was great what I hoped we would take time to do," she said, adding the trip was "a dream come true." At the end of the tour she was photographed kissing her

Helen Head, a paralegal aide from Concord, said on the second day of the tour, "It happened today — I fell in love with my bike." Previously she had said she only "liked it a lot."

The group, five men and five women, swished on fine bicycles along well-macadamed roads, grunting up the occasionally tougher hill, such as Hysteria Hill in Plymouth Union.

But for every climb there is a downhill coast. On Route 100, the tortuous grind up Terrible Mountain begins in Weston. At the crest it turns into an

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on.

The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11pm and 8am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it.

You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. Instate calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

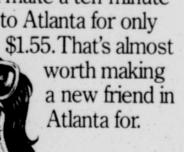

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Evenon weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Even if you're not a regular do-it-yourselfer, do-it-yourself when you call Long Distance. The savings are significant when you dial "one" plus the area code plus the phone number, instead of having the Operator do it. It's also faster. If you don't know the area code you need, just look in the front of your Telephone Directory. (Also check your telephone directory for exact discounts and conditions on out-of-state and instate calls.)

Take advantage of the Holiday discount and celebrate.

Along with the flag-waving, fetes and parades, pick up the phone and call Long Distance. Our regular evening discount rates apply all day on Christmas, New Year's Day, Labor Day, July 4th and Thanksgiving. If the holiday falls on a weekend, you get the lower rate. Isn't this the perfect time to ring up friends and family?

Reach out. Reach out and touch someone.

NEW YORK (AP) - It was chaos on center court, bizarre midnight madness more befitting an international soccer match than a tennis

The players, John McEnroe and Ilie Nastase, were standing at opposite ends of the court, hands on hips. Umpire Frank Hammond had just penalized Nastase a game for delaying play, but the boisterous crowd of 10,549 that came to the U.S. Open Thursday night refused to accept that decision.

THEY BOOED. They whistled. They clapped. They stomped their

"It may not have been the wildest thing I've ever seen, but it sure was in the top ten," said McEnroe.

Finally, in an effort to get play resumed, tournament referee Mike Blanchard instructed Nastase to serve. At that point McEnroe led 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 3-1, but not according to the

They roared "2-1, 2-1, 2-1," demanding that the penalty assessed against Nastase be reversed.

"I thought if play could resume, the crowd would quiet down," said Blanchard, explaining why he ordered Nastase to serve despite the roar of the crowd. Nastase refused.

"He (Hammond) kept telling me, 'Play with the noise, play with the noise,'" Nastase said. "I said, 'I won't play with that noise. Take the point, take the game, take the match. And that's what Hammond did. 'Game, set and match Mr. McEnroe," he bellowed into the mi-

San Antonio won the first half of the race by three percentage points over Midland and the Cubs nailed down the second half with a victory in the first game of this series to set up the playoff starting Monday. "I suppose it was the only way the natch could continue think it was the right thing to do,' said Hammond, who later resigned from the tournament. "I've been an umpire for 32 years. I've worked 60 matches with Nastase, maybe more. I thought until today that I had a good reputation and a good rapport with

PRIOR TO the big eruption, Hammond had given McEnroe an extra serve because Nastase was clowning around, and penalized Nastase a point because he was delaying play.

"I thought I was extremently lenient in working within the rules," said Hammond. "It was the worst moment of my life. I've never seen anything

"He was inciting the crowd," said Talbert, explaining the decision to replace Hammond. "What were our choices? If we leave him in the chair, we never finish the match.

Somewhere in the confusion, Hammond's announcement that the match was over was reversed. Play eventually resumed, after a delay of some 15 minutes, and the third-seeded McEnroe soon wrapped up a 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 victory.

Afterward, he said he bore no ill feelings toward Nastase.

"You hate him on the court, but five minutes later you get over it,' McEnroe said. "And it's easier when you win. He actually was on pretty good behavior, I thought."

AS FOR the disruption, he said, "The crowd did it, so most of the responsibility goes to them. They came here looking for something to happen, and they certainly got a

California finally gives way to KC

By The Associated Press

Kansas City's George Brett knows when he sees something good - like himself and the rest of the front-running Royals.

"If I was a betting man, I'd put my money on myself," Brett said Thurs-day night after the Royals overtook the fading California Angels in the American League West, grabbing a one-half game lead, the first time they've been in first place since June

"They've blown a 10½-game lead," Brett said. "I think they've been looking over their shoulder.'

While the Angels were losing 7-1 in Cleveland, the Royals were rolling to an 8-3 victory over the comeback club of a year ago, the New York Yan-

'You never know in this game," he added. "We turned it around. The All-Star break came at a good time." It came after the Royals, who had lost 14 of 15, beat Texas 4-3 to take a victory into the three-day break. "That was an important game to win," Herzog said.

Larry Gura, who scattered seven New York hits, said of the fading Angels: "We knew we'd catch them. We were struggling all year, but we were still close. If we had played up to our capabilities we'd be in a lot better shape.

Lee scrimmages Andrews tonight

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

"We finally get to get a look at somebody else.

Those were the words uttered by Midland Lee football coach Gil Bartosh as his Rebels got ready to square off with the Class AAA Andrews Mustangs in Memorial Stadium tonight.

We need to work against somebody else and although they are bound to be ahead of us with one scrimmage under their belts with Lake View, we are anxious to see how we move the ball. They gave us all we wanted in Andrews last year," added Bartosh, who is in his second year at

The Lee and Andrews junior varsitites will go at each other starting at 5 p.m. followed by the varsity scrimmage between 6:30 and 6:45 p.m.

It will be a pre-season test for the Rebels, who open in Snyder next Friday at 8 p.m.

Bartosh has been highly-pleased with his team to date. "The attitude is simply great and the kids have been working hard and believe in themselves.

Gary Butler, senior quarterback heads the Veer Offense along with tailback Steve Waldron and fullback Mark Thompson.

"We plan to throw the ball more this year and open up our offense since we have the scheme in a lot better than at this time last fall,"

The Rebels executed very well in last Saturday's scrimmage and were making the leather pop on defense, which always pleases the coaching

Andrews didn't make a strong showing in the scrimmage with Lake View, but that was also deceiving. "They (Lake View) broke a pair of runs, but then it was awfully even after that," said Bartosh. Bartosh went on to say that the Mustangs have some good athletes and a fine runner in Van Pearcy.

"Andrews always seems to come up with some big linemen every year too," added Bartosh. Both Butler and backup quarterback Barry Corley have been throwing the ball well during the first 10 days of Rebel workouts. "Waldron has been running well and Thompson has been blocking well for us. He needs to stay healthy to help us this year, " said Bartosh.

The Rebels may not have the size, but it is a young team that has great potential to come along and have another banner year and if Bartosh and his staff have anything to say about it, the Rebels will be competitive. After all, they are picked third behind Abilene Cooper and Odessa Permian, two teams that very well could be in the top 10 most of this season. "They may have us picked too high and I know that Midland and Odessa High are going to have good teams. We will just have to wait and see," added Bartosh.

Seahawks, Chargers have NFL playoff ambitions

By The Associated Press

They finished last season with identical 9-7 records, a slim one game behind the American Conference champion Denver Broncos. Now the Seattle Seahawks and San Diego Chargers have playoff ambitions of their own and they'll test them out on each other Sunday as the National Football League's 60th season gets underway. Actually, the earliest-ever NFL season starts Saturday night when the Detroit Lions visit the Tampa Bay

In Sunday's other games, Atlanta visits New Orleans, Dallas is at St. Louis, Green Bay plays at Chicago, the New York Giants are at Philadelphia, San Francisco travels to Minnesota, Houston plays at Washington, Los Angeles hosts Oakland, Baltimore plays at Kansas City, Cincinnati visits Denver, Cleveland goes against the Jets in New York and Buffalo hosts Miami.

The opening weekend concludes Monday night with Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh playing at New En-

Dallas is shooting for a fourth straight NFC East title and a third straight trip to the Super Bowl. The Cowboys' Flex Defense has a new look with Larry Cole and Dave Stalls up front replacing retired Too Tall Jones and Jethro Pugh, and Randy Hughes at strong safety in place of All Pro Charlie Waters, who is out for the year with a knee injury. Roger Staubach still runs the offense but Tony Dorsett (broken toe) may miss the oopener against St. Louis.

The Cardinals won six of their last eight after an 0-8 start under Coach. Bud Wilkinson last year. The ciub depends on quarterback Jim Hart and wide receivers Pat Tilley (62 catches for 900 yards) and Mel Gray (44-871) with No. 1 draft pick Ottis Anderson replacing retired Jim Otis at running back alongside Wayne Morris.

Coryell has Charger followers excited. The club won seven of its last eight games last season after he took over in the fifth week. Now with newcomers like running back Mike Thomas and All-Pro cornerback Willie Buchanon added to the cast along with tight end Kellen Winslow, a No. 1 draft choice, the club seems im-

Quarterback Dan Fouts threw 24 touchdown passes last year when San Diego led the NFL in passing with 210.9 yards per game. Much of the air attack was targeted at wide receiver John Jefferson, who caught 56 passes for 1.001 vards last year.

Seattle has a high-powered offense, too, with quarterback Jim Zorn directing an attack that generated 55 points in the final preseason game against San Francisco. Wide receiver Steve Largent led the American Conference with 71 catches last season. Veteran Carl Eller, obtained from Minnesota, adds experience to the defensive line. Detroit, which turned a dismal 1-6 start into a nearly respectable 7-9 first year for Monte Clark, faces a major problem at quarterback with the loss of Gary Danielson, who was hurt in the final preseason game. The Lions will use Joe Reed and Scott Hunter to fill in and you can expect running backs Dexter Bussey and Horace King to carry much of the offensive load behind a line anchored by tackle Keith Dorney, a No. 1 draft that was fourth best in the NFL last

Minnesota and Los Angeles are both shooting for record seventh straight division titles - the Vikings in the National Conference Central and the Rams in the NFC West. The Vikes' task seems more difficult because of the retirement of quarterback Fran Tarkenton, one of the NFL's alltime greats at the position. Tommy Kramer succeeds Tarkenton, and Dennis Swilley replaces center Mick Tinglehoff, who also retired. Steve Niehaus, acquired from Seattle for Eller, plays next to defensive end Jim Marshall, starting a remarkable 20th NFL season. Rebuilding San Francisco welcomes back running back Wilbur Jackson, who missed last season with a torn-up knee, and introduces ex-Philadelphia running back Mike Hogan, who'll probably replace O.J. Simpson in the opener. Simpson, the NFL's No. 2 alltime rusher behind Jim Brown with 10,776 yards, missed the preseason because of a sore knee and the tragic drowning of his 23month-old daughter.

The Rams promise a more wideopen offense built around quarterback Pat Haden. Running back John Cappelletti is out for the season but Los Angeles is still deep at the position with Lawrence McCutcheon and Elvis Peacock, both coming off injuries last years and Cullen Breant.

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP) - Lee Trevino says there isn't an easy hole at the National Golf Club.

"You can't relax at any time," said Trevino, who registered birdies on the last four holes for a four-under-par 67 Thursday and the first-round lead in the $100,000 Canadian PGA Championship.

More than 140 competitors started the 72-hole tournament in sunny weather but only five broke par on the 6,975-yard course, politely called tough and long by a number of the players but tagged as evil by some members of the private club.

Entering today's second round, with $20,000 as the prize for the winner, Trevino took a two-stroke lead over Jim Nelford and Bob Rose of Canada and Peter Townsend of England. Alone at 70, three strokes off the pace, was Tony Jacklin of England, followed by another Canadian, Paul Kennedy. Tom Watson, leading money winner on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, Dave Barr of Canada and Francisco Cerda of Chile had 72s. Among those at 2-over-par 73 were defending champion Lanny Wadkins and Bob Charles of New Zealand.

The tournament, originally a closed event for members of the Canadian PGA, became an international competition in 1978.

For most of the Canadian club pros and a number of invited professionals, it was generally a disastrous day.

One of the toughest holes was the 12th, a snakey par-five 503-yarder which yielded a couple of 10s and one 11. However, David Richardson of Richmond Hill. Ont., had an eagle on the hole, but he wound up with an 80.

Despite his 69, the course even got to Nelford, former Canadian amateur champion who is in his second year as a pro. The 24-year-old was stung by a bee near his right elbow on the sixth hole

"It stung all the way around but it didn't bother me. However, I was worried because I was allergic to bee stings when I was younger." Trevino, with career earnings of more than $2 million on the PGA tour. started his brilliant putting display on the 15th with an 18-footer on the par-three, 221-yard hole. He made a three-foot birdie putt on the 16th and 17th holes, then sank a 15-footer for a birdie on the par-four, 441-yard

It's the first pro tournament on the course and Trevino responded by setting a competitive record at the National. The previous record of 69 was set two weeks ago by Toronto's Paul Davis, winner of the Ontario amateur

"I drove the ball quite well today," Trevino said. "I missed two fairways— the ninth and 11th. It was just hitting it down the middle and on the

be a big factor in today's final qualifying and again in Sunday's California 500 auto race, but the big names and their fast times were still familiar.

Rick Mears, the Indianapolis 500 winner from Bakersfield, Calif.; Al and Bobby Unser, multiple winners of big races, and Mario Andretti command the most attention at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Mears set a lap record of 203.046 mph in the first day of qualifying, but didn't necessarily win the pole position because this qualifying is under the European multicar system differing from that generally used in the United States. So the drivers got another chance at bettering their speeds in runs today to determine the grid of the The next fastest laps were turned by Al Unser, 201.844; Bobby Unser, 201.378; and Andretti,

Al Unser, winner here the past two years, was in a group when breezes were light, but he was in a brand new car, a Chaparral-Cosworth owned by Midland's Jim Hall. Last year's victory here gave Unser and Hall the Triple Crown in the racing world. That was the first time that had ever been done. They have not won a race this year, but Unser led over half of the Indianapolis 500 before a faulty transmission seal put him out of the race.

Tom Bagley, who is driving for the Longhorn Racing Team owned by Midlander Bobby Hillin, was also impressive with the seventh fastest qualifying

"When the wind kicked up, I about hit the fence a couple of times getting into turn one," said Mears, who drove one of Roger Penske's cars to victory at Indy and a newer one here.

The 28-year-old added, "Coming out of (turn) four,

Under the European system, groups of up to eight cars go on the track for 20 minutes, with each of their laps of the 21/2-mile oval timed, with the fastest counting as the drivers' qualifying time. They did the same today so it was possible for a driver to improve

"The first time I sat in this car was today," said the Albuquerque veteran. "It came right off the truck. I was both satisfied and not satisfied. There were a few things wrong that we'll get fixed and I know I can go faster."

Five cars that had running time were disqualified because their rear wings were more than the allowable 32 inches above the tubs or bottoms of the vehicles. All could try again today and other cars that didn't try on Thursday were expected to be on the line. The first group starts the 20-minute qualifying run at 1 p.m. PDT.

Other first run times over 190 mph came from Tom Sneva, 197.624; Danny Ongais, 196.773; Steve Krisiloff, 195.797; Johnny Parsons, 195.746; Johnny Rutherford, 193.803; Lee Kunzman, 193.278; Dick Ferguson, 193.054; Spike Gelhausen, 192.156; and Pancho Carter, 190.074.

Strange takes B.C. lead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Defending champion John Cook felt like the semifinal round of the 79th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship came a day early.

The semifinals at Canterbury Golf Club are not scheduled until Saturday, but third-round matches today pitting Cook against Lennie Clements and Bobby Clampett against Gary Hallberg brought them to Cook's mind

"I feel these two matches are semifinals," the 21-year-old Ohio State senior from Dublin, Ohio, said. "There will be some great players left, but I think it's kind of unfortunate that these matches came so early.

Surprises missing in Southern 500

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) - Surprises were missing during the opening day of qualifying for Mon-day's 30th running of the Southern 500 stock car race at Darlington International Speedway.

Repeating their qualifying performances at the Carolina 500 in March at Rockingham, N.C., brothers Bobby and Donnie Allison finished 1-2. They also set speedway qualifying records.

The third and fourth spots also went to veteran drivers - Darrell Waltrip of Franklin, Tenn., and Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C. A total of 12 drivers qualified for Monday's race Thursday, and 12 more hoped to qualify today and 16 on Saturday. Bobby Allison, 42, grabbed the coveted pole posi-tion by touring the 1.336-mile layout at 154.881 mph in his Hodgson-Moore Ford Thunderbird. The 39-year-old Donnie, driving a Chevrolet, was clocked at 154.506 mph.

Waltrip, current leader in NASCAR's point standings and the most successful driver so far this year with seven victories, turned in 154.365 mph in a Chevrolet.

Petty, winningest driver in stock car racing history and a six-time national champion, was clocked at 154.307 mph in a Chevrolet.

Rounding out the top 12 starting slots for the nation's oldest stock car classic were: David Pearson, 154.008; Bill Elliott, 153.998; Harry Gant, 153.527; Dick Brooks, 152.982; Neil Bonnett, 152.963; Budy Baker, 152.650; Cale Yarborough, 152.385; and Joe Millikan, 152.376.

Win-or-else crisis mars Utes' opener

By The Associated Press

Talk about your win-or-else situations!

Utah Coach Wayne Howard, who is in his third season as coach of the Utes, leads his squad against Long Beach State in one of 11 matchups involving teams from Division I-A on the opening day of the college football season Saturday. Howard coached at Long Beach for five seasons - three as head coach - before taking over at

"We can't lose to Long Beach," he said. "We'd commit suicide if we

Howard was named the Western Athletic Conference coach of the year in 1978 after leading the Utes from a 3-8 record the year before to 8-3 last season.

The 49ers, 5-6 last season, have returning quarterback Paul McGaffigan, the ninth leading passer in the country last season and an AP honorable mention All-America. Other games Saturday involving WAC teams include Arizona hosting Colorado State, New Mexico entertaining Louisiana Tech of Soutland Conference and Texas-El Paso at independent North Texas State.

The only afternoon game Saturday involving a Division I-A team has Eastern Michigan at Division II Northern Michigan. At night, it will be Western Carolina at East Carolina, Drake at Indiana State, Northeast Louisiana at Southwestern Louisiana, McNeese State at Tulsa, Southern Illinois at West Texas State and Wichita State at New Mexico State.

In the latter game, Willie Jeffries makes his head coaching debut for the Shockers. Jeffries is the first black head coach at a Division I-A Wichita State is one of 26 I-A schools starting the campaign with a new coach. Many of those coaches, however, have been in charge of football programs at other schools prior to their present stops.

Pregame meeting fires up Giants

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) The San Francisco Giants held a pregame meeting and it certainly didn't hurt. "Maybe we're back on the right track. We've got to start playing baseball and stop worrying about other things," said Manager Joe Altobelli. That was the theme of the meeting held Thursday before the Giants went out and played the game well, beating the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2. Willie McCovey's tie-breaking pinch-hit single in the seventh inning and Ed Whitson's four-hit pitching, along with a big break which gave them their first two runs, helped the Giants forget - at least temporarily some recent troubles.

Whitson made his record 6-8 with his best game since joining the Giants two months ago. The Giants tied the score in the fourth when a seemingly perfect throw to the plate by Garry Templeton hit sliding baserunner Mike Ivie on an ankle and resulted in two runs.

Those "other things" alluded to by Altobelli included a clubhouse fight involving Whitson, fines handed out to Whitson and three others for breaking rule against drinking on team flights and some feuding with local baseball writers.

The Giants had lost 11 of 13 games before Thursday and Altobelli reminded the players, "Baseball is baseball. Other things are other things.

The Cardinals held a mini-meeting, on the mound just before Pete Vuckovich, 12-9, pitched to McCovey, batting for Joe Strain with two out and runners at first and second.

"I just wanted to see how he felt, and he said he was feeling great,' said Boyer. "I couldn't see going to any other pitcher, the way Pete was throwing. But Vuckovich, who allowed only six hits in the tough loss, made the first pitch to McCovey too good, admitting, "I missed by six inches." Where did he intend to throw the fastball which McCovey lined into right field?

"That's none of your business," he

John McNamara predicts pennant

MONTREAL (AP) - For a manager who likes to avoid public controversy, Cincinnati's John McNamara has finally gone out on a limb and predicted that the Reds will win the National League West

That's a pretty wild prediction for McNamara. who seldom makes sweeping statements about his club, players or the pennant race.

"A combination of all the things are falling together for us," McNamara said after the first-place Reds won eight straight games and prepared for a series starting tonight with the Montreal Expos. "I'd say we've finally put all the ingredients of winning baseball together. In fact, I think we're said. "I plan to be around awhile because we have a very good baseball team that's going to get bet-

'And I'm going to keep winning," McNamara

That sort of statement was monumental for McNamara, who keeps a low profile in the Cincinnati organization. Pitcher Tom Seaver offered one of the best descriptions of McNamara's managerial style. "John McNamara is a very low key man, but the ultimate professional," Seaver said. "All he asks of us is that we be totally professional."

first instance, he ap-parently can't afford to stop the second. Veeck's White Sox are losing all kinds of money on postponed games be-cause Comiskey Park has been flooded by recent heavy rains. And rock and disco music concerts, designed to bring in revenue when the Sox aren't using the field, have brought tor-celed game, too. But Veeck says neither the flooding nor the madness at an anti-disco disturbance earlier this summer at the park are rents of complaints, a

Comiskey Park had good drainage, he says, until the Dan Ryan Expressway was built a few blocks away in the 1950s and blocked the drainage on the east side.

And the 7,000 people that took to the baseball field, littering it with broken disco records at a White Sox doubleheader in July, were a huge crowd that got out of hand, he says.

He says the field wasn't hurt much by either the so-called 'Disco Demolition Derby," which resulted in the second game being canceled and later forfeited, or the the grasspark this month heavy rain this month and poor drainage that have muddied the field so much that officials have been muddled over whether games should be

But there hasn't been any question in Veeck's mind. He called umpires' decision to postpone Wednesday night's game against the Boston Red Sox "another strange and stupid decision."

It was the third time in six days that White Sox home games have been postponed because of the muddy condition of the outfield. Games against Baltimore were postponed last Friday and Saturday nights. A doubleheader was played Sunday against Baltimore despite player protests, and games against the Red Sox were played Monday and Tuesday

But the heavy rains came again Wednesday morning, leading to the latest postponement. Veeck said the rain filled the viaducts on the west side of the park — and when those viaducts fill up, so does Comiskey

Net stars carry private entourages

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) - It's not enough for today's tennis hotshot to walk onto the center court with an armful of board-tight graphite rackets, colorfully striped attire, a 100 mph serve and a deft drop shot.

He's only half prepared if he doesn't have his own private Svengali.

"Svengali" is a label borrowed from some of the darkest pages of literature to describe the strange relationship between Guillermo Vilas, the handsome young gaucho from the Argentine, and his dour, mustachioed court mentor, Ion Tiriac.

They may represent the most colorful and bizarre of tennis' new pupilmaster syndrome but they certainly are not the only ones nor necessarily the most effective.

Jimmy Connors is a court man killer girded by doting women - first his maternal grandmother, whose written message of encouragement he wore in his shoe even after her death; mother Gloria, always at his side, and now his bride, Patti, mother of his first child.

The fantastically brilliant Bjorn Borg, winner of the last four Wimbledons, certainly would be lost without the ever-present Lannart Bergelin, a balding, middle-aged former Swedish Davis Cup player and captain who is as cold and phlegmatic as his famous

The rocket-serving Roscoe Tanner, who carried Borg to five sets in this year's Wimbledon final, has refashioned his game and moved into the circle of the elite under the expert tutelage of Dennis Ralston, former U.S. Davis Cup captain and prominent California teacher. Now at the big tournaments - such as the U.S. Open, now in its first week - Ralston never wanders far from Roscoe's Tennis super stars, most of them dreams of tennis gold and glory, bounces onto the scene with parents, a passel of aunts and uncles, marketers and always a private coach.

If you want to enjoy the real drama of the Open championships, look over at the box seats and get a load of the Svengalis pulling those invisible strings or, if you're watching from home, take note when the big camera zooms in on the telepathic eye contact between gladiator and mentor.

Vilas was a gifted but raw teen-ager when Tiriac, 50, took him over 4½ years ago. In 1977, under Tiriac's tutelage, Guillermo battled his way from No.6 in the world standings to No.1, winning both the French and U.S. Opens and winning 50 consecutive matches.

Bergelin is a pleasant, smiling man in his 50s. He has been Borg's only teacher since the Scandinavian wunderkind hit the international circuit like a thunderclap at age 17.

The feisty, controversial Connors got his early coaching from Pancho Segura, but Segura — as was the case with Bill Riordan — has been eased out of the picture by mother Gloria. Jimmy socks 'em but mom calls the

BOND ISSUE:

STREETS AND DRAINAGE IMPROVEMENTS

As a result of the recent rapid growth of Midland, and its anticipated future growth, voters will be asked to express their opinion on a $16 million bond issue on Tuesday, September 4. These funds will be used for the improvement and upgrading of sewage and water facilities, street improvements, and construction and renovation of city-owned facilities.

FACTS:

- The northwest drainage channel requires improvements. This includes the upgrading of crossings at Boulder, Haynes, Midkiff, Maxwell, Whitney, Ward, and Garfield, as well as deepening and/or widening where needed.
- Storm sewers are needed in North Garfield and North "A" streets.
- Flashing lights in several school zones and the signalizing of approximately 10 major intersections would provide much needed safety.
- This $6,000,000 bond issue will provide these improvements to help Midland keep pace with its growth.

The Citizens Committee urges all Midlanders to vote for continued growth and prosperity for Midland by voting FOR the issues on Tuesday, September 4.

Escrow suit may set precedent

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - Millions of homeowners across the nation have a stake in a court suit here challenging the right of lending institutions to collect escrow funds without paying interest.

If the eastern Virginia homeowners who filed the suit win it and survive subsequent appeals, a strong legal precedent could be established as it would be the first major decison in a federal court. It also would involve hundreds of millions of dollars. Most lenders, in a practice that began in the 1930s, require monthly payments for taxes and insurance from people who take out mortgage loans, besides payments to reduce the principal of the loan.

Seldom is the borrower given the option of paying the tax and insurance bills on his own. Instead, the lender holds the money in escrow, invests it and earns interest between tax payments. Lenders insist they have a right to protect the security of their loans. Without such payments, they say, many borrowers would default on their taxes and a tax lien would be slapped on the property. But while the banks and savings and loan associations earn investment income from escrow funds, they rarely pay interest to the borrower. And some say the income barely covers the costs of administering the funds. Since 1972, however, at least 10 states have responded to court pressure by requiring lending institutions to pay interest or make other concessions on escrow funds. Most federal cases involving escrow funds have been settled out of court, usually with the ho-meowner gaining the right to earn minimal interest or to pay their own taxes and insurance. The Virginia case, filed almost two years ago by 14 mortgage holders in the Norfolk-Virginia Beach area, names 38 lending institutions as defendants. As described by one lawyer, it has become "a paper war" with thousands of pages of motions, counter-motions, depositions and interrogatories. A motion by the defendants to dismiss the case awaits a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge D.

Dortch Warriner. The homeowners charge a violation of numerous federal laws through a conspiracy by the defendants to make escrow payments a condition of a loan. They maintain also that the failure to pay interest on this money actually inflates the stated rate of interest on the loan. One lawyer said Warriner has a wide range of alternatives if he decides in favor of the plaintiffs. He could order the lending institutions to stop making escrow payments a condition of a loan, or to pay interest on escrow funds voluntarily paid, or Watch for date!

Over 11.800 of the U.S.'s 12.350 airports are served only by General Aviation. Approximately 33% of all air passengers are moved this way, at a petroleum consumption rate of less than 1% of the national total. 90% of all General Aviation planes are single, or twin, light engine models, burning less fuel per trip than a '79 automobile. For example, a twin engine Beechcraft Baron uses 41 gals. of fuel on a direct flight from Memphis to Kansas City. A car. traveling the most direct route, burns 48 gals. The Baron completes the trip in 1 hr.. 46 mins. The car takes 9 hrs.. 35 mins. The Beechcraft saves 7 gals, and at least 71/2 hours travel time.

This is only one example of the fuel economy possible with a twin engine business airplane. Greater savings are available with a single engine model.

A straight line is STILL the shortest distance between two points. For more information, and a demonstration, contact:

South Africans will share coal conversion technology

By JACK FOISIE The Los Angeles Times

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa -South Africa's secret technology for converting coal into oil is to be made available to American companies. The Flour Corp. of Irvine, Calif., will provide the know-how for constructing the processing plants.

This was announced jointly here Thursday by Dr. Johannes Stegmann, managing director of Sasol, the South Africa producer of coal-to-oil, and Charles Cannon, president of Fluor

Fluor subsidiary. According to Cannon, the licensing of the Sasol technique, combined with the experience which Fluor has gained in constructing two Sasol plants in South Africa, will be a "significant contribution" to the development of a U.S. synthetic liquid fuel program, and will help to reduce American reliance on imported crude

Sasol 2, under construction by Fluor, is due to start production next year, and to be in full operation by 1982. Estimates are that its output should provide about 30 percent of South Africa's gasoline

A third plant, also to be built by Fluor, has just been started.

Under the terms of the agreement, Fluor and Sasol will jointly provide overall consulting services, make feasibility studies and prepare basic designs for the plants.

Stegmann cautioned that he did not expect any immediate clients, although Texas Eastern Corporation, a Houston-based diversified energy company, has expressed interest and authorized a feasibility study.

"Before any plant based on Sasol's technology can be built in the United States, license and secrecy agreements will have to be worked out," Stegmann said. "The technology is not sold, but will be licensed to individual clients on terms that will be commercially favorable to Sasol."

Sasol is a quasi-governmental agency. Informed sources indicated that before all details of the coal-to-oil process are made available to American firms, the South African government might a demand that the United States government provide certain scientific information and material in

President Carter's energy experts are known to be interested in the South African technology, particularly data on cost of the fuel which comes out of the process. South Africa has long sought enriched uranium for its nuclear energy programs, but a conditional sale of such material was canceled this year by the Carter administration. Carter has promised government support for the development of largescale synthetic fuel programs to reduce U.S. oil imports. South Africa, which has no petroleum of its own, is also pressing ahead to find substitute fuels, and is helping to finance the cost of sasol 2, which runs to $2.8 billion. Inflation will send the cost of Sasol 3 to $3.8 billion. Fluor's project director, roy klein, has 20,000 workers at the site.

Other countries are also interested in the Sasol process. Japan is reported to be attempting to buy coal mines in Australia as a source for their own efforts to produce oil from coal. Under the Sasol process, a ton of coal makes between one and two barrels of oil, which then has to be refined to obtain gasoline and other petroleum products.

Who was that masked man? The judge can tell you now

LOS ANGELES (AP) - What no black-hatted cowboy villain could accomplish in more than 200 episodes of "The Lone Ranger," a Superior Court judge has ordered actor Clayton Moore to do - take off his Moore, who played television's "masked rider of the plains" from 1949 to 1957, had tears in his eyes when he heard of the decision by Judge Vernon Foster. Moore waited outside the courtroom Thursday because he refused to take off his white cowboy hat.

"I have been the Lone Ranger for 30 years, and I will not give up the fight," said Moore, who left with his black mask still in place. Foster granted a preliminary injunction sought by Lone Ranger Television Inc., a subsidiary of the Wrather Corp., which bought all rights to the Lone Ranger character for $3 million in 1954. He ruled Wrather Corp. has a property right in the character, and upheld Wrather's claim that Moore had signed away for a handsome price all rights to portray himself as the hero of the Old West. The injunction forbids Moore to wear in public "the Lone Ranger mask

Moore's lawyer, Robert Michaels, argued the judge would destroy a treasured mystique if he forced Moore to show his face in public. "The Lone Ranger has never been unmasked," said Michaels, "and I don't think it's proper that this court unmask him.' Wrather attorney Joel Boxer said the company is launching a film with a new Lone Ranger and wants Moore unmasked to avoid confusion. Wrather has said the 64-year-old Moore is too old to represent the masked man who rode the West on a white horse and fired trademark silver bullets. When Moore was summoned into court to show the judge his trim physique and youthful appearance, he was still wearing the black mask.

"It's our mask," Boxer told the judge, "and Mr. Moore has shown no reason to wear the mask."

Boxer said the company had no objection to Moore making appearances without the mask and reminiscing about his character. "But the Lone Ranger is our character," said Boxer. "Mr. Moore, no matter what he may feel in his heart, is not the Lone Ranger.'

It was apparent in the courthouse halls that many disagreed. A throng of fans engulfed Moore, snapping pictures and getting autographs. Moore said he had received good wishes by phone from Jay Silverheels, who played his Indian sidekick, Tonto. Silverheels is confined to a wheelchair at the Motion Picture Country Home and Hospital. Meanwhile, in Phoenix, disc jockey Bobby Butler of radio station KJJJ announced a petition drive to help Moore keep his mask. Butler, who gained national fame with his song of the recent truckers' strike, "Cheaper Crude or No More Food," said the drive to de-mask

If Chrysler dies, so will New Castle

By JAN CARROLL

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Bill Vaught aimlessly wipes the counter of his bar, wishing for the afternoon crowd of Chrysler workers that usually fills his modest tavern.

The patrons will not be there in force today. Feeling the pinch that has hit the financially troubled automaker, the Chrysler parts plant across the street from Bill's Bar and Lunch shut down Monday for two weeks.

"It's been real slow," said Vaught, who worked for Chrysler for 10 years before opening his bar in

"I've seen it slow before," he said. "I was laid off a year and two months one time, nine months another. When they were down for a strike, everybody figured they'd be back pretty soon. Now, they're running scared and I can't say as I blame them."

At the end of the bar, Jerry Davis nurses a beer. He is among the 2,500 Chrysler workers in this eastern Indiana community of 22,000 who are affected by the production shutdowns.

"IF IT GOES, I'M going," the 30-year-old Davis said of the plant. "I got 13 years in there. You hate to Working for the automaker has been a family tradition for Davis. His father worked there, and so do his two brothers-in-law. He graduated from Chrysler High here. But if the plant closes, he vows to take his wife and two children and move else-

"There goes part of the problem right now," Davis said, nodding toward the street where a city-owned vehicle, a Chevrolet, stopped at an intersection. 'City government in this town won't support Chrysler. They go out of town to buy their cars. They don't have no support around here like they used

"A lot of the uptown businessmen say if Chrysler folds, this town wouldn't be hurt any," said Davis. "I don't know what they're thinking, but I think they're crazier than hell. It's a Chrysler town, that's what it

William Clements, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, disputes claims like Davis' that New Castle is a company town in the classic sense of

"I lived in the Pittsburgh area and I know what a company town is. It's where the houses are owned by the company and the stores are owned by the company and the businesses are owned by the company," he said. "We are not a company town."

BUT WITH THE automaker representing 10 percent of the work force of Henry County "for me to say that Chrysler is not important is a darned ridiculous statement.'

Chrysler, which has lost more than $460 million in the last 18 months, is asking the federal government for $1 billion in aid until 1981, when it says it should be profitable again.

Some 25,800 employees, more than one-fourth of its U.S. hourly work force, have been laid off as of last Unemployment in this city, about 50 miles east of Indianapolis, is about 7.8 percent, but when Chrysler shuts down the figure jumps to 17.8 percent.

Pointing to the diversification in New Castle industry, Clements is optimistic about the town's economc health in the face of Chrysler's difficulties.

"There's lots of gloom and doom talk, but really there's been no announcement that Chrysler is going to close," he said. "They're in trouble, sure. Everybody knows that. But even though Chrysler shuts down part of its operation, it's got to have a parts

"I've been over there 34 years and they've been closing up since they've been there," quipped one old-timer at the bar.

Across town at the Castle Liquor Store, manager Stan Ciempola considers the old notion that in times of trouble, people look for solace in drink.

"If they're drinking, they're probably drinking in the bars. It's slowed down completely in here," he said. "We stocked up for the Labor Day holiday and we hope sales get better."
