Interest conflict charged

Angelo asked to quit GOP post

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

A State Republican committeman in Plainview has asked Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. to resign one of Angelo's two political positions because of what the committeeman has termed a "conflict of interests" on the mayor's part.

And that issue may arise Saturday at the state's Republican Committee meeting in Dallas

Angelo represents Texas on the Republican National Committee. He also is state chairman for the Ronald Reagan for President campaign.

John E. Kirchhoff, who is serving his first term on the state GOP committee, said today he talked to Angelo Sept. 4, and then mailed him a letter this week, outlining the reasons for his request.

In his letter, Kirchhoff commended Angelo for his work as a national committeeman. "... You are doing a good job and working hard for the Republican Party of Texas as our National Committeeman. The Reagan Campaign would be hard-pressed to find a more sincere, qualified and dedicated Texas Chairman than Ernest Angelo."

Kirchhoff added that by holding both positions he feels Angelo is being unfair to the Republican Party of Texas, the presidential candidates (two of whom are from Texas - John Connally and George H.W. Bush), through a period of growth, Kirchhoff their supporters and Angelo himself.

In no way, Kirchhoff said, is he questioning Angelo's credibility, integrity or character.

The Plainview resident, who said he long has been active in the Republican Party, wrote in his two-page letter that he has pledged to remain neutral in the 1980 presidential prima-

"I did this because I felt it was my responsibility and in the best interest of the party, to establish an atmosphere of party unity and insure fairness in my district," Kirchhoff

He then charged Angelo with having the responsibility for establishing an air of unity and to insure fairness in the state's GOP.

"I have no doubts that you will make every effort to remain fair, objective and avoid conflict of interest," Kirchhoff wrote to Angelo. "But I do not see how anyone can unbiasly serve the party as a whole while also trying to serve a specific segment of that whole.'

The Plainview Republican acknowledged Angelo's work to attain his positions, "but if you and I as 'party leaders' are not willing to make personal sacrifices to preserve and exemplify the principals of fairness and party unity, then I think we have failed as leaders," he wrote. Since the Republican Party is going said in the letter, he feels it is essential the party try to avoid situations which are potentially unfair and which would be conducive to party fragmentation.

"As long as you hold both positions, I feel there will be questioning and doubt," his letter concluded.

When the state Republican Committee meets Saturday in Dallas. Kirchhoff said, there may be a movement to introduce a resolution asking Angelo to resign one of his posts.

"I've had a few telephone calls about the letter (which he mailed to various Republicans around the state) and they were all positive (about a resolution)," he said. "I was trying to see how much support I

Angelo today said he disagreed with Kirchhoff's contention that his holding the positions represents a conflict of interests.

There has been precedence already in Texas and nationally "for people doing this same thing. I think he's (Kirchhoff) being a little naive," Angelo said.

The mayor said half the members of the state GOP committee are committed to various presidential candidates. And State Sen. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth has a leadership

Defense and prosecution ready for summations

By MIKE SLATON and BILL MODISETT Staff Writers

Counsels for the defense and prosecution rested their cases today in the trial of Raymond Wesley Mathis on a charge of murder.

Mathis, 20, of Midland is being tried in connection with the July 18 shooting death of U.S. Army Sgt. J.B.

District Judge Vann Culp this morning recessed the trial until 9 a.m. Friday, at which time both sides are to present summations.

In testimony given today, Mathis' father, Leslie Sterling Mathis, told the court the his son had come to his home about 5:50 a.m. July 18 and asked for help to get out of town.

Mathis said his son told him he was in trouble.

The elder Mathis told the court he refused the request for aid.

BOBBY A. BROTHERS, co-owner of a local wrecking yard, said Mathis and Midlander Kelly Joe Chamblis, 17, also charged with murder in the case and now awaiting trial, arrived at his home about 3 or 4 a.m. on July 18. They wanted some .22-caliber bullets to go rabbit hunting, he told the Brothers said he told them he didn't have any bullets and that Mathis and Chamblis left.

Brothers testified Chamblis came back to his house about 10:30 p.m.

Chamblis told him he was waiting for some money someone was going to deliver, Brothers said.

Brothers said he asked Chamblis if he knew anything about the shoot-

According to Brothers, Chamblis replied, "I know all about it. I'm actually the one that did the shooting."

Asked by District Attorney Vern Martin if Chamblis had sounded proud of the shooting, Brothers answered "ves

Chamblis remained at Brother's home, while Brothers went to Midland County Sheriff's office and returned with a deputy, Brothers said. The wrecking yard owner testified he had told Chamblis he was going to get Chamblis some help Chamblis was arrested on July 19.

DON WALLIS, WHO today testified he was living with Brothers at the time, later supported Brothers' account of events.

A state firearms examiner testified Wednesday that he couldn't positively confirm bullet fragments found at the scene of the shooting as having come from a weapon reportedly found in Mathis' vehicle.

Calvin S. Storey Jr., a firearms examiner for the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Austin, testified he couldn't determine if bullet fragments discovered in the van driven by Sgt. England and those extracted from the sergeant's body came from a .22-caliber lever-action rifle found, according to earlier testimony, in a car driven by Mathis when he was arrested near Monahans on July 18.

One of four fragments found, however, was from a .22-caliber weapon, Storey testified. He said he couldn't determine the caliber of three other fragments.

Testimony earlier in the trial indicated that officers found a .22-caliber lever-action rifle in Mathis' car when he was arrested July 18 in Ward

Storey testified, however, that he believed a shell casing found in the car did come from the weapon in question

That identification was made, he said, by "striations" left on the shell

Criticism of SEDCO continues to pile up

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Criticism of SEDCO's role in the Mexican oil spill is piling up in the absence of the company's founder, Gov. Bill Clements.

President Harry Hubbard of the Texas AFL-CIO said Wednesday the labor organization plans to join others in a private lawsuit against SEDCO Inc., the Dallas-based international oil drilling company, and Pemex, the Mexican national oil monopoly Rep. Bennie Bock, chairman of the House Committee on Environmental Affairs, urged Attorney General Mark White to block SEDCO's attempts to limit liability for the huge spill, which started June 3 when a well blew out in the Bay of Campeche. Pemex operated the well with a rig leased from SEDCO.

Clements is in Eastern Europe on an agricultural and goodwill mission. He is scheduled to return Sept. 22. His son, Gill, runs the company. On Tuesday, U.S. District Judge Robert O'Conor signed an order protecting SEDCO temporarily against liability for damages. O'Conor set Oct. 23 as the deadline for the filing of all damage claims in federal court.

SEDCO lawyers had asked the judge to exonerate the company of all liability or to limit its liability to $300,000.

"Until now," White said, "we have accepted in good faith their statements regarding the sinking of their drilling equipment, but the filing of this suit raises strong suspicions that their prior acts were merely an attempt to

White said previously SEDCO would be treated like any other party in assessing possible liability for damages. Bock, D-New Braunfels, said the SEDCO suit "appears to be precipitous" since his committee "has heard testimony that the effects of the spill may not be known for several years."

As a concerned parent of two small children who attend Rusk Elementary School, I would like to know why radar is not enforced around Lee High School?

Rusk is the only elementary school located within a block of driving-age

For the past three years, I have put up with cars in this area turning corners on two wheels, exceeding the speed limit in the school area and running stop signs. I realize I must put up with a certain amount of things living near a high school, such as trash in my yard, broken beer bottles, etc. But the time has come (long overdue) to do something about the speeding in this

I must defend the large number of fine young people who attend Lee High that do abide by the city laws. But it will only take one of those who do the speeding to take the life of a young child in the area. I strongly urge the Police Department to look into this better this year

Venezuelan firm announces oil strike beneath Caribbean

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - Maraven, one of Venezuela's four state oil companies, announced today it has struck oil 9,100 feet beneath the Caribbean off the northeast coast. The well yielded 1,000 barrels a day of light crude, the type Venezuela is seeking in an offshore exploration program initiated last October. Maraven said more test wells will be necessary to determine the size of the deposit. In June, Corpoven, another subsidiary of the state monopoly, Petroleos de Venezuela, struck a promising well 8,000 feet beneath the Caribbean 15 miles off the northwest coast and is drilling more wells to determine if the area contains marketable quantities of light crude, prized by the United States, a key Venezuelan customer.

Petroleos officials believe Venezuela's continental shelf could hold up to 12 billion barrels of light oil, which draws top prices on world markets because of a high yield of gasoline in refinement.

Energy Minister Humberto Calderon Berti said Wednesday that Venezuela will not press for new price increases when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meets here in December.

Striking teachers arrested

By The Associated Press

Eleven leaders of striking Anchorage teachers were in jail today as judges in Alaska and elsewhere began cracking down on walkouts that have affected more than 885,700 pupils nationwide

In Woodbridge, N.J., township police arrested picketing teachers Wednesday near four of the district's 28 schools for violating terms of a back-to-work order.

The Detroit Board of Education heads back to court today to try to get an order sending 12,000 striking teachers back to work in Michigan's largest district.

In Indianapolis, Circuit Court Judge Frank Huse Jr. ordered about 1,150 strikers back to work today and told the board to find enough money in the budget for a 7 percent pay raise. for the teachers.

"I don't mean to be a mediator," Huse said, "but we're going back to school.

Some 380 teachers in three suburban Chicago high schools rejected a proposed three-year contract Wednesday and struck, bringing to 44,240 the total number of teachers walking picket lines in 14 states.

Leaders of the Anchorage Education Association were waiting quietly at their 33rd Avenue office when Alaska State Troopers arrived to arrest them Wednesday morning on bench warrants issued by Superior Court Judge Victor Carlson.

They walked single file into two police vans.

AEA president Betty Briggs had said earlier she was willing to "go to jail if that's what it takes to get a fair settlement.' Carlson issued an order Monday halting the strike. He said the 11 teachers will remain in jail until they order some 1,400 striking teachers back to the classroom. The 21 arrested Woodbridge teachers were released on their own recognizance after arraignment before Superior Court Judge David D. Furman, who set a Sept. 25 hearing date. Dottie Gutenkauf, spokesman for the teachers, said talks broke off about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday. "Management left after essentially they stonewalled all night," she said. The union wants a 10 percent increase in wages and improved benefits for the 1,000 teachers in the district. Elsewhere in New Jersey, more than 500 faculty members at Fairleigh Dickinson University approved a three-year contract Wednesday night, ending their week-old strike.

But talks are at an impasse between striking teachers and officials at the University of Rhode Island.

role in John Connally's bid for the presidency, Angelo added. Kirchhoff said today he was unaware of Mrs. Andujar's role, and if she is involved, then he will ask her to resign a post also. Mrs. Andujar is a member of the State GOP committee. A resolution would be applicable to all GOP state committee members, he said. If such a resolution does pass the 62-member state committee, Angelo said it would only be an advisory measure and not a demand for him to resign a post. Angelo said his term as a national committeeman ends in 1980, and that a new person will be elected by the state group at its June meeting. That person will take over during the national convention in July, he said.

Kirchhoff said he believes all state committee members should be neutral on the presidential campaign. In asking Angelo to resign a post, he said he is starting at the top and hoping the idea will filter down to the lower levels of the party.

EARLIER WEDNESDAY, a statement said to have been given by Mathis to deputies on the night he was arrested was read to the jury by Assistant District Attorney Charles Seltzer, prosecutor in the case.

According to that statement, Mathis said that on the morning of July 18 he and Chamblis were driving around and that Chamblis shot Sgt. England.

Mathis' statement indicated that the two were driving on Interstate 20 when "Kelly shot this man. Mathis's statement said they drove on, but that Chamblis told him to return to the scene where the man had been shot. When they returned, the statement claimed, Chamblis shot England again.

The defense, led by attorney Rusty Wall, attacked the statement on the basis of misspellings it contained.

Earlier testimony has indicated that England, 39, was shot about 4:30 a.m. July 18 some 10 miles east of Midland and died shortly before 6 a.m. the same day in Midland Memorial Hospital.

Testimony in the Mathis trial began Monday following selection of an eight-man, four-woman jury.

Nelson was charged with beating his mother, Dorothy, with a bat, breaking a window pane and throwing her from the 12th-floor window at the Sheraton-Oak Brook Hotel in July 1978.

Police said they found a bloody bat on a hotel stairwell and the hotel room decorated with streamers and snacks, as if a party had been

Frederic's development like Eloise's in 1975

MIAMI (AP) - Hurricane Frederic's transformation from a weakling storm into one of the most severe hurricanes to hit the Gulf Coast this century should not surprise longtime

In 1975, another sleeper - Eloise limped into the Gulf at barely tropical storm strength. Twenty-four hours from land, Eloise blossomed into a major hurricane before slamming ashore over Destin in the Florida

Frederic was a puny tropical depression five days ago, its 35 mph vinds barely more than asstiff

"It still has the potential to gain some strength once it gets back over water." forecaster Paul Hebert at the National Hurricane Center observed as Frederic left Cuba. Frederic, like Eloise, was a No. 3 or 'extensive" hurricane on the hurricane center's 1-5 scale. Barometric pressure at the eye rated Frederic as slightly stronger than Eloise

Another measure of strength is the height of a broad dome of water called a storm surge. Eloise's surge was estimated at 12 feet, flooding streets along a 40-mile stretch of coast. Frederic's predicted surge was

In Fort Walton Beach, Eloise uprooted mobile homes, ripped off a store roof and part of the roof of an ocean-front motel. Three hurricanespawned tornadoes compounded the damage. National Guard troops were called in to prevent looting.

When the winds died, Eloise ranked fifth for total damage among U.S. hurricanes this century with $550 million, according to a hurricane center

Despite Frederic's power, it couldn't compare with Camille, one of only two No. 5, or catastrophic, hurricanes to hit the United States this century. Camille claimed 256 lives in ranks as the second-costliest U.S. hurricane this century with a staggering $1.4 billion damage total. The other No. 5 hurricane was a 1935 Labor Day storm that slammed into

Rain was bullets of water propelled by 90 mph wind

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - The rain hit so hard it stung a man's hand - bullets of water shooting through the open sides of the National Guard

Through Hurricane Frederic's 96 mph gusts, the two Guardsmen drove carefully as they patrolled the dark, deserted streets of Pensacola

Wednesday night Street lights flickered. Traffic signals jitterbugged on their cables: Transformers popped and power lines snapped and sizzled overhead. Through the howl of the wind came an aimless jangle. All over town, burglar alarms were being set off by collapsing windows. The jeep crunched over shattered glass, piles of branches and bits of roofing. Stately oaks slumped to the pavement. Hunched against the chill, the Guardsmen watched constantly for falling trees and power lines. At one stop, Sgt. Robert Drake and Lt. Frank Harmon climbed out. Their jackets tore open and their helmets blew off. Both men sprinted 50 feet down a street to catch them.

"I've never seen anything like this," Drake muttered, cinching his chin strap tight.

He braked at nearly every intersection to check for live power lines More often, floodwaters provided a reason to detour.

At one intersection a police car materialized in the gloom. "How's it going,?" Harmon shouted to the lone officer.

'Weather's great," the policeman yelled back. He was soaked. The wind wrapped around buildings, peeling off tape applied to protect windows. Tin warehouse doors flapped, then tore off and broke apart. Screen doors snapped loose from houses. Billboards shattered into formless piles of debris.

Gallons of water sloshed through leaks in the jeep's canvas roof and its

Blue-green flashes lighted the night as more transformers blew. Harmon peered out, squinting at the raging darkness. He shook his head. "It makes you feel," he said, "like a little bitty boy."

'Energy Future'

duced a new book, "Energy Fu-sees the potential in extra conserture," which undoubtedly will have a significant impact on the continuing debate over the energy crisis.

The leading school of business in the nation provided the resources for an authoritative and independent study of the energy problem. The study is pragmatic and objective, not influenced by regionalism, partisanship, selfish interest or ideological prejudice. It is free of any obligation to any history of past mistakes or conventional ideas. It therefore is of singular value.

Some of the findings are not surprising. The energy crisis exists. It is real. It is not a conspiracy. And it won't go away.

Some of the findings are more unconventional.

The energy problem is stated as a choice. "The nation has only two major alternatives for the rest of the century — to import more oil or to accelerate the development of conservation and solar en-

The report says it is clear that domestic oil, gas, coal and nuclear power cannot deliver vastly increased supplies. All of them are needed but none of them will meet the need. The major contributions of new energy must come, according to the authors of the report, from conservation and

The approach is practical, not theological. The authors state:

"We do not side with those romanticists who have a vision of the national life decentralized to the point where it becomes a postindustrial pastoral society. Still we do not subscribe to the views of the other set of even more powerful romanticists - industrial romanticists, who believe that it is possible to return to an era of unlimited production and that production alone can be the nation's salvation.

It is probably realistic to accept the report's judgment that by the

We will be doing well simply to maintan our present domestic production of 10 million barrels of oil a day and the equivalent of 9 million in natural gas. Our reserves are the most thoroughly explored in the world and they are not infinite.

- Environmental and other restraints are likely to keep coal from growing much more than the equivalent of 4 or 5 million barrels of oil a day.

If we want the nation's economy to grow without increasing the

The American people, seemingly, keep hoping for a magic solution. But there is probably no such instant technological fix, no matter how much of our tax money is poured into the attempt to find one.

What is more likely to be needed is more difficult to achieve persistent and widespread efforts by our entire society to reduce energy waste in all its forms and to increase in small individual ways our efficiency in the use of available energy, especially solar.

So, there you have the high points of "Energy Future." There is no doubt that the book will have a tremendous impact on the continuing debate over the oil crisis. Criticism undoubtedly will come from all sides, in one form or an-

Allegations cause inspection of welding for nuke project

Welding in two piping systems for a steam generator at Comanche Peak, 40 miles southwest of Fort Worth, will be inspected by Texas Utilities Generating Co. and Brown and Root Inc., general contractor for the nuclear project, following allegations that a spot check program of welds in the piping system was not being conducted properly.

A documentation clerk responsible for random radiographic inspections on welding in the plant said last April that the company's program could not adequately determine actual welder performance.

The clerk is no longer employed by Brown and Root Inc.

None of the piping systems to be inspected would carry radioactive material, according to information released Wednesday by Texas Electric Service Co., one of three utilities involved in construction on the Comanche Peak project.

Under certain conditions, however, the piping systems "are nearly as essential to reactor safety" as other piping systems inside the reactor, according to a Nuclear Regulatory Commission report on the problem.

Rape Crisis Center gets favorable review

By RICHARD MASON Staff Writer

An arson task force for the city of Big Spring received unfavorable comment Wednesday while a proposed rape crisis center for Midland County received favorable review during the regular meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Board members voted unanimously to grant unfavorable comment on the Big Spring arson task force after learning that the Criminal Justice Advisory Committee had also given the project an unfavorable review. According to the project proposal, the city was requesting $81,363 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice to establish an arson investigative task force in Big Spring.

Two investigators and a secretary would be hired under the proposal, one of whom would be on call 24

According to a synopsis of the grant application, the city experienced 450 fires last year and officials theorize that 10 percent were arson-related.

Nonetheless, unfavorable comment was granted because salaries for the arson investigators were considered "extreme," matching the salary of a police captain for what was termed

'sergeant's work.' Furthermore, the task force would duplicate services currently provided through existing agencies, according to the Criminal Justice Advisory Committee.

Meanwhile, a rape crisis center for the Midland area took one more step towards reality Wednesday when the planning commission voted unanimously to grant favorable comment to a request for $39,500 in funds from the Criminal Justice Division of the governor's office.

The money would be used to organize and operate the program for one

Goal of the program is to increase the prosecution rate for sex offenders through increased reporting to police and provide educational programs to the public on rape awareness. through trial." According to the proposal's synopsis, women from several Midland area organizations have offered to staff the program on a volunteer

Ms. Machost said rapes increased from nine to 24 in the city of Midland between 1977 and 1978, and jumped from four to six during the same time period in the county.

She said Midland-Odessa was the only large urban area in the state without a rape counseling center.

Applicants for the director's position are being reviewed, she said.

The center hopes to establish an emergency phone number to help victims within six months after funding is approved.

In other action, the planning commission:

- Granted favorable comment to a proposal from the city of Odessa for developing low income family housing units.

- Granted favorable comment to a proposal from West Texas Opportunities Inc. for funding a Head Start Program and continuing funding for administration and general community programing.

Granted favorable comment to the city of Big Spring for a request to continue funding a major crime task force in the police department, Midland County District Attorney's Office received favorable comment on requests for $22,204 for an information records system that would help them expedite filing petitions and law suits.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) - The most powerful earthquake in two years plunged half an Indonesian town into the sea, officials reported, and heavy casualties were feared.

The quake also rocked Biak, an island of 76,000 people about 70 miles north of Ansus saw the peaks of buildings sway.

"The quake scared the hell out of everybody and almost everybody ran out in panic," said Joe Murray of Freeport Indonesia, a subsidiary of Freeport Minerals Co. of New York, which is mining copper in the area.

Program offered on food quality

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department proposed today a voluntary quality control program aimed at giving consumers further assurance their frozen pizzas, canned meatballs and chicken soup live up to federal safety and labeling stan-

All meat and poultry for the consumer market now must meet federal or state inspection standards at the time of slaughter. The proposal would apply only to plants that process meat and poultry into soups, frozen dinners, hotdogs and similar items.

. While the latest proposal is voluntary, Congress may eventually be asked to authorize a mandatory program for meat and poultry processors, said a department official.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said the new program would provide "more effective and efficient use of inspectors" and "also is in line with the president's program to improve the regulatory process," including federal meat and poultry inspection.

"We're not changing the (federal) standards," she said. "We're changing the way we look at them, the way we check to make sure the standards are being met.

Companies that come under the voluntary program would maintain records on the condition of raw materials used in their products, including temperature and time information.

Federal inspectors then would have access to all information gathered by a company in operating its own quality control program.

Ms. Foreman said a pilot project involving about 15 large and small processors will get underway "fairly soon" to test the new program.

If the general proposal is adopted, she said, about 50 plants are expected to be in the new program within a

Ms. Foreman said the proposal would help streamline the entire inspection system and enable the Agriculture Department to improve monitoring of meat and poultry for chemical residues, inspection of imported products and closer inspection of 'problem' plants.

Under the program, she said, "all we would ask (companies) to do is to show us their quality control system is reliable in demonstrating there is not more than 30 percent fat in a hotdog, for example.

"Most of the quality control systems of the big companies already do that," the agricultural official said. "They have their own reasons. ... For example, if you have soup being made and the recipe that the company is using calls for 2 percent chicken in the soup, it's economically important to them to make certain they're not getting 4 percent chicken in the

Bergland will visit West Texas next week

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Bob S. Bergland will have a chance to inspect West Texas crops severely damaged by a summer hail storm while on a three-day visit to the state next week.

Bergland is scheduled to land in Lubbock on Wednesday night after arriving in Dallas earlier in the day. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, said Thursday there will be time for a crop inspection the morning of Sept.

The agriculture secretary's first stop in Texas will be Dallas on Wednesday. Bergland is also planning to visit Abilene, Stephenville and Waco before leaving Texas on Sept. 21. Hance, of Lubbock, has asked Agriculture Department officials to consider reducing Farmers Home Administration loans by 20 percent for farmers who suffered damage to 70 percent or more of their crops when a devastating hail storm struck Aug. 24.

Nine counties have been declared disaster areas as a result of the storm, with estimates of crop damage exceeding $200 million.

James Morgan, an aide for Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, said Bergland is scheduled to arrive in Abilene on Sept. 20.

Record harvest may have trouble getting to market

WASHINGTON (AP) — This fall's corn harvest, at about 7.27 billion bushels, will set another record but could run into trouble getting to market if port and railroad stoppages continue much longer, says the Agriculture Department.

Thrifty Finns turn Russian presence into economic asset

AP Newsfeatures Writer

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - A visitor driving along Finland's super-highways, flanked by endless forestland and breathtaking glimpses of crystal-clear lakes, views a rugged land where the air is crisp, the streets clean and the people friendly.

Heading eastward, however, the tourist soon becomes aware of mov-ing into the shadow of the Soviet Union — a fact the Russians never let their small neighbor forget.

The Russian presence is particularly evident in Helsinki, the spotless capital that juts out into the Gulf of Finland. Recently, two dull, gray Soviet warships rode at anchor in the harbor and a huge Russian freighter

with many Americans at the tables.

"This is something we have to live with and we might as well make the most of it," said a Finnish hotel manager who features some Russian specialties on his menu. "After all, Finland was once a Russian Grand Duchy and we have retained some old Russian customs and still cook dishes with a Russian background."

There have been other fringe benefits. Because of its unique location between two worlds, Finland has been the scene of some major East-West conferences. They include the opening of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks in 1970 and the Conference on Security and Cooperation attended by the heads of the United States and

Soviet Union governments in 1975. The Finns proudly recall how their forces, although far outnumbered, showed a proficiency in winter warfare that surprised the Red giant when the Soviets invaded the republic in 1939. The Finns were forced to cede territory, some later recovered. In 1948 Finland signed a treaty of mutual assistance with the U.S.S.R. A broad street running through Helsinki is named after Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, who commanded Finnish forces in 1939-40 and became a national hero.

There is regular traffic between the Soviet Union and Finland over officially decreed routes, but no one casually strolls across the frontier. This can be attested to by inhabitants of Finland's frontier village of Koitsanlanti, who see from their windows the Soviet and Finnish watchtowers

Education panel sets its priorities

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-Basic curriculum, student motivation and discipline, teacher training, and the federal government's impact on public education in Texas are the topics the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education considers most urgently in need of investigation. The committee has voted to set those topics as priorities for investigation by that group. Subcommittees will be appointed to consider each topic and will begin work in October. said committee chairman Dr. Willis M. Tate, former president of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. The priorities were approved on recommendations of the group's

The issue of student discipline rated as the number one concern of the public in a recent Gallup poll, Tate

"But we feel it goes farther than just discipline," he added, stating that motivation, cooperation in the home and getting students to like school are parts of the same ques-

Similarly, teacher training has also been a topic of great discussion, Tate said. He said there is some truth, although he is not sure how much, in recent charges that teachers are being poorly educated and trained.

Curriculum also has been a publicized topic recently with calls for a "back to basics" approach.

Tate said the study of this issue, however, will "emphasize curricu-lum, not basics." The subcommitte investigating this question will look at the general curriculum, how it is presented and student performance,

The federal government has a tremendous impact on public education and was chosen as the fourth priority topic because of the vast influence of federal funding, court decisions and Department of Health, Education and

Tate described these four issues as "more urgent, not more important" than other problems facing public education in Texas.

Other issues likely to be discussed in the future by the committee include equal opportunity, the role of the teacher, and student testing, Tate A public hearing, the first to be held by this committee, has been scheduled to consider these and any other topic the public feels important to public education.

That hearing will be held in Fort Worth Sept. 26 and more hearings

Chrysler 'could make it'

DETROIT (AP) - The struggling Chrysler Corp., about to double its quarterly loss to a national record of more than $400 million, "conceivably" could make it on its own without help from the federal government, says a top Chrysler executive.

It would require some recovery in the slumping auto market and increased help from states and cities where the No. 3 automaker has plants, President Lee A. Iacocca said Wednesday during a news conference to introduce the 1980 models.

"We might have to drop a product program or two. It's conceivable we could muddle through. But it's not the right plan," Iacocca

Such a strategy also means the company's cars might not meet economy, pollution or safety regulations, he

Chrysler has asked for $1 billion in cash credits against future taxes, but Iacocca said its needs might reach $1.2 billion. He said he could not be more precise.

Iacocca repeated the company's case that it deserved help because of the burden of government regulations.

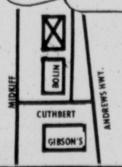

"The feds bailed us in; they can help bail us he said.

Grand, diverse beauty of Big Bend Country 'takes away your heart'

BIG BEND - There's something grandiose about the mountains, the valleys, the sunrises and sunsets, warm days and cool nights, and the bountiful wildlife and wildflowers that prompts you to "remember your kinship with the earth and all its creatures....

You take care to leave unmarred the preserved wilderness of Big Bend Country, and yet you take it away in your heart.

with

Ed Todd

The big country is not Utopia. But for the weekend traveler, it is a haven from the world of concrete, glass, noise, pollution, asphalt, machines and people.

Some people drive down here to 'rough it" in their mobile condomin-

Others camp out under tent or under the blue heavens or get "put up" in a motel room or cabin in or on the outskirts of Big Bend National Park or the Davis Mountains.

Regardless, there are so many nooks and crankies, peaks and dales, and contrasting uplifts and faults that the inquisitive Big Bend traveler could not exhaust new experiences in a thousand visits.

And even visiting the familiar places are refreshing. Using Midland as your base, you can reach into the core of Big Bend

National Park in a 250-mile drive. The Davis Mountains range, via Alpine or Pecos, is only a 180-mile

Big Bend is a friendly chunk out of the earth's dip-and-fall surface and is a world apart from the rolling prairie land of much of West Texas or the tree-crowded deep East Texas.

It is roamed by the mountain lion, deer, javelina, bobcat, coyote, badger, jackrabbit and a thousand and one creeping, crawling and boring creatures, from mites to wild donkeys and is flown over from tiny gnats to swift swifts and gentle butterflies to high soaring eagles and eagle-eyed turkey buzzards.

The world of flora is just as contrasting. The rangers who roam the park are friendly, just like the folks living on the outskirts and in the quaint little towns and villages - Presidio, Marfa, Fort Davis, Marathon, Alpine, Study Butte, Terlinqua, Lajitas, Candelaria - within a 100-mile radius of Big Bend.

"When in doubt, ask a ranger. He will gladly assist you at any time," promises a sign of good intent.

The land, the elements and those beings who roam it, though, can be perceived as "hostile" if you reflect that disposition or if you make an unprepared path through the land. But more often, this wondrous land offers respite from the civilized other world. And the place name of mountains, valleys, creeks and desert flatlands can be almost as intriguing as the sites and senses themselves: Dog Canyon, Dagger Mountain, Dugout Wells, Santa Elena Canyon, Marisal Mountain, Hot Springs, Casa Grande, Tuff Canyon, Boquillas Canyon, Mule

Ear Peaks and Rattlesnake Mountain. It's a place where a return on the hundredth visit should never be a

UAW, GM report 'more progress' 48 hours before strike deadline

DETROIT (AP) - United Auto more paid time off. Workers and General Motors Corp. negotiators were making "continuing progress," although there were "no essential changes" in either side's position less than 48 hours before a strike deadline against the nation's No. 1 automaker, a UAW spokesman

The union submitted a revised proposal over the weekend which appeared to drop its demand to tie pensions to the wages of active workers.

But any pension agreement will have to incorporate periodic in-creases over the life of a new contract, the union has said.

GM has proposed an increase of 23 percent in regular pensions for work ers retiring three years from now.

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — Joan Kennedy, who has lived apart from her husband Sen. Edward Kennedy for two years, says the idea of being first lady doesn't scare her.

'You don't really know until you actually do something. But the thought of the White House doesn't frighten me, " she said in an interview in Wednesday's editions of the Quincy Patriot Ledger.

"After all, I've been in the political world for years. In 1958, when I was 21 and engaged to Ted, I ran around campaigning for Jack, (the late President John Kennedy) who was running for re-election to the Senate. I've been at it for a long time.'

Her husband said this week he has not ruled out the possibility of running for the Democratic presidential nomination. Nineteen states have organized "Draft Kennedy" movements.

Since they separated, Mrs. Kennedy, 42, has been living in Boston and attendir g college. Her husband has remained in Washington.

NEW YORK (AP) - "Saturday Night Live" is losing two of its liveliest cut-ups - Dan Aykroyd and John Belushi - according to a spokesman for the NBC-TV series. Spokesman George Hoover said Wednesday the two comedians would not be with the show when it begins its fifth season Oct. 13. Belushi and Aykroyd are appearing in Steven Spielberg's upcoming film, "1941," due for release around Christmas. They also have been working on the "Blues Brothers" movie in Chicago, a follow-up to an album they made.

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) - Actor Jan-Michael Vincent has pleaded innocent in Municipal Court to a charge of home marijuana cultivation. The 34-year-old actor is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing before Oct. 11. He was released Wednesday on his own recognizance.

The entertainer surrendered here on an arrest warrant charging him with allegedly having a greenhouse filled with the illegal plants, said sheriff's spokesman Jim Plantis.

Plantis added that after serving Vincent with a search warrant, deputies found 41 marijuana plants ranging in height from 4 to 12 feet growing in a greenhouse behind the actor's home.

Vincent has starred in such movies as "White Line Fever," released in 1975 and "Bite the Bullet," a 1974 release.

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Pope John Paul II met briefly and blessed Ricky Schroder, the 8-year-old American child actor of the film "The Champ.

Wednesday's encounter occurred in St. Peter's square as the pope approached the platform from which he later addressed a crowd of 30,000 in his weekly public audience.

Ricky was introduced by a priest. John Paul smiled, said a few words to the youngster and blessed him.

NEW YORK (AP) - Grey Gardens, the 26-room mansion owned by Edith Beale, a cousin of Jacqueline Onassis, has been sold to Ben Bradlee, executive editor of the Washington Post.

In 1971, Suffolk County health officials tried to evict Miss Beale and her mother, Edith, from the East Hampton, N.Y., mansion when they found 25 cats had the run of the house, which had fallen into disrepair. Mrs. Onassis and her half-sister, Lee Radziwill, paid $32,000 for repairs and the women were allowed to remain. In February, the house was reported to be on the market for $500,000. Miss Beale said Wednesday, "My brother told me if I dropped the price to $225,000 I would sell it before winter, and that's what happened.'

ROME (AP) - Actor Rod Steiger has signed to play Italy's Fascist dictator Benito Mussolini for the second time in his career. The 52-year-old actor will appear in American producer-director Moustapha Akkad's $25 million epic "Omar Mukhtar." He will play Mussolini during the height of his power when he invaded Libya and ran into Bedouin resistance led by Mukhtar, played by Anthony Quinn.

Five years ago, the actor played in the Italian production "Mussolini, the Last Act" that depicted his final days before being killed by Italian

MidTran, an intra-city transportation system, should be in operation early in 1980 and should fare well despite some Midlanders' doubts to the contrary, MidTran director Joyce Fisher told the Downtown Midland Lions Club Wednesday in The Mid-

"It's going to be real nice. We're going to have convenient service, competent, efficient drivers and door-to-door service," said Ms. Fisher, MidTran's director for 11/2 months now: Formerly, she was a planning assistant with the Texas State Department of Highways and Public Transportation in Austin. MidTran, in the planning stages for more than two years, is to receive its complement of five 20-passenger and two 12-passenger buses later this year

The system, to be in operation initially from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. weekdays, will not follow a fixed route, but will pick up Midlanders who call into the dispatcher's office.

'It would be difficult for a fixed route, fixed scheduled (system) to compete with the automobile' in Midland, said Ms. Fisher.

'The income level in Midland is relatively high." Cost of the service per passenger will be 75 cents for a one-way trip, but will be reduced to 35 cents for the elderly and handicapped, she said. Those using the system to commute to work would get discounted rates. Ms. Fisher told members of the club.

DALLAS (AP) - Jerome Fisher, the deaf-mute who is now free of any criminal charges in connection with the strangulation of a South Dallas prostitute, plans to continue his sign language classes at the Deaf Action Center in Dallas.

A Dallas County grand jury, investigating the death of the 19-year-old woman, took no action Wednesday against Fisher - ending the ordeal for the deaf-mute arraigned Aug. 1 for her murder. Fisher was arrested in connection with the death of Dorothy Armstrong on July 14, but officials were

Prime rate raised to record 13 percent

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's third-largest bank, reacting to the government's tightmoney policy, raised its base interest rate for loans to top corporate borrowers to a record 13 percent effective today.

Chase Manhattan Bank, which only last Friday raised its prime rate by half a percentage point to 123/4 percent, announced Wednesday it was raising its prime by another quarter-point today.

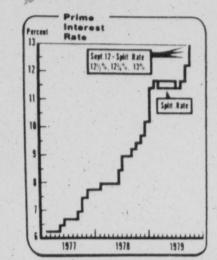

Analysts said other major American banks, whose prime rates vary from 121/2 percent to 1234 percent, are expected to follow suit.

The prime rate is the base interest rate for short-term, unsecured loans to banks' most credit-worthy corporate borrowers. While the prime is not directly connected to interest rates on consumer loans and mortgages, it is considered an indicator of trends in interest rates generally.

At the beginning of 1978, the prime rate was 7% percent.

The 13 percent prime rate, "reflects the intensifying financial squeeze" and the rising costs banks have incurred in acquiring funds, said David Jones, analyst at Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. "It's a 50-50 bet whether there will be more increases in the prime," he added.

"Eventually, some rates that consumers pay will be affected." Jones said. Types of loans that have statutory limits on interest rates may become hard to get where limits are already being bumped, he added.

"This is not the peak in the prime," said Lawrence Kudlow, analyst at Bear Stearns. "There is no sign now of a scarcity of credit. Credit is available and plentiful," he added. Helping to push the prime higher is the "substantial demand for credit from businesses and government policies raising interest rates" on funds banks borrow, Kudlow said. He estimated that continued strong demand for credit could provoke the government to tighten credit further, leading to another halfpoint increase in the prime.

The Federal Reserve Board, which sets and implements the nation's monetary policy, has been driving up interest rates within the Federal Reserve System in order to increase the cost of funds that member banks borrow to do business.

Carter feeling push by Kennedy

President 'a little feistier' since Kennedy statement

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democratic National Chairman John C. White, after a day of watching Jimmy Carter meet the voters, thinks the president has become "a little feistier" since Sen. Edward M. Kennedy began inching closer to a run for the White

White's assessment that he saw new fire in Carter's approach to the electorate came after "non-political" appearances by the president Wednesday in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio.

The presidential feistiness apparently was sparked by Kennedy's statement that he has "not foreclosed the possibility of running" for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

After Wednesday's foray, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said Carter would prefer to wait until January to announce his campaign plans, but might be prompted to come forward sooner because of Kennedy's actions.

SPECULATION ABOUT a Kennedy candidacy has been rampant since the Massachusetts Democrat said last week that his family had no objections to his entering the race.

White said a Carter-Kennedy fight for the Democratic nomination would be "one of the classic struggles of our political history." And former President Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday that "if the Massachusetts boys go against the Georgia boys, it will be the battle of the century." Carter's home state is Georgia.

As for Kennedy, White told a group of reporters aboard Air Force One on the flight back to Washington: "It seems to me he has moved from being an unannounced candidate with an option to announce to an announced candidate with an option to with-

"I feel confident about the future."

The party chairman, who has been aligned politically with Carter as the incumbent president, loyally added that "anyone who thinks the president is going to play dead is mistaken." Carter himself seemed a bit uncertain how to deal with Kennedy's statement Tuesday that he may seek the nomination.

ASKED BY A citizen along an airport fence in Hartford, Conn., if he thought he could beat Kennedy, Carter responded, "I feel confident about the future.

Landing in Pittsburgh before driving through West Virginia's panhandle to a "town hall meeting" in Steubenville, Ohio, Carter was less responsive when a television reporter asked if, indeed, he thought he could "Nice day, isn't it?" Carter re-

"You don't want to talk about it, sir?" the reporter inquired. "How'd you ever guess that?" the president asked.

Meanwhile, a new ABC News survey of state Democratic chairmen found a sharp erosion of support for the president among the party's leadership. The network said Wednesday its survey found 18 state chairmen planning to back Carter, down from 31 in a previous poll. Kennedy's support rose from 4 to 19.

THE SURVEY ALSO showed that two-thirds of the state chairmen think Kennedy will seek the nomination.

Rosalynn Carter, opening the Carter-Mondale re-election headquarters Wednesday in Manchester, N.H., called for Democrats to unite behind her husband

"This country's serious problems are not of his making," she said. "Inflation, for instance, is not of his making. It has been with us for 10 years. Kennedy said earlier this week that his decision on whether to challenge the president will be based in part on Carter's handling of the nation's economic problems. Carter appeared before a potentially hostile audience in Connecticut and a mostly friendly crowd in Ohio during his Wednesday outing.

IN HARTFORD, HE addressed two groups of retired citizens - the American Association of Retired People and the National Retired Teachers Association - who are wedded to Kennedy's national health insurance program. The first question put to Carter was why does he stand by his national health insurance program rather than opting for the more generous legislation proposed by Kennedy.

Carter responded that his bill has won support from traditional opponents of federal health insurance and that the major difference between his bill and Kennedy's "is that mine will pass" the Congress.

In Steubenville, where polluting, high-sulfur coal is used as the main fuel for steel and other plants in the area, Carter had to tread a fine line between solving energy problems and protecting the environment.

He said he envisions a tripling of coal use in the United States by 1995, with coal industry receipts totaling $75 billion in the interim.

He was asked repeatedly about Environmental Protection Agency rules that restrict the production and use of

Landrieu nomination confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Moon Landrieu's unanimous confirmation as secretary of housing and urban development completes installation of President Carter's "second-generation" Cabinet members.

Still awaiting Senate confirmation, however, is Neil Goldschmidt, who took office as secretary of transportation during the August congressional recess under Carter's "recess appointment"

There was little preamble before the Senate vote Wednesday on Landrieu's appointment to the post formerly held by Patricia Roberts Harris now secretary of health. education and welfare.

Landrieu, 49, is a for mer president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and served as mayor of New Orleans for eight years before his second term expired last year. He was barred by law from seeking re-elec-

At Landrieu's confirmation hearing last week, senators raised questions of potential conflict of interest in connection with two real estate projects in which Landrieu has been involved since stepping down as mayor. Those projects involve applications for Department of Housing and Urban Development grants.

Landrieu promised to sell his interest in the projects in New Orleans and Key West, Fla. The tall, white-haired lawyer, once a Louisiana state legislator, noted that decision could cost him millions in future profits. He said he took the $66,000-a-year HUD post over the possible financial gain because 'I'm a political animal.

Pack likes to travel by air for Troopers

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

EL PASO --- Coach Dennie Hays' Midland Bulldogs hit the airways in more ways than one on Friday.

The Purple Pack will fly to this Border City to take on the El Paso Eastwood Troopers, 12-7 losers to El Paso Austin last week and the Tall City outfit just may also take to the airways on the arm of junior quarterback Michael Feldt.

Feldt led Midland to an impressive 26-0 victory over Amarillo Tascosa last weekend in Midland.

'We are injury-free which is a lot better than this time last year when we already had some crippling injuries, " said Hays. The only player that has suffered any major injury to date was Blake Hightower who had knee surgery two weeks ago.

Eastwood Coach Todd Ware, who has taken over the reigns of the Troopers this season after several years as an assistant, wasn't too happy over last week's loss to Austin. "We just plain blew our opener," said Ware. "We are awfully young, esecially on defense with seven underclassmen playing there and out middle linebacker, although a good one, is only a sophomore.

Austin scored twice in the final period to win after the Troopers had taken a 7-0 lead in the second period on hakfback Montez Love's four-yard TD

Ware also points out that his team lost the services of starting fullback Rudy Polos who suffered a knee injury during the loss to Austin. "Poros isn't very big, but he was our leading grounder gainer last week. Ware has inserted Louis Colorado, a 165-pound senior into Poros' slot in the Multiple offensiver attack for Friday night.

Kickoff is set for 8:30 p.m

(CDT) with Radio Station KCRS doing the play-by-play of the non-district battle.

Hays will start the same lineup as last week with Feldt being joined by Jeff Robnett at fullback; Billy Applin at tailback and his son, Russell, at the wingback slot. Pat Hickey and Bill Young, who caught a TD pass from Feldt last week, will be at the ends with the tackles being Richard Barton and David Vinson, a pair of juniors. At the guard slots will be Paul Cox and Gary Willis with Steve Mills over the ball at center.

On defense for the Pack, it will be Young and Cox at the ends; tackles Wade Johnson and Royce Cottrell. The middle guard will be Jerry Dedrick, another junior while the linebackers will be Rick Ankerholtz and Carl Holcomb, a sophomore. At the cornerback positions will be Hickey and Hays with juniors Jerry Zachery and Marj Hewitt at the safety slots.

Alex Pereira will start at quarterback for the Blue-clad Troopers with Colorado at fullback; Love and Prentice Green at the halfbacks. The ends will include Monte Dailey and Lance Snodgrass with Ed Estrada and Lester Smythe at the tackle slots. The guards will be Robert Hernandez and Tom Cliett and John Rosson at center.

McCamey, Reagan promise plenty of offensive fireworks

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

Most of the telltale signs are there — a constant grin from ear to ear, a euphoric gleam in the eyes, the tendency to jump around every now and

Yes, first-year McCamey coach Larry Nabors looks like he just heard from Dean Witter. It wasn't good news from his stock broker, however, that had Nabors dancing a merry jig. Rather, it was the Badgers' impressive 21-8 season-opening victory over Menard last Friday. But that's now history and District 6-A McCamey is thinking about their the District 9-A Reagan County Owls, a 15-8 winner over Ozona in their season debut. All of it goes down Friday night at 8 in McCamey in a nonconference tilt of area teams that promises to be an offensive extravaganza. And speaking of offenses, McCamey rolled up 440 yards of acreage against Menard, nearly equally divided between passing and rushing. On the other hand, Reagan County rushed for 256 yards and passed for

Not surprisingly, both coaches are well-versed on the other's team.

'We feel like it's going to be a real tough football game, McCamey's much improved," said second-year Owl boss Melvin Burns Wednesday during a telephone interview. "They were able to pass and run this last week. They're going to put a lot of pressure on us. 'They have excellent speed," continued Burns. "The two Terry boys, they both have the speed to get outside and into the end zone.

"Raul Arana is an excellent quarterback. He's been there four years and he's experienced and knows what it's all about. As a result of having that type of individual at the skill positions, they're a tough football

Said Nabors, "There are three main things that you have to consider. They're a senior football team. They have a fine coach. Melvin and I go back a long ways and we know their team will be well coached. And they can beat you a ton of ways, I mean a ton of ways.'

Nabors seemed particularly impressed with Owl senior quarterback Mickey Tom Owens and fullback Kent Burleson, who carried 19 times for 180 yards against Ozona. "He (Burleson) might be the finest running back that we face all year. He's volatile," said

Over on the Badger side, there's no lack of ability. Flashy junior halfback B. J. Terry carried 16 times for 133 yards and one score against Menard while brother Billy Ray, a most-talented senior, caught three Arana passes for 190 yards, stretching two into touchdowns.

If there are any questions concerning the two teams, they pertain to defense although Nabors was disgruntled that his team scored only three times after seven penetrations within the Menard 20.

McCamey allowed 208 total yards. 139 of which came via the airwaves. Conversely, Ozona nicked Reagan County for 204 yards, 189 on the ground.

According to Nabors, defense will be the key for the Badgers, especially with the Owls utilizing wrinkles here and there to disguise tactics. "We've got to shut off their running attack and hope that our secondary can hold their passing game. And we can't have a lot of mistakes," he said. For the Owls, Burns thought it would take a little more. "We're going to have to control the line of scrimmage on offense and defense and be able to play good pass defense."

One factor in the outcome may be a flu bug that's infested the Owl camp. Burns said four starters missed Monday and Tuesday's workouts, but he anticipates they'll be ready for the

In other area games set for Friday, District 2-AAA Andrews will try for their second straight victory of the young campaign when the District 3-AAA Lamesa Golden Tornadoes invade the Mustang Bowl for an 8 p.m. assignment. The Mustangs, who combine the passing of sophomore Keith Brooks and the running of junior tailback Van Pearcy, are coming off an awesome 40-6 shellacking of Big Spring. Meanwhile, Lamesa is still searching for their first victory, sorely needed after last week's 26-0 loss to

Also on the docket, District 7-AA Crane looks to give first-year coach Mike Patterson his initial victory as the Golden Cranes host Marfa in an 8 p.m. contest. Crane mustered only 66 yards of offense and allowed Denver City 314 yards in a 26-0 blowout last

Elsewhere, District 5-A Stanton, mighty in their 28-14 triumph over Tahoka last week as quarterback Craig Eiland ran and passed with aplomb, hosts Coahoma in an 8 p.m. fray while District 6-A Rankin, reeling from an error-riddled 14-6 upset loss to Eldorado, tries to regroup when they play an 8 p.m. game at

Ex Rebs pumped for All-America recognition

Junior Miller and Brad Wright are candidate such as Mike Ford. being pumped for All-America by their respective collges, which is noteworthy in the Tall City since both are Midland Lee products, but their situations provide an interesting contrast. Playing for Nebraska, the perennial national power, Miller, 6-5, 240, not only has the Cornhuskers trumpeting his bid, but has received preseason recognition as probably the best tight end in college ranks this year, which happens also to be his senior year.

Good health and impressive statistics are prime ingredients in making such dreams become a reality and if Miller escapes injury and has the kind of year every one expects, he is a good bet to make it, especially coming from a college that traditionally is tapped for at least one All-America. The one drawback could be the loss of quarterback Tom Sorely, the superb passer from Big Spring. After all, somebody has got to be able to get the ball to Junior. WRIGHT'S problem is a bit different, so different, in fact, that he can't really seriously think about All-America honors. The University of New Mexico isn't exactly an incubator of All-Americas, so Brad would have to cash in on an almost impossible parlay to make it...no injuries, absolutely sensational statistics and the kind of winning season the Lobos haven't had too many of. And maybe even an injury to a more-heralded

Sullivan triumphs

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Defending champion Mary Beth Sullivan and eight-time former titlist Mary Ann Morrison took convincing victories to lead the advance of eight players into the quarterfinal round of the 58th Texas Women's Amateur Golf Tournament Wednesday.

Mrs. Sullivan defeated Dale Moore. also of Houston, 5-and-4 in Wednesday's second round, while Mrs. Morrison, of Houston, held on to edge Bardie Whitfield of Brenham, 5-and-

As an example of what Brad is up against playing for UNM, last year's 7-5 season was the Lobos' best since 6-3-2 in 1971 and only the fifth above .500 since 1964.

Still, while the All-America prospects of the junior from Midland are dim, he has been what the doctor ordered for the ailing Lobos, although as a freshman Wright didn't cause Coach Bill Mondt's heart to flutter in anticipation. His contributions that year consisted of one pass thrown, for an interception, and one run for a 10-yard loss. His sophomore year was something else. Wright didn't get his chance until the season's second game when he came off the bench to turn a loss to Wichita into a 16-14 win with a winning TD run in the final two minutes, thus regulating veteran quarterback Neal Mazzone to the bench.

From third stringer at the season's start, Brad blossomed into an offensive dynamo. Brad scared the bejeebers out of Texas Tech, despite a 36-23 loss, passing for a UNM singlegame record of 452 yards on 28 completions, a performance that had the Tech coaching staff checking their files to see how this kid got away.

For the year, Brad passed for 1,925 yards, rushing for another 478, scored eight touchdowns and ranked fifth nationally in total offense. And of those returning, only SMU's Mike Ford accounted for more yardage last

It's little wonder Tech's coaching staff can't sit back and relax this week, even though USC is behind them. They are burning the midnight oil devising defenses to keep Brad'sreturn to Texas at Lubbock's Jones: Stadium Saturday night within the bounds of reason.

IN SPARKING the Lobos to wins in their first two games, the first time that has happened since 1966, Wright has given promise of an even bigger year than his soph season.

Against Louisiana Tech, he was a surgical 16-for-22 for 171 yards in a game in which UNM really didn't need to use him too long.

Last week against Oregon State. Wright riddled the favored Beavers with 11 completions in 19 attempts and received unaccustomed running support, 247 yards, in a 35-16 romp. This week is a big one for Brad and the Lobos. They could gain a lot of attention by upsetting the Red Raiders. Regardless, if Brad continues to compile the statistics he began as a sophomore, he could have a pro football career ahead of him.

"If it comes, it comes, but I have another year to go and right now it doesn't seem like much of a possibilty," says the Political science

Unlike All-Americas, performance is more important to pro scouts than tub-thumping and the ivory hunters find the prospects, whether they are at USC or Occidental and Brad may be selling himself a bit short. He not only has the offensive statistics to impress the pros, but his 6-2, 202 statistics are the kind that make the pros look twice...and, they do know about New Mexico. Steve Myer, quarterback for the Lobos before, Brad is with Seattle and back Mike Williams is with Kansas City.

The Montreal Expos are holding onto first place in the National League East ... one-half game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates.

No, you didn't read that wrong. Yes, it's true.

The Pirates have won three more games than the Expos while Montreal has lost two less games than Pittsburgh. But the Expos have a .6043 winning percentage while the Pirates are chugging along at a .6041 clip.

however, isn't worried. 'Fractions of percentage points don't matter to me. All that matters is that we keep winning," Tanner said after Pittsburgh beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 behind the six-hit pitching of John Candelaria and reliever Kent Tekulve Wednesday night.

The Expos also won, 6-3 over the Chicago Cubs. It was Montreal's 16th victory in its last 17 games.

"I'd have to say it's really discouraging for Montreal to play the way they're playing and they can't catch up," said Tanner, ignoring the mathematical fact that the Expos hold a slight edge. Ed Ott and Phil Garner slammed run-scoring singles to pace Pittsburgh over the Cardinals. The Pirates took the lead to stay in the second inning when Bill Madlock walked, stole second and scored on Ott's single to center off losing pitcher Bob Forsch. Then in the fifth, Ott tripled to center and scored on Garner's single to right.

Expos 6, Cubs 3-Veteran Tony Perez drove in two runs with a double to ignite a three-run eighth-inning rally and carry Montreal to its victory over Chicago. Dave Kingman, Larry Biittner and Steve Ontiveros stroked run-scoring singles in the first inning to provide the Cubs with a 3-0 lead. But the Expos bounced back with a run in the third on Larry Parrish's 25th homer of the season and third in as many games. Montreal tied the contest with two runs in the seventh.

Giants 4, Braves 3-Left-hander Vida Blue, whose bunt single helped ignite a two-run third inning, won his 12th game as San Francisco edged Atlanta. Mike Ivie slammed his 24th home run of the season, a solo shot, for the Giants in the fifth inning.

Remember when baseball was '9', football 'll'

By JIM MURRAY

Los Angeles Times Syndicate I don't know about you, but I liked the world better when things were simpler. When songs were about moonlight and roses, not civics. When you knew who the bad guys were when you went to the movies. Or to war. When there weren't 10 men on a baseball team, and 22 men on a foot-

Football is particularly galling. I mean, whatever became of the left halfback? Remember when left halfback was the star position? Fastest runner. The longest kicker, the straightest thrower played this position. George Gipp was a left halfback. So was Red Grange. It was the Galloping Ghost position.

Whatever became of fullbacks? Tackles? Guards? You can't even hold a conversation with a football team nowadays if you allude to those old-fashioned terms. Bring them up in football talk, and they'll look at you strangely and ask, "Where did you put your raccoon coat, bub?" Or all the words to 'Boola Boola.'

Football today is not the simple, straightforward game it used to be. Now it's an occult science. You no longer block and tackle, you defend

The left halfback is now the "remaining back." The right halfback, traditionally the blocking back, is now a "flanker." Ends are "wide receivers," or "slot backs." Or they're "split." They run out of esoteric formations known as the "I" or the "pro set" or "wishbone" "veer." The ever-lovin' Statue of Liberty play would today be called the "weak-side counter." The old naked reverse of our childhood would be called "misdirection" today.

But it is the defense which has become all but unrecognizable. Perhaps you will remember, when we were young, the standard defense of . was the "seven-diamond." This called for seven linemen, the standard number, and four defensive backs arranged roughly like the diathey'll say sweetly, "I'll bet you know mond in a suit of cards. The front linemen wore high-cut shoes and traveled just faster than junk mail. They were football's Maginot Line. It wasn't long before enterprising innovators came up with the "man in motion," usually a 9.8 sprinting halfback who easily dashed around these stationary types for long yardage.

> In the '40s a coach named Walt Kiesling came up with the idea of manning the front line with only five down linemen and stationing two swifter but still sturdy types behind them to go in motion with the flashy halfbacks. The linebacker position

> WHEN quarterbacks adjusted and began to help themselves to passing yardage over the middle vacated by these new roving defenders, Earl (Greasy) Neale, the Eagles' coach, came up with the idea of using only four rushing linemen and positioning an additional linebacker in the middle behind the center. Two smaller, swifter backs were positioned behind them to keep pace with the Olympic- is and where it's going before the ain't a linebacker. speed pass catchers. Two additional speed-burners served as "safety" men. With the advent of free substitution in 1950, football ceased to be an 11-man sport. In fact, it went to 45 men in the pros. Everybody became a specialist. Some teams now rush three men, but the classic pro defense of today is the 4-3-2-2.

The middle linebacker became a star position, too. He was the ace of the fighter squadron, the most visible man in the defensive pattern. He had to be big, but not too big because he had to be fast, aggressive, and, above all, smart. Most offensive thrusts are designed to get the middle linebacker out of the play. He is the quarterback's mortal enemy. He must be in on 75 percent of the tackles. His chief job is to prevent first downs, and therefore, touchdowns. On most teams, he calls the defensive signals, because he's closer to the action than the cornerbacks and safetymen, but not so close he can't spot telltale "keys," i.e., tipoffs on what the play

JOHN SUMNER Reynolds is the archetypal middle linebacker. He talks fast, he walks fast, he thinks fast, he regards an enemy first down as a mortal insult to his manhood, and he orchestrates a Ram defense which looks like a fighter plane scramble off a coastal air base at every snap of the

Don't expect John Sumner Reynolds to discuss great books, or outstanding movies with you. Jack's idea of a great movie is a three-yard loss and the books he reads don't have dialogue, just diagrams. He doesn't take a loss any harder than, say, Hitler did. Some people go home and kick the cat after a hard day at the office. Reynolds sawed an automobile in half when his Tennessee team got whipped by Mississippi, 38-0, once. It took him two days and about 50 hacksaw blades, and earned him the undying nickname of "Hacksaw." He consolidates this by his method of tackling. He goes after a ball carrier with the same demonic energy he went after that '53 Chevrolet. Sometimes, he leaves them almost as disman-

Jack plays the position with the furious abandon of a guy piloting his plane down the smokestack of a Japanese battleship. All the good linebackers do this. Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions pioneered the position, a ubiquitous tackler who, opponents swore, materialized out of thin air wherever the ball was. Ray Nitschke of the Green Bay Packers was such a fury of homicidal energy at the position that he was nicknamed "The Animal." Linebackers hit hard and Linebackers tend to swoop like a hawk into a chicken yard. They're the kind of people who would eat standing up, sleep very lightly, and be very apt to kick open a door if they couldn't find their keys. Linebackers as a breed are impatient.

Their world is a series of 10-yard lines. They even have their own lan-

"Can it be explained very simply, what you do primarily?" Hacksaw was asked. "Sure," he said promptly. "I protect the zero-one hole, weak and strong." And The Hacksaw sat back triumphantly as if he had just explained that two and two makes

Seeing the perplexed look at his interrogator's face, Hacksaw elaborated."You see, we have different fronts,' " he went on. "We have the K.C. and the 'over' and the 'under.' 'K.C.??" his questioner wondered. 'Well, yes," went on Hacksaw. "Unless, of course, we were over-shifted,

"What do you do against the 'shotgun' offense?" inquired the interviewer, who was wishing the interview had subtitles. "Well, we put in the 'nickel,' " Hacksaw said triumphantly. "Sometimes we put in six defensive backs. That's the 'dime.' "

Well, you can see what we're up against in this complex computer world. Ralph Henry Barbour, whose Boys' Life football stories usually started out,"The day of the big game dawned bright and clear," never confused us with any "bubbles," 'macks,' or even middle linebackers, front fours, "overs" or "unders." All we did in those days was thrash the bullies, beat Harvard fast and if it's ever standing still, it and sing "Boola Boola.

Pete Rose drops hint he'd like to manage

Pete Rose might consider managing the Phillies if the job is offered. "I'd be interested in talking to them about it," Rose told the New York Post. "I think I could do it. I think I would be good at it." The Phillies fired Manager Danny Ozark earlier this month and are finishing the season with Dallas Green, the club's farm director, acting as interim manager. "I think maybe I could manage because I understand players, Superstars with natural talent isually have trouble managing. I think I know what it takes to make the most of your abili-

Bill Ryan, a counselor at Rolling Hills, Calif. High School, had just shooed away the reporters and photographers waiting to welcome Tracy Austin back to school for the start of her junior year. "This is the only place where she can still be 16," Ryan said. "And she is 16 in every regard - except on the tennis court. She giggles like a teenager, talks about things that interest teenagers. This is the only place where she isn't surrounded by adults." This year, Tracy is taking four classes - 20th Century Literature, U.S. History, English Composition and a class called Work Experience which, in her case, means tennis.

Sadaharu Oh hit the first pinch-hit home run of his career and 26th this season Wednesday to lead the Yomiuri Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Hanshin Tigers in Japanese baseball. In another game, Bobby Mitchell hit his 22nd home run and drove in threee runs as the Nippon Ham Fighters trounced the Lotte Orions 9-2... Americans Joan Benoit and Patti Lyons have been invited to participate in the first Tokyo international women's marathon Nov. 18. Benoit, a Bowdoin College senior from Brunswick, Maine, won the women's division of the Boston Marathon earlier this year in a meet record time of 2 hours, 35 minutes, 15 seconds. Lyons finished second.

Jim Leyland, first-year pilot of the Evansville Triplets, was named the American Association's Manager of the Year. Leyland led the Triplets to the Eastern Division title and a playoff series victory over Oklahoma City.

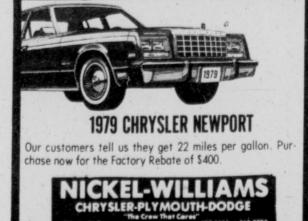

All-Pro kicker Garo Yepremian, who has been discussing a contract with the New Orleans Saints, says he's a 35-year-old man with a 24year-old body. "Football is a funny business, this 35-year-old man led the nation last year, made all-Pro, kicked 16 field goals in a row, 19 out of 23. I've lost no distance on my field goals and very little distance on my kickoffs. So I feel this young, 35-year-old man can go on kicking for a few more years.

BATTING - Carl Yastrzemski; Red Sos, became the 15th player in major league baseball history to collect 3,000 hits in a career when he singled in the Red Sox '9.2 victory over the New York Yankees. First American League player ever to reach 3,000 hits and 400 home runs, Yastrzemski hit the coveted level with a base hit in the eighth inning — PITCHING — Mike Caldwell, Brewers, hurled a two hitter to lead Milwaukee to a 7-0 decision over the Oakland A's. Caldwell retired 17 batters in a row in one stretch.

New season, but same Giants, Jets By HAL BOCK

We are barely out of August, just past Labor Day. The first leaves of autumn have yet to fall and already, the professional football season in New York might just as well be Between them, the Jets and Giants have played four games and the next victory either one of them gets will be the first. They are depressing. Down and out teams sell hope. The Jets and Giants sell memories.

AP Sports Writer

People jam Giants Stadium because it's a great place to watch football and because the home team once had players named Conerly and Gifford, Grier and Huff. Now, 20 years later, management is still cashing in on the excitement those players produced.

The fans come early for the tailgate parties and stay late for the postgame parties. The day is rudely interrupted by the game that invariably includes the spectre of a poor soul named Joe Pisarcik being slammed to the ground time after time by large and angry opposing players.

Pisarcik has been sacked 14 times disguised as New York's safeties and in two games. Bob Pollard of the St. Louis Cardinals, who turned him into a yo-yo four times last Sunday, vaguely recalled hearing the Giant quarterback groan. It might, however, have been the crowd.

There was solace for Giant fans. though, because up in New England, the inspired Jets held the Patriots to 56 points while scoring three of their own. The gamblers who took New York and 54 points came out win-

THE JETS spent the exhibition season trying to decide who would be their quarterback, Richard Todd or Matt Robinson. Neither will be mistaken for Joe Namath, on whose Super Bowl memory the Jet fans still revel. The training camp-long competition did little more than create confusion in the offensive unit that hardly needed that commodity.

The Jets might better have spent the preseason wondering who would be in their secondary. Passers' eyes light up when they see the imposters cornerbacks.

Losing 56-3 the way the Jets did last know it.

did last Sunday is embarassing and anyway.

they know it, too. The question now is: What do the coaches do about it?

Ray Perkins, the freshman coach of the Giants, challenged his club after Sunday's loss to the Cardinals. He said the players were not willing to pay the price necessary to win and that he would weed out the losers.

But who's to blame? Is it the players, caught in a revolving-door roster, or a management that picks up other clubs' rejects on waivers and puts them in the starting lineup three days after they get to town? That's what happened to Gus Cop-pens and Tom Neville — both rushed into a patchwork offensive line that has allowed Pisarcik to be turned into a punching bag for aggressive defend-

PERHAPS the ultimate commentary on the Giants' sad situation came when Neville committed two separate Sunday is embarassing and they infractions - offsides and holding on the same play, only to have St. Blowing a 14-0 lead to lose 27-14 in Louis reject the penalties because your own building the way the Giants Pisarcik had been savagely sacked

> Coach Walt Michaels' indictment of his Jets was no less severe than the one Perkins laid on the Giants. Michaels questioned the intensity of his team, the dedication. He wondered if New England was that good or the Jets that bad. The answer would seem to be a little of both.

The Jets have allowed 81 points this season. No NFL defense has a poorer record. In their opener, they let Cleveland off the hook, permitting a longgain pass with time running out and then obligingly adding a roughingthe-passer penalty to put the Browns in range for the tying field goal.

That kind of football shows a lack of concentration.

Right now, New York is lacking really professional football.

Kush criticized for tough ways

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) - Arizona State football Coach Frank Kush, accused of having taken his tough ways too far, sees himself as combining toughness with often-unrecognized compassion — for the players' own ultimate good.

For Kush, the nation's second-winningest active head coach in his 22nd year at the ASU helm, toughness is a method of instilling principles.

Criticized in the past for his coach ing methods, Kush, 50, was accused recently by a former player of mentally and physically harassing him so that he would guit the team. million damage claim against the state, also charged that Kush had punched him in the mouth during a game last season. Kush denied the accusation, and last week the state Board of Regents rejected the charge. However, there's a possibility that Rutledge will file a lawsuit.

Kush admits to being tough when it comes to mental mistakes, although he adds, "I probably have a lot more compassion for them (the players) than they ever recognize.'

One of 15 children of a Windber, Kevin Rutledge, who had filed a $1.1 Pa., coal miner, Kush says toughness has been his whole life.

> "I've played this way," he stated. "I came from that type of environment. It is a difficult type of environment to survive in unless you maintain some principles. Fortunately, I got them from my parents." Kush hopes his players have the same success he's had - and that they also are willing to make the same sacrifices.

"I went to Catholic schools and if you did something wrong, the teacher would rap you with a pointer," he recalled. "Whether that's right or wrong, I don't know. But it got my attention.

Kush likes attention-getting techniques.

"You see me maybe slapping a kid on his head gear with my hand," he said. "I'll tell you what. You've got to be a dummy ... because your hand is going to hurt a lot more than their head.

Bullpups

to host Lee JV

The Midland High Bullpups and Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade junior varsity football teams, fresh from victories last week, tangle in Memorial Stadium at 7 p.m. today in a big intracity battle

Midland took a 21-19 victory over the Pecos JV last' Saturday while Lee blanked Snyder, 13-0, to get its season off on the right footing.

In other games last week, the Odessa Permian sophomoresblasted the Odessa High sophs, 30-0 while Abilene Cooper's JVs stormed past Brownwood, 35-14 and Abilene ripped San Angelo, 34-7 in other JV action. Neither the Permian or OHS JVs played last weeked.

Rodney Hwmphill scored twice for Lee against Snyder as they beat Snuyder while Scott Sears, Jim Gunnnels and Al Ochoa, starred for the Bullpups in their win over Pecos.

Midland girls open season

Midland High's girls volleyball team will open its predistrict season against Plains today at 7 p.m. at the MHS gym. The sophomore teams will play at 5 p.m. and the JV at 6 p.m.

Permian Airways to start additional routes Oct. 1

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

Evidence that the commuter airline business is reaching into a thirsty market can be seen in the example of Permian Airways, which plans to start more routes Oct. 1.

Only five months after the company instituted air service in May out of Midland Regional Airport to Lubbock and Amarillo, the company is scheduled to begin additional routes in October to El Paso, Hobbs, N.M., Roswell, N.M., Carlsbad, N.M., San Antonio and San Angelo.

Jan Hladek, director of marketing for the commuter airline, said target date for the new routes is Oct. 1, but could be as late as Oct. 15.

The Midland-based airline had been slated to start the routes in September, but Ms. Hladek said lack of aircraft delayed the services. The planes are in, she said, but the pilots must be "checked out at each airport on the

TESCO to appeal OK'd rate hike

ODESSA — Texas Electric Service Co. plans to appeal the 2.74 percent rate hike approved Tuesday by the Odessa City Council, according to a spokesman.

The 2.74 percent increase had been recommended by Touche Ross & Co., a Dallas-based consulting firm.

TESCO contends the figure will not provide enough revenue to pay for converting production facilities from natural gas to coal and nuclear towns because that craft needs 80

TESCO had requested a 16.1 percent increase statewide in May.

The appeal will go to the Public Utility Commission, which recently recommended a 7.24 percent increase for TESCO in rural areas of the

During the summer, the airline also offered direct service out of Midland to Ruidoso, N.M. It is a seasonal flight, said Ms. Hladek, which may be started again during the skiing season

The company's first expansion started Aug. 1 with a non-stop flight between Amarillo and Oklahoma City. "That line picked up right away," she said.

Previously, there had been no nonstop flight between those two cities, said Ms. Hladek. There was a stopover at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport while the passengers usually changed planes before continuing on to their final destination.

The Amarillo-Oklahoma City service is utilized by businessmen and cattlemen, she said.

The company organizers had a "good feel for the market when they started Permian Airways," said Ms. Hladek. "They weren't surprised when requests started coming in from other towns, but they didn't expect to start service this soon.

"These towns were ready and now are just waiting for us to start." And there have been requests for service from other small towns, she Those towns need air service just as badly as people in larger towns; there's just not as many people, the airline representative said.

While it would be a financially losing venture for an airline to take Boeing 727 jetliners into these small percent occupancy to make a profit, Permian Airways can come out ahead using nine-passenger planes, she contended.

Flights are designed to take the passengers to their destinations in the mornings and return them in the evenings. Ms. Hladek said.

Israeli court sentences 2 for trying to down airliner

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) - The West German embassy today confirmed that an Israeli military court has sentenced two young Germans to 10 years imprisonment for attempting to shoot down an Israeli El Al airliner in Kenya in January 1976.

Israel television broke the story late Tuesday, after more than three years of secret proceedings against Brigitte Schulz, 28, Thomas Reuter, 27, and three Arabs. The separate trial of the Arabs is continuing.

Embassy spokesman Ruediger Reyels said the 10-year sentences were imposed on Tuesday, and will run from Jan. 27, 1976, when the pair was arrested. He referred all other questions to the German Foreign Ministry in Bonn.

Israeli television reported the sentencing came after the two con-

An Israeli army spokesman today refused to release any information on the trial or the sentences imposed on the two leftists.

But Ms. Schulz's parents, who visited their daughter in prison four times, said Israeli authorities alleged the two were caught with an anti-aircraft missile near the Nairobi airport, and had agreed to give three Arabs information about El Al arrival and departure times

The wall of secrecy contributed to a series of West German protests about the legal proceedings, and last month Amnesty International complained about the secrecy and the long period of 31/2 years without a resolution of the

Tax experts call for new type of federal levy

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new tax, known as the value added tax, is needed to "give us a better tax system" and provide desperately needed financing for the Social Security system, say two congressional tax experts

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Tuesday that the tax could be in place within two years to raise up to $150 billion yearly as a partial substitute for several existing taxes, including the Social Security payroll tax and the income tax.

Those taxes would be reduced, but not eliminated, Ullman said.

He also said there would be a dollar-for-dollar trade-off between the old ahd new taxes so that Americans would not face a net increase in their overall tax burden.

SEN. RUSSELL LONG, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he also favored the tax. known as VAT. He called it "clearly superior to many of the existing taxes" Americans pay.

Long and Ullman spoke Tuesday at a seminar on VAT sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Ullman said his committee will open hearings on the proposed tax in October.

Long, a Louisiana Democrat, said he would like to see the tax ready in time to substitute for the big Social Security tax increase scheduled for 1981, but added that he doubted it could be ready that quick-

The VAT would be a tax on the value producers add to goods, and would be paid at various stages of manufacturing. But the total tax would ultimately be paid by the consumer as part of the price of an item, similar to the sales taxes levied by most states.

ULLMAN OBJECTED TO the description of VAT as a sales tax. One objection to the proposed tax comes from states that now rely on sales taxes as a major source of revenue, and fear the value added tax would make them inoperable.

Ullmann said a value added tax is "inevitable." Such a tax already is in effect in many-European countries, most of which do not levy sales taxes.

He said a major reason for moving ahead quickly with a value added tax is the need to provide new financing for the Social Security system. The present financing through payroll taxes is "a major political embarrassment" and is a drag on the overall econ-

BUT A SPOKESMAN FOR Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., the ranking minority member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said there are many reasons to object to VAT.

"It is a red herring advocated by people who want more government, not less," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified. He said one reason Conable objects to the tax is that it would push up prices for consumer goods.

The spokesman also said he thought using the tax to finance the Social Security system, in whole or in part, would simply be going "from the pot into the kettle, using one regressive tax to replace another regressive tax.

Ullman said the VAT would have to be part of an overall package of tax changes. "The VAT on its own would go nowhere," he said.

HE SUGGESTED THAT VAT could be part of a package that included:

 A 25 percent cutback in the Social Security tax, without a loss of benefits.

-More rapid depreciation, for tax purposes, of business investment.

-An end to the so-called double taxation of corporate dividends and profits.

-Expanding the earned income credit for low-income workers

-Reducing the "overreliance" on the income tax, including a restructuring of income tax rates to ease inflation-induced tax pressures on middle-income people and limiting the maximum tax on income to

-Deferring taxes on dividends paid by savings and loan associations as an incentive to invest. -Providing a new incentive to exports by rebating the VAT on exported goods. Ullman said the total package could shift from $120 billion to $150 billion from existing taxes to the VAT. He did not specify how much the tax would be, but he mentioned 10 percent as one possibility. He also said food might be exempted from the

More arrests due for smuggling fuel

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - State comptroller's officers say they expect to make four more arrests in a crackdown on fuel smuggling from Mexico to

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office also has issued a statement saying several fuel bootlegging operations were under investigation.

The difference in diesel fuel prices in Juarez and El Paso would make a fuel smuggling operation profitable, said comptroller's enforcement officer Humberto Flores. He said fuel could be obtained in Mexico for 17 to 20 cents a gallon and sold in Texas and New Mexico for 48 to 50 cents a gallon.

Flores said all the fuel could be sold in El Paso because of the "enormous demand" here.

Officers, acting on a year-long investigation, arrested two men late Monday in connection with fuel smuggling from Juarez, Mexico to El Paso.

Santiago Borundo, 32, of El Paso, was charged with illegal transportation of fuel in an indictment returned in Austin. Gustavo Aguilar, also of El Paso, was charged with conducting business without a diesel fuel permit.

The two men did not operate together, Flores

Police began investigating Borundo when a tractor-trailer truck he owned turned over near an El Paso freeway and exposed a hidden 6,000-gallon tank, Flores said.

Young supports black rule or street demos

The Los Angeles Times

LAGOS, Nigeria - U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, mixing trade and politics in Africa's most populous nation, has said he would favor mass street demonstrations in the United States if Congress tried to alter President Carter's policy of black majority rule for southern Africa.

Young also said he wanted to launch a "grass-roots, political lobbying effort to help the liberal wing of the Democratic Party" after he leaves his Cabinet-level post about Oct. 1.

One goal would be to promote a U.S. foreign policy of "open dialogue with everybody," including the Palestine Liberation Organization, Young told a news conference on his arrival in Lagos.

Asked on Nigerian television if he would run for the House again or seek a Senate seat, Young replied: "I don't think so...I like politics...but you don't have to be in public office to be involved in poli-

Young, who is heading a seven-nation African trade mission as one of his last official acts, said, "Right now I need to get out and do some politicking for President Carter, so that is what I will do as soon as I get back

Young was asked to explain his statement to Jet magazine that he would run foreign policy from the streets if necessary.

'I would say that if there were any tendencies to lapse in our Africa policy, for example, it would be no difficulty at all to get masses of people into the street to support the kind of policy that President Carter has promoted up to now.

"That could be in support of him if the Congress attempted to vary it," Young explained.

Carter is in political trouble, Young contended, because he took a tough stand in favor of the Panama Canal treaties and refused to intervene during revolutions in Iran and Nicaragua.

Young also promoted expanded American investment and trade with Nigeria, a nation of 80 million people that is expected to earn $15 billion this year from its oil sales. Noting that the United States has a $5 billion trade deficit with the Nigerians, Young said: "We look forward to a much closer working relationship. We ave a long road to travel together. But other top American officials bluntly warned the Nigerians to slash red tape and to curb official corruption if they really want U.S. companies to invest in the former British colony.

J. Bruce Llewellyn, president of the Overseas Private Investment Corp., told a group of Nigerian officials that one American businessman told him he would no longer do business in the country, explaining: "I am sick and tired of dealing with the paperwork and the bribes.'

Dr. R. A. Adeleye, Nigeria's commissioner for industries, countered that foreign business companies often mistakenly paid large sums to "some Shylock or some shark" to perform tasks that the government would do without charges. Earlier, President John L. Moore Jr. of the Export-Import Bank had told reporters: "If you are covered by the U.S. laws on illegal payments, it's a ough market in Nigeria.' Young, who quit his U.N. job when a furor developed over his unauthorized meeting with a PLO observer, said he would try to change the U.S. policy of not talking to the Palestinian group during the 1980 election campaign. Meantime, U.S. and Nigerian officials said they doubted that any major policy shifts would occur in Nigeria as the result of the country's return to civilian government on Oct. 1. Shehu Shagari, the president-elect, was described as the most pro-business of the five candidates who had competed for the presidency.

Chicago will examine possibility of gambling

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of establishing a gambling casino in Chicago is being examined by Mayor Jane Byrne, who says it could help balance the city budget and increase tourism.

Talking to reporters outside her office Tuesday, Mrs. Byrne said she already has met with some legislators to find out what would be necessary to establish a casino for games of chance, including cards, dice, roulette and other devices. She said she hopes to have a proposal ready for the next legislative session in 1980. "I'm also considering other forms of revenue beyond that, even a gambling casino for the City of Chicago," she said. However, the idea was criticized by some local law enforcement officials, and a Democratic legislative leader said it would be a tough one to sell to the General Assembly.

BUSINESS MIRROR Personal savings slump to new low

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In support of their campaign to obtain some tax relief for savers, savings and loan associations have noted that the Japanese save 25 percent of their disposable income but Americans

The American rate has been falling, too. Over the previous two decades, personal savings averaged more than 6 percent, and as recently as 1975 were near 8 percent. But they have tumbled recently.

U.S. corporations have done poorly, too. Their savings, or retained earnings, have declined as a percent of gross national product in the 1970s. And the federal government, of course, hasn't saved a

And that, say the savings instititions and corporations and the federal government is a very large reason why American productivity, or production efficiency, has also declined steadily.

You need savings if you are going to have investments in new plants, in modern technology, in better marketing and distribution services, in research into new products and development of existing ones.

Since savings haven't been readily available, America hasn't been innovating. Japan spends proportionately three times as much as the United States on new ventures. And France and Germany twice as much.

If you want to follow the chain of events further you'll find that as productivity falls, production costs rise. And that as costs rise so must prices, and that as they do, living standards suffer.

That living standards already are suffering is probably not news to anyone. What does seem like news, is the discovery by Morgan Guaranty Trust that Americans' urge to save might be even lower than we think.

"If savings in the form of pension fund reserves are excluded from aggregate savings, saving dropped to less than 1 percent of disposable income in both 1977 and 1978," the firm reports in its monthly

And pension fund savings, large as they are, don't really suggest a great motivation toward saving. Most are beyond individual control. And some of the savings were forced by laws requiring stronger

Why then the reluctance to save? To begin with, it doesn't pay. Inflation, and taxes on the illusory profits, leads to a net loss on savings, even though savers earn the highest interest rates ever.

You can figure it yourself, as thousands of wouldbe savers have. You earn 5.5 percent on your passbook savings, but taxes take perhaps 30 percent of that, leaving you with 3.85 percent. After inflation of 13 percent you're left with a loss of 9.15 percent.

The reasons are negative, the motivation precisely the opposite of what most economists - on this issue, for one, they seem united - feel is required for the well being of individuals and the nation.

This is not entirely the situation in many other countries. Savers elsewhere do suffer from inflation, but they receive incentives, too, mainly in the interests of promoting home-ownership.

In West Germany, regular savers at home building societies receive tax-free bonuses of 18 percent a year. Britain permits first-time buyers to earn a tax-free bonus and an interest-free down payment

Australians buying their first home receive matching government grants of one-third the amount saved, up to a maximum of $2,000, allowing a saver who accumulates $6,000 to have a home down payment of $8,000. And what about a break for Americans. Well, they might get it, a small one, sometime soon. Congress is considering exempting from taxes the first $100 or so of interest income. A small bonus, but a beginning. When you consider that $100 of interest earned on stocks already has that exemption you may wonder why savers haven't been given equal treatment. But don't expect an explanation.

NBC responded that Carson, who has been The Tonight Show" star for 17 years, would be expected to honor his contract that runs through the spring of 1981. Lawyers took over from there.

NBC has issued a statement saying:

"NBC and Johnny Carson have entered into an agreement to obtain a determination of a legal question concerning the present contractual arrangement between Carson and NBC.

Well-known jazz bassist dies at the age of 56

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Wilbur B. Ware, a wellknown jazz bassist, has died at the age of 56. He had suffered with emphysema for many years.

Ware moved to Philadelphia in 1972 after touring with such jazz greats as Art Blakey, Buddy DeFranco and Thelonious Monk. He died Sunday at Germantown Hospital

A self-taught musician, Ware began his career at the age of 14 using a homemade violin, later switching to a bass viola that his stepfather had built. After military service in World War II, Ware joined the house band at the Bee Hive Club in Chicago, where he accompanied many jazz musi-

Surviving are his wife, Gloria Lewis Ware, two sons, four sisters and four grandchildren. A memorial service will be held later this week in New York City. Burial will be in Chicago.

TV feast-or-famine continues Sunday

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The feast-or-famine philosophy of the television networks continues in force next Sunday night when viewers are offered a choice among Bob Hope in China on NBC, a one-hour "Mork and Mindy" special and Carol Burnett in a new movie, "The Tenth Month." Burnett is willing to take her chances. She's the comic who turned to family tragedy in the politically sensitive "Friendly Fire." She also defied programming patterns by presenting four new variety shows during the past summer season.

"The Tenth Month" is another departure that may arouse controversy because Burnett plays a forty-ish single woman who becomes pregnant.

'The role is a journalist who is successful in her work, who married young and is undergoing a divorce," she said. "Her husband is also a journalist, and their careers have drifted them apart. the divorce is fairly amicable; there's a little sadness but no beating of the breast.

"She falls in love with a musician, played by Keith Mitchell, who was so great as Henry the Eighth in the PBS series. He is married, but it's a loose arrangement with no strings attached. Suddenly the woman discovers she is pregnant — by the first and Burnett expects to receive angry letters. That happened after "Friendly Fire," in which she played an Iowa woman fighting bureaucratic red tape to discover how her son died in Vietnam.

'Ninety percent of the mail was favorable," she reported. "But there are still people who are loyal to Nixon and who supported the war. Including some of my own relatives. They complimented me on my performance, but they wouldn't comment on the Carol was generally pleased with four variety shows she made for ABC this summer, especially the last one with Sally Field.

"The Love Boat" has, indeed, become a consistent hit in its Saturday night time slot, despite some early skepticism from critics.

'They had made two pilots previously, and neither one had made it," MacLeod recalls. "They approached me after 'MTM' had gone off the air, and my agent was against me taking the part.

"I took the script down to my home in Palm Springs and read it one weekend. When they introduced my character, the captain, I said, 'Wow! I like that.' I liked the regulars in the cast, and the fact there would be three stories each week with romance and comedy and a little drama.

World's biggest 'flying sculpture' now just a jet

DALLAS (AP) - By the end of this month an airplane that once was called the world's biggest "flying sculpture" will have become just another Braniff International jetliner.

The DC8's multicolored, abstract paint job - in bright hues of red, orange, yellow and blue - was designed by artist and sculptor Alexander Calder, who personally supervised the painting in 1973. Braniff put the plane on the South American run and dubbed it "the flying colors of South America."

At $100,000, the airborne artwork was one of Braniff's more expensive publicity ploys. Now the craft has been grounded and the paint will be stripped so the company can check for corrosion. When the airplane is repainted, it will be in the standard colors and patterns of the rest of the

Senate leaders locked in dispute over budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Democratic leaders remain locked in a dispute over the 1980 budget and a controversial demand that Congress live up to a commitment to trim $4 billion in government

The demand, being pressed by the Senate Budget Committee, prompted a full day of closed-door meetings Wednesday. But key Democrats apparently were unable to resolve their differences.

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Finance Committee, took to the Senate floor late Wednesday to criticize the Budget Committee's demand as unrealistic.

"We are not going to achieve a balanced budget by announcing program cuts that we will not be able to bring about," the Louisiana Democrat said.

However, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, Budget Committee chairman, said earlier he was determined to fight for the cuts, recommended amid widespread anti-spending rhetoric earlier this year. In its target 1980 budget adopted last May, Congress recommended $5.6 billion in spending cuts.

However, $4 billion of those proposed legislative savings have not been achieved in subsequent action on the budget. The Senate Budget Committee voted last month to try to force seven committees to make those cuts through a budgetary process called "reconcilia-

Garp success gives author writing time

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Writing is a very hard life," shot back, "What is?" says novelist John Irving. "But since I was never able to convince myself that there was anything else I was good at, I became a writer.'

However, with the success of his fourth and latest one of the local shops. novel, the best-selling "The World According to Garp," the writing life has become a bit easier for inquired, "How much?" She said it was $11. "Eleven the Sevier River, he said.

"Garp," the amiable, 37-year-old Irving ex-bled about inflation. plains, "brought me enough money to be a full-time reporter and exclaimed, "And ONLY $11. Previously, Irving says, he had often had to fit his writing time into those hours when he wasn't teaching college-level English and literature courses.

"I taught for six out of the past 40 years," he says. The other four years I was able to write more or ess full time because of various grants I got and of some money from my other novels that bought me some writing time and I was able to get away from teaching. I was lucky.

Irving says he spent about a year thinking about and another four years writing "Garp." He adds that, "It was a rough time for me. I was teaching full during the summers also — for three of those

"When I was teaching I could only work about an hour and a half to two hours at a time in the morning betore I had to leave for classes. That way I had to carry a lot of the book around in my head because I didn't have the time to get it down. Lucki'y, I got a grant and was able to give more time to the Lock. If I hadn't gotten the grant, I'd probably still be working on 'Garp.

Irving, who lives in Putney, Vt., with his wife and their two ye ung sons, is quick to point out that, "The thing is I ii ke to teach, but I don't like to have to teach. I like vorking with young people who have no preconception's about what literature should be. But when you have to teach you can't help but be a bit resentful because it cuts into your writing

He says he res. 'gned from teaching after "Garp's" success but has p lans to go back to the classroom on a part-time basis that won't interfere with his writing. "That," he says with a smile, "is the kind of teaching I really ca n enjoy."

Looking back, Irv ing notes his first two novels, Setting Free the Bears" and "The Water-Method Man," did moderate ly well, but his third, "The 158-Pound Marriage," sold "very poorly and probably would have been or the worst-seller list if there was such a thing.

He adds, however, that "I've always been reviewed fairly well, never ill-treated. I feel that at least two of my first three books could have been best-sellers. But this didn't happen. So I feel especfally good that 'Garp' mag'e it because this shows I do have a wide audience.

'I've always felt that I was not a writer's writer. that I was not inaccessible, difficult or off-putting to people who haven't had a high ly literary education. People don't have to have graduate school degrees in contemporary literature to und erstand 'Garp.' I've never found any contradiction between writing seriously and being popular. The re are often two or three books by serious writers on t he best-seller lists and this is encouraging."

Irving, who uses a typewriter bec 'ause "my handwriting is so bad that when I sign che cks the people I give them to frown and ask me to print my name and Social Security number un der the signature," says he is now some 200 page's into a new novel.

"It's called 'The Hotel New Hampshire'," he says. When I was working on 'Garp' and peopl'e asked me what it was about I'd say 'It's about a n ian with a famous mother' or 'It's a life-affirming novel in which everyone dies.

So when I'm asked about the new one I s ay, 'It's bout a family in the hotel business.' I know that's so incomplete, but I really can't improve on it.

Cyclamates manufacturer sues to return sweetener to market

CHICAGO (AP) - The principal mates has sued the federal government in an effort to get the artificial sweetener back on the market.

Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago has lost $42 million since 1969 as a result of a ban imposed by the Food and Drug Administration, a company spokesman said.

The U.S. District Court suit filed this week charges that the FDA has known since 1975 that cyclamates are safe to use.

Abbott said it asked the court to act because the FDA had not moved on a petition the company filed in 1973 seeking to put the product back on the market for use as a "table sweetener and in dietetic foods and beverarea. Many people apparently believe that once a meat or poultry item is cooked, it is quite safe to leave it at room temperature. Not so, at least not for long. Cooked food at room temperature can become a haven for bacterial growth.

Food should be kept either hot or cold. Two hours at room temperature should be reserved for red wine.

Along these same lines, many people feel that food should be left out to cool before being put in the refrigerator. Actually, for safety's sake, foods should be served soon after cooking and refrigerated promptly. It is safe to refrigerate hot foods therein. Hot foods can be cooled quickly by setting the containers in ice water for a few minutes before refrigeration.

Refrigeration itself can be a problem. Bacteria grows slowly at room temperatures below 44 degrees; above 45 degrees they grow like gang busters.

The difference between 44 and 45 degrees, in terms of keeping food safe to eat for several days, is vital.

One of the first things you should do when giving your kitchen a food handler's safety check, is to buy an accurate thermometer and check your refrigerator. Make sure that the temperature is constantly under three children who is more of a stranger than a son? He is the eldest, 25, unmarried, self-supporting and selfish

When Allen left college seven years ago, he com-pletely disassociated himself from the family never calling, writing or showing any interest or concern regarding family illnesses, deaths or any of the occasions that usually elicit a caring response from family members. Holidays, graduations, birthdays, anniversaries, etc., are unknowledged, yet his sister and brother have always been considerate and thoughtful to the family as well as to Allen.

Although he lives only half an hour from us, we are gnored except for Christmas and HIS birthday Then he honors us with a visit, knowing he will no leave empty-handed — although he ARRIVES empty-handed. He always has plenty of money for his own pleasures — girls, bars and expensive gadgets. We are hurt and disgusted by his behavior and wonder if you or your readers can tell us how to make this thoughtless son aware of his selfishness? Or would you say he is a lost cause? - HURT IN NORWICH, CONN.

DEAR HURT: You can't instill concern, consideration and generosity where none exists. However, no one is ever a "lost cause." If some well-meaning friend or relative isn't able to make Allen aware of his selfish behavior, perhaps the power of prayer (yours) will produce a miracle. I hope so

DEAR ABBY: When FORTY and CURIOUS asked when you would call a person middle-aged, you replied, "When he (or she) climbs out of the bathtub and is happy to find the full-length mirror is all steamed up.

I'm sure a lot of readers got a chuckle out of that but let's be serious about it: My dictionary defines middle-age as the middle period of one's life. In other words, if a person lives to be 90, then he is middle aged at 45. So the truth of the matter is, since no one knows how long he is going to live, no one knows whe he is middle-aged. — 66 and GOING STRONG

DEAR 66: You don't say which dictionary you use, but my Webster's Seventh New Collegiate defines middle-age as the period of life from about 40 to 60. And that's what I call a nice middle-age spread. DEAR ABBY: Please tell NEEDS TO KNOW IN

Disclosure statements show few Congress members live on salary

By BILL PETERSON The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Fully one-third of the 535 members of Congress hold outside jobs, and only 19 of them — two in the Senate and 16 in the House - make do entirely on the $57,000 a year they are paid as legislators.

The rest supplement their congressional salaries by moonlighting as lawyers or officers of corporations and banks, by speechmaking, and through outside investments.

Most members of Congress also have expanded their lucrative financial investments after coming to Washington.

The investments involve almost every area of business activity in the United States, and closely link the members of Congress with the very industries they were elected to regulate.

These are among the revealing findings of a study of financial disclosure statements by Congressional Quarterly, a weekly government affairs magazine. All members of Congress were required to file such ements this year for the first time under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act

The statements show that the Senate, traditionally the "upper chamber of Congress," is the home of the most upper-income members. Although the disclosure forms are so vague that it is difficult to calculate precisely, at least 21 senators are millionaires. Another 10 may be millionaires. The House claims only 24 sure millionaires. It has seven

The richest member of Congress not surprisingly is a senator, — John Heinz III, R-Pa., an heir to the H.J. Heinz Co. Food products fortune. He listed his net worth as between $36 million and $50 million. Last year, he reported an unearned income from securities of between $437,101 and $836,000.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., reported an unearned income of between $288,041 and $581,500 from family trusts and businesses. He placed second among the top income earners in Congress

But apparently he isn't the second richest member of the Senate. That distinction goes to Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., an heir to Ralston Purina Co. family fortune. His net worth is somewhere between $5 million and $17 million.

The richest member of the House is Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., who owns $16 million in stock in Walco National Corp., a small machinery and electrical equipment manufacturer.

Congress' top moonlighter is also a senator. Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., who is under investi-

The drug will be available next week to the public through physicians treating the illness, which is second only to colds as the most common childhood ailment, she said. "Middle-ear infections, or otitis media, have a tremendous impact on the development of speech and learning abilities in children," said Dr. Levine. He noted that the infections often cause partial hearing loss in its young victims. She added that studies show that about 70 percent of the 3.5 million babies born in the United States this year will suffer middle-ear infections before their third birthdays, and more than 1 million will be stricken three or more times. Ceclor also has been shown effective against drugresistant organisms that cause pneumonia and bronchitis, Dr. Levine said, and the drug has also been used successfully against skin and urinary tract

Self-portrait of Peter Hurd done in 1936.

Peter Hurd: A fruitful lifetime is remembered

"Time is a very strange thing. So long as one takes it for granted, it is nothing at all. But then, all of a sudden, one is aware of nothing else." Hugo Von Hofmannsthal

> By RICHARD REILLY Copley News Service

Peter Hurd, an artist who has lived for 75 years and labored for alomost 60 of them, who always walkid in beauty and captured it on canvas, is now confined to a nursing home. If you had known Hurd in kinder days, his being where he is, and why, is unbelievable

Hurd's decline has been very gradual, but steady, and totally harrowing for his devoted wife, Henriette Wyeth Hurd, his family and friends. Henriette has done everything within her command (and Henriette is an authoritative woman) to stem the tide of seven very long years.

Medical tests have been continuous, long trips made from their isolated ranch in the Hondo Valley of New Mexico to clinics and research centers throughout the country.

But time cannot be stopped and the course of every human life is prede-

THE TRAGEDY OF HURD is not that he has grown old by that his family has had to endure his deterioration (witness the diminution of his artistic skills) and his friends suffer the loss of his company

All of Hurd's life had been spent in the pursuit of art (he left the U.S. Military Academy at West Point after what he referred to "as a two-year period of bewilderment") to pursue the life of an artist, left Haverford College to study at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and stuided under N.C. Wyeth (who advised Hurd that "communication on an emotional plane is the essence and purpose of all art"). It was at Chadds Ford that Hurd met Wyeth's daughter, Henriette, his future wife, and all the multi-talented Wyeths, including Andrew. Peter and Henriette where married at Chadds Ford in 1929 and moved to New Mexico to begin lives of their own.

Their lives have been enormously rich. Peter has been Henriette's hero, she his heroine, and their lives have been picture books of faraway places, famous faces, piano and harpsichord recitals (played by Peter Hurd Jr. and his wife, Victoria), receptions at the White House and barbecues with cowhands and millionaires, where Peter and his young son, Michael, played guitars and sang duets. Some of the lyrics are pretty risque but always listened to, especially by the beautiful women present, among them his daughter, Carol.

GUESTS AT THE RANCH have been a wide cross section of people from the creative arts: two-time Pulitzer Prize-winning Paul Horgan; Life magazine's first editor, Dan Longwell; noted photographers Peter Stackpole and PhilippedHalsman; authors Truman Capote and Ross Calvin; novelist Eric Knight; actress Therese Wright; Arco chairman Robert O. Anderson and his wife, the ballerina and musical comedy star Vera Zorina; Helen and the late James S. Copley, publishers; poet Witter Bynner, broadcaster Eric Sevareid; Andy, Betsy, Jamie and Nickie Wyeth, and many other distinguished guest, including Charles MacArthur, who first brought his wife, actress Helen Hayes, to the ranch 30 years ago after the tragic death of their daughter. Peter and Henriette were excellent hosts whose companions were academically, culturally and intellectually the best and the brightest.

Hurd was never far from his sketchbook or studio and has painted portraits of his Mexican-American neighbors, as well as visiting publishers and politicians, actresses and actors, artists, financiers, all giants in their fields, all of whom became

His paintings of the Southwest, especially his 16 fresco panels at the Texas Technical University Museum, are studied by students, art historians and collectors.

Hurd's paintings are in numerous public and private collections, among them New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art; the National Galleries of Washington, D.C., and Edinburgh, Scotland; the Art Institute of Chicago; the Dallas Art Museum; the San Diego Museum of Art; the James S. Copley Library, Claire Booth Luce, John Meigs, Horgan and many

AT ONE TIME, HURD in his sketchbook (published by Sage Books, The Seallow Press, Chicago, 1971) wrote: What is it that motivates me in the first place and brings on these frenzied races against time and light? If the effort is destined to have any success, it must be triggered by an inner elation, an excited reaction to some color or light effect which by its inevitable evanescence is always productive of delight and despair despair in that it is so quickly changing, so difficult to record.'

Almost 20 years ago, Hurd's lifelong friend, Renaissance man Horgan, wrote, "Peter Hurd, A Portrait Sketch from Life," on the occasion of a retrospective exhibition of Hurd's work (at the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth and the California Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francis-

Nothing written before or since has captured the essence of the man. Nothing possible could, for Hurd and Horgan have been good friends since

Horgan wrote, "He was then trim and slender in the same terms as he is today (1964). His energy was fixed for life in a tightly wound spring system which produced swift reflexes and comprehension leading to immediate and perfectly coordinated action.

HURD'S PHYSICAL appearance is now too thin, his physical reflexes no longer swift, his mental capacities interrupted. But the morning, afternoon and early evening of Hurd's life have been full of talent, acclaims, joy, laughter, good food and grog, superior minds, travel, a loving wife and children, good neighbors, sound horses, good music, clear skies, apple orchards and great open spaces.

Hurd is still capable of charming his friends, strangers, doctors and nursing staff. His room at a nursing home in Alburquerque has walls of pale blue, hung with big, framed reproductions of his work. Family and friends visit and find him content.

Hurd does not recognize most of his visitors and frequently appears apprehensive. (Henriette feels it is because he doesn't want his guests to know he cannot remember who they

A new nursing facility in Roswell, N.M. (70 miles from his beloved ranch), is near completion, and sometime next month Hurd will be moved there, his rooms furnished with his furniture, books and memorabilia (everything but his silver paint box, which has disappeared).

IN THE MEANTIME, Hurd's studio at the ranch remains untouches, his boots in his bedroom, his tweed coats and riding pants neatly hung. As Henriette says, "The house is still full of Poppa.

The tragedy of old age is not that one is old but that one is usually forgotten. Hurd has not been forgotten, and one can only hope that the dim shapes and unaccountable shadows lift and that his dreams afford safety from danger.

No one should be able to lay a hand on us in our dreams.

Celebrities become sales promoters

By LINDA DEUTSCH

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Turn on the TV tonight, and chances are you'll see big-name performers pitching a plethora of products ranging from cars and cameras to dogfood and

Commercials mean big money and wide exposure for stars turned pitch-

But the Federal Trade Commission, noting a virtual stampede of celebrities into the ad market, is scrutinizing the ethical side of those high-priced endorsements.

'We recognize that celebrity endorsers are paid tremendous amounts of money, for which consumers are ultimately footing the bill," says FTC attorney Mark Heller. "To the extent they are truthful, these endorsements are very valuable. But to the extent they convey deceptive claims, they are more harmful.

In recent months, the FTC has moved in on commercials by two well-known men — singer Pat Boone and former astronaut Gordon Coo-

Both cases, settled without litigation, were seen as warning signals to stars who endorse products without investigating manufacturers' claims.

The Boone case, which sent shock waves through the advertising industry, was hailed by the FTC as a landmark - the first time any celebrity had accepted personal liability for a product he touted.

In a consent agreement, Boone agreed to pay a $5,000 share of manu-purchased the product Acne Statin.

Boone had appeared with his four daughters in a commercial claiming the preparation was more effective than other acne treatments. The FTC said the claims for Acne Statin, which sold for $10 a bottle, were unsubstantiated by scientific tests.

Neither Boone nor his attorney would comment on the case, but the lawyer had said earlier Boone was shocked by the FTC action because the doctor who invented the product assured him of its value.

That, said FTC officials, is not enough. They want stars to personally order independent scientific tests before promoting such a product.

Albert H. Kramer, director of the FTC's Consumer Protection Bureau, said the Boone case "stands for the principle that an endorser must verify the claims made about the advertised product before the first commercial goes on the air or appears in print, or risk FTC action.'

But in Hollywood, where celebrities get six-figure contracts for such endorsements, there is no panic.

"The Pat Boone thing was not a usual situation,"says Sandra Joseph, preident of the Wormser, Helfand & Joseph agency, which sets up lucrative celebrity commercial deals.

"I wouldn't let any of my celebrity clients advertise a pimple cream, Ms. Joseph says disdainfully, "just as I wouldn't let them do a tampon commercial.

'I've had 40 calls for one of my star clients to promote a feminine hygiene product," she says. "I've turned facturer refunds to consumers who down every one of them. I don't want my clients to be identified with those products."

In addition, she notes there are less potential legal problems with a 'classy," well-known product.

"Most of my celebrity clients are only interested in very classy kinds of commercials - the kind Polaroid does," says Ms. Joseph. One of the stars she represents is Marietta Hartley, who is on the Polaroid spots with James Garner:

Right after news of the Boone case broke, Ms. Joseph concedes, some stars were scared away. "But then they saw Polaroid bringing in people like Liv Ullman ... That's classy. As a result, there are people coming into commercials now who never cared

Celebrities are being careful, how-

"One of my clients was approached to be spokeswoman for a charity's anti-smoking campaign," Ms. Joseph recalls. "The problem is she smokes. We turned it down.

'We realize that as soon as we put a celebrity on as spokesman for a product, that's an endorsement ... I want it to be something they know about and like," Ms. Joseph says. "Any intelligent agent who is not

Thus, the FTC filed complaints against the manufacturer and advertiser of an alleged mileage-increasing car device, the GR Valve. The TV pitchman was ex-astronaut Cooper, and the FTC said he was falsely presented as an expert in automotive engineering.

There was no financial penalty, but in an agreement reached in July, Cooper agreed to investigate more carefully any product he endorses. The ads have been dropped by Admarketing Inc., the company which sold them to TV

In a strictly legal sense, attorneys differ on whether the FTC could win a court case against a celebrity en-

"It could be argued that if the public knows the endorser is a famous actor who is being paid to say these things, they would not accept his statements as those of an expert,' says Beverly Hills attorney Warren Deutsch. "But if the celebrity says, 'I personally guarantee this product. that could create liability. It's really an untested area.

The FTC's Heller cites a related legal precedent as support for the FTC position. In the 1969 decision, the California Supreme Court held that Good Housekeeping Magazine could be liable for a product endorsed with its seal of approval.

Wastes

as bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) Toxic waste dumps are ticking time bombs which could "happen almost anywhere in the United States," the National Wildlife Federation said in a report released Wednesday.

The report, which included surveys from officials in 50 states and the District of Columbia, attempted to determine which states do the poorest job of regulating toxic wastes, and which do the best.

The "10 worst states handling hazardous wastes" identified by the federation are: (1) Georgia, (2) Missouri, (3) West Virginia, (4) Kentucky, (5) Michigan, (6) Mississippi, (7) Massachusetts, (8) Indiana, (9) Illinois and (10) Ari-

The ranking was based on both the amount of toxic wastes generated by industries in each state, and the level of controls placed on the disposal of the wastes by the state, the federation said.

The federation survey found 'less than a quarter of the states regulate hazardous waste landfills either by segregating toxic from nontoxic wastes or by specifying areas where hazardous waste landfills may not be established.

According to NAS, the consumption of the sweetener by this group has increased 160 percent since 1972. Their increased risk results additional light on the subject. from the fact that the amount children consume is very substantial relative to their body weight.

Along the same lines, the NAS panel noted that for males, the highest proportion of those using saccharin was in boys below nine years of age, while for females the largest users were in the 20to 39-year age group. This assumes a great deal of significance since in experiments with rats, saccharin was found to be carcinogenic only in male rats first exposed while the mothers were pregnant. 'Perfectly happy couple' fight for right to divorce

By SAUNDRA SAPERSTEIN The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - They are, by their own account, a perfectly happy couple. Yet every winter for three years, David and Angela Boyter of Ellicott City, Md., flew off to the Caribbean to get a quickie divorce.

In so doing, they enjoyed romantic vacations while saving a large chunk of money on income taxes. The Boyters have divorced three times and remarried twice in the last five years just so that when tax filing time rolled around, they could reap the benefits of bigger standard tax deductions for single persons. It is a process that the Internal Revenue Service calls a "tax sham." For years, the IRS has bristled at the fact that some couples were doing this, just as many couples such as the Boyters were upset that they had to go to such extreme lengths to get the tax break they felt they deserved. Next month, however, the IRS and the Boyters are going to court in the first case testing whether such "tax divorces" are legal or invalid for tax

Since 1969, the tax laws forced married working couples to pay higher taxes than two single people living together earning the same amount, according to Angela Boyter.

So she and her husband have taken advantage of a section of the tax code that says marital status for tax purposes is determined on Dec. 31 of each year. They made sure they were divorced at that time. 'We save a lot of money. We don't pay a penalty tax," she said of their

The tax divorce notion was born in the Boyter household at a dinner party in 1975, when the couple was consoling a recently divorced friend, Angela Boyter recalled. 'At least I'll be paying less taxes," she remembered their friend saying.

"You guys should get divorced, too. Boyter said she and her husband just laughed, but as the year went on, they stopped laughing and started checking the rates for quickie di-

In December 1975, they flew off to a vacation of sun-drenched days, delicious French dinners and gorgeous scenery in Port au Prince, Haiti, for their first annual $350 divorce.

"I had no personal qualms about the divorce," Angela Boyter said Tuesday. "Except I guess I was afraid of the IRS more than anything

In January 1976, the couple filed tax returns and then remarried. It was not until they had gone through the process once more; that a local newspaper reporter discovered the story, and suddenly they were the center of public attention.

Letters started coming in from around the country from couples interested in the "how-tos" of the tax divorce, Boyter said. There also were a couple of "crank letters" to the Boyters' employer the federal government — asking that the couple be fired, she said. Angela Boyter is procurement officer for a federal agency and her husband is physicist for another federal agency, though neither will divulge precisely

The IRS also apparently learned of what the Boyters were doing through the publicity and audited their tax returns for 1975 and 1976. The IRS then cited them for more than $3,100 in unpaid taxes for the two years, according to the Boyters' attorney, Marvin Garbis. The Boyters had paid about $17,600 in taxes during those two years, filing as single individuals, according to Angela Boyter.

IRS district counsel Charles Zarubin said that for tax purposes the courts will not recognize the divorces because "nothing really changed. They maintained their martial relationship and remarried.

IRS spokesman Dominic Laponzina said the divorces were nothing more than "a sham" to get around the law. But Garbis, the couple's attorney, said Tuesday that the only test for filing as a single or a married individual is "are you married on Dec. 31."

The IRS is trying to close a tax opportunity for modern-thinking people," said Garbis. "This is a legitimate way to avoid a penalty that the Internal Revenue Code inadvertently put on being married. Boyter said that in a major revision of the tax code in 1969, the tax rates were set up so that married couples combining incomes were forced to pay higher taxes than two single people combining their incomes.

The structure hits hardest at a husband and wife earning nearly equal amounts, as Boyter and her husband do. Both earn about $30,000 annually. Also, the standard deduction for a single person last year was $2,200, so two individuals living together could take a total deduction of $4,400 on their tax returns. A married couple, however, filing jointly could take only a $3,200 deduction.

YOUR FIRST BOX OF NEW HONEYBRAN

GETS YOU A SECOND ONE...

IRS spokesman Laponzina does not deny that these facts are correct. But he said that the problem only became apparent in recent years as the number of married working couples grew and more wives began to earn higher rivers.

The Florida State research team plans additional sperm density tests on workers who manufactured electrical capacitors, in which PCBs are widely used as coolants and lubricants, Dougherty said.

IN HIS REPORT. Dougherty qualified his findings because of the small size of the test sample and because the subjects were college students. The researcher said the results of similar tests on non-student males might not be the same, he said, because college students are under heavier stress and are more active sexually than most other males. Both factors can be responsible for lowering sperm counts, Dougherty said.

In the 1929 study, he said, the sperm donors were husbands of pregnant women. The donors in the 1973 study were patients awaiting vasectomies. When the pre-vasectomy patients were analyzed, their sperm samples actually showed a slightly lower density than the national average at the time, Dough erty said.

U.S. looks for new way to 'eye' Soviet missile tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is looking for other ways to monitor Soviet missile tests now that it has been denied use of Turkish air space for spy plane flights.

Plans to use overflights of Turkey by U-2 spy planes to monitor the Soviet Union have been scrapped, administration sources said Wednesday. The sources, who asked not to be named, cited resistance to the plan by both Turkey and the Soviet Union.

Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit has said the Turks would agree to the overflights only if the Soviets said they were acceptable under SALT II provisions on verification. The U.S. officials said Wednesday "the Soviets have been no help" in giving such assurances to Turkey. Sources said other alternatives to the U-2 overflights were being considered, but refused to give details, saying publicity about the U-2 proposal had helped to torpedo the idea in Turkey. The U-2 overflight plan was in response to the closing of intelligence bases in Iran. Those bases had the capability to "look" directly at Soviet Although the United States has ground stations in Turkey, the mountainous geography prevents a direct line of "sight" on Soviet test sites.

However, the U-2s would fly high enough along the Soviet border to

Venda begins independence

THOYOYANDOU, Venda (AP) - Venda, Africa's smallest nation, began independence today as the third black homeland established by South Africa's white-minority government. It conceded the landlocked, Delaware-size state faces a "long uphill struggle" for the international recognition that so far has been denied South Africa's other two black puppets, Transkei and Bophuthatswana.

Independence began with the usual midnight ceremony, including a 101-gun salute, ringing of church bells and lowering the South African flag. President Marais Viljohn headed the South African delegation, and Botswana and Zimbabwe Rhodesia were also represent.

Venda consists of two blocks of land in northeast corner of South Africa with 500,000 people, 150,000 of whom work in South Africa. Chief Patrick Mphephu, who has lost two elections in the past decade, heads the government.

The South African government plans a total of 10 such black states, occupying the less desirable 15 percent of the country's territory. The country's 19 million blacks will be assigned citizenship only in them, and South African citizenship is reserved for the 4 million whites.

322-year-old Post Office to be split

LONDON (AP) - Britain's 322-year-old Post Office will be split next year into two independent corporations, one to handle the mail and the other for telecommunications, Industry Secretary Sir Keith Joseph

Both corporations will remain under state control, Sir Keith told a news conference, but private firms will be allowed to take over such subsidiary aspects of the telecommunications services as supplying telephones and answering machines.

The split was recommended two years ago by a committee headed by economist Sir Charles Carter, who said electronic telex, telephone and information services have nothing in common with labor-intensive mail delivery. The plan was shelved by the Labor government last year at the insistence of the Union of Post Office Workers.

Three follow Hannibal's route

BRAMANS, France (AP) - Two Californians and a former Parisian dancer are following what they think are Hannibal's route across the Alps to Italy with two rented circus elephants.

Jack Wheeler, a 35-year-old former philosophy professor from Los Angeles, said he expected to complete the trek by the weekend as he set off Wednesday with Sam Oschin, 65, his financial backer from Los Angeles, and his fiancee, Jacqueline Vial-King, 35. Hannibal, a general from the North African city of Carthage, led an army of 26,000 men and 37 elephants across the Alps 2,197 years ago to challenge the forces of Rome. Historians disagree about his route, but Wheeler said he is convinced it went up the valley of the Arc River, through the 8,150-foot pass called the Col de Clapier and down to the Italian town of SAusa.

China doubles TV-set production

TOKYO (AP) - China has more than doubled production of black-andwhite television sets this year, plans to import more foreign models, and is building its first factory to produce color sets, the official Xinhua (Hsinhua) news agency reported.

China first began making TV sets in 1958, "turned out 280,000 sets in 1977 and 490,000 last year," and expects to produce more than a million this year, the report said.

"The country is now building its first color television kinescope receiver) plant in Xiangyang City, Shanxi (Shensi) Province," and it will manufacture 960,000 14- and 22-inch sets a year, Xinhua said.

Drought destroys $2 billion in crops

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - India's worst drought in a quarter of a century has destroyed $2 billion worth of rice, millet and vegetable crops in the northern states of Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana and Orissa, forcing many villagers to migrate to the cities, officials say

No deaths have yet been attributed to the six-week dry spell. But Uttar Pradesh officials say the drought threatens the livelihood of about 60 million in that state. They have asked the central government for a $125 million loan. Prime Minister Charan Singh has already approved $10 million for relief.

About 2,000 gather in Peking square to assess leaders

PEKING (AP) - A handful of activists scuffled with soldiers today as about 2,000 persons gathered in Peking's biggest square to assess Mao Tse-tung and criticize China's current leaders. It was the first such demonstration since the crackdown on dissidents in the spring.

One man was arrested in the brief scuffle in Tien An Men. He was not identified. Several others tossed thousands of pamphlets into the air and the crowd scrambled for them at the Martyrs' Memorial - unofficial monument to the late Premier Chou En-lai.

The crowd raced down the steps and scattered across the vast square in midmorning. About 1,000 reassembled shortly afterward for a political discussion that ranged from Mao to human rights to ragged Chinese from the provinces who are demonstrating in the capital for jobs

There were no incidents at the second session. Soldiers were present on the edge of the crowd but did not interfere as several speakers addressed

The mass gathering was the first in the square since April when authorities called a halt to cries for human rights and democracy and attacks on the party.

Recently, however, the climate has changed. Posters with angry slogans appear all over "Democracy Wall." Youth magazines on art and commentary again are being sold, and students have marched down Peking's main avenue demanding a college education.

U.S.S.R. delivers arms to North Yemen after visit to Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union recently delivered arms to North Yemen, which received about $383 million in emergency U.S. military aid last spring when it was attacked by Marxist South Yemen, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Tons of rockets and ammunition were unloaded by a Soviet ship at the North Yemeni port of Hodeida on Aug. 30 after a delegation from North Yemen visited Moscow, said the sources, who asked not to be identi-

Intelligence reports suggested that the North Yemeni delegation discussed additional possible arms shipments from Russia, which in past years had supplied North Yemen with tanks and planes that are now out-

One source said recently that North Yemen may be on the brink of reaching a significant new arms agreement with Russia, which could involve provision of three squadrons of MiG-21 fighters, T-62 tanks and other equipment to the government, which has been regarded as pro-West.

Meanwhile, other U.S. intelligence reports said North Yemen concluded a deal for 100 Polish-built T-55 tanks a few months ago.

The United States rushed weapons aid to North Yemen last spring after South Yemen, the only avowed Marxist state in the Arab world, invaded North Yemen.

U.S. officials said at the time this invasion was strongly supported by Russia, including the presence of 800 to 1,000 Russian advisers and hundreds of East German and Cuban technicians working inside South

President Carter won congressional approval for shortcutting procedures so the United States could rush arms aid to North Yemen. This aid included 12 F-5 fighter planes, 32 M-60 tanks, 50 armored personnel carriers and a variety of antitank and anti-aircraft missiles.

To help speed the aid into North Yemeni hands, the Saudi Arabian government transferred 32 M-60 tanks, some artillery and other equipment of its own to North Yemen government forces. The United States has moved to replace these arms in the Saudi forces.

Saudi Arabia, a neighbor of North Yemen, agreed to finance the emergency arms help. The Saudis were concerned that the South Yemeni invasion would lead to collapse of North Yemen's government and significant Soviet influence on its borders.

Intelligence specialists can only guess why the North Yemenis appear to be turning to the Russians, although one source said some officers

Masked Basques suspected in killing of bank president masked gunmen shot and killed a bank president on his doorstep today in a new outbreak of violence in Spain's troubled Basque region.

Modesto Carriegas Perez, 47, head of a branch bank in a Bilbao suburb and a former conservative candidate for Parliament, was hit with at least four bullets, police said. The gunmen fled in a car.

Authorities said casings found near the scene were of a type of ammunition favored by Basque separatists.

Carriegas, of the Baracaldo branch of the Banco Hispano Americano, was

The new violence came as two men submachine-gunned a Basque resident near the southern French town of Biarritz. Police said Pedro Elizaran was shot from a passing car as he tried to park his own car and was gravely wounded.

The Basque separatist organization ETA is fighting the Madrid government for self-rule in the northern Basque region of Spain, and many of its fighters frequently flee across the border into southern France to escape logs all day on the slopes of 10,237-foot Hoyt Mountain, 20 miles from their home. They have U.S. Forest Service permits granting them permission to harvest the trees, which they sell commercially. By 5 p.m., Mrs. Thompson and the children have loaded their flatbed truck with 8- to 14-foot-long logs for the first run home of the day and to pick up Olen at the sawmill. The entire family is back on the mountain by 6:30 p.m. to harvest the day's second load of logs. They don't quit until midnight and sometimes not until 1 or 2 a.m., working by moonlight, by flashlight

'For several reasons," Mrs. Thompson said as she barbecued steaks from a slaughtered family cow over an open fire in the forest.

"Olen and I believe it's important we keep our kids busy. The ruination of kids today is they're not kept busy. Working keeps our family together more than anything else. 'And we're working with purpose. We're saving our money so Olen can buy his own sawmill. Then we'll have a better life.

Last year with Thompson's salary at the sawmill and what they've made from their logging operation, the Thompson family earned $15,000.

Mrs. Thompson takes time out from cutting wood on the mountain now and then to stay home to bake bread, to put up fruit and vegetables gathered from her yard, to butcher a cow, to sew and to take care of

Open membership hassle turns 'national' spotlight on Jaycees

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - The national leader of the Jaycees says challenges to the organization's all- The other two factions fall between those two, he male membership rule have had a "positive" result said. "Some don't mind women as long as they aren't and put the group in the "national limelight."

But others feel the court suits around the nation certain conditions. have split the young men's group into factions and say the time has come to open membership to principles at stake in the dispute, which he said cost

The battle has been boiling for years, and soon some of the suits may come to resolution. But J. Terryl Bechtol, president of the Tulsa-based group, doesn't see that as the end of it. The Jaycees are ready to "fight to our last dime" on leave as a vice president of a motivational rule seminar firm and will be on the road 340 days this year as the Jaycee's major spokesman against a change in rules.

Bechtol joined the Jaycees 10 years ago and found more money I made." He campaigned for the Jaycee presidency in 46 states last year, and with his red. white and blue vocabulary, was known as the "miracle candidate."

"I was the man who wasn't supposed to get White House" here in June.

"I think it's the most positive thing that's haphad an opportunity to state our stand. It was not always a popular one ... But people started spelling America is all about. our name right ... Some of the great things we've been doing for years now have been brought to that were unique?" Bechtol asked. "Two things that

To Linda Berge, a member of the Alaska Jaycees changed," Bechtol said. "We've grown up. and one of the plaintiffs in the suit, the issue is a simple one - women are being discriminated against. "Everything they do is for the whole community, not just half of it," she said of the Jaycees.

And says Penny May, executive assistant to the Alaska Jaycees: "The Alaska Jaycees are 100 percent behind having women ... We passed a resolution in our May 1979 annual meeting to that effect."

Bernie Garostiague, president of Anchorage's Gold Rush Jaycees, said he thinks the Jaycees will admit women. "Some of the older Jaycees don't want it to happen, so there probably won't be enough votes for the next couple of years. But it's coming,'

A Massachusetts Jaycees official, who asked that his name not be used, said he sees four factions within the Jaycees. ,

Return of Puerto Ricans cheered by thousands

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - Welcomed home to chants of "Puerto Rico Libre - Free Puerto Rico," four Puerto Rican nationalists paid homage at the grave of their mentor on their first night in their native land after spending a quarter century in U.S. jails.

The four advocates of independence for this U.S. Commonwealth, granted amnesty by President Carter on Monday, returned home Wednesday to the cheers of about 5,000 well-wishers at the San Juan airport.

From the airport, Lolita Lebron, Irving Flores, Rafael Cancel Miranda and Oscar Collazo led a caravan of several hundred cars to the tomb of their political leader Pedro Albizu Campos at a cemetery in Old San

They placed a bouquet of red roses and a floral arrangement in the shape of the Puerto Rican flag on the tomb of the man who inspired their attacks on President Harry S. Truman and the U.S. House of Representatives. It was Albizu Campos who first galvanized the independence movement in the 1930s and founded the now defunct Puerto Rican Nationalist Party, to which the four belonged. He died on April 21, 1965.

Dressed in a black suit and white blouse - the colors of the Nationalist Party - Lolita Lebron fell on her knees to hug and kiss the flag-draped marble tomb. The 59-year-old Mrs. Lebron then hailed Albizu Campos as "the teacher, the father of our country."

Oscar Collazo, who spent 29 years behind bars for a 1950 assassination attempt against Truman that killed one of his guards, called for a minute of silence in memory of the nationalist leader.

Mrs. Lebron, together with Flores, Cancel Miranda and the late Andres Figueroa Cordero, shot up House of Representatives in 1954, wounding five congressmen. Carter freed Figueroa Cordero last year because of ill health. He died here of lung cancer in March.

The nationalists, who drew crowds of 700-1,500 in Chicago and more than 3,000 in New York before flying home, appealed for unity in the campaign

Two parties currently support independence for the Caribbean island, but residents have voted against it and chosen to continue the commonwealth alliance with the United States.

In separate news conferences in New York Tuesday, Mrs. Lebron and Flores said they would use violence again if they felt it necessary.

Priest asks Pope John Paul II to meet American prostitutes

NEW YORK (AP) - A Roman Catholic priest who specializes in ministering to prostitutes has urged Pope John Paul II to meet some of them on his U.S. tour and to extend to them a word of kindness and love.

That's what Jesus did, says the Rev. Depaul A. Genska, and he says that for the pope to do so would manifest Jesus' love "again in our time.'

"We suggest you visit an area of female prostitution - actually walking the streets there, meeting with persons face to face - and issuing a brief statement," Genska said in a letter to the pope Aug. 19, which became known this week.

Copies also went to 35 U.S. bishops, some of whom Genska says have reacted favorably but consider such meetings doubtful because of the Injured girl visits with Pope

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) - A 10-year-old girl who suffered spinal injuries in an automobile accident last month was carried in on a stretcher to see Pope John Paul II foday in a visit arranged after an appeal by her mother.

The girl, Stefania Mosca, was driven in a Vatican ambulance from her hospital to the pope's summer palace here in the Alban Hills south of Rome. The Vatican described the visit as

Her mother had approached the pontiff at a recent general audience and appealed to him to receive Stepope's tight schedule and because it would be "too risky," implying "endorsement of a lifestyle.

Genska, who worked six years among prostitutes in the New York metropolitan area and who now is researching the subject at Chicago's Catholic Theological Union, told the pope there are 10 million prostitutes. in the United States.

Genska listed specific city areas where the pope could spend a few minutes with some of them — New York's Times Square, Boston's Combat Zone, Washington's Thomas Circle, Chicago's Rush Street and North Sheridan Road.

"These persons are so often considered outcasts from the church's concern," Genska wrote. He said attention by the pope would help overcome "apathy and condemnation" toward prostitutes by the church, which often shuns "the example of its founder, Jesus, who befriended prostitutes, talking, eating, sharing with them."

He "did not fear to choose a prostitute - Mary Magdalene - to be the apostle of the apostles," Genska wrote, telling John Paul II: "Your words will be evidence that we - the church — have not totally abandoned

Genska said the pope is "going to be meeting with bishops and a lot of 'square' people, and that's good," but it would add much if he also "reaches out" to those ordinarily excluded.

"They're human beings, and many are Christians," said Genska, who said he keeps in touch with many prostitutes across the country.

Sen. Long to vote nay on SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell Long says he will vote against the SALT II treaty because it is not verifiable and will prolong the nuclear arms race, not prevent it.

Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is a major Senate Democrat and his decision is seen as a serious blow to the Carter administration's campaign to ratify the

"If I had any doubt about it - and I didn't have much - my doubts were removed by the last indication down there in Cuba that the Russians are not keeping their faith on that agreement they made (in 1962) with President Kennedy," said the Louisiana

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance prepared for another meeting with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to negotiate the future of a combat brigade of up to 3,000

Soviet troops in Cuba. Officials said the administration hopes a long series of meetings between Vance and Dobrynin - without any public announcements following the sessions - will cool the crisis atmosphere that has surrounded the revelation of the troops' presence.

Published reports said U.S. intelligence is examining the possiblity that the Soviet brigade in Cuba may be there to demonstrate field maneuvers to Cuban soliders.

The Washington Post and The New York Times both quoted an unnamed State Department official as saying this was one of the possible explanations under consideration for the presence of the troops

The Post said State Department officials denied that this possibility was being used as a trial balloon by the Carter administration to point the way to a likely settlement of the U.S.-Soviet dispute.

However, such an explanation would be a modification of the administration's earlier contention that the force was strictly a combat unit.

The Times quoted intelligence officials as saying the U.S. had learned from monitoring Soviet radio communications a year ago that a combat force designated as a "brigade" was in Cuba, but did not pursue the mat-

House defeats draft registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite overwhelming defeat in the House, an Oct. 1. Consideration of that overall gress. effort to bring back military draft registration may be put to a vote in the Senate.

Yates well opens Eddy gas sector

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., has completed the No. 1-KI Cottonwood-Federal as a Canyon gas discovery in Eddy County.

Seven miles northwest of Artesia, the strike finaled for a daily flow of 600,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 20/64-inch choke and perforations from 6,868 to 6,874 feet. Flowing tubing pressure was 250 pounds.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 17-16s-25e and four miles west of 5,055-foot Wolfcamp gas production and 7,178-foot Atoka gas production in an unnamed

Total depth is 7,400 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

OTHER EDDY WORK

W. W. Buchanan of Mineral Wells No. 1 Osage, a re-entry project in Eddy County eight miles southwest of Lake Wood, has been completed as a one-mile southwest extension to the Cemetary, North (Wolfcamp gas)

It completed for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,341,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with shut-in wellhead pressure of 1,955 pounds. Completion was through perforations from 7,059 to 7,122 feet. The well originally was completed through Morrow perforations from 9,-364 to 9,474 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 18-20s-25e. Total depth is 9,640 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

Amoco Production Co. No. 1-3 Anderson Communitized is a new well in the Anderson Ranch (Morrow) gas field, six miles north of Maljamar. It finaled for a daily flowing potential of 3,800,000 cubic feet of dry gas, through a 20/64-inch choke and perforations from 12,456 to 12,463 feet. The pay was acidized with 150 gallons. Total depth is 12,635 feet and 5.5inch pipe is set on bottom.

The well is 1,980 feet from east and 1,830 feet from south lines of section 3-16s-32e.

Amoco Production No. 12 Greenwood Unit-Federal has been potentialed in the Shugart (Pennsylvanian) pool of Eddy County, 12 miles southwest of Maljamar.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 4,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 26/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,492 to 11,581 feet. Total depth is 11,800 feet and 5.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. Location is 2,650 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 35-18s-31e.

LEA OPERATIONS

Three field area projects have been announced in Lea County areas.

Amoco Production No. 1-AC Federal will be drilled to 13,700 feet in the Tonto, West (Pennsylvanian) field, seven miles northeast of Halfway.

The location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of sec-

Conoco, Inc., No. 113-A SEMU (Blinebry-Tubb) is to be drilled in an undesignated Blinebry-Tubb area of Lea County, seven miles northeast of Oil Center.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 20-20s-38e. Ground elevation is 3,540 feet, and the contract depth is 6,740 ****

Read & Stevens, Inc., No. 1 Dickenson-State is another project in an undesignated area.

Scheduled on a 12,300-foot contract, it is 330 feet from north and 100 feet from west lines of section 6-11s-37e and 10 miles northeast of Tatum.

CHAVES PROJECTS

Four field operations have been staked in Chaves County. Harvey E. Yates Co. of Roswell. N.M. No. 2 North Cato is a 3,350-foot project in the Cato (San Andres) field, 10 miles southeast of Elkins.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 4-8s-30e.

Cola Petroleum Inc., of Midland No. 1 Lario-State will be drilled 16 miles southwest of Milnesand in the Bar-U (Pennsylvanian) pool. Scheduled on a 9,300-foot contract, it is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 31-8s-33e.

Orla Petco Inc. of Midland spotted a 2.000-foot test in the Double L (Queen) pool of Chaves County, 19 miles east of Hagerman.

It is No. 1 Henderson-Federal, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 23-14s-29e.

Moranco Oil Co. of Hobbs, N.M., No. 1-34 Western Reserves-Federal is a 4,300-foot test in the Tom-Tom (San Andres) field, 17 miles east of

The operato will spud 330 feet from north and 1,650 feet from west lines of section 34-7s-31e. Ground elevation is 4.341 feet.

ROOSEVELT TEST

Wolfson Oil Co. No. 6 Mountain-Federal is a new test in the Tomahawk area of Roosevelt County, 13 miles south of Kenna. Scheduled to 4,300 feet, it is 990 feet from north and east lines of section

STONEWALL STRIKE

Calhoun & Ellison Oil Co. of Aspermont recently completed its No. 1 Thomas B. Rutherford as a Canyon reef oil discovery in Stonewall County, seven miles south of Aspermont.

Formerly the H. W. Herndon Jr. No. 1 Rutherford, it finaled for a daily flowing potential of 442 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 20 barrels of waterh, through a 3/8-inch choke and perforations from 5,090 to 5,100. The gas-oil ratio is 857-1, and the pay was washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. The Canyon reef was topped at 5,058 feet on ground elevation os 1,750.6 feet. Other tops include the Cisco,

REAGAN EXTENDERS

Saxon Oil Co. of Midland has potential two projects in the Spraberry Trend Area field in Reagan County, 15 miles northwest of Big Lake.

On 24-hour pumping potential the No. 2-B Turner pumped 31 barrels of 37.5-gravity oil and 178 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,-303 to 7.913 feet.

The producing zone was acidized with 3,000 gallons and fractured with 126,000 gallons.

The gas-oil ratio is 1,387-1. Location is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 1202, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Saxon also completed the No. 2-A Turner, 1/2-mile east extension, to pump 30 barrels of 38.4 gravity oil and 157 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,305 to 7,883 feet, which was acidized with 3,000 gallons andfractured with 126,000 gallons.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and west lines of section 1201, CCSD&RGNG survey, 15 miles northwest of Big Lake.

HOCKLEY EXTENDER

Marshall R. Young of Midland has announced plans to drill the No. 3 Vivian Dopson 1/2-mile east of the Clear Fork discovery well of the one-well Ropesville (Clear Fork) field in Hockley County.

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) - Getty Oil Co. has abandoned an area about 50 miles off the Georgia coast after a third unsuccessful attempt to find oil or natural gas, the company said.

Congress wants say-so in distribution of coupons ready to grant the president standby powers to ration gasoline during a shortage, Congress isn't about to deal itself out of the decision on how coupons would be distributed.

House-Senate energy conferees were returning to the bargaining table today to decide whether Congress or the president should have the final say on details of a coupon rationing plan.

The session follows agreement Wednesday on a compromise formula for determining when rationing could be imposed. Leaders called the agreement a major breakthrough in their attempt to forge a compromise standby rationing bill.

The panel was named last month to resolve differences between versions of the legislation previously passed by each chamber. The compromise bill the panel produces will go back to both the full House and Senate for final approval.

Basically, the conference panel went along with the House approach to give the president rationing authority during a 20 percent or greater fuel shortage that lasts, or seemed likely to last, for 30 days.

Either house of Congress would have 15 days to block implementation of rationing after the president announced his intention to impose it. If neither house acted within that time, the president's plan would go into effect automatically.

But bowing to Senate pressure to give the president more flexibility, the conferees also established a procedure under which rationing could occur during shortages of gasoline or diesel fuel below 20 percent.

This would require the president to get the approval of both houses of Congress, but he could do so in a bill that would be guaranteed rush treatment - with no filibustering or other

COTTLE RE-ENTRY

Administration officials said President Carter — who has made standby rationing legislation a key part of his energy plan - would likely accept the compromise formula with its basic 20 percent trigger as the best that could be negotiated

But further battling is expected on the subject of prior congressional approval of details of a rationing plan.

The House-passed bill would give the president a free hand to determine how ration coupons should be distributed - decisions like whether to give them out based on the number

A previous Carter plan which detailed the relative number of coupons each state would get was rejected by the House last May. Since then, House leaders have been fearful of giving members too much say over specifics

But Senate negotiators and many House members are balking about such a hands-off approach and say Congress should have more of a say.

of any rationing plan.

"We will have a very difficult time getting it through the Senate without some form of prior approval," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M.

Texas tax break WASHINGTON (AP) - The royalties that Texas education funds receive from oil and gas production on state land should not be subject to the "windfall profits" tax, a Senate committee has decided. The Texas Railroad Commission had estimated the exemption will amount to about $3.5 million for the state's Permanent School Fund in 1979 and 1980 and about $3.57 million for the Permanent University Fund during the two years.

emption. It was identical to a provision included in the House version of the bill. The amendment then was expanded to exempt all state income from oil and gas production. The railroad commission estimated the expansion would add about $6,000 to state funds

'The costs of higher education have skyrocketed in recent years, imposamendment sponsored by Sen. Lloyd

Bentsen, D-Texas, setting out the ex-

Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong had testified before the committee about the state's oil and gas royalties. The income goes into the permanent school funds and the interest on the body or "corpus" of the funds is used for education. "Therefore, the application of any crude oil 'windfall' profits tax to state school lands not onlywil reduce directly the amount of funds otherwise available to such states for their educational programs, but take away

a part of the corpus that we have struggled to maintain," Armstrong Both Texans denied claims that exempting the state royalties would grant a subsidy or be the equivalent of revenue sharing.

"Contrary to assertions by the dmnistration this exemption does of involve a form of revenue sharing. It is not a 'subsidy' unless one beeves that all oil revenues belong to be federal government and can only e reallocated back to state governments," Bentsen said.

THOMASTON, Maine (AP) - Ned Ackerman has launched his schooner and it is as lovely as his dream.

Its wooden hull is white, trimmed in lipstick red. It rides in the water as graceful as a swan. Its carved figurehead is that of a fox, grinning, a chicken feather lingering on its lips.

As soon as its topmast is raised and its rigging rigged, we shall find out whether Ned Ackerman is as crazy as some think or is crazy like his figurehead - crazy like a fox. "We really won't know until I've operated the boat for a couple of years," he said. "But the way the business is coming in I believe I could operate a whole fleet of them.' Ned Ackerman, merchant adventurer, has bet his all on a belief that

Ned Ackerman, 37, insists he is a practical businessman, not a romantic, though he did follow a dream; a dream inspired by a man, a book and a bowl of fish house punch. The man was John F. Leavitt, who has since died. The book, "Wake of the Coasters," was written by him. Fish house punch, landlubbers, is a Down East concoction as fraught with peril as Maine's rocky coast. Leavitt's book made the point that a coasting schooner might turn a profit today if it weren't plagued by re-

President's Alaska bill challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new challenge to President Carter's Alaska preservation effort is going before Senate committee, insuring a full hearing for the issue after months of

The battle could serve as a skirmish preceding a bigger Senate fight this fall over the huge, House-passed Alaska lands bill that would designate more than 100 million acres as wildlife refuges and wilderness areas.

Today's hearing before the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee concerns a bill sponsored by Alaska's senators, Democrat Mike Gravel and Republican Ted Stevens, to drastically cut Carter's authority to designate vast national monuments

The bill would require a president to gain congressional approval to establish any national monument larger than 5,000 acres. In December 1978, as an earlier Alaska lands bill was dying in Congress, Carter acted alone to designate land parcels totaling 56 million acres as national monuments in Alaska, using his authority under the 1906 Antiquities Act.

Gravel called Carter's action "a gross abuse of his legitimate powers' and noted that Alaska state officials are suing Carter and Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus in another effort to stop the move.

Past presidents have used the same law to establish the Grand Canyon, Ariz., and Death Valley, Calif., national monuments.

In a pre-hearing statement, Gravel said of Carter's action, "It is perfectly clear from the act and from its legislative history that this law was never meant to be used to the extent

Gravel's bill would be retroactive to October 1978, thereby wiping out Carter's national monument designations of December. The House-passed Alaska lands bill also would repeal Carter's monument designations, but would do so only in the process of protecting millions of additional acres through legislative designa-

Stevens has pointed out that Carter would be unlikely to sign the monument-limiting legislation. But he said the congressional effort is "a theory that needs testing."

Alaska's senators, as well as many state officials and business leaders there, say industrial development and oil exploration is sorely needed in Alaska, and they strongly oppose federal designations placing big chunks of their state off-limits.

Gravel said 15 other senators are co-sponsoring the legislation with Stevens and himself.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It is not safe to go outside "If one takes into account that and breathe in Pasadena as some of the worst smog ever to hit the Los Angeles area hangs over the eastern suburbs like a deadly pall.

For the first time in history, air quality officials on Wednesday issued a "hazardous" warning for air over parts of Los Angeles. "Hazardous" is the worst of the advertising business, which can category of smog, and even healthy adults are advised to stay inside.

Wednesday was the sixth straight day of heavy smog over the area, and the siege was expected to continue through the weekend.

To make matters worse, temperatures have been not to be alone with themselves on two in the 100s, it has been humid, a bus strike has been putting more cars on the freeways and a 2,200-acre into a hall in a hotel under severe brush fire was burning in the hills above Pasadena. The Air Quality Management District ordered a 20 drink, not to smoke, not to visit the percent reduction in industrial emissions as of mid-

Air quality inspectors said they would rope off company parking lots today to cars with fewer than "In such practically spartan condithree occupants."

About 2,600 firms with more than 100 employees ceeded in life, you yourself are to blame, not the people around you, not each are required by law to reduce employee driving when smog gets this bad.

The district also asked all businesses, regardless of the number of employees, to begin voluntary

When you buy a used car, what else do you get besides the car?

Automobiles 30

In a good restaurant, when you buy a dinner, you get more than just food. You get service, a pleasant atmosphere, and a feeling that the owners would like you to come back.

It's the very same way that we like to sell used cars. Since our reputation is more "on the line" when we sell a used car, you can be sure we'll do everything we can to make our used car customer a satisfied customer.
