Ponderous but graceful airship ready for travel comeback

LONDON (AP) — Airships, those ponderous graceful whales of the skies made virtually extinct by a string of catastrophes a half-century ago, are ready to make a comeback.

The world's energy crisis and space-age technology have revived interest in airships as a safe and economical mode of long-distance air travel.

"The airship's a cheap magic carpet in today's world," said top British designer John Wood, who has developed the AD-500, considered the most promising of the new generation of aerial leviathans.

Aeronautical engineers around the world are looking to the airship, which pioneered aviation more than 50 years ago, as a craft of the future.

Some talk of huge nuclear-powered ships capable of hauling 200 tons around the world non-stop. Others envisage airships as luxury liners, fishing boats, aerial cranes — the workhorse of the skies.

Supporters of the airship say it will cut transport costs and noise pollution. And they stress that modern airships are safe.

Airships these days are filled with helium, an inert gas, instead of the highly inflammable hydrogen used in the old craft.

"You could cook your dinner on an open fire inside an airship these days without worrying about an explosion," said Wood.

Roger Munk, one of Wood's 20-man design team, commented: "There's as much similarity between our ship and airships like the Hindenburg as a 747 and the planes of the 1930s."

Wood's AD-500, the first commercial airship built in Britain since the 1930s, is a 165-foot "envelope" with a skin of titanium-coated polyurethane reputed to be as tough as steel.

Russians in Cuba may keep Senate from OK'ing SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 1,500 retired generals and admirals urged rejection of the SALT II treaty in a letter delivered today to the Senate by a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he sought the views of retired military officers because "active duty military leaders are not permitted to flatly oppose SALT II."

It was presented as the committee resumed its hearings on the pact after a day's delay for closed-door briefings on the presence of 2,000 to 3,000 Soviet troops in Cuba.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee's chairman, served notice Wednesday that "there is no likelihood whatever the Senate would ratify the SALT treaty as long as Russian combat troops remain stationed in Cuba."

Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, ranking committee Republican, declined to join in Church's statement, saying, "At this particular moment, predictions would be very hazardous."

Moorer's letter was signed by such well-known treaty foes as Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, who with Moorer was a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the early 1970s; Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, who was relieved of his South Korean command after criticizing the administration's troop withdrawal policy; Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, former head of the Defense Intelligence Agency; and Maj. Gen. George Keegan, former chief of Air Force intelligence. Moore was testifying as a leader of the pro-defense Coalition for Peace through Strength.

Active duty military officers are generally expected to support administration policies, but are free to express their personal views when asked in congressional appearances.

The current members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff earlier this summer characterized the treaty as a "modest but useful step" in arms limitation, but said "none of us is totally at ease with all the provisions of the agreement."

Eugene Rostow, of the Committee on the Present Danger and another SALT critic, testified that the treaty would hinder U.S. efforts to maintain military equality with the Soviet Union.

In announcing the resumption of hearings, Church left no doubt he would try to use the treaty as a lever to force removal of the Soviet troops in Cuba.

He said resumption of the hearings "does not commit the committee to any given action on the treaty, nor does it commit the committee to any particular timetable."

Meanwhile in Havana, Cuba, the official government news agency said U.S. statements about the presence of Soviet combat troops there were a "maneuver" aimed at discrediting Cuba during the current meeting of non-aligned nations.

But Prensa Latina, in the first official reaction to the reports, stopped short of denying the troops' presence. The statement echoed an earlier unofficial comment by a government spokesman.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, speaking at a State Department news conference Wednesday before going to Capitol Hill, said the administration "will not be satisfied with maintenance of the status quo" in Cuba. He did not rule out the possibility that the arms treaty would be held hostage unless the combat capability of the Soviet troops were eliminated.

The secretary said he will begin discussing the issue with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin when the Russian diplomat returns to the United States Friday. "I do not want to go into what our approach will be," Vance said.

Dorr found guilty in conspiracy case

SAN ANTONIO — Sentencing was set for Oct. 10 in Midland for two West Texas oilmen convicted of federal drug smuggling conspiracy charges.

A jury deliberated four hours Tuesday night before finding John R. Dorr, 40, of Pecos and his associate, John Grant Passmore of Royalty, guilty on three counts each of conspiracy to smuggle and distribute about 960 pounds of marijuana from Mexico into the United States.

Dorr, who maintained offices in Midland and who in 1974 was president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, and Passmore remained free on bond pending their sentencing.

Prosecutors said Dorr, an oil operator, was motivated by "pure, simple greed," but the defense insisted he was framed by the government's key witness.

Prosecutors said Dorr and Passmore conspired with former Fort Worth policeman Terry Wayne Fagan and six others to smuggle the marijuana into the country from Mexico.

Fagan, the government's chief witness, became a federal informant after he was arrested in Roswell, N.M., with an airplane loaded with marijuana.

Defense attorneys attacked Fagan's credibility, saying he implicated the defendants to save himself.

Prosecutors introduced testimony in efforts to prove Dorr paid $190,000 to buy an airplane that Fagan wrecked in an aborted dope-smuggling mission to the Mexican coastal resort town of Mazatlan.

The government also claimed Dorr paid for Fagan's legal services after a second mission ended with Fagan's arrest in Roswell and later made monthly payments to Fagan to "take the fall."

Prosecutors also said Dorr paid Passmore $18,000 to buy marijuana in Mexico. Fagan and other unindicted co-conspirators testified that Dorr was the "money man" in the alleged far-flung operation.

Dorr, one of eight people indicted last March by a federal grand jury in Midland, was charged with conspiracy to import marijuana, conspiracy to possess marijuana and aiding and abetting the possession of marijuana.

He was arrested in Pecos March 14 and was freed the next day after posting a $150,000 bond. Passmore's bond was set at $100,000.

U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration officials said in March that the indictment was the result of a year-long investigation by the Midland DEA office and the Roswell, N.M., Narcotics Division of the New Mexico State Police.

The marijuana-smuggling scheme took place between February and April of 1978, the government charged.

No mortgage program yet State office hasn't processed charter

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Inability on the part of the Texas Secretary of State's office to process a charter for the Midland Housing Finance Corp. forced that group to call off an organizational meeting Wednesday.

Instead, the five charter members probably will try another meeting on Monday, said Harry Clark.

Clark reported on the status of the housing finance group during a regular meeting of the Housing Authority of the city of Midland. He is a charter member of the finance corporation and serves as chairman of the Housing Authority.

Midland Housing Finance Corp., or

MHFC, was approved by the Midland City Council to be established for the purpose of administering the Single Family Mortgage Revenue Financing Program.

The corporation could sell revenue bonds in the name of the city as a means to obtain funds. This money then would be handed out by financial institutions to qualified moderate income families for home loans at an interest rate below 8 percent.

Midland can sell a maximum of $39 million in bonds. According to a study, the maximum income a family can have and be eligible for the program is $33,000.

But Clark added that the corporation can set lower limits on the amount of bonds to be sold and on the maximum family income for eligibility.

Because the charter won't be processed in Austin for a "day or two, we were told not to proceed with our meeting until we get authorization from the Secretary of State," Clark said.

One purpose of the scheduled Wednesday meeting was to hear responses from local financial institutions about their participation in the program. These responses will be delayed until a later meeting, according to Clark.

Clark said only one financial institution has notified him that it is interested in participating in the home loan program, "but that was with a condition."

The consenting firm was Jackie Johnson Mortgage Co., 2101 W. Wall St. The condition, Clark said, is that the firm wanted a smaller "good-faith" deposit. He said that shouldn't be a problem.

About 17 firms — including banks, savings and loan associations and mortgage companies — had been asked to participate.

Clark said that during an Aug. 23 meeting with representatives of the financial institutions, "we did not get an enthusiastic response. We are still talking with them."

"This (participation by local financial institutions) is a vital point in continuation of the program," he said.

Clark said Odessa is working on a housing loan program, but the non-profit corporation there hasn't talked yet with the financial organizations about participation.

Legally, Midland could undertake the program with only one participating financial institution, but Clark said the program would be hard to administer under that condition.

In other action at the Housing Authority non-meeting, the board of commissioners was told the Midland Commission for Local Community Development slowly is using its funds on rehabilitating homes. Remaining in the budget is $868.21.

An open house will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Sept. 16 at Hillcrest Manor, a housing unit for elderly and handicapped persons. The public is invited to tour the facility. Refreshments and a program will be prepared, according to Fred Kester, secretary of the Housing Authority.

Fund crunch may delay completion of North Loop

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Skyrocketing inflation and fast-multiplying federal government regulations are swiping part of the funds scheduled for the Texas State Department of Highways and Public Transportation's 20-year program, Ray Barnhart advised Midland and Odessa city officials Wednesday.

Barnhart, who spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce, recently was appointed by Gov. Bill Clements to the State Highway Commission.

The former state Republican Party chairman predicted that because available funds are dipping faster than planned, interchanges planned for Midland's Loop 250 (also known as North Loop) may not come as fast as earlier thought.

He assured the city officials that Loop 250 and Texas 191 (North Route), a planned connector route between the north sides of Midland and Odessa, will be constructed.

District Engineer Henry Pearson added that bids on various sections of those projects will be awarded in early 1980.

"I can't give you a time frame for completion of this project," Barnhart said Wednesday.

Government, highways and politics can't be divorced, said the former state legislator before launching into a review of how the federal government is hurting the United States.

"Many view with alarm the military threat from abroad," he said.

"Others see our own nation teetering on the brink of inflation. They see this mighty nation cower with its total dependence on foreign oil while ours (oil reserves) stay in the ground."

The major threat comes not from other countries, but "from our own government," said Barnhart.

President Carter asked the nation to join him in the moral equivalent of war, said the highway commissioner. "I would, but I don't know what side he's (Carter) on."

The federal government's interference in state laws has caused the taxpayer to shovel out more money for all the regulations, Barnhart claimed.

"Government is so complex, so overwhelmed by regulations, that de-

Why don't the local telephone and gas companies and the city water department have collection stations for bill paying, such as the local electric utility?

I realize I could mail the payment, but (using the telephone company as an example) this month, August, I would be paying 6 percent per annum by affixing the 15-cent stamp.

Since this is not a tax, it is a surcharge on top of the taxes one must pay on the bill itself.

To save the 6 percent per annum, I called the company and asked if there were substations. I was told I would have to mail it or bring it to the office downtown.

My home is a 12-mile round trip to the company, which accounts for 80 percent of the 15 miles per gallon I get driving in town. I used 67 cents worth of gas to pay this bill, which is 80 percent of the $3.9 cents per gallon it cost me. Then I couldn't find a parking place.

It seems to me that the utility companies and city would be interested in saving the customer as much time and money as possible by establishing substations — but then they are not known for customer concern, are they? — Mr. J.H.A.

ANSWER: Norman C. Henry, district manager with Pioneer Natural Gas Co., says, with regard to why the gas company does not have substations, that the firm does not feel Midland is large enough yet to warrant the expense of establishing substations.

Henry says that most people are in the downtown area sometime during the week and drive by to make their payments. The company also has a depository for after-hours payments.

Fred W. Poe, assistant city manager, answers for the city water department, saying the city at one time considered the possibility of using the same substations as the electric company. But there would have been a percentage fee charged. Also, the total amount for the bills would not be collected; sometimes people would pay just what they wanted to pay.

Poe says that (lack of substations) is a matter of economics at the present time. The city does provide return envelopes for payment of bills by mail.

Penny Young, staff specialist in public relations for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., says her company feels the cost of substations is prohibitive. She went on to say the company mitted she formerly used heroin herself. She also testified that Finley is a diabetic. Ms. Hart also has been indicted in connection with the case.

Reeves, the first witness to testify Wednesday, said he found 25 tin foil packets containing a substance believed to be heroin when he stopped three persons July 2 at Carver Street and Indiana Avenue.

Reeves said the vehicle was driven by Whitfield. After another patrol car arrived, Reeves said, he asked the three to step from their vehicle.

Under questioning by Assistant District Attorney David Joers, who is prosecuting the case, Reeves testified that the item was a tin foil packet that contained 25 smaller tin foil packets.

Finley was indicted July 11 by the Midland County Grand Jury. He is being represented in the trial by defense attorney Leonard Howell.

Tropical storm spawns tornadoes

By The Associated Press

Gale winds and driving rains from tenacious Tropical Storm David tore into the urban Northeast today, sending hundreds fleeing their homes, knocking out power and closing highways and schools.

Tornadoes spawned in David's system touched down in scattered areas from Virginia to New Jersey. Rivers were rising toward flood stage and "major flooding" was expected on the Monocacy River at Frederick, Md.

Heavy rain and winds gusting to 53 mph buffeted New York City, creating rush hour traffic snarls.

Schools were closed throughout most of New Jersey, where about 100,000 homes and businesses were without power, and classes were also cancelled in much of New York and southeastern Connecticut.

Four more deaths were attributed to the storm, bringing the number of U.S. casualties to 14. Daid, one of the worst Caribbean storms of the century, has caused more than 900 deaths since it was spawned in the Caribbean last week.

At 9 a.m. EDT, David was centered at latitude 42.0 north and longitude 76.0 west, near Binghamton, N.Y., about 120 miles northwest of New York City.

Gale warnings were up from Cape Hatteras, N.C., to Eastport, Maine. The National Weather Service said there was a threat of tornadoes in Delaware, New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania and southeastern New York with the threat spreading into Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts later in the day.

In the meantime, Tropical Storm Frederic, still down in the Caribbean, dumped torrential rains on Hispaniola and Puerto Rico, islands still saturated from the furious passage of Hurricane David.

At midmorning, Frederic, with winds of 45 mph, was squarely over the Dominican Republic, which occupies the eastern two-third of Hispaniola.

As David made its way north, some 800 to 1,000 people were evacuated from their homes in Maryland early today, most of them in Baltimore, where police were rescuing persons stranded in their cars or trapped in their homes as floodwaters rose.

One man was killed when a tornado hit his trailer home in suburban Philadelphia, police said.

Baltimore police said the body of an unidentified woman, about 25-years old, washed ashore this morning. The officers said she apparently drowned when Jones Falls overflowed.

Storm winds tore the roof off truck-stop in the southern New Jersey Community of Pedrickstown and toppled two huge tractor-trailer trucks.

The tropical storm lost its hurricane force over land Wednesday as it passed through the southern Atlantic Coast states, leaving behind a trail of downed trees and eroded beaches.

David has caused damage estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars in its rampage through the Caribbean and the Southeast. The storm was blamed for $60 million in damage and six deaths in Florida where it first struck the U.S. mainland with hurricane winds earlier this week.

Two people were killed Wednesday in Virginia, where Gov. John Dalton declared a state of emergency after 10 tornadoes caused heavy damage.

Officials said one person died in a traffic accident caused by rain-slick roads near Wytheville, Va., while another was killed when a tornado hit a house in Fairfax County. Fourteen people were injured and at least 350 evacuated as floodwaters rose and tornadoes formed over the northern part of the state.

Newport News officials said tornadoes caused an estimated $2 million in damage to that city.

High water and winds brought some rail and air service in the Washington, D.C., area to a halt. Virtually all Amtrak service between Baltimore and Washington was closed by water up to three feet deep in some areas, said spokesman Brian Duff.

Maryland officials said five storms that appeared to be tornadoes smashed into the counties around Baltimore, slightly injuring two people, and an apparent tornado was blamed for one injury in neighboring Delaware.

Weakened storm drops more rain

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Frederic, so weakened it was "almost not even a tropical storm," swelled tides and dumped more rain early today on Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic. Both were still bruised from the passage of Hurricane David.

The storm was centered just southwest of the Dominican Republic capital of Santo Domingo and was expected to move west at 10 mph or less. Forecasters said it would cross Hispaniola, the island shared by Haiti and the Dominican Republic, and lose more steam.

The former hurricane drifted slightly northward in the Caribbean on Wednesday. Its center reformed as the winds weakened.

"The primary problem is that the rainfall is affecting those areas that don't need any more rainfall," said Dr. Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center here.

At midnight EDT today, Frederic was centered near latitude 18.3 north and longitude 70.5 west and its highest winds were 40 mph, with gale-force winds extending 100 miles north and 50 miles south of the center.

Forecasters said Frederic posed "a serious flood potential to the mountains of the Dominican Republic and Haiti due to previous rains caused by Hurricane David."

Frank said Frederic, which was downgraded from hurricane status late Monday, dropped 15 inches of rain on the Dominican Republic and 10 inches in some sections of Puerto Rico. Sea swells of 12 to 15 feet or more affected the coasts of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

A slight chance of rain has resumed its place in the forecast, according to the weatherman. A 20 percent chance of thunderstorms is expected tonight and Friday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Bell's earning potential down, stock analyst tells Texas PUC

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A New York City stock analyst testified today that the Bell telephone system's earnings potential has dropped to the point that he advises clients to sell their stock in American Telephone and Telegraph.

Brad Peery testified at a Texas Public Utility Commission hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone's request for rate increases totaling $145.2 million over a 12-month period. Southwestern Bell is a subsidiary of AT&T.

Peery said investors perceive a likely growth in AT&T dividends of 5.5 percent a year, "but I believe the market is wrong." He predicted a long-term average gain of 4.7 percent in AT&T dividends after discounting for inflation.

"That is my forecast of what investors would get as a result of investing in AT&T, which leads me to believe investors should sell the stock," Peery said.

One of the reasons Bell gives for seeking the rate increase is to enhance its ability to sell its securities to investors when it needs additional capital.

In previous testimony, a Southwestern Bell official said the company's financial position would be in jeopardy if the commission fails to grant the requested increase.

R. McRae Geschwind of St. Louis, Mo., testified Wednesday before commission examiner Phil Ricketts. The commission expects to make a decision in early November.

Most of Bell's request — $105 million — consists of increases in monthly base rates of $1.55 for households and $4.65 for businesses.

First Miss America preliminaries held

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — An Arizona gymnast who wants to be a family counselor and a teary-eyed North Carolina freelance writer won the talent and swimsuit events on the first night of preliminary competition at the Miss America pageant.

Pam Wenzel, 22-year-old Miss Arizona, has been tumbling, twirling and cartwheeling for the past 15 years. The green-eyed Phoenix native was the clear favorite Wednesday night as she dazzled the crowd of 6,500 with her gymnastic and acrobatic dance to Chuck Mangione's "The Children of Sanchez."

The 5-foot-7 Arizona State University senior scoffs at feminist arguments that the pageant exploits women. "I'm here as a learning experience. It's a scholarship contest that allows women to have careers and become more independent," she said.

Monta Anne Maki, Miss North Carolina, broke into tears when Bert Parks announced she won the swimsuit competition. The Hickory native said she knows she has an attractive figure and is proud of it.

"I'm not ashamed of my body," said the 34-23-34 1/2 brunette. "I don't mean to be sounding conceited, but if it gives people pleasure to look at me then I'm happy."

Sewer system studied

WEST TAWAKONI, Texas (AP) — An Environmental Protection Agency investigator says he has found irregularities in the installation and operation of the sewer system in West Tawakoni, and he expects federal criminal charges to be filed against several residents.

decisions can't be made," he charged. "We're drowning in a sea of red tape."

Expanding on what he termed the federal government's control of the states, Barnhart said Texas sends more than $500 million in highway monies to the federal government each year.

"The feds take 30 percent of that and give us 70 percent and call it federal aid. Then they threaten to take it away from us unless we follow the stipulations."

Other examples included proposed major thoroughfares which have had tons of environmental impact statements completed, but still no actual work done, he said.

In addition to federal regulations requiring states to spend more money, inflation is taking a bigger chunk than had been planned, he said. "It takes $4.40 to do the same work that $1 did in 1965."

Roads built 20 years ago are in need of major repairs, according to the highway commissioner. Some funds from the 20-year program should go to upgrade these highways, he contended.

Barnhart suggested the states keep their funds instead of sending part of them to the federal government and getting some back as federal aid.

In the near future, Texans may see an increase in the state gas tax. The present rate of five cents per gallon is the lowest rate in the 50 states, Barnhart said. Of that amount, the State Highway Department get 3.75 cents a gallon.

Pearson, who serves as engineer for the Midland-Odessa district, outlined projects for the Tall City. He mentioned the following projects: traffic signals for nine intersections, rebuilding North Midkiff Road and building Spur 217 to connect from FM 1788 to Midland Regional Airport.

rate increases totaling $136.4 million a year, with smaller hikes in business and residential monthly bills than Bell seeks.

Geschwind was cross-examined at length by Ray Besing, attorney for Microwave Communications, Inc., which competes with Bell for long distance business and also buys local service from Bell.

Microwave opposes any increase for Bell. "I don't think they are entitled to a goddamned dime," Besing said in a short interview during a break in the hearing.

Geschwind said in his pre-filed testimony that the entire Bell system, operating under the American Telephone & Telegraph umbrella, isn't making enough money to retain its traditional attractiveness to investors.

Hunger strike in county jail continues, chief deputy says

A hunger strike started Wednesday morning by inmates in the Midland County Jail continued early today, despite reports the strike had ended Wednesday evening, according to Chief Deputy George Thompson.

About 13 inmates in one of the "tanks" in the jail are involved in the strike, Thompson said today. Earlier reports indicated about 40 inmates of the jail were involved in the strike.

The incident began when the prisoners refused to eat breakfast Wednesday and pledged to continue boycotting meals until a list of four demands were met, according to a Sheriff's Department spokesman.

The demands were delivered in a letter to Sheriff Dallas Smith. Smoking, medical attention, food and visitation hours were complaint topics, according to reports.

Thompson said he did not believe the strike would last beyond today's evening meal.

He added that the hunger strike really didn't involve going without food entirely, as the prisoners regularly "stockpile" such items as fruit, candy and sandwiches.

A regular search of the jail prior to the present hunger strike turned up apples, oranges and other food, Thompson said. One of the prisoners had 16 candy bars, he added.

Dark shadow covers moon over Midland

By RICHARD MASON Staff Writer

Beginning at 4:18 a.m. today, Midlanders who were up at that hour saw the moon slip quietly into the shadow of the earth and remain covered in part for nearly three hours.

The event was a lunar eclipse, a relatively common event in terms of celestial events. The last one occurred May 25, 1975; the next is due July 6, 1982.

The phenomenon is caused when the earth is situated directly between the sun and the moon. At that time, the earth's shadow blocks sunlight from hitting the moon, darkening our sister satellite.

Rarer solar eclipses occur whenever the moon gets between the earth and sun.

Early-rising Mid-

State panel OKs jail in Andrews

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Texas Commission on Jail Standards has approved two variances for the Andrews County Jail.

The commission approved variances to allow the jail to operate without the required number of single cells and with inspection corridors that are less than the required width.

The jail has only three single cells. The jail needs eight single cells to comply with state standards.

Average daily population of the jail is seven prisoners.

landers would have noticed an indentation on the top part of the moon this morning about 4:30 a.m. That indentation grew until about 5:30 a.m. when the moon entered the dark part of the earth's shadow.

By sunrise (which occurs simultaneously with the setting moon when the moon is full), the shadow had disappeared. Midlanders looking west shortly before sunrise should have seen a larger-than-normal moon with a small copper-colored shadow on its lower side as the moon exited the final stages of the eclipse.

Lunar eclipses, like the one this morning, occur only during the full moon.

The path of the moon around the earth varies by about 6 degrees from the path of the earth around the sun.

That's not as confusing as it sounds. What it means is that the full moon passes either above or below the shadow left in space by the planet earth.

Nonetheless, total number of lunar eclipses possible in any one year is three, according to various scientific sources.

Today's setting moon appeared larger than normal for one other reason. The moon was at perigee, or at its closest point to the earth in its monthly orbit. The moon was 221,806 miles away from the planet earth.

we're introducing the very closest thing to a diamond. our cubic zirconia vs. diamonds compare and marvel at the facts.

The cubic zirconia glitters and sparkles like a diamond, but only an expert can tell the difference. Our 'space age' diamonds are the solution when the real thing is out of view. Our cubic z is the most realistic looking diamond fake on the market. It's brilliant, flawless! The most detection defying, diamond like jewel ever created by man without the expensive price.

View our dazzling pseudogems set in 14k gold. Diamonds are the most valuable gem stones in all the world. They are the hardest substance known to man, keeping their color and brilliance forever. Color, clarity, carat and cut determines the diamonds price. The diamond can demand as much as $25,000 a carat. Our magnificent cubic zirconia requires special equipment to tell the difference. The cubic zirconia is heavier than a real diamond, almost as hard and probably more brilliant. Ours are closer to perfect than a real diamond due to the controlled atmosphere in which they are created. Those are all the facts. The biggest difference between the two? The cost. ## Unwarranted delays

The years of undue delay imposed on the Alaska pipeline project by the environmentalist lawsuits contributed to both higher energy prices and excessive reliance on foreign oil. Make no mistake about that.

Should similar delays plague installation of the planned MX strategic missile system during the 1980s, the result most likely would be an ominous deterioration in this nation's ability to deter a Soviet nuclear attack.

It is time right now, way past time, in fact, to do something about this unnecessary environmental business, which all too long has been holding up needed progress and development ranging from drilling oil wells to building highways and pipelines to expanding industrial operations. And now it is the nation's security which is threatened! Surely, something can and will be done now.

Yet, Defense Department planners fully expect lengthy court fights occasioned by environmentalist opposition to the sprawling network of MX launchers planned for Utah and Nevada. Indeed, there is even some concern that the entire MX program could be deferred indefinitely because of legal and environmental snags.

And all the while, the Soviet leaders undoubtedly are smiling at the roadblocks, while at the same time landing combat ready troops in Cuba.

This wouldn't be the first time a major defense program was scuttled by those who apparently place aesthetics, convenience and concern for a pristine environment over defense priorities.

In the early 1970s, the Navy cancelled plans to imbed an extensive communications grid in the wilds of northern Michigan because of just such objections. The grid would have permitted more reliable communications with ballistic missile submarines scattered throughout the world's oceans. No comparable substitute has yet been devised for the discarded grid system.

Environmentalists, in a perfect world, would understand that they jeopardize public support for their usually constructive movement by obstructing necessary energy and defense programs. But even if the major environmental groups recognized that their priorities must be balanced by sometimes conflicting national interests, the snail-darter syndrome enshrined in federal law still would permit irresponsible obstructionism.

It is not suggested that any citizen be denied access to the courts, but it does seem reasonable that environmental law should pose fewer barriers to projects judged by Congress and the president to be essential to the preservation of the nation's physical security.

Otherwise, we might see the MX missile program wither and die for the sake of a spiny-backed cactus and a few stray coyotes.

open station with unleaded, or your destination, whichever is closer."

BROADSIDES

'Whichever is closer'

Geologist Jim Zimmerman, the unpredictable news commentator for the Midland Rotary Club, related this bit of interesting information from the Oil & Gas Journal Newsletter at a recent club meeting:

"Who'll Ever Know Department: Under a ruling by the Environmental Protection Agency, a service station operator may put leaded gasoline in your car requiring unleaded — under certain conditions:

"The retailer must have no unleaded fuel on hand; your auto's tank must be nearly empty; there must be no other station within miles that has unleaded; and the retailer must give you only enough leaded to reach the closest

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Mr. K's need for secrecy prevails

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — As secretary of state, Henry Kissinger had a passion for secrecy. Instead of Woodrow Wilson's "open covenants openly arrived at," Kissinger believed in secret deals secretly cooked up.

His obsession with secrecy and his fear of leaks, which led him to order wiretaps of his closest associates, still grip the former secretary. His stage is appreciably smaller now, of course, than in the heyday of his power. The secrets Kissinger now guards, with the same compulsive zeal he once showed toward high diplomacy, have shrunk to a few hundred pages of manuscript — his memoirs.

Because of the fear of premature disclosure, for example, only one judge, rather than the usual four, was allowed to evaluate his manuscript for the Book-of-the-Month Club. And even the one reader so honored was cautioned to keep the Kissinger papers locked in a safe when he was not actually reading them.

Kissinger's book, due out in the fall, is titled, "The White House Years." It is probably no more — if certainly no less — self-serving than the memoirs produced by Richard Nixon and other White House associates of those years. And like most men who achieve the pinnacle of power, Kissinger has never been visibly burdened with excessive humility.

So what the reader undoubtedly will get is a portrait of the author as a brilliant, charming, witty, compassionate and urbane diplomatist — a combination of Talleyrand, Metternich and George Bernard Shaw. What the reader will not get is the darker side of the portrait — his arrogance, pettiness, condescension and egotism.

We can supply some of these darker hues in the Kissinger picture, from top-secret transcripts of conversations he recorded between himself and foreign leaders. The ex-secretary is fighting hard in court to prevent public access to his State Department and White House tape transcripts. He apparently does not trust the public to judge his performance from the raw material, but only after careful editing and interpretation by him.

The secret transcripts reveal Kissinger's contempt for Congress — and his willingness to share his patronizing views with any sympathetic foreign dignitary.

Congress is "out of control," he informed a Venezuelan visitor, adding: "We have to have a strong leadership. Any pressure group can alter Congress' direction."

He clearly regarded Capitol Hill as a haven for fools and knaves. To a Moroccan emissary he confided: "We are in a period when many of our congressmen deny the reality of power but make speeches. They remind me of the sophomores I had in my classes when I was a professor."

As an example, he told the Moroccan: "I had a senator today who asked me why we could not tell the Soviets that we would defend Europe and Japan and forget the rest of the world...The man who said that was an idiot."

Congress' most serious failing,

ART BUCHWALD Trading of bugging rights is big business at U.N.

WASHINGTON — One of the parts of the Andy Young saga that hasn't been delved into is who bugged his conversation with the PLO U.N. observer. As part of the counterespionage game, intelligence organizations, including the CIA, have denied their people had anything to do with it.

But we all know there were probably four or five bugs in the Kuwaiti U.N. ambassador's apartment where the meeting took place.

The bugging of U.N. ambassadors is standard operating procedure for spooks operating in the New York area. As a matter of fact, the real status of a U.N. member country is determined by how much trouble foreign agents will take to install the sophisticated listening equipment.

There is even a pecking order for U.N. nations based on who is interested in what their ambassadors have to say.

The major powers such as the U.S.S.R., U.S., People's Republic of China, Japan, France and Great Britain rate at least five bugs. The other Western and Eastern bloc countries four. Third World powers with oil, three bugs. Third World powers without oil could be entitled to one, or no bugs, depending how much trouble their governments are causing their neighbors.

There are exceptions, such as Cuba. Although it is a small power it is entitled to five bugs. Pakistan had only been allotted two bugs until it was revealed that she was developing an atom bomb.

Art Buchwald

The placement of these bugs in U.N. ambassadors' apartments is subject to negotiation between the various intelligence services. Most agencies prefer to plant their bugs in an ambassador's bedroom on the theory that he might say more there than he would in his living room or dining room. But if you put too many bugs in the bedroom, it's very hard to pick up conversations and the quality of the voices becomes weakened.

So trade-offs are made. The Soviets, for example, will agree to allow the CIA to bug the Indian ambassador's bedroom, and the CIA in return will give the KGB bugging rights to the French ambassador's mattress. Because the price of sophisticated equipment has become so expensive, many spook organizations have bugging exchanges. Zambia, who can only afford to bug one embassy at a time, will turn over its Ethiopian tape to Tanzania, and Tanzania will then give Zambia the one tape it has on Nigeria.

Some intelligence agents trade their bugging conversations of embassies as if they were baseball cards. They'll let out word that they have an intimate conversation between the ambassador of Saudi Arabia and the head of a large oil company. They might trade it for a dialogue between the U.N. West German ambassador and the foreign minister of Turkey. A hot tape compromising a U.N. ambassador with a girl he met at Studio 54 could be worth a dozen tapes disclosing where Poland stands on the SALT II Treaty.

The entire U.N. intelligence community was badly shaken by the Andy Young incident. The original suspicion was that the Israelis had leaked the PLO conversation, but the Israeli service proved their bug had been planted in the Kuwaiti ambassador's bathroom behind one of the gold faucets. Since the Kuwaiti ambassador's wife was running her bath at the time, the Israelis said they had come up with nothing. Egypt's bug, according to her agents, was in the ambassador's clothes closet, and the Japanese had theirs in the kitchen TV set.

By eliminating all the different hiding places, it looked as if the CIA was the one that did the damage.

But the CIA U.N. station boss indignantly denied it, and told the other agents, "Everybody knows that by law we're not allowed to bug anybody in our own country."

INSIDE REPORT:

Ballerina 'would have stayed' if the U.S. had reached her first

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — One high U.S. official believes that Soviet ballerina Ludmila Vlasova would have chosen to stay in the U.S. if she had been reached by State Department officials and her defecting husband, Alexander Godunov, before she was spirited away by Soviet security police.

This diplomatic official, talking privately, told us that once the Soviets "got their hands on" Vlasova it was too late. For three days, KGB agents had Vlasova all to themselves to purify the ballerina of any defecting taint with threats against Vlasova's family back in the Soviet Union.

Once deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher telephoned the Soviet embassy in Washington declaring a desire to talk to Vlasova following her husband's defection, all hope of seeing her alone vanished. Vladilen M. Vasev, Soviet minister counselor in Washington, gave "assurances" that, of course, the Americans could interview Vlasova.

When two State Department officials arrived in New York three hours later they found, as happens with regularity, Moscow had lied. The ballerina was in the KGB's hands, preventing a private interview with U.S. officials.

ministration negotiations with the highly influential Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia. In fact, the Carter men have scarcely talked to Nunn at all.

Nunn declared more than a month ago that he could support SALT II only if there were a 4 to 5 percent defense spending boost. Since then, his only conversation on the subject with an administration policymaker has been a telephone chat with Defense Secretary Harold Brown, during which no numbers were mentioned.

Contrary to wishful thinking at the White House, there is no chance Nunn will accept Carter's present proposal. Nunn would agree to 3 percent only if the manpower structure were transformed, with steps taken toward the draft replacing the volunteer force. Instead, Carter's 3 percent goes in the opposite direction, pouring in salary bonus funds to attempt salvaging the volunteer force.

ENERGY & POLITICS

Charles Duncan had barely moved in as the new secretary of energy before the arm was put on oil men across the country to pay $500 to hear him address a fund-raising dinner for the Carter-Mondale campaign.

One reason that campaign has had so much trouble raising money this summer is that the oil men zippered their billfolds after Dr. James Schlesinger was dumped as energy secretary in President Carter's mid-July Cabinet shake-up.

Duncan was sworn in Aug. 24 and moved into the Forrestal Building Aug. 27. On Aug. 28, oil men received their first telephone calls from Carter agents asking them to hear Duncan at a fund-raiser in Shreveport this autumn (date not yet specified).

WOING CAROLINA

Part of John B. Connally's southern strategy to stop front-running Ronald Reagan is a campaign to woo Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina.

They met privately in Helms' Senate office this summer to get acquainted. What's more, Connally political managers say Helms is the key to the May 6 North Carolina primary. "If you've got Helms, you've got North Carolina," one Connally insider told us.

Ronald Reagan kept his 1976 presidential candidacy alive by upsetting President Gerald R. Ford in North Carolina with the help of Helms and his political organization. But relations between Helms and Reagan cooled at the national convention that year and have never recovered their warmth. If Helms endorses anybody in 1980, it is not likely to be Reagan.

FREE-WHEELING MCDONALD

Alonzo McDonald, the new deputy chief of staff trying to bring order out of chaos at the White House, raised some White House eyebrows when he was invited to breakfast with the group of Washington reporters headed by the Christian Science Monitor's Godfrey Sperling.

McDonald broke a cardinal rule in the Carter White House: he accepted without checking with Press Secretary Jody Powell.

No one has complained to McDonald about this, but Powell made a caustic remark to another presidential aide about McDonald's failure to clear his breakfast. McDonald, a tough management expert who first entered government as principal aide to then trade negotiator Robert Strauss, has no intention of changing his independent ways.

Jimmy McBee and his wife Denisa take a stroll in the sifting, loamy soil of the 232-acre Noel Pecan Orchard he manages north of Rankin. Racing ahead is Simon, the couple's 7-month old pale blue-eyed sport, who's more Australian shepherd than he is Irish setter. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Water: It's the lifeblood, limiting factor in Rankin pecan orchard

RANKIN — Jimmy McBee is learning to "make do" in an "if only" country.

It's not, and the rain is rare, but the soil is good.

That's the limiting factor out here: water," said McBee, who is looking after 8,400 water-hungry pecan trees on 232 acres of former rangeland.

"It may not be the finest agricultural soil in Texas, but it's not the worst."

McBee is pampering and nurturing pecans, which a decade ago were considered an improbable crop in a semi-arid land more given to sheep and goat raising, petroleum production and some cotton production (where there's water) than it is to pecans.

The trees, mostly Western and Wichita pecan varieties, are planted in a silty loam soil that has been root-plowed to make it ready for cultivation.

And water? McBee doesn't wait for rain, though it's as welcomed as a cool breeze on a hot summer day.

Each of the trees is allotted life-sustaining water via "trickle" — drip — irrigation. The water system is tied to six water wells which yield about 200 gallons of water per minute.

"This is the first year that we've got enough water to do any good," said McBee, who is operator of the Noel Pecan Orchard north of Rankin.

The original trees in the orchard, which came into being in 1972, are now "finishing their seventh leaf," but are several years from profitable production. Production begins to peak between 10 and 15 years from initial planting.

"The key is water," said McBee. "I don't care how much spray you put on, if you don't have water, you don't do anything; you're in trouble."

And pumping the water up is the biggest single expense in the operation.

"That is the big end of our production cost: electricity to pump the water," he said.

The orchard had its beginning in the early 1970s, when the late Dub Day, the Upton County agricultural agent, and Ellis Helmes, then manager of the Noelke Ranch south of Rankin, purchased 80 acres for $35 per acre and root plowed it.

Day's venture into pecans was as an investment for his children.

"It was a lot of work," said Mrs. McBee, who is Day's oldest daughter.

ter. "He was real optimistic and thought it was going to be a really big deal. It was."

Mrs. McBee, single then (she and McBee have been married 3½ years), helped on the initial planting. "I helped plant all of them," she said.

Mrs. McBee now teaches fifth grade in the Rankin public schools.

The first planting on the original 80 acres was in the winter of 1972, and 80 acres, though relatively small acreage for ranchland or cotton land, makes for much work if it's put into pecan production.

"He (Day) figured out that it wasn't that small, for it was a lot of work. He spent a lot of time out here," she said.

Two years ago, Day and Helmes, who now is the Terrell County agricultural agent, sold the orchard to W.D. Noel of Odessa.

"It got to be so much work for him," Mrs. McBee said of her father. Day, who had been the Upton County agent for almost 30 years, died in 1978. He was 53.

After Noel, a petrochemical executive in Odessa, acquired the orchard, he hired McBee to manage the operation. At the time, McBee, who's background is in agriculture and who grew up at Midkiff, was an accountant at Brownfield.

McBee, 26, planted 2,800 addition trees during his first winter on the job and planted 2,400 in the ensuing winter.

When production peaks, he visualizes a 1,000-pound pecan yield per acre and later a shelling, packaging and marketing plant.

And he plans to plant wheat between the rows of trees to keep the soil from blowing and to reap the harvest.

"I think next year we'll make a pretty good crop of nuts," said McBee. "I'm hoping anyway. If not, I may be looking for another job."

At the rate he's going, and if the water doesn't run out, he shouldn't have to worry.

Libertarians optimistic for 1980

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Promising to give Americans a three-party political system, Libertarian Party leaders say they hope to lose the presidency by fewer than 35 million votes in 1980.

Los Angeles attorney Ed Clark and New Hampshire businessman Bill Hunscher are competing this week for the 1980 presidential nomination. Each promises to mount a campaign that will at least win enough votes to match the difference between the Democratic and Republican nominees.

The 1976 Libertarian candidate for president, Roger MacBride, collected 173,019 votes — 40.6 million fewer than Jimmy Carter — to give the Libertarian Party tenuous claim to the title of the nation's third biggest party.

This year, the Libertarian Party slogan, "Toward a Three-Party System," is aimed at giving that third place finish enough meaning to force Democrats and Republicans to pay attention to Libertarian ideas.

The Libertarians, an anti-big government coalition of political activists from the far left and far right, opened a five-day convention Wednesday to pick presidential and vice presidential candidates and adopt a platform for 1980.

Both Clark and Hunscher conceded in a joint news conference that they didn't have any real hope of being elected president in 1980.

But both Hunscher and Clark predicted they would win several million votes, which would still leave them about 35 million behind the winner. But both said that would be a victory.

"We're going to create a three party system in the United States in 1980," Clark said. "We are going to be on the ballot in 47 or 48 states, and we will get several million votes, enough to make the difference between the Republican and Democratic candidates."

Party chairman David Bergland said if Libertarians do succeed in drawing enough votes to affect the outcome of the presidential election, it doesn't matter which major party is helped.

Clark is the top vote-getter in the eight-year history of the Libertarian Party, winning 377,000 votes last year in the race for governor of California.

Libertarians expect to be on the ballot in 47 states — everywhere except Georgia, West Virginia and Oklahoma, which have especially stringent requirements for independent and third-party candidates.

Colo., say some of the improvements had nothing to do with presidential security.

Pryor cited $6,600 for improving a gazebo, installation of a 44-foot aluminum flagpole for $2,300, a heating system worth $13,500, an interior fire protection system worth $33,300, and a sewer line constructed for $3,800.

In addition, the General Services Administration has also listed a lighting and electronic system worth $217,006, landscaping worth $137,623 and a chimney exhaust fan worth $389.

Legislation passed in 1976 will require President Carter to compensate the government for any improvements made to his property in Plains, Ga., unless the improvements are removed.

That law, however, is not retroactive.

Senate's resolution urges Nixon to pay for renovations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants former President Richard M. Nixon to pay back the government for such things as a flagpole, heating system and sewer line installed at his San Clemente, Calif., estate.

Nixon has sold the estate and plans to purchase a 12-room condominium in New York City for a reported $1 million.

The "sense of the Senate" resolution approved by a voice vote Wednesday urges the former president to pay for renovations that were not made for the purpose of insuring his safety.

The resolution does not have the force of law.

The General Services Administration says it contracted for $702,321 in improvements at the estate while Nixon was president. But Sens. David Pryor, D-Ark., and Gary Hart, D-

Mondale would be 'honored to serve as running mate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale, dismissing reports on his potential as a presidential candidate, says he would be honored to serve as President Carter's running mate in a re-election bid.

The New York Times and the Chicago Tribune reported in today's editions that Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., had suggested Mondale could be a "happy way out" for Democrats.

The Times said Mondale is coming under pressure to run for the presidency as Carter's popularity declines, "and has privately voiced some dissatisfaction" with current White House operations.

In a statement issued Wednesday by his office, Mondale said, "I can only repeat what I've said many, many times, that I hope President Carter will seek re-election and I believe he will and that if he does, I have a strong conviction that he will be renominated and re-elected, and I will be honored to be his running mate."

The Tribune quoted Udall as saying, "Often the first mate goes down with the ship. But if the Carter ship goes down, Mondale may survive."

The Times quoted Udall as saying, "This is the happy way out. (Mondale) is a figure around whom people could rally. You could have it both ways — not turn your back on the Carter-Mondale administration. But here's a guy in good with labor, blacks, educators."

Udall, noting it is too early to write off Carter's chances for a second term, was quoted in the Tribune as saying he personally would support Carter against California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. But he conceded he would have difficulty turning away from Sen. Edward Kennedy if the Massachusetts Democrat entered the race, the Chicago newspaper reported.

This Is Midland:

Workers replace pumpjack rods at the No. 1 Inez Fasken oil well owned and operated by Miller Exploration Company of Midland. Located in the 100 block of South Eisenhower Drive, the well reportedly is the only producing one within the Midland city limits. Drilled in 1956 for Husky Oil Company, the 10,500-foot-deep well produces 20 barrels a day and is expected to remain productive for the next 15 to 20 years. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Gold prices again set record in foreign trade

LONDON (AP) — Gold soared more than $11 to a record $341.50 an ounce in Zurich today amid signs of heavy Arab buying. The dollar dropped, depressed by gold's burgeoning value.

The massive overnight leap was one of the biggest single jumps in gold's year-old climb. The closing figure in Zurich Wednesday was $329.875 an ounce — the previous high.

In London, gold opened at $337.625, up $9.75 from Wednesday's close.

The British pound strengthened and was pegged in morning trading at $2.2490. It cost $2.2429 to buy a pound Wednesday.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 220.715 yen, down from 221.725 Wednesday.

Dollar quotes elsewhere, compared to Wednesday:

Paris—4.2310 French francs, down from 4.2465.
Frankfurt—1.8140 Marks, down from 1.8203
Zurich—1.6426 Swiss francs, down from 1.6531.
Milan—812.60 lire, down from 815.05.
Amsterdam—1.9925 guilders, down from 1.9995.

Dealers reported indications of heavy Arab bullion buying in what appeared to be a distinct move away from the troubled dollar.

Arab oil producers hold vast amounts of dollars, the currency used in oil deals. The Arabs' gold fever is helping weaken the dollar further.

Gold has risen in value by nearly $120 this year alone — an increase of nearly 34 percent — amid spreading alarm that the energy crisis will cause worldwide recession and inflation.

However, some dealers reported that major interests now apparently have invaded the bullion market to convert hefty cash holdings into gold.

Some market sources cautioned that gold is rising so rapidly in price and the bullion market has become so volatile, that profit-taking in the next few days is inevitable and will slow down the hectic upward surge.

Young Kennedy reports robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — David Kennedy, the fourth son of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, is short $30 and has some bumps and bruises to boot after he was beaten up and robbed by three men in Harlem, police report.

Kennedy, 24, of McLean, Va., was not seriously injured. He said he was driving on a Harlem street about 6:15 p.m. Wednesday when two men signaled him to stop, police said. After Kennedy got out of his car and walked over, the pair pushed him into the Sheldon Hotel, police said.

A third robber joined them and the trio dragged Kennedy onto a stairway where they punched him and slammed him against a wall while trying to take $200 from Kennedy's wallet, police said. However, the bandits got only got $30, they said.

ACCOUNTABILITY

September 1, 1979

In an era of shared decisions, accountability is the acceptance of personal responsibility. In an age of anonymous "we's", it is the willingness to be an identifiable "I".

In business, accountability is a price of success that needs to be measured. From the largest multinational corporation to the neighborhood store, the core questions remain: "Who is accountable?" "Was responsibility exercised well?"

Helping to answer those questions is what the accounting profession is about. Measuring and evaluating financial performance. Controlling on-going transactions and activities. Complying with taxation and other regulatory requirements. Planning for the exercise of greater responsibility.

Each partner of our firm is personally accountable. Serving each client as an individual. Being personally responsible for understanding client needs, marshalling the firm's resources to respond and applying professional judgment. Bringing a staff with proven experience to each area of potential client interest, to every sector of business concern. And providing a technical facility to address the most complex auditing, accounting, tax, regulatory and planning issues, and doing so on a world-wide basis quickly and economically.

Zimbabwe Rhodesian commandos dropped over Mozambique border

MAPUTO, Mozambique (AP) — Helicopter-borne Zimbabwe Rhodesian commandos invaded Mozambique and battled government forces more than 50 miles inside the country, Mozambique's news agency reported today.

It said Mozambican troops shot down one Zimbabwe Rhodesian helicopter in the fighting, which began Wednesday.

In Salisbury, the military command confirmed the fighting and said the raids were launched against black guerrilla bases and against Mozambican military targets. It also confirmed losing a helicopter.

Previously, Zimbabwe Rhodesian military officials have said their forces were careful to avoid hitting Mozambican installations in raids on nationalist bases in Mozambique during the seven-year war against the guerrillas.

But the Zimbabwe Rhodesian statement accused Samora Machel, president of Mozambique, of throwing his military weight behind the guerrillas in a bid "to shorten the war."

The action came on the eve of the departure of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa of Zimbabwe Rhodesia to London for British-sponsored peace talks.

Black guerrillas of the Patriotic Front, including the Mozambique-based Zimbabwe African National Union, also plan to send representatives to the talks.

Referring to the raid, the Mozambique Defense Ministry said: "This enemy action is a consequence of the military, political and diplomatic victories attained by the Zimbabwe people under the leadership of the Patriotic Front, to divert the international community's attention from the importance of the London conference on Sept. 10."

The Mozambican communique said the Rhodesian Zimbabwe troops started their raid with attacks on the Mazinchope region and other points along the Limpopo River.

"The racist troops were supported by Mirage jet fighters and directed their attacks mainly against economically important and inhabited areas. People were killed as a result of this attack and the people's Forces for the Liberation of Mozambique shot down the enemy helicopter near a dam about 50 miles from the Rhodesian border," the statement said.

Man jailed in alleged kidnapping

A 31-year-old Longview man arrested Wednesday morning on two charges of alleged kidnapping remained in the Midland County Jail today awaiting transport to Monahan, a Midland County Sheriff's Department deputy said.

Danny Wayne Hoskins was arrested about 2:40 a.m. Wednesday at a Midland motel on two warrants from Monahan, a deputy said.

The charges stem from an incident in which two Odessa residents were abducted, a deputy said. A second man still was being sought in connection with the incident, the deputy added.

Bond for Hoskins was set at $25,000 by Peace Justice John Biggs.

New construction in Midland off to sluggish start this year

New construction in Midland, off to a sluggish start this year compared to last, zoomed upward and outward during August.

More than $15 million in new valuation was recorded for the month, boosting total new construction in the Tall City this year to more than $70 million, according to a monthly summary worked up by the city of Midland's Inspections Department.

That valuation exceeds totals for the same date last year by nearly $8 million, according to an Inspections Department report.

Until August, new construction had been lagging behind last year's totals. One reason for the boost last month was strong activity in residential construction, the report shows.

More than $8.5 million in new apartments were registered with the city's Inspections Department last month, twice the valuation recorded for all categories of construction during the same month last year. Three new apartment complexes accounted for the total.

Meanwhile, new single family dwellings accounted for another $2.5 million in valuation while new commercial construction, including two new retail stores, accounted for an additional $2.6 million.

Ironically, a larger number of permits was issued during August 1978. Nonetheless, total valuation for August 1979 was three times that of August 1978.

According to the city report, 38 new residences were started in Midland last month, a drop of 20 from the same month one year before. Total new single family residential construction in Midland this year is 311 units, a drop of 100 from the same period last year.

Alterations to existing commercial structures totalled $807,900 for the month of August.

The city of Midland, meanwhile, received $30,547 in new revenues from inspections, building permits and miscellaneous activities through the Inspections Department.

Six junker cars have been removed by the city this year, a drop of 71 from the same period last year, the report shows.

U.S. policy did not make any sense, Young says of meeting

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Andrew Young told African reporters today he decided "on my own" to hold his controversial meeting with a Palestine Liberation Organization envoy because U.S. policy "did not make sense" and he thought the meeting might help save lives.

Young, who resigned as United States U.N. ambassador in the furor that followed his unauthorized discussion with the PLO representative, arrived here at the head of a U.S. trade delegation visiting seven African states.

He told reporters he sees no reason why a U.S. administration that routinely negotiates treaties with the Soviet Union should not also talk with the PLO. It has been U.S. policy not to deal with the PLO until it recognizes Israel's right to exist.

"I decided on my own that the policy

(of not fostering relations with the Palestinian movement) did not make sense and it was possible that the tension in the Middle East will increase and perhaps even lives would be lost," he said.

Turning to the subject of Zimbabwe Rhodesia, Young said the all-party London peace conference scheduled for later this month "is a very important opportunity" to end the conflict in that southern African nation.

The agreement of all sides to take part in the conference indicates "a new seriousness, a new determination ... by the African side and the British side."

"I think there is a realization among the people in Zimbabwe that there is no military solution," he said. The Patriotic Front guerrilla organization "has been unable to win a war.

Hardier trees survive winter

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Last winter was a bitter one in northern Texas, and tree damage in the Dallas area alone reached about $35 million.

Limb-breaking from ice was rampant. Dr. David L. Morgan of the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center said live oaks had been hardest hit. Hackberries, cedar elms, pecans, ashes and silver leaf maples also suffered.

All this emphasized the need for developing hardier landscape trees.

"Local nurserymen keenly observed that trees properly thinned and braced, and those with strong forks, showed less damage from the ice accumulation," Morgan said.

One research technique is asexual propagation, which can help keep genetic integrity, the researchers reported. A plant's natural potential for hardiness and superior growth habit can be preserved this way.

Doctor advocates prenatal tests to determine child's sex

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors should freely provide prenatal tests to women who want to find out the sex of their unborn child, even though they might have an abortion if they are unhappy with what they learn, a federal researcher says.

Doctors who agree that women have a right to control their reproduction cannot logically withhold this information, says John C. Fletcher of the National Institutes of Health.

"One must be willing to accept the fact that some abortions will be performed for trivial reasons," he wrote in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The test, called amnio-centesis, is intended primarily to find out whether a fetus will be born with a genetic defect, such as Down's syndrome.

However, it will also reveal the sex of the child, and sometimes a woman will have an abortion if she learns that she is carrying a boy when she really wants a girl, or vice versa.

"I personally believe that sex choice is not a compelling reason for an abortion," Fletcher of the National Institutes of Health wrote.

Chemical helps aging memories

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Researchers at Creighton University say an organic chemical compound they have discovered could improve the memory and intellectual performance of aging persons.

Dr. Nikolaus Hansl, associate professor of medical chemistry, said the compound, known as PRL-8-53, counters the destruction of certain chemical pathways in the brain by "making up the slack chemically."

He said 58 college students who participated in a clinical study at Creighton performed better on intellectual tasks when they were given the compound.

In another study published in 1978, researchers compared the difference in effects the compound had on college students and persons over 30.

The best at a bargain price in tenderloin

With beef prices as high as they are, I find myself becoming an absolute advocate of buying subprimal cuts and cutting your own beef. A week or so ago, we discussed subprimals, what they are, where they come from and how you can save by taking advantage of them. This week as if to prove my point, one market in my neighborhood had whole beef tenderloins in the meatcase at $3.99 per pound. Considering the fact that tenderloin steaks in other markets are selling from $5.59 to $6.80 a pound, that's getting the best at a bargain price.

The tenderloin is the most tender cut from any beef carcass. It lies on the inside of the back of the beef; does nothing much more than ride along in the process of moving from one side of the pasture to the other; does little, if any, work and, therefore, stays incredibly tender.

The tenderloin is available as a subprimal in three different forms.

The full tenderloin is, as the name implies, the entire tenderloin muscle, which runs from inside the sirloin, down the back, and ends in the shortloin. A full tenderloin will weigh between 5 and 7 pounds and can be cut into some of the fanciest, most fantastically tender steaks you have ever tasted.

The French get five different steaks from the tenderloin: (1) bitteck, (2) Chateaubriand, (3) filet steak, (4) tournedos and (5) filet mignon. In this country, you are apt to see all of the steaks cut from the tenderloin labeled as filet mignon, a misnomer, since literally translated, filet mignon means "small file," that cut from the small end (the shortloin end) of the tenderloin. When you buy the subprimal tenderloin and cut your own, it doesn't matter what you call them, what you're going to save money.

The full tenderloin requires a bit of work on your part, but the results are worth the effort.

First, remove the layer of fat on the underside. Start at the large end of the tenderloin and separate the fat from the meat with the tip of your knife. Then lift the layer of fat loose. There is a membrane between the fat and the meat, so once you've found the seam between the two, you can do most of the work with your fingers. Simply lift off the fat.

Next, remove the "chain," the long thin muscle that runs the length of the tenderloin, next to the main tenderloin muscle. Most markets don't bother to do this when they trim a tenderloin, but the chain is not quite as tender as the main muscle, so for really elegant steaks, take it off. Dice it into cubes and use it for a meal of braised tenderloin tips.

Next, remove the lump of fat between the two muscles at the large butt end of the tenderloin. This, too, you can do with your fingers; just lift it out. Now remove the membrane that separated the fat from the meat. Slide the tip of your knife under one end and, holding the membrane in one hand, cut along under it.

Next, turn the tenderloin and trim off any little bits and pieces of fat on that side. You now have a completely trimmed tenderloin, ready to be cut into the most tender steaks you can imagine.

Start cutting steaks of the desired thickness from the large end of the tenderloin. As you approach the small end, the steaks become too small for an individual serving.

There are two ways to compensate. Either cut the steaks half again as thick as you want them; then flatten them into the appropriate thickness with the flat side of your meat cleaver or the bottom of a heavy frying pan. Or, "butterfly" the steaks by cutting them twice as thick as desired, then dividing each almost, but not quite, in half. Cut through the center of the steak, leaving about a 1/4-inch hinge uncut. Then open the steak so that it is twice as big around and half as thick as the original cut.

When the tenderloin becomes too small even to butterfly, use the rest, sliced thin, for stroganoff or cubed for fondue or add it to the chain for braising.

Any or all of the tenderloin can also be used for roasting. A portion of the large end is the cut traditionally used for "Beef Wellington."

A good way to prepare the whole tenderloin for roasting is first to cut it in half. Then lay the two halves one on top of the other with the small end facing the large end. Tie the two halves together with string. The resulting roast will be approximately the same diameter from one end to the other and will, therefore, cook more uniformly.

In addition to the full tenderloin, the tenderloin is also sold as two separate subprimals, the butt tenderloin and the short tenderloin.

The butt tenderloin is that portion of the tenderloin muscle taken from the primal sirloin. It is the large end of the full tenderloin.

The short tenderloin is that portion of the tenderloin removed from the primal short loin, the smaller end of the full tenderloin. Both of these cuts, when vacuum packaged and sold as subprimals, are apt to be packed more than one to a package. A package of both tenderloins may weigh the same as their corresponding parts of Short tenders are usually the full tenderloin.

Can it match inflation?

COLLEGE STATION—Can your home insurance match today's inflated prices — if you have to replace your property?

Be sure to insure your home up to at least 80 percent of its replacement value, cautions Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Many people who've failed to increase their homeowner's insurance coverage over the years would be unable to handle replacement costs on their house or its furnishings in today's market, she says.

For example, a home built in an average community in 1970 for $25,000 could cost $48,000 to build today.

Replacement costs on older homes are even more startling, she adds.

Plums can be enjoyed in a variety of ways

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer
Drupe fruit sounds like something that has passed its prime. But it refers to such succulent specimens as cherries, peaches and plums which have a soft, pulpy flesh and a wood-like pit.

is the plum, first cultivated in ancient Damascus and later grown by the Romans and Greeks. At about the same time, plums were being grown in China.

varieties in existence falling into two main categories: European and Japanese.

The colonists introduced the European plum in this country more than two centuries ago and today we cultivate dozens of varieties.

the greengage, Damson named after Damascus and the egg plum.

European plums are usually a reddish purple with a sweet, firm flesh. Then there is the Japanese plum, a derivative of the Chinese fruit. Introduced in the United States in 1870, it has a yellow hue overlaid sometimes with shades of red.

Plums are used for canning or for drying into prunes. But they are most delicious fresh.

Fresh plums are in season from July through September and there are a number of ways you can enjoy their tart sweetness.

Two desserts I have recently sampled feature the plum at its best. In Plum Brulee, large halves of the fruit are spread over with a mixture of sour cream, nutmeg, orange liqueur and brown sugar. Broil it till the sugar lightly caramelizes. Then there's Plum Tapioca in which the fresh fruit flavor pervades the thick, rich pudding. Here's the Brulee.

- 1 teaspoon orange liqueur
- 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar

Cut plums in half, remove pits. Place plums, cut side up, in small baking dish. In small bowl, mix sour cream, sugar, nutmeg, orange liqueur and vanilla. Spoon over plum halves. Sprinkle with brown sugar and place under broiler 6 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes till sugar has melted and plums are heated. Serve warm or chilled. Serves 4.

Fresh plums are in season from July through September and there are a number of ways that their sweetness can be enjoyed: in canning, baking or simply eaten alone.

Requirements of labeling change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nitrite-free hot dogs can be legally labeled as hot dogs instead of "uncured cooked sausage" under a new Agriculture Department regulation.

Until now, cured meats such as frankfurters, bacon and bologna had to contain sodium nitrite to be sold across state lines under those traditional names.

But the change in label regulations also requires the makers of meat products not treated the traditional way to clearly advise consumers that the items need special care.

PLUM BRULEE

- 4 large plums
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She confesses to an allergy

DEAR ABBY: You had something in your column about people who were allergic to fragrances. Well, that's my problem. Only I am not allergic to all fragrances, just one.

When I go to confession, as soon as the priest's cologne or after-shave hits me, I become nauseated. I tell you, I nearly pass out.

Abby, it's not easy to tell a priest what to do. So how do I solve this problem? — NAUSEATED ON SUNDAY

DEAR NAUSEATED: Tell your priest that you have an unusual "confession." Then confess your ALLERGY to his FRAGRANCE, and pray for AB-LUTION for him — and ABSOLUTION for you!

DEAR ABBY: I must comment on a letter signed GRACE. When she complained to a friend that she couldn't find a dress she wanted to buy, she was told not to worry because at her age (70) nobody cared what she wore anyway.

I cannot let that go unchallenged. My mother-in-law is 91 and I wish you could see how she dresses! She wears good-looking, beautifully-made clothes that are becoming to her. She begins her day by grooming herself in the morning and putting on pretty lingerie. She says just because nobody sees it is no reason for her not to wear what she likes. She puts on a fresh, lovely dress every day whether she's at home alone or planning to go somewhere. She lives alone and keeps a large house in excellent order, too.

Whenever I see an older woman who is beautifully dressed I never fail to tell her how nice she looks whether I know her or not. It is always so much appreciated — ELLEN IN PA.

DEAR ELLEN: Thanks for a delightful letter. I've committed your last paragraph to memory and will henceforth follow your generous example. (P.S. And why not tell a well-groomed elderly man how nice HE looks, too?)

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle a slight dispute between my husband and me?

We live in a quiet, residential, middle-class area of one-family homes. My husband and I both work. He prefers mowing our lawn as early as possible on the weekend.

I think we should wait until 11 a.m. Our lawn is a noisy electric job. — M.W. IN BAYSIDE, N.Y.

DEAR M.: I'm with you. A "quiet, residential neighborhood" doesn't need a noisy lawnmower going at 7 or 8 a.m. on a Sunday morning.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PARENTS WHO ARE SENDING THEIR CHILDREN OFF TO BOARD-

ING SCHOOL OR COLLEGE FOR THE FIRST TIME: Don't bombard your child with "miss you" calls. Allow him or her to develop independence and grow up. Don't encourage your child to come home if he's lonesome at first. Sticking it out and overcoming his loneliness will help him to grow and mature social and emotionally.

The teen years are the questioning years. Abby has the answers to all your questions in her booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know." Write to Abby in care of this newspaper. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.

Average man has 12 shirts

NEW YORK (AP) — The average man now has 12 shirts in his wardrobe, according to a men's-apparel specialist.

Of that dozen, six are white or light shades of blue, three are striped and the remainder are beige, tan, light shades of yellow, pink or gray.

reports Marvin A. Blumenfeld of April-menfeld of April-menfeld consulting firm.

Blumenfeld says that floral shirts, which were popular a few years back, have fallen out of favor and are all but extinct in today's male wardrobe.

AT WIT'S END

'I don't dance'

By ERMA BOMBECK

We all marry for better or for worse.

But you don't know how bad it can get until you find out you're stuck with an "I don't dance."

During courtship, the "I don't dance-ers" misled you (I don't believe I said that). They're the first ones on the floor, pushing your arm up and down like they're priming a pump, and maneuvering around between couples dipping and swaying.

It wasn't until our wedding reception when the orchestra played "The Anniversary Waltz" that I knew I had been conned. The crowd made a circle around my new husband and me to lead the dancing when he turned to me and said, "Please, not tonight. I have a headache."

If his excuses for dancing were laid end to end, they would encircle Ann Miller's teased hair 30 times. These are some of his better ones.

"It's too crowded. Wait till it thins out."

"No one else is dancing. Wait until there's a crowd."

"Stardust' is too fast. Let's wait until the tempo slows down a bit."

"My varicose veins have been acting up."

"The song is almost finished. Let's wait until next New Year's."

"We just got here an hour ago. Give me a chance to talk."

"Why didn't you mention you wanted to dance before I unbuttoned my jacket?"

Through the years I have resigned myself to sitting around listening to the music and watching my feet swell under the table. I tell myself he's a good provider, loves children and is kind to my mother-in-law.

But I couldn't resist mentioning his handicap the other night as we watched a period movie. The hero moved across the floor and chose his dancing partner—a beautiful woman of mystery. Together, they joined a line of about 50 other people and went through a routine of counting steps, swaying, dipping, turning, bowing and skipping that would have baffled the Ohio State marching band.

At the same time, mind you, the hero carried on a conversation that was provocative, suggestive, witty and political—without missing a beat.

"Would you look at that?" I exclaimed to my husband.

"Face it, Bunkie, you would never have backed the Virginia Reel."

My husband took note of the dancer resplendent in cutaway coat, powdered wig, lace over the hands, satin vest and buckled shoes and observed, "Without his Supphee, he'd be sitting it out like the rest of us."

Women leaders in many fields honored

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The place where the national women's rights movement began in 1848 is a laundromat today in this picturesque central New York village.

But less than two blocks away, a more lasting memory to the birth of the women's rights struggle survives in the recently opened national Women's Hall of Fame.

The idea for a hall was conceived 11 years ago when a group of Seneca Falls women sat down to tea and decided women who had made significant contributions to American history should be honored.

"There was no place to come to learn about the women who have contributed to this country," said Carole StaHone, executive secretary of the hall. "There's a football hall of fame and a hockey hall, but there aren't any women honored in these various fields."

The women organized and chartered a hall of fame in 1969 and then began a 10-year campaign to find the permanent headquarters necessary to "make it viable."

A $152,000 fund drive last fall finally made that dream possible, and this past summer the hall moved from its temporary headquarters to a permanent home in the old Seneca Falls Savings Bank.

A list of the hall's 23 members reads like a Who's Who directory of women who have excelled in fields ranging from the arts to aviation.

There is actress Helen Hayes, poet Emily Dickinson, novelist Pearl S. Buck, conservationist Rachel Louise Carson, anthropologist Margaret Mead and aviation pioneer Amelia Earhart.

Other well-known women enshrined in the hall include Helen Keller, Eleanor Roosevelt and Margaret Chase Smith, the former U.S. senator from Maine.

Coincidentally, five women honored in the hall all lived in the Finger Lakes region of central New York during the last half of the 19th century. These women are honored in a special section of the hall, which contains exhibits dedicated to each of the inducted women.

Perhaps the best known of these New York women is Elizabeth Cady Stanton, who lived in Seneca Falls and with Quaker leader Lucretia Mott planned a convention in July of 1848 to discuss women's rights.

A tiny ad in a local newspaper attracted more than 300 men and women to Seneca Falls July 19 of that year. They gathered in a Wesleyan chapel for a two-day session that produced the first declaration of women's rights.

Only one brick wall of that chapel remains today, and it serves as one of the walls for the Seneca Falls Laundromat. But the participants of the convention 131 years ago made clear their belief that women were capable of doing more than just dirty laundry.

Modeled after the Declaration of Independence, the Declaration of Sentiments laid the foundation for the women's rights struggle.

The document, which states in its preface that "all men and women are created equal, demanded that women be given more equitable tax and divorce laws, job equality and the right to attend college and to vote in elections.

The declaration also vowed that women "shall use every instrumentality within our power" to fight for those rights, despite "no small amount of misconception, misrepresentation and ridicule."

Despite those stern vows, however, Anne Bantuanis, one of the founders of the hall, stressed "We are not a feminist organization."

"We don't support prohibition or anti-abortion or pro-ERA movements," Mrs. Bantuanis said. "This is just a hall, a place of honor."

Elderly couple has late honeymoon

DENVER (AP)—They arrived at the plush Denver hotel in a limousine. The bell captain greeted the couple at the door and whisked them to their top-floor suite.

Upon hearing the wish, Mrs. Duty, a modern-day genie, went to work. After a short talk with her, Ira Ash, president of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, agreed to donate a suite to the honeymooners. He had books of matches made up as mementos of the occasion, each sporting Harry's and Helen's names printed inside a small heart.

"It was so lovely," Mrs. Newberry said after the 24-hour honeymoon. "We had a lovely dinner in that beautiful dining room, and the next morning there came a cart into our suite carrying a wonderful breakfast. I just don't know how to thank all of the people who made my wish come true."

While chatting with the visitor, Mrs. Newberry confided that her one wish was to spend "just one night in a motel as a

Cook jail torture charged

CHICAGO (AP) — Thomas Wilson says he will never forget the night he spent in jail on speeding and drunken driving charges. His body will always show the brutal scars he says he received in the ordeal.

In a $1.5 million lawsuit, Wilson claims fellow inmates at the Cook County Jail used cigarettes to burn large pieces of flesh out of his chest, stomach and back.

"They were laughing and talking to each other as they burned me," Wilson said. "I thought, 'I am just in here for a traffic violation.'"

In the suit filed Tuesday in Cook County Circuit Court, Wilson, 29, charged that the county was negligent because no guards came to his aid although he screamed and cried throughout the June 9 ordeal.

Bob Goltz, assistant director of corrections, called the charges "bizarre."

"It is next to impossible" that a prisoner could have screamed for three hours without being heard by someone, Goltz said.

"If it was something that happened in five minutes, maybe... But to hold him down for several hours? We are not at all convinced that this happened in the dormitory," Goltz said.

Wilson had been arrested that night on charges of speeding and driving under the influence of alcohol. He was placed in a dormitory of the jail complex and waited for a friend to come with $100 bail.

John J. Burns, Wilson's attorney, said that when his client went to a washroom, several inmates came up from behind, threw a sheet over his head and tried to rape him. The suit alleges the men punished Wilson's resistance with what they called the "test of fire."

Wilson's comments were published Tuesday by the Chicago Tribune. Burns said Wilson is receiving psychiatric treatment in a Chicago-area hospital and could not be interviewed again.

"It was the worst pain I have ever felt," Wilson said. He crawled back to his cot, lay awake till dawn and was bailed out in the morning, he said.

The suit names the county, Sheriff Richard Elrod and Roy Patrick, superintendent of the correctional division where Wilson was held.

Goltz said officials at the 4,000-prisoner facility receive two or three complaints a month from prisoners who say they have been assaulted or mistreated. He said investigations show many complaints are tactics by prisoners to get moved or have their bond reduced.

Burns said Wilson spent 22 days in a hospital after being admitted for infected wounds a week after leaving the jail. The attorney said the shock is causing his client to undergo psychiatric care.

Dr. Milton Miller, who treated Wilson for his wounds, said he believed the man's story because the positioning of the wounds show it would have been impossible for them to be self-inflicted.

"I want people to know what can happen to them if they have to spend a night in jail," Wilson said.

Drinking water in third faucet

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — A separate faucet for drinking and cooking water is seen as the new look in kitchen sinks by the Water Quality Association.

This "third faucet" would be served by a special filtration system to remove any organic and inorganic contaminants in the consumer's water not removed by the municipal treatment system.

The technology and installation procedure for such systems is available now, according to the association.

House, Senate conferees square off for new energy war

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate energy conferees, among the scrappiest and most long-winded combatants in Washington, are staging a return bout.

The main event: an attempt to produce a compromise standby gasoline-rationing and energy conservation bill. Work gets underway within the next few days.

Participants are largely the same two groups that fumed, argued and battled their way to a compromise energy bill in 1978.

That effort began in 1977 and it was nearly a full year before the work was finished and a compromise produced.

So when congressional leaders predict a short conference, as they have been doing, few on Capitol Hill seem to be taking them seriously.

House-Senate energy conferees deadlocked and brawled so much in their last encounter it took the intervention of President Carter to cool tempers and keep the talks from collapsing entirely.

Squaring off for the new battle are the same leaders of the Senate and House teams as in 1977-78: chairmen Henry M. Jackson of the Senate Energy Committee and Harley O. Staggers of the House Commerce Committee. Jackson, a Washington Democrat, declared from the outset that he thought the House-passed rationing bill was "riddled with loopholes" and "completely unacceptable" to either him or the Senate.

A top Jackson aide, promised anonymity, was asked several days ago how long it would take to reach agreement. "As long as it takes for the House side to agree to dump all the garbage the House put in the bill," the aide said.

Staggers, a West Virginia Democrat, also approaches the negotiations with his position clear. "I'm against all forms of gasoline rationing. It only leads to corruption," he recently told a reporter.

Another leading House Democrat on the panel said he would give his assessment of the situation if his name wasn't used. "I'm fed up with the whole thing," he said.

Even after agreement is reached on rationing, there will be other parts of President Carter's energy bills to negotiate.

Congress is officially expected to quit for the year Oct. 20. But no one believes that, either.

"Probably, when Congress does recess around Christmas, the energy conferees will be left behind to work," one energy aide said.

Meningitis needs prompt attention

Dear Dr. Solomon: My two-year-old niece was hospitalized recently with what turned out to be meningitis. She has finally recovered, and the doctor said it was fortunate she received medical care in time, or the consequences could have been tragic. What is meningitis, and how can parents recognize the symptoms? — Mrs. A.M.W.

Dear Mrs. W.: Meningitis is a serious infection and, as you note, early diagnosis and treatment are the key to a successful outcome. Particularly in view of the potentially serious consequences of the disease, prompt care is vital.

Meningitis is an inflammation of the elastic membrane sac that holds the brain and spinal cord in a protective cushion of fluid. If bacteria and viruses, which are commonly involved in the disease, exert pressure on the sensitive brain tissue, serious damage — including deafness, blindness, retardation, paralysis and seizures — may result. Although meningitis strikes people of all ages, children less than six years old are particularly vulnerable.

The inflammation usually is caused by an infection that has traveled through the bloodstream from some other part of the body. It can also result from an injury, such as a skull fracture or scalp wound. The infection often originates in the skin, lungs or intestines.

The symptoms of meningitis include fever, headache, neck rigidity and a general feeling of sickness and lethargy. As with any disease, however, the symptoms may vary with different patients. The best diagnostic tool for children can be the parents' intimate knowledge of the youngster's behavior and personality, and their intuitive feeling that something is wrong.

For example, a small child who is only mildly ill will generally want to remain active; if the child simply wants to lie still and not be touched, the parent should be alerted to the fact that the youngster may need medical attention. Another danger signal is an extremely rapid deterioration of health, often occurring over the course of a few hours.

Despite the seriousness of the disease, meningitis is very treatable if the diagnosis is made early. Although neurological damage can occur even when there is prompt treatment, that is the exception to the rule.

As a precautionary measure, since meningitis can develop so rapidly, parents should contact their physician any time a child under six months of age has a fever. And if your child's behavior rouses the suspicion that you may be dealing with more than a mild illness, don't put off seeking medical advice. If your concerns turn out to have been unwarranted, nothing has been lost.

Opponent charges Egypt's Sadat silences critics with golden gag

No imprisonment, no torture

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth article in a series on Egyptians. It details one man's opposition to President Sadat.

By MORT YOUNG
Hearst Newspapers

CAIRO — Mahmoud X is a non-person. A journalist whose writing cannot be published, he goes to the office every morning, nevertheless. Each month he collects a paycheck that is the envy of all but the wealthiest elite in this financially-strapped country.

Mahmoud X is not permitted to write or discuss his political opinions for public consumption. He granted an interview on the condition that neither he nor the publication for which he still ostensibly works be identified.

Mahmoud X was silenced by a velvet gag because of his opposition to President Anwar el-Sadat.

"Sadat is lying," he said in a low, pleasant tone. "He says he isn't making a separate peace with Israel. Obviously, he is. He says he will never abandon the Palestinians. The Palestinians are being sacrificed."

When he began writing columns airing his beliefs and submitting them to the editor, his usual space in the publication was filled with something else. He continued to write. The pieces were never printed. He no longer wastes his time.

"WHEN AND IF REAL peace with Israel is concluded, Sadat's lies will become painfully evident," Mahmoud X continued. "He tells the people that the real reason for their poverty is the expense of maintaining a battle-ready army. But that's not true. The economy simply cannot support the population: that is the truth. When peace comes, we Egyptians will have to work harder than ever before."

He doesn't think they will. "Walk into any office, private or government," he said. "Half the staff does nothing. No one can be fired by the government unless he commits a serious crime. It is extremely difficult to fire anyone in the private sector, too."

Mahmoud X earns the equivalent of $7,500 a year. He has an apartment in Cairo, a villa in Alexandria where well-to-do Cairenes vacation to escape the summer heat. He says he earns another $7,500 from outside work. He admits that he is as much a prisoner of his high income — 50 times the national average — as he is of the censorship that has silenced his voice.

"The government no longer jails its critics or tortures them, as the police did under Nasser," he explained. "I am not afraid of being punished physically. It isn't done. I was arrested by Nasser's security police even though I supported him. They let me go after torturing me — a little, not as much as they did to others."

"Sadat simply silences his opponents. At worst, maybe you'd be exiled."

MAHMOUD X ADMITTED that he is one of only a small minority that disagrees with Sadat's policies. "He is widely supported because he promises an end

Protest rejected

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities Wednesday rejected a protest by American publishing officials over the confiscation of a book of U.S. editorial cartoons at Moscow's International Book Fair.

Soviet officials had banned the book, "A Cartoon History of United States Foreign Policy, 1776-1976," along with 43 other titles on display in an American exhibit at the 75-nation fair.

Alexander Hoffman, board chairman of the Association of American Publishers, said Ramaz D. Mchedlidze, a deputy director of the exhibit, told him "the book contains unfavorable caricatures of some of their political leaders."

"We replied that cartoonists draw that way and that many of the cartoons of our political leaders are not very complimentary either," Hoffman told reporters. Soviet officials said they would provide an explanation later for the seizure of two other U.S. books—"Hitler" and "The Face of the Third Reich," both written by Joachim Fest.

an automobile accident two days before.

While a student at Lee Freshman School last year, Rohre and his partner won the district debate championship, and he qualified for the state forensic meet his freshman year.

He would have been a sophomore at Lee High School this year.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Rohre, 3201 Cimmaron St.

Arrangements for the car wash are being made by LHS debate coach Robin Riley and Ernest Angelo III, National Forensic League president at Lee.

to war, a wonderful prosperity when peace comes. Really, the people do not want war — nor do I," he said. "And Sadat's support is so nearly-total because no one is permitted to disagree with him in public," he added.

"A great fuss is made about articles that appear, chastising a minister for some program or other — too much traffic, the need for new sewers, more irrigation. It is always something safe, something of a social rather than a political nature. That's what passes for opposition. We always call what we do by another name," he said.

He offered the press as an example. "In 1971, Sadat nationalized the press. But we did not call it that. We said the press was reorganized. Rather than being privately-owned, the Socialist Union, the ruling party, would run it. The argument was that it was better for the people to control the newspapers rather than private individuals who would print what was to their personal advantage," Mahmoud X related.

"The SU allegedly represents all 40 million Egyptians, though only three million have joined the party," he continued. "So we all own the press: the SU has a half-share and the employees supposedly own the other half. Personally, I have never seen anything but my salary. Nor has any other journalist. We have no say about anything. It is all nonsense."

CRITICS AMONG THE press, he said, have in effect been bought off as he has been; by high wages. Others — a category into which he also falls — have been unofficially removed from positions of authority.

"The average government worker earns $800 a year. A top editor makes ten times as much. Life is very good for people like us who make that kind of money," he granted. "Further, there is a bonus system. By law, every worker is guaranteed a minimum annual bonus of $9."

"The editor of a newspaper can give any amount as a bonus to any employee — there is no limit," Mahmoud X claimed. "Some get as much as $150 from the editors who, of course, are selected by the government. They know what should be printed and what should not and they take care of the reporters who don't rock the boat."

Each day before press time, according to this journalist, censors at the ministry of information telephone editors to "suggest" the lead story and to recommend what news items are to be condensed or buried in the back pages. Mention is also made of what news is not worth printing, or will be "clarified" later on.

"None of this is official," Mahmoud X said. "The phone call is enough. The news is censored before it is published."

This description of the Egyptian press was confirmed by foreign observers.

"YOU COULD SAY THAT censorship is self-imposed," commented a long-time resident in Egypt. "Writers don't submit their stuff to a censor. They already know the gist of what they can write and their editors know they'll be called down if the ministry of information doesn't like what it reads in the papers. Remember, the press is semi-official. Only 'reliable' people are permitted to write for it."

Another concurred in Mahmoud X's argument on how President Sadat's critics are handled: "They aren't punished, except by being given nothing to do."

Government officials admitted that the press "is not free in the western sense. But neither is Egypt." It was necessary, they said, "for the good of the nation" to prohibit the spread of propaganda by the hard-line Arab nations that oppose Sadat's peace policy.

"Everyone knows that the press can't print something just because some individual feels like it," said an Egyptian official. "That's understood and accepted. It would be stupid to provide a free platform to our enemies. They don't do that for us. The great majority of Egyptians want peace. The press reflects this majority opinion."

Mahmoud X warned that the axe of disillusionment inevitably will fall.

"The Palestinian issue cannot be evaded. It is the heart of the problem in the Middle East and it won't go away because Sadat says all will be well. He is going to have to deal with it and it will have to be solved," he predicted.

But he spoke only in the closeness of a small room, out of sight and out of official earshot. To his editors, to his colleagues, to his former readers, Mahmoud X no longer exists.

Honorary German consul kidnapped by IRA dies

BOSTON (AP) — An honorary West German consul to Northern Ireland who disappeared from his Belfast home on Dec. 27, 1973, was actually kidnapped by the IRA and died of a heart attack while being held captive, The Boston Globe reported today.

The newspaper said a former Irish Republican Army activist, Peter McMullen, revealed for the first time the fate of Thomas Niedermayer, who was 44 when he disappeared from his home in late 1973.

The Globe is doing a series on McMullen, who is describing the inner workings of the IRA.

McMullen told the Globe that Niedermayer, a manager of the Grundig-Werke factory in Northern Ireland, was kidnapped by a special IRA Belfast Brigade strike force "made up of people who come together only for special jobs."

"Usually they're young, tough guys," McMullen told the Globe. "They wanted Niedermayer for ransom and the release of the Price sisters (Dolours and Marian, who were arrested for bombing a London court). They took him to a house in Turf Lodge (a Catholic section of Belfast). He was blindfolded, but apparently he put up quite a struggle. What they didn't know was that he had a history of heart trouble. He died in the flat of a heart attack."

"The IRA never said anything about him, never claimed responsibility because they were too embarrassed. He's buried in a swampy bog area just outside Andersonstown in Belfast," McMullen said.

Chinese troops entering Bhutan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Armed Chinese border troops have crossed into the tiny Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan several times in the past month and the Chinese government has ignored protests from both Bhutan and India, the Times of India reported today.

Officials of the Indian Foreign Office and the Bhutanese Embassy here had no immediate comment on the newspaper report. One Bhutanese diplomat said it came as a surprise.

"Most of the intrusions, in each case several kilometers deep," took place from the Chumbi Valley a tongue of Chinese-ruled Tibet that juts between western Bhutan and Indian Sikkim, the Times of India reported. The Chumbi Valley is about 30 miles from Thimphu, the capital of Bhutan.

The newspaper said the Indian government was upset by the reported Chinese incursions because they came "too close for comfort to the narrow neck of Indian territory in North Bengal that carries the country's vital communications links with Assam and other eastern Indian states."

According to the paper, most of the incursions occurred when local peasants drove sheep or cattle across the border into Bhutan. When challenged by Bhutanese officials, the peasants called for support from Chinese frontier guards and militiamen.

There were several confrontations between small groups of armed forces on both sides but no shooting was reported, the paper said.

Bhutan is a tiny mountain monarchy between India and Tibet. India provides guidance for Bhutanese international relations under a treaty signed by the two countries in 1949.

Search for helicopter hampered

FORT NELSON, British Columbia (AP) — Low overcast hampered the search Wednesday for an American helicopter which disappeared Sunday on a flight to Fort St. John in northeastern British Columbia.

A 200-foot ceiling and 1,300-foot visibility prevented search aircraft from flying Wednesday until the weather cleared slightly in the late afternoon, said Capt. Garry Clifford, the assistant search master.

Walter Yates, 55, of Austin, Texas, stopped to refuel here early Sunday, then took off for Fort St. John, a 185-mile flight which should have taken about 2 1/2 hours—Yates didn't arrive in Fort St. John.

Clifford said Yates apparently had been in Alaska and was heading back to Texas. He stopped in Whitehorse and Watson Lake in the Yukon and was headed to Alberta after the stop in Fort St. John.

Search headquarters were set up here Tuesday, but Clifford said bad weather prevented search flights Tuesday, and the same kind of weather is forecast for Thursday.

"The weather does not look promising for the first part of the day," said Clifford, "but we'll be up as soon as we get suitable search weather."

He said two Twin Otters from Canadian Forces Base Edmonton and two Labrador helicopters and two Buffalo aircraft from CFB Comox on Vancouver Island are on hand for the search.

Five stow away on Soviet ship

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service confirmed it had two Cuban men in custody today who leaped from a Soviet cargo ship in the Houston Ship Channel and swam to shore.

The two men reportedly stowed away aboard the 500-foot Gerol Panfilovskiy with two other men and women in an empty container, where they hid for six days without food.

Soviet seamen discovered the stowaways in the container and captured three, but the two men swam about 100 yards to the Goodpasture Inc. dock about 1 p.m. Wednesday and guards helped them to shore.

INS district director Paul O'Neill confirmed the men were in custody, but said he had no other details.

"We don't have any facts yet, but we'll give them due consideration for political asylum if they request it," he said.

Killing may have been political

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas businessman killed in a robbery at her ranch in Brazil may have been a political victim, her mother said Wednesday.

Some South American political factions "wanted to get rid" of Star Albritton Smith, 42, said her mother, Mrs. Ray Patrick. Mrs. Smith was shot five times in the stomach and legs in an attack Saturday on her ranch in Sylvania, Brasilia.

Her mother said Mrs. Smith had been attacked before by a business associate but was not seriously injured. "She found out he was a Communist," Mrs. Patrick said.

She said she visited her daughter and grandson, Mark, last spring and learned about the problems Mrs. Smith was having.

During the attack on the ranch, Mark Smith told police, three men invaded the ranch Saturday night and wanted money and jewelry. He said the men tied up his mother and two servants in a room, shot his mother and left.

The ranch was the home office for a farming and real estate business, Boa Vista Agropecuaria, owned by Mrs. Smith and her associate, James Dee Ratliff of Alvord, Texas. Ratliff was shot in the leg as the men were leaving.

Police officials said they suspected the killing was related to conflicts in Goias, where Mrs. Smith and Ratliff had problems with land titles.

More Chinese risking escape, despite increased surveillance

HONG KONG (AP) — Despite increased air and sea surveillance, more and more Chinese are swimming through shark-infested coastal waters and battling treacherous currents as they try to escape their communist homeland and sneak into Hong Kong.

With 4.7 million people crammed into a total area of 39 square miles and after 30 years of absorbing refugees from Chinese communism, the British colony on the south coast of China is trying to check the biggest wave of Chinese immigration in 17 years.

In the first seven months of the year, there were 52,533 legal immigrants, nearly double the number in the same period last year, and 46,559 illegal border-crossers who were rounded up and sent back to China. But the government estimates that at least 67,000 other illegals eluded its reinforced patrols and disappeared into the teeming city.

Among those who didn't were 264 "freedom swimmers" whose bodies were found by police or fishermen, 78 more than were found all last year. Some had drowned; others had been mutilated by sharks.

One such was 21-year-old Wong Kwong-ming, whose body was on a rubber raft intercepted by a police boat in Mrs Bay, between the Chinese coast and Hong Kong island.

Five other Chinese on the raft told the police that a shark attacked Wong as he swam behind the raft, pushing it. The government sent the five survivors back to China.

Sadat, Begin summit meeting fails to solve autonomy question

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — President Anwar Sadat returns to Egypt today after a brief summit meeting with Prime Minister Menachem Begin that maintained the momentum of the peace process and produced agreement on three issues.

However, no progress was reported on the key problem of autonomy for the Palestinians living under Israeli occupation, and Sadat and Begin also were still split on the emotional issue of Jerusalem's future.

The summit, scheduled for only 49 hours and including only about three hours of face-to-face talks between the two leaders, was filled with warmth and expressions of optimism but short on major results. Agreement was reached "in principle" on the questions of Israel's buying Sinai oil from Egypt, early return of Biblical Mount Sinai to Egypt and a temporary Israeli-Egyptian force to supervise Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula. Sadat told a joint news conference only brief discussion was needed to reach agreement on the three issues.

Begin and Sadat also agreed to meet again in Egypt at a date to be set later.

Sadat, apparently buoyed by a Moroccan request for Egyptian military aid that seemed to crack the Arab front arrayed against his peace initiative, spoke optimistically at a joint news conference about the chances of Jordan and other Arab states joining the peace process.

He said he expected them to join "by the end of this year, Inshallah (God willing)."

He also expressed optimism that the autonomy talks would achieve results despite the current slow pace and the lack of agreement on the future of Jerusalem.

"We need more time, more careful study for the whole thing," Sadat said of the Jerusalem problem.

Egypt contends Jerusalem's 100,000 Arabs should be part of the autonomous Palestinian area, with voting rights to elect a self-governing council. Israel, which annexed predominantly Arab East Jerusalem after capturing it in the 1967 war, says the city will not be divided again.

But Begin told the news conference: "Jerusalem is the capital of Israel. It is indivisible."

Although the two leaders discussed autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, Sadat said: "We don't work on details. Our ministers are working on the details of elections and so on, but we discussed principles rather than details." The oil question has been of major concern to Israel since it has been getting about 40,000 barrels a day, or about 25 percent of its needs, from the fields it is returning to Egypt.

Begin said there was agreement in principle on the amount of oil Egypt would sell to Israel but the price remained to be negotiated. Egyptian press reports said Sadat agreed to sell Israel the same amount it is getting now from the fields.

The agreement to return Mount Sinai before Nov. 19, two months ahead of schedule, was coupled with an agreement that the area will be open to Israeli tourists, Begin said.

Sadat reportedly wants to go to Mount Sinai, revered as the site where Moses received the Ten Commandments, on a pilgrimage Nov. 19 to mark the second anniversary of his historic journey to Jerusalem that launched the Israeli-Egyptian peace process.

The third agreement calls for joint Egyptian-Israeli military patrols to replace the U.N. peacekeeping force in Sinai until a permanent arrangement is negotiated with the United States.

Attorney says he was only trying to show agent lied

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Austin attorney Robert Kuhn, one of three men charged with conspiring to bribe a drug agent into changing earlier testimony against a Kuhn client, has testified he was only trying to show the agent had lied.

Kuhn, former Laredo Police Capt. Jose C. Davila and Austin private investigator Doyle Hucklebee are being tried in federal court on charges of conspiracy to bribe Nueces County Sheriff's Capt. Florencio Rendon into changing his testimony in a 1972 case.

Rendon, now suspended because of an unrelated state charge against him in Corpus Christi, was a Webb County deputy sheriff in 1972 when he testified a fingerprint he found on a car used to smuggle marijuana matched that of Kuhn client, Frazier Jules Brignon.

Acting against defaults on federal loans, discriminating private schools is 'no-no' for IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to prohibit the Internal Revenue Service from acting against taxpayers who default on federal loans and private schools that discriminate against minorities.

In a series of votes on Wednesday, the Senate sharply limited the enforcement powers of IRS agents. In the most significant among them, the Senate voted 54-31 to cut short a program under which the IRS planned to deny tax-exempt status to private schools that refuse to admit minority students.

On the order of a federal court, the IRS had proposed guidelines that would set criteria for determining which of the nation's 18,000 private schools follow discriminatory admissions policies.

Only a relatively small number, mainly religious-sponsored schools, were expected to be affected. But the House voted earlier this year to prohibit the IRS from taking such action, and now the Senate has agreed.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., led an effort to permit IRS agents to decide which schools were opened to avoid desegregation requirements in the public schools.

Javits said that by giving such schools a tax break, the federal government is "lending itself to the segregation of private schools." He said areas where there were few blacks or other minorities would not be required to recruit minorities from outside the community.

But the Senate went along with supporters of the IRS prohibition such as Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who said the agency "has no right to infringe on the rights of churches of the country which choose to operate their own schools."

Government worse than industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is worse than private industry when it comes to giving job opportunities to minorities and women, the head of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission says.

"For the first time in history, the federal sector does not outperform the private sector" in affirmative action, Eleanor Holmes Norton told federal civil rights officers Wednesday at a conference held to instruct them in elimination of discriminatory practices.

Ms. Norton contends the government's poor showing is because it has not held itself to the tough employment standards it has set for private business.

She noted that while private firms without adequate affirmative action plans can lose lucrative federal contracts, there are no such penalties for the federal government.

Extensive changes in the government's enforcement program are needed "so that we can remake it into something that deserves the name of affirmative action," Ms. Norton said.

She vowed to change the government's employment record under a presidential order that gives the EEOC chief responsibility for fighting federal job discrimination.

EEOC aides provided 1978 figures that showed women and minorities were concentrated in low-ranking, low-paying federal jobs. In one low-level grade, 68 percent of the workers were women and 25 percent were minorities. In a middle-level grade, 12 percent were women and 10 percent were minorities. In the top three grades, women and minorities accounted for less than 5 percent of the workforce on the average.

Ousted Cambodian regime launches support campaign

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The ousted Cambodian regime of Premier Pol Pot launched a new campaign for international support today by proposing the formation of a government through general elections supervised by the United Nations.

The Pol Pot side, fighting a guerrilla war in the Cambodian countryside since January, also urged all "patriots" to join its United Patriotic Front of Democratic Kampuchea (Cambodia) to fight Vietnam and its "faithful dogs, the Heng Samrin clique in Phnom Penh."

The Voice of Democratic Kampuchea, the Pol Pot radio in China, said Khieu Samphan, Cambodia's president when the Pol Pot government was in power, proposed general elections be held under the supervision of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim or his representative to "guarantee justice and grant rights and freedom at the polls."

Khieu Samphan said all "anti-Vietnamese elements" were welcome to join the front, an invitation made earlier by the guerrillas who are facing 150,000 Vietnamese troops and the small army of President Heng Samrin, a Cambodian communist installed by the Vietnamese in January two weeks after they invaded Cambodia and drove the Khmer Rouge government from Phnom Penh.

Pol Pot's ambassador to China, Pich Cheang, told a Peking news conference today that Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's former chief of state and its only figure of international standing, has been asked to head the United Patriotic Front. He said there had been no response from Sihanouk, a self-exile in Peking who is visiting North Korea.

Khieu Samphan and Heng Samrin are both in Havana for the non-aligned conference, but neither has been able to get seated as the official representative of Cambodia. Most of the members of the non-aligned movement like the United Nations still recognize the Pol Pot government and refuse to recognize Heng Samrin because he was installed by foreign forces, the Vietnamese. But because the Soviet Union supports the Vietnamese, Cuba and other Soviet allies refuse to agree to Khieu Samphan being seated.

Indochina analysts in Bangkok have long predicted Pol Pot and his men, possibly under pressure from China, their chief ally, would try to "soften their image" in an attempt to attract both domestic and foreign support.

They have been widely condemned for the blood-bath they carried out during their almost four years in power, and refugees fleeing parts of the country controlled by their guerrillas say their brutal tactics have not changed.

The Vietnamese army tried last spring to crush the guerrillas in north-west Cambodia, but the invaders' mechanized forces bogged down when the monsoon rains began. Vietnam is reported moving more troops into Cambodia in preparation for resumption of the campaign when the rains end in October, and the Thai army reports a new wave of Cambodian refugees is massing on the Thai-Cambodian border because of this and food shortages.

A Thai military spokesman said about 20,000 are at the border, across from the Thai town of Aranyaprathet. He predicted the number could reach 100,000 if the Vietnamese resume their attack.

Last spring, 75,000 Cambodians fled from the fighting and crossed into Thailand. The Thai army forced 45,000 of them to return to Cambodia, but despite threats to drive the other 30,000 back also, they are still scattered along the Thai side of the border in refugee camps.

Winning Astros can't understand dropoff at gate

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros are in the middle of their first real pennant race in 10 years, but a casual observer wouldn't be able to tell by looking at the recent attendance.

The sixth smallest crowd of the season, just 12,592 loyalists, watched Houston take a 4-3, 10th-inning victory over San Diego Wednesday when loser John D'Acquisto served up a two-out, bases-loaded walk to Enos Cabell.

The Astros have drawn more than 1.65 million to the Astrodome this season, but only 103,447 saw the six games in this home stand, an average of just 17,241.

The poor attendance perturbs the management and angers some players, but other Astros say the lack of fans doesn't concern them.

"I don't care if the fans come or not," said third baseman Enos Cabell. "All I'm worried about is winning."

ALL-STAR relief pitcher Joe Sambito said he couldn't understand why Houstonians wouldn't come to see the Astros play even when they were facing a non-contender like San Diego.

"They should be coming to see us, not the team we're playing," he said.

Houston general manager Tal Smith said he was surprised and disappointed by the lack of support in the final stretch.

"I'm sure it's disappointing to the players," he said. "The interest and enthusiasm has waned and it should be building. This should be a fever pitch, the countdown."

Those fans that stayed for the finish of Wednesday night's 3-hour, 36-minute marathon saw the Astros hang onto their slim, 1/2-game lead over second-place Cincinnati in the National League West with the win.

But both teams threw away several scoring chances during the game, with Houston leaving 17 men on base and San Diego stranding 11.

THE PADRES scored single runs in the third and fourth innings, including Gene Tenace's 15th homerun of the season, but their 2-0 lead quickly evaporated under a 3-run Houston onslaught in the bottom of the fourth keyed by Jose Cruz' RBI triple.

San Diego tied things up in the eighth inning when catcher Bill Fahey, who had five hits on the night, singled home Paul Dade.

The Padres threatened to end it in the 10th when Dave Winfield singled and moved to third on a two-out base hit by Fahey. But pinch-hitter Joe Wilhelm flied out to end the inning.

The Astros sent pitcher Joe Sambito to the plate in the bottom of the 10th, and he promptly drew a walk, then moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Cesar Ceno.

Craig Reynolds flied to right, but Terry Puhl was walked intentionally and Jeff Leonard ran the count to 3-and-2 before taking the fourth ball to load the bases for Cabell, who then watched D'Acquisto throw four straight balls.

Tanner lightning beats Borg thunder

NEW YORK (AP) — The setting couldn't have been more dramatic.

Lightning flashed in the distance. Jets flew through the fog overhead with booming regularity. Raindrops fell intermittently and a near-capacity National Tennis Center crowd roared with each shot. And lurking just a few miles away was a tropical storm.

It was Roscoe Tanner's rockets, those serves that can travel at better than 150 mph. It was Bjorn Borg's Swedish thunderbolts, at times traveling faster than Tanner's cannonballs.

And it was so much more, for this was the new Tanner, the model that covers the court like a rain squall, volleys with precision and constantly applies pressure.

And it was the old Borg, the unflappable No. 1 seed and four-time Wimbledon champion in quest of the tennis Grand Slam, digging deep, deeper into his impressive arsenal.

At the end, when Borg's backhand service return was wide, the fifth-seeded Tanner clenched his fists skyward. Hurricane Roscoe had struck Flushing Meadow.

TANNER, WHO lost a thrilling five-set final to Borg at Wimbledon, won perhaps the biggest match of his career Wednesday in the U.S. Open. His 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 quarterfinal victory was accomplished with the aid of 11 aces, 17 service winners and Tanner's unflinching confidence.

"I found out right away what I did could work," said Tanner, who until Wimbledon had never reached the final in a major tournament. "It gave me confidence."

"I served well when I was in trouble and that's what it came down to. That and being lucky."

Tanner appeared anything but lucky when, serving at 5-3 in the fourth set and after slamming his 11th ace of the match to save a break point, one of his serves hit the net and the net collapsed. A seven-minute delay followed while a new net was put in place.

"That gives you too much time to sit and think," Tanner said. "All I thought was, 'two more aces.'"

Before play resumed, Borg and Tanner were allowed a short warmup. They exchanged friendly pit-pats to loosen up, then went back to war.

TANNER immediately hit a service winner for his first match point. After a long rally, Borg hit a short lob and Tanner extended heavenward for the overhead smash that would win the match.

"When I saw it, I felt very lucky," he admitted. "After I hit it, I felt very unlucky.

"I mistimed it and overhit it," he added of the overhead, which soared into the first row of seats.

Tanner got another match point when Borg hit a backhand out but he hit a forehand into the net for duce and Borg passed him twice to draw to 4-5.

Borg then held serve, his 55th ace securing the 5-5 tie.

"You can't think you've blown the match or else you probably have blown it," Tanner noted. "I was thinking, 'Let's get back the concentration.'"

Both held serve again to head into the tiebreaker. Borg made four clear errors in the tiebreaker, which Tanner won 7-2.

Asked what was different about this match and the Wimbledon final, Tanner cracked,

"The ending. Wimbledon has been a factor in my play overall everywhere," added Tanner, who next meets the winner of tonight's Vitas Gerulaitis-Johan Kriek quarterfinal. "You realize you can play in that category — with the champions."

Borg, who has never won the U.S. Open, credited Tanner with "always putting the pressure on my serve and getting his first serve in on all the important points." The Swede didn't seem too disturbed at the end of his Grand Slam quest — he won the French as well as Wimbledon this year and had the Australian left had he won here.

"I wasn't thinking about the Grand Slam, I was thinking about the U.S. Open," he said.

JIMMY CONNORS still is thinking about defending his title here after an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 victory over a tired Pat DuPre. DuPre, who felt he had been done an injustice by having to play again Wednesday after suffering severe leg cramps following a five-set victory over Harold Solomon Tuesday, clearly was fatigued. He held service just three times in 11 games.

"Maybe he was tired but if you're in shape, it shouldn't matter," said Connors, the No. 2 seed. "You have to be prepared to play the next day."

Connors' semifinal opponent will be the winner of today's John McEnroe-Eddie Dibbs match.

Two women reached the semifinals Wednesday, top seed Chris Evert and No. 9 Billie Jean King. They'll play in a semifinal after Evert topped No. 5 Evonne Goolagong Cawley of Australia 7-5, 6-2, and King defeated longtime rival Virginia Wade of Britain, the No. 4 seed, 6-3, 7-6.

Second seed Martina Navratilova has a quarterfinal encounter with No. 8 Kerry Reid of Australia tonight while Tracy Austin, the third seed, played unranked West German Sylvia Hanika.

The 1979 edition of the Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade opens its junior varsity football season at 7 p.m. today against the Snyder junior varsity in Memorial Stadium.

Coaches Ernie Johnson and Tim Whalen don't have a lot of numbers, but feel like this year's group is still a good one and they are raring to go.

Midland High's Bullpups don't open their season until 7 p.m. Saturday night in Memorial Stadium when they take on the Pecos JV.

This gives local football fans three games, this weekend with the Midland Bulldog varsity opening its season in Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m. against Amarillo Tascosa's Rebels.

Lee took a 1-0 win over Andrews last week in a pre-season scrimmage and the one TD was scored by fullback

Andrews, Big Spring head Area grid slate

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

The Andrews Mustangs and the Big Spring Steers will lock horns Friday night at 8 in Big Spring as area schoolboy football gets into high gear with a full slate of games.

Andrews, under the direction of second-year coach Bill Shipman, will try to repeat last year's wipeout of the Steers while Big Spring will be searching for the respect they've seemed to have lost lately during their travails in District 5-AAAA.

Shipman again has a team of youngsters with only five varsity letterwinners from last year's 7-3 overall and 3-1 District 2-AAA outfits.

Still, Andrews impressed many with their 2-2 scrimmage standoff with Midland Lee last week.

Meanwhile, Steer boss Ron Logback has installed the veer offense in hopes of utilizing the blinding speed of 150-pound split end Joe Willie Jones and quarterbacks David Coffey, a junior, and Jimmy Marquez, a senior.

Offensively for the Mustangs, Van Pearce, the violin-playing junior tailback will be trying to start another 1,000 yard rushing season. He will, however, be taking handoffs from a new quarterback that will come from among senior Kevin Bartley, junior George Gonzales or impressive sophomore Keith Brooks.

Several area teams will be making their 1979 debuts Friday under new head coaches.

Mike Patterson is the new head man at Crane and he'll be leading the Golden Cranes into an 8 p.m. tussle at Denver City. Formerly the defensive coordinator, Patterson has put in the Houston Veer offense in hopes of improving the Cranes' outlook in District 7-AA.

Also debuting will be Larry Nabors, a former McCamey assistant now the Badger head man. The Badgers venture to Menard for an 8 p.m. encounter that could tell a lot about the District 6-A crew.

According to Nabors, the Badgers will throw the football. Quarterback Raul Arana and superlative wideout Billy Ray Terry give reason to believe the first-year taskmaster.

Stanton's Steve Park was a former Buff assistant coach that climbed the ladder. He'll get his indoctrination at 8 p.m. when the Buffs invade Tahoka.

It'll be the first of three nonconference tilts for the Buffs before they embark on District 2-A play, seeking their first loop crown in 29 years.

While there is youth among the area coaches, there is also a battle-tested veteran.

Dwayne Turner begins his ninth year at the Rankin helm as the Red Devils travel to Eldorado for an 8 p.m. fray. Turner's squad is quite green in some spots but there are some choice athletes like quarterback Brant Myers and running back Terry Turner. The perennial District 6-A powerhouse has six contests before loop action begins.

Another coaching returnee is Julian Bush, entering his second season at Lamesa. The Golden Tornado honcho sends his troops into an 8 p.m. home assignment with talented Pecos.

Bush readily admitted during spring drills that the contest is crucial to the Tors' chances of improving last season's 1-9 overall and 0-4 District 3-AAA records.

Yet another returning head coach is Reagan County's personable Melvin Burns. The Owls begin warfare with an 8 p.m. engagement at Ozona that should give Burns a good indication of his team's talent.

Third-year quarterback Mickey Tom Owens leads the show for the Owls as they hope to improve last year's 4-6 overall and 2-3 District 9-A record.

There may be several new head coaches in the area, but the competition among the smaller schools should continue to be outstanding.

Dodgers' power belts short-circuit Cubs, 5-1

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Back-to-back home runs in the fifth inning by Mike Zouzas and Ed Santos powered the San Antonio Dodgers to a 5-1 Texas League baseball playoff victory over the Midland Cubs Wednesday night.

The victory boosted the Dodgers into the Texas League championship series with the Arkansas Travelers. The Dodger won the best two-out-of-three series, 2-1.

The championship series begins at San Antonio with games Friday and Saturday. The series will move to Arkansas Monday.

Dressler outduels Fergie, 1-0

SEATTLE (AP) — While Seattle pitcher Rob Dressler was improving his control, Fergie Jenkins of the Texas Rangers was losing his.

The result in Wednesday night's American League pitching duel was a 1-0 victory for Seattle as Willie Horton singled home Julio Cruz, who had walked and stolen second, with two out in the first inning.

Dressler, 1-2, and Jenkins, 13-12, each gave up only three hits, but Dressler gave up only two walks before departing in the eighth inning while Jenkins issued nine walks to tie a club record.

"That's the neatest nine walks I've ever seen. He never threw a ball above the batter's waist," Dressler said.

"I've really cut down on my walks," the Seattle right-hander said. "The times I got behind on the hitters, I came back."

It was Horton's 93rd RBI of the season and Cruz's 40th stolen base.

Texas Manager Pat Corrales was ejected by second-base umpire Jerry Neudecker after Seattle's Joe Simpson stole second on a pitch-out in the second inning. Soon afterwards, Jenkins picked Simpson off second.

His young catcher, Greg Mahlborg, said Jenkins "has just had a problem with that last couple of starts, plus the new catcher. He didn't really miss that badly."

The shutout snapped the Rangers' four-game winning streak and the Mariners' three-game losing streak.

"I hated to think about going the whole season without a win," Dressler said. "I just want to get another one as soon as I can."

With the Rangers hitting the ball on the ground most of the night, "Julio (Cruz) had a great game at second and Mario (Mendoza) did too at short," he added.

Bump Wills, the hottest Ranger against the Mariners this season, said Dressler "just had good stuff. He had good velocity on his fast ball and was keeping it away from the hitters."

After Pat Putnam opened the Texas eighth with a double and John Grubb followed with a walk in the eighth inning, Byron McLaughlin replaced Dressler and retired the Rangers to record his 12th save.

Padres' fans feel Perry threw curve

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The television commercial, a promotion for a San Diego waterbed firm, ends with the well-known baseball star asking: "Would Gaylord Perry throw you a curve?"

The answer, according to Perry's critics, is yes, after the 40-year-old pitcher great walked out on the San Diego Padres Tuesday, threatening retirement if he isn't traded.

Public reaction Wednesday ranged from rancor to disbelief.

"Yes, Gaylord Perry, the man who has ranted and raved against ballplayers who refused to hustle and give baseball their best effort, turns out to be the biggest quitter of all," wrote Joe Stein, sports editor of The San Diego Tribune.

"Gaylord uses the truth as he does his fastball, mostly as a decoy. Set 'em up and throw the curve," wrote Wayne Lockwood, sports columnist for The San Diego Union.

PERRY, WHO turns 41 in two weeks, left the club Tuesday, saying he would retire unless the Padres make a deal that would put him closer to his North Carolina farm and family. If possible, he said he would prefer being dealt back to the Texas Rangers, where he pitched three years.

"What we have here is a high-stakes poker game," wrote Lockwood. "Gaylord is betting 'about 25 grand' he can run the bluff. That, by his estimate, is the amount of the salary he will forfeit by not playing the final four weeks of the season."

"Gaylord isn't above a power play," said Ballard Smith, general manager of the Padres. "He thinks he has the leverage. But we think we have it. I know he wants to win 300 games. And he always has the option of coming back. Shoot, I hope he reconsiders and we see him pitching in Atlanta Sunday."

Yeoman finds it takes longer to forget

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston Coach Bill Yeoman observed recently that as one gets older, it takes longer to forget a loss.

The veteran UH coach was talking about last January's last-second loss to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, but the theory also applies to the 1978 season opener against Memphis State.

The Cougars, who recovered from a 17-3 embarrassment against Memphis State in the season opener last year to win the Southwest Conference title, start the 1979 campaign Saturday in Los Angeles against the UCLA Bruins. But Memphis State is still on the Cougars' minds.

"The kids are ready to play, they'd better be, but I don't feel we've jelled yet," Yeoman said. "We don't want to go through anything like Memphis State again this year."

"I hope we'll be able to look on the backside of two or three games and say we're a pretty good football team."

Yeoman keeps reminding the Cougars that "99 per cent of the game is played in the head," but it may not be necessary.

"You don't have to remind me," said offensive guard Dennis Green-awalt. "I still have nightmares about that team."

Yeoman expects Bruin quarterback Rick Bashore to test Houston's defensive secondary early in the game. The Cougar secondary was burned often last season, finishing last in the SWC in pass defense.

"I'm sure we're going to have to stop the pass before we stop the run," Yeoman said. "Rightly or wrongly, we feel we may be able to do well against the run. We've shored up in the secondary too and I think we'll do a better job of pass defense."

Oakland's Wayne Gross leaps high at first, but can't flag down throw from Rob Picciolo as Milwaukee's Paul Molitor reaches on the error. (AP Laserphoto)

It's a whole new year for slump-ending Keough

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

This may be September, but as far as Oakland pitcher Matt Keough is concerned, it's the start of a new baseball season.

"The way I look at it, I'm 1-and-0," said the tough-luck pitcher after finally gaining that hard-to-catch first victory of 1979.

Actually, Keough is 1-14 after Wednesday night's 6-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers, but you can pardon his lopsided view. The triumph allowed him to escape the dubious distinction of tying the American League record for most consecutive losses over two seasons. He had 18 before he beat the Brewers.

He had already tied the record for the worst season start by a major league pitcher with 14.

"They're all behind me now," said a euphoric Keough, celebrating the occasion with champagne. "I never gave up," added Keough, who played in last year's All-Star Game before going sour. "If I did, I wouldn't have been able to look myself in the mirror."

Keough allowed but five hits during his impressive performance. The only run off the right-hander was unearned in the first inning. The A's backed Keough with a 12-hit attack in snapping an eight-game winning streak by Milwaukee pitcher Mike Caldwell, 14-6. Dwayne Murphy drove in four runs with a third-inning single and a three-run homer in the sixth.

Oakland broke a 1-1 tie with five runs, all of them unearned, in the sixth. The tie-breaking run scored when a potential double-play ground-er went through the legs of Brewers shortstop Robin Yount.

California 9, Chicago 8—Merv Rettenmund's two-out single in the seventh inning drove in two runs and rallied California over Chicago. With two out in the seventh, Angels catcher Brian Downing beat out a single and Bobby Grich walked. Larry Harlow then bounced a ball behind second base, Downing scoring from second while Grich and Harlow moved up a base on second baseman Tim Morrison's wild throw home.

Guy Hoffman was then called in from the bullpen to replace Randy Scarbery, 2-8, and after walking Rick Miller, gave up the single to Rettenmund.

Twins 8, Royals 3—Ron Jackson drove in three runs with a triple and a single to pace Minnesota over Kansas City. Jackson tripled in the first inning to score Bob Randall from second base and put the Twins ahead 1-0. Jackson's single in the sixth knocked in two more runs.

Rookie John Castino collected four hits in four appearances and drove in two runs for Minnesota. Jose Morales also drove in two runs with a triple to key a four-run second inning for the Twins. Winner Dave Goltz, 13-10, scattered 10 hits.

Red Sox 5, Yankees 0—Butch Hobson knocked in three runs with a triple and a homer and Bob Stanley scattered seven hits as Boston broke a four-game losing streak by beating New York.

Stanley, 14-9, recorded his third shutout and eighth complete game this season. Boston reached Yankees starter Tommy John, 18-7, in the second inning for two runs on five hits, including Hobson's triple. The Boston third baseman later hit a two-run homer in the eighth.

Tigers 9, Indians 3—Ron LeFlore's ninth-inning triple broke a 3-3 tie and ignited a six-run rally that carried Detroit over Cleveland. Loser Victor Cruz, 3-9, walked Alan Trammell leading off the ninth. LeFlore followed with a line drive that bounced past charging Bobby Bonds in right for a three-base hit. Pinch-hitter Al Greene walked and Steve Kemp followed with an RBI-single.

Lynn Jones then singled home two runs before a sacrifice fly by Jerry Morales and an RBI-single by Aurelio Rodriguez accounted for the Tigers' final two runs of the inning.

Our previous steel cord used only five steel filaments. Now there are ten. It's an all new steel cord that starts out with two filaments with seven more wrapped around them. Then, one more steel filament binds the cord together. That's how the tire received its name—seven over tow plus one—or, 721.

Lynn, Langford named AL players of the month

All-Star outfielder Fred Lynn of Boston was named the American League Player of the Month for August, while Rick Langford of Oakland was named Pitcher of the Month. Lynn, in his bid to become the first AL Triple Crown winner since teammate Carl Yastrzemski in 1967, hit .416 in August (37 for 89) with 10 homers and 25 runs batted in. Lynn hit safely in 22 of the 25 games he started in August, and hit in 17 straight as part of a 20-game hitting streak. Langford was 5-1 for August, hurling complete games in all six of that month's starts.

A Bluefield, W.Va., High School football player who had started for the first time in his varsity career only five days earlier collapsed after his team's workout Tuesday and died early Wednesday, according to school officials. The player was identified as Stanley Neal, a 16-year-old junior who started on the defensive line last Friday in Bluefield's 33-18 loss to rival Graham (Va.) High School. Bluefield's principal, George Erps, said an autopsy was being performed Wednesday and the cause of Neal's death was not known. The youth had been admitted to a Bluefield hospital Tuesday night for what was called severe dehydration.

When former UCLA star Ann Meyers signed a one-year pact with the NBA Indiana Pacers, she became the first woman in history to sign a contract to play in the league. However, two women have been drafted by NBA teams over the years — Denise Long and Lucia Harris. In 1969, the San Francisco (now Golden State) Warriors drafted Long, a senior at Union Whittier (Iowa) High School. Long, a forward, had averaged 69 points per game as a senior, and three times had scored more than 100 points in a game. Long, taken in the 13th round, was drafted to join in a San Francisco women's semi-pro league formed by Warriors owner Franklin Meuli. The league folded soon after play began. The New Orleans (now Utah) Jazz used their seventh round draft choice in 1977 to select Lucia Harris, an All-American from national champion Delta State of Mississippi.

Pat Bradley, who ranks second on the current LPGA prize-money list, and defending champion Kathy Whitworth head a field of 110 pros and four amateurs for the eighth annual Denver Golf Tournament which begins Friday. Bradley, runner-up to Whitworth here last year, has won $126,318 on the tour this year, trailing only Nancy Lopez, who has pocketed $174,252 but is not entered in the Denver tournament. Jane Blalock, No. 4 on the list with $107,031, is competing, along with Amy Alcott, No. 5; Sally Little, No. 6; Donna Caponi Young, No. 7; Judy Rankin, No. 8; and Hollis Stacy, No. 10.

Danny "Little Red" Lopez will fight sixth-ranked Jose Caba of the Dominican Republic for the WBC's featherweight championship Sept. 25 at Los Angeles Sports Arena. Larry Holmes will defend his WBC heavyweight title against No. 1 contender Earnie Shavers in Las Vegas on Friday, Sept. 28.

Larry Nelson, who will make his Ryder Cup debut against Europe next week, gets a close-up look at the opposition in his first British appearance in the $210,000 European Open golf championship which starts here today. The 32-year-old Nelson currently ranks second to Tom Watson in the PGA money listings with $243,755 after winning the Inverary Classic and Western Open.

Friday's pairings and sites of the Midland Mixed Doubles tennis tournament should report to the Racquet Club at 4 p.m. Friday.

"I'm no Earl Campbell — I won't break six or seven tackles on a play. I'm not strong enough to block the blitzing linebacker. And I won't win any footraces either. All those things that make the ideal running back, I'm not."
 With Rob Lytle still not 100 percent because of a knee injury and Otis Armstrong ailing with a bruised sternum, the 5-foot-11, 198-pound Preston is the Broncos' only healthy halfback as they entertain the Los Angeles Rams tonight in a nationally televised game — the first of three special Thursday night games this season.
 "I'm very surprised to be starting this early in the year, since my goal was just to make the team again," said Preston, who was the third-to-last player drafted in 1977 and who "got caught in the numbers game" at New England before signing with Denver as a free agent in 1978.
 National Football League computers, which measure an athlete's vital statistics and rate him accordingly, probably wouldn't even acknowledge Preston's existence.
 "But the computer doesn't read the amount of heart, intelligence, will to win or guts a person has," Preston says.
 Preston has adapted so well that he's earned a starting spot at running back for the Broncos.

WEST TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING

Slick threat to fishing

As the potentially dangerous oil slick from the Mexican offshore well creeps into Texas coastal waters, Texas Parks and Wildlife department personnel are preparing to assess its environmental effects. The invading oil could have serious effects on wildlife and fish and the most vulnerable of these could be the multi-million-dollar shrimp industry, the fall spawn of redfish and the large concentrations of waterfowl, which winter along the Texas coast.

The department is not empowered to engage in directly fighting the oil slick, but biologists, game wardens and numerous other personnel are cooperating with other agencies in an effort to monitor the slick.

Shrimp may be particularly threatened because they spawn in large concentrations in offshore areas before entering the bay systems. Redfish also could be vulnerable because they spawn near the surface in open gulf waters and the larval fish enter the bays to grow.
 "If the redfish are spawning out there when a big oil slick occurs, it could have a disastrous effect on the population," claims Bob Kemp, Fisheries Division director.
 Fortunately, the department's recent success at inducing captive redfish to spawn in tanks appears to loom even larger in importance in the face of the oil threat. During the past six months, more than seven million reds have been stocked in selected bays along the coast, and surveys currently are underway to determine their survival rate.
 On the wildlife side, there are a number of species which possibly could be threatened by the oil. Dr. Harold Irby, program director for migratory and nongame species, said resident and transient populations of endangered brown pelican depend on beach and bay systems from the Coastal Bend to the Lower Laguna Madre for their existence. Also, the Lower Laguna hosts about 70 percent of the nation's wintering redhead ducks.
 On the Upper Gulf Coast, vast marshlands are the winter home of a stopover point for ducks and geese which travels down the central and Mississippi flyways from the north.

ANTERLESS deer permits for the special archery season were scheduled to be issued Friday in the

Skins seek switch to avoid conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams is asking the National Football League to change the team's schedule so its Oct. 7 game won't conflict with a Mass to be celebrated here by Pope John Paul II.
 Police officials have expressed concern that the game against the Philadelphia Eagles, which begins two hours before the 3 p.m. Mass, will further complicate transportation and traffic problems. The religious service is expected to draw a crowd of 1 million.
 As written, the schedule calls for the Redskins to play the Eagles in Philadelphia on Oct. 21. Williams would like the game locations switched.
 "I have suggested to the league that we flip-flop the Eagles game," he said. "It's competitively disadvantageous for us because we're on the road for four solid weeks, but respect for the Holy Father and good citizenship" indicate the change is needed.

'Dallas' good for conversation but can it ever be untangled?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South African TV viewers, still smarting over one missed installment of "Dallas," braced themselves the other day for another episode in the life of the rich Texas oil family. The nasty exploits of J.R. Ewing, played by Larry Hagman, and his family, repeatedly make good conversational fodder for commuters, office workers and shoppers on mornings after during the show's 26-week run. But TV addicts were doubtful after a recent censor's ruling that all the intrigue could ever be untangled. The realization a week or so ago that the South African Broadcasting Corp. had skipped a program infuriated fans and resulted in front-page stories in the English-language press speculating on the contents of the show, which was believed "too sensitive" for local audiences. An Afrikaans-language paper went to the trouble of obtaining a synopsis of the show — revealing that sexy young Lucy's fiancée was a homosexual — to fill in viewers who complained they didn't understand the broken engagement. "Dallas" also is shown in Zambia, Kenya and Zimbabwe Rhodesia, along with other American programs. But it's doubtful that its popularity is as great anywhere as it is in South Africa. All this comes as media experts in South Africa say the importance of television in the country is "all out of proportion and totally ridiculous." Fascination with American programs apparently stems from the fact that the 4-year-old government-owned industry offers only one channel and is denied British programs as a protest by Britain's actors equity against South Africa's racial segregation laws. South Africa, with 1.5 licensed TV owners in a white population of 4.4 million, reportedly has the largest television audience in Africa. Viewers complain of a lack of variety on the tube, and say South Africa's dearth of national celebrities is to blame for their idolation of American actors. Erik Estrada, star of the popular "CHiPs" series about a motorcycle cop in California, got wide publicity in the press this summer after he was involved in an accident while filming the show. Still, the attention lavished on the current TV heart-throbs is mild compared to the devotion shown William Smith, star of "Rich Man, Poor Man," who caused near-riots during a nationwide tour of shopping centers last year when the mini-series was on the air. That program had such a grip on television owners that restaurants either closed on Tuesday nights or provided sets to accommodate the fans. Public meetings were scheduled around the weekly event. American television programs also fill the bulk of Zambia's five hours nightly, including "The Six Million Dollar Man," "The Flintstones," "Charlie's Angels" and "Star Trek." Swaziland's year-old television industry has a captive audience in its estimated 30,000 viewers, given a relatively undeveloped social life in that country, said W.D. Mummyer, a Johannesburg-based agent for Swazi TV.

Why does famous script writer take so long for novel?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For a movie script by William Goldman, any studio in town would pay more money than Charles Dickens earned in his lifetime. So why would Goldman take seven months of his valuable time to write a novel?

"Because I was a novelist for 10 years before I started writing movies," he explains. "I still consider myself a novelist."

"All movie writers come to realize that their scripts are to be changed and re-interpreted by others. The only way to control your material is to become a hyphenate: a writer-director or writer-producer. I have no desire to direct, and so I write books. Whatever their faults or virtues, they're mine."

The man who earned enormous fees for his scripts of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "All the President's Men" and "A Bridge Too Far" has produced his first Hollywood novel, "Tinsel." It describes the machinations in setting up production of a movie based on the last days of Marilyn Monroe.

Novels about Hollywood seem to appear every week, but this one is different. Goldman displays his rare knack for creating character and scenes, and he captures Hollywood's tribal rites with uncanny accuracy — which is an achievement for one who has never been a resident.

"I SPENT MOST of a summer out here when I was working on 'Butch Cassidy,'" said the author, a handsome man with a Fu Manchu mustache. "I've been here many times since, but always in and out. I always leave as soon as I can. I couldn't possibly work here. Why not? Just look out at that out there."

He indicated the sunshine outside the famous Polo Lounge in Beverly Hills Hotel, which is a setting in his — and most Hollywood — novels. Goldman prefers to do his writing amid Manhattan's concrete.

The compulsion to write a novel about Hollywood had its beginning during one of his first visits to these shores. He described what happened:

"I was invited to one of those big parties in the Malibu Colony, which I didn't even know was called the Colony then. When I arrived, I was dazzled by all the famous faces, which I had never seen up close."

"All of the boys were with girls, and I wondered about some of the famous names who were rumored to be homosexuals. Midway through the party, Judy Garland showed up with whoever her husband was at the time. She was in terrible shape, and she took a seat in the middle of the patio. Soon all of the famous faces who were rumored to be homosexuals clustered around her."

"I thought to myself, 'I've got to write about that some day.' I meant to write a book about stars, but 'Tinsel' became a book about deals. I'll write the other one later."

GOLDMAN SAYS THAT "Tinsel" is his first novel in which women play the central roles. They are an attractive gallery: Dixie, "Pig" and Ginger, all competing for the Monroe role, each used cruelly by men. "This is a cruel, tough town on women," the author comments.

Previous Goldman novels have become films: "Soldier in the Rain," "No Way to Treat a Lady," "Marathon Man," "Magic." So far no takers for "Tinsel." Goldman observed:

"The studio bosses hold to certain beliefs. Sports pictures don't make money, then comes 'Rocky' and 'Bad News Bears.' Political pictures supposedly don't sell — until 'All The President's Men' and 'The China Syndrome.' Studios have the same feelings about Hollywood pictures, but that may change, too."

Latest Black film classy heist story

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer

A MAN, A WOMAN AND A BANK is a classy heist movie, intelligently acted by an accomplished cast and directed by Noel Black with a keen eye for suspenseful excitement. Donald Sutherland and Paul Mazursky are the genteel crooks, computer experts who relieve a bank of $4 million by counter-programming as its new building goes up. Brooke Adams, an immensely appealing young actress, becomes involved in the escapade, more or less against her will. Among the film's assets are gorgeous shots of Macao and Vancouver. If the plot contains a lesson, it seems to be that crime does pay. Which will come as no surprise to the bank robbers of New York City. Rated PG, perhaps because the moral lesson is not suitable for youngsters.

MCT play tryouts to be next week

Tryouts for Midland Community Theatre's "mystery play" — the next special production at MCT — will be held next week. At this point, a definite play has not been selected, but it will be a vehicle by a well-known playwright such as Tennessee Williams, Tom Stoppard, Noel Coward, Harold Pinter or Edward Albee, according to theater officials, who added the final choice will be announced soon. The production will be presented in Theatre II, the smaller, more intimate arena theater inside Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley, beginning in late October. Tryouts for the production will be held at 8 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday. The auditions are open to all residents of the city and surrounding area, and no parts will be filled until after the second and final tryout session. Newcomers to the city and area are given a special invitation to attend the auditions.

Avengers star doesn't mind problem of being type-cast

LONDON (AP) — Although it has been two years since "The New Avengers" ceased production, Joanna Lumley can't escape the shadow of her character, Purdey. But rather than complain about type-casting, she laments the two couldn't stay together longer.

Miss Lumley filmed 26 episodes of the series with Patrick Macnee, who played dapper super-sleuth John Steed, and Gareth Hunt, who portrayed agent Mike Gambit. The show was filmed on three occasions in the 1960s, with Macnee operating opposite female agents Honor Blackman, Diana Rigg and Linda Thorson.

"I'd love to have done another 13 and really cracked it," Miss Lumley said in a recent interview at her apartment in London's Holland Park area. "All three of us would have loved to — under very different circumstances. We wanted script control."

The cast was disturbed that "a lot of the spoofy humor" had been written out of the series, which began in 1963 with Macnee and Miss Blackman taking a highbrow poke at James Bond-type films.

There have been rumors aplenty that "The New Avengers" would be resurrected, but so far nothing concrete. CBS was said to be considering additional shootings for its "Late Movie" package, but later decided on "The New Saint," based on the popular 1960s series starring Roger Moore.

Macnee's Steed hasn't changed since 1963. He was always impeccably dressed, complete with cane and steel bowler, and abhorred weapons. "So that left Gareth and me endlessly blasting people's heads off," Miss Lumley said.

"I was awfully angry that we tried to kind of sneak into the 'Starsky and Hutch' area," she added. "The Avengers" has got to be British and umbrellas and rain and OK behavior, and I thought we'd rather gone off the feeling that Diana and Patrick got, with very tight scripts and very bizarre sort of things."

It was the pairing of Steed and Miss Rigg's cool Mrs. Peel that rocketed "The Avengers" onto American television and still accounts for much of the interest in the show on both sides of the Atlantic. Although Miss Lumley longs for what might have been, the product with which she was involved was at least somewhat faithful to the original concept of outrageous plots and dry British wit.

Some 1,000 actresses, models and assorted starlets auditioned for the part in "The New Avengers" before the role went to Miss Lumley, the striking, 5-foot-8 daughter of a ghurka major in the Indian Army.

"I think because Honor and Diana had such an immense impact, it's become rather like a James Bond role," Miss Lumley said. "You'd be dumb not to do it. Sure, you get type-cast, but what a nice way to be type-cast."

"I decided right away that she (Purdey) was a complete professional," she said. "She didn't care about being pretty or trying to attract men, because that seemed to happen all the time, anyway. I thought she'd be a very cool head, very bossy and organized — and unapproachable."

Because of the shotgun shooting schedule sometimes employed, Miss Lumley found that Purdey finally became something of a mirror image of herself.

For instance, agent and actress alike opted for no-nonsense clothing and short hair because neither could spare the time for stores or beauty shops.

"When people ask, 'How much like Purdey are you?', I say that she is me, except I don't do the things she does," she said.

After a stint as a fashion model, Miss Lumley crossed over by joining a repertory company in Coventry. Her movie credits include "On Her Majesty's Secret Service," the first post-Sean Connery film in the James Bond series that featured George Lazenby, Telly Savalas and Diana Rigg.

After closing "The New Avengers," she eschewed several offers that were "either sub-Purdey stuff or just 'aburd'."

Concert star yields limelight to wife

By ROBERT BARR

NEW YORK (AP) — Misha Dichter, whose concert career gives him 100 nights of applause every year, does not mind yielding the limelight once in a while.

Especially to his wife, Cipa. She plays the top part in their occasional appearances as duettists, which amounts to having top billing in the partnership.

"We're doing a Mendelssohn concerto in which she has all the hard parts," Dichter said. "It's marvelous. She works three times as hard, and we both get the applause."

Appearing this summer at New York's Mostly Mozart Festival, however, Misha held Cipa's hand high as they accepted their applause, and let her take the bows.

Dichter, 34, who won second prize in the 1966 Tchaikovsky competition in Moscow, plays up to 100 concerts a year in the United States and abroad. For Brazilian-born Cipa, 35, the dozen duet concerts each year are her entire public career, and as much of a career as she wants.

Series share singular aspect in entertainment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Body Human" series on CBS and NBC's "Real People," dissimilar though they may be, share an aspect that puts them in very singular class of television — nonfiction entertainment, the closest thing to a new wave that television has seen in years.

After 30 years of milking fictional situations in drama and comedy, squeezing yarns from make-believe cops and cowboys and schoolteachers and doctors, television has discovered real life. "The Body Human" series, which began in 1977, proved that reality can be a commercial amusement.

At the forefront of nonfiction TV is Tomorrow Entertainment, a production company founded by a former network president with the discernment to bring excellence and uniqueness to commercial TV in salable forms. Thomas More knows how to work the network game.

Since More left ABC in 1970, his Tomorrow Entertainment has made a profound mark in television with such entertainment dramas as "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman," "Sister Aimee," "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings" and "Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry," fiction all.

Tomorrow's involvement in nonfiction TV began when More became fascinated by the work being done by a firm called MedCom Inc., an outfit that made audio-visual equipment for use in medicine. Realizing the entertainment potential of MedCom's technology, More entered a deal with MedCom's Al Kelman and Dr. Robert Fuiz, and "The Body Human" was put in the works.

The first "Body Human," a truly amazing account of human gestation called "The Miracle Months," appeared on CBS in 1977, winning critical praise and a strong audience. Three more — "Red River" (about the heart), "The Vital Connection" (the mind and nervous system), and "The Sexes" — have more than held their own in the ratings, with "The Sexes" finishing in the top 10 for its week.

The MedCom technology — featuring such nifty tricks as camera angles from inside the human body — was put to use in Tomorrow's fine but short-lived "Lifeline" series on NBC. The series, which followed the efforts of real-life doctors in real-life situations, failed in competition but broke ground as the first weekly nonfiction entertainment series.

And George Schlatter's "Real People," the comedy entry in nonfiction TV, may well be NBC's biggest series this fall.

It's reassuring to know that real life can compete with the Starskys and Hutches and Lavernes and Shirleys and Fonzie's of make believe. It may be even better.

Obscure bill may outlaw growing certain vegetables

WASHINGTON (AP) — A relatively unnoticed bill near the bottom of this year's farm legislation agenda could make it illegal for small farmers to grow certain varieties of common vegetables, a group of rural activists says.

Of more far-reaching concern, the bill could further encourage a genetic uniformity in the vegetable world that might undermine modern agriculture's advances, the National Academy of Sciences has said.

The bill would amend the 1970 Plant Variety Protection Act and extend patent laws to cover tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, celery, carrots and okra. Those holding the patents could control which varieties were grown and, critics charge, thousands of varieties could be banned.

Nine years ago, when the act was adopted, major soup companies and other food processors successfully urged that those six crops be exempted. They contract with vegetable growers for specific amounts of specific varieties.

Sponsors of the amendments, led by Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, say the exclusions put the United States out of step with European countries, which have been tightening their plant patent laws since the early 1960s.

The Agriculture Department supports the proposal, saying it will permit U.S. participation in an international organization coordinating such laws.

The National Sharecroppers Fund and other opponents of the measure are calling for greater discussion and a USDA study of the European experience.

In Europe, a system of "legal" and "illegal" plant varieties is being phased in to reduce a confusion in the seed business and scientific classifications. The confusion stems, in part, from the botanical fact that no two plants are exactly alike, so greater variety means greater confusion.

Under that system, illegal varieties cannot be sold by commercial seed companies. A cross-pollinating vegetable cannot be grown near a commercial farm, even by a backyard gardener. Fines range up to $800 in Great Britain.

With more than 2,100 varieties due to be banned June 30, 1980, three-quarters of Europe's vegetable varieties may be extinct in a decade, the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization has estimated.

An article in the current issue of "ruralamerica," a publication of a non-profit lobbying group of the same name, says the existing plant patent laws "make seed companies attractive targets for takeover by large corporations."

Patent-holders profit from the use of the seed and limits on other varieties, and only large companies can afford the research staffs needed to develop new varieties for patent rights, it says.

A subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee conducted hearings in mid-July on the bill, but Senate hearings have yet to be scheduled. It is the sort of measure typically considered quickly in the closing weeks of a congressional session.

House ag panel finishing work on major bill on agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is back in session with energy legislation dominating its list of unfinished business. The House Agriculture Committee plans to play its part by trying again to finish a major gasohol bill.

Before the August recess, the panel had difficulty drawing enough members to meetings to legally "mark up" the measure.

Progress on the bill has been slow, even though for two years the standing joke in committee offices has been: "If you want something adopted, stick 'gasohol' on it somewhere."

In hopes of attracting more support for this alternative fuel, the new Congressional Alcohol Fuels Caucus is hosting a seminar Monday on Brazil's program of developing gasohol and increasing its use.

Both the gasohol bill and the caucus are primarily the creatures of Rep. Berkeley Bedell, D-Iowa.

He pushes the blend of 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol partly as an energy-saver and partly as a way to replace federal programs to bolster farmers' incomes. Those programs sometimes are criticized by urban legislators.

The administration apparently warmed up to the gasohol bill enough this summer for President Carter to endorse the idea behind one section during an appearance last month in Iowa.

But there has been no indication Carter and Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland have changed their minds on two key points — whether new legislation is necessary and whether the basic farm programs should be changed.

The answer has long been "no" on both counts.

The administration says it has all the authority it needs to guarantee loans to construct and operate gasohol plants, both large distilleries and one-farm operations where the mash byproducts can be fed directly to livestock.

The Senate, indeed, voted to earmark a portion of the Agriculture Department's permanent loan authority to underwrite gasohol, but has positions are known to be concerned about the whole loan guarantee approach.

They say industry should respond to the existing incentives of the marketplace and the tax code before government pushes the product any further.

They note privately that gasohol-makers already enjoy an enormous excise tax advantage over oil refiners, gallon for gallon. Moreover, distilleries don't need more corn, they say.

The Energy Department found this summer that the amount of available raw material for alcohol production exceeds the distillery capacity 10 times over — not counting surplus grain or other crops, much less fresh crops.

The Energy Department is more optimistic about gasohol's potential than USDA, some government officials say. The administration position is one of "strong support" for the fuel as the only alternative likely to be widely available before 1985.

Agriculture

not moved on the new legislation.

When Carter backed the loan guarantees, the White House announced a special program to make them without seeking a new law.

The Bedell bill, and a companion in the Senate, would provide $600 million in loan guarantees for constructing and operating gasohol plants.

But it would also prohibit price-boosting acreage controls on grain. Instead of set-asides, farmers would sell at least 10 percent of their corn, for example, to USDA at a guaranteed $2.50 a bushel. USDA in turn would sell it to distilleries.

Opponents don't want USDA as an energy middleman, fear a tightening of food and feed supplies if gasohol is guaranteed that much of the crop each year, and worry about environmental damage from the full-production principle of Bedell's approach.

The weekly bulletin of the Congressional Environmental Study Conference said Tuesday that no major changes are expected in the bill during committee deliberations, which start Thursday.

But some senior Republicans who have not publicly declared their

Red meat imports up

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the first six months of this year, U.S. firms imported 17 percent more red meat and red-meat products, but paid almost 57 percent more for the imports than during the same period in 1978, the Agriculture Department says.

The total value of livestock and meat imports rose 46 percent to $1.9 billion during the first half of 1979, it said.

At the same time, U.S. exports of livestock, meat and meat products climbed to $1.7 billion, up 37 percent despite sharp declines in pork shipments to Canada and marked declines in livestock exports.

Almost one-third of the export value came from sales of hides and skins, still the No. 1 earner of export dollars in this line of trade.

'Job rights' due workers displaced by mechanization

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Farm workers should have "job property rights" to shield them against unemployment caused by mechanization, a rural study group contends.

The concept of "job property rights" envisions "the right to a livelihood as well as substantial unemployment benefits and training," says a report from the Davis-based California Institute for Rural Studies.

"Employers should be required to bear a substantial portion of the costs of benefits which accrue to their employees," adds the 233-page report prepared under a U.S. Labor Department grant.

The report concludes that increased mechanization has decreased the number of jobs available on farms.

"Harvest mechanization has eliminated tens of thousands of hand harvest jobs in California since 1950 while creating a much smaller number of machine harvest jobs," the report claims. "Harvest mechanization has resulted in severe unemployment in localized labor markets."

That conclusion was disputed by Clark Biggs, a California Farm Bureau Federation spokesman. State job figures show farm employment increased by 6,500 between 1968 and 1978 and totaled more than 218,000 people last year, he said.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Beverly Hills, land of the beautiful people, has a new exercise salon — one that will sweat pounds off the pudgy and pour dollars into Tom Hayden's political causes.

Hayden's wife, actress Jane Fonda, opened Workout on Tuesday and said she plans to visit it often.

Some of the business profits will go toward Hayden's Campaign for Economic Democracy, a grass roots political organization. But, said Ms. Fonda: "It's my business."

NEW YORK (AP) — Defector Alexander Godunov — whose wife spent three days trying to convince U.S. officials she was returning to Moscow of her own free will — says he has told Soviet authorities he is staying behind "by free choice."

Godunov, a former leading dancer with the Bolshoi Ballet, released a statement Wednesday after meeting with Soviet officials at their request to tell them why he defected. He said he told them his decision was "based on my desire for greater artistic possibilities."

It was not known whether the dancer and Soviet officials discussed his ballerina wife, Ludmilla Vlasova, who returned to the Soviet Union after Godunov's defection Aug. 23. Her plane was held at Kennedy International Airport for three days until she could assure U.S. officials she wanted to leave.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Carter's mother is being sent into the battle of the unannounced presidential candidates — and Democrats here say that's a brilliant decision.

Lillian Carter, 81, will share a podium Sunday with California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and Dudley Dudley, leader of the state campaign to prod Sen. Edward Kennedy into the 1980 race. Neither Brown nor Kennedy is an announced candidate.

"It could have been the first anti-Carter bloodbath of the season," said Raymond Buckley, an executive member of the state party. But he says the presence of Mrs. Carter will change that.

"New Hampshire Democrats have too much class to insult Carter with Miss Lillian there," he said Wednesday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Actor Ed Asner will help the Ohio Commission on Aging correct a goof in their timing.

Asner, who stars in the "Lou Grant" television series, will remake some public service advertisements that announced a Sept. 1 deadline for poor, elderly and disabled persons to sign up for a state program subsidizing winter heating costs. The program was not approved before the Legislature recessed in July and it is expected to pass the Senate later this month.

"Mr. Grant is extremely sympathetic," Martin A. Janis, commission director, said Wednesday, adding the actor will work free and his production staff will charge only about $8,000. The original production costs were $32,000, he added.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — A Dutch court has ruled it has the right to decide if Viktor Korchnoi may replay the deciding game of last year's world chess championship — a game he says he lost because he was incapacitated by hypnosis.

The preliminary ruling came Wednesday in a suit filed by Korchnoi, a Soviet exile, three days after his 1978 match with Soviet world champion Anatoly Karpov. Korchnoi said he had been deliberately upset by a Soviet psychologist who incapacitated him by use of hypnosis.

Court officials said the case would continue next month. Korchnoi filed suit in Amsterdam because International Chess Federation rules state legal action against the organization or one of its members must be brought in the country of the current federation president.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Happy Rockefeller has been named to a seat on the council overseeing the billion-dollar office complex started by her late husband Nelson Rockefeller.

Gov. Hugh Carey's office announced the appointment today.

Mrs. Rockefeller will serve in an unsalaried position on the Nelson A. Rockefeller Empire State Plaza Council. The council is to help set policies for the operation of the office complex, which includes a convention center, an outdoor skating rink, shops, and an underground concourse featuring works of art.

The complex, begun by the former vice president when he was governor of New York, was named for Rockefeller last year after it was completed.

'Show will go on' as film workers reach contract pact

By DENISE M. HOLT

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The show must go on — and will — now that a tentative three-year contract agreement has been reached with 24,000 behind-the-camera film technicians, whose threatened strike could have shut down the motion picture and television industry.

"It's less than our first proposals, but far more than they first offered," said Mac St. John, spokesman for the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees. "We're very pleased with it."

St. John said the pact agreed to late Wednesday included an 85-cent-an-hour pay increase for the first year, a 90-cent increase the second year and $1 an hour the third. Also, he added, the Motion Picture and Television Producers Association agreed to add 19 cents an hour more into the pension fund in the first year, 6 cents the second year and 5 cents the third.

The pension agreement is a supplemental plan to the one already in existence, St. John said, which means that by the beginning of the third year of the contract the pension benefits will double what they are now.

"They (also) agreed to a dental and eye care plan starting in the first year in the contract to not only cover the people working now, but also the retirees," St. John said.

The contract will be put before the union membership through mailed ballot within the next week, St. John said, adding that he had no doubt the pact would be ratified.

"We will send it out with a recommendation to accept," he said. "There is no reason to assume that the membership will not accept. We think they will."

St. John said the alliance had been negotiating the contract, which expired July 31, with the producers since March. A total of 30 alliance locals and six smaller related unions were involved in the talks.

Union leaders went into the contract negotiations armed with an 89 percent strike authorization vote from the rank and file to back their demands. If the strike had materialized, it would have been the first industry-wide walkout since 1946.

Alliance represents virtually all film crew members, from camera and sound technicians to drivers, engineers, carpenters, electricians, publicists, make-up and costume artists and film editors. A strike would have stopped production on all motion pictures and filmed television shows at a traditionally busy period.

Union members now earn an average $10.13 an hour.

Will Curb curb Brown's travels?

By BOB EGELKO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s freedom to leave California to campaign for president was at stake today as his dispute with Lt. Gov. Mike Curb goes before the state Supreme Court.

If the court accepts Republican Curb's argument that he has full powers of governor during Brown's absence, it could put a rein on the Democratic governor's travels at the outset of his campaign to unseat President Carter.

Brown and Curb, the first pair in this century to be elected to their offices from different parties in California, proclaimed a "spirit of cooperation" last November. But they have squabbled for months about Curb's powers as acting governor.

During previous absences by Brown, Curb appointed an appeals court justice and issued two executive orders, actions that Brown contends were invalid. Curb has indicated that he might appoint some "law-and-order" judges and sign or veto bills during future trips by Brown.

The governor has cut short a scheduled campaign trip to New England that begins this Saturday — apparently at least in part for fear that Curb would sign a grower-backed farm labor bill in his absence, although Brown's aides deny any such fear.

Chief Justice Rose Bird, a Brown appointee, disqualified herself from the case.

The court agreed to hear two suits on the issue, one filed by Brown, the other by the Commission on the Governorship, an obscure agency that had not yet met since formation in 1966.

That also was the year that voters last revised the state Constitution, leaving virtually intact the provision that has sparked the controversy.

Originally adopted in slightly different form in 1849, the provision says the lieutenant governor "shall act as governor during the absence or other temporary disability of the governor."

Curb says that means that when the governor is out of the state, the lieutenant governor becomes acting governor, with full power to make appointments, issue executive orders and sign or veto bills.

"It's my hope that the interpretation that we've had for the last 130 years will prevail, that we will not have any new limitation on what the lieutenant governor can do," Curb said Wednesday.

Brown has a different interpretation. He says modern communications and transportation give "absence" a different meaning than it had in 1849, and that as long as he can be reached by telephone, Curb becomes acting governor only in an emergency.

The lieutenant governor, like the vice president, "stands and waits," Brown said in June. "He has a few modest duties and he ought to attend to them instead of pretending to be the governor."

Legally, the governor's position is that the Constitution equates "absence" with "temporary disability." Such disability can be declared only by the state Supreme Court, Brown contends.

Teachers striking in 16 states

By The Associated Press

School officials struggled to hold classes today and some strikers faced judges' return-to-work orders as walkouts by more than 32,000 teachers spread to 16 states, including Alaska.

More than 700,000 pupils nationwide enjoyed an extended vacation or showed up for classes taught by administrators, non-strikers or substitutes, some paid as much as $100 a day.

One school in Daly City, Calif., a suburb of San Francisco, closed after only nine minutes Wednesday when more than 350 teachers struck the 6,600-pupil Jefferson Union High School District.

"It looks like we have a very effective strike," said Tom Fitzpatrick of the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481.

Pickets went up around the 52 public schools in the Anchorage, Alaska, area Wednesday after rejection of an offer that would bring the average salary for the 1,900 teachers to $26,979 this year. The teachers wanted a boost to $27,944.

No further negotiations are planned and classes for the district's 38,000 pupils were conducted by substitutes and volunteer teachers.

A New Jersey Superior Court judge issued an order Wednesday barring the 1,700-member Paterson Education Association from continuing its strike affecting about 26,500 pupils. Union officials did not say if they would obey the order.

In Rutland, Vt., a judge Wednesday night ordered an end to the week-long walkout by 240 teachers in Vermont's second largest city. Teachers had no comment on the ruling, but School Board Chairman Dorothy Plue said she hoped the order would speed up settlement of the dispute over salary increases.

The Oklahoma Supreme Court refused Wednesday to tamper with a lower court order barring the Oklahoma City school board from negotiating with striking teachers. But it did order a speedy hearing on more arguments in the case, which could clear the way for the school board to ask for an injunction to get some 800 teachers back to work.

Other strikes were reported Wednesday in Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Washington.

Strikes also spread to the university level Wednesday.

St. Louis symphony rejects offer from striking musicians

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An offer by striking musicians to perform without pay at a benefit pops concert was rejected Wednesday by the management of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Management canceled the first two weeks of concerts — including a scheduled "birthday celebration" concert which was to have launched the orchestra's 100th season Saturday — after the 102 musicians rejected the latest contract offer Tuesday and established picket lines.

The benefit concert scheduled for Sept. 14 was to have been performed under the direction of guest conductor Henry Mancini.

The musicians, members of Local 2-197 of the American Federation of Musicians, are demanding a reduction in rehearsal time for certain concerts. Other issues in the strike involve seniority recognition, pension benefits and dental insurance.

Judge rules for mining

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says a fear that nuclear power plants might otherwise be shut down influenced his decision to permit continued uranium mining in an area that supplies much of the nation's atomic fuel.

U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene ruled Wednesday that current uranium mining and planning for future projects may continue in northwestern New Mexico and parts of Colorado and Utah.

"The possibility that a significant portion of the nation's atomic power plants may be shut down for lack of fuel" is in the decision, Greene said.

Congress advised to move cautiously with synthetics

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, back at work after a month's vacation, is being advised to move cautiously in developing a synthetic fuels industry, a key part of President Carter's proposed energy program.

"A thoughtful, half-million-barrel-a-day program" at the end of seven or eight years would be superior to a crash program that "probably wouldn't create all that much more," said Bruce A. Pasternack, a spokesman for one of three private consulting firms hired by Congress for a hurry-up study on the proposal.

All three firms offered the go-slow recommendation Wednesday to a Senate Budget Committee task force studying the economic implications of a multibillion-dollar synthetic fuels program such as the one the president is advocating.

Carter wants a program capable of producing the equivalent of about 2 million barrels of oil a day from coal and oil shale by 1990.

The task force arranged to hear from administration officials and a Congressional Budget Office expert today in one of several energy-related committee meetings on Congress' schedule.

At the same time, the Senate Finance Committee decided to resume work on the "windfall profits" tax that Carter has proposed to pay for his costly program to reduce U.S. dependence on oil imports.

The tax is aimed at taking away some of the billions of dollars of extra revenues that will flow to oil producers as a result of Carter's decision to gradually phase out federal price controls on crude oil produced in the United States. The decontrol will allow U.S. oil prices to rise sharply.

No quick decisions on the tax were expected, however, since the committee is to debate the proposal until the end of the month.

The House-passed tax, when combined with higher income taxes on the oil industry because of higher prices, would produce an estimated $150 billion in revenues from 1980 through 1990. Carter wants to spend most of that for developing exotic fuels, improving mass transit and helping low-income Americans pay for heating their homes.

The House Commerce Committee, meanwhile, hoped to complete work on a bill to set up an Energy Mobilization Board with a mandate to cut red tape for special, high-priority energy projects. The proposal has the backing of the White House.

The key controversy in the proposal is whether the board should have authority to waive environmental and other laws to assist development of the projects.

At hearings Wednesday, meanwhile, the Energy Department's No. 2 man gave Congress and consumers an assessment of the home heating oil situation for the coming winter.

John O'Leary, scheduled to leave as deputy energy secretary later this month, told two House subcommittees that homeowners who heat with oil will be able to get all the fuel they need, but at a price at least 50 percent higher than a year ago.

"There may be many people in our country who will be faced this winter with a cruel choice between food and heat," he said.

O'Leary said the average price of home heating oil nationally has risen to 80 cents a gallon, a 27-cent increase over the December price.

On the other hand, he said, the oil industry is building stocks faster than a year ago and will be able to meet Carter's goal of having a 240 million barrel supply by October.

On another subject, O'Leary and other officials denied that the sale of 2 million barrels of kerosene and diesel fuel to Iran would noticeably affect American supplies or that the transactions constituted "blackmail."

At the synthetic fuels hearing, Pasternack, a vice president of the consulting firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton, said Congress should be prepared to offer tax and other financial incentives to help a synthetic fuels industry develop into maturity.

The House already has passed a synthetic fuels bill, and the Senate Energy Committee is at work on its own version.

A second consultant, William Stitt of ICF Inc., told the subcommittee that

Lea County leads Basin areas in new oil, gas operations

Lea County, N.M., gained 12 field projects and two wildcat tests to lead all Permian Basin areas last week in new oil and gas operations.

Operators staked 119 field projects and 29 wildcat tests in the West Texas and southeast New Mexico area for a week's total of 148 projects.

The New Mexico portion of the Basin accounted for 24 of the projects. Chaves County reported seven field operations, while three were spotted in Eddy County.

Reagan County, in District 7-C of the Railroad Commission of Texas, led the West Texas areas in new location with nine, all in proven field areas.

District 8, headquartered in Midland, processed 43 applications requesting permission to drill. Pecos County gained four wildcats. Other areas in the district to get wildcats were Reeves, 2, and Ector, Howard, Hudspeth, Martin, Sterling and Ward one each.

Twenty-nine tests, including three wildcats, were spotted in District 8-A. The wildcats were spotted in Dawson, King, Motley and Terry counties.

RINGING THE BELL

Mormon couple wins battle on adoption

With BOB TIEUEL

We shall overcome: Earl and Jane Jones, a white Mormon couple who took on New Mexico bureaucrats and won a dramatic legal fight to adopt a half-white, half-black baby boy, say love and faith will overcome any problems that the child may face in the future.

"My plan is to teach Jonathan to be a man and live his life according to God's word. This in itself will help him overcome any problems," Jones told Starla Searfoss, a reporter for the Hobbs Daily News Sun.

The Joneses said they knew Jonathan Brooks Jones, now nearly two years old, was going to have a life filled with complications. However, what some "may label complications, we don't really consider complications," he added. June marked the first anniversary of the precedent-setting court case when the Joneses won the right to adopt Jonathan. The family has two other children, Aaron, 13, and Leesa, 9, who also is adopted.

Jonathan's life with the Joneses began when he was four days old. A social worker from the Human Services Department in Hobbs called to ask the couple if they wanted to be foster parents to a "mixed blood baby." The Joneses asked to be allowed to adopt Jonathan after he had been in their home for a week. At first the state seemed to agree with the adoption.

Then one day, when Jones, the owner of a prosperous oil supply firm, was out of town on business, Mrs. Jones got a call telling her a Hobbs caseworker would be at her home to take Jonathan to a black foster home. Asked the reason, the caseworker told Mrs. Jones: "I will not put a black child in a Mormon home." The Joneses then took the agency to court, charging religious and racial discrimination.

"I didn't think I would ever get our 4-month-old child back. My heart was so heavy and full of despair. I couldn't eat; I couldn't sleep. I didn't know which way to turn," Mrs. Jones said. The entire family prayed.

On June 17, 1978, the Human Services Department announced in District Court that it had decided the adoption was in the best interest of the child, and today the family is well. Mrs. Jones told a bellringer recently.

TO MRS. C.G. of Lubbock: Thanks for your kind letter. We like to receive letters like yours. During the thirty-year period, we have lived in New Mexico-West Texas we have pastored churches located many miles from home. Perhaps the farthest away was located in Rusk, Texas, which was nearly six hundred miles from home, but believe it or not, we made the trip twice every month. And we didn't fly. We have often pastored churches located two hundred miles or more from home, but when you love people and a cause, distances don't mean much. Write again and may good health be yours again is our prayer.

FROM Interstate Commerce Commission (Washington, D.C.): "Dear Bob: To obtain a reduced fare one must first determine the one-way or round trip fare, including any general increases on file to those fares and the fuel adjustment surcharge authorized by this commission and then take charge."

AIM activists seeking Canadian refugee status

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — American Indian Movement activists have applied for refugee status in Canada after being told they were ineligible for political asylum.

John Trudell, a leader of the Indian movement, said Tuesday the group hoped Canadians would accept the Indian activists as they accepted Vietnam war resisters.

The United States is not among the countries whose citizens are eligible for political asylum in Canada, said immigration official Walter Jennings. He said, however, that anyone can apply for refugee status.

"They have to comply with U.N. (refugee) requirements, which include fear of persecution or fear for liberty if they return home," he said.

Canadian immigration officials refused to discuss the case, but one said, "It is hard to believe there is political discrimination in the U.S."
