$155 million lawsuit filed against PEMEX

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston attorney has filed a $155 million lawsuit against Mexico's state oil company on behalf of fishermen who contend they have lost money in the world's worst oil spill.

Joe Jaimal named the defendants in the federal court class action as PEMEX, the Mexican oil monopoly, and SEDCO, a firm founded by Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

"Since the governor of this state has refused to represent the people of Texas, somebody had to," he said. "I filed the suit to force some people's hands and, by God, I think — I know — we can win a judgment."

Spillage from Ixtoc I, a PEMEX oil well in the Bay of Campeche, has stained more than 100 miles of Texas beaches and sent oil slicks over a wide area where fishermen harvest shrimp, oysters and crab.

The well has pumped more than 98 million gallons of oil into the Gulf since it ruptured June 3.

Thousand of steel and lead balls are being pumped into the well and have helped cut the flow from the initial 30,000 barrels per day. Open water containment booms and skimmers are sweeping up some of the oil at the well head. Officials hope to cap the well this month.

In a related development, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said the high tides and surging waves from Hurricane Frederic may have helped cleanup efforts along the Texas Coast.

Dr. Nancy Maynard said Thursday the tides lifted tar balls and other oily splashes past the intertidal zone — the area of sand between high and low tide where birds, crabs and other species feed.

In addition, the waves may have pushed ashore submerged oil that had been trapped in troughs between sandbars, she said.

Clements, Texas' first Republican governor in more than 100 years, placed his interest in SEDCO in trust and disassociated himself from the multi-million dollar firm before his election. The Dallas-based company leased to the Mexican government the offshore rig that collapsed.

PEMEX officials refused to comment on the oil suit. Clements was in Moscow and not available for comment.

Gil Clements, the governor's son and chief officer of SEDCO, said, "I can't say I am surprised by a lawsuit being filed. I am surprised that any one thinks they can document any damages against us."

Jaimal said he represented a group of fishermen who suffered "million-dollar losses" in the past year.

"This will increase as their losses increase, and I expect the owners of hotels and motels and others along the affected beach areas to eventually join in this action," he said.

During the past few months, Clements and Texas Attorney General Mark White have been at odds over whether legal action should be taken against the Mexican government for the oil spillage.

The governor has said, "There is no foundation for any statement that SEDCO is responsible for the blowout, or that the equipment was defective."

$1 million ad campaign proposed for beaches

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, today proposed a million dollar emergency appropriation to be used by the Texas Tourist Development Agency to combat the negative publicity generated by the Mexican oil spill.

Uribe's proposal came at a Capitol press conference where Texas Gulf Coast tourist officials said the beaches are now clean and the threat of the spill may be over.

In a letter to Gov. Bill Clements, Uribe asked that any special legislative session include consideration of the appropriation.

"We will need extra advertising to overcome the image of oil-stained beaches. Once the beaches are finally cleaned, the funds will be used to announce our recovery from the effects of the worst oil spill in history," Uribe said.

Carter visits Gulf Coast

Frederic now dropping torrential rains

By The Associated Press

President Carter inspected the suffering cities of the Gulf Coast today while the remnants of Hurricane Frederic dumped heavy rains west of the Appalachians, causing flooding in some areas.

In the meantime, the death toll continued to climb and police reported the arrests of dozens of looters in the Mobile, Ala., area.

While Carter was making a helicopter tour of the ravaged coastline be-light or cooking were killed Thursday night in an explosion in a storm-battered home southeast of Mobile.

Cutting normal red tape, the White House on Thursday designated 30 counties ravaged by Hurricane Frederic in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida as disaster areas. Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said the recovery of the Gulf Coast "is going to take years."

Mobile, Ala., one citizens band radio operator said, "Looks like King Kong took a stroll through down-

West Virginia and western Pennsylvania with heavy rains, had dumped more than 5 inches of rain on Buffalo, N.Y., by 9 a.m., forcing the closing of all schools in the state's second largest city. Many suburban schools also closed.

Some roads in Buffalo were flooded, stacking up traffic jams several miles long.

Heavy rains in northwestern Pennsylvania this morning caved in the roof of the municipal bus station in Erie, Pa. No injuries were reported but five buses were damaged.

Earlier the storm dumped as much as 7 inches of rain on western and central Kentucky and up to 6 inches on eastern Tennessee. Three inches fell on Cincinnati and Erie as the system moved north.

The National Weather Service issued flash flood warnings for all of western New York and flash flood watches for much of central and northern New York and the Adirondacks as the storm moved across the state in a northeasterly direction at about 20 mph.

On the Gulf Coast, the more than 400,000 residents who had fled continued to return to their homes, some to find nothing left.

"For Sale Cheap," read the sign on one flattened trailer in Mississippi. "Extras: sun roof and solar air."

Frederic left six confirmed dead and two others missing and presumed dead on the Gulf Coast and property damage so extensive officials were reluctant to make estimates.

But Florida Gov. Bob Graham said he feared the damage toll from the latest tropical devastation might surpass the $95 million racked up David there.

Towns from Florida to Mississippi sustained heavy damage in Frederic's 130 mph winds and in the tornadoes that trailed the storm.

City delays refinancing water and sewer bonds

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Results of the city's $16.83 million bond election earlier this month were canvassed Tuesday by the Midland City Council during a meeting at City Hall, but the first step in refinancing current water and sewer bonds was delayed.

Three issues in the nine-proposal bond election passed — $3.6 million for improvements to the sewer plant, $4.2 million for water system improvements and $6 million for street improvements.

The other six issues were defeated overwhelmingly. In approving the resulting vote tallies, Councilman Tom Sloan quipped that he "didn't like the results."

AFTER REVIEWING an agreement with the First Southwest Co. on water and sewer revenue refunding bonds, the council decided to compare "apples with apples" before deciding on the firm's proposal.

Robert Massengale, director of finance, said the city has an agreement with the firm to handle the city's bonds. But under the refinancing method, the city can choose another firm to handle the bonds.

"The rate was higher than the council thought it would be," Massengale said of First Southwest's charges. The firm had requested $17.50 per $1,000. In the past, the maximum limit had been $12.50 per $1,000, Massengale said.

By waiting, the city also will have time to make another principal payment on the existing bonds, thus bringing the refinancing amount down from almost $6 million to a little more than $4 million, he added.

Water, sewer and garbage rate increases of 10 percent were approved by the council on second reading. These increases should become effective Oct. 1, the beginning of the city's fiscal year. The city approved First National Bank's bid to purchase $500,000 for airport revenue bonds at 6 percent interest. An ordinance, also passed by the council, authorized issuance of those bonds.

THE FUNDS WILL be used to construct a Federal Aviation Administration building at Midland Regional Airport. Rent to be paid by the FAA will pay off the bonds.

The City Council officially supported retaining Midland Air Park in its current location for the next 20 years, with Councilman Carroll Thomas opposing.

"We should face up to losing it," Thomas said of the small city airport. "I feel that in another five years we may find the encroachment that we are seeing now from the residential development increasing, and we should seriously consider a relocation for Air Park."

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. rejected the idea, saying, "I'm satisfied there isn't a viable alternative to Air Park."

Sale of Cal White's stock in Aquila, Inc., to Dunavant Enterprises was approved by the six-member panel. White, who owns Aquila, said the company would become a subsidiary of Dunavant.

With the council's earlier move to support Midland Air Park, the members also approved hiring Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc. to update a study on one of the runways and carry the project through to completion. Col. Wilson Banks, the city's director of aviation, said the runway is almost unusable.

Sloan and Angelo were selected by the council to talk with the Midland Independent School District board of tween Mobile and Pensacola, authorities in Alabama reported two more deaths attributed to the storm, bringing the total to eight, with two missing and presumed dead.

Attorney says Mathis 'victim of circumstances'

Jurors in the Midland trial of 20-year-old Raymond Wesley Mathis, who is charged with murder, retired at 10:50 a.m. today to make its decision following summations by the defense and prosecution.

Mathis is being tried in connection with the July 18 shooting death, east of Midland on Interstate 20, of U.S. Army Sgt. J.B. England. He has pleaded innocent to the charge.

In closing, defense attorney Rusty Wall described Mathis as a victim of circumstances.

"All evidence points to Chamblis, but the spotlight falls on Raymond Wesley Mathis...because he was there."

Wall was referring to Midlander Kelly Joe Chamblis, 17, also charged with murder in the case and now awaiting trial. Said Wall: "He (Chamblis) is your murderer."

District Attorney Vern Martin urged the jury to "contrast the evidence with common sense."

"Common sense," said Martin, "tells you Mathis, at least, was a party to the offense."

Martin continued, saying Mathis was "the mastermind of this thing" and holding that the evidence showed Mathis "probably did some of the shooting."

The jury recessed for lunch about 11:30 a.m. after having retired at 10:50 a.m. for deliberations.

Midland City Council OKs small TESCO rate increase

If Texas Electric Service Co. doesn't protest, the utility will get only the 2.74 percent rate increase approved on second reading Tuesday by the Midland City Council.

The hike, to take effect about Dec. 1, is less than a sixth of the 16.1 percent increase requested by the electric company.

Assistant City Manager Fred Poe said the hearing examiner for TESCO's case before the Public Utility Commission has recommended a higher increase.

If that figure is approved by the PUC, then TESCO probably will appeal Midland's proposed increase, he added.

The Dec. 1 starting date was decided upon after it was considered how long such an appeal probably would take, Poe said.

TESCO filed a request in May for a 16.1 percent overall rate increase. The city of Midland joined with other cities and hired a consulting firm to study the proposal.

That firm said an increase of 2.74 percent would suffice to cover what TESCO had listed generally as inflationary costs and, specifically, as increased costs of new power plant construction.

The council had approved the 2.74 percent figure on first reading during its Aug. 28 meeting in City Hall.

Cool front brings chance for showers

Fall is taking an early trip into the Permian Basin as a cool front is bringing cool temperatures and a chance for rain.

The weatherman said skies should be overcast for the most part by tonight and remaining partly cloudy through Saturday.

Temperatures should drop into the middle 50s tonight and rise only into the low 70s Saturday.

High Thursday was 84 degrees, almost a cold front compared to the record 102 degrees set on that date in 1930.

Overnight low was 61 degrees compared to 52 set in 1949.

The weatherman noted that two years ago at this time, the Permian Basin was on the verge of entering an unusual heat wave.

Elsewhere, high pressure dominated the Texas weather scene today, bringing cooler temperatures and drier air to most of the state.

Forecasts called for mostly sunny skies across the eastern half of the state and partly cloudy skies across the western half.

Highs today were to range from the middle 60s in the Panhandle to the middle 90s along the Rio Grande in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

A few showers and thunderstorms were reported in the Panhandle and on the South Plains during the night as an upper level disturbance moved southward out of Colorado.

Cloudy skies were reported early today in the Panhandle and South Plains, but the remainder of Texas had clear to partly cloudy skies.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s in the Panhandle to the middle 70s along the coast.

Early morning extremes ranged from 50 at Dalhart to 77 at Galveston.

Carter, Sen. Kennedy appear at same event

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy are taking their undeclared presidential campaigns into a new arena by appearing at the same event, much to the delight of the audience.

Both men showed up Thursday night at a black-tie event sponsored by the tiny congressional Hispanic caucus, although their appearances were separated by a few hours.

The Massachusetts senator, attending a pre-dinner reception for about 10 minutes, was mobbed so tightly by reporters and television crews that it's doubtful many people ever saw his face.

The president, featured speaker at the $100-a-plate dinner, was applauded often during a speech that dwelled on his accomplishments for the Hispanic community and besieged by members of the crowd for hand-shaking afterward.

Earlier in the week, Kennedy said he had "not foreclosed the possibility of running" for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, increasing speculation about a possible Kennedy-Carter battle.

Both men came bearing gifts: Kennedy's famous charisma and reputation in the Senate; Carter's political favors such as announcements that he had selected Hispanics to be chief of protocol and secretary of the Navy.

It was all sweet music to the ears of Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., and the caucus, which has four members.

"All these years they didn't know we existed," Garcia said with a smile. "I am delighted. The attention is something we accept very willingly."

Garcia, the happy host, diplomatically evaded questions about his political preference as he escorted Kennedy around the reception room and, later, introduced the president at the dinner.

Sandra Augustine, 48, 1006 Cotton Flat Road, gives a Midland policeman a statement Thursday after her car was involved in a collision at the corner of North C Street and West Wall Street, according to police reports.

collision, sending the two cars into a third car driven by Erma Starling, 45, 210 N. C St., reports indicated. The collision forced Ms. Starling's car into a stop sign, police reports said.

Boston Globe reports Kennedy definitely will run

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has definitely decided to run for president, a Boston Globe columnist wrote today.

"The decision was made last month on Cape Cod away from what he has told friends are the unreal pressures of Washington," wrote Robert L. Healy in a front-page column.

Healy, associate editor of the newspaper, has been a long-time observer of Kennedy family politics.

"It was a decision that evolved," Healy wrote. "There were none of the conferences with brain trusts that both his brothers, John and Robert, had before they announced."

"To be sure, there were questions to be asked about the logistics of the primary system, but staff people such as Carl Wagner have always had the filing dates and the points of no return memorized."

Healy said Kennedy, D-Mass., planned to run in the primaries, although details about this had not been worked out.

"The matter was resolved largely with the blunting of one question — whether anyone of stature in the Democratic Party could stand and accuse him of wrecking the party by challenging of President Jimmy Carter," Healy said.

He said Kennedy was now satisfied that no major figure would accuse him of damaging the party.

Healy did not say who was the source of his information. Kennedy could not be reached immediately for comment.

If current recession persists, Carter's in political trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — If history is a guide, President Carter had better hope the current recession is behind him if he runs for re-election.

A standard fare textbook in many college economics courses says the outcome of elections often follows the up-and-down swings of the economy.

"In slumps, the ins go out," writes Paul A. Samuelson, an economist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "Thus, the 1960 Eisenhower recession helped elect President Kennedy, just as the Hoover depression of the 1930s helped elect Franklin Roosevelt."

Those conclusions are contained in his book entitled "Economics."

Samuelson referred to the recession that occurred near the end of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's term and the long depression that started in 1929 when Herbert Hoover was president.

While Eisenhower wasn't seeking a third term, Democrat John F. Kennedy defeated the then-incumbent vice president, Richard M. Nixon, who was later elected president in 1968.

The nation's longest and deepest recession since the Great Depression started about the time Nixon was forced to resign from the White House in 1974. While his resignation stemmed from the Watergate scandal, the impending economic slump didn't help him any.

Actually, even though such authorities as Treasury Secretary G. William Miller say the nation is now in a recession, Miller is not the official judge of whether a recession is occurring.

A recession is commonly defined as two consecutive quarters of decline of the nation's gross national product, which is the value of the total output of goods and services in the economy.

The GNP declined at an annual rate of 2.4 percent in the second quarter, after growing slightly in the first quarter. Most economists predict it also will decline in the third quarter, but those figures have not yet been compiled.

The actual decision on whether a downturn qualifies as a recession is made by an economic research organization called the National Bureau of Economic Research, based in Cambridge, Mass. It is not part of the government.

The organization's business cycle dating committee met July 26 to consider whether the economy is in a recession, but decided it was too early to say. It will meet again Oct. 25.

Geoffrey H. Moore, a member of the committee and former director of research for the bureau, is regarded as the nation's leading expert on recessions. He gives this definition: "A recession is a recurring period of decline in total output, income, employment and trade, usually lasting six months to a year, and marked by widespread contractions in many sectors of the economy."

Baker says Chappaquiddick shouldn't be legitimate issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., an unannounced candidate for the 1980 GOP presidential nomination, says the Chappaquiddick accident would not be a legitimate issue in the campaign if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is the Democratic nominee.

And Kennedy, in a newspaper interview published today, also said Chappaquiddick would not be a major issue.

Baker told reporters Thursday that if he and Kennedy were the nominees, "I would never mention Chappaquiddick."

The reference was to the incident in July 1969 in which a car driven by Kennedy, D-Mass., went off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, off the Massachusetts coast. Mary Jo Ko-pechne, a former aide to Kennedy's late brother, Robert, was a passenger in the car and drowned.

"I don't think it is a legitimate issue in a presidential contest," said Baker, when asked what impact Chappaquiddick might have on the 1980 campaign. "I would never mention it."

Meanwhile, Kennedy, in an interview with The New York Times, derided the suggestion that Chappaquiddick would be a big issue in a nomination fight against President Carter.

"The concerns of the people with regard to paying their mortgage or educating their children or paying their food bill or their heating bill are things which are of central importance — or whether they'll continue to have a job," he said.

House Republicans call for cut in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans, stepping up their attacks on Democratic budget policies, are calling for a tax cut and spending restraint as the answers to the twin problems of recession and inflation.

"Basically, what the Democrat majority is offering is warmed-over New Dealism, a retreated old formula that failed 40 years ago," House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said Thursday in a floor speech.

Rhodes said Democrats traditionally respond to high unemployment with "massive make-work projects" and added that they again appear "committed to the same old discredited formulas."

Rhodes' remarks came several hours after GOP leaders outlined in general terms their proposals for a $20 billion tax cut and $20 billion in spending cuts in fiscal 1980, which starts Oct. 1.

However, the Republicans refused to say exactly how they would achieve those savings.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic leaders reached a compromise on a politically touchy demand that Congress live up to its anti-spending rhetoric of last spring and make $4 billion in promised spending cuts.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, Budget Committee chairman, announced that chairmen of major Senate committees had agreed to achieve $3.6 billion of the cuts by Nov. 1.

"I think it was an important gain for the budget process," said the Maine Democrat.

The agreement, reached after two days of closed-door meetings, apparently clears the way for Senate action on the budget starting Monday. The House takes up the budget next Wednesday.

Muskie said the Senate Appropriations Committee, which handles most spending bills, has agreed to live within the budget limits set by the Budget Committee although, as part of the compromise, the precise areas of cuts were left unclear.

Muskie said legislative savings being demanded of two other committees, Veterans Affairs and Finance, would be reduced by $400 million to take into account the difficulty of passing certain cuts in veteran and Social Security benefits.

He added, however, that four other committees would be compelled to make savings as proposed in the target budget of last May.

At a luncheon Thursday, Rhodes said the Republican budget proposal would earmark $5 billion of a $20 billion tax cut for faster depreciation of business equipment. He said such a cut would encourage investment and boost productivity.

Rhodes also said the GOP spending package would call for a deficit of less than $20 billion, compared with the House Budget Committee's recommendation of a $29.2 billion deficit.

Rep. Bud Shuster of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, said the GOP budget also would set 1980 spending at "about $28 billion," $20 billion less than the Budget Committee's level.

Although declining to specify where savings would occur, Shuster and Rhodes said the GOP plan would propose higher defense spending than recommended by the Budget Committee.

In his floor speech, Rhodes accused the Democrats of permitting a recession to become severe before proposing a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

"Always, when recession comes, Democrats wait until suffering occurs, until the economy is being savaged by the downturn, and then pass a tax cut that takes effect months after it is needed," he said.

These robbers had a problem

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two robbers, wielding guns and wearing red bandanas over their faces, boldly walked through the door and announced a holdup. There was only one problem — the place they wanted to rob was next door.

The two bumbling bandits had intended to rob a loan company that shares a building in north San Antonio with an advertising company.

It took a few minutes, but startled employees at the advertising agency convinced the bewildered bandits Thursday that they were robbing the wrong side of the building.

Youth shot by police

DALLAS (AP) — A 14-year-old Dallas youth was in serious condition today after he was wounded by police gunfire Thursday when he allegedly pointed a pistol at officer David Allen, a police spokesman said.

Police spokesman Ed Spencer said Jose Angel Perez, who is married and has a 6-month-old child, was being treated at Parkland Hospital for gunshot wounds in the abdomen and right hand.

The youth was a passenger in a stolen car that crashed into a tree during a high speed chase by police, Spencer said.

Teachers workshop scheduled

ANDREWS — Several educators will address the fall workshop of the District XVIII Texas Joint Council of Teachers of English here Saturday.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. in Andrews High School.

Book and art displays will be available for interested members during registration.

Speakers for the workshop will be Andrews Superintendent Bill Graves; Tommy Boley, vice president for workshops for TJCTE; Sharon White of Big Spring High School; Martin Mogford of Alamo Junior High School in Midland and Ned Pilcher of Odessa College.

Odessa cuts 21 employees

ODESSA — The Odessa City Council cut 21 requested new employees from the 1979-80 city budget this week.

The cut from City Manager Kerry Sweatt's proposed budget came during a work session Wednesday night.

The move, council members said, was an attempt to hold down the growth of city government.

The eight new positions approved will up the city payroll to $11.9 million for 712 employees.

Bike rodeo in Big Spring

BIG SPRING — Motorcycles will be coming out of the chutes when the Motorcycle and Three-Wheeler Rodeo gets under way Sept. 21 in the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl.

Sponsored by the American Business Club of Big Spring, the rodeo will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will take place during the Howard County Fair.

Prizes will be awarded to the first three finishers in each class of competition.

Lori Holloway is fair queen

ODESSA — Odessa Lori Holloway was named Miss Permain Basin Fair and Exposition 1979 Wednesday night.

First runner-up in the pageant was Terri Jensen of Odessa. Teri McDaniel of Odessa took second runner-up honors, and Julie Dozier of Andrews was named third runner-up from the field of 10 contestants.

Checking the inventory list of items to be auctioned Saturday by the city of Midland is City Finance Director Robert Masengale. Bidding on the items, including this large electrical equipment, will begin at 10 a.m. at the City Garage, located at South Lane and Carver Streets. (Staff Photo)

City of Midland schedules annual auction Saturday

What might be called the biggest garage sale in Midland will take place Saturday.

The city of Midland is having its annual auction starting at 10 a.m. at the City Garage, 1600 Orchard Lane.

A few of the items for sale include nine-half-ton pickups, 27 bicycles, 16 four-door automobiles and three three-wheel cycles.

But that's not all, according to Riley Brooks with the city purchasing department.

Numerous office machines will be on the market. And items taken from buildings located where Midland Center is going up also will be auctioned.

These goods run from the mundane — such as air conditioning units or hot water heating coils — to the more unusual, such as an elevator lift.

"We get a large number of people to these auctions," Brooks said. Many are lookers while others are buyers or would-be buyers.

Conducting the auction will be Renee Bates of McKinney.

Brooks described Bates as "a skilled professional and quite a showman."

Money from the sale will go into the city's general operating fund, he said. The annual auction usually brings in about $30,000 to $40,000.

The auction usually is held in July, but late delivery on some vehicles to replace old ones delayed the sale this year, said Brooks.

Little progress reported in auto talks

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the United Auto Workers Union and General Motors Corp. had made little progress in their efforts to reach a new contract despite an all-night bargaining session, a union spokesman said early today.

The announcement was the first word on the status of the talks since UAW President Douglas Fraser announced that negotiations would continue around the clock.

The current contract for 95,000 autoworkers expires at midnight. "It would be a shame if we let it get away from us," Fraser said before the marathon session began Thursday night.

"The differences between us look like they can be resolved with some intensive negotiations. We're just going to stay at the bargaining table."

Looming on the other side of the deadline was an unprecedented selective strike against GM plants that make the company's more-popular cars and trucks, parts warehouses that serve dealers and a locomotive plant that supplies three-quarters of the nation's diesel locomotives.

A settlement would set a pattern for negotiations with Ford Motor Co., the nation's No. 2 automaker. The UAW has all but conceded that troubled Chrysler Corp. for the first time will be permitted to break the Big Three pattern with a lesser settlement.

In all, 95,350 of GM's 460,000 UAW workers and nearly half of the planned 1980 model car production would be idled in strikes at 13 of 26 assembly plants, 32 of 43 warehouses and the locomotive factory.

The subject of discussion was the company's economic package presented shortly after 6 p.m. Thursday, covering pensions, the key issue, and wages and more paid time off.

"We haven't discussed the economics since Saturday," Fraser said before the session in announcing that unspecified secondary issues had been cleared away.

Though not formally declared, a news blackout was put into effect. "If we see you again, it will be to announce a settlement or a strike," the union leader said.

Pensions — specifically, the protection of workers already retired against inflation — were said his company's results were distorted by a sales incentive program Ford sponsored during the same period last year for its zone and district employees.

The five U.S. manufacturers delivered 155,467 cars against 135,091 in early September last year. Ford said half were intermediates or larger, considered a normal ratio. Those sizes fell to 42.5 percent of the market at some points in the spring as buyers sought fuel economy.

Chrysler's share was 16 percent and 18 percent in the last period of August, well above the 9 percent to 12 percent it was grabbing in the dark days of spring and early summer.

The rebates, said Gar Laux, Chrysler's executive vice president for marketing and sales, stimulated "heavy traffic at our dealerships."

Robert D. Burger, executive vice president in charge of the marketing staff at GM, said GM's good results and the stiffening of used-car prices overall were a sign that "stability has returned" and "underlying strength" exists in the new-car market.

"We can't keep this up ... but I don't see a monumental fall-off," said an industry analyst who did not want to be identified.

Analysts say auto sales slump has finally ended

DETROIT (AP) — The auto sales slump is over, say analysts and executives who have examined the latest automobile sales figures.

Sales of the five domestic manufacturers, fueled by Chrysler Corp.'s $400-a-car rebates, soared 15 percent in early September over the same period of 1978, according to company reports Thursday.

Though the rebates cost troubled Chrysler $92 million in lost profits, according to the company, Chrysler set a car and truck sales record for the period.

Chrysler sold 35,594 cars and trucks of its own including imports from its Japanese affiliate, Mitsubishi Motors Corp., to push it 3.2 percent ahead of the 1977 record, 34,476.

Sales of Chrysler's own cars soared 51 percent, with the rebate models rocketing 67 percent above the 1978 record.

General Motors Corp. zoomed 37 percent, Ford Motor Co. was off 26 percent; American Motors Corp. fell an estimated 16 percent and Volkswagen Manufacturing Corp., just getting started last year, rose 270 percent.

Gordon B. MacKenzie, executive vice president for marketing at Ford,

Eye-stinging smog sends Californians to hospitals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern Californians face another day of dense air pollution today after a week of eye-stinging smog — the worst in almost 25 years — which has sent scores of residents to hospitals complaining of respiratory problems.

There were no reports of deaths attributed to the hazardous smog.

"Our meteorologists tell us there's no end in sight," Jeff Schenkel, a spokesman for the Air Quality Management District, said Thursday. "All we can hope for is a break in the weather to allow the air contaminants to disperse and reduce peak smog levels."

Hazardous air conditions in the San Gabriel and Pomona areas east of the city were predicted for the second day in a row by the AQMD.

In addition, second-stage smog alerts were predicted for eight areas surrounding Los Angeles today, meaning the AQMD told operators of refineries and factories in those areas to reduce emissions by 20 percent, and also ordered some businesses to carpool employees to work.

No sulfate alerts were predicted for today, which meant residents would be spared the noxious combination of ozone and sulfur oxide that darkened skies over Southern California Thursday.

Hospitals in the hard-hit San Fernando and San Gabriel valleys reported increased respiratory and related heart-ailment complaints. Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina reported a 30 percent to 50 percent increase in respiratory-heart patients.

Smog irritates lung and bronchial tissue, said Alice Mulder, spokeswoman for Methodist Hospital of Southern California in Arcadia.

"The resulting difficulty in breathing places a strain on the heart," she said.

Some hospitals give electrocardiograms to smog patients.

Children in the 550,000-pupil Los Angeles Unified School District were kept from normal recreational activity Thursday on orders from district headquarters.

Contributing to the eye-stinging, stale-smelling haze was a 2,300-acre brush fire on Mount Wilson north of the city, which sent clouds of brown smoke and soot over the area.

Armored van held up

DALLAS (AP) — Two gunmen dressed as construction workers held up an armored van near a North Dallas supermarket today and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash, police said. No one was hurt.

Police said the two robbers, armed with automatic pistols, entered the truck about 7:15 a.m. and drove off with the two guards. The truck and the guards were left near a service station in the same shopping center, and the robbers fled in a blue and silver Blazer, police said.

"The guards are all right. The truck is all right. But the money is missing," said a police spokesman.

Officers said the bandits looked like construction workers and one wore a hard hat, but neither robber wore a mask.

The holdup occurred near a Tom Thumb supermarket near the intersection of Preston and Belt Line in far North Dallas.

Gold hits another record

LONDON (AP) — Gold rocketed $12 to hit a record $345.75 an ounce in Europe today, breaking the previous high by $4. The dollar posted impressive gains in Tokyo and London but was mixed elsewhere.

Gold hit the record in both London and Zurich from Thursday closings of $333.875 and $333.375, respectively.

"The gold market has gone berserk," said precious metals expert Peter Gignoux of the international brokerage house of Bache and Co. in London.

Gignoux said much of the gold buying was by dealers frantically trying to cover short positions taken earlier this week in the belief that gold prices would go down.

A number of analysts had predicted price corrections following a $40 rise in a month. And gold prices did subside markedly in the last two days after touching an intraday high of $341.75 in Zurich Sept. 6.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 223.975 yen today, up from 222.125 Thursday.

Russians in Cuba: Why in the world are they there?

By V.H. KRULAK
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The reappearance of Soviet ground forces in Cuba is not a small matter. It could signal a major change in Soviet-American relations — a change spelling more problems for the United States.

The immediate reason for the deployment of a brigade grouping of Soviet troops to Cuba — infantry, artillery, tanks and battlefield rockets — is the subject of intense speculation. Out of the discussion a few facts have emerged:

—First, the Russian group forces are not needed to help protect their Cuban satellite from external invasion. There is no suggestion that anyone is about to attack Cuba.

—Second, they are not needed, as Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, suggests, to aid in Premier Fidel Castro's program of subversion in Latin America. That is the job of guerrillas, terrorists and trained undercover agents, not first-line regular, uniformed troops.

—And third, they are not needed to help train Castro's army.

That task has been fulfilled for two decades by a large and complex Russian advisory and training system — a system that does not involve organized regular troops units.

But they are there, and there must be a reason. The Russians do not take obviously abrasive steps without careful reflection.

It could be that the Soviets have seized this moment to flaunt their growing military superiority before the convocation of the Unaligned Nations, taking place in Havana, to exhibit their ability to challenge the United States in its own backyard.

They could be testing us to see just how far they can go in establishing a visible Soviet military presence in the Western Hemisphere.

In any event, their action has evoked only the mildest of the reactions from the administration.

And then there is another, more sinister, explanation for the presence of the Russian tanks and infantry on Cuban soil, one where the experience of history gives the scenario credibility.

In 1962, it was a U-2 photograph, showing the insignia of a Soviet infantry battalion, done in decorative rocks in front of an otherwise innocent grouping of tents, that gave us the clue that something critical was happening.

It was not long thereafter that our high-resolution photography began to disclose missiles and missile components.

Then, as now, the Russians did not trust Castro any more than we did, and the Supreme Soviet's decision to emplace nuclear missiles in Cuba was accompanied by a decision that there must be Russian ground force there to protect the supersecret Soviet weapons from sabotage, espionage and unreliable Cubans.

We have no reason to assume that the same kind of scenario could not be now afoot. It is quite possible that the Russians have chosen this time to redress the awful embarrassment they suffered in 1962, and to install an array of intermediate-range missiles in Cuba. If this is indeed the case, the same suspicions that saw them protecting their secrets from the Cubans during the earlier missile adventure must be operative again, and that could explain the presence of Russian ground forces on the island.

But, in connection with this scenario, there is one major difference — if Soviet Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and company were, indeed, to emplace their impressive SS-2 multiple warhead mobile ballistic missiles in Cuba, we would no longer be able to react to the threat as President John F. Kennedy did in 1962.

At that time, he simply said, "We have the power. We can destroy you. You cannot destroy us. Get your missiles out of Cuba now."

And they did. They had no choice. Now the power balance has shifted. No longer can we dictate the form that peace shall take.

We can lean on the Russians economically, denying them grain, machine tools and computers. We can decline to give final consent to the SALT agreement.

But we cannot apply the Kennedy formula and force, coerce or require the removal of Soviet missiles from Cuba — if they are indeed there.

Let us hope that are not. And while we are hoping, let us move at our best speed to regain a position of strength from which we cannot be blackmailed.

El Paso disappointed

"It now appears that El Paso will continue to have only one full-time federal judge," The El Paso Times commented editorially in its last Sunday's edition, adding, "This is disappointing."

And our response to that is, "Now isn't that just too bad?"

The border city newspaper, of course, was referring to Lucius Bunton, prominent Odessa attorney, who has been recommended to President Carter by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for nomination to the U.S. Senate to fill the existing judgeship in the Western District. And it appears that Bunton has the inside track. He is well qualified for the post and should make an excellent judge.

His only shortcoming, from the El Paso viewpoint, appears to be that he doesn't reside in El Paso and doesn't plan to move there.

Despite the thinking of some El Pasoans, it just might be that some persons prefer to reside elsewhere than in the big city of El Paso — in the Midland-Odessa area, for instance.

Bunton, at one time, according to the Times editorial, had said he would move to El Paso if appointed to the federal bench, joining Henry Lee Hudspeth of El Paso U.S. magistrate, who has been recommended for nomination to fill the new judgeship created by Congress in the Western District. Under this arrangement, El Paso would have had two full-time federal judges.

Since that time, the editorial stated, Bunton has changed his mind. This is something he has every right to do. He will remain in Odessa to serve the Midland-Odessa Division, based in the George Mahon Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse in Midland. He also would handle 25 percent of the El Paso court docket. Thus, Bunton, by continuing to reside in this area, would be 300 miles closer to 75 percent of his work than if he lived at El Paso. It would appear that he used extra good judgement in deciding to maintain his present place of residence. There apparently is agreement among the judges in this respect.

Federal judges in the past have resided in El Paso, while the eastern side of the Western District never has had a resident federal judge, nor a U.S. magistrate. This area has been uncomplaining in this regard, but now that the Midland-Odessa Division has been created and the region has experienced tremendous growth and development in recent years, population-wise and industrially, it is felt that it is entitled to some recognition in this regard. Surely the big city in the extreme western part of the Western District would be willing to share with the somewhat smaller communities of Midland and Odessa.

The Times editorial went on to say: "While the desire for a second full-time federal judge in El Paso may appear self-serving on behalf of the city, the idea is based on claims by the judiciary itself, that the civil and criminal dockets here are much overloaded."

We do not have the facts and figures on the overloaded situations in either the El Paso or Midland divisions, but it is quite doubtful if there is very much difference in this regard. If the court here is not overloaded; it is hoped that this condition can and will be maintained in the future.

We cannot blame El Paso interests for being disappointed, but we find it difficult to develop sympathy for them in this particular case.

Now, let's see what the President and the U.S. Senate will do concerning nomination and appointment.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Has there been another cover-up to protect White House aides so soon after Watergate? Few Americans want to believe it. Newsmen tend to be skeptical. President Carter insists it is "inconceivable." Yet the accusation cannot be dismissed cavalierly.

It was made by a grand jury foreman, Ralph E. Ulmer, who for 10 months has been investigating charges that fugitive financier Robert Vesco tried to pull strings inside the White House to fix his legal problems.

Sources close to the investigation describe Ulmer as a conscientious foreman who is deeply concerned about the integrity of the grand jury. As each witness testified, Ulmer kept meticulous notes, which he constantly consulted. Our sources understand that he often stayed up as late as 3 a.m. reviewing his notes.

Ulmer tried to resign, charging the administration with "duplicitous" and "manipulative." He wrote that the "cover-up activities are being orchestrated within the Department of Justice under the concept that the administration must be protected at all costs."

Ulmer is prohibited by law from revealing anything that happened behind the closed doors of the grand jury. His letter of resignation, therefore, was worded carefully.

He charged vaguely, for example, that "a witness was encouraged to be less than candid with the FBI." Our sources believe Ulmer was referring to an attempt by Charles Kirbo, the president's personal attorney, to tamper with a key witness. White House aide Richard Harden arranged through his sister-in-law for Kirbo to meet the witness, Cynthia Herring.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cover-up, soon after Watergate?

The meeting took place in an atmosphere of high intrigue and deep secrecy. FBI sources say that the sister-in-law offered her apartment in Albany, Ga., for the rendezvous and that Kirbo kept a private plane standing by to whisk him from Atlanta to Albany.

But Mrs. Herring, on the advice of her attorney, showed up for the meeting wired with a recording device. She immediately turned the tape over to the FBI, which submitted it to the grand jury.

Kirbo is heard on the tape reassuring Mrs. Herring that she could trust him. "I'm just an ordinary South Georgia cracker you're talking to," he drawled. Later he advised her: "I think it's a mistake to be too open with the FBI..."

According to FBI sources, Kirbo did not ask the witness to cover up any specific facts but merely counseled against being "too open." The president's lawyer assured the grand jury, our sources say, that he had no intention of obstructing justice.

Ulmer also complained that "information was withheld from the grand jury." Our sources confirm that the Justice Department appeared to be holding back evidence from the grand jury. To prevent a possible whitewash, I asked for the opportunity to testify.

I spent three hours presenting to the grand jury the results of my own three-month investigation of the Vesco scandal. I laid out evidence that obviously surprised the jurors, though they had been taking testimony for several months. My sources say the grand jury, thereafter, demanded the full facts.

Inside the Justice Department, these jurors gained a reputation as an "aggressive" if not a runaway grand jury. Our sources say the top brass tried to bring the grand jury under tighter rein. They kept shifting prosecutors and introducing other procedural disruptions. This may have led to Ulmer's added complaint that "delays in the grand jury process were arranged."

There is no reason to believe that explicit cover-up orders have been issued to protect White House aides. But government officials are, in one respect, like rare tropical birds. They have learned to communicate with one another through near-inaudible sounds, poses and gestures.

If there was to be a cover-up, they would not blatantly set it up. The arrangement would be carried off through a process of almost imperceptible movements, coincidences, raised eyebrows and knowing smiles. There is not going to be an incriminating document or tape recording left around — certainly not after Watergate.

This subtle process may have occurred, indeed, right under my nose. After my own investigation of the Vesco affair, then-Attorney General Griffin Bell asked me to share my findings with him. I spent more than two hours reviewing the evidence I had uncovered with the attorney general.

Four other Justice Department officials were present, including Benjamin Civiletti, who succeeded Bell as attorney general. Throughout the review, Bell asked most of the questions. Occasionally he made defensive remarks about White House aides. He made it perfectly clear that he didn't believe they were guilty of wrongdoing. This must have made an impression on his subordinates who, thereafter, didn't really have to be told what results the boss wanted.

Less gasoline used

The American people have used less gasoline this summer than they did last summer, despite the fact that there are almost 10 million more new cars on the road.

The explanation is obvious — short supply and high cost. The inconvenience and uncertainty of the supply situation, plus increased prices, discourage travel.

Results? Nationwide consumption in June was down 10 percent from a year earlier. But in July, the national picture shifted, gasoline use increased and fell below the year-earlier figure by only 6 percent.

Everything now points to increased use. Experience in Europe shows that higher prices for gasoline have little effect on gasoline use, although they reduce consumption in the short run. The shock wears off. Drivers get used to higher prices and resume normal driving. But one thing is noted: motorists are becoming more concerned with gasoline mileage.

INSIDE REPORT:

The president's energy albatross becomes heavier

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter's mid-July pledge not to let "one drop of foreign oil more" into the country than was imported in 1977 is becoming an albatross around his neck, but one he can shed only with acute political embarrassment.

The oil quota was the one major energy initiative to come out of the celebrated "domestic summit" at Camp David and was the widely praised centerpiece of his July 15 energy speech. But overly pessimistic economic forecasting and the continuing nuclear power freeze within the bureaucracy guarantees reaching the quota much faster than anybody thought possible — quite likely during 1980.

Soon thereafter, U.S. prices will be racing above the OPEC price. To avoid this knockout punch, the temptation to reimpose tight federal controls — and reverse present policy — will be close to irresistible. There would be no effective way to reduce energy demand, despite all the claims made in the name of conservation.

The alternative: back away from the July 15 pledge. "I think the president would be absolutely nuts to stand with the quota," one high-level energy official confided to us. "Nuts" or not, however, Carter seems committed to it. The entire episode is another tragic lesson of what so often happens when the laws of economics are bent to political purposes by the government.

The oil quota idea came from the president's staff, primarily as a device to show critical Western Europe that the U.S. meant business about energy conservation. James Schlesinger, then secretary of energy, protested that this was a descent into madness. But Schlesinger's frequent ally, then Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, opposed him this time on grounds that a quota would strengthen the dollar.

The quota was seized on during the Camp David extravaganza as one solid morsel amid vapid philosophizing. Besides, it had the special appeal of a political gimmick. In declaring "this nation will never use more foreign oil than we did in 1977 — never," Carter seemed to be decreeing a level of usage lower than today. In fact, the 8.5 million imported barrels a day during that prosperous year was well above today's level as well as the level then expected for election year 1980.

While the public cheered this seeming step away from energy dependence, experts frowned. "The president is gambling," one congressional staff economist declared in a private memorandum that explained how the OPEC price would no longer serve as a ceiling on domestic prices. The same economist told us a month ago: "Decontrol with a quota means that Carter will succeed in clobbering the economy" (by putting domestic oil under irresistible price pressure).

Since then, the road to ruin has accelerated. The economy's strength in staving off recession has kept oil imports unexpectedly high. But the crowning blow came in one of those exhibitions that makes the multi-faced U.S. government the wonder of the world.

On Aug. 24, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission backed down under pressure, canceling its announced decision to resume processing licenses for new nuclear power plants. Measured very conservatively, that decision can require an extra 250,000 barrels a day in imported oil by late winter. The Energy Department plans were thoroughly undermined.

Cleaning out his desk before Labor Day, the departing Schlesinger left behind a warning that the 1977 import level was being approached and listing four options for dealing with that calamity. All would put the government back into oil regulation, option No. 4 reinstating straight-out price controls. That would mean Carter had junked his own decontrol program, but this seems the course most likely to be selected by the White House.

It is no secret that Schlesinger, if still at Energy, would urge instead that Carter shelve his "not one drop" pledge of July 15. What Schlesinger's successor, Charles Duncan, would do is a secret. A methodical man, Duncan now is studying his inherited predicament.

Duncan has at his disposal clever Energy Department schemes to escape the woes of clever past schemes. All would circumvent the quota without really lifting it. An example: oil imported for the strategic petroleum reserve (supposedly growing by 300,000 barrels a day) would not count against the quota.

Other officials are stroking their rabbit feet in phantom hope that the quota will not be reached until after the 1980 election, after which it can be safely discarded. But some senior officials are truly unaware that the president took a course at Camp David that must end in folly or embarrassment. A worse fate than wearing an albatross is wearing one without knowing it.

Doctor under investigation in connection with Presley's death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley's personal physician is being investigated for possible criminal liability in the entertainer's death, a local assistant prosecutor says.

Executive Assistant Attorney General Jewett Miller said Thursday night his office began investigating Dr. George Nichopoulos on Tuesday after the state Board of Medical Examiners filed a complaint accusing the doctor of indiscriminately prescribing medication for Presley and 15 other persons.

However, District Attorney General Hugh Stanton Jr. has just about ruled out the possibility of a homicide investigation because of conflicting medical opinions about the cause of death, officials said.

Miller said the medical board notified his office that the Nichopoulos case could involve criminal allegations. The board's complaint involves civil charges and could lead to the suspension or revocation of the doctor's license.

The doctor, on the advice of his attorney, has not commented.

Conviction on criminal charges of indiscriminate dispensing of drugs could result in a prison term of several years. A negligent homicide conviction generally carries a penalty of less than one year in jail.

Miller said the Memphis Police Metro Narcotics squad will also investigate the case.

The announcement of a criminal investigation came only hours before ABC-TV reported Presley's persistent abuse of drugs led to his Aug. 16, 1977, death. The autopsy report listed the cause as heart disease.

Three pathologists, including one who took part in the Presley autopsy, were interviewed on the program "20-20," which devoted an hour to the 42-year-old singer's death.

ABC said Baptist Hospital's chief pathologist, Dr. Eric Muirhead, and his assistant, Dr. Noel Florendo, concluded the interaction of stimulants, depressants and painkillers killed Presley.

"I agree with Dr. Muirhead's conclusions," Florendo said, referring to Muirhead's belief that polypharmacy — the interaction of several drugs — killed the singer.

Muirhead did not sign the autopsy report in which Dr. Jerry Francisco, Shelby County medical examiner, ruled Presley died of hypertensive heart disease.

Florendo said "there was no gross evidence of a heart attack" and no sign of advanced heart disease as Francisco described.

The network show backed up statements made in October 1977 by Baptist Hospital sources that Presley died a drug-related death with 10 drugs present in his body.

ABC reported that Presley had a 1.6 level of codeine in his body and that a level of 1.8 is considered lethal.

Francisco said earlier this week he stands behind his ruling in Presley's death.

Meanwhile, a television station in St. Paul, Minn., reported Thursday that Presley was taken to a drug treatment center in Minnesota while on a concert tour in 1977, but refused to stay.

KSTP-TV, citing "knowledgeable sources," said Presley was taken to the Hazelden Foundation in Center City. But sources did not say whether Presley had been formally admitted to the treatment center.

A spokesman said officials of the treatment center would have no comment on the report until later today.

Midland man sentenced to life

ODESSA — Robert Gonzales Heredia of Midland was found guilty Thursday of a charge of possession of heroin.

Heredia was on trial in 161st District Court here before Judge R.L. McKim who sentenced the Midlander to a life sentence.

It was the second trial for Heredia on the charge in connection with the Aug. 16, 1974, offense. His May 29, 1975, conviction and subsequent life sentence were reversed early this year by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals following his appeal.

The appeals court found in reviewing the case that a court reporter's notes, which were lost, had not been transcribed, resulting in an incomplete record.

Heredia was arrested about one mile east of Odessa on U.S. Highway 80. He has been in prison since being given the life sentence Aug. 18, 1975.

Apparent burglary ends in $800 damage

Damage totaled over $800 in an apparent burglary of about $5 in change from the Basin News Agency, 300 E. Indiana Ave., Midland police said.

A plate glass window was broken out, possibly with the use of a glass cutter, late Wednesday or early Thursday, police said.

A soft drink machine and a candy machine in the building had been broken into, accounting for the greater part of the damage and the $5 in missing change, police said.

Horse dies of rabies

MONAHANS — Rabies was confirmed in a Monahans horse this week by veterinarian Bryan Stuckly.

The horse, with which at least six persons are known to have come in contact, was stabled near the rodeo grounds when it died Wednesday.

A biological specimen was sent to the State Health Department in Austin and a positive report was returned.

State Health Department zoonosis specialist Joe Terry was in Monahans this week and identified the rabies virus.

The six people who came in contact with the horse now are undergoing the 23-shot anti-rabies treatment.

Monahans veterinarians have urged all pet owners to be sure their animals are vaccinated in the wake of Monahans' first rabies case in a domestic animal this year.

62 bodies pulled from wreckage

STALAC, Yugoslavia (AP) — Searchers have pulled 62 bodies from the mangled wreckage of a passenger train and a freight that collided at this rail junction in eastern Yugoslavia and officials say they think more dead are entombed in the wreck.

More than 24 hours after the Thursday crash, authorities said they did not yet know how many travelers were still unaccounted for. More than 100 persons were injured when the freight train ran a red light and slammed broadside into the Belgrade-Skopje express.

The dead included 25 soldiers, the Defense Ministry said today. It said they were from a group of first-year cadets from a military academy and a unit of regular army recruits on the express train.

Authorities said the express was 66 minutes behind schedule when the two trains collided 95 miles south of Belgrade.

Search teams, armed with cutting torches, continued to probe the wreckage today looking for more victims.

It was the second worst railway accident in Yugoslavia since World War II. A crash in 1974 at Zagreb killed 153 persons.

Woman goes berserk and eats arrest report

CHICAGO (AP) — A woman went berserk in Chicago police headquarters, attacking another woman with a pen-knife, biting a woman employee, punching a matron in the face and eating her arrest report, authorities said.

Emma Williams, 30, of Chicago, was charged with three counts of battery after the incident Thursday, police said. She was being held in the women's jail.

Police said Ms. Williams, who had come into the station on her own, was standing in the headquarters lobby when the incident began. They said she was next to a display case containing the badges of policemen killed in the line of duty, when she suddenly turned on another woman and shouted, "You're the reason all these policemen are dead."

She then allegedly attacked the woman, Elaine Bryant, 21, with a small knife, slashing her on the neck.

Police subdued Ms. Williams and took her to an interrogation room to book her on battery charges. Before they could handcuff her, however, she ate the arrest report form and overturned a desk.

Zimbabwe Rhodesian leaders object to proposed constitution

LONDON (AP) — Ian Smith and other white Zimbabwe Rhodesian leaders today objected to a British-proposed constitution that would strip them of almost all their remaining power in that war-torn country, a senior source at the peace conference said.

The four white ministers in the 22-member delegation, including former Prime Minister Smith, made the protest at a meeting of the delegation in its hotel, said the source, who asked not to be identified.

The delegation, led by black Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa, must formulate a joint stance on the British proposals.

Muzorewa, the whites and leaders of the two minority parties in his delegation later met with British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, the conference chairman, to seek clarification of the British draft.

The 15-page proposal was to be debated for the first time in formal session with the opposing delegation of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance when the 5-day-old conference resumes later today.

The whites' objections to the British draft spring mainly from their belief that Muzorewa, whose government is not recognized internationally, should extract recognition from the British and an end to trade embargoes in return for a new constitution, conference sources said. They said the white ministers acknowledge that Muzorewa will have to end some of the special powers the white minority has under the current constitution.

The draft, circulated by Britain Wednesday night and leaked by conference sources, envisages an unspecified number of special seats for the white minority for up to five or 10 years.

But the number of seats would be a mere token compared with white power now. Currently, the 28 white legislators in the 100-member assembly have power to block constitutional change and to control top military and civil posts and the judiciary for up to 10 years.

Whites, who ruled for almost nine decades until Muzorewa took office last June, make up only 3 percent of the country's 7 million people. But Muzorewa's government depends on the white-led armed forces to defend it against the guerrillas and on white expertise to run the strained economy.

The Patriotic Front is to put forward its own draft constitution. Guerrilla sources said today it would permit whites a few seats "reflecting more their proportion of the population."

Front leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo maintain it is racist to allow whites any special seats at all. But the guerrilla chiefs evidently are ready to agree to a token number of white seats in deference to the British view. They may also not object to British proposals for pension guarantees and compensation if new rulers nationalize white assets.

Tanzanian President Julius

Nyerere, chairman of the group of five African states that support and give refuge to the guerrilla armies, has backed the idea of disproportionate legislative representation for whites.

Nyerere arrived in London today from Ireland, where he declared that his impoverished nation would back the Patriotic Front's war "whatever it costs us, until we are quite sure power is going to be transferred to the majority."

Nyerere, who can bring considerable pressure to bear on the Patriotic Front, was scheduled to see the guerrilla leaders and confer with Carrington later today.

Jury recommends six years for Dixon, after conviction

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — A state district court jury has recommended William Clarence Dixon spend six years in prison, after convicting him of involuntary manslaughter in a collision between a school bus and Dixon's oilfield equipment truck that killed four students.

The jury recommended the punishment late Thursday, after convicting Dixon on the charge Wednesday, after four hours of deliberation.

Dixon was indicted on charges he caused the four deaths Dec. 8, 1978, by failing to stop at a stop sign near Roby at a rural West Texas intersection.

As Judge Weldon Kirk prepared to read the sentence, Dixon sat at the defense table, eyes closed and hands folded as though in prayer.

Dixon showed no emotion after he heard the verdict, but glanced at his wife Pam who appeared to be fighting tears.

Kirk set Sept. 28 as the date for formal sentencing, and Dixon has ten days to ask for a new trial.

Dixon's truck hit a bus carrying the boys' and girls' McCaulley High School basketball team to a tournament.

Four students were dead at the scene and another died three weeks later. In addition, 20 people — including Dixon — were injured.

Authorities originally had charged Dixon with three counts of manslaughter but two of them were dropped, without explanation, during the trial.

Before retiring to discuss punishment, the jurors heard attorneys haggle over whether adverse driving records could be admitted during the punishment arguments.

At one point, the judge sent the jury out of the room while defense attorneys argued with prosecutors over the admissibility of Dixon's driving record.

A Department of Public Safety trooper testified he ticketed Dixon for driving 18 mph over the speed limit in Sept., 1978. The defense tried to keep the ticket from being admitted.

Defense attorney Malcolm Schulz of Abilene had wanted to call 31 character witnesses during the punishment phase, but Kirk limited him to 15.

Jeremiah F. McCarthy

J.F. McCarthy

Rosary for Jeremiah F. McCarthy, 79, 2102 Woodlawn St., will be said at 8 p.m. today in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

St. Plus V requiem mass will be said at 4 p.m. Saturday in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home with the Rev. Joseph Franck officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

McCarthy died Friday at his home after a brief illness.

He was born Aug. 18, 1900, in Butte, Mont. He moved during his early teens to Seattle, Wash., and attended school there. In the 1920s, he and his parents moved to Aransas Pass. He was married in 1923 to Effie Mae White in San Antonio.

McCarthy was with the U.S. Corps of Engineers prior to joining Humble Oil Co. in Houston in 1927. He held positions with Exxon in Alice, Corpus Christi and several other towns in Texas.

In 1958, he moved to Midland from Cisco. Mrs. McCarthy died in 1959. When he retired in 1960, McCarthy was area manager for Exxon Pipeline in Midland. He was a Roman Catholic traditionalist. He was a member of the Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Knights of Malta.

Survivors include a daughter, Bettie Terry of Midland, and three grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be W.A. Skees, Jack Zengler and C. Louis Chase, all of Midland, and Robert Frias, Richard Frias and Fred Kemper, all of Odessa.

Roy T. Lewis

Services for Roy T. Lewis, 68, 1702 McKenzie St., will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. Bob Porterfield officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Lewis died Thursday in an Odessa hospital.

He was born March 31, 1911, in Cleburne. He spent his early life there. He moved to Big Spring in 1936 and then to Midland in 1948. He worked in the oil patch while in Midland.

Survivors include two daughters, Virginia Peck of St. Louis, Mo., and Mary Lou Lewis of Midland; a brother, Floyd W. Lewis of Midland, a sister, Delma Tucker of Sweetwater and several grandchildren.

Don Thompson

CASPER, Wyo. — Services for Don H. Thompson, 68, of Casper and formerly of Midland, were to be at 10 a.m. today in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church with Vicar Tim Solon officiating. Burial was to be in Memorial Gardens, directed by Memorial Chapel.

Thompson died Wednesday in a Casper hospital following a brief illness.

He was born Oct. 2, 1910, in Overton, Texas, and grew up and was educated at Healdton, Okla. He was married to Laura Goss in Midland on Oct. 24, 1938.

Thompson managed the Abell Lumber Co. in Midland and later moved to Truth or Consequences, N.M., where he owned and managed a lumber company.

In 1954, he moved to Casper, where he worked for a lumber company.

He was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, the Bishop's Committee for the church, the Casper Kiwanis Club, the Casper Shrine Club and Independence Rock Lodge No. 56, AF&AM.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, James G. Thompson of Laramie, Wyo., and Donald Thompson of Alexandria, Va.; a brother, Burl Thompson of Temple; a sister, Geneva Mishou of Spokane, Wash., and two grandchildren.

The family has asked that memorials be directed to the Blue Envelope Cancer Fund, Memorial Chapel, 710 E. 2nd St., Casper, Wyo., 82601.

Walter Lampton

NORMAN, Okla. — Services for Walter J. Lampton, 68, of Norman, Okla., brother of Preston "Doc" Lampton of Midland, were to be at 4 p.m. today in St. John's Episcopal Church with the Rev. Don Owens officiating.

Burial was to be in the IOOF Cemetery in Norman, directed by Mayes Funeral Home.

Lampton died Wednesday morning in a Norman hospital following an illness.

He was born Dec. 20, 1910, in McDaniels, Ky., and moved to Sapulpa, Okla., in 1920. He lived in Oklahoma City before moving to Norman in 1943.

Lampton had been self-employed as an insurance agent with Gardner, Clark, Lampton and Feighny of Oklahoma City.

He was graduated from Western Military Academy in 1928 in Alton, Ill., and received a bachelor's degree from the University of Oklahoma in 1932.

He was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Lampton served in the U.S. Army in World War II and was commander of the 103rd Field Artillery Battalion of the 43rd Infantry Division. He was a retired reserve officer.

Other survivors include his wife, Dorothy; a son, Richard E. Lampton of Oklahoma City; a brother, Maurice E. Lampton of Sapulpa, Okla., a niece, Alice Bullard of Midland, and two granddaughters.

The family has requested that memorials be directed to the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation.

Mrs. Underwood

GARDEN CITY — Services for Mrs. William C. (Samery) Underwood, 77, of Garden City will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Midland with Bishop Blaine Bushman presiding.

Burial will follow in Garden City Cemetery directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Underwood died Thursday in a Big Spring hospital.

She was born July 28, 1902, in Tulia. She moved with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lemmons from Swisher County in a covered wagon train to settle in what now is Glasscock County. She was graduated first in her class from high school and then was graduated from a business college in Abilene.

She was married to William Calvin "Pete" Underwood November 4, 1923, in Midland. She and her husband ranched in Glasscock County. He died August 9, 1975.

Mrs. Underwood was an active member in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star in her earlier years and was active in Parent-Teacher Association.

Survivors include a son, William H. Underwood of Midland, and four grandchildren.

Wrong apartment costs two narcotics officers $10,000

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Two members of a police narcotics team who raided the wrong Plainview apartment three years ago have been ordered to pay the people who lived there $10,000 in punitive damages.

A federal court jury also awarded Ted Hooks, Diane Hooks and Delia Gutierrez an additional $1,000 apiece for actual damages suffered in the raid.

The three were court-reporting students in Plainview and were sharing an apartment the night of March 19, 1976, when five officers burst in looking for a suspected heroin dealer.

The officers said they soon discovered they had the wrong apartment, but all the officers did not leave immediately.

The jury deliberated three hours, then found that Hale County narcotics agent Benny Clifton acted "maliciously, capriciously or arbitrarily" while they were in the apartment.

During the trial, Clifton testified that when he entered the Hooks' bedroom he knew Hooks was not the suspect, but that he tried to pull the covers from Mrs. Hooks as she lay in bed screaming.

Clifton and former Amarillo policeman Jim Patterson were ordered to pay the punitive damages, although the jury found that Patterson and the other three officers named as defendants did not act maliciously, capriciously or arbitrarily.

However, the jury held that the police squad did not act in good faith while executing the search warrant.

Thursday's decision ended the second trial in the case.

Mexican Independence Day celebration to be Saturday

Mexican Independence Day celebration will get under way in Midland at 10 a.m. Saturday, when a parade through downtown Midland begins near Midland High School at Illinois Avenue and San Angelo Street, said Ruben Vargas, co-chairman of the event sponsored by the Eastside Lions Club.

"We don't have much interest (in the parade) this year," surmised Vargas. "It's going to be a short one."

From the parade, many of the celebrants will continue with the celebration at the Midland County Exhibit Building, where the Great Southwest Show has set up a carnival.

The 1979 Independence Day Queen, Sarah Jacqueline Brito, a 16-year-old junior at Midland's Robert E. Lee High School, will be crowned in a coronation amid her court at 9 p.m. Saturday at the exhibit building.

Last year's queen was Lena Jakel, 17, a senior at Midland High School.

Sunday's events will include an Asado Cook-off at 3 p.m. and a tamale-eating contest at 5 p.m., said Vargas.

"It's like chili — 50 percent pork and 50 percent beef," Vargas said of asado. "It's a lot spicier than chili, and it's a lot better, more tasty," he said.

Food booths also are set up at the Midland County Exhibit Building, just off U.S. Highway 80 east of Midland.

Working with Vargas on the celebration is John Rendon, Gavy Subia is chairman of the event.

Mexican Independence Day commemorates Sept. 16, 1810, when the Mexican people began their revolt against the then-ruling Spanish forces.

The Mexicans won their independence 11 years later — in 1821.

Closing of Goodfellow Air Force Base subject of hearing

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — About 20 U.S. Air Force officers were in this West Texas city today to hold a public hearing concerning the proposed closing of Goodfellow Air Force Base.

The hearing, requested by U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Kerrville, is said to be only the second such hearing the U.S. Air Force has ever held concerning the proposed closing of a base.

The Air Force announced earlier that the base was to be closed out beginning in 1980 with the facility to be completely phased out by 1984.

An organization called the City Blitz Committee planned to present a 15-page position paper at the hearing today. A committee spokesman says the position paper challenges evidence used by the Air Force in a study on the economic impact the base closing would have on San Angelo and Tom Green County.

The meeting was to be held in a bank meeting room.

3-year-old Seminole girl dies

ANDREWS — A 3-year-old Seminole girl died Wednesday night at Permian General Hospital here after being hit by an automobile near her home, according to officials.

Andrews County Justice of the Peace Jay Williams ruled Thursday that Linda Lee Willingham died of massive head injuries received when she was struck by a car driven by B.P. Sirmonds.

The child was the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Arthur Willingham of Seminole.

A Seminole ambulance was taking the child to Odessa Medical Center when it made an emergency stop in Andrews and doctors aided the girl. The Seminole ambulance developed mechanical difficulties on its way to Odessa and an Andrews ambulance went to help.

The child was pronounced dead upon return to the Andrews hospital, officials said.

How to plunge those high fuel bills

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

If you can tell how hard the wind is blowing before you step out of your own front door, you are a prime candidate for one of the newest tools in the arsenal against costly fuel bills. It's a home energy audit.

The phrase is up-to-date terminology for a thorough inspection by qualified individuals of the efficiency of your home in terms of its use of energy.

A qualified professional who checks the heating system, the amount and condition of insulation in floors, walls and ceiling, the condition of windows and doors and the location and setting of the thermostat will probably be able to spot potential trouble spots and methods of saving energy.

New York utility companies, as a result of a law which went into effect last summer, are making home energy inspections for the nominal sum of $10. The companies follow up with a written report estimating the cost and probable savings to be realized by making the suggested improvements.

Utility companies are not the only ones in the business. A growing number of private firms also makes audits for varying fees. In some cases the estimates are free. The companies which do not charge for the survey, however, usually earn their money by doing the repairs they recommend. Consumers can protect themselves from possible conflicts of interest in such situations by obtaining a second audit as a comparison.

According to Mark Bruce, an energy specialist in a New York suburb, homes built less than 10 years ago probably do not require an energy audit. Owners of older, drafty homes can profit by having an expert in to evaluate their heating and insulation.

"People should realize, however, that energy surveys are exercises in statistics. It's very difficult to predict exact savings and I'd be suspicious if someone made extravagant claims for specific savings," said Bruce. Before hiring someone, he suggests, consumers should ask for references and make sure to check those references.

"If in doubt, get another estimate," he said. Among typical problems in homes is the absence of insulation where the frame of the house meets the foundation. A homeowner can correct this by blocking off the drafts with fiberglass blanket insulation. Cracks and chinks on the outside of the house should be caulked as well.

Leaving the fireplace chimney flue open is a sure way to raise heat bills. The heat produced by the heating system goes right up the chimney. Fires built in fireplaces, it has been shown, take more warm air out of circulation than they bring in by drawing the heated air out of the room to feed the fire.

To convert a fireplace to a heating plant, it's necessary to capture and recirculate the heat. Glass doors help. So do a variety of devices on the market which recirculate fireplace heat.

Rooms with cathedral ceilings are energy wasters, too. The heat rises to the top of the room where it doesn't do anybody any good. A partial solution is to install a fan to provide a down-draft to circulate the heat downward.

Although new energy-conservation products are coming on the market at the rate of at least five or six a week, the best way to start saving energy is by changing personal habits.

Lowering the thermostat an average of 1 degree produces a saving of about 3 percent on the utility bill. Switching to fluorescent lighting could save 25 percent of the electric-lighting bill. Installing thermostat-setback devices, and devices which turn off the hot-water heater at night also produce savings.

Besides welcome reductions in energy bills, homeowners improving household energy efficiency between now and 1986 may gain some tax benefits.

A 15 percent tax credit on a maximum expenditure of $2,000 may be allowed by the Internal Revenue Service for a large variety of energy improvements such as insulation, adding storm or thermal windows, weatherstripping or installation of a variety of heat-saving devices. Consult your local IRS office for details.

Tami N. King, formerly of Midland, was among 50 physical therapy students graduated at commencement exercises at The University of Texas Medical Branch School of Allied Health Sciences in Galveston.

Ms. King is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. King of Arlington, Va. She is a graduate of Lee High School and attended Midland College, George Mason University, Angelo State University and The University of Texas-Austin.

The graduates were awarded bachelor of science degrees and certificates of proficiency in physical therapy for successfully completing a 14-month professional curriculum at the UT Medical Branch.

The new allied health professionals were provided with skills designed to restore movement to the patient whose physical limitation is caused by disabilities of the nervous, muscular, skeletal, circulatory and respiratory systems.

JUST A REMINDER: Be sure and take your car to the FREE car wash slated from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday on the parking lot of the First United Methodist Church, Baird and Ohio Streets.

Proceeds from the project, sponsored by the youth of the church, will go to the Youth Service Fund, a Methodist youth mission fund, and to pay expenses to the SMU football game Oct. 13, according to Jerry Wyatt, youth minister.

How can you get money from a free car wash?

Members of the First United Methodist Church are pledging a certain amount for each car washed. For example, if a person pledges 20 cents a car and 20 cars are washed Saturday, $4 would be owed by that person to the youth. So, naturally, the more cars washed free, the better.

your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, September 15, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: You may meet someone glamorous in year ahead who could affect your lifestyle and add excitement to romance. Employment difficulties should lessen. Money will be hard to come by, but you probably will do better than most. Some belt-tightening may be necessary, but rewards will make it worthwhile. General health should be fine. You grow closer to spouse.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Social activity puts you in touch with sparkling personality. Romance is favored. Family gathering may be part of plan. Avoid discussion of politics or you may irritate certain relative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your love of travel, lectures, music may be rewarded through surprise gift. Member of opposite sex makes presence felt. Romance is part of plan. Older person's health may affect what you are able to accomplish now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pitch in and help with household chores so you have more time for recreation. Romance proves uneventful. Quiet times welcomed. Avoid making demands on husband or wife or you may be in for solitary weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Problems of personal nature will be easier to sort out. You can almost sit back and let luck take its course. The health of an in-law or relative requires immediate attention.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You will enjoy getting out and going shopping. Bargains abound! You may be anxious for attention today, but it will probably be slow in coming. When it does, however, it will mean something.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Gather all the facts before committing yourself to a nebulous plan or you may face trouble. Try not to antagonize someone in a social situation. Romance is apt to take on new meaning but be cautious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): News or messages add to the excitement of romance. Weekend travel will brighten your life. Check reservations to avoid embarrassment or frustration. A friend or acquaintance may confide in you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Distant affairs may be especially appealing. Fulfilling your dreams may necessitate a sudden trip. Self-improvement projects will raise your ego. You may find yourself in the mood to accept a proposal of marriage.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some of your wishes could come true this weekend. Other desires may be unrealistic and have to be revised. Do not put all your eggs in one basket, especially when it comes to romance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may be rewarded for community efforts or aid to those less fortunate. Many around you tend now to be devious—saying one thing, thinking another and doing something else. Be independent and achieve more. Above all, do not fool yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Person who has remained out of sight in recent past may appear today. You will be cheered and welcome him or her back. Insist on some answers before allowing romance to proceed. Use common sense and you win.

FISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What appears to be negative early in the day could become a windfall for you later. Take nothing for granted. Check facts carefully and do not pass on gossip. Deal with financial condition honestly.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: I'm 23 and happily married. My problem is my mother. She's a sick woman. Not a day goes by that she doesn't play bingo! Abby, it is driving our-family nuts. I have two younger sisters at home who complain because Mum is gone all the time. She knows where all the bingo games are, and she plays night and day. It takes all the money she has, and when she's broke, she borrows from her children.

Bingoholic is bad bet

 My father left her because of this. I know it sounds outrageous, but it's the truth. You never in your life saw a woman so crazy over anything as my mother is over bingo. She hardly ever wins, but she keeps going in hopes of winning a big one.
 Is there a cure for a bingo freak? — WORRIED ABOUT MOM.
 DEAR WORRIED: Your mother is addicted to gambling just as surely as an alcoholic is addicted to drink. But she can be helped if she truly wants to be. Urge her to call GAMBLERS ANON-YMOUS. If they aren't listed in your phone book, write to P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, Calif. 90017.

 Many compulsive gamblers have lucked out by joining this wonderful group of people who are living proof that it's possible to win back their self-respect and happy homes after having lost everything.
 DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I met a nice-looking man at the shopping center. (I was fishing around in my purse for change for the parking meter and he put his own money in as a gentlemanly act.) After I finished my shopping I came back to my car and this same man was waiting for me. He reminded me of my dear, departed husband, so I offered to buy him a cup of coffee.
 We really hit it off from the start. I told him I was a widow and he said he was a widower. We exchanged phone numbers. He said if I called him and a woman answered to hang up because he was living with a nosy sister and he didn't want her to know his business.
 We started seeing each other (always at my place and during the afternoon) and we just plumb fell in love. I'm 62 and he's 66.
 Suddenly I was served papers! To make a long story short, this man had been married for 42 years, his wife was suing him for divorce and she named me as the cause!
 I swear I never knew this man was married. He muddled up my name in this town. How can I teach him a lesson? — TAKEN IN IN MISSOURI.
 DEAR TAKEN: Never mind the "lesson." This senior swinger has already graduated. Just let his wife handle the punishment.
 DEAR ABBY: I am a truck-driver's wife. A few days ago my husband called me long distance to tell me that he was considering changing companies. He asked me to think about it for a few days and let him know how I felt about it.
 Well, Abby, the next day he called to tell me that he had already changed jobs. Then he informed me that his new boss was a woman, and also his co-driver! He assures me that nothing will happen between them, but he has been unfaithful before and I don't trust him. I was terribly upset with this news and I let him know it.

 Do you think I'm "childish" for objecting to my husband's driving with a woman partner? He says I am. And what should I do about it? — ALABAMA WIFE.
 DEAR WIFE: You can't be blamed for feeling as you do. A man who would change jobs without waiting to hear his wife's opinion obviously doesn't much care what she thinks. What you should do depends upon your options.

'Fritz' to sink or swim with 'Grits'

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter F. Mondale got his election bet down early: Jimmy Carter to win, with his own career in national politics riding on the outcome.

Those are high stakes for a man who can't do very much to change the race. But that's the way it is for vice presidents.

"He's made it clear from day one that his political fortunes are tied to the president's," said a Mondale associate. "He's going to sink or swim with Carter."

So long as Carter is running, Mondale has no options. And Carter has made it clear that he intends to run all the way to the Democratic National Convention, no matter what happens in the early primary elections.

THAT COULD change, and Mondale hasn't foreclosed the possibility that he'd be a presidential candidate if Carter were not. That is not likely. Besides, if Carter did falter during the primary season, it probably would be too late for Mondale to move in anyhow.

It already has been suggested, by Rep. Morris K. Udall, that Mondale might be a good alternative for Democrats dissatisfied with Carter. But they already have one in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who sounds more like a candidate every day.

Mondale says he doesn't know what Kennedy is going to do. But he does know what Carter will do, and that is run for a second term. Mondale says he believes Carter will be re-nominated and re-elected, and will be proud to run with him.

But if Carter should lose, to Kennedy in the spring or to a Republican in the fall, Mondale would, at 52, be a politician without portfolio. Mondale's political career and that of his mentor, the late Hubert H. Humphrey, always had intertwined. Now Vice President Mondale faces a situation not unlike the one that confronted Vice President Humphrey in the 1968 campaign.

HUMPHREY WAS tied then, as Mondale is now, to a president matized by primary election results. Then he was gunned down by an assassin. Humphrey won the nomination without entering a primary.

BUT THE system is different now. No candidate can hope to be nominated without entering the primaries, and there may be as many as 35 of them in 1980. If Edward Kennedy waited to says a contest between the president and the Massachusetts senator would be "a mighty struggle."

"If you put the two most powerful figures in America in a contest against each other, the potential for a bloody, mangling nomination process is there," White said. "We have done it before in the Democratic Party."

But the division that crippled Humphrey's

1968 campaign grew out of the overwhelming issue of the time, the war in Vietnam. It dominated the campaign.

This time there is no surpassing, emotional issue. That's no guarantee the Democratic losers would be able to unite behind the winner of a Carter-Kennedy contest. But the nominee would have a better chance of healing old wounds than Hubert Humphrey did.

An analysis

whose popularity was on the wane. Lyndon B. Johnson faced a challenge in the presidential primaries, first from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, then from Sen. Robert F. Kennedy as well.

Johnson renounced candidacy, Humphrey ran and, as the presidential nominee of a bitterly divided Democratic Party, lost the election to Richard M. Nixon.

For a time, it seemed possible that 1980 might be a partial replay, with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California as Carter's initial opponent and with Edward Kennedy entering the contest later, if the president looked as vulnerable by late winter as he does in late summer.

But Kennedy isn't going to wait. He now says he'll decide before the primaries whether he will run.

His brother stayed out in 1968 until the Democratic split had been dray-see the Feb. 26 New Hampshire returns before deciding whether to run, he would miss filing deadlines in 10 other states.

In 1968, Robert Kennedy became a candidate on March 16; Lyndon Johnson got out on March 31; Hubert Humphrey announced his candidacy on April 26.

Timetables like that just won't work under the new rules.

Democrats fear, and Republicans relish, another possible parallel to the 1968 campaign: the prospect that a Carter-Kennedy contest would split the party and make the nomination worthless.

Evan Dobelle, chairman of the Carter-Mondale Presidential Committee, says the next president will either be Carter or a Republican.

JOHN C. White, who heads the Democratic National Committee,

TV commercials will honor Wayne

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The spirit of John Wayne will ride on in a series of California savings and loan commercials that will use several of the legendary star's friends and associates in new television ads.

"We've had a lot of good mail from people saying they miss those commercials," Great Western Savings President James F. Montgomery said Tuesday. "We think what we are doing as a followup is something that John Wayne fans will be proud of."

Ben Johnson, John Huston, Maureen O'Hara and Glenn Ford will star in the new series of televised spots that began filming last week, said Montgomery. He said the celebrities were all were good friends and associates of Wayne.

The sight of Wayne riding or strolling along the California coastline or through redwoods while talking nostalgically about pioneers building for tomorrow with the help of institutions like "the big GW" became a familiar one to millions of California television viewers. The commercials brought hundreds of new depositors to the savings and loan during the two years before his death on June 11 and were hailed as some of the most successful spots in television history.

During the month when the Wayne ads began in late 1977, GW's deposits zoomed up $8 million while other California savings and loan institutions overall lost 15 times that amount. One man wearing a cowboy hat was reported to have switched $40,000 to a Great Western office from another savings firm "because the Duke told me to."

Michael Wayne, the actor's son, has endorsed the new project.

Wayne's three-year contract called for $350,000 a year. Montgomery did not disclose the fees to be paid to the four new stars for their 30- and 60-second radio and television spots.

Goat is common-denominator in four-footed economy of Tibet

By VICTORIA GRAHAM

LHASA, Tibet (AP) — One yak equals 12 goats, one sheep is worth two, one horse buys 24. Therefore one goat equals 1-12 yak, 1-2 sheep and 1-24 horse. So goes the four-footed arithmetic and livelihood of the highlands of Tibet.

The economics of life in the mustular sky country is measured in bartered goats, as well as Chinese currency. The goat, worth 12 yuan or $8, is the common denominator and is still a unit of exchange in a region which has 1.7 million people and 23 million cows and sheep and goats.

At the Yu Lan — "Emancipation" — commune, about 100 miles and five hours' drive northwest of Lhasa, animals outnumber humans. Located more than 15,000 feet above sea level, the commune has 977 people in 185 households.

Xiao Kuji, secretary of the commune, told visitors recently that his isolated encampment has 20,165 animals: 7,098 yaks, 6,780 sheep, 6,079 goats and 208 horses.

Wearily visitors to his treeless prairie are greeted by indifferent herds of sheep, and children brightly rouged and dressed performing ethnic dances. Horsemen gallop across the grasslands and snatch red pennants from the ground.

Women in bright pink bandannas, traditional striped aprons and sneakers serve smoked and dried Tibetan style macaroni, and bowls of yogurt with raw sugar.

Guests at the Yu Lan commune sit on rich, old carpets before gilded tables in tents of black yak's wool. And women constantly refill the covered tin cups of honeyed milk and press them to their visitors' lips. Behind the costumes and the hospitality are poor herdsmen in grimy and tattered clothes. Many have blotched and mottled skin from exposure to the sun and many a small child has a runny nose.

The commune was founded in 1970 and most of the herdsmen were previously pastoral serfs. There were an estimated 200,000 pastoral serfs in Tibet in the 1950s. Most of the commune members worked corvee — unpaid labor — for the Zhe Bang monastery in Lhasa, which once owned 40,000 serfs.

Today the average per capita income each year is 123.5 yuan, about $80, including the money which is used to buy food.

Every household keeps a private herd for sideline income in meat, milk, butter and wool. The secretary's family of three owns one horse and two yak.

The herdsmen migrate a short distance with their animals in summer and they live in tents. But in winter they live in houses in a square mud-brick compound that includes a store and clinic.

Van Deerlin

to continue rewrite push

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin said Thursday he will continue to press for revision of the Communications Act of 1934, despite the demise this summer of his subcommittee's rewrite legislation.

"Cancel the wake," Van Deerlin advised a meeting of the International Radio and Television Society. "I wouldn't run for re-election next year if I believed the Communications rewrite were dead."

The Communications Act of 1934 covers all forms of communication. The Federal Communications Commission, which regulates radio and television, was created under the act.

Van Deerlin abandoned hope for the rewrite bill in mid-July, in the face of opposition from broadcasters and citizen groups.

The more feasible approach to revision, the California Democrat said, is through amendment of the existing act, and that process already has begun.

He said his goal still is "more competition and less regulation" in broadcasting, and promised, "The country will have a communications policy that embodies those goals."

Van Deerlin said work by his House communications subcommittee in the last three years showed the scarcity of outlets, particularly in television, "is an artificial scarcity, created not by technologies but by a combination of restrictive regulation and public ignorance."

Indeed, Van Deerlin said the work of the subcommittee already has had an impact. "The rewrite gave the networks, these old, prosperous industries, a good nudge in the ribs, and got them to reassess their futures," he said.

'Syndrome' banned by Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The government censorship board has banned the American movie "The China Syndrome," the story of a nuclear power plant accident, until a special commission completes hearings on the safety of a proposed nuclear plant in the Philippines.

A board spokesman said the temporary ban was ordered at the request of Gabriel Y. Itchon, president of the government-run National Power Corp. In a letter to the board, the spokesman said, Itchon wrote, "The untimely release of the film may prejudice the dispassionate inquiry being conducted by the commission."

An NPC spokesman said the firm feared the film might generate anti-nuclear opinion.

Navy aids refugees

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese navy frigate rescued a boatload of 71 Vietnamese refugees and landed them on Penghu, in the Pescadores Islands off Taiwan, a government spokesman said today.

Among the 71 "boat people" were three pregnant women and 19 children. One of the refugees said they fled from southern Vietnam aboard a 36-foot fishing boat in early August, developed engine trouble a week later and were rescued last Friday in the Spratly Islands in the South China Sea.

Midland 4-H Horse Club sets playday Saturday

The Midland County 4-H Horse Club will open its 1979-80 season with a closed playday beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday in the 4-H Club Arena near the Midland County Exhibit Building off U.S. Highway 80 East.

The show will include barrel racing, pole bending, flag racing, Western Pleasure (walk, trot and lope), showmanship, trail riding, Western riding, reining and horsemanship.

Playdays are held on the third Saturday of each month except November, December and January. All playdays, with the exception of opening show each September, are open to riders outside Midland County.

Competition is in four age groups: 8 and under; 9 through 12; 13 through 15, and 16 through 18.

Gerald Nobles is the club's adult leader, and Kenneth Lynch is adult leader of the drill team. Tommy Connors is adult leader of the judging team.

Club officers Missy Larremore, president; Jeff Barnett, vice president; Janis Zimmerman, second vice president; Cindy Triplitt, secretary; Lynn Meckley, treasurer, and Raychel Lynch and Debbie Bell, reporters.

Approximately 70 youngsters are in the 4-H Horse Club.

House seeks fifth nuclear carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defying a veto threat from President Carter, the House is insisting on a fifth nuclear aircraft carrier. It also wants a $989 million nuclear-age civil defense program.

The five-year civil defense program calls for development of evacuation plans for nuclear war, nuclear power station accidents and hurricanes, among other things.

The House approved both Thursday to raise to $42.2 billion a weapons bill it hoped to complete today.

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE Laugh At Finesses

By Alfred Sheinwold

If the odds are even that a finesse will fail, with your luck two finesesses will fail. With good planning, you can laugh at unlucky finesesses.

The average player takes an early diamond finesse in today's hand. West wins, and South eventually loses a second diamond.

A more cautious player draws trumps, cashes the ace of hearts and two more clubs and then leads dummy's queen of hearts. If East played low, South would discard. Even if West could win the trick he would have no safe return.

STILL LOSES

As the cards lie, East plays the king of hearts, and South must ruff. If South then tries the diamond finesse West gets out with a diamond, and South still loses a second diamond.

After ruffing the king of hearts South should cash the ace of diamonds, lead a trump to dummy and return a diamond. If East has the king, South gets a trick with the queen of diamonds. If West has the king but started with only two diamonds he will have no safe return after winning with the king.

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. This minimum rebid shows a weak hand. A bid of two diamonds would suggest additional strength. Look for safety when you have a horrible hand.

Alleged terrorist on trial for murder

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (AP) — Angelika Speitel, an alleged Baader-Meinhof terrorist, has gone on trial charged with murder, attempted murder, illegal firearm possession and being a member of a criminal gang.

The 27-year-old former law assistant was among the terrorist suspects sought after the murder of banker Juergen Ponto in his Frankfurt residence in July 1977 and the kidnap-murder of industrialist Hannu Martin Schleyer three months later.

The charges against her stem from a gunfight with police last September in which she was apprehended. A policeman and a companion of hers were killed, Ms. Speitel

City may break tradition: Take clerk off sun porch

SOUTH HARRISON, N.J. (AP) — The building inspector keeps files in his kitchen. The town clerk works on her sun porch. And the town's two policemen have their headquarters in a mobile home.

Voters in this rural hamlet of 1,400 persons in southwestern New Jersey decide Saturday whether to break a 97-year tradition and change all that — by building their first town hall.

The Gloucester County community doesn't have any traffic lights, gas stations, housing developments or sewers.

Its town hall — the hottest political issue in years — is needed to store the municipal paperwork, said Mayor Donald J. Kelley.

"The building inspector has a filing cabinet in his kitchen and papers in his bedroom," he said. "The clerk works out of her sun porch. It's an inconvenience to the officials as well as the people."

There is no central phone number for the township and people have a hard time finding officials, he explained.

As proposed by the township committee, voters will decide whether the town should put down $40,000 cash and borrow $50,000 by issuing bonds to build a wood-frame municipal building.

The plan has been scaled down twice — costs of earlier versions were estimated at $400,000 and $200,000.

But some people still object, saying the small residential community can't afford even the scaled down building.

Committeeman Harvey Skinner, a retired farmer, said taxes are high enough already, and "that's good reason to be conservative."

Kelley, a surgeon, disagrees. "We don't provide much in the way of services," he said. "There is no water, sewer or trash collection. The only thing we do provide are the police and the streets, and of course, the paperwork."

It is technically a violation of state law to store the records outside a municipal building, but state authorities are reluctant to pursue legal action when there is no building.

Kelley said times have changed enough to warrant a building. A full-time police force was started last year, and the two officers now work out of a mobile home.

Congress seeks amateur status for Jim Thorpe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is seeking to restore the status of the late Jim Thorpe, stripped of his Olympic gold medals 66 years ago, as an amateur athlete.

The Senate approved a resolution urging the International Olympic Committee to reverse a 1913 ruling that Thorpe had become a professional baseball player.

Thorpe, an Indian from Oklahoma, played in a semi-professional East Carolina baseball league in 1910 and 1911 and accepted $60 in expense money.

In the 1912 Olympics, he won eight gold medals, outdistancing all competitors in both the pentathlon and the decathlon. When it was discovered that Thorpe had accepted the $60, the IOC lifted his medals and his amateur status.

Experts try to keep shark alive

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — For the second time in less than a month, marine experts say they are trying the "almost impossible" feat of keeping a captured great white shark alive.

The 8-foot-long shark, brought to Marine World-Africa USA after being netted Wednesday by a fisherman in Tomales Bay, was beginning to swim by itself early Thursday, said Ron Swallow, a veterinary technician at the amusement park.

Marine World divers had been pushing the fish along in an effort to get it to swim. Despite the improvement, Swallow said the shark was in poor condition.

Since sharks must swim continuously or die, it is "almost impossible" to catch one and bring it back to captivity, Swallow said.

Last month, a great white was caught and taken to the Steinhart Aquarium in San Francisco. It lived about a day before dying.

Cheryl Tiegs

Carl Yastrzemski

Names in the news

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Carl Yastrzemski got one day's rest and an invitation to the White House after becoming the first American League player to get 3,000 hits and 400 home runs in his career.

Yastrzemski and Red Sox Manager Don Zimmer are accompanying House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., a longtime friend of the player, on a visit with President Carter. Yastrzemski accepted Carter's invitation Thursday. He collected his 3,000th hit Wednesday against the New York Yankees and did not start in Thursday night's game against the Yankees at Fenway Park.

NEW YORK (AP) — Model Cheryl Tiegs says she never discusses money and neither would the cosmetic executives who have signed the blonde, blue-eyed model to a new five-year contract billed as "the biggest cosmetic talent contract ever."

"It's just almost too good to be true," Ms. Tiegs said Thursday of her new relationship with Noxell Corp. to advertise their Cover Girl make-up.

Although her salary was not revealed at the contract signing party at the posh Hotel Pierre, the New York Daily News reported the contract would be more than the $2 million Farrah Fawcett received from a rival cosmetic firm.

The contract marks the model's 11th year with the company.

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Peter Criscuolo and his wife gave decided not to kiss and make up.

A divorce has been granted to Criscuolo, drummer in the rock group Kiss, and his wife, Lydia, who apparently is a millionaire as a result of the agreement.

Exact terms of the out-of-court settlement reached Thursday were not revealed. Mrs. Criscuolo's lawyer was Marvin Mitchelson, who represented Michelle Triola Marvin in the celebrated California "palimony" case against actor Lee Marvin.

In the Criscuolo case, Mitchelson said, "I can't tell you what the settlement is, but I can tell you she's happy she's a millionaire."

Criscuolo, 33, and his 31-year-old wife had been married for nine years. They have lived in Greenwich, Conn., an affluent New York City suburb.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Johnny Cash was in Illinois when he could have been in Iowa, says a promoter who is suing the country and western star for breach of contract.

Cash is being sued for $510,000 in a Circuit Court action that says he performed in Illinois although his agent said he was injured and could not appear in Iowa the day before.

Promoter Bob Sparrow says in the suit that Artists Consultant Inc., a California agency, booked the singer in March for an Aug. 30 performance at the Mount Pleasant, Iowa, fairgrounds. On Aug. 28, Sparrow says, a booking agent told him Cash had a serious leg injury and would not be able to keep the date.

Nevertheless, the suit said, Cash did keep an Aug. 31 performance date at the DuQuoin State Fairgrounds in southern Illinois.

Sparrow alleges breach of contract and demands $10,000 compensatory damages plus $500,000 punitive damages in the suit filed Tuesday.

Cash could not be reached for comment.

Reagan faces presidential challenge in home state

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ronald Reagan faces the first serious threat to his bid for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination this weekend as Reagan foes mount a campaign against California's winner-take-all primary.

If the attempt to change California's presidential primary succeeds at the state GOP convention which begins today, it would inflict a triple wound on the 68-year-old former California governor's presidential hopes: —A change would be widely interpreted as a sign of Reagan weakness in his home state, which would jeopardize his campaign in other states.

—It would encourage other Republicans to campaign in California, since even a small percentage of the vote could be worth dozens of delegates, forcing Reagan to spend campaign time and money to defend a home base which he can take for granted under winner-take-all rules.

—And it could cut by half or more the total of 168 delegates which Reagan and all of his foes currently expect him to win in California.

Even if the primary rules are changed, Reagan still would have a strong chance of winning the entire 168-vote California delegation by getting more than 50 percent of the total vote. But such a victory could be costly in terms of campaign time and money.

In an attempt to make their proposal palatable to Reagan loyalists, authors of the repeal bill amended it to give the winner of the primary the entire California vote only if he gets more than 50 percent of the vote for all GOP candidates.

If the winner gets less than 50 percent, the entire delegation would be divided in proportion to the popular vote.

A poll last month showed Reagan favored in a field of nine potential GOP candidates by exactly 50 percent of Republicans surveyed statewide.

Former President Gerald Ford, who has given no indication he will enter any primaries, was second with 17 percent.

The drive to change the presidential primary rules is being spearheaded by state Sen. John Schmitz of conservative Orange County, a John Connally backer who ran for president himself in 1972 as the nominee of the American Independent Party.

Schmitz said he isn't leading the drive on behalf of the Connally campaign, but that "it is connected with my role in the Connally campaign."

"I intend to work for Connally, and I realized there won't be any Connally campaign in California unless winner-take-all is changed," Schmitz said.

Balloting on the primary issue is scheduled for Sunday. California Democrats abandoned their winner-take-all primary after the 1972 primary.

Missing teen-age genius found

Details of 'bizarre' disappearance unknown

DESOTO, Texas (AP) — Three pre-dawn telephone calls led to the recovery of a missing 16-year-old college student who had been feared dead, the victim of an intellectual fantasy game transferred to real life.

"We agree this is the most bizarre case we've ever been involved with," private investigator William Dear said Thursday, after he found James Dallas Egbert III and put him under a doctor's care.

Dear, hired by Egbert's family, said the teen-ager's disappearance was not related to the game "Dungeons and Dragons" — but refused to say where the boy was found or what he had been doing since he disappeared from Michigan State University on Aug. 15.

Police found a note in the youth's room saying he wished to be cremated "should my body be found," but authorities had feared Egbert became trapped, perhaps in the maze of winding steam tunnels beneath the campus, while playing a real-life version of the game normally acted out on paper.

In "Dungeons and Dragons," which sometimes can take years to play, a "dungeon master" creates a prison on graph paper and players using special dice determine their ability to overcome obstacles like monsters and goblins in their attempts to escape.

"We crawled through tunnels after tunnels, we climbed through holes and crevices we didn't even think existed," said Dear, who added authorities were never convinced Egbert wrote the note found in his room.

Dear said he was unable to develop any concrete leads to the sophomore computer science student's whereabouts until he got three phone calls early Thursday.

"I was able to talk to the boy. He was crying intermittently and a man in the background was telling him 'Cool it, man, cool it.' Then later this afternoon I was able to make arrangements to pick up the boy," said Dear.

The detective said no kidnapping was involved in the disappearance. However, he refused to say if the boy had been held against his will. Dear said an individual he declined to identify asked for a written guarantee that there would be no prosecution in the case. Dear said he did not accede to the request and instead made other arrangements to pick up the boy.

However, he added there would be no charges filed by him or the family, and explained there are no criminal statutes that would apply to the situation.

"When I picked up the boy, that ended it," Dear told reporters at his home in this Dallas suburb. "The boy's been through a tremendous ordeal. We hope that this thing will end fairly quickly so the boy can get well and regain a normal life."

The detective said Egbert appeared to be in good physical shape except for minor cuts on his chin and elbow.

"The boy's alive," said Dear. "As far as his mental condition, that's up to a doctor to determine. We have agreed not to expose where the boy is or any details involved in the boy's activities at this time."

The pope's visit causes myriad problems for cities on itinerary

By The Associated Press

As New York priests puzzled over how to distribute tickets to Pope John Paul II's appearances there, Boston and Philadelphia officials found themselves in the middle of debates over who should pay for papal Masses in those cities.

Philadelphia officials announced Thursday that some $775,000 in public funds will be spent on the pope's visit next month, including $75,065 on a platform from which the pope will celebrate a Mass on Oct. 3.

Mayor Frank Rizzo, a Roman Catholic, emphasized that the Archdiocese of Philadelphia will supply all the religious accoutrements, including an altar and throne, for the circular platform.

But the American Civil Liberties Union has threatened to sue the city on the grounds that spending public funds on the platform violates the constitutional separation of church and state.

"The issue is not the structure, but what is being done on the structure," said Hilda Silverman, the local ACLU's executive director. "It's a Mass that's being said. It's a sectarian religious service directed toward Catholics. It would be different if the pope was going to stand on the platform as a head of state and speak to the people of Philadelphia."

City Solicitor Sheldon Albert said the city would go ahead with the platform. He said he told the ACLU that the city was building a platform as it would for any other head of state.

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White included $150,000 in a special budget to pay for a similar platform for the pope's visit there, but a spokesman said Thursday the issue is under discussion because of threatened suits if municipal funds go for religious purposes.

A fellow Pole, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, will be on hand to greet the pope when he arrives in Boston on Oct. 1, the Boston Herald American reported today.

However, the president of the Boston Archdiocesan Sisters' Senate, which represents 41 religious orders in the Boston area, says she will boycott the papal Mass on Boston Common.

Sister Frances Froelich of the Sisters of Providence said many nuns are irritated by the pope's announcement that women could not participate in distributing communion wafers.

Women and nonordained men have been permitted since 1973 to help distribute communion as "special ministers of the Eucharist." An estimated 2,000 to 2,400 women now serve as special ministers in the Boston archdiocese.

In New York City, where the pope is to spend Oct. 2, each of the 400 parishes in the Roman Catholic Archdiocese has been guaranteed at least 10 tickets to the Mass the pope will celebrate at Yankee Stadium.

31 killed when Italian plane plows into a mountainside

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — An Italian jetliner plowed into a mountainside early today while attempting a landing in rain and fog at nearby Cagliari airport and airline officials said all 31 Italians aboard were killed.

The plane, a DC-9 of the domestic Italian airline ATI, carried 27 passengers and a crew of four. It had taken off from the city of Alghero on the northwest coast of this Italian island in the Tyrrhenian Sea and was to land at Cagliari Elmas Airport in the south before flying on to Rome.

Authorities at the airport said the pilot, Salvatore Penacchio, 35, radioed that he was preparing to land moments before radio contact was lost and the aircraft slammed into the Sarroch mountain range.

A worker at a factory near the mountain range reported seeing a "huge mushroom" of flame rise from the slopes at about the time the plane went down.

A police helicopter spotted the burning wreckage of the airliner at first light. Authorities said the helicopter pilot reported their were no signs of survivors.

Roloff welcomes 'prisoners of war' back to the fold

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Evangelist Lester Roloff welcomed 50 girls he called "prisoners of war" back to the fold and promised that a dispute with the State of Texas over licensing of his child-care centers would not send them away from him again.

The girls were among more than 180 who left his Rebekah Home for Girls last June after Roloff agreed to close the homes — rather than have the state do it for him — because he refused to apply for licenses from the Department of Human Resources.

"If there is another battle it would be on new grounds," Roloff said Thursday as he, the girls and several hundred supporters gathered on the grounds of the newly renamed People's Baptist Church, which now is the parent organization for the homes.

"None of the homes are under the evangelistic ministry," Roloff said. They previously were under the control of Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, Inc., which Roloff dissolved last month.

Roloff's attorneys have declined to discuss details of the religious reorganization.

Roloff said the restructuring puts all holdings formerly under the evangelistic enterprise under the control of the church. He said that involves about $5 million worth of property.

Roloff claimed the reorganization makes the church legal custodian of the homes and should stop state officials from pursuing the license requirements because of constitutional questions involving church and state relations.

"We are doing what we believe is the right thing to do," Roloff said. "We believe the church is free to take care of widows and children."

But officials with Texas Department of Human Resources are monitoring the situation, according to Attorney General Mark White. In a telephone interview from El Paso, White told the Corpus Christi Caller-Times he wants to examine the situation closely before ordering any action.

The preacher and his backers greeted a bus filled with the Roloff refugees as it rolled onto the church grounds late Thursday. They had spent what one called "a summer of sadness" in Georgia after Roloff shut down the Rebekah home.

DHR employees and Department of Public Safety Troopers had been assigned last June to carry out a court order closing the home because Roloff would not permit state inspection or apply for state licenses for his three homes — the Rebekah home and the Lighthouse Home for Boys here, and the Anchor Boys Home near Zapata.

Roloff emphasized Thursday he has made no deal with the state, and said the homes would not be licensed. Asked about the possibility of state inspections, Roloff said, "We will meet it as it comes out."

A bill that would have exempted the Roloff homes from state licensing requirements failed to pass the 1979 legislative session, despite support from Gov. Bill Clements.

Pope to be protected against 'certain details' says priest

POMEZIA, Italy (AP) — Pope John Paul II got a colorful reception but only one-fifth the audience he expected in this industrial town as Italian workers flocked to the beach, apparently convinced the Roman Catholic Church cares more about the rich than them.

Red, blue, yellow and white balloons flew into the air with paper tails reading "Long Live the Pope." Thousands waved little Italian and Vatican flags and waved joyously from balconies as the pope drove through this town south of Rome on Thursday.

But a heated discussion pitting Catholic against Communist and Socialist union officials ended under the papal platform minutes before John Paul alighted from his car and climbed up to reach his throne in Pomezia's Market Square.

The discussion was the latest in a series over the contents of the welcoming address by Eurosia Zagaria, a woman worker who told the pope of "the many firms in trouble, the many issues pending" among Pomezia's 264 factories. She listed eight firms as threatening large-scale dismissals.

"Did you hear what an indecent speech?" The Rev. David Agostini, Pomezia's parish priest, asked a reporter. "Before the pope you don't go into certain details. Thanks to God we succeeded in trimming the original text."

"They censored the speech," countered Enzo Jannucci, local official of the Socialist-dominated Italian Labor Union. "There were discussions in Rome and this morning again we met...and we had to settle for more cuts." The first version was prepared by a group of Gomezia workers, both Catholic and non-Catholic, listing the names of private companies in trouble and spelling out the amounts of state subsidies they allegedly had been misusing, Jannucci said.

"They said there should be no naming of names before the pope," Jannucci said. "Finally, we had to be content with a broadly worded version."

John Paul apparently was unaware of what had been going on between prelates and unions, and he soon won over those who turned out to hear him.

He said he was the workers' "friend and colleague" because of his four years as a worker in a quarry and a chemical factory before becoming a priest. As pope, he said, he was their "servant."

He said he had gladly accepted an invitation by some 2,000 workers in the area to come and meet them where they live and toil. He called it his "official encounter" with Italian workers and voiced the hope it would help dispel distrust in the church.

"I wish to start a dialogue with you and ask you about your feelings toward the church," he said. "There are doubts and distrust about the benevolent words and gestures of the Church."

The crowd of about 10,000 responded with repeated applause but there were large empty spaces in the square where the Vatican had said it expected an audience of 50,000.

Many of Pomezia's 264 factories, including several owned by U.S. companies, such as Litton and Playtex, closed down early to allow employees to attend the mid-afternoon event. But many workers and their families went to the nearby beach instead.

Alpine area to get hike in gas rate

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Railroad Commission Monday approved a five percent rate hike for customers of Southwest Texas Municipal Gas Corp. in the unincorporated environs of Alpine.

The increase will affect 86 residential and small commercial customers and the average monthly bill for 6,000 cubic feet of gas will increase from $20.90 to $21.30.

The city of Alpine approved identical rates Aug. 21. Approval of the rate for the unincorporated areas will be retroactive to that date, a RRC spokesman said.

Texas city reduces tax

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — A $29.8 million budget that includes a 4-cent cut in the property tax rate has been approved by the Pasadena City Council.

The current tax rate of $1.10 per $100 valuation will drop to $1.06 for the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The 'Different Drummer' beats forever in fond heart

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — The "Different Drummer" changed hands the other day.

The new owners, a nice couple, took her out for a non-sail on a windless, muggy day, checked out the galley stove, took possession of the keys, and signed the transfer papers. We never looked back. There was no need to.

The sound of the Drummer's special music, the beat of time that made her seem different to those of us who sailed her, will echo long in our minds' ears. A sweet refrain to carry through life, but touched with a bit of remorse like John Masefield's "Spanish Waters":

"Spanish waters, Spanish waters!
You are ringing in my ear
Like a slow sweet piece of music
From the grey forgotten years."

NOT THAT I EVER OWNED an inch of her 30 proud feet. My nostalgia is free, pure, unencumbered by the vulgar economics and yard bills of owning a sailing sloop. I was always a guest, an unable seaman, a fifth at poker, a bow watch sent forward to sight lobster pots and buoys in the fog.

"Now don't do anything stupid like trying to help," the captain used to say in a voice burbling with the bonhomie of Scrooge turning the carolers from his door.

The Drummer has dropped beyond the horizon of my summer expectations. I can no longer see her in my mind's eye when a vagrant breeze rustles the tops of the maples (a hopeful sign that there may be wind on Long Island Sound). But I can hear her still ploughing majestically at hull speed through the seas of yesterday or creaking with helplessly slapping sails in a windless nowhere. "In irons," we salty types call it.

Ships often can be heard better than seen, especially those that pass in the night to other owners.

I CAN HEAR THE DRUMMER riding an anchor in some sheltered cove. A stiff breeze is playing a xylophone of halyards against her aluminum mast, and a restless sea is rocking me to sleep with a soft wave slapping serenade against the fiberglass hull. When the wind dies a bit, the rigging tinkles melodically like a medley of sleigh and cow bells.

Morning brings the sounds of coffee perking on the spirit stove, the putt-putt of a lobsterman heading out to check his pots and gull laughing his open-beaked laugh atop a pylon. A commuter train wails along the distant shore, a pleasant sound of those who don't have to be on it, and a whining jet upzips the sky with its contrail. The everyday world is still out there, but it takes three blasts on the horn for the launch boy to bring you back in contact with it.

Down seven years of sparkling, eventful, sometimes stormy, always unforgettable days and nights, I hear the Drummer in her many moods. Beating to windward with a rush of rail in the water. A chatter with conversation and the rattle of noontime silverware on a beam reach. Hal Boyle, gone now like the Drummer, slouched against a safety cushion on the starboard side of the cockpit in full command of his cigar and the passing seascapes: "Now how much do you think a gaff-rigged schooner like that would cost?"

THE GHOSTLY SILENCE of a fog is the sound that lingers longest of all staring into the hallucinatory haze at castles and bridges and skyscrapers that aren't there — and ships you hope are figments of the fog, too — you listen for the mournful bellow of the fog whistle, the funereal clang of the bell buoy and hear only the luffing sails or the sudden slam of the boom on a jibe that the helmsman apologetically assures the skipper was controlled.

The clouds speak to each other in distant booms of thunder. Voices echo eerily from the unseen shore. Visibility: bright nothing. Audibility: spooky everything.

OTHER SOUNDS ARE stowed away in the sea chest for future replay in the old sailors' home:

The midnight caterwaul of snores, snorts and coughs from the main cabin.

The clank of coins in a coffee can as the captain rakes in nother poker pot.

The retching refrain of some poor failing struggling seaman — usually me — bent over a bucket in a heavy squall, crying out for "O'Rourke," the groupie ghost of all who died of mal de mor in heaving seas.

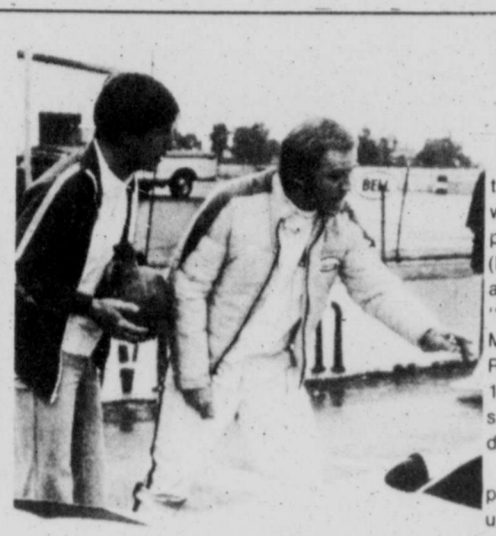

The murderous jet-whine of a mosquito poised over the collar of a sleeping bag.

The static-stutter of the weather radio, the purposeful plunging noises of the head handle, the surly roar of an unspeakable powerboat mugging you with bow waves, the welcome ripple of current in your favor pushing over buoys the dumping thump of surf washing on a sandy beach, the rasp of the coffee grinder winches, the bewitching windsong of 10-to-12 Southwesterlies answering the sailor's prayer for fair skies and following seas.

Drummer, farewell. Sail on. Joseph Conrad wrote an epitaph for you (and dream boats like you) in "The Shadowline":

"Like some rare woman, she was one of those creatures whose mere existence is enough to awaken an unselfish delight."

RACY BUSINESS

James Garner gets into the thick of the car-racing business when he agrees to help former protegee Richie Brockelman (Dennis Dugan, left) get back at an unscrupulous businessman in "Never Send a Boy King to Do a Man's Job" on NBC's "The Rockford Files," Friday, Sept. 14. Gary Crosby (right) guest-stars as a professional racing driver.

When Richie learns that his parents have been cheated by unscrupulous businessman Harold Jack Coombs, he calls on his former mentor, Rockford, for help. (Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

Lottie leads tearful owner for last time

By GREG THOMPSON

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — As she had done for eight years, Lottie led her blind master aboard an airliner. But this time, the weeping man took off his guide dog's harness, kissed her and turned her over to a sobbing San Antonio couple.

With that, Keith Roark of Decatur, Ga., ended his nationwide journey to find the perfect home for the devoted 10-year-old German shepherd that can no longer serve him because of its own failing eyesight.

"I've got three hours on the plane to sit and cry," said Roark, alone for the first time since he got the dog in 1971. "It's going to be very hard on me. She's part of me. When I leave part of me behind, it's hard."

Although Lottie is still suitable as a house pet, Roark said he could not keep her after he gets his new guide dog Oct. 1. He said he would have had to have her destroyed if he couldn't find the proper home for her.

His plight received nationwide attention and more than 800 families, including Mike and Denise Pirtle of San Antonio, offered to take the dog. But Roark's strict requirements had eliminated all but the Pirtles — a Tucson, Ariz. family.

"I'm very happy, but my heart aches for Mr. Roark," Mrs. Pirtle said through tears. "Lottie will be the happiest dog in the world. Lottie will love it here. She'll be a member of the family."

In a notarized document, the Pirtles agreed to groom Lottie twice a day, take her to the veterinarian every 90 days, walk her at least 1 1/2 miles daily and feed her vitamins and a certain type of dog food.

The Pirtles, both of whom are 27 and have a 1-year-old daughter, also agreed to never leave Lottie alone for more than an hour. Pirtle works during the day for the state highway department and Mrs. Pirtle works at night as a part-time grocery store employee.

When Lottie dies, the Pirtles must return her body to Georgia to be buried. Mrs. Pirtle said she will quit college to devote more time to Lottie.

Roark, whose journey cost more than $1,500 of his own money, said he selected the Pirtles largely because he found no discrimination in San Antonio against a blind person with a guide dog.

Roark, once an Air Force basic trainee in San Antonio, was blinded 10 years ago while in Vietnam and heads a national organization to fight such discrimination.

"Hundreds of people called me while I was in San Antonio. They've accepted me and accepted my dog. That's the kind of city I want my dog in," he said.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Amniocentesis suggested in high-risk pregnancies

Dear Dr. Solomon: At the age of 42, I am expecting my first child. My obstetrician has recommended amniocentesis. Can you explain what is actually involved in having this done? — Mrs. B.D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Amniocentesis involves drawing amniotic fluid from the fetal sac. The technique has been used to check the maturity of the fetus' lungs or kidneys, and to detect and treat Rh incompatibility problems. Amniocentesis is now being used for prenatal diagnosis of genetic problems.

The procedure is relatively painless and takes less than an hour. The location at which insertion of the needle is to be made is deadened with a local anesthetic. Patients say that at most they feel a sensation like a sharp cramp or gas pain as the needle enters.

Amniocentesis has become increasingly important as more women postpone having children until a later age because of economic or professional reasons. Women of advanced childbearing age are more at risk for maternal complications such as toxemia, high blood pressure and kidney problems. In addition, babies born to these mothers have a higher incidence of congenital disorders.

The culture from the amniotic fluid also reveals the sex of the child, but sex determination alone is not a suitable reason for performing the procedure.

Anyone considering amniocentesis should realize that it is not completely risk-free. There is the danger that bleeding or leakage of amniotic fluid from the fetal sac may lead to miscarriage. There is also the possibility of injury to the placenta, which can lead to other problems. Neither is the test fool-proof. In one study described in the New England Journal of Medicine, there were 14 diagnostic errors in 3,000 procedures. While the test is not recommended as a routine procedure in all pregnancies, it is a valuable one for women in the high-risk categories, such as yourself. It can provide information on which to base important decisions about the pregnancy.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I often hear it said that a calorie is a measure of heat, but I don't understand what this means. Can you explain? — Robin

Dear Robin: A calorie is a measure of energy which can be expressed in terms of heat. For example, fat is a high-calorie food, and a teaspoonful of butter contains enough calories to raise two and one-half pints of water from room temperature to a boil. Proteins and carbohydrates, on the other hand, have less than half the caloric value of fats.

Even the Civil Defense wasn't spared by winds from Hurricane Frederic at Spring Hill, Ala., Thursday as trees fell on cars in their parking lot. At least six persons have died and two are missing and presumed dead as a result of the powerful storm. (AP Laserphoto)

'Looks like King Kong took a stroll'

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — License tags of southbound cars called the roll of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi counties ravaged by Hurricane Frederic: Mobile, Baldwin, Santa Rosa, Escambia, Okaloosa, Harrison.

The steady stream of autos on Interstate 65 Thursday carried storm refugees back to whatever was left of their homes and businesses. Thousands had heeded the warnings to flee inland ahead of Hurricane Frederic's assault late Wednesday.

Citizens Band radios crackled with requests for information: "Can I get through to Mobile? What's it like down there?" "Was there any damage in Gulf Breeze? How about Panama City?"

The replies: "No, you can't. It's awful — looks like King Kong took a stroll downtown."

"Some wind damage, no water damage in Gulf Breeze. About the same in Panama City. Pensacola took it pretty heavy. Mobile is gone."

"Can I get through to Pensacola?"

"Lots of luck, friend."

Among those on the road was the middle-aged woman from Harrison County, Miss., in a small green pickup truck. Under the camper shell, a huge German shepherd kept watch over a cage with two parakeets.

And the family of four from Okaloosa, Fla., with one youngster asleep on the back seat, the rear crowded with clothing and the trailer loaded with a large motorcycle and a small bike.

Then came the strings of Alabama state trooper cars — in convoys of three to five vehicles, two men each — heading for the ravaged area.

"You've got all the police protection you need on your front door," one CBER cracked.

"Hey, Smokey, where y'all heading? Can we go as fast as you?"

No replies.

The radio crackles, "Where can I get some gas? Where can I find some diesel?"

"You better get it before you get to Bay Minette. There ain't any from there to across the Louisiana line. Haven't seen any diesel in 100 miles."

"Damn."

Hurricane damage became evident about 80 miles north of Mobile — a few toppled pine trees and smaller ones permanently bent in the direction of the wind. Traffic clogged.

Broken trees straddled utility lines, leaned on houses or buildings. Highway signs were twisted.

A church youth group and a few adults plotted how to get a tree trunk off a church bus. Down the road, a large pile of lumber looked undisturbed, while a few yards away, a family of six raked up blown-down pecans near uprooted trees.

"My Lord, what must it look like in Mobile?"

No reply.

Winds from Hurricane Frederic ripped a hole in the side of this large building in Mobile, Ala., Thursday morning. Streets were flooded and most residents were without power due to the fury of the storm. (AP Laserphoto)

Sadly, Trader John closed his doors

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — It was Trader Jon's worst night in 45 years. He had to close his bar.

"I greeted it sadly," he said of the National Guard order to shut down because Hurricane Frederic threatened to ravage that low-lying area and other parts of the Florida Panhandle.

"It was very sad," the 68-year-old bartender said Thursday night. "It's one of those unusual things. You hate to leave."

But under orders by the governor, Trader Jon closed the doors of his northwest Florida bar as Frederic roared down on the Gulf Coast. The storm left a trail of ruined homes, flooded streets and broken trees. Some 25,000 persons in the Florida Panhandle fled its path and ensuing 130-mph winds.

Because of the ferocity of the storm, Gov. Bob Graham ordered all low-lying areas evacuated Wednesday.

Trader Jon, who won't give any other name, didn't like it. But he said he made the best of it.

"I could not argue with the National Guard," said the bartender, clad in his customary baseball cap, U.S. Navy Blue Angels T-shirt, Bermuda shorts and never-matching socks.

"I put up a sign outside that said the hurricane party is at my house," he said. "Everybody knows where I live. Sixty to 75 people showed up. It was beautiful."

Even though he lives close to the shore, the storm did not damage or flood his home, Trader Jon said.

He opened his bar early Thursday, but business was slow all day and night.

"I guess people took the civil defense advice to stay home," he sighed as less than a dozen people quaffed their brew under the buoys and life preservers suspended from the ceiling.

Workers pull debris from a supermarket in Pensacola, Fla., that was hit by the high winds of Hurricane Frederic Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

Lee's unbeaten Rebels face stalking Panthers

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Writer

Midland Lee's youthful Rebels will stage their 1979 home grid debut today at 8 p.m. at Memorial Stadium against El Paso Austin, and judging from a scrimmage earlier this year, the Panthers would like nothing better than to defeat a District 5-4A team.

"They beat San Angelo, 2-0, in a scrimmage this year, and they had a real celebration on the field. It was just like they had won their district," Lee coach Gil Bartosh noted. "They think if they beat us, it will be a successful season. Playing 5-4A teams is almost the highlight of their season and they look at it as a big football game. We are aware that they will be sky high for this one."

This should be a real good game."

Austin has also shown some stout defensive work this year. San Angelo, with a bevy of fleet backs, couldn't score on the Panthers in a scrimmage, and Eastwood managed only seven points against them. Tackles Raul Martinez, listed at 275 pounds ("but more like 300," according to Hurt), and 205-pound Frank Olivias give teams something to worry about. Austin will start seven players both ways.

More than likely, one of the teams will lose their undefeated status tonight, and with two good defenses on the field, the one with the most offensive consistency will probably come out on top. It could be a real nail biter.

'Frog Fever' to battle SMU's Mustang Mania

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

To get things started, four paratroopers will bail out of an airplane and try to deliver the game ball to the referees on the 50-yard line.

Next, 400 high school cheerleaders from Tarrant County will lead the first cheer of the year in Amon Carter Stadium.

By this time some 3,000 youngsters will have received free T-shirts.

Then "Frog Fever" meets "Mustang Mania."

But this Southwest Conference game Saturday night in Fort Worth needs no hype.

Texas Christian Coach F.A. Dry would tee this one up in the parking lot.

He wants to beat Southern Methodist and Coach Ron Meyer so bad he'd play in a cornfield.

Dry let his true feelings slip about Meyer and SMU during the SWC press tour, saying the game "was just about as personal as a game gets."

Dry was nettled when Meyer made some remarks a year ago about his son who played briefly for Meyer at SMU.

Both coaches, of course, have downplayed their feud this week.

"I look for TCU to be a lot like Rice in that they will be vastly improved over last year," said Meyer, diplomatically. "F.A. Dry has really done some good things to get their program back on its feet. His hard work and talent as coach is beginning to show."

Dry said "They are much more talented than last year. SMU's running game is the best it has been since Meyer has been there."

Even the player have picked up the downplay cue.

"The players don't really pay that much attention to all of the things that are said in the press about the coaches," said SMU defensive tackle Harvey Armstrong. "It's another game as far as that goes."

SMU was an 18-point favorite with some 30,000 fans expected.

In the other SWC matchup, Texas A&M was a three-point pick over the Baylor Bears in their meeting in Waco.

On the intersectional front, Houston was a 10-point pick in a home game over Florida, Texas Tech was a 16-point choice over New Mexico in Lubbock, Arkansas was a 21-point nod over Colorado State in the Razorbacks' home opener, and Tulane was a 10-point pick over Rice at Houston.

Expos seize East lead

By The Associated Press

Whatever it is — luck, talent, clean living — that makes a winner, the Montreal Expos seem to have it.

"It's not only being good, you've got to be lucky in this game too," Expos outfielder Ellis Valentine says. "We've had the talent for two years, but now we're getting the breaks to go along with it."

A big break gave Montreal a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night and helped the Expos open up a 903 lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East.

Trailing 3-2, pinch-hitter Rusty Staub came to bat in the bottom of the ninth with two out and the bases loaded. Cubs super-reliever Bruce Sutter was looking for save No. 36.

Staub chopped a grounder down the first-base line. It hit a seam in the carpet at Olympic Stadium and bounded away from Chicago first baseman Larry Bittner, scoring two runs.

"There are seams all over this ballpark and there's no way you can adjust quickly in a bad hop," Staub said. "We've been getting some breaks, but we're playing like anything and it sure makes you feel like this is our year."

The grounder handed young reliever Bill Atkinson his second win of the season.

"When I saw the ground ball in the ninth, I just thought to myself we're losing a half-game to Pittsburgh because they didn't play tonight," Atkinson said. "But nobody's dying on this club. It's a big happy family."

The Expos entered the contest a half-game behind Pittsburgh but actually in first place by less than one one-hundredth of a percentage point since they had played five fewer games. The Pirates had a home game against St. Louis rained out Thursday night. Montreal now has won six in a row and 16 of 17.

"I thought I was going to get a good bounce and then it took off on me," said Bittner, who drove in two of Chicago's runs.

The Expos mounted the winning rally against Rick Reuschel, 17-10. Gary Carter singled with one out, and Valentine followed with another single, taking second on the throw to third.

Sutter came on for Reuschel and intentionally walked Larry Parrish. Rodney Scott then forced a runner at the plate to set the stage for Staub's fluke hit.

"I guess we're living right," Manager Dick Williams said. "I know we're playing hard, and we don't quit."

Reuschel drove in a run for Chicago in the sixth to give the Cubs a 3-2 lead. Montreal's first two runs came in the fourth on consecutive doubles by Dave Cash and Andre Dawson and a triple by Carter.

Braves 4, Giants 1
Phil Niekro picked up victory No. 18 with a six-hitter, going the route for Atlanta for the 20th time this season.

Gary Matthews drove in two runs for the Braves. He capped a two-run fourth inning and gave Atlanta a 3-0 lead with a forceout grounder. His RBI single made it 4-1 in the ninth.

Niekro struck out nine, including Willie McCovey three times, and lost his shutout in the eighth when Mike Ivie homered, No. 25. Niekro has lost 19.

Phils 2, Mets 1
Philadelphia left-hander Steve Carlton went 81-3 innings, getting last-inning relief help from Tug McGraw to withstand a Mets rally. Pete Rose had four hits for the Phils and scored a run.

After Carlton allowed a run on Dan Norman's infield hit with one out in the ninth, the Mets loaded the bases for McGraw.

Doug Flynn lofted McGraw's first pitch into shallow center. Greg Gross made the catch and threw home on one bounce, where catcher Bob Boone made the tag on Joel Youngblood to complete the double play.

The Mets disputed the call, however, saying Boone had dropped the ball. Television replays seemed to support the Mets, but home plate umpire Terry Tata stuck with his original call.

Dodgers 8, Padres 6
Bill Russell slugged a two-run homer and drove in three runs as the Dodgers held off a late San Diego rally.

Russell's fifth-inning homer, his seventh of the season, gave the Dodgers a 4-1 lead, and Los Angeles picked up two runs each in the fifth and sixth innings.

San Diego scored four runs in the eighth, capped by Dave Winfield's three-run homer off reliever Dave Patterson. It was No. 31 for the San Diego slugger.

Jerry Reuss, 6-13, got the win with five innings' work before leaving for a pinch-runner. Ken Brett relieved Patterson after Winfield's homer and got his second save of the year.

Women talk to Carter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter has been told by four women athletes to vigorously enforce laws ensuring equal opportunities for girls and women in schools and colleges across the nation.

"We wanted to show him that there is grass roots support for equal opportunity," said Donna de Varona, an Olympic gold medal winner who is now a network sportscaster. "We showed him we were a team. He understands the issue."

Olympic hurdler Lacey O'Neal, golfer Carol Mann, race driver Janet Guthrie and de Varona, representing the Women's Sports Foundation, met briefly with Carter and slightly longer with HEW secretary Patricia Roberts Harris.

"President Carter said he's in favor of women in sports," said O'Neal. "As far as Title IX, he wouldn't give us a straight forward comment, he said, until he talks with Pat Harris."

"But I got positive vibes from the meeting," she said.

In addition to lobbying for Title IX, the antidiscrimination law that was passed in 1972 but which regulations have not been issued by HEW, the women asked Carter to join in seeking defeat of proposed legislation which they say is anti-civil rights and threatens equal opportunity for women in every aspect of education.

De Varona termed amendments to the proposed Department of Education, now in a House-Senate conference committee, introduced by Reps. Robert Walker, R-Pa., John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, and Ike Shelton, D-Mo., "against the best interests of girls and women in sports and every other aspect of education."

Guthrie, first woman to compete in the Indianapolis 500, said, "discriminatory practices continue because the law is not being aggressively enforced."

Tracy lets Darrell Pratt rest easy once again

El Paso's Mike Brouhard won the Texas League triple (average, homers, rbi) crown, right? Wrong. Darrell Pratt, who last turned the trick in 1927, can rest easy.

Although Mark batted .350, swatted 28 homers and knocked in 107 teammates, Midland Cub first baseman Jim Tracy beat out Mark for the batting title with a .355 average. Jim managed to just get in enough qualifying plate appearances before being promoted to Wichita in July. Tracy needed 367 and he had 373 on 301 at bats, 63 walks, fave sacrifices and four hit-by-pitch.

The Dave Collins, who has been sparkplug of the Cincinnati Reds this season since he got a chance to start, is the same Dave Collins who won the Texas League batting title at El Paso a few seasons back. And Dave, strangely enough, won his title the same way Tracy won this year. After awarding the title to Jerry Remy, it was discovered that Dave had enough plate appearances before being called up to Salt Lake City to qualify. To make matters worse, in Collins' case, the mistake wasn't caught until after the Official Baseball Guide had been published the next spring.

And Scott Thompson, the ex-Midland Cub, is considered to be a leading candidate for National League rookie of the year. The Chicago Cubs unloaded high-salaried Bobby Murcer to give Scott his opportunity and the Pennsylvanian has responded by batting around .325.

You can't blame the San Francisco Giants for being happy they don't have to look at Bruce Sutter again this season. The ex-Cub relief ace faced 31 San Francisco batters and gave up a single and a walk, that's all. However, er, the National League's leading relief ace has been having his troubles of late. Within reach of the NL record for saves, Sutter has been hit hard his last three times out, a malady that has afflicted him in late seasons in three previous seasons in the Bigs... Midland Lee ex Brad Wright was named Western Athletic Conference back of the week for quarterbacking the New Mexico Lobos to a convincing 35-16 win over Oregon State, passing twice for touchdowns and running for two more... One thing about it, Brad should feel at home in Albuquerque. He has a lot of 5-4A company, including back Earl Templeton, Odessa; safety Dan Ferrell, Big Spring; defensive end Charles Baker, Odessa; Jim Cook, linebacker from Abilene; and linebacker James Coffey, Big Spring...

Hey, you marathon joggers, try this one for size. West Texas State University's band is going to stage a Marathon Saturday to raise money so it can go to Houston for the Buffs' game with the University of Houston in the Astrodome later this month. They'll be marching from Canyon to Amarillo, about 20 miles... then they'll play a concert at their shopping center destination? Several Midlanders are members of the band and senior Lisa Butts of Midland is the feature twirler...

Good news for Midland Cubs fans. The Chicago Cubs' class A farm at Quad Cities won the pennant in its first year back in the Midwest League under manager Jim Napier. Many of those players could wind up at Cubs Stadium next spring... Karl Pagan, another ex Cub, wound up as American Association player of the year after hitting 39 homers, knocking in 120 runs and batting .320 or so. Chicago rewarded the former University of Texas outfielder by calling him up to Chicago for the final month of the season...

Opening night attendance for four games involving SWC teams last weekend was 178,202, or an average of 44,552... Tech's game with USC drew 52,991 and only Texas and Texas A&M have drawn more people to Lubbock. And while there were a lot of California writers accompanying the Trojans to West Texas, the most surprising aspect was the number of Texas writers showing up, from places that don't even send representatives when the Aggies or Longhorns visit Jones Stadium...

With its stadium still in the process of being enlarged, the Aggies took their opener with Brigham Young to their "second home" in Houston. If the Aggies are a bit skeptical about the hospitality of the meadowlands, you can't blame. Not only did BYU beat A&M, but the Ags are seven for 19 in Houston over the past 20 years...

Tech-New Mexico should be a rousing offensive show Saturday night. The Raiders should be able to move on the Lobos and the Lobos will move on Tech, if Coach Rex Dockery's scouts know their business. Says Rex, "This undoubtedly is the best New Mexico team we have seen since I've been at Tech..."

Ryder Cup team shows strategy

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. (AP) — Billy Casper, who has made more moves than a chess master in preparing his United States team for the Ryder Cup matches, says strategy will play a key role in determining the winner.

The United States today went after its 19th victory in the 24-match history of the biennial international golf series, being held at the Greenbrier resort. For the first time, the Americans are playing a combined team of British and other European golfers, a change from past years when only British golfers made up the team.

The three-day, 28-match series was set to begin this morning with four best-ball matches, and continue in the afternoon with four foursome matches. Twelve singles matches are to be held Sunday when the final round is televised nationally on ABC.

Graham loves Michigan

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — There seems to be something about Michigan that brings out the best in David Graham's golf game.

The 33-year-old Australian won the PGA Championship at famed Oakland Hills just six weeks ago, his first major title and his first victory of any kind in three years.

Thursday Graham was back, this time for a crack at the $150,000 Buick Open at Warwick Hills Country Club, about 70 miles north of Detroit, and he fired a 4-under-par first-round 68 to tie with four others for second place behind co-leaders Cesar Sanudo and Ed Dougherty who were in at 5-under 67.

"I have lot of good memories of places where I've played well," Graham said. "Memories of Oakland Hills are a treasure to me."

"If I get a chance, maybe Friday I'll drive there for dinner."

Dougherty had to wait out a one-hour, eight-minute rain delay before he could ram home a 12-foot birdie putt on his 18th hole to grab a share of the lead with Sanudo.

Dougherty, who has never won since joining the tour in 1975, went off in the afternoon and had to play the back nine first. He had hit his tee shot on the 15-yard, par-four ninth hole — his 18th and final hole of the round — when a thunderstorm halted play.

"I was in the clubhouse talking, having a good time, when the officials came and said we were going to finish," Dougherty said. "I never expected to play any more today after that rain."

Dougherty hit a wedge onto the green and sank the putt.

Sanudo, whose only victory in his 10 years on the tour was the 1970 Azalea

Open, eagled the par-five seventh hole from 10 feet off the green with a wooden club he calls a "baffer."

"I had a lot of chances to score on the back nine, too," Sanudo said. "I played quite well for the first time in a while."

Tied with Graham at 68 were George Burns, George Archer, Dave Eichelberger and Bob Eastwood.

Tom Weiskopf, the 1968 winner of the Buick Open, was in at 3-under 69 along with Scott Steger, Terry Diehl, Mike Hill, Morris Hatalasky and Jim Colbert. Colbert set a course record during Wednesday's pro-am event with a 10-under 62 over the 7,001-yard, par-72 course.

Teaff looks into request

WACO, Texas (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has sent a recruiting inquiry to Baylor University, but Head Coach Grant Teaff says "there is nothing to it."

Baylor's athletic director said, "We have been asked by the NCAA to supply answers to questions concerning the recruitment of a student athlete. We are complying with their request...in the most expedient manner."

Amaya, Pfister pull net upset

WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Playing a ferocious power game, the unseeded duo of Victor Amaya and Hank Pfister downed third-rated Peter Fleming and Raul Ramirez 6-2, 7-5 Thursday in the first upset of the $150,000 ATP World Doubles tennis tournament.

Amaya and Pfister, two Americans who are among the biggest players in the sport with serves to match, were devastating in their second-round match against Fleming and Ramirez, who were playing together for the first time.

Ramirez, of Mexico, lost his serve twice in the first set. Both teams played even in the second set until Fleming was broken in the 11th game, giving Amaya and Pfister the edge they needed.

Bulldogs, Rebs to keep unbeaten marks alive

Well now, the first weekend of Class AAAA football did have some surprises, but this corner did fairly well, hitting 40 out of 47 games for a percentage of 85.1.

Games missed were the San Angelo-Austin; Abilene-Rider; Plainview-Estacado; Lewisville-Duncanville; W.T. White-Lake Highlands; Brazzwood-Angleton and the San Antonio Jay-Roosevelt shootout in which Roosevelt won 54-34. What a wild one that contest must have been! Can you imagine trying to keep stats on that one?

Anyway, the first week is past history and Abilene Cooper proved its high ranking by destroying Brownwood, 50-14.

Both the Midland Bulldogs and Lee Rebels got off to great starts and they should remain unbeaten after this week's games with El Paso teams.

So, without any more hesitation, here are picks on 40 AAAA games:

MIDLAND LEE makes its debut before the home folks tonight in Memorial Stadium with two key players, banged up some. El Paso Austin took a 12-7 victory over Eastwood, Midland's opponent tonight in the Border City. Coach Gil Bartosh says that the Panthers have a good outfit. So does Lee even though the Rebels haven't blossomed like they will later on in the season. Got to go with that rugged Rebel defense. It will be too much for Austin. Lee to post a 21-8 victory to remain unbeaten.

MIDLAND HIGH wings its way to El Paso tonight to take on the Eastwood Troopers. Quarterback Michael Feldt and Company will play well and bring home a 27-7 decision to get ready for always tough Lubbock Monterey next week. The Bulldogs are playing with lots of intensity thus far and are off to a great season with their second win in two weeks.

ODESSA PERMIAN also has its home opener tonight in W.T. Barrett Stadium and after 117 yards in penalties last week in El Paso, the Panthers may not be in a very good mood when Amarillo High arrives. The Golden Sandies have a great running back that transferred to the Panhandle City from Kentucky, but he won't be enough against Mojo. Permian to post a 28-7 victory.

ODESSA HIGH will be in El Paso too and take on the El Paso Burges Mustangs, 56-6 losers to Las Cruces Mayfield last week in their opener. OHS has some good backs and they will romp and stomp past the Border City eleven, 40-8 in El Paso.

ABILENE COOPER takes on the Wichita Falls Coyotes tonight and the Red River crew will be a much stiffer test for Coach Ray Overton's Cougars, who are rated No. 1 in two of the three schoolboy polls. Cooper will take a 28-14 victory over the Coyotes with Terry Orr the big difference. The 229-pound senior is something else!

ABILENE HIGH lost a tough 14-10 decision to Wichita Falls Rider last week and the Eagles take on Stephen F. Austin of Austin tonight. Austin beat San Angelo Central, 16-2, last week and the Capitol City team will again win, 20-13 over the young Warbirds.

BIG SPRING really had its hands full with Class AAA Andrews last week, but then a lot of folks will this year when Van Percy is running well. The Steers take on the Hobbs, N.M., Eagles tonight, but I am afraid that they will lose their second straight, 20-8 to the New Mexicans.

SAN ANGELO CENTRAL jumps from the frying pan into the fire tonight when it takes on the big and swift Killeen Kangaroos. Killeen is blessed, not only with great speed, but size too and Jimmie Keeling's Bobcats will take it on the chin to the tune of 28-8 for a 0-2 reading after the first two weekends of action.

OTHER PICKS: El Paso Andress over Amarillo Caprock; El Paso Bowie over Las Cruces, N.M.; Las Cruces Mayfield to whip El Paso Jefferson; Odessa Ector to take wild 24-20 win over Ysleta Bel Air; Palo Duro over Hereford, 14-8; Plainview to post big win over Amarillo Tascosa; Pampa over Dumas; Estacado over Lubbock High in a second of a doubleheader in Lubbock's Lowery Field. Lubbock Monterey takes on Wichita Falls Rider in the first of the double dip and the Plainsmen will bring a 2-0 record into the game with Midland High next week with a close 20-14 win over the Raiders; L.D. Bell over Carrollton-Turner; Denton over Sherman; Lewisville to bounce back against Berkner; Arlington Heights over Haltom; Arlington over Eastern Hills; Longview over Fort Worth Paschal; Arlington Sam Houston over Southwest; Wyatt over Pinkston; Lamar over Dallas Jefferson; Duncanville over Pearce; Highland Park over John Reddell's Trinity Eules team; W.T. White over Tyler Lee; Plano to beat Kimball; Greenville over Denison; Lake Highlands over Nacogdoches; Conroe 20, Lufkin 7; Texarkana to win over Dallas Jesuit to be unbeaten when it plays Odessa Permian next week in Texarkana; Galveston Ball over Bryan; Temple over San Antonio Highlands; Stratford 16, LaPorte 14; Doble over Westchester; Kashmere 20, Forest Brook 17; Port Arthur over Baytown Lee; Victoria over Lanier; Churchhill over Austin Reagan Saturday; Travis over Johnson; Alice 27, McAllen 7; Jay over MacArthur; Roosevelt over Edison and Seguin over New Braunfels.

Donnell named head of Flag grid program

Jim Donnell has been elected president of the Boys Flag Football season for 1979. Charles Langley was elected vice president, W. A. Gillum, second vice president, and Kathy Bowman, secretary.

The league meets at 7 p.m. today in the gym at 300 Baldwin for the selection of teams and assignment of coaches. Players may sign up until 5 p.m. The league still has vacancies for coaches and assistants.

For information, call the Parks and Recreation Dept., 300 Baldwin (683 4281 Ext. 280).

Midland net tourney begins run

The 19th annual Midland Invitational Tennis Tournament kicked off today and runs through Sunday at three Midland sites with some of the top college players in the state competing.

Play is being held at the tennis courts of Midland High, Midland Lee and Midland College. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

Participation by outstanding players has made the Invitational one of the best tournaments held in the Southwest. Many of the players have national ranking.

The tournament is presented through the efforts of Midland Tennis Club members, patron contributors, business advertisers and the Midland school system.

Several winners of this tournament have become successful professional tennis players. Some of the better known talent to grace the Midland tournament are Cliff Richey of San Angelo, 1968; Dick Stockton of Trinity, 1970 and 1972; Brian Gottfried of Trinity, 1971; and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, 1957 and 1968.

In addition to Midland College and Odessa College, other colleges expected to enter top athletes this year are TCU, Trinity, SMU, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Oklahoma, Pan American, West Texas State, New Mexico, Houston and Lamar Tech.

Women players for MC include Leslie Miller of Odessa, Debbie Smith of Houston, Brenda Burgess of Dallas, Linda Hankins of Balch Springs, Teresa Landry of Plainview and Leslie Towry of Wichita Falls.

The men's team will be composed Scott Dunn, Oklahoma City, Oscar Ontiveros, El Paso, Des Ward, Johannesburg, South Africa; Russell Houck, Aurora, Ill.; Sam Rivera, El Paso, Gabriel Silver, El Paso and Gerald Sellers, McAllen.

Ernest Angelo, mayor of Midland, has proclaimed this to be "Midland Tennis Week" to welcome the outstanding athletes entered in the tournament.

Longhorns look ragged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Longhorns head football coach Fred Akers was not pleased with Thursday's "ragged" workout, but expects things will improve.

"This was our first day to work against a specific opponent — Iowa State," said Akers. "We spent most of the workout teaching our attack team players how to run the Iowa State plays. And we were ragged."

Brigade whips Bullpups

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade exploded for 21 first period points and went on to thump the Midland High Bullpups, 35-6, Thursday night before a good crowd in Memorial Stadium in junior varsity football action.

With Calvin (Thunder) Riggs and Rodney (Lightning) Hemphill paving the way, the Brigade chalked up their second victory of the 1979 season in impressive fashion. Riggs, rushed for 77 yards on 17 carries and scored three touchdowns while Hemphill gained 87 yards on only five carries to give the Lee outfit some thunder and lightning.

Lee took the game's opening kickoff and marched 57 yards in 10 plays to score with Riggs banging over from the one-yard line. The 195-pound sophomore power runner, took turns with Hemphill, a 180-pound sophomore, to key the drive. A 16-yard run on the option to Riggs keyed the drive. Van Gravitt kicked the first of five extra points for a 7-0 lead with 7:39 left in the first period in a time-consuming drive.

MIDLAND FUMBLER the ball away on its second play from scrimmage with Ed Leps pouncing on the ball at the Bullpup 30. In just four plays, the Brigade was on the scoreboard again with Riggs stomping the final 12 yards for his second TD of the night. Gravitt's kick was true to make it 14-0 with 6:32 left in the first period. Riggs had a 10-yard run and Hemphill eight, to set up the score.

The jittery Pups fumbled again on the ensuing kickoff with Leps gobbling up the ball at the MHS 21. This time, Lee took four plays to score with Kenneth Hardison catching a TD strike from quarterback Bart Ryan from 10 yards out. Gravitt booted the PAT for a 21-0 advantage with 3:13 left in the period.

Midland only managed one first down in the first half, but that one was a beauty as the Pups showed some lightning of their own when speedster Wesley Williams raced 75 yards to the Lee two-yard line with Ryan saving a TD with the tackle. David Rivas and the rest of the Brigade defense, halted the Pups at the one on a fourth down situation to turn Midland away.

Troy Harber, Ryan, Gravitt and Leps stood out in the first half for Lee on defense as the frustrated Pups could do nothing right.

THE BULLPUPS were unable to move the ball early in the third period and Lee then marched 36 yards in seven plays despite a pair of five-yard penalties with Hemphill going over from the two for the score and a 28-0 lead. Gravitt's kick was good once again.

Hipolito Zarate then brought the crowd to its feet with a great 76-yard TD run for the Pups with 3:51 left in the third period. The try for the two-point conversion was no good, however, making it 28-6 in favor of the Brigade.

Zarate wound up with 112 yards in eight carries while teammate Williams added 90 in 17 cracks into the tough Lee line.

The Bullpups finally managed to pick up four first downs in the second half to wind up with five on the game compared to Lee's 20 first downs. The Brigade rushed for 234 yards and added 43 more through the airways to Midland's 199 via the infantry route and 15 more passing.

THE BRIGADE added one more touchdown in the final period with Riggs capping an 82-yard drive in nine plays, by going over from the one for his third TD of the evening. Gravitt split the uprights for a 35-6 lead with 9:18 left in the game.

Midland did manage to move all the way down to the Lee eight where the Brigade held, thanks to some great defensive play by Pat Shaw, Rivas and Gravitt. Gravitt recovered a Pup fumble at the Lee eight to turn Midland away late in the game.

Scott Louderback and Jim Gunnels played well on defense for the Pups who are now 1-1 on the year while Lee stands 2-0 going into next week's games. Lee plays Fort Stockton in Fort Stockton next Thursday while Midland travels to Monahans in a pair of 7 p.m. games the same day.

Score by Period:
Midland Lee JV 21 0 7-35
Midland High JV 0 0 0-0

Feldt, Thompson lead city rushers

While the Midland Lee Rebels are making their home debut tonight and Midland High is in El Paso for a date with Eastwood's Troopers, there are six other games involving District 5-4A teams.

Odessa Permian (1-0), entertains Amarillo (0-0); Abilene (0-1) takes on Austin High of Austin (1-0); Abilene Cooper (1-0) tangles with Wichita Falls High (1-0); Big Spring (0-1) faces Hobbs, N.M. (0-1); Odessa High (1-0) meets El Paso Burges (0-1) in the Border City and San Angelo Central (0-1) has the tough task of taking on the Killen Kangaroos (1-0). Killen beat a good Austin Reagan outfit last weekend in its opener.

Lee and Midland beat Snyder and Tacosca last week by scores of 13-0 and 26-0 and will be looking for its second victories in as many weeks tonight.

Midland got balanced scoring from five players against Tacosca with Michael Feldt, Bill Young, Jeff Robnett and Billy Taylor all scoring touchdowns while Bobby Stovall booted a pair of extra points.

Lee got TDs from Gary Butler and Mark Thompson against Snyder with Larry Linne connecting on one extra point.

Thompson rushed for 81 yards in 23 carries while Steve Waldron added 58 yards in 17 carries for the Rebels while Feldt and Billy Applin led the Purple Pack's rushing attack. Feldt had 121 yards in 16 carries and Applin carried 12 times for 74 yards.

RICHARD VINCENT

Nabors finds mistakes

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Next to food judges at county fairs, coaches seem to be the hardest lot to please.

They can find the smallest mistake in what would otherwise be considered a sterling performance.

McCamey of District 6-A defeated Menard 21-8 last Friday night. The Badgers amassed 440 yards of offense. You think McCamey coach Larry Nabors was satisfied? Nope.

"You know you're never satisfied," said Nabors this week. "Coaches are never satisfied. We weren't satisfied with seven penetrations within their 20 and only scoring 21 points.

"And we weren't satisfied that our defense kind of mentally relaxed late in the fourth quarter and let them score an easy touchdown." Nabors termed his team's offense "pretty well balanced" and was pleased with the acreage total. "We were satisfied with the 440 yards of offense. We feel like that's plenty of offense to win," he said.

"Our defense against the rush, we were pretty well satisfied with that."

One thing Nabors wants fine-tuned for tonight's important nonconference clash with district 9-A Reagan County is pass blocking. "Our pass blocking in two scrimmages had been excellent," he said, "but against Menard it was a little weak, not just the line but the backs too."

Beside the McCamey-Reagan county tussle, another nonconference game will pit a couple of area outfits as District 3-AAA Lamesa visits District 2-AAA Andrews.

On with this week's fearsome forecast: MCCAMEY 28, REAGAN COUNTY 20 — This game could pack more wallop than Hurricane Frederic if both offenses work efficiently. McCamey's aerial bombardment should prevail at home.

ANDREWS 45, LAMESA 7 — Keith Brooks, Van Pearcy and the rest of Bill Shipman's Kiddie Korps should turn the Golden Tornadoes every which way but loose.

MARFA 14, CRANE 6 — While Crane's still trying to find a productive offense, Marfa will make it two in a row.

RANKIN 19, SANDERSON 7 — Dwayne Turner's Red Devils were derailed by foul weather and mistakes last week, but that can't happen again. Can it?

STANTON 21, COAHOMA 20 — A battle of team's that snared season-opening victories. Stanton at home and with versatile Craig Eiland at the controls should win, but it'll be close.

ROUND THE REGION — Fort Stockton 35, Alpine 10; Snyder 24, Monahans 8; Ector 14, Bel Air 3; Pecos 37, Carlsbad 0; Seminole 17, Brownfield 14; San Angelo Lake View 20, Kerrville 9; Colorado City 6, Sweetwater 5; Clint 21, Dell City 7; Iraan 25, Eldorado 10; Denver City 17, Kermit 15; Junction 16, Ozona 4; Sonora 12, Ballinger 3; Amherst 14, Anton 6; Robert Lee 18, Forsan 14; Klondike 22, O'Donnell 7; New Deal 40, Plains 7; Ropes 27, Wilson 9; Seagraves 36, Sundown 19; Shallowater 3, Hart 0; Mason 12, San Saba 10; Menard 14, Marble Falls 11; Wall 20, Bangs 16.

Bulldogs, Rebs to keep unbeaten marks alive

Well now, the first weekend of Class AAAA football did have some surprises, but this corner did fairly well, hitting 40 out of 47 games for a percentage of 85.1.

Games missed were the San Angelo-Austin; Abilene-Rider; Plainview-Estacado; Lewisville-Duncanville; W.T. White-Lake Highlands; Brazzwood-Angleton and the San Antonio Jay-Roosevelt shootout in which Roosevelt won 54-34. What a wild one that contest must have been! Can you imagine trying to keep stats on that one?

Anyway, the first week is past history and Abilene Cooper proved its high ranking by destroying Brownwood, 50-14.

Both the Midland Bulldogs and Lee Rebels got off to great starts and they should remain unbeaten after this week's games with El Paso teams.

So, without any more hesitation, here are picks on 40 AAAA games:

MIDLAND LEE makes its debut before the home folks tonight in Memorial Stadium with two key players banged up some. El Paso Austin took a 12-7 victory over Eastwood, Midland's opponent tonight in the Border City. Coach Gil Bartosh says that the Panthers have a good outfit. So does Lee even though the Rebels haven't blossomed like they will later on in the season. Got to go with that rugged Rebel defense. It will be too much for Austin. Lee to post a 21-8 victory to remain unbeaten.

MIDLAND HIGH wings its way to El Paso tonight to take on the Eastwood Troopers. Quarterback Michael Feldt and Company will play well and bring home a 27-7 decision to get ready for always tough Lubbock Monterey next week. The Bulldogs are playing with lots of intensity thus far and are off to a great season with their second win in two weeks.

ODESSA PERMIAN also has its home opener tonight in W.T. Barrett Stadium and after 117 yards in penalties last week in El Paso, the Panthers may not be in a very good mood when Amarillo High arrives. The Golden Sandies have a great running back that transferred to the Panhandle City from Kentucky, but he won't be enough against Mojo. Permian to post a 28-7 victory.

ODESSA HIGH will be in El Paso too and take on the El Paso Burges Mustangs, 56-6 losers to Las Cruces Mayfield last week in their opener. OHS has some good backs and they will romp and stomp past the Border City eleven, 40-8 in El Paso.

ABILENE COOPER takes on the Wichita Falls Coyotes tonight and the Red River crew will be a much stiffer test for Coach Ray Overton's Cougars, who are rated No. 1 in two of the three schoolboy polls. Cooper will take a 28-14 victory over the Coyotes with Terry Orr the big difference. The 229-pound senior is something else!

ABILENE HIGH lost a tough 14-10 decision to Wichita Falls Rider last week and the Eagles take on Stephen F. Austin of Austin tonight. Austin beat San Angelo Central, 16-2, last week and the Capitol City team will again win, 20-13 over the young Warbirds.

BIG SPRING really had its hands full with Class AAA Andrews last week, but then a lot of folks will this year when Van Pearce is running well. The Steers take on the Hobbs, N.M., Eagles tonight, but I am afraid that they will lose their second straight, 20-8 to the New Mexicans.

SAN ANGELO CENTRAL jumps from the frying pan into the fire tonight when it takes on the big and swift Killeen Kangaroos. Killeen is blessed, not only with great speed, but size too and Jimmie Keeling's Bobcats will take it on the chin to the tune of 28-8 for a 0-2 reading after the first two weekends of action.

OTHER PICKS: El Paso Andress over Amarillo Caprock; El Paso Bowie over Las Cruces, N.M.; Las Cruces Mayfield to whip El Paso Jefferson; Odessa Ector to take wild 24-20 win over Ysleta Bel Air; Palo Duro over Hereford, 14-8; Plainview to post big win over Amarillo Tascosa; Pampa over Dumas; Estacado over Lubbock High in a second of a doubleheader in Lubbock's Lowery Field. Lubbock Monterey takes on Wichita Falls Rider in the first of the double dip and the Plainsmen will bring a 2-0 record into the game with Midland High next week with a close 20-14 win over the Raiders; L.D. Bell over Carrollton-Turner; Denton over Sherman; Lewisville to bounce back against Berkner; Arlington Heights over Haltom; Arlington over Eastern Hills; Longview over Fort Worth Paschal; Arlington Sam Houston over Southwest; Wyatt over Pinkston; Lamar over Dallas Jefferson; Duncanville over Pearce; Highland Park over John Reddell's Trinity Eules team; W.T. White over Tyler Lee; Plano to beat Kimball; Greenville over Denison; Lake Highlands over Nacogdoches; Conroe 20, Lufkin 7; Texarkana to win over Dallas Jesuit to be unbeaten when it plays Odessa Permian next week in Texarkana; Galveston Ball over Bryan; Temple over San Antonio Highlands; Stratford 16, LaPorte 14; Dobie over Westchester; Kashmere 20, Forest Brook 17; Port Arthur over Baytown Lee; Victoria over Lanier; Churchill over Austin Reagan Saturday; Travis over Johnston; Alice 27, McAllen 7; Jay over MacArthur; Roosevelt over Edison and Seguin over New Braunfels.

Donnell named head of Flag grid program

Jim Donnell has been elected president of the Boys Flag Football season for 1979. Charles Langley was elected vice president, W. A. Gillum, second vice president, and Kathy Bowman, secretary.

The league meets at 7 p.m. today in the gym at 300 Baldwin for the selection of teams and assignment of coaches. Players may sign up until 5 p.m. The league still has vacancies for coaches and assistants.

Several winners of this tournament have become successful professional tennis players. Some of the better known talent to grace the Midland tournament are Cliff Richey of San Angelo, 1968; Dick Stockton of Trinity, 1970 and 1972; Brian Gottfried of Trinity, 1971; and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, 1957 and 1968.

In addition to Midland College and Odessa College, other colleges expected to enter top athletes this year are TCU, Trinity, SMU, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Oklahoma, Pan American, West Texas State, New Mexico, Houston and Lamar Tech.

Women players for MC include Leslie Miller of Odessa, Debbie Smith of Houston, Brenda Burgess of Dallas, Linda Hankins of Balch Springs, Teresa Landry of Plainview and Leslie Towry of Wichita Falls.

The men's team will be composed Scott Dunn, Oklahoma City, Oscar Ontiveros, El Paso, Des Ward, Johannesburg, South Africa; Russell Houck, Aurora, Ill.; Sam Rivera, El Paso, Gabriel Silver, El Paso and Gerald Sellers, McAllen.

Ernest Angelo, mayor of Midland, has proclaimed this to be "Midland Tennis Week" to welcome the outstanding athletes entered in the tournament.

Longhorns look ragged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Longhorns head football coach Fred Akers was not pleased with Thursday's "ragged" workout, but expects things will improve.

"This was our first day to work against a specific opponent — Iowa State," said Akers. "We spent most of the workout teaching our attack team players how to run the Iowa State plays. And we were ragged."

Brigade whips Bullpups

By BOB DILLON
Sports Writer

The Midland Lee Stonewall Brigade exploded for 21 first period points and went on to thump the Midland High Bullpups, 35-6, Thursday night before a good crowd in Memorial Stadium in junior varsity football action.

With Calvin (Thunder) Riggs and Rodney (Lightning) Hemphill paving the way, the Brigade chalked up their second victory of the 1979 season in impressive fashion. Riggs, rushed for 77 yards on 17 carries and scored three touchdowns while Hemphill gained 87 yards on only five carries to give the Lee outfit some thunder and lightning.

Lee took the game's opening kickoff and marched 57 yards in 10 plays to score with Riggs banging over from the one-yard line. The 195-pound sophomore power runner, took turns with Hemphill, a 180-pound sophomore, to key the drive. A 16-yard run on the option to Riggs keyed the drive. Van Gravit kicked the first of five extra points for a 7-0 lead with 7:39 left in the first period in a time-consuming drive.

MIDLAND FUMBLER the ball away on its second play from scrimmage with Ed Leps pouncing on the ball at the Bullpup 30. In just four plays, the Brigade was on the scoreboard again with Riggs stomping the final 12 yards for his second TD of the night. Gravit's kick was true to make it 14-0 with 6:32 left in the first period. Riggs had a 10-yard run and Hemphill eight, to set up the score.

The jittery Pups fumbled again on the ensuing kickoff with Leps gobbling up the ball at the MHS 21. This time, Lee took four plays to score with Kenneth Hardison catching a TD strike from quarterback Bart Ryan from 10 yards out. Gravit booted the

PAT for a 21-0 advantage with 3:13 left in the period.

Midland only managed one first down in the first half, but that one was a beauty as the Pups showed some lightning of their own when speedster Wesley Williams raced 75 yards to the Lee two-yard line with Ryan saving a TD with the tackle. David Rivas and the rest of the Brigade defense, halted the Pups at the one on a fourth down situation to turn Midland away.

Troy Harber, Rivas, Ryan, Gravit and Leps stood out in the first half for Lee on defense as the frustrated Pups could do nothing right.

THE BULLPUPS were unable to move the ball early in the third period and Lee then marched 36 yards in seven plays despite a pair of five-yard penalties with Hemphill going over from the two for the score and a 28-0 lead. Gravit's kick was good once again.

Hipolito Zarate then brought the crowd to its feet with a great 76-yard TD run for the Pups with 3:51 left in the third period. The try for the two-point conversion was no good, however, making it 28-6 in favor of the Brigade.

Zarate wound up with 112 yards in eight carries while teammate Williams added 90 in 17 cracks into the tough Lee line.

The Bullpups finally managed to pick up four first downs in the second half to wind up with five on the game compared to Lee's 20 first downs. The Brigade rushed for 234 yards and added 43 more through the airways to Midland's 199 via the infantry route and 15 more passing.

THE BRIGADE added one more touchdown in the final period with Riggs capping an 82-yard drive in nine plays, by going over from the one for his third TD of the evening. Gravit split the uprights for a 35-6 lead with 9:18 left in the game.

Midland did manage to move all the way down to the Lee eight where the Brigade held, thanks to some great defensive play by Pat Shaw, Rivas and Gravit. Gravit recovered a Pup fumble at the Lee eight to turn Midland away late in the game.

Scott Lunderback and Jim Gunnels played well on defense for the Pups who are now 1-1 on the year while Lee stands 2-0 going into next week's games. Lee plays Fort Stockton in Fort Stockton next Thursday while Midland travels to Monahans in a pair of 7 p.m. games the same day.

Feldt, Thompson lead city rushers

While the Midland Lee Rebels are making their home debut tonight and Midland High is in El Paso for a date with Eastwood's Troopers, there are six other games involving District 5-4A teams.

Odessa Permian (1-0), entertains Amarillo (0-0); Abilene (0-1) takes on Austin High of Austin (1-0); Abilene Cooper (1-0) tangles with Wichita Falls High (1-0); Big Spring (0-1) faces Hobbs, N.M. (0-1); Odessa High (1-0) meets El Paso Burges (0-1) in the Border City and San Angelo Central (0-1) has the tough task of taking on the Killen Kangaroos (1-0). Killen beat a good Austin Reagan outfit last weekend in its opener.

Lee and Midland beat Snyder and Tacosca last week by scores of 13-0 and 26-0 and will be looking for its second victories in as many weeks tonight.

Midland got balanced scoring from five players against Tacosca with Michael Feldt, Bill Young, Jeff Robnett and Billy Taylor all scoring touchdowns while Bobby Stovall booted a pair of extra points.

Lee got TDs from Gary Butler and Mark Thompson against Snyder with Larry Linne connecting on one extra point.

Thompson rushed for 81 yards in 23 carries while Steve Waldron added 58 yards in 17 carries for the Rebels while Feldt and Billy Applin led the Purple Pack's rushing attack. Feldt had 121 yards in 16 carries and Applin carried 12 times for 74 yards.

Nabors finds mistakes

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Next to food judges at county fairs, coaches seem to be the hardest lot to please.

They can find the smallest mistake in what would otherwise be considered a sterling performance.

McCamey of District 6-A defeated Menard 21-8 last Friday night. The Badgers amassed 440 yards of offense. You think McCamey coach Larry Nabors was satisfied? Nope. "You know you're never satisfied," said Nabors this week. "Coaches are never satisfied. We weren't satisfied with seven penetrations within their 20 and only scoring 21 points."

"And we weren't satisfied that our defense kind of mentally relaxed late in the fourth quarter and let them score an easy touchdown."

Nabors termed his team's offense "pretty well balanced" and was pleased with the acreage total. "We were satisfied with the 440 yards of offense. We feel like that's plenty of offense to win," he said.

"Our defense against the rush, we were pretty well satisfied with that."

One thing Nabors wants fine-tuned for tonight's important nonconference clash with district 9-A Reagan County is pass blocking. "Our pass blocking in two scrimmages had been excellent," he said, "but against Menard it was a little weak, not just the line but the backs too."

Beside the McCamey-Reagan county tussle, another nonconference game will pit a couple of area outfits as District 3-AAA Lamesa visits District 2-AAA Andrews.

On with this week's fearsome forecast: MCCAMEY 28, REAGAN COUNTY 20 — This game could pack more wallop than Hurricane Frederic if both offenses work efficiently. McCamey's aerial bombardment should prevail at home.

ANDREWS 45, LAMESA 7 — Keith Brooks, Van Percy and the rest of Bill Shipman's Kiddie Korps should turn the Golden Tornadoes every which way but loose.

MARFA 14, CRANE 6 — While Crane's still trying to find a productive offense, Marfa will make it two in a row.

RANKIN 19, SANDERSON 7 — Dwayne Turner's Red Devils were derailed by foul weather and mistakes last week, but that can't happen again. Can it?

STANTON 21, COAHOMA 20 — A battle of team's that snared season-opening victories. Stanton at home and with versatile Craig Eiland at the controls should win, but it'll be close.

ROUND THE REGION — Fort Stockton 35, Alpine 10; Snyder 24, Monahans 8; Ector 14, Bel Air 3; Pecos 37, Carlsbad 0; Seminole 17, Brownfield 14; San Angelo Lake View 20, Kerrville 9; Colorado City 6, Sweetwater 5; Clint 21, Dell City 7; Iraan 25, Eldorado 10; Denver City 17, Kermit 15; Junction 16, Ozona 4; Sonora 12, Ballinger 3; Amherst 14, Anton 6; Robert Lee 18, Forsan 14; Klondike 22, O'Donnell 7; New Deal 40, Plains 7; Ropes 27, Wilson 9; Seagraves 36, Sundown 19; Shallowater 3, Hart 0; Mason 12, San Saba 10; Menard 14, Marble Falls 11; Wall 20, Bangs 16.

Michigan is choice over Irish

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What do the University of Chicago, the Great Lakes Naval Base, Indianapolis Artillery, the University of Michigan, the University of Mississippi and the University of Missouri have in common?

They are the only teams holding a series advantage against Notre Dame. And no team has been more successful against the Fighting Irish than Michigan. Oh, Michigan State, Pitt, Purdue and Southern Cal have beaten Notre Dame more often than Michigan, but they've also played a lot more and they all trail in their respective series while Michigan holds a lopsided 10-2 advantage over the Irish.

Game No. 13 is on tap Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich., and the gamesmanship started early in the week.

Michigan's Bo Schembechler, a 42-7 winner over Northwestern, said he "doesn't know if our defense has been tested. Northwestern ran on us some inside and I'm concerned because the real strength of the Notre Dame team is its size and ability in the offensive line."

"Pardon me for laughing," retorted Notre Dame's Dan Devine. "That game was no contest after the first minute. Michigan stopped Northwestern whenever they wanted to. Bo's record as a defensive coach may be the best of all time."

And since defense usually wins football games, and since Michigan has a game under its belt while this is Notre Dame's opener, and since the game is in Ann Arbor, the pick is...Michigan 21-7.

The Pigskin Picker made his 1979 debut a week ago with a 43-12-1 record for a .782 percentage. That included a successful first Upset Special of the season, Tulane over Stanford.

Southern California at Oregon State: If you think Michigan has dominated its series with Notre Dame, how about USC leading this one 37-7-4...Southern Cal 49-7.

Iowa at Oklahoma: The Sooners have never met Iowa and they couldn't get the game films of the Hawkeyes' 30-26 loss to Indiana. Probably would have made them more overconfident, anyway...Oklahoma 56-13.

Purdue at UCLA: The Boilermakers (that's Purdue) have never beaten the Bruins (that's UCLA), but they're favored this time. Will this be the closest Purdue comes to the Rose Bowl? Upset Special of the Week...UCLA 24-21.

Rutgers at Penn State: "We're going up there with the idea of winning, not just being respectable," says Rutgers Coach Frank Burns. Respectability is better than nothing...Penn State 20-10.

Oregon at Michigan State: Oregon upset Colorado's Chuck Fairbanks, a Michigan State man, last week. Too many Spartans this week...Michigan State 35-17.

Missouri at Illinois: Ol' Mizzou trailed San Diego State 13-0 at halftime before pouring it on to win 45-15 last week. This time the Tigers won't wait that long...Missouri 28-10.

Florida at Houston: The Gators have a new bite under Coach Charley Pell but this may be asking too much too soon...Houston 27-17.

Utah at Washington: Huskies make it 7-for-7 against the Utes...Washington 28-14.

Ohio State at Minnesota: Buckeyes give Smokey Joe Salem a rude welcome back to the Big Ten...Ohio State 24-14.

Arizona State at Florida State: The touted high-powered offenses were absent last week as Arizona State got upset by California and Florida State had to rally to beat Southern Missisissippi. Maybe things will be different this time...Florida State 35-31.

Maryland at Clemson: Danny Ford is still an undefeated coach. Clemson knocked off Ohio State in the Gator Bowl last year and opened last week by blanking Furman. It won't be that easy forever, Danny...Maryland 23-16.

Mississippi at Memphis State: Ole Miss is supposed to be a sleeper in the Southeastern Conference. Memphis State upset Mississippi State last week and tries to make it two in a row against the Magnolia State...Mississippi 21, Memphis State 13.

Texas A&M at Baylor: Both teams may be looking ahead to last year's Sugar Bowl rivals, Texas A&M to Penn State, Baylor to Alabama...Texas A&M 31-20.

New Mexico at Texas Tech: This should be a good test of just how good New Mexico really is...Texas Tech 27-24.

California at Arizona: The Golden Bears upset Arizona State in Tempe a week ago. Can lightning strike twice? Why not? Second Upset Special...California 27-17.

Louisiana State at Colorado: The beginning of the end for LSU's Cholly Mac, who starts his 18th and last season. A winning year would be a nice farewell present for a fine coach...Louisiana State 23-13.

MC freshmen pace Chaparrals

HOBBS, N. M. — Two Midland College freshmen were among the top three finishers here in the 34-hole New Mexico Junior College Invitational golf tournament, which concluded Thursday.

Grant Spencer, a first-year Chap golfer from the Tall City was second in the medalist race with 220, one shot back of winner Angus Baker of NMJC.

Also finishing high for MC was Craig Day, a newcomer from Fort Worth, who carded 221 for the event and was third.

In the team race, NMJC's Red squad won with 888 followed by Western Texas Blue with 893 and MC Gold with 905. Next were WTC Green with 906, MC Green with 910, New Mexico Military Institute with 920, Frank Phillips College with 942, NMJC Blue with 945, Cisco Junior College Blue with 965 and Cisco White with 977.

Joining Spencer on the MC Gold outfit were Jim Sanchez (226), Jim Julian (227), Denny O'Connor (237) and Alan Coe (237) while joining Day on the Green unit were Mike Tuttle (232), Richard Minnix (228), Bobby Herricks (236) and Pat Ward (233).

Kelly captures first in Bass competition

The High Sky Bass Club will hold a Heavy Stringer tournament at Lake Brownwood Oct. 20-21 and a Big Bass tournament at Lake Leon Nov. 10-11.

In the August tournament at Lake Coleman, John Kelly won first for men with 11 pounds 15 ounces with Ross Archer, 5-7, second, and Jim Roney, 5-6, third. Ann Grissett was the women's winner with 3-14; Lois Roush second at 1-14; and Barbara Johnson third with 1-7. Other winners were Trai Kelly, Teen, with 4-4; Scott Meader, Youth, 1-14; and the Grissetts, team, 3-15.

Trai Kelly's three-pound, 10-ounce bass was the biggie and John Kelly vaulted to the top of the standings with 966 points going into this weekend's tournament at Lake Amistad...

Despite the unsettled weather in the Gulf, the first days of the whitewinged dove season in the Rio Grande Valley was termed a success by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Jim Dunks, dove program leader, said the birds were present in good numbers throughout the Valley and added that increased plantings of sunflowers seemed to have a dramatic effect on keeping the birds on the U.S. side of the river...

Cain's death is rare case

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — A congenital condition which eventually shut off the blood supply to the heart resulted in the practice field death of St. Louis Cardinals tight end J.V. Cain.

"Very, very loosely, it could be called a heart attack," Dr. James Ruggles, a clinical pathologist, disclosed at a news conference held Thursday.

"To my knowledge, this is a catastrophic event which is just being recognized," said Ruggles. "It is extremely rare. I've read of only nine cases in recent medical literature. Three or four of those were athletes."

The medical explanation of the Cain death was revealed 53 days after the 6-foot-4, 220-pound veteran of five National Football League seasons collapsed July 22 during a non-contact drill.

Patriots ink Washington

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have signed veteran cornerback Mark Washington, cut by the Dallas Cowboys in the preseason after nine years with the National Football League team.

Washington, 31, a Morgan State product, takes the Patriots roster spot vacated by running back Horace Ivory, who is on the injured list with a knee ailment. Washington will be in uniform Sunday when the Patriots play the Bengals in Cincinnati.

Washington was a former starter for the Cowboys.

Big crops may mean lower prices

But exports are expected to remain stable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Huge grain crops this year will mean slightly lower prices for farmers than Agriculture Department experts had forecast a month ago.

But a new "supply and demand" report issued Thursday indicated exports — a major factor in farmers' financial status — are not expected so far to be jeopardized by strikes at rail and port facilities.

Farmers are harvesting record crops of corn and soybeans, and a near-record crop of wheat. A strike against the Rock Island railroad and at Great Lakes port facilities at Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., have raised fears that exports will suffer.

The new analysis issued by the department's World Food and Agricultural Outlook and Situation Board included no reference to the grain-handling problem nor indicated any change in export prospects from a month ago.

According to sources who asked not to be identified, senior department officials, including Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, believe no substantial impact will be felt because of the strike for at least several more weeks.

The reason, the sources said, is that the huge corn harvest — estimated Wednesday at a record 7.27 billion bushels — is later than usual in the main producing areas of the Midwest.

Similar delays face the soybean harvest, estimated at a record 2.17 billion bushels.

Thus, goes the theory, the big harvest crunch will not be felt for another month or so. But if the stoppages continue for another three to eight weeks, exports as well as the internal movements of grain and soybeans will be significantly affected, meaning huge pileups of commodities and a disruption of market prices.

Corn exports in the year beginning Oct. 1 were projected at around 2.5 billion bushels, the same as a month ago, the report said.

Also unchanged were export figures for 1979 shipments of wheat at 1.4 billion bushels and soybeans at 825 million bushels.

Rice, also with a record harvest this year of 135.3 million hundredweight, was shown at a 1979-80 export level of 83 million hundredweight, also unchanged from the August analysis.

But the improved harvest prospects, by themselves, have had an impact on the prices farmers can expect over the coming months.

For example, corn prices at the farm are now expected to average $2.40 to $2.70 a bushel over the entire 1979-80 marketing year, down five cents at the top end from last month.

Wheat prices were projected at $3.60 to $3.90 a bushel, compared to last month's range of $3.50 to $4.25.

Soybean price forecasts now are $5.75 to $6.50 a bushel against the projection in August of $6.50 to $7 a bushel.

An exception to the downward price trend was for rice, which showed a decline in harvest prospects from a month ago. Thus, the report said, prices for 1979-80 are expected to range from $8.25 to $9.25 per hundredweight, compared to August's projection of $8 to $9.

Farmers' Almanac continues its crusade against Postal Service

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Once again, the Postal Service has run afoul of the Farmers' Almanac — this time over a plan to introduce a nine-digit ZIP code.

Describing the present five-digit code as cumbersome but acceptable, the almanac warns that the addition of four extra numbers would drive people "digit dizzy."

"We cannot, we must not be computerized. Unfortunately, a mind has its limitations — we cannot handle the numbers the machines spit out, nor should we be expected to do so," says the almanac's 163rd edition, just off the presses.

The Postal Service announced last year that it will begin using the nine-digit ZIP in 1981 as a means of increasing automation and holding down postal rates.

A champion of rustic values who professes to speak for the common man, almanac editor Ray Geiger said he's received thousands of calls and letters urging him to lead "a ZIP code rebellion."

"We are reluctant to do this, hoping that the postmaster general and his staff will concentrate on better service in the post offices through more realistic hours, no further restrictions on the size of mailing pieces, and a more responsive attention to the needs and feelings of the average citizen," Geiger wrote.

Geiger's 48-page publication, not to be confused with the 187-year-old Old Farmers Almanac published in New Hampshire, has a circulation of six million copies through the United States and Canada. It's sold to banks, insurance companies and other businesses, which distribute it free to their customers.

Meeting with Geiger early this year, Assistant Postmaster General Pete Dorsey explained that the nine-digit ZIP code will guide letters electronically from the canceling center to the delivering mailman's bag, eliminating the need for 60 percent of the sorting clerks.

Dorsey also assured the almanac editor that the new code is aimed primarily at large volume business mail. On personal mail, the sender can omit the ZIP and the letter will still be delivered.

Unconvinced, Geiger said the nine-digit ZIP system will have 40 times as many codes as before, creating needless confusion and additional work.

"The ZIP code book is now an inch thick, and if you have one 40 times that size, it's going to be as big as the Chicago telephone directory," he lamented, suggesting that almanac readers make their feelings known to their local postmasters and congressmen.

For Geiger, 69, the ZIP code protest is the latest in a series of tiffs with the Postal Service that began in 1974 when he prodded the agency to restore place names to postmarks. At the time, mail was being marked with just a state abbreviation and a three-digit ZIP.

Two years later the almanac renewed the battle, campaigning against the Postal Service's use of two-letter abbreviations of state names in place of the longer but more recognizable abbreviations.

El Pasoans sought

EL PASO (AP) — Authorities searched Thursday for two El Paso area men charged in an alleged diesel fuel smuggling operation.

Dale Drake, 49, and Oscar Perez were indicted along with two others by a Travis County grand jury in Austin. Santiago Borunda and Gustavo Aguilar were arrested here earlier this week.

USDA reports it will ## up dairy price supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says it will boost dairy price supports by about 6.8 percent on Oct. 1.

Although the exact support price will not be determined until later, officials said Thursday it appears the new rate will be $11.22 per 100 pounds, up from the support now of $10.51 for milk containing 3.5 percent fat.

The 71-cent increase is equal to about 6.1 cents a gallon. But the increase "will have little effect on consumer prices" because market prices of milk are expected to be above the new support level.

Growers agree to contract

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — The California Council of Growers says eight small Salinas Valley vegetable growers, their crops rotting in the fields since a wildcat strike began ten days ago, have agreed to contract terms with the United Farm Workers union.

"It's a very harsh contract," Richard Thornton, president of the growers council, said Thursday. "We got this jammed down our throats by the union. There are $20 million of crops in the ground and none of these companies have turned a wheel in the last week and a half."

The tentative agreements are essentially the same as a three-year pact recently signed by the giant SunHarvest Co., the state's largest producer of lettuce and one of eleven large lettuce producers struck by the UFW since last January.

Farm workers earned an hourly wage of $3.70 under the old contracts.

Grain strike agreement may be in the offing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A tentative agreement between grain millers and the largest elevator company in the Duluth-Superior port area has increased hope for an end to the 10-week-old strike which has halted grain shipments from the twin ports.

"I feel guarded optimism right now," said Davis Helberg, director of the Duluth Port Authority. "Yes, it's a ray of sunshine, but let's not overreact to it. The discussions are still very fragile at this point and we shouldn't assume anything."

Negotiations between Local 118 of the American Federation of Grain Millers and three more of the eight elevator companies were to resume today.

Although there was no official word on terms of the agreement between Local 118 and Farmers Union Grain Terminal Association, sources involved in the negotiations said it did not include the cost-of-living adjustment that had been the major issue in the dispute.

Instead, the sources said, it includes a productivity incentive clause whereby union members would receive money in addition to their wages for each ton of grain they moved.

Wayne L. Horvitz, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said the union's bargaining committee would recommend unambiguously that the agreement be ratified. However, it will not be submitted for ratification until agreements are reached with the other companies.

FUGTA employs about 70 of the 550 striking union members. Grain millers were paid an average $7.80 an hour under their contract which lapsed June 30.

FUGTA President Barney Malusky said company officials hoped the union vote would be held Monday or Tuesday.

If the strike is not settled within two weeks, Helberg said, "we might as well write off the rest of the season. There would really be no incentive to reach a settlement because there would be so little time remaining before the lakes froze."

Helberg said there are 14 grain vessels in the harbor waiting to load grain.

Direct losses to the Duluth-Superior economy from the strike have been estimated at nearly $33 million.

Pickets replace pencils for 43,500 teachers on strike in 13 states

By the Associated Press

Pickets replaced pencils today in 13 states as more than 43,500 teachers remained on strike. In Robinson, Ill., the school board held a special meeting and fired 85 teachers for picketing.

Eleven leaders of the Anchorage, Alaska, teachers union were out of jail today, and a spokesman said a seven-day walkout by the city's 1,500 teachers was "all but over."

Three settlements were reported in Michigan, where nearly 20,000 teachers have disrupted classes for some 342,000 students. In Detroit, the board of education will urge a judge Monday to order 12,000 striking teachers back to work.

An Associated Press survey showed more than 855,000 pupils were affected by teacher strikes in Alabama, Alaska, California, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Washington state.

The National Education Association, which keeps its own tally of teacher strikes, said there had been 121 so far this year, compared with 85 by Sept. 13, 1978.

Faye Ford, editor of the association's news service, said this year's figure was a "little above typical" but that it was too early to predict whether it would exceed the 1978-79 school year total of 175.

Negotiations between 150 striking teachers in Robinson, Ill., population 7,000, had broken off and teachers were warned earlier this week in a legal "notice to remedy" that they would be fired if picketing continued Thursday.

When teachers were back on the lines again Thursday morning, the board held a two-hour meeting behind closed doors. Superintendent Vern Ingram and Board President Tom Eden emerged and said that 78 tenured and seven non-tenured teachers of the 110-member faculty were terminated.

The board agreed to close the two elementary schools, a junior high and a high school for 2,300 students until a new faculty could be hired.

In Anchorage, Judge Victor Carlson ordered the union leaders released from jail Thursday when teachers and the district agreed on a procedure for resuming negotiations.

Carlson had jailed the Anchorage Education Association board members for failing to call a halt to the strike affecting about 38,000 pupils.

Both parties have until Monday to reach a settlement, Carlson said, or else submit the dispute to advisory arbitration until Oct. 1.

Judge removes last obstacle in trial of nine Scientologists

WASHINGTON (AP)

A federal judge has removed the last apparent obstacle to the Sept. 24 trial of nine Scientologists charged with planting spies in government offices and stealing federal documents.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey ruled Thursday that more than 150 FBI agents, armed with search warrants and crow bars, acted legally when they seized thousands of documents during raids of Church of Scientology offices in Los Angeles.

The church had asked Richey to rule that the July 8, 1977, raids on two separate offices violated the Fourth Amendment's protection against illegal searches.

The government has said it plans to use 201 of the documents in an effort to prove that church members planted employee-spies in the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service and that documents were stolen from government agencies.

The 28-count indictment handed down a year ago charges the church wanted federal documents about itself,

the IRS review of its tax-exempt status. In November 1974, the indictment said, church members planted an electronic eavesdropping device in an IRS conference room.

The Scientologists' constitutional challenge to the Los Angeles searches created a formidable hurdle for the government. If Richey had ruled the searches unconstitutional, at least some documents would have been thrown out of the case.

Just last month, another federal judge here ruled that an FBI search of the Scientologists'

Washington office was invalid because it violated the Fourth Amendment. However, the government has said the crucial documents in its case were those seized in Los Angeles.

"The court finds that the government made good faith and reasonable efforts to limit the searches and seizures to items within the warrants or otherwise legally seizable," Richey said.

Illegal aliens can't enroll children immediately: Judge

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. District Judge Robert Hill has ruled that an estimated 2,000 to 5,000 children of illegal aliens cannot enroll immediately in the Dallas Independent School District.

In making the ruling, Hill denied a request for a temporary injunction that would have allowed the children to enroll immediately.

The ruling was in a suit filed by the parents of 19 undocumented aliens. The suit claims that a state law and Dallas school policy prohibiting the enrollment of illegal aliens in the public schools is discriminatory and unconstitutional.

The full suit will be heard Nov. 19, but the ruling by Hill came six days after a weeklong hearing in which lawyers representing the children's parents claimed the children would be irreparably harmed both educationally and psychologically if they were not allowed to enroll immediately even before the actual suit could be tried.

Ambassador sets cornerstone for U.S. Embassy in Russia

MOSCOW (AP)

Donning a construction helmet and wielding a trowel, U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon today set the cornerstone for the new American Embassy here, ending 10 years of what he called "hard negotiations" over the building of the complex.

"It has not been an easy task," he admitted to the crowd of 150 Americans and Soviet officials at the champagne ceremony on the site of the new embassy, now only a low-lying muddy stretch of bulldozed land.

Construction on the U.S. complex is years behind schedule, held up primarily by a dispute with the Soviets over construction costs.

Soviet diplomats are ready to occupy six apartment buildings in their new embassy complex already completed in Washington, but their moving day was delayed until the dispute over the Moscow complex was resolved.

The Soviets had been demanding 60 percent more than what Washington thought was a reasonable price for the basic construction work.

According to authoritative sources, Toon had said he would consider resigning in protest unless Washington took a firm stance in the cost dispute.

An agreement was finally signed on June 30, after the Vienna summit between President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The price for the Soviet work was whittled down to $58.4 million, over half the projected $100 million overall cost.

Toon, who is retiring, came back to Moscow from a vacation specifically to inaugurate the new complex.

The new facilities will go up behind the present U.S. Embassy which has been housed since 1952 in a cramped, 10-story yellow-stucco building built in the late 1940s as a Soviet apartment house.

Gulf wildcat sets Texas depth mark

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2-1 Emma Lou Unit has become the first Texas oil and gas drilling project to reach a depth of 29,000 feet.

The wildcat is being drilled 25 miles southeast of Fort Stockton, and early today it was making hole below 29,023 feet.

The project was started out on a 30,000-foot contract. It is one and one-quarter mile south of Gulf No. 1 Emma Lou which discovered the Puckett, West (Bend gas) field.

The No. 2-1 Emma Lou breaks the Texas depth record which was set by Ralph Lowe Estate No. 1-17 University which was plugged at 28,500 feet in Pecos County in May 1972.

The record-setting Gulf project is being drilled by A. W. Thompson, Inc., of Midland Rig No. 7. The contractor is a subsidiary of Santa Fe Drilling Co. U.S.

The deepest hole in the United States is in Western Oklahoma. It was drilled to 31,441 feet by Laughlin Brothers Drilling Co. for Lone Star. That test was plugged back and completed from an upper zone near the 13,000-foot level.

The Gulf No. 2-1 Emma Lou is 2,656 feet from north and 2,640 feet from east lines of section 59, block 101, B&B&C survey. Ground elevation is 3,414 feet.

Senators say talks in order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Texas senators think negotiations are in order to decide who is liable for damages to the state's beaches and businesses as a result of the oil spewing from a runaway offshore Mexican well.

Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo has denounced calls for compensation, saying talks were not in order. The well is owned by Petroleos Mexicanos, the national oil company.

"I think there is a liability there by Pemex and we should press very strongly in the negotiations to see that people are compensated," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said. The state's Democratic senator canceled a speech he planned to deliver about U.S.-Mexican relations, saying he was told natural gas negotiations had reached a "delicate" stage. The speech reportedly referred to tensions from the on-again, off-again negotiations for U.S. purchase of Mexican natural gas as well as the oil spill liability issue.

Tower said the question of liability is "a matter of negotiation" but it should be undertaken through quiet diplomatic routes.

"I think the fact is that there has been too much public comment to the extent that it has exacerbated our relationship with Mexico," the Republican senator said Tuesday.

The man the incumbent senator defeated in a tight race last fall, former Texas congressman Bob Krueger, had provoked blasts from Mexican officials last month by announcing the U.S. would ask for payments for at least some of the damage.

Standby gasoline rationing plan caught in stalemate

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's request for standby gasoline rationing authority is caught in a House-Senate stalemate but leaders say they're hopeful of working things out by next week.

"We just don't have our act together yet," said Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., the top House energy negotiator.

The House-Senate panel recessed its deliberations until early next week after failing Thursday, for the fourth day in a row, to resolve its remaining differences on the rationing legislation.

The basic argument is whether to give Congress veto power over a rationing plan after the president drafts it, but well in advance of when it would be imposed.

Senate conferees say Congress should have this veto power while House negotiators, arguing the White House position, say to do so would needlessly tie the president's hands.

Conferees have already agreed to give Congress a one-house veto over rationing at the time the president moves to impose it during a shortage. So the only issue now is whether Congress should get an earlier crack at the plan as well.

Conferees are searching for some middle-ground formula. One proposal, suggested by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., would be to require the president to submit the draft of the plan to Congress for possible veto. However, if Congress did veto the plan, then he would be allowed to produce another one not subject to congressional review.

Johnston said a compromise along these lines was nearly reached Thursday, but that administration officials and House negotiators backed off and wanted more time to study it.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., blamed the White House for the stalemate. "They don't have their wires straight," he said.

The conference committee did reach agreement Thursday on several non-rationing parts of the legislation.

It voted to go along with a House provision that would exempt out-of-state motorists from having to comply with odd-even gasoline restrictions. The exemption would not apply to adjacent states that both have such plans, however.

The conference panel also rejected a Senate-passed ban that would prohibit gasoline hoarding by people who bury storage tanks in their yards. The ban was dropped after Department of Energy officials said it would be extremely hard to enforce.

In other congressional energy developments Thursday: —The Senate Banking Committee approved a $3 billion bill to spur synthetic fuels through government subsidies and loans. The program is more modest than Carter's "synfuel" proposals, now advancing through other committees.

—Additional federal money to help the needy and the elderly pay rising fuel bills could be made available by the first of the year, HEW official John L. Palmer told a special Senate funding committee.

Vast oil, gas reserves said under Canadian ice

By ROBERT REID

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Vast reservoirs of oil and natural gas perhaps rivaling those of the Middle East lie hidden beneath the ice above the Arctic Circle, a Canadian oil executive said today.

"The Arctic Ocean has the potential to relieve the world of impending energy shortages by providing an important new geographic source of oil and gas," said G. R. Harrison, senior vice president of Dome Oil Ltd.

"The strategic importance of the Arctic has been enhanced by the prospect of its having oil and gas in quantities that may rival the Middle East," he said in a paper presented on the final day of the 10th World Petroleum Congress here.

Dome Oil has recently announced a crude oil strike in the Beaufort Sea, north of Canada's Alaskan border, which industry analysts say could be the most impressive new find in years.

Harrison said the company hopes to begin exploratory drilling within the Arctic Circle in five years, and market the results three years later. Drilling could begin in two or three years further south, where the sea is not frozen year-round, he said. The most serious problem, he said, is drilling through ice as thick as six feet.

Other experts at the congress have questioned whether any undiscovered oil and gas reservoirs could rival those of the Middle East, but agree only

Coal saves China's oil

TOKYO (AP) — By using coal instead of oil, China's industrial and transportation enterprises saved an average of more than one million barrels of oil a month in the first seven months of this year, Peking's Communist Party newspaper People's Daily says.

The report, cited in a Chinese news agency dispatch received here, said almost the same amount of oil was conserved during that period through energy-saving methods.

Synthetic bill okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee approved legislation Thursday calling for a $3 billion government effort to develop a synthetic fuels industry, an effort far less costly than President Carter favors.

The measure, approved by the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee, also sets up a solar bank to provide low-interest loans for installation of solar equipment and provides government backing for production of fuels from alcohol and conservation efforts.

Under the bill, the government could provide loan guarantees and purchase commitments for a maximum of 12 synthetic fuel plants, each of them capable of producing a maximum of 50,000 barrels a day.

The financial assistance would expire in 1988, after which Congress would have to decide whether it wanted to support a synthetic fuels industry further.

The program is more modest than the version Carter embraced earlier this week which was a scaled-down version of the original measure proposed by the White House. The Senate Energy Committee is expected to approve a larger effort than that favored by the banking committee.

tee agreed to a two-phase program estimated to cost between $20 billion and $30 billion in its initial phase and produce between 300,000 and 600,000 barrels a day.

The energy committee is working on its own version of a synthetic fuels bill. The measure approved by the banking committee is not expected to reach the Senate floor before the other panel completes its work.

One aide to the banking committee said the panel had approved a smaller program than the president favors because "we feel that synfuels are less of a solution (to energy problems) and that solar and energy conservation are more important."

Carter's program for reducing dependence on oil imports also includes increased use of solar energy and a stepped up conservation program.

In addition to the synthetic fuels provision, the banking committee bill calls for $1.13 billion in government spending over five years to make available low-interest loans to persons installing solar equipment in residential or commercial buildings.

The program is more modest than the version Carter embraced earlier this week which was a scaled-down version of the original measure proposed by the White House. The Senate Energy Committee is expected to approve a larger effort than that favored by the banking committee.
